DPS: Woman died trying to stop crash

MARSHALL (AP) — A North Texas woman who was the only person killed in a tour bus wreck was trying to keep the driver from crashing after he apparently passed out, according to an investigator.

Eraimer Archie, 42, of Irving was ejected through the windshield and into a tree when the bus crashed along Interstate 20 on Sunday, said Jimmy Benton, trooper with the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Ms. Archie did try to take control of the vehicle," Benton told the Marshall News Messenger in Tuesday's editions. "That explains why she was the only one that was out of her seat."

He said the victim's mother, Dorothy Archie, and sister, Katherine Archie, both also from Irving, were on the Shuttle King bus and saw her efforts to get control of the bus, which was returning to Dallas from a trip to casinos in Bossier City, La.

"Somebody had to do something," said Benton.

The DPS said the bus driver, Bill T. Nash, told investigators he couldn't remember what happened in the moments before the accident, which injured about 50 passengers.

Two trains collide; 1 dead

BY DAVID BOWSER
STAFF WRITER

CLARENDON — One person is dead and three others, believed to be critically injured, were transported by ambulances to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo after a head-on crash between two trains two miles west of Clarendon around 9 a.m. today.

Clarendon Emergency Medical Services along with ambulances sent by NWTX transported the critically injured victims. LifeStar medical helicopters were not available.

Several other persons were pulled from the site of the mangled train cars that were apparently not injured, according to Department of Public Safety personnel.

All victims are believed to be railroad employees, said rescuers on the scene. None of the dead or injured have been identified.

Pampa marks Memorial Day

BY DEE DEE LARAMORE
EDITOR

Pampans joined the nation in observing Memorial Day in poignant celebrations around the city.

Strong southerly winds whipped the many American flags placed around the town and in the city's cemeteries. Flags that had draped the coffins of veterans buried there fluttered over Memory Gardens Cemetery. The name of each veteran was posted on the pole beneath their flag, officials said.

At Fairview Cemetery, American flags marked every veterans grave in the cemetery. Patriotic music wafted through the trees as members of the public strolled through the cemetery, placing flowers on loved ones' graves. Lance DeFever, cemetery manager, and his staff rode through the memorial park on four wheelers greeting visitors and giving directions.

A number of Pampans gathered at Memory Gardens for a ceremony featuring retired Lt. Col. Mike Porter as guest speaker. A granite bench was dedicated to all veterans in a special section set aside for veterans who are buried there.

Daniel Zuniga of Memory Gardens welcomed the crowd. A group of young Americans led the assembly in the "Pledge of Allegiance," including Danielle Zuniga, Jonathan Polasek, Jenna Munsell, Sheridan Little, and Caylee Steward. Sterling Edwards presented the Benediction and the Closing Prayer. "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Taps" was played by Jason Jones on the trumpet. Local Boy Scout troops and Cub Scout packs also participated both in the presentation of the colors and in playing taps.

At 11 a.m., approximately 100 veterans and local citizens attended a second memorial service at the Veterans Monument behind the Freedom Museum USA.

Before the ceremony, visitors walked along the brick path looking for names of veterans they know or sat on the benches, surrounded by flags, waiting for the memorial service to begin.

Many of the same persons involved in the Memory Gardens Cemetery took part in the program at the Veterans Monument.

Lt. Col. Porter served as master of ceremonies. Veterans Hall of Honor member, Don Emmons, said a prayer, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance led by Pampa VFW President Rod Porter.

Joe Martinez sang two selections, "I Pledge Allegiance to the Lamb," and "God Bless the USA." Paul Nachtigall, pastor of Highland Baptist Church, presented the address. Jason Jones also played the national anthem and "Taps" at this event. (See MEMORIAL, Page 3)

County jail full; arrests will continue

BY KATE B. DICKSON
ASSOCIATE PUBLISHER

Gray County Jail is full today but Sheriff Don Copeland said that doesn't mean there will be any cuts in arrests or requests for bond reductions.

"We'll find a place for them," the sheriff said with a smile this morning.

Meanwhile, he's hoping that today's bond settings will be followed by bond postings that will free up space in the 78-bed facility.

"We're going to see how the bonding goes ... it was a long, holiday weekend. If that doesn't work," Copeland said, "we'll start farming some of them out."

That means he'll contact his fellow area sheriffs to see if they'll take some of the inmates off his hands until there's room enough once again.

This marks only the second time the present jail has been full, Copeland said, noting that once in 1997 all beds were filled.

Copeland wasn't sure if all the beds for female inmates were full. He said it's possible that over the weekend some male inmates slept on mattresses on the floor.

About 14 or 15 inmates, according to Chief Deputy Kelly Rushing, are parole violators who are awaiting sessions here with a hearing officer.

After that's done, Rushing said the hearing officer sends a report to the parole board in Austin where the decision is made whether to return the inmate to prison or not. And, first, whatever local offense constituted the parole violation must be taken care of in Gray County.

Asked how long this process takes, Rushing said, "A while ... and there are 253 other counties going through the same thing."

Also contributing to the jail population is what Copeland said is, "... an extraordinary arrest rate. There have been a lot of people arrested and (See JAIL, Page 3)

STATEWIDE

Showers and thunderstorms lingered across the southeastern Texas Panhandle southward to the Rolling Plains early Tuesday, with forecasters expecting more rainfall.

Clouds covered much of the region from the panhandle across the South Plains and into the Concho Valley.

Elsewhere, skies were mostly clear.

On Monday night, strong to severe storms developed along an upper-level disturbance across the panhandle and into the South Plains and Permian Basin. Baseball-size hail fell at Ropesville and other reports of golfball-size hail were received from Amarillo and Ralls.

Early-morning temperatures on Tuesday ranged from around 50 degrees across the northern Texas Panhandle to the mid-70s across the far west.

Extremes were 50 degrees at Dalhart to 76 degrees at El Paso.

Winds across the area were light and variable in direction.

At least a slight chance of thunderstorms continued for much of West Texas east of the mountains through Wednesday.

Skies should be clear to partly cloudy through Wednesday after clouds move away from the area.

Daytime highs were expected to be in the 80s and 90s, with near 105 along the Rio Grande.

Overnight lows should be in the 50s and 60s.

On Wednesday, highs should once again be in the 80s and 90s, with near 105 along the Rio Grande.

Twelve-year-old boy killed by lightning

GRANBURY, Texas (AP) — Lightning killed a 12-year-old boy and injured three other people as strong storms moved through a North Texas lake resort on Memorial Day.
The unidentified boy was at the City Beach Marina on Monday with his father. The man was taking their boat out of the water near Lake Granbury when the bolt struck, said Granbury emergency operations center spokeswoman Sally Oubre.

The lightning bolt struck about 12:30 p.m., also hitting another person, whose condition was not immediately available, said Oubre, a spokeswoman for the Hood County Emergency Services.
The child's name hasn't yet been released.
Two other people were also injured in the incident. But the victims were treated and released from Granbury Medical Center.

ME: Levy was murdered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chandra Levy was murdered, but how she was killed can't be determined, the Washington, D.C., medical examiner said Tuesday in a disclosure that deepened the mystery behind the 24-year-old intern who disappeared more than a year ago.

"In this case there was not sufficient evidence to ascertain conclusively the specific injury that caused her death," Dr. Jonathan L. Arden told a news conference.

"However, the circumstances of her disappearance and her body on recovery are indicative that she died through the acts of another person, which is the definition of a homicidal manner of death."

Arden spoke to reporters about a young Washington intern whose disappearance cost Rep. Gary Condit, D-Calif., his job and gripped the nation for the better part of last summer. Her remains were discovered last week in a secluded area of Rock Creek Park, a sprawling urban greenspace in the heart of the nation's capital.

Law enforcement sources had said previously that Levy's knotted leggings were found near the remains, raising speculation she had been bound before being killed.

Arden declined to comment but said nothing about the manner of death has been ruled in or out.

"There's less to work with here than I would like," Arden said. "It's possible we will never know specifically how she died."

He said he could not determine whether Levy died where her skeletonized remains were found, or if she had been brought there after her death.

Three thousand miles away, in California, Levy's parents were holding a memorial service in her hometown of Modesto. Arden said he had been in touch with a lawyer representing her family to inform them of his findings.

Arden said new evidence could prompt him to re-examine the case, but at this point, "There's nothing else that can be done."

That wasn't true for the police, who have struggled with the case since Levy disappeared May 1, 2001. Rather than a missing person, they now have a murder case.

been identified.

Cause of the collision was not known late this morning.

A black plume of smoke over the community of Clarendon is visible from approximately 30 miles away. Source of the smoke is thought to be from spilled diesel at the wreck site.

One train traveling east was carrying coal while the westbound train was a freight train. According to DPS personnel, the freight train was carrying hazardous materials which spilled at the scene. It was unknown at press time what the hazardous materials are.

Both trains were about one mile long, said authorities on the scene. Numerous train cars lay on their sides and in a mangled heap. Estimates of the number of trains involved were unavailable at presstime due to the extreme damage. At least one locomotive was also on its side.

Many officials from Santa Fe Burlington Northern Railroad were on the scene of the crash which involved at least one SFBN Railroad train.

Rescue workers from several communities, including Pampa, responded to the small community to provide assistance.

"Donley County Sheriff's Department asked for help, so we obliged them," said Gray County Sheriff Don Copeland this morning. He said three of his deputies — Jim McDonald, Brad Benge and Robert Douglas — responded to Clarendon to provide assistance.

Pampa Fire Department also sent a booster truck to help fight the fire. All personnel were still on the scene at press time.

Emergency personnel from Claude, Memphis, Panhandle, and Groom responded and Texas Forest Service officials also were assisting.

Allen Graham, Donley County emergency coordinator, was coordinating the scene.

Traffic was still blocked at Texas 70 and U.S. 287 shortly before noon.

Pampa News staffers, Nancy Young, Kate Dickson, and Dee Dee Laramore contributed to this report.

there's a backlog in court."

Rushing said four inmates were recently taken from jail and transferred to prison.

"They go to prison when (the state) calls you," Rushing said. "Just because they are sentenced doesn't mean they're gone."

People facing drug charges account for many local inmates and Copeland said there now are "about a half dozen" jailed here that "have come off the interstate" from drug arrests made by Texas Department of Public Safety troopers.

Copeland said last year the daily average count of inmates was 40 and the year before that it was about 50.

He's looking for a possible record high once 2002 is over if the population trend continues.

MEMORIAL

Members of Boy Scout Troop 413, Nick Riley, Cole Guyer, Josh Mulkey and Taylor Little, unfolded and raised the American flag as members of the crowd saluted or stood with their right hands over their hearts.

After the last strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" faded away, a young couple, who had walked to the park pushing their small children in two strollers, leaned over and kissed each other. Many other participants brushed away tears.

Nachtigall traced the history of Memorial Day, including its inception as "Decoration Day," when May 30 was set aside as the day to decorate the graves of Civil War veterans with flags and spring flowers. He also stressed the importance of maintaining a close relationship with God during the current war against terrorism. Lt. Col. Porter thanked all those who had helped in presenting the memorial service.

Zuniga made a special gift of a book about the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., "The Wall," to Mike Porter for the Freedom Museum U.S.A., and to Rod Porter for the local VFW.

At the closing of the ceremony, Cub Scouts Kade Morse of Pack 414, and Dale Montgomery, Pack 404, lowered the flag to half mast in honor of the veterans who gave their lives in the service of this country. They were assisted by Chase Guyer of Boy Scout Troop 413.

U.S. steps up Mideast peace involvement

ROME (AP) — President Bush condemned the latest suicide attack in Israel and pledged Tuesday to pursue peace in the Middle East despite bloody setbacks. Secretary of State Colin Powell said the administration would try to have a plan by this summer.

"There are people who don't want peace and therefore are willing to kill," the president told reporters. "We strongly deplore and condemn terrorist violence."

Bush's remarks came one day after a suicide attack at a mall outside Tel Aviv.

"All of us, all of us involved in the process — Arab nations, the Palestinians, Americans, Europeans, Israelis — must do everything we can to stop terrorist action," Bush said.

U.S. officials who spoke on the condition of anonymity said the administration was debating whether to propose a timetable for peace talks and possible solutions to the stalemate.

The officials said Bush's team is debating whether to go beyond current Middle East policy and state detailed terms for a settlement, including a negotiating schedule for an accord.

Speaking with reporters after a NATO-Russia summit, Powell said the administration would closely study various proposals being put forward by Arab nations.

It is possible the United States would put forward the best of many ideas presented by Arab leaders and other parties, aides said. Powell said the administration hoped to integrate ideas on humanitarian relief, economic development and restructuring the Palestinian Authority, as well as "the role of the moderate Arabs," before an international conference this summer on the Middle East crisis.

"We are committed to a meeting some time in the summer, where we will bring these threads together," Powell said. "We will also look at political options to see what the two parties believe is possible at this time."

Powell said, "We are not prepared at this time to (present) an American plan with specific deadlines."

Saudi Arabia has already proposed recognizing Israel's right to exist in return for the Jewish state ceding territory it seized in 1967. Bush has praised Saudi Arabia's efforts.

Powell said that several peace initiatives originating from within the Palestinian Authority would also be studied.

CIA Director George Tenet plans to go to the region next week to begin talks on Palestinian security issues. Bush said he will meet with Tenet on Wednesday before sending him to the Mideast.

Assistant Secretary of State William Burns was heading for the region today.

If a schedule is proposed, it would likely set timelines for discussing the hardest issues, such as Palestinian and Israeli borders, the status of Jerusalem and what to do about Palestinian refugees, the officials said.

The president has stepped up his meetings with Arab leaders and is sifting through their proposals. Bush's upcoming meeting with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak is viewed as another step in that consultation process, officials said.

Bush began reconsidering his Middle East policy after Powell's trip to the region last month yielded little progress toward his call for an end to Israeli incursions and a crackdown by Palestinians against terrorists.

Business Review

Vogue Cleaners offers varied services, extra-special effort for their customers

Vogue Cleaners has new cleaning equipment in operation, according to Don Rosenbach, owner of the business with his wife, Dorothy.

Two new pieces of equipment, a brand-new pants press and a finishing board, have recently been installed at the local cleaners at 1542 N. Hobart.

Rosenbach said additional new equipment has been ordered and will soon be operating at the business.

Many services are offered to customers by Vogue Cleaners that none of its competitors provide, said Dorothy Rosenbach.

Particular cleaning for particular people is the motto for the local business. "We try to do the best that can be done," she said.

Hand pressing shirts is one of the many services provided at the local business. Dorothy said her staff is quite skilled in hand pressing, and the quality is much better than machine pressed garments.

Many services are offered to customers by Vogue Cleaners that none of its competitors provide, said Dorothy Rosenbach. Particular cleaning for particular people is the motto at the local business. "We try to do the best that can be done," she said.

She said the business also is the only cleaning establishment in town to use Smithsonian wedding boxes to preserve wedding dresses for their customers.

Smithsonian Institute Museum uses the special boxes to preserve historical garments and clothing of historical figures at their famous museum in Washington, D.C., she explained.

"The late President John F. Kennedy's suit is stored in one of the Smithsonian boxes," said Dorothy. "If those boxes are good enough to preserve his clothes, it ought to be good enough for the wedding dresses."

"We are very proud of what we do with the wedding dresses," she said, explaining that special attention and care is given to the wedding dresses by the staff at the local business.

Dorothy also said the business will assist in restoring older wedding dresses. She related she and her staff recently restored a 40-year-old wedding dress which had been worn by a local woman. The woman's daughter expressed she also wanted to be married in the same dress, but it was stained.

She said the mother remembered that a guest spilled a beverage on the wedding dress 40 years ago at the wedding. But the dress was not cleaned immediately following the wedding, and the bride didn't remember what the liquid substance was that splattered her dress.

Four decades later Vogue Cleaners was able to get the stain out, she said. Dorothy spent many long hours beading the dress to cover the rust stains on the lace caused by the lengthy time period the liquid remained in the fabric.

Alterations to the dress were also made by her staff to accommodate the daughter. "It was a lengthy process, but it was very worthwhile," she said. "It was a gorgeous dress."

Also, Dorothy said Vogue Cleaners is the only cleaners in town to provide petroleum cleaning to the garments and fabrics for its customers.

She said the odor caused by other chemical cleaning agents is not present at Vogue's Cleaners. "We believe in being kind to the clothes and to the bodies which wear them," she said.

"We send out our customers' leather products to be cleaned, just as do all the other cleaners in town," said Dorothy. "The quality of services provided to the leather cleaners we use is excellent."

One of the qualified employees providing services at the local Vogue Cleaners is Lorena Fierro. She patiently presses the clothing on the presser at the local business at 1542 N. Hobart and takes pride in her work.

She also said the local business sends out western hats to be cleaned and blocked, and said the people provide outstanding quality of work.

The Rosenbach's have been in business in Pampa since June, 1983.

"We provide a drapery service to our customers in which we will take down the drapes, clean them and rehang them," she said. She said the local business also has a special drapery machine.

She also mends sweaters as well as beading garments. "We try our ultimate for all our customers," she said. Quilts and comforter cleaning are also a specialty of the business as well as antique linens.

"We also have reweaving of sweaters available," she said, as she said Vogue has contracted with the professional reweaver for many years. "We send the garment off, and it takes awhile, but the quality of work is superb."

The local business provides all kinds of window treatments for the home. Not only do they clean the window coverings and sell custom made drapes, but they sell blinds and all types of covering for the windows.

The cleaners also has a 24-hour drop box for the customers. Customers may simply drop the fabric in the box with their name and any instructions attached. Also, Vogue has a drive-up door for customer convenience.

"We try to do the best that can be done," she said.

Dorothy is very proud of her staff. "All employees are experienced," she said. "And we have the best alteration lady in town. We try the ultimate for our customers."

Hours for the local business are 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Saturday.

Velia Perez takes pride in her work as presser at Vogue Cleaners. She is carefully pressing and providing skilled pressing to all the garments at the local cleaners.

Catholic schools headed for battle

By ARLENE LEVINSON
AP NATIONAL WRITER

A deadline looms Saturday that could ignite a smoldering conflict over academic freedom between the Roman Catholic hierarchy and theologians at the nation's 235 Catholic colleges and universities.

The winners and losers won't be immediately clear, but in coming years jobs and the shape of Catholic higher learning may be at stake.

Acting on instructions from the Vatican, U.S. bishops have ordered Catholics who teach their faith's doctrine, morality, Scripture, law or history at Catholic schools to obtain a "mandatum" (mandate, in English) from the bishop of the diocese where the college is located.

The document, which the bishops agreed should be obtained by June 1 — this Saturday — attests the theologian teaches only authentic Catholicism.

While some, like the orthodox Cardinal Newman Society, have hailed the mandatum, opponents have derided the requirement as a "loyalty oath." Faculty have complained it tramples their academic freedom.

The penalties dissenters may face is uncertain.

Some bishops warned their colleagues last year they couldn't enforce the requirement. But schools could use the mandatum in rating faculty; it's already affected hiring on at least one campus.

By design, the process is secret; a private matter between each theologian and bishop. For that reason, no one knows how many mandata have been granted.

Estimates of Catholics teaching religious subjects on church-affiliated campuses range from about 300 to more than 800 priests, nuns and lay professors.

"Everything will depend on the chemistry between a local bishop and the local institutions," said William Loewe, who teaches at The Catholic University of America and heads the College Theology Society. "That leads to a whole wide range of outcomes."

Pope John Paul II called for certifying professors in a 1990 decree as a way to bolster the religious character of Catholic campuses worldwide, and the issue roiled American theologians in the late '90s.

UC students in siege deported from Israel

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Two University of California students who had been detained by Israel after trying to provide humanitarian aid to armed Palestinians during a church siege in Bethlehem are back in the United States, their parents said.

Robert O'Neill, a 21-year-old UC Berkeley student from Claremont, and Nauman Zaidi, a 26-year-old UC Riverside student from Rancho Cucamonga, arrived at Newark International Airport on Monday, their family said.

"We are naturally very happy," said Zaidi's father, Nasim. "We supported the action, he took. We are really proud of him."

Zaidi and O'Neill were among 10 activists removed from the Church of the Nativity in the West Bank on May 10 as the standoff between armed Palestinians and Israeli soldiers ended after 39 days.

Zaidi and O'Neill were studying in Egypt when they entered the church carrying food to 150 Palestinian militants and civilians. The pair spent more than two weeks in Israeli custody following the end of the siege.

UC officials said the two have been dropped from the overseas program for violating the university's rules by putting themselves in danger.

The students have not been expelled and will only need to fill out some forms to gain readmission to their schools, said a UC spokesman.

National Trails Day in offing at Quitaque

QUITAQUE — Eat a pancake breakfast or chuck wagon lunch, watch a parade or enter a lawnmower race, but be sure to have your eyes to the sky for the guinea drop this year during the June 1 National Trails Day celebration in Quitaque.

After a four-year hiatus, the guinea drop is back by popular demand. Twice during the day's celebrations, an ultra-light plane will cruise over Quitaque and drop a guinea from the sky. The chore is to catch the guinea and retrieve the special tag worth $100.

However, if chasing a guinea is not your speed, there will be plenty of other things to do throughout the day including a turtle race for the kids, an art show for all ages to enjoy, a buffalo chip bingo, a race car burn-off, and a craft show, just to name a few.

One highlight of the day is the chuck wagon lunch offered by Caprock Partners Foundation, a friend's group of Caprock Canyons State Park and Trailway. Two authentic chuck wagons will cook chicken-fried steak, potatoes, beans, sourdough biscuits, and peach cobbler. Western entertainment will be provided by Keith Reimer, an award-winning songwriter and entertainer.

Another highlight of the day is the poker run and motorcycle show hosted by Rolling Plains Motorcycles. There will be trophies awarded at the motorcycle show for first, second and third places for touring cycles and cruisers, along with one best of show award. The first bike out for the poker run will be at 11:30 a.m. and last bike is due in at 3:30 p.m.

For more information on the National Trails Day Celebration, to enter your antique car or tractor in the parade, or to reserve a booth for your crafts, contact the Quitaque Chamber of Commerce, (806) 455-1225. A complete schedule of Trails Day events is on-line at www.quitaque.com.

South Carolina killer pleads with courts to just let him die

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Michael Passaro planned to die more than three years ago when he doused his van with gasoline outside his estranged wife's home and set it ablaze with his 2-year-old daughter strapped inside.

But Passaro jumped out after igniting the fire, leaving behind a typewritten suicide note and the toddler. He was in the van long enough to suffer severe burns but survived, pleaded guilty to murder and was sentenced to death.

Now, Passaro is again ready to die. He has refused to appeal his sentence and urged the courts to ignore the efforts of well-meaning attorneys to spare him from a lethal injection.

"You do not have to live this life. I do," he wrote in a letter to South Carolina's Supreme Court. "The state says I should die for what I did, and I am not going to stand in their way."

The state's high court is set to hear arguments Wednesday on whether Passaro can be executed without ever having his case reviewed.

Prosecutors say if the 39-year-old killer succeeds in dispensing with the lengthy appeals process, he could be executed by the end of the year.

"If the state and the defendant really want the same thing, is that punishment?" asks Passaro's lawyer Joe Savitz.

In the letter written to the justices five months ago, Passaro left no doubt about his intention to die. He also left no doubt of his intentions to kill his daughter in November 1998 to get back at his estranged wife, Karen.

"Whatever anyone does, please make sure that Karen doesn't kill herself over this," Passaro wrote in his suicide note, salvaged from the blaze by investigators. "I want her to live in pain for the rest of her life."

Defense lawyers say the seeds were sown nearly a decade ago, shortly after Passaro married his first wife. When she ran out of their house to help the victim of a nearby car accident, another car struck and killed her. "I want to be buried with my first and only love, Donna," he wrote in his suicide note.

Passaro was devastated, turning to drugs and alcohol to ease his pain. Eventually, he regained control of his life and moved to South Carolina, becoming a paramedic near Myrtle Beach and studying to be a nurse.

He met his second wife, Karen, at a hospital where she worked. The two were married and by 1996 had a baby girl, Maggie.

"All he had ever wanted was a family and a home and someone to love him," Passaro's mother, Betty, said in court.

But the marriage soured. Passaro's wife asked for a divorce and got a restraining order.

Passaro got to see his daughter one weekend a month. It was after one of those visits he parked his van outside his wife's condominium and set it on fire.

One of the first officers on the scene would later testify Karen Passaro heard the commotion and came outside. She recognized the van and demanded over and over to know whether her daughter was inside.

Dynegy chairman tenders resignation

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman and chief executive of energy marketer Dynegy Inc., a one-time suitor of bankrupt Enron Corp., has quit amid corporate woes that include almost a 90 percent decline in stock value over the past year.

The Houston-based company's board of directors announced Tuesday that it has accepted the resignation of Chuck Watson as chairman and CEO. At the unanimous request of the independent directors, the board appointed Glenn F. Tilton, vice chairman of ChevronTexaco and a Dynegy director, as interim chairman.

Board member Daniel L. Dienstbier, who is president of Northern Natural Gas and also a Dynegy director, has been appointed interim chief executive officer.

At Dynegy's annual shareholders meeting earlier this month, the company's depreciated stock price was an area of concern. Watson had tried to reassure investors by telling them the reason the stock price has fallen so much was not due to the value of company assets but because of the energy industry's negative perception in the wake of Enron's bankruptcy.

In April 2002, operators reported 336 oil, 506 gas, 47 injection, and two other completion, compared to 243 oil, 471 gas, 12 injection and five other completions during April 2001.

Total well completions for 2002 year to date are 3,459 up from 2,886 recorded during the same period in 2001.

Operators reported 486 holes plugged and 53 dry holes in April 2002 compared to 398 plugged and 155 dry holes in April 2001.

Texas oil and gas wells produced 440,349,144 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas based upon preliminary production figures for March 2002, down from the March 2001 preliminary gas production total of 450,226,708 Mcf.

Texas production in February 2002 came from 144,270 oil and 57,400 gas wells.

Tenth FCD reports solid earnings

AUSTIN — The Farm Credit Bank of Texas (FCBT) and its affiliated lending associations recently reported record loan volume and solid earnings for the first quarter of 2002.

The Austin-based bank and 22 local credit cooperatives in Texas, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and New Mexico comprise the 10th Farm Credit District, the largest rural lending organization in the five-state region.

For the eighth consecutive quarter, the 10th District set a new loan volume record. At March 31, 2002, gross loan volume totaled $6.215 billion, reflecting a 3.4 percent increase from the $6.009 billion loan balance reported at Dec. 31, 2001.

"The current interest rate environment has helped sustain strong demand for rural real estate, which has spurred our loan volume growth," says Arnold Henson, FCBT chief executive officer. "In addition, the competitiveness of our district associations, an increase in marketing efforts and growth in loan participations have contributed to our success."

The quality of the loan portfolio remained high, with 97.7 percent acceptable credit quality at March 31, 2002, a slight increase from the 97.5 percent overall acceptable credit quality at year-end 2001.

The district's net income totaled $24.8 million for the quarter ended March 31, 2002, a decrease of 11.7 percent from the $28.1 million net income reported for the first quarter of 2001. This decrease resulted primarily from an increase in operating expenses and an increase in the provision for loan losses.

"While we are pleased to report another quarter of strong financial results, we are aware that the nation's agricultural industry is struggling with low prices and rising production costs," Henson says. "We are glad to see that Congress has made progress on a farm bill that will have a direct impact on the farmers and ranchers we serve."

During the first quarter of 2002, the 10th District's last remaining stand-alone Production Credit Association converted to an Agricultural Credit Association (ACA), which provides short- and intermediate-term agricultural loans as well as long-term real estate loans.

The district is now composed of 12 ACAs and 10 Federal Land Credit Associations (FLCAs), which provide rural mortgage financing. Together, the cooperative lenders have nearly 60,000 mortgage and production loans outstanding to rural residents, agricultural producers and agribusiness operations.

The 10th District is part of the nationwide Farm Credit System, which reported combined net income of $410 million for the quarter ended March 31, 2002, as compared with net income of $390 million for the same period last year.

PROPERTY TAX PROTEST AND APPEALS PROCEDURES

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these appeals procedures if you have a concern about:

- the values placed on your property
- any exemptions that may apply to you
- the cancellation of an agricultural exemption
- the taxable status of your property
- the local governments which should be taxing your property
- any action taken by the appraisal district that adversely affects you

Informal Review

The first option a taxpayer may use to protest a value is to visit with the chief appraiser or a staff member. Records on individual properties are available for review by every taxpayer. This informal review is to the benefit of the taxpayer, as many protests are resolved at this level.

Review by the Appraisal Review Board

If you cannot resolve your problem with the appraisal district staff, you may have your case heard by the Appraisal Review Board (ARB).

The ARB is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with appraisals or other concerns listed above. It has the power to order the appraisal district to make necessary changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a notice of protest) before the deadline the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You will receive written notice of the time, date and place of the hearing. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make a decision based on the presented evidence. NOTE: You should not try to contact ARB members prior to the meeting. The law required ARB members to sign an affidavit saying that they have not discussed your case prior to the ARB meeting.

Review by District Court

After the ARB decides your case you will be sent a copy of its order by certified mail. If you are not satisfied with the decision, you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If the appraisal district has appraised your property at $1,000,000 or more you must file a notice of appeal with the chief appraiser within 15 days of the date you receive the ARB's decision.

Additional Information

You may obtain more information by contacting the appraisal district at the address or phone number below or by contacting the State Comptroller at the following address:

Toll from bridge hits seven; Texan believed among dead

WEBBERS FALLS, Okla. (AP) — Crews pulled more bodies from the murky Arkansas River with the help of sonar and large cranes that provided a much-needed boost to the recovery effort stemming from a deadly bridge collapse.

The number of confirmed deaths rose to seven on Monday after four more bodies were taken out of the water. Officials planned to resume the search Tuesday morning.

A 500-foot section of the Interstate 40 bridge collapsed on Sunday morning after a barge rammed into the span, causing about a dozen vehicles to plummet into the water. Authorities are unsure how many people went off the bridge.

One victim was tentatively identified as a Texas horse trainer who was on her way home Sunday morning in a truck and trailer hauling her prize-winning horses when the collapse occurred. Published reports said the 49-year-old woman was riding in the truck with another woman from the San Antonio area who also was well-known as a horse handler on the rodeo circuit.

Friends said the two were returning to the San Antonio area from the Old Fort Days Futurity and Super Derby in Fort Smith, Ark., where the horses had won $7,000 in prizes. Three dead horses were also recovered from the river, according to the reports.

A thunderstorm forced divers to stop searching after they found one victim's body Monday, but crews used sonar to locate a sport utility vehicle and tractor-trailer that had three bodies inside. They used large cranes with claws to bring them up.

Lt. Chris West, a spokesman for the Oklahoma Highway Patrol, said the discoveries helped improve the morale of recovery workers.

"The workers were getting frustrated," West said. "They felt like they couldn't do anything and a lot of families out there were depending on them."

Survivor Goldie Alley was driving across the bridge with her husband Max when their car went into the water. She said she had traveled over the bridge hundreds of times with her church singing group.

"When my husband got to the edge he said, 'I don't remember a hill being here,' and about that time we was in the air," she told KWTU in Oklahoma City.

Max Alley suffered a broken back and Goldie Alley had broken ribs.

The barge captain, Joe Dedmon, apparently blacked out at the helm before the crash and no one was immediately available to take over, said Joel Henderson, a spokesman for Magnolia Marine Transport Co., which owns the boat, Robert Y. Love.

Dedmon tested negative for drugs and alcohol. He was hospitalized Monday pending more tests.

A veteran towboat captain said Monday he was astonished the bridge could not withstand a blow from a 490-foot barge moving upstream at only 5 mph.

"An empty barge made of half-inch steel shouldn't do that kind of damage," said David Greer of Baton Rouge, La.

"Those piers should have been anchored in the river better than that. When he hit that pier, that barge should have crunched like an empty beer can," said Greer, who formed the American Inland Mariners Association for pilots and captains on the lower Mississippi river and manages a Web site for pilots.

But Steve Tipton, a University of Tulsa engineering professor, said the impact of the collision would have been roughly equivalent to 62 2,000-pound cars slamming into the structure simultaneously at 60 mph.

"It would look deceptively slow, like you might be able to reach out and stop it yourself," he said. "But it actually would have had a tremendous amount of power to it."

Terri Angier of the Oklahoma Department of Transportation said bridges are not designed to withstand such a blow. Angier said the bridge was rated 78 out of a possible 100 points when it was inspected in 2001, a score she said was above average.

Experience Works celebrates month of May as 'Older Americans Month'

WACO — May has been designated by the President of the United States for more than 30 years as the official month during which the nation acknowledges the contribution of millions of older Americans.

In this year's proclamation, President Bush recognized the "extended role seniors play in our families, communities, and workplaces." As the nation's largest training and employment organization for older workers, Experience Works (EW) joins the President in recognizing the commitment and the dedicated service older Americans share with our nation.

"Experience Works celebrates the role older workers play in their workplaces, communities, and families all year long," said Diane Cowan Experience Works state director. "Older workers set high standards on the job and in their communities by providing strength, guidance, and dependability to their employers, and to those they touch throughout their communities."

Giving back through community service is the key to success in small towns across America. Experience Works embraces the theme of Older Americans Month's "America: A Community for All Ages," by meeting community needs through the involvement of its employees and program participants.

Older Americans Month acknowledges the extraordinary service that thousands of older Americans make towards the greatness and prosperity of our nation by participating in community activities.

Funded through the U.S. Department of Labor, the program serves primarily rural areas in 132 Texas counties. EW gives older, economically-disadvantaged job seekers the opportunity of sharing their years of experience, hard work, and dedication through work assignments in locally-based organizations.

Through their participation, the seniors maintain their independence as productive contributors to their communities and profit from job-skills training which allows for transition back into private sector employment.

For more information regarding senior employment and training opportunities, contact Experience Works, Inc., P.O. Box 7898, Waco, TX 76714, (254) 776-4081,

Town of 2,200 ordered evacuated after train derails

POTTERVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A freight train carrying hazardous materials derailed in this town of 2,200 people, prompting officials to order the city's evacuation as they tried to avoid an explosion from leaking propane.

The Grand Trunk train was carrying liquid propane and sulfuric acid when 35 of its 58 cars derailed Monday, the Eaton County Sheriff's Department said. Nine of the derailed cars were carrying propane and two others contained sulfuric acid.

No injuries were reported. Canada-based Young Environmental Systems Inc. had a crew of about 30 working through the night to halt the leaks and move the cars.

One car was spewing fuel, another had a steady leak, and a third may have been punctured, said Sheriff Rick Jones. He said any spark or surge of electricity could ignite the cars.

"If it went off, it would be like a bomb," Jones said. "They're just trying to figure out how to release the propane without anything blowing up."

Each propane car contained 34,000 gallons of propane gas, which is considered an extreme fire and explosive hazard, the sheriff's department said.

The derailment occurred within yards of a mobile home park and subdivision in Potterville, which is about 12 miles southwest of Lansing.

"It derailed right in front of our house," said Kelli Barcomb, who lives with her husband and three children in the Independence Commons mobile home park. "It was kind of scary because we're usually out there and we watch it go by."

Dozens of police and fire officials used bull horns and went door-to-door trying to clear the town and shut down all entrances to the city. The Michigan Department of Transportation shut down both highway exits to Potterville off Interstate 69, as well sections of other roads.

Consumers Energy cut off electrical service to most of the town at the request of fire officials, said utility spokesman Doug Crawford.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

Marriage To Longtime Abuser Hand Lasting Effect On Kids

DEAR ABBY: I now see the damage I did to my adult children by remaining in an abusive marriage during their formative years. They have all been divorced — one of them twice.

My husband was verbally, emotionally and physically abusive. I tried to be the peacemaker. However, by not standing up to him, I taught my children that they should not stand up for themselves. All of them have been verbally abused by their spouses and are still intimidated, just as I was.

When I was a young wife, women were trapped with no place to go when abuse occurred. Now, with just one phone call to the police, action is taken. I hope someday I can forgive myself for the damage I have inflicted on my family. Is there a way I can help them now — or is it too late?

FILLED WITH REGRET IN FLORIDA

DEAR FILLED WITH REGRET: It's never too late to admit a mistake and to try to right a wrong, particularly an error of omission. Tell your children their upbringing wasn't normal — and urge them to seek counseling.

The following signs of an abusive partner have been adapted with permission from the Project for Victims of Family Violence in Fayetteville, Ark.:

(1) PUSHES FOR QUICK

INVOLVEMENT: Comes on strong, claiming "I've never felt loved like this by anyone." An abuser pressures the new partner for an exclusive commitment almost immediately.

(2) JEALOUS: Excessively possessive; calls constantly or visits unexpectedly; prevents you from going to work because "you might meet someone"; checks the mileage on your car.

(3) CONTROLLING: Interrogates you intensely (especially if you're late) about whom you talked to and where you were; keeps all the money; insists you ask permission to go anywhere or do anything.

(4) UNREALISTIC EXPECTATIONS: Expects you to be the perfect mate and meet his or her every need.

(5) ISOLATION: Tries to cut you off from family and friends; accuses people who are your supporters of "causing trouble." The abuser may deprive you of a phone or car, or try to prevent you from holding a job.

(6) BLAMES OTHERS FOR PROBLEMS OR MISTAKES: It's always someone else's fault if something goes wrong.

(7) MAKES OTHERS RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS OR HER FEELINGS: The abuser says, "You make me angry," instead of, "I am angry," or says, "You're hurting me by not doing what I tell you."

(8) HYPERSENSITIVITY: Is easily insulted, claiming hurt feelings when he or she is really mad. Rants about the injustices of things that are just a part of life.

(9) CRUELTY TO ANIMALS AND CHILDREN: Kills or punishes animals brutally. Also, may expect children to do things that are far beyond their ability (whips a 3-year-old for wetting a diaper), or may tease them until they cry. Sixty-five percent of abusers who beat their partner will also abuse children.

(10) "PLAYFUL" USE OF FORCE DURING SEX: Enjoys throwing you down or holding you down against your will during sex; finds the idea of rape exciting.

(11) VERBAL ABUSE: Constantly criticizes or says blatantly cruel, hurtful things; degrades, curses, calls you ugly names. This may also involve sleep deprivation, waking you up with relentless verbal abuse.

(12) RIGID SEX ROLES: Expects you to serve, obey, remain at home.

(13) SUDDEN MOOD SWINGS: Switches from sweet to violent in minutes.

(14) PAST BATTERING: Admits to hitting a mate in the past, but says the person "made" him (or her) do it.

(15) THREATS OF VIOLENCE: Says things like, "I'll break your neck," or "I'll kill you," and then dismisses them with, "Everybody talks that way," or "I didn't really mean it." If the abuse has gone this far, it's time to get help or get out! The toll-free number for the domestic abuse hotline is (800) 799-7233.

Seminoles favored in College World Series

Rice, Texas seeded in 64-team tournament

By DENNIS WASZAK Jr.
AP Sports Writer

Florida State hopes to parlay its No. 1 seeding into its first College World Series title.

"We know what it takes to get to Omaha, and hopefully we can continue to play well to get back there," coach Mike Martin said Monday.

This is the first time Florida State has been seeded first in the Division I baseball tournament.

The Seminoles (56-21) are in the regionals for the 25th straight year and 40th overall. They were runners-up in 1970, '86 and '99.

They are on a 22-game winning streak, tying a school record, and open the double-elimination first round Friday against Stetson.

"Our guys have taken advantage of every opportunity they've had the past five or six weeks," said Martin, who has led Florida State to 50 or more wins 20 times.

The other seeded teams in the 64-team field are: Clemson (47-14), Alabama (48-13), Rice (47-11), Texas (48-14), South Carolina (48-14), Wake Forest (44-11-1) and Stanford (40-16).

In addition to the top eight seeded teams, regional hosts include Arizona State, Florida, Georgia Tech, LSU, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Southern California and Wichita State.

Also in the tournament is defending-champion Miami

(30-26), which overcame a mediocre season to extend its NCAA record with its 30th straight regional appearance.

"I knew we were on the bubble, and I didn't know whether we'd get in," coach Jim Morris said. "The fact is, we got in and I don't know exactly how that happened. But we got in and we're excited to be there."

The Hurricanes, whose record hovered around .500 all season, played one of the toughest schedules in the country and won their last five games.

"The main factor was that 34 of their games were played against top-50 opponents," said Wally Groff, chairman of the Division I baseball committee.

The 10-member committee, focusing on safety and travel concerns, selected the 16 regional sites by secret ballot after all 64 teams were selected. Teams were grouped primarily on geographic proximity. Previously, regional sites were determined a week before the field was announced.

"I don't believe it's a permanent situation," said Groff, the athletic director at Texas A&M. "It was because of 9-11, and I'm sure our championship cabinet will review this before next year."

There were 35 teams that made bids to play host to regionals, but none from the Northeast. As a result, most of the Northeast teams will make long trips: Maine at Los Angeles, Marist at Lincoln, Neb., and Central Connecticut State at Austin, Texas.

The Southeastern Conference, with Alabama, Arkansas, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, LSU and South Carolina led all conferences with seven teams after sending a record-eight last year. The Atlantic Coast Conference, Big 12 and Conference USA had five each.

Tennessee (27-28) was the only College World Series team from last year not among this year's 64 teams — 40 of which were in the 2001 tournament. Central Connecticut State, Elon, Louisville, New Mexico State and San Diego are making their first tournament appearances.

Groff said Mississippi (37-19), Mississippi State (33-22-1) and Oklahoma State (37-21) were among the last cuts.

Harvard (20-24) and Navy (22-23) won conference titles to receive automatic bids despite losing records.

The winners of each four-team regional will advance to the super regionals at eight sites to be determined. The eight winners of the super regionals, which begin June 7, will play in the College World Series, which starts June 14 at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha, Neb.

NOTEBOOK

HORSE RACING

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Congaree, third in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes last year, took the lead early and pulled away to win the $300,000 Lone Star Park Handicap on Monday.

Congaree covered the mile and 1/16 in 1:42.96, his first race in 10 months following a knee injury. Pat Day was the jockey.

Congaree is trained by Bob Baffert, handler of this year's Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes winner, War Emblem.

"He runs a lot like War Emblem," Baffert said of Congaree. "He just wants to put it to them, and catch me if you can' and that's the kind of horse he is. Once he gets in the lead, that is the only time he can relax."

Congaree paid $3.60 to win, $3.20 to place and $3 to show.

The Lone Star Million Day program featured seven stakes races worth a combined $1 million.

BASKETBALL

CANYON — MAYB will host both boys' and girls' basketball tournaments in Canyon July 5-7 for grades 4 through 12.

Each team is guaranteed five games. Entry deadline is June 14.

For more details, call 499-3776.

SKATING

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The International Skating Union will debate next week a proposal for a new judging system that would give skaters cumulative points rather than deductions and have different criteria for selecting referees.

ISU president Ottavio Cinquanta will present the proposal for the new judging system at its congress in Kyoto, Japan, from June 3-7. The ISU wants to prevent a repeat of the pairs scandal that shook the Salt Lake City Olympics in February.

The IOC awarded duplicate gold medals to Canadians Jamie Sale and David Pelletier following claims of vote-fixing in the victory by Russians Elena Berezhnaya and Anton Sikharulidze.

"This initiative of the ISU council recognizes the urgent need for changes to the existing system for selection of judges and the determination of results," the ISU said Tuesday.

The key objectives of the proposal are to limit block judging, to prevent opportunities for improper influence over judges and to replace the current 6.0 scale for technical elements with a points system based on difficulty.

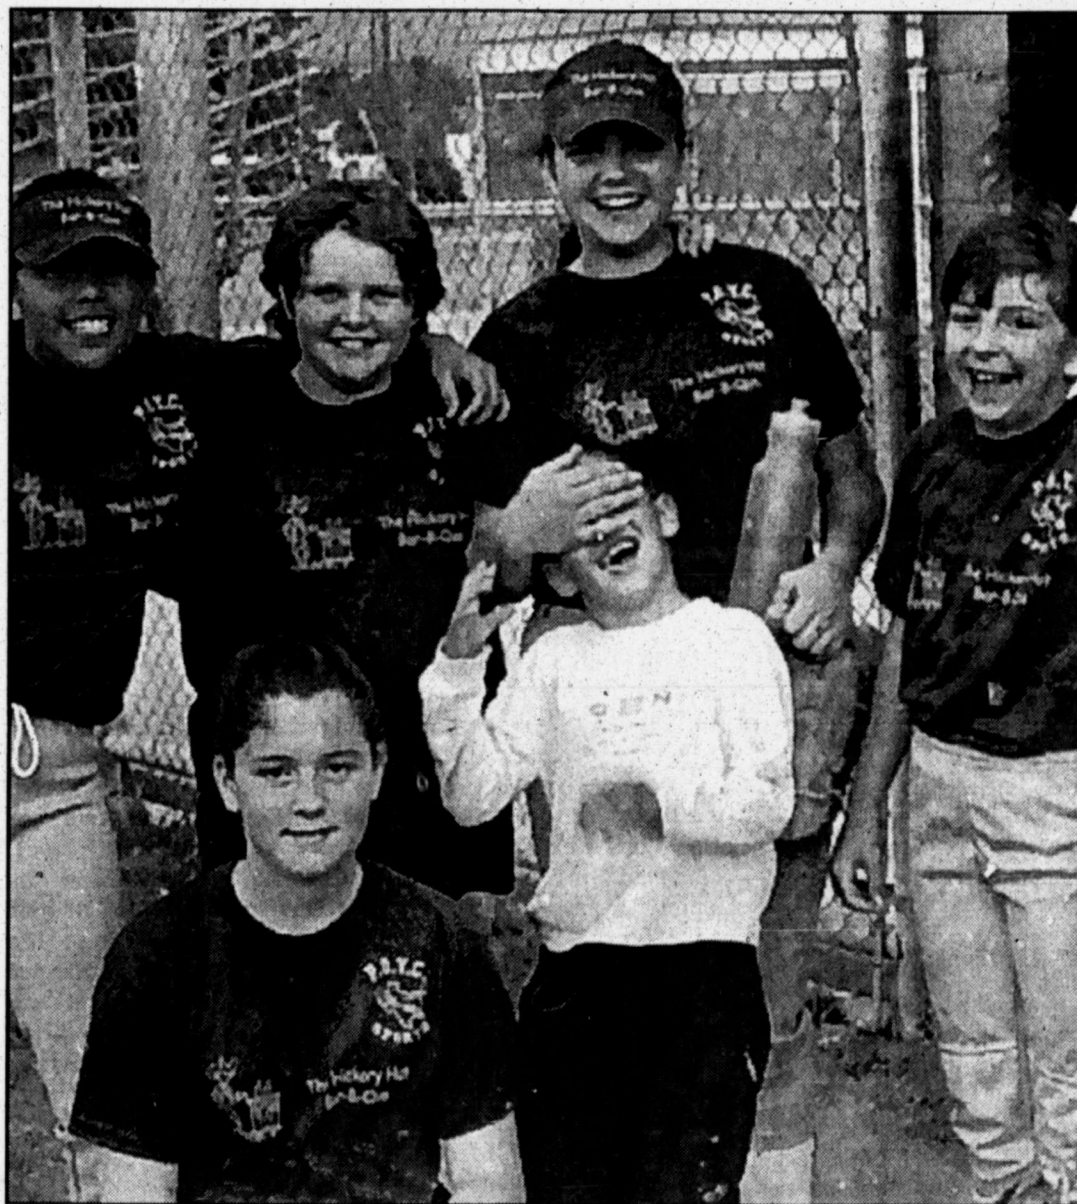

Its rules would cover, figure skating, ice dancing and synchronized skating, and if passed in Kyoto, would be applied at the next world championships, and later at the Winter Olympic Games.

The ISU wants a change to allow members to provide judges, but not decide which ones would officiate.

The referees and judging panel of 16 would be made up of eight judges randomly drawn from member nominees.

Of that 16, a referee and assistant would be randomly drawn and a computer program would select seven judges to determine the scores of competitors for the event.

PAMPA — The Pampa Wrestling Camp will be held June 12-14 at the high school MPAC Building.

The camp, under the direction of PHS head wrestling coach Justin Turner, is for youngsters ages 6 to 18.

Collegiate wrestlers Johnny Thompson and Pat Popolizio of Oklahoma State University will be the camp technicians. Thompson, who has a 73-5 career record, is the 2002 NCAA National champion, a two-time All-American, two-time Big 12 champion and the 1999

Oklahoma State champion. Popolizio is a three-time state NCAA qualifier, two-time Big 12 runnerup, the 1996 New York State champion and 1996 High School All-American. He compiled an 111-4 record at Niskayuna High School, including 97 victories by fall.

Registration fee is $50 for wrestlers and $25 for coaches. Any coach who brings five wrestlers to the camp will have their fee waived.

Dillas defeat Ducks

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Dillas got another outstanding start out of Mike Smith Sunday afternoon, holding on to the 8-5 win over the Springfield Ozark Mountain Ducks.

Smith pitched seven complete innings, allowing only one earned run on six hits. He also struck out four walked none.

The offensive help came from Russell Thomman and Derek Henderson.

The Dillas had gone six up and six down through two innings before Hector Lebron got the bottom of the third started with a base knock. The very next batter, Thomman, drove a 2-

2 pitch deep to left for his first home run as a Dilla, giving his team a 2-1 lead.

Derek Henderson extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a monstrous three-run blast to left center in the four-run fifth for the Dillas.

The Ducks actually had the tying run come up to bat in the ninth, but fell just shy when Damien Roberts flew out to center to end the game.

Amarillo won three of four games against Springfield during the homestand.

Tonight, the Dillas begin a seven-game road trip in Alexandria.

Castroneves victory upheld, but Tracy not giving up

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Preening and playing to the cameras, Helio Castroneves enjoyed the spoils of winning the Indy 500.

Plotting and refusing to abandon hope, runner-up Paul Tracy figured there's still a chance he might be declared the real champion.

It was Castroneves' day Monday, however, after an Indy Racing League official rejected a protest filed by Tracy's team and upheld the Brazilian's disputed victory.

League vice president of operations Brian Barnhart said there was no conclusive proof Tracy had pulled ahead of Castroneves by the time the yellow flag came out on the 199th lap of Sunday's race.

Issue closed?

Not necessarily. Tracy's team has five days to appeal. At the champion's dinner Monday night, Tracy accepted the second-place award, but was talking as though he still has a chance at being named the winner.

"I think the race might still be ongoing," Tracy said. "I don't know what could still happen in the future yet."

While Tracy and car owner Barry Green considered their next move, Castroneves enjoyed the fruits of victory.

Joined by team owner Roger Penske, he spent 45 minutes mugging for the camera at a track photo shoot in the morning. Later, he was the guest of honor at the champion's dinner.

"Everybody likes to talk about my patience, and how I used it on the track," Castroneves said. "The funny thing is, I never thought I'd have to use it outside the track, too."

The disputed finish was sparked when Laurent Redon and Buddy Lazier crashed in Turn 2 on the second-to-last lap of the race. In IRL, racing ceases the moment the caution flag is waved.

A split second after the crash, Tracy passed Castroneves in Turn 3, but the dispute was about the precise moment the caution took effect. Tracy said he was ahead when he first learned of the yellow; Castroneves said he let up on the throttle when he saw yellow, which allowed Tracy to pass.

"When you run the series, you have the experience," Castroneves said. "You just have to follow the rules."

Castroneves is in his first season in the IRL, which sanctions the Indy 500. Tracy drives for the rival Championship Auto Racing Teams. On Sunday, Tracy suggested politics might play a role in this decision, but Barnhart dismissed that notion.

"Anyone who would look at how quick this decision had to be made would know the thought of IRL vs. CART can't remotely cross my mind," Barnhart said.

Immediately after the accident, race officials declared Castroneves was in the lead, and he drove the final 3-plus miles under a yellow flag to win his second straight Indy 500.

A review lasting nearly six hours followed, and Barnhart certified Castroneves as the winner, ruling there was not enough evidence to overturn the result.

In Monday's four-hour review following the protest, Barnhart said he considered several videotape replays, along with data from the drivers' cars and statements from other drivers.

He came to the same conclusion as he did Sunday, but said nothing was easy about this decision.

"It was very close, especially when you're talking about the velocity they were going at," Barnhart said.

He said it was indisputable that Castroneves led Tracy at the last scoring line the cars passed before the caution, at the time of the accident and at the time race officials called for a caution.

Barnhart also said it was indisputable that Castroneves led when the yellow lights inside the cars turned on, signaling a caution.

He said there was no way to definitively tell who was leading when the yellow lights that line the track went on. He said sometimes there's a split-second delay from the time the lights in the cars and those on the track illuminate.

One still photo taken from a TV replay appears to show Tracy in the lead before the yellow track light is on. But that wasn't conclusive, according to Barnhart, and the rest of the evidence was.

That didn't satisfy Green.

"If someone would show me some clear evidence we were second, I'd be OK with that," he said before the hearing.

Green didn't speak at the champion's dinner.

About the only sure conclusion is that no system in sports is foolproof, even one as meticulous as the caution system used at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

U.S. joins jet probe

PENGHU, Taiwan (AP) — U.S. investigators joined the probe Tuesday into the crash of a Taiwanese jet that broke apart in the air, killing 225 passengers and crew — an accident a Taiwanese official said was much like a TWA crash in 1996 and a Swissair accident in 1998.

The members of the American team, who assisted in the TWA and Swissair probes, were chosen because "the cases were very similar," said David Lee, the lead investigator for Taiwan's Aviation Safety Council.

Investigators have declined to speculate why the Boeing 747-200 broke into four pieces 30,000 feet over the Taiwan Strait shortly after taking off from Taipei en route to Hong Kong on Saturday.

The pilots reported no problems before the plane went down near the Penghu islands, off Taiwan's western coast 180 miles from Taipei.

Search teams have yet to recover the voice and flight data recorders and have not found any large pieces of wreckage.

Theories about the cause include a fuel tank explosion and structural problems with the 22-year-old aircraft. A Taiwanese security official said Monday that there was no evidence of a terrorist attack or missile strike.

Miao Chun-yi, a professor of aeronautics at National Chengkung University, said metal fatigue — hard to detect during inspections — could have caused the plane to split apart.

NATO leaders embrace Russia as junior partner

ROME (AP) — NATO, the alliance set up more than a half century ago for the Cold War containment of Moscow, formally accepted its old enemy as a junior partner Tuesday.

"We have come a long way from confrontation to dialogue, and from confrontation to cooperation," Russian President Vladimir Putin said before he and 19 NATO leaders, including President Bush, signed an agreement creating a NATO-Russia Council.

"Two former foes are now joined as partners," Bush said.

Russia will have more authority than in an earlier, less formal arrangement set up years ago to try to nudge Moscow closer to the West.

Its involvement will be limited to certain areas. They include crisis management, peacekeeping and such military areas as air defense, search-and-rescue operations and joint exercises.

The 20 leaders sat at a circular table and remained seated as the documents were passed around for them to sign.

"The significance of this meeting is difficult to overestimate," Putin said earlier, noting that a few years ago, such a role for Russia "would have been, simply, unthinkable, whereas today it has become a reality."

"Being realists, we must remember that relations between Russia and the North Atlantic alliance have been historically far from straightforward," Putin said. Even though Russia was not admitted as a full partner and has a limited role, "we must understand this Rome Declaration ... is only a beginning," he said.

Secretary of State Colin Powell said he recognizes that Russia opposes a further enlargement of NATO. The alliance is expected to bring in up to seven new full partners in November, including states bordering on Russia.

Even with the new relationship, "Russia cannot have a veto over who becomes a member or not," Powell told reporters.

Leader after leader cited Sept. 11, and the lingering terror threat, as a catalyst for new cohesion and determination among NATO members. "The months since have made clear that by working together against these threats, we multiply our effectiveness," Bush said.

Putin agreed, and mentioned a blast during a holiday parade in the Russian region of Dagestan on May 9, killing 41 people. Russia blames Islamic extremists for the attack.

NATO Secretary-General Lord Robertson, who will be chairman of the new council, opened the session, declaring "this gathering represents the hope of a better, saner future."

He said he considers the council a real breakthrough and expressed hope that it would "not just deliberate but take decisive actions. ... There is a common enemy out there."

Pakistan test-fires missile

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan on Tuesday test-fired a missile that could be capable of carrying nuclear warheads into Indian territory; the third and final launch in a series of much-criticized tests. India, in its first formal response to a speech by Pakistan's president, called his remarks "disappointing" and "dangerous."

Meanwhile, British Foreign Secretary Jack Straw was in Islamabad on Tuesday for a meeting with President Gen. Pervez Musharraf, hoping to nudge the nuclear-armed adversaries to the negotiating table.

India's harsh words follow Musharraf's address to his nation Monday, in which he promised Islamabad would not initiate war with India, but would defend itself if "war was thrust upon it." He denied cross-border incursions into Indian-controlled Kashmir by Pakistan-based Islamic militants.

India's Foreign Minister Jaswant Singh said Tuesday that the Pakistani president's statements on Islamic militant infiltration were disappointing and dangerous.

"Disappointing as it merely repeats some earlier reassurances that remain unfulfilled today," Singh said. "Dangerous because of deliberate posturing, tensions have been added, not reduced."

Musharraf in January gave a landmark speech in which he vowed to halt terrorists operating from Pakistani territory. India claims he has done little to fulfill this pledge and that Pakistan-based Islamic militants continue to cross into Indian-controlled Kashmir.

As the rhetoric between the two sides becomes more angry, the international community has pushed for negotiations. Musharraf and Indian Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee may meet next month in Kazakhstan on the sidelines of the Council on Cooperation and Confidence Measures in Asia. Russian President Vladimir Putin has offered to mediate one-on-one talks.

Pakistan has already accepted the invitation, agreeing to talk to Vajpayee "anywhere, anytime." India has said it will not hold talks until cross-border attacks stop.

WT's KDP chapter receives $500 grant

CANYON — The Iota Theta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi (KDP) at West Texas A&M University has been awarded a $500 Celebration of Teaching grant to promote programs and activities that explore teaching as a career.

The WTAMU chapter was one of nine chapters to receive a grant through KDP's Educational Foundation. The local chapter has been awarded this grant three times and works with the Texas Association of Future Educators from Palo Duro High School, Randall High School and Hereford High School. Dr. Mary E. Parker, assistant professor of education, is the Iota Theta adviser.

The Celebration of Teaching program brings together middle and high school students and veteran educators to explore teaching as a career and strengthens the network of professionals involved in teacher education. This program specifically targets minority students and children in poverty.

For more information about the Celebration of Teaching program, contact Parker at (806) 651-2906.
