EYESORES

involved is privately owned and Winborne said the condemnation of buildings involves a lengthy legal procedure.

Some buildings on Price Road that are considered eyesores are in the county which doesn't have as much legal control over property as does the city, Winborne and City Attorney Don Lane said.

So far, in an effort to rid the city of dilapidated houses and other buildings, those that have been destroyed are structures that people wanted to get rid of and that can be a far cry from condemnation, said City Manager Bob Eskridge.

"Some people don't want their property torn down," he said. "So you are looking at an adversarial dealing."

Also, according to Winborne, he says a complaint he often hears is that people don't want to fix up their property contending if they do so their taxes will increase.

Then there is the issue that while a building may be an eyesore, there are no health and safety violations.

"A lot of these buildings are not structurally unsafe," Eskridge said. "They're ugly. It's very hard to regulate ugly... you have to have specific law violations."

Commissioner Faustina Curry mentioned previous clean-up efforts, one by the PEDC and those by Clean Pampa. She asked if there is any way to have a public relations campaign to foster interest in cleaning up in and around the city.

"That works really well when people want to clean up," Eskridge said. "But when they don't..."

Mayor Lonny Robbins said he wishes "... the community would take more of a 'sense of pride' in the city and said the most frequent complaint he hears is about how bad the entrances into the city look.

JAIL

felony because of the person's past criminal history.

Something that will help speed up the handling of cases will be the reopening in the spring of the Gray County Courthouse which will have two courtrooms.

Right now, there is a single, temporary courtroom in the Hughes Building.

The courtroom is available for criminal trials in the 31st District (Judge Steven Emmert) only three days a month, Roach said.

The rest of the time the courtroom here is used by the 223rd district — Judge Lee Waters — for the hearing of civil matters and some criminal matters.

Emmert, who handles criminal matters, travels throughout the district and Waters remains in Gray County, Roach said.

"Judge Waters has been real good about hearing pleas," Roach said. "He's been very helpful in that regard."

Even so, not having adequate courtroom space "... puts a damper on not being able to try cases as quickly as we'd like."

Roach lamented, too, that counties have to keep parole violators locked up until the crime that triggered the violation is handled locally before they are returned to state prison.

"The state needs to go ahead and take them and return them to us after their state sentence is served," Roach said.

In an effort to "move some cases," Roach said Assistant District Attorney David Holmes will come into the Pampa office for a while to help get some cases ready for trial or pleas.

Holmes, who works cases in other parts of the district, won't have a judge available for possibly several months as Judge Emmert will be tied up in a capital murder trial that starts Friday in Amarillo.

That change-of-venue trial involves the killing of a Hemphill County deputy last year on Father's Day as he attempted to serve a warrant.

Pistol used to kill Selena found

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The missing pistol used in the shooting death of Tejano singer Selena has turned up at the home of the court reporter from the trial of the singer's killer, investigators said.

The weapon was located in a box of office supplies at the Harris County home of Sandra Oballe, the former court reporter at the 1995 murder trial of Yolanda Saldivar.

Selena was shot and killed by Yolanda Saldivar on March 31, 1995, at a Corpus Christi motel. Saldivar, former president of Selena's fan club, was convicted of murder and is serving a life sentence.

Saldivar's trial had been moved to Harris County from Nueces County on a change of venue petition.

Investigators from Nueces County and Harris County worked together to find the .38-caliber Taurus revolver used by Saldivar.

Oballe, now a law student in Houston, declined to comment.

Nueces County District Attorney Carlos Valdez said Oballe had no idea the pistol was in her possession.

"When she left employment with the county, they had boxed up a bunch of stuff that was in her office and taken it away," Valdez was quoted as saying in Wednesday's editions of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. "We asked her to do us a favor and look through the stuff that she had taken home."

Valdez said he never thought the gun would ever be found.

"I thought for sure it was gone," he said. "I thought somebody took it and was going to keep it and show it around privately."

Once the gun is returned to the district attorney's office, Valdez said, it will probably be destroyed.

UIL

The UIL's State Executive Committee determined in a 45-minute hearing the self-imposed forfeiture was enough.

"I'm happy for the school and for the kids," said Lefors Independent School District Superintendent Allen Law. He testified at Wednesday's hearing but declined further comment on its decision.

More than a dozen Lefors students, teacher and parents attended hearing to support Law.

The grading scandal first surfaced early in the fall semester in the tiny Panhandle town of about 560, about 60 miles Northeast of Amarillo.

Staj said school administrators pressured him to give passing grades to a pair of football players.

Jay Henson, a former school board candidate who has two children in the school, wrote the UIL in October outlining the accusation.

Staj said Law and his wife, school principal Suzanne Law, pressured him to pass the players. Both administrators denied any wrongdoing.

"This has been a year of misunderstanding," Allen

Law told the committee. "We both have a burning desire to help students."

State law requires that a student earn at least a 70 percent passing mark during a grading period. If not, the student is ineligible.

According to Staj, who is not a certified Spanish teacher, he was first told to "water down" his class and give the players a 70 in their Spanish II course.

"In my mind, giving one point or giving 20 was cheating and I wasn't going to do that," Staj said.

When he graded them under 60, the front office awarded them an extra 10 points, Staj said.

The school said the 10 points were justified under school policy, which considers Spanish II an advanced course.

Staj said the Laws then asked him to give the students grades of "incomplete," even though no assignments were unfinished, and assign extra-credit work to be finished after grades were due.

Staj said he reluctantly agreed, not knowing the extra credit work for eligibility would be improper under UIL rules.

He also complained of several confrontations with the Laws over the grades.

Staj said he was removed from the classroom in January and that his contract will not return to teaching.

Allen Law, who serves as chairman of the school district's UIL committee, disputed the allegations of wrongdoing.

"I never directly told the Mr. Staj to pass anybody," Law said.

Law said that once he realized that the extra-credit work was improper, he contacted the UIL and was told the player was ineligible.

Law said he admitted the mistake and the district committee determined the school would forfeit one victory. Lefors finished 4-6 on the season.

Sam Harper, the UIL's compliance officer, wrote the Laws in November to say the league had found nothing improper and the issue should be put "to rest."

Staj and his wife, Jennifer, who also taught at Lefors, said they moved last week to find new jobs and pursue his career with a Christian rock band.

"I feel like education lost today," Staj said. "I'll always be able to look back and know I did the right thing."

meeting. "I was the only one who spoke at the meeting," said Canaday. "So many people in Skellytown felt like there was nothing that they could say or do. They just felt so outnumbered."

In the spring of 2001,

WDISD voted to bus the fifth and sixth graders from Skellytown to White Deer as well as close the Skellytown School Cafeteria and take meals to the students, prekindergarten through fourth grade.

"They keep saying it is economic," Canaday said. "I know the enrollment is down in rural schools all over the Texas Panhandle. I just don't see why we aren't going to be able to utilize the Skellytown campus for middle school or something else. However, the White Deer parents don't want their kids bussed to Skellytown."

Skellytown is nine miles north of White Deer.

"Why are they building in White Deer?" she added. "We don't even know what they are building. How is this saving money?"

Canaday also questioned the wisdom of bussing prekindergarten-age groups on the same bus with junior high and high school age students.

"What else can happen in Skellytown?," said Guy McKissick, city fire chief.

Many residents in the community have been in conflict with each other over city matters during the past several weeks.

"I don't see the benefit to closing it," he said. "They say it's financial but now they're turning the little kids' gym into classrooms and building a brand new gym. It doesn't make sense."

McKissick said White Deer is a Chapter 41 (property wealthy) school and they are using the monies to build so that they don't have to send the money to another school district.

"It was inevitable, I guess," said McKissick. "I just hope we get to keep a school in Carson County before its all over."

There is a sense of sadness among many of the Skellytown residents today.

"It's a sad thing," said

Debbie Brame, who works at the Skellytown campus. "I feel like I'm losing a good friend. It's a hard thing to go through."

Brame, who is completing her 20th year as an employee at the Skellytown campus this week, said her husband attended the school at Skellytown as well as their three children. Two children are already students at White Deer as a junior and senior in high school. The third child is a third grader and will be bussed next year.

"This is our home. This is our school. The school is the main thing in our community," she said.

Residents in Skellytown say they are praying their community won't disappear as the Skellytown school campus is closed. They know the closing of rural schools can often mean the demise of the small communities, but they are still praying, they said.

after being jailed.

"Mr. Felix exited his car and walked to the rear of the vehicle when the officers opened fire with plastic pepper bullets," Fling said.

The lawyer insists that Felix had nothing in his hand and does not know what prompted the shooting.

Fling said Felix suffered injuries to his back and legs when he was shot 40 to 50 times with the pepper pellets.

Felix was arrested and put in the Gray County Jail, Fling said, but claimed he received no medical treatment for three days even though he requested it.

"My client has suffered medical expenses, loss of earnings, and pain and suffering as a result of this violation of his constitutional rights by the officers," Fling said.

The Pampa News records indicate that the Pampa Police Department arrested Felix on Dec. 21, 2001, on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol (third or more offense), evading arrest in a vehicle, and resisting arrest.

Fling said in his letter that he had initially requested an investigation by Texas Ranger Gary Henderson of Pampa, but that Henderson had referred the matter to Police Chief Morris.

Inquiries of Eskridge and Morris were referred to City

Attorney Don Lane.

Lane released a copy of the May 17, letter after The Pampa News made a written request under the Texas Public Information Act.

Pampa city officials and commissioners discussed the matter in a closed session with City Attorney Don Lane during Tuesday night's city commission meeting. They took no action after reconvening in open session.

Judge Peet said Tuesday afternoon that he had referred the matter to Gray County Attorney Todd Alvey.

"That's really where we need to go from here," Peet said. "He is the legal representation for the county, and I'm having him respond to it."

Associate Publisher Kate Dickson contributed to this report.

Globe-News in Wednesday's editions. "There was fire everywhere and they went in there to dig that man out."

Belinda Montana, director of operations for Clarendon Emergency Medical Services, said Patterson was conscious and talking to them as they tried to free him. It took about 20 minutes to free Patterson as flames threatened.

"We were just focused on getting him out," Montana said. "I was concerned for the safety of my crew, but I wasn't worried about the danger to myself. We had to save him."

Patterson and engineer Ronald Gordon, 51, remained in stable condition at Northwest Texas hospital in Amarillo early Wednesday morning. Conductor Rodney Torres, 34, was treated and released.

The impact crushed the leading locomotives. One was ripped from its chassis and pushed back from the wheels. A 20-foot section of track was pushed through a coal car and stuck straight into the air.

A total of four locomotives and 25 rail cars derailed in the crash.

BNSF officials said one train loaded with coal was traveling from Wyoming to Texas and the other intermodal train was bound to California from Kansas.

No hazardous materials were released in the crash, which happened at 9 a.m. about three miles west of Clarendon.

Cleanup crews removed the trains and debris from the tracks Wednesday morning, BNSF spokesman Joe Faust said. The main line reopened at 5:45 a.m.

Investigators with the Federal Railroad Administration and the National Transportation Safety arrived at the scene early Wednesday, but neither agency could be reached for comment.

The track is a main rail link between Fort Worth, Amarillo and Denver.

About 2,000 people live in Clarendon, which is 55 miles southeast of Amarillo.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

Mom's Parking-Lot Policy Has Hands-Down Winner

DEAR ABBY: Please print one of my pet peeves: I don't know how many times I have pulled into busy parking lots and seen small children running between the parking spaces with little or no supervision. Three times in the last month, I have seen drivers brake abruptly to avoid hitting little kids.

My sister-in-law had a system when her children were small. Once the car was parked and the engine turned off, the child could open the door and exit the vehicle. However, when the child closed the door, he or she had to keep both hands on the car until an adult came and took him or her by the hand. She would always remind them by repeating, "Remember, both hands on the car!"

Those trying to locate "missing" teachers can write to the education association in the district where they attended school. Most associations maintain a list of retired teachers and their addresses. Some will also know where those who have left the district have relocated.

Teachers love to hear from former students, Abby. It is gratifying to know I have touched the lives of many of my students, as they have certainly made a difference in mine. In fact, one of my former students is now my current principal!

THELMA L. CLIFFORD, NEW JERSEY

DEAR THELMA: I'm sur many former students will appreciate your informative letter. We all have had at least one special teacher who stood out above the rest. Your tale proves the truth of the old saying: It pays to be nice to everyone you meet because you never know when you'll meet them again.

DEAR DR. CURRY: Thank you for the valuable input. Readers, if you or anyone you know suffers from depression, this is a phone number that just may come in handy. The urge to end it all is something that can strike people of all ages — not just teens.

DEAR KUDOS: I'm glad it worked for your sister-in-law. However, were it my child, I would insist that he or she wait to be assisted out of the safety seat — and after that I would take the child firmly by the hand.

DEAR ABBY: "Grateful Doctor in Dallas" wrote about the difficulty in tracking down some of the teachers who made a difference in his/her life.

I have been teaching for 39 years and often reminisce about former students and wonder how they're doing. A student in the very first third-grade class I taught tracked me down and invited me to his high school graduation. I couldn't have been more pleased.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for encouraging "Desperate in the U.S.A." to contact the nearest suicide hotline. "Desperate's" friends should take his or her feelings seriously. In one poll, 7 percent of youth under 25 acknowledged having made at least one suicide attempt.

As you point out, there are many suicide crisis lines in the country offering free crisis counseling 24 hours a day, 365 days of the year. Our Suicide Prevention Center, the oldest in the country, receives more than 17,000 calls annually. Please let your readers know they will

Glo-Valve maintains first place in 11-12 league

PAMPA — Travis Marsh knocked in runs with his bat and his leg to lead Glo-Valve Service past Rotary Club 8-6 Tuesday in Optimist 11-12 Cal Ripken League action.

Heath Skinner, Glo-Valve's third pitcher, won his third game of the season as Glo-Valve maintained first place and improved to 6-0. Heath Skinner faced only four batters, striking out three and throwing the other out to earn the win. He entered the game in the bottom of the fifth inning with two outs, five runs in and the go-ahead run on second base.

Lane Douglass started for Glo-Valve and faced only one batter over the minimum in three innings. A catcher-shortstop double play on a strikeout and a caught stealing in the first inning from Marsh to Hayden Skinner, and a round-the-horn double play from Heath Skinner at third to Aaron Carr at second to a stretching Shane Davis at first in the third inning erased Rotary baserunners. Douglass allowed three hits. He struck out five and only allowed one runner to get as far as second base. He threw just 29 pitches.

Carr came on in the fourth, allowing five earned runs. He struck out four, walked three and permitted three hits.

Shavious Kelley started for Glo-Valve. He was relieved by Madison Wilson in the third inning. Mark Stone relieved Wilson in the sixth, but was replaced by Kelley, who got the final out. Kelley allowed three runs, struck out seven, walked four and allowed six hits. Wilson struck out five while giving up three hits and three runs. He walked three. Stone surrendered two runs, two hits and hit three batters in two-thirds of an inning. He struck out one.

Glo-Valve wasted no time getting on the scoreboard. With one out in the first inning, Carr beat out an infield single and moved to second on a passed ball. Hayden Skinner dribbled a hit down the third base line. Carr held at third. Hayden Skinner stole second. A single to center field by Heath Skinner scored Carr with Hayden Skinner scampering back to third as Heath Skinner took second. Garrett Eggleston plated both runners with a solid single to center to give Glo-Valve a 3-0 lead. Glo-Valve threatened in the second, third and fourth innings, leaving seven base runners stranded, but the score held at 3-0.

In the bottom of the fourth, Rotary's Kelley was safe on an error. He took second on a passed ball, third on an overthrow and scored on a single by Kenny Hightower.

Glo-Valve extended its lead in the fifth inning to 6-1 on an infield single by Jonathan Smith, a walk to Scotty Brown and a live-drive home run by Marsh.

Rusty Snider walked. Kelley singled home a run and Stone singled home two more. Hightower slammed his third consecutive hit to tie the game. He took second on the throw in from the outfield. Heath Skinner took the mound with a 2-0 count on the batter and threw three straight strikes to end the inning.

Glo-Valve had its rabbit's foot in hand in the sixth inning. Eggleston stroked his second hit of the game, a shot to center field. Jacob Davis was hit by a pitch and Brody Russell executed a perfect sacrifice bunt to move the runners to second and third. Douglass bunted safely to load the bases.

Marsh, who homered the time before, squared to bunt and was hit on the leg by a pitch to force in the go-ahead run. An out later, Shane Davis was struck on the hand to force in another run.

Heath Skinner pitched a perfect sixth inning to record the win.

Rotary's Hightower led all hitters with three hits, a run scored and three RBI. He also had the defensive plays of the game, catching a flyball in center and fielding several ground balls and holding runners at third. Kelley had two hits, two runs and one RBI, while Stone had a hit, a run and two RBI for Rotary.

Eggleston was two for two to lead Glo-Valve in hitting. He scored once and had two RBI. Hayden Skinner had two hits and a run scored. Heath Skinner had one hit and two RBI. Shane Davis had one hit and one RBI. Jacob Davis had one hit and one run scored. Marsh had one hit, one run scored and four RBI, knocking in three with his home run and the winning run when hit by a pitch. Glo-Valve had nine different batters get base hits and eight different players score runs in a complete team effort.

Rotary, with two losses, dropped into a tie for second place with Celanese Corporation.

Hurricanes advance to finals

TORONTO (AP) — Ron Francis doesn't recognize his old team anymore.

The Carolina Hurricanes, for so long a bust in the playoffs, are on their way to the Stanley Cup finals for the first time.

"This team has certainly come a long way," Francis, the team captain, said Tuesday night. "The guys in the locker room showed character and found a way to come back."

The Hurricanes eliminated the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game 6 of the Eastern Conference finals, winning 2-1 on a score by Martin Gelnas 8:05 into overtime for the biggest goal in franchise history.

Kings win squeaker over Lakers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — For Mike Bibby, it was a chance to make the big shot.

For Kobe Bryant, much more experienced in these matters, it was another misfire. And this time, there was no Robert Horry to rescue the Los Angeles Lakers.

Bibby, emerging as a star in his first visit to the playoffs, made a 22-footer with 8.2 seconds remaining Tuesday night to give the Sacramento Kings to a 92-91 victory and a 3-2 lead in the Western Conference finals.

When Bryant's potential winner from the right corner hit the rim and bounced away, the Kings drew within one win of their first appearance in the NBA Finals since 1951.

And the two-time defending champion Lakers, winners of 13 titles since that time, are one loss from elimination.

Game 6 is Friday night in Los Angeles. Game 7, if necessary, will be Sunday at Arco Arena.

Bibby was freed for the winning shot by a screen from Chris Webber that knocked Derek Fisher to the floor.

"I told Chris that if he handed the ball out to me, I was going to make it," said Bibby, who scored 23 points. "I think there are a lot of people on this team who could have taken the last shot."

"This is my first year here," he added. "I'm just happy to be here."

Bibby, who spent his first three NBA seasons with the hapless Vancouver Grizzlies, came to Sacramento 11 months ago in a trade for Jason Williams.

"In the huddle Mike said he wanted to shoot it," said Webber, who had 29 points and 13 rebounds. "We all have confidence in Mike. I just wanted to get a piece of Fisher."

The Lakers countered by getting the ball to Bryant, as expected. Closely guarded by the smaller Bobby Jackson, Bryant let fly from the right corner with one second left. The shot wasn't close.

"I knew he'd try to spin baseline — it's his favorite move," Jackson said. "I was thinking, 'Please miss. Please, please miss.' He's a great player. He doesn't miss many shots."

Bryant and Shaquille O'Neal each missed as time was running out in Game 4 before Horry's 3-pointer gave the Lakers a 100-99 victory to even the series.

Horry wasn't open this time. Webber said there was no way he was going to leave him alone.

"I was just trying to shoot over (Jackson) and the shot went long," said Bryant, who scored 30 points. "We'll take the one-point defeat, go home and win the next game."

Sacramento seemed to be in good shape when O'Neal fouled out with 3:22 left; Bibby drew the big man's sixth foul on a drive down the lane.

The Kings took an 88-87 lead on a free throw by Webber with 2:23 to play, but a jumper by Bryant 14 seconds later and two free throws by Samaki Walker with 59.3 seconds left put the Lakers on top by three.

Bibby made two free throws with 46.6 seconds to go and Vlade Divac blocked a shot by Bryant 17 seconds later to set the stage for the biggest shot of Bibby's life.

And the biggest in the history of the Kings — at least to date.

Mariners' Piniella sees red over a man in blue

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Sports Writer

Watching John Shulock's calls for a second time sent Lou Piniella over the edge.

The Mariners manager seethed over Shulock's strike zone for five innings before replays of Tampa Bay's five-run third inning brought Sweet Lou storming out of the dugout.

Piniella pointed angrily at the video screen highlights, got ejected and covered home plate with dirt during the Mariners' 5-1 loss to the Tampa Bay Devil Rays on Tuesday night.

"I've got to do what I've got to do, and the umpires got to do what they got to do. But if the replays hadn't been shown, I wouldn't have gotten thrown out," Piniella said.

Piniella and Shulock also exchanged words in the third after Ben Grieve drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch with the bases loaded. The next batter, John Flaherty, hit his second career grand slam for a 5-0 Tampa Bay lead.

Once he was tossed, Piniella kicked once toward Shulock and nine times on home plate before getting down on one knee and using his hands to completely cover the plate with dirt.

Shulock refused to sweep the plate for the start of the bottom of the eighth. Instead, he waited until catcher Dan Wilson cleaned it — first with his feet and then with Shulock's brush.

"I wish I had been out there," Piniella said. "We would have played with a dirty home plate the rest of the ballgame. I can tell you that."

The ejection was the second this season for Piniella. Shulock was reluctant to talk about the ejection, but did say: "I have no grudge for Lou and no chip on my shoulder."

In other AL games, it was: Boston 6, Toronto 4; New York 4, Chicago 2; Oakland 5, Baltimore 2; Cleveland 4, Detroit 2; Kansas City 7, Anaheim 4; and Minnesota 11, Texas 4.

Ryan Rupe pitched his first career complete game for the Devil Rays, who won two of three games against the defending AL West champions at Safeco Field last week.

Rupe (5-5) finished with a five-hitter, beating the Mariners for the second straight time after losing his first four career decisions against them.

Flaherty's grand slam finished a five-run third inning against Seattle right-hander Joel Pineiro (4-2), who allowed five runs in three innings.

Red Sox 6, Blue Jays 4

Toronto closer Kelvim Escobar (1-2) walked Jason Varitek and Trot Nixon with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to give visiting Boston the win.

Jose Offerman hit a two-run homer for the Red Sox, who rallied after Pedro Martinez allowed four runs in the first two innings.

Tim Wakefield (2-1) pitched two scoreless innings for the win. Ugueth Urbina pitched the ninth for his 17th save.

Yankees 4, White Sox 2

Derek Jeter and Bernie Williams sparked an eighth-inning rally with RBI singles, and Rondell White doubled in the go-ahead runs as New York won at Chicago.

Ted Lilly (2-4) allowed three hits in seven innings for the Yankees, who won their fourth straight to remain a game behind Boston in the AL East. Mariano Rivera pitched the ninth for his 16th save.

Athletics 5, Orioles 2

Mark Mulder (3-4) won for the first time since April 6, allowing one earned run over six innings as Oakland won at Camden Yards.

Eric Chavez and Adam Piatt both hit two-run homers off Calvin Maduro (2-5) for the A's, whose fourth straight victory matched a season high.

Billy Koch worked the ninth for his 10th save.

Indians 4, Tigers 2

Chuck Finley struck out 11, including a club record-tying six straight, and Travis Fryman drove in three runs against Jeff Weaver (4-6) to lead host Cleveland.

Finley (3-6) gave up two runs and two hits in the first inning but then dominated. He retired 20 of 21 before Brandon Inge opened the eighth with an infield single to end Finley's night.

Bob Wickman worked the ninth for his 12th save as the Indians won for the fourth time in five games.

Umbrellas rule the day at soggy French Open

PARIS (AP) — Justine Henin was ill. Roger Federer was weary. Most everyone else at the French Open was sick and tired, too — fed up with rain that backlogged play and made umbrellas as visible as tennis rackets.

"I've never experienced anything like it, raining consistently for 2 1/2 sets," Roger Federer said after Tuesday's 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 first-round loss to Hicham Arazi. "If it rains really, we can stop. But it was just raining enough where we could keep playing."

After his match was interrupted, the eighth-seeded Federer went with a new look, changing from a head-to-toe black ensemble to Wimbledonlike all white. It didn't help.

"I've played in rain before. He was just much better. It's a pity," added Federer, who said he was worn out from winning a tournament in Germany just more than a week ago. The fifth-seeded Henin, a semifinalist at the French Open last year, was truly under the weather.

A sore throat, fever and congestion made for a miserable day and an early exit for one of the favorites coming into Roland Garros. She lost 4-6, 6-1, 6-0 to Hungarian qualifier Aniko Kapros.

"I just feel physically awful," said Henin, who admitted she probably should not have ventured out on a raw and cold day. "I was not ready to play this match."

At least Henin and Federer got on the court. The wait continued for many players Tuesday when four more rain delays ran the total to seven over two days. Only 84 of 128 scheduled matches had been completed when play was called after the second day.

Top-seeded and defending champion Jennifer Capriati was out long enough to build a 4-2 lead over Marissa Irvin before more rain and then darkness descended. Serena Williams, Andre Agassi and Andy Roddick were hoping to finally play Wednesday.

No. 5 Yevgeny Kafelnikov finally finished off his match started Monday, beating qualifier Tomas Behrend 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-7 (3), 6-1.

While waiting out the raindrops, Kafelnikov tried to relax.

"I came back for an hour, had a little nap, rethought what I had to do. It worked out," he said.

For Kapros, making her French Open debut, things worked out, as well, against an ailing opponent.

"I played one of the best matches I ever played," she said, smiling ear to ear.

Kapros comes from a solid sports background and has traveled the world with her acrobat parents.

Her mother, Aniko Kery, was a member of Hungary's bronze medal gymnastic team at the 1972 Munich Olympics. Her father, Attila, is her coach.

She learned tennis while living in the Bahamas, one of several locations where her parents performed.

Now the 18-year-old and 179th-ranked player has made the second round of a Grand Slam event. And she got there by beating Henin, a player with a sweet backhand and a serve that floats over the net.

"You have to get used to it — that if you get a soft serve, you have to hit it," Kapros said. "She didn't really do that."

A rain delay didn't bother Monica Seles — it actually got her going.

She lost the first five games. But after play was halted in the second set with the score tied, she ran off nine straight games to beat Angeles Montolio 6-7 (4), 6-3, 6-0.

No. 4 Kim Clijsters, last year's runner-up, came back to beat Tatiana Poutchek 3-6, 6-3, 8-6.

"Tough with the rain and wind. But it's tough for both of us," Clijsters said.

Rodriguez cleared for rehab duties

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers catcher Ivan Rodriguez has been cleared to begin a rehab assignment from the back injury that has kept him out since April 15.

Rodriguez was examined by team back specialist Dr. Drew Dossett on Tuesday night, and Dossett gave the 10-time All-Star the OK to report to Port Charlotte, Fla., for extended spring training on Thursday and Friday.

Rodriguez will start by playing designated hitter and catching batting practice.
