DA: $'s to be used for training

More drug money being seized means more money for the 31st District Attorney's office to use for law enforcement purposes that include sending DPS troopers to special "how-to" schools that teach interdiction skills.

District Attorney Rick Roach, before this weekend's latest cash seizure, said there is $778,000 in seized suspected drug money awaiting civil court forfeiture orders.

If all is forfeited, the DA's office will get 30 percent, about $233,000, to use, Roach said. The state gets the remaining 70

None of the money can go to Roach's salary but some of it can be to pay supplements to the DA's staff provided the Gray County Commission gives its approval, he said.

Scott Hahn seeks re-election to office

Scott Hahn is announcing his bid for re-election as Gray County Treasurer in the March 12 Republican Primary.

Hahn, first elected in 1986, is in his fourth term as treasurer. A native of Pampa, Hahn graduated from Pampa High School and received a business degree from Texas Tech University in 1965. In 1970, he earned additional hours toward a Masters of Business Administration degree.

He served four years in the U.S. Army as a Spanish linguist. He retired after more than 20 years of business management prior to being elected County Treasurer.

Hahn said he has achieved the designation of certified County Treasurer (CCT) 14 times since his election which includes 280 continuing education hours, and has been awarded the certification of county investment officer (CIO) each year beginning in 1994. He said more than 210 additional continuing education hours have been required to earn and maintain the CIO status.

He also said he has been elected to serve in every office of the County Treasurers Association of Texas, including president. Hahn served on the board of that organization for three years prior to serving on its executive board. Hahn also has served on the board of directors of the Texas Association of Counties.

Church in Pampa. He has also served as an elder of the First Presbyterian Church.

He is an active member of the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce, Top of Texas Gold Coats Association, Top O'Texas Rodeo Association and Pampa Softball Umpire Association.

He served on the board of the Pampa Municipal Credit Union and has been active in Rotary and Lions Clubs, Genesis House, ACT I Community Theater and the Lake McClellan Improvement Board ³ of Directors. He is an Eagle Scout.

Hahn said as county treasurer, he has tried to be responsive to the needs and ideas of the people of Gray County. He said he has brought the treasurer's office into the computer age, replacing manual bookkeeping and payroll systems with one that is fully automated.

"As your county treasurer, I am proud to have had a part in serving you, the people of Gray County for 15 years. I am proud to say that by working together, we have earned almost $4 million in interest for the citizens of Gray County. These earned dollars certainly help keep county taxes lower," said Hahn. "I am proud that through a highly professional approach to management, your office of county treasurer has been transformed into a model of efficiency

"Recently the commissioners court of Gray County opted to borrow money for the courthouse renovation, the first bond issue in recent memory, and this is not the time to experiment with an unproven. inexperienced county treasurer," he

2002 BOARD OF DIRECTORS

We would like to recognize the Pampa Chamber of Commerce 2002 Board of Directors:

Executive Committee: John Curry, Chairman; Doug Ware, Chairman Elect; Gladys Vanderpool, Treasurer; Charles M. White, Past Chairman; and Harold Price, Vice Chairman.

Directors: Neil Fulton, Lisa Ryan, Norman Stephens, L.W. McCall, Mark Lang, Charles Henry, Royce Jordan, Kathy Cota, Pat Montoya, Ben Watson, Mary Ann Richards, Bill Bridges, and Bill Hildebrandt.

Ex-Officios: Lonny Robbins, Judge Richard Peet, Dick Stowers, Clay Rice.

Dear Members,

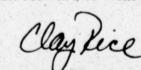

Happy New Year! It's early in 2002 and we are looking forward to what the year will bring. One important question that we should ask ourselves at this time is how we as individuals can contribute to a positive and successful year in the community and in the Chamber. Remember that the power of a Chamber resides in its volunteers. If we are motivated, the sky is the limit for what can be achieved.

Many visitors from outside of Pampa come to our office and rave about how friendly the citizens of Pampa are. This is something that we can all be proud of, but at the same time, we all need to strive to improve so that no one from inside or outside of the community feels unappreciated. There are several key things for all of us to remember such as smiling at people and greeting them in a friendly manner. In addition, being alert to give service shows others that we are interested in them. Please do not hesitate to let us know anytime that we can be of service at the Chamber.

Promoting Pampa is a responsibility that we all share. It should be very easy for us to be positive and anxious to tell people about a community that is such a great place to live, work and play. A short list of attributes include a great school system, low crime rate, superb health care, affordable housing, availability of technology, wide range of youth activities, diversity of churches, a new college facility and great people. 2002 should be about promoting our great way of life to others.

We can be very optimistic about the future of our area, also. New technologies may enable us to profitably utilize more of our existing natural resources. Two resources that come to mind are our infinite supply of wind and solar power. By encouraging growth and development in these and other industries, we may see a future beyond our imaginations. We have been very fortunate to have had a strong economic base of agriculture and oil and gas which will continue to benefit us for many more years. The addition of new industries should help provide a strong economic future.

All of the subjects mentioned above make 2002 and beyond something to look forward to with great anticipation.

Special Smoke Detectors Send Alarm to the Hard-of-Hearing

DEAR ABBY: Your Dec. 21 column featured a letter from a reader who is concerned because an elderly friend is unable to hear the audible signal from his smoke alarm. Your reader is right to be concerned. Smoke alarms provide the early warning of fire that makes it possible to escape. Every household needs working smoke alarms on each level of the home, and all members of the household must be able to react quickly to the alarm.

For people with hearing impairments, special smoke detection devices with louder alarms or strobe lights are available.

In addition to common audiblesignal smoke alarms, many manufacturers now market a wide variety of signaling devices that - when combined - meet the needs of all people. Residents interested in purchasing these devices should contact their local fire department for information on manufacturers and local distributors.

Smoke alarms are an essential element of home fire protection. Everyone should have the life-saving protection afforded by this important technology. Thank you for helping your readers with hearing impairments learn how they can be better GEORGE D. MILLER,

PRESIDENT AND CEO, NATIONAL FIRE PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

DEAR GEORGE: And thank you for continuing to be a valuable resource for my readers and me. My readers will be pleased to know that detailed fact sheets on smoke alarms and other fire protection devices can be downloaded by visiting the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) online at www.nfpa.org.

Not only are smoke alarms with strobe lights as well as audible alarms available, there's even one that can be placed beneath one's pillow or between the mattress and box spring that vibrates when smoke detected.

A magazine called Hearing

Loss, published by Self Help for Hard of Hearing People, 7910 Woodmont Ave., Suite 1200, Bethesda, MD 20814-3015, also keeps subscribers abreast of other safety products such as assisted-living devices, doorbells, special telephones, etc.

Every household needs at least one working fire alarm. The inability to hear one is no longer a reason for not having that kind of essential protection.

DEAR ABBY: My boss, "Adam," is 43. I am 50. We are both divorced. We have become very close during the three years we have worked together. I have two adult children. He has none.

Adam and I spend a great deal of time together - at work and socially - but always on a platonic basis. The problem is, I have fallen in love with him. I realize that an onromance - especially the-job between a boss and a subordinate. would be a big mistake. However, I know he cares a great deal for me, although he does not share my romantic feelings.

Abby, I am having a hard time hiding my emotions when he dates other women. It impacts my work performance. I feel it would be best for me to look for another job. He told me that if I were a true friend I would want him to be happy and to marry someone who could be the mother of his children. I do want Adam to be happy, and I love my job, but I have deep feelings for him. He thinks it is selfish of me to want to leave. Do you?

IT'S TOUGH TO BE IN LOVE BY MYSELF

DEAR IT'S TOUGH: I do not think your desire to leave is selfish. Quite the contrary. It's selfish of him to try to make you feel guilty for wanting to leave. You'd have to be a masochist to stay.

Pauline Phillips and her daughter Jeanne Phillips share the pseudonym Abigail Van Buren. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Dolphins fall to Baltimore, 20-3

Baltimore Ravens will strut, not stagger, into Pittsburgh this time.

The defending Super Bowl champions overwhelmed Miami with a dominating defense and a grinding running attack, and beat the Dolphins 20-3 in a wild-card playoff game Sunday.

The victory set up another rematch with the Steelers (13-

Pittsburgh won the last' meeting between the AFC Central rivals, edging the Ravens 26-21 in Baltimore on Dec. 16. The Ravens were victorious in the first meeting, winning 13-10 at Heinz Field in early November thanks to Kris Brown's four missed field goals.

"Forget the regular season," Baltimore defensive end Peter Boulware said. "What matters is what happens in the playoffs."

It certainly seems that way for the Ravens (11-6), who have won five consecutive postseason games.

They struggled at times during the regular season and needed a win last week over Minnesota to make the playoffs. But they looked like the defending Super Bowl nine.

MIAMI (AP) — The champs against the Dolphins (11-6).

> 'These are the January Ravens," tight end Shannon Sharpe said. "The September, October, November and December Ravens - we got rid of those guys."

For Miami, the ending was painfully familiar. The Dolphins are the only team to reach the playoffs each of the past five years, but they've made an early exit every time by a combined score of 164-16.

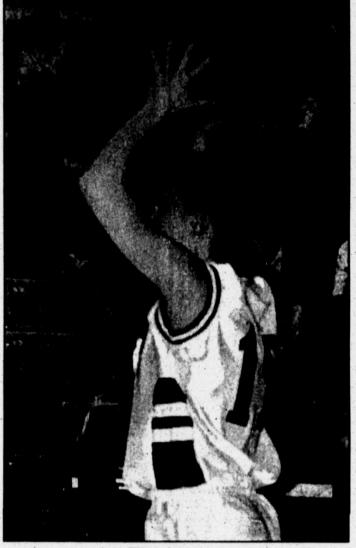

The Dolphins couldn't run and couldn't stop the run against Baltimore, a bad combination that resulted in another lopsided postseason loss.

"You have to ask yourself who you've been fooling all year," Thomas said. "You can say all you want about 11-5. I'd rather be 1-15 for a year and get some people in here.

"I'm tired of being good and not great."

Good wasn't good enough against the Ravens, whose vaunted defense allowed only 151 yards, and Miami's lone score came after Baltimore fumbled the opening kickoff. The Dolphins managed just one first down in the opening 23 minutes and finished with

Houston Madison QB casts lot with Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Texas has landed the oral commitment of a player generally regarded as the nation's top high school prospect — Houston Madison quarterback Vincent Young.

Young, who in three seasons at Houston Madison High School passed for more than 5,000 yards and ran for almost 4,000, visited the University of Texas over the weekend, touring the athletic facilities and talking to Longhorns coach Mack Brown.

His decision on Sunday ended speculation that had surrounded the 6-5, 200pounder with the cannon-like right arm since he began making headlines in 1999 as the Marlins' wiry, but undeniably talented sophomore quarterback

Young decided before heading home Sunday to orally commit. Oral commitments are nonbinding. The first day a football player can sign a national letter of intent is Feb.

"Coach Brown came in and told me they don't want me to play any other position but quarterback," Young said. "That's all I needed to hear. I liked the school, but I want to exit the building when he was play quarterback. And I can do recognized by a group of fans, that at Texas.

Young led the West to a 26-6 victory over the East on Jan. 5 in the U.S. Army All-American Bowl, a national high school all-star game. played in San Antonio. He was 4-of-9 for 79 yards and added 74 yards on the ground in 10 carries and was namedthe game's Most Valuable Player.

After that game, Young said he had narrowed his list of prospective colleges to Texas, Miami, Arkansas and Southern Miss. By the time he left for his weekend official visit to the UT campus, it was down to Miami and Texas.

It was halftime of Saturday night's Texas-Baylor basketball game when Longhorns with all of my visits, but they fans received a good sign literally — that Young was headed their way.

He. was making his way across the Erwin Center floor to the tunnel so that he could who proceeded to ask about his college plans.

Young, wearing an orange sweat suit, simply smiled and raised his hand with index and pinkie fingers extended. His 'Hook 'em, Horns" sign said Young told the Houston Chronicle he knew he was going to commit to UT after Saturday night's basketball game, when Longhorns wide receiver B.J. Johnson, Young's host for the weekend, took him to Sixth Street, where Young was approached by even more Texas fans.

"I love when the fans show that kind of love," Young said. "I wasn't planning on committing until I was through showed me everything I needed to see and another thing was to see my uncle and my mother smiling (throughout the trip)."

Young's mother, Felicia, and an uncle, Keith Young, also made the weekend trip.

In evaluating UT and Miami, Young conceded that the decision Thursday of Florida backup quarterback Brock Berlin to transfer to Miami played a part in his decision.

"I was waiting to see what he was going to do, but I was still going to go to Austin," Young said. "When I got there, everything was beautiful (and) the academics and all that was perfect."

Young has said in the past he wants to redshirt his freshman season. That well could happen at UT, where starting quarterback Chris Sims still has two seasons of eligibility, barring an early declaration for the NFL draft.

Packers post wild-card win over 49ers

- Just when Terrell Owens was about to break the Packers' hearts with late heroics again, Mike McKenzie did what Green Bay couldn't three years ago.

With the Packers clinging to an 18-15 lead with just under five minutes left Sunday, Owens got behind McKenzie and was wide open down the right sideline for the go-ahead score.

But Jeff Garcia's pass hung ever so slightly and McKenzie closed in to punch the ball away and right into the hands of fellow cornerback Tyrone Williams at the Green Bay 7.

Brett Favre then engineered an eight-play, 93-yard touchdown drive that sealed Green Bay's 25-15 wild-card victory and secured a trip to St. Louis for the semifinals.

'I'm not going to sit here and say I tried to tap it to

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) Tyrone," McKenzie said. "But I definitely was able to get a good play on the ball and I was able to kind of tap it up in the air." Besides, the Packers (13-4) will take a lucky bounce after what happened the last time these teams met in a playoff. On Jan. 3, 1999, Owens caught a 25-yard touchdown pass in the midst of four defenders with three seconds left to give the 49ers a 30-27 wild-card victory over Green

The remarkable reception quickly became known as "The Catch II," in San Francisco after the original, Dwight Clark's game-winner against Dallas in the 1982 NFC championship.

"That would have been like The Catch III," 49ers coach Steve Mariucci lamented. "McKenzie got his hand up at the end and the darn ball bounced into their player's hands, and that doesn't happen very often.

McKenzie acknowledged his fortune, from the lucky bounce to the fortuitous manner in which Garcia floated the pass after Owens beat him off the line of scrimmage.

"He was so wide-open, so I believe Garcia said, 'This is easy pickings.' He didn't want to overthrow him," McKenzie said.

McKenzie's play came two weeks after he sealed a victory over Minnesota with an interception return for a touchdown, which helped the Packers secure a home playoff game, where they improved to 13-0.

This one meant much more, "That was a huge play in the football game for us and obviously for them," Packers coach Mike Sherman said. "They were getting into scoring position and were marching right down the field."

Smith, a U.S. Army National Guard member since 1979, is currently serving his country, but was home briefly at Thanksgiving. He and the fourth-graders are pen pals. He is shown here with his family — his son Daniel, a fourth-grader at Wilson, his daughter, Layce, a third-grader, and his wife, Carla.

Dumas EDC under fire for bylaw change

DUMAS (AP) — Officials with the Dumas Economic Development Corp. want to dispel the suspicion of some residents that they changed their bylaws to protect themselves from voters angry about possible compensation for a pork processing plant.

A special meeting of the DEDB board of directors has been called for Monday after resident Arlie Bownds spearheaded a petition drive to dissolve the DEDC.

"We wanted to lay out our involvement for the proposed Seaboard plant," said Brian Walters, DEDC executive Seaboard Farms, which is looking for a plant site, visited December. Dumas in Questions have been raised about the DEDC's decision to change its bylaws after that meeting.

Shortly after the December visit, the board voted to change its bylaws to a corporation that allows communities to spend money on civic projects not allowed under the old longer an option, he intended to proceed with the petition and present it to the city council. More than 400 have signed the petition, he said.

Bownds said he had received more than 100 emails from angry citizens.

"People are just furious that the citizens are being left out of the process," Bownds said. "It's all a sham, a bunch of people that are businessmen pushing this thing through."

Walters said the accusations were unfounded.

"A group of volunteers collected bylaws from (economic development corporations) around the region, and Bownds said that while unknowingly wrote bylaws" that eliminated the possibility DEDC on the ballot was no of voter dissolution, he said.

Should Seaboard locate a plant in Dumas, Walters said the DEDC capital incentives committee would make $400,000 available to help cover infrastructure costs and encourage building of housing, and $40,000 for parks and other amenities and to cover costs that would result from the location of a pork processing facility.

Walters said the DEDC has helped with Seaboard's efforts to establish local contacts, make project-specific requests and acquire information pertinent to such requests.

The DEDC also conducted an impact study on the possibility of a proposed Seaboard plant to be located 10 to 15 miles south of Dumas.

And, by law, the county commission can't cut its contribution to the DA's budget based upon the availability of seized money. When Roach became district attorney a little over a year ago, he said there was $1,200 in the drug fund, he said.

"I told the commissioners that I would be extremely aggressive in tapping this resource that had been ignored," Roach said, attributing that to "not as much cooperation" previously

attended using drug money have paid off in

"I want to encourage that (school attendance)," he said. "They learn about how dope and money is concealed ... how to get it out of circulation."

The seizures, Roach said, "are a real good deal for the taxpayers. It buys equipment, supplies, training and we support Project Graduation to keep kids off the streets that night ... from drinking and driving."

A new piece of equipment that will soon be in the DPS arsenal will be a density meter that troopers can use on vehicles to aid in the Roach said the schools troopers have search for hidden drugs or money, he said.

Blast blamed on Israel; leading militant killed

TULKAREM, West Bank (AP) — A Palestinian militia leader who admitted killing Israelis and survived an Israeli missile attack on his car last year was killed in a bomb explosion outside his West Bank hide-out Monday.

Palestinian officials accused Israel of planting the bomb to sabotage truce efforts. Israel refused to comment on the Palestinian allegations but said the militia leader, Raed Karmi, 27, was responsible for the shooting deaths of nine Israelis.

"A man like this is a like a ticking bomb," Israeli Transport Minister Ephraim Sneh told Army Radio. "He who lives by the sword, dies by the sword." Israel has killed dozens of suspected Palestinian militants in targeted attacks in the past 16 months of fighting. The killings were intended as a deterrent, but often trigger, Palestinian revenge attacks.

Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, meanwhile, said Israel has decided to stop demolishing Palestinian homes in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. The decision came after stormy debate in Israel over the army's demolition of dozens of buildings in the Rafah refugee camp in Gaza last week. U.N. officials have said the Israeli raid left hundreds of Palestinians homeless. The Israeli military contends the buildings. served as cover for gunmen and arms smug-

The demolition ban does not apply to Arab neighborhoods of east Jerusalem, where nine Palestinian homes were razed Monday because they were built without permits. Palestinians say building permits are a tool for population control, and that the Jerusalem municipality rarely grants them to Arab residents. The Palestinians want to establish a capital in east Jerusalem, which Israel captured in the 1967 Mideast war and annexed to its capi-

Karmi, the apparent target of Monday's explosion in the West Bank town of Tulkarem, was the local leader of the Al Aqsa Brigades, a group of gunmen linked to Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's Fatah movement.

Karmi had admitted involvement in shooting attacks on Israelis, including the killings of two Tel Aviv restaurant owners a year ago in Tulkarem. In September, Karmi, narrowly escaped death when Israeli helicopters fired missiles at his car, killing two passengers, both members of his militia. He had just left his Tulkarem hide-out, near the local cemetery, when a bomb hidden near a tree went off, one of his friends said on condition of anonymity. The tree and the wall of the cemetery were damaged.

Karmi's friends carried his body through the streets, clamoring for revenge and firing in the Faeq Kanaan, the Fatah leader in Tulkarem, said Karmi's killing would make it difficult for his group to continue complying with Arafat's Dec. 16 truce call. "We believe the Israelis don't want a truce," Kanaan said.

Israel suspended targeted killings after Arafat declared last month that he would work hard to prevent attacks on Israelis. Past killings of Palestinian militants have triggered revenge attacks and further Israeli reprisals.

Contracts to Be Let for Two Business Structures on North Cuyler Street

Pampa's 1931 building program, predicted as the heaviest yet re-corded in annual permits, will get under way Monday when contracts for two structures to close the gap on the west side of North Cuyler in the 200 block will be let by August Gordon and C. P. Buckler.

Two prizes of $7.50 and $5.00 See POULTRY, Tage 2 Taking advantage of the con-
