By NANCY YOUNG MANAGING EDHOR

Local veterinarians don't want to have another rabies outbreak similar to 2001 in which 17 cases of the disease were diagnosed within the Pampa city limits. All of the rabid animals were skunks.

Eliminating rabies in the Pampa and Gray County area is a goal of the three local veterinarians, and the annual Rabies Drive kicks off today to begin that effort.

The 2002 event begins today at the offices of Easley Animal Hospital, Loop 171 & Texas 70; Gray County Veterinary Clinic, 1329 S. Hobart; and Royse Animal Hospital, 1939 N. Hobart. Hours of the drive may be obtained by contacting the individual clinics.

Several family pets were required to be euthanized during 2001 and 2002 because they came in contact with the rabid animals and had not been vaccinated against the disease.

The latest reported case of rabies in Pampa was identified in early March on Rider Street. On Feb. 28 a dead skunk was found in the vard of a home in the 300 block of Rider Street. The animal was sent to Austin to be tested for the fatal disease. Upon arrival of animal control officers, the skunk appeared to have been "wallowed on the ground," by three dogs which were also with the skunk in the yard, said Burns. Two of the dogs had received the required rabies vaccination, but the third had not. After the state notified Pampa Animal Control of the positive rabies case, she said the third dog was euthanized.

Burns has expressed concern about domestic animals who have not been vaccinated for rabies.

"These family pets can transmit the rabies by either a bite or saliva to humans," she said. "I don't want a rabies case in a family pet, but I sure don't want it in a child."

State officials to investigate cause of blaze

A state fire marshal will investigate to determine the cause of a Thursday night fire that destroyed a Freightliner tractor owned by Billy Scribner, said Chief Sheriff's Deputy Kelly Rushing.

Authorities were notified about 10 p.m. of the fire at Scribner's business, Billy Scribner Welding, 2201 W, U.S. Highway 60 at Price Road

According to Pampa Fire Department reports, two units and six firefighters were called to extinguish the blaze at 10:01 p.m. Thursday. When they arrived on the scene, the truck's cab and engine compartment were fully involved. No injuries were reported.

Firefighters turned the scene over to Gray County Sheriff's Office, who then called in the state fire marshal's office.

Gunman kills self after fatally shooting officer

SHIVE, Texas (AP) - The man sought in the slaying of a Limestone County sheriff's deputy following a shootout with authorities was found dead Friday apparently by suicide.

Searchers found the body Friday morning of Marshall Tilman Tallent, 34, near the house where the shootout occurred, said Tela Mange, a Texas Department of Public Safety spokeswoman.

In addition to the dead officer, two others were wounded in the gunfight Thursday at the house in a rural area of Hamilton County, about 55 miles west of Waco.

That prompted a search by about 100 officers from several law enforcement agencies Friday morning.

The name of the dead officer has not been released.

The two injured officers, Trooper James David Jones and Lampasas County deputy Bob Montgomery, were in serious condition Friday at Scott & White Hospital in Temple, said hospital spokesman Renfro Carranza. Jones underwent surgery for a gunshot wound to the arm, and Montgomery was treated for a bullet wound in the head.

THE PAMPA NEWS - FRIDAY, MAY 3, 2002 - 3

FBI warned in July of Mideasterners in U.S. flight schools

hijackings, an FBI agent in Arizona alerted Washington headquarters that several Middle Easterners were training at a U.S. aviation school and recommended contacting other schools nationwide where Arabs might be studying.

'FBIHQ should discuss this matter with other elements of the U.S. intelligence community and task the community for any information that supports Phoenix's suspicions," the agent recommended in the memo obtained by The Associated Press.

The FBI sent the intelligence to its terrorism experts in Washington and New York for analysis and had begun discussing conducting a nationwide canvass of flight schools when the Sept. 11 tragedies occurred, officials told AP.

At least one leader of the 19 hijackers, Hani Hanjour, received flight training in Arizona in 2001 but his name had not surfaced in the FBI intelligence from Arizona, the officials said.

None of the Middle Eastern men identified by the Arizona counterterrorism agents or any information contained in their July 2001 memo pointed to the suicide plot that leveled the World Trade Center and killed thousands in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania, officials said.

"None of the people identified by Phoenix are connected to the Sept. 11 attacks," FBI Assistant Director John Collingwood said Thursday night.

"The Phoenix communication went to appropriate operational agents and analysts but it did not lead to uncovering the impending attacks," Collingwood said.

Officials said FBI counterterrorism agents in Phoenix were suspicious why several Arab men were seeking airport operations, security information and pilot training. The agents rec-

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two months before the suicide ommended that the FBI begin alerting local offices when Middle Easterners sought visas for training at local aeronautical schools

> "FBIHQ should consider seeking the necessary authority to obtain visa information from the USDOS (State Department) on individuals obtaining visas to attend these types of schools and notify the appropriate FBI field office when these individuals are scheduled to arrive in their area of responsibility," the memo said.

> The FBI's concerns about the U.S. flight schools is the latest revelation about information, much of it sketchy, that the government possessed before Sept. 11 concerning the possibility of terrorism in the skies. For example:

> -AP reported last month that Filipino authorities alerted the FBI as early as 1995 that several Middle Eastern pilots were training at American flight schools and at least one had proposed hijacking a commercial jet and crashing it into federal buildings.

> -A month after the 2001 memo from Arizona to FBI headquarters, FBI agents in Minnesota arrested a French citizen of Moroccan descent, Zacarias Moussaoui, after a flight school instructor became suspicious of his desire to learn to fly a commercial jet.

> Moussaoui has since emerged as the single most important defendant in the post-Sept. 11 terrorism investigation, charged with conspiring with the hijackers and Osama bin Laden to kill thousands of Americans. Prosecutors are seeking the death penalty.

> -About the same time as the Phoenix memo and Moussaoui's arrest, U.S. intelligence issued a late summer warning that there was heightened risk of a terrorist attack on Americans, possibly even on U.S. soil, officials have said.

Law enforcement officials said in retrospect the FBI believes it should have accelerated the suggested check of U.S. flight schools after Moussaoui's arrest but does not believe it would have led to the hijackers FBI officials said a supervisory agent in Arizona wrote a several-page memo to FBI headquarters in July 2001 laying out information his counterterrorism team had developed in an unrelated investigation. A portion of the memo dealt with an Arizona flight school, officials said.

The memo indicated agents were suspicious about why several nonresident Arab men were seeking training at a commercial aeronautical school in Prescott, Ariz.

Collingwood said the men "were enrolled in various aspects of civil aviation engineering, airport operations and pilot training." The agents were particularly concerned that some were attempting to learn about airport security operations, officials said.

The Phoenix memo urged FBI headquarters to assemble a list of U.S. aviation academies and to instruct field offices across the country to make "appropriate liaison" with their local schools where other Middle Easterners might be training.

The information was shared with intelligence analysts who monitored terrorist threats and was even sent to the FBI office in New York that had the most experience with terrorism cases, officials said.

After the suicide attacks, the FBI quickly descended upon flight schools nationwide, identifying academies in Florida, Arizona and elsewhere where the leaders of the 19 hijackers trained.

Mideast peace conference in works

WASHINGTON (AP) -An international peace conference is being planned for early summer, probably in Europe, to try to resolve the Arab-Israeli conflict. The crucial session could be held without Yasser Arafat.

Secretary of State Colin Powell announced the move Thursday with the support of U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan, leaders of the European Union and Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov.

Powell said one of the goals would be to clear "the political way forward" to a Palestinian state.

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said Friday that foreign ministers would head the delegations to the peace talks. Asked if Arafat was an essential party to any peace talks, Fleischer said "that remains to be seen."

Arafat, at his headquarters in eign ministers' conference might get around that issue.

At the White House, meanwhile, President Bush said Thursday that a Palestinian state must be democratic and free of corruption.

"A Palestinian state must be based on the principles that are critical to freedom and prosperity: democracy and open markets, the rule of law, transparent and accountable administration and respect for individual liberties and civil society," Bush said at a news conference after meeting with European leaders.

The EU's current president, Spanish Prime Minister Jose Maria Aznar, will be the president's guest this weekend at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

Congress entered the equation in a big way Thursday by adopting resolutions in both chambers giving unqualified support for Israel and condemnation of Palestinian terror. Both nonbinding measures said the United States and Israel are "now engaged in a common struggle against terrorism."

persuade Sharon to dismantle Jewish settlements, towns in overwhelmingly Arab areas where tens of thousands of Jews live, many for decades," replied: "There will have to be a cessation of new settlements and something will have to be done about the settlements that are there now." All this reflected a rapidly accelerating drive by the Bush administration to solve the Arab-Israeli conflict by pressuring Israel to give up territory in exchange for promises of peace and security.

Such a land-for-peace deal was the basis of the 1993 Oslo Accords, in which Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization recognized each other and began negotiating for final peace. That process fell apart last year.

An international conference could magnify the pressure on Israel, long the target of criticism in Europe as well as the from Israeli confinement. "Mr. Arafat, I hope, will understand that he doesn't have many more chances to seize this kind of opportunity," Powell said.

Bush, too, demanded that Arafat "show he can lead."

"I'm optimistic we're making good progress," the president said. "After all, a week ago, Yasser Arafat was boarded up in this building in Ramallah. ... He's now free to show leadership.'

Powell, alluding to the rapidly changing situation, told reporters: "This is a time for prompt action to take advantage of this new window of opportunity that has been presented to us, and we intend to do just that."

A bloody skirmish at the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem dampened hopes for prodding Israel and the Palestinians into negotiations.

spokesman said Bush's Arafat "is the person we are working with" but the Palestinian leader's dedication to action and not just words "is something the president is measuring and watching."

"The president does believe that the Palestinian people deserve better," Fleischer said.

The House version was much more outspoken against the Palestinians. It mentioned Arafat by name and accused him of an "ongoing support of terror" in the wave of bombings against Israelis this spring. The White House interceded and had some success in tempering the language of both measures.

RELIGION

Pampa's Catholic youth have mission to accomplish

By PAM ZEMANEK for The Pampa News.

Mission work is just a part of the picture for the youth at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic parish here in Pampa. They believe that it is important to put their faith into action, and action is just what they have seen over the last several years!

In the summer of 1995, a then-newlyformed group responding to a call from their associate pastor rolled up their sleeves and gathered up rakes to assist a couple of widowed parishioners to clear debris from their yards left from the tornado.

Throughout that day and into the next they and dozens of different kinds of books on the life of this planet's all-time supreme inhabitant.

One particular category of books which I have found to be such a blessing is that of "harmonies of the four gospels". I would like to share a few things about this category of books to encourage you to go out and buy a "book blessing".

Take note that it is very helpful to know that there are several different types of "harmonies of the four gospels." The most common type chronologically places every verse of each of the four gospels into one of four different side-by-side columns and these are usually referred to as "parallel" harmonies.

There also is the type that places every verse of each of the four gospels into chronological order with Matthew's account listed first, then monies. This type also lists everything in chronological order, but instead of listing every verse in all four gospels, these books combine the common events and teachings into a single narrative with all of the details from all four gospels.

For example: consider the feeding of the 5,000. It is recorded in all four gospels, but in a "blended" harmony there is only one account of the miracle, but it contains all of the details from all four gospels. No details or alternate wordings are left out.

This type of harmony gives the reader all of the story in one reading. It requires no jumping back and forth between the various accounts in order to get "the rest of the story." For me the power and impact of getting the whole story in one reading cannot be over stated. Unfortunately almost all of ese types of harmonies are currently out of print and must be purchased from used book sources. However, if you are willing to do the searching, I would like to make a few recommendations.

If you are a fan of the NIV, then I would recommend Kermit Zarley's "The Gospel."

"Volunteering has helped me grow in my faith because it helps me to see life through others eyes and learn from them. It also allows me to be a servant of God," Valerie Velez added.

'Volunteering for church activities has helped build our faith because not only do we get to talk about our faith, but we get to put our faith into action," said Jay Gerber.

More service and adventure awaits them as they make final plans for Vacation Bible School to share with youth in the Diocese, this year's mission trip as well as a trip to Toronto, Canada to celebrate World Youth Day in July.

While in Canada they have hopes to see the Pope and join together with other Catholic youth from all around the world.

It is said that love is a universal language, one that can be shared with a smile. They have loved their parish family, served their community of Pampa, had many experiences far and wide, as well as shared and received many, many smiles of different colors, shapes and sizes.

To prepare for these trips the youth have several fund-raisers planned to raise the much-needed financial assistance that

Opposition party in Bahamas sweeps election in major upset

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) The opposition party in the Bahamas regained control of the government in a major election upset 10 years after it was forced from power in a scandal over drug money.

The rout of the governing Free National Movement in Thursday's elections appeared to reflect charges by the Liberal Progressive Party that it had ignored the needs of the smaller islands and poorer people in this sprawling archipelago of more than 700 islands and 300,000 residents.

"Our strike concept is so responsibly put together that through these flexible strikes no jobs will be endangered, but nonetheless the necessary pressure will be exerted on the employers in order to get a fair result at the bargaining table," said Berthold Huber, the head of the Baden-Wuerttemberg regional union.

Rangers extend winning streak to five games

Toronto Blue Jays can look at it this way: They lost their eighth straight game but not many noticed.

On a night when the city's Maple Leafs and Raptors were in playoff games — and losing the Blues Jays were beaten Thursday before a crowd of 13,011, the second smallest in SkyDome history.

The Texas Rangers won 5-3 to extend their winning streak to a season-high five games.

"It's always embarrassing when the organization goes through a stretch like this, and it's my challenge to turn this around," Toronto manager Buck Martinez said.

Toronto, which tied a season-high with three errors, has lost eight in a row for the first time since June 1995.

"There isn't a a whole lot of positives when you lose eight in a row," Martinez said. "Everyone is trying too hard to come up with a big hit. The veterans are going to turn it around. They are going through a tough stretch."

Toronto's Carlos Delgado is hitting .267, Jose Cruz Jr. .227 and Raul Mondesi .198.

The slumping Blue Jays have helped the Rangers turn around their early season funk.

PGA Tour.

He's off to a good start. Forsman took advantage of an early tee time on the wind-swept English Turn course, shooting a 7-underpar 65 Thursday for the firstround lead at the Compaq Classic.

"Anytime you shoot under par on a Jack Nicklaus signature course, which this is, in conditions like this, you've played a great round of golf," Forsman said. "And I feel that way now."

Rich Beem was in second place at 67. Stewart Cink and Dudley Hart were among a group of eight at 68, and defending champion David Toms shot a 69.

We started first, there was no doubt that was a definite advantage because there was still some moisture on the ground," Forsman said. "I think the big difference this afternoon is that (the greens) are so hard and baked that it's treacherous around the hole.'

Forsman, who won the last of his four PGA Tour titles in 1992, backed off three times because of the wind before sinking a 12-foot birdie putt on No. 18, worried that the wind would steer it off course. But it was his putting - only 24 putts on the day - gave him the lead. "I haven't had a 24-putt round in quite some time," Forsman said.

Beem, who teed off an hour after Forsman, shot a 29 on his first nine, then ran into the wind and had a 38 on the last nine.

"It's my lowest nine in competition," Beem said. "I've probably shot it out messing around with my buddies, but certainly not in competition."

winner wowed the Joe Louis Arena crowd with many of his 23 saves en route to his eighth playoff shutout. Brett Hull and Pavel Datsyuk scored for Detroit.

"They tried to be physical, but my defense did a very good job in front of me," Hasek said. "Twice on the power play, I think they hit the post. I was very lucky."

Detroit fans began questioning the club's $8 million investment in Hasek after he allowed eight goals as the Red Wings dropped the first two games in their first-round series against Vancouver.

Detroit rallied to take four straight from the Canucks and set up this series, its first playoff meeting with St. Louis since 1998.

"The first game in the (Vancouver) series, the bounces didn't go our way. Tonight they did," Detroit coach Scotty Bowman said.

Added Hull, who speaks as concisely as he shoots, "We'll take those."

Game 2 in the best-ofseven series is Saturday in Detroit.

In another series opener, Ottawa routed Toronto 5-0.

"In the playoffs, a shutout doesn't mean a thing," Hasek said. "It's just important that we win some games at home."

Detroit took a 2-0 lead with 56 seconds left in the second period on Hull's second shorthanded goal of the playoffs.

With Sergei Fedorov off for slashing, Hull carried the puck in from deep inside his zone with Steve Yzerman trailing down the right side. Hull's wrist shot dribbled off the leg of goalie Brent Johnson, but he hit the rebound into the net for his fourth playoff goal.

"You don't really set up to score short-handed goals," Yzerman said. "They just kind of happen. But certainly that's a big goal for us."

The Red Wings opened the scoring at 12:20 of the first on Datsyuk's first career postseason goal.

Datsyuk took a rebound off sideboards, skated the between two defenders to the inside of the left faceoff circle and flipped the puck over Johnson's left shoulder.

Nets win first playoff series in 18 years

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - The greatest NBA season in New Jersey Nets history is still alive - all because they found a way to withstand everything Reggie Miller could conjure.

The Nets survived a questionable game-tying 3-pointer by Miller at the end of regulation Thursday night to defeat the Indiana Pacers 120-109 night in a riveting Game 5 of their first-round series.

Jason Kidd scored 20 of his 31 points — a career playoff high - in the fourth quarter and two overtimes for the Nets, who won their first playoff series in 18 years.

"This is one for the ages," Pacers coach Isiah Thomas said. "I think people are going to talk about this one for a long, long time.

"There were a lot of great players, a lot of great plays. There was drama, there were ups and downs. It's what NBA basketball is all about. It really was a fantastic game." There were dozens of plays to rémember, the most dramatic being the 35-foot turnaround 3-pointer that Miller banked in near the buzzer to make it 96-96 One TV replay showed that it barely beat the clock, while another showed the ball in his hands with the red light clearly on under the basket.

"I thought it was a little late 'also," Nets coach Byron Scott said. "Referees are human and make mistakes. Fortunately, that didn't cost us."

It didn't because Kidd showed all his MVP-type qualities in refusing to let the Nets lose. He eventually helped put the game away, igniting a 5-0 run at the start of the second overtime that the Pacers never overcame.

"I've seen that all season long," Scott said of Kidd, who played 33 of 34 minutes after halftime. "He never pressed the issue and controlled the play. He showed tonight why he's the points and Keith Van Horn had 27 before fouling out as the Nets advanced to a best-ofseven Eastern Conference semifinal against the Charlotte Hornets, starting in New Jersey on Sunday/

Detroit also advanced to the Eastern Conference semifinal, beating Toronto 85-82 in Game 5. The Pistons will play the winner of Friday's night's deciding Game 5 between Philadelphia and Boston.

Seattle and the Spurs also will meet in a Game 5'at San Antonio on Friday. A Western Conference semifinal will open Saturday with Dallas at Sacramento.

Miller had 31 points, in almost single-handedly leading the Pacers over the top-seeded Nets. Ron Mercer added 20.

But the 3-pointer at the end of regulation was Miller at his most riveting.

Nets rookie Richard Jefferson had a chance to put eighth-seeded Indiana away when he got two free throws / with five seconds to play and the Nets ahead 96-93. Jefferson missed both and Kevin Ollie got the ball upcourt quickly. He threw cross court to Miller, who turned under defensive pressure and banked in a bullet.

"That was an unbelievable shot," Thomas said. "He's one of the greatest clutch players I've ever seen, if not the greatest. He's right up there with (Michael) Jordan. He pushes a button and just keeps going."

Miller, however, could not produce an encore in the second overtime, missing all four of his shots, including three 3-pointers

"In this area, people think I'm the Boogieman of the playground, some myth who makes big plays," Miller said. "But I just love playing. I should have been more selfish down the stretch and took more shots. I put others in the position to make plays and that's why we lost.'

Cubs' Sosa homers twice for second straight game

By The Associated Press

Sammy Sosa is starting to come around, and the Chicago Cubs hope they do, too.

Sosa homered in consecutive at-bats, giving him four in two games, as the Chicago Cubs beat the San Diego Padres 6-1 Thursday to stop a five-game losing streak.

"We've been waiting for it for a while," Chicago manager Don Baylor said. "I know he has, too. When he starts hitting, he is scary to watch because he knows he's going to hit it. We'll take 'em because it means a lot of victories for us.'

Sosa took over the major league lead with 12 homers, one ahead of Houston's Lance Berkman and Florida's Cliff. Floyd. Sosa also moved into a tie with Jose Canseco for 22nd on the career list with 462, one more than Ken Griffey Jr.

"We lost the first two games and today we came out with intensity and got it into our heads that we need some runs," Sosa said. "When you have that attitude, really, you've got something. We played some great ball today."

In other games, it was: Colorado 7, Pittsburgh 2; Los Angeles 3, Cincinnati 2 in 14 innings; Arizona 7, New York at Dodger Stadium and Los singled with one out in the 3; Florida 9, St. Louis 6; Atlanta 3. Milwaukee 2 in 10 innings; and Houston 8, Montreal 2.

At San Diego, Moises Alou and Alex Gonzalez also connected for the Cubs (9-17). All four homers came off Brett Tomko (2-2).

Kerry Wood (3-2) allowed one run and three hits in six innings, struck out three and walked three. Jeff Fassero and Joe Borowski finished the fourhitter.

Dodgers 3, Reds 2, 14 innings

Adrian Beltre hit an RBI single with one out in the 14th Angeles won in its first extrainning game of the season. Dodgers relievers retired the last 17 Cincinnati batters. Giovanni Carrara (1-0) got the win.

Shawn Green began the 14th with an infield single off Luis Pineda (0-2). Pineda then left the game complaining of dizziness and weakness.

With Green on second, Beltre lifted an opposite-field fly to short right and Ruben Mateo missed on a diving try.

Rockies 7, Pirates 2

John Thomson (4-2) didn't allow a hit until Armando Rios seventh; and Colorado improved to 6-0 under new manager Clint Hurdle.

Colorado, on its longest winning streak since May 27 to June 2, 2000, set a team pitching record with 24 consecutive scoreless innings before Jason Kendall's RBI single in the seventh.

Kent Mercker and Dennys Reyes combined for hitless relief, with Reyes striking out the side in the ninth at Coors Field.

Ron Villone (2-4) gave up all seven runs - five earned - and eight hits in 6 2-3 innings. Pittsburgh has lost a season-high four straight and seven of nine.

Diamondbacks 7, Mets 3

Greg Colbrunn doubled, singled home the go-ahead run and scored twice, helping end visiting New York's six-game winning streak.

Shawn Estes (1-3) pitched a one-hitter in his previous start, retiring the first 18 batters against Milwaukee. Against the Diamondbacks, he gave up five runs and eight hits in five innings.

Spurs' Duncan still a question mark for tonight's deciding tilt

SAN ANTONIO (AP) -The San Antonio Spurs now know what it's like to play in the postseason without both Tim Duncan and David Robinson. The experience was about as dismal as they imagined it would be, and worse, they may have to go through it again.

It's possible the Spurs will still have neither of their two 7footers for tonight's deciding game in the best-of-five playoff series against Seattle.

The SuperSonics, led by Gary Payton's triple-double, built a huge lead early and then held on for a 91-79 win in KeyArena on Wednesday to knot the series at 2-2. The series winner advances to a secondround matchup against the defending NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Duncan, the team's top scorer, rebounder and shotblocker, traveled to his native Virgin Islands this week to mourn his father William, who died Monday at age 71 following a long illness. Spurs coach Gregg Popovich said Wednesday that Duncan, averaging 27 points, 12 rebounds and five blocks per game in the playoffs, was trying his best to get back for Game 5 in the Alamodome, but that his presence wasn't yet certain.

Popovich professed that he couldn't tell how Duncan's absence affected his team.

"I'm not a psychiatrist," he said. "I just deal with reality The shots didn't go in.

San Antonio's shooting from the floor was as low as 16 percent in the first half and ended at 33 percent (27-for-82). Seattle made half of its shots (34-for-68) on the night.

If Duncan is in uniform Friday, the Sonics can expect to see a charged-up opponent.

"We'll be very emotional for him," said Spurs guard Antonio Daniels. "It'll be different at home in the Alamodome full of fans."

Seattle forward Vin Baker said his team shouldn't be thinking about Duncan being on the court or not.

"We've got to come out and high for a rebound.

19 colts ready for a fasten-your-seat-belts Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) -Trainers from California to Ireland to Dubai cling to the belief they'll win the Kentucky Derby, a race in which many doubt the ability of the 19 colts.

Take Hall of Famer Bobby Frankel, who will saddle Medaglia d'Oro on Saturday. The 3-year-old with the Italian name was second in the Wood Memorial, but has run in just four career races.

talent," Frankel said. "Which would you rather have, a horse who could run or a horse who had run a lot? Talent makes up for a lot of things. Or how about two-time Derby winner Bob Baffert? He acquired Illinois Derby winner War Emblem just three weeks ago. other entry, His Danthebluegrassman, is one of four colts at 50-1 on the morning line.

"If this horse wins the Derby, it'll be the best and shortest training job ever." Baffert said about War Emblem. "He's as ready as he can be.'

Three months of prep races around the world failed to produce a compelling favorite, leaving the Derby picture as muddled as the Churchill Downs 'track after heavy downpours Thursday.

The field was reduced to 19 early Friday when Buddha was withdrawn with a bruised left front foot. The Wood Memorial winner with a three-race win streak was a 5-1 co-second choice on the morning line. Harlan's Holiday is the early favorite at 9-2, but even those odds are the highest since the morning line was first published in 1949.

"It doesn't matter to me what his odds are," trainer Ken McPeek said. "I know he is going to run well."

The knock on Harlan's Holiday is that he's an Ohio-bred, and the state hasn't produced a Derby winner since Wintergreen in 1909.

"The Derby is a Pandora's box because you never know what is going to happen," said Edgar Prado, who'll ride Harlan's Holiday.

The 19-horse field is a bettor's delight but guarantees a rough running that will leave several horses with excuses

"There's 10 good horses in there that can win," Baffert said.

Three of the biggest question marks are foreigners, who didn't follow the traditional route of running in American prep races. Irish-based Johannesburg and his stablemate, Castle Gandolfo, have been 70 miles away in Lexington since arriving Tuesday. They won't travel to Churchill Downs until about 8 1/2 hours before the Derby's 6:04 p.m. EDT post time. Trainer Aidan O'Brien's plans are less certain. He's had the flu for a week and his doctor is reluctant to allow him to fly to Louisville. A final decision was expected Friday. An assistant is supervising Johannesburg and Castle Gandolfo in O'Brien's absence.

Sheik Mohammed's Essence of Dubai won the UAE Derby at 1 1/4 miles, the Kentucky Derby distance, in his last start March 23

"At least we know he can go the distance," said Tom Albertrani, the American assistant to trainer Saeed bin Suroor.

Redding pitches Astros by Expos Horoscope SUNDAY, MAY 5, 2002

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston catcher Gregg Zaun made sure Tim Redding changed his attitude on the mound — and the results on the scoreboard.

Redding, hit hard in his first two starts after being recalled from the minors, pitched six strong innings and benefited from Craig Biggio's 30th career leadoff homer as the Astros beat the Montreal Expos 8-2 Thursday.

'He kind of got in my face and said he wasn't messing around anymore," Redding said of Zaun. "He told me not to put my head down anymore.

'He said he wanted me to just throw as hard as I can every pitch and not worry about anything else."

Zaun's strong words paid off.

"We talked about it a little when he threw in the bullpen in Atlanta," Zaun said. "I just told him I wasn't going to sit out there too long and watch him not be aggressive."

Redding cranked up his 95 mph fastball and gave up just one run and two hits. He struck out six.

Redding lost his bid to beat out Carlos Hernandez for the fifth spot in the rotation in spring training. He had poor starts against San Francisco and Atlanta, but lowered his ERA from 16.20 to 8.18 against Montreal.

"He pitched a good game against us," Expos manager Frank Robinson said. "He mixed up his pitches and moved the ball around.'

Lance Berkman went 3-for-4 and had an RBI single in Houston's five-run sixth inning, and Jeff Bagwell hit a two-run homer in the eighth as the Astros used 15 hits to avoid being swept by the Expos in their three-game series..

Biggio, who had been 1-for-7 against Carl Pavano in his career and 0-for-8 in the series, led off the game with his fourth homer this season. Jose Vidro tied it with an RBI grounder in the third.

Biggio hit a two-run single off Pavano in the sixth for a 3-1 lead, Zaun followed with a two-run double off Britt Reams and Lance Berkman added a run-scoring single for his 30th RBI this season.

U.S., Russia working on arms accord

WASHINGTON (AP) - Facing lingering obstacles, the United States and Russia are attempting to agree on a reduction in their nuclear arsenals in time for a Moscow summit in less than three weeks.

Secretary of State Colin Powell met Friday with Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov, hoping to nail down what would be an arms control breakthrough for the two former rivals.

An administration official said broad outlines of an agreement are already in place, but differences remain. While an agreement Friday is not ruled out, the official said bargaining could continue right up to the eve of the May 23 summit.

Bush will meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin on May 23. He planned to discuss the summit with Ivanov during a latemorning meeting Friday.

"We hope that this can be agreed to and it will be signed," White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said before the meeting.

Though negotiations were still ongoing, reductions. The United States wants to put weapons cut from its arsenal in storage, to be available in an emergency. Russia believes the only serious weapons reduction process involves destruction of armaments.

Ivanov said on arrival Wednesday night that Moscow and Washington have two major documents in preparation. One involves nuclear arms reductions, and the second would set terms for new strategic relations between the United States and Russia.

The U.S. official said the first document is closer to completion than the second.

Ivanov and Powell focused Thursday on the Middle East, joining with U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan and foreign policy chiefs of the European Union. They sought ways to end the stalemate between Israel and the Palestinians.

Washington and Moscow have made intense efforts to reach a nuclear agreement. Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld and Russian Defense Minister Sergei Ivanov discussed the arms cuts Monday'in Moscow.

White House officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said they expected an agreement to be in place for Bush's trip. Aides for both presidents were making plans for a signing ceremony in Moscow.

Bush has said he intends to reduce the U.S. long-range nuclear arsenal from 6,000 to between 1,700 and 2,200 warheads over the coming decade, regardless of whether Russia reciprocates. Putin has said Moscow would be willing to reduce to 1,500 warheads.

The two sides are at odds over the nature of Chief U.S. arms negotiator John Bolton, who made two trans-Atlantic negotiating trips to Moscow last week, will make another soon regardless of whether an agreement is reached Friday, the official said.

If an agreement is reached, the official said Bolton's trip would involve drafting precise wording. If a breakthrough should elude Powell and Igor Ivanov, Bolton would attempt to overcome remaining obstacles, the official said.

Authorities treating missing girl case as homicide

MIAMI (AP) - The disappearance of a 5-year-old girl that allegedly went unnoticed for 15 months is now being treated as a possible homicide rather than a missing persons case, according to a published report.

father. LaNedra Carroll, director of communications for the Florida Department of Children and Families, said

Kenneth Epson, is Rilya's paperwork shows Graham is the paternal grandmother. Carroll said she could not immediately find a reference to Epson in case documents stating he is the father.

Although no specific evidence of Rilya Wilson's death has been found, officials now suspect the girl was killed because of the length of time since she was last seen, Miami-Dade County Assistant State Attorney Tammy Forrest told The Miami Herald for a story in Friday's editions. "We're treating it as a homicide because we believe it very well might be one," said Forrest, chief prosecutor of the state attorney's sexual battery and child abuse unit. "We have several leads, but we need to investigate further."

On Thursday, Rilya's mother, Gloria Wilson, said the woman who was caring for Rilya wasn't related to her. Rilya disappeared from the custody of the woman, Geralyn Graham.

"She was the godmother," Wilson told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Thursday from her Ohio home.

Wilson, who lost custody of the girl because of a drug addiction, said she met Graham after she got to know the woman's daughter when she and the daughter were in a drug abuse program.

Graham told The Miami Herald that her son,

Linda Nowell, Pampa Art Club (PAC) member, works on a pottery project for PAC. The art club is presently gearing up for its annual art exhibit to be held from 10 a.m.-5 p.m., May 8 at Lovett Memorial Library.
