JP Prct. 1,3 pits Darby, Martinez

EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the first in a series of Sunday articles on local races to be decided in the November general election.

By NANCY YOUNG
MANAGING EDITOR

He's in the army now, but it's just temporary. He hopes he will be home soon and things will get back to normal - like being Gray County Justice of the Peace.

Joe Martinez received his "greetings" from the government in April that he was being called to active military duty along with many others in the Pampa area. Leaving his job as Justice of the Peace of Precincts 1 and 3 was not what he had planned when he was appointed only 13 months before.

All the members of the affected units left their families, homes and jobs last spring when they were called to active duty to serve with the National Guard and other military reserve units to help protect their country. After the attacks on Sept. 11, 2001, many troops were called to serve on active duty.

Joe Martinez

While challenger Debbie Darby campaigns for the office she hopes to occupy, Martinez is several hundred miles away on duty at Ford Hood with Bravo Company, 2nd Battalion, 1042nd Infantry of the 49th Armored Division.

He was in town for two days last week, visiting with as many people as possible to let people know he wants to keep the job he was appointed to in March, 2001.

Gray County Commissioners Court appointed Martinez to fill the Precinct 1 and 3 Justice of the Peace position after former longtime JP Bob Muns notified the commission he was retiring before his term ended. Martinez had previously worked in banking. Martinez served in the JP position until April 2002. He was challenged by Rusty Horton in the Republican primary in March. Martinez won the primary, 622-435.

Darby won the Democratic Primary without an opponent to face Martinez in the general election.

In the meantime, former JP Marge Prestidge was selected as the interim office-holder by Gray County Commissioners Court, and she has been serving in that capacity.

Darby said the campaign has been moving very fast. "It's taken a lot of long hours," she said.

Currently employed by Ferguson Bail Bonds, Darby said she has always wanted to serve as Justice of the Peace in Gray County, but said she wouldn't seek election against former JP Muns. She said she was unable to toss her hat in the ring to be appointed to the JP position 18 months ago because she and her husband Greg had moved from Pampa for a brief period of time.

Agent: F.R.E.D. project gets off to good start

By DAVID BOWSER
STAFF WRITER

Joan Gray, Gray County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences, is excited about FRED.

FRED is an acronym which stands for Fathers Reading Every Day, a statewide program that Gray County initiated this fall.

"We had our kick-off on Sept. 26," Gray said.

Thirty-three fathers initially signed up to read to their children during the four-week program.

"The first two weeks," Gray said, "the dads commit to read to their children 15 minutes a day. The second two weeks, they commit to read to them 30 minutes a day." Research shows that fathers who actively participate in their children's lives make better grades at school, their verbal skills are better and they have higher self-esteem.

"It has a positive effect on these kids," Gray said, "and that's what we're trying to do."

Gray estimates that the program in Gray County is reaching more than 100 children.

"I've got some volunteers through the Rotary Club, Lions Club and Kiwanis Club, who are going to the elementary schools and several of the day care centers throughout town and reading to the 4-year-olds and the kindergarten kids," Gray said. "It's some of the men from these civic clubs that are going out and reading in the school system. We're putting a positive male role model in the classroom with a small group of kids during the four weeks. They're reading once a week."

The program is for any age, she said. "It's for zero months to 18-year-old, if you can get your 18-year-old to sit down and listen to you read," she said, laughing.

According to the enrollment forms, however, the oldest child in the program is an eighth grader.

"It's a really neat program," Gray said.

The program draws to an end on Oct. 26, she said. It is open to the community. (See F.R.E.D., Page 3)

Needed: At least 20 women for ACT I (beardless men will be considered)

Area Community Theatre, Inc. (ACT I) is under the leadership of President Berinda Turcotte for the 2002-2003 season.

Auditions for each show are open to the public. Anyone interested in acting and having fun is invited to participate.

Opening the season will be "The Women" directed by Kayla Pursley, with performance dates the second and third weekend in January. Gold-diggers, schemers, gossips, and social climbers - these are the women who populate "The Women," the 1936 comedy by Clare Boothe Luce featuring a hilarious cat-fight that made "jungle red" nail polish synonymous with sharp-clawed back stabbing.

Auditions are set for Friday, Oct. 18, beginning at 7 p.m. and 2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 19, at the theater located on the west side of Pampa Mall. The comedy calls for a cast of 35 women, age ranges from 18 to 100 and one girl aged 11.

"Some of the roles can be double cast," says Pursley, "but I need at least 20 actors. I don't care if the guys audition for some great female character parts - no beards, though."

If anyone is interested in auditioning but can't make the Friday or Saturday call, can contact Pursley and arrange for an audition.

The second show of the season is called Murder in Green Meadows. With a cast of two men and two women, the story revolves around a couple who have moved to their dream home only to find the neighbors may have killed the lawn boy.

This mystery will cast late in January with performance dates mid April.

Gina Kane will direct the third show, a children's show, with performance dates in June. Kane is considering doing Hansel & Gretel "because there are a lot of animal characters". Auditions and rehearsals will begin before school is out.

Also elected to the board of directors: Kayla Pursley, VP membership, James Kane, treasurer, Diana Bruner, secretary, Rochelle Lacy, Ash Jani, and Gina Kane.

Season ticket information will be in the mail soon. For more information contact Turcotte or Pursley at 665-8848.

CARL EDMOND JOHNSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Carl Edmond Johnson, 84, formerly of Amarillo, Pampa, and Panhandle, Texas, died Wednesday, Oct. 9, 2002, in Albuquerque, N.M.

Mr. Johnson was born Sept. 8, 1918, in Wapanucka, Okla. His family moved to the Texas Panhandle when he was a young boy and farmed near Wellington. Mr. Johnson and his twin, the late Ruth White of Pampa, were the youngest of 11 children born to Daniel Jackson and Mary Elizabeth "Mollie" (McClain) Johnson.

Mr. Johnson joined his brothers Owen and Webster in Pampa in the late 1930s at Owen's "Johnson's Cafe" — cooking and baking pastries which made the three brothers locally famous. He and several local Pampa boys, known locally as the "Hoover Hogs," often volunteered to deliver food and needed prescription drugs at all hours of the day and night, sometimes in the middle of blizzards, to rural residents who couldn't make it into town on their own. The Hoover Hogs were also called upon to serve as telegraph delivery boys to those same rural farms, sometimes delivering much dreaded wartime news of family tragedies to area families. In 1941, Carl enlisted in the U.S. Army. While at basic training at Fort Bliss, Texas, he met Emma Jane Westmoreland of El Paso and in 1943 they were married at St. Clement's Episcopal Church.

A daughter, Molly Jane, was born at Ft. Bliss Hospital in 1944. Mother and daughter moved to Pampa to await the end of the war and Carl's return home. During his tour of duty, Staff Sergeant/Mess Sgt. Johnson became known for his cream-filled pies, often bartering baked goods with the natives from local islands in the South Pacific for eggs and dairy products. The troops in his 16th Quartermaster Squadron, First Calvary Division erected a sign dubbing his very first 'cafe' as "Johnson's Dehydrated Cafe" on the Island of Leyte in 1943. He served in New Guinea, Luzon, Southern Philippines, Bismarck, Archipelago. He received the American Defense Service Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Service Medal, the Philippine Liberation Ribbon, and Good Conduct Medal — but his true reward was in the knowledge that he had fed his troops well and in the praise from his men and his commanding officers.

Following his military discharge in 1945, Mr. Johnson returned home to Pampa. A son, Kimball Carter, was born in 1947. With Ralph Barnett, Mr. Johnson formed Barnett and Johnson Construction Company, and together they built numerous homes in the Pampa area.

A long-time member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Mr. Johnson served on its vestry, sang in the choir, and was a committee advisor for construction of the new church building in the early 1950s. His company was hired as the contractor of the existing Parish Hall. In 1957, he and his wife moved to Panhandle and operated Carl Johnson's Cafe on Highway 60. In the 1960s, like his brothers Jack and Olen, Carl became a licensed pilot for his Cessna nick-named Juliette, and pursued his love of aviation for many years. He was well known throughout the region for his pies and donuts, and donated his time and efforts for many years making donuts for fund-raising at his church in Pampa. After 25 years in the restaurant business, he and his wife retired and moved to Amarillo. He moved to Albuquerque in 1995. Carl said he had no regrets, had been everywhere he wanted to go, done everything he needed to do, and loved his family and friends.

His wife of 48 years preceded him in death in 1991. Carl was also preceded in death by all of his siblings: Olen, Owen, Evie, Verdie, Tranny, Webster, Grace, Mamie, Jack, and Ruth. Survivors include his daughter and son-in-law, Molly and Stan Hearron of Albuquerque; his son, Kimball Carter Johnson of Laguna Beach, Calif.; three granddaughters, Angela Hearron and Laura Hearron of Albuquerque, and Jane Cook and husband Greg of Folsom, Calif.; and one great-grandson, Jack Cook, also of Folsom, Calif.

A Remembrance Celebration will be held in Albuquerque at the Hearron home today, Sunday, Oct. 13. Memorial services are set for 11 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 19th at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, 727 W. Browning Ave., Pampa, with the Rev. Jack Clemmens officiating. Cremains will be placed next to those of his wife in the church columbarium. A reception will follow in the Parish Hall. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made for the Memorial Fund or Day School Fund of St. Matthew's Church, 727 W. Browning Ave., Pampa, TX 79065; or a charity of choice.

said she is familiar with the system. "I feel I want a more open door with the public so they don't feel afraid to talk with JP judges," said Darby.

She worked for Texas Bail Bonds for more than 10 years. She said she wants to work with the sheriff's department and jailers on establishing a routine schedule for bond-setting.

"I'd like to work around their schedule of meals and medication administration," she said.

Darby said it is hard to campaign for this office because Martinez is serving with the military.

"Also, it's been confusing to the people as to which Joe Martinez is the JP," she said.

Darby referred to a Pampan named Joe Martinez who is a member of the Pampa Independent School District Board of Education.

"(Campaigning's) been a new experience," she said. "I've learned not to be afraid to talk, and don't freeze up now."

Born and raised in Pampa, Darby said she also has five years experience with the Texas Department of Health Services and was employed with the Panhandle Community Services (HUD) for five years.

She is the mother of three: Mark Fondren, her eldest, will be leaving to serve in the U.S. Army on Oct. 29. Her daughter, Crystal Gorham and husband, Phil, live in Wichita Falls. They are raising their young son Riley who will celebrate his first birthday Oct. 30. Her youngest son, Jeremy Fondren, is a student at Frank Phillips College in Borger and will graduate in May 2003. Her husband is a welder.

Darby is a member of the Ladies of the Moose and has served as a sponsor for the Pampa High School Rodeo Club in past years. She continues to campaign daily for the office.

Martinez visited with numerous Pampa residents while he was in town this week. He dropped by the senior citizens centers in Pampa Wednesday, and said he was going to the Lefors Senior Citizen Center Thursday.

He was planning to make as many personal contacts as possible while he was in town.

"I want to be in touch with my friends. I want to see my friends from church and the organizations to which I belong," Martinez said. "Also, I want to spend some time with Lori (his wife) while I'm here. There is precious little time, but I'm trying to make the most of it."

Martinez said while he is in town he is trying to talk to as many people as he can.

He said he has stopped by the office to visit with his secretary Freda Bezner and Prestidge, his temporary replacement. He also said he stopped by the sheriff's office to visit with all the staff.

Martinez hopes to be back to Pampa permanently soon.

"They've mentioned December and also April," he said. "We just have to wait and see."

Martinez has had over 35 years direct contact with the military. He went into the U.S. Air Force in 1967 and planned to be sent to Viet Nam.

"I was an idealistic, patriotic young fellow and wanted to do my duty," he said. "My father was a soldier and in my fervor, volunteered. I so wanted to be a part of the Viet Nam experience, but it wasn't meant to be."

He said he was assigned to the supply career field and sent to Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado. From there he went to Istanbul, Turkey. He spent 18 months there before he was sent to Shaw AFB in South Carolina for the remainder of his duty.

"I left the service in 1971 and decided the military wasn't my chosen career," he said. "I went to college and got my degree. Then in 1977, I was living in New Mexico when a friend talked me into joining the National Guard. I've been in it ever since."

He's a 1st Sergeant with the unit stationed at Wellington. Presently, while at Fort Hood he is providing a staff support function for the training effort for active duty soldiers during his active duty status.

"I have to admire Lori's courage while I've been gone," he said. "Before I took care of so many things, now it is her. She's done great. She told me she would hold the home front for me, and she has."

He said she is helping make arrangements about political functions.

Martinez said he has missed his wife and his two daughters. Their oldest, Aimee Sharpton and her two children also live in Pampa. Amanda, the youngest daughter, is employed at The Pampa News.

"I'm probably more convinced now than ever that I'm called to office," he said. "All the experiences we have in life shape and mold us. This is where, God willing, I will serve. This is a calling. This is where it can be real if it's meant to be."

Martinez said he does plan to be in Pampa for election day on Nov. 5.

F.R.E.D.

"We sent 1700 fliers out throughout Pampa," Gray said. "Every child from pre-kindergarten through fifth grade were given a flier to take home."

Gray also sent fliers home with children at Pampa's day care centers.

She said that she hopes the program will become an annual event.

"Right now, we've got Texas Cooperative Extension - who is the primary sponsor - we've got Altrusa International, we've got Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Pampa Independent School District, Lovett Memorial Library, Region 16 Early Headstart, Texas Extension Education Association for Gray County, Realty One and the Partnership for Moms and Babies," Gray said. "Those are the people that have put money and effort into the program."

The dads and kids can read anything, she said. They're not limited.

"Each dad was given a father's guide, which has a reading list that's appropriate for the different age levels," Gray said. "They can read any of the books that are sitting around the house."

The children's librarian at Lovett Memorial Library is helping dads and volunteers select books that are appropriate for the age groups.

"The library has issued a number of library cards in support of the program," Gray said. "I'm just really excited about it."

More information on the program is available at the Gray County Texas Cooperative Extension Services' website at www.gray-co.tamu.edu.

More than 30 years later, evangelist returns to Texas Stadium

IRVING (AP) — More than three decades ago, the Rev. Billy Graham conducted the first event held at brand new Texas Stadium.

This week, the elder statesman of Christian evangelism returns to Dallas-Fort Worth to bring the gospel to a new generation of Texans.

Graham, 83, is making his first such appearance in the area since then Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry helped him launch evangelistic meetings at Texas Stadium in 1971. The visit renews strong ties to Texas, where Graham has retained membership at First Baptist Church of Dallas and has many admirers.

"He is my father in the faith. I came to the faith in a Billy Graham crusade when I was 10 years old. I finally get to meet him 42 years later," said the Rev. Ronald W. Scates, pastor of Highland Park Presbyterian Church.

Medicare needs help now

The patients our hospital serves, particularly those on Medicare, are getting severely shorted by Washington, D.C. If Congress does not act to improve Medicare payment and prevent Medicare cuts, it is my patients who will suffer.

As the CEO of Pampa Regional Medical Center, I know that improved Medicare payments are critical to enable our hospital to provide quality care while contending with enormous cost increases. Pampa Regional Medical Center faces a growing national nursing shortage, rapidly rising costs for new medical technology and drugs, and increasing demand for high cost services. Additionally, our hospital must prepare against the possibility of a chemical or bioterrorism attack. Whether it is upcoming severe payment reductions currently in law (many of which took effect Oct. 1), or essential new health care needs in Pampa, there are numerous reasons why a Medicare improvement bill simply cannot and should not wait until next year.

Time is running out and Congress must act in the next few days to protect hospitals and the communities they serve. If they do not act, we face real obstacles to the care that those of us on Medicare and all who use our hospitals expect.

Norman F. Stephens, CEO
Pampa Regional Medical Center

What is your passion in life? Do you know someone who comes to your mind who is passionate, full of energy, and inspires you on a regular basis? How about a person who just exudes confidence? When people like that speak, you know they are not ashamed of the passion they have. It could be your minister, your mother, the President, your father, a teacher, a sibling, a friend, or a complete stranger you admire.

J.B. HORTON
 GUEST COLUMNIST

Whoever they are, what do you think drives them? Do you have a passion similar to theirs? Is it bottled up inside of you or held back for some reason? When I think of people who are passionate, who have high energy, who exude confidence, I try to focus on what they are passionate about. I try to learn the reason behind their feelings. These "living" people are the movers and shakers of our time.

areas of the country; however, our definition of poverty merely scratches the surface of true world poverty.

In one of Mr. Calver's stories, his passion opened my heart in a shocking way by what he has seen in his world travels. One gruesome story he told was about the support his organization lends to the families in the Southeast Asian country of Cambodia. Families in Cambodia have an average of five children. With a per capita income of $268 per year, normally, they can barely afford to feed one child. The incentive for a Cambodian parent to have more children often stems from the cruel reality of survival. Often, a family decides to sell one or two of their children for money in order to buy food for the rest of the family. Typically, the child for sale is a young female around the age of 10 or 11. As described by Mr. Calver, those little girls are of more value when they have not "been with a man."

Last week, I was at a White House fellowship that is hosted by an official named Stewart on a weekly basis. Stewart invites a variety of speakers to share their Christian experience with what they do in their professions to a group of White House staffers and Presidential appointees. The invited guests are often world-renowned in their various fields, and they share a wide-variety of viewpoints within the Christian faith.

"Have not been with a man," I thought to myself, "as a 10-year-old girl?" I shook my head in disbelief. His horrific words painted a very graphic image of young girls being sold for $300 for their first experience, $200 for the second, and each time diminishing to a value where 12 and 13 year old girls are in the streets saying to strangers "2 dollar"... "3 dollar."

Last week, a man named Clive Calver spoke. Clive is the head of the World Relief Organization in Baltimore and is a former minister. The World Relief Organization supports churches from all over the world in their efforts to reduce poverty, disease, and persecution. I will be the first to admit that my reality is not set or programmed to understand true poverty or persecution. Poverty here in the United States is a problem in certain

If that is not one of the worst doses of reality that I have ever heard in my life, I don't know what is. I won't share the next story he told us which made me adjust my thinking of what hell must be like.

This man, Clive Calver, sat before our group and blew us away with a heavy dose of what is going on in the world. A world most of us are sheltered from. A world most of us don't want to see. It is real. It happens everyday. Mr. Calver has passion. He has a heart of service and a love for what he does. While Mr. Calver will probably never know I wrote this story, we can all learn from his example.

If you have a passion, if you have a bottled up talent that you have been blessed with, if you exude confidence in others or you feel you haven't lived up to your full potential in life, ask yourself what's stopping you? Could it be excuses that you are "too old", or "not smart enough", or "you don't have enough money", or "you don't have enough time" or any number of other excuses? I promise you, the souls of the little girls that Mr. Calver is saving through the help of the churches he works with are not worried about their savior being old, shy, or poor; they just want help.

How can we help in the Panhandle of Texas? How can we make a difference as individuals? The answer is within each and everyone of us. Open up your own passion and use it to help others. Service before self: it is a noble motto. Find a way to give. Find a way to make a difference. Find out how you can be a "living" person who inspires others and exudes confidence. You, too, like Clive, can be a mover and shaker of our time. God bless.

Mallard Fillmore by Bruce Tinsley

Are you enslaved by possessions?

It's funny how age changes one's perspective. When I was a kid, hurricanes and tornadoes were just an adventure. I'd seen the havoc of tornadoes and lived through a couple of hurricanes. It was all just a spectacle.

CHARLEY REESE
 COLUMNIST

Now I worry when one of the monsters is roaming around in the gulf of Mexico, and the reason is quite simple: when I was a child, I didn't own anything but a few marbles and stuff that would fit in my pockets. Now I'm a property owner. Now it could be my house that gets smashed to pieces or flooded by torrential rains after the roof has been torn off.

It's funny how owning stuff makes you feel less secure. You'd think you'd feel more secure, but you don't. Now you have something to lose. It really is true, as that old Kris Kristofferson song says, "Freedom's just another word for nothing left to lose." If you don't know where you're going, you can't get lost, and if you have nothing, you can't lose it.

Years ago, in my public relations days, I was squiring the great South African heart surgeon Dr. Christiaan Barnard around a Catholic hospital. He is the man who performed the first heart transplant in 1967. For those of you who have read Ayn Rand's novels, Barnard is the closest man I've ever seen to her fictional characters of John Galt and Hank Reardon. A reporter asked him, "Who is the least likely person to suffer a heart attack?"

Without hesitation, Barnard replied, "A drunken bum." I realize the American Heart Association would probably not agree, but with all due respect, Barnard knew more about hearts than probably anybody. If you will observe drunken bums, you will see that quite a few of them reach old age, depending on how tough their livers are. I take that as a sign of their not worrying about very much of anything, except their next drink.

dollars. I do believe that if I could lay hands on a million dollars, I'd be inclined to take some time off and enjoy myself until it was all gone.

My beloved high school Latin teacher told us that the Romans believed a man could become a slave to his possessions. Not much Latin stuck in my memory, but that did, and for years, I tended to rent and to take pride in the fact that I could leave town for good with one suitcase.

Eventually, though, I went the way of all flesh and started a family, and when you start a family, stuff starts to accumulate. As the years go by, it seems that every move requires a bigger van. Pretty soon, you have so much stuff that most of it you never go near or even look at except to dust it. You have so many books you couldn't read them all if you lived to be 120 years old. You've collected so much music it would take months of 24/7 listening to hear it all. You've got so many guns you could start a war, providing you had more than two hands.

But if a hurricane comes knocking on your door, all that stuff will just sink or float away. At least then you won't be a slave to your possessions.

RRC to stage third annual Expo

AUSTIN — Texas Railroad Commission recently announced the third annual Regulatory Expo and Commissioners' Open House to be held October 23-24 in the William B. Travis Building, 1701 North Congress Avenue in Austin.

The event is designed to provide participants with a better understanding of Texas Railroad Commission forms and procedures as well as provide an overview of essential information. The expo also offers an opportunity to personally meet and interact with Commission staff.

"Open government is vital to not only our state's oil and gas industry but also to the general public who we serve," said Chairman Michael Williams. "In executing our responsibilities, it is imperative that we inform and educate. This expo will allow us to better achieve our purpose."

"This year's expo will offer participants a better understanding of Commission forms and procedures," said Commissioner Charles R. Matthews. "I encourage anyone who is interested in the state's oil and gas industry to attend this expo, to gain insight into our agency and to have the opportunity to visit with personnel."

"Our expo will offer insight into what can often be a very complex and confusing topic, regulation of the Texas oil and gas industry," said Commissioner Tony Garza. "Attending this event will take some of the confusion, if not some the mystery, out of our agency's role in it all."

Early registration is being held now through October 15. A registration fee of $50 per day covers individually selected seminars and classes as well as a continental breakfast, refreshments and luncheon with a guest speaker.

Registrations will not be accepted after October 15. A late registration fee of $60 per day will be available the day of the expo. Additional information regarding the Regulatory Expo and Open House, including a listing of the 33 seminars offered each day and an on-line registration form is available on the Texas Railroad Commission web site: <http://www.rrc.state.tx.us/meetings-seminars/ms-educational-seminars/psem.html>

Cotton management seminar slated next month

ROBINSONVILLE, Miss. — Producers interested in learning more about evolving cotton pest complexes, instability in current cotton varieties, and shifting environmental and economic conditions, shouldn't miss Cotton Incorporated's Crop Management Seminar Nov. 5 and 6 at Robinsonville.

Aptly entitled "Lab to Field: Bridging the Gap," the two-day seminar will address key issues cotton producers and consultants face when producing a cotton crop.

Additionally, Cotton Inc. will conduct a COTMAN™ workshop to highlight the latest features of that program. COTMAN, or COTton MANagement, integrates plant-monitoring information, current and long-term weather patterns, and farm/field information to assist in making decisions related to the management of insects, irrigation, fertilization, growth regulators, defoliation, and harvest scheduling.

The seminar will allow crop consultants and cotton researchers to discuss solutions to current production issues.

"This venue provides an extraordinary opportunity for all segments to discuss the events of the current growing season, exchange ideas, share information and learn about new technologies on the horizon," Dr. Patricia O'Leary, director of Agricultural Research at Cotton Inc., said.

The COTMAN workshop is scheduled for the afternoon of Tuesday, Nov. 5. It will include three sessions: system review an update, consultant's perspective on COTMAN as a management tool, and a one-on-one consultation to discuss software and data collection. Wednesday's agenda includes sessions focusing on diagnosing field problems, pest management, managing fiber quality and technology updates. Panel discussions will follow each Wednesday session.

Cotton Inc., will provide complementary meals on Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Registration for the conference, to be held at the Grand Casino Tunica Resort Convention Center in Robinsonville, is limited, so advance registration is recommended. For more information, including the conference's agenda and online registration, visit <http://www.cottoninc.com/CropSeminar2002/>.

API announces upcoming meeting

American Petroleum Institute, panhandle chapter, will meet at 6:30 p.m., Oct. 17 for social hour followed by dinner at 7 p.m., at Pampa Country Club. The keynote speaker will be Wayne Hughes of Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association in Amarillo.

The topic of his presentation will be "General State of the Oil and Gas Industry."

A Mexican buffet will be served at a cost of $15 per person. Attendees are invited to bring a guest. Memberships will be available at the door.

Door prizes are being donated by W.B. Supply in Pampa and Black Gold Supply in Canadian. The November meeting is scheduled Nov. 21.

WEST PALM BEACH, March 14.—Three banks in this vicinity failed to open for business today. They are the Ocean City bank of Delray, the First National bank of Lakewood and the Farmers Bank and Trust company of this city.

Teachers Band To Play Here In On March 23

Pampa will be visited March 23 by the West Texas State Teachers college band, which will make a five-day tour of the North Plains beginning March 19.

There will be about 32 people in the party, including President J. A. Hill and Mrs. T. V. Reeves, director of the bureau of public service. The band will arrive here in mid-afternoon, and play concerts at places to be announced later. Several soloists are included among the musicians.

The organization played at the Berger celebration and for its North Plains tour has added a large list of selections of various kinds. Sacred concerts will be given at Dalhart and Stratford on Sunday, March 20. Popular and classical numbers are given according to the desire of the audiences.

During recent years the band has been the official band for the city of Amarillo, and has helped to bring many conventions to this city.

CONFERENCE CALLED ON GAS TAX MEASURE

AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—House and Senate conferees went into conference today over differences between the two houses on the motor license fee bill, a companion bill to the new gas tax measure. Both bills passed the Senate last week, with amendments unsatisfactory to the House, where they originated.

Though Engrossed, Delay May Kill Ferguson Amnesty Repeal

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, March 14.—Amid bitter feeling and strife, the House today engrossed the Senate bill repealing the amnesty granted former-Governor James E. Ferguson by the 39th Legislature. It failed to muster strength necessary for a suspension of rules to put the bill up for final passage. The engrossment vote was 90 to 24. There is some doubt that the bill can be forced to a vote on its final passage before the end of the session Wednesday.

Has Time Now

While Miss Rosalie Gardiner Jones, suffragist and heiress of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, was working as a mechanic in an automobile repair shop a few years ago, she was asked if she was going to marry. "I haven't time," she replied. Now, with women enfranchised, she announced her engagement to United States Senator Clarence C. Dill, the only Democrat ever to be elected to the upper house of Congress from the state of Washington. They will wed, in New York.

Presbyterians To Erect An $8,000 Manse At Once

Immediate erection of an $8,000 Presbyterian manse was decided by the local congregation Sunday morning, when plans were submitted and approved.

The building, a brick bungalow, will be 36 by 48 feet, and will be located at the southwest corner of Russell and Browning streets.

The basement will contain quarters for the pastor and rooms for special meetings, while the main floor will comprise an auditorium to seat about 250 people. Services are now being held in the Rex theatre.

Gray-Wheeler Is Exception In New Humble Crude Cut

(By The Associated Press.)
HOUSTON, March 14.—Besides meeting the Magnolia Petroleum company's cut Saturday on Mid-Continent field oil, the Humble Oil Refining company today posted a 10-cent cut in five other instances. The one exception was for Gray-Wheeler county crude oil.

SHANGHAI, March 14.—The body of Sergeant James Montague, of the United States Marine corps, was found today in the Vnanhpo river. Police believe he was murdered.

Galveston Man Shot In Hold-up In Own Store

(By The Associated Press.)
GALVESTON, March 14.—S. Newlow was in the hospital here this morning with a bullet wound in his chest and a man giving the name of Harry Ludlow was under arrest following a hold-up in the business district.

Newlow was shot when he failed to put his hands up fast enough. The shooting occurred in Newlow's jewelry store.

Mrs. Ed Moore underwent an operation at the emergency hospital Sunday morning.

Texas Pioneer, 91, Weds Girl of 26

At 91, Colonel Charles Goodnight, ranchman of Clarendon, Texas, has just married Miss Corinne Goodnight, 26, of Butte, Mont. Miss Goodnight, a telegraph operator, read of the colorful life of the colonel, a noted southwestern pioneer, and wrote to him. The romance resulted.

GRAY COUNTY PRISONERS TRY TO CUT DOWN TWO JAILS, AND OFFICERS SEEK ACCOMPLICES

One of the leaders in the jail-break attempt last night—a man named Murphy, was tried at Le-fors today on a charge of auto theft and given a 3-year sentence. He pleaded guilty.

Iron bars do not make a prison, Gray county prisoners know, but it takes quite a while to saw hardened iron without burning the saws up.

Sunday afternoon the prisoners were moved into the old jail while officers cleaned and fumigated the new one. During the process the county guests—about 1, of them—in some manner obtained seven hack saw blades. They worked feverishly trying to saw out of jail, but too slowly, for the officers returned for them just before the last bolt on the door was under the saw. The officers did not notice the work until later, and marched the men back to the newer structure.

During the night the saws were put into play again, and at 6 o'clock but half a bar was between the men and freedom. Then Scott Rhudessal, night watchman, came along on one of his rounds and noticed the activity. He called the deputies and went inside to search the prisoners. One inmate objected and was severely beaten before submitting to search.

The prisoners attacked the new jail near the same places cut by six men who escaped in the jail-break of a few weeks ago. The leaders in the work are said to have been three men charged with auto theft. They were brought here from Vernon last week.

Officers were considerably "riled" today because they believe outsiders watched them move the prisoners yesterday and slipped in the saws in broad daylight. The accomplices are believed to have been members of the group which during the night knocked the knobs off two safes in the Fatheree Drug store.

Ten additional prisoners were taken during the week-end, eight for gambling and two on vagrancy charges.

REAL FIRE BREAKS FOR A DEMONSTRATION

Ike Lewis, E. R. White, and Jack Clemens went to Amarillo Sunday where they saw a Seagraves fire truck in action. During the demonstration a fire call was received at the station and the truck made 45 miles an hour on the run.

V. E. FATHEREE DRUG STORE IS BROKEN OPEN

Diamond Shop Has Valuables In Good Safe

EFFORTS OF THIEVES FAIL

No Stock Missed By Proprietors Today

Prying their way through the front door with heavy bars, intruders last night knocked the knobs off the two safes in V. E. Fatheree Drug company's store but failed to open the doors.

It is believed the men wished cash and diamonds, since they did not molest the stock of the store. However, lack of time might have saved the company the loss.

The Diamond shop operated in connection with the drug store had its valuables in a burglar-proof safe. When the knob was removed the combination automatically became inaccessible.

Safe experts from Amarillo were brought here early this afternoon to open the boxes. When the doors were swung back the contents of the safes were found untouched.

Statements by the night watchman indicated his belief that the attempted robbery took place about daylight. He said he tried the door about 6 o'clock and found it locked. The door was unlocked, however, when the employees of the company came on duty.

The front door-facing was damaged little, and gave little cause for suspicion. Clues on the incident have not given officers anything tangible to work with, but an investigation through the usual channels is under way.

Officers connect the work with that of smuggling hack saw blades into the jail, which nearly resulted in another jail-break.

Indications are that those responsible for the trouble have been watching the officers closely. The boldness of the plans give evidence of professional efforts, officers believe, and the city's idle population will be closely scrutinized.

Lawlessness has been lacking in Pampa since the oil development came along, and last night's activities were unusual here.

JUDGE TEMPLETON DIES

CHILDRESS, March 14.—(AP)—Injuries received in an automobile accident last Friday resulted in the death today at Wellington of Judge R. L. Templeton of the 100th judicial district.

John Andrews, city marshal, returned last night from a business trip to Fort Worth.

City Manager Shot In Office

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, March 14.—(AP)—Dr. C. W. Goddard, city physician held in connection with the shooting of City Manager Adam Johnson, was found dead in the city jail this afternoon. His throat was cut.

AUSTIN, March 14.—City Manager Adam Johnson was shot five times and seriously wounded in his office here today.

Dr. C. W. Goddard, city health officer, was arrested immediately after the shooting. No details of the affair had been learned early this afternoon.

Rebecca Rogers Up For Trial

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN MARCOS, March 14.—No action was taken up to the noon recess of district court here today on the plea of Rebecca Bradley Rogers for continuance in the robbery charge against her. She was to go on trial today on a charge of robbing the Buda bank last December.

Prizes for Prophecies

The Pampa Daily News will pay ten dollars in prizes for the best written and most probable forecast of Pampa as the city will be next December 31—at the beginning of 1928. The awards will be $5, $3 and $2 for the first, second and third places.

The competition will be judged by a committee and will be open to everyone except the staff of the Daily News. Articles to be eligible must be received before April 1. Address the Prophecy Editor, Pampa Daily News.

Forecasts should include prophecy as to the description, growth in size and population, living conditions and interests of Pampa. These should be based upon local needs and opportunities and the probability of their being fulfilled. Articles of more than 1,200 words in length, or approximately one column of type, will not be considered. Manuscripts need not be typewritten.

The Pampa Daily News reserves the right to publish the articles submitted. The prizes will be paid in April, after the judges make their decision. Write out your sincere beliefs and send them to the Prophecy Editor.

WTAMU expanding research feedyard

CANYON — Expansion and facility upgrades are nearing completion at West Texas A&M University's Research Feedyard located seven miles east of campus. When the work is finished, capacity at the feedyard will double to 600 head, the lagoon that captures runoff will be fortified and the feedmill will produce a higher quality product commensurate with industry standards.

"With capacity at only 300 head, we didn't have enough pens to conduct FDA research, so doubling capacity is something we have planned on doing since we built the feedyard in 1998," Dr. Don Toppliff, head of the Division of Agriculture, said.

Upgrades to the feedmill include installation of a steam flaker for grain processing and future grain sorghum research.

"Now we can feed cattle the same diet that is used industry-wide, which enables us to do research that is more relevant," Toppliff said.

Lining the facility's runoff lagoon with clay and high density polyethylene, a thick plastic, is another key improvement at the feedlot aimed at meeting potential future EPA regulations.

"With 300 head we really didn't need to comply with EPA regulations as they are presently written," Toppliff said. "But who knows what the future holds. And there is certainly nothing wrong with being a good environmental citizen."

The WTAMU Research Feedyard was designed to optimize cattle handling and includes a processing barn equipped with lighting to help compensate for cattle's poor depth perception, a quieter squeeze chute at the weigh-in station and gently curving pathways for cattle-friendly traffic flow. A unique reverse-osmosis water system dispenses varying controlled amounts of high-grade water through lines to each pen.

Dozens of graduate students are involved in research projects at the facility, helping answer questions aimed at improving cattle production in the High Plains.

Texas wheat crop down from 2001

AUSTIN — The 2002 Texas winter wheat production is estimated at 78.3 million bushels, down 28 percent from last year but 19 percent above 2000.

According to a September survey conducted by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, the statewide yield averaged 29 bushels per acre, 5 bushels below last year and 1 bushel lower than the August 1 forecast. Acreage harvested for grain, at 2.7 million acres, was down 16 percent from 2001 and down 4 percent from the August 1 forecast.

Production on the Northern High Plains is estimated at 25.0 million bushels, down 57 percent from last year. Winter wheat production on the Low Plains is estimated at 21.8 million bushels, down 7 percent from last year. Production in the Cross Timbers area is estimated at 3.5 million bushels, down 17 percent from last year. Production in the Blacklands is estimated at 18.8 million bushels, up 79 percent from the 2001 crop.

United States winter wheat production for 2002 is estimated at 1.14 billion bushels, down 16 percent from last year and down 1 percent from the August 1 forecast. Yield per acre averaged 38.5 bushels, down 5 bushels from a year ago. Acreage harvested for grain totaled 29.7 million acres, down 5 percent from a year ago.

Palo Duro to be site of third annual 'Haunted Canyon'

CANYON — Spooks and ghouls will be on hand from 6-9 p.m., Oct. 19, at Palo Duro Canyon State Park to entertain visitors during the fourth annual "Haunted Canyon."

Activities will include face-painting, games, a hayride, a costume contest, and a pumpkin contest.

The contests will be open to children between 0- and 12 years of age. Registration for the costume contest will take place from 6:30-7 p.m. Judging will take place at 7 p.m.

Participants in the pumpkin-carving contest must bring their carved entry (with a non-flammable lighting source) to the event by 7 p.m. Judging for both contests will be based on age, and prizes will be awarded to first- and second-place winners.

Contestants must be present to win.

Last year's Haunted Canyon saw over 1,300 visitors to the park. The event is free and open to the public. Donations will be accepted for the Lone Star Legacy Endowment Fund. For more information, contact Heather Lanman at (806) 488-2227, ext. 49.

TPMHMR convenes for monthly meeting

AMARILLO — Jack Sawyer, ASC Industries director, delivered a presentation recently at a meeting of Texas Panhandle Mental Health Mental Retardation Board of Trustees. Sawyer discussed the agency's seven vocational workshops.

During the board's monthly meeting, Dean Copeland, chairman of the board of Pampa, announced the re-appointment of Ms. Elaine Vivens and Dr. Sam Reeves, both of Amarillo.

In a closed session, Sandy Skelton, executive director of TPMHMR, submitted his resignation. Skelton was recently named chief executive officer for Texas Council of Community MHMR Centers, Inc., in Austin.

The Council provides legislative advocacy, public awareness, and other business and technical services for its 42 community MHMR centers throughout the state.

In other business, the board voted to renew the Texas Interagency Council on Early Childhood Intervention contract for $1,729,301, and approved a request for $10,000 in funding to provide Peer Support Services at Agape Center by Amarillo Mental Health Consumers Association.

The nine-member board represents the citizens served by TPMHMR in the upper 21 counties of the Texas Panhandle. Its purpose is to provide oversight for the operations of the agency. It meets monthly and conducts business in accordance with the Open Meetings Laws of Texas.

The center has offices in Amarillo, Borger, Clarendon, Dumas, Hereford, Pampa, Peryton and Wellington.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanna Phillips

Stepmom's Job Gets Harder Without Husband's Support

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old woman who married "Barry" two years ago. He was a widower with two small boys, now 8 and 11. I married Barry with the hope and understanding I could help raise these children, but he now seems to resent my efforts. For example, he has made comments referring to himself as no longer being the primary disciplinarian by telling me, "I'm glad you're the bad guy now."

He constantly accuses me of asking too much of the boys. Abby, I expect them to clean their room and the bathroom they use. Barry also objects when I correct the kids' eating habits and manners — like reminding them not to interrupt when two adults are talking.

Unfortunately, my husband's attitude is beginning to rub off on the oldest boy, who sometimes takes on a negative attitude when I ask him to do a chore — or anything, for that matter.

Am I fighting a losing battle? Any suggestions you have would be helpful.

FEELING ALONE IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR FEELING ALONE: Without your husband's support, you are fighting a losing battle of "bait and switch." Your requests seem reasonable to me; however, the way you are teaching the boys may need an adjustment to make it more palatable. Family counseling could be helpful to all of you.

The Stepfamily Association of America is another terrific resource because more than 50 percent of families today are blended families. Membership is $40 a year, but the association offers support groups, retreats, Web sites, and access to have issues addressed with counselors. Find it on the Internet at: www.stepfam.org, with a link to a special site for stepmothers at www.stepmother.org. The phone number is (800) 735-0329.

DEAR ABBY: My older sister, age 77, has been widowed for eight years. She met a man from church whom she dated since being widowed. They spend some vacation time together and go on weekend trips.

He tells her he will never marry. She thinks someday she can change his mind. We know that he also sees a younger woman. He denies it — and my sister believes him. He has broken off with her twice, and she keeps running back to him.

I want her to be happy. She has dyed her gray hair to an awful-looking brown and acts like a teenager. I have tried to talk to her, but she doesn't listen. Her health isn't good. What should I do?

WORRIED SISTER

DEAR WORRIED SISTER: Be supportive and loving and let your sister live her own life.

Whatever his intentions, it appears that this man from church has given your sister something to live for. Since her health isn't good, let her enjoy the time she has. She's hurting no one, and she may be stronger than you think.

P.S. If the romance ends badly, be supportive, bite your tongue, and don't say, "I told you so."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: A bit of philosophy from Albert Schweitzer: An optimist is a person who sees a green light everywhere, while the pessimist sees only the red stoplight. The truly wise person is colorblind.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeane Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 60440, Los Angeles, CA 90060.

To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $8 (U.S. funds) to: Dear Abby — Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included in the price.)

Migrant assistance program seeks applicants

CANYON — Applications are being accepted for West Texas A&M University's College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP), and applications received by March 14, 2003 will be given priority.

CAMP, funded by the U.S. Department of Education, is designed to help students from migrant and seasonal farm worker families succeed in post-secondary education. The program enables 30 new students to enroll at WTAMU each school year.

Qualified applicants must have graduated from high school in the last two years, and they or their parents must have spent a minimum of 75 documented days in migrant agriculture-related employment in the past 24 months. Also, high school students who participated in or were eligible to participate in migrant education programs in local school districts may apply.

Those accepted into the program will receive scholarships for up to $2,650 for the 2003-2004 school year, including monthly stipends, a 50-percent housing waiver, books and supplies and a variety of counseling services, including financial aid advisement and assistance with the application process.

"We're basically trying to provide migrant students with a way to pay for their entire first year of college so that they can live on campus and not have to work," Martin Lopez, University CAMP director, said. "We will try to develop their leadership as well as their academic skills."

For more information about CAMP and the March 14 priority application deadline, contact the CAMP staff at (806) 651-2351 or mlopez@mail.wtarpu.edu.

Museum to honor actor Charlton Heston

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — The National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum will honor actor Charlton Heston during a special "Visions of the West Benefit" Nov. 19 at its location in Oklahoma City. Entertainment for the program will be provided by country-style comedian Jeff Foxworthy.

Heston will be present for the unveiling of a seven foot bronze modeled after the lead character in the 1969 movie, "Will Penny" as portrayed by Heston. The bronze is a gift to the museum from Ackerman McQueen and members of the National Rifle Association. Assisting with the presentation, and also narrator of a brief video reminiscing Heston's life and interest in western culture, will be actor Tom Selleck.

Well-known western artist Blair Buswell — who sculpted monuments of sports legends including Mickey Mantle for the Oklahoma Redhaws in Oklahoma City, Jack Nicklaus for the Georgia Golf Hall of Fame in Augusta, and Oscar Robertson for the University of Cincinnati in Ohio, was selected for the project.

Buswell says of the Heston bronze, "It is a dream come true to have a piece in the permanent collection of one of the finest western art museums in the country."

Popular "Redneck Comedian" Jeff Foxworthy, seen frequently on "The Tonight Show" and "The Late Show with David Letterman," will perform at the fund-raiser. A long list of Foxworthy's CD albums and redneck books continue to delight loyal fans.

He has received Grammy and Cable ACE Award nominations, has won TNN's "Comedian of the Year" three years in a row and enjoyed two television seasons with "The Jeff Foxworthy Show." Currently "The Foxworthy Countdown," a weekly syndicated three-hour radio show, brings fans the current Top 20 hits as well as interviews with country stars.

The National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum has undergone a major expansion program in the past eight years, which has tripled the size of the facility. With an emphasis on cowboy culture and western heritage, the institution has grown in stature to become America's premier western heritage museum.

The Weitzenhoffer Gallery of Fine American Firearms was dedicated in the spring of 2002 during the annual Western Heritage Awards weekend. With the final exhibition space, the Western Performers Gallery scheduled for completion in the spring of 2003, the museum has begun to focus on expanding its educational programming, research facility, and national exhibition schedule.

The benefit is open to the public. The event will kick-off at 6 p.m. with a cocktail reception. For ticket information or reservations, call (405) 478-2250, ext. 219. Additional information is available online at www.nationalcowboymuseum.org.

Passing This Test Can Mean Failure.

Unfortunately the school vision screening does not take the place of a comprehensive eye examination. Today's classroom requires clear and comfortable vision at the computer, at the desk as well as copying off the overhead projection systems. Don't take chances with your child's sight. The 20/20 advantage will take your child to the head of the class.

Pampa surges by Hereford in second half

McLEAN — Fort Elliott rolled to a 52-6 win over McLean in a District 1-1A six-man game Friday night.

Larry Horn led Fort Elliott with three touchdown runs, including one for 60 yards. Jason Hathaway threw a pair of touchdown passes to Caleb Kirkpatrick (1 yard) and Junior Gonzales (11 yards).

McLean's only TD came on a 27-yard pass from Josh Seymour to James Alexander.

Other Fort Elliott TDs were by Kade Zybach (5-yard run) and Wesley Hathaway (47-yard interception return).

GOLF

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Jim Furyk, bidding for a fourth win in this event in eight years, shot an 8-under 64 and held a one-stroke lead over Jeff Sluman after three rounds of the Invensys Classic at Las Vegas.

Charles Howell III had a 66 and Stuart Appleby shot a 64 and were tied for third at 17-under 198 in the 90-hole tournament played on three courses.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Carin Koch chipped in for a birdie on the first hole and went on to a 5-under 67 that gave her a four-stroke lead over Cristie Kerr after two rounds of the Mobile LPGA Tournament of Champions at Magnolia Grove Golf Club's Crossings Course. Kerr had a 63 that put her at 11 under.

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Allen Doyle had a run of four straight birdies in an 8-under 64 and held a one-stroke lead over defending champion Sammy Rachels and Bruce Fleisher after the first round of the Napa Valley Championship.

HEREFORD — Pampa went on a second-half surge, scoring 28 unanswered points to roll by Hereford 35-7 in District 3-4A action Friday night.

With the score tied at 7-7 at halftime, the Harvesters went on an 8-play, 75-yard scoring drive to start the third quarter with quarterback John Braddock hooking up with flanker Jesse Tarango on a 20-yard touchdown pass.

Pampa's defense came up big throughout the game, but especially in the second half.

Linebacker Zack Cobb recovered a fumble on the Hereford 21 early in the fourth quarter and two plays later tailback Johnny Moore scored on a 5-yard run.

Another Moore TD, this one from 11 yards out, was set up when safety Andrew Curtis pounced on a fumble on the Hereford 39.

With 2:22 to go, Pampa put the finishing touches on the victory when Joe Meraz picked off a Tyson Yosten pass for a 70-yard touchdown interception return.

Pampa got off to a quick start after defensive end Tommy Abernathy recovered a fumble on the Whiteface 26 on just the second play of the game. Four plays later, Braddock tossed a 26-yard scoring pass to tight end Ryan Zemanek with 10:17 to go in the first quarter.

Hereford was able to knot the score in the second quarter, taking advantage of a roughing the kicker penalty that moved the Whitefaces to the Pampa 25. On the next play, Yosten fired a 25-yard scoring strike to Russell Carr.

It looked like Pampa's defense had Hereford stopped cold on the Harvester 34 before the scoring play. Defensive end Derek Lewis pressured Yosten into throwing a poor pass and Cobb stopped Hereford back Jorge Gonzalez behind the line of scrimmage on the next play.

However, the penalty came next and Hereford was able to capitalize on it.

Pampa's defense, however, wouldn't allow Hereford to cross the goalline again.

Late in the second quarter, Hereford was forced into a failed field goal attempt after the Whitefaces stalled out on the Pampa 10 when safety Tristan Brown threw Gonzalez for a 5-yard loss on a reverse play. Just before halftime, another field goal attempt was no good after Hereford was stopped on the Pampa 13.

Cornerbacks Joel Botello and Jered Snelgrooves took turns batting down Yosten passes to force Hereford into the field goal try.

Trailing 14-7, Hereford threatened to tie things up by driving into Harvester territory midway through the third quarter. However, defensive end Brittin East and linebacker Curtis Pritchett produced key tackles at the line of scrimmage to force Hereford to punt.

Hereford's defense wasn't able to cope with the junior duo of Tarango and Moore, who came through with the crucial offensive play time after time. Tarango caught 8 passes for 119 yards and Moore rushed for 131 yards on 14 carries.

Pampa is now 2-1 in district and 5-2 for the season. Hereford falls to 1-2 and 2-5.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers hope Buck Showalter can get them going in the same direction as the last two teams he managed.

Showalter, who helped set up the New York Yankees' run of six World Series appearances the past seven years and built Arizona into the fastest-winning expansion team ever, was hired Friday by the Rangers. Texas gave its new manager a four-year contract.

"Buck created the foundation for successful big-league clubs with the Yankees and Diamondbacks. He brings a winning attitude," Rangers general manager John Hart said. "It fit for us."

The Rangers have finished last in the AL West three straight seasons. Jerry Narron was fired Oct. 1, two days after a 72-90 season.

In seven seasons as a major league manager, Showalter has a 562-505 record. He was with the Yankees from 1992-95 and the Diamondbacks from 1998-2000. Each team won the World Series the year after he left.

"Once you've been tried and tested, there's a great confidence you get from being able to handle the heat," Showalter said. "There are a lot of things very good right here."

Since being fired by the Diamondbacks in 2000, the 46-year-old Showalter has worked as an ESPN analyst.

Arizona went 65-97 its inaugural season, then with the biggest turnaround in major league history, was 100-62 and won the NL West title in 1999. Showalter was fired after an 85-77 record and third-place finish in the division.

Before building the Diamondbacks, Showalter spent 19 seasons in the Yankees organization as a player and coach. He was just 35 when he became New York's manager and went 312-269 with one playoff appearance in his four seasons.

Showalter was AL manager of the year in 1994, when the Yankees finished first in the AL East in a strike-shortened season.

Last year, both of his former teams played in the World Series. The Diamondbacks won in seven games over the Yankees, making their sixth World Series appearance in seven seasons since Showalter left.

"I try to dwell on the positives. I looked at that World Series last year with a great deal of pride," Showalter said. "I was just a piece of the puzzle."

Showalter had been a popular candidate for managerial jobs that had become available since the end of the regular season.

The Chicago Cubs and New York Mets also spoke to Showalter about their still unfilled jobs. Milwaukee and Tampa Devil expressed interest in him as well.

Texas and Detroit, which hired former shortstop Alan Trammell this week, are the only teams that have filled their vacancies.

Showalter will be the 16th manager for the Rangers, whose only post-season appearances came after three division titles from 1996-99.

The Rangers struggled this season even with an opening-day payroll of $105 million that was the third-highest in baseball. They also had All-Star shortstop Alex Rodriguez, who hit .300 and led the majors with 57 homers and 142 RBIs.

Plagued by injuries, the Rangers used 51 players, including a club-record 27 pitchers. Texas lost 13 of its last 16 games.

While Narron took a more laid-back approach with his players, Showalter is known as a disciplinarian and one who can develop young players and motivate veterans.

"That's a unique path we think we're on, and the path we think we need to be on," Showalter said.

Glaus' homer lifts Angels by Twins, 2-1 in AL series

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Troy Glaus has stopped pulling for the Anaheim Angels.

It's helped them move within two wins of their first World Series appearance.

Glaus went the opposite way again Friday night, hitting a leadoff homer in the eighth to give the Angels a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins and a 2-1 lead in the AL championship series.

That makes four hits in the last two games for Glaus — all the other way.

"When he's swinging the bat well, he'll use the whole field," Angels manager Mike Scioscia said.

"He's very talented, he's a prime-time player," teammate Darin Erstad said. "It's pretty safe to say when he's hitting to the opposite field that he's pretty locked in."

The Twins will go with their ace, Brad Radke, in Game 4 of the best-of-seven series Saturday night against rookie John Lackey.

After Glaus homered in the eighth, outfielders Alex Ochoa and Garret Anderson made diving catches in support of closer Troy Percival in the ninth.

The red-clad Edison Field crowd of 44,234 went wild when it was over. But the Twins weren't discouraged.

"It's just one game, that's why it's not like the Super Bowl," Minnesota's Doug Mientkiewicz said. "It's seven games."

Glaus hit a 3-1 pitch from J.C. Romero just over the 18-foot wall in right to provide the difference.

"Honestly, I didn't know it was gone until it hit the seats," Glaus said. "We've all played in this stadium enough to know when it gets cold, the ball doesn't carry very well. For right-handers to hit it over there, you've got to hit it pretty good."

The Angels' "rally monkey" appeared for the first time an inning earlier, prompting the fans to bang their inflated plastic Thunder Stix even harder than before.

But Romero, the fourth Minnesota pitcher in the seventh, retired Anderson on a fly to the warning track in right with the bases loaded to end the inning.

Anderson, 8-for-22 with four homers against Minnesota left-hander Eric Milton beforehand, homered to open the second.

Jarrod Washburn made it stand up until the seventh, when Jacque Jones hit a two-out double off the left field fence to snap an 0-for-18 slump and drive in Dustan Mohr with the tying run. Glaus untied it an inning later.

"J.C.'s been our guy in the eighth inning all season long," Twins manager Ron Gardenhire said. "He's faced lots of right-handed hitters. I made all the moves I thought I had to try to get through that inning."

"J.C. gets righties, lefties out. Look at the numbers, that will tell you. He just got a pitch up there, and the guy hit a home run."

Washburn was dominant before Jones' garbage-tying hit. He started his first 12 batters with strikes, allowed just two leadoff batters to reach base and went to a three-ball count twice. He allowed six hits while walking none and striking out seven in seven innings.

Francisco Rodriguez pitched a perfect eighth, striking out two, for his third win of the postseason, and Percival worked a 1-2-3 ninth for his fourth save of the postseason.

But it wasn't nearly as easy as that might make it sound.

Alex Ochoa, who replaced Tim Salmon in right field at the start of the ninth, made a diving catch on Mientkiewicz's sinking liner.

"When it left the bat, I thought I had a good jump," Ochoa said. "And when I was getting closer to it, I knew I had a chance to catch it. Defense is always important in games like this."

Mohr then flied out to medium right, and A.J. Pierzynski hit a soft, sinking fly that left fielder Anderson lunged for and caught.

"I played more shallow than I usually do," Anderson said. "I just wasn't going to give up on it."

Percival called both catches fantastic.

"That last one, I thought there was no chance in the world at it, because I know Garret was playing fairly deep with a lefty up covering that gap," Percival said. "But he comes in on the ball better than anybody I've seen in left field. I'm glad to have him out there."

Milton, 4-0 with a 1.50 ERA in five career starts at Anaheim coming in, gave up five hits in six innings while walking two and striking out four.

Center fielder Torii Hunter made another highlight-reel catch in the first, jumping at the warning track and reaching high against the fence to catch a drive by Salmon, back in the lineup after leaving Game 2 with a tight right hamstring in the third inning.

Guerin sparks Stars past Mighty Ducks

DALLAS (AP) — Even though Bill Guerin has a $45 million contract, the Dallas Stars don't expect him to be involved in every goal they score.

Two games into his five-year deal, he has.

Guerin had two goals and two assists in a 4-2 victory over the Anaheim Mighty Ducks on Friday night. He had an assist on Dallas' lone goal in the opener, a 1-1 tie with Colorado, giving him five points on five goals.

"It feels good to contribute," Guerin said.

The start is especially impressive considering the contract. Guerin knows a lot is expected of him and he's responding.

"I'm sure there are a lot of eyes on him, but he's been in the league long enough to get past that and produce like he can," linemate Mike Modano said.

Guerin also proved his mettle by rolling on the ice with Anaheim's Kevin Sawyer on the faceoff after the Stars went up 3-0. Sawyer later traded punches with new Dallas enforcer Aaron Downey after Guerin's empty-net goal with 1:30 left made it 4-1.

Guerin's first goal for Dallas came in the second period on a cross-ice pass from Mike Modano. He collected the puck, fired it past Jean-Sebastien Giguere then threw up his arms to punctuate it. A spotlight immediately shined down on him, as if prepared for the moment.

Program awards ag scholarships

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Students pursuing careers in agriculture are encouraged to apply for scholarships sponsored by Agrilience, Land O'Lakes Feed, and Croplan Genetics. High school seniors throughout the country who will enroll in a two- or four-year agronomy or livestock curriculum in the fall of 2003 are eligible to apply.

Fifty $1,000 scholarships will be awarded.

"Students with leadership abilities and an interest in agriculture are needed to fill a variety of positions in our industry," said Annette DeGnan, scholarship committee chairperson. "The Careers in Agriculture scholarship program helps promising students gain the education they need to secure these positions."

Since its formation 13 years ago, the Careers in Agriculture scholarship program has awarded more than $350,000 in scholarships to rural youth.

To qualify for the program, students must meet the following requirements:

- Be a high school senior planning to enroll in a two- or four-year livestock or agronomy related curriculum in the fall of 2003;

- Demonstrate both leadership abilities and academic performance; and

- Write an essay describing why he or she is interested in an agricultural career.

Applications are available from participating local cooperatives or on the Agrilience web site at www.agrilience.com in the Careers section or the Land O'Lakes Feed web site at www.lolfeed.com.

All applications must be postmarked by March 3, 2003. Winners will be notified in May. For more information or to request an application, call 1-800-232-3639, ext. 4584.

Speech team takes first in tournament

CANYON — West Texas A&M University's speech team took first-place honors at the 15th Annual Hill Country Swing recently in Austin. The event marked the team's first tournament this year as they competed against approximately 15 schools in more than 11 different speaking events.

Results from the first half of the swing tournament put the University of Texas — Austin in first place, followed by WTAMU in second and Kansas State University, third. Team placings for the second half of the event were Kansas State, first, WTAMU, second and Texas Tech, third.

Combined tournament results gave the first-place win to the WTAMU team. Second place went to Kansas State and Texas Tech took the third-place berth. The WTAMU team is coached by Dawn Lowry, instructor of speech communication.

Braford cattle will be exhibited at Fort Worth for the first time this coming year.

including entry applications are available at the Stock Show's official website, www.fwssr.com. The Premium Lists and entry applications are also available by contacting the Stock Show office.

The 107th Show kicks off with the tradition-filled Ranching Heritage Weekend to be presented by Western Horseman, which includes the "Best of the West" Ranch Rodeo set to begin at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 11, in Will Rogers Coliseum.

This rodeo pits teams of cowboys from Southwestern ranches in events based on actual ranching operations like bronc busting, ranch vet, stock sorting, calf branding and wild cow milking. The following day will be the Invitational Ranch Horse Show and Sale.

Braford cattle will be exhibited at Fort Worth for the first time this coming year. Other new events include the "National Spotlight" Red Angus Sale, Texas Pony of the Americas Club Sale and the Superior Livestock Co.'s "Cattleman's Winter Classic" satellite video auctions, making a total of 16 livestock auctions held during the run of the show. It is anticipated that in excess of 20,000 animals will be entered in the 2003 Stock Show.

A special educational opportunity for all ages will include the popular Planet Agriculture, an exhibit presented by TXU Electric and Gas and coordinated by Texas Farm Bureau. Housed in the exhibit area between the Sheep Barn and Cattle Barn 1, the interactive display will demonstrate daily involvement links between the consumer and agriculture through sight, sound and touch. Other free educational experiences include the TexasBank Petting Zoo, the FFA Children's Barnyard and the Milking Parlor.

The Stock Show has again teamed with Gerardo "Jerry" Diaz, a crowd favorite at Fort Worth in the past, to present another outstanding Mexican charro exhibition at which he will be joined by fellow Charra Mexicana to entertain Coliseum audiences with performances on Jan. 14 and 15. The presentation includes traditional Mariachi music and folklorico dancers. Mexican rodeo events, and ranchera songs by Nayelie Meza, a 13-year-old vocalist from Mexico City.

The 30 performances of the "World's Original Indoor Rodeo" are set to begin on Jan. 17 and run through Feb. 2. Go to www.fwssr.com for complete details.

West Texas A&M students plan regional 4-H convention

CANYON — Their motto is "To make the best better," and that is what West Texas A&M University Collegiate 4-H members are striving to do as they prepare for the 2002 Collegiate 4-H Southern Regional Convention.

The theme for the convention set for Oct. 18-20 at WTAMU is "Taming the West, Empowering the Youth," and some empowering has already begun as five students have taken on the full responsibility of planning the event.

"Collegiate 4-H is about serving others and building character," Greta Schuster, Collegiate 4-H adviser and assistant professor of integrated pest management, said. "When the responsibility of planning an event, like the upcoming convention, falls on the students, they realize they are accountable to their club, the University and 4-H clubs throughout the region. That sense of responsibility motivates them to be organized, reliable and to work as a team. They are acquiring qualities that will give them the character it takes to be successful in their lives."

Laura Lemons, Collegiate

4-H president and co-chair of the convention planning committee, said the committee began making arrangements in April by planning meals and activities, lining up speakers and making hotel arrangements for visiting clubs.

Lemons, a sophomore double major in agribusiness and ag education, graduated from Raton High School (N.M.) in 2001 and began her college career at WTAMU, where she does more than act as Collegiate 4-H president. Lemons is vice president of the Block and Bridle Club, a member of Future Farmers of America and a member of the Agribusiness Club and its competitive quiz bowl team. Lemons said planning the regional convention has had more impact on her than any other experience in Collegiate 4-H.

"I've definitely learned how to get things done," Lemons said. "Things don't take care of themselves. It's nice to have Dr. Schuster there if we need her, but we are the planning committee, so there is not really any higher authority to ask when we are making decisions about speakers and meals and such."

This will be the first 4-H convention at WTAMU, and Lemons said they are expecting 30-40 students from the region to attend. Students are expected from Texas Tech University, Texas A&M University, Oklahoma State University and even as far away as North Carolina State University.

Students at the convention will visit the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and the American Quarter Horse Association, participate in workshops and a ropes course, complete a community service project at High Plains Food Bank and still have plenty of free time for fun and relaxation at places like Ceta Canyon and Palo Duro Canyon.

Vegetable garden thrives ... in alley

By JANE ALDRED LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

LUBBOCK, Texas — When Ray Womack's daughter said she wanted to plant a garden, an idea cropped up in his mind.

"We didn't want to reduce the backyard space," he said. "So the idea was to use the alley. It was unused. It's grass you don't look at, so why not utilize this space?"

Three years later, the garden stretching the length of his backyard fence has provided enough vegetables to fill his family's freezer and his neighbor's refrigerators, Ray Womack said.

He, his wife, Terri, and their daughter, Jennifer Hollingshead, a ninth-grader at Hutchinson Junior High School, planted squash, cucumbers, watermelons and corn.

"It's the second year with the vegetables," Jennifer said. "The first year it was mine, and we planted flowers. They were huge."

Ray Womack designed a makeshift watering system from three hoses. He connected one hose to the spout, used a Y-splitter to divide the stream to two hoses and ran the hoses under the fence. He then connected drip lines to the hoses and ran them the length of the garden.

"It works pretty well because it goes under the fence and you don't end up soaking the fence," Womack said. It also makes slow watering easier.

"That's a really low maintenance way to do it and not have to be out here for hours every day watering the plants," Womack said. Saving time is important because he and Terri work full time as registered nurses, Womack said.

The family collected old timbers from the side of the road to outline the garden and prepared the soil for planting.

"I was able to borrow a tiller from the next-door neighbor the first year," Womack said. "I also just turned it with a shovel by hand. Either way is fine. I don't find one advantage over another. As for fertilizer, we haven't done that yet."

The best way to keep the ground rich is to mix the alley's soil with the contents of a compost pile the family has in the back yard, he said.

"Alley soil like this is usually compact, a little sandy, and there are a lot of rocks that you have to kind of pick out," Womack said.

He has never had a problem keeping the weeds out of the garden.

"You don't get many weeds inside the boundaries because they want sunshine and the plants' leaves block the light from the ground," Womack said. "Most of our weeds are on the outside of the boundaries."

Bugs can be a problem, but Womack said he takes it in stride. "We put Seven Dust on the squash to reduce the squash bugs," he said. "The bugs will get some, but we get the rest."

The corn has suffered from worms, ants and flies, but is still growing tall, he said.

"I think, 'I live in the middle of town. There's no corn for miles. How will the bugs find me?'" Womack said. "They found me. We're learning what works and what doesn't."

Some plants have taken better than others, he said. "What's fun for us is that every time you come out here there's something new," he said. "The squash is prolific. Squash is something that you can check every day and have a new sprout."

But the watermelons seem to prefer his neighbor's yard, he said.

"The watermelons take a little patience," he said. "My neighbor, Mrs. McBee, said growing watermelons is the easiest thing in the world. We have a runner that went under her fence and she has had two melons growing in her yard from the garden."

When the Womacks decided to expand the garden farther down the alley, he spoke with their neighbor, LaJoyce McBee, and asked to use her alley space to grow corn, he said.

"It was just beautiful," she said. "They have shared some of their vegetables with me, and I think it's great that the space is being used instead of just sitting there."

The vegetables are much tastier than any store-bought produce, she said. "I think they're better for you, too," McBee said.

The view of her backyard from her living-room window has improved too, McBee said. "I like seeing the corn rising over the fence," she said. "It's much better than looking at a bare fence."

Sharing vegetables with the neighborhood also makes for good community relations, Womack said.

"I consider myself a share-cropper," he said. "You have something in your hand when you go see them. You have to give it away because you have too much."

The family does a small amount of weekly maintenance on the garden, he said. "It's a good family activity," Womack said.

Gardening runs in the family for Womack, who said his parents were avid gardeners. "Our neighbors everywhere we've lived have been great, too," he said. "They have always shared plants."

His family plans to continue cultivating the alley, he said. "It's really about making it useful," Womack said. "It's turning nothing into something."

APGAR SCORE

The Apgar is an evaluation that was developed in 1952 by Dr. Virginia Apgar as a means to quickly evaluating the condition of newborns. One minute after birth, the nurse or doctor checks the infant's Appearance (color), Pulse (heartbeat), Grimace (reflex), Activity (muscle tone), and Respiration (APGAR). Each factor receives 0-2 points, for a potential total of 10. Babies who score above 6 are fine. Those who score between 4 and 6 often need resuscitation, which generally consists of suctioning their airways and administering oxygen. Those who score under 4 require more dramatic lifesaving techniques. The Apgar test is administered again at 5 minutes after birth. If the score is then 7 or better, the outlook is good.

Dr. Huertas

Though tests and numbers may be frightening to first time parents, it should be remembered that the overwhelming majority of pregnancies turn out just fine. Your commitment to early and ongoing prenatal care is the best way to ensure having a healthy baby. To schedule an appointment for your OB/GYN care, phone my office at (806) 273-7771. We are located at 106 S. Bryan, Borger. New patients are welcome.

P.S. If the baby's Apgar score is lower than 7 after five minutes, it means that the baby needs some careful watching but is still quite likely to turn out fine.

Ancient Jewish music gets a reverent update

By CORRIE MACLAGGAN
AUSTIN AMERICAN-STATESMAN

AUSTIN — Galeet Dardashti sings the songs of her Jewish ancestors in a way they may not recognize. Her band, Divahn, gives music of Middle Eastern Jewry a Southern twist.

Not too surprising, considering Jewish people in the Diaspora are constantly picking up the habits of their adopted cultures. But adding banjo to a 16th-century sabbath melody?

"The music we play is true to tradition," says Dardashti, who sings and plays guitar with the all-female acoustic quartet. "But I don't feel like tradition is something static — it's fluid."

Divahn means "a collection of songs or poetry" in Hebrew, Persian and Arabic. The band sings in these languages as well as in Aramaic and Ladino (Hebrew-flavored Spanish).

The musicians adapt secular texts, such as a Ladino wedding song, and religious texts, such as Psalm 147. They usually keep the words intact, but they take liberties with the instrumentation, in part because many of the songs were traditionally chanted without instruments.

Beside Dardashti, the band consists of Lauren DeAlbert (percussion and didgeridoo, a wind instrument), Michal Raizen (cello) and Emily Pinkerton (violin, banjo and rabel, a string instrument).

The very fact that Divahn defines themselves as a Jewish group performing Middle Eastern music makes a political statement.

"We're not exactly holding up signs," says Dardashti, a Ph.D. candidate in anthropology at the University of Texas. "But people don't understand the diversity of Jewry from all over the world. Middle Eastern and Jewish traditions have not always been separate."

Dardashti has become an expert on the subject. Her dissertation focuses on the politics of Middle Eastern music, specifically Israel's reluctance to accept Arab culture. In February, the band will go on hiatus as Dardashti travels to Israel on a Fulbright/Hays fellowship to do field research.

Dardashti's own family is Middle Eastern and Jewish — she comes from a long line of Iranian Jewish musicians. Her grandfather Yona Dardashti was a celebrated singer in Iran, and her father sang on a weekly television show in Teheran before he moved to the United States in 1963 when he was 19.

From age 8, Dardashti traveled around the United States and Canada, singing with her family's bands, a Dash of Dardashti and the Dardashti Family. "We were like the Partridge family," she says.

Dardashti's father, Farid Dardashti is a cantor in New Rochelle, N.Y. He recalls that his middle daughter had natural musical talent from the time she was a toddler, when she would sit in her high chair humming melodies.

"When she was 3 years old, my wife and I brought her onstage and she immediately said, 'Where's my microphone?'" he says. "We right away knew Galeet wanted to be a performer."

Before Divahn, Galeet Dardashti had wanted to start her own band but was too busy with graduate school. Her friend DeAlbert, a music teacher at the Austin Lyric Opera Center, talked her into it last year. They joined with Madeleine Sosin, who was replaced by Pinkerton last summer when Sosin moved, and Raizen, a May UT music performance graduate.

"It never occurred to me that I could be playing Jewish music," says Raizen, an Israeli-born classical cellist.

The group first performed in March 2001 at the Agudas Achim synagogue and released its self-titled CD in May of this year.

While Divahn do play at synagogues, they also perform at nonreligious venues like the Cactus Cafe and played during South by Southwest this spring. They want to reach a diverse audience — in part, to let people know there's more to Jewish music than klezmer, the somewhat better-known music of European Jewry. Divahn's songs tend to start out with a slow, melodic lyricism and build up to a high-energy rhythm.

"Our music is relevant beyond religious and Jewish contexts," says Pinkerton, a doctoral student in ethnomusicology at UT and the band's only non-Jew.

Pinkerton, who has studied in Chile and Venezuela, brings experience with Latin American musical traditions to the group. She plays the rabel, a three-stringed Chilean lap instrument that was the subject of her master's thesis.

The group takes pride in its all-female makeup, even if that means bucking ancient protocol. Many Middle Eastern and Indian traditions do not permit women to play percussion. DeAlbert plays tabla, an Indian drum; riq, a Middle Eastern tambourine; tar, a frame drum; and zills, finger cymbals.

"I've been told that I should marry a percussionist rather than be one," says DeAlbert, who also plays with the local 1001 Nights Orchestra.

She gets goosebumps when she talks about what this music means to her. Her first musical experience came in Hebrew school, where she would chant Jewish songs.

For her part, Raizen feels so close to her cello that she brings the large instrument wherever she goes — even into restaurants. "It's name is Sir David," she says. "But I'd rather not talk about that."

NRHC becoming repository, historical source for branding irons

Stories from ranches that were established as early as the mid-1800s are featured in a new National Ranching Heritage Center (NRHC) exhibit titled "Irons From The Fire." It utilizes more than 100 branding irons to convey the ranches' personal genealogy.

The exhibit hangs in the NRHC's DeVitt-Mallet Museum Building and can be seen at no charge from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and from 1-5 p.m., Sunday.

Brands were called "the heraldry of the range" by noted author and chronicler J. Evetts Haley. He and others likened a rancher's brand to a coat of arms. The iron was a symbol of ownership and the rancher's way of protecting his herd from rustlers on the long trail drives and in the vast grazing spreads in the years before barbed wire and railroads.

The idea for the exhibit began in September 2000, when the National Ranching

Heritage Center announced a program to collect, document and exhibit historical and contemporary branding irons.

"As we accepted the branding irons from donors, what came with them was very interesting information," said the Center's Associate Director Marsha Gustafson. "Some information was moving, some of it was right out of history books. Often, a strong sense of pride was conveyed about the owners' heritage, and some irons came with no information at all. They are the mysteries we hope to unravel as people see the exhibit."

One story from Andrew Kershner of Hereford told about the ranch that had been a part of the Great Mounts and Pasture from 1885 to 1921. The land joined the XIT on the east, about 10 miles west of what is now Hereford. In April 1919, a terrible snowstorm killed thousands of cattle, including many of those belonging to the owner.

The story goes that he never recovered the loss and died two years later. The Great Mounts Pasture was subsequently broken up and sold off.

Another account accompanied a branding iron used by Edgar J. Jones in Moore County, beginning in 1920. In 1941, his father bought a ranch in Knox County just northeast of Truscott. Edgar moved there with his wife and children to farm and ranch in partnership with his son, Vernon, raising Hereford cattle.

In 1980, the Army Corps of Engineers condemned the core of the ranch to form the Truscott Brine Lake.

Branding irons have been donated from as far away as Indiana, California, and Colorado. The CT branding irons from Bert Lloyd of Lubbock described a relative's ranch in New Mexico.

Lloyd's brother and the ranch owner, Cecil Terry, married sisters. Cecil and his wife had no children, and their ranch was described as "a high, lonesome old place and a long way from anywhere." Lloyd recalled as a young man going there to hunt prairie dogs.

The staff is documenting and preserving branding irons as symbols of the ranching industry in an effort to make the National Ranching Heritage Center a widely recognized repository for the irons, both contemporary and historical. Each branding iron is exhibited with an image of the brand on a descriptive label. Information is provided about the brand, donor, and ranch on which the iron is or was used.

From Plains, the TE Connected brand is an example of the pride displayed by many ranch families for their heritage and way of life. The TE branding iron was made and given to his new baby boy by Bill Harris Powell when Ty Earl was born in 1944. The child was also given a heifer calf for a baby gift to carry the brand. Registered in Yoakum County, the brand has been in continuous use ever since.

Most of the irons show wear and use, but not all of their owners came from a ranching background. Such is the story of Fred Zimmerman Sr. as told by his grandson and namesake, Fred Zimmerman III of Lubbock, when he donated the Z iron to the Center's collection.

Zimmerman Sr. was a native of Oregon. He was from a privileged background, having graduated from Stanford in 1907, where he was president of the crew team.

"The story goes that he was employed by a large hop merchant in San Francisco as its Oregon representative," Gustafson said. "He resigned and purchased an interest in F. Zimmerman & Co. of Portland, 'importers and jobbers of liquors.' In 1914, Oregon voted to go 'dry' effective Jan. 1, 1916, and F. Zimmerman & Co. began liquidating its assets.

"Fred left for Texas and using the money he had made as a liquor representative, he had a 38-year career accumulating land in Deaf Smith, Oldham, and Floyd counties. He used the Z brand until his death in 1954, his grandson told us."

The history of the Charles Moline family's Half Circle M branding iron also came with an interesting past. The ranch land in what is now Parker and Palo Pinto counties had once been a bounty paid to a young man named William Malone, who later died at the Alamo.

4-H

"The purpose of the convention is to get to know the other clubs in the Southern region," Lemons said. "We want everyone to be acquainted with each other so we can represent our region well at the national convention."

The 2003 National Collegiate 4-H Convention will take place in February in Fort Worth. WTAMU will serve as host to the event with Texas Tech and Oklahoma State.

Lemons said WTAMU only recently became involved in 4-H on the national level thanks to the efforts of former president Melissa Corvin.

"Individuals becoming more involved has helped our club as a whole," Lemons said. "Now we know more about who we are and where we are going as an organization. I think that is why we have the confidence now to host a convention on our own campus."

Lemons said WTAMU's leadership roles in the regional and national conventions will help build WTAMU's name, and hopefully, draw more people to the University.

"I'm looking forward to seeing how well the convention goes," Lemons said. "It has taken a great team effort to meet this big challenge. We hope to represent our club and the University well as we make WTAMU's first regional 4-H convention a success."

For more information about Collegiate 4-H and the 2002 Collegiate 4-H Southern Regional Convention, contact Laura Lemons at 806-651-2550.

TCE program to feature some 'entertaining' ideas

Ideas for decorating, entertaining, and gift-giving will be showcased at "Celebrate 2002" to be presented by area Texas Cooperative Extension agents on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at Texas A&M Extension and Research Center in Amarillo.

The program will be presented twice — once at 1:30 in the afternoon and again at 6:30 in the evening. Registration will begin 30 minutes prior to the beginning of each program.

Todd Williams, Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension agent from Rockwell, will present a lively and educational demonstration on "Holiday Decorating with a Natural Flair."

In addition to Williams' presentation, 20 Extension agents from the Panhandle District, including Joan Gray, Gray County Extension agent for Family and Consumer Sciences, will be on hand.

Attendees will get to browse through tables sporting a variety of prepared foods, decorating motifs, and entertaining notions.

Party ideas for all seasons will be presented, from autumn harvest, to Christmas, to beach parties and more. Guests will be able to sample a multitude of main dishes, desserts, appetizers, and beverages.

Each participant will be sent home a packet of instructions, illustrations, and recipes to inspire their next get-together.

Advance tickets are $8 per person and are currently available for purchase through Oct. 21 at the Gray County Extension office, 2501 E. Frederic, Gray Co. Annex, Pampa. Tickets will be $10 apiece at the door. For more information, contact the local Extension office at 669-8033.

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Oct. 14, 2002:
Learn to curb your temper this year, or else you might find yourself in a touchy or difficult situation. Loosen up when dealing with a child or loved one who means a lot to you. Understand more of what needs to happen in order to warm up a relationship or key tie, if attached. If you are single, you could tumble in and out of love several times before you meet the right person. Reach out for others at a distance. Be willing to understand where someone else is coming from. Play amateur psychologist more often. Some will travel or go back to school to learn more. Travel marks your year. A foreigner could play a big role in your life. AQUARIUS is always a hoot.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
* A cousin, sibling or neighbor seeks you out. You could be irritated by his or her demands. Trust that all will work out just fine, if you relax. You can and will stay centered if you stay focused on your goal. A meeting propels your drive. Tonight: Find your friends.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 What might be someone else's pleasure could be a real nuisance for you. Don't allow yourself to become reactive when dealing with a child or creative product. A boss or superior could be unusually vague. Try as you might, you won't be able to pin her or him down. Tonight: Burn the midnight oil.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
* Your seriousness puts a glitch in your domestic or personal front. Do you really want to deal with this? Read between the lines with a boss or higher up. Know when to establish boundaries but also when to let them down. Tonight: Explore some travel options.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
* Step back if you feel something might be a bit off-kilter. What is going on behind the scenes needs attention. A discussion with a partner or associate invites more teamwork. Ultimately, you decide how much you want to give. Tonight: Togetherness works.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
* Others confuse a project, which ultimately could be extremely frustrating. Don't lose your focus. Scattering could cause some financial problems with which you might not be prepared to deal. Stand by your convictions. Tonight: Where the fun is.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 A mistake could be costly and unnerving. Stay centered at work, clearing out confusion. Asking too many questions proves to be a lot smarter than not asking enough. Keep your focus right now. Don't lose your temper, if possible. Tonight: Work off steam through some healthy exercise.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
* Understand what might be ailing someone at a distance. You might decide that pleasing this person could be close to impossible. Walk in your own direction, and focus on what is necessary to make yourself happy. Start living your life on a different premise. Tonight: Pretend it is Friday night.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
* A friend drives a hard bargain, forcing your hand. A partner lets you know just how uncomfortable he or she is. You need to understand who's who in your life. Honor your heartfelt feelings when making a decision. Tonight: Order in.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
* Keep talking, even if you find a boss or associate offensive. Getting angry will not help. Be sure of yourself. Understand another's stalemate, but also make key suggestions to help. Don't worry if problems aren't instantly settled. Tonight: Munchies at a favorite spot.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
* Your discussions are animated and exciting to others. You force a door open, but don't be surprised if you get a backlash. You cannot always have what you want, as you will learn. Be as direct as possible about a financial matter. Tonight: Do some shopping.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
* You could get quite a kick from a close associate. Understand that you cannot control others, no matter what. Your humor comes out when dealing with a child or loved one. You might not be so sure of yourself. Someone else assumes a lot. Tonight: Follow a whim.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 A partner lets you have it. Don't push a loved one too hard; understand what a huge backfire you could have. Intuitively, you might understand something someone else cannot grasp. Pressure builds on the home front. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep.

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Oct. 13, 2002:
This year you're full of energy and get-up-and-go. You work through a lot of anger through physical activity. You might also want to learn new ways of expressing your hurt before it builds to that level. Your domestic life becomes a high priority. Some of you will also become involved in real estate in some form. Use your creativity and ingenuity, especially in the area of romance, children and any artistic endeavor. If you are single, you very well could kiss that status goodbye, as a special bond enters your life. If you are attached, your relationship will warm up considerably. Share more of yourself with your sweetie. AQUARIUS is fun.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
* Follow your innate impulsiveness, and you won't have a problem. Stay on cue with others. Check in on family members, especially an older relative who might not have as much bounce as you. Pitch in and help. Tonight: Get into a favorite game.
This Week: Meetings provide the impetus you need and want. By Wednesday, you dig your heels in and zoom through remaining work.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
* Your creativity and imagination encourage experimentation or doing something totally different. Lighten up when dealing with others, especially a parent or older relative. Your efforts come back in multiples if you simply relax. Tonight: A must appearance.
This Week: Take charge and get the job done. You gain others' respect and find the path easier and easier.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
* Indulge a family member as you only can do. Listen to a partner's or dear friend's feedback. Spend time with this person. Sometimes you have a way of making others feel insignificant. Be more childlike. Tonight: Enjoy a good book.
This Week: Research your facts. You make an important presentation on Wednesday. Everything falls into place.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)

* Others seek you out. Get into the moment. Use this day to connect with others and catch up on news. You might want to throw a party or get-together. Make light of a situation. Don't get as serious as you have been. Tonight: Accept an invitation.
This Week: Deal with others directly through Tuesday. Make it your job to explore, different options both professionally and emotionally.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
* Continue a more nurturing approach with yourself and with others. Success comes through animated conversations and more responsiveness. Share a new hobby or pastime. You discover that others are as enthusiastic as you are. Tonight: Out and about.
This Week: Others seek you out. Find out the facts when dealing with emotional and professional situations before you sign on any dotted line. OK?
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
* Your high energy could unintentionally push others away. Carefully think through your decisions that involve a child or loved one. Loosen up and share your affection with others. You don't have to always be a whirlwind. Tonight: Away you go.
This Week: You know what to do and how to do it. Don't try to convince others. Just finish off your work.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
* Deal with a family member who could be rather testy. You might not be comfortable with someone else who seems very sure of him- or herself. You see through another's act. Allow the kid in you out when making plans. Tonight: Be a wild thing.
This Week: Funnel your creativity into work, or else you could be all over the map, especially after Tuesday. Stay as level as possible.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
* A friend tries hard to coerce you into doing more of what he or she wants. Be direct with this person. Sometimes it might be easier to say "yes" than "no." Learn to say "no." You don't have to overexplain. Focus on family in the later day. Tonight: Enjoy a favorite family game.
This Week: Bring extra work home, if need be. Understand your limits more thoroughly. Put that extra spin on an idea Wednesday or Thursday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
* Stay on top of responsibilities like going in to work or spending some time on the computer. Happily for many, this task simply might involve some yardwork. Very few people have your energy! Do something special for another. Tonight: Hang out.
This Week: Speak your mind, and others will respond. Your leadership on a project proves to be instrumental.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
* Pack a picnic lunch and gather a loved one or child. An adventure is just what the doctor ordered. You find that you relax when far away from home, whether looking at the stars in a planetarium or at a flea market. Get into the mood of the season. Tonight: A must appearance.
This Week: Fortunately, finances are your forte. Continue managing your budget with that expertise. Return calls and network from Wednesday on.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
* You might not be sure what you want to do. Make that OK, as you play it by ear. You simply might need some time alone to walk through the leaves. A partner seems to be able to stay in sync with you in the late afternoon. Tonight: Smile, and the world smiles with you.
This Week: Your personality eases your way through many doors. Clear your desk and deal with problems.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
* Refuse to settle in. Invite friends over for a late brunch or meet them at a favorite breakfast spot. Go with the flow. Don't pin yourself down with plans. Be impulsive. Consider a wild suggestion. You'll have a ball. Tonight: Head on home early.
This Week: Take your time doing research. By Wednesday, take a stand and deal with others directly.

NOTICE

Pampa Independent School district participates in an Integrated Pest Management program and has an adopted IPM School Board policy. IPM is an effective and environmentally sensitive approach that relies on a combination of common sense practices. The IPM program uses current, comprehensive information on the life cycles of pests and their interactions with the environment. This information, in combination with available pest control methods, is used to manage pest damage by the most economical means and with the least possible hazard to people, property and the environment. IPM programs take advantage of all pest management options possibly including, but not limited to, the judicious use of pesticides.
