PRICE FIVE CENTS

FLIVVER PLANE DROPS INTO SEA

Plaintiff Gets $1,500 in $35,000 Suit Against City

TRAIN ROBBERS GET $133,000 SHIPMENT

DYNAMITE CAR CARRYING CASH FOR PAYROLLS

Terrify Crew Saturday in Southwestern Outskirts of Chicago

USE A DISGUISE AND SHOOT MUCH

Same Train Robbed of Similar Amount Year Ago

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Six men held up a Grand Trunk train in the southwestern outskirts of Chicago today, cowed crew and passengers with a fusillade from sawed-off shotguns, dynamited the mail car and escaped with $133,000 being sent from two Chicago banks to two in Harvey, Ill., nearby industrial center.

Of the money, $80,000 was a consignment from the Chicago Federal reserve bank to the First National bank of Harvey and $53,000 was being sent to the bank of Harvey by the First National bank of Chicago. The funds were to meet the payrolls of four Harvey manufacturing plants which pay by check.

Less than a year ago the same train was held up within two city blocks of where it was today, and upon that occasion virtually the same amount of money, $135,000, was the robbers' loot. Today's shipment strangely totaled the figure, but $2,000 was sent by another route.

Not Scheduled Stop
The train was halted at St. Maria's not a scheduled stop, to permit one passenger with a ticket to that point to alight.

Two of the robbers herded the engineer and fireman to the rear of the train, while the other three, acting under orders of one identified as the leader because he wore a white mask while the others wore black, sprayed the steel sides of the coaches with shot gun slugs.

John Kelly, veteran mail clerk who was in charge of the car robbed last year, offered resistance, despite the terrific concussion he suffered when the car was dynamited, and was beaten insensible.

George Peters of Battle Creek, Mich. the other clerk in the car, was bound and gagged.

Searched All Sacks
With the clerks disposed of and the four robbers outside effectively subjugating crew, passengers and passers-by, the two robbers who invaded the mail car calmly but swiftly searched among the mail sacks they found the money pouches. As they walked toward the station, the gang leader whistled shrilly and the men guarding crew and passengers joined them.

All dashed to a closed automobile parked nearby, the pouches were tossed in, and within twelve minutes from the time the train ground to a stop the holdup had been perpetrated and the robbers had escaped.

The alarm was not spread quickly because all telephone wires in the vicinity had been cut, but Chicago detectives and post office inspectors soon were at the scene.

The train's destination was Port Huron, Mich., and its crew was reached at Valparaiso, Ind., and told to return to Chicago to assist in the investigation.

The train was made up of three baggage cars ahead of the mail car and two passenger coaches back of it.

DAVIS CORNER IS SOLD SATURDAY

V. E. Fatheree is Purchaser of Property at Intersection

Negotiations were completed yesterday whereby V. E. Fatheree local druggist, purchased from Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Davis the 75x100-foot lot and buildings on the corner of Cuyler street and Foster avenue. The purchase price has not been announced, but a $10,000 deposit was made by V. E. Fatheree to close the deal.

The transaction was completed between the two parties concerned with the firm of Cary and Tracey, local lawyers, drawing up the contract.

The location covers three lots and is occupied by the K. C. Clothing store, Kraft's Mint, a shoe repairing shop, Davis Plumbing shop, a barber shop, the Tulsa cafe and a vacant plot. This corner, with the present buildings and nine other lots adjoining, were purchased by J. E. Duncan in September, 1906, from the Johnson Mercantile company of Canadian for $2,500.

Mr. Duncan then traded the corner property to the W. P. Davis company for a section of land having a money value of about $15,000. A. E. Davis came into possession of the property by means of a business transaction last year.

Mr. Fatheree will not take possession until June 1. He does not plan to improve the corner until next year when a large brick building will be erected on the corner if the city continues to warrant such a structure.

The corner was the proposed location of the seven-story office building for which plans were under way, but the owner and the promoters of the exchange could not come to terms.

Tommy Smith of Wise, Va., son of Deputy O. T. Smith, arrived here yesterday morning and will make his home here with his father.

DELLA TODD IS GIVEN AMOUNT FOR INJURIES

Hard-Fought Case Requires Whole Week to Hear

GREW OUT OF CAR ACCIDENT

Open Ditch Was Left Unlighted, Jury Is Told

Damages of $1,500 were awarded Miss Della Todd in 84th district court Saturday afternoon in her $35,000 suit against the City of Pampa.

The verdict was returned by the jury in special issues, finding that the city had negligently left an open ditch unlighted at night, that this negligence had contributed to the causes of the accident in which Miss Todd received permanent injuries, and that judgment should be $1,500 and costs of the case.

The suit grew out of an automobile accident May 25, 1927, in which a Ford Coupe driven by L. G. Lunsford is alleged to have struck an unlighted open ditch left by the city during grading work at the intersection of Cuyler and Barnes streets. The car was stopped suddenly, throwing the passengers into the windshield, and resulting in injuries to Miss Todd and the death of her sister, Mickey.

Another Case Pending
Another $35,000 suit, brought by Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Todd of Shamrock parents of the girls, is pending against the city in connection with the death of their daughter, and L. G. Lunsford driver of the wrecked car, is asking $2,500 hospital and physicians' fees resulting from injuries to himself.

The city was represented by Chas. C. Cook, and the plaintiff by Judge Ben S. Baldwin and W. M. Lewright. Beginning Monday, the case consumed the entire week, and went to the jury about 10 p. m. Friday night. Scores of witnesses were used in the bitterly fought case. Arguments were begun at 1 o'clock Friday, when Lewright opened for the plaintiff, Cook spoke for the defense, and Baldwin closed the argument. The jury was composed of T. T. Nicholson, foreman, A. G. McKay, Roy Sullivan, P. B. Farley, E. J. Metting, E. H. Turbush, T. McKnight, James Mettall, L. L. Lavender, C. M. Spurlock, K. E. Winsom, and G. D. Hunt.

Two Divorces Given
Divorces were granted by Judge Newton P. Willis in the suits of J. S. Battle vs. Mrs. J. S. Battle, and of Mrs. Dorothy Lewright vs. W. M. Lewright.

A crowded criminal docket will be opened tomorrow. The conflicting term of the 31st district court, scheduled to open at LeFors March 5, because of inadequate facilities, been transferred for a special two-week term in Hutchinson county. This arrangement was made by Judge Reece Tatum of Dalhart, presiding over North Texas district court schedules.

This necessary omission of the 31st district court session will still further increase the congestion in Gray county.

Blackmer's Son Gives Little More Data

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—For more than an hour today the Senate Teapot Dome committee grilled the son of Henry M. Blackmer, self-exiled oil magnate, but obtained virtually no additional information as to the formation and operations of the ephemeral Continental Trading company.

The son, Myron K. Blackmer, of Denver, a vice-president of the Mid-West Refining company, asserted that he had no knowledge of the Continental deal aside from the fact that his father, once chairman of the board of the Mid-West, had told him he was interested in the Continental and had made $750,000 in profit out of it.

Mrs. J. E. Murfee returned Friday from an extended buying trip in Chicago. She reports an excellent trip and brings back to Pampa many suggestions and style creations for spring and

Court House Removal Big Issue Before City, Speakers at Mass Meeting Declare—Funds Raised

Needs of County and District Can Best Be Met by Locating Center of Government Where Conveniences Abound—Pampa.

Despite the steadily falling snow and counter attractions, about 60 men gathered at Pla-Mor auditorium Friday evening and enthusiastically discussed steps to move the county seat to Pampa. Ivey Duncan presided and spoke strongly for the project.

Other speakers were F. M. Gwin, the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, F. P. Reid, and J. N. Duncan. Most of the speakers told what the county seat would mean to Pampa and why it should be moved. The need for a safe depository for county records, a larger courtroom, and other facilities was stressed, with the declaration that only removal to Pampa can justify these improvements and provide all factors necessary.

To help defray expenses of the drive for votes which will start with increased momentum tomorrow, a collection was taken and $260 realized. Next Thursday evening, weather permitting, a greater mass meeting will be held at a place to be announced. Local workers are optimistic over the chances to locate the county seat in Pampa but they declare much work and community-wide cooperation will be the condition of success.

Staunch Character of J. C. McConnell Honored by Friends

More than 200 friends joined relatives of J. C. McConnell yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian church in a funeral service dedicated to the staunch virtues of this Pampa pioneer. Burial followed in Fairview cemetery. Previously there was a service for the relatives at the residence.

The Rev. W. L. Evans, Presbyterian minister, told of Mr. McConnell's strong faith in the Scriptures and of how he delighted to hear the Bible preached without modern sensationalism.

Rev. Irwin, superintendent of the Presbyterian Children's home in Amarillo, told of Mr. McConnell's life as a hardy pioneer, and sketched the hardships that had to be overcome. He praised the good citizenship and influence of the man, and told of his yearly contributions to the orphan home in Amarillo.

The Rev. Tom W. Brabham led in prayer, Hugh McKimming played on the piano, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mann sang a duet, "In the Garden," by request of the family of Mr. McConnell who greatly liked the song, and the Presbyterian choir and members of other choirs sang.

Many old acquaintances of Mr. McConnell attended the funeral, and the floral offerings were a great tribute to the esteem in which he was held.

The active pall bearers were G. G. Frazier, J. L. Noel, V. A. Cobb, M. L. Dowd, W. E. Archer, I. B. Hughey, L. L. Stalls.

Honorary pall bearers designated included C. S. Barrett, L. C. McMurtry, C. A. Tignor, W. T. Wilks, T. D. Hobart, A. G. McKay, M. K. Brown, T. A. Horn, J. N. Duncan, W. C. Archer, J. B. Bowers, J. H. BROOKS FALLS AFTER MAKING DISTRESS SIGN

Hope of Rescue Fades as No Trace Found of Aviator

FORD SHOWING MUCH CONCERN

Fast Boats Streak to Scene Following Crash

MELBOURNE, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Virtually all hope that the aviator would be found alive was abandoned as the hours slipped by after Harry Brooks and his "Flivver" plane dropped into the sea near here just before dusk Saturday.

It was pointed out that if he had managed to jump clear of the plane when he crashed he either should have been able to swim ashore or have been picked up by one of the speedy boats that streaked to the scene.

MELBOURNE, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A small monoplane, believed to be the Detroit Ford "Flivver" piloted by Harry Brooks, plunged into the ocean a mile and a half off shore here at dusk tonight and four hours later the fate of its pilot was in doubt despite feverish efforts of searchers in boats to locate him and the plane. Melbourne is about 50 miles south of Titusville on a direct line with Miami, his destination.

Reports reaching here were that the craft was drifting rapidly to the open water. All available boats started for the wrecked plane, and a large searchlight was rushed from Vero Beach.

Seen in Distress
The pilot of the distressed plane was seen just before dark frantically waving his coat from atop the wing.

W. K. Soltz, city manager, said the plane passed over Melbourne flying at about 100 feet elevation and apparently in trouble, with a north-west wind at its tail.

"The pilot," he said, "seemed to be hunting a place to land. Then he headed out to sea and about half a mile out suddenly nosed into the water. That part of the craft which rose to the surface after the crash showed no signs of life and approaching darkness soon hid the wreckage from view."

The city manager said he was confident the little plane was that of Brooks.

FORD IS WORRIED.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Henry Ford indicated deep concern tonight over the failure of Harry Brooks to arrive at Miami and the report that a plane resembling his Ford "Flivver" had fallen into the sea off Melbourne. Although he would make no comment, he kept a special messenger on watch at the office of the Tropical News here to bring him definite news concerning the flier.

Child Study Club Holds Enthusiastic Meeting in Davis Home

The Child Study club met with Mrs. Frank Davis Friday afternoon for a Citizenship Day program. The club was opened by singing "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by the giving of the flag salute and the oath of allegiance.

Mrs. S. A. Hurst spoke on the history of our flag and how for the first 40 years a stripe was added for every state taken to the union. The size of the flag was too great for convenience so Congress ordered that it have the original thirteen stripes and a new star for each new state.

Mrs. B. E. Finley told of how foreigners may become citizens of the U. S. Mrs. I. E. Duncan talked of our city ordinances and how they are obeyed. The question was raised about the placing of quarantine signs for contagious diseases and how much better for all if this law was always enforced. The women all voiced a hope that it wouldn't be long until the milk ordinance was also strictly enforced. Mrs. C. M. Bryson spoke on a citizenship training in the home, and her talk was eloquently given with many patriotic poems quoted to emphasize her points. She said each home should be a small republic within itself, with each member fully respecting the rights of all the other members and all the laws of the home obeyed.

Mrs. A. H. Doucette read a paper on "Teaching Patriotism and Citizenship" which all enjoyed. Mrs. James Todd concluded the program with an appropriate reading, "A Small Boy's Essay on Washington."

During the business meeting of the club several important matters were discussed. The club voted to sponsor a movement to establish a Pampa Federation of Women, which would include representatives from all the women's organizations of the entire community. At present Pampa has four federated clubs, two study clubs soon to be federated, a University club, three Parent-Teachers associations, six missionary societies, and eight bridge clubs. Through a Federation all the organizations would be represented, and all matters affecting the women as a whole would be handled by the central body. One of the greatest needs of Pampa is a Woman's Club and room for the rural women and through united efforts it could easily be attained.

The following committee was appointed to present the plan to all the organizations and secure data for such an organization: Mrs. H. D. Lewis, chairman, Mrs. T. H. Barnard, Mrs. C. B. Barrett, Mrs. Joe M. Smith, Mrs. Floyd McConnell, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. James Todd, and Mrs. Tom Rose. The chairman, Mrs. H. D. Lewis, is asking that two representatives from each organization meet at her house Saturday March 10, at 2:30 o'clock to work out plans for such a federation.

The program committee for next year was appointed and asked to have their report ready for the business meeting in May. The committee appointed was Mrs. S. A. Hurst, Mrs. G. O. Malone, Mrs. A. Cole, Mrs. H. D. Lewis, and Mrs. W. Purviance.

The members also voted to entertain their husbands in the near future at Mrs. W. Purviance's. The fifty cents levy for each member toward the Biennial fund was collected and the club adjourned to meet March 8 with Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar for a study of myths and fairy tales with Mrs. Tom Rose as leader. The members present were Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. W. E. Coffey, Mrs. C. M. Bryson, Mrs. C. S. Barrett, Mrs. Guy Farrington, Mrs. A. Cole, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. Joe M. Smith, Mrs. H. D. Lewis, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, Mrs. Roy Tinsley, Mrs. T. E. Duncan, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. S. A. Hurst, and Mrs. A. Sawyer.

Play at Central High Enjoyable to Big Audience

An unusually well adapted cast provided a stage treat for a large audience Friday evening when the Players' club presented "The Whole Town's Talking," the very humorous farce comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos, in the Central high school auditorium.

The comedy pertained to the romantic achievements of the unkempt partner of Henry Simmons, who was being groomed by Simmons to become son-in-law as well as partner. The daughter in the case, whose interest lies in men who know the world and women is attracted to the partner only after the two schemers invent "wild oats" for the re-made Chester Binney, the business associate. Therein lies many dilemmas, for the movie actress with whom the purported affair took place appears on the scene and with her jealous fiance causes much trouble, including a "fight in the dark." A side issue concerned the father and a dancing teacher, and gave an opportunity for a "mitch comedy."

Vernon Culverhouse as the father and Lewis Fogleman as the partner sustained their difficult parts admirably, and they were matched well by Susie Bell Smalling as the mother and Edna Ballard as the very modern daughter. Alma Gaylor made a charming movie actress, and Harvey Anderson was in adequate athlete-director.

Donald Zimmerman, "of New York and Paris," interpreted his part well. Others who did good work, were Mildred Fahye and Dorothy McKinney as friends of the daughter, Daisy Dean as the dancing teacher Amadee Prichard as the maid, John Lester as the taxi driver, and Lulu Hutchins, Cleora Stanard, and De Vere Abersol as neighbors. Miss VeLora Reed deserves much commendation for her direction of the play.

No less enjoyable were the specialties, including whistling solos by Lulu Hutchins, dances by Cinita Spurlock, violin solo by Prof. Otto Schick and vocal trios by Hazel Fletcher Adelle Stone, and Avis Hetskel. The high school orchestra contributed much to the program, under the direction of Prof. Schick.

The play will be presented at White Deer Monday evening.

BY DAVID WARREN

This issue is being written in The South Plains during the monthly visit of the writer to this section. Highways in this section get in good shape rapidly. The roads are in much better shape than they are in the North Plains.

Just as the people in the North Plains are optimistic, so are they in Briscoe county. Silverton is predicting a wheat crop double that of any previous year. Two or three elevators doubtless will be built in Silverton on Fort Worth & South Plains Railway trackage.

The railroad development is having considerable effect in Silverton. A dozen bridges will be erected due to the new railway. Several frame relics are being moved out this week to make room for the permanent buildings.

Quitaque has a good civic slogan "The Town the Country Made." With agriculture as the backbone of this section, it can truly be said that the country is what is making Quitaque.

If you want to sleep in Quitaque don't wait until bed time to reserve your room. You are apt to find all hotels and rooming houses full and find it necessary to travel to the next town.

The editor of the Quitaque Post has put "Fact" as the heading for this column. In the other Nunn-Warren newspapers, it is going under "Name It" until a permanent selection is made. An unusually large amount of work the past week has made it necessary to beg for a little more time to make the permanent selection of a name.

This week is the first anniversary of the Quitaque Post, Castro County News and Briscoe County News under Nunn-Warren ownership. The work with the South Plains papers has been interesting along with that in the oil belt.

PRESS FORUM
HEALTH OFFICERS
 An example of the progressive methods of the day in the guarding of public health through proper sanitation and hygiene is found in the bill now before the Legislature of Massachusetts. The bill provides that hereafter cities and towns of the Commonwealth having 10,000 population or over, and groups of towns having in the aggregate a population equal to that number, shall appoint as health officers only those who hold a license under the State Department of public health.
 The bill also provides for an examination of health officers in a variety of subjects, including public health laboratory methods, personal hygiene, municipal sanitation, water and milk supply, waste disposal, etc.—in general, in what might be termed public hygiene, in whatever makes for cleanliness and purity in those municipal problems with which the community as a whole is concerned.
 Hitherto, public health officers in most states have been medically trained, with little or no special preparation for the work in hand. As such officers are in no wise concerned in the diagnosis or treatment of disease, medical training under the provision of this bill will be no longer required.
 The logic is perfectly sound. Public health officers will be selected from those especially trained to do the things which are to be done, and accordingly are not required to qualify in subjects with which they will not have to deal.
 Such a proposal can scarcely fail to receive the approval of all who give close attention to the problem. The plan is already under consideration in several states and is now in successful operation in New Jersey.
 In view of the growing demand for sanitary engineers, or "sanitarians," as the new term is, to act as public health officers, several institutions and universities have already developed courses on the subject. Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Michigan, Columbia, University of California, Harvard, and Yale, are among the institutions which have done so, and already they have supplied a considerable number of municipalities with sanitary engineers, highly trained for the duties they are called upon to perform. It seems the method is practicable and is likely to be generally adopted.

Sandino and be brought home to tackle our talented hold-up men at Chicago, Kansas City, and St. Louis.
 Probably the reason we don't see any highbrow machine gun robbers out here is that there are not enough people and not enough money in one spot.
 Note to town boosters: Childress Index: A city or town able to support a daily newspaper, one carrying a full Associated Press leased wire, is considered a real good town, and the fact of having such a paper is advertised at every opportunity.
 Really, a good town isn't a city until it looks sort of green from a distance. Let us plant a lot of trees this spring.
 Witnesses who have served their time shivering outside the court house at LeFors while awaiting to be called will hardly have to be told how to vote March 9. Many of them could be at a movie or attending to business if the county seat were here.

WASHINGTON LETTER
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 WASHINGTON—The White House press conferences of the near future, if one may judge by events of the last year, will find the Washington correspondents led into a dark room to listen to a voice on the other side of a black velvet curtain reinforced by a barbed wire fence.
 What some correspondents are pleased to call the degeneracy of these conferences has progressed rapidly. It has even been suggested that they be called off altogether, but that won't happen because they are still valuable both to the president and the correspondents. Meanwhile, there are several schools of thought, including that which holds that a president is entitled to all the protection he can get from the consequences of such statements as he makes to the correspondents.
 The practice of quoting presidents stopped abruptly after Harding made a bad bull in talking about the arms conference. When Coolidge came in, the correspondents were being received twice a week. They submitted questions in writing and the president answered or commented on such as he pleased.

 Correspondents often referred to the "White House Spokesman" as the man who gave the answers. The "Spokesman" gradually became a public joke, whereupon the president ordered that use of the term be omitted. Then the correspondents got together one day and submitted many copies of the question whether Mr. Coolidge would stand for renomination. After they had written about his refusal to answer, he insisted that in the future no reference should be made to questions submitted and ignored.
 The last restriction placed on the boys followed Mr. Coolidge's slip of the tongue in referring to Candidate Hoover as "President Hoover." The incident was published widely and it was soon afterward ordered that in the future no references whatever should be made to the White House press conferences; that the gatherings were to be held only so that newspapermen might obtain "background" on public affairs. Already the distinguished person who speaks at these background bouts is being referred to as the "White House Background."
 Congressman George Hud-

leston of Alabama says he may not have made himself quite clear in a recent reply to the matter with Congress.
 "My point," he says, "was that congressmen were as good as their constituents would permit them to be; that their wickedness was forced upon them as the price of re-election, and that whatever of virtue they had was despite their constituents. The real trouble with congressmen is that they need better constituencies. This point I should have made more clear. It should be qualified by an exposition of the fact that constituencies do speak per capita, but on an ad valorem basis, and that although the average in virtue of his constituency may be high, a congressman's standard is that of the dominant elements that control the elections."

CRUCIAL POINT—J. N. Duncan, chairman of the finance committee on the Pampa-Cheyenne railroad, states that the people of Pampa are not responding to the drive in the way that will make the project a success.
 It is generally felt that the railroad would be one of the best things which would come to Pampa, and that it would do much to stabilize this entire community. Moreover, the bonus, which in this case is largely of right-of-way and terminal, is one of the most reasonable ever made to a Panhandle city.
 The time is getting short for a close-up, and the committee on finance is far short of the amount required. It is up to the Pampa people to meet the committee cordially and assume a prorate part in the railroad building. The subscriber is not taking any chances, for if the drive fails the money will be returned. Now is the crucial moment. Pampa's answer to this opportunity depends upon YOUR answer.

Texas League Will Revert Back to Split Season Play

MAGNATES SET 164-TILT YEAR

Rules Adopted on Dixie Series Money for Players

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Texas league reverts back to the split season program in 1928 and 164 games, instead of the customary 156, will be played this year, club owners of the circuit decided here today at the meeting to adopt the schedule.

At the session Friday, it was agreed that the season should be from April 11 to Sept. 9. The first half of the flag race will end June 29, in accordance with a custom in previous years.

After the meeting the club owners with President J. Doak Roberts were guests of the Shreveport club at a supper, after which the magnates left for their homes.

In addition to arranging the schedule the club owners dipped into finances of the league and agreed on how the money to be obtained through the playing of the Dixie Series games with the pennant winner of the Southern association should be divided.

In the event there is a play-off at the close of the Texas league season to decide the pennant winner, the loser of the series will be entitled to second money from the disbursement of the Texas league's share of the Dixie series receipts regardless of its position in the race at the end of the first half of the season. Claimant for the third share of the receipts will be decided from the total number of games won and lost throughout the 164 contests scheduled.

The club owners also agreed that in the event of a dispute among players as to dividing the athletes' shares of the Dixie series receipts the club would have the final ruling in the matter. This is to prevent discrimination against any player.

Houston Men Will Battle for Victory in Golf Tourney

HOUSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Sunday finals of the Houston Country club's invitation golf tournament will be an All-Houston affair, with Jack Speer meeting Ossie Carlton in the 36-hole test.

Carlton reached the finals by defeating George Rotan, also of Houston and 6-time winner of the event, 5 and 5; while Speer turned back Reuben Albaugh of San Antonio by the same margin.

Speer, at the top of his form, knocked in 6 birdies in 14 holes. Albaugh got three birdies.

McLarnin Signs for Battle With Sammy Mandell for Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Quiet Jimmy McLarnin, of the bright Irish smile, the twinkling blue eyes and shocking right hand, collected $19,645.60 from Tex Rickard today and pledged himself to do battle in the future—preferably for the lightweight title—in the land where big purses grow.

Jimmy signed for a championship match with Sammy Mandell elusive king of the 135-pound division just 13 hours after knocking out Sid Terris, New York's gift to the lightweight contenders, with two punches in one minute and 47 seconds of fighting.

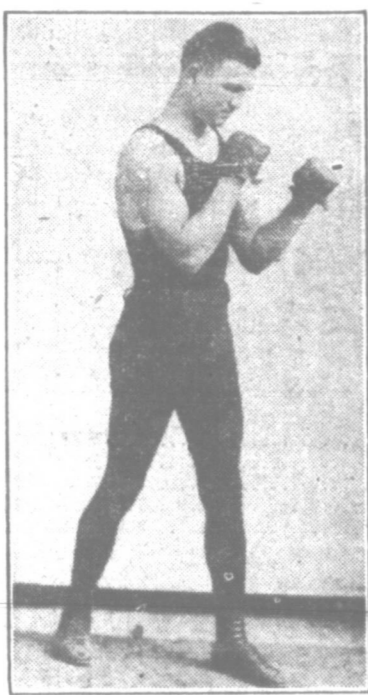

Monte or Granite Will Earn Right to Meet Mandell

Fight fans of Pampa and the surrounding territory, including Borger and Amarillo, are all set to see the best fight of the season at the Pampa Athletic club tomorrow night when Kid Granite, 135 pounds, of Pampa, meet Wildcat Monte, 135 pounds, of Amarillo, claimant of the lightweight championship of the Southwest, in the ten-round final event on the 31-round boxing card to be presented by the American Legion.

Art Villalon, the Mexican youth with a string of recent victories to his credit, will meet Duff Stanley of Amarillo, who has made a comeback and beaten some of the best boys brought to Amarillo. This bout is expected to be a real main event and one the fans will enjoy.

The six-round special event will bring together Frankie Farrell, the 126 pound Pampa boy who has beaten the best men in the game since his comeback, and Jerry Haley of Borger. These two boys have met before, each winning a decision and this bout is to see who is the better.

Battling Barney, featherweight from the Pacific coast, has been secured to meet O. D. the newsboy, in the preliminary. This is the first time anyone has stepped into the ring with a chance to beat the fighting Pampa lad.

When Kid Granite and Monte step into the ring it is for the right to meet Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, who is expected to box here this summer while on a tour Granite recently won a decision over Eddie Murdock in Borger. In Amarillo last Monday night Murdock drew with Monte. Figure the dope out with the wise birds.

Granite says he is in the best of condition and ready for the Wildcat and all his fury, while Monte says he is going to beat the Kid again.

A check shows the two boys evenly matched with Monte at his best, and Granite just arriving at the top of his class. If Monte is stale or overconfident, Granite will have a cinch, but even though the Wildcat is at his best Granite has a chance to win the coveted chance to meet Mandell.

The American Legion has taken over the management of the club and in the future will bring the boxers here

VERSATILE TWINS LEAD AUBURN FIVE TOWARD SOUTHERN TITLE

"Fob" James (right), all-around athlete and movie actor, is captain of the Auburn basketball team which has proved the sensation of the Southern Conference. His running mate at guard is "Ebb" James (left), twin brother, who is captain of baseball.

AUBURN, Ala.,—(AP)—Twin brothers so much alike the referee can't tell them apart are two big reasons why the basketball team of little Alabama Polytechnic Institute—generally known as Auburn—is setting a phenomenal scoring pace for rival teams and heading straight for the Southern Conference crown.

This pair who constitute no ordinary brother act are Edward Bedell James and Forest Hood James, known throughout the South as "Ebb" and "Fob." Their versatility covers football, basketball, baseball and even the movies. Handsome as well as husky Fob took time out from his athletic activities long enough last year to play the male lead in "Stark Love," a successful motion picture of Southern mountain life.

The two boys are 21 years old and live in Auburn. On the basketball team they hold down the guard posts. Fob the actor, is captain. A third and younger brother, Louie James, is substitute guard and relieves one or the other in virtually every game.

In baseball the act is renewed with Ebb as catcher and captain for the coming season and Fob at first base. They were ends on the football team.

When the college awarded the Porter trophy for all-around athletic prowess it found the two so closely matched there was nothing to do but award it to both jointly.

With these two boys in the back court, Auburn averaged 51 points to the game in turning back Clemson, Tulane, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Florida and others. James C. ("Jelly") Akin, high scorer, counted 198 of the 611 points Auburn scored in at a contract price and not on a percentage basis. In this way the boys will have to produce their best regardless of the size of the house, and any boxer found to be stalling will be forced from the ring and will not appear in Pampa again.

its first 12 games, making 27 points singlehanded against Vanderbilt, last year's conference title-holder. Ellis at forward and Dubose at center are the other regulars. A. P. ("Mike") Papke, former Middlebury College, Vermont, athlete, is coach.

Fob's movie engagement came while he was in Nashville, Tenn., with Auburn's baseball team playing a series with Vanderbilt. Busby with baseball he dismissed the offer as probably a college joke. When he told Ebb of his experience the latter, posing as Fob, renewed the conversation with the director who believed he was talking with Fob. The offer proved genuine and Fob made good on the screen.

Referees have had as much trouble as the movie man in telling Ebb from Fob. When he gets his diploma this spring Fob is going back to the movies. Ebb has his application in for a job as his brother's double.

W. Layne of Dallas and L. K. Pierce of Fort Worth, representatives of the plant department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, were here last week on company business. It was Mr. Layne's first trip to Pampa and he was agreeably surprised at the size of the city and the business and building activities.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn, Boston, A. A. track star, equalled his world record for the 1,000-yard run here today, when he won the New England A. A. U. championship event in 2 minutes, 12 1/2 seconds.

Carr Breaks His Pole Vault Record With 14:1 Clearance

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Sabin W. Carr of Yale shattered all of his own world's records for the pole vault tonight when he cleared the astonishing height of 14 feet 1 inch in the national senior A. A. U. indoor track and field championships. Carr vaulted this height, eclipsing both his indoor and outdoor marks. On his first attempt, a few minutes after shattering the indoor standard with a leap of 13 feet 10 1/4 inches.

Seven Baseball Squads in Florida End Week of Conditioning Work

ATLANTA, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Announcement by Connie Mack at Fort Myers, Fla., that he expected Ty Cobb to give him an answer next week on his offer of another season with the Philadelphia Athletics crowded the day's news from big league spring training camps.

With the veteran Tris Speaker already added to his roster, Mack voiced the expectation that the Athletics would "make the championship grade" if Ty came back into the fold to complete the outfield alongside the slugging youngster, Al Simmons.

Today marked the virtual ending of light conditioning work by the seven squads already encamped in Florida and preparations were made for the beginning of a strenuous training grind next week with the influx of regular outfielders and infielders to reinforce battermen and rookies of the Athletics at Fort Myers; Washington Senators at Tampa; Boston Red Sox at Bradenton; St. Louis Browns at Palm Beach; Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven; Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, and St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park.

Biggs Horn returned home Friday night from an extended business trip in Wichita and other cities.

Track Squad at Central High Will Start Practice

Weather permitting, the local high school track team will commence practice tomorrow for the county track meet to be held here early in April. There are many promising athletes attending the Pampa schools, and the coaches expect to have a winning team at this meet, and to be able to send a promising delegation to Canyon.

The practice track in the Gray's baseball park is being worked on at the present time and by the time of the contests will be in excellent condition. The literary work is starting and it is in that department that the Pampa schools have always shown superiority in both junior and senior events. The teachers in the local schools are enthusiastic backers of the district meet, and cooperate in every way to bring honors to the Pampa schools.

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the stranger did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Cleaver's alibi of being out of the city the night of the murder, and Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12, he says, he saw Cleaver sneaking out of the side door which was thought to have been bolted on the inside all night.

CHAPTER XXXV
 Markham sat glowering into space. "I don't at all like the Cleaver end of this affair," he said. There's been something damned wrong about him ever since Monday."
 "And I say," put in Vance, "doesn't the gentleman's false alibi take on a certain shady significance now, what?"
 "You apprehend, I trust, why I restrained you from questioning him about it at the club yesterday. I rather fancied that if you could get Mannix to pour out his heart to you, you'd be in a stronger position to draw a few admissions from Cleaver. And behold! Again the triumph of intuition! With what you now know about him, you can chivy him most unconscionably—eh, what?"

"And that's precisely what I'm going to do," Markham rang for Swacker. "Get hold of Charles Cleaver." He ordered irritably. "Phone him at the Stuyvesant Club and also his home—he lives round the corner from the club in West 37th Street. And tell him I want him to be here in half an hour or I'll send a couple of detectives to bring him in handcuffs."

For five minutes Markham stood before the window, smoking agitatedly, while Vance, with a smile of amusement, busied himself with the Wall Street Journal. Heath got himself a drink of water and took a turn up and down the room. Presently Swacker re-entered.

"Sorry, Chief, but there's nothing doing. Cleaver's gone into the country somewhere. Won't be back till late tonight."
 "Hell! All right—that'll do." Markham turned to Heath. "You have Cleaver rounded up tonight, Sergeant, and bring him in here tomorrow at nine."

 "He'll be here, sir!" Heath paused in his pacing and faced Markham. "I've been thinking, sir; and there's one thing that keeps coming up in my mind soto speak. You remember that black document-box that was setting on the living-room table? It was empty; and what a woman generally keeps in that kind of a box is letters and things like that."
 "Well, now, here's what's been bothering me; that box wasn't jimmied open—it was unlocked with a key. And, anyway, a professional crook don't take letters and documents. You see what I mean, sir?"

"Sergeant of mine!" exclaimed Vance. "I abase myself before you! I sit at your feet! . . . The document-box—the tidily opened, empty document box! Of course! Skeel didn't open it—never in the world! That was the other chap's handiwork."
 "What was in your mind about that box, Sergeant?" asked Markham.
 "Just this, sir. As Mr. Vance has insisted right along, there mighta been some one besides Skeel in that apartment during the night. And you told me that Cleaver admitted to you he'd paid Odell a lot of money last June to get back his letters. But suppose he never paid that money; suppose he went there Monday night and took those letters. Wouldn't he have told you just the story he did about buying 'em back? Maybe that's how Mannix happened to see him there."
 "That's not unreasonable," Markham acknowledged. "But where does it lead us?"

"Well, sir, if Cleaver did take 'em Monday night, he mighta held on to 'em. And if any of those letters were dated later than last June, when he says he bought 'em back, then we'd have the goods on him."
 "Well?"
 "As I say, sir, I've been thinking. . . . Now, Cleaver is outa town today; and if we could get hold of those letters. . . ."
 "It might prove helpful, of course," said Markham coolly, looking the sergeant straight in the eye. "But such a thing is quite out of the question."
 "Still and all," mumbled Heath, "Cleaver's been pulling a lot of raw stuff on you, sir."
 (Saturday, September 15; 9 a. m.)
 The next morning Markham and Vance and I breakfasted together at the Prince George, and arrived at the district attorneys' office a few minutes past nine. Heath, with Cleaver in tow, was waiting in the reception-room.

To judge by Cleaver's manner as he entered, the sergeant had been none too considerate of him. He strode belligerently to the district attorney's desk and fixed a cool, resentful eye on Markham.
 "Am I, by any chance, under arrest?" he demanded softly, but it was the rasping, suppressed softness of wrathful indignation.
 "Not yet," said Markham curtly. "But if you were, you'd have only yourself to blame.—Sit down."
 Cleaver hesitated, and took the nearest chair.
 "Why was I routed out of bed at seven-thirty by this detective of yours"—he jerked his thumb toward Heath—"and threatened with patrol-wagons and warrants because I objected to such high-handed and illegal methods?"

"You were merely threatened with legal procedure if you refused to accept my invitation voluntarily. This is my short day at the office; and there was some explaining I wanted from you without delay."
 "I'm damned if I'll explain anything to you under these conditions! For all his nerveless poise, Cleaver was finding it difficult to control himself.
 "I'm no pickpocket that you can drag in here when it suits your convenience and put through a third degree."
 "That's eminently satisfactory to me," Markham spoke ominously. "But since you refuse to do your explaining as a free citizen, I have no other course than to alter your present status."
 He turned to Heath. "Sergeant, go across the hall and have Ben swear out a warrant for Charles Cleaver. Then lock this gentleman up."
 Cleaver gave a start, and caught his breath sibilantly.
 "On what charge?" he demanded.
 "The murder of Margaret Odell."
 The man sprang to his feet. The color had gone from his face, and the muscles of his jaws worked spasmodically.
 "Wait! You're giving me a raw deal. And you'll lose out, too. You couldn't make that charge stick in a thousand years."
 "Maybe not. But if you don't want to talk here, I'll make you talk in court."
 "I'll talk here," Cleaver sat down again. "What do you want to know?"
 Markham took out a cigar and lit it with deliberation.
 "First: why did you tell me you were in Boonton Monday night?"
 Cleaver apparently had expected the question.
 "When I read of the Canary's death I wanted an alibi; and my brother had just given me the summons he'd been handed in Boonton. It was a ready-made alibi right in my hand. So I used it."
 "Why did you need an alibi?"
 "I didn't need it; but I thought it might save me trouble. People knew I'd been running round with the Odell girl; and some of them knew she'd been blackmailing me—I'd told 'em like a damn fool. I told Mannix, for instance. We'd both be strung."

 "Is that your only reason for concocting this alibi?" Markham was watching him sharply.
 "Wasn't it reason enough? Blackmail would have constituted a motive wouldn't it?"
 "It takes more than a motive to arouse unpleasant suspicion."
 "Maybe so. Only I didn't want to be drawn into it—You can't blame me for trying to keep clear of it."
 Markham leaned over with a threatening smile.
 "The fact that Miss Odell had blackmailed you wasn't your only reason for lying about the summons. It wasn't even your main reason."
 Cleaver's eyes narrowed, but otherwise he was like a graven image.
 "You evidently know more about it than I do. He managed to make his words sound casual."
 "Not more, Mr. Cleaver," Markham corrected him, "but nearly as much—Where were you between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday?"
 "Perhaps that's one of the things you know."
 "You're right.—You were in Miss Odell's apartment."
 Cleaver sneered, but he did not succeed in disguising the shock that Markham's accusation caused him.
 "If that's what you think, then it happens you don't know, after all. I haven't put foot in her apartment for two weeks."
 "I have the testimony of reliable witnesses to the contrary."
 "Witnesses!" The word seemed to force itself from Cleaver's compressed lips.
 Markham nodded. "You were seen coming out of Miss Odell's apartment and leaving the house by the side door at five minutes to twelve on Monday night."

 Cleaver's jaw sagged slightly, and his labored breathing was quite audible.
 "And between half past eleven and twelve o'clock," pursued Markham's relentless voice, "Miss Odell was strangled and robbed.—What do you say to that?"

Once a queen, Julia Faye now is an Empress! This time the regal Queen Victoria of "The Yankee Clipper" plays the part of Empress Josephine, wife of Napoleon, in "The Fighting Eagle," Rod LaRocque's newest DeMille starring picture which will be shown at the Crescent theatre today and Monday.
 It is said that Miss Faye vests the part of Josephine with her accustomed grace and that her ability is admirably displayed. The action of the story takes place just before the divorce which Napoleon insisted upon in order that he might perpetuate his dynasty. The Empress has several dramatic scenes with Napoleon and in these Miss Faye appears to fine advantage. Her costumes of the period are said to be exceptionally beautiful.
 "The Fighting Eagle" is a screen version of Conan Doyle's novel "The Narrative of the Napoleonic era, which has as its central theme the exploits of a swashbuckling young officer of Napoleon's army. Phyllis Haver, Sam DeGrasse, Max Barwyn, Sally Rand and Clarence Burton are prominent in the supporting cast. C. Gardner Sullivan supervised the production.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Work of Faith. Scripture Lesson: Mark 5:22-27, 32-36, 41, 42.

22. And there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and seeing him, he falleth at his feet.

23. And beseecheth him much, saying, My little daughter is at the point of death; I pray thee, that thou come and lay hands on her, that she may be made whole, and live.

24. And he went with him; and a great multitude followed him, and they thronged him.

25. And a woman, who had an issue of blood twelve years,

26. And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse.

27. Having heard the things concerning Jesus, came in the crowd behind and touched his garment.

28. And he looked around about to see her that had done this thing.

29. But the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what had been done to her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

30. And he said unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

31. While he yet spake, they come from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying, Thy daughter is dead; why troublest thou the Teacher any further?

32. But Jesus, not heeding the word spoken, saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Fear not, only believe.

33. And taking the child by the hand, he saith unto her, Talitha cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, Arise.

34. And straightway the damsel rose up, and walked; for she was twelve years old. And they were amazed straightway with a great amazement.

Time: Autumn of A. D. 28, in the second year of Christ's ministry. Place: Capernaum.

Golden Text: Thy faith hath made thee whole—Mark 5:34.

Introduction. We have here a story within a story a miracle within a miracle. The one affords a fine setting for the other. The Gerarenes had said "Begone!" to Jesus after he had healed the demoniac as told in our last lesson. When he returned to the western side of the lake—outside Capernaum—the people "welcomed him," Luke says, "for they were all waiting for him." There are ever these two classes of people in the world. Notice that no matter where Jesus goes he finds work to do, grievous, pitiable need waiting for his relief. Just as today! The fact that the ruler's name, Jairus, has been preserved shows that this happening created a sensation; because, while official Judaism was rejecting Jesus, here was a leading member of the Jewish synagogue in Capernaum who sought out the Master and entered his aid.

A Father's Intense Anxiety. vs. 22, 23. Everyone in Capernaum know of Jesus and his wonder deeds. This ruler may have been a careless, critical listener and spectator at some of Jesus' convocations. Desperate love for his dying girl wins now his faith in the Master. Luke tells us, and Mark later on, that she was just twelve and his only daughter ("my little daughter," he calls her). The idol of his heart, therefore. Every father of a twelve-year-old girl, his only one, will appreciate Jairus' agony as he saw her life ebbing away. We do not wonder at the strong terms in which the evangelists tell of his plea to Jesus: "beseecheth him much;" "threw himself at his feet." His suggestion that Jesus could have her with the touch of his hand implies that he had seen him perform other cures in that way.

Jesus the Great Physician. vs. 22-34. "Had suffered many things of many physicians." Those who are fond of criticizing the physicians and surgeons of today should study the art of healing as practiced in ancient times and today by the doctors of heathen lands. The oldtime physicians not only prescribed absurd remedies which could not by any possibility cure disease, but they made their patients pay heavily for complicated medicines often made up of materials from distant lands which were very expensive. A poor woman in a desperate illness might easily spend on the quacks of the day all the money she had.

"Having heard the things concerning Jesus." She was evidently not a woman of Capernaum, where so many of Christ's miracles had been worked, but from some distant place to which the rumors of those lessened marvels of healing had penetrated. But her faith built only on hearsay, was strong enough to carry her weakening body over the long miles. She was sure that Jesus could cure, and she knew that his help was free. She had found after many trials, the Great Physician.

Woman's Great Faith. v. 34. "And he said unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole." She is the only woman so far as is recorded, whom Christ addressed by the kindly term "Daughter." Faith always drew from him some warm expression of approval. He was even ready and glad to transfer to her faith the credit for the miracle which he himself had accomplished, so eager is he always to encourage faith in human hearts.

The Victories of Faith. The victories of faith require the touch of faith. No one can keep aloof from Jesus in spirit and receive his healing and his strength and peace. "There is a tremendous difference between thronging Jesus and touching Jesus. There were six hundred thousand people left Egypt for the promised land who never reached it. Two men out of the crowd reached it. They were touchers, the others were throngers."—Gypsy Smith.

Jesus Raises the Dead. vs. 35-43. "While he yet spake, they come from the ruler of the synagogue's house saying, Thy daughter is dead." We may imagine the impatience of the synagogue ruler at the long delay. His daughter was dying when he set out to get Jesus. Every minute was precious, and here was all this time lost in healing a woman whose case had lasted twelve years and might well have waited an hour longer—healing her and listening to her explanations. And now to hear from home that it is too late! Surely if ever a man's faith was tried it was the faith of this poor father. "Why troublest thou the Teacher any further?" The messengers, and apparently the father, had no idea the Christ could raise the dead. So far as is recorded, our Lord had up to this time worked only one resurrection miracle, and that was at Nain (Luke 7:11-17), at a considerable distance from Capernaum, as distance was in those days.

"Talitha Cumi." v. 41. "And taking the child by the hand he saith unto her, Talitha cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, Arise." It is clear that Jesus usually spoke in Aramaic, the ordinary language of Palestine, and that Peter, remembered Christ's exact words, and told them to Mark. Thus also is Mark who records the Aramaic word, Ephphatha, spoken by Christ in opening the ears of the deaf man (Mark 7:34). Aramaic is a Semitic language closely related to Hebrew, originating in Mesopotamia. "Wake up, little girl!" is the English equivalent of what Christ said. He took her by the hand more as an instinctive movement of love than because it was a necessity for the miracle; for only a word was enough to the cases of Lazarus and the young man of Nain.

Christ's Inner Circle—Peter, James and John. v. 37. Christ's special choice of Peter, James and John was repeated on two other remarkable occasions, the transfiguration and the agony in Gethsemane. Why did he single out those three? Surely not from favoritism, any more than his selection of the Twelve was based upon that. "Christ's purpose was not to confer favor on these men but to train them for a great work. The favor they received carried with it a burden. That is to say, it is not selection to privilege but to service." James became the first martyr of the apostolic band. Peter was the leader of the apostles and died on the cross. John became bishop of Ephesus, wrote the greatest of the Gospels, and lived nearly a century. Christ singled out the three because their character and ability had singled them out for remarkable usefulness in the Kingdom. "The very first place to which Jesus took those three friends was the house of mourning; the next place was the mountain of prayer; the third place was the garden of grief." The intimates of Jesus will accompany him often to all three places.

Jesus the Lord of Life. "This is one of three signal miracles the anticipation of Christ's own resurrection. Christ's miracles have always the highest spiritual significance. They are not miracles only, but parables also." This, the first of Christ's resurrection miracles, announces him as the Lord of life—life of the body, and still more wonderfully life of the soul. "Jesus is the Lord of disease. Some day there will be no disease; some day there will be perfect health, robust, round, full-orbed, strong health. We shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is."—Gypsy Smith. "Fear not, then, distressed believer, Venture on his mighty name; He is able to deliver. And his love is still the same."—John Newton.

40 miles per hour—when NEW

62-mile speed later!

DUE to advanced engineering, precision workmanship and fine quality materials, the new American Edition of the Erskine Six may be driven at 40-mile speed the day it is delivered to you!—62-miles-an-hour later on.

This means far more to you as an Erskine owner than simply eliminating the tedious driving of a new car at 20-miles-an-hour for the first 500 to 1,000 miles. It means that Erskine engines are carefully seasoned on the dynamometer—that every part is subjected to the most rigid inspections—that your Erskine has been assembled with fine-car precision. Such cars heretofore have been found only in the luxury-price class!

Proof of these qualities of construction is found in the performance of the new American Edition of the Erskine Six at the Atlantic City Speedway. Here a stock Erskine sedan traveled better than 54 miles per hour for 24 consecutive hours, establishing itself as champion of its price class. No stock car priced under $1,000 has ever equalled this record.

Try out this new American Edition of the Erskine Six for yourself—today! A bigger, roomier car—doors nearly a yard wide—rear seats 4 feet wide—shock absorbers. A more powerful car—brilliant 6-cylinder performance with thrifty gas and oil consumption—quick-on-the-trigger acceleration—masterful on hills and highway—amplified-action 4-wheel brakes. A sensational, low-priced, fine-car value worthy of the 76-year-old Studebaker tradition.

Peace Officer, Out

O. T. Smith, deputy sheriff under E. S. Graves, sheriff, for the last two years, announces his candidacy for constable of Precinct 2 of Gray county subject to the action of the Democratic primary of July 28, basing his candidacy upon a thorough knowledge of the duties of an officer, having served as a peace officer for the last 29 years in Texas.

Mr. Smith was born in Dickson county, Virginia, in 1888, and came to Texas while serving with the United States cavalry, from which he received an excellent discharge. Prior to coming to Pampa, he lived at Dallas, where he served a number of years with the police force. He resigned and moved to Pampa to work with Sheriff E. S. Graves as a salaried deputy.

Mr. Smith asserts that because he has always been a diligent and rigid law enforcement officer he has been severely criticized in his work, and he respectfully invites anyone to investigate his past work in Gray county in the criminal records at LeFlore, and would like to talk with anyone with reference to anything about his past record.

He states that he is a member of the Christian church, is a married man with one son and two daughters, and that if he is elected he will show diligence in the enforcement of the law and will assist and cooperate with local officers in every way possible for better law enforcement.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

William Feenberg escaped uninjured Friday evening from the coupe he was driving turned completely over on the Borger highway at the edge of Pampa. He was coming down a grade and applied the brakes in order to slow up for a bridge when the car turned over.

Feenberg was trapped in the car, but freed himself by kicking out one of the door glasses. The coupe was badly damaged. He was returning from the Feenberg Pipe and Supply company shop at Roxana when the accident occurred.

L. M. Haley of Dallas, with the building department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, has arrived to oversee the building of the new exchange building. Other representatives will arrive later to oversee the installation of interior equipment.
