Noose tighter

U.S. forces raid 'safehouses' in search for elusive dictator

By JAMIE TARABAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Saying that "the noose is tightening" around Saddam Hussein and his top aides, U.S. forces raided suspected safehouses in Baghdad and northern Tikrit and said the deposed dictator is unable to mount a resistance because he's too busy "trying to save his own skin."

In the center of the capital Monday, witnesses said at least three U.S. soldiers were injured in an attack on their convoy. Other witnesses claimed the U.S. soldiers were killed. The military confirmed an incident had occurred but had no information on casualties.

"I saw at least two injured soldiers, then I saw the third one who was thrown out of the car. They (others soldiers) pulled him under the car," said Alim Naati, one of the witnesses.

Shihab Ahmed, who owns a nearby flower shop, said he was told the soldiers died. The witnesses said three soldiers were thrown from the canvas-top Humvee when a bomb was detonated as the convoy passed along Palestine Street in central Baghdad.

North of Baghdad, on the road from Baqouba to Tikrit, insurgents floated a bomb down the river on a palm log and detonated it under a bridge the military had been repairing.

It was believed to have been the first such attack by insurgents on a bridge. The structures are vital to a country with two major rivers, the Tigris and the Euphrates. The military closed a pontoon crossing down river that had been open for civilian traffic during the repairs.

"Because of this damage we've got to shut it to all the civilian traffic effective today," Lt. Col. Bill Adamson, a 4th Infantry Division commander, said.

The bridge was a major link over the Diala River, a Pampa Firefighter Lee Roy Cox takes his bunker coat off a bush where he had hung it after extinguishing a fire that destroyed a vacant garage behind him. The bush became an impromptu hanger for helmets and coats, taken off in the near 100-degree temperatures. Fire Marshal Gary Stevens today said the cause of the fire has not been determined, but possibly could have been started by children playing in the old wood frame building. Owner of the property was unknown, officials said. Four units and eight firefighters were needed to put out the blaze at 504 Warren shortly before noon, Saturday.

Poll: Keep shuttle flying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two-thirds of Americans say the space shuttle should continue to fly despite two disastrous accidents, but enthusiasm for putting civilians aboard is declining, an Associated Press poll finds.

A higher number, nearly three-fourths, said they think the space program is a good investment, according to the poll conducted for the AP by ICR/International Communications Research of Media, Pa.

"I'm very proud of it," David Wines, a 46-year-old carpenter from upstate New York, said of the U.S. space exploration program. "I think that it shows the rest of the world that we're not afraid to go out to places that are unknown and find out what's out there."

Enthusiasm for the program of space exploration was greater among younger adults, those with more education and those with higher incomes. Whites were more likely than blacks and men were more likely than women to think the shuttle should continue to fly.

Officers seek dog that bit man

Pampa Animal Control officers continue to search for a medium-sized brown dog. If they don't find the animal by Aug. 1, a Pampa resident will need to begin a series of rabies shots.

"We're looking for a medium brown, mixed breed adult dog, about 50 pounds with a thin frame. He looked like he need to be fed," said Sandy Burns, Animal Control director.

She said the dog had medium length hair and a long tail. The dog's ears stood erect but folded over on the tips.

The dog reportedly bit a man on the hand about 1 a.m. Saturday. The man was in the alley behind the Allsup's convenience store on U.S. Highway 60, Burns said. The man told officers he didn't see a collar on the dog.

"If we can't find the dog by Aug. 1, he'll need to start taking the shots," Burns said.

Anyone with information about the dog can contact Pampa Animal Control at 669-5775.

In an unrelated case, Animal Control officers continue to try to capture a lost or abandoned red heeler that's been seen in the parking lot at United Food Store on Hobart Street.

Burns said the dog won't let officers get close enough to catch him. Attempts to trap the dog have also been unsuccessful. She said well-meaning persons have been feeding the dog so it isn't drawn to food in the trap.

Citizens are asked not to feed the dog so officers can catch it before the animal or some person is hurt.

Bob Hope dead at 100

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope, ski jump-nosed master of the one-liner and favorite comedian of servicemen and presidents alike, has died, just two months after turning 100.

Hope died late Sunday of pneumonia at his home in Toluca Lake, with his family at his bedside, longtime publicist Ward Grant said Monday.

The nation's most-honored comedian, Hope was a star in every category open to him — vaudeville, radio, television and film, most notably a string of "Road" movies with longtime friend Bing Crosby. For decades, he took his show on the road to bases around the world, boosting the morale of servicemen from World War II to the Gulf War.

President Bush said Monday that "the nation lost a great citizen" with Hope's death.

"Bob Hope served our nation when he went to battlefields to entertain thousands of troops from different generations," the president said. "We extend our prayers to his family. God bless his soul."

Hope perfected the one-liner, peppering audiences with a fusillade of brief, topical gags.

"I bumped into Gerald Ford the other day. I said, 'Pardon me.' He said, 'I don't do that anymore.'"

He poked fun gently, without malice, and made himself the butt of many jokes. His golf scores and physical attributes, including his celebrated ski-jump nose, were frequent subjects.

"I want to tell you, I was built like an athlete once — big chest, hard stomach. Of course, that's all behind me now."

When Hope went into one of his monologues, it was almost as though the world was conditioned to respond. No matter that the joke was old or flat, he was Bob Hope and he got laughs.

"Audiences are my best friends," he liked to say. "You never tire of talking with your best friends."

He was admired by his peers, and generations of younger comedians. Woody Allen called Hope "the most influential comedian for me."

Hope earned a fortune, gave lavishly to charity and was showered with awards, so many that he had to rent a warehouse to store them.

Through he said he was afraid of flying, Hope traveled countless miles to entertain servicemen in field hospitals, jungles and aircraft carriers from France to Berlin to Vietnam to the Persian Gulf. His Christmas tours became tradition.

He headlined in so many war zones that he had a standard joke for the times he was interrupted by gunfire: "I wonder which one of my pictures they saw?"

So often was Hope away entertaining, and so little did he see his wife, Dolores, and their four adopted children, that he once remarked, "When I get home these days, my kids think I've been booked on a personal appearance tour."

Hope had a reputation as an ad-libber, but he kept a stable of writers and had filing cabinets full of jokes. He never let a good joke die — if it got a laugh in Vietnam, it would get a laugh in Saudi Arabia.

On his 100th birthday, he was too frail to take part in public celebrations, but was said to be alert and happy — and overwhelmed by the outpouring of affection. The fabled intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street was renamed Bob Hope Square, and President Bush established the Bob Hope American Patriot Award.

"He can't believe that this is happening and that he's made it to his Big 100," son Kelly Hope said at the time.

He was born Leslie Townes Hope on May 29, 1903, in Eltham, England, the fifth of seven sons of a British stonemason and a Welsh singer of light opera. The Hopes emigrated to the United States when he was 4 and settled in Cleveland. They found themselves in the backwash of the 1907 depression.

The boy helped out by selling newspapers and working in a shoe store, a drug store and a meat market. He also worked as a caddy and developed a lifelong fondness for golf. A highly competitive golfer, he later shot in the 70s and sponsored the Bob Hope Golf Classic, one of the nation's biggest tournaments.

Hope changed his name to Bob when classmates ridiculed his English schoolboy name.

He boxed for a time under the name Packy East — "I was on more canvases than Picasso" — and also tried a semester in college before devoting himself to show business.

By 1930, he had reached vaudeville's pinnacle — The Palace — and in the '30s he played leading parts in such Broadway musicals as "Roberta," "Ziegfeld Follies" and "Red, Hot and Blue," with Ethel Merman and Jimmy Durante.

During "Roberta," he met nightclub singer Dolores Reade and invited her to the show. They married in 1934.

Doctors: Pedophile lost urge after tumor removed

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — There was something wrong with the schoolteacher with the headache — doctors could see that from the start.

Though charming and intelligent, the 40-year-old man couldn't stop leering at female nurses. He had been in trouble with the law for sexual advances toward his stepdaughter, and now he was talking about raping his landlady.

University of Virginia Medical Center neurologists Dr. Russell Swerdlow and Dr. Jeffrey Burns had never seen a case like this.

The man had an egg-sized brain tumor pressing on the right frontal lobe. When surgeons removed it, the lewd behavior and pedophilia faded away. Exactly why, the surgeons cannot quite explain.

"It's possible the tumor released some pre-existing urges," Burns said. "But that's a tough debate, we just don't know."

The outcome raises questions not only about how tumors alter brain function, but also how they can influence behavior and judgment.

Daniel T. Tranel, a University of Iowa neurology researcher, said he has seen people with brain tumors lie, damage property, and in extremely rare cases, commit murder.

"The individual simply loses the ability to control impulses or anticipate the consequences of choices," Tranel said.

Dr. Stuart C. Yudofsky, a psychiatrist at the Baylor College of Medicine who specializes in behavioral changes associated with brain disorders, also has seen the way brain tumors can bend a person's behavior. "This tells us something about being human, doesn't it?" Yudofsky said. If one's actions are governed by how well the brain is working, "does it mean we have less free will than we think?"

It's a question with vast implications in the criminal justice system.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that executing mentally retarded murderers is unconstitutional because of their diminished ability to reason and control their urges.

Chris Adams, a death penalty specialist for the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, thinks the next logical step would be to include people who have brain tumors.

"Some people simply don't have the frontal lobe capacity to stop what they're doing," he said.

Human behavior is governed by complex interactions within the brain. But scientists think most "executive functions" — decisions with major consequences — are controlled within the frontal lobes, the most highly evolved section of the brain.

Tumors in that area can squeeze enough blood from the region to effectively put it to sleep, dulling someone's judgment in a way that's similar to drinking too much alcohol.

Only in very rare cases would the tumor turn the person to violence or deviant behavior on its own, Tranel said.

Dr. Patrick J. Kelly, chairman of the Department of Neurosurgery at New York University Medical Center, said he's never seen a tumor turn someone into a pedophile.

"I've seen them make people hyperactive, forgetful, apathetic," Kelly said. "And it usually takes a fairly extensive tumor to do that ... the size of an orange maybe."

The Virginia schoolteacher with the tumor didn't respond to written interview requests by The Associated Press made through his doctors. But according to his case report, which Swerdlow and Burns wrote in the Archives of Neurology, the man didn't remember having abnormal sexual urges for most of his life.

In 2000, the man began collecting sex magazines and visiting pornographic Web sites, focusing much of his attention on images of children and adolescents.

Eventually he couldn't stop himself, telling doctors "the pleasure principle overrode" everything else. When he started making subtle advances on his young stepdaughter, his wife called police. He was arrested for child molestation.

The man was convicted and failed a 12-step rehabilitation program for sexual addiction because he couldn't stop asking for sex favors, according to the case report.

The day before he was to be sentenced to prison, the man walked into the emergency room with a headache. He was distraught, Swerdlow said, and was contemplating suicide.

He also was "totally unable to control his impulses," Burns said. "He'd proposition nurses."

An MRI revealed the tumor, and it was cut out days later. The man's behavior began to improve.

IRAQ

Tigris tributary, carrying traffic between the restive cities of Baquoba and Tikrit, both hotbeds of resistance in the so-called "Sunni Triangle." The region, stretching north and west from Baghdad is a major center of support for Saddam.

In Tikrit, U.S. forces dug up freshly buried weapons, found outside an abandoned building in that once belonged to Saddam's Fedayeen militia. The munitions were sufficient for a month of guerrilla attacks on U.S. troops, said Maj. Bryan Luke, 37, of Mobile, Ala., whose patrol found the cache.

The discovery "saved a few lives out there," Luke said. "Forty mines could have caused a lot of problems for U.S. forces here in Tikrit."

Iraqi contractors hired by the 101st Airborne Division, meanwhile, began to demolish the house in northern Mosul where Saddam's sons Odai and Qusai were killed in a firefight with U.S. troops.

At least twice in the past week, American soldiers have raided houses where they believed they may have missed Saddam by less than 24 hours — once in the northern city of Mosul and once at a farmhouse near Tikrit, Saddam's hometown and power base.

The U.S. military would not confirm a raid in Baghdad's upscale Mansour neighborhood Sunday evening. Witnesses said soldiers shot their way into the home of Prince Rabiah Muhammed al-Habib, one of Iraq's most influential tribal leaders.

The prince, who wasn't at home at the time of the raid, told The Associated Press that he believed the Americans were looking for Saddam.

"I found the house was searched in a very rough way. It seems the Americans came thinking Saddam Hussein was inside my house," al-Habib said. He didn't elaborate.

U.S. soldiers shot at several cars and bystanders that approached the mansion during the raid, witnesses said, and one hospital reported at least five Iraqis were killed.

That raid came hours after troops of the 4th Infantry Division moved in on three farms in the Tikrit area in search of Saddam's new security chief, and perhaps the ousted dictator himself.

"We missed him by 24 hours," said Lt. Col. Steve Russell, who led the operation that was witnessed by an Associated Press reporter.

Hundreds of soldiers, backed by Bradley fighting vehicles, surrounded the farms as Apache attack helicopters hovered above. No shots were fired as about 25 men emerged from the houses peacefully. They were detained briefly and released.

The raid was prompted by Thursday's capture in Tikrit of a group of men believed to include as many as 10 Saddam bodyguards. Soldiers learned from them that Saddam's new security chief — and possibly the dictator himself — were staying at one of the farms, Russell said.

"The noose is tightening around these guys," said Col. James C. Hickey, a brigade commander. "They're running out of places to hide, and it's becoming difficult for them to move because we're everywhere. Any day now we're going to knock on their door, or kick in their door, and they know it."

Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, visited 4th Infantry commanders in Tikrit on Sunday and later told reporters in Baghdad that Saddam was too busy "trying to save his own skin" to lead an insurgency against American forces.

"He is so busy surviving he is having no impact on the security situation here," Myers said. "It's a big country, but we'll find him."

Myers met with Lt. Gen. Ricardo Sanchez, commander of U.S. ground forces in Iraq and planned to leave Monday.

With U.S. soldiers standing guard, workers used jackhammers to begin demolition of the villa in northern Mosul where Odai and Qusai Hussein were killed. Chunks of masonry fell to the ground, and the area filled with debris.

Residents passed by asking for souvenirs, but the soldiers told them that was out of the question.

After the firefight on Tuesday, intelligence sources reported Saddam was at a different location in the same city. Elements of the 101st Airborne Division mounted another raid, a military official familiar with the operation told AP.

"We missed him by a matter of hours," the official said on condition of anonymity. Another U.S. soldier was killed south of Baghdad on Sunday, bringing to 48 the number of soldiers killed in a guerrilla war since May 1, when President Bush declared an end to major combat in Iraq.

In all, 163 U.S. soldiers have died in combat in Iraq, 16 more than were killed in the 1991 Gulf War.

Associated Press writers Matt Moore in Mosul, D'Arcy Doran in Tikrit and Bassem Mroue in Baghdad contributed to this report.

POLL

The strong support continues even after the fiery disintegration of Columbia in February and the grounding of the remaining shuttles during an investigation into the cause of the accident that killed the crew of seven astronauts.

That investigation, by an independent board, has pointed to a 1 1/2-pound chunk of foam insulation breaking off from the shuttle's fuel tank during liftoff and slamming into the leading edge of the left wing. The resulting crevice in the wing allowed super-hot gases to penetrate the shuttle during its re-entry into the atmosphere.

The board's final report, to be issued in late August, will deal with both the technical causes of the Columbia accident and management issues that could affect flight safety. Engineers' concerns about the foam strike were discounted and never forwarded to top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe says the agency already is addressing issues raised by the accident. Earlier this month, he told reporters the agency is looking toward a return to space in six to nine months.

While support for the space program and the shuttle consistently at two-thirds or more, people are more divided on the question of sending a human to Mars. Support for that proposal was at 49 percent, while 42 percent opposed it. Men were almost twice as likely as women to think that sending someone to Mars was a good idea.

"We can go there after all the things wrong on Earth are fixed," said Betty Collatrella, a retiree from Caldwell, N.J. "I'm totally against any of it. It's a total waste of money we need for our kids, for illnesses, could put somebody's kids through college, could cure so many diseases."

The poll of 1,034 adults was taken July 11-15 and carries an error margin of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

While the public generally supports the space program and the shuttle, there are growing doubts about the wisdom of sending civilians like teachers and journalists on shuttle missions.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

Marriage Founders As Wife, Husband Drift Slowly Apart

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband very much. "Gary" and I have been together for 11 years. However, he seems to be less and less interested in me. We no longer spend time alone together.

Gary works long hours, so it's rare when we share a meal together. Every night before he comes home from his shift, he stops at the local diner and sits with his friends for an hour or so.

When we do go out, Gary insists we patronize this same diner, so his buddies can sit and join us. Recently, my husband had surgery. It has temporarily limited his physical activities. He claims to be in too much pain to do anything—or go anywhere—with me. But if one of his diner buddies invites him to go somewhere, he's up and out of the house in a heartbeat.

Abby, do I have a legitimate beef? Or should I leave our marriage "as is" and accept it?

LONELY ON LONG ISLAND

DEAR LONELY: You are being isolated. A successful marriage must be worked on by both parties. If you don't speak up now, you and your husband will continue to drift further apart. So, speak up and tell him that you are concerned about your lack of communication, and offer him the option of marriage counseling.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional in my mid-20s and have met a great guy over the Internet. I'll call him Randy. Randy is in the military and stationed in Japan. The two of us have been e-mailing and calling each other daily for the past seven months.

Randy will return home next month and we plan to meet for the first time. Neither of us knows what to tell our parents about our Internet romance. I know for a fact that my mom and dad will not approve of my meeting someone in this fashion. But how else can Randy and I explain the "sudden" seriousness of our relationship?

GENERATION X-ER IN CHICAGO

DEAR GEN-X-ER: I see no reason for either of you to be ashamed about how you met. Many people meet via the Internet these days and form successful unions. Granted, no one should make a decision in haste, but the Internet can be a useful tool in getting to know someone.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is struggling with melanoma. Sadly, I have become extremely familiar with the warning signs, which include moles that are unevenly shaped, a mole that's a different color than the others, or spots that are inflamed or irritated.

Abby, when I see a suspicious spot or mole on a stranger, is it appropriate for me to suggest that he or she be examined by a dermatologist? A young woman sat next to me at a baseball game recently. I wanted to say something to her, but didn't want to offend her or be intrusive.

The truth is, a simple checkup could save a life. What do you think?

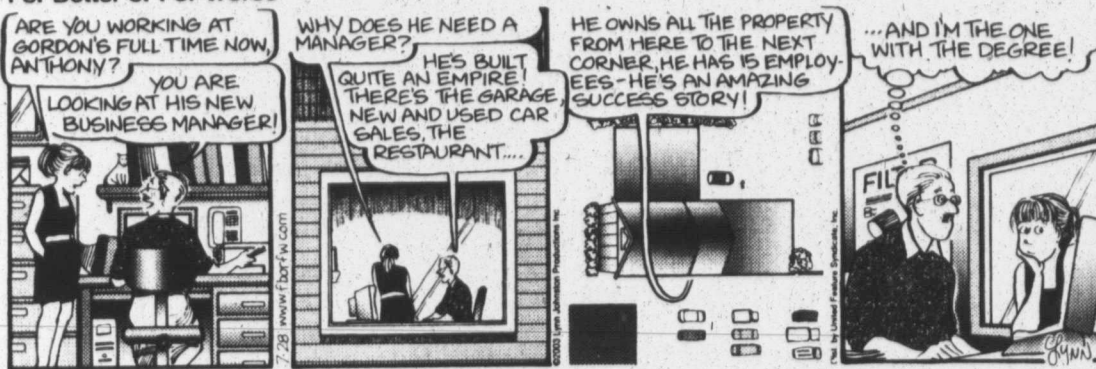

SKIN SLEUTH IN DELAWARE

DEAR SKIN SLEUTH: By all means say something to a stranger if you think it's necessary. When you do, explain why you felt it was important to tell him or her. Suggest the person go for a check-up, but do it privately if possible. I hope your mother is doing well and has a good outcome.

OU, Kansas St. picked to win Big 12 South, NorthRed Raiders predicted to finish next to last in their division

DALLAS (AP) — Oklahoma State, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Baylor. It's the third consecutive year the media have picked OU to win the division. Kansas State is followed by Colorado, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa State and Kansas in the poll. Last year was the first season since the league began football play in 1996 that Nebraska had not been picked to win the Big 12 North. Colorado was the media's choice in 2002 and the Buffaloes won the division title. NU finished fourth.

Offensive lineman Richie Incognito also is the only Cornhusker named to the preseason all-conference team on either offense or defense this year.

Oklahoma State receiver Rashaun Woods was selected as preseason Offensive Player of the Year over Texas receiver Roy Williams.

Oklahoma linebacker Teddy Lehman was selected over teammate Tommie Harris as the preseason Defensive Player of the Year.

OU defensive back Donte' Nicholson, a transfer from Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, Calif., is the preseason newcomer of the year.

Five Sooners and one Cowboy were selected to the preseason All-Big 12 team.

OSU's Woods and OU offensive lineman Jammal Brown were selected to the preseason offense.

OU's Lehman, Harris and defensive backs Brandon Everage and Derrick Strait were chosen as members of the preseason defense.

GOLF

PAMPA — The Pamcel Golf Scramble is set for Thursday at the Pamcel Course and is open to the public.

Golfers need to check in by 5:30 Thursday for the 6 p.m. start.

Entry fee is $10 for non-members. Carts are available to rent at $5 per person.

In case of a tie, the pot rolls over to the next scramble. Winner takes all.

The scramble is limited to the first 40 entries.

CYCLING

PARIS (AP) — Overcoming crashes, illness, hard-charging rivals and plain old bad luck, Lance Armstrong won his hardest but sweetest Tour de France title Sunday — a record-tying fifth straight victory that puts him among the greatest cyclists ever.

The grueling 23-day, 2,125-mile trek around France pushed the Texan to the limit, unlike in previous years when he won by comfortable margins.

As the usually dominant champion struggled, his challengers closed in. Never did his reign look so uncertain.

Only in the last leg to the cobblestoned Champs-Élysées, with victory finally assured, did Armstrong celebrate with a flute of champagne and a resounding "Cheers!"

AUTO RACING

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Late caution flags helped Ryan Newman stretch his fuel to the end, allowing him to barely hold off hard-charging Kurt Busch and win Sunday at Pocono Raceway.

Newman, who started on the pole, would not have been able to make the final 46 laps without stopping. But crashes involving rookie Casey Mears and Bobby Labonte slowed the field for a total of 12 laps in the Pennsylvania 500.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Paul Tracy won the Vancouver Molson Indy on Sunday, stretching his lead from 15 points to 20 over Bruno Junqueira in Tracy's quest for his first CART championship.

BASEBALL

AMARILLO — Amarillo dropped an 8-7 squeaker to Springfield-Ozark in Central League baseball action Sunday at the Amarillo National Dilla Villa.

Shortstop Terrence Green led the Mountain Ducks at the plate with 3 hits, including a solo home run.

Outfielder Eric Kofler also had three hits for the Dillas. He knocked in three runs.

The Dillas are in last place in the Central Division with a 9-13 record.

Pampa ousted in BR Tournament

BEAUMONT — Nerves wrecked Pampa again as the Optimist 14-15 Babe Ruth All-Stars were defeated by Bentonville, Ark. 12-1 in the Southwest Regional Babe Ruth Tournament here in a game called after five innings by the 10-run rule.

Three walks, two hit batters, a wild pitch, two passed balls and an error handed the winners three runs in the top of the first inning.

Bentonville's lone hit of the inning drove in two more, putting Pampa behind 5-0 before ever coming to bat. It goes worse.

A walk, two hits, another balk and a sacrifice fly made the score 7-0 after two innings. Four walks, an error, two passed balls, two wild pitches and two hits made the score 12-0 before Pampa had even gone through its hitting lineup one time.

Jake Craig singled in the fourth inning for Pampa's first hit. An error and a walk loaded the bases for Pampa with one out, but Pampa could not score. Pampa avoided a shutout in the bottom of the fifth inning. After two were out, Eric Kingcade drew a walk and Craig was hit by a pitch. Jarred Moler blooped a Texas League single to right to score Kingcade.

Ryan Torres was the starting pitcher for Pampa. In two innings he allowed three hits, four walks, two hit batters, but only three earned runs. He struck out three. Craig relieved in the third inning. He permitted three earned runs, on hit and walked three in one-third of an inning.

Moler came on to allow one unearned run and two hits in one and two-thirds innings. He walked one and struck out one. Sameer Kelley pitched the last inning. He allowed no runs and one hit. He struck out one and did not walk a batter.

The highlight of the game for Pampa came in the top of the third inning with one out and a Bentonville runner on second. Shortstop Tyson Hickman went into short left field to glove a soft fly ball with a beautiful overhead catch, and threw to Matthew Trusty at second for a double play.

Pampa was eliminated from the tournament, which featured state champions from Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and other regions of Texas.

"This is the first time since 1969 that a Pampa 14-15 year-old team has been to the Southwest Regional Tournament," said Manager Robert Wayne Dixon.

Of the 13 Pampa players seven were 14 years old. The teams they faced consisted of virtually all 15-year-old players.

"This will give our 14-year-olds some experience which is bound to help them next year," said Ron Carr, whose son, Jonathan, was a 14-year-old on the team. "We can play with these teams. We just did not play well this weekend."

The Pampa Optimist Youth Club is a Pampa United Way Agency.

Almost an upset

Vanessa Rivera (left) of the Youth Survival Club of Pampa came close to upsetting Golden Gloves State Champion Erica Portillo at the recent Plainview Boxing Tournament. Ten-year-old Vanessa bloodied the champion's nose, but lost a three-round decision. The Youth Survival team was entered in the 2003 Games of Texas last week in Bedford.

Parcells' past shows no mold for picking his quarterbacks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — As Bill Parcells prepares for his first season with the Dallas Cowboys, the most anticipated training-camp decision is who the coach will pick as the starting quarterback.

Will it be Chad Hutchinson, the incumbent? Or Quincy Carter, who started the last two openers? Could he rattle everyone and go with longtime third-stringer Clint Stoerner, or even undrafted rookie Tony Romo?

Here's something else to ponder: Will it matter? Parcells has said repeatedly he hopes to pick a starter by the end of training camp. All that means, though, is the winner will be under center Sept. 7 against Atlanta.

Using Parcells' past as a guide, there's no guarantee that person will have the job when it matters most.

While Parcells has turned losing teams into playoff squads with all three teams he's coached, he handled the quarterback spot differently each time. The only constants are making the playoffs in his second season and being led there by a record-setting passer.

In his first year as a head coach, with the New York Giants, Parcells picked Scott Brunner over Phil Simms. Brunner started every game the previous season while Simms recovered from an injury. Simms, who was the team's top passer the three seasons before that, was healthy again when Parcells bypassed him.

Parcells realized he made a mistake and turned to Simms the next season. He responded by setting club records for attempts, completions and yards, and the Giants went from 3-12-1 to 9-7 and a wild-card berth. They went on to win two Super Bowls.

In New England, Parcells drafted Drew Bledsoe with the No. 1 overall pick and let him take over right away. The Patriots won five games, up from two the previous season.

They jumped to 10-6 and a wild card the following season. Bledsoe set team records for attempts, completions and yards, and became the youngest quarterback to ever play in the Pro Bowl. He got them to the Super Bowl two years later.

With the New York Jets, Parcells began by giving Neil O'Donnell the starting job he lost because of injury the previous season. O'Donnell was benched at midseason and replaced by Glenn Foley. The team went from 1-15 to 9-7, one of the biggest improvements in league history.

O'Donnell was released in the offseason and Foley became the starter. Vinny Testaverde was signed soon after and began the season as the emergency QB. Then Foley got hurt, Testaverde took over and Parcells had his best second season. The Jets went 12-4 and made the AFC championship game, with Testaverde setting a team record for touchdown passes and making the Pro Bowl.

Parcells obviously has no mold. All he wants is the player who can get the team into the end zone most often, with an emphasis on not making mistakes.

"I'm not interested in being 8-8, so I'm not interested in a quarterback that I think could get me to 8-8," Parcells said earlier this summer.

Body identified as that of Baylor basketball player

WACO, Texas (AP) — Combing through chest-high weeds under the blazing sun, investigators' painstaking search uncovered key evidence that helped in identifying the body of Baylor University basketball player Patrick Dennehy, authorities said.

After finding a decomposed body in a field Friday night, authorities continued searching for a second day Sunday in the rural area about five miles south of Waco. They used farm equipment to cut down some weeds and grass up to 7 feet tall.

The site is just north of gravel pits where authorities searched last week after the arrest of Carlton Dotson, who played basketball at Baylor last season and had been living with Dennehy since spring. Sheriff's Capt. Paul Wash declined to comment Monday on new evidence in the case or possible motives.

"That's probably not something we're going to discuss," he said of motives. "We have an investigation to go through. We need to be able to process and work through and see where it leads us."

Dotson, 21, was arrested last week in his home state of Maryland on a murder charge from Texas in Dennehy's death. He remains jailed without bond, awaiting extradition to Texas.

Dotson was arrested July 21 after calling 911, saying he needed help because he was hearing voices, authorities said. Dotson told FBI agents in Maryland that he shot Dennehy after the player tried to shoot him, according to the arrest warrant affidavit. But after his arrest, Dotson told The Associated Press that he "didn't confess to anything."

Dotson's mother-in-law, Pam Bayuk, told Monday's editions of The Dallas Morning News that she began worrying about Dotson last fall, when she said he told her he was hearing voices, seeing visions and having trouble controlling his thoughts.

"He said he gets to thinking things, and even though he knows these things aren't true, he can't quit thinking them. I told him that can be a very dangerous thing and asked him to get some help," said Bayuk, wife of Sulphur Springs police Chief Jim Bayuk.

This spring, Bayuk said she spoke with one of Dotson's coaches at Baylor, telling him several times that she was worried about Dotson's mental stability. In a subsequent letter to the assistant coach in May, Bayuk described Dotson as "paranoid and delusional." The school, citing privacy laws, refused comment.

Dotson's attorney, Grady Irvin, said Monday that police have not shared any details of the investigation with him. He said he is focusing on determining whether there is a valid basis for extradition and is looking into whether an arrest warrant for Dotson was obtained properly.

Texans pick up Hollins from supplemental draft

HOUSTON (AP) — Although his football career has had its share of drama, all Tony Hollings cares about is the chance he got from the Texans.

Last year at Georgia Tech, Hollings tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee in the fourth game of the season.

He planned to return to school this fall but was declared academically ineligible and turned to the NFL supplemental draft, where the Texans picked him in July.

"They put me in without hesitation and I did pretty good," Hollings said. "I just went out and played with no worries, just what I have to do with my assignments because I can't worry about my knee."

Although Hollings expects to play this season, offensive coordinator Chris Palmer is taking a very cautious approach. The Texans do not know how much Hollings will be able to contribute this year.

Browns

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Long snapper Ryan Pontbriand ended

a five-day holdout by agreeing to terms on a five-year deal with the Cleveland Browns on Sunday.

Pontbriand is the first of Cleveland's seven 2003 draft picks to report to camp. Center Jeff Faine, the Browns' first-round pick who is expected to start this season, remains unsigned.

The Browns are attempting to sign their late-round picks to five-year deals, a new strategy that is being met with resistance by agents.

Typically, low-round picks sign for three years, after which they are eligible for free agency.

Pontbriand was selected in fifth round by the Browns, who needed a long snapper after Ryan Kuehl signed with the New York Giants.

Also Sunday, DT Gerard Warren missed his second straight day of practice with a bruised knee. An MRI showed a bruise, and Warren is being kept out as a precaution, team spokesman Todd Stewart said.

Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The

NFL Camps Capsules

Cincinnati Bengals signed cornerback Dennis Weathersby and fullback Jeremi Johnson, both fourth-round picks in this year's draft.

Weathersby holds Oregon State's career record for breaking up passes. He was considered a top cornerback in the NFL draft before he was the victim of a drive-by shooting April 20. He was recently cleared to practice.

Johnson was a starter at Indiana before he transferred to Western Kentucky and rushed for 637 yards in his final season.

Vikings

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings signed fourth-round draft pick Onterio Smith, ending a two-day holdout.

Smith ranked second in the Pac-10 in rushing last year for Oregon. He figures prominently in the team's plans at running back with Pro Bowler Michael Bennett out at least half — if not all of — of the season with a stress fracture in his left foot.

Broncos

DENVER (AP) — Kelly Herndon and Lenny Walls are competing for the team's starting right cornerback job.

"Right now I think Lenny has Kelly up, but it's been back and forth," defensive coordinator Larry Coyer said. "It will be a battle throughout the whole camp between those two guys."

Last year's starter, Denard Walker, opted for free agency and signed with the Minnesota Vikings. The departure left the 5-foot-10, 180-pound Herndon and the 6-4, 192-pound Walls as the front-runners.

"We don't look at it as Lenny Walls vs. Kelly Herndon," Herndon said. "We are looking at it as us getting better and doing our best to help the Denver Broncos and to show the coaches here that we deserve to be on the field."

Eagles

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Last year, running back Correll

Buckhalter injured his knee on the opening day of the first minicamp and missed the season.

Now, he is preparing to have a big role for the Eagles. Players report Monday and full-pad practice begins Wednesday.

Buckhalter ran for a team rookie record 586 yards in 2001 but tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee in a non-contact drill in 2002.

Entry deadline Aug. 20 for fall softball leagues

PAMPA — The City of Pampa Recreation Department will be offering the following leagues for Fall Softball: Men's Open & Mixed Open.

The entry fees or sponsor's fees for teams are $200 per team ($185 if team is already sanctioned).

The player's fee is $15 per person with a minimum of 11 persons for Men's Open and 12 persons for Mixed Open.

The entry deadline is Friday, Aug. 20 at 5 p.m. There will be no teams added after this date.

Schedules will be available after 1 p.m. on Aug. 27 at the Recreation Office.

Play will begin the week of Sept. 2.

Roster forms, fact sheets and by-laws are available at the Recreation Office at 816 S. Hobart between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

If you have any questions or would like more information on the Fall Softball Leagues, please contact the Recreation Office at 669-5770 during business hours.

Red Sox rally to beat Yankees and take two of three in series

By The Associated Press

Maybe this year the Red Sox can stay in the AL East race until the final days of the season. Maybe Boston can even win its first division title since 1995.

New York was eight outs from winning Sunday night and moving 3 1/2 games in front in the standings. Then, Jason Varitek tied the game with a three-run homer and Johnny Damon followed with the go-ahead shot in a six-run seventh inning that carried Boston to a 6-4 victory over the Yankees.

Now New York's lead is down to 1 1/2 games.

"It's going to be a dogfight all the way to the end," Yankees manager Joe Torre said. "I'm not sure who's going to win, but the division is going to be determined by how we play each other because we obviously proved we play each other very even."

Jeff Weaver took a 3-0 lead and a two-hitter into the seventh before he walked Trot Nixon and hit Bill Mueller with a pitch with one out. Chris Hammond (2-1) relieved and Varitek homered over the Green Monster as a disgusted Weaver threw a towel in the Yankees dugout.

Damon then hooked a shot inside the foul pole in right for consecutive homers and a 4-3 lead.

"As soon as Jason hit his homer, we knew we were a home run away," said Damon, who pumped a fist in the air as he ran the bases. "It definitely gave a lot of life to the team."

In other games, it was: Toronto 10, Baltimore 1;

Kansas City 5, Detroit 1; Chicago 9, Tampa Bay 1; Oakland 10, Anaheim 1; Texas 7, Seattle 3; and Cleveland 3, Minnesota 2 in 14 innings.

At Fenway Park, Casey Fossum (5-4) allowed one hit, striking out one in one inning of relief of Derek Lowe.

Byung-Hyun Kim pitched the ninth for his sixth save in seven tries, allowing an RBI fielder's choice Hideki Matsui.

With a runner on second, he retired Jorge Posada on a game-ending flare that Manny Ramirez grabbed with a sliding catch down the left-field line, holding up his glove to show off the ball as he lay on his back.

"It felt unbelievable to make that catch," Ramirez said. "It was like the first catch I ever made, and I was very happy."

Blue Jays 10, Orioles 1

Roy Halladay (15-2) pitched seven scoreless innings at SkyDome and became the first major league pitcher to win 15 straight decisions since Roger Clemens won 16 in a row in 2001. Aquilino Lopez finished the three-hitter, allowing a homer to Larry Bigbie.

Carlos Delgado hit his AL-leading 30th home run. Rodrigo Lopez (3-6) tied a season high by allowing eight runs and eight hits in 3 2-3 innings.

Royals 5, Tigers 1

Jose Lima (7-0) won his seventh straight start, allowing four hits in five shutout innings. He has the longest winning streak by a Kansas City pitcher since David Cone won eight straight in 1994.

Sean Lowe, Jason

Grimsley and Mike MacDougal finished the five-hitter at Detroit.

Angel Berroa and Desi Relaford homered for the Royals. Mike Maroth (5-15) allowed five runs and seven hits in seven innings.

White Sox 9, Devil Rays 1
Bartolo Colon (8-9) pitched eight innings to combine with Kelly Wunsch on a four-hitter, and Frank Thomas homered and drove in three runs as Chicago won for the ninth time in 10 games.

The White Sox, trailing the Royals by four games in the AL Central, start a three-game series Tuesday in Kansas City.

Joe Kennedy (3-8) gave up six runs — five earned — and eight hits in 4 1-3 innings, dropping to 0-5 since winning at Toronto on May 13.

Athletics 10, Angels 1

Tim Hudson (9-4) pitched a four-hitter for his second complete game this season, and Scott Hatteberg went 3-for-4 with a pair of solo homers as visiting Oakland closed within three games of AL West-leading Seattle.

Anaheim dropped to 2-9 since the All-Star break. Ramon Ortiz (12-8) gave up six runs and six hits over 2 1-3 innings in his shortest outing this season.

Rangers 7, Mariners 3

Michael Young had four hits and John Thomson (8-10) allowed three runs, eight hits and five walks in eight innings at Seattle.

Rafael Palmeiro and Hank Blalock each drove in two runs for the Rangers. Alex Rodriguez, who turned 28, went 2-for-4 with a triple.

Freddy Garcia (9-10) lost his fourth straight decision, allowing six runs — five earned — and 10 hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Indians 3, Twins 2, 14 innings

Tim Laker, who popped out with the bases loaded for the final out of the 10th, hit an RBI single off Juan Rincon (2-4) with two outs in the 14th at Cleveland.

Rafael Betancourt (1-1) pitched the 14th for his first major league win.

Minnesota dropped to 7-4 since the break and fell 6 1/2 games behind first-place Kansas City in the AL Central.

PGA tour veterans are holding their own against the youngsters

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Peter Jacobsen and the rest of the PGA Tour veterans are holding their own against the youngsters.

The 49-year-old Jacobsen's win at the Greater Hartford Open on Sunday added to the list of older guys who have been beating the younger set the past few weeks.

"When I was 30 years old, I thought I should have won every week," Jacobsen said. "You think you're going to do it again and again. It doesn't happen that way. I think it makes this victory that much sweeter. I think I'll appreciate it a lot more."

Kenny Perry, who turns 43 next month, has won three of his last six tournaments and tied for fourth Sunday. Craig Stadler, 50, won the B.C. Open last week.

Jacobsen shot a 3-under-par 67 for his first win in eight years. He started the day tied for the lead with 49-year-old Jay Haas, who's won nearly $2 million this year. Haas has two second-place finishes and has made 13 of 17 cuts.

"I never think of my age when I tee it up out there," Jacobsen said. "From an experience standpoint, yes, I felt the last nine holes, if I was near the lead, I would have a good chance because a victory is not going to change my life. If you win your first or second tournament, especially if you are in your 20s, it will change your life."

The 1984 GHO was Jacobsen's second win of his career. This victory was even sweeter, he said, in the final GHO on record. The tournament will be called the Buick Championship next year.

The thousands lining the hills along No. 18 cheered long and loud as Jacobsen made his way up the fairway. The final round of the final GHO drew more than 70,000 to the TPC at River Highlands.

Jacobsen finished 14 under for the tournament with a 266, two strokes better than playing partner Chris Riley.

"He didn't make a mistake," Riley said. "He hit it solid, drove it solid, putted it solid and made all of his 5-footers."

As Jacobsen's final putt dropped, his 21-year-old daughter Kristen ran onto the green and into his arms.

She was a toddler the last time he won here. His $720,000 payday Sunday was 10 times bigger than the check 19 years ago.

Jacobsen's eligible for the Champions Tour next year, where carts are allowed and the competition is three rounds long, except for the majors. After Sunday's success, Jacobsen said he isn't sure if he'll jump to the senior circuit when he turns 50.

"I was planning on playing the Champions Tour," he said. "Now I don't know what I'm going to do. I'm in the same boat as Jay Haas. He has contended in so many tournaments. I don't know what I'm going to do, but it's a nice problem to have."

Jacobsen was the sentimental favorite as the tournament unfolded. It opened with the much-heralded appearance of Suzy Whaley, the local teaching pro who became the first woman to qualify for a PGA Tour event since Babe Zaharias in 1945.

After Whaley bowed out Friday at 13 over, she followed Jacobsen around the course — his production company handled her publicity the last seven months.

Todd Fischer (65) finished third at 11 under. Craig Barlow and Perry both shot 69 to finish four strokes back.

Jacobsen played a sure and steady round in windy conditions, scrambling to save critical pars. His four-birdie round included one bogey when he missed a 3-footer for par on the No. 5 par 3.

Jovial and relaxed for 18 holes, Jacobsen bantered with the crowd, shaking hands as he walked to the tees. He waited for a butterfly to flit off his line on No. 3, explaining to the crowd, "I don't want to hurt the butterfly."

He was unflappable.

When a young boy sped by in a dirt bike along railroad tracks that lined the No. 14 fairway, Jacobsen took it in stride, pumping his fist in the air as if to say, "Way to go."

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, July 29, 2003:
 Resolutions made this year are likely to stick. You demonstrate unusual creativity, combined with a generally magnetic way, you seem to get what you want. Don't hesitate to zero in on what you want. Sometimes others find you a bit self-absorbed. You often might wonder when to establish boundaries, i.e., when you're giving too much and when you're not giving enough. If you are single, you could meet someone quite special, but be careful not to mix business with pleasure. Trouble could occur with joint finances. If attached, make sure you know what is going on with your sweetie. Have frequent chats. LEO reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Strap on your seat belt as your ruler goes retrograde today. You might start feeling the impact immediately. Learn to handle this energy, as it will be two months of working through frustration. Take care of yourself, don't internalize. Tonight: Allow another to dote on you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 You might want to slow down, especially with a friendship or budding partnership. Things might be changing dramatically, but not in the way you visualized. Carefully consider your options with a domestic change. Tonight: Mosey on home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Your ability to get past the immediate helps you understand why a boss could be out of sorts. Work with difficult people. Learn to understand what motivates them. A friendship will bloom as a result. Express understanding. Tonight: You cannot be too nice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 News from a distance could shake you up. Decide to do something a bit differently. Indulge not only those around you but yourself, too. Work with a reversal in plans. Work with the lay of the land. It might take a while to get plans straight. Tonight: Indulge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Venus moves into your sign, adding to your desirability. The Moon makes you king or queen for a day. If you feel like you might want to make an important resolution, the time is now. A close associate could become jealous in the next few weeks. Keep conversations moving. Tonight: As you like it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
* Know when to duck. Mars goes retrograde in your opposite sign. Perhaps not today, but in the near future, you could find others on your case. If you get attitude from someone you care about, open up talks. Tonight: Take a back seat to events.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 If there is something you've really wished for and wanted, use today's New Moon to make the decision to go for it. You discover that many will help you with a project. Don't be disappointed by a change on the work scene. Tonight: Find your pals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Take your place in your immediate circle, allowing others to understand just how much you have to offer. Use care with a loved one or child who might be covering something up. Make it a point in the next few weeks to help this person open up. Tonight: Work late.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 Just when you thought everything was under control, you have a mini war of the roses starting in your back yard. Find out what is ailing a roommate or family member, which could take a while. Detach from the immediate. Tonight: Touch base with a loved one at a distance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Consider an offer from a partner. Know that this person really cares about you and wants to work more closely together. Still, make sure all agreements are in writing. Mistakes could easily happen. Tonight: Go along with another's desires.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Others come to you. Don't, however, make a mistake with a financial agreement. Don't put yourself in jeopardy. Think carefully about what you want and expect from a special friendship. Be willing to ask for just that. Tonight: Do what a loved one requests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Mars retrogrades in your sign today, where it will remain for approximately two months. Curb a tendency to turn your anger inward. At the same time, learn how to express your feelings in a way that others can hear. Tonight: Off to the gym.

Tin Lizzie

In October 1908, Henry Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, introduced the Model "T." He called it the "car for the great multitude."

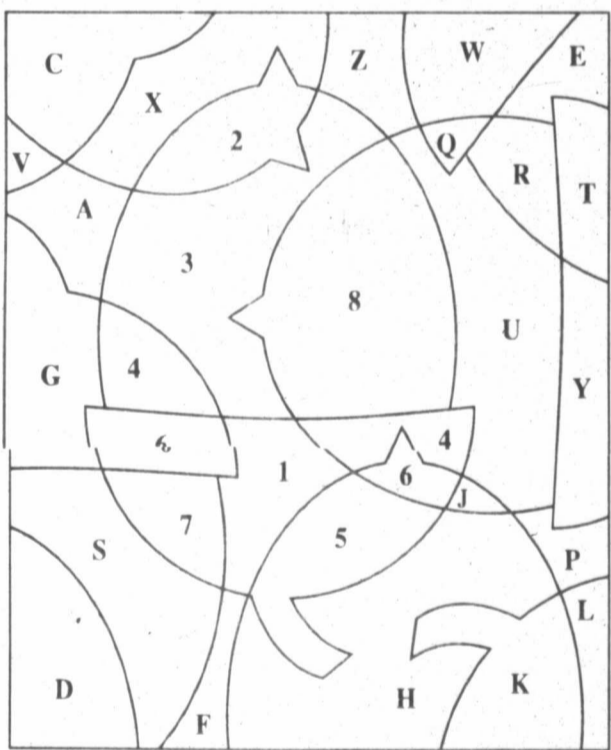

The Model "T," also known as the "Tin Lizzie" or the "Flivver," was designed to be durable and affordable. It was an immediate success. By 1919, 60 percent of motor vehicles in the United States and 50 percent in the world were Model "T's."

Because so many people wanted a Model "T," Ford introduced the moving assembly line, which was completed in 1914. The system not only increased the number of cars produced, it also made the car a lot cheaper. In 1914, Ford produced more than 300,000 cars, more than all other car makers combined.

The Model "T" was popular because it was lightweight, durable, could get up to 45 mph and go 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Electric lights came out in 1915, and an electric starter became an option on closed cars in 1919.

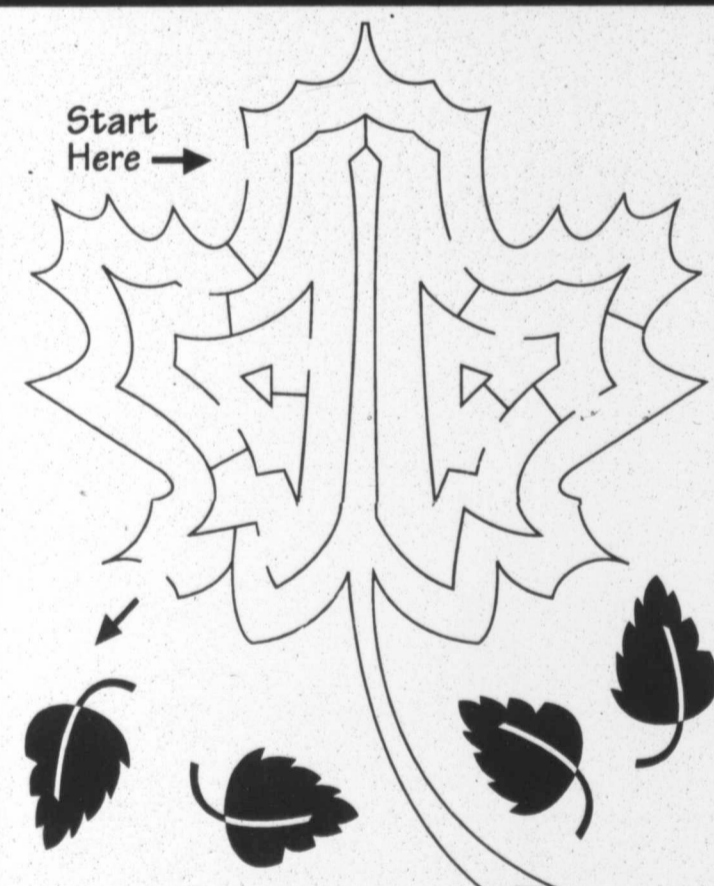

When it came out in 1908, the Model "T" cost about $850. By 1925, the cheapest model cost $290. In 1927, when production of the Model "T" stopped, 15,007,003 of the cars had been produced.

A SUPREME COURT JUDGE

Thurgood Marshall became the first African-American member of the Supreme Court in October 1967.

Born in 1908 in Baltimore, Marshall graduated from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania in 1930. He received his law degree in 1933 from Howard University Law School in Washington, D.C., and ranked first in his class. He practiced law in Baltimore, specializing in civil rights cases.

In 1940, Marshall became the chief of the legal defense section of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). By the time he was appointed to the Supreme Court, he had gone before the court with 32 cases and won 29 of those.

Marshall was known for his liberal stand on many issues, including religion and the death penalty. He resigned from the Supreme Court in 1991 because his health was getting bad, and he died in 1993.
