TRAIN ROBBERY QUICKLY SOLVED

Brooks' Body Missing As Flivver Plane Towed Ashore

ATLANTIC MAY SURRENDER ITS VICTIM TODAY

No Clue Available as Battered Ship Is Examined

WING IS TORN COMPLETELY OFF

Beach Patrol on Duty on Theory That Man Freed Self

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 27.—(P)—The Ford flivver plane which disappeared into the Atlantic ocean Saturday night off Melbourne was towed ashore near here this morning. No trace was found of the body of Harry Brooks, who was piloting the plane when it disappeared.

The plane was badly damaged. One wing had been entirely torn off by the waves, and the fabric of the other wing was stripped. The propeller was broken and the fuselage wrecked.

Working on the theory that Brooks freed himself or was thrown clear of the cockpit when the plane struck, and attempted to swim ashore, a beach patrol was begun at daybreak. Seaplanes were still working up and down the coast off Sebastian inlet.

Ford officials said the plane was washed ashore and was found early this morning by a motorcycle policeman patrolling the beach.

Examination of the strap by which Brooks was said to have fastened himself into the plane when he left Titusville Saturday offered no clue as to whether he disengaged himself before the crash. The battered condition of the fuselage made this means of determining the pilot's fate impossible. It was generally believed, however, that he had time to free himself before the plane fell.

Almost total demolition of the body of the plane obliterated any other indication which might have been found of Brooks' actions before or after the drop.

While search for Brooks' body went forward with vigor, fishermen familiar with such matters ventured the opinion that it should be brought in by the tide this afternoon if ever. They said that if the body did not wash ashore by high tide at 3 o'clock this afternoon it probably never would be found.

Absentee Voting Must Be Done at LeFors Now

Ray E. Duncan, chairman of the county seat election committee, today issued the following important statement on voting:

Today is the last day one can cast an absentee ballot by mail. Commencing tomorrow, February 28, if you are leaving town or if you are not going to be here on March 9 and expect to cast a ballot in the county seat election to be held on that date, you will either come to the Chamber of Commerce and transportation will be furnished you to LeFors, or go to LeFors yourself and there cast such a ballot. In either event, be sure and bring your poll tax.

The law is that one may cast an absentee ballot in person in an election provided he goes before the county clerk not more than ten nor less than three days prior to date of election and procures the ballot from the county clerk and there marks it in his presence.

If you know of any one that is not going to be present on March 9, and is qualified to vote in the county seat election, you will please call Chamber of Commerce, phone 367, and he or she will be taken care of.

THE WEATHER

ARKANSAS AND OKLAHOMA: Tonight and Tuesday fair.
EAST TEXAS: Tonight, generally fair, frost to the coast except in the Lower Rio Grande valley; Tuesday, generally fair except showers on west coast. Light to moderate northerly to easterly winds on the coast.
WEST TEXAS: Tonight and Tuesday fair.

Oil Men in Troubled Waters

This picture was taken just after the judge had said "Six months!" to Harry E. Sinclair (left), the big Teapot Dome man, and "Four Months!" to Henry Mason Day, Sinclair's right-hand man, for contempt of court in causing Burns detectives to shadow jurors in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial. The two were just leaving the court house in Washington when the photographer stepped up. The sentences were appealed.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IS MADE IN TODD-CITY CASE

Chas. C. Cook, counsel for the City of Pampa, today filed in 64th district court a motion for a new trial of the case of Della Todd against this municipal corporation. Miss Todd was awarded $1,500 damages in a jury verdict Saturday. She asked $35,000, alleged permanent bodily injuries as the result of an accident which, it was charged, resulted from negligence of the city grading crew in leaving an open ditch unlighted at night.

West Texas League Is Out for Players

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 27.—(P)—The West Texas baseball league, with eight franchises, today was preparing to plan a 1928 campaign, following its organization Sunday at Sweetwater, with J. McAllister Stevenson of Abilene as its head, succeeding Earl "Red" Snapp, who had served as temporary president.

The franchises voted are San Angelo, Abilene, Midland, Sweetwater, Coleman, Brownwood, Odessa, and Lubbock. Three of the cities—Brownwood, Odessa and Coleman—were not represented, although Brownwood had announced its intention of being ready to start in the league as a farm club of the San Antonio club of the Texas league. Sweetwater, Odessa, and Coleman were given until March 7 to notify President Stevenson whether they will accept the franchises. All other towns have accepted.

"Open House" to Be Held in Legion Hall Tomorrow

The American Legion "open house" to celebrate the grand opening of the new American Legion home, which was postponed from last week because of weather conditions, will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening. During the afternoon a welcoming committee will be in the home to receive visitors and show them over the new quarters.

This celebration is for all who wish to attend and is especially open to veterans, ex-service men, and their families. During the evening a special program will be given featuring the noted "Tanlac" Strange of Lubbock, who will be the chief entertainer at the evening program, which will commence at 8 o'clock. Local talent will also be presented to those attending the opening.

The large reception and lounge room has a home-like atmosphere with its x-minister rugs, overstuffed Chesterfield and easy chairs, piano, and large Kolster radio.

At the rear of the building is the recreation room with its domino, checker and billiard tables, and a large grate while a small kitchen and serving table have been installed to serve lunches on special occasions.

The program:
Invocation. The Rev. W. L. Evans (Chaplain)
Song, (Everyone)—Star Spangled Banner.
Address of Welcome, P. E. Boyd.
Piano solo, Mrs. R. A. Webb.
Song, quartet.
Address, P. W. Gwin (City Manager).

Music, Prof. Otto Schick.

Mrs. H. K. Warren, who has been seriously ill in the hospital, is slowly recovering.

FREAK IDEAS CITED IN COURT HOUSE SESSION

Sidelights Are Given on Alanreed Meeting of Last Week

TAXATION NEED NOT INCREASE

Fallacies Pointed Out in Opposition Talk Against Pampa

Some sidelights on the mass meeting of LeFors, McLean, and Alanreed people, which was held in Alanreed last week, have been given the News with comment, by a local man. Here they are:

Alanreed speaker: "Our citizens are 100 per cent loyal to the cause of Alanreed and McLean, and there are TWO prominent men from the other part of the county that will vote with us."

We are of the opinion that our citizens are just as loyal to Pampa as the citizens of McLean and Alanreed are to their towns, and we don't believe there will be a single dissenting vote of the citizenship of Pampa in bringing the county seat of government to Pampa and to a railroad. But since it is suggested that there are two such men who will vote against bringing the courthouse to Pampa, perhaps it is time for us to take stock and see if this is the correct percentage.

McLean Man Alarmed
A gentleman from McLean was alarmed over the courthouse, that might cost half a million dollars and mean higher taxes.

There is just about as much possibility of Gray county's building a courthouse costing a half million dollars as there is of the commissioners court ordering docks to be built for ships of the sea.

If a courthouse and jail are built costing not in excess of $200,000, this can be done without additional taxation by using the present courthouse tax of 25 cents on the $100 valuation. This tax will be collected this year for that purpose and will amount to $25,000, since Gray county's valuations are in excess of $10,000,000.

Another man, reputed to be connected with the Rock Island railroad with an office in Amarillo, spoke against the removal of the county seat to Pampa. It seemed that he might be in favor of moving the county seat some time to a railroad, but didn't think Pampa should be the place. Incidentally, his railroad passes through McLean and that town has a square of land reserved and kept vacant for a landing place for the courthouse when same is tired of sojourning at LeFors.

Move Potter Seat?
This gentleman also is in fear of Pampa's losing some of its population and cities Amarillo as an example, stating that the latter has lost some ten thousand people. Notwithstanding this fact, he didn't say anything about their moving the county seat from Amarillo back to the center of the Canadian river so there might be "equal rights" to all and special privileges to none.

Another speaker from McLean, spoke against the removal to Pampa for the reason that "the county is now in the making." If this ever ceases to be true, and Gray county ceases to go forward, the millennium will have arrived.

The question is: Is it wiser to build a new courthouse at Pampa where

Slain by Flame

Margaret Brown, governess in a wealthy Park Avenue home, was the victim of New York's most unique slaying—by fire. Her kerosene saturated clothes aflame, she was found unconscious in a lonely New Jersey wood. The police laid her murder to an unidentified man who supposedly robbed her of $9,000 before drugging and setting the fatal flame.

MUCH OF LOOT RECOVERED BY CHICAGO SQUAD

Police Were on Trail of Gang Before Holdup

HEARD PLANS ON TAPPED WIRES

Bandits Used Toy Train and Rehearsed Each Part

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(P)—Police today announced the solution of the $133,000 mail train robbery at Evergreen Park Saturday, the arrest of five of the seven bandits and recovery of a large part of the stolen money.

William O'Connor, deputy commissioner of police, after spending most of the night on the case, said he would turn over to the postal inspectors for prosecution these men:

"Limp Charlie" Cleaver, at whose home was found $17,125 and $600 in bonds; William Donovan, whom police say plotted the robbery with Cleaver; William Carmody, Angelo Francisco, and Joseph Lamm, the latter proprietor of a poolroom where members of the gang were said to have gathered.

The deputy commissioner said he had detailed confessions from Cleaver and Donovan, together with additional information involving them in two other recent robberies—the Ravenswood National bank holdup in which $80,000 was taken, and the holdup of Joseph Fekete, mortgage banker.

Fekete partly identified Cleaver, Carmody, and Francisco as men who robbed him February 3. Bonds found at Cleaver's home were identified as having been taken from the Fekete bank.

Much Loot Recovered.
The deputy police commissioner who has been in active charge of the investigation from the moment word was received that the Grand Trunk train carrying payroll money to two Harvey, Ill. banks had been held up, did not reveal the exact amount of money recovered.

"It is a great deal more than the $17,125 we found in Cleaver's home," he said, "but the exact sum will not be announced until we have completed our work."

He would not discuss the police report that a raid on the far south side early today, in which three women were arrested had led to the finding of $15,000 of the stolen money.

No robbery in police records was more carefully planned or executed than this, O'Connor said. The plotting, execution, and escape were reconstructed by detectives this way:

The first step was to obtain information as to whom and when the money would be shipped. This was followed by daily trips over the Grand Trunk to Evergreen Park by one of the plotters—Donovan, police say. Thus the plotters familiarized themselves with the routine of the train crew.

Practiced With Toy.
A toy train, having the same number of cars as the train that was to be robbed, was used by members of the gang, to perfect every detail. With the aid of the toy train each man was drilled in the part he would take in the holdup.

On Saturday morning the train left Chicago with the consignment of $133,000 by two Chicago banks for two banks in Harvey. Among the passengers, according to the police reconstruction of the robbery, was Donovan. It was Donovan, they say, who pulled the emergency cord, which brought the train to a stop.

So foresighted were the robbers that they had planted a cache of dynamite under the platform of the lonely St. Maria station in Evergreen Park, to be used if the explosives carried by the men proved inadequate for blowing open the mail car door and safe. The cache was found last night by members of the bomb squad.

Escape was made in a car driven, the police charge, by Carmody. The division of the loot took place shortly after the robbery, according to information the police got in the Saturday night and Sunday questioning of 25 men and women under arrest. There were seven shares of $17,000 each. The extra $14,000, the Donovan and Cleaver confession were

BILL DOLLAR WANTS TO STAY HERE

"Bill Dollar," put in circulation here last week by Lions club, in an interview with the News today laid down some interesting trade principles for local citizens. They are:

1. I like Pampa; I won't leave unless you make me.
2. I help bring other dollars to Pampa.
3. Fellows like me are the life blood of Pampa business.
4. I work for all alike, and work faster than most people think.
5. Send me out of Pampa and scores of business firms lose the daily turnover I give them.
6. Keep me here and I will soon double myself in profits to be enjoyed and spent in Pampa.

The bill was affixed to a sheaf of paper bearing the following statement on the front: "My name is Bill Dollar. Place me in circulation in Pampa for a period of 30 days, as you would any other dollar and I will show you the value of keeping us at home by the amount of work I will do. "Spend this dollar as you would any other dollar, but sign your name on the inclosed page, stating what you purchased or paid for with it. The owner of this will please turn same into the Chamber of Commerce on the morning of February 23, 1928, and receive a dollar for it. LIONS CLUB OF PAMPA."

Those using the dollar in its rounds, and what they bought with it, are shown in the record:

- H. Otto Studer, for T-Bone steak. Master's cafe, given in change.
- F. C. Conwell, for a pair of socks.
- E. F. Thomas, for groceries.
- B. R. White (Woodward-Lane), for tie.
- O. B. Robinson, for apples.
- Oil Belt grocery, for pins.
- Wade's store, for cakes.
- Crystal Palace, for eggs.
- C. & C. Mercantile, for comb.
- Pampa Drug company, for boiled ham.

Piggly-Wiggly market, for groceries. Gordon Bain, for socks. R. A. Rose, for broom. J. L. Bennett (Horne & Coffee), for socks. Hill's department store, given in change. Morris Drug store, for ice cream. DeSpain & Son grocery, for oranges and lemons. Bernard Dry Goods company, on account. DeSpain grocery, for potatoes and eggs. It also is said that Bill Dollar made a trip to Kansas City in the pocket of a local man who forgot him, but he didn't buy anything there.

EDITORIAL NOTES—Hutchinson county is doing a wise thing in building her courthouse while the flush oil property assessments are available.
 A 25-cent courthouse and jail tax will pay for the entire building in six years, it is estimated.
 Every county having oil development would do well to build its courthouse and schools while these natural resources are taxable, for in no other way can the oil be put to public use.
 First, however, the county seat removal question must be settled, and it is up to Pampa voters to do that on March 9.
 It is not too early to be planning to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Fort Worth June 18, 19, and 20. Fort Worth, natal city of the organization, considers the meeting something of a home-coming event, and big plans are being made. A fund of $35,000 has been set aside for convention entertainment and arrangements. There are to be three big parades, one for Fort Worth, one for delegations, and one for schools and colleges. There will be the usual band concerts, special group meetings, "My Home Town Contest," women's sessions, and entertainment of an unusual character.

Pampa, with more than 120 members, should be well represented this year.
 Texas has her own farm problems, with cotton restriction having the double significance of production limitation and pink boll worm restriction. Almost as difficult as the McNary-Haugen farm bill is the proposal to declare non-cotton zones and reimburse the farmers therein with state and federal aid. It's a knotty problem.

Texas Farm and Ranch, in urging "safe and sane farming" through raising of grain sorghums and feeding of livestock, says of cotton: "With all due respect for cotton as the South's greatest staple crop, under our practices cotton fails to compensate producers for their investment of time, money, and labor."
 "The soils of the Southwest have and are suffering an annual depletion of fertility through the one-crop system, lack of livestock, and through washing or erosion. . . The Southwest has a variety of soils and climate conditions. The soils are capable of improvement. A large variety of food and feed crops can be produced in abundance."
 The oldtime habit of going to the station "to see the trains come in" is out-of-date, even in Pampa. But did you ever go down there to see the bacon and eggs come in? Think it over.

A significant thing about the Texas Farm and Home Special this year was that ideas rather than individual excellence of the exhibits held the attention. Very interesting were the three cars arranged by the extension department of A. & M. college. A special effort to interest women and girls was apparent in the numerous exhibits showing ways in which house work may be made easier, health of the family more certain, and homelife brighter and happier. Garment work was illustrated, with the notation that home demonstration club women and girls of Texas last year totaled 33,549 and made 237,827 garments, valued at $712,596.
 Another exhibit featured balanced diets and food preparation. A well filled row of shelves filled with vegetables and properly prepared food was labeled "Mrs. Ever Well's Cabinet," as contrasted with "Mrs. Never Well's Cabinet," which contained bottles of medicines.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—One of the most absorbing performances which the two political parties are about to offer a mildly interested nation in their quadrennial competition for the spoils of office and such perquisites as those may entail is that in which the Democratic party will appear as a Magpie and the Republican party will take the role of a Clam.
 That is to say, one party is going to talk and act like a magpie very angry about something and the other will talk and act like a clam.
 This strange stunt may be enacted several times, but it is sure to be observed as Democratic orators disembogue at their best and loudest against the oil scandals of the Harding administration. It will be recalled that when this issue arose in 1924 the Democratic party followed the best traditions of magpieism and the Republican party took its cue from clamdom.
 In 1924 there were still some hard-boiled politicians—of the type that sent men to Montana to "get" Senator Wheeler—who still maintained that Fall was a far-sighted and conscientious official, while Doheny and Sinclair were super-patriots who had taken the navy's oil merely to save us from the Yellow Peril. The Supreme Court has spoken since then, however, and has denounced those involved in very strong language.

 In 1924 Harding was dead and Coolidge, the candidate, had been a mere vice president when the oil gang got the oil and Fall got the money.
 Whether or not the oil scandals and the new charge that Sinclair helped pay the party debt about the time the administration gave him Teapot Dome will have any effect in November, it is probable that election day will come without mention of the oil scandals by any important Republican.
 The G. O. P. attitude is that although it may have been a skeleton in the closet and although the Democrats may have been indecent enough to break down the door that hid it, a dignified silence is the best answer to those who still drag it around the streets or dangle it before them.
 Not once has the administration expressed itself upon the subject, not even to pat on the back the two able lawyers who have recovered the navy's reserves and kept the bloodhounds close at the coattails of Fall, Sinclair and Doheny. It has been as if no highly placed official or member of the Congress, except he be a Democrat or a Republican of independent stripe, was at all interested. Of course, the light of recent charges that corrupt oil money helped pay party campaign debts, it was only human for the gents in power not to be especially enthusiastic over further prosecution and investigation.

TWINKLES
 Considering how that frog fared in the headlines, we are fortunate that the thing can't plead insanity.
 The Prince of Wales shook hands with a head-waiter the other day. If he is preparing his personal democracy for the kingship, and his father does not die pretty soon, that young man will be doing some strange things.
 We try hard not to be provincial, but we just can't get worried over the pink boll worm, especially while the cotton surplus reminds us of the oil situation.

Well, it looks like our farmers can quit arguing over whether they will make a crop, and debate the comparative merits of Turkey Red vs. Black Hull.

BARBS
 (By N.E.A. Service Inc.)

A child in New York state wrote to Secretary Wilbur asking for ten battleships and a destroyer. Some people over on the other side of the water think we're Santa Claus, too.
 Josephine Haldeman-Julius, companionate bride of some months, is dancing in a movie theatre to pay her way through school. This is merely a little publicity tip to actresses at large.
 Plump co-eds are better students than the slim ones, research at the University of Arizona discloses. But, let's not worry, maybe next year styles will change and the fat ones will have an evening out occasionally.
 This is not an advertisement, but did it ever occur to you that cotton stockings may be best in the long run?
 John D., Jr., has been doing his best to help clear up what Senator Walsh laughingly calls "the crude oil situation."

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the stranger did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling, the night of the murder, on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12, he says, he saw Cleaver sneaking out the side door of the building—the door which was thought bolted on the inside all night. Markham confronts Cleaver with this information and asks him why he lied about his whereabouts.

CHAPTER XXXVI

For a long time there was tense silence. Then Cleaver spoke.
 "I've got to think this thing out."
 Markham waited patiently. After several minutes Cleaver drew himself together and squared his shoulders.
 "I'm going to tell you what I did that night, and you can take it or leave it."
 Again he was the cold, self-contained gambler. "I don't care how many witnesses you've got; it's the only story you'll ever get out of me. I should have told you in the first place, but I didn't see any sense of stepping into hot water if I wasn't pushed in. You might have believed me last Tuesday, but now you've got something in your head, and you want to make an arrest to shut up the newspapers."
 "Tell your story," ordered Markham. "If it's straight, you needn't worry about the newspapers."
 Cleaver knew in his heart that this was true. No one—not even his bitterest political enemies—had ever accused Markham of buying praise with any act of injustice, however small.
 "There's not much to tell, as a matter of fact," the man began. "I went to Miss Odell's house a little before midnight, but I didn't enter her apartment; I didn't even ring her bell."
 "Is that your customary way of paying visits?"
 "Sounds fishy, doesn't it? But it's the truth, nevertheless. I intended to see her—that is I wanted to—but when I reached her door, something made me change my mind."
 "Just a moment—How did you enter the house?"
 "By the side door—the one off the alleyway. I always used it when it was open. Miss Odell requested me to, so that the telephone operator wouldn't see me coming in so often."
 "And the door was unlocked at that time Monday night?"
 "How else could I have got in by it? A key wouldn't have done me any good, even if I'd had one, for the door locks by a bolt on the inside. I'll say this, though; that's the first time I ever remember finding the door unlocked at night."
 "All right. You went in the side entrance. Then what?"
 "I walked down the rear hall and listened at the door of Miss Odell's apartment for a minute. I thought there might be some one else with her, and I didn't want to ring unless she was alone."
 "Pardon my interrupting, Mr. Cleaver," interposed Vance. "But what made you think some one else was there?"
 The man hesitated. "because you had telephoned to Miss Odell a little before, and had been answered by a man's voice?"
 Cleaver nodded slowly. "I can't see any particular point in denying it... Yes, that's the reason."
 "What did this man say to you?"
 "Damn little. He said 'Hello,' and when I asked to speak to Miss Odell he informed me she wasn't in, and hung up."
 "That, I think, explains Jessup's report of the brief phone call to the Odell apartment at twenty minutes to twelve."
 "Probably," Markham spoke without interest. He was intent on Cleaver's account of what happened later, and he took up the interrogation at the point where Vance had interrupted.
 "You say you listened at the apartment door. What caused you to refrain from ringing?"
 "I heard a man's voice inside." Markham straightened up.
 "A man's voice? You're sure?"
 "That's what I said," Cleaver was matter of fact about it. "A man's voice. Ootherwise I'd have rung the bell."

 "Could you identify the voice?"
 "Hardly. It was very indistinct; and it sounded a little hoarse. It wasn't any one's voice I was familiar with; but I'd be inclined to say it was the same one that answered me over the phone."
 "Could you make out anything that was said?"
 Cleaver frowned and looked past Markham through the open window.
 "I know what the words sounded like," he said slowly. "I didn't think anything of them at the time. But after reading the papers the next day, those words came back to me—"
 "What were the words?" Markham cut in impatiently.
 "Well, as near as I could make out they were: 'Oh, my God! Oh, my God!'—repeated two or three times."
 This statement seemed to bring a sense of horror into the dreary old office—a horror all the more potent because of the casual, phlegmatic way in which Cleaver repeated that cry of anguish. After a brief pause Markham asked:
 "When you heard this man's voice, what did you do?"
 "I walked softly back down the rear hall and went out again through the side door. Then I went home."
 A short silence ensued. Cleaver's testimony had been in the nature of a surprise; but it fitted perfectly with Mannix's statement.
 Presently Vance lifted himself out of the depths of his chair.
 "I say, Mr. Cleaver, what were you doing between twenty minutes to twelve—when you phoned Miss Odell—and five minutes to twelve—when you entered the side door of her apartment-house?"
 "I was riding up-town in the Subway from 23rd Street," came the answer, after a short pause.
 "Strange—very strange," Vance inspected the tip of his cigarette. "Then you couldn't possibly have phoned to any one during that fifteen minutes—eh, what?"
 I suddenly remembered Alys La Fosse's statement that Cleaver had telephoned to her on Monday night at ten minutes to twelve. Vance, by his question, had, without revealing his own knowledge, created a state of uncertainty in the other's mind. Afraid to commit himself too emphatically, Cleaver resorted to evasion.
 "It's possible, is it not, that I could have phoned some one after leaving the Subway at 72nd Street and before I walked the block to Miss Odell's house?"
 "Oh, quite," murmured Vance. "Still, looking at it mathematically, if you phoned Miss Odell at twenty minutes to twelve; and then entered the Subway, rode to 72nd Street, walked a block to 71st, went into the building, listened at her door, and departed at five minutes to twelve—making the total time consumed only fifteen minutes—you'd scarcely have sufficient leeway to stop en route and phone to any one."
 "However, I shan't press the point

But I'd really like to know what you did between eleven o'clock and twenty minutes to twelve, when you phoned to Miss Odell."
 Cleaver studied Vance intently for a moment.
 "To tell you the truth, I was upset that night. I knew Miss Odell was out with another man—she'd broken an appointment with me—and I walked the streets for an hour or more, fuming and fretting."
 "Walked the streets?" Vance frowned.
 "That's what I said," Cleaver spoke with animus. Then, turning, he gave Markham a long calculating look.
 "You remember I once suggested to you that you might learn something from a Doctor Lindquist. Did you ever get after him?"
 Before Markham could answer, Vance broke in.
 "Ah! That's it—Doctor Lindquist! Well, well—of course!"
 So, Mr. Cleaver, you were walking the streets? The streets, mind you. Precisely!—You state the fact, and I echo the word 'streets.' And you—apparently out of a clear sky—ask about Doctor Lindquist."
 "Why Doctor Lindquist? No one has mentioned him. But that word 'streets'—that's the connection. The streets and Doctor Lindquist are one—same as Paris and springtime are one. Neat, very neat. . . . And now I've got another piece to the puzzle."
 Markham and Heath looked at him as if he had suddenly gone mad. He calmly selected a Regie from his case and proceeded to light it. Then he smiled beguilingly at Cleaver.
 "The time has come, my dear sir, for you to tell us when and where you met Doctor Lindquist while roaming the streets Monday night. If you don't, 'pon my word, I'll come pretty close to doing it for you."
 A full minute passed before Cleaver spoke; and during that time his cold staring eyes never moved from the district attorney's face.
 "I've already told most of the story; so here's the rest."
 He gave a soft mirthless laugh. "I went to Miss Odell's house a little before half past eleven—thought she might be home by that time. There I ran into Doctor Lindquist standing in the entrance to the alleyway. He spoke to me, and told me some one was with Miss Odell in her apartment."
 "Then I walked round the corner to the Ansonia Hotel. After ten minutes or so I telephoned Miss Odell, and, as I said, a man answered. I waited another ten minutes and phoned a friend of Miss Odell's hoping to arrange a party; but failing, I walked back to the house."
 "The doctor had disappeared, and I went down the alleyway and in the side door. After listening a minute, as I told you, and hearing a man's voice, I came away and went home. . . . That's everything."

Reed of Missouri Democratic Hope

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Missouri still tells how 30 years ago, when James E. Reed was prosecutor of Jackson county, in which Kansas City is situated, he tried 287 cases in two years and got 285 convictions.

It has been largely as a prosecutor of what he deemed evil in public affairs that Reed has been a prominent figure in the United States senate since 1911, attracting national attention which now prompts his friends to offer him to the democratic party as its nominee for president.

If Senator Reed were the democratic candidate for president, and if his disposition were not to seek the stump and carry to battle to the enemy, he might wage a front porch campaign from his new Kansas City home on Cherry street—for he has the front porch.

The broad veranda fronts the large brick house into which Senator and Mrs. Reed moved only last summer, after having maintained their residence for many years at a downtown hotel. The home stands in the center of a three-acre lawn, facing the east, the hill sloping toward it across Cherry St.

In the basement of this residence Senator Reed has his library and his "work shop"—the latter a long room simply but comfortably furnished, with a fireplace at one end and at the other a door leading into the library. Here are valued mementoes of a public career which began in 1893, and treasured pictures, including those of his parents.

Ohio, native state of seven presidents, would have an eighth son in the White House if Reed became the nation's executive, for the man who has been serving Missouri in the senate for 17 years was born on a farm near Mansfield, Ohio, on Nov. 9, 1861.

As a boy he went with his parents to Iowa, where he grew to manhood near Cedar rapids, entered the practice of law, and was married in 1891 to Miss Laura M. Olmstead. In that year they went to Kansas City, where Reed followed the law, was elected county prosecutor at 37, and went on to two terms as mayor of Kansas City and thence in 1911 to the senate.

CHARITY BALANCE SHOWN

The Pampa Associated Charities fund has a balance of $1,445, according to the report of J. O. Gillham, treasurer, made to the executive board.

The board reviewed several cases for which appropriations totaling about $70 have been made, and discussed policies necessary to make the best use of the funds on hand. Use of the money is rigidly regulated by the constitution and by-laws.

Godfrey, Giant Negro, May Knock Out Spanish Pug

BOTH MEN ARE GOOD SLUGGERS

Paolino Made Excellent Showing During the Last Year

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A knockout is expected in the Paolino-Uscundun-George Godfrey bout here tomorrow night.

Both the heavyweights—the Spaniard and the negro—show records bristling with knockouts and one or the other is likely to produce a sleep walkoff before the scheduled 10-round fray goes the limit, experts predict.

The year 1927 was a procession of triumphs for Godfrey. He knocked out 13 opponents, among them Jimmy Maloney, in one round; Monte Munn in four; and Jack Roper twice, the first time in nine rounds and the second in six.

Paolino made his American debut last year, and won nine of his starts lost two and drew in the other. His record for 1927 is far better, from the standpoint of formidable opposition, than Godfrey's.

Knute Hansen he decided in ten rounds; Harry Wills was knocked out in four; with Tom Heeney he fought twice, the first time taking a decision and the second encounter resulting in a draw; he lost to Jack Delaney on a foul in seven rounds and lost to Johnny Risko in ten rounds.

For his fight tomorrow night Paolino has been sharpening up his slashing body attack, to conquer the massive Godfrey with jarring lefts and rights to the midsection. He declared himself to be in the pink of condition and ready for anything Godfrey can offer.

Godfrey was pronounced by his handlers as being in excellent condition he was reported today as weighing 235 pounds, about 40 pounds heavier than Paolino.

Granite Will Get Big Opportunity in Match Tonight

Kid Granite, the 135-pound Pampa flash who has become the pride of the local fight fans, gets his big chance tonight and he is in the pink of condition. When he steps into the ring with Wildcat Monte it is for the right to meet the present lightweight champion of the world.

The Wildcat, a veteran of the ring has battled the best in his class, staying three rounds with the champion in Oklahoma City last year. He is probably the fastest boy that has ever stepped into the squared circle here, but he is a defensive fighter which gives Granite the advantage, if any, as the Kid does not know the meaning of the word back-up.

The gong never sees Granite in his corner. He is across the ring to meet his man and never lets up until the end. He has improved in his class and style since his last encounter with Monte, when he battled him to a draw. He has been working under Walter Varner and Warnie Smith and his recent victories over Murdock, who drew with Monte in Amarillo last Monday night, and Fields, the Kansas flash, have the lightweight champion of the southwest worried.

The second main event of the evening's card will feature the hard hitting Duff Stanley of Amarillo and Art Villalon, the Mexican, who has been showing worlds of speed and stamina in recent bouts. This bout should be a headliner as the two boys are out to see who is the better in this class.

Frankie Farrell, one of the cleverest 126-pound boys in the game, meet Jerry Haley in the six-round special event. Farrell, although a youngster has the makings of one of the best boys in his class. Last week in Amarillo he won a decisive victory over the veteran Young Murdock, who was given one round to beat the Pampa youngster.

Battling Barney, from the Pacific coast, has been signed to meet O. D. the newsboy in the preliminary event and it is scheduled to be a regular cuff fest.

Methodist Ranger Scouts will sell confections for the benefit of the new church.

White Sox Moving Men to Shreveport

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—While the Cubs at Catalina Island, Cal., were assembled at full strength for intensive training, the Chicago White Sox today were just completing arrangements for the first southern movement of their baseball talent.

Pitchers, catchers and a few youngsters will entrain tomorrow for the White Sox camp at Shreveport, La., where they will be joined March 6 by the full strength of the club. There is not a holdout on the roster, Manager Ray Schalk said.

COUNTY TRACTOR ARRIVES

The large Best "60" tractor recently purchased by the Gray county commissioners at a cost of $2,815 for the use in caring for the roads in Precinct 2 arrived here Friday and was unloaded.

It will not be used until the arrival of the Russell elevator purchased by the commissioners at a called meeting last week. Until the new tractor is broken in, it will be used on light work and then put into steady use on all the precinct roads which are in need of repairs.

Amarillo Bronco to Be on Diet, Asserts Manager Sled Allen

AMARILLO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—If any of the players reporting to Manager Sled Allen this spring complain of not getting enough to eat at the training table furnished by the Amarillo Baseball club, they will be challenged by the boss himself, Sled believes, in a diet for a man while in training, and will offer himself as a subject if they so demand.

"I have always followed a set rule regarding my food while conditioning for the long grind ahead," says Sled, "and have never failed to be in condition when the bell rings." "I don't expect them to starve, and won't ask them to eat anything I wouldn't eat myself."

A private dining room with a special cook will be established in the Carter hotel, where the candidates will be quartered during the training season.

Long before the team is picked, the new uniforms will be ready and waiting for someone to fill them. The home uniforms will be white with a broncho's head on the left breast of the shirt. The road uniforms will be a solid gray with a small Bronco's head on the left sleeve. This is keeping with the club's policy of giving the fans a new deal in every respect this season. The club this year is an Amarillo club, and from President Bob Ames down to that human fly Dirty Moore, the park manicurist, every one connected with the club is a resident of Amarillo. They know what the fans of the Panhandle want and will make every effort to supply the demand.

Connie Mack Thinks Ty Cobb Will Be With the Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—It looks to Connie Mack as if Ty Cobb will play with the Athletics.

President Thomas Shibe and Manager Mack had an hour's telephone conference from Fort Myers, Fla., with Cobb at his home in Augusta, Ga., yesterday. At the conclusion of the talk Manager Mack said that if Cobb played at all this year he felt almost certain it would be with the Athletics.

"I will get his definite answer in a day or so," said Mack, "but it looks as if everything will be all right and that we will have Ty with us for another year."

Whimsicalities of Mr. Webster

Tom Webster, prince of British sport cartoonists, and peculiarly good at portraying golfing events, is one of the most delightfully whimsical personages in the world. He has fancies. He loves champagne—a whimsy not precisely unique. He is one of the best-groomed men in England. And he does almost as many quaint things as he draws. In a way, Mr. Webster lives a joyous and brilliant cartoon life. And he certainly enjoys it.

Last summer at St. Andrews, Mr. Webster arrived the evening before the open championship began and stopped at Rusack's Marine Hotel, where I was and Harry Vardon and some others in it, and I was all hours getting home. I think James Braid went with me, as far as the Marine Hotel.

A week before, Mr. Webster had been over at the celebrated Glen Eagles courses, stopping at the vast hotel there. It is the biggest hotel I ever saw, in wing-spread, Mr. Webster walked a simply astonishing distance to his room after leaving the lift; he had a corner oom at the very end of one of those prodigious wings. It was 6 o'clock and he started dressing for dinner. He also started refreshing himself with a quart of champagne. He finished dressing and the wine at the same time and went to the telephone and ordered a taxicab.

"What entrance do you wish it sent to?" asked the girl at the board.

"The entrance to my room," announced Mr. Webster. "I want to go down to dinner!"

Big Boys Will Meet This Week in Eliminations

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Heavyweights come back into the fist spotlight this week.

The elimination process will be taken up in two widely-separated sectors. The outstanding non-union members of the heavyweight class, George Godfrey and Paolino-Uscundun, fight tomorrow night at Los Angeles. Two days later an official elimination in Madison Square Garden will bring together Tom Heeney and Jack Delaney.

The non-union bout on the Pacific coast may be the more interesting of the two but it will have no bearing on the official program unless Paolino eliminates the "Black Menace." Only a decisive victory for Paolino can upset the prospect that Gene Tunney's June opponent, if any, is to come from a survivor of the Delaney-Heeney or Sharkey-Risko fights.

Godfrey, however, cannot hope to crowd into the championship picture, no matter what he does to Paolino or any other contender. His manager has said some disparaging things about Tunney and the other organization heavyweights. As a result, Godfrey's outset of a title match is likely to be just as fruitless as was that of Harry Wills.

So of course I sat down. Later we went over to the Grand Hotel to a room that had James Bird

Al Mello Is To Meet Ace Hudkins in Boston Tonight

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Al Mello of Lowell, New England's outstanding welterweight, will get his second chance at Ace Hudkins, Nebraska Wildcat, here tonight.

Mello and Hudkins went over the 10-round route in New York City last summer and the Lowell boy had the Ace on the canvas although he failed to keep him there and lost the decision.

Hudkins comes here fresh from his sensational victory over Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchell Field, Long Island, and in his workhous has shown that the Baker fight took away none of his scrappiness. He is a 10-to-8 favorite. The bout will be ten rounds.

Holdouts From New York Clubs Worry Both Managers

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Major league baseball clubs of New York were still troubled by pitcher holdouts today.

Vic Aldridge, traded to the Giants in return for Burling Grimes, remains absent from the McGraw training camp at Hot Springs, Ark.

Waite Hoyt is still at odds over his salary arrangement with the Yankees and has not put in appearance at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Robins continue to dicker with Dazzy Vance, the strikeout king, who wants a two-year contract and $20,000 per annum.

McGraw served notice on Aldridge yesterday that he would do no more coming to get him into the fold. The Giants' manager said he offered Aldridge $1,000 more than he received from the Pirates.

RUTH WILL TRAIN FOR TEN DAYS ON LINKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth will start training for the baseball grind on the golf links.

Between receptions to the Yankees at St. Petersburg yesterday, the Babe made known he would devote ten days to golf before working out on the diamond. He said he wanted to limber up his legs.

Fair Smithy, Miner, to Have Exhibits at Women's Fair

Strange vocations of feminine workers will be demonstrated in Chicago at the Woman's World's Fair in May. Miss Florence Ethelyn Schell, Chicago Blacksmith and worker in wrought iron, will show some of her work.

CHICAGO (AP)—The "street of strange vocations" of the Woman's World's Fair will be more bizarre than ever this year. The affair will be held in the coliseum in Chicago May 19-25.

A blacksmith in Chicago and a turquoise miner in New Mexico are the first women of unusual occupations to send word they will attend and demonstrate their callings.

Miss Florence Ethelyn Schell is the girl smithy. She works in wrought iron, originating candlesticks, andirons, benches and the like.

The turquoise miner is Mrs. Viola Smith of Santa Fe, N. M., and she has sent word she will bring exhibits of the little blue stones both in the rough and polished state. She will demonstrate also how the stones are obtained.

The Woman's World's Fair, originated four years ago by Miss Helen M. Bennett of Chicago, is designed to present each year a pictorial glimpse of women's progression.

The coliseum takes on the appearance of a gay carnival, with brilliant tented enclosures dotted over the big floor and women of nationalities from the ends of the earth mingling together.

Many exhibitors this year, says Miss Bennett, have doubled their space.

Russia for national disarmament etc. Possibly every nation really desires friendly relations with each other, but distrust and selfishness prevent concerted effort.

What are you and I to do about it? World welfare lies largely in our hands. We are the chief moral mentors of our children and all friendly relations must begin in the individual heart. We can be informed and teach our children that God is no respecter of persons and that true patriotism is evidenced even more in time of peace than in war.

No nation can compel others to settle their disputes amicably but even you and I can help wonderfully to create an "International good will atmosphere." President Michado of Cuba said in a recent address, "The equality of states does not depend upon the extent of their territory, population or wealth, but upon respect for the rights of others and the practice of high moral principles."

Mrs. Fields' Removal Is Sustained Today in Dallas Meeting

DALLAS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—With a resolution endorsing Mrs. Henry Drought of San Antonio as chairman of the committee of arrangements for the Biennial passed by an 80 to 8 vote, the state executive committee of the Federation of Women's clubs today eliminated Mrs. J. U. Fields of Haskell from the chairmanship.

This action sustained a ruling made by the national executive committee in Washington in January when it was decided that the duties of Mrs. Fields as state chairman of the committee on biennial arrangements and those of Mrs. Drought as local chairman overlapped.

The vote was taken after a turbulent session, most of the time being consumed in a debate as to whether the executive board would hear a delegation of club women which had gathered here in Mrs. Field's behalf. This testimony, however, finally was taken, and more than 40 women, many from West Texas, were heard.

Mrs. W. R. Foster of Bowie, state president of the Federation, frequently was forced to call for order. In an address before the executive committee, Mrs. Fields said: "I will not resign, because there is a principle involved."

Mrs. David Crowl of Hale Center is visiting her mother, Mrs. D. C. Shepard and sister, Mrs. Garnett Sears this week.

Mrs. Harry Alexander of Amarillo spent the week-end with her husband here. She plans to join him soon. He is manager of the Pampa Wholesale Meat market.

Mrs. Bell Moore underwent an operation at the Pampa hospital yesterday.

Mrs. J. A. Hill Urges Study of International Relations by Women

The News has been requested to publish the following communication from Mrs. J. A. Hill of Canyon, International Relations chairman of the seventh district of Federated Women's clubs.

Dear Club Women: The nations are slowly but surely developing world consciences — as examples of this notice America's opposition to discard submarines, the growing sentiment against the use of poisonous gases, the Locarno treaties, the recent renewed and strengthened treaty between France and America, the League Assembly resolution that wars of aggression are crimes and therefore forbidden, the move in the recent Pan-American conference to use compulsory arbitration, the proposal of understood to have explained, was set aside as a legal fund. The quick work of the police in solving the crime was attributed partly to the crime prevention bureau, a secret department of police working under cover and seeking to learn of impending crimes. A tip that Cleaver had been heard to say he was planning a "big job" led to the tapping of telephone wires leading to his residence. It was from constantly listening in to conversations over the Cleaver line that police got the names of several persons who, the talk indicated, were "in" on the "big job." The wire tappers learned that the robbery was to take place after the train reached Harvey. In anticipation of it there were Chicago detective squads concentrated in the suburb. A change in plans, police said, was made at a meeting of the plotters at the Cleaver home. Thus, while the actual robbery caught officers unprepared, the information obtained by the crime prevention bureau before its commission gave them leads which made solution prompt.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY—TEMPORARY BLINDNESS

ROBBERY

NEW TRIAL IS ASKED. AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Motion of R. L. Blaffer and sixty other defendants for new trial in the case in which the state recovered about 247 acres of Harris county oil lands and damages approximating $1,400,000, has been set for decision March 7 in district court here, it was announced Monday. The new trial motion will predicate an appeal to the court of civil appeals.

NEW RESIDENCES STARTED

Several new residences are under construction in the city and plans for more under way, according to local building contractors who are being kept busy figuring on the building program commenced early this month.

Among the residences now under construction are the $7,000 home being erected by E. B. Clay in the west part of the city. Mr. Clay will do the work himself. Mattie B. Reber is erecting a $2,000 residence in the Crawford addition. B. G. Kindle is the contractor. B. L. Moore will erect a $3,000 home in the West End addition immediately. Allison Moore is the contractor.

Jack Cross—"It would be a pleasure to come to court if it were not for that terrible trip to LeFors over almost impassable roads."

Out-of-town witness—"If I ever have to come to Gray county to be a witness in a case and the court house is still in LeFors it will take a couple of officers to bring me here."

Wayland College Has Excellent Prospects

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Wayland Baptist college is now experiencing a marked growth and the prospects for the coming year are extremely promising. Thirty new students have enrolled this term, which is a record for the winter period. The spring term opens March 5 and a few new students have already enrolled for this term. The catalogue are just off the press announcing the summer session which opens June 6th. The summer term features educational subjects for teachers. W. B. C. will offer this year the same subjects that the State schools offer and certificates can be renewed through work here the same as at any senior college. Plans are being made to care for a large enrollment this summer.

Albert Thomas—"We are out to move the court house to Pampa this time and are not going to fail. This is the logical place and I think the citizens of the county have come to realize that fact."

Pampa Fire Rate Reduced 15 Per Cent by State

Among the sixteen Texas cities and towns receiving credits from three to fifteen per cent on their fire insurance rates, Pampa was one of the ten receiving the fifteen percent credit. This credit is set by the state and is based on the fire record of the last year. Of the places receiving the full amount Pampa was placed first because of her comparatively light loss by fire during the past year. Since the purchase of the new fire truck there hasn't been serious fire in the city. Fifteen per cent was awarded Alice, Beville, Brownwood, Haskel, Higgins, Lyford, Pampa, Panhandle, Pearsall, Spearman Thrall, West and Rowens. Of the remaining three, Hamlin got 6 per cent credit; Knox City, 12, and Wynnboro, 3. Charges were assessed Bryan, Holland, Malone, Pilot Point, Silvertown and University Park of Dallas.

Lamesa Burglars Caught at Work

LAMESA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Two men, arrested last night in a dry goods store here as they stood in front of a safe they had robbed of $300, today were in the jail as charges were being prepared against them. Their captors, Sheriff Joe L. Ray, Deputy Otis Little and Nightwatchman W. R. Chilton, captured the pair after the officers had failed to answer a cry for help from a woman in an automobile across the street from the dry goods store. The woman, and a man in the automobile, escaped as the officers dashed into the store to arrest the two men now held. A large quantity of merchandise had been bundled, and was ready to be hauled off, the officers said.

Coolidge Asks More Money to Fight Worm in Texas Area

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—President Coolidge today asked Congress to increase from $100,000 to $150,000 the amount to be made available immediately for combating new outbreaks of the pink cotton boll worm in Texas. Budget Director Lord explained that $400,000 had been requested for the next fiscal year, of which $100,000 was asked to be made available immediately.

L. S. U. Sophomore Kills Himself by Swallowing Poison

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Lawrence A. Martin of Kingston, DeSoto parish, 19-year-old sophomore in agriculture at Louisiana State university here, died early today at a hospital here after taking poison in his room at hundred oaks dairy, where he had a part-time job in order to pay his way through college. His brothers, A. F. Martin, a regular employee of the dairy, which is about four miles from the city, and Ray Martin, visiting him at the time of the suicide, shared the young man's room, but could give no motive for his act. One of the brothers was awakened about 1 o'clock this morning by the gasping and writhing of Lawrence, who was in bed with him, and the two at once took the youth to a hospital, but he expired before he could be given treatment. The poison vial, purchased at a local drugstore last night, it was learned, was found in his room today, and an autopsy by Coroner Thomas B. Bird definitely established the cause of death. Surviving Young Martin are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Martin, Sr., of Kingston, seven brothers, and a sister, Miss Annie Lena Martin, of Kingston.

Holdup Men Grab $11,000 Payroll

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Two holdup men on the fish pier today tore an $11,012 payroll away from James F. Barry, bank messenger for the Commonwealth Pier branch of the Federal National bank, after clubbing him with a revolver butt. The payroll was to have been used to pay off employes at the Boston Fish Exchange.

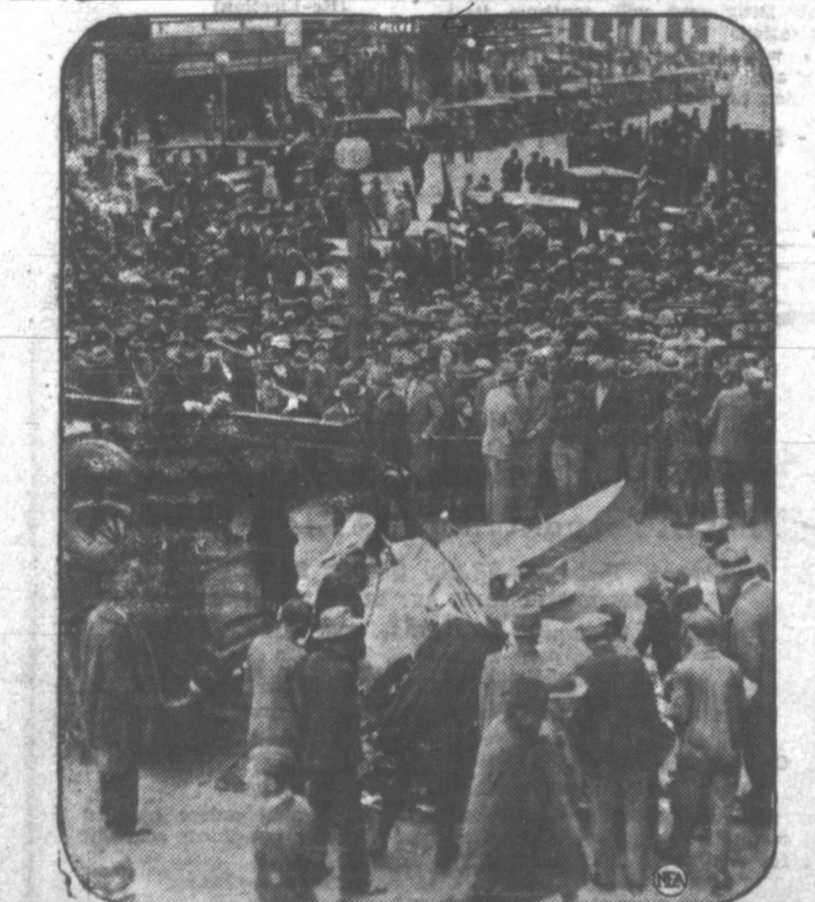

NAVAL AVIATORS MISSING.

The Macon Plane Crash

This is the scene on a main street of Macon, Ga., which followed the crash of an airplane flown by Buck Steele and Francis Ashcraft. Premature explosion of a fireworks bomb tore the machine asunder high in the air, killing the occupants, and the falling wreckage struck and fatally injured a pedestrian. A short time after this picture of removal of the wreck was taken, the sidewalk collapsed and several persons in the crowd were slightly hurt.
