Organizers gear up for Texas Recycles

Texas Recycles Day, a public awareness campaign to encourage Texans to start recycling or increase their recycling efforts, will be staged statewide Saturday, Nov. 15.

Now in its 11th year, sponsors Keep Texas Beautiful and Texas Commission on Environmental Quality hope to raise awareness and to encourage Texans to make recycling a part of their daily lives.

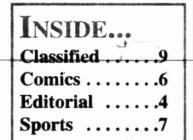

Texans are encouraged to pledge their commitment to recycling by entering a special drawing and contest. For details, www.americarecyclesday.org . Deadline for pledges is 12midnight, Nov. 15.

TRD was the nation's first statewide recycling campaign, serving as the model for America Recycles Day. This year's theme is "Texas Recycles Every Day."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

New super Wal-Mart?

It would be nice, I suppose, to do all your shopping in one place, but what about our small local businesses which are run by our friends. What about our tire stores or appliance stores? They would be hard-pressed to compete with one of the richest families in the world. They have become rich by working people at unlivable wages without health care. Any employee that becomes sick would have to use the emergency room and that cost is passed on to all of us.

We now have three nice large grocery ores. I feel one or two of them would be hard pressed to stry in business.

Our sales tax receipts to Pampa light be larger for awhile. We would pick up some busi ss from our neighbors and help their towns die, because it so forces out their local businesses.

If Perryton doesn't have a Wal-Mart now, they probably will soon, because of hog farms and the good work their economic development board is doing. Their hog business is one of their biggest tax payers.

Without new manufacturing around Pampa, any new retail business will just soon mean more bit empty buildings. We now have a half-empty downtown, an empty Pampa Mall, and a half-empty Coronado Center. If a super Wal-Mart moves in, you could add to that a couple of empty old grocery stores and eventually more empty buildings.

I read where Guymon had a 22 percent rice in population in the nineties. Their schools are full and every business building is full. Perryton is exceed about their growth. Dumas and Dalhart are growing great uns.

Of course, we all read how good Hereford and Amarillo are doing. They all credit their growth to their Economic Development Boards. I keep waiting for our "concerned citizens" to recruit new businesses, here, but maybe not, "just kidding."

Our retail businesses need to be thinking about a new Economic Development Board as soon as the present one is liquidated. Our school lost 135 students last year and lost nearly $365,000 in state revenues last year. How much longer can we stand these losses? It doesn't really make any. difference what I think about more retail stores or a super Wal-Mart coming here. In the long run, it's manufacturing and production jobs that will make the difference in our local economy, so that's what we need to attract.

Score this one for the people

Score one for the Gipper - thanks to millions of outraged Americans the Hollywood liberal elite lost big when CBS threw in the towel and dumped onto Showtime its smear job on my dad, Ronald Reagan. If what just happened here is any indication, the only viewers it will attract will be Barbra Streisand and her loony pals curious to see what a terrible job her husband whatshisname did playing the former president.

They just don't get it. They think that everybody agrees with them that, because my dad was a conservative - to them the most hateful thing anyone can be - he was a fumbling ignorant failure as president. Conservatives, in their twisted minds, are sworn enemies of progress and everything else that's good and decent in Hollywood's view, you know, good things like abortion and gay Boy Scout scoutmasters and Communist dictators such as their hero Fidel Castro.

They found out now wrong they were. Most Americans remember that on my dad's watch the economy skyrocketed, taxes plunged, the Evil Empire began its descent into helplessness that brought it crashing down, and the American people rediscovered their native greatness. It really was "morning in America," and it was Ronald Reagan who was there to show us the dawn.

This is anathema to the Hollywood crowd who live in a fantasy world where monsters like Fidel Castro are greatly admired heroes and Marxist slavery is the only sensible political system. And the elitist liberals at CBS fall right in line with this leftist garbage, and, as they did in this instance, allowed Hollywood the liberty of creating an attack vehicle against my dad and my family and then claiming it was an historical documentary that portrays the Reagans as they really are.

They had the gall to call it a love story when what it turned out to be was a hate

And as loud as CBS president Les Moonves - a great Clinton and Castro chum, by the way - whines about how unfair and inaccurate the end result turned out to be, he was there from the very beginning, knew what it was all about and the extreme liberalism of those he hired to create it, and backed their sorry production to the hilt. He only "discovered" that it was a piece of junk after the American people rose up and cried "enough of this garbage."

Ronald Reagan's greatest crime to Hollywood and the elite media is that even though he came out of Hollywood he wasn't like them. And they are right. He was one of us, a decent, hardworking American who came from a humble background and clawed his way up the ladder by his own efforts.

Moreover, as I have written, he is as big hearted a man as ever rose to become President of the United States. He has what Hollywood and the leftwing media scorn - a bedrock respect for his fellow Americans. He was a product of the great heartland of America - that vast area the elites of the East and West coasts dismiss as "Flyover Country."

Well, Flyover Country rose up and reminded its detractors that we Americans have a lot of fight left in us. Hollywood, CBS and all those snobs in the elite media who look down their noses at us had better remember that old American cry of defiance: "Don't Tread

We've just seen the sun rise; it's morning in America again.

Goat sacrifices vs. a point of light

In India this summer, I witnessed sacrifices of goats and sacrifices by Christians. Goats by the thousands have their throats slit at folk temples throughout India, with bodies left twitching for about 70 seconds. But some Christians work sacrificially to help children live for perhaps another 70 years, with eternal life thereafter.

One of the Christian organizations that help Indian children (and their counterparts in 11 other countries) is Kids for the Kingdom, a California-based nonprofit group. At a time when Lt. Gen. William Boykin and others who speaks of Christ receive abuse, it's a pleasure to note that the Points of Light Foundation, which has been honoring one philanthropic organization a day since the first Bush administration, made Kids for the Kingdom its 2,534th Daily Point of Light on Oct. 22.

Some Indians emphasize faith in Vishnu or Shiva; many believe in a religion of transaction rather than one of grace. One sacrificer, Balu Subramanian, said a local god supposedly satisfied his prayer for a son, so he had to satisfy the god. That's transactional religion: "I promised, I got, and now I must do," one devotee explained.

Subramanian also noted that a goat sacrifice feeds people, while allowing him to show off his wealth. (A goat this past summer cost between 1,000 and 3,000 rupees -- $22 to $66 -- with price depending on size and color. White goats are more expensive.) Many live by sacrifices, but imagine what happens when children learn about a God of grace who made us in His image. How freeing it is to realize that Christ cannot be controlled by goat sacrifices, but delights to do good for all who trust in Him! Christianity emphasizes the importance of facts - and paramount among them the fact of resurrection at a particufar time and place. Contrast that emphasis on history with the attitude of leaders of a 300-year-old temple in a south Indian village who three years ago erected kid-friendly, colorfully painted giant figures linking the temple to an imaginary local god, Ayannar.

The temple priest, Ayyaavu, told me frankly that "Ayannar doesn't belong here -- the temple has its own mother goddesses -- but, even though it's not our tradition, we wanted to have another public figure." The investment in new statues is producing new revenue, he said. Larger Hindu temples are such big business that the government has taken them over and pays the salaries of both gurus and guards. Many big temples are marketplaces, renting booths to shopkeepers who sell food, toy and baubles amid neon lights and an unhely cacophony. Hinduism, of carse, does have an intellectual theolo out on a popular level much of Hir an is arma marg keep caste regulations, perform religious rites, offer sacrifices.

Tens of millions in India believe that such practice puts the cosmic powers in an indulgent frame of mind toward them. Children learn to fear gods and attempt to placate them in ways large and small. At one of India's largest temples, the famous Menakshi in Madurai, children and adults can pay 2 rupees (about four cents) to throw balls of butter at idols of Shiva and his wife Shakti, thus cooling down their anger. By late afternoon, the statues are dripping in butter.

Adults also try to justify themselves in the face of potentially severe cosmic forces. In northern India, I saw hundreds of Shiva devotees carrying pots of water from the Ganges River several hundred kilometers to their home temples: Compare their expenditure of enormous effort for nothing with the hope offered by Christ's statement in chapter eight of the gospel of John: "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of Fear rules, until a point of light makes a difference.

HOW VETERAN'S DAY STARTED

Before 1954, Veteran's Day was called Armistice Day.

The first Armistice Day was Nov. 11, 1918. This was the day the peace treaty ending World War I was signed.

Young people can serve the country in many different ways. They can help by cleaning up local creeks; they can recycle items, give away canned food or unwanted food. You can always go and grab a garbage bag and go pick up litter in your neighborhood. Wow! Don't you want to get involved?

Grateful Nation Solutes Vets' Service, Sacrifice

DEAR READERS: Today is Veterans Day — the day that is dedicated to the brave men and women who have served this country with honor, in war and in peace. You have our gratitude for your devotion to duty.

The poem that follows has appeared in my column before. The author's wife, Marie C. Middleton, was kind enough to send it to me. I'm sure you'll agree that it's a fitting tribute to share on Veterans Day.

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER by Maj. Gen. James B. Middleton

Lord, bless the wives who grieve alone And comfort the mothers who mourn their own Give solace to the fathers who lost their sons On foreign shores and in places unknown. Lord, strengthen the resolve of we who remain To see that they did not die in vain.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband gets out of the military, we will be deciding where to live. We want to live near my parents, but how close is too close?

The house next door is for sale. We don't have kids yet, but I keep imagining how wonderful it would be to have their grandparents next door. My mom and I have always been close; however, I don't want to move next door if it will hurt our relationship in the long run. If we set boundaries up front, could it work? CAUTIOUS WIFE AND DAUGHTER

DEAR CAUTIOUS: It all depends on the individuals involved. In some families, the kind of situation you have described works well. In others, it leads to chaos and unhappiness. Much depends upon whether your husband wants to be your parents'

"extended family" and on how well your parents respect boundaries.

In your case, no decisions should be made until your husband has completed his tour of duty and you have discussed this matter thoroughly and honestly.

DEAR ABBY: I am 57 years old with grown children. Twelve years ago, I moved closer to my parents so I could care for them. After Dad died in '97, Mother was diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. I took care of her in my home for a while, but when her needs increased to 24/7, I could no longer handle it. Fortunately, I found her a nice nursing home, and I visit her often. I host cookie parties for all the residents and take Mother out for weekly rides and ice cream. She is no longer able to speak, and I am not sure she still knows me.

This Christmas, my husband wants to take me to Arizona for a family vacation. He says Mother won't know the difference. Abby, I feel so guilty leaving her. Should I go? DEVOTED DAUGHTER IN MISSOURI

DEAR DEVOTED: Yes, you should go. Have an early Christmas party with your mother and the other residents before you leave for Arizona. The timing won't matter to them. Please, do not feel guilty. Your signature says it all.

Andre Agassi paid quite a compliment to Roger Federer: He likened the reigning Wimbledon champion's on-court grace and cool to Pete Sampras'

Those qualities came in handy for Federer in his opening round-robin match at the Tennis Masters Cup, facing a deficit against Agassi and a partisan crowd.

Federer played through his rough patches Monday night and erased two match points to get past Agassi 6-7 (3), 6-3, 7-6 (7), keeping alive an outside chance of ending the year with the No 1 ranking.

"His disposition and the way he moves on the court you never feel like he's out of control. You never feel like he's panicked," Agassi said. "While any athlete knows that you can't help but feel these things, he does a great job of keeping that gracefulness about him.

Federer pretty much ceded the first set Monday, with three straight forehand errors helping Agassi take a 6-0 lead in that tiebreaker. But the third-ranked Federer kept going for lines with his serves and ground strokes, compiling 20 aces and a total of 63 aces overcoming 50 unforced

"I knew that if I just didn't freak out mentally, my forehand would come back eventually," Federer said.

Bowl Championship Series

Not that Brown wants to listen to any of it just yet. The Longhorns' postseason fate lies in the next two games against Texas Tech (7-3, 4-2) and Texas A&M (4-6, 2-4) and in the delicate balance of the BCS rankings. The Longhorns were No. 5 in the BCS standings Monday.

"I told the staff that we went from being fired four weeks ago to being back in the mix, so let's not get fired again," Brown said.

If all of this sounds familiar, that's because it is.

In each of the last three seasons, Texas has clawed its

AUSTIN (AP) — Well, possible at-large bid to a way back from early losses to "You get what you deserve at the brink of BCS contention only to get shut out. In 2001 and 2002, late-season losses to Colorado and Texas Tech doomed the Longhorns.

"One game has ruined the season," in previous years, said offensive lineman Jason Glynn. "The last three years there's been a lot of talk and nothing happened. We're trying to prove it by playing, not talking."

That's what Brown wants to hear. He went over the bowls scenario with the team Sunday. He'd rather they get it straight from him than the

"Right now it's just barbershop talk," Brown said.

the end. You don't get it by talking about it, you get it by earning it."

While national and Big 12 titles are all but out of the picture (it would take a colossal Sooners meltdown for Texas to get to the conference title game), the Longhorns have resurrected their season behind dynamic quarterback Vince Young and a defense that has played like an entirely different squad over the last month.

Against Nebraska, the defense dominated in a 31-7 win. Last week against Oklahoma State, it was the offense's tenacity to fight back from an early 16-7 deficit to pull away 55-16.

Since the Oklahoma game, Brown has steadily moved away from the two-quarterback approach and handed the entire offense over to Young, who befuddles defenses with his ability to run and throw.

With Young leading the way, Texas has three wins over ranked opponents for the first time since 1998. The freshman has rushed for 805 yards and 10 touchdowns this season. He had his best passing game against Oklahoma State, going 9-of-13 for 195 yards and a touchdown.

"Every time he goes out there," Brown said. "He shows us something new."

Riot is ready

The Riot, Pampa's grandstand cheering section, will be out in full force when the Harvesters meet San Angelo Lakeview at 5 p.m. Friday at Lubbock's Lowrey Field in the bi-district round of the playoffs. The Harris Ratings has Pampa favored by 13 points.

Ennis, Burnet, West Sabine finish atop final poll

DALLAS (AP) - Ennis in 4A, Burnet in 3A and 1A's West Sabine never let go of their top ranking in the Associated Press high school football poll this season, each winning 10 games along the way. Things in 5A and on their two scoring drives 2A were not as constant. against the Bills. Lufkin began the season at No. 1 in 5A and remained on top "I'm not going to minimize until a late season loss to districtthe fact that we're 7-2. I'm not going to get in a long drawn-out foe Tyler Lee sent the Panthers drama about our offense," said tumbling in the poll. The team is Tyler Lee is No. 8.

Defending 5A Division I state champion Converse Judson was ranked No. 2 in the preseason, but early losses knocked the team out of the poll. Judson beat San Antonio Roosevelt 24-21 Friday causing Roosevelt to fall from sixth to ninth place. Judson finished its season with a 5-4 record and did not make the playoffs.

The Woodlands is the No. 1 Class 5A team and reigning Division II state champ

Southlake Carroll is second. Arlington Lamar and Galena Park North Shore are in spots No. 3 and 4. All four of the top-ranked teams are 10-0 this season.

Smithson Valley takes over 10th place with a 9-1 record.

Class 2A had five different No. 1 teams this season, beginning with Bangs and ending with Garrison. Class 2A's reigning, state champions Rosebud-Lott and Corrigan-Camden both took a turn at No. 1 did not make the top 10 in the final poll. Comfort and Bangs, also both former top teams, didn't finish in the top 10 either. Comfort was eighth last week before a 27-21 loss to

Stoops battles criticism of Oklahoma's OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) clock and not score," he said, the Oklahoma coach Bob Stoops didn't play quarterback Jason White and most other offensive starters after the first half.

The defensive starters were benched after cornerback Derrick Strait returned a fumble for a touchdown late in the third quarter. And when the Sooners threatened to score again in the fourth, Stoops wouldn't let them.

Still, there were plenty of suggestions that Stoops and topranked Oklahoma ran up the score in their 77-0 rout of Texas A&M on Saturday.

Stoops, of course, bristled at that perception.

"Anyone who saw the game knows we did what we could to keep the score down," Stoops said Monday. "I don't know what you do. If anyone has a good suggestion, I want them to give it to me. We did everything short of falling down."

in the fifth spot in the final poll.

Actually, they did that, too just 3 yards away from the end zone early in the fourth, backup quarterback Paul Thompson dropped to his knee on first down. The next three plays were runs into the middle of A&M's defense - Oklahoma's offensive line pretty much took a dive — to end the scoring threat.

Other than two other series including the final one of the game — it was the only time the Sooners (10-0, 6-0 Big 12) were stopped all day.

Oklahoma scored touchdowns on 10 of its 11 offensive possessions through three quarters, but in the second half, the Sooners threw just three passes and ran a season-high 61 times. By the end of the game, Thompson was playing behind a line of scout team players and was handing off to a walk-on fullback on dive plays that weren't even in the team's play-

A defense filled with backups preserved Oklahoma's secondstraight shutout. A&M (4-6, 2-4) didn't even cross its own 40 all game.

Texas A&M coach Dennis Franchione said he doesn't think Stoome "Lea on.

"No, I haven't given any thought to that," Franchione said. "We certainly are not pointing any fingers in that area."

800-CFI-DRIVE www.cfidrive.com

Stoops, whose team's national title hopes were derailed in a loss to unranked Texas A&M last season, wasn't about to apologize for the lopsided score.

"(Franchione) knows we did everything we could to eat up the anger apparent in his voice. "But, hey, look, we're all big boys here. I just watched A&M put 73. on (Baylor). We're all in the same conference here, competing for the same recruits."

Canadian wins season finale

BOYS RANCH Canadian jumped out to an early lead to post a 49-30 win over Boys Ranch on Friday night.

The Wildcats led 27-0 at the end of the first quarter. Canadian running back Auston English scored three touchdowns, one on a 56yard pass from Riley Morris.

His other TDs came on runs of 11 and 54 yards.

Logan Baker scored twice on a pair of 1-yard runs. Morris also connected on a 79-yard TD pass to Tony Livingston.

Canadian's picked up a score when Hadley Smith recovered a fumble for a 35-yard TD
