

COLLECTED FROM $188,021 SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES

State Treasurer Ann Richards Wednesday announced that the state collected $188,021 during the first Treasury auction of unclaimed safe deposit boxes last weekend (May 11-12).

The auction far exceeded my prediction of what it would bring Richards said. "I said before the auction that I would be happy if we collected $150,000. Iam ecstatic that we did as well as we did. I think the biddrers got some real bargains--but the real winners are the school children of Texas. who will receive the proceeds of the sale

The State Treasury auctioned more than 11,000 items that it had collected from unclaimed safe deposit boxes. The most expensive item sold during the two days was a 3.25 carat diamond tie pin that sold for $9,250 to an Austin couple.

The most unusual happening occurred during the Friday preview -- an Austin woman discovered items belonging to a relative of a sorority sister. including the gold lorgnette used by Treasurer Richards in the widely distributed television announcements of the auction.

The items belonged to a woman who had died in 1899 and were pulled from the auction. They will be returned to the woman's heirs who did not know that the items even existed.

Under state law the owners or heirs of any item sold during the auction can claim the sale price of the items at any time. But until or unless such claims are made, the money is used by the State of Texas. In this case, the proceeds of the auction will be turned over to the Foundation School Fund.

'During a time of severe financial strain for the state, I am extremely pleased that the State Treasury can add a little bit of non-tax revenue to help our taxpayers--and our public schools," Richards said.

An additional bonus, Richards said, is the sales tax collected from the sale, which came to $8.929.

Handell Hollis, son of ivir. and Mrs. Eston Hollis has been named Salutatorian of the Borden Junior High School. Randell maintained a grade point average of 96.23.

CHARLES STENHOLM ADDRESSES CONGRESS ON REA

WASHINGTONE D.C. --Congressman Charles W. Stenholm expounded on the importance of the Rural Electrification Association (REA(during an address to Congress last week. The congressman's remarks were made during special orders in the House of Representatives recognizing the 50th Anniversary of rural electrification programs.

A former co-op manager himself, Congressman Stenholm said, 'The spirit of cooperation has been the secret of the REA movement from its inception in 1936. The Federal Government undertook a project to allow neighbors working with neighbors, farmers with farmers. Their dream was that all Americans -- whether they lived in the country or whether they lived in town -- could have electric power; or later telephone service."

Aithough most farms now have electricity, Congressman Stenholm, who was the manager of the Stamford Electric Co-op for nine years, said REAs still have a role in rural America. He said 50 years later electric cooperatives still operate areas where other companies cannot, or will not, because of economic reasons.

"I point out that the rural electric movement is not suggesting that it should be exempt from what is necessary to bring about a balanced budget for the nation," the Stamford Democrat said. acknowledge that there are some costs involved. There in bringing electrical service to sparsely settled areas. But if you studied this program closely, you would reach this conclusion: it has been a good investment of our tax dollars."

The fourth-term congressman also acknowledged REA and its relation with small businesses.

"I think it is very fitting that we recognize both the rural electric program anniversary and Small Business Week at the same time because those rural electrics brought many jobs and business opportunities. We are talking about one and the same: small businesses; people working together," he said.

When Stenholm finished his speech, Congressman Kika de la Garza of Texas rose and said, "I thank the gentleman from Texas. He is part of our celebration in that he was a manager of a co-op. He has been an integral part of the process that we legislate. wholeheartedly concur that America should be proud of its investment. This has been an investment in enhancing the quality of life for Americans, in enhancing the opportunities in rural America, of enhancing economic growth. This cannot be measured in dollars and cents."

tive, the senior girls played the women teachers and won by another close score of 17-15. Then the six senior boys were dealt a severe ego blow when the tour men teachers and Mrs. Mayes and Miss May defeated them 15-10. In the final game of the evening, the seniors composed an all-star team to play the few teachers that were still standing by this time and won 16-14.

MID-YEAR CROP AND LIVESTOCK REPORTS

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin contracting farmers and ranchers across the state in mid-May for 1985 crop information and mid-year livestock inventories.

Information from these surveys is very important to the entire agricultural industry. The current economic undertainties of agriculture are weighing heavily on most producers' production and marketing decisions. These mid-year crop and livestock estimates will provide farmers and ranchers with information they can use to adjust their plans for 1985.

Results of the confidential interview, conducted mby mail or in person by field enumerators, will be published in July.

To reduce survey costs tarmers and ranchers are urged to return the mailed questionaires as soon as possible. The reported information will be combined for statae and county estimates.

Annual county estimates are published for livestock, dairy, poultry, cotton, field crops, small grains, fruits and pecans, vegetables, and cash receipts from the sale of farm products.

FILE ACREAGE REPORT

We encourage all farmers, whether they participate in our programs or not to file an acreage report and protect their crop acreage bases.

By certifying crop acres, tarmers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases as well as eligibility for different benefits if they participate in farm programs.

Program participants are required to report crops and acreage planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve. When famrmers report to the county ASCS office, they can review aerial photographs of their farm and pinpoint the fields in which the crops are grown. This inforamation is then documented for program compliance and crop acreage bases. In addition to history purposes, the reports are also necessary to prove crop yields.

The final certification date for program crops along with required ACR acres in Borden County is July 15, 1985.

Farmers not participating in the 1985 programs are encouraged to report their crop acreages to insure future benefits and protect acreage bases.

WHEAT, BARLEY LOAN RATES

Borden County farmers may obtain price support loans on their eligible 1985 wheat at a rate of $ 3.30 per bushel, and barley for $ 2.08 per bushel.

The rates vary from county to county in relation to cash prices, production and consumption.

The wheat loan rate is for wheat grading number one or better. The barley loan and purchase rate is for barley grading number two or better.

The price support loan program serves as a marketing tool for farmers by enabling them to take advantage of any increase in market prices at a later time.

COTTON AND GRAIN SORGHUM LOANS

May 31st is the last day to put cotton and grain sorghum into the loan. The May interest rate for these loans is 9.375 percent.

HOLIDAY

We will be closed May 27th, Monday, in observance of Memorial Day.

DECORATIVE TILES ADD CREATIVITY

Decorative tiles are showing up in what were once considered unconventional places. They are no longer to be found only on counters and back splashes or baths and showers.

Using decorative tiles for baseboards is different yet highly practical too. Insets on cabinet doors to match counter tiles also make a nice effect. Other new uses for tiles include lining door facings, outlining windows and covering fireboxes. With the popularity of houseplants, ceramic tiles are also a natural, waterproof way to cover window seats and tables.

Ceramic tiles amy be used in a single pattern or a comibination of apatterns which create a new art form. There are now full wall patterns creating a scenic or floral effect which are adjustable according to the wall size. The scope of your creativity is really the only limit on using tiles.

Our proximity to Mexico makes Mexican hand-painted tiles a Southwest favorite. The tiles are handmand and hand painted and are often a bit out of square and slightly pillowed or warped. Mexican tiles are reasonably priced an d can be installed by homeowners themselves.

The greatest producers of ceramic tiles are the Italians. Their tiles are usually 8 by 8 inches and vary from the strictly machine-made to the more expensive, decorative hand-painted variety. Most of the Italian tiles can be used for floors as well as counters and walls. The floor tiles are rated by the manufacturers as to the toughness of their glaze -residential, light commercial and heavy commercial.

Beautiful decorative tiles are also produced in Holland, Portugal and Spain. They are an art | form that is finding new experession in contemporary American home.s.

STENHOLM PROPOSAL APPROVED BY HOUSE AG SUBCOMMITTEE

As the 69th session winds to a close, one of the most significant and difficult challenges facing lawmakers this year has finally been resolved. Last week both the House and Senate approved the conference committee report to pave the way for the creation of a statewide water plan for Texas.

This water plan is designed to allow Texas to meet projected water supply and water quality needs well into the 21st century. The package consists maninly of two constitutional amendments and overall will provide almost $1.2 billion for water projects. If approved by you at the polls the first one would authorize the state to sell up to $980 million in bonds for water development, water quality and flood control the second and remains while authorize the potential sale of up to $200 million in bonds for an agruiculture water conservation plan that would provide state loans for farmers to buy water saving irrigat ion equipment. The plan also contains provisions for a $250 million state insurance fund to guarantee water bonds issued by cities.

The final version that was agreed upon contains language that will require existing reservoirs financed with state funds to release five percent of their water into the coastal bays during periods of high salinity to protect the ecological health of the marine life. The Texas Water Commission will also have to take into account the health of coastal bays and estuaries when issuing permits to build inland lakes that would alter the flow of rivers into the Fulf of Mexico. The Commission would also have the authority to order owners of reservoirs within 200 river miles of the coast to release fresh water to the bays to nourish fish and shellfish.

The bays and estuaries issue was just one of several regional differences that this committee had to address. The East Texas and coastal legislators were more concerned about flood control and the environment while __West __Texas lawmakers concentrated on water development and conservation for agriculture.

To appease the House conferees, the water package will also establish the first statewide plan to regulate the underground pumping of water. It will give local voters the optoi on of creating special underground water control districts and also require any city seeking state aid for water projects to develoop a water conservation program.

After a lot of give and take from both sides, the members of the conference committee unanimously approved the plan, and I am pleased with the final outcome. I believe that the pa ssage of this water package is a major step forward for the future water planning for Texas, and I hope that all of you will see its importance when you are asked to vote on this plan in November.

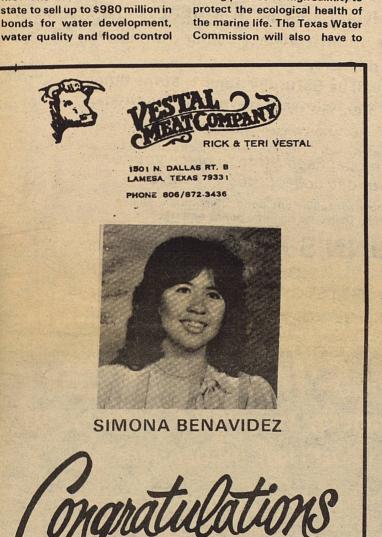

Another important hurldle was cleared recently when the House overwhelmi ng passed a bill to repeal the state's 'blue law' which prohibits the sale of certain items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays. The bill has successfully passed out of a Senate committee, but still awaits action by the full Senate and approval of the Governor. If it is finally approved, the repeal will allow consumers to shop on Sundays for all items except mo tor vehicles.

As always, I welcome your comments and questions ofn these or any other issues before the 69th Legislature. Please write: Rep. Larry Don Shaw, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, Tx. 78769 or call (512(475-2617 or in Big Springs (915(263-2321. I'll look forward to hearing from you.
