Lefors ISD to meet in executive session

LEFORS — Lefors Independent School District's School Board will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 6 in the high school library, 209 5th Street.

The meeting will be an executive session concerning personnel matters.

Sell of steer sets record at state fair

DALLAS (AP) — A grand champion market steer's $85,000 sale price at the State Fair of Texas has set a record, officials say.

Scott McKamie's steer, Ashton, brought a record bid of $68.05 a pound at the annual Youth Livestock Auction of Champions on Friday.

McKamie, 17, said part of the cash earned from his steer will go toward his sister's study of hydrology.

"I promised my sister if I won, I'd buy her a jet ski," Scott told The Dallas Morning News in Saturday's editions.

But his sister, Juli, said she would not hold Scott to the promised ski.

The reserve grand champion market steer, X-Men, went for $25,000.

About 220 prize steers, goats, swine and other animals were auctioned in the fair's Tom Thumb Sale Pavilion.

Group wants better voter accountability

AUSTIN (AP) — Requiring the Texas Legislature to have recorded votes on bills would be good for democracy, advocates of the proposal said Friday. But a leading Republican lawmaker said such a requirement could be time-consuming and unnecessary.

"There's just no way the public wouldn't support this," said Linda Camin, chair of the Sunshine Committee on Recorded Votes for the League of Women Voters of Texas.

Texas legislators' individual votes on bills are not required to be recorded. Lawmakers often hold "voice votes," meaning a lawmaker's vote is not recorded and available for the public to view.

"You have no way of knowing who voted for what" with voice votes, Camin said.

County okays written fire contracts

By MARILYN POWERS
 Staff Writer

Fire coverage contracts between Gray County and two local fire departments were approved at Friday morning's regular meeting of county commissioners in the courthouse's second-floor courtroom.

Voting on the written contracts was the final step in communications between the county and the fire departments, said Precinct 2 County Commissioner Gary Willoughby by telephone Thursday.

A contract between Gray County and Hoover Volunteer Fire Department was unanimously approved as written Friday morning. Hoover VFD will receive $35,000 for fiscal 2004-2005 for covering approximately 220 square miles, an increase from the 108 square miles they had been responsible for in the previous year, and a raise of $20,000 from the $15,000 they were paid last fiscal year by the county.

The proposed written contract between the county and the City of Pampa for coverage of 27 square miles by Pampa Fire Department was passed after commissioners added details to the document, which was written by Pampa City Attorney Don Lane.

The portion amended by county commissioners concerns dispute resolution between the city and county. The contract presented to county commissioners for approval stated that if one party "thinks the other is wrong and not performing, they can give written notice, and if the issue is not resolved in 30 days, the matter goes to a non-binding mediation board," said County Attorney Josh Seabourn.

"If someone breaks the contract, the other party needs a way out," said Precinct 1 Commissioner Joe Wheeley.

Guthrie's grandchild addresses AC crowd

By DAVID BOWSER
 Staff Writer

AMARILLO — Woody Guthrie's granddaughter gave her premier performance of "A Granddaughter's Legacy" here Thursday afternoon, sharing family photos and home movies with residents of Park Place Towers Retirement Community.

Anna Canoni is in Pampa today and Saturday for the 2004 Tribute to Woody Guthrie, along with the Vanaver Caravan.

Canoni, 25, never met her grandfather, legendary folk singer Woody Guthrie. He died in 1967, of complications from Huntington's Chorea, a progressive nervous system disease.

The child of Woody Guthrie's daughter Nora Guthrie, Anna Canoni grew up in the family of music, dance and art.

She will share those experiences in Pampa tonight at the Stokes Barn, three miles east of Pampa on U.S. Highway 60 (officially the Woody Guthrie Memorial Highway) and again Saturday at M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Her program includes film clips from the Woody Guthrie Archives and home movies that have rarely been seen outside the Guthrie family.

"As great as he was," said Anna Laura Batson, a resident of Park Place Towers, "it's a shame we didn't know more about him."

Batson grew up in Pampa and knew Guthrie during his days in Gray County.

"I didn't know him well," she said, "but I had a friend that did."

Her best friend, Mary McKinney, died in the 1960s, Batson said.

"She thought he was headed for something," Batson said. "She thought he was going to be famous."

Canoni's program documents that rise to fame from his birthplace of Okemah, Okla., through Pampa, where he learned to play the guitar, to his days in California and New York.

Anna Canoni is a product of Guthrie's second marriage. After marrying Mary Jennings in Pampa and having three children, Guthrie married Marjorie Mazia in New

NASA delaying shuttle's spring 2005 launch date

HOUSTON (AP) — The first shuttle flight since the Columbia tragedy has been pushed back by NASA because hurricane damage and implementation of new safety measures made a spring 2005 launch "no longer achievable."

March or April had been the tentative date selected by NASA's spaceflight council, which announced the delay Friday.

The council, in Houston to discuss the Oct. 14 launch of the next international space station crew from Kazakhstan, asked shuttle program officials to analyze whether a May or July date is more feasible, and to report back to their findings later this month, NASA spokesman Allard Beutel said.

NASA's shuttle fleet has been grounded since Columbia disintegrated during re-entry in February 2003, killing all seven astronauts aboard.

Council members decided to rethink the launch date of Discovery because of damage caused by the hurricanes in Florida and NASA's promise to implement new safety measures for the shuttle program.

Of 15 recommendations put forth by the Columbia Accident Investigation Board, five have been put in place so far, Beutel said.

"Right now, those mil-stones are pointing us toward a new launch window," said William Readdy, NASA associate administrator for space operations.

The hurricanes cost three weeks of shuttle-processing time, said James Kennedy, director of Florida's Kennedy Space Center.

In late August and early September, rain and high winds accompanying Charley and Frances caused widespread damage to NASA's launch site, Hurricane Jeanne later blew off 30 exterior panels from the 52-story Vehicle Assembly Building.

The threat of Hurricane Ivan temporarily halted work on Discovery's redesigned external tank at Lockheed Martin Corp.'s assembly plant in New Orleans, Beutel said.

The agency's three space shuttles themselves made it safely through the storms.

Children at-risk

CPS report says system failing

AUSTIN (AP) — State Child Protective Services caseworkers are inundated with increasing caseloads, resulting in a failure to follow policies and the closing of cases on abused and neglected children too soon, a report released Friday said.

"High caseloads can result in children being left in abusive situations or repeated incidents of abuse and neglect," said the report by the Office of Inspector General of the Health and Human Services Commission.

Republican Gov. Rick Perry said problems at the agency indicate additional resources are necessary, but said "money alone is not the answer because the problems are clearly systemic and indicate a managerial crisis."

"I can't state more emphatically my loss in confidence in management," Perry said after speaking at the Texas Conservative Coalition Research Institute conference on families.

adding that if the fault is not resolved in 30 days and through mediation, then the wronged party can give 90 days' notice to opt out of the contract," Seabourn said.

The PFD contract was approved unanimously along with Seabourn's recommended addition and will be presented to city commissioners.

Pampa Fire Department will be paid $120,000 yearly for the next two fiscal years by Gray County for fire coverage of 27 square miles, including the Cole Addition, Keller Estates, Walnut Creek, Highway 60 to National Oilwell, Highway 152 and portions of Price Road. The contract has a third-year rollover clause in which the city or county may choose to opt out of the contract if notice is given by June 1 of the year involved.

Clarification on the $100 raise voted to county employees as part of the 2004-2005 budget was approved. The clarification states that employees who are not paid 100 percent of their salary by Gray County will "be calculated to receive a proportionate share" of the raise, as proposed by County Auditor Elaine Morris. Part-time employees will receive a percentage of the $100 per month based on the number of hours they work.

Bills totaling $93,733, and payroll of $204,175.31, were approved for payment. An internal audit report was listed on the agenda but was not voted on by commissioners, according to County Clerk Susan Winborne.

Commissioners approved the addition of light fixtures to the third-floor hall outside District Judge Lee Waters' offices and in the county clerk's and county tax assessor-collector's offices.

Wilbur Killebrew, Wesley Martin and Wanda Carter were appointed as central counting station election workers for the upcoming November elections. The workers will be responsible for running the machine that counts ballots at the courthouse, Winborne said.

Sharon Braddock was appointed to a two-year term on the Texas Panhandle Mental Health Mental Retardation Board of Trustees.

Commissioners unanimously voted to participate in the 2005 Indigent Defense Grant Program. The county has received $12,000 to $15,000 annually in past years from the state through the program, according to commissioners.

Gray County will participate in the Texas Procurement Commission Cooperative Purchasing Program.

"If you're a member of this organization, you can get better prices" on items such as the new voting machines required by law, said Winborne. There is no charge to be a member of the program, she said.

A resolution supporting federal grant money for the Helping America Vote Act was passed.

November was declared Home Care and Hospice Month.

County Judge Richard Peet was absent from Friday's regular meeting.

York and had four more. One died in childhood. The other three, Canoni said, are Arlo, Joady and Canoni's mother Nora.

"Woody had a big family," Canoni said.

Canoni will join the Vanaver Caravan, a troupe of musicians, singers and dancers who have their own program based on Guthrie's music, at Pampa Junior High School this afternoon and again tonight at Stokes Barn and Saturday night at M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The Vanaver Caravan has been working with students at Lamar, Wilson, Austin Elementary Schools.

Loralee Cooley, president of Pampa's Tribute to Woody Guthrie, said Cynthia Hauck, music teacher at Lamar, had done an outstanding job in preparing for the Vanavers.

"It was amazing," said Livia Vanaver. "They were really prepared."

Cooley said that after one song, Los Deportees, which deals with a plane load of Mexican immigrants who died in a plane crash while being flown back to Mexico, one Hispanic girl asked Hauk if she could take a copy of the material home so she could read it to her father in Spanish.

"It's not just entertainment," Cooley said of the Vanavers production. "It's about who we are as people."

Livia Vanaver and Nora Guthrie were college roommates and close friends.

Vanaver said she has a son that is about two months younger than Canoni.

She said people used to think they were twins when Vanaver and Nora Guthrie would put the two infants in a stroller and go for walks.

"She's my mother," Canoni said of Vanaver, "along with my mother. They were both mothers for all of us."

Combs reminds cattle owners to test herds for TB

AUSTIN — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs today reminded cattle producers to have their herds tested for cattle tuberculosis by Dec. 31, the first step towards regaining Texas' TB-free status.

Texas' TB plan, developed in 2002 by a joint industry and regulatory working group, originally called for testing at least 2,400 purebred beef and seed stock herds by the end of August, 2004. The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently announced that it was extending the testing deadline until Dec. 31, 2004, to allow for more tests to be completed. If the 2,400 herds are not tested by the end of December, the USDA could revoke a temporary waiver that allows shipments of feeder cattle to go out of the state without restrictions.

"Testing these herds is a vital step towards our long term goal of regaining TB-free status for the Texas cattle industry," said Combs. "Since the deadline does not fall until the end of December, not only can cattle owners test their herds for free, they can take advantage of cooler fall months to work their cattle."

"We need the support of dairy and purebred beef producers to find any possible remaining TB infection, to prevent further spread of disease and to regain our ability to move breeding cattle across-state lines without a TB test," said Dr. Bob Hillman, head of the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's regulatory agency for livestock and poultry health. "Allowing cattle TB to gain a 'hoof-hold' would be extremely costly, in terms of credibility with consumers, and in our ability to trade freely with our interstate and international trading partners."

Since 1983, cattle TB has been detected in 19 Texas dairies and eight purebred beef herds. In 2000, Texas attained the TB-free status under the National Tuberculosis Eradication Program, but lost it in 2002, after two newly-infected herds were detected.

A joint industry and regulatory working group developed the Texas TB plan in 2002, agreeing to test 2,400 herds in return for a USDA temporary waiver allowing feeder cattle to move interstate without a test or official identifications.

Some beef producers are concerned that restrictions on their herd would be enforced due to false positive results. But new follow-up blood tests have shown to be effective in eliminating needless culling or loss of genetics.

To test a herd, producers should contact an accredited, private veterinary practitioner and make an appointment. Testing is free. The Texas Animal Health Commission maintains lists of veterinarians who can conduct the test, and can be contacted at (800) 550-8242 or www.tahc.state.tx.us for more information.

RRC of Texas establishes gas production allowables for month

AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission recently set October 2004 natural gas production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 25,470,857 Mcf (thousand cubic feet).

For these fields, the October 2004 allowable represents a decrease of 4,462,402 Mcf when compared to actual production of 29,933,259 Mcf in October 2003. In setting the October 2004 allowable, the Commission used historical production figures from October 2003 and producer forecasts for the October 2004 demand, and then adjusted the figures to account for such factors as well capability, new wells in a field, etc.

Texas natural gas storage reported by the Commission for August 2004 is 305,188,582 Mcf compared to 244,959,715 Mcf in August 2003. The September 2004 gas storage estimate is 314,557,051 Mcf.

Gas well gas from prorated fields accounts for seven percent of total gas well production in Texas.

Preliminary statewide production reported for July 2004 is 28,338,570 barrels of crude oil and 384,064,005 Mcf of gas well gas.

The Commission's estimated final production for this month can be obtained by multiplying these preliminary production totals by a production adjustment factor of 1.0442 for crude oil and 1.1308 for gas well gas. (These production totals do not include casing-head gas or condensate.)

Lean to the left, lean to the right

Friday morning I read an article on the front page of the Amarillo Globe-News that made my blood boil.

A front page article by The Associated Press, titled "Marriage amendment defeated," began with this opening sentence, called a "lead" in journalism jargon:

"The House emphatically rejected a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage Thursday, the latest in a string of conservative pet causes advanced by Republican leaders in the run-up to Election Day."

This is not an opinion piece, clearly identified as such on the editorial page of the newspaper, but a so-called "news" article.

Readers, this is not news. This is the reporter's opinion presented to you as news.

Articles like this make me ashamed to call myself a journalist. What I see presented as news on most major networks and in most national media outlets plainly comes from a liberal bias.

Having liberal beliefs is not wrong. Presenting them to the public as unbiased fact is.

That is what is happening in the world of journalism today, and I hate it.

Let's go back to the lead sentence in the marriage amendment article. Here's what the sentence — if it were written in an unbiased manner — would read:

"The House rejected a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage Thursday."

Everything else in that sentence is an opinion.

Some people may wonder why I, as editor, did not publish an article Thursday or Friday about the Presidential debate. The reason is because I could not find an unbiased article on the event.

I intended to run an AP article called "Viewer Beware" as my top story Thursday. In an advisory printed to editors, the story was described as being about how political candidates will say one thing in a debate, but will do something else after being elected.

When I read the story, however, it was 30 inches (that's long) about how Bush said one thing in his debate with Vice President Al Gore and did something else. There was no mention of leans more to the right. Christian Broadcasting Network, leans to the right, but I don't mind that because it doesn't pretend to do anything but present news in a Christian perspective.

Now the different news organizations are firing shots at each other for being partisan and not reporting fairly. It reminds me of an old football cheer: "Lean to the left, lean to the right. Fight! Fight! Fight!" Not cheer, actually, "yell" is a more appropriate term.

Last April, The Dallas Morning News admitted in an editorial that "liberal media bias is not a figment of Rush Limbaugh's imagination."

Sherry Sylvester, director of Texas Media Watch, wrote about the Texas press bias in this week's column.

She said a Center for Excellence in Journalism poll released last July found there were twice as many negative characterizations of Bush in the media as there were about Kerry, and 44 percent of the time no evidence was cited to support the assessments.

I could have told them that without the expense of conducting a poll. I read it in so-called news articles every day.

I can say for a fact that "liberal media bias is not a figment of Rush Limbaugh's imagination."

Most of what the public sees as "news" is opinion, and I'm sick and tired of it.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 3, the 277th day of 2004. There are 89 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 3, 1863, President Lincoln declared the last Thursday in November Thanksgiving Day.

On this date:

In 1226, St. Francis of Assisi, founder of the Franciscan order, died; he was canonized in 1228.

In 1929, the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes formally changed its name to the Kingdom of Yugoslavia.

In 1941, Adolf Hitler declared in a speech in Berlin that Russia had been "broken" and would "never rise again."

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt established the Office of Economic Stabilization.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

In 1951, the New York Giants captured the National League pennant in game three by a score of 5 to 4 as third baseman Bobby Thomson hit a three-run homer off the Brooklyn Dodgers' Ralph Branca in the "shot heard 'round the world."

In 1952, the situation comedy "Our Miss Brooks," formerly a radio show, premiered on CBS-TV with Eve Arden again in the title role.

Laws not in place to properly regulate tower 'monstrosities'

I read with interest the recent article in The Pampa News about the communication tower being constructed off of 23rd and Price Road. It is disturbing that our local governments have not put in place any restrictions which allow the citizens that must live with these towers any input into where they are constructed. We have had one of these towers for two years a mile from our home which we built in 2000 outside of Lampasas, Texas.

Until our tower was under construction, none of the residents of this area were aware that one was going to be built. The motivation of the property owner to allow one of these towers to be built is simply selfish greed. In my research, I discovered that some of the property owners who allow these towers to be built are getting thousands of dollars a month from the communication companies. Those types of property owners are clearly concerned only about their pocket-books being padded. They have no concern about what their neighbors will have to put up with.

The owner of the property in Pampa lives in Oklahoma, so his living environment will not be affected at all.

These towers are eyesores

Debate poses quandary for candidate

Often debate coaches pester candidates with detailed advice as a confrontation approaches. With mammoth briefing books, they cram facts, figures and the nuances of positioning into the candidate's head. But George W. Bush should have needed none of this prep.

To win Thursday's debate — decisively — all he had to do is state his position on the issues of terrorism, Iraq, Afghanistan, North Korea, Iran and the myriad threats we face.

Bush entered the debate empowered by three fundamental facts:

Virtually all of his own voters agree with his positions on these vital issues.

About one in three Kerry voters also approves of Bush's policy in these regions.

Kerry, for some inexplicable reason, has chosen to attack Bush on these very issues — his strongest point.

So Kerry endangers his hold on his own voters every time he attacks Bush's conduct of the War on Terror and the battle in Iraq.

The latest poll data from Scott Rasmussen underscores Kerry's dilemma. Should we commit more military force, the same amount or less to Iraq? Of Kerry's voters, 40 percent want less force, 15 percent want the same — and 28 percent want more. Are the people of Iraq better off than under Saddam? A quarter (26 percent) of Kerry's voters say yes; 34 percent say they're worse off, and 24 percent say it is about the same.

And while Kerry is alienating his supporters no matter what he says, Bush will appeal to the swing voters he needs simply by defending the policies and positions he has enunciated so frequently and with such consistency in the past.

Kerry has a tough line to walk. He has to criticize the war in Iraq while seeming supportive of the men and women who are waging it. Attack the mission we seek to achieve without seeming to dampen the morale of the men and women listening on Armed Forces Radio. Knock Bush's claims that the war is being won without appearing to echo enemy propaganda.

And Kerry must do all this without seeming to be dour or pessimistic. He can't come across as the bad news

Voting more tax cuts financially irresponsible

Congress' overwhelming vote for the fourth major Bush administration tax-cut bill in four years — this one will extend cuts that were scheduled to expire — probably pleases most voters. But it was a financially irresponsible action that means trouble down the line.

The $145.9 billion in tax reductions will increase federal budget deficits in coming years by significantly reducing tax money flowing to Washington.

Both Congress — including members of both major parties — and President

Bush have recklessly abandoned the pay-as-you-go budgeting principle followed during much of the 1990s that helped produce record budget surpluses.

A record budget deficit of $422 billion is projected for the current fiscal year that ends Thursday. And the Congressional Budget Office has forecast deficits totaling $2.3 trillion over the next 10 years. Some budget watchdogs say the 10-year red-ink total could hit $5 trillion.

In approving the latest tax-cut package, Congress should have mandated offsetting measures such — as reducing federal spending or closing tax loopholes so that future budget deficits would not be increased. It did neither.

Bush shares the blame for not insisting that such measures be taken. The tax reduction package extends a $1,000 per-child tax credit for five years, "marriage penalty" relief for four years and an expanded 10 percent tax bracket for six years. All were to expire Jan. 1. The legislation also includes tax breaks for businesses.

Bush and Congress are operating on the theory that there is a free lunch. But American taxpayers eventually will have to pick up the tab in the form of higher taxes or reduced services — or both.

bear, lest people decide they don't want to listen to doomsday prophecies for the next four years.

Yet he must take his positions firmly and strongly, discarding subtlety and making sure not to stand on legalistic distinctions. He has to defend his vote for the war even as he attacks it, explain his vote against funding it at the same time as he ardently supports its prosecution.

Finally, he must explain why his four-part program differs from what Bush is already doing. Why is his call for arming and training Iraqi troops and police more worthy of support than Bush's current efforts to do so? Why will he be successful in attracting Coalition partners even as Bush tries to do the same thing? He has to attack the war in hindsight while trying to distinguish what he'd do from what Bush is already doing.

Is this an almost impossible burden? Yes. John Kerry can thank the geniuses whom he has brought in to run his campaign for the quandary in which he finds himself.

It doesn't matter if John Kerry is really Daniel Webster in disguise, schooled in the arts of debate and fluent or even eloquent in expression. This first debate will not be decided on style or points. It will reach its pre-ordained conclusion — a big Bush win — because of the inherent contradictions in Kerry's position on these issues.

Kerry will have a better chance in the second debate as he discusses domestic policies — the arena where he should have brought his major challenge. But even in a debate on domestic issues, George W. Bush can trip up Kerry over the Patriot Act and make homeland security the centerpiece of his presentation.

The Democratic Party's leftist base — and Bush's ads attacking Kerry flip-flops — have forced the Massachusetts senator into a difficult strategic hole in the first debate. I doubt he can talk his way out of it.

and a blight on the land.

South of Lampasas, there are many towers which strobe bright lights all night long. Our tower, thankfully, is built with restrictions which require a red light at night. But when the light malfunctions, the bright light is on 24-7. The company can file a notice with the FCC which gives them 15 days to fix the problem. If it is not fixed within that 15 days, the company can file an extension for another 15 days. There is only one gentleman who regulates all 12,700 communication towers in Texas and Oklahoma and who sees to it that the towers remain in compliance with the law.

Needless to say, there is not enough of him to go around, and sometimes the companies take advantage of that fact. Last December, our tower strobed bright light for over 30 days. Every night during that period, light pollution destroyed our enjoyment of the environment. My children thought we were experiencing lightning until they realized that it had a rhythm.

We could not enjoy our property because of the extremely annoying, very bright, relentless strobe light.

Finally, after I researched the problem by starting with county records, I was able to find out enough information to locate the name of the communication company which owned the tower. But, until I discovered the name of the gentleman at the FCC who regulates the towers and explained my plight, the communication company considered me to be only a gnat to be swatted away.

The FCC called the communication company, then I received a call from two very irritated employees of Clear Shot Communications in Pennsylvania who begged me to never call the FCC again. It took me almost of month of research, but I believe they finally "felt my pain."

Popcorn sale

Boy Scout council begins fund-raiser

As of Oct. 2, some 10,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Venture crew members who belong to Golden Spread Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be pounding the pavement as they kick-off their 22nd annual sale of Trail's End Gourmet Popcorn, a news release from the council said.

The sale will conclude Friday, Oct. 29.

Barry Oxley, Scout executive for the council, indicated the sale will help finance Scouting activities for the council as well as benefit individual Scouting units.

"Escalating program costs, the need for camp equipment and maintenance, as well as continued growth in youth participation, have prompted the Council to sell a great product like Trail's End Popcorn," Oxley said.

Council Executive Board President Bob Rathbun emphasized the primary income for Scouting activities will continue to come from community support through area United Ways and from the council's annual Friends of Scouting campaign. "Local scouts contribute a great deal to our area and by helping to support them, you are actually helping every community in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles," said Rathbun. "And what better way to help them than through the purchase of delicious popcorn."

"All Popcorn sale profits stay here and help provide the Golden Spread Council and Scouting units throughout the Panhandle with additional funds needed to serve the 10,000 Scouting youth members of our area."

"Last year," he added, "local Scouts sold nearly 45,000 containers of Trail's End Popcorn, and this year the Council has set a goal to sell 25 percent more containers."

"We appreciate the support that our Scouting activities have received from our area's communities and wish to express our thanks to everyone who participates," said Oxley. "This is a great product and directly supports local

M2M gives runners, moseyers, equestrians unique experience

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs is encouraging Texans far and wide to participate in the upcoming Marathon 2 Marathon, a legendary race that takes place under the wide open sky of West Texas.

The 26.2-mile race will take place Saturday, Oct. 16, in Alpine and will finish in Marathon. Other events include a 10K, a two-person relay and a horseback ride. Runners across the state have been training through the Texas summer to prepare for the second-annual M2M event, which is designed to boost rural economic development and wellness in West Texas.

"This event gives runners a chance-of-a-lifetime experience. They can soak up a true West Texas atmosphere, experience a little heritage and have their own personal adventure," Combs said. "How many folks can say they've run a marathon to Marathon?"

This year's event will include an equine event, in which participants on horseback mosey along a designated course near Marathon with special activity stops along the way. The town of Marathon is hosting a block party the night before the race to give local businesses a chance to sample and promote their products.

The town is also hosting a festival the day of the race, which will include live music, food, presentations and other activities.

Last October nearly 100 runners in West Texas participated in the first ever Marathon 2 Marathon.

Racers enjoyed the vast beauty and sunshine of West Texas as they ran across miles of open spaces and over a mountain or two.

"Beautiful weather, beautiful day, a great experience," said Tim Tokerud of Houston, catching his breath just moments after he crossed the finish line to win last year's marathon in a time of 3:15:11.

The Marathon 2 Marathon is part of TDA's rural economic development efforts to promote the cities, towns and counties of rural Texas. For more information on the race, visit www.runtex.com.

Community Daycare helping children grow, develop in multitude of ways

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2004 "Community Matters" fund-raising campaign.

Every child at Community Daycare, a United Way agency, is provided with endless opportunities to develop physically, intellectually, emotionally and socially, in their own unique way.

With low child/staff ratios, enhanced curriculum and caring staff, each child is promised equal learning opportunities regardless of socio-economic levels of income.

"The parents, children, staff and Board of Directors," says Director Barbara Kirkham, "value the community support through the United Way Agency."

The facility, located at 1100 Gwendolyn, is opened from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, to give optimum time for working parents to know their children are safe until they can be picked up.

Community Daycare policy promises the children:

- The daycare center will meet the individual needs and goals of each child through enriched curriculum focusing on all areas of development, physical, intellectual, emotional, and social;

- will provide a warm, loving, stable environment;

- provide exceptional nutrition for optimal development following USDA guidelines.

- maintain low child/staff ratios to ensure quality time with each child;

- be an equal opportunity center; —provide a family-like structure for ease in transitioning from home to the program;

For the parents: —Make resources available for families in need; —offer monthly parent meetings on the topics of interest to our parents; —encourage parent involvement.

For more information, contact Kirkham at 665-0735.

It's music time at Community Day Care, a United Way agency, and Trav Corley, Allison Armendariz and Julian Arreola happily express their musical, noise-making abilities. Community support through United Way helps guarantee quality day care services for all who qualify.

Local VFW announces scholarship competition with patriotic theme

Students in grades nine through 12 may currently vie for scholarships through Veterans of Foreign Wars premier scholarship program. Since 1947, students have competed for more than $2.5 million in scholarships and awards, reports a press release from the local VFW.

Entitled "Voice of Democracy," students competing in the scholarship program must write and record a broadcast script on an annual patriotic theme. This year that theme is "Celebrating our Veterans' Service."

The top scholarship is $25,000. State winners receive a four-day trip to a "Spirit of America" youth conference at Valley Forge, Pa., in June. The conference will be sponsored by VFW and Freedoms Foundation.

All winners must begin at Post level. The local VFW post, Post 1657, will have information and brochures concerning the contest. The deadline to enter is Nov. 1. For more information, contact Danny Martin, local post commander, at 662-4367 or Nelda Martin, VFW Auxiliary president, at 662-4148.

Working with teens topic of seminar

CANYON — Working with teens will top the agenda when West Texas A&M University hosts the 2004 Janice Roberson Counseling Seminar, "Awareness, Resistance and Relational Healing: The Adolescent Journey to Freedom," from 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15 in the Alumni Banquet Facility on campus.

Bruce Robertson, director of psychotherapy at Peace River Community School in Arcadia, Fla., will be the featured presenter. He is a licensed mental health counselor and co-founder of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of North Texas. He will talk about working with teens in an alternative school setting, where the teacher and the counselor are one and the same.

The counseling seminar is targeted at anyone who works with teens. Dr. Laura McDuff, assistant professor of education and seminar organizer, said school counselors, teachers, social workers, ministers and others who deal with teens will benefit from the seminar.

The Janice Roberson Counseling Seminar is presented annually in honor of Dr. Janice Roberson for her many years of service to the counseling program at WTAMU. She retired from the University in January 2003.

The early registration deadline for the seminar is Friday, Oct. 8. Cost is $30 for students and $80 for community members. Registration is available the day of the event for an additional $10. For more information about the seminar and registration, call the WTAMU counselor education office at (806) 651-3623.

HEALTHBEAT: Doctors hoping souped-up adult pacemakers can buy time for tiny hearts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four-month-old Damaris Ochoa was near death, born with an enlarged heart that was quickly giving out. Obtaining a transplant in time was a long shot. Then Dr. Edward Rhee attached a souped-up adult pacemaker to her tiny heart, and six months later Damaris is thriving.

The Missouri tot is among the youngest of just a few dozen children to try an experiment in which doctors are adapting a new technology for adults' failing hearts to the special needs of their smallest patients.

It's too early to know how well the therapy, called cardiac resynchronization, will work. But so far, a handful of youngsters are doing so well they've been taken off the heart transplant waiting list, and the hope is that others improve enough to postpone that operation.

"At least in the short term, we can improve their symptoms and quality of life," predicts Rhee, the electrophysiology chief at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Cardiac resynchronizers, which hit the market three years ago, can dramatically help many adults with heart failure. Their hearts are weakened by age, a survived heart attack or some other disease, and get flabbier as they struggle to pump blood through the body.

Pacemakers are best known for speeding up a sluggish heartbeat. The resynchronizers are souped-up pacemakers that work differently — because in heart failure, the struggling heart beats too fast. Instead, three wires that deliver electricity are threaded deep into various parts of the heart to make the pumping chambers, called ventricles, move together in rhythm, thus increasing their power.

— Dr. Anne M. Dubin
Pediatric electrophysiologist

Children's heart failure has very different causes. Some are born with an enlarged heart or suffer a heart-damaging viral infection. Others are born with structurally abnormal hearts, and surgeries to correct those birth defects can hurt the heart's electrical system in ways that, years later, show up as weakened pumping action.

Implanting the pacemaker can be very different, too. Very young children's blood vessels are too small to thread the wires through, requiring open surgery to put the pacemaker "leads" on the outside of the heart instead of the inside. Some hearts are so small they can handle only one wire.

"We have to bend the rules a little bit and come up with new ways to use this very powerful technique," says Dr. Anne M. Dubin, a pediatric electrophysiologist at Stanford University Medical Center.

Dubin tracked about 60 cases of cardiac resynchronization performed in U.S. children at 16 hospitals, the first attempt to count. Rhee's hospital has performed 12 more.

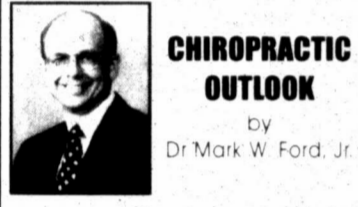

On average, resynchronization substantially improved the heart's pumping ability, called the ejection fraction, Dubin reported at a major heart meeting in May. Rhee reports a doubling of that crucial measure.

But about 15 percent of the child patients suffer complications at the time of the pacemaker implant, Dubin found, ranging from wires slipping out of place to infection, a stroke and a death.

"We really don't know who to do this in yet," she cautions. Still, "it's very exciting because there are so many possibilities."

Patients like Damaris Ochoa are fueling supporters' drive to improve study of the experimental option.

Her sponge-like newborn heart never properly hardened into smooth muscle, and by age 4 months Damaris had only 10 percent heart function.

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK

By Dr. Mark W. Ford, Jr.

CHIROPRACTORS ANNOUNCE NATIONAL SPINAL HEALTH MONTH

During National Spinal Health Month in October, Doctors of Chiropractic countrywide are emphasizing the importance of spinal integrity to achieve and maintain good health. The cumulative strain on the body from bad posture while walking and sitting as well as minor injuries can cause a lot of wear and tear on your spine. This may lead to spinal misalignments or what we call subluxations, nerve pressure, increased tendency towards muscle spasm and a loss of the normal range of joint motion.

If your body is continually aching and crying out for help, please call a Doctor of Chiropractic for an appointment. The chiropractor will give you a thorough examination and apply gentle, hands-on care where needed to restore neurological balance. The adjustments allow the natural flow of energy from the brain to the tissue cell via the nervous system.

As a primary care provider, the chiropractor will gladly consult with you about current as well as past health issues. Doctors of Chiropractic are concerned about your entire body's well-being, so it is important to cover your complete medical history. The chiropractor will look at the whole workings of the nervous system to ensure long-lasting spinal health.

Time for annual 'Buddy Walk'

AMARILLO — Panhandle Down Syndrome Guild is readying for its third annual Buddy Walk on Saturday, Oct. 9 at Amarillo's Sam Houston Park. The event will kick-off with registration at 9 a.m. followed by the actual walk at 10 a.m.

The Buddy Walk, according to organizers, is an advocacy walk/party held each October in observance of National Down Syndrome Awareness Month. Its primary goals are to celebrate the lives of people with Down Syndrome, promote acceptance and inclusion of people with Down Syndrome and raise funds for education, research and outreach programs to benefit people with Down Syndrome.

This year's special guest will be Chris Burke, the actor with Down Syndrome who played "Corky" on the TV series "Life Goes On." Burke will be accompanied by friends Joe and John DeMasi. They will entertain with songs and their own special message.

Participants will be treated to food, games, prizes, face painting, a rock climbing wall, a petting zoo and bouncers for children of all ages. Though free to the public, donations will be accepted during the walk.

Children's Art Project virtual Santa workshop

HOUSTON — The offices of the Children's Art Project at The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center are a hive of activity at this time of year. Santa's helpers are busy sorting, assembling and filling orders that will hopefully make wishes come true for boys and girls at M.D. Anderson Cancer Center.

For more than 30 years, the center reports, the Children's Art Project has featured the artwork of pediatric cancer patients on greeting cards and gifts to help fund programs at M.D. Anderson that help make life more normal for children with cancer. This almost $7 million dollar, year-round business has returned more than $18.5 million to fund patient-focused programs such as the in-hospital education program, the Child Life program, two summer camps, college scholarships, pediatric activities and more, the center says.

CAP builds on the talent of young patients at the cancer center, creating three different product lines each year.

This season, Santa's bag will be full — sterling silver jewelry, silk ties and scarves, tote bags, umbrellas and even list pads to help every Santa stay organized and on top of his game.

Seasonal cards sporting snowmen, wreaths, ornaments, holiday trees, angels, doves and even Santa himself come packaged ready to send to friends and family. From whimsical to religious, there are traditional greetings to suit every taste — and many of the designs are seen on other gift items in the product line.

New this year is an item that has been requested by customers for many years, the center says — gift wrap. A "Santa Angel" design flies over a blue background, and complementary stick-on gift labels are available. Also new this year is a photo card that is compatible for printing on a home computer.

'This year we are delighted to fund an exciting new rehabilitative therapy program called WAGS (Welcoming Animals to Give Support) in addition to the education, child life and many other programs CAP supports. The children who are treated here are able to have a more normal childhood because of these great programs.'

— Shannan Murray
Project executive director

Packaged flat, the card will feed smoothly through the printer, allowing the sender to print a photo or message on the card. A new "money" card design has slots to hold gift cards, checks or cash, and a Santa list pad with a magnetic backing comes complete with its own pencil.

Christopher Radko has again collaborated with CAP, producing three new ornaments, the "Ruffled Heart," "Santa Angel" and "Sarah's Angel." The "Gift Heart," "Cow Pig" and "Groovy Hearts" ornaments are still available for sale. These collector's items are painted inside with sterling silver to enhance their vibrant colors.

A special Radko signature tag is attached and the ornament is packaged in a signature box for safekeeping after the decorating season — although these ornaments are perfect to display all year long. The ornaments sell for $40.

"The Children's Art Project expands its product line and its purpose every year," said Shannan Murray, project executive director. "This year we are delighted to fund an exciting new rehabilitative therapy program called WAGS (Welcoming Animals to Give Support) in addition to the education, child life and many other programs CAP supports. ## Stanfield 'Enjoy the Ride' concert to benefit MDA

FARWELL — The Muscular Dystrophy Association will present Jana Stanfield in a benefit concert at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 at Farwell High School Auditorium in Farwell. The goal of the concert is to raise funds to help send area children with neuromuscular diseases to the annual MDA summer camp at Ceta Canyon outside Happy.

The current cost of sending one child to the camp for just one week is $600.

According to a press release from the association, Stanfield is known as the "Queen of Heavy Metal" and likens her music to "psychotherapy you can dance to."

A native of Clovis, N.M., Stanfield graduated from Eastern New Mexico University at Portales. She is returning to the Panhandle-area this fall for her third annual youth rally and concert sponsored by First Presbyterian Church in Portales.

Free workshops slated from 3-5 p.m. the 23rd will teach songwriting, drama, theater and arts/crafts to area youths.

The press release from the Amarillo Muscular Dystrophy Association said Stanfield is a triple platinum recording artist/songwriter whose song "If I Had Only Known" was recorded in the 1990s by Reba McEntire. Her songs have also been featured in the movie "Eight Seconds," on the "Oprah Winfrey Show" and on "Entertainment Tonight." Stanfield appeared on the Grand Ole Opry in 2000 after winning an "international popularity contest" and is a motivational speaker with engagements nationwide.

In addition, she has authored "The Musician's Guide to Making and Selling Your Own CDs and Cassettes."

Tickets to the concert are available for purchase at "Southwest Books & More in Portales," www.geocities.com/ayalamf/jana_concert.html and at Farwell High School.

Mother of twins enrolls in local 2CARE for Moms and Babies

By Judith Loyd
For The News

Alicia Caviness was only in her eighth week of pregnancy when it was discovered she would be having twins. Caviness had begun her prenatal care with the Women's Health Clinic in Pampa where she was enrolled in 2CARE for Moms, an incentive program for early, consistent, continuous pre-natal care for expectant moms.

When it was determined there would be two babies, Caviness' care was transferred to Dr. Scott Ellis who had recently established the Texas Plains Women's Center in Pampa. The staff at the center, she said, was most attentive throughout her term which helped her to adjust to the overwhelming idea of having two babies for whom to care.

Being enrolled in 2CARE for Moms helped Caviness remember to make all of her appointments and to pay special attention to the information she was given such as the importance of taking her pre-natal vitamins. The 2CARE program point-system also encouraged her to enroll in WIC early and to attend Lamaze classes.

"I made an extra effort to attend these classes with my card," Caviness said.

Since she was frightened of the labor and delivery process, attending the local childbirth education classes with certified childbirth educator Tanya Fraley was very reassuring, she said. When the great event arrived, the entire OB staff at Pampa Regional Medical Center and Dr. Nguyen, who attended her twins Kaylea and Kaiden, were so attentive and helpful that the delivery, she explained, was not at all the ordeal which she had dreaded.

Caviness said she felt the care, concern and assistance of the entire medical community in Pampa was wonderful.

Alicia Caviness with her mother, Anita Myers. Both Caviness and her mother are holding Caviness's twins, Kaylea and Kaiden.

"My postpartum care was excellent, and I was shown everything I needed to know to care for my babies."

Caviness, a single mom, lives on her own. It is her greatest wish, she said, to be successful as a mother and a responsible provider for her children. Born and reared in Pampa, she graduated from Pampa High School. She has given some thought, she said, to being a professional dog groomer. However, due to multiple sonograms taken during her pregnancy, she is now giving some consideration to becoming a qualified sonogram technician instead.

After her six-week postpartum visit to Dr. Ellis, Caviness brought her 2CARE for Moms gift card to the Baby's Coming Shop in Pampa where she then redeemed her accumulated points.

"The toys they (the babies) received," she said, "were really neat."

Both twins are now enrolled in 2CARE for Babies which helps parents understand the purpose and the value of well-child check-ups. The twins will soon be old enough to help mom redeem points upon completion of the program at 1-years-old.

Alicia encourages all expectant mothers "to go to the doctor early, to make all your appointments, and to get enrolled in 2CARE for Moms!"

photo cards, correspondence cards and contribution cards. Holiday stationery with matching envelopes is also available.

A new golf towel, a month-to-month calendar for 2005 and a new book, "Opposites," are part of the line - and T-shirts, sterling silver jewelry, tote bags, umbrellas, note cubes, note pads, wooden ornaments and much more are also included.

All of the products in the Holiday 2004 Collection are developed from the artwork of young patients at M.D. Anderson and all proceeds from their sale are returned to the cancer center.

Children's Art Project products are available at retail outlets throughout the country, on-line and through direct mail. For a free catalogue or to place an order, call 1-800-231-1580 or visit www.childrensart.org.

Pantex Project seeks area's needy families

The Pantex Christmas Project is currently seeking families to receive gifts of toys, food and clothing during the upcoming holiday season.

Each year, employees volunteer to serve on the Pantex Christmas Project Committee to provide toys and gifts for families in need during the holidays. The committee accepts referrals, reviews applications and selects the receiving families based upon need.

"Many people know of someone who will be unable to provide Christmas for his or her children this year. The Christmas Project can reach these people to help them have a merry Christmas," said Lenet Hernandez, project chair.

Individuals can notify Pantex Christmas Project of families in need by completing a referral form. The referral forms are available at the offices of Tylor Street Resource Center, United Way, both in Amarillo, or any branch of the Amarillo Public Library.

The forms may also be obtained by calling (806) 477-5533 and leaving a message requesting the referral form. Callers must leave their name, address and telephone number.

Individuals may make application for their family or on behalf of another family. Completed applications must be mailed or faxed to the attention of the Pantex Christmas Project no later than Oct. 11. The fax number and mailing address is: (806) 477-5790, Pantex Christmas Project, Building 12-11b, P.O. Box 30020, Amarillo, TX 79120-0020.

Harvesters Homecoming effort comes up short

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

The Pampa Harvester Homecoming game against Plainview started off well, but ended in a 32-21 loss. Coach Heath Parker and his staff, as well as the large crowd of Green and Gold faithful were treated to a great effort by the hometown team.

Despite the loss, Pampa served notice that it is a team to take seriously in District 3-4A.

In the game, Mark Williams got his first touchdown of the season: Q.B. Cobb caught an amazing 45-yard pass from quarterback Tyler Doughty. Seth Foster, Cam Seger and Clayton Hall chipped in solid offensive performances as well.

On defense, Cobb along with James Coffee, Tyrel Bolin, Michael Pergeson, Jacob Potter and Jared Wingart were all around the ball all night long. The entire Harvester defense stood its ground throughout most of the night.

Key Plays in the game included two fumble recoveries, the 45-yard Doughty to Cobb pass and a couple of quarterback sacks. Coffee had a huge fumble recovery in the second quarter. The defense stood strong early in the same quarter holding Plainview to a field goal from the Pampa 3-yard line.

The Harvester fall to 2-3 overall, 0-0 in District 3-4A. Pampa starts district play this Friday at home against Randall.

For more, see the Homecoming special on page 12.

Cam Seger, #1, turns the corner during a run while a Bulldog defender gets upended.

Nemecheck win pole; Gordon leads contenders

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Joe Nemecheck wasn't surprised to be back at the front of the field, just that it took so long to get there.

Nemecheck, who earned the nickname "Front Row Joe" when he won six poles from 1997-00, got No. 7 on Friday in qualifying for the EA Sports 500 at Talladega Superspeedway, the track where his last pole came four years ago.

"We've been right on top of our game," Nemecheck said. "You know, it's about the car in qualifying. The car has got to be right and the engine has got to be right."

"When the race comes, that's when the driver makes a difference."

After getting his No. 01 Chevrolet around the steeply banked 2.66-mile oval at 190.749 mph, Nemecheck shook his head when reminded his last pole came at the track on Oct. 13, 2000, 133 races ago.

"That's a long time," Nemecheck said. "They're just so hard to get. The competition's so tough. But we've been so close this year, doing a good job. We've had two outside poles and I felt like this was close."

Ricky Rudd was second in a Ford at 190.609, followed by Dale Jarrett's Taurus at 190.374 and Scott Riggs, Nemecheck's MBV/MB2 Motorsports teammate, at 190.310.

The rest of the top 10 was made up of drivers who are part of NASCAR's new 10-driver, 10-race playoff-style championship.

Suzuki sets MLB record for hits in a season

SEATTLE (AP) — No. 258 for Ichiro Suzuki was like so many others, a little ground ball up the middle.

Only this one made history — a hit cheered 'round the world.

Suzuki set the major league record for hits in a season Friday night, breaking George Sisler's 84-year-old mark with a pair of early singles as the Seattle Mariners beat the Texas Rangers 8-3.

"Through my career, I think this is the best moment," Suzuki said through an interpreter. "I can't really put it into words."

Suzuki later got another hit, giving him 259 this season and a major league-leading .373 average.

Suzuki chopped a leadoff single in the first inning, then put himself in the record book with a bouncer in the third.

Fireworks exploded after Suzuki's big hit reached the outfield, creating a haze over Safeco Field, and his teammates mobbed him at first base.

With fans still cheering, Suzuki ran to the first-base seats and shook hands with Sisler's 81-year-old daughter, Frances Sisler Drochelman, and other members of the Hall of Famer's family.

"My father would have been delighted," Drochelman said later. "He would be so happy to know such a fine young man was doing so well."

Across the Pacific, fans in downtown Tokyo watched Suzuki in sports bars and on big-screen monitors.

"Baseball is America's sport, so for a Japanese player to go over there and break that record is truly amazing," office worker Shigeru Uchida said. "I think Ichiro has changed the way people look at the game. He's shown that it's not just about power and there's a lot of skill and technique involved."

"Through my career, I think this is the best moment. I can't really put it into words."

— Ichiro Suzuki
Seattle Mariners

Fans booed when plate umpire Joe West called a rare third strike on Suzuki in the eighth. Reliever Michael Tejera got the strikeout.

But fans were back on their feet when Suzuki left for substitute Hiram Bocachica with two outs in the ninth. Mariners manager Bob Melvin made the move to let Suzuki get one more ovation, and the right fielder jogged in to cheer.

Sisler set the hits record in 1920 with the St. Louis Browns over a 154-game schedule. Suzuki broke it in the Mariners' 160th game of the year.

Seattle lefty Ron Villone (8-6) pitched five solid innings to earn his second victory as a starter this season. He allowed two runs on two hits, striking out five and walking three.

Houston Astros double-up Rockies, 4-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Jeff Bagwell hit a two-run homer and the Houston Astros overcame a sloppy start, remaining atop the NL wild-card standings with a 4-2 victory over the Colorado Rockies on Friday night.
 The Astros entered the game tied with San Francisco, which opened a three-game series against the NL West-leading Los Angeles Dodgers later Friday. Houston, which has won a club-record 16 straight at home, moved two games ahead of the Chicago Cubs, who've lost four straight and six of seven.
 Mike Gallo (2-0) earned the win by getting the last out of the third inning, and Brad Lidge got three outs for his 28th save. They were two of seven pitchers to hold off the Rockies for Houston's seventh win in eight games, and 11th in 14.

The Astros are trying to avoid a repeat of last season, when they needed to win three of their final four games against last-place Milwaukee to force a division tiebreaker with the Cubs. The Astros went 2-2 against the Brewers, allowing Chicago to capture the NL Central title.
 This year, Chicago is bolstering the Astros' playoff hopes with a late-season swoon.
 Joe Kennedy (9-7) was denied a chance at a career high-tying fourth straight victory, allowing four runs on eight hits in eight innings.
 Notes: Helton extended his hitting streak to 11 games. ... The Astros have drawn 3,001,511 fans through 80 games this season, surpassing the 3 million mark for the second time in club history. The first time came in 2000, the Astros' first season at Minute Maid Park.

Pampa puts up fight, falls to Plainview

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

It isn't often a coach can gather his or her team at the end of a game and congratulate them. Too often the performance is judged by points posted or wins vs. losses. On Friday night, the Pampa Harvester coaching staff should have gathered its team and congratulated them on the effort put forth against the Plainview Bulldogs.

Plainview is big and physical. It boasted a line that opened holes for fullback Jamar Wall. The later the game went, it seemed the bigger the holes got. The 5'11", 185-pound junior has 4.62 speed and showed it throughout the game. However, the yards didn't come easy for Wall and his offense.

For the first quarter and a half, both teams appeared to struggle with each other as well as the elements early on as the wind blew and the temperatures fell. Both teams struggled a bit on offense. Plainview was able to move the ball at times. But the combination of Harvester defense and penalty flags stopped them. Pampa faced a fourth-and-two at its own 13-yard line late in the first and opted for one of Tyler Doughty's quick kicks which had been effective in the Borger game. In this instance though, it gave Plainview a short field to work with. The Bulldogs wasted little time, with Hall running the ball in from 30 yards out for the game's first score. The extra point was good and with 3:47 to play in the first quarter, Plainview had a 7-0 lead.

The rest of the quarter turned into a defensive show of force. Again, Plainview able to move at times but the Pampa defense was there to shut them down. The Bulldogs faced a first-and-twenty with under three minutes to play in the first following a holding penalty at its own 47 when Tyrel Bolin and Seth Foster sacked the quarterback for a huge loss. Plainview next completed a long pass that was called back on another holding call and was forced to punt.

Plainview scored again with 8:01 to play in the first half after gaining good field position following a Pampa punt. The Bulldogs worked the ball down to the Pampa 3-yard from near mid-field where the Harvester defense held them to a field goal.

Following the Bulldog kick-off, Pampa came to life. On first-and-ten from his own 27-yard line, Doughty completed a pass to Clayton Hall for a solid gain. He then hit Q.B. Cobb who got behind his defender to grab a 45-yard pass from Doughty. Later, a short pass from Doughty to Seth Foster would get Pampa on the board. Foster's extra point was good and Pampa now cut the Plainview lead to 10-7.

The Harvester would add another quick touchdown after James Coffee recovered a Bulldog fumble at the Plainview 13-yard line with less than six minutes to play in the first half. Doughty tried to hit Foster streaking for the corner of the end zone but the ball fell incomplete. A pass interference penalty against the Bulldogs however, moved the ball to the 3-yard line. Q.B. Cobb ran it in from there, and with Foster's extra point, Pampa now led, 14-10.

In the third quarter, Plainview and Jamar Hall began showing signs that they were capable of chewing up yards in big chunks and in a hurry. Still, the Pampa defense held, despite giving up yardage along the way.

With 6:58 to play in the third quarter, Pampa with the ball first-and-ten near the middle of the field, the Plainview band got into the action. Each time Doughty brought his team up to the line, the Bulldog band began to play a tune, featuring a deafening horn section. This happened a few times until Pampa moved the ball a little closer to the goal line. Finally, from 3-yards out, Mark Williams moved the ball through the gut of the Bulldog defense for his first touchdown of the season. Foster's extra point was good and with 3:11 to play in the third quarter, the Harvester led, 21-10. Plainview would notch another touchdown and two point conversion later in the quarter to cut Pampa's lead to 21-18.

The start of the fourth quarter was tough for Doughty and his Harvester. A couple of sacks and a bad snap from center left Pampa at one point with a fourth down and 38-yards for a first. Wall improved on what were already impressive rushing numbers and by the time the game ended, Plainview claimed a 32-21 win.

If you were to base your opinion solely on the score, or even the final numbers, Pampa got beat. If you were to assess this game based on performance, Pampa proved it will be a team to contend with when District 3-4A play begins next week. There simply is no substitute for speed and natural ability. The Jamar Walls of the world are going to get their yards nine times out of ten. At the same time, you must be able to play all four quarters of the game. If the Harvester can condition themselves to be as strong at the end of the game as they are at the beginning, and keep their emotions in check, things will be very interesting in District 3-4A. And it starts next week when Randall comes to town.

Watch maker always behind

Panhandle man practicing dying art

Maxie Lisman, a former educator, now spends his spare time tinkering with timepieces.

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

PANHANDLE — Maxie Lisman has a lot of time on his hands, but most of it is broken. Lisman makes and repairs watches.

"I'm probably the only watchmaker around this part of the country," Lisman says. "I get as much work as I can possibly take care of."

As he sits at his home workshop here, he clips his loop onto his wire-framed glasses. He's had the loop, the small magnifying lenses that he peers through to see the minute workings of the watches and clocks, since 1957.

Lisman, who is also involved in a local historical re-enactment group, the Frontier Regiment of the High Plains, Fourth Cavalry, said spectators ask him at different re-enactment events if the glasses are part of his role.

"A lot of people ask me, 'Are those cavalry issue?'" Lisman says. "No, they're not. They're from the 1970s. These are my old hippie days glasses."

Lisman comes by his talents honestly. His grandfather, Phillip Clayton Lisman, and his father, Elbert Clayton Lisman, were watchmakers. They were also cowboys and Army veterans.

His grandfather rode with the Sixty Cavalry in Kansas in the late 1880s. His father fought in World War I.

Lisman served in Korea and Vietnam before settling down in Panhandle to teach school. He retired in 2000 as a math and science teacher here.

Since then, his avocation of watch making has become a full-time occupation.

Born near Twitty, north of Shamrock, Lisman grew up in McLean watching his father, who worked for the Rock Island Railroad as a watchmaker, working meticulously away, cleaning and repairing watches.

By the time he'd graduated from high school, Lisman had joined his father on the Rock Island Line.

"I'd already started working for the Rock," Lisman says. "They sent me to watch school when I was 17."

The school was in Elgin, Ill. "I work on clocks, too," Lisman said. "They taught us to work on everything."

Now that he's retired, he said he has the time to spend on his other interests, including watch making.

With the exception of the Swiss, few people make nice watches anymore, he lamented.

"It's a good thing I get a stipend from the State of Texas or I wouldn't be able to stay a watchmaker. I'd have to do something else."

His interests extend well beyond watch making though. From the top shelf around his home workshop here hangs a collection of old spurs.

In the midst of his spur and arrowhead collections, Lisman works intently on a gold pocket watch.

"We're working on one from about 1770 right now," Lisman says. "Whether we finish it depends upon whether the people have enough money."

He says he often ends up making the parts needed to repair many old watches.

"The crystal for this watch," he says of the 1770 pocket watch, "is going to cost me $80. It's a high crystal, about an inch and a quarter. It's a rounded crystal."

With a twinkle in his eye and mischievous grin beneath his large white mustache, he waxes eloquently about the watches that he's repaired.

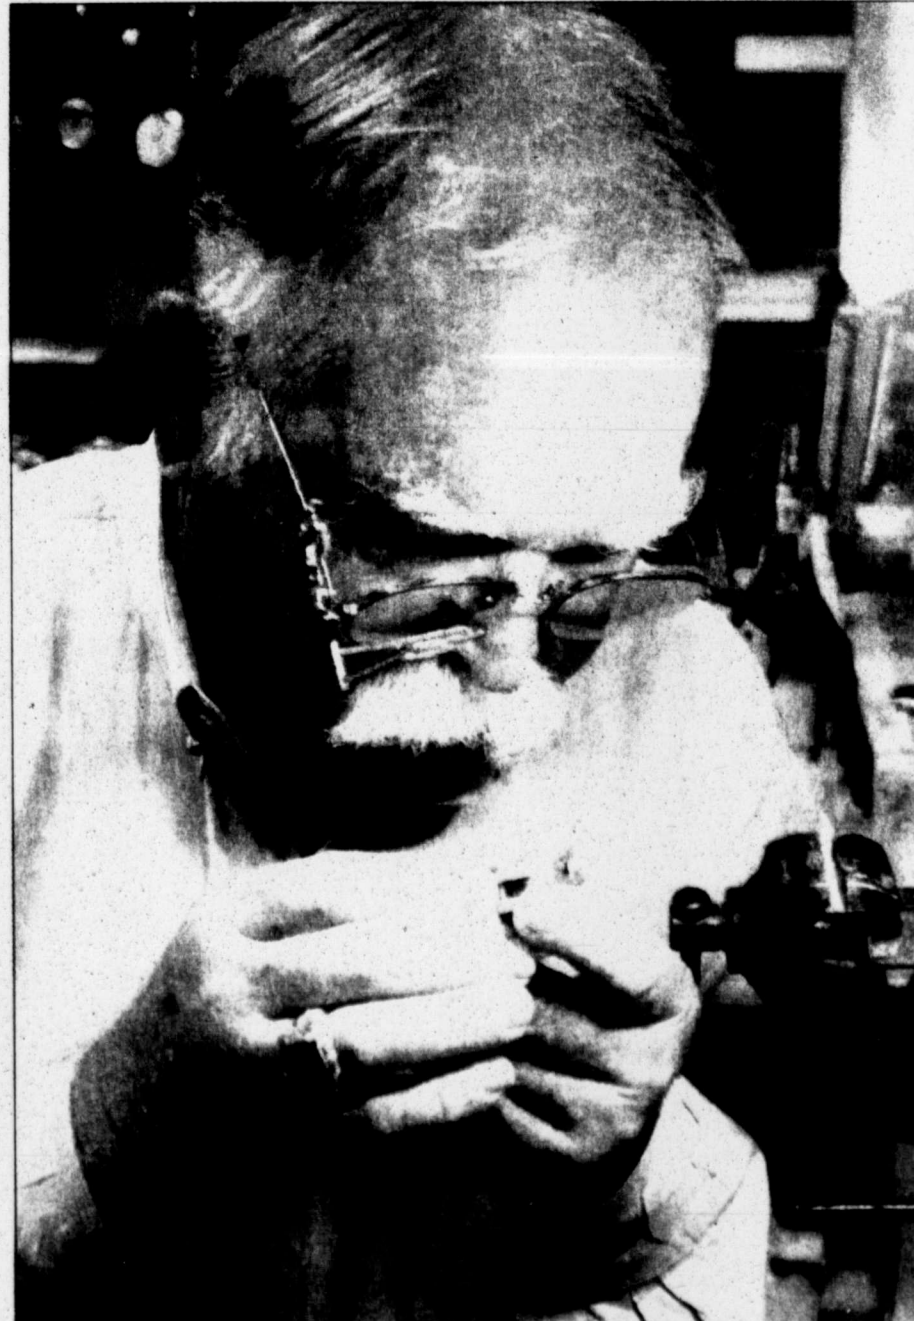

An old rancher south of Claude brought him a multicolored gold pocket watch once with a hunting case.

"It had been in the cow lot for over 50 years," Lisman said. "It

MIDLAND — Lieutenant Colonel John Wallace Fields of Shamrock was among eight American World War II veterans and one combat unit inducted into the Commemorative Air Force's American Combat Airman Hall of Fame Friday at Midland Center in Midland.

The Hall of Fame was established in 1997. Each year the induction ceremony, and its accompanying reception and dinner, precedes the CAF's annual airshow.

A biographical exhibit of each inductee will be located in the American Airpower Heritage Museum until construction is complete on an American Combat Airman Hall of Fame Center, where the exhibits will be permanently housed.

The following quote was provided by the Combat Airman Hall of Fame:

"The battleships were still smoking in Pearl Harbor when Fields arrived in Hawaii on Dec. 16, 1941, in a new B-17E. Assigned to the 435th Armed Reconnaissance Squadron, Fields received the Distinguished Flying Cross for action against a Japanese cruiser and again for the evacuation of Philippine President Manuel Quezon. Fields participated in the Battle of the Coral Sea bombing troop transports and against Japanese targets at Rabaul and the Solomon Islands. After flying a total of 51 combat missions against the Japanese, Fields served as director of operations at Lincoln, Nebraska, and Topeka, Kansas. Discharged in 1945 as a Major, he was recalled to active duty as a Lt. Colonel in 1951 during the Korean War, serving in England as Deputy Base Commander at RAF Mildenhall."

FORT WORTH — The University of North Texas Health Science Center faculty formally welcomed new enrollees to each of its three colleges at a "Convocation and White Coat Ceremony" held recently at Will Rogers Auditorium.

The ceremony included 131 incoming students from the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, 92 new students from the School of Public Health, 89 incoming students from the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences and 28 new students from the Physician Assistant Studies Program.

Among the incoming students welcomed into the School of Public Health was Jose Moreno of Pampa.

Pampa High School Principal Evan Smith recently announced that Stacy Pepper, a senior at PHS, has been named a Commended Student in the 2005 National Merit® Scholarship Program.

A letter of commendation from the school and from National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the entity that conducts the program, will be presented to Pepper.

About 34,000 Commended Students throughout the nation, a press release from NMSC said, are being recognized for outstanding academic achievement.

Although the Commended Students are not eligible for the 2005 Merit Scholarship awards competition, these students placed among the top 5 percent of more than 1 million students who entered the 2005 competition by taking the 2003 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

"The young men and women named Commended Students in the 2005 National Merit Program have exhibited an outstanding academic performance for which they are being honored," said a spokesperson for NMSC. "We hope that the recognition received by these scholastically talented students will encourage them to take advantage of opportunities for the continued pursuit of excellence. The nation will benefit from the full development of this valuable intellectual resource."

was kind of distorted and, of course, the movement was rusty as heck, but I found another movement close to the same number. I undistorted the case because it was gold and put it back together."

Unfortunately, the rancher's house was broken into about a year later and the watch was stolen.

"I was real proud of that watch," Lisman says.

Lisman fixed another watch for a friend.

"His grandfather was gored by a bull and killed," Lisman says. "There was one big dent in this pocket watch. The movement was destroyed. He told me to push the dent out and put another movement in it, but don't push the dent out too far."

Last year, another man brought him a pocket watch that had a big crease across it, Lisman said.

"He said his granddaddy had dropped that watch and a buggy ran over it," he says.

The man wanted the watch repaired, but he didn't want Lisman to take the crease out.

"I had to move some of it," Lisman says, shaking his head.

Lisman has a mallet and hardwood dowel that he uses to straighten out dents and creases. He also has a couple of small anvils on his workbench. Opening up an 1899 Elgin pocket watch, he said his major tool is a small penknife.

"My watch opener is a knife, but it's beveled on one side and flat on the other," Lisman says.

Although he claims he can't make a living at it, Lisman said he usually gets 40 to 50 watches a month for repair.

"I can repair about 40," he says. "I'm always behind."

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Sherman," and I sleep together. Recently I have noticed that he constantly moves his legs and feet. He does this even after he falls asleep. I have lost a lot of sleep during the last few weeks because of his constant leg movements.

I approached Sherman this morning and asked him to go to the doctor and get something for this. He became defensive and refused. I told him if he isn't willing to go with me to the doctor, I'd have to sleep in another bed because I need my rest. I'm also afraid Sherman isn't getting the rest he needs, even though he may not realize it.

I feel if my husband respects me and cares about my feelings, he should be willing to go. Who is right?

— SLEEPLESS IN BURLINGTON, WASH.

DEAR SLEEPLESS: You are, of course, and your husband is acting like a baby. Since the symptoms are new, he should be examined by a doctor. Your husband may have a condition known as Restless Legs Syndrome (RLS). (An estimated 10 percent of the population has it, and information about it can be found at the Web site of the National Restless Legs Foundation, www.rls.org.) But first, since the patient who diagnoses himself has a fool for a doctor, make sure he consults a physician.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works at a busy airport for an elevator company. Among his varied duties, he must file a report on all elevator and escalator accidents. A few simple rules would eliminate the vast majority of accidents. It would be a great public service if you would print these safety tips in your column. — DELIGHT J. WINTERHAVEN, FLA.

DEAR DELIGHT: I'm "delighted" to spread the word. — Step on and off elevators and escalators carefully.

-- Do not use your hand to stop an elevator door from closing.

-- If the elevator doors won't open, remain calm, ring the alarm button and wait.

-- Hold the handrails on escalators at all times.

-- Stand facing forward on escalators.

And now I'll add two tips of my own: Do not run "up" the "down" escalators, and if you are wearing long garments, make sure when stepping off that your clothing does not become caught in the mechanism.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was dating an attorney I'll call Clarence. They supposedly split up a few months ago. Over the last few weeks, correspondence from a local car dealer addressed to Clarence has been sent to my house.

My daughter called me all flustered about a week after the first piece of mail was delivered and asked if "something in his name" had arrived. She then explained that Clarence had bought a car and had it titled to my address "because taxes would be cheaper."

Now I'm getting other mail in his name. Isn't this some sort of invasion of privacy, a form of harassment or fraud? I don't have a lot of respect for this guy. I'm not sure how to handle this situation, nor do I know how to stop what Clarence is doing.

FRUSTRATED IN MENTOR, OHIO

DEAR FRUSTRATED: What Clarence is doing is called fraud -- and you can stop it by simply writing, "Does not reside at this address" on the envelope and returning it to your postal worker. If that doesn't do the trick, notify the Postal Inspection Service.

Texas farm operators selected to participate in this year's survey will soon be notified by letter, and interviewers will visit participants at their convenience to collect the data.

ARMS is one example of how the USDA and producers work together to provide meaningful, accurate and objective statistical information that makes U.S. agriculture and rural communities among the most robust in the world.

The USDA uses results of the ARMS data when publishing information on agricultural chemical usage and analyzing commodity production income and costs in a series of reports in 2005.

Horoscope for Sunday, October 3, 2004

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Oct. 3, 2004:

You have a tendency to be overly sensitive and critical of yourself. You can choose to change this characteristic by refusing to respond to your knee-jerk reactions and detaching a bit. Travel and education will reinforce a better self-image. Do be careful with people you meet, as they could easily pull the wool over your eyes. You want to think only the best of everyone. Use your imagination and creativity to increase your potential, both emotionally and professionally. If you are attached, partnerships can be challenging, as you could get into power struggles. If you are single, once more, tread with care, as someone might not be all you would like him or her to be or think he or she is. You do have the potential of meeting someone special. GEMINI opens doors.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

***** Make Sunday calls and reach out for others. Catch up on news. Visit with those you normally don't. A friend makes a suggestion involving theater, music or being around water. Take it. Tonight: Hang out as long as you want.

This Week: Plan on maintaining a low profile. If you can, work from home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

*** Think of ways to increase your income. You'll come up with some interesting ideas. Others admire your creativity. Do expect to work hard though. A boss or authority figure might be happy to help you with a promotion, overtime, bonus or pay raise. Tonight: Brainstorm with someone who knows you and is equally creative.

This Week: Making money charges you with renewed energy. Express your ideas, but don't expect everyone to agree!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

***** Energizing others to join in might be more of an effort than you realize, but most worthwhile for everyone involved. Consider a change-on the home front that will add to your happiness in the next few weeks. Tonight: Whatever puts a smile on your face.

This Week: Use Monday and Friday for positive, strong actions. Check financial commitments midweek.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Schedule an intimate day with a loved one, family member or just the cat! You need some downtime more than you realize. Carefully consider a purchase in the next few weeks. Choose your words with care. Tonight: Share quietly with a loved one.

This Week: The moody Crab lives up to its reputation. You go from low to high to mediocre and repeat the cycle again and again.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

***** Do exactly what you want. Much of what is on your mind keeps you close to home. Catch up on family news and be willing to indulge others in a unique manner. In fact, give even more of yourself. Tonight: Out and about with friends.

This Week: Push yourself on Monday and Friday. Feel free to maintain a very low profile otherwise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

***** You might not feel up for a must appearance, yet you seem to make quite an impression when you show up on the scene. You might assume more responsibility than you had originally anticipated, but in the long run, your finances will benefit. Tonight: Visit with an older relative.

This Week: Push easily could come to shove. Be careful from Thursday on, as something could backfire.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

***** Experiment and stay open to different ideas, styles and cultures. Sometimes the mainstream might be far too conservative, and not willing to venture into unknown turf. Use care with a person you meet today or in the near future. Tonight: Listen to music. This Week: Prepare to assume the reins of command. You might feel as if you are on a bucking horse for a good part of the week.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

***** You get what you want once more because of your ability to relate. You have a way of making someone feel as if he or she is the most important person in your world. Use your people skills in the next few weeks even more often. Tonight: With a special person.

This Week: Deal with others and gain more insight and information. Take a stand on Thursday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

***** Others seek you out. You could find yourself walking in a day-dream or living out a very special moment. Someone around you might pay you a compliment that has you smiling for quite a while. This person means what he or she says. Tonight: Don't count on it being an early night.

This Week: Work with others. In fact, keep your opinions to yourself - if you can!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

***** You might have a project in mind. Some might decide to get a head start on the workweek, whereas others might find researching a trip or heading out to the movies an excellent choice. Understand another by walking in his or her shoes. Tonight: Early to bed.

This Week: Swing with the moment. Let others lay their cards on the table first. Use Thursday on for debate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

***** Your playfulness attracts many. A good time is had by all, especially you. In fact, you could be delighted by the warmth someone expresses. A key person might want much more attention. Why not? Tonight: Add sizzle to the night.

This Week: Funnel creativity into work. By Thursday, you want out of the office. Network. Socialize.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*** Stay close to home if you wish, but don't be surprised by the many calls or knocks on your door. Your popularity soars. Everyone seems most indulgent. Follow your intuition, and you could be delighted. Work together as a team. Tonight: Go for cozy.

This Week: You get ideas left and right. Timing, my dear Fish, is everything. Use your finely tuned intuition.

Horoscope for Monday, October 4, 2004
HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Oct. 4, 2004: Avoid power plays at all costs this year. You might learn to phrase your opinions and thoughts in a more objective manner. Work on understanding others and giving them what they need. As a result, your relationships will improve in all sectors of your life. A sibling or a neighbor might be troublesome or need help. Decide how involved you want to become. "Travel, education and detachment" needs to become your mantra. If you're buying a computer, car or any item that will impact your communication, you have a strong chance of buying a lemon. Your natural personality attracts many people. Be open. If you are single, someone quite different will enter your life. If you are attached, plan on that special trip together. Take a workshop together in communicating. GEMINI opens doors.
 The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic, 4-Positive, 3-Average, 2-So-so, 1-Difficult
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ***** Look past the obvious and toss black-and-white thinking to the wind. Make an effort to reach out to others. Your words, ideas and smile mean a lot more than you realize. Tonight: Visit with a friend.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 *** Be very careful when dealing with partners, friends and associates; you have strong ties with. Perhaps you feel there is a need for change. How you present that concept could make a big difference in the reactions you receive. Tonight: Pay bills.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ***** You smile, and others come toward you. Observe how your creatity, intelligence and charm blend into an unbeatable combination. Out of the blue, someone could do a reversal or let you down. Tonight: Count on yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ** Take your time with others. You might not be ready for a full workday. You might honor those feelings and take a personal day. You flourish in your own company. Others test your patience. Cocoon if necessary. Tonight: At home.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ***** Through meetings, networking and associates, you manifest more of your ideas. Be willing to give up a stake in how you think things should unravel. Look to the end results. Friends play an enormous role. Tonight: So what if it is Monday?
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 *** Pressure builds within the work arena. You also might be looking at changing something in your personal life that irks you. Proceed with care, as tempers rage right now. Meet demands, but make changes another day. Tonight: Work as late as need be.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ***** You would be well-advised to take an overview rather than trigger. You might want to talk about a difficult issue or revamp plans. Right now, go with the status quo. Avoid gossip and deal only with the facts. Tonight: Do needed research.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ***** Financial matters could be testing your endurance. You really might need to revamp your budget. Others might want more of you than you are prepared to give. Discussions are important, but they might need to happen again. Tonight: Chat

Sailor collection possibly one of finest in Southwest

(This article updates Museum Mementos #59, written in 1993 by Eloise Lane. Lane gave her permission for this article.)

On Feb. 28, 1906, T.D. Hobart, manager of the White Deer Land Company, wrote to O.E. Sailor, Prohibition, Mo.:

Taylor on Dec. 22, 1918. At the age of 23, Phoebe died of complications after the birth of their son, Warren. A casualty of World War II, Warren also died at the age of 23 while he was serving in the Naval Air Corps.

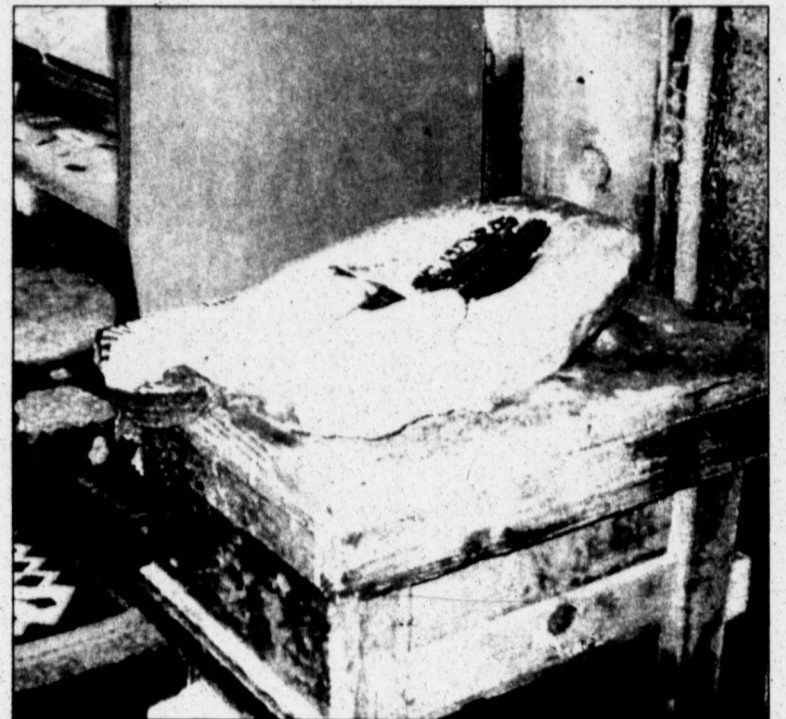

In 1923, Rolla married Mabel Hukill, and they were the parents of Irene Sailor Shearer and Rolla J. Sailor, Jr. R.J. Jr. and Elice now reside on their farm in Carson County.

At the age of 86, Rolla J. Sailor, Sr., died on Aug. 19, 1977, and was buried in the family plot in Fairview Cemetery.

As a boy in Missouri, Rolla Sr. began his hobby of collecting Indian relics. After his retirement from

The case at the bottom contains such Indian artifacts as a bone scrapper.

Part of the Sailor collection at White Deer Land Museum, the relic above is called a grinding stone.

"In making this sale to you, it is with the distinct understanding that you will occupy and improve the above described land within eight months from date hereof. It is also agreed that you will fence of not less than three strands of barbwire before being allowed to turn loose livestock of any kind

Brown was fulfilled with the placing of the arrowhead

Before that time, all points were actually spear points or dart points. The spear was hand held and was thrust and the dart was thrown with the aid of a throwing stick.

Only the smaller points — up to one or 1 1/2 inches in length — are arrowheads. The medium size points are dart points and the larger points are spear points.

Several frames of smaller arrowheads, mostly from Gray Co., hang on the north wall on the second floor of the museum.

There are several strange shaped objects — hide scrapers, knives and awls — in a glass case. Water and game could nearly always be found on the McClellan Creek, so the remains of many camps were found there.

Many of these relics came from the Salt Fork of the Red River in the 1930s.

In 1996, an archeologist from Panhandle and one from Austin came to see this collection. They suggested that it be moved to the second floor and that the oldest and most unique points and arrowheads be separated from the rest.

The larger cases hold axes, a small mortar and pestle used for grinding seeds, beads and many prehistoric tools. One case also contains some rare, sought-after points such as the Folsom and the Yuma.

Mr. Sailor told Mrs. Clotilde Thompson, museum curator in 1971, that the Folsom point was believed to be over 10,000-years-old, and that it was found on a Pampa ranch many years ago.

Both archeologists thought the collection was outstanding.

Mr. Sailor had a large frame of Army artifacts from Fort Elliott, so, with the use of a grant from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., the museum built two more shadow boxes that continue the story of Fort Elliott and hold pieces of Indian art.

The case shows effigy pipes, shards and decorative Indian pottery. These cases are in the gallery of the museum.

The White Deer Land Museum invites you to see these artifacts. The museum is open every Tuesday through Sunday from 1 until 4 p.m. at 112 S. Cuyler in Pampa.

The museum is very grateful to the R.J. Sailor, Jr., family of White Deer for allowing us to have this wonderful addition to the museum.

"It is also further agreed that a strip of land thirty feet in width off the west and south lines for said land is to be reserved for a public road by the Grantors."

Later that year, Oscar Sailor with his widowed mother and two younger brothers moved to Pampa. For the move, they used three immigrant railroad cars — one for livestock, one for household goods and one for implements and supplies. They settled on a farm southeast of Pampa.

Rolla, one of Oscar's younger brothers, was about 15-years-old when he came to Pampa.

In 1911, Rolla had a short career as a chauffeur for Dr. Walter Purviance, who was then in the real estate business. Rolla met the Fort Worth and Denver trains at Clarendon and drove prospective settlers to Pampa to view land for sale.

Rolla's 1911 Overland, one of the few automobiles in Pampa at that time, offered a much quicker journey for potential buyers than a horse and buggy. The visitors were always shocked at the barren spaces and wide open country of the Panhandle.

In 1914, Rolla purchased a farm one-mile west of Pampa and lived there until his retirement in the mid-1930s. He married Phoebe farm, this hobby became a full-time occupation. He searched actively for arrowheads and artifacts in Oregon, Wyoming, Missouri and Texas. Fort Elliott near Mobeetie was an excellent source for many of his artistically designed displays.

Many of the artifacts are dart points or spear points and not arrowheads at all.

The bow did not come into use in America until sometime between the time of Christ and AD 500.

Rolla Sailor Sr. worked for Dr. Walter Purviance as a chauffeur for a time in the early 1900s.
