El Paso County District Attorney Jaime Esparza and the Innocence Project at the Benjamin Cardozo School of Law planned to request Brandon Lee Moon's release in a hearing Tuesday.

"I would like to convey my apologies to Mr. Moon on behalf of the state of Texas and acknowledge that an apology at this time is inadequate, but that my office and the state of Texas, in the interest of truth, recognize the injustice Mr. Moon has suffered," said Esparza, who was not district attorney at the time Moon was convicted in 1988.

The prosecutor said he expected Moon to be freed after the hearing, when he was likely will back the motion to free the former University of Texas at El Paso student, who has been serving a 75-year sentence. The motion was based on recent DNA tests by the Texas Department of Public Safety, which defense attorneys and Esparza say prove that Moon did not commit the April 1987 aggravated sexual assault.

Great year for beef

LUBBOCK (AP) Consumers continued to scarf up steaks and burgers in 2004 even in the aftermath of the country's firstever mad cow case and Texas beef producers weathered temporary price drops at auctions and commodity markets.

"This has been a humdinger of a year considering we started out with the announcement of a (mad cow) case that certainly set the markets on a rollercoaster and one that had breathtaking drops for a bit," said Matt Brockman, spokesman for the Fort Worth-based Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

The attack occurred a day President after Bush acknowledged that a wave of deadly attacks has raised questions among Americans about whether Iraqis will one day be able to take over from U.S. forces.

Government should butt out of Christmas

Once again, it has at times seemed like a scene from the days of the Roman emperor Caligula, who ruled the Empire shortly after Jesus' crucifixion. Christians were sometimes put to death in those days, and at the least, they faced suppression, suspicion and slander.

Nothing much has changed, except for the lack of Christian-eating lions.

I have been following stories concerning uproars over holiday displays and activities which either imply or blatantly express Christianity. I have decided that we have gotten older, but not necessarily wiser.

Christmas is almost here. church and state is a good thing. None of us wants our government to dictate where and how we do or don't practice religion, if any.

I think it should go one step further, however. I believe the authors of the Constitution meant exactly what they said concerning passing no law respecting religion. In this case, "respecting" means "concerning."

I believe government should butt out and stay out of any religion's holiday and other observances, as long as they do not infringe on anyone else's life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

For example, I heard that, I think the separation of in Florida, county officials banned the display of eral court, where a judge Christmas trees from public property and buildings, and had had all of them removed by last week. The county attorney reversed the officials' decision. The Marilyn attorney said the Powers Supreme Staff Writer Court had never said Christmas trees were religious symbols. Also in Florida, a resident of one town offered to donate a Christmas Nativity scene to put alongside a public Hanukkah display. Town officials turned her down, and she took the issue to fedappear to be restricting free-agreed with her. Is it just me, or is there something wrong with these two situations? Why are those governmental bodies namely, religious symbols? And why was a symbol of one religion okay for public exposure, while a symbol of another religion was taboo? Government officials aren't the only ones who

Some of us don't need public leaders telling us what to do. We do it anyway.

In one New Jersey town, for example, any holiday songs mentioning religious figures such as angels or Jesus have been banned from this year's choral concerts, all because a few people who were non-Christians said they felt "left out" at last year's songfest.

A year or so ago, a small Connecticut town canceled its Christmas parade after one non-Christian family protested its being held.

If everyone is so sensitive and easy to offend, why are commercials for various religions allowed? That seems dom of religion and speech. to me to be more invasive than a parade. After all, it's coming right into your home.

> What if I were to protest the annual rodeo parade and rodeo banners that appear each summer? I could say that since I am not a rodeo participant and do not engage in rodeo-type activities, I felt "left out." I wonder if the Top O' Texas Rodeo would be canceled?

> Nah. They'd probably just think I was a new rodeo clown and throw me into the arena with the Brahma bulls. One thing that everyone seems to be forgetting is that no one can force anyone else not you, no matter what drastic forms of persuasion you use.

I haven't heard a peep out of anyone saying that, say, Hanukkah offends them and no one should display any Hanukkah symbols. That dubious distinction seems to be reserved for Christians, at least these days and in this country.

I will defend anyone's right to believe what they wish and practice whatever religion they choose, short of extremes such as human sacrifice, or to refrain from practicing any religion if that is their choice. I just think that same courtesy should extend to all religions, and if anyone feels "left out," they're welcome to join.

forgiving. I will never shop at a Target store, and I hope most Americans will not. There isn't much that's genuine in our market-driven culture these days, so I think people ought to defend the last of the genuine charities that don't rip off their donors.

The YMCA started as a religious cranky about our organization, but today, while still sucking up donations, it competes with commercial health clubs. Even the Boy Scouts charge kids an arm and a leg for their uniforms, and they even have to pay for their badges. I think you would have to look a long time to find a really poor kid in either one of those outfits in most cities.

United Way is probably at the apex of bad charity ideas. It was, after all, just a scheme by businesses to keep solicitors out of their hair. By the time your dollar gets nicked to pay for the

A career change eight years ago for a former Stramitt employee in Perryton and the former economic development director in Perryton led to a business that has grown to five area offices.

In August of 1996, Regina Partain, owner and manager of Innovative Staffing Solutions, LLC, and

Dr. Myron McCartor, former economic development director in Perryton, partnered together and created Innovative Staffing Solutions, LLC (Innovative) to be "beneficial to the community."

Innovative specializes in the hiring of long-term employees in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

They provide agricultural, industrial, oilfield, clerical, administrative, medical and sales personnel.

Specializing in the best fit for the client, regardless of the industry, is one of the things that makes Innovative different from other staffing companies.

Screening processes to ensure the best fit include reference checks, skill testing, cognitive abilities testing, and screens and background checks as needed.

Additionally, through its Human Resource Consulting department, Innovative offers education to employers and other community groups.

Some seminars and workshops include "Hiring Legally and Effectively," "Gender Diversity in the Workplace," "Team Building," and "Workplace Ethics." Other courses can be customized depending upon the needs of the client.

Dear Abby. By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I just read the PROVIDENCE, R.I. "Able but Unwilling in Alabama;" whose mother and sister are urging him to "lend" money to his spendthrift brother. "Able" said he and his wife had always lived frugally and have saved diligently, while his brother and his wife lived far beyond their means. You responded that if "Able" was comfortable with his decision, he wouldn't have written to you.

He should stick to his guns. The brother and sister-in-law will be siphoning money from here to eternity. Just like an alcoholic, if you give money to folks like that, they'll take and take until the money is gone. I know -- I was one of those takers. I was never taught how to handle money.

I'll bet you get a lot of letters on that one, Abby!

-- HOPEFULLY DOING BETTER IN FLORIDA

DEAR DOING BETTER: You're right. I did get mail from readers who felt I should have encouraged the writer to stand firm. Read

DEAR ABBY: It's time for that brother and his wife to grow up and learn to budget their own money. If "Able's" mother and sister aren't willing to put THEIR money where their mouths are, they should keep quiet. It never makes sense to loan money to a bottomless pit.

Strange, how "Able," the responsible son, is criticized, while the spendthrift, spoiled son runs to Mom and Sis to lay guilt and put pressure on the responsible brother. If the situation were reversed, would the big spender help his brother, I wonder? I don't think so. His retirement at risk. -- BEEN selfish lifestyle should not be THERE, DONE THAT, IN rewarded. The irresponsible WASHINGTON

DEAR HARD-WORK-ING MOM: More readers agreed with you than with me.

DEAR ABBY: The brother made his choices and is reaping the "rewards." If "Able" bails him out, it won't be a onetime thing. It will open the door to keep the money flowing. There is a children's story about the Little Red Hen. The little hen asked for help to plow the garden, plant the seed and pull the weeds. The rest of the farm animals refused. However, when it came time to eat the bread, they all wanted some. Little Red Hen then said "no," because they had done nothing to help.

It's the same with saving money; we go without to build savings to cover our needs in leaner times. -- BRENDA IN AURORA, COLO.

DEAR BRENDA: That's a lesson many people need to learn. Too many are living on credit and accruing a mountain of debt while trying to keep up with the Joneses.

DEAR ABBY: "Able" should insist that his mother and sister co-sign the loan he gives to his brother. That way, if the brother doesn't repay, then they must! But first, that free-spending brother should downsize his expensive house, replace his luxury cars with subcompacts, sell all items that have no sentimental value, and both husband and wife should get out and look for jobs.

It is possible to be supportive of the brother without "Able" handing him money and possibly putting his own

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS Sports Editor

Less then a week ago, the Plainview Bulldogs were riding a 12-game win streak and ranked 17th in the state. Last Friday night, that all ended in Amarillo when the Sandies defeated them, 59-56.

The Bulldogs entered The Pit last night, stinging from that loss and with a record of 12-1.

Pampa was coming off a loss as well. The Harvesters lost to Clovis on the road Saturday night, 53-60. The game was close, and the Harvesters had the Wildcats out of rhythm most of the night.

Despite the loss, Pampa's confidence level should have been high, giving them reason to believe a win against Plainview last night was not only possible, it was within reason.

Plainview controlled the tip off and the slugfest was afoot. Pampa pulled out to an early lead, only to see the Bulldogs make run after run. At on point in the first period, Pampa led Plainview by 10 points. However, as the period drew to a close, the Bulldogs tied the game at 21.

The second period is where the Harvesters opened a little breathing room. Coach Reed called for a defense that would force Plainview to take some forced shots. He set the offense so as to allow Clayton Hall to set up on the base line, where he took passes and drove to the bucket. The offense managed 15 points in the second period while holding Plainview to just seven.

At the half, Pampa held a 36-28 lead and, it seemed, plenty of home court momentum. Despite solid offensive performances by

Jarett Kotara, Clayton Hall and Sharod

Young, the Bulldogs outscored the Harvesters 19-14 in the third period and cut the Pampa lead to just three (50-47) as the fourth and final period got underway.

Plainview managed to pull within a single point throughout the period but just could not take the lead away from Pampa. Kotara, Hall and Brittin East were big under the boards, grabbing rebounds and finding the outlet. Young's speed and ability to slice his way between defenders netted a few Harvester points.

As time ran out, it was free throws that both, kept Pampa ahead but allowed the Bulldogs to stay within striking distance. Pampa would miss the front side of some one-and-one's. while converting the second shot. It came down to the wire, but Pampa held on to claim a big win.

Afterward, Harvester Head Coach Jeff Reed said, "This was a big game for us. They (Plainview) are a very good team. A well coached team." Reed went on to say, "Dumb mistakes. We made lots of dumb mistakes and still won."

According to Reed, Pampa appears to have Plainview's number. Last night's win was the fourth in a row for the Harvesters. "We will face them again in their place. I am sure they will be ready for us."

Pampa played a solid game last night. However, they allowed Plainview too many second and third chance shots. Reed also sees a need for improvement in the halfcourt. "We gotta get better on defense," he said. "We need to work on our ball handling skills in the half-court."

Pampa's next game will be in Clovis, where they will compete in the Milk Cow Classic Dec. 27-29. The Harvester's open the tournament against Abilene Cooper at 10:45 a.m.

Lady Harvesters unable to rein in Lady Bulldogs

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS Sports Editor

The Lady Harvesters fell to 6-10 following a 47-30 loss to the Lady Bulldogs of Plainview at McNeely Field House last night.

Pampa had a tough time overcoming a first period during which they only scored five points, while allowing Plainview to post 14 points.

Pampa's production picked in the second period, scoring 13 points to hand in there with Plainview's 16.

The Lady Harvesters entered the locker room behind 30-18 at the break.

Both teams struggled to find the basket in the third period. Pampa held Plainview to just eight points. However, they only scored five of their own in the period.

Entering the fourth period, The Lady Bulldogs had built a 38-23 lead. One which they would not surrender, leading to the 47-30 win over the Lady Harvesters.

Pampa is off until the Caprock Tournament scheduled for Dec. 29-31 in Lubbock.

TERRELL A GROUNDED EAGLE

Owens out for regular season, won't return until possible Super Bowl

suffering Eagles fans would never be so foolish to think a trip to the Super Bowl was a lock, even though their Birds are clearly the best team in the NFC this season.

"Something could still happen," is a dreaded, but not uncommon thought among loyalists.

Something did.

Star receiver Terrell Owens will miss the final two games of the regular season and the playoffs and possibly the Super Bowl because of a sprained right ankle, a devastating blow for a team that has lost three straight NFC title games.

"I was looking forward to the playoffs, really trying to get this team to the Super Bowl," Owens said. "I think without me, still, they achieve that goal."

"There's no reason for the city of Philadelphia to get down because I'm not there," he said. "Obviously, my presence will be missed, but we have the guys to get it done."

Perhaps, but it's going to get a whole lot harder without Owens. The NFC East champion Eagles (13-1) are left without their biggest offensive threat, their most animated player and the man simply known around this PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Long-offense go on? Absolutely," coach Andy Reid said Monday. "We have some pretty good players on this offensive unit, so it'll still function and do very well this week."

But without Owens, the Eagles will be left with basically the same lackluster receiving corps that has disap-peared when needed in the title games. Freddie Mitchell or Greg Lewis could join Todd Pinkston as the other starting wideout. Those three have a combined 60 catches for 1,073 yards.

Pinkston has an injured knee. Reid said the Eagles will activate wide receiver Billy McMullen.

"Freddie's going to get his chances to make plays," Owens said. "There Eagles-crazed town as TO. "He's a great player, but can the shouldn't be any more excuses as to why he's not getting the ball. Now he shouldn't be any more excuses as to Donovan McNabb, now without his No. 1 target, said the Eagles would survive.

"I feel for Terrell," McNabb said. "He's worked hard, we've all worked hard, to try and bring a championship to Philadelphia. I know he will do everything he possibly can to get better and be a part of what we want to accomplish.

"In any event, we have to move forward.'

Owens will have surgery Wednesday and stands only an outside shot at being able to play in the NFL's championship game on Feb. 6 — if Philadelphia makes it that far — head trainer Rick Burkholder said.

"I'm behind them. I'm going to be their biggest cheerleader," Owens said.

Owens, who has 77 catches for 1,120 yards and the team-record 14 touchdowns, also has a fracture a few inches below his knee. But Burkholder still didn't rule out the chance that Owens would be able to run in five weeks - the weekend of the NFC title game.

"The scenario I painted is the bestcase scenario, but it is realistic," Burkholder said.

Ming scored a season-high 40 points and Tracy McGrady added 34 points and 12 rebounds, leading the Houston Rockets to a 114-102 victory over the Toronto Raptors on Monday night.

The Rockets have won nine of 10 home games against the Raptors, whose only win in Houston was nearly five years ago.

The point-total was a season high for the Rockets, who shot 51.9 percent from the field (41-of-79), their second-best mark of the season.

Chris Bosh had 16 points to lead seven Raptors in double figures. Toronto has lost nine of its last 11 games.

Yao added 10 rebounds and recorded his eighth double-double of the season.

Houston took a 12-3 lead in the first quarter as Toronto missed seven of its first eight shots. Yao had six of his 10 first-quarter points in that span.

But Bosh and Morris Peterson each had six, including a three by

McGrady scored 12, including two three pointers, in the first two minutes 48 seconds of the second quarter to lift Houston to a 36-29 lead.

But Milt Palacio's six points led a 13-4 run that gave Toronto its first lead at 42-40 with 3:57 left in the first half.

McGrady had 18 points and Yao 17 as Houston led 51-46 at the half:

Hey Culligan women

The third and fourth grade Optimist Girls' basketball team, the Culligan Waterdogs, recently wrapped up the regular season by going 6-2, good enough for second place. The girls also competed in a tournament, during which they went undefeated (3-0). The Waterdogs are Hanna Owens, Caitlyn Eades, Renee Baggerman, Taylor Smith, Arin Rice, Bailey Wichert, Dakota Watson and Cecily Pereira. The team is coached by Darin Rice.

Dolphins stun Patriots, 29-28

MIAMI (AP) — Tom Brady threw a dumb pass and A.J. Feeley threw a beauty, finally giving the Miami Dolphins something to savor in this long, miserable season: an upset of the New England Patriots.

With Brady's ugly interception providing an opening, Miami scored two touchdowns in the final 2:07 to stun the Patriots 29-28 Monday night.

The much-maligned Feeley threw for the game-winning score, a 21-yard touchdown pass to Derrius Thompson on fourth-and-10 with 1:23 left.

The stunning victory rivaled the biggest in Dolphins' history, because they've rarely been so woeful. With the win, Miami (3-11) avoided being swept by AFC East opponents this season.

New England (12-2), which has already clinched the AFC East, lost ground to Pittsburgh (13-1) in the race for a first-round playoff bye and home-field advantage. The defeat was just the second in 29 games for the defending Super Bowl champions.

The Patriots appeared to clinch the win when Brady threw his third touchdown pass, a 2-yarder to Daniel Graham for a 28-17 lead with 3:59 left.

But the Dolphins drove 68 yards to score on Sammy Morris' 1-yard run with 2:07 remaining, and then came Brady's uncharacteristic mistake.

On third down, he threw as he was being sacked by Jason Taylor. The ill-advised, off-balance pass sailed directly to linebacker Brendon Ayanbadejo, giving Miami a first down at the Patriots' 21 with 1:45 left.

Three plays later, on fourth and 10, Thompson beat Troy Brown — a receiver who doubles as a fifth cornerback and made the winning catch in the end zone.

Brady's fourth interception, a desperation throw picked off by Arturo Freeman with 58 seconds left, sealed the upset. New England lost after leading at halftime for the first time in 32 games.
