City approves easement for motel

One resident questions costs, need for the action at public hearing Tuesday

By DAVID BOWSER Staff Writer

The only person to speak out against an easement across city property was Russell Neef.

At the public hearing Tuesday afternoon in the Pampa City Commission chambers at city hall, Neef asked commissioners who was going to pay for the easement.

Pampans for Progress, L.L.C., had requested the easement in the 1100 block of North Hobart to give access across city property to a motel that is scheduled to be built on the site of the old Coronado Inn.

City Attorney Don Lane told Neef that the person or persons getting the easement would have to pay for it. The city would not pay anything on the project.

"They have to pay for it," Lane said.

City Manager John Horst said the easement was 114 feet long and 35 feet wide and was not a through street.

It would provide access to a business.

Neef expressed concerns about safety and economic issues

Commissioner Ray Boring said that once the motel was open, the city would collect taxes on it.

Neef questioned whether the city needs two motels (another motel is slated near the Pampa Regional Medical Center).

"Who's it going to profit?" Neef demanded.

"We'll get sales taxes it," replied from Commissioner Faustina Curry. "We'll profit off that."

"It would be helpful to the economy of the city," Horst

Following Neef's comments, Mayor Pro Tem Brad Pingel closed the hearing and opened a special meeting of the Pampa City Commission. The commission unanimously approved the easement.

Ceremony to precede meeting

New Texas and United States flags will be raised on the two new flagpoles on the south lawn of Gray County Courthouse for the first time in a public ceremony at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Jason Jones of Pampa will perform the national anthem while members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1657, who donated funds for the new flags and poles, will raise the flags.

The ceremony will precede Thursday's county commissioners' meeting, which will follow immediately in the courthouse's second-floor courtroom.

County roads and equipment account for six of the items on Thursday's agenda.

A county road policy, which was first discussed at the commissioners' June 1 meeting, is again on the agenda.

Requests for road crossings on Skyline Road and County Road 28 will be submitted for approval.

A representative of Hawkins Communications is scheduled to address com-

Neither Fox nor Arias were in custody Wednesday morning, said Deputy Kathryn Martin, spokeswoman for the Harris County Sheriff's Department.

Fox approached the students on campus in May about the plan, said senior fire investigator Dustin Deutsch of the Harris County Fire Marshal's Office. The students thought she was joking, but she continued to pursue them, he said.

On May 27, the last day of Fox reported the theft that day. The car was found 12 days later in a wooded area near Arias' home.

Happy Fourth of July! This is one event I look forward to each year. The fireworks display put on by the fire department at Recreation Park is really professional and safe for all to see. The key word here is safe. The weather has been cooperating lately providing enough rain to help keep grass Lt. Courtney fires from starting. This is important for this celebration of our National Birthday. Everyone knows that fireworks may not be popped with in the city limits. People call the Police Department each year asking where they can go to celebrate the 4th. Gray County doesn't have an ordinance against fireworks. You can go to the county and pop firecrackers as long it is done responsibly. There are sometimes exceptions to this especially in times of drought when the fire danger is high. Each year ,the police department answers dozens of calls of people popping fireworks. We must respond to this call for service from a citizen. Most of the time, we do not write tickets for this violation of the law, but sometimes we do. It is easy to let the enthusiasm for the holiday result in unsafe handling and use of the fireworks. We don't want to have to go to the hospital on a report of a child being burned or injured from fireworks. Parents, please teach your kids the right way to pop firecrackers and have a great Fourth of July.

Deputies recover stolen pickup

By MARILYN POWERS Staff Writer

A telephone tip Tuesday resulted in the recovery of a stolen vehicle and the arrest of a Pampa man by Gray County Sheriff's deputies.

Fred Henry Pitt, 46, remains in Gray County Jail as of press time today in unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, according to jail records.

"We got a call that the truck was in the east part of town. (The suspect) was driving it at the time, and we got him stopped," said Chief Deputy Kelly Rushing this morning.

The truck, a white 1993 one-ton lieu of $2,500 bond on a charge of Chevrolet dually pickup, was reported stolen by Red River Sand and Gravel, southwest of Lefors. "It had been gone for several days,"

Rushing said. Pitt was arrested without incident, and the vehicle was returned, with no apparent damage, to its owner, he said.

In the burn out, vehicles are judged on the amount of smoke and noise they can generate when their drivers spin the back wheels while remaining stationary.

The redneck races are lawn mower races, Horst said.

A portion of the streets around the perimeter of the park will be blocked off for the burn out and races.

Booths for both profit and non-profit groups will be allowed, and are expected to include those serving refreshments, Horst said.

Booth space will be available on a first-come, firstserved basis, he said. Booth set-up will be from 2 to 3 p.m., July 15.

The evening's activities will begin at 5 p.m. and continue to 7 p.m. Nine praise bands were entered in competition as of the Parks, Recreation and Auditorium's board meeting on June 23, and their event could run until 9 p.m., said Kathy Cota, board secretary.

Registration for the skateboarding competition begins at 4 p.m. on the day of the event, according to Shane Stokes, community services coordinator.

Spraying and mowing will be done at the park before the day's activities begin, Horst said. The city's 11 p.m. curfew for city parks will be observed, he said.

For more information on the Summer Celebration Tour events, call Cota at 665-0938.

They also approve an ordinance enacting a code of ordinances for the city, an action designed to clean the city's code of ordinances and repealing obsolete ordinances.

The commission approved B&G Electric's bid for sound and lighting installations at M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium. The base bid from B&G was $215,001, compared to the base bid of Missouri Valley of $199,000.

After reviewing the base and alternate bids, the architect overseeing the project recommended that the city accept B&G's bid.

Pampa Police Chief Trevlyn Pitner told the commission that only one group had bid on a surplus animal control vehicle. That was Canines for Kids, a group in Burlington, N.C.

1,000 feet of the city limits. Anyone issued a citation for breaking this law can expect to pay up to a $200 fine. In addition to being against the law, Stevens reminds citizens that the use of fireworks inside the city without caution can carry other hazards than just the fine. According to The Texas Pyrotechnic Association's firesafety website: http://www.texasfireworkssafety.com/, last year 2,532 house fires were started across the United States by fireworks. American Pyrotechnics Association points out on their website, http://www.amer-icanpyro.com/, that this is only .3 percent of the home fires last year. They state that, "with Last year, 2,532 proper safety measures any fireworks display can be safe.'

TPA supports this fact by reporting that "since 1994, injuries have declined 44 percent while use has increased significantly because of more participants taking certain safety measures."

The number one tip that TPA gives for fireworks safety is to follow the directions carefully with close adult supervision. They also say that fireworks should be exclusively used outdoors in a safe area away from dry grass and buildings.

Also suggested by their website is to keep a bucket of water and wet towels near any place where fireworks are shooting off. The site warns that fireworks should never be pointed or thrown at people or animals.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, June 29, the 180th day of 2005. There are 185 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 29, 1776, the Virginia state constitution was adopted, and Patrick Henry made governor.

On this date:

In 1767, the British Parliament approved the Townshend Revenue Acts, which imposed import duties on certain goods shipped to America. Colonists bitterly protested the Acts, which were repealed in 1770.

In 1949, the government of South Africa enacted a ban against racially mixed marriages.

In 1954, the Atomic Energy Commission voted against reinstating Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer's access to classified information.

In 1966, the United States bombed fuel storage facilities near the North Vietnamese cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

In 1967, Jerusalem was re-unified as Israel removed barricades separating the Old City from the Israeli sector.

In 1970, the United States ended a two-month military offensive into Cambodia.

In 1972, the Supreme Court ruled the death penalty, as it was being meted out, could constitute "cruel and unusual punishment." (The ruling prompted states to revise their capital punishment laws.)

In 1988, the Supreme Court upheld, 7-1, the independent counsel law.

Hazard elimination project update

Since the controversy surrounding our proposal to remove trees in the northeastern Panhandle first began, the Texas Department Transportation has received extensive public comment. We're listening. On June 24, 2005, we held our third meeting with the Hazard Elimination Committee, which formed at our request, and presented a significantly revised project proposal. I believe in this new project. It is obvious that TxDOT is working hard to address the concerns of the public.

First the numbers: In our study of the project area's 145 miles of highway, we found 9,496 trees on TxDOT right of way. Our original project concept estimated a total tree removal of 1,185. The new proposal is to take out 115 carefully selected trees. These trees are in areas which cannot be shielded by guard fence or are in positions, such as on the outside of curves, that make them simply too much of a hazard to traffic.

None of the trees proposed for removal are within the city limits of any town. None are in

Mark the canopy areas. Tomlinson None are in the median TxDOT of the District divided Engineer highway south of Canadian. None have any protected environmental or historical status.

Of course, this project is not just about trees. We'll also increase roadside safety by flattening slopes and making structure ends safely traversable.

Why is it important to do this type of work? One third of all highway fatalities result from run-off-the-road crashes. In Texas, approximately 1,250 people died last year when their vehicles left the road. Many of these deaths occurred when vehicles struck fixed objects, such as trees. In this project people were killed fixed object crashes over a 10-year period, and area, eight

those deaths were tree-related. Numbers of deaths and injuries on US 60 and US 83 were high enough when compared to similar roadway sections throughout Texas that the majority of this project qualified for funding through state safety programs.

Some of the key decisions we've made revolve around how to apply our clear zone standards, since there is some flexibility in these rules. Depending on traffic volumes, the clear zone minimum is either 16 feet or 30 feet. The desirable clear zone value is 30 feet, regardless of traffic count. The highway shoulder, which is generally 10 feet wide, is considered to be part of this recovery area.

Due to public concerns about tree removal, we've chosen to use minimum clearance values as much as possible. This alone "saves" hundreds of trees.

Veterans programs to get more funds for health care

Veterans Affairs Department will ask for an emergency infusion of cash to meet its health care expenses this year after pressure built in Congress to fill a $1 billion funding shortfall, a senator other officials s a i d Wednesday.

Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, said the VA and White House agreed to seek emergency money after Senate Republicans moved quickly to add $1.5 billion to this year's veterans budget.

Administration and congressional officials said House leaders agreed with the decision. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because an official announcement had not yet been made.

The Department Veterans Affairs told lawmakers last week that it now predicts veterans' health care will cost $1 billion more than had been expected this year. Senate Republicans, acting swiftly to minimize potential political damage, prepared to provide that money and more in a bill for debate and passage on Wednesday.

"I'm frankly frustrated to be put into this situation ... but this Congress will not fail our nation's veterans," said Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho.

The maneuver cut off Democrats preparing pounce on the shortfall with their own spending amendment, demanding a $1.4 billion injection into veterans programs.

Richard Scrushy wins acquittal, first high profile CEO to escape conviction

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — By walking out of a courtroom a free man, Richard Scrushy became the first highprofile chief executive to escape conviction since a wave of corporate scandals followed Enron Corp.'s collapse nearly four years ago.

The HealthSouth Corp. founder was cleared of all federal charges Tuesday by jurors unconvinced by prosecutors' arguments that he played a leading role in a $2.7 billion accounting scheme.

"You've got to have compassion, folks, because you don't know who's next," Scrushy said after leaving court to cheers from his supporters. "You don't know who's going to be attacked next."

Scrushy's acquittal contrasts with recent convictions of several former prominent CEOs for their roles in various frauds, including Tyco International's former chief L. Dennis Kozlowski, former WorldCom boss Bernard Ebbers and Adelphia Communications Corp. founder John Rigas.

Committee in helping us make the decision to remove objects or shield them with guard fence. Not surprisingly, the committee has strongly urged the use of guard fence. We've listened and have made the decision to use a total of 5.5 miles of guard fence to protect thousands of trees. This will improve safety, although not as much as we had hoped.

TxDOT constantly strives to make roads better and safer. Over the last 50 years, extensive engineering research into roadside safety has been done. Combined with field experience, this research has created the lifesaving standards we have today, which are the state of engineering practice.

These rules are used by TxDOT every day on projects throughout the state because they work. Coupled with technological improvements in vehicles, the forgiving roadside concept has helped decrease highway fatalities despite huge increases in traffic volumes. Similar guidelines are used in other states. The rules are written to be applied everywhere because the laws of physics apply everywhere.

We've heard much about how important trees are. We agree. We just believe that human lives are important, also.

Besides being a standard, however, this concept just makes good, common sense. These highways carry traffic, including many trucks, traveling at speeds of 70 mph and above.

We live in a region that has ice, snow, driving rainstorms, blowing dust and other adverse highway conditions. We know that vehicles leave the road on a regular basis, often for reasons outside the driver's control. If you hit a tree, structure or steep slope at high speed, you're probably going to

It makes sense to provide a little area where a driver can have a chance of recovering if his vehicle leaves the road. For much of this project length, we're only trying to clear six feet outside the paved area. In others, standards call for 20 feet, but we are greatly reducing the number of tree removals through the extensive use of barriers.

We've heard much about how important trees are. We agree. We just believe that human lives are important also. In this project, we're using proven methods to save lives while being sensitive to public concerns. I believe we're meeting both challenges.

NBA DRAFT

Bogut goes first, Tar Heels go often

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen picks into the NBA draft, it what was clear to see why North Carolina won an NCAA championship last season. And why Andrew Bogut was the college player of the year. The Milwaukee Bucks made Bogut the first player with U.S. college experience to be drafted No. 1 overall in five years, and four Tar Heels were taken in the first round Tuesday night matching a record for one school. Milwaukee had been debating whether to take the Utah center or North Carolina's Marvin Williams with the franchise's first overall No. 1 pick since 1994. In the end, the lure of a versatile, athletic 7-footer was too much to pass up.

"I was confident, but I wasn't 100 percent," Bogut said. "Now that I'm here, it's a great honor."

The Atlanta Hawks chose Williams second, and the 19-year-old player flashed a bright smile while shaking hands with commissioner David Stern.

"It's a great honor to get picked, and wish the best for all the guys, Williams said.

It couldn't have worked out much

Not long after the Tar Heels' 6-foot-9 sixth-man was selected, three starters off UNC's fourth national title got to make that same joyful walk to the podium at Madison Square Garden.

Point guard Raymond Felton was next, going to the Charlotte Bobcats with the fifth pick.

"I am close to my hometown and to Chapel Hill, so that probably played a big role in it," said Felton, who's from South Carolina. "At the same time, I think I can bring a lot to the Bobcats.

Eight picks later, the Bobcats again looked close to home and took North Carolina forward Sean May.

"Ray told me yesterday he thought there may be a chance it would happen. Me being the person that I am, I thought my luck would never be that good," May said.

Next up, the Minnesota Timberwolves used the last lottery pick - No. 14 overall - to complete the Tar Heels grand slam by selecting shooting guard Rashad McCants.

That allowed North Carolina to match Duke as the only school to have four first-rounders in one draft. The Blue Devils did it in 1999 with Elton Brand, Corey Maggette, William Avery and Trajan Langdon.

Tar Heels coach Roy Williams was in New York to enjoy the moment with his former players, and called it a "bigtime thrill.

"It's also a relief. I'd have been really mad if they had gone pro and none of them got drafted," he said with a

The University of Utah also distinguished itself on this night, becoming the first school to have players picked first in the NBA and NFL drafts in the same year. Quarterback Alex Smith was drafted No. 1 by the San Francisco 49ers in April.

Point guards were also in vogue early. Felton was the third of three straight to go in the top five.

Illinois junior point guard Deron Williams went third to the Jazz, who sent three first-round picks — Nos. 6 and 27 in this year's draft, plus a 2006 first-round pick — to the Trail Blazers earlier Tuesday.

New Orleans selected fourth and chose Wake Forest sophomore Chris Paul. It marked the first time since 1999 that three point guards were picked among the top 10. The Portland trade was one of the few completed on a day that usually keeps the league office busy.

The other big deal had been in the Under terms of the new six-year collective bargaining agreement to take effect in July, high school players will have to wait one year after their class graduates to become draft eligible.

Connecticut sophomore forward Charlie Villanueva was chosen seventh by the Toronto Raptors, and the Knicks addressed their need for a big man by taking Arizona center Channing Frye - the first college senior selected with the No. 8 pick.

Arizona State junior Ike Diogu went ninth to Golden State, and 7-foot high school senior Andrew Bynum of St. Joseph's High School in Metuchen, N.J., went 10th to the Los Angeles

"Wow, man, I get to play with Kobe Bryant and get coached by Phil Jackson!" said Bynum, who was seated in the stands at Madison Square Garden rather than in the so-called green room near the main stage where most top prospects waited to hear their names called. "I'm looking forward to palm trees and Jack Nicholson.'

Gerald Green — projected in most mock drafts to be the first high schooler taken — went to Boston at No. 18. Green was the last of three high school players taken in the first round. Six more went in the second.

Denver selected N.C. State guard Julius Hodge at No. 20, then picked Georgia Tech point guard Jarrett Jack two spots later and traded him to Portland for the 27th and 35th picks.

The NBA champion San Antonio Spurs selected French forward Ian Mahinmi at No. 28. He was one of seven international players to be chosen in the first round.

Clemens left with a lead. For the third time this season, the Houston Astros failed to hold it.

After Clemens allowed just four hits in seven innings, Garrett Atkins hit a grand slam in the eighth off Russ Springer that led the Colorado Rockies to a 6-5 victory Tuesday night.

"You can't let that stuff bother you because I've been beat every which way you can think of." Clemens said. "They WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chasing down shots all over the court, Roger Federer was rewarded with another berth in the Wimbledon semifinals.

The two-time defending champion relied on his retrieval skills Wednesday to beat Fernando Gonzalez 7-5, 6-2, 7-6 (2). Federer's opponent

Friday will be No. 3-seeded Lleyton Hewitt, who defeated Feliciano

Lopez 7-5, 6-4, 7-6 (2). Federer repeatedly ran down line drives by the big-swinging Gonzalez and extended his grass-court winning streak to 34 matches, including 19 at the All England Club. "Today I was pushed very much into the corners, and I had to come up with something," Federer said. "I've always relied on my defensive game. I always thought I was good at

it. Today I had to prove it once

The top-ranked Federer is 96-5 since June 2004 and trying to become the third player since 1936 to win three consecutive Wimbledon titles. Hewitt reached the semifinals for the first time since winning the 2002 championship. He has lost seven consecutive matches against Federer dating back to the January 2004.

"It's going to be a tough match," Hewitt said. 'There's a reason he has won the tournament the last two years. It's like a final for me."

No. 12-seeded Thomas Johansson of Sweden reached the semifinals by beating No. 18 David Nalbandian 7-6 (5), 6-2, 6-2. It's the best Grand Slam showing from Johansson since he won his lone major title at the 2002 Australian Open.

On Thursday, two-time champion Venus Williams plays in her first major semifinal in two years when she meets defending champion Maria Sharapova. The other semifinal will be between top-ranked Lindsay Davenport, the 1999 champion, and thirdseeded Amelie Mauresmo.

Federer displayed his characteristic polish, committing just 10 unforced errors, and his underrated defensive talents were at their best in the final game of the first set.

Gonzalez, serving at 5-6, hit a drop volley that bounced sideways away from Federer. Still, he sprinted from behind the baseline to reach the ball and flipped a lunging forehand winner crosscourt.

That gave Federer a set point, and when he again dashed to retrieve a shot in the corner with a running slice forehand, Gonzalez put a volley in the net.

"The best two points I've seen in the championships," three-time winner Boris Becker said.

It was the first set Gonzalez had lost in the tourna-

The unpredictable Chilean kept up his high-wire tennis, blowing easy chances but also coming up with spectacular shots. Once he fell down behind the baseline and still won the point, scrambling to his feet to finish it off.

"It's always interesting to play against him," Federer said. "You have to weather the storm. I know he can't play five sets hitting incredible forehands. He's going to have his lapses, and I have to take advantage of that."

Federer withstood the onslaught and closed out the victory by winning the final six points.

Armstrong's mother says her son already nervous

By TIM REYNOLDS Associated Press

Lance Armstrong's mother seems ready for the ride to end. Sometime next month, Linda Armstrong Kelly plans to leave her home near the Texas-Oklahoma border and fly to France, hoping that her son can wrap up what would be his seventh straight Tour de France victory.

And although she'd love to see many more victory rides down the Champs-Elysees, Kelly believes her son will stick to his plan and leave competitive cycling when this race is over.

"Like I was there for my son when he was growing up, he wants to be there for his children," Kelly said Tuesday in a telephone interview from her home in Lake Kiowa, Texas. "There was an absolute deci-

Armstrong announced his retirement in April, saying this will be his farewell Tour and that the time has come to devote more time to his three children. The Tour opens Saturday with an 11.8-mile time trial, then rolls along for about 2,230 more grueling miles before concluding July 24 in Paris.

Putin pockets Kraft's 2005 Super Bowl ring

BOSTON (AP) — Russian President Vladimir Putin walked off with New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft's diamondencrusted 2005 Super Bowl ring, but was it a generous gift or a very expensive international misunder-

Following a meeting of American business executives and Putin at Konstantinovsky Palace near St. Petersburg on Saturday, Kraft showed the ring to Putin who tried it on, put it in his pocket and left, according to Russian news reports.

It wasn't clear if Kraft, whose business interests include paper and packaging companies and venture capital investments, intended that Putin keep the ring.

Patriots spokesman Stacey James said Wednesday that Kraft was traveling and he hadn't talked to him in four or five days, despite e-mails and calls. "He's still overseas, I can't even tell you where. ...

He's not due back until next week."

"It's an incredible story. I just haven't been able to talk to Robert Kraft to confirm the story," James told The Associated Press.

However, a Kremlin official who spoke on condition of anonymity out of fear of compromising his position told the AP the ring was a present. "Such a present was made," the official said.

He said Putin had given the ring to the Kremlin library where other foreign gifts are kept. James said the ring's worth was "substantially more"

The men's quarterfinals are Wednesday, including two-time defending champion and top-seeded Roger Federer vs. No. 21 Fernando Gonzalez, and No. 2 Andy Roddick vs. No. 9 Sebastien Grosjean.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Thursday, June

You have the ability to attract people and enlist their support. You will be a winner this year as long as you work with others. You often have to understand many different points of view. You have unusual gifts or talents that, if used well, could bring more financial security. Others acknowledge you for your skills. You come from a basic point of view. You will jazz up your home or buy a new one. If you are single, you will meet someone who really lights your fire this winter. Explore what might be there. If you are attached, plan more romantic getaways together. Remember some of the old romantic touches. TAURUS helps you
