Meteorologists see another Dust Bowl on horizon

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. -- AccuWeather.com meteorologists today warned that oceanic conditions similar to those that triggered the ruinous "Dust Bowl" drought again appear to be in place. The exceptionally warm Atlantic waters that played a major role in the record-breaking 2005 hurricane season, coupled with cooler-than-normal Pacific waters, are weakening and changing the course of a low-level jet stream that normally channels moisture into the Great Plains. Effects are starting to be felt in "America's breadbasket," as the southern Great Plains region is already suffering from higher temperatures and a prolonged lack of precipitation. Why could a new Dust Bowl drought occur? The low-level jet stream -- a fast-moving current of winds close to the Earth's surface -- travels from east to west across the Atlantic, then typically curves northward as it crosses the Gulf of Mexico, bringing moisture to the Great Plains. Abnormal sea-surface temperatures have caused this low-level jet stream to continue westward and to weaken, which is preventing much-needed moisture from reaching the agriculturally critical region. The shift in the jet stream is also allowing a southerly flow from Mexico to bring much drier air northward into the Plains. Besides dramatically reducing precipitation for the region, the changes brought about by the abnormal sea-surface temperatures will also result in higher surface temperatures in the Plains.

"When surfaces are wet, energy from solar radiation both evaporates moisture and heats the ground," said AccuWeather.com Chief Meteorologist Elliot Abrams. "When no moisture is present, all that energy is channeled toward heating the ground, and the warmer ground heats the lower atmosphere. The combination of low moisture and higher temperatures would be a crippling one-two punch for the Great Plains should these conditions per-

Mending fences

Woman's death remains a mystery

By MARILYN POWERS
Staff Writer

A preliminary autopsy report on a woman who was brought to Pampa Regional Medical Center Wednesday in the cab of a semitrailer rig does not indicate a specific cause of death, according to Precinct 2 Justice of the Peace Kurt Curfman, who ordered the autopsy. "The cause of death is still undetermined. There was no trauma, no internal injuries and no major disease, so it's all going to hinge on the toxicology screen and her medical history," Curfman said Friday afternoon. "We're in the process of trying to obtain her medical history out of Tennessee and Mississippi," he said. Jesus Antonio Cantu, 54, of Houston drove the truck to PRMC during the noon hour Wednesday when he could not awaken the woman, identified as Vicki Lynne Long, 37, originally of Hattiesburg, Miss., last known address in Germantown, Tenn., according to a news release from Gray County Sheriff's Office.

She had been a passenger in the truck and had been asleep in the sleeper portion of the cab, according to the release. She was pronounced dead at the hospital at 12:30 p.m. The hospital reported the incident as an unattended death at 12:29 p.m. to Pampa Police Department, according to police records. The police department referred the call to GCSO between 1 and 1:30 p.m. when it was determined that the incident would most likely come under their jurisdiction, said Lt. Joe B. Hoard of GCSO. Cantu had made a delivery in Pampa from an unknown starting point somewhere south when he discovered he could not awaken Willis, Hoard said. B & B Transportation of Houston is Cantu's employer and the owner of the truck, he said. "They were common-law husband and wife, as it turns out. There was apparently a real love affair there," said

Matriarch of 'close-knit family' looks back

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

It's a tale of joy and sorrow, of happiness and humility. It's the tale of a family. Kathryn Dudley arrived in Pampa as a bride in the middle of the Dust Bowl. She's lived in the same house since 1941, the same year her late husband, Ray Dudley, was appointed Pampa Chief of Police where he served until 1945. Ray Dudley died 17 years ago. Kathryn Dudley was in the cellar when the tornado that struck Pampa in 1995 loosened the roof on her house. Kathryn Dudley has seen the best and the worst that Pampa has to offer, but the most important thing, she says, is her family. "We are a close-knit family," Mrs. Dudley said, "a very close-knit family."

She said her kids still like to come home. "We just have a ball when they're all here," Mrs. Dudley said. When her daughter and two sons descended on Pampa last Thanksgiving with their families, there were 24 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Then they surprised her this month with a party for her 90th birthday. "When I opened the door," Mrs. Dudley said, "there were about 30 relatives there singing Happy Birthday. I sat down at the end of the table and said, 'Listen, I'm too old for surprises like this. I don't like it.'" She loved every minute of it. "I didn't know there was anything going on," she said. "We are a very close family." Ray was working for Addington Western Wear on Cuyler when Kathryn first met him. Ray and Kathryn Dudley lived in an apartment over Addington's store when they first got married. Ray Dudley later went into the automobile business, working for Culbertson Chevrolet Motor Co. when it was still downtown before opening his own car lot next door to Addington's Western Wear. "We owned the car lot right next door," Mrs. Dudley said. "That little building and all that car lot belonged to my husband. He sold cars there for 37 years." When he first got into the car business, cars were hard to find. "You could sell them at any price if you could find them," Mrs. Dudley said. Her husband used to travel to St.

Free workshop on severe weather spotting planned Saturday

AUSTIN — The Governor's Division of Emergency Management and the National Weather Service are recognizing this week, Feb. 26 to March 4, as Severe Weather Awareness Week, a time for Texas residents to plan and prepare for dangerous storms and floods.

Straight-line windstorms, down-burst rains and tornadoes can occur at any time of year in Texas. Basic preparedness plans should be in place at home, at work and at school and each family member or employee should understand the plan. When a severe storm or tornado strikes, there may be only a few seconds to react and find shelter.

The Amarillo National Weather Service and Amarillo College will conduct a free training session on severe storm spotting.

The training will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Amarillo

Business and Industry Center at 1314 Polk St. in Amarillo.

Local school and law enforcement officials, as well as weather enthusiasts, are encouraged to attend.

Registration for the free workshop begins at 9:30 a.m. The first step in preparedness is to ensure you have a reliable method of receiving weather information including TV, radio and NOAA weather radio, plus a back-up system if one goes out. Battery powered equipment and extra batteries should be part of the plan.

For home, work or school, shelter areas should be designated, whether they are in basements below ground level, ground level windowless rooms, or interior hallways on the lowest floor. Protect yourself from flying debris with thick blankets, sleeping bags or mattresses.

If you are in a vehicle, mobile home or portable classroom, move quickly to a strong building for shelter. If there is no shelter, lie flat in the nearest ditch or depression.

Choose a person to telephone outside your city to let others know you are safe and choose a place for family members to meet if your neighborhood and home are damaged or destroyed.

Drought

sist, much like what occurred during the Dust Bowl drought.

The Dust Bowl drought

The Dust Bowl, which lasted from 1931-1939, was a severe drought that struck a wide swath of the Great Plains. It was a catastrophic blow to the U.S. economy, which was already staggering under the weight of the Great Depression. The Dust Bowl was the worst drought in U.S. history, eventually covering more than 75 percent of the country. Solar radiation heating the parched and blighted land caused temperatures in the region to rise to record-breaking levels.

"1936 was the hottest summer ever recorded across much of the Midwest and East," Abrams said. "Many of the single-day and monthly record-high temperatures across the eastern two-thirds of the country are from that year."

The Dust Bowl was also noted for the huge dust storms that billowed across the Great Plains and swallowed millions of acres of farmland at a time. While a Dust Bowl-level drought could occur again, it is highly unlikely that the nation will see a return of the dust storms.

"The dust storms fed off the over-plowed and over-grazed lands of the Great Plains," said Dale Mohler, AccuWeather.com Expert Senior Meteorologist and a forecaster for the agricultural industry. "The agricultural practices at the time, combined with a long period of drought, caused severe damage to farmland in the region. Eventually the topsoil dried up to the point where it was swept away as great clouds of choking dust that stretched for miles."

"Today's agricultural practices, such as crop rotation and improved irrigation, as well as drought-resistant hybrid crops, would likely prevent the landscape from being as ruined as it was during the 1930s. For example, Illinois endured a terrible drought in 2005, but the state's corn yield was close to normal. However, a multiyear drought in the Great Plains would still be devastating for the nation."

The hurricane connection
"It is not a coincidence that the Dust Bowl years of the 1930s were marked by years of tremendous hurricane activity," said AccuWeather.com Hurricane Center Chief Forecaster Joe Bastardi. "For example, the record-shattering 2005 hurricane season was the first to eclipse 1933 in number of tropical cyclones, and that may only have been because we didn't have satellites in the 1930s to identify the major storms that failed to reach the U.S. coast."

Hurricanes are fed by warm waters. This year's warm Atlantic waters -- which are now setting up a possible major drought in the U.S. -- played a major role in the 2005 season's numerous and powerful storms. Conversely, because the Pacific has been relatively cool -- another prerequisite for the return of a Dust Bowl-like drought -- this year's Pacific hurricane season was tame from historical perspective.

"While we cannot yet tell how long this current pattern will last, if you trust history, then the 2005 hurricane season just may portend the return of a major drought to the Great Plains," Bastardi said.

Dudley

Louis and Chicago looking for cars. He'd take drivers with him and have them drive the cars back to Pampa when he found ones for sale.

When the Addingtons moved back to Wyoming, the Dudleys bought the building and leased it.

The small building next to Addington's was used for a liquor shop for a while, then it was later remodeled and turned into a barbershop.

Once she had graduated from high school, Mrs. Dudley attended college in nearby Wolventine, Okla., before Ray Dudley proposed and took her away to the Texas Panhandle.

"I came out here," Mrs. Dudley said. "Ray and I got married out here, but we had been dating for a couple of years."

That was 1934 and big, black clouds of dust rolled across the plains.

She laughed about those first few years, saying that as a newly-wed she wasn't interested in the weather.

"We had those big old dust storms then," Mrs. Dudley said. "You could be out on a picnic and it could be a beautiful sunny day and see this black cloud rolling in. People didn't know what it was."

She said she remembers coming back into town after a dust storm hit and going to the Addington's store.

"It was absolutely black," Mrs. Dudley said. "We had to go in and strike a match before we could even find the switch to turn the light on."

She said it wasn't a blowing dust storm. It was a rolling dust storm.

When those storms hit, she said it was black as midnight.

She bubbles with pride at the mention of her three children.

Mrs. Dudley has a daughter, Glenda, who lives in Hereford; and a son, Ed, who lives in Plainview. Her youngest son, Gary, lives in Pampa, but he's a construction superintendent who spends a lot of his time on jobs in Florida, California and Kansas.

Ed's prowess on the football field in Pampa earned him a scholarship under Coach Bear Bryant at Texas A&M University and a Southwest Conference championship.

Mrs. Dudley said she and her husband never missed one of his college football games, but they always liked coming home. Ed, too, as well as Glenda and Gary like coming home, she said.

"They like to come home just as well as when they were in school," Mrs. Dudley said.

She's lived in the same house since 1941. She complains that the house is too big now.

"It's a big house," she said. "I don't need it, and I don't need this house, but there are so many memories here."

She says she just doesn't want to give up the house.

"We bought this corner right here in 1941," Mrs. Dudley said. "Every one of my kids started to school right here. All three of them finished high school right here."

It takes a lot of living to make a house a home, and Mrs. Dudley said her house is home.

"We've been here a long time," Mrs. Dudley said.

Curfman of Cantu and Willis.

The relationship between the two was not immediately known to investigators.

"The investigation is still continuing, and we are being assisted in this investigation by Pampa Police Department and the Texas Rangers," Hoard said Friday morning.

Toxicology reports usually take at least four to five weeks to be completed and received, Curfman said.

The truck was impounded, removed from the hospital and placed in secure storage at the time of the incident, Hoard said. GCSO had not released it to the owner as of Friday pending the autopsy results.

"The truck has not been released to the owner as per instructions of the district attorney's office, and will not be released until a determination has been made on the death," Hoard said Friday morning. Chief Deputy Kelly Rushing said Friday afternoon that he believed the truck was still impounded.

During questioning of Cantu Wednesday concerning Willis, it was determined that the Immigration and Naturalization Service wished to have him detained.

"He had a resident alien card. We ran it, and they placed a hold on it," Hoard said.

Cantu has not been charged in connection with Willis' death, but was detained for the INS and transferred to one of their facilities Thursday, according to Gray County Jail records.

"He will appear before a federal magistrate later concerning his status," Hoard said. "He spoke good English."

Information on what Cantu was hauling in his rig or where he made a delivery were not available as of press time Friday.

Do the dog a favor and think before you buy or adopt

Dogs and movies. There is a correlation between the two and it often ends up with mistreated and dead dogs.

When the movie "101 Dalmatians" came out, moviegoers fell in love with the spotted dogs. Kids wanted to have them for pets and parents obliged. The only problem is that Dalmatians were bred as coach dogs, trained to run alongside horse-drawn coaches to protect against highwaymen and protecting the horses from stray dogs and wolves in Dalmatia, a part of Croatia.

They require a lot of exercise and training, and most of the families that got them as pets could not oblige because of their lifestyles.

Consequently, a lot of Dalmatians ended up neglected, or worse, in the local dog pound, where many were euthanized because no one would adopt them.

It seems that every time a dog movie appears, the breed of dog in the movie becomes very popular.

Remember how popular Collies were when Lassie was rescuing Timmy from the well?

And the Saint Bernard "Beethoven?" Even Eddie, the terrier in "Fraser" enjoys status as a likable canine. They all triggered consumer demand for specific breed dogs, according to the Humane Society of the United States.

And now, with the release of the Disney film "Eight Below," the Humane Society said it anticipates a renewed popularity of Huskies and Malamutes.

Further, with the Westminster Dog Show just completed, people who are shopping for a dog are looking at purebreds.

But what people who want to get a dog should realize is that they should pick a dog that will match their lifestyle so the dog doesn't end up mistreated or dead.

"We applaud films that present the bond between dogs and their people," said Stephanie Shain, director of outreach for companion animals at the Humane Society. "Rich storytelling about animals and people who care about each other is great entertainment and a true promotion for the benefits of having a dog. The downside is that people become so enamored by the character portrayed on screen that they want that dog in their own home. They assume the breed is great without examining if it is the right match for their lifestyle."

And unfortunately, Shain said, it often doesn't work out and the dog is given up at an animal shelter, adding to the approximately 4 million homeless dogs already living in shelters, half of whom are euthanized because no one comes to adopt them.

Historically, this is true. Within six months of the release of "101 Dalmatians," shelters and rescue groups saw an increase of Dalmatians by 25 percent, according to figures from the Humane Society.

People saw the movie and wanted spotted puppies. They did not realize that the breed has specific needs and personalities that were not portrayed on the screen. The result was thousands of homeless Dalmatians.

The Humane Society offers this advice: First, do your homework. Research the breed to learn if the physical and mental needs match your lifestyle. For example, Huskies are high energy and require considerable exercise and training, and need constant companionship.

Leaving them home all day with nothing to do will backfire.

Second, if you think the breed will work, go to your local animal shelter because 1 in 4 shelter dogs are purebred. If the shelter does not have what you want, they can direct you to a "purebred rescue group."

If you do not want to adopt and want a puppy instead, you should find a reputable breeder and avoid the puppy mills that breed puppies as fast as they can. These puppy mills are interested in profit only, and do not take into account the physical and emotional needs of the dogs.

The Humane Society advises to never buy a dog unless

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 2006. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Feb. 26, 1993, a bomb built by Islamic extremists exploded in the parking garage of New York's World Trade Center, killing six people and injuring more than 1,000 others.

On this date:

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the Island of Elba to begin his second conquest of France.

In 1848, the Second French Republic was proclaimed.

In 1919, Congress established Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona.

In 1929, President Coolidge signed a measure establishing Grand Teton National Park.

In 1940, the United States Air Defense Command was created.

In 1945, a midnight curfew on nightclubs, bars and other places of entertainment was set to go into effect across the nation.

In 1951, the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution, limiting a president to two terms of office, was ratified.

'Most of us probably feel we couldn't be free without newspapers, and that is the real reason we want the newspapers to be free.'

— Edward R. Murrow
American broadcast journalist (1908-1965)

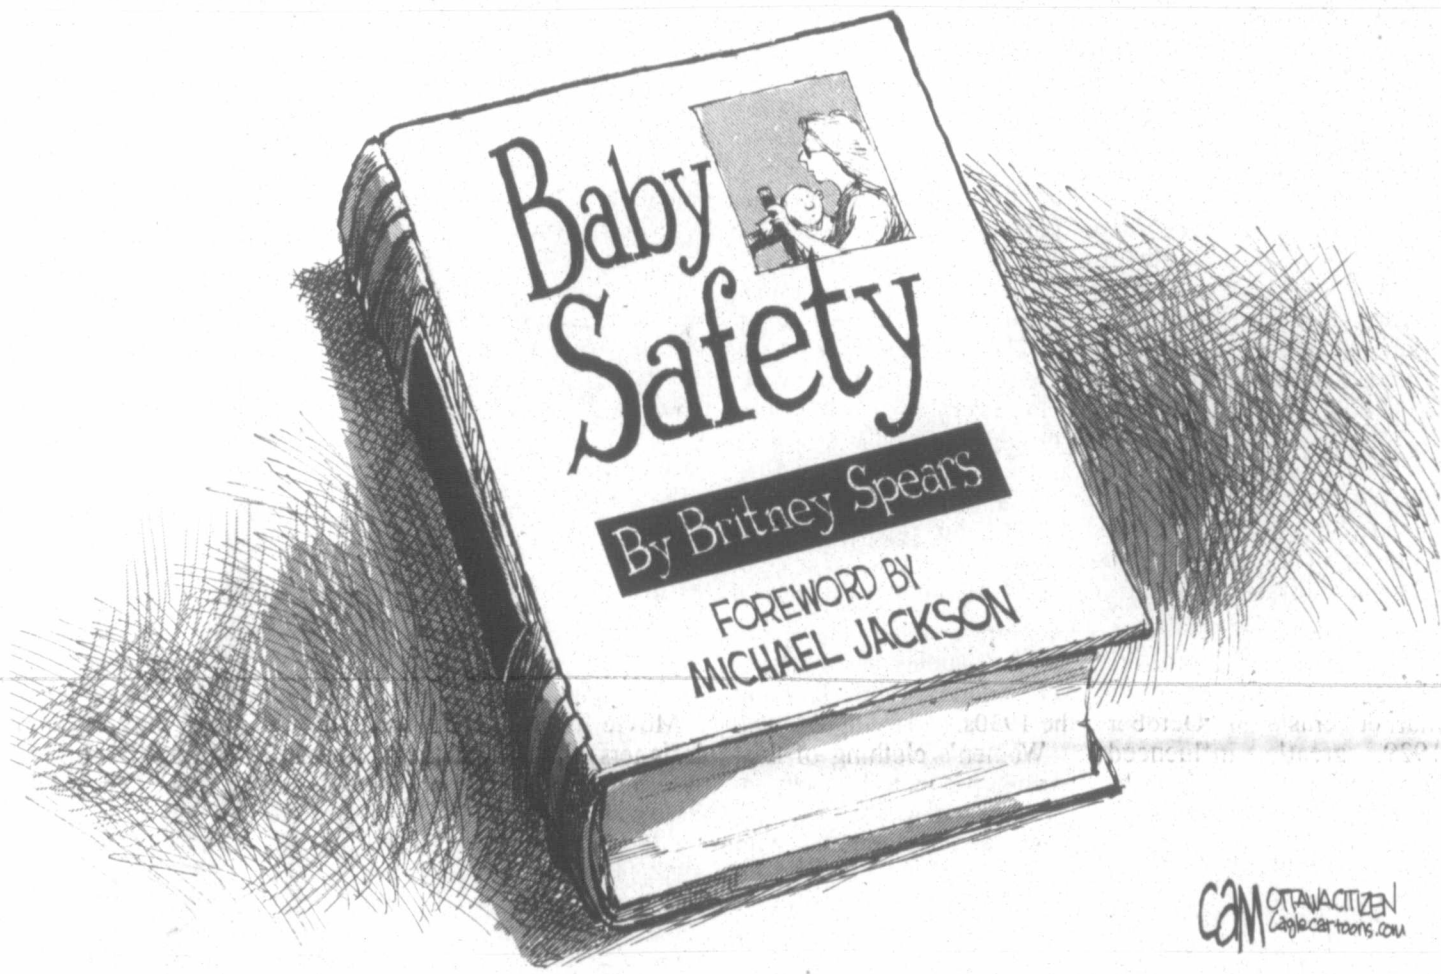

In 1979, a total solar eclipse cast a moving shadow 175 miles wide from Oregon to North Dakota before moving into Canada.

In 1986, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet and author Robert Penn Warren was named the first poet laureate of the United States by Librarian of Congress Daniel J. Boorstin.

In 1987, the Tower Commission, which probed the Iran-Contra affair, issued its report, which rebuked President Reagan for failing to control his national security staff.

Ten years ago: President Clinton moved to step up economic sanctions on Cuba in response to Cuba's downing of two unarmed airplanes belonging to the Cuban-American exile group Brothers to the Rescue.

Five years ago: A U.N. tribunal convicted a Bosnian Croat political leader (Dario Kordic) and a military commander (Mario Cerkez) of war crimes for ordering the systematic murder and persecution of Muslim civilians during the Bosnian war.

Idle American: Underwater ice skating?

Even rabid sports enthusiasts can't keep up with the new events piled on already long lists of Winter Olympic Games. Some of them may be stolen from a Florida care center's recreation manual, and maybe should be sent back. How does "Olympic Dominoes" sound?

It will not be surprising if they add "Olympic Poker" to the list. Since ESPN has decided that poker is a sport, why not? One fan says he's going to hang around until underwater ice skating is added.

Now, make room for an old joke worth repeating. It's about the country guy who surprisingly won a gold medal. He was so proud of it, he had it bronzed ...

Pray tell when will media folk finish telling us all we need to know about Vice President Cheney's ill-fated hunting experience in South Texas? The "who-what-when-where-why" stuff has pretty much been covered, like 47 times.

Cruelty jokes that formerly took years or decades to evolve now develop in minutes, showing up on the p.m. talk shows.

Tragically, they usually go way beyond cruel ...

*****
An old chestnut comes to mind: "Other than that, Mrs. Lincoln, did you enjoy the play?" While the origin of this story is elusive, it was no doubt decades after Mrs. Lincoln was dead and gone.

Current probably parallel stories will be: "Other than that, Mr. Vice President, did you: (1) Enjoy the hunt? (2)

Kill any quail? or (3) Consider changing parties?"

*****

One wag, humming the Porter Wagoner's old tune, "You Gotta Have a License," figures the Vice President soon will push homeland security aside to give rangeland security a priority.

*****

Meanwhile, back on the ranch, when birds get wind that politicians are coming to hunt, they take down the "no fly zone" warnings and replace them with "fly any place you please" signs ...

Public officials might do well to put aside hunting gear while in the glaring media spotlight.

The sport has not been kind to President Bush or the VP. The former killed a lone bird on a "dove hunt" near Houston during his race for governor. Trouble was, the kill turned out to be the protected killdeer. Actually, the hunt was mostly a "photo op" for TV cameras, and, yes, Bush paid the $130 fine for reducing the dwindling killdeer population by one ...

*****
Before Valentine chocolates are gone from the box, consider the thoughtful Bob Johnston of Lake Dallas, Texas, who married Jeri on Jan. 28, 1967. He says the wedding date was purposely set on his birthday. That way, he's sure to remember their anniversary. It has worked for 39 years.

Trouble is, he can't remember her birthday on April ...

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

■ Feb. 19
Houston Chronicle on violence in Nuevo Laredo:

The distance between the shopping districts of the Texas/Mexico border's "los dos Laredos" is just a short walk across the international bridge. And yet, when it comes to crime, drugs and violence, the U.S. city of Laredo and its Mexican cousin, Nuevo Laredo, are worlds apart. The question is whether Laredo can dodge the impact of the frightening bloodshed that occurs unchecked right in its back yard.

On Feb. 6, two masked gunmen burst into the offices of the El Manana newspaper and started shooting. Two grenades were thrown. Veteran reporter Jaime Orozco Tey was critically injured. There have been no arrests.

The attack is widely believed to be the work of drug cartels who want to silence reporting on their violent activities. Message received. Ramon Cantu, editor of El Manana, told the Dallas Morning News after the shooting that even if the paper learned of a specific motive for the attack, "I'm not so sure we would print it."

In the past five years, four Mexican journalists have been killed because of their reporting, according to the Committee to Protect Journalists. In April, a Nuevo Laredo radio reporter, Guadalupe Garcia Escamilla, was shot to death as she arrived at work. In 2004, top El Manana editor Roberto Mora Garcia was stabbed to death.

The fear has permeated news offices on the Texas side of the border. Reporting on the Nuevo Laredo violence has been "terrifying," Laredo Morning Times editor Diana Fuentes told the Dallas paper. Reporters have been threatened. The danger encourages self-censorship.

President Vicente Fox has called the El Manana attack "despicable" and vowed to continue his government's fight against organized crime. But some blame Fox's crackdown on the cartels for the escalating violence. The push disrupted some of the larger organizations but didn't eradicate them. They 13th. His excuse: "I never can remember whether the 13th is her birthday, or the deadline for payment to the IRS..."

It was an event most communities observe — the annual Chamber of Commerce membership banquet. Though one of the smaller organizations in the state — it has fewer than 100 members — Greater Grandview CofC ended its 2006 banquet on the highest of notes. Inducted were 19 new members (mostly young people) into the organization's Hall of Fame.

Speakers had spoken, music played and awards handed out. Then came the induction. Patriotic background music filled the room as slides of the honorees hit the screen. Their accomplishments, most centering on highlight moments from high school, were alongside ...

In the audience, some wept. And when the slides ended, everyone stood, offering an enthusiastic and prolonged cheer. They're mighty proud of their newest inductees — all of whom are currently serving in the United States Armed Forces.

It was a classy idea. It was a wonderful benediction. It was a touching moment of proud Americans at their best ...

splintered into so-called "cartelitos" that have been more difficult for federal law enforcement officials to track and control. Taking on the drug barons is necessary, but it is also Fox's duty to protect public safety.

Fox warned organized crime: "You will not force the Mexican people to yield, nor the federal government nor the country's security institutions." Those are tough words, but they ring hollow with local police, who are ill-equipped to take on the ruthless cartels. One Mexican sheriff asserted that that his job is not to go after drug traffickers, but to investigate burglaries.

Recently Fox spokesman Ruben Aguilar said police officers who are afraid of the drug cartels should not be there. But it will take more than simple courage to rein in the traffickers. Drug gangs are believed to be responsible for last Monday's shooting deaths of two Mexican chiefs of police, one from Sabinas Hidalgo, the other from San Pedro Garza Garcia. Nuevo Laredo's police chief was shot dead last year, just hours after being sworn into office. Dozens of rank and file officers have fallen victim to drug violence.

The lawlessness rampant in the United States' southern neighbor threatens American police officials, too. Tony Garza, the U.S. ambassador to Mexico, has asked the Mexican government to investigate what happened Jan. 23, when it appeared that Mexican military personnel "apparently intervened to prevent a drug shipment from being intercepted" by U.S. authorities in Texas.

This country has a role to play in protecting citizens on both sides of the border and many incentives to play it forcefully. According to a Los Angeles Times report, an estimated 95 percent of weapons, including pistols, shotguns, AK-47s and grenade launchers, confiscated from suspected Mexican criminals were first sold legally in the United States.

Although tourism in Nuevo Laredo has declined, the town still attracts American visitors. A breakdown in the rule of law there makes investigating crimes against U.S. citizens difficult. The disappearance last year of two young American women remains unsolved by Mexican authorities. In 2005, a State Department travel advisory made note of Nuevo Laredo's "uncertain security situation."

Many Texans and their political leaders have voiced their fear of illegal Mexican immigration.

Texans must also find ways to ensure that violence spawned by Mexican drug cartels and Americans' insatiable appetite for their wares doesn't cause a more harmful migration of cross-border violence.

Depression era clothing collection on display at Canyon museum

CANYON — The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum opened an exhibit of 1930s era clothing called "Glamour, Elegance & Style: Dressing During the Depression" on Saturday. The exhibition will continue through Oct. 29.

The Great Depression, brought about by the stock market crash of October 1929, greatly influenced American culture and fashion as American incomes fell dramatically.

Fewer ready-to-wear garments were purchased as women turned to constructing their own clothing and mending and patching items rather than replacing them. However, despite the economic hardships experienced by most Americans, women continued to follow fashion trends throughout the 1930s.

Women's clothing of this period, particularly evening gowns, tended to be elegant and glamorous, contrasting sharply with the difficult economic conditions.

Hemlines fell and long, elegant evening dresses of velvet, satin and taffeta replaced the flappers' flamboyant, beaded short dresses. Shoulders were emphasized with large, full sleeves, while bias-cut fabrics clung sensuously to the figure.

Movie stars, and the designers who dressed them, became American fashion leaders.

Greta Garbo, Jean

Harlow, Marlene Dietrich, Joan Crawford and Loretta Young influenced popular fashion and often endorsed particular clothing and beauty products. American designers such as Adrian, (Gilbert Adrian), Irene (Irene Lentz), Austrian-born Hattie Carnegie and Howard Greer gained exposure through the movies and became dominant over more expensive Paris designers who were inaccessible to many consumers.

CRANIOFACIAL ACADEMY

Dentist may bring relief from chronic headaches

(NAPSA) — Millions of people may be relieved to learn their chronic headaches can be cured — by specially trained dentists.

"By far the most common causes of headaches are dysfunctions of the muscles and joints of the head, face and neck," according to New Jersey-based Ira Klemons, DDS, PhD, president, American Board of Craniofacial Pain and a member of the Board of Directors of the American Academy of Craniofacial Pain.

About one in four Americans suffers with these conditions, which can cause headaches; migraines; pain in the eye, ear or face; dizziness; or ringing in the ears. Some become depressed as a result.

Many researchers believe that most craniofacial pain is caused by trauma, such as a fall, sports injury, or an automobile accident. But because the pain sometimes develops long after the accident, it's often hard to tell the cause. It can be so difficult to diagnose that some people battle these headaches for years, or even most of their lives.

That's one reason diagnosing and treating craniofacial pain requires a specially trained dentist or a physician with advanced training in dealing with joints and muscles.

Fortunately, a growing number of dentists have gained specialized training in diagnosing and treating headaches and facial pain and have demonstrated success rates of more than 90 percent because of their significant experience resolving problems with head and face muscles and joints.

Many of these dentists belong to the American Academy of Craniofacial Pain, which recently conducted a nationwide survey and discovered:

Women's study needs volunteers

(NAPSA) — Women who suffer from heavy, long-lasting, or frequent monthly menstrual cycles may be eligible to participate in a nationwide research study in their area.

The study will evaluate the efficacy of a medication for the relief of heavy, long-lasting, or frequent menstruation that may be associated with your monthly cycle. The study medication used contains similar ingredients as currently marketed birth control products.

Women are volunteering for a study that may help treat a common condition.

Many women suffer from the interference of heavy, long-lasting, or frequent menstruation and have to plan their lives around it, sometimes missing days at work or canceling activities with friends and family. This new study will involve taking a medication that may help treat this problem in women who desire oral contraception.

Researchers from over 35 medical facilities across the country are now enrolling and screening volunteers who are 18 years of age or over to participate in this research study sponsored by Berlex Inc.

Qualified participants will be asked to collect used sanitary products in order for blood loss to be measured. Participants will also keep diaries to record information about their menstrual bleeding and number of sanitary products used and to study medication intake.

Women who are eligible for the study will be compensated for their time and travel and receive study-related medical care by a licensed physician. Study

Move afoot to reduce trans fats

(NAPSA) — Trans fats are in the news a lot these days because a new regulation requiring that they be included on food nutrition labels is now in effect. Trans fats are created when liquid oils are made into solids by a process called partial hydrogenation. This increases shelf life and flavor stability, but at the cost of increased health risks.

These fats have been found to raise blood levels of LDL (or "bad") cholesterol. That means a significantly increased risk of heart disease.

Partially hydrogenated vegetable fats are present in about 40 percent of the food on grocery store shelves. Cookies, crackers, and microwave popcorn are big sources of trans fats, as are other processed foods such as margarines, butter-type spreads and cooking or baking shortenings, salad dressings, cakes, donuts, snack chips, chocolate candy, some breakfast cereals, French fries and other fried snack foods.

As of January 2006, manufacturers are required to list trans fats as part of the nutritional information box on all food labels.

That's why there's a movement to reduce and eliminate trans fats from foods.

The new regulation doesn't apply yet to foods people buy in restaurants and other away-from-home eateries. However, food-service operators — including the big fast-food chains — know that they share the responsibility for providing good food that can be part of a healthy diet.

Most of the 925,000 restaurants in the U.S. have fryers, and those fryers use almost 18,000 tons of fat each year, much of it partially hydrogenated fat and oils. These restaurants are looking at ways to reduce trans fats in their menu items without cutting out taste, and that includes finding alternatives to partially hydrogenated oils.

One alternative gaining interest is an oil called low-linolenic soybean oil, made from a specially bred soybean. It was developed specifically to replace partially hydrogenated oils and can be used alone or in blends with other vegetable oils that have low or no trans fats to decrease or even eliminate trans fats in the foods fried in it.

To protect your health when you choose foods to enjoy at home, read the nutrition information panel and the ingredient label on packaged foods. And when you dine out, ask what sort of oil the restaurant is using. In both cases, you want to avoid partially hydrogenated oils and tropical oils (which contain high levels of unhealthy saturated fats). When you see "low-linolenic soybean oil," you know you'll be eating healthy.

For more information on trans fat reduction, visit the Web site www.ZeroTransSoy.com.

About 40 percent of the food on grocery store shelves — and much of the fried foods on restaurant menus — is made with trans fat-containing partially hydrogenated vegetable fats.

Leal goes 2-2 at State; ends season as among top eight in class

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

Pampa High's Richard Leal went 2-and-1 Friday at the UIL State Tournament in Austin. Going into Saturday's match, Leal was the only panhandle area wrestler left in the 103 weight class.

Head coach Josh Cadenhead had nothing but praise for Leal at the end of Friday's matches. "He was really focused today," said Cadenhead.

Leal lost his opening match to Trinity's Adam Purcell (17-0), but bounced back against Alex Cihak of Rockwall, 4-1.

In his third match of the day, Leal defeated Katy's Nick Waltman, 2-1, earning him the right to wrestle for third place Saturday against James Ahlsweide of San Antonio Lee.

Leal took to the mat at 10 Saturday morning where he lost to Jonathan Dotray of San Antonio Roosevelt.

Said Cadenhead immediately afterward, "Richard really wrestled well and ends his season ranked among the top eight in his class (103)."

Coach Cadenhead is already looking forward to next season. "I had no seniors this year, so I have every one coming back."

Leal finished the season with an impressive overall record of 34-8.

After opening the inaugural Cavalier Classic baseball tournament by routing Dalhart 22-0, Pampa took care of West Texas High 22-1 in Friday's first game. James Coffee sent two ball yard in that game. He also homered Thursday.

In game two Friday, the Harvesters faced Perryton, taking the Rangers in a 9-5 final. Tyson Hickman stood tall on the hill pitching a complete game, bagging 14 K's along the way. Jake Craig went 3-for-4, including a home run and six RBI.

Sports Day will have complete tournament results in Monday's edition.

WINTER OLYMPICS

Big names go down in first slalom run

SESTRIERE, Italy (AP) — Favorite Giorgio Rocca of Italy crashed and top American hopes Ted Ligety and Bode Miller also were eliminated in a brutal first of two runs of the Olympic men's slalom Saturday.

With defending Olympic champion Jean-Pierre Vidal of France sidelined with an arm he broke Friday while skiing for pleasure, the final Alpine race of the Turin Games was a wide-open affair.

Benjamin Raich of Austria, gold medalist in the giant slalom, was fastest with a first-run time of 53.37 seconds, only 0.01 seconds ahead of Kalle Palander of Finland. Kentaro Minagawa of Japan was third, 0.07 out of the lead.

Miller, the World Cup overall champion a year ago, will leave the Italian Alps without a medal. He finished his lackluster Olympics by straddling a gate just a few seconds into his run, then skied off the course and raised his arms in mock excitement.

Miller, who has been a local nightlife fixture throughout the games, told The Associated Press he was content with his experience.

"As far as my own personal involvement, I would not change anything. I had an awesome Olympics," Miller told AP sports columnist Jim Litke in an interview. "My preparation certainly could have been different, but I'm not a guy who looks back."

Earlier Friday, Bill Marolt, president and chief executive officer of the U.S. Ski and Snowboard Association, said he would have "a heart-to-heart" talk with Miller at the end of this season regarding his declining performances.

"I don't believe we should have conversations like this in the media," said Marolt after praising what Miller had done for the sport in past years. "But clearly it will be something we will address at the year's end, and I don't know where that will go right now."

Nine of the top 29 skiers in the competition could not even finish the first run because they either crashed or straddled a gate.

And that didn't include Ligety, who won a surprise gold medal in the Olympic combined with two blazing slalom runs.

"I thought today would be my day to shine," he said, "but it didn't work out that way."

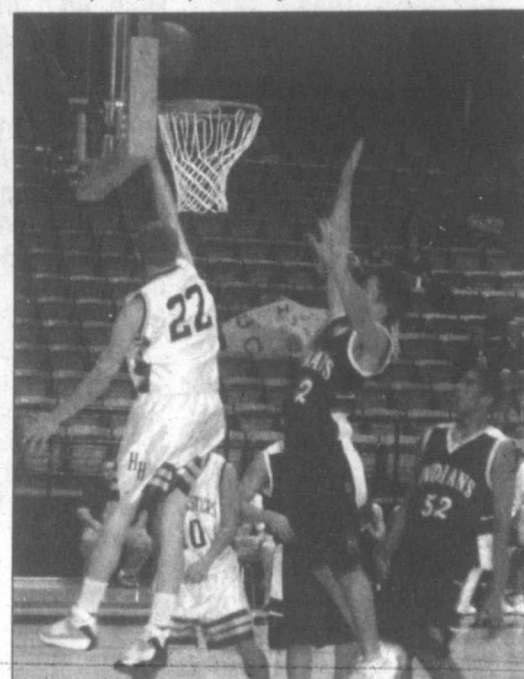

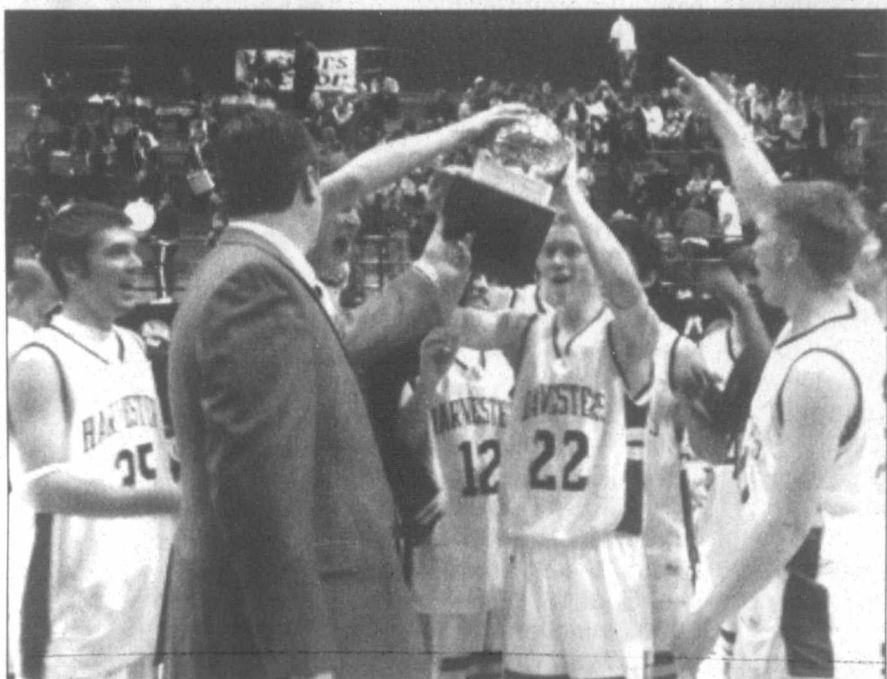

He made it to the bottom in what would have been a medal-contending time — but for his disqualification for straddling a gate early on the course.

"Part of it was the snow was slicker than we expected and part of it was Olympic jitters — guys are going for it," Ligety said. "I still have one gold, so I'm not mad."

The stands at the edge of Sestriere were filled and the mountain village had a festive pre-race atmosphere as Italians crowded to cheer on their last and best hope for an Alpine medal.

Pampa 89, El Paso Ysleta 60

Following Tuesday night's bidistrict championship win, Pampa head coach Dustin Miller said what fans saw that night was what had been coming all season long — his team ready to bust out and prove just how good it really is.

He also said a number of times during the regular season he felt his guys were cruising under most everyone's radar.

What the Harvesters did to El Paso Ysleta Friday night in Seminole was possibly more dominating than the bidistrict win.

And if Pampa has been flying under the radar, what they pulled off last week alone should cause NORAD to start tracking them.

The Indians were never in this game. From tip off to end, the Harvesters were in complete control, racing out to an early 6-0 lead.

The margin grew exponentially as the game went on until Ysleta found itself down 24-7 after the first quarter, making an Indian recovery almost impossible.

"We spoke about jumping on them early and letting them know they were in for a battle," said Miller. "And they definitely jumped on them early."

Miller praised his team for meeting its goal of winning every quarter of the game Friday night, especially the first. "I could not have asked for a better start," he said. "I could not ask for much more in an area championship game. I was very proud of all of these kids."

Following the first period, Pampa played smart, ball control offense, but still kept the pace and the heat on Ysleta.

Jarett Kotara was sharp in the paint at both ends of the floor snagging stray shots and muscling past Indian defenders for sure buckets.

Ysleta did what it could to hinder the 6'9" Harvester senior, but Kotara was cool under pressure and foul free until early in the third quarter.

Sharod Young, Tyler Hall and Braydon Barker were just as crisp. The three worked with Kotara to move the ball effectively, waiting for the right shot.

Kotara, Hall and Young were rewarded for their patience as each ended the night in double-digits.

Pampa was impressive in taking advantage of its own misses Friday night as well, leaving little for Ysleta to take off and run with. At the same time, the Harvesters were able to turn Indian misses into Pampa points.

Lost in Friday's performance was the quiet, journeyman-like play of freshman Matt Smith, a remarkable talent who plays more mature than his years. His solid screens cleared lanes and he was always quick to spot an open teammate with pass. He also secured a number of rebounds Friday night.

Also impressive was the number of Harvesters fans that made the five hour trip from Pampa to Seminole to cheer the team on.

The strong turnout must have been a great boost to the team. And the traveling Harvester nation was in full throat Friday night.

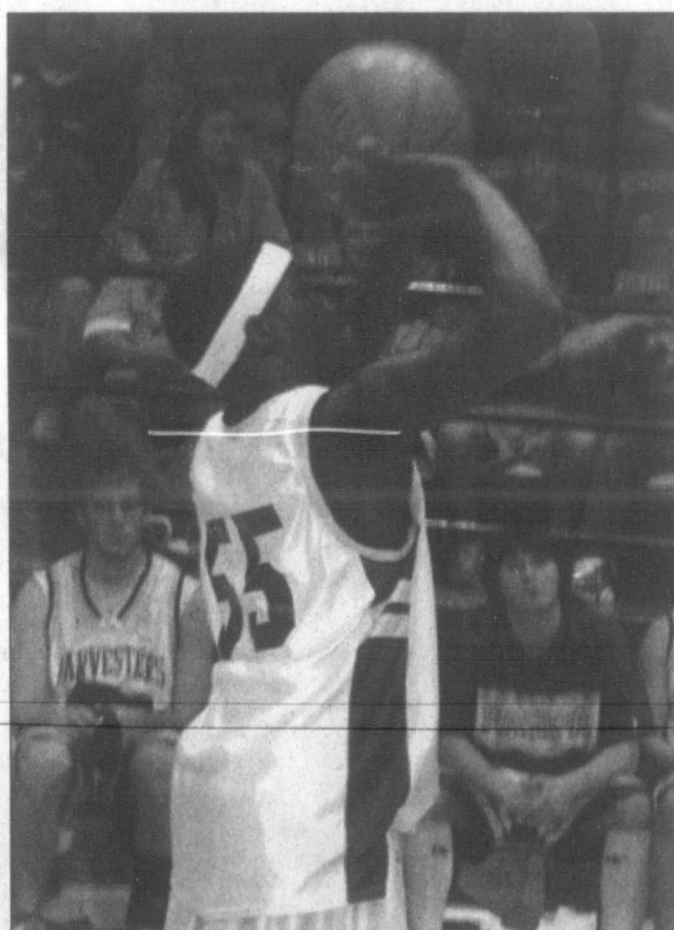

They won't have quite as far to travel for the next Pampa playoff game. The Harvesters (25-6) will meet Lubbock Estacado in a quarterfinal game Tuesday night at Canyon High School in Canyon. That game is scheduled for a 7:30 start.

It could be a big night of 3-4A vs. 4-4A basketball in Canyon Tuesday. Though unconfirmed at press time, it did appear possible Palo Duro and Plainview would face each other prior to the Pampa - Estacado game.

Leading scorers from Friday night were

Line Score	1	2	3	4
Pampa	24	21	25	19
Ysleta	7	18	20	15

Stats
Sharod Young 25 points; Jarett Kotara 23 points, 12 rebounds; Tyler Hall 22 points, eight rebounds; Braydon Barker nine points, nine assists; Matt Smith, six rebounds.

ROCKETS CRUISE

Houston edges Warriors, 91-88

HOUSTON (AP) - Yao Ming knows that when Tracy McGrady is out, even more is expected of him.

Lucky for the Houston Rockets, he was up to the challenge on Friday night.

Yao scored 22 points and had a season-high 21 rebounds and the Rockets beat the Golden State Warriors 91-88 for their first win this season without McGrady. Juwan Howard also added 22 points for Houston.

McGrady was not with the team because of a death in the family, but Houston still won its season-high fourth straight at home. The Rockets had been 0-13 when their leading scorer didn't play.

"When Tracy is out of the game, it's really hard for us to get open shots," Yao said. "That puts more pressure on me and I had to play much harder."

Jason Richardson, who had a season-high 39 points, had a chance to put the Warriors on top with 2 seconds left. But Yao put heavy pressure on his 3-point attempt, and it bounced off the glass. David Wesley was fouled and made one of two free throws to secure the win.

The Rockets led by as many as 15, but squandered that lead and had to overcome a six-point fourth-quarter deficit for the win. It was their ninth win in 11 outings.

"I don't think our execution was very good," Wesley said. "Our shot selection wasn't very good and, obviously, we were not defending."

Keith Bogans, acquired from Charlotte on Feb. 9, got his first start with Houston in McGrady's place and scored 13 points.

Rockets coach Jeff Van Gundy was pleased with Bogans' effort, but said he was not in the condition to play 41 minutes Friday.

"He played a great game," Van Gundy said. "I do love Keith's competitive nature. We sorely missed those kind of personalities. We need guys who have an edge to them."

Another thing the Rockets need is tough defense, something that Van Gundy believes Yao brings to the team.

"I don't think Yao gets the credit defensively for the improvements he's made in lateral quickness and mobility," Van Gundy said. "He's made great strides, and it's a nuance of the game that very few want to recognize."

Richardson had a nifty one-handed dunk to pull Golden State within two with about 30 seconds left, but the Warriors would get no closer.

"J-Rich had a monster game and he needed some help from other people," Warriors coach Mike Montgomery said.

Houston tied the game when rookie Luther Head hit a 3-pointer with under 5 minutes to go, and two free throws by Yao put the Rockets ahead 84-82.

Golden State tied the game at 76 early in the fourth when Richardson capped an 8-0 run with his second 3-pointer of the quarter. His dunk less than a minute later gave the Warriors their first lead of the game.

The Rockets didn't score for the first six minutes of the fourth quarter. Instead their offense consisted of bad passes and poor shots. Wesley's 20-footer with under 6 minutes remaining ended the drought.

"We were caving in and I thought they found a spirit and resolve in the last six minutes," Van Gundy said.

Houston led throughout the third quarter, but the Warriors threatened late in the third when a 3 by Richardson cut the lead to 66-65.

The Rockets answered with a dunk by Yao and two straight 3-pointers by Head, including an acrobatic one as the shot clock expired, to stretch the lead to 74-65.

Richardson's seven 3-pointers tied a franchise record. It's the second time he's matched the total.

Pain

—More than half of headache sufferers report adverse effects on their work, family and social lives as a direct result of their headaches.

—Among those taking prescription drugs for their headaches, narcotic analgesics are most common (45 percent), with 88 percent of prescription users also taking OTC medications for headache. People with the most frequent headaches are twice as likely as less frequent sufferers to combat their problem with prescription drugs.

—People with chronic headaches are so severely affected that they would be willing to pay more than twice their income for a cure.

—More women than men and more adults than children are treated for craniofacial pain but it can happen to anyone.

Treatment commonly employs painless procedures that help stimulate muscles and joints to heal and function normally.

Medicaid and you're not sure how to get your medicines now? Whatever questions you have, Medicare has answers.

Here are some tips people with Medicare can use to make sure their first trip to the pharmacy goes smoothly:

- When you first join a Medicare drug plan, you'll get an acknowledgement letter in the mail about a week after you join. Your plan ID card should arrive three to five weeks later.

- If you need to go to the pharmacy before your ID card arrives, bring the acknowledgement letter from your plan, your Medicare and/or Medicaid card, and a photo ID.

- Save the receipts from your pharmacist.

- For additional assistance, call 1-800-MEDICARE, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

If your pharmacist is having trouble confirming what plan you're in or whether you also get Medicaid, he can also call a special toll-free number that Medicare set up for pharmacists to get help. People with Medicare who also get Medicaid should be able to get their prescriptions filled with minimal copayments and no deductibles.

If you haven't joined a Medicare drug plan yet, don't worry. You have until May 15, 2006, to choose and join a plan without having to pay a penalty. Call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227; TTY users call 1-877-486-2048) to learn about your options for getting the coverage you need, and the convenience and peace of mind you deserve.

Aerial display coming to Square House Museum

PANHANDLE — Carson County Square House Museum will open a new exhibit by Randy Algoe next month. Algoe's display of aerial photography will be shown in the museum's Purvines Gallery through April. The museum will also host an exhibit of Nancy Riley's art students during March.

Riley's exhibit will consist of the art work of Panhandle high school and junior high school students.

Algoe will make an appearance at the museum during a reception from 2:30 until 4 p.m. March 12.

A native of Groom, Algoe's family moved to South Padre Island when he was a toddler. He returned to Carson County with his older brothers to spend summers and vacations with relatives.

Starting out in his dad's gas station on the Gulf, he rented beach equipment and worked at various other jobs, including lifeguard, busboy, waiter and go-cart mechanic. Unable to raise enough funds to go to college, Algoe joined the Texas National Guard and trained as a helicopter mechanic and door gunner. He qualified as a marksman with M-16s and grenades.

Still living on South Padre Island, Algoe later established his own remodeling and cabinet business. He eventually, through an association with a movie technician named Thaine Morris, himself became a freelance movie technician and screenwriter.

Now, after his 23rd screenplay, Algoe relaxes by doing aerial photography.

For more information on either of these exhibits, contact the museum at (806) 537-3524.

How does your garden grow?

Fertilizer facts for healthy soil, healthy plants and healthy food

FAMILY FEATURES EDITORIAL SYNDICATE

Growing healthy, fresh vegetables in your backyard is easier said than done, right? Wrong.

Growing a bountiful garden is easier than you think. In fact, nearly half of the nation's homeowners grow vegetables for their dinner tables and to share with family and friends. Growing fresh vegetables for your family is as healthy as it is rewarding because the nutrients in vegetables provide vitamins and minerals that are essential to your good health.

Beyond weeding and watering

Tips for long-term garden maintenance

Fertilizer trouble-shooting

It's not uncommon for soil to need a little pick-me-up later in the growing season as your vegetables remove nutrients from the soil to grow. Healthy, thriving plants will resist insects, outgrow weeds and produce nutrient-rich crops. If your plants aren't receiving the proper nutrients, you'll know it.

- A plant with yellow leaves may lack nitrogen.
- A low produce yield may be due to a nitrogen deficiency.
- A plant with stunted growth and late maturity may lack potassium and/or phosphorus.
- A plant with a scorched appearance on leaves may lack potassium.
- A plant with purplish-colored leaves may lack phosphorus.
- A plant with a bruised, rotted appearance may lack calcium.
- Fruit and vegetables that do not ripen on time may lack phosphorus.
- A plant prone to wilting, and which does not seem to absorb water efficiently, may lack potassium.

Long-term care

Want fresh veggies year after year? Keep these tips in mind for healthy produce each season:

- Perform a soil test annually until test levels reach medium high to high nutrient levels, to stock soil with the nutrients it needs.
- Rotate garden beds and plant positioning year after year. This will prevent disease build-up from affecting specific species.
- If you enjoy raising the same vegetables each year, grow a flowering plant, such as sweet peas, between crops. As growing the same plant will remove essential nutrients from the soil, rotate with a plant that requires different proportions of these nutrients.
- Plants requiring different nutrient levels can be placed together and can actually aid other plants, as they won't be competing for nutrients.

Before you plant, test your soil

Most farmers perform a soil test every few years to ensure their fields have the right balance of nutrients to produce healthy, high-yield crops. Home gardeners should also test their soil before planting to determine whether the soil has the proper nutrient balance to support a garden.

While home growers may not have proper testing equipment handy in the garden shed, a local cooperative extension service agent will be able to provide advice on taking a soil sample and conducting a soil test.

"The best time to obtain a soil test is six weeks before planting," says Dr. Robert Flynn, extension agronomist with New Mexico State University's Agricultural Science Center at Artesia. "That will help you determine what nutrients you need to add to your soil, to keep your garden healthy."

Nourish your soil

Just as humans need vitamins to supplement their diets, soil needs fertilizer to help plants grow nutrient-rich produce. Fertilizers enrich soil with naturally occurring elements. Based on your soil test results, you can choose the perfect fertilizer for your soil conditions.

Organic matter, such as animal manure, contains many nutrients that plants need. However, organic materials alone seldom provide the proper balance of nutrients. Also, some organics have high levels of carbon, which can temporarily tie up nitrogen in the soil, causing leaves to turn yellow.

"With organics, you don't always know the nutrient balance you're getting," says Flynn. "Commercial fertilizers are generally easier to use and allow for greater accuracy."

Commercial fertilizers are labeled with three numbers, which provide the proportion of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium — the three essential elements for plant growth. For example, a bag of fertilizer labeled 8-8-8 contains 8 percent each of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

When using organic fertilizers, high volumes of organic matter are required. For example, if an organic fertilizer has only 3 percent nitrogen and a commercial fertilizer has 21 percent nitrogen, you would need seven times the amount of organic fertilizer to meet the nutrient levels of commercial fertilizer.

"If you do decide to use organic material, keep in mind that it takes time to mineralize and become inorganic, a form plants can use, so timing of application is essential to ensure plants are provided with the proper nutrient balance when they need it most," says Flynn.

Plant therapy

Select a garden plot that receives full sunlight — a healthy garden needs at least six hours of sun each day. The garden should be large enough to accommodate spreading and growth.

Fertilizer should be applied to the garden bed one week before planting, by distributing the recommended amount of fertilizer evenly over the growing area.

Apply water-soluble fertilizer three to six weeks after planting, depending on what the fertilizer instructions recommend.

Fertilizer should be applied more frequently when the plant is growing rapidly. At this stage, plants are removing high levels of nutrients from the soil to sustain their growth. To keep plants healthy, monitor your nutrient levels and replace the nutrients removed from the soil as needed.

"Think of the soil as a nutrient reservoir," says Flynn. "Fill the reservoir as it empties until it is balanced. Perform a soil test each year, eventually your soil will reach a balanced state."

Pampa resident Janet Bilyeu, a family nurse practitioner at Claude Medical Clinic, recently met with elected officials and staff members at the State Capitol in Austin as part of the Coalition for Nurses in Advanced Practice's 2006 Legislative Day.

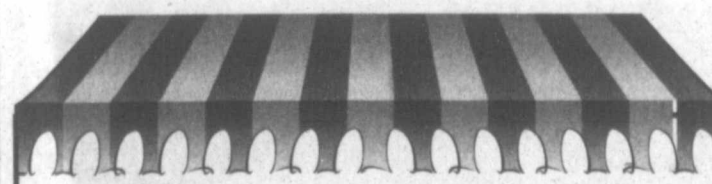

Bilyeu joined with 200 other coalition members attending the event held at the Capitol building and the Omni Hotel.

"Articulating the needs and concerns of advanced practice nurses is critically important, even when the Texas Legislature is not in session," Bilyeu said. "I was proud to represent our area of Texas at the Coalition's Capital Day, and I especially appreciate the hard work of our locally-elected officials, including State Rep. Warren Chisum and State Sen. Robert Duncan who represent us at the Texas Capitol."

"Another area of concern I addressed with the legislators involved funding for Medicaid and CHIPS. It is important our legislators continue to be aware of the needs of their smallest constituents, the children."

During the day-long seminar and Capitol visits, the APNs lobbied for prescriptive authority based on the relationship with delegating physicians rather than the location in which the APN works. Currently, APNs may However, Texas is one of only five states that bases the practice on location.

Bilyeu noted that "Advanced Practice Nurses have been permitted to prescribe in Texas since 1989, and are qualified to prescribe based on their education. However in Texas, we have situations in which an APN may prescribe for patients in one clinic in the morning, but not in a different location in the afternoon. It does not make sense that an APN is qualified to prescribe in one location, but is not qualified to prescribe for the same types of patients in another. In the end, the consumer suffers."

Bilyeu is part of a rural health clinic in Claude that specializes in family practice. She provides primary care to patients, with acute chronic illnesses, ranging in age from 3-weeks-old to 103. Her delegating physician is Dr. Randy Stewart.

TDA program helps promote rural tourism

AUSTIN — Rural communities interested in boosting awareness for their tourism events can look to the Texas Department of Agriculture's Texas Yes! Bootstrap Bucks program for year round assistance. The program offers up to $2,500 in reimbursable funds to help directly promote a local tourism event or festival.

"Rural Texas is an untapped natural resource in the Lone Star State, and this program is a surefire way to enhance each community's unique event," said Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs.

TDA will accept applications until June 31 for events that occur between now and Aug. 31. TDA will consider applications as they are received and will process applications on the second Tuesday of each month.

Tourism event and festival categories eligible for Bootstrap Bucks funding include cultural events, historical events, agriculture events, music/art events, culinary/food/wine events and nutrition/athletic events.

Recently, the City of Gladewater was approved for funding a television spot to promote its heritage celebration during the East Texas Gusher Days on April 21-22. The City of Mineola was also approved for funding several banners to advertise its one-of-a-kind Choo Choo Chili & Bean Fest on May 11-13.

Bootstrap Bucks was created specifically for communities just beginning their tourism programs. It is open to Texas Yes! Community Members. Texas Yes! is a TDA initiative designed to market and support rural Texas.

Membership to the program is free. Selected applicants will be able to use $2,500 in reimbursable funds on one of four eligible promotional items: banners, posters, newspaper advertisements and radio and television spots.

For more information on becoming a Texas Yes! member or to download Bootstrap Bucks proposal forms, visit the "Member's Corner" link at www.texasyes.org.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old son has been attending a day-care center that is run by my best friend, "Annika." While Annika was out of town attending a funeral, one of her staff members kicked my son in the head because he was "in her way." When I questioned the teacher, she smirked about it and didn't deny it. I wanted the matter addressed immediately. I called our state licensing division to have the matter investigated. The following week, when Annika returned, she advised me that child care for my son would be terminated in two days. The teacher received a simple write-up. Annika said I didn't give her the chance to correct the problem with the teacher before calling the state. I am livid that she took it personally when I tried to protect my child. I didn't do it to get her in trouble. Annika was to be my maid of honor next September, and the thought of it makes me ill. I have no desire to see my former best friend, and she lives across the street from me. This all happened last week. Should I give it time, or stand my ground? Am I overreacting about this or should I reconcile? My decision will be based on your reply. — OVERWHELMED IN TEXAS

DEAR OVERWHELMED: Your call to the state licensing board was premature. Although I understand your outrage as a protective parent, everyone might have been better served had you withdrawn your child from the day-care center until Annika returned, and not jumped the gun. Frankly, you are lucky to have your son out of there. The teacher, who appears poorly suited for her job, should have been dismissed instead of reprimanded. Only you can decide whether or not to reconcile with your best friend. Because Annika lives across the street, I see no point in trying to avoid her. However, you both might be happier if you asked someone else to buy our maid of honor.

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago, I became close friends with "Anthony" and his wife, "Erika." Erika died unexpectedly, leaving behind her husband and two children, "Heidi" and "Dustin." Heidi and I became very close, and she began looking up to me as a mother figure. Seven months ago, Heidi found out she was pregnant. She is still in school. The baby's father left her. She asked me to be with her when the baby is born. A few months ago, Anthony started seeing someone. His girlfriend is very jealous of my friendship with him and the fact that his daughter looks up to me. Heidi and the girlfriend don't really get along. Heidi asked me again if I would go with her when she goes into labor and I told her yes. Should I honor Heidi's wishes and be there with her, or should I stay away until after the baby is born? I don't want to hurt anyone. — FRIEND IN OHIO

DEAR FRIEND: Of course you should honor Heidi's wishes and be there for her. She is probably nervous and frightened about the delivery, and you would be a comfort to her. If the girlfriend doesn't like it, that will be her problem. Please don't make it yours.

DEAR ABBY: If I go to a buffet restaurant, how much of a tip should I leave at the table? I want to do it right. My friends have told me that because this is a kind of "self-serve" restaurant, we can leave whatever amount we like. I am ... CONFUSED IN WESTMINSTER, CALIF.

DEAR CONFUSED: If you want to "do it right," leave 10 percent.

SETTLEMENT OF DEBT PLAN NEAR OLD TIMERS OF PANHANDLE WILL GATHER AT LEFORS MAYOR WALKER PRAISES WORLD FLIERS FOR FEAT OF AIR

EXCITING DAY FOR TRIPPERS IN NEW YORK

FLIERS ARE PRESENTED
MEDALS FROM CITY
AT SERVICES
MRS. GATTY THRILLED

MRS. POST SAYS RIDE
UP BROADWAY WAS WONDERFUL

NEW YORK, July 2. (AP)—Walter Post and Harold Gatty covered today perhaps the most nerve-racking stretch of their record-breaking trip around the world—the six miles from the Battery and 46th street.

Only the "Whinnie Mae" herself, sturdy maid of the world, was given a chance to take the day quietly. She stood like a patient giant in her Roosevelt field manager, into which she had been rolled, and when the world-record trip ended last night after eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes.

The day began for Harold Gatty, navigator of the flight, when his wife, after a plane-train trip from Cleveland, Ohio, came into his hotel and awakened him with a kiss shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Gatty and Mr. Post, together with Florence C. Hall, millionaire oil man who backed the flight, breakfasted lightly, and then the procession of welcome began.

There was no privacy for the fliers or their wives. New York's enthusiasm over their feat was too great for that.

Given Medal
At city hall, Mayor Walker extended the hand of official greeting, saying they had "written another page into the history of science, a page which will insure us greater progress, greater happiness and greater thrill to civilization itself."

He presented each with medals significant of the esteem in which the city held them.

Post and Gatty responded briefly, saying merely they "appreciated the reception given by New York."

By MRS. HAROLD GATTY
By Associated Press
NEW YORK, July 2.—If I had at my command all the words Shakespeare used I couldn't describe my flight and this wonderful reception New York has given us.

Wonderful Welcome
Not being a poet, but just a housewife, all wrapped up in the welfare of my kiddies and husband, I just say it has been wonderful, thrilling, gorgeous.

I always knew Harold and Mr. Post would do it. They are a combination nothing can beat, not even the weather, which is just about the worst menace a flier can face.

All through this exciting day, I've been saying to myself how proud our three children are going to be of their father when they fully realize what it is all about.

May Be Aviators
Alan, who is the oldest, is only 5, but I think he understands a lot about what this means already. Lindsay and Ronald are three and two, so they don't know what a wonderful thing it is to fly around the world, but they will some day. And I guess they'll probably be aviators when they grow up.

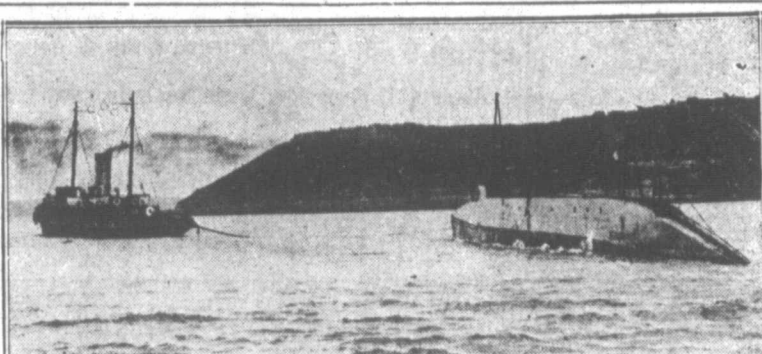

Out in California, where the children are now, they seemed something important was happening, even Ronald, who would run out of the house every time he heard an airplane, point upward with his little hand and say: "Airplane, Daddy, Daddy."

I haven't any immediate plans except to go to the theater tonight with Mrs. Post, Elinor Smith and some other people. After that I don't know. That will have to wait until Harold and I can have a proposition.

CRIPPLED NAUTILUS FINALLY REACHES IRISH COAST

It was a crippled but apparently not a discouraged Nautilus that limped into Queenstown, Ireland, harbor after her adventurous journey across the Atlantic. For Sir Hubert Wilkins and the crew were still en route to the north pole when this picture was taken of the battered submarine in an Irish bay. With her starboard engine damaged, and her periscope and潜望镜 swept away by heavy seas, the Nautilus had been towed almost to the Irish coast by the U. S. S. Wyoming. The submarine was taken to Cork for the recharging of her batteries.

SWIFT "RAIL ZEPPELIN" ON RUN

With a long-down will of its siren, the strange-looking "rail Zeppelein" started at top speed to a Berlin station, while German officials pushed forward to congratulate its inventor. The propeller-driven car, stream-lined like a bullet, had covered the 23 miles between Hamburg and Berlin at an average speed of 106.32 miles an hour. At one time it attained 145.75 miles an hour—a world's record for rail travel.

MELLON TALKS WITH PREMIER ABOUT POINTS

AGREEMENT REPORTED
REACHED TO PLACE
PLAN IN EFFECT
COMPROMISE IS MADE

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP)—Strong indications that France and America were approaching an agreement satisfactory to each in a debt moratorium plan were evident tonight in official circles.

After a transatlantic telephone conversation with Secretary Mellon, Acting Secretary Castle of the state department said he was "very optimistic" over the prospects for an accord.

Officials declined to comment on the course the discussions are now following or the exact reasons for their sudden optimism.

The two nations are compromising on their demands for relief from the American stand for 25 years and the French stand for five years which suspended German reparations payments would be refunded.

May Meet Credits
America is firmly maintaining her position that credits established from continued payments of Young plan unconditional annuities must be available only to Germany. The French have been demanding that Jugoslavia, Rumania, and Czechoslovakia need credits they can provide in the same way as reparation payments would be refunded.

There were no indications as to what was being done on the American stand that credits in the bank for asserting moral claims would be available to the German government for budgetary use. France insisted on credits should be accorded only to German industry.

The French sought an adjustment of their demands for relief from guarantee deposits should Germany declare a moratorium in the future.

Answers Pelt
The American memorandum delivered to the French government yesterday answered this point in part by asserting moral claims would be available to the German government for budgetary use. France insisted on credits should be accorded only to German industry.

By Associated Press
PARIS, July 2.—Settlement on a very favorable basis of the Franco-American negotiations was expected when President Hoover's proposed war debt holiday tonight was expected shortly.

Although no official announcement was likely before tomorrow, it was learned from reliable sources that an agreement had been reached on certain of the outstanding issues in the Franco-American negotiations. American viewpoints disagreed.

Grant More Years
This information was that France had agreed to give Germany more than five years to refund a loan based on the unconditional reparations and that 10 or more years probably would be granted.

France also was said to have reconsidered her suggestion that some of this money be loaned to Jugoslavia and other small European nations whose needs would be provided for by other means.

It was learned also that France and Great Britain are approaching an agreement on the question of the guarantee fund under the Young plan. This was one of the points about which France was most concerned.

A conference scheduled for tonight between Secretary Mellon and the French representatives in the negotiations was postponed this afternoon so Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Ridge might confer with Washington on counter proposals submitted officially by the French government.

An announcement by Great Britain of her "willingness" to call a conference of the most interested nations had no apparent effect on the determination of the French and American representatives to continue their negotiations, particularly as the nations referring to in the Britain offer are signatories to the Young plan of which the United States is not one.

DROP DEAD
LAREDO, July 2. (AP)—Pilar Mata, 50, dropped dead here late today while in her garden. A coroner's verdict held death was due to a heart attack.

SOUTH TEXAS IN HEAT WAVE

RECORD TEMPERATURES
REPORTED; SHOWERS
TO GIVE RELIEF

By The Associated Press
Temperatures as a whole sought the south in Texas today as the state continued to sweeter under its protracted heat wave. New heat records for the season were reported from Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Dallas, and Texas.

Waxahatche had 104 and at Fort Worth the heat drove the mercury up to 101 degrees.

Dallas saw the temperature climb to the 100 mark for the first time this season. Wichita Falls reported the maximum for the day was 103 degrees.

Temple fell within that class, reporting a maximum of 101.

Rains on the South Plains last night and today gave that section of the state some relief from the heat. Temperatures there continued to hover around 91 degrees.

Amarillo reported a maximum of 93 for the day, and anticipated even lower heat marks for tomorrow as the weather bureau reported probable rain.

Houston sweltered as the temperature hit the 96 mark, and Austin saw the mercury reach 95. Abilene reported a maximum of 98. Weather reports today indicated that relief would come with rain weather.

PAMPA TOPIC OF OUR CITY

By O.E.H.

Refund of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company to make a contribution to the Denver right-of-way fund is the outgrowth of a most unfortunate attitude on the part of that company, namely, that its only duty is to render telephone service.

What We Expect
Pampa needs good telephone service, but it needs more. It needs telephones to aid in the promotion and investment in its future. Some of these investments must be made in advance of returns. The telephone company is not asked to make an out-and-out gift to the Denver or anyone else. The purchase of right-of-way is hastened by the construction of a road which will have a large bearing upon this city's future. The result of such construction will be to bring profits far in excess of what is given now to purchase right-of-way and terminal facilities.

The telephone company evidently eschews the responsibility of citizenship. It wants Pampa citizens to sacrifice to build a city in order that there may be more telephones. This is an attitude which should be deeply resented.

An Example
It is true that the telephone company has made and is making extensive investments and expenditures. But so have many other firms which are giving liberality. The Southwestern Public Service company, for instance, has invested heavily in Pampa, and in addition has granted five (5) rate reductions in the last five years. It has made one of the biggest contributions in the city.

PAMPANS SIGN RAIL PLEDGE

TWENTY-TWO ON PAPER
TO GUARANTEE LANE
FOR RAILROAD

Twenty-two Pampa business and professional men yesterday formally signed papers guaranteeing right-of-way and terminal facilities for the Fort Worth and Denver railway line from the Wheeler county line to the terminal in Pampa. The signing of the papers and that is when the cooperation of citizens of Pampa and Gray county will be needed, according to Mel B. Davis, general chairman. Define starting time of construction of the line will depend on the degree of security right-of-way, he says. Denver officials desire to start the grade soon after August 1.

Mr. Davis, general chairman, department, and Bert Walker of the legal department of the Fort Worth and Denver were in Pampa yesterday and witnessed the signing of Pampa's pledge.

Signatures on the guarantee were: Tom E. Rose, J. N. Duncan, C. T. Hunkapiller, E. J. Donigan, Jr., B. E. Finley, W. Purviance, Earl Burdick, J. M. McDonald, W. H. Curry, Mel B. Davis, Clyde Patmore, B. W. Rose, Shier Faulkner, C. C. Cook, Loran Boyd, A. J. McAllister, Ivy E. Duncan, C. P. Buckler, W. R. Campbell, Charlie Thuit, C. H. Walker and E. C. Barrett.

REWARD OFFERING Sheriff Lou L. Blane will pay a reward of $10 to the person finding his badge. The sheriff lost his badge yesterday in the LeFors plane crash. He has a reward of $10 for the person who finds it. The badge is a gold badge with the name "L. Blane" on it. The reward is for the person who finds it and brings it to the sheriff's office.

Waterfront Damage Not Up To Estimate

PORT ARTHUR, July 2. (AP)—Damage in a waterfront fire at the Gulf Refining company's docks here last night, which destroyed the large Shenango, loaded with gasoline, gutted the tanker Gulf of Mexico and scorched another tanker, the Currier, as well as damaging the docks and destroying several smaller craft, will not run as high as the $500,000 estimate originally set. Chas. Stephenson, plant superintendent, said tonight.

Lightning Victims Recovering Shock

Mrs. E. M. Mathews, paralyzed when struck by lightning late Wednesday afternoon, was reported recovering yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Mathews' lower limbs were paralyzed when the bolt entered the tent in which she, her husband, and an 18-month-old baby were living. Mrs. Mathews received head injuries which stunned him for some time but he recovered and was able to get help for his wife. The baby, sleeping on a bed in the room, was unharmed.

Mrs. George Woodhouse, stunned when lightning entered the Crystal Palace confectionery, was completely recovered yesterday.

Highway Routing Is Yet Uncecided

Routing of highway 33 through Pampa east cannot be decided until the definite route of entry of the new Fort Worth and Denver railway line into Pampa is established. It was decided at a meeting of members of the City Planning commission, city commissioners, county commissioners, and representatives of the state highway department yesterday afternoon in the city hall.

Two possible routes were discussed, one leading due east from the present highway along Brown street and then out the present easterly route. The other route would be to curve south about the city limits and then east along Crawford street to near the east city limits where the road would turn north to join the present location.

It is expected that grade for the highway will be built this fall with paving next year.

W. B. Stone is seriously ill in Pampa hospital.

THREE DROWN AT TUCUMCARI

WATER SWEEPS DOWN
SIDE OF MOUNTAIN AND HITS CAR

TUCUMCARI, N. M., July 2. (AP)—A wall of water sweeping down from the mountains through an arroyo struck an automobile loaded with tourists from Fullerton, Calif., five miles from here today, drowning three.

The water, originating from heavy rains in the mountains, struck where the dry creek bed crossed the highway simultaneously with the tourist car.

The dead are: Mrs. Lorna Wickes, 38; her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Todd, 20; and her infant child.

Bodies of the victims were recovered late tonight after an all day search by officers and citizens.

Mrs. Wickes was found on the bank of the Canadian river, 30 miles from the scene of the tragedy, about 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Todd was located between two boulders about five miles down the draw from the accident. The child's body was discovered on a sand bar about two miles below the mother.

STAD OLD HOUSE OF COMMONS ENJOYS 'BLOODY' FREE-FOR-ALL

LONDON, July 2. (AP)—A rough and tumble fight, unprecedented for more than a quarter of a century, took place today in the stall old house of commons when left wing laborites resisted the suspension of one of their members.

Later, after order was restored, the government escaped defeat by only five votes on an amendment to the Snowden land tax bill which would have exempted Garden Cities and Garden suburbs from the tax. Several liberals voted against the government.

The trouble was ended after the offending member, J. McGovern, of Shetlington, Glasgow, who had defied the speaker, was removed bodily from his seat and ejected.

The disturbance arose over the preaching of the gospel on Glasgow Green. McGovern asked if the secretary of state for Scotland was prepared to investigate the arrest of four lay preachers for a breach of the city law forbidding meetings on the Green.

Dissatisfied with the secretary's reply that he would investigate, McGovern remained on his feet despite shouts of "order" from the conservatives. Prime Minister MacDonald then moved the suspension of the member and was upheld by a vote of 315 to 16.

Ball McGovern refused to leave and the speaker said: "I must ask the sergeant-at-arms to remove the honorable member."

A large attendant took McGovern's feet and another his head and started toward the door. "Be a man," someone shouted from the labor benches and McGovern's friends charged in to the rescue. In an instant the game was in an uproar and the l.e.-for-all was on.

Milk Price Will Not Be Raised

The Taylor Dairy dairy yesterday afternoon announced that the retail price of milk in Pampa would remain at 10 cents a quart and not be raised to 12 cents as announced last week. The wholesale price will also remain the same as before the announced jump.

DEPUTY SHERIFF HELD FOR KILLING MAN IN DRY RAID

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 2. (AP)—Testimony he shot George Griffin when he jumped off a bed, and cursing him, threw one hand toward his hip pocket, John McCall, Bowie county deputy sheriff, on trial in Miller county circuit court on charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Griffin, told the defense testimony late today.

"I shot him to protect my own life. I thought Griffin was going to shoot me—that was the only reason I shot him," McCall testified.

McCall testified J. I. Wiselater, attorney, and Joe Youcem, Texas policeman, informed him of death threats made by Griffin because he (McCall) had testified against Griffin in a liquor case.

McCall denied knowing that Griffin had charged him with protecting a liquor ring in an affidavit made in a federal court.

His testimony regarding the raid and the shooting of Griffin differed materially from that offered by Tom Sewell, Arkansas policeman, and state witness.

A big-by-law report of the Stribling-Schleming match will be received by the News-Post by members of the right-of-way committee which includes financial and business leaders of the city.

The reasoning of the telephone company would be amusing if it were not tragic, declared Chas. C. Cook, leader for two years of the forces to obtain the Pampa-Childress line.

The telegram from M. P. Caldwell, division commercial superintendent, was as follows:

"YOUR TELEGRAM JUNE 30TH, THIS COMPANY'S POLICY WITH REFERENCE TO CONTRIBUTION OF RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY FUND WAS EXPLAINED IN A LETTER TO OUR DISTRICT MANAGER AT AMARILLO A DAY OR TWO AGO AND HE WILL EXPLAIN TO YOU BRIEFLY THE TELEPHONE COMPANY SPENDS LARGE SUMS OF MONEY FOR RIGHT OF WAY AND NEW CONSTRUCTION IN DEVELOPING NEW TERRITORY VERY MUCH THE SAME AS RAILWAY COMPANIES. FOR THIS REASON WE FEEL THAT WE CANNOT BE EXPECTED TO CONTRIBUTE TO PURCHASE OF RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY."

The telegram was addressed to Mel B. Davis, chairman of the right of way committee. A substantial contribution had been expected from the telephone company. Through W. H. Curry, local manager, the Southwestern Public Service company donated $1,000.—The gas-utility, the Central States Power & Light company, is now considering an invitation of the committee to make a contribution.

ATTEND THE NEWS-POST FIGHT PARTY

Everybody is invited to attend the News-Post annual fight party in front of the newspaper office beginning at 9 o'clock tonight.

A big-by-law report of the Stribling-Schleming match will be received by the News-Post by members of the right-of-way committee which includes financial and business leaders of the city.

The reasoning of the telephone company would be amusing if it were not tragic, declared Chas. C. Cook, leader for two years of the forces to obtain the Pampa-Childress line.

The telegram from M. P. Caldwell, division commercial superintendent, was as follows:

"YOUR TELEGRAM JUNE 30TH, THIS COMPANY'S POLICY WITH REFERENCE TO CONTRIBUTION OF RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY FUND WAS EXPLAINED IN A LETTER TO OUR DISTRICT MANAGER AT AMARILLO A DAY OR TWO AGO AND HE WILL EXPLAIN TO YOU BRIEFLY THE TELEPHONE COMPANY SPENDS LARGE SUMS OF MONEY FOR RIGHT OF WAY AND NEW CONSTRUCTION IN DEVELOPING NEW TERRITORY VERY MUCH THE SAME AS RAILWAY COMPANIES. FOR THIS REASON WE FEEL THAT WE CANNOT BE EXPECTED TO CONTRIBUTE TO PURCHASE OF RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY."

HOROSCOPE • SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 26

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Feb. 26, 2006:

You might want to think rather than act more often this year. You need your solitude more than ever. Follow through on what is important after you reflect and think. You might discover that others feel strongly and want to pitch in. You have a way that draws many to you. Think positively, and you will be able to manifest your energy and intellect. If you are single, check out each person you meet with care. If you are attached, your relationship will grow with more romantic get-aways. AQUARIUS cares.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You are the cat's meow right now. Everyone wants to be around you. Listen and enjoy someone you really care about. He or she cannot get enough of you, either. Indulge yourself to the max. Not every day can be so social and carefree. Tonight: Party the weekend out. This Week: Don't brood about a change. Do it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ Others simply enjoy themselves wherever they are. You know how to handle a perverse but interesting situation. A partner could change his or her tune, for better or worse. Your attitude could determine the direction in which he or she heads. Tonight: Out late. This Week: Use the first few days of the week to move a project forward. Midweek, know that you don't need to be a bundle of energy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ A day trip or exploring a museum brings relaxation and a different scenario. Someone could change moods right in front of you. Your energy helps you compensate for a problem. Think positively. Tonight: Enjoy feeling mentally chilled out.

This Week: Take your bows; others will applaud.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Understand that others might be reacting to your style, but do you really want to change who you are? More mutual respect could be the product of a close discussion. Go with the flow. Tonight: Happy as can be.

This Week: Don't make any conclusive decisions without getting the facts. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Others are willful and difficult to contain. You can identify with them, as this type of personality is not foreign to you. Unusual resourcefulness earmarks Leo. Use it and adapt as you create a very special, fun day. Tonight: If at the right point in your life, a relationship could be heating up.

This Week: Teamwork defines the final product.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ You could be overwhelmed by what you want to do and how much is dropped on your plate. Know when to think through a decision. Laugh and relax rather than push yourself. Forget your to-do list. Tonight: Easy does it. This Week: Know when you cannot be in control — like now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ Your flirtatious manner could get you into deep trouble, though you might not agree. The risk you are taking might feel worth it right now, but are you ready for the potential ramifications? Tonight: Frisky and playful. This Week: Easy does it when dealing with associates. You might decide to approach a problem differently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ You might be overtired and exhausted. Consider what might be going on with a special friend or family member. You might need some distance, for your own sake. If you kick back and relax, you'll see a situation differently. Tonight: Order in. This Week: Your imagination takes your mind in a new direction. Let the body follow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might want to rethink a question more carefully. In fact, you actually enjoy considering the pros and cons as well as the possibilities. You enjoy yourself wherever you go. A conversation takes many different turns. Tonight: Chat up a storm.

This Week: Honor fundamentals first. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ Check out an expenditure before you leap to make it. Understand that many people don't agree, but do you need them? You head in your own direction with certainty and knowledge. Tonight: Treat yourself.

This Week: Try another approach, and you'll get new responses. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ You illuminate any place you go. In fact, you could have an enormous impact on others. What might seem like a simple gathering turns out to be a really happy and fun celebration. Don't try to pigeonhole anyone. Tonight: What would make you happy?

This Week: Make a long-overdue money resolution. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★ Know when you are best off canceling your plans and perhaps choosing an activity that suits your mood better. Investigate an offer that actually charms your mind. Think positively, and you will see results. Tonight: Early to bed. This Week: Decisions you make right now stick.

HOROSCOPE • MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Feb. 27, 2006:

What you want could drop on your plate when you least expect it this year. You can count on surprises working for you, even if you don't like them at first. Your friends expand as you naturally network, without even realizing what you are doing. Your energy surges and drops without you having the control you might like. Pacing yourself could be directly connected to succeeding this year. A New Moon today bestows the gifts of creativity and magnetism on you. If you are single, you will meet a plethora of potential suitors. Most likely, more than one person will catch your interest. Go for different. If you are attached, your relationship will benefit from a cooperative effort to make a dream a reality. PISCES is a soul mate.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★ Knowing when to kick back could help create much more of what you want. Right now, the time is ripe for an inner resolution or reflection. You could lose your temper out of the blue and damage a relationship. Unexpected events open up your perspective. Tonight: Early to bed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ You can zero in on what you want. Meetings and networking can help point you in the right direction. You could be jolted by the cost of a project or another's request. Consider what is going on with others; you can be sure something is happening. Tonight: Where your friends are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Take charge and honor your feelings. Realize more of what you need and expect from a professional situation. You will gain as a result. Listen well to someone you care about, even if he or she could irritate you at the same time. Tonight: A must appearance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Your mind drifts. Substantiate information and news you hear. Facts might not be facts, as you could discover! Your follow-through could make a big difference. New beginnings happen because of who you are. Tonight: Read between the lines.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ How you verbalize your thoughts and share your feelings might be restructured by information that heads your way. Work with individuals rather than groups. A friend might cost you a lot more than you'd anticipated. Tonight: A close encounter.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Others might come on strong. Though on some level you could be irritated, you will think that the best approach is a direct one. Sometimes you need to regroup and think through your ideas. Others knock on your door. Decide if you want to let them in. Tonight: Say yes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ A decision that impacts your daily life could be important. You might make a major change for the better. Gaining a perspective of the long-term implications of this decision might be hard. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ Your sixth sense will lead you if you allow it to. You might have your hands full with someone close who just might be exercising his or her power. Don't get irritated. Everyone has a right to feel whatever he or she wants.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★ Rather than get distracted by others' uproar, emphasize your priorities. You will accomplish a lot quite efficiently. Many of you will want to pull away from others, as they can be so annoying! Tonight: Visualize. Dream away in your favorite chair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Your words draw strong reactions, and not all of them are positive. Trust, however, that you'll motivate others to get off their duffs. Calls and news might distract you from the business at hand. Make that OK. Tonight: At your favorite place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ You hit a brick wall with a creative project and those you care about. Take your time. Isolate yourself if need be. Responses could be interesting if you don't take comments personally. Tonight: Light and easy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ You jump up and down with energy and enthusiasm. Today you are the zodiac's cheerleader. Others respond to your spirit-and-happiness. Someone might be jealous because you are not focused on him or her. Tonight: Where the gang is.
