POKER PLAYING BRITON TO SAIL FOR ENGLAND

LOS ANGELES, May 10 (AP)—Squire Henry Clifton, who was proud of his kings over jacks, in a poker game, is flying eastward today to England and Mrs. Clifton.

Clifton's passage came to some dollars and 20 cents. He argued with the ticket agent about paying the 20 cents, but the latter was unimpressed by the arguments of the man who more or less calmly dropped (and later regained) $150,000 in the much discussed poker game.

And so echoes of the game in which Clifton temporarily dropped some important money to Lew Brice died away, with everybody quite happy.

Counsel for Miss Marchen Jorgensen, pianist, looked forward to getting a $1,000 check from Brice, brother of Comedienne Fannie Brice, later this week.

CHARLIE MCCARTHY CAN NOW WALK LIKE A MAN

HOLLYWOOD, May 10 (AP)—Charlie McCarthy, the pinewood prodigy, walked like a man today.

Edgar Bergen's little dummy has been furnished with pliable legs and arms which move whenever Bergen wishes—just like Charlie's jaw.

NOE FIGHTS RACKETS AND TAXES ON SALES

BATON ROUGE, La., May 10 (AP)—State Senator James A. Noe introduced proposals in the legislature today to prohibit "political shake-downs" and make it violative of the constitution to enact a sales tax.

Clothed HARVARD 1941

Dancing unclothed (except for a bubble) before a night club audience is nothing compared to the apprehension of appearing fully clothed (and very demurely, too) before a group of Harvard freshmen.

The Junior play, "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary," popular English comedy, will be presented Thursday and Friday nights in the high school auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Members of the cast include the following: Mary Westley, Mary Jean Hill, Sir Henry Considine, Jimmy Moser.

NEW STAR MAY BE ONE NEAREST TO THE EARTH

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., May 10 (AP)—A star new to the astronomical charts claimed attention today because it may be the nearest one to the earth.

The star's existence was disclosed by spectra obtained by Prof. G. P. Kuiper of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory here.

Dr. Otto Struve, observatory director, said last night it was found to have "A very late M-type spectrum" duplicated only by the star, Wolf 359, the intrinsically faintest star known.

Alpha Centauri heretofore has been the nearest star known. It is about 41.3 light years, or more than 25 trillion miles, away.

PAVING-SEWER WORK STARTS HERE MONDAY

Work on the paving project in north Pampa and the sewer line in the Wilcox addition started yesterday.

Twenty WPA workers began laying curb and gutter on one block of North Somerville street from Cook avenue north.

Residents on other blocks in the project desiring early paving must deposit to the city's account in the First National bank the amount necessary to cover their share.

"We must make the work continuous and those persons not having money on deposit when work is scheduled to start will be left out," the city manager declared.

BORGER, May 10 (AP)—Harry (Lefty) Fuhrer, 38, was shot to death at his night club south of Borger last night about midnight.

Fuhrer was a former Borger baseball player, and is reported to have been a one-time payer in the Texas league and on the St. Louis Cardinals team.

He is survived by his wife, and by his father and a sister, who live in Illinois. A former wife is believed to live in Pampa, according to information given by the Carver funeral home at Borger by his present wife.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10 (AP)—A 59-year-old relief worker and a well-to-do oil man and his wife deadlocked here today in a court fight for custody of a 5-year-old boy.

"I don't want the boy adopted where I can't see him," Thomas Crouch Sr. told Judge Ben Arnold. Last October, broke and his wife in a hospital, Crouch had his four children committed to the state orphanage home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Steelman had young Tommy Crouch six months and want to adopt him, but Crouch said he now is able to support the children.

CLOSING OF OIL WELLS SATURDAYS CONSIDERED

AUSTIN, May 10 (AP)—A possibility that Texas' 80,000 oil wells might be shut down on Saturdays as well as Sundays to bring supply into line with demand appeared today.

Outright appropriations of $2,519,425,000 are included. The Works Progress Administration would receive the largest share—$1,250,000,000—to provide 2,800,000 jobs from July 1 to next February 1.

THIRD STOWAWAY TRIP TAKEN BY YOUTH, 13

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Robert Stap was at sea for the third time today as a stowaway, unwilling to sleep for even one night in his nautical bedroom at home, outfitted with a sailor's berth to indulge his love of the sea.

He boarded the Savannah line's City of Chattanooga yesterday a few hours after he had been returned on the liner, Queen Mary, from his second adventure as a stowaway—an Atlantic crossing.

To his mother, Mrs. Frederick Stap, waiting when he stepped off the Queen Mary's gangplank, he said, "Hello. I'm going to run away again."

INTENT TO ROB MAN 2 WEEKS AGO CLAIMED

An assault with intent to rob charge was filed jointly against Junior Warren, 16; Vernon Lewis, 18; and Harold Nicholson, 19, last night, in a complaint signed by Deputy O. T. Lindsey.

The charge was in connection with an attack upon William H. Vandenberg, barber, and allegedly at the intersection of North West and Francis one night two weeks ago.

Warren, one of the three arrested last night, is under suspended sentence in connection with a series of thefts over the Panhandle last winter.

Another trio, Jule Price, Leroy Ragan, and Wayne Nichols, charged with burglary in connection with taking three typewriters and an adding machine from the McLean high school Wednesday morning, was still being held in the county jail this morning.

Police had previously been called to the same block where a prowler was reported. They found no trace of the man.

TEXAN PREDICTS NEW NAZI RIOT NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The House Rules Committee approved a resolution by Representative Dies (D., Texas) today for a congressional investigation of "un-American propaganda activities in the United States."

Chairman Dickstein (D., N. Y.) of the Immigration Committee said the inquiry, which would be conducted by seven House members, was necessary to prevent "riots and bloodshed."

There is going to be another riot next week," he said. "They are going to have a parade of 100,000 Nazis opening up Camp Siegfried, Long Island."

A group of Legion members came to me yesterday and said they were ready to take the law in their own hands because they say these Nazis can't goose step and heel, Hitler, and carry on with swastikas."

He said a laboratory study might suggest a treatment that would check the malignant tumor in the retina and save what vision remained.

The child's mother, Mrs. Estelle Colan, 23, shown lower right, was near collapse at a friend's home. Her husband, Dr. Herman Colan, a dentist, expressed gratitude to the physicians for their decision.

The R. R. Is Calling All Guys Around Here Over Six Feet Four

By THE ROVING REPORTER The Roving Reporter is calling all tall guys.

That of course takes in B. P. Wray, the tallest man in town at seven feet and six inches, and "Shorty" Heiskell, and all other plainmen in this territory who are six feet and four inches tall, or more.

The R. R. wants to get all these tall guys in one bunch and show the average man that they ain't so tall after all.

Most tall guys are not sensitive about their height. They don't mind being called "shorty," "high-pockey" or "high-top."

72 MINERS DIE IN GAS BLAST

DUCKMANTON, Derbyshire, England, May 10 (AP)—Seventy-two miners were killed, 49 were known to be injured and a number of others were entombed in the wrecked workings today after two violent gas explosions in the Markham coal mine.

While rescue squads searched underground for trapped victims, Captain H. F. S. Crookshank, minister for mines, informed the House of Commons in the disaster.

Through grim coincidence, the question of danger from explosions in mines was up before Commons as a result of Ellis Smith, Laborite, asking what was being done to prevent repetition of such blasts as the one last July at the Brymbo

Bell H. D. Club Has Child Health Day Observance

"Speed children on the road to health" is the slogan of the entire nation for the 1938 Child Health program. Mrs. L. C. O'Neal said as leader of the Child Health program studied by the Bell Home Demonstration club which met recently in the home of Mrs. Melvin Whitechurch.

As an introduction on this program, Mrs. H. H. Keahey stated that years ago thinking men pointed out the necessity for preserving our natural resources. As a result of their foresight we started conservation programs—to save the wild game, the forests and the mineral wealth.

Later other foreseeing men and women reminded us of another resource even more important to conserve—the health of the nation's children.

Annually since 1928, the President of the United States has issued a proclamation making the first of May, National Child Health Day. This year for the first time, the week beginning with May Day and ending with Mother's Day was observed as Better Parenthood week.

In any program of health-building or health-preserving the importance of diet cannot be emphasized too strongly. The right food for a child will furnish material for good bones, sound teeth, and a strong sturdy body. In addition, it will provide sufficient reserves for growth and safety. Mrs. L. C. O'Neal explained the organizations of the Child Health program.

Contagious diseases common to children were discussed by the members. Chicken pox, Mrs. L. C. O'Neal; whooping cough, Mrs. T. S. Skibinski; measles and pellagra, Mrs. H. H. Keahey; typhoid fever and small pox, Mrs. Jim Brown; scarlet fever, Mrs. Melvin Whitechurch; and colds by Mrs. J. L. Morris. Some interesting facts were brought out about these various diseases.

Medical science is well prepared to handle outbreaks of most contagious diseases. Parents, by familiarizing themselves with the symptoms and proper treatment of these disorders, can aid in reducing the unnecessary toll of lives now taken by them. Contagious diseases should be reported at once to the local board of health.

During the business session with the president, Mrs. H. H. Keahey, in charge, plans were made to sponsor a cake and pie walk Friday night, May 13, at 8 o'clock in the Bell school. A short musical program will be given.

Mrs. H. H. Keahey will be hostess to the club at their next meeting on May 18. Mrs. Julia E. Kelley will be present to discuss the family budget.

BAN ON CHAIN STORES ADVOCATED BY CROWLEY

DALLAS, May 10 (AP)—Karl A. Crowley, candidate for governor of Texas, recommended a constitutional amendment today to keep chain stores out of the state.

Crowley, in an address prepared for delivery before the United States Wholesale Grocers Association, in convention here, said such an amendment should prohibit foreign corporations or owners from operating chain stores in Texas selling food, drugs, or clothing at retail prices.

Present managers of these stores should buy the establishments, Crowley suggested, thus destroying the highly-centralized, buying power of the chain groups.

"We must end the concentration of buying power in the hands of the few who, in turn, allow these few to control prices on many commodities rather than the economic law of supply and demand," Crowley said.

Crowley was one of several speakers before the association, including two other candidates for governor, Col. E. O. Thompson and William McCraw, Congressman Wright Patman also was to speak.

of the fact that the electorate of Texas has been kind to me in placing the financial affairs of the state in my hands. I am proud to be able to make the statement that, of the two hundred million dollars which goes through my department each year, the state has not lost one penny since I have been in office. He expressed his appreciation of the warm reception he is receiving in the Panhandle section, and added that he would have to leave for Austin in the next few days to resume his duties in the treasury department in the capitol building.

STUDENT BALLOTS IN ELECTION CHALLENGED

STILLWATER, Okla., May 10 (AP)—Sixty-seven Oklahoma A. & M. college students were called today to appear before a Payne county grand jury investigating reports college boys voted illegally in the last city election.

When the question of whether to continue employing students to maintain Stillwater's ball park was made an issue, students voted in large numbers and helped elect officials favoring the project.

Opponents petitioned for a grand jury, claiming students voted without registering, registered too close to election, were registered by other persons or were under age. Students replied that their activity followed calls by opponents to fraternities houses saying students had no right to vote.

'Loyal Southern Methodists' Take Case to Courts

ATLANTA, May 10 (AP)—G. Seals, Atlanta attorney, filed a petition in Superior Court today for incorporation of Loyal Southern Methodists to combat Methodist unification. It was the first of a series of legal actions considered by southern opponents of the merger, which was approved recently by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Birmingham, Ala.

Among "specific purposes" of the proposed corporation were listed: "To preserve at all hazards the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with all its property and its glorious achievements for the advance-

WIFE WITHDRAWS SUIT AGAINST 'LEFTY' GOMEZ

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Pretty June O'Dea, actress wife of Vernon ('Lefty') Gomez, Yankee pitcher, withdrew her separation suit against him today.

She received, said her attorney, a "jump cash settlement," the amount of which was not announced.

Gomez also withdrew a counterclaim for separation. Mrs. Gomez had accused the baseball star of cruelty and desertion. She had been receiving $75 a week temporary alimony. The attorneys would not discuss the plans of the couple or any possible change in the alimony arrangement. Withdrawal of the two actions followed an extended conference of the attorneys with Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy in chambers.

'GIRLS' MAY FIGHT

A Battle that ought to provide plenty of fireworks when the heavy guns let go, as they eventually will, is the fight of household workers for a measure of the benefits that workers in most other fields secured for themselves long ago.

Whether any form of household workers' organization could function effectively remains to be seen.

Despite the fact that most housewives' concern for their "girls" is genuine, restricted family budgets and the special conditions of domestic employment make household workers in some cases a most exploited class of labor. The class has awakened to this fact only in the last year or so, but movements to do something to correct the situation have already sprung up.

When the big guns do start letting go there are going to be an awful lot of fire-side headaches in this land. The housewives themselves, might do well to organize for the purpose of studying how best to adjust themselves to the situations the future may bring.

MAKE YOURSELF COMFY

Italy has prepared itself to receive Hitler in the style to which he has become accustomed.

A correspondent reports that everybody in the country who "might" for any reason bear a grudge against the German visitor is under arrest. The number of such persons, the correspondent says, runs into the thousands.

Police patrols are carefully watching all the frontiers and keeping track of all the travelers already inside. All motorists entering Rome, Naples, or Florence are carefully questioned. "Many thousands" of detectives have been concentrated in those cities.

Further preparations have been made along Hitler's route. All residents of houses along the route have been made to assume full responsibility for the actions of persons using their windows. The street decorations are voluminous. These are calculated to interfere with gunfire.

About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I was standing in the dining room of a major hotel on the East Side talking with Commander Bailis of the Coast Guard and former governor Lawrence Judd of the Hawaiian Islands when a slim, dark young man came up and addressed the Commander.

"Hello, dad," he said. "We are sitting over there behind that palm come on over."

"All right, Jack," the Commander replied. Then he said, "Gentlemen, this is my son. He's sitting with Lieutenant Walsh, of the U. S. Navy. Maybe you saw the stories about Lieutenant Walsh in the papers this afternoon."

"I certainly did," I replied. "I wonder if the Lieutenant is too tired to talk a little?"

"Not at all," exclaimed young Bailis pleasantly. "Come over and I'll introduce him to you now."

So we picked our way through the crowd until we came to a table behind a big palm tree and presently I was shaking hands with that capable young officer who is just back after 10 months in the Antares. He has been down in the polar regions seeing that the whaling regulations are observed by the American-Norwegian fishing agencies whose representatives are taking whales in the vicinity of Byrdland.

"How does it feel to be back, Lieutenant?" was a natural. "Well," replied the Lieutenant, "after ten months aboard ship, what do you think?"

His feet were planted on a nice hard floor beneath a nice white table and he was permitting the softly languorous zephyrs of music to gently brush the salt air out of his hair.

"How about those whales?" I inquired.

"They took about 3,000 of them," he replied.

"Any big ones?"

"Well, one of the blue ones hit 96 feet."

"Blue whales? What's that?"

"Oh, there are lots of different species," said the lieutenant. "Blue, sperm, fin, killer, humpback—my job was to see that the regulations were enforced. You see, I suppose I acted as a sort of naval game warden. Any humpback, for instance, under 35 feet in length, like your five-inch New York trout, must be turned back."

"We saw a lot of penguins, too. And what strange little fellows they are. When a whale

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Promises of co-operation from business in its so-called five-billion-dollar recovery program are exactly what the administration needs most. Many government officials, even though they believe in "spending," gravely doubt if the program by itself can make a dent in the depression.

Analysis of the spending-lending plan has shown its pump-priming value to be problematical and its reception has been a mixture of mild approval, apathy and opposition. What the program needs is a new business psychology which would result in turning loose a lot of private capital in anticipation of better times—and that is sadly lacking. So the administration has been trying like the dickens to get some big business men to beat the drums.

It's quite reminiscent of the 1929-30 months when President Hoover was getting all the big business men down here to do exactly the same thing. Mr. Hoover had a far easier time getting the tycoons to express "confidence" than Mr. Roosevelt is having and, on the other hand, F. D. R. has a pump-priming scheme which Hoover didn't have. Other pronounced differences in the two situations are obvious and needn't be detailed, although it may be noted that some New Deal cynics believe hopeful expressions of cooperation and confidence by business leaders would be no more valuable than they were in 1930.

Three Facts
Insofar as the present Roosevelt program is concerned it is now obvious that: 1—There will be no immediate rise in the flow of federal spending. 2—The degree of speed with which new spending and lending money can be put into the system is an uncertain factor. 3—Even the most optimistic advocates of the program aren't sure that the amount of such money will be enough to lift the country above current depression levels.

So you can see why there's a fervent Washington desire to have business men stop saying "Oh, yeah?" and start crying something like "Clap hands, here comes Charlie!"

Optimists hope the New Deal can get to pushing out $150,000,000 a month of new money by election time. But since WPA expenditures will represent no real increase and RFO loans always have been made conservatively, the big difference between the present government outlay and that of a few months hence must be found in about $1,500,000,000 of PWA grant and loan money which Secretary Ickes expects to have available.

Ickes hopes to start pushing this money out within three months and will make a terrific effort to fulfill those hopes and fool the skeptics.

Anxious for Co-operation
If the present level of business activity can be held through the summer, most of the more eager administration economists will be satisfied. In that case, they assume business will receive some appreciable stimulus in the fall which will carry it above the recent level. But the country is going into the summer with some huge industrial inventories, they point out, and there have been increases in employment yet to promise an offset to the usual summer slump.

There are some critical wage situations where reductions threaten to reduce purchasing power further. So the economists also are anxious for a brand of business co-operation and confidence which will help stimulate business activity.

The "spenders," pleased because Roosevelt finally came to agree with them that something must be done, but pessimistic because the really new undiluted spending in his program amounted to little more than $500,000,000 of WPA grant money, insist that any further decline in business can only be met by an intensification of the spending-lending program.

They are rather vague as to how to "intensify," but some of their ideas may soon hatch.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

T. H. Lane, for several months supervisor of street work, was appointed sanitary inspector and was to give a major portion of his time to the new job.

Interest in the Panhandle, especially in Gray county, continued to center around the Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 1 Daur in the rank wildcat territory.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Delay caused by heavy rains postponed use of the filter system at the municipal swimming pool about one week beyond the estimated date of completion.

Not less than 150 Pampa Boy Scouts and adult leaders planned to attend the fourth annual Camp-o-Rall of the Adobe Walls council north of Morse on the Palo Duro creek.

was killed they would hop on his back and ride. They'd stay right there until the carcass was dragged aboard ship, and then they'd back up, step by step, as the whale came over the side—until they backed themselves into the sea. There were thousands of them for a while, and then one day most of them were gone. They went over on the mainland and began building nests. They've got a housing project on down there too, just like people in this country."

I talked with him a few minutes and then left him to enjoy his brief stay ashore until too many reminiscences of the long ten months afloat. For he must report back to Washington within one week. And after that—quien sabe? These sailors never know where they're going until they're half way there.

Cruisers

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The "tank" on the back lot is covered over with cloth to keep out the sunlight, and the cloth—hundreds of yards of it—billows and flaps loudly in the wind.

The "tank" is an oversized swimming pool, surrounded on three sides by a cyclorama of grey which substitutes admirably for far horizons in sea scenes. For waves gasoline motors on the far side, out of camera range, can churn up a stiff running surf.

The other day Loretta Young and David Niven, both fully clothed, spent hours being "dunked" after the collision of their sailboats. Joel McCrea, wearing swimming trunks and a flannel beach robe, spent hours on a rocky, dry projection in the corner of the tank, all ready to help out in the rescue under William Seiter's direction for "Three Blind Mice."

Preparations All Wet
By lunch-time the collision business, and the scene in which Loretta (who really can't swim) knocks out Niven to lug him to shore had been finished. What had to be done in the afternoon was the scene in which Loretta and Niven crawl up on McCrea's rock.

Clad in dry duplicates of their morning costumes—sailing duds—the pair descended gingerly from the rock into the water where several prop-men, in trunks, worked and swam. Niven dunked himself completely, his head emerging dripping. Loretta threw back her head to sop her hair thoroughly, and they were ready. Sitting on the rock, feet dangling in the water, both splashed water over themselves to stay dripping. There wasn't a hair-dresser in sight.

When they shot the scene, Loretta's hair was as stringy and wet as yours would be in the same situation. (They'd stopped, the business of half-grown heroines coming up with permanent waves unmoistened.)

Moving The Rock
Then for a second "take" they wanted to move the rock, or the little rock beside the big one. This should have been a tough job; we waited around to see the fun. We pictured a half-dozen prop-men in there pushing and groaning. But what happened? They slung a long rope under the rock, did a little easy tugging—from the dry floor—and the heavy business glided along smoothly—on casters. (But it wasn't so heavy, at that—just a framework rock.)

All this time Loretta Young and David Niven stayed in the water, up to their chins—"We've got to," called Loretta, "We were freezing up there!"

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

There is a strained, anxious look on the faces of many high school students these days, and this one knows that look which says "I've got to have a job!" is more intensified on the faces of college students. The boys in Pampa high school, all of them confident they could hold down any kind of a job all of them eager, burning with a frenzy to work, are already more concerned about what they will do when school is out than they are about final examinations, now only a few days away. It is that way all over the nation. These boys who are old enough and big enough to work think they have a right to jobs. Did you have the right to the job you had when you were of high school age? Many of the boys in our high school have never had a job. Others have had a few part-time jobs that paid little. Since 1929 there have been so few jobs for our boys and girls, unless you had a pull or something.

"I've got to have a job," more than one high school boy has told this one. "The government makes jobs for everybody else, why not for us?" One asked, "You tell us to show some initiative—I ask you where are we going to start. I've got to have a job." Another said, "They talk about the forgotten men—the high school boy is the forgotten man. There is nothing for us to do. 'You don't have a family,' the guys that hire say. Then they tell us we'll be running things soon. . . ."

So this one appeals to you to give a job to the high school boy if you can—and you can't treat him kindly—for it is true that nine times out of ten that boy knows what he's talking about when he says, "I've got to have a job."

Book A Day

By BRUCE CATTON

Every once in a while some murder case emerges from the ordinary rack of undistinguished homicides and takes the whole country by the ears. For a few weeks it seems to be all that anybody talks about, and even after it fades and is forgotten, people recall it now and then for some queer quirk that makes it memorable.

Such a murder was the famous Snyder-Gray case in New York, upwards of a decade ago; and it is now embalmed for a curious posterity in another of the Notable American Trials books—"The Trial of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray," by John Kobler (Doubleday, Doran; $3.50).

The books in this series are thorough jobs, and this one is no exception. First comes a comprehensive review of the case, from the development of the background to the actual execution of the criminals; then comes the verbatim testimony from the trial, page upon page of it, with nothing left out except some of the minor bits.

All of which, you might think, would make rather dreary reading, the Snyder-Gray crime having been a pretty messy and uninspired affair. But somehow it isn't a bit dreary. It's fascinating. For the thing that sets this case apart is precisely the fact that the principals were so very ordinary and uninspired. Here were no dashing, romantic criminals, but two everyday people who got tangled up in

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GILDSTON, M. D.

Plantar Warts
The post-war increase in the popularity of bathing (indoor and outdoor) and gymnastic activities has been associated with the spread of "athlete's foot."

Together with this, but to a lesser degree, the number of sufferers from plantar warts has increased. In both maladies the increase is accounted for by their infectious nature and by the frequency with which persons walk about barefooted in gymnasium locker rooms, at indoor bathing pools, etc.

Though a minor malady, the plantar wart is likely to be very painful. Ordinary warts are located on heel and the ball of the foot. But they may appear on any part of the under surface of the foot, including the toes.

At first the wart appears like a small granule, or a tiny piece of grit embedded in the skin. It grows fan-shaped, with the wide end embedded, until it measures from 1-8 to 1-4 of an inch in diameter. When it has attained this size, the patient often complains of severe pain when standing and walking. The pain is usually worse in the morning and grows milder after the patient has walked about for some time.

Plantar warts are apparently due to a filterable virus and hence are contagious. Great care should be taken by the sufferer not to "give" the infection to others. He should use his own towels and toilet articles and should not allow anyone else to use or handle them. He should not walk about barefooted or use a common bath mat. Some authorities even urge that after the patient has bathed, the bathtub should be cleaned with a weak antiseptic solution.

Plantar warts can be treated in various ways. They may be surgically removed; they can be destroyed with strong acids or alkalis, and by means of X-ray or radium. The X-ray or radium method is probably the most satisfactory but must be administered only by experts.

Self treatment with acids or alkalis is not wise for there is great danger of a wide destruction of the surrounding tissues.

The Capital Jigsaw

AUSTIN, May, 11 (AP)—A move to nominate U. S. senator Tom Connally for president is afoot.

After hearing Connally's speech at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Wichita Falls, R. W. Haynie of Abilene, a former president of the chamber, and R. Wright Armstrong of Denver, Colo., said they intended to work to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination for the senator.

They said Connally was a power in Washington, well known throughout the country and was sound on fundamental issues, including the "preservation of constitutional Democracy."

Armstrong, who formerly lived in Texas, remarked that Connally must stand firm against land-grabbing dictators and international law-breakers and should build a navy capable of defeating any enemy before it reached the American shores.

Gov. James V. Alfred, who made an introductory talk to that of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, was asked whether he thought LaGuardia was good presidential timber.

LaGuardia has been mentioned, especially in the East, as a presidential nomination possibility. He described himself in Wichita Falls as a "liberal Republican."

"It is a fine gentleman," Alfred said, "I like both him and Gov. LaGuardia to discuss presidential nominations."

He added, "I am a Democrat." Gov. Philip LaFollette, who visited Austin and addressed students at the University of Texas in 1936, had called for formation of a third major party.

Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, history professor at the University of Texas but teaching temporarily in London, says the outlook for "restoring the whole government to the people" is not bright.

Writing G. A. Jerry Sadler of Longview, candidate for railroad commissioner, Webb said he wished he could be in Texas this summer "to watch the various campaigns and do what I could to help Texas in what I consider the unequal struggle."

He gave Sadler permission to use quotations from a book he had written, saying he had written the book "for the good it may do, though I almost despair at restoring the whole government to the people, certainly not quickly."

"Conditions are so bad in Europe that we should take warning and settle all our domestic troubles, which we can easily do if we will," he said.

There are several things which lead Morris Browning of Amarillo to believe he will be successful in his race for land commissioner.

He is carrying that same solid sole leather suitcase his father, James N. Browning, carried 40 years ago in the latter's successful campaign for lieutenant governor.

Morover, he was a prisoner of Pancho Villa for nine days in December, 1915, and came out of that without a scratch.

THE QUESTION OF AVAILABLE CAPITAL

A contributor very fairly takes us to task as the statement of the scarcity of capital. His comments indicate that he has a very active mind and recognizes apparent inconsistencies. He has quite pertinently pointed out that of the Du Ponts is reported to have said that industry has $25,000,000,000 ready and waiting for investment but was not investing it for the lack of confidence on account of the acts of the president.

The contributor also points out that these industrialists did not lack confidence in Hoover and did not invest under Hoover and draws the conclusion that it's not on account of fear of Roosevelt that these industrialists do not invest.

We are very glad that the contributor has brought up this question because it is an apparent contradiction and needs careful analysis.

In the first place, many industrialists did not have complete confidence in Hoover. The industrialist, at that time, were convinced that the price structure built upon credit inflation made possible by the misuse of the Federal Reserve System could not be maintained. People of wealth had little confidence in our money or banks and were demanding payment or obligation that people owed them and were converting the money into gold. In other words, the money system and the money system now is entirely different. They had come to be afraid of the banking and credit situation under the Hoover administration now, we have gone off the gold system so that no man can demand his obligations be paid in gold and there is no danger of a corner on gold or credit.

The contributor contends that he believes the claim of these industrialists of having $25,000,000,000 in money is absolutely true and says that this plainly refutes all the pleas of the income tax critics.

We would ask the contributor how it is possible for these industrialists to have $25,000,000,000 in money when there is less than $6,000,000,000 in the United States in existence. The industrialists do not have this amount of money because there can not be $25,000,000,000 in money when there is only $6,000,000,000 issued and outstanding in the hands of the public.

Wichita Falls will be in Pampa Wednesday night to do battle with the local amateurs at the Pampa athletic arena beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

They are coming with one of the finest and strongest boxing teams in Texas. They will have two state champions on their roster as well as several boys that made excellent showings at the recent tournament at Fort Worth.

Eddie Russey, the State A. U. bantamweight champion will have more than his hands full, when he meets Frankie Bills, of Shamrock. Bills is the lad that has been bowling them over here with technical kayoes, in recent tournaments.

"Rusty" White who was to have boxed Russey, is not quite in as good shape as he would like to be to meet the Champ. Therefore Bills has the chance to meet the champion.

Jake Bible, of Alanreed has been working out daily, especially for the great opportunity of meeting the state Golden Gloves champion, Alex Parish. Arvol Hix was slated to meet the champ, but coming down in weight would have weakened him, and it would have been impossible for him to have been at his best.

However, he will tangle in the 135-pound weight, meeting Curtis Holder, of Wichita Falls. Bible has not lost a match here, and lost a very close decision at the Fort Worth tournament in his first meeting of the Golden Gloves. What he will be able to do against a champion remains to be seen. He declares he will be in his best shape and Alex Parish will have to step to beat him, if he does.

Red Cleve Drake, the boy with so many lefts, will meet Warren Greene, this time in the 147 pounds. Red was as popular a boxer as was on the card in the recent Abilene meet. Drake won many fans in his match.

Red's brother, Bob Drake, will also be on the card, meeting Country Smith, a 160-pounder also of Wichita. Although Bob has not done any local boxing, he is said to have been one of the best amateurs in Oklahoma. Maurice Hutchinson, who was to have boxed in this weight, has a sprained hand and will not be able to compete.

J. P. Matthews will get a real test against Fletcher Walker, a 175-pounder. There is no advance information on Walker only that he has taken part in several tournaments in Wichita Falls. J. P. needs no introduction to local fans.

Little Benny Moore, of Shamrock popular flyweight will have a place on the card against Jake Lightfoot. Jake is expected to give Benny a real battle.

There will be several exhibitions on the card, which include Einos Hall and Clayton Dunham. Dunham recently won the school tournament in the 95 pound class. Hall has recently moved here from Wheeler, and is disputing his right to the crown.

Tickets are going fast at both the Crestney Drug and The Pampa Daily NEWS, at 45 cents for reserved ringside, with 40 cents for general admission. Children under 12 will get in for 25 cents.

Schmeling May Retire If He Defeats Louis

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—There isn't a doubt in Max Schmeling's mind that he will be able to swat Champion Joe Louis on the jaw with his right hand on the night of June 22, no matter how much the young negro has learned in the two years since Max last clipped him.

"Yah, I know what some people think," said Max. "They say Joe will be careful this time and do nothing but jab me with his left and not let me hit him with a right."

"That's very foolish, I think. I hit him the other time when he tried to jab, and I knocked him out. No, no, he was not always hooking with his left when I hit him. Sometimes it was a jab, too."

There is a widespread belief that Max hopes in one last desperate fight to win back the title that Jack Sharkey took from him on a close decision in 1932, and then to retire amid the wild acclaim of the German nation.

"Why should I think of retiring when I know I'm getting better all the time?" he asked.

Louis was due from the west today, and the two antagonists will appear at the boxing commission tomorrow to sign the final agreement.

Washington And Red Sox Look Impressive In Wins

By HUGH S. FULERTON Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

One of the most interesting angles in the American league scramble this season is likely to be the race between the teams owned by the man who tried to buy a pennant and failed and that owned by the "Old Fox" who doesn't spend much cash but gets some good ball players by trading.

Tom Yawkey's gold-plated Boston Red Sox appear all set to produce a real return on the club owner's big investment. But to reach the top they not only must dispose of the world champion New York Yankees and the highly-rated Cleveland Indians, but also Clark Griffith's inexpensive Washington Senators, current leaders of the pennant parade.

Washington took over the lead yesterday by trimming the hapless St. Louis Browns, 7 to 1, while Boston gave a convincing demonstration of strength by bowling over Cleveland 15 to 3 and knocking the Indians off the top. As the other American league clubs were rained out, Cleveland and the Yankees wound up in a second-place tie a half game behind the Senators with the Red Soxers another game back.

It was a "bargain counter" pitcher, Emil (Dutch) Leonard, who sent the Senators to the top. Picked up from Atlanta this season after one major league failure, the 30-year-old knuckle ball expert allowed only seven singles yesterday and drove in three tallies himself with a triple and single.

The White Sox went to town for young Jim Bagby yesterday when the rookie faced his dad's old club for the first time. Young Jim pitched six-hit ball to gain his second victory.

The "comeback" of the St. Louis Cardinals again featured the National league's program as rain eliminated the second Giants-Cubs clash. The Cards, who have won five and tied one of their last seven games while climbing from seventh place to fifth, belted over the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9 to 7.

The fourth-place Cincinnati Reds kept pace with the Cards by pounding out a 9-4 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Boston Bees, who had lost two straight extra-inning games, came back to win one in the tenth. They beat Pittsburgh's Pirates, 7-5 when Debs Garms connected for a pinch single with two out and the bases full.

The Boston Bees, who had lost two straight extra-inning games, came back to win one in the tenth. They beat Pittsburgh's Pirates, 7-5 when Debs Garms connected for a pinch single with two out and the bases full.

The supply boys showed plenty of power at the plate and some biffy fielding in holding the neshawks for six innings. They experimented, especially with pitchers, which proved disastrous.

Every member of the news team scored in the final stanza which saw base hits travel to every corner of the diamond. There were no home runs in the inning.

Walker started on the mound for the News, going three innings and allowing five runs; Johnson finished with the same record. Hamilton was behind the plate.

The Supplymen used Erwin, Turner, Sherrod, Hallmark and Shellhammer on the mound with Whitten receiving.

Houston Snaps Tulsa Winning Streak, 10 to 8

(By The Associated Press) Although Houston's Paul Dean was blasted for 14 hits, the Houston Buffs today had the satisfaction of having snapped the Tulsa winning streak at nine games last night.

Defeated twice Sunday, the Buffs came back for a 10-8 victory over the league-leaders.

Among the Oilers' 14 safeties during the 7½ innings Dean worked was a homer by Stan Schino with the bases empty in the second inning.

Beaumont Exporters dropped to third place in the standing, defeated by the Fort Worth Cats 4-3 when Manager Homer Peel drove in the winning point in the ninth.

The San Antonio Missions, victorious over the Dallas Steers 5-3 last night, moved into second place, having made a clean sweep of the three-game series in Dallas.

The old squeeze play brought in the winning run as the Oklahoma City Indians defeated the Shreveport Sports. Hugh Shelley beat out a bunt, squeezing Clary Hack across the home plate from third.

Louis Leaves For Catskill Training Camp

STEVENSVILLE, Mich., May 10 (AP)—This village, on the shores of Lake Michigan, has seen the last of Joe Louis, its most famous visitor, until after his battle with Max Schmeling in defense of the world's heavyweight championship in New York June 22.

The negro champion packed today to leave for Lafayetteville, N. Y., up in the Catskill mountains, to begin his six-week training siege.

Louis was happy over the opportunity of returning to action, although he doesn't hate loafing or eating plenty of fried chicken. That's what he has been doing mostly since he flattened Harry Thomas in Chicago on the night of April Fools day.

Longhorns Need One Victory to Capture Title

(By The Associated Press)

One more victory, to make it a round dozen, will give the University of Texas Longhorns the Southwest conference baseball championship. They play the third-place Baylor Bears in Austin Friday while the second-place Texas A. & M. Aggies engaged Rice, the cellarites, in Houston.

Uncle Billy Disch's aggregation, heading for the twentieth title since Disch started coaching the Longhorns, triumphed over the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs 3-0, for their eleventh consecutive

TREMAINE LOSES TEMPER AND OUT-ROUGHS SLY 'RED' DAVIS

It didn't pay for Sterling "Rope Pull" Davis of Houston to get too rough with Andy Tremaine of Phoenix, Ariz., last night at the Pampa Athletic arena. Tremaine won the last two falls after losing his temper.

Davis used the ropes at every corner of the ring and had both Tremaine and the referee running in circles trying to keep him away from his favorite pieces of hemp. Davis won the first fall in 18 minutes with a frog scissor, assisted by the bottom rope which he used for leverage while the referee counted.

Davis started the same procedure in an effort to wind up the match at two in a row but he got Tremaine mad and Andy went to town with a bunch of rabbit punches and a rolling Boston split that almost put Davis out for the night. It took Tremaine 12 minutes to do the job.

Durwood Horner, Frog righthander, held the visitors to six singles, but he let one run in himself with a wild heave in the sixth. Ned McDonald, an infielder pitching his first game, set the Frogs down with four hits.

usual, in the deciding fall. He worked the ropes for leverage and choked with his knee. The referee didn't do much about the situation so Tremaine again took things in his own hands by clipping Davis on the ear with what was meant to be a rabbit punch and following up with a couple of pretty drop kicks and a smother to win the fall and the match in 11 minutes.

Count Von Bromberg, one of Hitler's army boys, lived up to advance notices as a rough, tough customer but at that he couldn't put Buzz Reynolds away in the 30-minute allotted for the semi-final. The German did some nice wrestling along with his rough stuff. Reynolds stayed within bounds, doing some mighty nice grappling.

The army came out on top when Soldier Thomas downed Pasha Bariem Bey of Turkey in 9½ minutes with a reverse yoked hold which put Bey's shoulders to the mat.

Final Flight

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Jackie is stunned to find Roger with Beryl Melrose at the Colony Restaurant. Then she realizes that Beryl is Roger's backer. Her mother warns her of difficulties.

CHAPTER VIII

JACKIE knew that her mother had not meant that she ought to try to stop Roger from making his trial flight because of the danger and risk involved. But she did understand human nature. And the danger involved when another woman came into the picture—especially such an exceptionally attractive woman as Beryl Melrose.

It was Roger who phoned Jackie that next day to ask her to postpone her flying lesson once more. He told Jackie that the plans for his flight were practically "in the bag." He seemed so steamed up about this that his conversation had been almost incoherent and decidedly sketchy.

It was only afterwards that Jackie realized that he had not mentioned the fact that he, too, had gone to New York the day before. He had not said a word about having lunch at the Colony.

Not that she cared, Jackie told herself rather more emphatically than was necessary. Not that it was any business of hers where Roger went or with whom he lunched. The engagement was only a ruse, anyway.

But he had not said when he would be able to give her her lessons or when he would see her, or phone again or anything. He had merely mumbled something about being "tied up" for a while—Jackie supposed that meant more luncheons with Mrs. Melrose—and ended with a vague "so long, be seeing you."

Several days had passed and he had not called again. They were the longest, dreariest days Jackie had ever known. Oh, the sun was shining brightly enough. Too brightly. There wasn't a cloud in the sky. Perfect flying weather. Which, of course, was the only reason why Jackie sat around the house, waiting for the phone or the doorknob to ring. She wasn't waiting for him to give her another lesson the sky would start to rain cats and dogs. It was enough to make anyone feel low to have to miss these heavenly spring days that should have been spent in the wings, instead of crammed up indoors.

FINALLY Jackie could not stand it any longer. She decided to drive out to the field, even though Roger had not given any signs of being alive, or of remembering that she was. Maybe, since she was solving now, she could take the ship up, even if he was not there. If so it would not make the slightest difference to her, whether he was or not.

Which was rather a contradiction considering the way her heart leaped into her throat and her pulse started racing madly the moment she saw him. He was standing by the side of a plane, a silver ship that Jackie did not remember ever having seen at the field before, talking with someone. It wasn't until she was within hailing distance—and made a "mistake" of calling his name—that she realized a second later that the person he was talking to was Beryl Melrose.

Jackie would have gone into the hanger, but Roger motioned for her to join them. "I want you to know Jackie Dunn, Mrs. Melrose," he said, flashing his engaging grin. "Jackie's one of my best students; she's nutty about flying. And—" his grin broadened as he gave Jackie an open and knowing wink, "incidentally Jackie and I are engaged."

"I am very glad to know you, indeed," Beryl Melrose said cordially, extending her hand. She was even more attractive than at a distance. She had the most beautiful brown eyes Jackie had ever seen. Her skin was like a garnet pedal. But what Jackie noticed—and envied—most of all was her pose.

For some reason Jackie felt all hands and feet, as though she did not know what to say, or how to act. Maybe it was because of Roger's remark about their engagement. Jackie felt she could have slain him gladly for making it. Certainly that wink was not necessary. If Mrs. Melrose had seen it, what on earth would she think?

ROGER seemed to have forgotten that he had promised to see this engagement business through to the bitter end and that they must behave as though it were a reality before other people.

"Sorry I haven't had time to phone you," he said now, making matters worse, instead of better. "Haven't had a minute, have we, Beryl?"

So it was "Beryl" already! They must have been spending a lot of time together. "I've been busy myself," Jackie said glibly. Busy doing nothing. Which had been the hardest thing she had ever tried to do. "Before I forget it, Roger—just in case you continue being so busy that you don't have time to even phone"—this was an example of beautiful sarcasm she hoped was not lost on him—"Mother will expect you at our announcement party a week from next Friday."

In spite of the fact that Jackie had told her they could not make any definite plans until after Roger's flight, Evelyn had gone ahead with her plans for a big party, a dinner and dance with over a hundred guests. It would be bad enough, anyway, but if Roger did not show up, it would be a farce.

"Why don't you come, too?" Jackie asked on a sudden impulse, addressing Mrs. Melrose. She would show Roger that she did not care how much time he spent with some other girl. "We would like very much to have you," she added, trying to make her voice sound as though she really meant it. She hated women who had that sick, the-world-is-my-oyster air about them.

"I'd like very much to come," Beryl Melrose returned promptly in her smooth, effortless way. Her dark eyes, looking into Jackie's, seemed however, to see through the younger girl's pretense. "It is indeed nice of you to invite me."

"That's swell," Roger said heartily. But he looked from one to the other in a sort of puzzled masculine way. Perhaps he felt the undercurrent in the air. "You'll be glad to know," he said to Jackie, "that everything in hunky-dory—thanks to Beryl." His smile now was just for her. "I'm to make a few experimental flights for altitude right here. Then Beryl and I will go out to the coast—that's so I can have a tail-wind—and then for the flight! I hope to do 450 miles, at least. There will be a sealed barograph installed, of course, for recording. The seal will not be broken until I deliver at Washington. Doesn't it sound pretty thrilling? Jackie? Aren't you pleased as punch?"

It sounded as though everything was very definite. Entirely too definite for anyone to put a stop to, even if she wished. And Beryl Melrose was to accompany Roger to the coast. While Jackie sat home—doing nothing. "It sounds good," Jackie admitted, but try as she might, she could make her voice sound as though she really meant it. "Of course I'm pleased," she made another attempt. What on earth was wrong with her? Anyone would think she did not want Roger to have his big chance! "I think it's wonderful," she ended, but somewhat lamely.

It would have been, if for some unknown reason Beryl Melrose had not taken all the joy out of it.

The R. R. wants all men in this territory who are six feet four and over to be at Levine's store at 3:30 o'clock to welcome Wadlow. Then he wants them to pose for a picture with Wadlow. They can then put that picture among their souvenirs, because Wadlow is the tallest human being in the world.

Remember Moose Hartman, the Harvester basketball and football star. Well, he wore size 15 shoes. Now the R. R. wears size 14 shoe and if you don't believe it ask any shoe salesman in town, but if you think they got big feet you should see Wadlow's. He wears size 37 shoe, the largest shoe ever made for a human foot.

Some of the tall boys who ought to be there are Charles Blankinburg of LeFors who is six feet and five inches tall, Ernest Caddell, six feet, four and one-half, Junior Strickland, ex-Harvester basketball star, six feet four and a half.

Then there's the tallest man in Miami, Elza Morgan, who is six feet and six inches tall. The R. R. sure wants Morgan there.

coal mine at Stoke-On-Trent when 27 miners lost their lives.

Two roaring blasts reverberated through the huge coal mine as the night shift was preparing to emerge. Sobbing women gathered around the pithead as the dead and injured were brought to the surface. Scenes were particularly grievous in the little mortuary where wives and relatives sought to identify the bodies, marked by yellow tags.

Scores of rescuers, fought through roof falls toward the trapped men. Rescuers with gas masks, sealed up one section of the pit to prevent gas from seeping through to the trapped miners.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—The stock market ran out of rallying steam today and leading issues generally turned in minor gains or fell to moderately lower levels.

An attempt was made at the opening to stall yesterday's advance but profit selling appeared in sufficient quantity to quickly halt the climb. There was a fast run-up near the start of the second hour when the ticket tape, for a brief period, was a trifle late. The pace soon slowed after most of Monday's favorites drifted to the downside. Transfers were around 1,100,000 shares.

Sentiment, on the whole, brokers said, still leaned to the buying end, but many traders were inclined to cash in on the recent comeback and await fresh stimulation from Washington. Business news continued cloudy and observers saw few signs of any nearby pickup.

Up the greater part of the day—some stepped down at the finish—were U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Goodrich, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Monsanto Chemical, North American Aviation, Pennsylvania, Air Reduction, Continental Banking "A" and Newport Industries.

Airerats were given a run for a while. A widespread drop in crude petroleum prices put most oils in arrears.

Behind minus signs were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Consolidated Edison, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Anaconda and American Smelting.

TRENTON, N. J., May 10 (AP)—At least half a dozen "Blue Mondays" a year were started on the road to extinction today.

Even if passed by the senate and approved by the governor the measure would not become effective until similar laws had been enacted in New York and Pennsylvania.

Only one school system, McLean, has not had the tests given. Due to the rush of school activities at the close of the 1937-38 session, it has been decided to postpone tests at McLean until early next autumn.

The tuberculin test of all pupils in Gray county schools was started in February as a project of the Gray County Tuberculosis Association. Members of the Gray-Wpeler Medical Society cooperated in the project.
