That some Pampa boys are taking their rifles and going out in the country where they slaughter Meadow larks and then bring them home and throw them in the garbage can. FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 27, 1938.

MOTHERS FETED BY TWO GROUPS AT HORACE MANN

Honoring pre-school mothers, the Horace Mann study club and summer round-up met at the school this week.

The singing of popular songs, which was led by Miss Tabitha Adkisson, opened the program for the afternoon.

Dr. K. L. Buckner, guest speaker spoke to the group on "The Pre-school Examination and the Study of the Exceptional Child" which is given here:

The pre-school examination is often an important step toward the child's education. All the children in the examination are necessary. Obviously the testing of sight and hearing are very important and adults may not give sufficient thought to these two senses, as they expect the child to call attention to these defects when they occur; but the child may not know that he is supposed to be able to recognize his friends across the street or to hear clearly all the teacher says, as these senses may have been defective from birth, hence they are unknown handicaps to all concerned.

"Facial Stressed Examination"

Diseased tonsils and adenoids are stressed in the examination. In addition to rendering the child subject to repeated colds, causing moderate temperatures, loss of appetite and malaise; the diseased tonsils often cause defective hearing and sometimes facial vision. The hypertrophied or enlarged tonsils diminish the required amount of air to the lungs, the child grows up with a narrow chest and a distorted mouth and nose. Tuberculosis finds more favorable growth in children thus handicapped.

The question of tuberculosis enters into the examination when the chest is examined and the weight and height are recorded. During this part of the check up the child's physical proportions are observed. If the legs are short and the trunk long the examiner may suspect cretinism. If other physical proportions exist Froelich's syndrome may be suspected. Both conditions are due to glandular defects and will be discussed later.

Any part of this examination is worthy of discussion, but this subject leads to the interpretation of behavior disorders in children. These disorders must be viewed from the standpoint of psychology, environment and physical condition. In thinking of school handicaps and child guidance, one must consider these three factors in arriving at a proper study of the exceptional child. When such well rounded approach is employed, rather surprising facts regarding the relative frequency of organic, psychological and environmental factors in the causation of behavior disorders are elicited.

For example, the statistics of the Child Guidance Home in Cincinnati show that in 59 percent of the cases of behavior disorders studied the underlying causation factors were found to be endogenous or reflecting from within the body in origin. In only 23 percent of the cases were the causes extrinsic or environmental. In the remaining 18 percent both endogenous and extrinsic factors were responsible for the behavior difficulties.

Endogenous Cases Are Organic

Furthermore, in 75 percent of the cases in the endogenous group the causes were organic. Physical causation factors as the primary cause constituted only a relatively small percentage. The remaining 24 percent of importance in view of the present tendency to stress the physiological approach in the study of behavior disorders in children.

In the words of Hilgard Simpson, "Life is the interaction and readjustment of inner and outer relations." This constant adjustment and readjustment is the process of living. Apparently, human behavior can be explained only in terms of suppressions, frustrations, repressions, identifications, and feelings of inferiority and inadequacy and the like. It is not the scope of this paper to enlarge these mentioned conflicts.

Many devastating effects of such diseases as encephalitis, a chronic type of inflammation of the brain and meninges, lead to extreme cases of infantile paralysis that may go unnoted; birth injuries not noticed before pre-natal age and many retarding conditions affecting the personality and capacity for school work may be encountered. These retarding handicaps would require much time for discussion, hence, I have decided to consider more in detail the behavior and school progress due to the dysfunction or under-function of some of the endocrine glands.

Of the endocrine glands, the pituitary and thyroid are most often the source of trouble in growing children. Although the thyroid is the best known of the endocrine glands, today the pituitary gland is receiving the most attention. It has been called the "Master Gland" of the body. It not only secretes many hormones that are of vital importance to the growth and development of the body but also secretes substances that either initiate the activity of the other ductless glands or stimulate other glands to greater activity. The thyroid and pituitary glands work in harmony, the under or over-function of one has a tendency to affect the others.

Pituitary Gland Discussed

The pituitary gland controls growth; extreme opposite of its function may cause gigantism or dwarfism as a result of overactivity or underactivity, and can modify the growth and functioning of the various tissues of the body. By far the most common form of pituitary dis-

SAM HOUSTON P-TA ENTERTAINS FACULTY GROUP

Class "Dumbbell" May Hide Light Under Dunce Cap

By RUTH MILLETT

A survey made by Dr. Harry Eganor, New York City school teacher, proves what fond mammas have long suspected—that it is unfair for a teacher to classify members of a class as "bright" or "dumb."

The way he went about this experiment is interesting. First he had 485 pupils observed by regular teachers and specially trained observers. They had a chance to see how the students applied themselves—how well they recited in class and how well they got along with their classmates.

The study was supervised by educators of Teachers College, Columbia University. When the period of observation was up, the teachers and observers estimated the intelligence of the pupils.

Then the students were given standardized intelligence tests. And the results did not bear out the teachers' estimates.

To set off the general incorrectness of the teachers' judgements, the boys ranked by them as the "dumbest" boy in the class proved to have the highest I. Q. in the whole school.

But they could use the knowledge in other ways, than just to ease their minds when the teacher says Johnny is lagging behind the other students.

They might remember it when they are worrying because a high school son or daughter seems to lack the proper ambition, and hasn't carved out much of a place for himself in school affairs.

They can remember it when someone else's son or daughter is voted the member of the college class most likely to succeed.

It might even pay them to consider it at a party, when tempted to shy away from the quiet person in the corner who looks as though he might be dull.

Dr. Eganor has proved we can't judge brains from the outside. That is probably why we are so often started to hear that some mousy person we remember vaguely from school days has suddenly "amounted to something."

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. V. E. Patherne for the presentation of her entire P-T-A library to the Horace Mann school.

Mr. Bennett played several piano selections during the serving of refreshments.

MRS. KELLEY GUEST AT BELL CLUB MEETING

"The Homemaker has a great responsibility to guide wise spending of the family income if the family gains the maximum health, pleasure and contentment from the expenditure," Mrs. Julia E. Kelley said to the Bell Home Demonstration Club which met in the home of Mrs. H. H. Keahy Wednesday.

Since the family income is spent for food, clothing, shelter, recreation, savings, insurance, and medical care, wise buying of foods will permit more pleasure in other values of life. If thought and time are given to the selection of balancing the meals.

Of the things that we spend our money for in our homes first is food. Twelve to fifteen hundred dollars is spent for food in an average year. One person should not spend over $25 a year for everything if he raises the right amount of food in his own garden.

If you buy a better quality food, you are spending your money wisely. You should know your brands of food, she pointed out. Money may be saved by buying the gallon and then dividing the food into quarts and pints or however used by the family; and you can save from eight to 10 per cent by buying with cash money.

The commerce department states that a family of five can live on $15 a year if adequately spent.

The homemaker has the biggest problem of anybody. Everyone should share a part in the family duties. The children should learn to have a responsibility and share the family's problems so that they may know the value of a dollar.

In the business session, with the president, Mrs. H. H. Keahy, presiding, recreation and finance reports were given and adopted. The finance report stated that the club has $73.30 in the bank.

Refreshments were served to nine members and two guests, Mrs. Julia Kelley and Miss Mary Branch.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. C. McKnight on June 1 at 2 o'clock.

Complete Pattern For Child's Diet Given by Supervisor

The diet of a very young child and that of an older one are different mainly in the way food is prepared and served in the amounts served of the various ages. Usually a child's appetite will guide him to eat enough—but less often will guide him to eat all the right kinds of food.

In planning the diet of a child, milk is a good starting point. It is well known as an economical source of valuable food elements. A child should have at least a pint of milk a day, preferably a quart. Most nutrition specialists recommend a quart a day during the first years when the child is rapidly growing and his bones and teeth are developing, proving it does not crowd out other essential foods.

Vegetables and fruits are especially important for their minerals and vitamins. They also add interesting color and flavor. An adequate vegetable allowance includes at least two servings of vegetables each day in addition to potatoes. It is a good idea to have one of the vegetables each day served raw or quickly-cooked. And serve leafy green and yellow vegetables often.

It is not a bad plan to have potatoes at least once a day because they contain appreciable amounts of some of the valuable minerals and vitamins. But if a potato is not served each day then there should be a corresponding increase in other fresh vegetables and fruit.

Children need a variety of fruits, both raw and cooked. Two fruits a day and good nutrition. If possible, have one of these either a citrus fruit or tomatoes.

Eggs and meat are good building foods. The yolk of an egg is one of the first foods given to supplement the milk diet of the very young child. Young children should have either eggs or meat each day. Older children may have both more frequently.

Besides potatoes, cereals and bread are the important energy foods because of the starch they contain. Serve a wholesome cereal dish at least once a day. Entire-grain cereals are good for growing children because they contain cereals and vitamins they contain. Cereal meal will include some bread.

Children need some fats in the daily diet. Fats are the most concentrated body fuels and are therefore a good source of energy. Butter, cod-liver oil, and some other fish oils are also good sources of two important vitamins. Some margarines have recently had these vitamins added as their labels state.

No diet for children would be complete without a few simple sweets. But use these with discretion, at the end of a meal. Served in between or at the beginning of meals, sweets take away the child's appetite for essential foods.

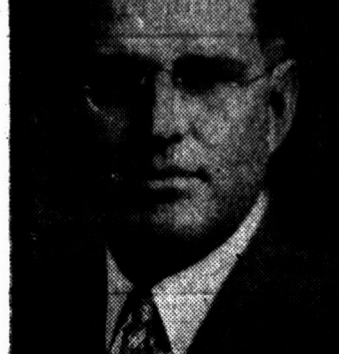

That in general is a pattern for a child's diet, says Miss Vera B. Martin, home supervisor for the Farm Security Administration.

Has Anniversary

The Central Baptist Church of this city is observing the third anniversary of the pastor, the Rev. John O. Scott, above, on Sunday May 29. The goal has been set for 500 in Sunday School and 250 in the B. T. U. service.

Rev. Scott came to the Central Baptist Church from the Calvary Baptist Church at Happy in May of 1935. Since that time the church has experienced a very rapid growth. There have been 390 additions by baptism, 320 additions by letter, and 49 additions by statement; a total of 659 additions within the three years. The membership has grown from a membership of 109 to the present membership of 706. During this time there have been letters granted to 162 members who have moved out of the city. The church is still growing with additions each Sunday.

Within the last two years a new modern church and pastor's home have been built.

Rev. and Mrs. Scott have worked diligently in all phases of the church work since they have been in Pampa. Mrs. Scott is teacher of the senior girls class and president of the W. M. S.

A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the church and of Rev. and Mrs. Scott, to attend Sunday School at 9:45 o'clock, worship hour at 11:00 o'clock, and B. T. U. 7:00 o'clock, and evening worship at 8:00 o'clock.

"DOES IT MATTER?"

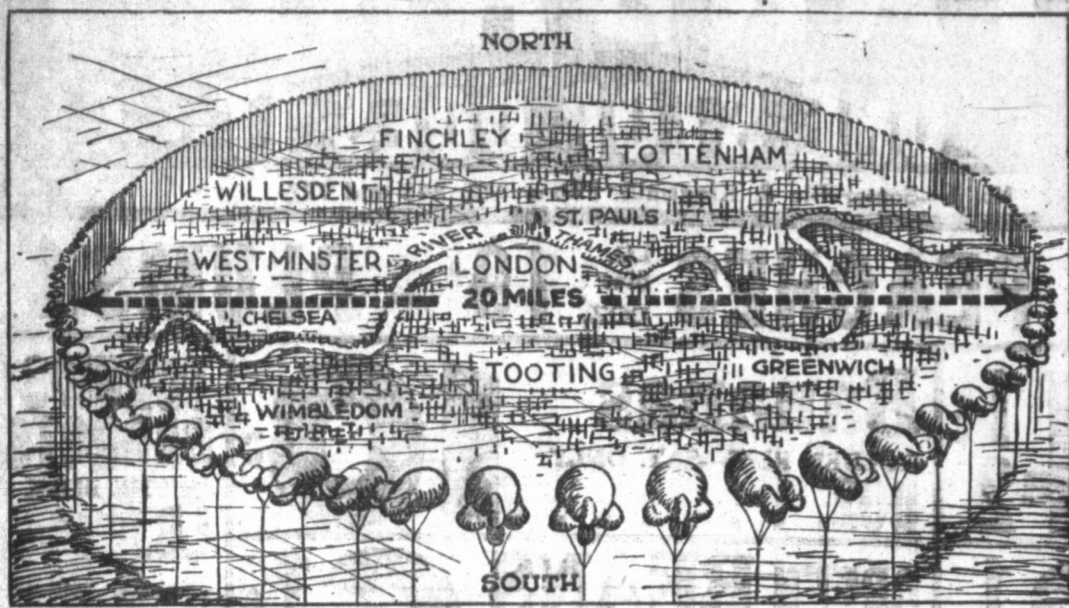

Almost any drug store can fill a prescription. "Does it matter?" you ask, "where I take this one to be compounded?"

Some stores regard prescriptions as a neglected sideline. In others, they are the paramount consideration. Does it matter? Some fill few prescriptions, so stocks deteriorate. Others, with a larger volume, carry full, fresh stocks. Does it matter? Those who do make a business of compounding prescriptions see that each is filled exactly as the Doctor directs. Does it matter?

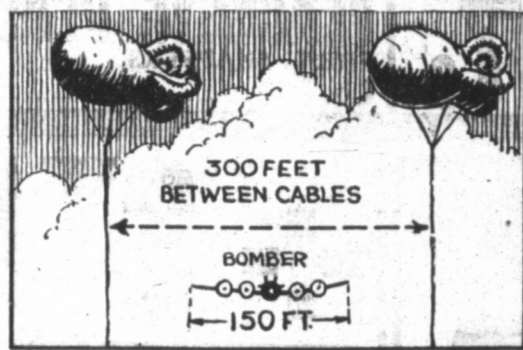

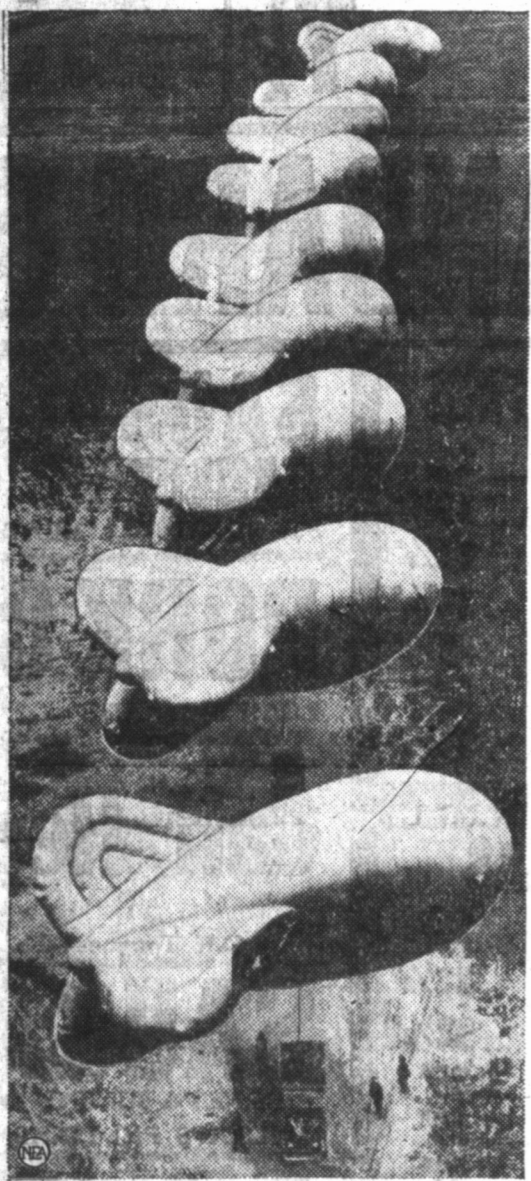

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Balloon Barrage, London's Defense Against Bombers

Hoping to render London and its environs immune from air attacks during the next European war, Great Britain has devised a balloon barrage defense now being tested by the air ministry. The drawing above shows one possible defensive system—a line of 1100 balloons, attached to lethal cables, and moored at 100-yard intervals encircling the city at a 10-mile radius from the center. Another possibility is a "field sited" barrage, consisting of hundreds of balloons stationed at strategic points within the city limits.

Pictured in one of the first photos permitted by the British air ministry, the anti-air raid balloons are shown at left as they were lined up for a test at London. Below the bags are the heavy trucks, which send the balloons aloft on cables by means of lorry winches. The upper sketch, at right, shows that one of the new 150-foot bombing planes would have only a 50-50 chance of passing through the "fence" without striking one of the lethal cables, which are so thin that they are invisible, both day and night. Contact with one of the cables would mean destruction for the bomber, as depicted in the sketch at lower right.

By NEA SERVICE

LONDON, May 27.—Enemy planes which seek to rain bombs on London during any future war are going to have to devise some means of beating what appears to be the most effective air raid defense ever thrown around a world capital.

Realizing that the sky will be one of the major battlegrounds of the next war, the British air ministry is perfecting an intricate and strategic system to keep death-dealing bombers away from London.

Fundamental unit in the defense play is the military balloon—1100 of them, in fact, which will be strung aloft on lethal cables capable of destroying any airplane which comes in contact with them.

The air ministry intends to encircle London with these balloons—or spot them strategically over the city—thereby forming a death-dealing "fence" of cables stretching upward possibly as high as 25,000 feet.

The balloons will be raised and lowered on winches mounted on huge army trucks, thereby making it possible to shift their position on short notice. The cables attached to the balloons are so thin that they cannot be seen from an attacking airplane, even in broad daylight.

JAP MINISTER GOING 'TO DO SOMETHING'

TOKYO, May 27 (AP)—Japan's new "quick victory" cabinet, reorganized to include two of her most influential retired generals and a powerful financier in four of the most important posts, held its first session today and mapped a more sweeping campaign in China.

Details of the revamped cabinet's policy were not immediately made known in full.

However, Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, former minister of war and governor-general of Korea, who succeeded Koki Hirota as foreign minister, cryptically remarked: "I am going to do something. Wait and see."

HAGUE WON'T ACCEPT U. S. COURT DECREE

JEERSEY CITY, N. J., May 27 (AP)—Mayor Frank Hague today refused to accept a proposed federal court decree settling most points in the controversy between Jersey City and the CIO and others, declaring he would not "enter into any compromise with these Red groups."

Under the decree, Jersey City officials would be restrained from interfering with peaceful picketing and other organizational activities of the CIO, American Civil Liberties Union and affiliated organizations and individuals in New Jersey's second largest city.

Mayor Hague said in a statement: "I have a duty to discharge toward the people of Jersey City, who have chosen me as their mayor continually for the past quarter of a century."

Hague made his statement as groups supporting him, and the Anti-Hague Hudson County Committee for Labor Defense and Civil Rights called rallies for tonight. The Labor Defense Committee billed Representative Jerry O'Connell (D., Mont.) as speaker despite police refusal to grant him a permit.

STORE CLOSES AFTER 82 YEARS OF SERVICE

MEXICO NOW HAS OIL BUT SHE NEEDS CASH--BIG PROBLEM IS TO FIND MARKET FOR CRUDE

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
MEXICO, D. F., May 27.—The whole economic future of Mexico hangs on whether the republic is able to sell the oil confiscated from United States and British interests.

True, the oil workers are not getting the raises they demanded from the American companies in the controversy that led to expropriation. In fact, they are getting a little less, although basic rates have not been cut, because in some cases they are being asked to work eight hours instead of seven and one-half, with no overtime for Sunday work in cases of emergency. This they are expected to accept, borne up on the wave of patriotism and "sacrifice for economic inde-come from taxes paid by the oil companies. That is now lost. About 42 per cent of the petroleum produced is refined and consumed within the country. But the other 58 per cent must be exported, and that oil is now running over the edge of storage tanks.

When the Mexican government confiscated oil properties in Mexico it expropriated everything it could lay its hand on. Above is the British oil building, just completed at a cost of $600,000, which the government promptly took over as headquarters from which to administer the confiscated oil wells, derricks and pipe lines.

dependence" which is now sweeping the country. There are 18,000 oil workers, one of the largest labor groups in Mexico. These workers are faced with a definite prospect of a reduced standard of living in the name of patriotism.

More than 1,000,000 pesos a week (about $250,000, according to present rates of exchange) in oil payrolls is being met regularly by the government. The 42 per cent local oil consumption enables this to be done.

In addition, government operation leads logically to consolidations. There is no logical reason for an Aguila station on one corner and a Huasteca station across the street, now that all are being run by the government. Some officials estimate that consolidations would eliminate 5,000 jobs. The oil workers wouldn't like that.

In the meantime they are getting their pay, but the government isn't getting the tax money it used to get. And it won't get it, or the extra funds to compensate for the confiscations, unless it can sell surplus oil abroad. The big foreign the Swedish courts and say "Look, this oil about to be delivered to this man is our oil; stolen property. We ask for an embargo ruling (in this case about the same thing as an injunction) to prevent his receiving it."

The vigor with which Mexican workers approved the oil expropriations is vividly portrayed in the cartoon above, which was carried on the cover of the magazine "Future," organ of the CTM, the dominant labor union which is headed by Lombardo Toledano. The cartoon depicts a death blow being dealt to an octopus (representing foreign ownership of oil) which workers believed had taken a strangle-hold on the industry.

companies are determined to prevent such sales. The embargo tactics being discussed, and tentatively applied, have teeth in them. The companies can't prevent Mexico from shipping oil, for it is a sovereign state and can not be sued. But if the oil is shipped to an individual in Stockholm, the companies can go into

JAPS BID FOR QUICK VICTORY IN NEW MOVES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.
NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Japan's bone-shaking reorganization—involving replacement of the key ministers of war, finance and foreign affairs—is taken to mean that the dominant military party has decided to go all-out in a gamble for a quick, decisive victory over China.

It means that the government is tightening its belt about an economically thin belly, and is going to defy the foreign south-sayers who predicting that Nippon ultimately will beat itself undertaking conquest on such a vast scale.

It also means the government is proving the truth in the old Chinese proverb that he who rides a tiger finds it difficult to dismount.

Japan pretty well has to go ahead with the terrific task of trying to conquer 450,000,000 Chinese, and make them like it.

The new cabinet is calculated better to serve the interests of the militaristic program.

Let's take a quick glance at the fresh ministers:
War Minister General Seishiro Itagaki—He has been one of the pivot men in the Japanese conquest of China ever since the invasion of Manchuria in 1931—an expert in both military and political affairs of the continent. He is fresh from the battlefield and is given part credit for the recent capture of Suichow.

Threatened

Mrs. Margaret F. Palmer, chairman of Pennsylvania's Board of Motion Pictures, is being guarded by state troopers following an acid attack and her report that numerous threats to "knock her off" had been received after her board had banned the Soviet-made film "Baltic Deputy." She is the widow of the late Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer.

26 OF CREW INJURED

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 27 (AP)—While a federal investigation continued into the explosion which rocked the oil tanker Etwood, Wednesday, the number of her crew in hospitals today was increased to 26. Wilson B. Ruggin, 23 an oiler, Waverly, Va., Clifford Harris, Beaumont, Texas, and Christian Petersen, Galveston, Texas, both seamen, were taken to the hospital after spending yesterday aboard their ship. They were suffering from shock.

GOODRICH ON SOUTH PLAINS MAKING DRIVE

SHAMROCK, May 27.—Lewis Goodrich, carrying his campaign for attorney general of Texas over the South Plains this week, is meeting with wide acceptance of his straightforward and simple platform. Goodrich will finish up the week at Plainview and will return home for a rest before taking his race to people of other sections of the state in his car, which he has equipped with complete sound amplifying system.

"In my contact with people in various parts of the state I am finding support for my honest belief that the public generally is good and tired of being handled the same old political baloney that has been forced on them year after year."

Goodrich is telling people to whom he speaks and with whom he talks personally that he has made no attempt to try to study up some outlandish and awe-inspiring issue upon which to make his race. He contends that the duties of the Texas attorney general are pretty well defined by law and that no candidate can promise more than to honestly devote his time and ability to attending to these duties, appointing his assistants on a basis of ability rather than friendship or political dog.

The homespun philosophy ingrained in Goodrich and the hardships and sacrifices by which he gained his education and experience make his career resemble those of Texas' best loved earlier statesmen. Like those pioneers he is imbued with a native honesty that does not lend itself to political trickery and vague, shiny promises.

MAN CHEATED OUT OF FISHING TRIP AND HAT

READING, Pa., May 27 (AP)—Amos Skusa figures the city of Reading cheated him out of a fishing trip, but he's willing to forget about that—providing the city makes restitution for his hat.

Waiting for friends to take him fishing in their automobile, Skusa carried various fishing equipment outside his house and laid it on the curb. On top of the heap he placed a battered felt hat.

He hurried inside for breakfast. A Garbage truck came by, Skusa's bundles were loaded aboard, and the truck drove away.

"I'll forget the reels and lines," said Skusa as he presented Mayor J. Henry Stump with a bill for $7.50.

"I'll forget the sandwiches and even the worms that it took me several hours to dig. But that hat, sir, that hat was a good luck charm and worth $7.50 of anybody's money."

BLAST KILLS FOUR

TSUKYO, May 27 (AP)—The war office announced today that four persons had been killed and many injured in an explosion which "ruined" a large army arsenal in Gumma Prefecture, northwest of Tokyo. The cause was not stated.

DOLLARS on the LOOSE in the Want Ads!

Not a day passes that someone doesn't pick up extra money through Pampa, Daily News Want Ads. Sometimes it's big money. Sometimes not. The point is—it's extra money, found money, unexpected cash that pops up just because someone had sense and foresight enough to let the Want Ads do the job of finding the money for him!

Better jobs, eager buyers, tenants, business chances, capable help—all these and more are waiting for you when you want them, in The Pampa Daily News Want Ads. And all you have to do is read them, use them regularly. Try it and see!

Head man in the government oil industry in Mexico is Ingeniero Vicente Cortes Herrera, above, who is Director-General of the Petroleum Administration.

granted in almost any country. That is why Mexico may be driven, against her will, to sell oil direct to other governments, in which case legal obstructions could not interfere.

Should Mexico turn to Japan, Germany, or Italy, as she may in extremity, the pressure to prevent delivery will be of a different kind, but it will be there.

Business Decline
Business has been falling off steadily here for almost a year. Last May a 15-day oil strike started the ball rolling, and all domestic business began to decline.

Oil company deposits and capital were sent out of the country, and Mexican money went with it. At the close of last year, by sudden decree, tariffs on American imports were suddenly raised in some cases as much as 500 per cent. Imports immediately began to fall off.

A month ago came the oil expropriations. Credit tightened. Business went on a cash basis, as the peso was released to find its own level in relation to the dollar. An importer didn't know how many pesos it would take to buy a foreign article from one day to another, or what he should charge a foreign buyer. Business stagnated, with many houses desperate because the labor syndicates refused to permit the discharge of idle help.

Tourists Staying Away
In 1937 American tourists spent in Mexico around 50,000,000 American dollars. Not only is that equivalent to almost half the national government budget in terms of pesos, but it means actual dollars

Weathered Will Deliver Address To Alameda Grads

Commencement programs at Pampa High school and at Alameda night will close the 1937-38 session of all schools in Gray county.

At Alameda, a graduation of high school and of seventh grade pupils will be held, with Supt. W. B. Weathered as the commencement speaker.

in hand to uphold the peso in foreign exchange dealings.

Since the oil expropriation, this tourist traffic has taken a sudden and terrific drop, estimated as high as 75 per cent. Highways which formerly saw 75 or 80 American cars plodding southward daily, now see 7 or 8. My wife and I were the sole Americans on the train southward from Laredo.

Deprived at once of oil tax revenue, of a large part of tourist revenue in actual dollars, faced with a sluggish domestic business situation, the Mexican treasury faces critical months in May and June.

Dollars Hard to Get
The special session of the Mexican Congress now meeting is regarded as almost certain to lower some of the tariff increases. But this must be done with care, for every time a person in Mexico buys something in the United States, dollars must first be bought with which to consummate the deal, and dollars are getting scarcer.

Thus the Cardenas regime, many of whose accomplishments are admitted by even its enemies, has bitten off a very large lump in the oil expropriation. Facing a critical time during the next two months, everything hangs on what disposition it succeeds in making of its export oil supply.

Jeff is on the Spot

Jeff D. Bearden, genial special representative at Pampa for the Great American Life Insurance Company has challenged the Company's entire agency organization. During the month of June alone he proposes to produce more individual applications than has ever been done in any one thirty day period previously.

He proposes thereby to bring to his home city of Pampa the outstanding distinction of being the Great American's chief producer. The accomplishment of this task will represent an enviable record—one that has never been approached in any community less than fifty times this size.

The ability Jeff has demonstrated in the past prompts the Great American's home office staff to predict a victory for the challenger. This is said with full knowledge of the fact that the record he has to beat is a big one—it is said with the full knowledge that the competition he will have confronting him this month is keener than any he has faced before.

Until midnight June 30th the battle will be on and to those who participate the Great American Life Insurance Company expresses the time honored wish, "May the Best Man Win."

Runaway Plane Jails Poet's Son

Capt. Ugo V. D'Annunzio, 49-year-old aviator son of the late Italian poet, Gabriele D'Annunzio, is pictured in center foreground above, as he was arrested at the Seversky Airport, Farmingdale, L. I., after his grounded plane got away from him, wrecked an automobile and seriously injured the woman occupant. The Italian World War ace, held in $500 bail for third-degree assault, will face a Department of Commerce inspector's charge that he had no license to operate an airplane.

Anglers Swarm Toward Coast

(By The Associated Press)

Poiled for weeks by muddy waters and generally bad fishing conditions, Texas anglers swarmed toward the coast and other good holes Friday as the "good fishing" banner was hoisted everywhere.

Taken, by towns, the outlook for the weekend was:

Port Arthur — expect possible showers; general prospects excellent as moderate, variable winds expected continue. Water clearest at 18-mile light. King, jackfish, bluefish, jewfish plentiful. Expected clear by Saturday at Jetties, beach.

Port Isabel — Large catches of mackerel recorded. Continued good water and weather point to good weekend. Trout striking in bay; tarpon at mouth of Rio Grande.

Galveston—Prospects excellent if winds stay down. Speckled trout being caught freely in west bay and on beaches. Good many mackerel, some pompano taken from clearing waters.

Freeport—Jetty fishing for trout, reds, pompanos and pan fish excellent. Weather good. Kingfish plentiful.

Corpus Christi—Corpus bay. Laguna Madre yielding good catches of trout and mackerel. Favorable weather predicted.

Port Aransas—Fair weather forecast. More than 2,000 pounds king caught Thursday. Few pike and jack. Trout being caught in large numbers.

NEW HIGHWAY PATROL CAPTAIN SENT HERE

Jim Lyons is going to make his home in Amarillo.

The Texas Highway Patrol captain who has the same name as the general manager of the Pampa Daily News, who has been transferred to the Santa Ana Register at Santa Ana, Calif., comes to the Panhandle from Dallas.

Captain Lyons will succeed Captain M. L. Berry, who has been transferred to Wichita Falls.

As head of the patrol in this section Captain Lyons will be supervisor for the district which includes Gray county, and which is served by J. L. Pingenot, Jr., and Norvell Redwin, stationed at Amarillo.

The two Shamrock officers were in Pampa yesterday conducting the regular weekly driver's license examinations.

CONSTANCE BENNETT'S ANATOMY DISCUSSED

LOS ANGELES, May 27 (AP)—Constance Bennett, Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye, became a mere study in anatomy today for a jury of her peers.

Bobbing up in chastely-decorated Los Angeles court room were such delicate questions as how is Miss Bennett's thigh and is she, or is she not, pop-eyed.

The questions originated in Miss Bennett's complaint that her life-size portrait by Artist Willy Pogany, for which he asks $3,500, did her blond beauty wrong.

"My eyes are not looking out of the canvas. They bulge," the titled film actress said in a deposition. "My shoulders are too round. My thigh is too large and my mouth has a little curly cue on it."

Pogany has asserted that Miss Bennett demanded certain changes in the picture and he refused, rather than risk impairing his professional reputation.

WASH MACHINE CAR.

AMERY, Wis. (AP)—Lowell Smith, 19, and Royce Myhre, 15, high school students, put together an abandoned buggy chassis, a washing machine engine, a pulley and a piece of pipe, and it ran. Their imitation of Henry Ford's first automobile is steered with a rope knotted to the front axle. It costs them ten cents for an afternoon of tearing around the countryside at 12 miles an hour.

Movement to Seed Golfers Started

TROON, Scotland, May 27 (AP)—A movement to seed American Walker cup players in future British amateur championships has started here since the defeat of Johnny Goodman and Johnny Fischer by teammates.

Harold W. Pierce, vice president of the United States Golf Association, may discuss this with Henry Gullen, secretary of the Royal and Ancient, when they meet to talk over the rules before the Walker cup matches.

British players are seeded when they go to the United States to play in the U. S. amateur. Those who favor seeding argue it's useless to encourage nations to send teams over if players must meet each other in the first rounds as Fischer and Charlie Yates did this week.

LESSON IN GEOGRAPHY.

She picked up two bits of paper. They were pages torn from geographies of the Lone Star school, which the pupils were studying when the storm struck.

One page described weather in

Approaching Texas Harvest Recalls Old Threshing Days

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF.
WHEATLAND, Dallas County, May 27 (AP)—The hum of the binder was sweet music to Texas farmers today. For J. T. Scott, who has operated a thresher 40 years, it carried his thoughts to the "chicken and pie" days of the "family" harvest crew.

Once he roamed the grain fields of Texas and Oklahoma during the threshing season, returning home with his pockets bulging from proceeds of his work. "But my day in the harvest field is about over," he said, touching his gray temples and settling comfortably on the divan in his beat brick home in this tiny town whose name comes from the rich grain lands around it.

He will thresh this season but there will be no trips outside this immediate vicinity. He expects to begin threshing about June 10.

Oats, wheat and barley are now being cut over the state, but the thresher and combine are being used only in scattered localities. The harvest will not get under way in Texas until next week.

Scott, who has worked around or operated a thresher ever since he can remember, recalls the progress that carried him from the reaper and horse-operated threshing machine to the thresher with its gasoline engine and the combine pulled by rubber-tired tractors of the present day.

"Horse power" threshers were furnished power by horses that went around and around like they do at a hay baler. Then they gave way to the steam engine thresher which was in turn supplanted by the gasoline motored thresher.

The combine cuts the grain and threshes it at the same time and there is no shocking of the bundles to await the coming of the lumbering threshing machine. The farmers just let the grain get good and ripe in the fields before harvesting it.

"Once we used about 30 men in a crew and the farmer carried the grain off in his own wagons," Scott said. "Now we have about 20 men and a big part of them drive trucks that take the grain away so the farmer doesn't have to worry about the transportation.

"Once there would be a single thresher that served all the farms of a community, now there are lots of them and many farmers have their own harvesting equipment."

What he called the "chicken and pie" days was the period when the farmers united forces to thresh each other's grain and the women folks assembled at the place where work was under way and all pitched in and took care of the cooking for the crew. And the table was loaded with fried chicken and pies and cakes.

Then followed the portable cook shack that went with the thresher and one man did all the cooking—chicken and pie were scarce items.

Now the Scott farm has a rock building with a regular cook and when the time comes to eat the men just load onto trucks and go there.

Jobs on the old thresher were: Men who worked the bundle wagons, the pitchers, the engine man, the separator man, the measurer (sack holder), and the water carrier who usually kept the records.

Now on the combine one man drives the tractor and another keeps the cycle adjusted.

"We couldn't get men to wade in the dirt and straw and chaff of the old threshing machine today," he said.

Scott predicted a yield in the Wheatland section of 35 to 60 bushels of oats to the acre, which he says is a good showing, but he looks for only about five to fifteen bushels of wheat.

Figures of the United States Bureau of Agriculture Economics office at Austin show the estimated wheat production in Texas this year, as of May 1 conditions, to be 39,860,000 bushels as compared to 41,690,000 last year. The oat crop has not been estimated but the bureau forecast production well above the average, which for 10 years has been 39,000,000. Last year's production was 30,432,000.

JAPAN MEETS STRONG RESISTANCE IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, May 27 (AP)—The Japanese army is meeting intense resistance to its newest drive into the interior of Central China, which for nearly a week has been without highly important progress.
The Japanese are trying to push their way westward along the cross country Luanghai railway to Chengchow, and to turn southward from that juncture with the Peiping-Hankow line for an attack on Hankow, the Chinese government's provisional capital.
Chinese army headquarters announced that the Japanese 14th division, commanded by the famous 1st Lt.-Gen. Kenji Doihara, had been driven from threatening positions east of Kaifeng and was retreating to the northeast.
This left the bend of the Yellow river northeast of Kaifeng, an important strategic point, in control of Chinese forces.

The intense fighting was considered here to be conclusive evidence that the Chinese army was not completely routed and demoralized with the loss of Suchow last Saturday, and that it still was capable of effective military maneuvering.
The Japanese had been driving almost continuously for several days, causing a large-scale flight of civilians, but Chinese army units were reported in a good state of morale and preparing for vigorous defense of the Chengchow-Kaifeng area.

WILD ANIMALS
KINDER TO SOIL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson of the Department of Agriculture says domestic animals damage pasture land by trampling and stripping vegetation. This increases erosion damage. Wild life, however, allows vegetation to develop and hold the soil.

Japs Ready to Rain Death From Skies on China

With planes showering death and destruction unrelentingly, thousands of Chinese civilians and around 200 foreign missionaries, many of them Americans, were imperiled as the Japanese swept westward along the Lung-Hai railroad in Central China after the capture of Suchow. The formidable planes shown above, spearhead of the Japanese drive, were bombing the countryside constantly and returning to their base only long enough to get new supplies of bombs. The top picture shows a Japanese machine gunner testing his weapon before one of the flights that resulted in some of the heaviest casualties of the entire conflict.

Worst Snowstorm in 59 Years Buries Montana

Snow falling almost continuously for more than 80 hours within a 50-mile radius of Butte, Mont., blanketed the city and environs 18 inches to 3 feet in depth, as pictured above. Communications were crippled and early crops were damaged. Motorists who were able to move at all dug out cars piled high with snow. It was the worst snowing storm in 59 years in Montana.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance
The New Testament is a book of moving stories of human life in which deep interest and profound human and social values are compressed into amazingly little space.
Here is this story of the woman who anointed Jesus with precious ointment as He was being entertained at the house of Simon, the leper, in Bethany. What deep, and in a measure difficult, questions it raises, and yet how closely related they are to all of life in every age!
The alabaster cruse of ointment of pure lard, which the woman brought, was very costly, and of course there was great indignation among those people who murmured about the waste of such precious stuff.
"It might have been sold," they said, "for above 300 shillings, and given to the poor."
Instead of complaining to Jesus, they evidently addressed and abused the poor woman. But Jesus heard their murmurings and interfered. Surely the Master who had such concerns for the poor woman would far better chance of consideration and kindness in a society of people like the woman who poured forth the precious ointment, than in a society of penny-pinching and narrow-minded disciples.

The world lacks today in large general impulse. Far better than there should be the pouring out of precious things in gracious acts and deeds than a small-minded and narrowly hoarding.
We have here not only the contrast between individuals but we have also the contrast between spiritual and social attitudes.
The word that Jesus spoke has been fulfilled. Wherever the Gospel is preached throughout the world, what this woman did is spoken of as a memorial of her. God bless the precious ointment bearer, and God grant that we may have a portion of her spirit!

BIGGEST CORN CARGO.
SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—When the Canadian Steamship Company grain carrier, LeMoine, loaded a corn cargo of 500,000 bushels here recently, a new record for the Great Lakes was claimed. The cargo, weighing 14,000 tons and destined for export, was estimated to be the equivalent of a 12,500-acre crop.

Witch?

Because townsfolk claimed her witchcraft made many persons ill and "hexed" a young girl, Mrs. Irene Ray, above, 60-year-old Indian squaw, has been ordered to leave Rochester, Ind. Arrested on charges of vagrancy, Mrs. Ray agreed to quit the city with her white husband after her release from jail. Indiana has no witchcraft laws.

RADIO UTILIZED TO HALT ALIEN INFLUX

TUCSON, Ariz., May 27 (AP)—The influx of aliens across the Mexican border has become so great that the picturesque border patrol of yesterday no longer can cope unaided with the problem, and has turned to radio as a means of stemming the illegal entries.
Construction of a 300-watt radio broadcasting station was begun today at border patrol headquarters here. It will flash orders to officers patrolling the border by automobile, and will provide instant communication with other patrol stations in Texas and California.
Until 1929 the patrol in Arizona was mounted on horseback, its facilities limited to 14 horses and three dilapidated cars.

PREHISTORIC JAWBONE IS BOILED AWAY

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP)—There may have been a Folsom man rivaling the Pittdown man or Peking man in the history of the early human race, but it appears science will never know.
Prisoners excavating for a new building unearthed a jawbone which some anthropologically minded officials recognized as a prehistoric human relic. Placed in some boiling water for cleaning, the bone was forgotten. When the pot boiled dry the relic was reduced to dust.

1940 OLYMPIC HOPE IS SEVENTEEN NOW

AUSTIN, May 27 (AP)—Seventeen years old this week, winsome Jane Dillard, breast stroke swimmer extraordinary who has been unofficially cracking records with abandon, is regarded by experts as a sure-fire 1940 Olympic team bet.

Nominated

A 100 per cent New Dealer and supported by both C. I. O. and A. F. of L., Henry L. Hess, above, is the Democratic nominee for governor of Oregon after his defeat of Gov. Charles H. Martin in the primary. Martin, who based his campaign principally on a fight against what he called "labor terrorists," also had claimed loyalty to President Roosevelt. In the election Hess will be pitted against Charles A. Sprague of Salem, winner of the Republican nomination.

Tex. Robertson, University of Texas swim coach and developer of Adolph Kiefer, the backstroke marvel, said today Jane was "potentially the fastest woman breast stroker in the world." Robertson discovered the former Fort Worth miss cutting the waters in city recreation department meets in Central Texas.
The blue-eyed threat to existing marks recently bettered several American records, including a number held by the famed Katherine Rawls.
Early this week she slithered over 50 yards in 32.2 seconds, shattering an unofficial record held by Katherine Rawls at 34.6.
In Temple, a couple of weeks ago, the brunette speedster made 100 yards with 25-yard straightaway in 1:14.8, the same course done by Katherine Rawls last year in 1:18.5.

MARTIAL LAW THREAT HALTS UNION PICKETS

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 27 (AP)—Forty-five Pure Oil Company workers passed unmolested today thru picket lines after rioting ended in injury to two women, arrest of three union workers and a threat of martial law at the company's strike-bound refinery.

Tear gas bombs were hurled by police assisting a night shift through a picket line at the CIO-affiliated Oil Workers Union called a strike last night over a disputed seniority question.
Mrs. Violet Fain and Mrs. Frances Brockshire, both of Muskogee, were burned and cut about the legs in the resulting confusion.
Police took into custody W. J. Trombley, Seminole, and John Irvin Crail, Muskogee, both international representatives of the union, and O. C. Carpenter of Muskogee.

GRADUATION NIGHT

One hundred and thirty-eight boys and girls tonight will leave the familiar scenes of Pampa High school for the unfamiliar surroundings of business and professional careers, and the halls of higher learning. Annual commencement exercises are to be held tonight in the High school auditorium. Those who elect to go to work will find the glamour of high school days to be rudely dissipated. The free and easy going ways of undergraduate days will be replaced by cold and calculating statures. Those who had a "cinch" and were locally famous for their ability to "get by" in school will find that nothing is taken for granted in the work-a-day world except real work, backed up by energy and effort. And equally, those who enter college this fall, will soon acknowledge a definite and decided transition in their ways of life—their ways of doing things. It will be hard for some graduates to adjust themselves to the new routine. Some will come through with colors flying high; others will flop miserably.

Surveying commencement this year, as it has been surveyed in the past, one is reminded of so many things that the "sweet girl graduate" and the boy wearing a new wrist watch, are likely to overlook. Graduates live in the present. They are thrilled by the closing exercises of school—the felicitations of their relatives and friends. They feel that they have traveled a long road—have come a long way. They are concerned with what to wear, where to go, how to act. Class day, class plays, the baccalaureate sermon, and finally, the graduation exercises hold their attention. You would not detract, if you could, from these large and vital moments in the lives of graduates. You would have them remember, however, that serious business lies ahead—that a high school diploma entitles the recipient to no particular consideration at the hands of the world. It is merely one of the preludes to an ordinarily long span of years. It is no "open sesame" to fame or fortune.

In a way you can survey commencement with a feeling of sadness. You oldsters look back upon the time when you were experiencing the same thrills as the Class of 1938. Then, you felt you had solved all mystery—that life was good and wholesome and sweet. You had tasted little of its bitterness and much of its joys. You were ready to go out and conquer. With the passing of the years, you are inclined to laugh, a little soberly, at the buffeting of existence.

It is relatively easy to tell others how to live and what to do and so hard to carry it out ourselves. With high courage and strong hearts, the youth of today will be served as was the youth of yesterday. One trusts and hopes that the service is commensurate with and will measure up to a high standard of living.—Contributed.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Inner significance of the government's demand for a Supreme Court rehearing of the Kansas City Stockyards case is that there's another war on between the New Deal and the Court, second in potential importance only to the one in which President Roosevelt took a bad congressional beating last year.

This is only the second time in five years that demand for such a reconsideration has been made. Quite unprecedented has been the action of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in firing angry letters about the decision at Chief Justice Hughes.

Equally unprecedented is some of the strong language used by Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson in taking the Court to task for a decision which he boldly states was "wrongly decided."

Even stronger were some of the phrases which appeared in proof sheets of the government brief a few hours before the final, formal version appeared.

"The Court has rendered a decision demonstrably without foundation in the facts of the case," said the proof-sheet version. No pleader before the Court had ever been that bold. At the last minute these words were deleted.

The Kansas City case, also known as the Morgan case, involved rates set by the secretary. The Court voided the rate order, holding commission firms had not been given a fair hearing and emphasizing lack of a trial examiner's report.

Since the Agriculture Department long ago and the NLRB lately have shown it is simple to revise the procedure so as to conform with the Morgan decision, no great issue is involved

Tex's Topics

Graduation exercises at Pampa High school tonight remind me of that June night "several" years ago when I marched out on the stage of the Majestic Opera House in blue serge coat, white pants and all the trimmings to have presented to me a sheepskin which since has become lost in the mad scramble of life. . . . I was plenty nervous that night. . . . I was vice president of the class and the president had not shown up at the Opera House at a point in the night's program only 20 minutes distant from the time when he was supposed to give the class address.

We students—there were 38 of us parked in the theater boxes, there to wait the signal when we would march out before the footlights and present our shining countenances to proud fathers and mothers—were all aflutter. . . . And, I was more aflutter than the rest of them when the principal of the High school came around to my box and said it looked like the president wasn't going to show up in time, and that I, as vice president, had better prepare (with his assistance) some well-chosen words with which to pat the teachers and the school board members on the back for being such swell persons in piloting us through to the point where we were ready to step out and slap the world in the face with the benefits of a High school education.

It was a hot night, anyhow—and beads of perspiration collected in lake-like size on my brow and trickled down the back of my neck, clear on down the middle of my back. . . . Minutes passed, and then when I had gulped and even turned cold under the heat—in pops the president of the class who had nothing to worry about because he had been rehearsing his lines for four months. . . . It seems he had some kind of last-minute trouble with his pants and that was what caused all the delay. . . . I always get a kick out of recalling the fact that the dumbest boy in my class is now a highly successful surgeon, and the boy who got the best grade has never amounted to a whoop. . . . Not that it always works that way. . . . It just happened to turn out like that in my class.

I can remember how I figured that I would have the world by the tail on a downhill pull. . . . Most of us in the class felt that way. . . . Life changes your ideas. . . . Instead, the world has had me by the tail ever since, just the same as it has had you and you and you, if you'll only own up to it. . . . I continued to study—to be an artist, one who draws with pen and ink. . . . My special forte was to do caricatures. . . . I spent a lot of time and considerable of my father's money in that direction, and now look at me. . . . All I draw is dizzy-looking designs when talking over the phone. . . . Pixilated, I believe, is what I am. . . . Nothing I have said here is intended to discourage the members of tonight's graduating class. . . . In fact, if each of them keeps his chin up, he has a swell chance of getting by, gloom-dispersers notwithstanding. . . . But, boys and girls—believe you me, it's going to be dog eat dog, and every man for himself from here on out.

Yesteryear In Pampa

SEVENTY-EIGHT CIVIL CASES WERE FILED in the 84th district court after the last term.

Sale of the Southwestern Public Service Company was announced by L. L. Ferree, general manager of the firm at Amarillo.

C. P. Buckler was the chess champion of the Pampa community. He won the Pampa Daily NEWS tournament by defeating Dr. D. E. Whittenton in the finals.

Like so many ducks, several hundred Pampa youngsters rushed into the water at the new municipal swimming pool when it was opened to the public.

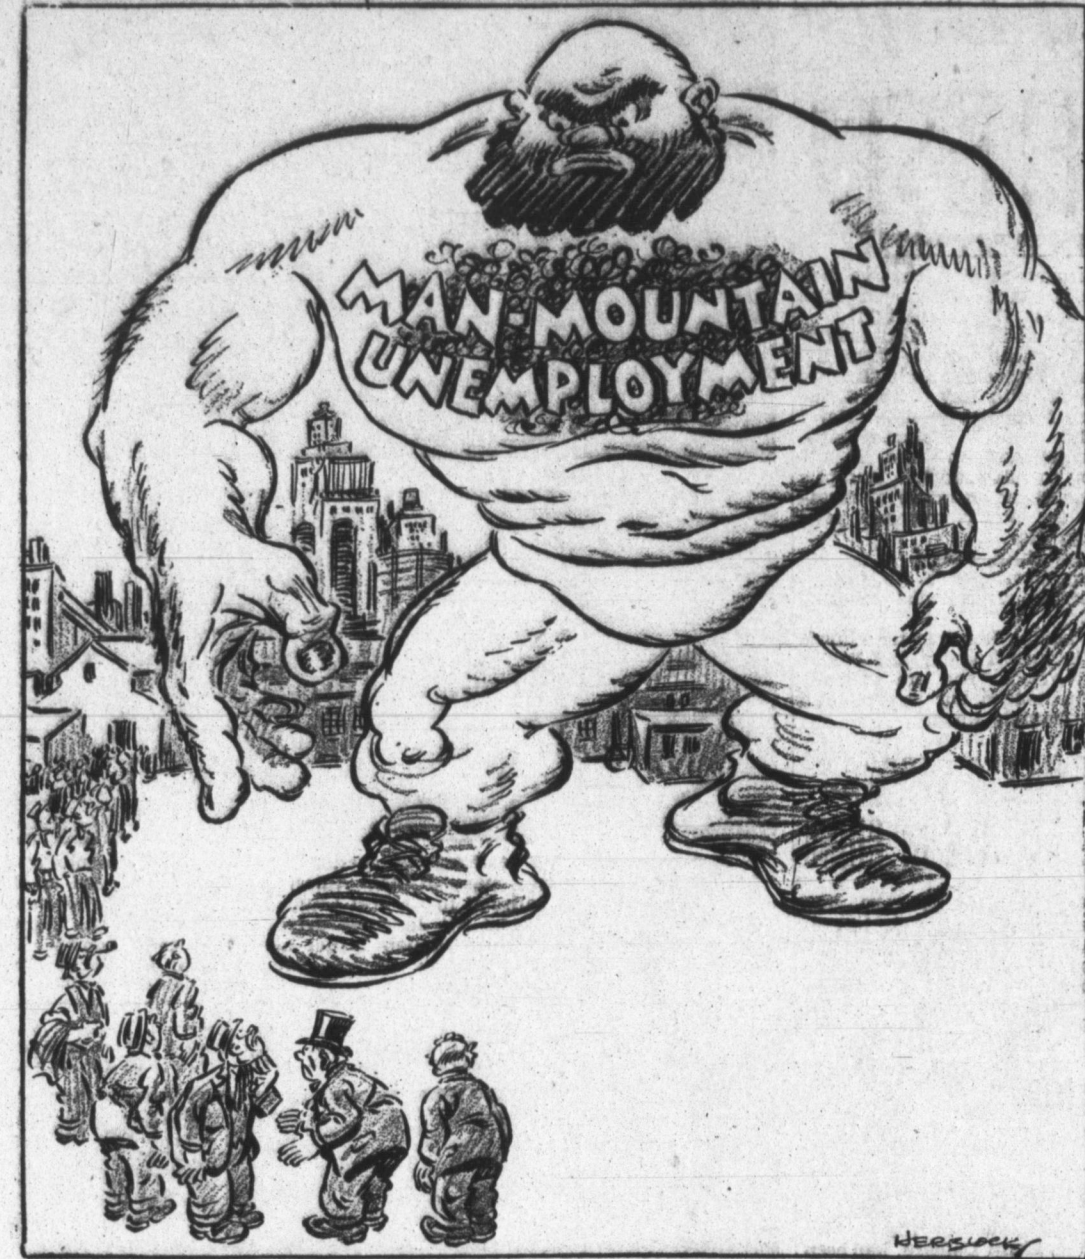

Vital long-range questions concern the extent to which the Supreme Court may seek to curtail regulatory and rate-making powers of agencies established by Congress and the belligerency with which the administration is willing to fight such attempts at curtailment.

There's a poignant lesson in the decline of Senator Joe Guffey from his once high position as supreme political boss of Pennsylvania. Joe was such a naive, trusting fellow that he put his power in the hands of other ambitious men. He had been Democratic boss of the state many long years, enormously important in the 1932 Roosevelt nomination and in the 1934 and 1936 victories which put Pennsylvania into the Democratic column.

But after he had reached the summit—his hand-picked man George Earle in the governor's chair, himself in the Senate and his rights of patronage and other perquisites gratefully recognized by the White House—Joe made the mistake of letting State Chairman Dave Lawrence handle the federal and state patronage while Earle dished out state and federal funds.

And that was why Joe suddenly found himself squeezed out as Number One man, unable to encompass his own nomination or even to make the machine endorse a man of his choice. In alliance with John Lewis and close in at the White House, Guffey is still a power. But he is far from possessing the most powerful boss-ship in the country. Unknowingly, he gave that away.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Years ago a hard-boiled editor who is now in Washington fixed me with a baleful eye and said: "Mister Cub, people like to read about a lot of things, but the things they like best are food and money. They may not think this is true, but it is true. They are always interested in food and money. Remember that."

That was a long time ago. And today comes a note from him, saying: "I'll be in your town Thursday and I'm not interested in chorus girls or looking out of skyscraper windows. Just lead me to a nice quiet place where the emphasis is on the dinner."

Well, I ought to give him a big build-up and then take him to the noisiest honky-tonk in town and get him ill on greasy, poorly prepared hot-dogs.

But I won't. I'm going to take him to what in this correspondent's opinion is the most gratifying restaurant in all New York to dine. It's a Swedish restaurant, where there are no pony chorusus, no comedians, no scintillating stars of the theatrical world, no giggling debutantes getting their noses tickled with champagne.

The only thing in the world to recommend it is (1) its food, and (2) its service. You drift in, say, about eight o'clock. And you give your hat to a Viking's daughter, and then a nice person in a perfectly casual way says, "Good evening," and leads you to a comfortable table. And you sit down. You sit down in a chair that is actually comfortable.

Then, when if the passing thought that a few hors d'oeuvres might be acceptable piques your attention, you get up—unhurriedly of course—and wander over to a set of complex, undefinable, nameless, but tasty dishes. There are perhaps two hundred of these to choose from, and so you make a careful circumference of the table, piling your plate with far more than you really desire, and back to your nice comfortable chair you go, there to munch and taste and toy with them until the main dinner comes along.

The dinner! This is a simple but elegantly prepared dinner of your own choice of meats and vegetables. . . . But alas, you have gorged on so many hors d'oeuvres that putting away a duck, or shall we say a portion of sugared Virginia ham, is quite out of the question. But you touch a steak with your knife and it falls open. It is so delicious and tender it melts in your mouth.

So you quite contentedly sit there and make a supreme pig of yourself. You keep on until it is past the point of being funny. Of course, there is much that you can not possibly make way with (a pity, too) and this is especially true in the Swedish restaurants. For there, or so it has seemed to me, a man's capacity is always exceeded by his longings. He may dine until he can't find room for another mushroom, but his palate still is willing.

A hurdle is a movable frame of stakes or iron used for enclosing land or stock. A farmer bought 50 sheep and used 50 hurdles to enclose them. Later he acquired 100 more sheep. How many more hurdles must he buy to enclose them with the others, if he arranged his hurdles in two rows? (Answer on Classified Page)

People You Know

SEVERAL YEARS ago this one went into the news stand across the street from the city hall to get a shine, and there he first laid eyes on little Billy Mounts. This one knew at once that he wouldn't be happy in his Boy Scout uniform any more without Billy, but Billy took his time about joining, but when he did he never let up for a minute until he got to the top as an Eagle Scout. That Billy! He was this one's ideal of the "Best Citizen" long before Junior high school gave him that title and a bronze-ebony plaque last night at the graduation exercises. There were other students honored with citizenship awards—Ross Buzard, Joe Cargile, both Eagle Scouts; Leroy Giles, Maxine Holt, Vaughn Darvall, and others, but this one writes of Billy because he knows him best, because he is representative of the others. . . . As usual Billy felt that he had not deserved it. "I can't see why they picked me," he said but he was happy. . . . And then this one remembered an incident of last year. It was a room election to decide who would make a trip to represent the school—and the pupils already had made up their minds to vote for Billy—until he got up and made a speech for another boy and asked them to elect him, and they did, thinking, "Well, if Billy wants him elected, let's elect him." For two years this one has seen and talked to Billy almost every day as he walked across the campus; he has been with him on many a camping trip—and all the time Billy has been loyal to the best; tactful, polite and kind. To write more about the virtues would embarrass him, so forgiveness is asked of him for writing so much. So now this one salutes the "Best Citizen" with the calm assurance that he'll always be just that, and the hope and confidence that there will be many more like little Billy Mounts—who is not so little now.

How's Your Health?

"Disease knows no frontiers and has never been a respecter of flags," writes Raymond B. Fosdick, president of Rockefeller Foundation, in his review of the foundation's activities for 1937. This review, incidentally, is a stimulating, readable survey of world health conditions and advances on the medical front.

"With every new method of transportation, the people of all countries—and their diseases—are brought closer together. There is no difference in influenza or in scarlet fever between Rumania and the United States; and yellow fever, given the chance could ravage India as easily as it has ravaged South America and Africa."

Yellow fever well illustrates the international menace of disease. This disease is practically unknown to the present generations of the United States population. Many American physicians have never come in contact with a case of yellow fever.

Yet, only 40 years ago, this disease was a constant menace to this country and periodically appeared in the coastal cities.

The great work of Walter Reed which revealed the role of the mosquito in the spread of yellow fever, and the equally remarkable accomplishments of General Gorgas in eliminating the insects' breeding places, freed Americans of the menace of yellow fever.

During the last quarter of a century it appeared that the menace of yellow fever had been removed from the North American continent for all time.

Lately we have come to realize that this belief is unfounded and hazardous. It has been found that there are vast reservoirs of yellow fever in the jungles of South America and Africa, and that the disease perpetuates itself in creatures other than man, and is spread by insects other than the known yellow fever mosquito (Aedes aegypti).

Aviation has increased the menace and has again brought it close to home. Fortunately there is reason to believe that this menace can be effectively counteracted by means of a yellow fever immunizing vaccine developed by Rockefeller Foundation research workers.

This vaccine is apparently entirely safe and easy to administer. It is likely to make the vaccinated individually resistant to yellow fever for the rest of his life.

So They Say

I hated to lock him up. He always had such a nice smile. STANLEY MCCOUBH, patrolman of New York City, after arresting for grand larceny a man who always gave his cheery "hello" on his beat.

I want a little time to catch my breath. THOMAS KENNEDY, defeated C. I. O. candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania.

because of the income tax. Therefore, it might be said logically that the working man pays, because he makes a greater sacrifice and that is what we were contending when we endorsed the article that the laboring man was the goat in the income tax. If he makes a greater sacrifice, he is paying greater than the man who directly pays. For this reason it is especially for his interest that the law be changed so that the working man's standard of living can be raised.

The Capital Jigsaw

AUSTIN, May 27 (AP)—Graduates of Texas high schools are deluging Gov. James V. Alfred with commencement announcements and invitations. This happens nearly every year at this season.

The governor makes it a point to write each student who sent him an announcement or invitation a brief note of congratulation.

Many groups of high school or grammar school students are also visiting the capitol these days and the focal point of their interest is the big statehouse.

They come by train and bus, some from considerable distances. One 'legation was from Raton, Fisher county, about 225 miles from Austin.

Mrs. Alma Albert, secretary to Gov. Alfred, says she believes more school boys and girls have sought to see the governor this year than at any time in his administration.

When it was possible, he receives them, usually in the big reception room on the second floor of the capitol.

Candidates for political offices aren't overlooking the opportunity in commencement exercises. For example, Gerald C. Mann, running for attorney-generalship, has been booked to deliver eight commencement addresses.

A letter describing the misery of 45 "Texians" imprisoned at Perote in Mexico during the Texas war for independence has been presented to the library of the University of Texas by Rep. Maury Maverick of San Antonio.

It was written by Maverick's grand father, Samuel A. Maverick, Texas pioneer and patriot, to Jose Maria Bocanegra, Mexican secretary of state and foreign affairs.

"Here at Perote," the letter said, "after being locked up twelve hours on cold stone floors, without sufficient clothing, in chains and misery, we were turned out to a breakfast consisting of a very small cup of hot water-of-a-darkish color and a fragment of bread which weighs three little Mexican ounces."

The prisoners then were marched with handbarrows and cart to a mountain to pack in loads of stone and sand, which Maverick termed "a labor which the human machine cannot stand on three ounces of bread and the false coffee of Perote."

"It is not the work," he wrote, "but the kind of work, and the work without adequate food, that I would complain of."

"As emigrants from the United States and the various respectable states of Europe we have ever been taught to regard labor as the only foundation of national greatness as well as of personal respectability."

"Therefore, however it may have been intended, we have not felt the mere labor as a disgrace."

"But we are chained by the legs, with heavy ox chains, coupled like beasts, two and two together, and forced at the point of the bayonet side side with your shameless convicted felons—robbers and murderers."

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—The girl in the old-fashioned long dress waved from the outdoor movie set across the rolling golf course adjoining, and called, "Hey, Dolores, Dolores!"

The distant golfer turned, waved back in bewilderment, then waved again more enthusiastically when the old-fashioned girl shouted, "It's Ruby—Ruby Jolson—How you doin'?"

Then the old-fashioned girl turned back to the set.

"That was Dolores Hope—Bob's wife—I knew her by the swing. . . . Most any other cary in the past year and a half would have found Ruby Keeler on that golf course, not bothering about pictures. She hadn't been in one since "Ready, Willing and Able." But now—long dress, false curls, hair ribbon and all—she was fulfilling a contract with RKO by starring in "Mother Carey's Chickens." She's the eldest chicken, the girl who falls for James Ellison, and she doesn't tap a step.

A Modest Lady Lunched in the dining room of the dressing shack under Universal's broiling sun—they were borrowing a location on the back lot near the Lakeside golf course—and talked and watched the spiders, ants and flies do Disney-ish tricks on the walls. Ruby dubbed at a pallid lunch on a paper plate; we said "No thanks."

Mrs. Al Jolson talked weirdly for a movie actress. Said of course, she was glad to be working again, although she suspected they were using her simply because they'd signed a contract. Said she thought it would be a good picture because they had such a good cast, meaning Fay Bainter, Ellison, Anne Shirley, Walter Brennan, et al. Said she was just as glad they weren't using her in a musical—this way she didn't have to worry about whether her tapping was as good as the other girls' in dance pictures.

"I just tapped," she said, "but the girls now—they're doing all sorts of fancy tricks. . . . I'm sure I couldn't keep up!"

She looked very pretty, sitting there at her dressing table, and just like the girl who was "half scared to death" every time she went into a scene for "42nd Street" her first year ago. Sounded like that girl, too.

Still Can't Believe It "I'm still scared," she admitted. "I can't get over feeling that it's a mistake, my being in front of the camera. Every time I see the director going into a huddle with somebody, I'm sure they're trying to think of a nice way to tell me I'm terrible and get rid of me. They've been very kind, though—tell me the rushes are all right. I saw the rushes one day, but I couldn't tell—they always make me ill—and I haven't been since. . . . Oh, I'd like to do something with the sides on stage or screen, but I don't think I can, really. . . . I do wish I were really good, though. . . ."

Unaccustomed as we are to meeting a genuine inferiority complex under make-up, this was delightful despite the heat and the flies, especially as the complex's owner wasn't making a bid for sympathy.

She was just talking along, the same way she talked about her passion for detective tales—"I buy old ones, five for $2, sometimes"—or how she had to get up early each morning to drive to RKO for make-up and come back to her own neighborhood, or how funny it would be when they worked on the RKO "ranch" across the street from her home and she'd still have to drive in to get her curls on. . . . Miss Keeler still has us reeling.

Dorothy Lamour makes up for her native-girl movie roles by extradressing when she goes out of an evening—even to wearing a mantilla. They're calling her now Sarong Sarong.

ing Schroder's speech, "It's not clear to me what he wants unless it's federal control and more power to the League of Nations."

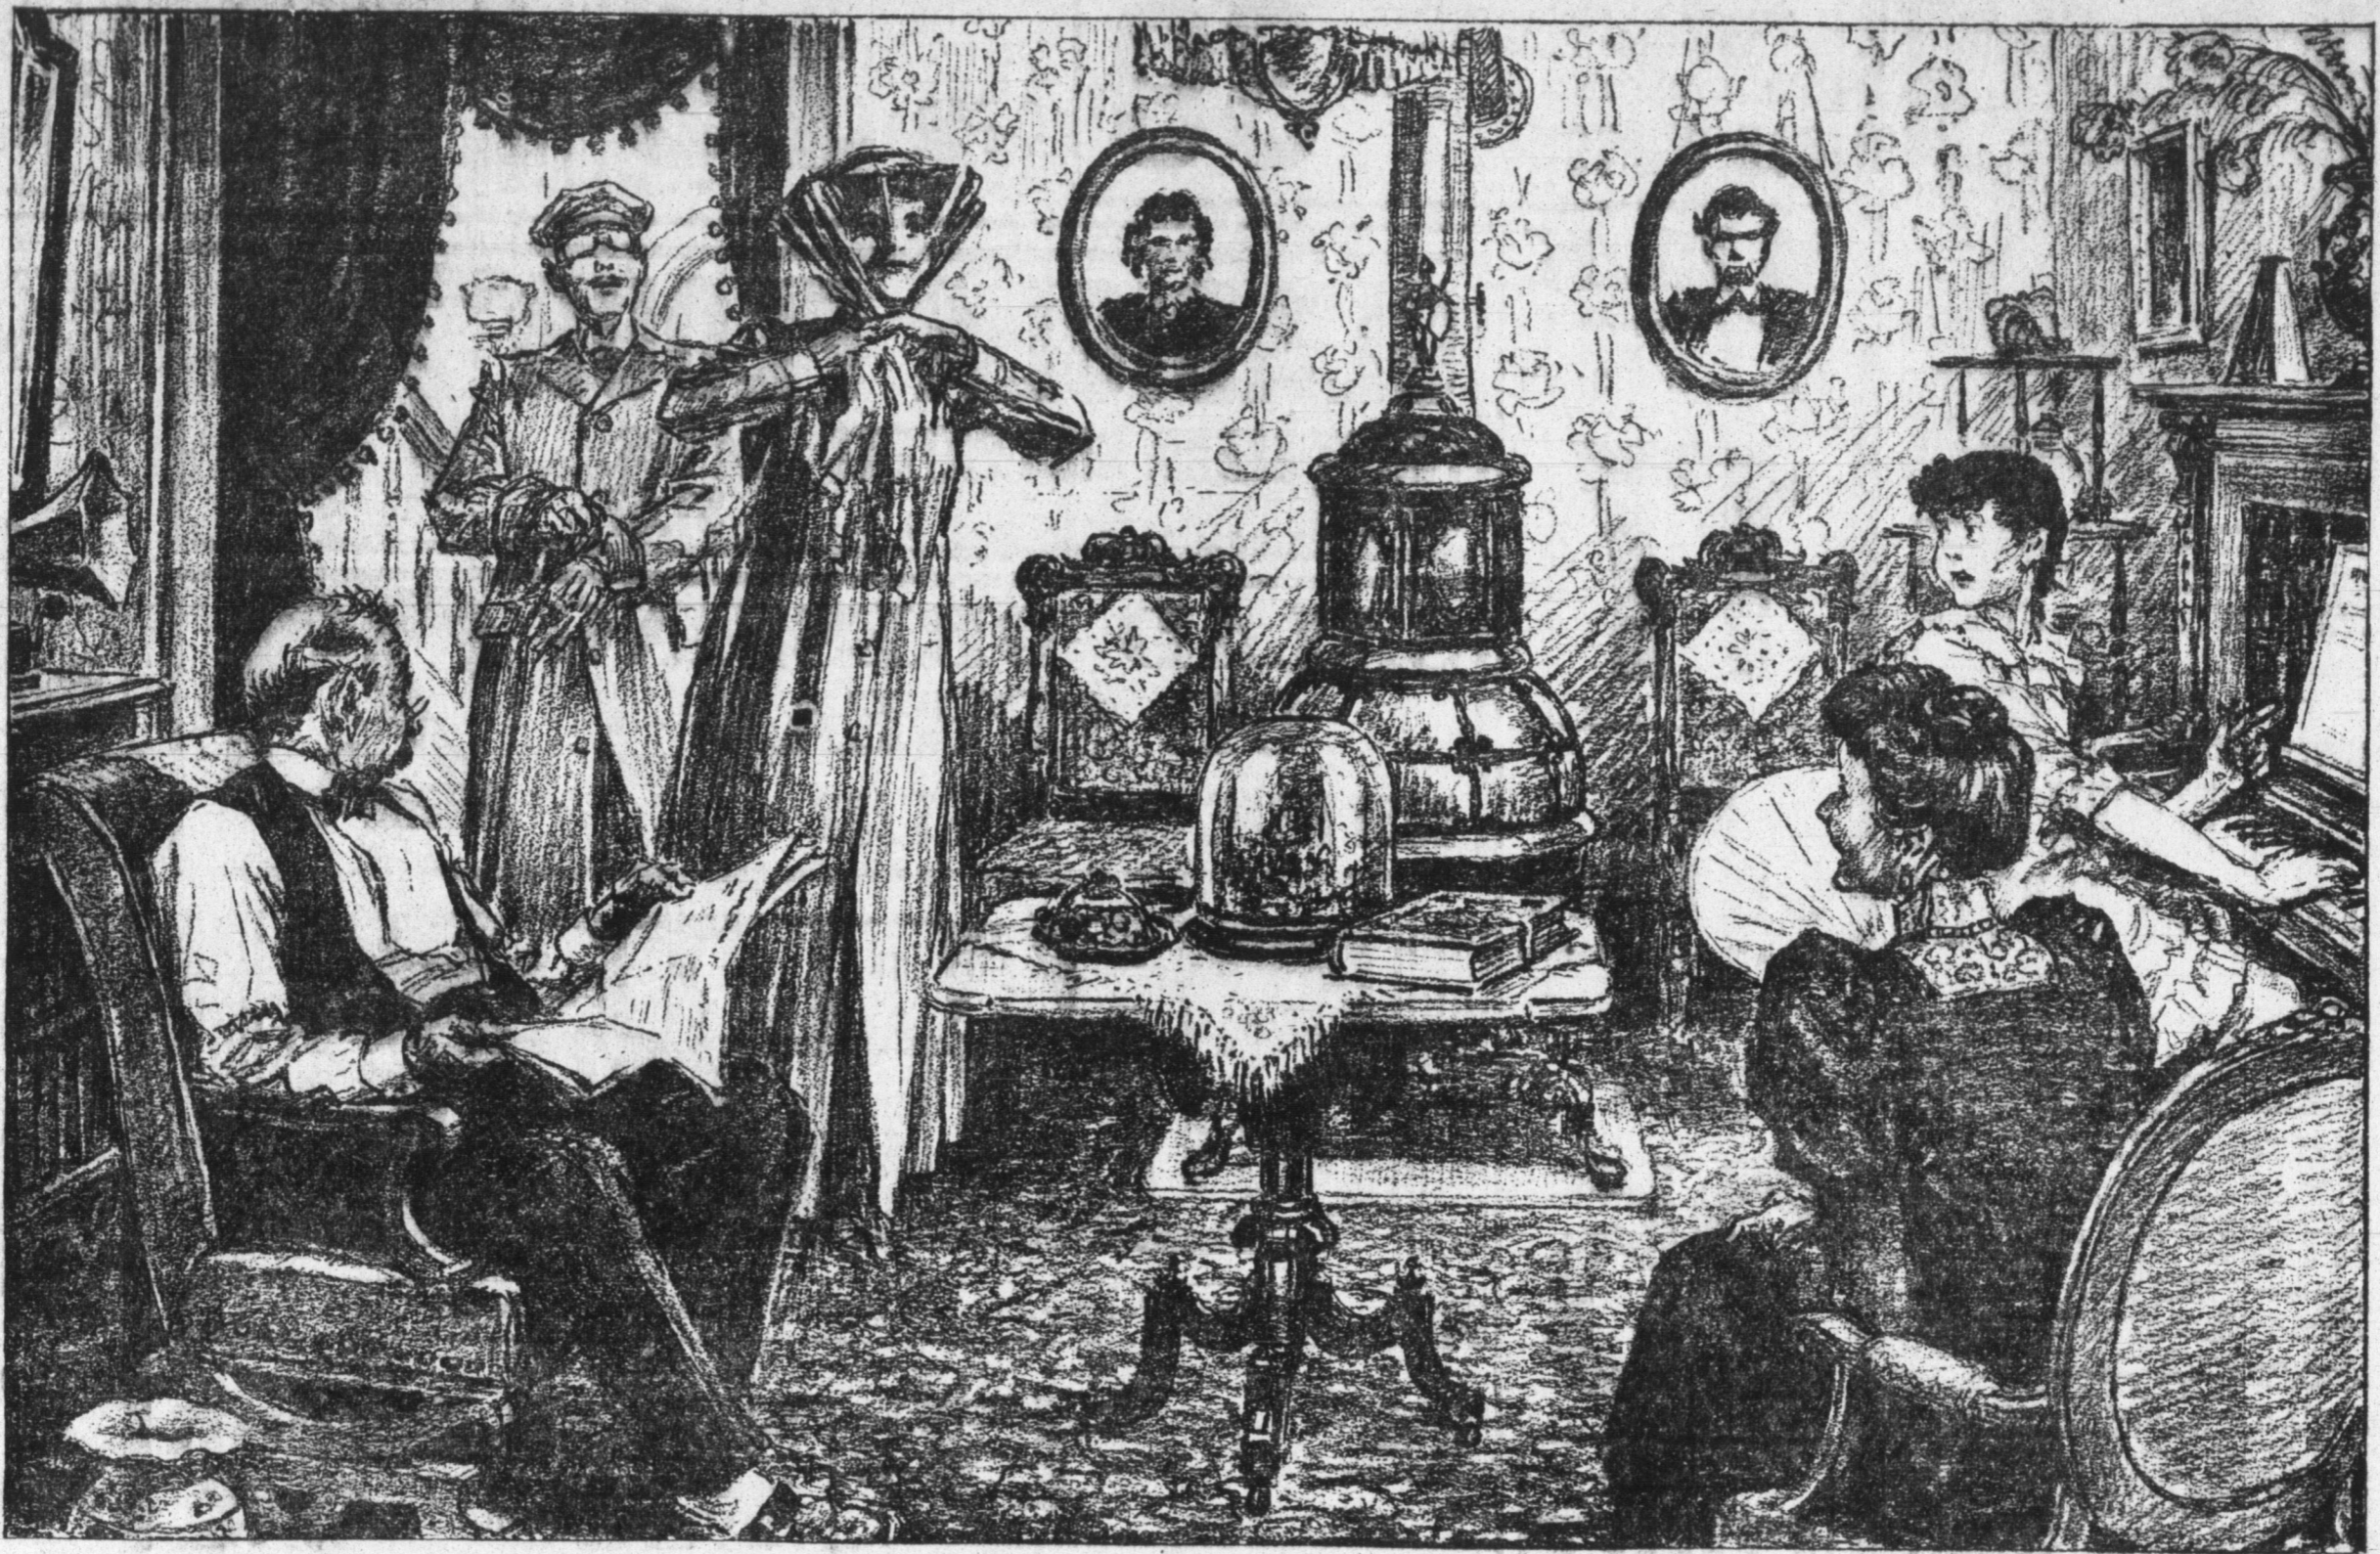

Schroder said that the Interstate Compact Commission had been about as effective in dealing with New Mexico and Oklahoma as Anthony Eden, foreign foreign secretary of Great Britain, had been in dealing with Hitler and Mussolini.

Side Glances

"This is father. You know the type—lovable old character."

What Do You Mean—
GOOD OLD DAYS ?

Your grandmother lived in a house like this. Perhaps you had many a good time there as a child. But would you want to go back to grandmother's house—to live there NOW?

The "good old days" were NOT good; nor were they easy. They were crude, inconvenient and uncomfortable. They were marked by a way of life that may have been satisfying to those who lived it, but scarcely broadening, hygienic or entertaining.

GOOD OLD DAYS? The town's richest family lacked the safeguards and conveniences we all now take for granted: electric fans, adequate refrigeration, reliable drug products that the doctor can prescribe with safety, cheap telephone service, day and night, nationally known dependable packaged foods; automatic central heating, chic popular-priced apparel, and that glory of American art, the modern bathroom!

Many things have made these blessings possible—inventive genius, plentiful capital and that insatiable desire for "something better" so peculiar to Americans. But only ONE thing has made them available to EVERY BODY, north and south, city and country, banker and working man alike: LOW COST MANUFACTURE AND DISTRIBUTION CREATED BY ADVERTISING.

When you look at the ads in this newspaper today consider this fact: All over over the country millions of other informed men and women are reading ads in their own local newspapers, checking values very similar to those being offered you by the Pampa Daily News advertisers

They are visiting their own local stores. . . they are viewing and selecting stylish clothes, tasteful furniture, smart shoes, delicious food products and many, many other things, all having the same high quality as those you, yourself, buy!

And it is this uniform, nationwide demand, created by and fostered by newspaper advertising that has made it possible for you to buy these luxurious necessities at the low popular prices everyone can afford to pay.

Consider this, too! Grandmother had to be a shrewd trader. Not every merchant was trustworthy in her time. But because newspaper advertising is universally accepted and believed it has actually brought about higher standards of buying and selling. Long ago advertisers discovered that unless their goods were "as advertised" they could not hold public confidence and stay in business. In this way newspaper advertising protects every man and woman who buys. Today the watchwords of every advertising merchant are "Dependability and Service . . . First, Last and All the Time."

Do you want proof? Then check every ad in today's Pampa Daily News! You will find that every item advertised is a real value calculated to make your buying dollar go farther. More important, when you purchase any article advertised in the Pampa Daily News you will find back of it a real pledge of dependability: dependability that your grandmother often sighed for but seldom found.

City Fireman's Wife Attacked, Brutally Slain

CHICAGO, May 27. (AP)—Mrs. Florence Johnson, 34, wife of a city fireman, was raped and brutally beaten to death early today by a negro who entered her South Side apartment through a window.
Her body was found on the bedroom floor with a paving brick nearby.
Her sister, Miss Margaret Witten, 28, who was sleeping in an adjoining room, said she saw the negro scurrying through the hallway and jumped out of a window.
A few minutes later police seized a negro near the building. He identified himself as Thomas Crosby, 18, an automobile washer. Sgt. Harold Fogarty said Crosby's hand bore scratches and his clothing was bloodstained.

CHINESE AGAIN REFORM LINES AS JAPS LAG

(By The Associated Press)
Japan's remodeled, "quick victory" cabinet moved today to quicken the lagging war against China, a week of suspense in Central Europe had frayed Czechoslovakian nerves, and the Mexican Government announced surrender of 1,100 rebels.

Adding to this catalogue of the world's conflicts, Spanish insurgent bombs kept many residents of the French border town, Cerbere, huddled in underground refuges until early today.

French border officials believed the air attack was only a "tragic error" and that Port Bou, on the Spanish side of the border was the insurgent objective. Eight planes dropped 15 bombs before retreating from French searchlights and Spanish Government anti-aircraft fire—but all bombs landed on French soil and flying glass wounded three persons in Cerbere.

Czechoslovakia, half engulfed by big Germany's borders, has been fearful of similar raids through the past week of fluctuation crisis.

Actual trespassing by German warplanes heightened Czechoslovakia's fears. Czechoslovakia, upon German representations, had taken steps to prevent her own airmen from crossing the border.

The future of Czechoslovakia's Germanic peoples, demands of their Nazi leaders for autonomy and what would come of Adolf Hitler's declaration he would "protect" them were still unsettled.

Japan's armies had made no important progress for nearly a week. Stubborn Chinese, reforming their lines after the fall of Suchow, delayed the drive westward along the Lungshai toward Chengchow, where the Japanese hoped to wheel to the south to assault Hankow, provisional Chinese capital.

In Mexico's little civil war, the government reported wiping out a band of 25 rebels which derailed an International train yesterday. None of the passengers, including Americans, was injured.

Federal airmen bombed the wreckers as several rebel bands surrendered in fear of the huge concentration of federal soldiers in San Luis Potosi state, stamping ground of ex-General Saturno Cedillo.
The government ordered more troops into the state, bringing the strength of the punitive force to 11,000 men.

$400,000 OFFERED TO U. S. IN OIL CASE

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The government will accept an offer of 14 oil companies and 11 individuals to pay $400,000 in fines if a federal judge admits their pleas of "nolo contendere" to charges of violating the anti-trust laws.

The application will come before Judge Patrick B. Stone at Madison, Wis., June 2. The firms are among 22 companies accused of making unlawful agreements to fix profit margins for midwestern gasoline jobbers.

Attorney General Cummings said yesterday the offer "may be regarded as a complete capitulation on their part," although a plea of nolo contendere merely accepts penalties without confession of guilt.

Trial Flight

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to test the atmosphere.
ROGER BRECKNER—hero; he wanted to test the atmosphere.
BERYL MELROSE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.
EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.
Yesterday, convinced of Roger's love, Jackie returns to him while Beryl leaves for New York on a secret mission.

CHAPTER XXIII

IT seemed to Jackie, going back to Roger, that the cab would never reach the hospital. Oh, what if Beryl had not come after her, kept her from leaving? Then she would never have known the truth about Roger, never would have known that he loved her.

This last thought was so tremendous that Jackie's heart beat faster than the spinning wheels. Beryl had said that it had been Jackie's name that Roger had called out in his delirium, that his belief that Beryl was Jackie had saved his life. Roger had not been merely acting then during their trial engagement. He had loved Jackie all the time, as she had loved him.

The cab pulled up in front of the hospital. In her excitement Jackie nearly forgot to pay the driver. She did forget her bag, so that the driver had to run up the steps with it after her.

As long as she lived Jackie knew she would never forget the light that sprang into Roger's eyes, that illuminated his whole face when that door opened and he saw that she had come back to him. It was a beautiful light. It told her, more eloquently than any words, that Roger loved her.

"You missed your train!" Roger said. His tone was gay. He tried to be casual but his face still glowed.

The nurse murmured something then about an errand she would attend, closing the door quietly as she slipped out of the room, proving that she had a feminine and an understanding heart hidden beneath the stiff starchiness of her crisp white uniform.

"Yes, I missed it," Jackie said. "On purpose."

"Of course." She crossed over to the bed, drew a chair up close beside it. She snatched off her hat, tossing it aside, so that once again the sunshine streaming in through the window made a brilliant halo of her golden hair. "I decided I didn't want to go, Roger, after all. I decided I was wrong—about everything. That's why I came back."

"What made you decide that?" Roger asked. His glance was full of eagerness, that no effort could suppress.

"I never meant anything so much in all my life," she went on. "I've been an awful little fool, Roger. Pretending I didn't want anything to do with love, building such wild, impossible day-dreams of what I would do with my life. Putting on an act, make-believe. I know now that nothing matters—except love. I love you, Roger—and I'm not ashamed to say it. I came back to tell you. I'd like to tell everyone—the whole world—that!"

"But you just told me—only a short while ago—that you had been putting on an act," Roger said. He would not look at her; he had managed to suppress all eagerness now. "I suppose this is just another one, Jackie. In fact I'm sure of it. You only think you love me—at least you're only saying it. Because you feel sorry for me, because I cracked-up, because I'm not much good any more."

"Don't say that!" She got to her feet, bent over to silence him with a finger held against his lips. "It's not that. I'm not sorry for you. Why should I be? Soon you'll be just as you always were, we'll forget all about all this—your crack-up, the hospital."

"You don't know what you're saying!" His voice was harsh. "Pity is akin to love, you know. Hasn't Beryl told you—the truth about me?" He looked at her now, into her eyes—a look that would not let her glance away.

"Beryl has gone to New York," Jackie answered. She did not say whether Beryl had told her or not. Beryl had asked her not to. "Why should she say anything to me? Oh, yes. . . . She said that she would be back as soon as she could, that she had to on some very important matter."

"I know about that," Roger said. The look of pain in his blue eyes deepened; his tone still was gruff. "It's no use," he added. He turned his head away again for a brief moment; his hand lying on the cover clenched hard so that the knuckles stood out. Then he forced himself to meet Jackie's eyes once more. "I might as well tell you, Jackie. They don't think I'll ever be able to walk again."

"You mustn't say that!" Jackie protested as she had before. Now she did put her arms around his neck, gently, drawing him to her, cradling his head against her heart. "I won't believe it, Roger. You mustn't believe it, either. We won't think about it, talk about it even. Besides, that has nothing to do with what I came back to tell you—that I love you, that I always have and always will."

"I tell you I'll never be any good any more," Roger said, almost bitterly now. "I'll never be able to fly. . . . that's what hurts the most. But I'll never be able even to crawl on the ground, and I'm not holding you to a piece of a man like that, Jackie. I couldn't let you think you loved me, because of your pity. I'd rather be dead!"

"Poor Roger," Jackie said. "I do pity you, but not because of what you think. I pity you, darling, because you don't know much—yet—about love. Love has wings. Love can never be chained to the ground. It can conquer everything, if given half a trial. Do you suppose I give a darn that you may not be able to fly? Do you suppose I can stop loving you now, even if you can't walk again? Oh, my darling! She bent her golden head so that he could not see the tears that filled her eyes. Her voice held all the love, all the infinite tenderness of womankind. "I love you Roger, really love you, can't you understand?"

"I can't, but I'll try," Roger said. A tear that did not come from Jackie's eyes splashed on her hands. She held him closer, put her lips against his. This was not such a kiss as they had exchanged before. Those faded into nothingness. For this, kiss sealed love that was really true, that would not be denied.

Much later the nurse opened the door, very quietly. There had been no response to her knock. "A telegram for you, Miss Dunn," she said, murmuring an apology for intruding. "It is marked rush, so I guess it is very important."

DENVER LINE CAUTIONS AGAINST TRESPASSING

"Vacation days for school children will soon be here, and again the Burlington Railroad requests the aid of school authorities, school children, parents, recreational organizations and others in its campaign to prevent trespassing upon railroad property," said J. W. Mode, superintendent of the Fort Worth & Denver Railway at Amarillo.

Because of the support given the movement by the press, civic groups, schools, P. T. A. and other organizations, Mr. Mode stated that the railroad believes beneficial results are being obtained from its anti-trespassing campaign, although still many persons are being injured and killed while trespassing upon railroad property.

Mr. Sidney J. Williams, director, public safety division of the National Safety Council recently wrote:

"To the man with his hand on the throttle, motorists who zip across with nothing to spare—and sometimes miss—are not the only reason for hair that's prematurely gray."

"It's the youngsters playing on the tracks, hitching onto trains. Although the dangers of playing on the tracks ought to be obvious, the fascination that trains have for youngsters makes them forget their parents' warnings, with the result that 92 boys and girls under 14 years of age were killed in this way in one year, and another 19 in this group were killed while attempting to hitch rides on trains, making a total of 110 killed."

"In the next higher age group, from 14 to 21 years of age, the proportion of those killed while attempting to hitch rides on the train is much larger. In the same year, 90 from this age group were killed in this way, while 136 met death while walking or playing along the tracks, making a total of 226."

Presidents of a score of students' unions of universities and colleges of Britain have issued a manifesto attacking the government for "complacency in the face of international barbarism."

NEWSPAPER AND GUILD SETTLE DULUTH STRIKE

DULUTH, Minn., May 27 (AP)—Editorial and clerical employees of the Duluth News-Tribune and Herald were back at their desks today, their eight weeks' strike ended. Joseph H. Jordan, publisher of the newspapers, announced the Lake Superior Newspaper Guild had accepted an agreement providing for:

Waiver of the "Guild Shop" in the news departments, a qualified guild shop in the commercial department with exception of outside advertising solicitors, a five-day 40-hour week for most workers, and a provision that wages should be fixed by a board of arbitrators.

The agreement, he said, also included clauses that no old employees, not members of the guild, should be required to join any labor organization.

BISTEROUS AND WORDY ARGUMENT ENDS AS KING WALKS OFF FIELD

DANGEROUS CLUB GIVEN CREDIT FOR VICTORY

Fans attending softball games at Recreation park last night thought the St. Louis Cardinals, Gas House gang, and the New York Giants had gotten together when King and Danciger, Industrial league teams, had an old-fashioned chewing match with the King crew finally walking off the field in the fifth and the umpire awarding the game to Danciger, 9 to 0.

In the other game of the night, the Jaycees scored two runs in the last half of the seventh to come from behind and defeat the Christians 9 to 8 in a bang-up City League game.

Alleged illegal pitching, faulty scorekeeping and umpiring difficulties which arose from the arguments throughout the games with the umpires not taking things in their hands and banishing the players as the league rules before the season opened when it was voted the umpire-in-chief was to have supreme command on the diamond.

When the players saw they could get away with their arguing, they kept it up. A scorekeeping mixup in the fourth gave King a run. Another mixup in the fifth gave Danciger two runs and that was when King walked off the diamond. Preceding that, however, Patrick of Danciger had been relieved on the mound by Trenary, who, according to King players, used alleged dirty livery. Danciger protested about Brown of King hurling illegally and the arguments continued long and loud.

King decided to quit in the fifth when they claimed the scorekeeper and umpire had ruled to mixup and then changed their minds after King completed the first half of a double play and left the field. It was then that the scorekeeper and umpire ruled that only one man had been out, according to King, and the game was over right there.

Both managers, E. M. Dean of King and Joe Parkinson of Danciger, regret the incident and have asked the league officials to decide what should be done in the way of clearing up the situation. Both also recommended to the officials that the umpires be selected by a committee and be neutral in every way.

"We don't want to play that kind of ball and if the umpires would clamp down on the arguments and illegal pitching it wouldn't be long before every player would be a 'chalk line' both managers agreed.

The Jaycees and Christians played a see-saw game all the way until the Jaycees came from behind the last time in the seventh to win. W. J. Brown went the distance for the Jaycees with Luter and Hall dividing the catching. Junior Foster hurled for the Christians with Bland receiving.

The schedule for tonight follows: 6 p. m.—Pampa News vs. Mack & Paul Barbers, Cabot diamond. Second game—Skelly vs. Cities Service.

8:15 p. m.—Gray County Creamery vs. Supply boys.

STICK-UP MAN ROBS KILGORE BOX OFFICE

(By The Associated Press) They tore down the fences with base hits in an eventful night in the East Texas league in which the leading teams won their games and a stick-up man took $110.10 from the Kilgore box office.

Eighty-nine safe blows rattled against the boards and 56 runs spiked the pan as leading Texarkana walloped Tyler 18-2, second-place Longview dominated Henderson 7-5, Marshall stayed in a tie for third place with Jacksonville by defeating Palestine 9-6 and Jacksonville whitewashed Kilgore 10-0.

Kilgore got but four hits off Bob Crow and took the first shutout of the season, then found a hi-jacker had run off with the night's profits.

Texarkana belted three Tyler pitchers for 18 hits while their own Vallie Eves limited the Trojans to nine well-scattered blows.

Longview sandwiched two hits with three Henderson errors to push over three runs in the ninth for victory.

Marshall also picked the ninth inning to stage a rally and shove across four runs to clinch the game over Palestine.

CITRUS PEEL IS CAVIAR TO THE LIVESTOCK

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Citrus peel which the Texas Planning Board reports was a troublesome problem for Rio Grande valley citrus juice canneries, has been converted into livestock food and is a regularly quoted commodity on feed markets.

The peel, the board says, is fed into dehydrating machines where all moisture is removed. It is then cut into small pieces and sacked.

Having the appearance of prepared breakfast food, the meal has a bitter taste but one palatable to livestock.

Red Ruffing Fans 10 In Turning Back Tigers 5-1

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

Rufus the Red Ruffing, must warm the cockles of Col. Jake Ruppert's bankroll.

Down through the years, Col. Jake has turned a goodly portion of his brewery profits into the purchase of and salaries for high-priced ivory.

But Big Rufus the Red and his right arm came to Yankee Stadium in a player exchange for one Cedric M. Durst. Now Cedric was down in the lineup as an outfielder—when he got in the lineup, the baseball "who's who" never bothered to list him. So you can see that Col. Jake didn't exactly mortgage the family jewels in the deal.

Yet, Rufus the Red has proved one of his most profitable pieces of business. You'd have to go a long way to find a better right-hand pitcher in baseball today.

In seven years with the Yankees, he has had just one poor season. He was a 20-game winner on the world champion outfits of '36 and '37, and even in 1935, when the club was floundering around, he came up with 16 wins and 11 setbacks. All told, his seven-year New York record shows 118 victories and 76 losses, for a neat, if not gaudy, .608 percentage.

Yesterday in his first appearance in 17 days, he proceeded to pitch them right back into the money.

Facing the dangerous Detroit Tigers, he hurled a seven-hitter, fanned ten and allowed just three runners to get as far as third base as he posted a 5-1 victory.

The Yankee victory, coupled with the Boston Red Sox's 8-4 triumph over Cleveland Indians, also sliced a considerable margin off the Tribe's American League lead. This left the Tribe with only a two-game margin over Tom Yawkey's lads and three over the Yankees.

Riding a three-home run barrage, the Senators took a wild 12-10 game from the St. Louis Browns. Taft Wright's round-tripper with the bases loaded was the payoff wallop.

The Athletics given a neat ninth-inning pitching effort by Gene Spivey, topped the White Sox, 4-1, in the only other game on the day's program.

The entire National League schedule was rained out.

OPERA HELPS GERMANS CONSERVE

BERLIN (AP)—Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," is being used to aid in Germany's self-sufficiency campaign.

In movie houses throughout the Reich a propaganda strip is running which has for its motif the scene between Marcel, the painter, and Rudolf, the writer, when these two room mates are trying to heat their cold studio.

Rudolf has just thrown his unpublicized manuscripts into the fire with the words: "This is heavy loss for this century." In a new figure, unknown to Puccini, bobs up. It is an agent of Goering's Four Year Plan.

"Gentlemen," he exclaims, "just imagine if everybody were to act in so senseless a manner! Millions worth of scrapped paper would go up in smoke."

RAIN AGAIN FORCES ROSS AND ARMSTRONG TO DELAY FIGHT

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—The welterweight title fight between Barney Ross, the champion, and Henry Armstrong was postponed until next Tuesday night after promoter Mike Jacobs received unfavorable reports on tonight's probable weather. On was the second postponement of the bout, originally slated for last night.

Promoter Mike Jacobs was forced to declare a 24-hour truce late yesterday, when it became evident that the downpour was no trifling affair. But, barring a cloudburst, Mike will get them in the ring this time, for Mike is obviously anxious to see the last of this ill-starred financial venture and get down to the main business of selling tickets for the big blowout between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis next month.

Both fighters were disappointed at the postponement, as they were finely drawn. Armstrong hustled over to a gymnasium for a brisk six-round workout, but Ross remained in his room and took only his customary limbering up exercises.

The little negro with the knockout wallop made a sharp impression on those who watched his workout yesterday. He punched the heavy bag savagely, and observers couldn't help wondering what his thundering fists would do to Ross's waistline. From his waist up, he probably is more heavily developed than Ross.

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—If Barney Ross is superstitious he'll spend the day throwing salt over his shoulder and collecting horseshoes.

For the Madison Square Garden bowl, where he defends his welterweight title against Henry Armstrong tonight, has a copyright hedge on champions. No titleholder, and six, including Ross himself, have tried, ever has defended his title successfully in the Long Island City ring.

Here's the jinx's 1,000 batting average for six years of competition: 1932—Max Schmeling lost heavyweight title to Jack Sharkey; 1933—Sharkey lost heavyweight title to Primo Carnera on a knockout; 1934—Jimmy McLarnin lost welterweight title to Ross; 1934—Max Baer knocked heavyweight crown off Carnera's head; 1934—Ross dropped welterweight title to McLarnin; 1935—Jim Braddock beat Baer and took heavyweight championship.

WHITE MAN'S BURDEN

1194 GOLFERS TO SEEK OPEN TITLE TUESDAY

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—A field of 1,194 golfers, including two-time former champion Walter Hagen among the pros, and Walker Cup alternates Tommy Tailer and Don Mooe among the amateurs, will compete next Tuesday, in sectional qualifying trials for the U. S. Open golf championship.

Held at 31 points throughout the country, the 36-hole trials will qualify 141 survivors for places in the 170-man starting field of the championship proper at Denver June 9-11. The other 29 places will be filled by home club pro Harold S. Long and 28 of last year's 31 low scorers, among them defending champion Ralph Guldahl and ex-title-holders Gene Sarazen, Billy Burke, and Sam Parks Jr.

These 29 bring the total entry list to 1,223, a figure bettered only in 1937, when the record was set at 1,402, and in 1936, when there were 1,277.

Denver tops the sectional entry list with 127, 102 of them amateurs, but Chicago, with a far stronger field of 128, gets 16 places to Denver's 13.

Playing at Chicago will be Horton Smith, Tommy Armour, Lawson Little, Willie Goggin, Dick Metz, Jock Hutchison Sr., British open winner in 1921, Jock Hutchison Jr., and Wilford Wehrle, western amateur champion.

Tony Manero, winner in 1936, will be one of 31 fighting for 14 places at Springfield, Mass.; Willie MacFarlane, 1925 champion, will be one of 75 in the metropolitan New York scrap for 10 places, and Olin Dutra, 1934, will be in the 114-man Los Angeles field, Los Angeles, with the third-largest entry, was given thirteen places. Dallas has five.

YATES REACHES SEMI-FINALS WITH VICTORY OVER TOLLEY

TRONN Scotland, May 27 (AP)—Charley Yates of Atlanta, last American survivor, today reached the semi-final round of the British Amateur golf champion as he eliminated Cyril Tolley, two-time former champion, 3 and 2.

Firing a brilliant 33, three under par, at the veteran Englishman in the first nine, Yates rounded the turn three up. He lost one hole of his advantage at the twelfth, where he caught the rough with his second, but holed another great money putt, a nine-footer, for a winning deuce at the fourteenth to go back to three up, and finished off his man two holes later.

On the second hole the U. S. Walker Cupper fired as fine a shot as the tournament has seen to go into a lead he never relinquished. Outdriven 50 yards by Tolley, who won the title in 1920 and again in 1929, Charley smacked a full mashie shot right into the cup for an eagle 2.

He finished the first nine with two birds, playing the par five ninth safe after getting home in two, only eight feet away.

Though Tolley, after Yates' birdie at No. 14, stood ready and played the next two in perfect pars, Charley never faltered and matched him shot for shot.

Yates preceded into the semi-finals by Canada's pride, C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont. Sandy, one down to H. W. Hattersley of Australia with three to go, Yates those last three holes in one under par to win by two up.

To Meet Thomson. Yates will meet Hector Thomson of Scotland, champion in 1936, in this afternoon's semi-final round, with Somerville going up against Cecil Ewing, burly Irishman who played on the British Walker Cup team in 1936. Thomson won a 20-hole match from Leonard Crawley of England, and Ewing whipped Johnny Stevenson, native-born local favorite, one up.

Playing with supreme indifference and sitting on a cane seat and smoking a pipe every time Yates hit a shot, Tolley was gracious at the finish.

He shook the hand of his opponent warmly on the sixteenth and remarked, "but I'm satisfied as I think Yates played magnificently. His putting was just too much for me."

Two under 4's for the match, Yates nevertheless thought he had had luck on his putts and he did.

"My putts wouldn't drop for me," he complained, "but I'm satisfied as I think Yates played magnificently. His putting was just too much for me."

STORIES IN STAMPS

Painted the Drama of Colonial Times

YOUTHFUL John Trumbull, son of the governor of Connecticut, could hardly have missed catching the full drama of the Revolution in his famous paintings. Graduating from Harvard in 1773 at 17, he plunged into the war for Independence, serving creditably when he sketched plans of the British works at Boston. For this he was appointed second aide-de-camp to General Washington, and in June, 1776, deputy adjutant general to General Gates. At one time he was imprisoned by the British for seven months.

So out of the Revolution young Trumbull drew his inspiration, and he executed such historic paintings as "Battle of Bunker Hill," "Death of Montgomery," "The Surrender of Cornwallis," "The Surrender of Burgoyne," "The Resignation of Washington," and many individual portraits.

Perhaps his most famous is the "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." It is shown here on a 24-cent purple and milori green stamp of the U. S. series of 1938, reproduced slightly more than one and one-half times actual size. Trumbull died in New York on Nov. 10, 1843.

Two under 4's for the match, Yates nevertheless thought he had had luck on his putts and he did.

"My putts wouldn't drop for me," he complained, "but I'm satisfied as I think Yates played magnificently. His putting was just too much for me."

Frank Mitcham, Jr., of Shamrock, 20-year-old Oklahoma, university student, won the Greenbelt golf tournament yesterday at Shamrock by defeating Grover Austin, Jr., of Pampa, 4 and 3 in a torrid match which saw the champion card a score of 125 strokes or one more than the Pampa youth.

The struggle was a brilliant exhibition of golf from the first tee but there was no more outstanding than the play in the first flight which saw John Austin of Pampa, young brother of Grover Austin, defeat Ollie Akins of Sayre, Okla., 4 and 3.

Young Mitcham opened strong and held a two-hole margin at the end of the first nine holes. He grimly hung on as Austin began shooting heart-breaking golf. The pace set by Austin, however, failed to shatter Mitcham's moral and he won the title on the 33rd green after shooting 11 birdies. Austin fired seven birdies as he played headed-up golf all the way.

In the morning round, Mitcham carded a par 35, followed by a 34, started the afternoon with a 33 and finished things on the 33rd hole. Austin's card read 36, 35 and 34.

Charles Akey, pro of Lubbock, was the starter and referee for the championship match.
