Investigation takes lawmen to Missouri

By MARILYN POWERS Staff Writer

Gray County Sheriff's Office and Texas Rangers representatives have returned from Missouri, where they recently traveled concerning a suspect in the Sept. 30 homicides which occurred at the Conrad home south of Pampa, according to Trooper Daniel Hawthorne, public information officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Investigators have returned from Missouri after evaluating the information and evidence in McDonald County," Hawthorne said Friday in a press release.

"The Gray County investigators and the Texas Ranger are submitting evidence obtained from McDonald County to be analyzed and compared to existing evidence from the Gray County crime scene. The subject being held in Missouri is considered a suspect in the Gray County quadruple slayings," Hawthorne said.

No information is available as of press time concerning whether local investigators interviewed the suspect, Levi King, 23.

King is being held without bond in the McDonald County, Mo., jail on numerous charges, including two counts of first-degree murder.

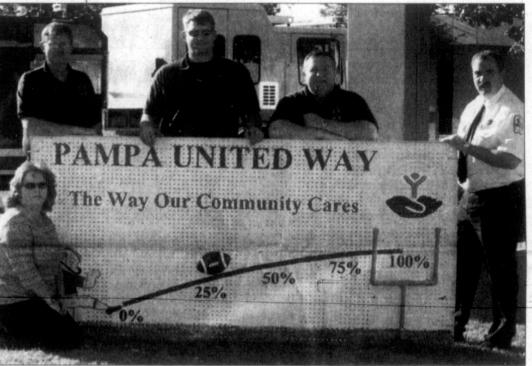

He has been charged in the shooting deaths of Orlie and Dawn McCool in McDonald County. The McCools' bodies were found about 10:30 a.m. Sept. 30 by a family member at their rural Pineville, Mo., home. Orlie McCool, 70, was shot once, and Dawn McCool, 47, had been shot several times, McDonald County Sheriff's Deputy Mike Hall said Friday in a telephone interview with The Pampa News.

The McCools are believed to have been shot on Sept. 29. King was reportedly seen by witnesses in the area of the McCool home at the time

Welcome. You are in the Pampa Firefighters Association's Haunted House.

The annual Halloween event opens at 7 p.m. nightly, Oct. 28 through 31, at the Baker Elementary School building, 300 E. Tuke. Entry to the scary sights and sounds is through a door on the west side of the building, with a sign above it which reads, "House of Fright. Enter at own risk."

For five dollars each, visitors will be treated to a hair-raising tour through a portion of the old, currently vacant school building which has been transformed into a haunted house by association members.

Sylvia Belle Beede, 84

DUMAS — Sylvia Belle Beede, 84, of Dumas, Texas, received her promotion into eternity on October 21, 2005, in Dumas. She graciously passed through the valley of the shadow of death and is now "absent from the body and face to face with the Lord." II Corinthians 5:8b.

In a place of "no more tears, no more pain, the old things have passed away." Revelation

This precious little motherling is a testimony to grace and a trophy of grace: SAV-ING GRACE; LIVING GRACE; and Saving grace: "For by grace are you saved through faith/faith alone in Christ alone/; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast." Ephesians 2:8-9. Living grace: "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." 2 Peter 3:18, and dying grace: "For me, living is Christ, dying profit." Philippians 1:21.

She was born Aug. 14, 1921, in Oklahoma

City, Okla. She was a former Pampa resident, moving from Pampa to Houston, Houston to Bryan, and from Bryan to Dumas five years ago. She married Robert Beede on October 1, 1943, in Oklahoma City. He preceded her in death in 1968. She was a member of the Kanon Bible Church of Bryan.

Missing her dearly on earth are: her daughter, Kay Cline and husband Miles of Dumas; her son, Rev. Robert L. Beede of Bryan; two brothers, Marvin Gray of Lefors and Donald Gray of Pampa; one niece and four nephews.

A victory celebration will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, October 25, 2005, at Fairview Cemetery in Pampa, officiated by Sylvia Beede's son and pastor Rev. Robert L. Beede, of the Kanon Bible Church of Bryan. Arrangements are under the direction of Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors of the shootings are believed to have taken place. Brian Conrad, 35; his pregnant wife Michell, 31; and Michell's son Zach Doan, 14, died Sept. 30 as the result of a shooting at their home 13 miles south of Pampa on Highway 70.

King has become a suspect in the Pampa homicides because a name tag with the name Brian Conrad was found in the pickup King was reportedly driving at the time of his arrest. He was arrested Oct. 3 by Border Patrol agents at El Paso as he was trying to return to the United States from Mexico, Hall said.

At the time of his arrest, King was allegedly driving Orlie McCool's 2005 Dodge Dakota pickup.

Other evidence suggesting a link from his father's home, Hall said. between King and the Pampa shootings is that the caliber of bullets recovered from the Conrad family matches the caliber of one of the weapons King is accused of having stolen from his father's home, according to a story by the Associated Press.

"At this time, investigators are not discussing the information coming out of Missouri. Investigators want time to compare and analyze the evidence and information they have obtained from Missouri," Hawthorne said. "Maintaining the integrity of this information is the investigators' first priority. The investigators do not want to take a chance on jeopardizing the future prosecution of any person for this crime by prematurely releasing information that has not been validated," Hawthorne said.

In addition to the two counts of first-degree murder, King is also charged in Missouri with one count of first-degree burglary, one count of armed criminal action and one count of tampering with a motor vehicle, all in connection with the deaths of the McCools, Hall said.

King is also being held on one count of second-degree burglary and one count of stealing, for allegedly breaking into his father's house in Missouri and stealing guns.

Spent 9 mm shell casings found near the bodies of the McCools in Missouri match those fired by a gun that King is believed to have stolen

King was sentenced to prison on July 1, 2003, on Missouri charges of second-degree burglary, seconddegree arson and stealing. He was released from prison July 6 and transferred to a halfway house in St. Louis, Mo., where he failed to return on Sept.

"Investigators are making major strides in the investigation and are confident that the outcome will be a positive one in terms of solving this case," Hawthorne said.

Sotheby's to put 'Black Betsy' on auction block

Now that the Houston .356 average. Astros and the Chicago White Sox are poised for the World Series starting this weekend, the inevitable stories about the Black Sox scandal will crop up.

The story is that in 1919, some members of the White Sox conspired with gamblers to throw the World Series in games with the Cincinnati Reds.

Among the alleged perpetrators was "Shoeless" Joe-Jackson, a man who signed his name with an X because he was illiterate.

But Jackson is ranked number 3 on the list of all time batting averages. Ty Cobb is first with a .366 average, Rogers Hornsby is second with a .358 average, and Jackson follows with a

The phenomenal feat was mostly accomplished with his favorite bat, "Black Betsv."

Jackson was banned from baseball for life with seven of his teammates for the Black Sox scandal by then commissioner "Kennesaw Mountain" Landis. His banishment has kept him out of baseball's Hall of Fame despite his solid batting average.

What brought all this on was that a press release crossed my desk a few days ago, and Sotheby's will offer "Black Betsy" at auction on Dec. 10.

The bat sold at an auction in 2001 for $577,000. By comparison, a bat Babe Ruth used to hit the first home run 1923, sold for $1,265,000 at an auction in 2004.

By the way, Jackson was called Shoeless because he played a game barefoot after getting blisters on his feet from a new pair of cleats.

Jackson received the bat in 1908 from a friend who fashioned it from a piece of hickory. "I've had it ever since and it's never been broke, although its getting old now and I expect it (to break) at any time," Jackson said in a 1932 interview.

The bat weighs more than

This is one of those "you decide" issues. I suppose if you have had a bad experience in dealing with a cable company, you would enjoy their critical antics. On the other hand, if you are satisfied with your cable company or even work for a cable company, you probably will not enjoy it.

As humans, we all make mistakes. Some are critical and some are minor.

The bad part about making a mistake in a newspaper is that it is there forever. You cannot erase it. You cannot take it back. It is history.

Once it is printed, it is there for the ages.

Today is Sunday, Oct. 23, the 296th day of 2005. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 23, 1983, 241 U.S. Marines and sailors in Lebanon were killed in a suicide truck-bombing at Beirut International Airport; a near-simultaneous attack on French forces killed 58 paratroopers.

On this date:

In 1864, forces led by Union Gen. Samuel R. Curtis defeated Confederate Gen. Stirling Price's army in Missouri. In 1915, 25,000 women marched in New York City, demanding the right to vote.

In 1925, talk show host Johnny Carson was born in Corning, Iowa.

In 1942, during World War II, Britain launched a major offensive against Axis forces at El Alamein in Egypt.

In 1944, the World War II Battle of Leyte Gulf began. In 1946, the United Nations General Assembly convened in New York for the first time, at an auditorium in Flushing Meadow.

Our readers write

It is time for Pampans to 'trust' again

letters written to the editor for and against voting for a 4B Economic Development Corporation. The question has been asked why the city has not come forward with a statement either supporting or not supporting the EDC.

The reason is the law prohibits the city as an entity from influencing voters one way or another on the issue. It is permissible, however, for employees and elected officials to make their personal views known as indi-

I personally support the effort of getting a new EDC in place. I have no more to gain from an EDC than any other resident in Pampa does. I want the same things as the majority of the residents want such as a stable economy, a reliable city

There have been several infrastructure, and healthy property values.

> An ad in this paper mentioned that our water bills have increased in the past few years. No one can say that costs will not increase again, but if we have successful economic development and the number of businesses and residents increase, additional costs will be spread over a greater population and the impact on each person will be less.

A 4B EDC will not guarantee economic success, but it gives us a way to compete with other cities for potential projects. Without an EDC, we will be handicapped to aggressively secure a future for future generations who want to make Pampa home.

Arch rivals celebrate his-

As predictable as salmon swimming upstream, or the west embracing the sun to end each day, so is the annual pilgrimage of Daniel Baker College alumni to homecoming. Since millions of alumni make similar trips, you may reasonably ask, "So what?"...

For starters, the little college in Brownwood, Texas, closed its doors in 1952, so youngest alumni received diplomas 53 years ago. Enrollment was never more than a few hundred; graduates typically numbered in double digits.

Known alumni, all in their mid-70's or older, number about 300. Amazingly, almost a third of them will show up the fourth weekend of October, nestled among larger numbers gathered for Howard Payne University's They'll watch current students gabbing the day away minus the phone. A few will be reminded to buy new hearing aid batteries ...

Ah, and what of DBC's athletic glory years? The Billies (their mascots were billy goats) were legendary across Texas. In football, DBC's strongest football rival was TCU, and the Billies and Horned Frogs fought on even terms.

HPU gridders at the time were hardly a match for DBC. And their practice fields were so close together they could practically hear opposing coaches' whistles. The grid series began in 1903, but ended in 1931 when the rivalry became too intense. (DBC dominated, registering 11 shut-outs in 12 wins over HPU. The Yellow Jackets won just two; three ended in ties.)

In basketball, DBC took on all teams. The Longhorns of UT had to go to overtime

Texas Thoughts

El Paso Times on teachers' pay:

Teacher pay in Texas ranks 30th on a national scale, and that's not good. If Texas expects to have a premier educational system -- and that should certainly be the aspiration -- teacher pay should be one of the attractants that draws people into the teaching field, keeps them there, and even entices good teachers to come to Texas from other locations.

In fact, teacher pay has been part of the Texas

Legislature's three failed attempts to come up with an acceptable school-financing plan. One regular session and two special sessions have resulted in politics overcoming the necessity of providing Texas students with good, solid, equitable educations.

And lost in those failures were raises and incentives for teachers that at least would have made progress toward competitive salariés. There was a suggestion by state Rep. Joe Pickett, D-El Paso, that construction could be reduced in school districts to enable teacher pay to be increased.

While that's a good suggestion, it must also be remembered that, in El Paso's case, we're going to see an influx of students as new troops start arriving at Fort Bliss. That's going to require construction, though exactly how much isn't clear at this time. Adequate teacher compensation is part of the overall picture of educational excellence that Texas must be seeking.

And there's no argument that salaries are an important part of that picture. Also, it must be remembered that the profession of teaching is competing with other professions, many of which are more lucrative. The practical aspects of making a living and supporting a family must be considered, and the dollar signs of higher-paying jobs could easily tip the choice away from teaching.

Excellence in an education system depends in great part on the teachers. They should be paid accordingly.

LA VERNE, Calif. (AP) -Karri Garrison is getting rid of that cliche about dirty rats one rodent at a time.

Grooming isn't just for dogs anymore, and many pet owners are bringing in their rats to groomers like Garrison, who uses waterless shampoo to make their coats shine and smell sweet.

Customers at Katie's Pet Depot in La Verne, about 30 miles east of Los Angeles, began requesting rat grooming soon after the store opened nearly two years Employees began researching rats and even adopted some.

"We need to be there for all our clients," Garrison said. "I think we might be the only place around that grooms rats."

One of the clients was named Jewel, a half-pound, white-and-yellow hooded rat owned by a local high school student. The $10 treatment included clipping her claws, spraying her with the waterless shampoo, and using a product that kills fleas and mites.

Can fatty fish fight crime? Norwegian researcher Anita Lill Hansen wants to know if there's a connection between eating oily fish and controlling violent outbursts.

Hansen is planning a study employees, Laurie Torres and that involves giving a fish-heavy diet to prisoners who volunteer for the project, the ANB news agency reported Friday.

The research is being planned in cooperation with the national center for seafood research and the Norwegian prison authorities in western Norway.

"A lot of crimes are committed on impulse," Leif Waage, a prison service spokesman told ANB. If fatty oil found in fish "has a positive effect on people's impulse control, we hope it could result in a reduction in crime."

Searching for parking places, DBC alums will shake their heads in annual bewilderment that all students today have cars - some of them, two. "Used to, we could rattle off the names of students with cars without drawing a second breath," one will say.

Then someone will mention the late Emily Cox, who remained a DBC cheerleader many decades after her graduation in 1928 ...

Almost 80 years ago, she overheard a senior student bragging about "driving a car four years without having a wreck." She was quick to challenge.

"You got your words out of order," Emily joked. "You drove a wreck four years without having a car ...

Another graduate will bring up the late R.A. (Gus) Snodgrass. Again, the room will brighten. He was a football and track star whose speed turned heads around the country.

The '32 graduate - a career educator like many others from DBC - loved to tell a tale about the football game with HPU in1930 ...

"Players were huddled in the locker room just before kick-off," Gus would banter. "We were shocked when the coach asked the quietest guy on the team to lead in prayer. "I'm not sure if he had ever prayed publicly, or even silently," Gus would chuck-

"Stammering, he got specific," Gus said, swearing that the prayer was 100 percent serious.

"God, we need for you to be here with us today, because Howard Payne is mighty tough," the player begged. "But if you can't come yourself, don't bother sending your son; I'm not sure he'd be equal to it."*

Society owes much to such alumni. I spent my youth within the shadows of both institutions, hold my first collegiate degree from HPU and later served as its president, so my homage is deep and genuine.

The first words I recall about Daniel Baker came from a distinguished superintendent/mentor/friend, the late O.B. Chambers. "Win modestly and lose graciously," he admonished repeatedly ...

I'll be in the army of alumni for homecoming, squishing through leaves fresh fallen from pecan trees on alumni plaza, seeking out "my brick" once more. I will be happy to again see my name in granite before I'm under it.

The current crop of college students will seem younger than ever. They'll be clueless - as clueless as we were - that these are indeed among life's best days. This will dawn on them many autumns hence, perhaps during an annual

PPHM to host water syposium

CANYON — Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will host a day-long symposium examining water issues in the Texas Panhandle on Nov. 5.

The program, titled "Whisky is for Drinking and Water is for Fighting Over: A Panhandle Water Forum," will provide an opportunity to present different perspectives on water use, as well as provide a moderated roundtable discussion. Kay Ledbetter, Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, will serve as moderator.

Presenters will address the statement "Water in the West: Finding, and Managing an Elusive Resource."

The symposium is free to PPHM members and $7 for non-members. A boxed lunch and a reception following the symposium is included.

Make your reservation by Oct. 28. Contact Amy David at (806) 651-2233 or adavid@pphm.wtamu.edu. The symposium is being sponsored by the Sybil B. Harrington Endowment, Ned O. and Linda G. Miller Charitable Trust, and Vista Environmental Services.

WHAT YOU ARE NOT BEING TOLD:

At the October 11, 2005 meeting of the Pampa City Commission, a Pampa resident addressed its members and quoted from the Attorney General's "Handbook on Economic Development Laws for Texas Cities", page 40, line 22 as follows; "If the city includes each of these types of projects in the original ballot proposition, it can assert that the public has already approved that type of project at a prior election. In this scenario, the city arguably would not be required to call an additional election even if a petition were submitted regarding the project". (The intent of the speaker was to point out that once an EDC is approved by voting the all-inclusive general category ballot that you will be asked to vote, no further input or protest of any of the projects listed on the 360-word ballot will be permitted in the future.)

The citizen then inquired how many persons present in the meeting room had read the "Attorney General's Handbook on 4B EDC Laws". Only Commissioner Faustina Curry, City Attorney Don Lane, one member of the audience and the speaker raised their hands. In other words, four members of the city commission, one of whom is the Mayor, had not read the Attorney General's "Handbook on Economic Development Laws for Texas Cities". Yet they are asking the people of Pampa to vote in a 4B economic corporation which would give the city commission and its appointed 4B EDC directors the power to determine the expenditure of millions of dollars of taxpayer funds.

Most appalling is the suppression of this encounter by the Pampa News and KGRO, neither of which reported this incident in their coverage of the meeting. The Pampa News stated only that this person "made comments about the 4B EDC Handbook Laws". There were about ten people in the audience, a reporter from the Pampa News, a KGRO reporter and the usual personnel from city management.

The Treasurer of Pampa Economic Development Group Promotional Committee is Sean Smith, publisher of the Pampa News. Could it be that the Pampa News and KGRO do not want the public to know that only one member of the city commission had read the Attorney General's Handbook on EDC laws?

There are two ways (page 42) to call an election on a 4B EDC: (1) The city commission's approval of an ordinance calling for an election, or (2) a petition signed by a number of voters that equals at least 20 percent of the voters in the most recent city election. Therefore, since there is no petition, the city commission is totally responsible for bringing about this election for a 4B EDC. Is it too much to ask that the commissioners first understand the issues they are placing before the voters?

The Attorney General's "Handbook on Economic Development Laws for Texas Cities" may be found on your computer at www.oag.state.tx.us/AG_Publications/pdfs/2004econdevhb.pdf (The first page is blue in color) Copy, read and study, specifically PAGES 34-57.

THC accepting preservation award nominations

AUSTIN — The Texas Historical Commission is currently accepting nominations for the agency's historic preservation awards.

THC annually honors individuals, groups, and institutions that have made outstanding contributions to the preservation of Texas' prehistoric and historic past.

Individuals, organizations, businesses, and public agencies that have contributed to the preservation of Texas' heritage, including cultural resource management work, are eligible to receive THC awards. THC Executive Committee, comprised of THC commission members and professional staff, select the award recipients.

The award program includes the Governor's Award for Historic Preservation, the Ruth Lester Lifetime Achievement Award, Awards of Excellence in preserving history, architecture, and archeology, and awards for exceptional media coverage, volunteers and county historical commissions.

have an EDC, and when you shop in those cities you are helping their economic development. The following towns or cities have an EDC: Amarillo, Booker, Borger, Canadian, Canyon, Clarendon, Dalhart, Dumas, Hereford, McLean, Miami, Memphis, Panhandle, Perryton, Shamrock, and Wheeler.

Pampa is considered a regional hub for the northeastern Panhandle, and we should take advantage of every dollar spent to make Pampa an even greater place to live.

One reason I have heard for voting against the 4B EDC is that up to four elected city officials or employees can be on the board. The City Commission cannot take official action on the bylaws until after the election, but my individual opinion is the same as most of the people I have talked to about this – no city official or city employee should be on the EDC board. This would allow for the proper checks and balances.

I have heard people say they wish there were job opportunities here in Pampa for their children when they graduate from school. If we can successfully retain and attract businesses, it will make that happen.

I ask all of you to study the facts, check out hearsay and half-truths, and then make up your minds for Pampa's future. We cannot continue to live in the past, or we will not enter our future. We have learned from our past mistakes. Now it is time for us to trust again.

The total DEDC budget for FY 2006 is $697,911, of which 18.6 percent is for salaries. Our auditor, a CPA, has advised us to keep our salaries at less than 40 percent of the budget.

-I'm not sure about someone trying to get rid of DEDC back in 2002 - I wasn't here then. Could be though, as there are more than 14,000 people in Dumas, and I am certain there are a few who don't like the growth of the economy we are currently experiencing. Part of that growth is due to DEDC activities. Our retail sales tax grew by 10 percent during the past 12

Finally, if someone does not like economic and population growth they probably will not like an EDC, but I would not categorize an EDC as a "disease" without looking closely at its operations and results.

Like any other tax-based program, an EDC should be managed with care, honesty, due diligence, and a realization that it is public money being used. There should also, in the marketing effort, be thought given to what businesses "fit" in a particular community. Properly managed and directed by a city-appointed board, I think a good argument can be made for an EDC in any community.

I know that our mayor has had a vision for Pampa since he was a very young honest man. It takes men like him to bring leadership to what he puts his hand to with his integrity and openness of his life that is truly from his heart and spirit. I say to you, if you think he has anything in his life that he is hiding or won't expose to the people openly, I pray to my Lord God Almighty, please expose these things that were and are being done in secret and darkness.

I believe God will bring this into light and exposure. You just remember this also means those things that you or I have hidden, too.

I know our mayor and my pastor will not fear because he has nothing to fear of exposure. He speaks truth, and I honor him for his integrity. I just wish our son, Vance Bruce, could be here to see what God can do with these men of just integrity.

Pastor was a man that Vance respected and patterned his life along with his dad and father-in-law. I pray that the people of Pampa will put away all of their pettiness and join those of us behind our leaders, honor them, and work with them to see our city and area come to the vision that our leaders have for a place to work honestly.

Penalty doesn't promote 'choice'

In the Oct. 13 Pampa News, Mac Thornberry wrote an editorial on the Medicare prescription plan. He said, "First, everyone needs to understand that the Medicare prescription drug coverage is a voluntary benefit. No one is required to take it."

My 2006 Medicare handbook says, "... if you decide mayor, my pastor, and a man not to enroll in a drug plan you may pay a penalty if you choose to join later."

Threat of penalty does not constitute freedom choice.

Area Hi-Plains Poetry winners honored at society luncheon

AMARILLO - Winning student poems in the recent Hi-Plains Poetry Contest are now on display at the Amarillo Central Library. The contest was sponsored by Hi-Plains Poetry, a chapter of the Poetry Society of Texas, and the National Federation of State Poetry Societies.

Students came from as far away as Shamrock, Groom, and Pampa to read their winning poems in front of friends and family at the Annual Poetry Luncheon held recently at Amarillo Senior Citizen Center.

Mayor Debra McCartt read a proclamation, several poems which were family favorites, and congratulated the room full of winners.

Winning authors include the following:

October is the 20th anniversary of the Breast Cancer Awareness Month. A combination of early detection and more effective treatment modalities has helped in the decline of death rates despite the yearly increase in the number of invasive breast cancer cases.

If you have not had your yearly breast exam, call our office to schedule an appointment. We now offer in-office breast sonograms and needle biopsies in addition to the usual hospital and office based operations and procedures.

the award in 2004 because it recorded zero deaths in structures during that year.

Although residential fires in the U.S. account for only 20 percent of all fires, they result in 80 percent of all fire deaths. The institute is committed to reducing that number. A total of 792 fire departments in the U.S., Canada, Iceland, Italy, and Greece received the award

"Experience tells us that fire prevention activity and public education can significantly reduce life and property loss from residential fires," Marshall said. "Prevention and education are very cost effective compared to the traditional approach of relying on fire suppression. The Life Safety Achievement Award recognizes fire departments for their fire prevention efforts and encourages them to continually improve those efforts.'

Four ex-Yankees on the mound in World Series

By MIKE FITZPATRICK AP Baseball Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Jose Contreras has certainly become the dominant pitcher the Yankees paid for. He just didn't do it until he left New York.

"For me, nothing has changed. I just kind of worked more on my mental and physical health," the Chicago ace said through a translator on Friday. "I have no pressure with the White Sox.'

Not long ago, Contreras, Roger Clemens, Andy Pettitte and Orlando Hernandez were all in the Yankees' rotation.

Now they're all in the World Series, ready to pitch without their pinstripes.

It must be enough to make George Steinbrenner cringe.

"It's definitely strange," Pettitte said as his Houston Astros prepared to face Chicago. "I know it's special for me and Rog, and it's definitely special for those guys,

They left New York for different reasons: Contreras was a castoff, Clemens had retired, Pettitte became a free agent and El Duque rejected an arbitration offer.

But when Pettitte signed with Houston after the 2003 season, Clemens changed course and joined his buddy back home. Contreras and Hernandez eventually landed in Chicago, and all four flourished one way or another.

Each pitched in the World Series for the Yankees. Now they've all returned - before New York did so without all of them.

"I don't know that we've ever even worried about that," Clemens

Not so sure that's the case back in the Bronx.

For the Yankees and their fans, Contreras is probably the most difficult success story to swallow. He signed a $32 million, four-year contract with New York in February 2003 after defecting from Cuba, but quickly became a major

Wildly inconsistent and lonely without his family, he never lived up to lofty expectations, partly because he was sidelined for 2 1/2 months with a strained shoulder. Plus, Contreras struggled most against the rival Red Sox - and that's a sure ticket out of town.

Despite his so-so numbers overall, the White Sox always coveted the big right-hander with the nasty splitter. So the Yankees shipped him to Chicago at the 2004 trade deadline for two-time All-Star Esteban Loaiza in a deal that didn't look half-bad at the time.

"I was mad because I had a lot of friends in New York," Contreras said. "But I had to just step through that, go through it, and when I got here I wanted to thank the organization for just giving me the confidence.'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pitching coach Leo Mazzone agreed to terms on a threeyear deal with the Baltimore Orioles, joining the team managed by his best friend, Sam Perlozzo.

Mazzone leaves Atlanta, where he had six Cy Young Award winners and nine 20-game winners during a 15 1/2-year run with the Braves. The West Virginia native also spurned a generous offer from the New York Yankees, who are seeking to replace pitching coach Mel Stottlemyre.

In return for allowing the Orioles to talk with Mazzone, the Braves received minor league pitcher Moises Hernandez.

Indianapolis Colts as good as Houston Texans are bad

HOUSTON (AP) — The undereach 100 wins on Sunday. "We've feated Indianapolis Colts are as good as the winless Houston Texans are bad.

When the AFC South foes meet today, a win would give the NFL's only unbeaten team their first 7-0 start in franchise history. The Texans, the only team in the league without a win, would plummet to 0-6, also a team first.

While Colts coach Tony Dungy is asked about the Super Bowl, Texans coach Dom Capers fields questions about his job security.

"I think we have some urgency with the fact that our team realizes that we are a good team, and we've got a chance that not every team has," said Dungy, who could become the second black coach in NFL history and 34th overall to got a chance to make the playoffs and a chance to do some damage when we get there."

Houston is the antithesis of Indianapolis in almost every way.

The Colts are allowing the fewest points in the league (9.5) while the Texans are scoring the fewest (10.8). Houston quarterback David Carr is the most sacked man in the NFL (30) and Indy's Peyton Manning the least (three).

On defense, the Colts are tops with 21 sacks and Houston is second-to-last with just three. Houston is last in total offense (215.8) and the Colts are 11th (339.8). Indianapolis averages over 100 more yards passing a game than the league-worst Texans

The only thing worse than Houston's current record this season is its 0-6 mark against the

Despite his team's downward spiral, Carr remains optimistic.

"When we lose a football game, some people may get over it by the next week, but I don't forget about it," he said. "I still want to try and find ways to make our football team better. You just got to go out and be a man about it and do your

Though the Texans have never beaten Indianapolis, Houston kept it close in the last two meetings at Reliant Stadium, losing by a combined 12 points.

The Colts know they can't afford to overlook Houston, even with such disparity between the

"We know they're looking forward to coming out and beating us," said Colts linebacker David Thornton. "And what a great win it would be for them if they did beat us. Any time you're 0-5, a win helps cure the pain."

The Texans are in desperate need of a cure after backsliding to a worse start than their expansion year. Offensive coordinator Chris Palmer was fired after Week 2, and Carr has been sacked just one fewer time than through five games as a rookie.

AFC rushing leader Edgerrin James could have a big day against a battered defense that allowed a franchise-high 320 yards rushing last week in Seattle. Houston lost inside linebacker Kailee Wong for the season with a knee injury, and veteran defensive tackle Gary Walker is out indefinitely with a shoulder sprain. James has rushed for 662 yards, and his 826 total yards are best in the NFL. Houston is employing a couple of different tactics in an effort to help its plight Sunday. The Texans will wear their "lucky" battle red jerseys in which they have a 3-0 record, and they made an early announcement that Reliant's retractable roof will be closed to maximize noise.

Clearly the bumbling team that had 13 penalties for 95 yards and allowed 42 points against Seattle will need a lot more than lucky jerseys and a closed roof to compete

2 WT volleyball players nominated for 25th anniversary team

A pair of former Lady Buff volleyball players are nominated for the NCAA-II 25th Anniversary Volleyball Team, as part of the 25th anniversary of several Women's NCAA Championships, being celebrated during the 2005-06 athletic seasons.

In 1981, the NCAA began sponsoring women's championships, which opened the door to increased athletic and academic opportunities for female athletes. Today, the NCAA sponsors 44 women's championships in 20 sports, providing more than 150,000 women with an opportunity to compete for national titles each year.

As part of the 25th Anniversary celebrations, the NCAA is compiling 25th Anniversary teams in various sports, one of those being volleyball, where two former Lady Buffs, Sarah (Butler) Carthel and Ana Carolina Pereira are nominated.

Fans can log onto www.ncaasports.com and go to the volleyball page and near the bottom is the special section on the Anniversary with the link to vote. Once at the Volleyball Anniversary voting page, follow the instructions to vote. Voting is open until Oct. 28 and the Anniversary Team will be announced on Oct. 31.

Ana Carolina "Carol" Pereira was a three-time, first-team All-American for the Lady Buffs from 1990-1992, during which West Texas A&M compiled an incredible record of 104-14 and back-to-back NCAA Division II National Championships in 1990 and 1991 and an Elite Eight semifinal finish in 1992.

Teamed with a fellow Cuban in Hernandez (they spent only a few weeks together on New York's roster last year) and comfortable in his new surroundings, Contreras blossomed in the second half this season, going 11-2 with a 2.96

He stopped tipping his pitches and made some mechanical adjustments, dropping his arm angle at Hernandez's suggestion. The results were more strikes, more innings and more

"I don't know, nor do I really care, about what went on in New York with Jose," Chicago pitching coach Don Cooper said. "I think Contreras' future is ahead of him."

Contreras became the team's No. 1 starter down the stretch and went 2-1 with a 2.88 ERA in the AL playoffs to help the White Sox reach the World Series for the first time since 1959. Now, he'll start Game 1 of the World Series on Saturday night against Clemens, who taught Contreras how to throw a four-seam fastball during their days in New York.

"We trust him and believe in him. He was so insecure," manager Ozzie Guillen said. "The thing about Jose was, he don't want to let people down. When he signed a big contract, people talked about how much money he made, he should win every game."

The seemingly ageless Hernandez, who was on the Montreal Expos' disabled list for the entire 2003 season when New York lost to Florida in the World Series, returned to the Yankees last year and had an outstanding second half. However, he pitched only once in the 2004 playoffs because of a tired shoulder.

He rejected New York's arbitration offer and signed with the White Sox in December. Then he really delivered in the postseason — as usual.

Coming out of the bullpen, El Duque escaped a bases-loaded, none-out jam in Boston, helping Chicago secure a first-round sweep.

"As time goes, I think that is going to loom bigger and bigger — not only in playoff history, but in White Sox history," Cooper said.

Pettitte is also a proven winner in the postseason, but the Yankees let him slip away two years ago.

When they failed to pursue him aggressively, the left-hander turned his attention home to Houston. Passing up more money from New York, he signed a $31.5 million, three-year contract with the Astros.

Genesis House turns young lives around

Genesis House is a residential substance abuse treatment facility for male and female adolescents. There are two residential homes, one housing males and the other females. The target population is any adolescent 13-17 years of age, who has a history of substance abuse and/or has come into contact with the criminal justice system, and the intervention of treatment is mandated as an alternative to incarceration.

The mission of Genesis House is to provide the opportunity for adolescents to reverse their destructive behavior patterns through education and development of positive social and life skills. Through the implementation of behavioral therapy, the Genesis House incorporates the principal that unwanted behavior in adolescents can be changed. The residents attend school at Pampa Junior High School or Pampa High School. The average length of stay for a resident is four to six months.

Genesis House provides services to the family members of the residents in care. Educational family groups are provided, along with individual family counseling sessions. Services offered to the families are designed to identify family protective and risk factors associated with behaviors in adolescents who abuse drugs.

Genesis House is licensed by the State of Texas as a basic child care facility and the Department of State Health Services as a substance abuse facility. It is a non-profit corporation governed by a volunteer board of directors. Genesis House is funded in part by Pampa United Way.

There seems to be a misconception that drug abuse abounds only in povertyridden neighborhoods and unsupervised family homes. You only have to pick-up the paper or turn on the television to know this is not true. It flourishes in all neighborhoods.

Genesis House was the first residential facility in the state of Texas to deal solely with alcohol and drug abuse problems of adolescents. Because of continued community and United Way support, adolescents will continue to have a chance at a new beginning in life.

Genesis House is currently beginning its 34 year of existence.

W. Cecil Steward was born in Pampa to farming parents, Lois Maness Steward and Weldon C. Steward. From age 6 until the completion of public school, heworked with his parents and other extended family members to raise wheat and other farm produce in several locations in Pampa. He graduated from PHS with the Class of 1952.

Cecil was active in music and art throughout his public school years. He joined the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School Band in the first grade, making valiant attempts to play the clarinet - even though his fingers were not large enough to cover the keys and his feet would not touch the floor from the chair.

After such an inauspicious beginning, he participated in bands and orchestras for each of the 12 years he was enrolled in the Pampa public school system and became drum major of the Pampa Harvester Band in his junior year in high school. Later he continued his interests in music and marching band formations by becoming a member of the Texas Aggie Marching Band.

While in Pampa High School, he developed a strong interest in architecture under the mentorship of Myles Morgan through his teaching of industrial art classes. Cecil has often given credit for his interest and success in architecture to the opportunity provided at the high school level to synthesize his experiences in farming and music and art into a career, a set of values and a lifestyle.

In 1952, he entered a five-year professional curriculum to study architecture at Texas A&M University. While studying at A&M, he became a company commander of a unit of the Corps of Cadets and in 1955-56 led the unit to top honors for all corps units in academics, athletics, and military drill and ceremony.

In his studies of architecture, he won several design competitions and awards, among which was a scholarship to attend the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Fontainebleau, France, for the summer months of 1956. Not only was this his first opportunity for international travel, but also it was a grand opportunity to take his new bride, Mary Jane Nedbalek of Bryan, Texas, to Paris and find new shared experi-

Cecil graduated from Texas A&M with a bachelor of architecture degree, a military commission in the U.S. Air Force, and a commitment for three years of active service. Following military service, he received a fellowship to attend Columbia University for studies toward his master of science in architecture degree.

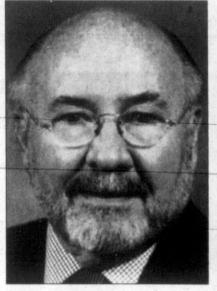

Today, Cecil Steward is an internationally recognized architect, educator, and sustainable communities developer. He has had a career in the education of architects and planners for more than 40 years. Eleven years on the faculty and the associate dean's position at Texas A&M prepared him to be the first dean of architecture at the University of Nebraska for 27 years. He is the founder and president/CEO of the Joslyn Castle Institute For Sustainable Communities in Omaha and Lincoln, Neb.

She is also a member of the Art Directors' Guild for Film and Awards and recognitions have Television and is currently art directing the new Fox television series "Bones."

Their son Craig Steward lives near Lincoln with his wife Kristi and daughter Wesley. Craig is a cabinet/furniture maker of high demand, and he owns his millwork business in Lincoln.

James Shelhamer was born in Pampa, Texas, in 1947. He was educated through the Pampa school district where he graduated from PHS in 1965. He is the son of Lois and E.E. Shelhamer. Jim has two siblings - Gene Shelhamer (PHS 1961) and Pam Shelhamer Grant (PHS 1968).

During his high school years, he was president of the Key Club and a member of the National Honor Society. He attended Baylor University from which he received most frequent one of note being: a BA degree in 1969 and Baylor College of Medicine from which he received an medical degree in student at Davidson College.

James Shelhamer

- He was a resident in internal medicine at the Baylor Affiliated Hospitals in the Texas Medical Center, Houston, Texas. He subsequently did fellowship training in allergy and clinical immunology at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., and in pulmonary medicine at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

He is board certified in internal medicine, allergy and clinical immunology, pulmonary medicine, and in critical care medicine. In 1981, he became physician and senior investigator in the Critical Care Medicine Department, Clinical Center, and the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda. Since 1989, he has been deputy chief of the Critical Care Medicine Department, Clinical Center, NIH.

He has been active in clinical and bench research and has published over 200 peer reviewed papers, reviews, and book chapters. He has trained both clinical and research fellows who are active in medicine in this country as well as internationally. He is an editor of two books.

In recognition of his contributions, he has been named for membership in the American Society of Clinical Investigation and in the of Association American Physicians. His contributions to medical education, patient care, and research have been recognized by awards including the NIH Director's Award, NIH Clinical Center Director's Award, NIH Clinical Center Distinguished Clinical Educator Award, and the Public Health Service Outstanding Service Medal.

New Web site fertile ground for horticultural assistance

By PAUL SCHATTENBERG Texas A&M News

AUSTIN — Now gardeners, landscapers, weekend lawn warriors and commercial horticulturists no longer need to spend hours rooting around the Internet for information.

The new Central Texas Horticulture Web site, designed and maintained by Texas Cooperative Extension for Travis County, provides information on a wide array of horticultural topics, said Skip Richter, Extension horticulturist.

The site address is http://aggie-horticulture.tamu.edu/travis.

"We've built a site where people can get straightforward answers to their horticulturerelated questions or locate the answer quickly through one of site's direct links," he said. "The site has the breadth and depth of information people are used to getting through Extension, and the added links help make it a one-stop site for an array of useful horticultural information."

While the site focuses on Central Texas horticulture, much of the information is applicable to other areas of the state, Richter

The site's features include: tips for gardeners, home landscapers and commercial horticulturists; solutions to lawn and garden problems; information on soils and composting; and guidance on water-wise landscaping and landscape design. Information on a number of Extension-related horticulture programs, including Master Gardeners, Grow Green, Earth Kind and children's gardening programs, is also available.

The site also has video clips of Richter's "Gardening with Skip" television segments on specific topics. These segments have been broadcast in Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Beaumont and other markets in the

"We've got a lot of good information on the site, but we want its users to give us their feedback so we can be alert to ways to improve it," Richter said. "The Central Texas Horticulture Web site will always be a work in progress, developing deeper informational roots and branching out, which is only appropriate for a Web site that's all about horticulture."

For more information, visit the site or call Richter at (512) 854-9600.

Experts: Don't be fooled by anti-aging gimmicks

By LINDA ANDERSON Texas A&M News

COLLEGE STATION — The labels are laced with words only a chemist can understand. The commercials often feature women who don't look much older confused about over-thecounter products touted to fight aging, said experts from Texas Cooperative Extension. But not to worry Dr. Carol Rice, Extension health specialist, and Janet Pollard, Extension associate for health, offer these tips to help clear up the confusion. For one thing, Rice said, don't believe every commercial claim. "The evidence for the use of over-the-counter cosmetic products that claim anti-aging effects is not yet clearly substantiated," she said. The place to start clearing the confusion, she said, is the doctor's office. "Because of the contradicting information and the often unsubstantiated claims by the cosmetic industry, it is important to be a wise consumer," Rice said. "See your doctor or dermatologist if at all possible. They can often help you assess your skin type and give advice about skin products based on cred-No wonder consumers are ible research and years of experience.'

> After that, the first 'true' anti-aging item on your shopping list should be sunscreen, Rice said, because exposure to the sun is the No. 1 preventable cause of skin damage.

> This kind of skin damage, called photo-aging, includes premature wrinkling, damage to natural pigmentation and loss of quality in the skin. It can also lead to skin cancer, she said.

"Sunscreen qualifies as both a cosmetic and a drug and is regulated by the FDA Drug Administration) as such,' Rice said. "Sunscreen should be your first tool in your defense against skin damage and aging skin. You should use sunscreen on a daily basis, either as part of a cosmetic or on the skin underneath other cosmetic products, unless advised otherwise by your doctor." She recommends waterproof sunscreen and lip balm, both with at least 15

Ordinary skin creams and lotions aren't designed to reduce the damage caused by the sun, Pollard said. That requires stronger medicine.

Retinoids are the only products approved by the FDA as safe and effective in reducing signs of photoaging, she said. Retinoids are defined as natural or synthetic derivatives of vitamin A.(http://www.thefreedictionary.com/retinoid)

"These products are only available by prescription. Over-the-counter products containing retinol or retinal have not been proven effec-

Antioxidants may help slow down aging in the skin, but not usually when administered through skin creams, Rice said. The best way to get antioxidants is through diet.

"As natural components in the body and when consumed in food sources, antioxidants have been shown to act as scavengers of free radicals - unstable oxygen molecules that contribute to accelerated aging of the skin," she said. "Vitamins A, C and E are all antioxidants. It is recommended that we consume these vitamins through food sources, such as fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grains, some oils, nuts, dairy products and meats.

"Topical antioxidants, other than retinoids, however, are yet to be substantiated as a benefit to the skin.'

Some ingredients may be useful in skin creams, Pollard said, but the research isn't yet complete.

"Both Vitamin E and C show promise as protectants against ultra-violet radiation damage from the sun; however, there have not been enough studies on human subjects to substantiate claims for topical use," she

"Hydroxy acids show promise in helping reduce fine lines and improving skin tone and color," Pollard said. "There are, however, concerns about side effects."

Her advice: "You should always choose products with ingredients that are FDAapproved for safety. As with any topical cosmetic or drug, always follow directions as listed on the package and heed any warnings about its usage.'

Rice agreed.

"When you go to the cosmetic aisle, be wary of products that make claims to reverse aging skin, especially those that claim to do it fast," she said. "Always consider the safety of the product first. Check for warning labels and safety precautions."

Managing cholesterol imperitive to health

Cholesterol can be both good and bad. With coronary heart disease the single largest killer of Americans, managing cholesterol levels and taking care of your heart can healthier life.

That's why els affect cardiovascular health and how a healthy diet low in dietary cholesterol, saturated fat and trans fat can help control cholesterol.

These tips from the American Heart Association may help. Know what cholesterol is.

Cholesterol is a soft, fatlike, waxy substance found in the bloodstream and in all your body's people with heart disease cells.

It plays an important role in a healthy body, aiding in the production of cell membranes and some hormones. Too high a level of cholesterol in the blood, however, can present a major risk for coronary heart disease, which can lead to heart attack or stroke.

Health officials urge high-risk persons to get their vaccinations for influenza

Call your doctor or health care provider to schedule shot now (NAPSA) — As Americans live healthier and longer lives, there is still one tool overlooked by many that may prevent an average of 36,000 deaths and more than 200,000 hospitalizations each year. An annual influenza vaccination is beneficial to those at an increased risk for influenza and its complications, and health officials urge those groups to call their health care providers today to schedule a vaccination appointment.

The National Foundation for influenza is a severe and sometimes life-threatening disease and advises people, especially those at an increased risk for influenza-related complications (such as pneumonia), to be vaccinated this fall.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) stresses the importance of annual influenza vaccination for all persons in high-risk groups, including adults 65 years of age and older; people living in nursing homes and other long-term care facilities; children aged 6 through 23 months; pregnant women; and persons aged 6 months and older with medical conditions (like asthma or diabetes).

"Many people don't realize they fall into a high-risk group and need to ask their physicians for an influenza vaccination," says William Schaffner, MD, of the NFID and Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

To increase the level of protection for persons in high-risk groups, the Infectious Diseases (NFID) warns that CDC recommends annual vaccination for health care workers. Family members and others in close contact with all high-risk persons and with children 6 months and younger should also be immunized in order to protect high-risk

Those at high risk are encouraged to receive an influenza vaccination in the beginning of October. As of early November, vaccine may be available to all who wish to reduce their risk of getting influenza and is a good idea for anyone who wants to stay healthy this

"Once vaccinated, you are protected within two weeks and this protection za and vaccination, contact your health lasts throughout the season," says Susan J. Rehm, MD, of the NFID and the Cleveland Clinic. "It is important to be immunized against influenza every year because the viruses that cause the disease often change, and a new vaceine is made before each season."

About Influenza Influenza is a highly contagious viral infection of the nose, throat and lungs that is spread through the air by sneezing and coughing or by direct contact with people who have the disease. People who get influenza experience a high fever, chills, a dry cough, headache, runny nose, sore throat, muscle and joint pain, and extreme fatigue lasting several days to weeks.

About Influenza Vaccination

Influenza vaccine is safe and effective and is available in two forms: an injectable vaccine, approved for anyone, healthy or high-risk, 6 months or older; and a nasal vaccine for use in healthy people aged 5-49 years.

The injectable influenza vaccine should not be given to anyone who has a hypersensitive reaction to eggs or who experienced an allergic reaction to a previous dose of the vaccine or any vaccine components.

Children 6 months to 9 years of age who are receiving influenza vaccine for the first time will need two doses at least one month apart for the best pro-

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: When my beloved Mama died early this year, she left behind hundreds -- if not thousands -- of dollars worth of various medicines.

My sister and I called every hospital, shelter, clinic and aid agency we could think of, but not one could give medicine to people unless it had come directly from a pharmacy. Finally, someone suggested that we call our veterinarian.

Voila! It turned out that many of the gauzes, tapes, antibiotic and antihistamine creams, pain patches, pills, inhalers, glucose regulators, collection pans, gloves and other miscellaneous items could be used on

we found a good use for her old meds. --IN MEMORY OF MAMA

DEAR "MEMORY": I loved your idea, so I ran it by the California Veterinary Medical Board, which also thought it was terrific. They explained that certain medical supplies such as gauze tape, collection pans and gloves are welcome donations. However, numerous state and federal laws prohibit the transfer of prescription or controlled drugs. So antibiotics, antihistamine creams, pain patches, pills and inhalers must be disposed of in compliance with whatever laws and regulations are in place in each state, because they can vary.

DEAR ABBY: When I go out to dinner with men, they usually pick up the check. On occasion, I will insist on reciprocating by buying their meal.

When I go to lunch or dinner with girlfriends, I typically like to pay. I am by no means wealthy, but I'm not struggling with finances either.

My problem is one girlfriend in particular who insists on splitting the check. I have always thought that was tacky. I know the obvious solution would be to let her pay every other time, but she isn't in a position to treat at some of the restaurants we go to. Am I being overbearing? Or is my girlfriend too old-fashioned? (I'm 24 and she's 62.) -- PICKING UP THE CHECK IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR PICKING: Splitting the check isn't tacky; it's common practice. Sometimes the "burden of gratitude" can grow heavy, so instead of arm-wrestling your friend, eat at a less-expensive restaurant, let her pull Mama would be so pleased to know that her own weight, keep her dignity and pay her half of the bill.

> DEAR ABBY: My live-in boyfriend "Gary's" attitude did a complete "180" after we moved in together. He went from being nice and wanting to go out and do things, to spending all the free time he had watching television. He is also not nice to my 7year-old son. Because the boy lives here, I have given Gary one year to change his act. Is that too long? I'm not sure I want to continue this relationship, but I can't afford to live on my own. -- DOING POORLY IN PROSPERITY, PA.

> DEAR DOING POORLY: Yes, a year is too long. By then, your son may have emotional issues that will cost a fortune to fix. Tell Gary you expect an immediate attitude change or the relationship is over. As to how you will afford to live on your own -think back to what you were doing before you met him. You got along without him before you met him, and you're going to get along without him now.

Google stock scales new heights, now at $339.36 per share

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Google Inc.'s market value briefly surpassed $100 billion for the first time Friday, its stock scaling new heights after an earnings and revenue spike that astonished

The online search leader's shares traded as high as $346.43 on the Nasdaq Stock Market before backtracking as the day progressed. The shares had gained $36.16, or 11.9 percent, as their price eased to ago — a stretch that has been $339.36 in late afternoon trading.

After the slight retreat, Google's market value stood at $98 billion after just seven years in business. That was nearly $20 billion above the market value of Hewlett Packard Co. — a Silicon Valley pioneer founded 66 years ago.

Google's shares have nearly quadrupled since their initial public offering at $85 just over 14 months marked by stunning financial growth and a steady stream of new products designed to lure even more traffic to a search engine that seems to spit out profits as efficiently as it does answers.

The innovation, combined with media consumption habits that are shifting more advertising to the Web, paid off in a big way during the third quarter.

Google's profit, announced after analyst Martin Pyykkonen both the market closed Thursday, increased by more than sevenfold to $381.2 million. Excluding advertising commissions, revenue more than doubled to $1.05 billion.

Sunny, dry weather good for grape harvest temperatures, good sunlight and dry weather during the summer and early fall produced an unexpected bounty for the region's winemakers.

About three-quarters of the grape crop has been harvested and winemakers are finding an unusually rich fruit that many believe will yield some of the area's best wines in years.

"I think it's going to be a very good year," said Sharon Klay, owner of a 15acre winery about 60 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

The long stretches of sunlight with little rainfall ravaged some other crops, but the conditions were unusually good for the grapes, reducing the amount of water and boosting sugar levels.

Klay, also vice president of the Pennsylvania Wine Association, said she has harvested most of the grapes at CHALK HILL, Pa. (AP) — High her vineyard, which produces about ing good in the region, prospects for 45,000 pounds of the fruit annually. She said she delayed picking two red varieties to let them ripen further "to get maximum flavor development and as high sugars as we could."

specialist for the Lake Erie Regional Grape Program at Cornell University's Cooperative Extension, said the summer temperatures, among the hottest on record in several East Coast cities, played a key role.

Heat combined with dry weather generally makes smaller and more desirable red grapes with a larger proportion of skin that's rich in flavors and nutrients, he said.

"Around Memorial Day, the oven got kicked on and it started to take off," Walter-Peterson said.

Although the crop is generally lookwineries in some areas, including in the Finger Lakes region of upstate New York, are a bit dimmer because of recent torrential rains.

The rains pelted vineyards and some Hans Walter-Peterson, a viticulture late-season fungus has set in, Walter-Peterson said. The rain can also cause some grapes to swell and split open.

More than 12 inches of rain fell in some areas of New York, leaving some winery owners to fret over whether they can salvage their merlots and other red varieties of grapes still on the

In New Jersey, grapes picked before the rain set in will make the best wine the state's relatively young vineyard business has produced since 1991, said Gary Pavlis, a Rutgers Cooperative Extension agent.

Pizza farm draws tourists

DOW, Ill. (AP) — Walt Gregory leaders in pumpkin and horseradish found a way to make dough harvest-

The retired insurance agent and his business partner have carved up quite a tourist draw near the Mississippi River town of Alton, educating people with a half-acre circular plot divided up like the slices of a huge

Each of the eight wedges represents something used on a pizza from tomatoes to peppers to herbs goats represent milk and Cleo the cow is symbolic of beef. Seven penned-in pigs illustrate pork.

The chickens pecking nearby? Eggs, of course.

"I enjoy it immensely, just to see the looks on people's faces and seeing some people make the connection," Gregory said from his 3-yearold "R" Pizza Farm. "A 62-year-old lady, standing with her husband, didn't know pepperoni came from pigs."

Only a handful of such farms are believed to exist in the United States. However, farmers increasingly are turning to inventive land use - cornfield mazes are another example to supplement their bottom lines. Illinois, which is among the nation's production, is no exception. The project seems to be working for Gregory and business partner Lynne Weis. They expect their organic pizza "demonstration" farm to draw 5,000 to 6,000 visitors this year, far more than the 1,500 visitors in 2004 or the 300 the year before that.

The two have a similar venture near Quincy, with plans for a third next spring near Peoria.

"Word's getting out," Gregory said including rosemary and sage. Three as he walked through the wedges, plucking peppers and tomatoes along

> Most of the ingredients come from the farm and are organic, including the fennel herb commonly used to flavor Italian sausage. Gregory still hopes to find a source of organic cheese and is talking with an Amish slaughterhouse about supplying organic pepperoni.

> Gregory hopes to educate guests about organic growing.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Oct. 24, 2005:

This year you have an unusually lucky period coming to you sooner rather than later. You need to follow your intuition using your intellectual rationale. You also have the capability to detach yourself from difficult situations. As a result, you can often break through rigidity and difficult problems. You will become Mr. or Ms. Solution-Finder. Often, you will be in a position of leadership. Accept your status with grace, and your leadership skills will be enhanced. If you are single and you want a relationship, you will have your pick of suitors. If you are attached, you will help your relationship grow through empathizing with your sweetie. O'Connor calls for clearer rules

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor on Thursday spoke out for clearer and more high-minded rules governing the detention and interrogation of prisoners in the war on terrorism.

Addressing cadets at West Point, O'Connor said incidents from Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq and at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba have shown confusion among soldiers and the need for guidance.

While the Supreme Court has ruled that prisoners should have a meaningful opportunity to challenge indefinite detention, O'Connor said the court should not and cannot give broad answers to policy questions.

The president Congress have done little to date to clarify the situation, she said.

However, she cited fundamental national values that the rules should reflect, citing "belief in protecting the basic humanity of all people, including our adversaries. We will not stoop to the atrocities of some of our adversaries."

O'Connor, 75, became the first woman on the court when she was appointed by President Reagan in 1981. She announced her retirement this year but is serving until her successor is confirmed.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Oct.

You might find that you can accomplish a lot this year. Next week could be very significant to your life, as you enter an incredibly fortunate period. Don't let these special few days get away from you; go for your heartfelt desires. You also might find that your energy and emotional levels swing from high to low. Remember, as high as your feelings get is also as low as you can become. Hopefully, you will stay on the upper road. If you are single, the opportunity to meet someone special could present itself shortly. Let this person in, as he or she could be important to your life's history. If you are attached, your relationship benefits from your more upbeat mood. Smiles bring smiles. CANCER helps you understand others.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll 4-Positive; 5-Dynamic; Have: 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Some of the recent heat that you have experienced from others might dwindle in the next few weeks. Thank goodness. You will be calmer. As a result of your recent experience, you might want to relate individually. Tonight: Bring others together.

This Week: Big planetary changes might have long-term implications. For one, Lady Luck follows you this year when playing bingo or buying a lottery ticket. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 The Sun enters your opposite sign today. During the next few weeks, others might question you or criticize you more. You will also get a stellar readout or report card as to how well your life is going around your half birthday. Tonight: Go along with another's ideas. This Week: Get ready for an onslaught of admirers - and this is only the beginning of this trend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Though being playful and spunky feels great, you become more focused starting today. You will concentrate on some part of your daily life. Consider making changes that improve the quality of your life. Tonight: Read or chill out.

This Week: What you do now in your daily life makes a huge difference, more so than ever. Give 100 percent. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Your creativity and imagination emerge. Let the kid in you out. You will be full of fun. Bring friends together, and you'll have a veritable party on the way. The more people, the better time you will have. Tonight: Have a blast.

This Week: You christen a period on Tuesday in which your imagination and creativity peak. Want romance? That, too, can happen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Anchor your day close to home. You might need time off from the world. Rather than be out of kilter for a week or so, take time just for yourself. If you had no one to answer to, what would you do? Do just that. Tonight: Quiet.

This Week: Your focus will be on security and family more and more after Tuesday

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

* You might have plans, but if your friends aren't included, you might be making different choices. Start talking more in the next few weeks. Clear out some strong feelings. What you thought someone said might not be what was really said. Tonight: Make the most of every moment.

This Week: Your ability to communicate is enhanced from Tuesday on. Your smile and charm start peaking. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Others depend on you more than usual. Some of you might even have to go in to work. Don't worry; you will have your reward in the near future. Others notice your dedication. Be responsible. Tonight: Do only what you

This Week: Lucky Jupiter moves out of your sign Tuesday. Don't worry - this planet now plunges into your money house for a year.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

* The Sun enters your sign, heralding your birthday time of year. You might feel more vigorous than you have in a while. Others come toward you today. Take the "different" invitation. Tonight: Live for now.

This Week: Celebrate on Tuesday, as Jupiter, the planet of luck, enters your sign for a year. Not every day will be perfect, but watch what happens, SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Others want to do more with you. You might find it difficult right now to be as vulnerable or open as others would like. Remember that you also need to be comfortable. Dig into a project. Relax by focusing. Tonight: Spend time with a key person.

This Week: You might become more inward for a while. Don't fight the trend. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

* Others dominate once more. You might have a great idea or some fun adventure in mind. Others might not be as responsive as you would like. Let your creativity flourish. Kiss controlling ways goodbye. Tonight: Go along with the program.

This Week: Networking combined with good luck will start drawing what you want. This tendency will last a year.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  You might be best off being lowkey. Honestly, there are matters around your home and family that need to be taken care off. A project or hobby could be a great way to funnel your energy. Tonight: Start thinking about tomorrow. This Week: On Wednesday, Neptune in your sign goes direct. Carefully observe what happens this week. How realistic are you?

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

mind-opening experiences.

* You want to have fun, and you will. You need to let go and become a kid again. Be careful what you say to a close associate. He or she might take your words personally. Think before speaking. Tonight: Add more spice to your life. This Week: Take that step to take a class or perhaps sign up for a course. Work on
