Other outside mailboxes at various Pampa locations may have afternoon will need the an earlier pickup time, said

Cathy Baggett, supervisor of customer services.

Pickup times are posted on each outside mailbox around the city, she said.

Window service at the post office closes at noon Saturdays. A book of the new 39-cent stamps is available through the vending machine in the post office

"We have two-cent and one-cent stamps available in sheets and individually, and rolls and sheets of the new first-class stamps. We don't have any of the other new denominations, such as for postcards and certified letters," Baggett said. Close Sharon associates said they did not expect him to return to office.

Despite his illness, Israel's elections will be held as scheduled March General Attorney Meni Mazuz said after the Cabinet meeting. Sharon had been expected to easily win re-election at the head of the moderate Kadima Party he created to free his hands for further peace moves with the Palestinians.

Many Israelis see Sharon — an overweight war hero and longtime hawk who changed tack and withdrew from the Gaza Strip last year — as the best hope for achieving a peace deal with the Palestinians. His illness would create a power vacuum in the government Kadima's cloud and

At Hadassah, doctors put him on a respirator and began emergency surgery about midnight (5 p.m. EST Wednesday).

Doctors said they had stopped the bleeding during initial surgery, but Sharon was sent back to the operating room because a brain scan showed he required more treatment. He later had a second scan before being The daily newspaper moved to the ICU, Mor-

Monthly retail sales pointing to respectable holiday season

NEW YORK (AP) - A and the New York City tranburst of shopping just before and after Christmas helped many of the nation's big retailers meet their modest December sales goals, giving the overall industry a respectable but not spectacular holiday season.

As merchants began reporting their December results Thursday morning, the complete picture was not immediately known, but the early winners included Costco Wholesale Corp., Nordstrom Inc. and Limited Brands Inc.

"It looks good so far. The results are better than expected," said Ken Perkins, president of Retail Metrics LLC, a research firm in Swampscott, Mass.

Perkins noted that 77 percent of the merchants that reported so far exceeded expectations.

After an uneven start to the holiday season, many retailers struggled in December, as shoppers appeared to prolong their buying even later than in the past. There were a number of factors at play, including Hanukkah falling particularly late this year, on Dec. 25, sit strike, which occurred in the critical final days before Christmas, hurting retailers in Manhattan.

Gift card sales also pushed December business into January or even later; gift card sales are only recorded when they are redeemed.

Costco posted a 7 percent gain in same-store sales, or sales at stores opened at least a year. Same-store sales are considered the best indicator of a retailer's health. The results beat the 6 percent estimate from analysts surveyed by Thomson Financial. Total sales rose 10 percent.

Nordstrom had a 7.7 percent gain in same-store sales, much better than the 3.8 percent Wall Street expected. Total sales rose 10.7 percent.

Talbots Inc. had a 1.1 percent gain in same-store sales, missing analysts' 1.5 percent projection. Total sales rose 3 percent.

Limited Brands Inc. had a solid 3 percent same-store sales gain, though it was less than the 3.4 percent forecast. Total sales rose 5 percent.

GOP politicians warned against trying to limit Abramoff reforms as they scramble to return his contributions politicians led by President Bush scrambled to ditch campaign contributions from disgraced lobbyist Jack Abramoff, former House Speaker Gingrich cautioned Republicans they risk losing control of congressional majorities if they try to put all the blame on lobbyists.

"You can't have a corrupt lobbyist unless you have a corrupt member (of Congress) or a corrupt staff. This was a team effort," Gingrich told a Rotary Club lunch in Washington on Wednesday. He called for systematic changes to reduce the enormous financial advantages that incumbents have in congressional elec-

As head of a conservative movement based on ethics concerns and promises to curb federal growth, Gingrich led the GOP in 1994 to its first House majority in 42 years. But he decided to resign in 1998 when Republicans lost seats a year after Gingrich himself was fined $300,000 for violating House rules barring the use of tax-exempt foundations for political purposes.

He said the GOP leaders, Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., and House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill., need to resist mere "lobbyist bashing" and push campaign finance changes, along with smaller and more effective government.

"If they intend to retain a majority, then ... they need to take the lead in saying to the country we need to clean this mess up," Gingrich told

WASHINGTON (AP) — As reporters. "But any effort to push not surprising given that Abramoff, a this under the rug, to say this is just one bad apple: That's baloney."

In just the two days since Abramoff pleaded guilty Tuesday in Washington to three federal felonies, more than 40 elected federal officials have given up Abramoff donations, joining a dozen who did so last

This week's list was headed by Republicans Bush, Frist, Hastert, House Majority Leader Roy Blunt of Missouri and former House Majority Leader Tom DeLay of Texas, who faces legal problems of his own. But some Democrats joined in, including Sen. Hillary Clinton of New York.

Republicans dominated the list - friend of DeLay's, gave far more to them than to Democrats.

The scandal's effect on the 2006 election was on the mind of many who jettisoned the donations.

"I wish it hadn't happened because it's not going to help us keep our majority," conceded Rep. Ralph Regula, R-Ohio.

As Abramoff pleaded guilty to a second set of felony charges Wednesday, this time in Florida, officials said Bush's 2004 re-election campaign intended to give up $6,000 in donations from the lobbyist, his wife and a client.

A spokeswoman for Blunt, Burson Taylor, said, "While we firmly believe the contributions were legal at the time of receipt, the plea indicates that such contributions may not have been given in the spirit in which they were received."

Rep. Bob Ney, R-Ohio, under federal investigation over his links to Abramoff, joined in the rush.

The Republican scramble to shed cash that once was eagerly sought underscored the potential political problem the party faces in this elec-

Proposed RFID chip may cost taxpayers bundles

Government Waste, a private, non-profit, watchdog group dedicated to rooting out pork barrel spending in Washington and elsewhere, recently posted a story on its Internet Web site decrying the Real ID Act passed, it says, by the U.S. government in May 2005.

In an effort to discourage hedonistic Congressional spending and misguided federal snooping, CAGW has served up a petition with some 5,000 signatures to the Department of Homeland Security.

In its petitions, CAGW is Departmental urging Secretary Michael Chertoff to reconsider implementing the act's proposed new identification program which and the RFID calls for driver's licenses to be embedded with a highly sophisticated type of com- technologies puter technology.

Why the protest by CAGW and its faithful mem- tect bers? Well, because the act, in CAGW's own words, "places a heavy implementation and cost burden on state and local governments, especially departments of motor theft problems." Plus, drivers. DHS will soon set technology "is inexpensive, 800 percent," CAGW forth specific guidelines for easily produced, and many states to implement the new states already use a storage federal requirements, chip is one of the News Editor being considered to pro-embedded information." According to CAGW, 49 states currently employ magnetic stripes or 2-D technology with "minimal identity vehicles, taxpayers, and CAGW says, the current system to keep the informasecure." CAGW estimates that if this new RFID chip is allowed to go forth the cost of driver's licenses will be astronomical, passing on rate increases of up to 800 percent to taxpayers.

"The cost of a drivers' licenses could rise by 260reports, "from $10-25 to at least $90."

And how much more will it take to upgrade systems across the national board to handle the new technology? CAGW puts the projected cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $17.4 billion.

If you think this monetary price tag too high, then consider how such technology may be used to collect far more than the information stored on a standard driver's license.

"The extensive storage space on RFID chips," the CAGW says online, "also poses a threat to personal privacy. The government could mandate that information other than that contained on current licenses must be stored on the chips, including health records, sequencing, relatives' information, and more. In addition, information on RFID chips can be remotely accessed by unauthorized persons."

How much personal liberty will we Americans part with for the sake of national security, the illusion of "safety"? How do we decide which risk is too high?

In 1925, Nellie T. Ross succeeded her late husband as governor of Wyoming, becoming the first female governor in U.S. history.

In 1933, the 30th president of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, died in Northampton, Mass., at age 60.

In 1949, in his State of the Union address, President Truman labeled his administration the Fair Deal.

In 1970, Joseph A. Yablonski, an unsuccessful candidate for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America, was found murdered with his wife and daughter at their Clarksville, Pa., home. UMWA President Anthony Boyle and three others were convicted of the killings In 1981, British police charged truck driver Peter Sutcliffe with murder; he was later convicted of killing 13 women as the "Yorkshire Ripper."

In 1994, Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, former speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, died in Boston at age 81.

In 1998, Sonny Bono, the 1960s pop star-turned-politician, was killed when he struck a tree while skiing in South Lake Tahoe, Calif.; he was 62.

Ten years ago: An end to a three-week-old partial government shutdown was in sight as the House acted to restore the jobs and wages of hundreds of thousands of federal workers. Lawyers for Hillary Rodham Clinton released sought-after billing records that were discovered the day before in a White House office. Japanese Prime Minister Tomiichi Murayama resigned.

Five years ago: In a blizzard of last-minute executive orders, President Clinton curtailed road building and logging on federal forest land.

One year ago: President Bush opened a new drive for caps on medical malpractice awards, contending the limits would lower health care costs. The bodies of 18 young Iraqi Shiites taken off a bus and executed in December 2005 were found in a field near Mosul. Cpl. Wassef Ali Hassoun, a Marine charged with desertion in Iraq after mysteriously disappearing from his post was again declared a deserter — this time for failing to report to his U.S. base.

This is a list of top seven tech questions

Over the last few years, I've discovered that most all tech support questions focus on a few key subjects. In fact, I find myself on a weekly basis answering many of the following questions. I thought you might find the answers helpful.

1. How do I stop those annoying pop-up ads?

The best pop-up blocker I've found is also free! The Google toolbar (http://toolbar.google.com) does a great job at stopping these little windows. In addition, you get an easy way to search the

2. What is spyware and how do I stop it? Spyware is any software that secretly monitors your computer activities and reports them to a third party. Many advertising sites use spyware to track your purchases so that they can better target their advertising. However, some spyware can be used to steal your identity. To discover and remove spyware, get "Spybot: Search Destroy," (http://www.spybot.info) a great free program. Also anti-spyware program (http://www.microsoft.com/ security). You will be surprised how much spyware you already Spellmann have.

3. Is there Columnist a "free" way to prevent viruses? While Norton and McAfee control the majority of anti-virus software marketshare, they are not the only games in town. If you're looking for a good, free alternative, check out Anti-virus (http://free.grisoft.com). The program and all updates are completely free for personal use. If you need a quick scan, check out Housecall (http://housecall.antivirus.co m). It'll check your system via the Web.

4. When I try to defrag my system, it constantly starts over. Why?

As files are saved on your system, they are chopped up to fit in the available storage spaces (clusters). To retrieve check out Microsoft's free a file, your system must put How do I know if they're these pieces back together. If these pieces are next to each other physically (contingu-ous), retrieval happens quicker. Defragging rearranges the clusters so that they are contiguous.

However, if the Windows Defragmenter detects another program opening and saving files on your hard drive, it will start over (as the contents have changed). This can effectively prevent the defragmentation procedure from ever completing.

The best way to defrag is to boot your system into "Safe Mode." To do that, restart your system and continuously tap the F8 key until a menu appears. Choose "Safe Mode" with your cursor keys and hit enter. Once it finishes booting, you'll be able to defrag with no interruptions.

5. My friends send me email "warnings" and stories.

Most e-mail warnings and stories are false and are started by pranksters to see how "far and wide" their joke is e-mailed. To encourage forwarding, they often tempt you with phrases like, "Send it to your closest five friends and something neat will happen on your PC." Before you forward one of these hoaxes to everyone in your address

6. What's the best way to speed up my system? First, destroy any spyware (see question 2), remove any programs you no longer use, and defragment your system (see question 4). If your system is still unbearably slow, consider purchasing more RAM. This low-cost investment can more than double your PC's performance, depending on how you have it configured. I've seen many "obsolete" systems

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

Dec. 26 The San Antonio Express-News on the winners and losers of 2005:

Despite the festive season — which compels us to be generous in spirit, if not in fact — people like to divide society into two camps.

No, not red states and blue states. Winners and losers

This year saw plenty of both, the winners helping us soar to heights that seemed even greater when the losers sent us plummeting back to Earth. Some of those losers, like New Orleans, filled us with sadness, while others, like Michael Brown, filled us

But all were a significant part of 2005.

Losers

Michael Brown, the former head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, received one of the most wildly inaccurate televised performance reviews in history. "Brownie, you're doing a heck of a job," President Bush told him. That was Sept. 2, a few days after Hurricane Katrina struck; one week later, he was stripped of the duties that inspired the praise.

During a forum last winter in San Diego, Lt. Gen. James Mattis, a career infantry officer, likened war to a game.

"You know, it's a hell of a hoot," he said, according to the Associated Press. If you detect a foul odor coming from Jourdanton, don't blame the sewer. Blame officials who turned the sewer into a drowning pool. A public works supervisor ordered city employees to drown stray dogs at the sewer

The Rev. Pat Robertson, apparently misinterpreting the gospel on his television show, called for the CIA to "take out" Venezuelan president Hugo NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue, rejecting San Antonio as a candidate to become the new home of the New Orleans Saints, said the league had no plans to move into small markets, thus angering a "small" town with big dreams.

The chupacabra lost some of its luster when a creature in Elmendorf, believed to be the goateating monster of lore, was determined to be a mangy coyote.

To list all the reasons the Texas Legislature makes the loser list would require a book. No matter. All you need is one education funding.

Pundit Armstrong Williams should have put his integrity on eBay; he received $240,000 to shill for the White House. He wasn't the only journalist with a PR problem. New York Times reporter Judith Miller, jailed for refusing to reveal the source of a CIA leak, left the newspaper after editors determined her relationship with the administration was a little too And Bob cozy. Woodward, a Washington Post editor, came clean belatedly — about his knowledge of the leak.

San Antonians did a double take when they realized the wrong Castro was aboard the City Council barge in the Fiesta River Parade. It seems Julian, in the midst of a mayoral race, had a previous engagement. So he sent his twin brother, Joaquin, to represent him.

Winners San Antonio: With the arrival of companies such as Toyota and Washington Mutual as well as the National Security Agency, thousands of jobs are headed here. The city got a boost in prestige when AT&T Corp., and SBC Communications merged,

7. How do I stop junk e-making this city the headquarters for the new company, AT&T Inc., and Brooke Army Medical Center was designated as the site of a military medical center.

San Antonians deserve praise for aiding the victims of two hurricanes -Katrina and Rita. Some donated money; others volunteered at shelters. Some even opened their homes to the evacuees.

Bexar County jurors will get a bump in their daily pay, from $6 to $40, starting next year.

Local homeless people will get some relief — literally — after the city earmarked $500,000 to install two self-cleaning toilets downtown.

Mayor Phil Hardberger injected the city with something it desperately needed — a dose of adult leadership.

Throughout the area, people made up for the 20 long months they endured without tripas, which had been banned from the market because of their possible connection to mad cow disease.

Relieving some of her desperation, Eva Longoria received a Golden Globe nomination as best actress for her role as Gabrielle Solis in "Desperate Housewives."

Voters approved a retooled $450 million bond package for the Alamo Community College District.

The San Antonio Spurs defeated the Detroit Pistons for the NBA Championship, giving this town something it has grown to love — a parade in June.

And so ends our list; may 2006 have more winners and fewer losers.

Bush calls Mack Brown to congratulate 'Horns

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush on Thursday called Texas coach Mack Brown to congratulate the Longhorns on their dramatic Rose Bowl win.

"Congratulations on a wonderful moment," he said, according to press secretary Scott McClellan. "Tell the team congratulations, we're proud of them."

Vince Young scrambled for an 8-yard touchdown with 19 seconds left and the Longhorns beat top-ranked USC 41-38 on Wednesday night, winning their first outright national championship since 1969.

The president apparently fell asleep during the game but woke up in time for the exciting ending.

McClellan said Bush wished Brown and the Longhorns all the best, and said that he looked forward to having them visit the White House soon.

Bush is a former Texas governor. His daughter Jenna is a UT graduate.

No. 2 Texas 41, No. 1 USC 38

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Vince Young bounced on his toes, trying to buy himself some time and searching frantically for a way to win a championship.

And then he took off.

With the national title down to a final play, fourth down and 5 yards to go, Young scrambled untouched for an 8-yard touchdown with 19 seconds left and the No. 2 Longhorns stunned No. 1 Southern California 41-38 in the Rose Bowl on Wednesday night.

"Do whatever it takes," Young said. He did it all — and made sure that Texas was second no more to USC and its Heisman Trophy twins, Reggie Bush and Matt Leinart.

It was the ultimate revenge for Young, the bitterly disappointed runner-up to Bush for the Heisman Trophy last month.

At the Heisman presentation, Young had a blank stare and reluctantly clapped after he lost in a landslide to Bush. After winning the biggest team prize of all, he beamed with a satisfied smile, hugging anyone he could find.

On a night when he ran for 200 yards and passed for 267 more, Young capped a performance that Texas fans will remember forever by scoring his third TD and running for a 2-point conversion to end Southern Cal's 34-game winning streak and deny the Trojans an unprecedented third straight national championship.

"It's so beautiful," Young said as he received the MVP crystal. "Don't you think that's beautiful? It's coming home all the way to Austin, Texas."

The Longhorns were a unanimous No. 1 in the final Associated Press Top 25 and won the Bowl Championship Series title with the victory in the Rose Bowl.

"This is what it's all about, 41-38 in the final game," said Leinart, the Trojans quarterback and Heisman winner a year ago. "You couldn't ask for anything better. This was a great football game. We gave our hearts, they gave their hearts, and they came out on top."

The Longhorns (13-0) won their 20th in a row. USC (12-1) lost for the first time since a triple-overtime defeat to California on Sept. 27, 2003. Its 34-game winning streak is tied for sixth all-time in Division I-A, behind Oklahoma's 47-game run from 1953-57.

"Well, we couldn't stop them when we had to," USC coach Pete Carroll said. "The quarterback ran all over the place.

"This is their night," he said. "It's wonderful doing what we've been doing. We didn't get it done."

After the trophy presentation, Young draped his arms around two teammates' shoulders and the three of them sang "We are the champions."

Later, he ran into Leinart and Bush as the USC players walked past the Texas locker room and greeted each with a hug.

Texas coach Mack Brown took Bush aside near the entrance to the locker room and told him, "I thought it was a classy game. Nobody could stop anybody."

'It's so beautiful. Don't you think that's beautiful? It's coming home all the way to Austin, Texas.'

— Vince Young QB, University of Texas

When the game was over, Texas players streamed onto the field with the Longhorns' first outright national title since 1969. Young stood on the sideline in a sea of falling confetti, arm raised toward the crowd, and senior tackle William Winston unfurled a big, white Longhorns flag.

While the Longhorns' band blared "The Eyes of Texas" in front of a sea of burnt orange, the USC players looked startled.

Some put their hands to their heads, while others dejectedly took off their helmets. Said Leinart: "I still think we're a better football team. They just made the plays in the end."

Leinart did his part in his final college game while Bush was less than his best. Leinart passed for 365 yards, and his 22-yard TD strike to Dwyane Jarrett put USC ahead 38-26 with 6:42 left.

Earlier, Bush soared into the end zone on a 26-yard run, part of his 82 yards rushing. He also had 95 yards on six catches — and a boneheaded lateral that swung momentum Texas' way in the first half.

"It's been a great run. We've done some special things," Bush said. "I don't think we should be ashamed about anything."

In a game that produced more than 1,100 yards, a defensive stand was key for Texas.

On fourth-and-2 from USC'S 45yard line with 2:09 left, Carroll gambled. He decided to try to seal the game with his vaunted offense, dubbed by many the best ever in college football, and keep the ball out of Young's hands.

"We knew if we got that fourth-and-2, that was going to be the ball game," All-America defensive tackle Rod Wright said.

But when LenDale White came up inches short, Wright and other Texas defenders jumped in the air and charged off the field as Young trotted on.

"If you make that first down, you're squatting on the football to win the game," Carroll said. "We just missed it. By what — two inches?"

Young stood in the pocket and passed the Longhorns to a first-and-10 at the 13. After a 5-yard scramble, he misfired on two passes to set up fourth-and-5 at the 8.

The Trojans brought pressure, as they did all night, but Young slid away from it and looked for a receiver. Instead, he found a lane and raced to the right pylon.

"I went through all my progressions, so I just took off with it," Young said.

The Longhorns erupted. One pounded the turf as he lay face down on the turf, while the shocked Trojans futilely looked toward officials, hoping they'd say Young stepped out of bounds.

USC had one last chance, and it wasn't a good one. On the last play of the game from just beyond midfield, Leinart's pass sailed high over Jarrett's head around the 25.

With two of the most storied programs in college football, teams seemingly destined to decide the national title this season, the Rose Bowl was dripping with pageantry and tradition. Tommy Trojan atop Traveler galloped along the USC sideline. Meanwhile, big ol' Bevo, the Longhorns' beloved steer, guarded the Texas tunnel.

The Trojans think of the Rose Bowl as their home away from home — no team has won the "Granddaddy of Them All" more often. But a Texassized contingent of Longhorns fans turned half the hallowed stadium burnt orange and was loud enough to force USC into at least one penalty for delay of game.

Texas led 16-10 at halftime, but being behind after two quarters was nothing new to the Trojans. Four times this season they trailed after 30 minutes and regained control in the third quarter.

And that's what they did again, forcing a punt by Texas and driving 62 yards on seven plays with White finishing with a 4-yard run that made it 17-16 USC.

Young, back at the site of his breakout performance last year against Michigan, responded with a 14-yard touchdown run, reaching a long arm toward the pylon to make it 23-17.

On fourth-and-1 from the Texas 12, White burst through the line for a touchdown, his third of the game that made it 24-23.

On the second play of the second quarter, Bush bolted down the middle for 37 yards with a screen pass, but inexplicably pitched the ball sideways to unprepared teammate Brad Walker. Texas All-America defensive back Michael Huff fell on the loose ball, and Bush came off the field with his hands on his helmet, shaking his head, looking as baffled as anyone by what he had just done.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Jan. 6, You are full of cheer and happiness this year, though often your mood might not coincide with others'. Be more sensitive to those in your immediate circle, especially to your family and those in your home environment. You will make an investment involving real estate or your own home. Do be careful, as you might be too willing to spend. If you are single, you might be a bit shy when meeting new people. Honor those feelings, because that trait will be part of your desirability. If you are attached, share your vulnerabilities more often. Debate and brain-feelings. ARIES could be demanding. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; storm. Both of you should have different

3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  You are a pistol when left alone. Use your energy to create more of what you want. Pressure builds with a boss or someone you need to answer to. Your imagination takes you in new directions; let it. Tonight: Find your friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Proceed with a plan, but be willing to stay behind the scenes. You'll make a big difference if you are willing to try something different or walk a new path. A low profile works. Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Your friends help you hit a home run. You'll gain when dealing with groups as opposed to individuals. Keep your total vision in mind when taking action. As a result, you'll stay ahead of possible problems. Not everyone has your perspective. Tonight: Follow the crowds CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Others could be a source of tension, no matter what you do or which way you head. Know when to toss your hands in the air. You might need to set a precedent and stay ahead of the game. You cannot get into trivial matters. Tonight: Accept your role in the lime-LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  Fatigue could play into your decisions and plans. You might want to lighten your load somehow. Avoid heavy physical effort and use your mind when you can. Others inspire you to a new level. Listen well. Tonight: Take off ASAP VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  What might seem to be fun and easy ultimately could cause problems in a stable situation. Know when to back off and do something totally different. What you might feel is an unpredictable Tonight: Talk to your pal. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Defer to others. You get feedback from those around you that helps you make a decision. Still, you might be held back by a practical concern. Though you might like to risk, something holds you back. Tonight; Listen to the other approach to your life could work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 What you say or even think might not conform to what you are hearing. Opt for practical, real facts rather than intellectualizing. You'll come out on top if you work on the physical, material level. Tonight: Make it early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) * Your creativity points to success and/or a new outlet. You might go overboard in making a dream a reality. Curb any wildness or risking; it can only backfire. Emotions run high when dealing with a potential or actual loved one. Tonight: Think before you leap. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Calm down before you cause a problem by being stubborn and bullhead-

ed. You need to invest in a security-related matter. Money could dribble through your fingers if you are not careful.

Tonight: Anchor in. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) * Your imagination lights your conversations and adds to others' ability to relate. You have a great time wherever you are. Investigate news that you feel could be a bit off. You might need to do this search to convince yourself. Tonight:

Out with favorite people, favorite places. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Friends might have a personal agenda when they make suggestions. When dealing with someone you need to answer to, you are nearly intuitive, if nothing else. Let others understand what you normally keep to yourself. Tonight:

Pollster Lou Harris (1921), actor Danny Thomas (1914), French leader Joan of Arc (1412)

Don't go overboard.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a 43-year-old gay male who has always wanted to be a father. Last night I informed my parents about my decision to adopt a boy who is 7. My parents reacted as if I'd walked in and told them that I had murdered someone. My mother said she was disgusted and became almost physically ill. My father was less dramatic but no less displeased. I have no past history that would cause them to react this way, nor do I have any criminal past (or present) that would cause them to react so vehemently against adoption. I don't understand what their problem is. I know they worry that the child will come with familial baggage and I'll be expected to support others -- or that any inheritance I receive will go "outside the family." However, my blood family ends with me, whether or not I adopt. My parents are considerably older. Is there something I am not aware of from the World War II era that would cause my folks to be so opposed to adoption? I'd appreciate some advice as I navigate this difficult time. -- TAKEN ABACK IN GEORGIA

DEAR TAKEN ABACK: Your mother could still believe the homophobic and mistaken notion that a gay man adopting a boy means he will molest the child. That would explain her extreme negative reaction to your good news. My advice is to talk frankly with both of your parents and make sure they understand that according to an article published by the American Academy of Pediatrics back in 1994, "Most child abuse appears to be committed by situational child abusers who present themselves as HETEROSEXUALS." (The italics are mine.) Also, "Children raised in gay or lesbian households do not show any greater incidence of homosexuality or gender identity issues than other children." Further, according to the American Psychological Association, "there is no evidence to suggest that lesbians or gay men are unfit to be parents or that psychosocial development among children of gay men and lesbians is compromised in any respect relevant to that among offspring of heterosexual parents. ... Indeed, the evidence to date suggests that home environments provided by gay and lesbian parents are as likely as those provided by heterosexual parents to SUPPORT and ENABLE children's psychosocial growth." (Italics are mine.) Not knowing your parents, I don't know the basis of their beliefs. However, it might be helpful if you were to contact P-FLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays) and get their literature to share with your parents. You can contact P-FLAG by going to www.pflag.org or writing to 1726 M Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Please don't put it off. While it's not impossible to teach an old dog new tricks, it can take time to broaden the horizons of people whose minds have been closed for half a century or more. My advice is to start ASAP. I wish you luck.

DEAR ABBY: When my father and I are in his car and he's taking me somewhere, he tries to scare me by touching my knee and saying, "BOO!" I have told him I don't like it and asked him not to do it anymore, but he keeps on doing it. He thinks it's funny, but I don't. Am I overreacting? --UNCOMFORTABLE IN MOUTH, ILL.

DEAR UNCOMFORTABLE: No, you are not. Your father's behavior is inappropriate and a little sadistic. He shouldn't be touching you in a way that you have asked him not to. Tell your mother that he's making you uncomfortable, and if that doesn't end it, tell a trusted teacher or counselor at
