DANCIGER BEATS KING 9-6 AS SUPPLY BOYS NOSE OUT GULF COOPER

BUTTER BOYS BATTER NEWS IN 22-4 TILT

Taking advantage of the breaks in the game, Danciger took a second game from King, 9 to 6, in an industrial league attraction last night at Recreation Park. In the other night game the Supply Boys came from behind to nose out Gulf Cooper of Skelly-Yawn, 14 to 13, Gray County Creamery took the News 22 to 4 in a windblown twilight fixture.

Danciger won on six hits while King collected nine. Patrick went the rounds for the winners with Bailey behind the plate. Brown and Sherman was the battery for King.

The difference between a foul and fair ball and interpretation of a ground rule brought forth protests but the officials had control all the way.

The Supply Boys had to score five runs in the seventh to win, and they did. Boyington started on the mound but was relieved by Miller in the seventh. Whitten was behind the plate. Stansell went the distance for Gulf-Cooper with Kennedy receiving.

Taking advantage of a windy first inning the Creamerymen hurled 13 hits across the plate and then coasted to victory over the News-hawks. Williams started on the mound but gave way to McAnally who finished for the Creamerymen.

Caschberry was behind the plate. G. Barnett, B. Barnett and Wagner hurled for the News with Hamilton receiving.

The schedule for tonight follows: 6 p. m.—Diamond Shop vs. Jaycees.

8:15 p. m.—Phillips vs. Stanolind, Recreation Park.

9:30 p. m.—Christians vs. Mack & Paul, Recreation Park.

Guldahl Seeks Third Western Tourney Title

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (AP)—There were "dark horses" galore shadowing Ralph Guldahl, the national open king and defending tournament champion, as he led a field of 150 into the first round of medal play in the 39th Western Open Golf Championship here today.

Carrying the role of favorite, the tall, stoop-shouldered Texan is seeking an honor no golfer has ever achieved—three times straight winner of the Western—against a big brigade of steady campaigners.

Yesterday he reeled over the course and lumped into trouble on the first hole. His drive swung deep to the right on the 390-yard dogleg, and his putting was ragged.

The Pennsylvania slammer, Sammy Sneed, who blew up after holding pre-tourney favorite honors at Dayton, waved the red flag over Guldahl and the rest of the army when he buried up the course in a practice round yesterday. Clipping off three on seven holes, he came in under par, which is 71.

Among the dark horses "Dutch" Harrison of Chicago became one to watch. He whipped the course with five straight pars and a 70 on his practice flight. Jimmy Demarest of Houston looked good, as did John Bulla, Chicago, who blasted from a greenside trap on the fourth for a perfect ringer.

Those who string along with the amateurs have a pair of classy leads in Wilford Hehrle, Racine, Wis., Western amateur champion, and Don Schumacher, Dallas, Trans-Mississippi titlist.

Marshall Keeps Lead Over Field

(By The Associated Press) The Marshall Tigers played fighting baseball in more ways than one last night to keep a two and one-half game lead over the field in the East Texas league race.

Fists flew promiscuously as the Tigers beat Longview, 9-5, manager Guy Sturdy and reserve catcher Pete Melito of Marshall and Longview respectively traded punches in the sixth inning and players from both teams, not wishing to let it remain a private fight, swarmed on the field. Melito was not even in the game. Neither were the fans but some of the later mixed it in the stands to make it unanimous.

1600 CHILDREN TAKE PART IN PLAY PROJECT

Despite other attractions, the Summer Play program started last week with nearly 1,600 children enjoying play at Baker, Horace Mann and Woodrow Wilson will be open during the morning. In the afternoon Reas Buzard, life Scout supervisor at Woodrow Wilson, will have charge of play in the city park, watching the wading pool where children up to 9 years of age will be welcomed.

Children or parents desiring to join in the program should report to the supervisor at one of the three schools to make arrangements for attendance," Mr. Postma said today. "We have programs for children from six years to teen age."

Babe Didrikson Enters Western Women's Tourney

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 14 (AP)—Thirty-two women golfers followed the example of Gen. Zebulon M. Pike, as shooting started in the first round of the Women's Western Open tournament at balfing Broadmoor today.

They set their sights in the general direction of Pikes Peak, which rises 14,109 feet beyond the first green.

One of them was medalist Patty Berg of Minneapolis, who came Saturday evening, hopes to hawk this title alongside the Trans-Mississippi trophy she won at Tulsa Saturday.

Ten states have contenders in the championship fight. Illinois leads the field with nine, Colorado has seven, Minnesota four, Utah three, Texas, Missouri and Oklahoma two each and Arkansas, Kansas and Indiana one apiece.

Mildred Babe Didrikson, the only professional in the field, besides Mrs. Helen Hicks Harb, was paired with Mrs. Frederick B. Shaw of Denver. Texas Babe's game particularly her man-size drives, cracked up in an 85 after three practice rounds of 73 or better.

Golfer Shoots Hole-In-One For Fellow Who Won

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—This is one of golf's saddest stories—the tale of a man who shot a hole-in-one yet lost the hole.

It was like this: Harvey Cobb, capital golfer, was playing Rodney Thomas, sports writer of the Washington Star. Thomas was dog-tired as they reached the 10th tee, after playing 36 holes.

As Cobb teed up, Thomas stretched out on a bench. Cobb drove for an uphill green, on which only the flag was visible.

"Go on," said the tired Thomas, "it's our turn for me."

Cobb did, and it was another good drive.

Lawrin Eyes New Gold Cup

By far the most important arrival thus far at Los Angeles' new Inglewood track is Lawrin, Kentucky Derby winner which will start in the $50,000 Gold Cup Invitational, June 29. The gentleman giving him a critical inspection in his stall is Trainer Ben Jones.

INTER-CLUB TRADING BAN TO GO INTO EFFECT TOMORROW

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer Barring a sudden switch from speech to action on the part of American league moguls, the 16 major league baseball clubs will have to go through the hardest part of the pennant fight with whatever material they have on hand now.

About the time the Dodgers are expected to wind up their first adventure under the floodlights—midnight tomorrow—the ban on inter-club trading goes into effect. The National leaguers have completed a good many deals in the past few days and appear to have finished the job, but the American leaguers have only talked.

There are still plenty of weak spots that might be strengthened, but for the most part the prospects are in pretty good shape. There's talk that the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians are after Buck Newson, the winning pitcher down at St. Louis, but the chances are neither will get him. The Browns want players while the offers are in cash. Cleveland also has a chance to pick up Eiden Auker, the submarine fliinger, from Detroit, but apparently doesn't want to give up what it takes.

Both leagues took yesterday off for traveling, and today the western part of the national open in the east with Pittsburgh taking on the league-leading Giants and the Cubs facing the third-place Boston Red Sox in the headline encounters. Safely home from the east, but with their American league cut to 1 1/2 games over New York, the Indians open against Washington while the Yanks play in Chicago.

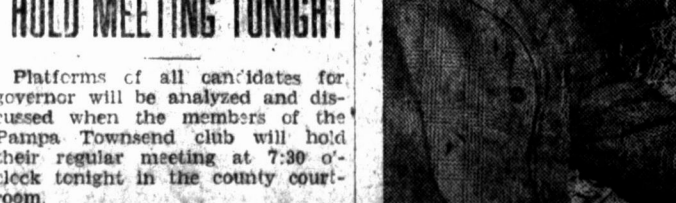

FARMERS FIGHT PESTS WITH BACKS TO WALL

SPRINGFIELD, N. M., June 14 (AP)—Farmers on this northeastern New Mexico grasshopper battline fought with their backs to the wall today against an insect invasion which now covers almost a million acres in five counties.

Their funds almost exhausted and with no financial aid immediately in sight, workers nevertheless continued to spread approximately 200,000 pounds of poison mixture daily employing more than 385 mechanical poison spreaders and 185 trucks.

Meanwhile, behind the lines, Gov. Clyde Tingley turned desperately to the federal government for assistance, after state tax commission attorneys asserted state statutes prevented utilization of certain county funds which the governor had hoped would be available to carry on the hopper war.

ARLEN FLAYS PRO GOLFERS AS CHISELERS

HOLLYWOOD, June 14 (AP)—Richard Arlen, sports-loving movie actor, dealt California's winter golf program a blow today by bowing out as a sponsor of the Pasadena and Sacramento open tournaments.

"I am thoroughly fed up with the professional golfer and am centering my entire attention on amateur golf from now on," Arlen said.

"Some of the golf professionals in this country today are no longer what they were in the days when Walter Hagen and his fine companions were ruling over the oceans. They are just a bunch of over-dressed ex-caddies with an enormous ego and the methods of racketeers going around telling everybody what they demand and how much. Many of them don't even know the first thing about golf etiquette."

"Last year six of us put up $600 apiece to provide a $3,000 fund for the Pasadena open. All gate receipts were given over to charity and we did not expect nor did we receive one penny of our money in return. We did it to aid charity and the California winter circuit of golf."

"But did the professionals appreciate it? Not a bit! At least one came to me personally and complained that the purse wasn't big enough, that they required $8,000 as a minimum and that they saw no reason why they should be expected to play for charity even though they did receive the usual distribution of a $3,000 purse."

When the Los Angeles open tournament was on the verge of discontinuance last winter, Arlen offered to put up a purse. He received no acknowledgement and other arrangements were made.

Withdrawal of his interest from the Pasadena and Sacramento tournaments may mean their collapse. Arlen said several pros had accused him of helping build up the state's money golf events for the sake of publicity. He had usually played in them as an amateur.

"My reply was: 'Do you think an 85 is good publicity?' he said.

JOE LOUIS 'GROWED UP' NOW SAYS TRAINER BLACKBURN

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Of the thousands who have peered, prodded and poked at Joe Louis since he started knocking the daylight out of his fellow men, none is better qualified to talk about the heavyweight champion than his scarred and genial trainer, Jack Blackburn.

His song around Dr. Bier's sock sanitarium runs something like this: "There ain't no 'new Joe Louis'. Just a Joe Louis grown up, that's all. He hits harder, though not as often, than he used to and he's a way better fighter than his was the first time he fought that Smellin'."

"Stand to reason, don't it? He's fought a couple of pretty smart guys since then, Jim Braddock and Tommy Farr, and he's been growin' and learnin'. And maybe we've taught him somethin' too."

It is Louis has lacked anything the credit goes to Jack. He has been with Joe ever since Louis was a sullen, husky kid with nothing to recommend him but a startling punch.

While Julian Black and John Roxborough handled the business end of his career, Jack handled the business end of Louis' arms. He taught Joe the best left jab in the business, "there ain't no better punch to bother a guy with," improved his hook, "shucks, didn't take much improvin', all kids are natural hookers," and slowly moulded him into the most destructive heavyweight since Jack Dempsey.

Jack does not seem to be unduly worried over Joe's "miserable showings" in training last week. It might be remembered the Bomber reminded no one of Sam Langford while training for Braddock a year ago.

"He'll be ready when the bell rings," says Jack.

Jack, who as a middleweight 30 years ago fought anyone within 30 pounds of his weight, probably wasn't fooled by the terrific belling given Joe when he first came East. You remember his propitious remarks just before he and Joe left LaFayetteville, N. Y., two years ago for Lakewood, N. J., and the last stages of training for the first Schmeling fight.

"Well, yeah, he's comin' along," said Jack then, "but you know he don't know as much as he will. A fighter's gotta be on the floor a couple of times before he knows what it's all about."

Schmeling Does Not Seem To Be Excited Over Bout

SPECTACULAR, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Max Schmeling doesn't seem to be unduly excited about his heavyweight title bout with Joe Louis a week from tomorrow. In fact he tries to pretend he isn't even sure when it will take place.

Talking with a group of newspapermen during an "off" newspapermen yesterday, Max remarked, as though recalling some unimportant engagement, "The fight falls on Wednesday, doesn't it?"

Max knows about the date, however, to have his training schedule all worked out. After a rest yesterday, he plans to box today and tomorrow. His Thursday and Friday workouts will depend upon his condition. Then he'll take the usual six rounds Saturday and Sunday. He intends to taper off with a four-round session Monday and leave for New York Tuesday.

Schmeling took a hand in stirring up the usual argument about the gloves to be used when he said he would object to the champion's using any but the regulation model used in New York. He has been reported Louis wants a slightly different type, made to fit his hands.

DAVIS LOSES TWO STRAIGHT TO BIG SWEDE

It doesn't pay to get rough with Gust Johnson as Sterling Davis discovered last night when he lost two straight falls to the Swede in the main event of Promoter Cliff Chambers' big card. The other two battles went to draws.

Don Hill returned to the war after an absence of three years a little slower but twice as cunning as when he wrestled here in the old days. He and Andy Tremaine gave one of the best exhibitions of grappling seen here in many moons.

Soldier Thomas showed more wrestling ability than on any previous appearance when he went to a draw with Blacksmith Pedigo.

Every bout was of the punishing type. There weren't many holds exchanged, when a mauler got one he held on like a bulldog. Several times during the night wrestlers stayed in punishing holds for five minutes before coming out, and usually with a hold.

Davis used the ropes effectively, punched a little and pulled some hair but it didn't get Johnson's goat but once and then Davis almost went to the dressing room getting away from the Swede. Both did some night wrestling with Davis apparently having the first fall tucked away with a series of jolts to the chin when Johnson came off the floor with a Japanese crab and Davis patted the mat in 20 minutes.

The second fall went to Johnson in a similar manner. Davis had him groggy from slams and elbows to the jaw but Johnson had enough to come up with another Japanese crab to win in 14 1/2 minutes.

Speed, science, cunning and anything else that makes great wrestlers was presented in the semifinal when Hill and Tremaine met. It was two of a kind with the result thrilling wrestling.

NAT TALE VALPARAISO, Ind. (AP)—Dr. Larry V. Fuller, former head of Valparaiso University's science department, used a radio to drive rats from his henhouse.

After rats killed 400 young turkeys in the henhouse, he installed the radio and kept it going full blast night and day.

The rats disappeared, he said, while the turkeys thrived on the diet of music, speeches and drama.

PROGRESSIVES SUBSCRIBE TO TEXAN'S PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Five Wisconsin Progressives have subscribed to a six-point program advocated by Representative Maverick (D-Tex.), leader of the so-called Progressive-Liberal bloc in the House.

Outlining the objectives in a statement inserted in the Congressional record, Maverick said: "This program and statement of principles is subscribed to by members of all political parties. We will seek re-election largely on our pledge to the people to work for their enactment into law during the next Congress."

The Wisconsin Progressives who signed the declaration of principles were Representatives Boleau, Gehmann, Withrow, Schneider, Amle. The program calls for:

- 1. Preservation of American Democracy and civil liberties as set out in the bill of rights.
- 2. Effective government control over and use of the money and credit system to restore to Congress its constitutional right to coin money and make credit of the nation an instrument directly employed in breaking the existing credit monopoly, stabilizing the price level, and bringing the total consuming power of the people into line with their power to produce.
- 3. Cost of production program for agriculture.
- 4. Broadening and improvement of the Social Security Act.
- 5. Legislation to bring about through the cooperation of government, business, and labor, a coordinated expansion of industrial production and an effective control over both monopoly price increases and monopolistic curtailment of production of needed goods and services.
- 6. A long range flexible, self-liquidating program of public works aimed primarily to meet such outstanding national needs as slum elimination and low cost housing and the need for conservation and development of natural resources.

Many out-of-town visitors attended the revival services yesterday at the Francis Avenue Church of Christ with the Rev. N. B. Hardeman in charge.

The evangelist used as his subject Monday evening "What is Your Attitude Toward the Bible?" Do you accept the Bible as inspired in thought and do you accept the words of the Bible as inspired? Mr. Hardeman made it plain that he believed that the words of the Bible were inspired. God gave the apostles their very words. Again he asked you to believe that the Bible is the only inspired book? If so what use do you have for another rule to be governed by. The Bible is complete; it gives to man a perfect, complete plan to govern him while he lives here. There can be no need therefore for any later revelation and all such claims cannot be true and the Bible true, he pointed out.

Mr. Hardeman urged that if we believe that the Bible is complete, that it gives all that we need, in order that we may become and be Christians, then we should find it a simple matter to learn and do the will of God.

The public is invited to hear these lessons each day at 10 o'clock and 8:15 o'clock.

FORMER TEXANS DIE IN L. A. SUICIDE PACT

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP)—Their fortunes dwindled to $110, William E. Dysart, 78, and his wife, Olive Irene Dysart, 63, lay together today in the death they sought.

"My wife won't let me go over the divide to heaven or hell alone, so we will kill ourselves," read a note by the former Texas cattle magnate.

The two bodies were found yesterday in the rear of a Glendale school. Police said Mrs. Dysart had been shot in the back after she swallowed poison and her husband had then turned the pistol on himself.

From the couple's papers, Mrs. Dysart was identified as the former wife of John Barry, reputed South African "diamond king," mistress of a Los Angeles mansion and inheritor of a $9,000,000 fortune.

Dysart's father, it was said, once owned a 100-square-mile cattle ranch in Texas, near Stephenville. "I loaned my money to cattle men all over. Now they can't pay. Depression and earthquake helped finish me," another note declared.

"My wife has been the most wonderful wife in the world. Her money is gone, too."

ONE HIGHBALL WARMS YOUR FINGERS, THREE YOUR TOES, MAYO PHYSICIANS ANNOUNCE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor SAN FRANCISCO, June 14—It takes only one highball to warm your fingers, but at least three to warm your toes.

These curious facts about man's "cooling system" the action of the skin of face, hands and feet in regulating his temperature, came to light in medical studies shown here today at the American Medical Association's scientific exhibit.

New methods of diagnosis, particularly of troubles often mistaken for various veins, have come from this study. The experiments were exhibited by three Mayo foundation physicians of Rochester, Minn., Bayard T. Horton, Charles Sheard, and M. D. Williams.

In a little more than five minutes after a drink the skin of the face warms, getting rid of that heat from metabolism of the alcohol. In 10 minutes the fingers get warm. That is all the work the "cooling system" has to do for one highball.

Eating a meal has exactly the same effect, except that the time is much slower. The Mayo experimenters showed that finger temperature starts a rather sharp, quick rise in about an hour and a half after a meal. What kind of meal seems to make no difference. There is no more heating from a "high protein" dinner than from any other meal.

The toes also rise in temperature after a meal, provided nature has to call on them. At about 68 Fahrenheit, for example, only the fingers are likely to warm. But at 75 the toes too will give off heat.

Why People Stagger There is no change in blood pressure accompanying these temperature rises the physicians stated. It was suggested that the warming effect of highballs on the feet may be one reason why some people stagger with too many drinks.

The reason for the temperature changes in the extremities is vasodilation of constriction, opening and closing of the small blood vessels, either to give off heat, or to prevent the body losing it too fast. Cigarette smoking has one of the quickest effects in cooling the skin of the fingers. Why it causes the constriction of blood vessels is not known; nor have bad health effects been traced to this cooling.

Dr. Horton said, in a few susceptible persons, blood pressure rises from 130 to 180 due to a smog. Cigarettes and pipes cool the fingers like cigarettes, particularly a cigar smoked down short.

The methods of measurement which showed these skin temperature changes have been applied to legs with apparent varicose veins. In quite a number of cases the skin temperatures have revealed higher temperatures than normal, and led to discovery that the trouble was short-circuits, called arterio-venous fistulas, between arteries and veins. Some of these cases have been cured by surgery.

NEON COMPANY WINS SUIT TO ERECT SIGN

A legal contest started seven months ago when the city of Pampa sought to restrain the Hoarel Neon Sign Company of Amarillo from erecting a sign for the Pampa Mortuary, at the corner of Ballard and Francis, was decided in favor of the sign company in a judgment filed this morning in 31st district court by judge W. R. Swing.

Declaring Pampa's ordinance 104, passed nine years ago, void and unenforceable, the judgment upheld and made permanent a temporary injunction issued on December 16, 1937, which forbade the city from interfering with the sign company in the erection of the sign.

Pampa's nine-year-old ordinance 104 was designed to regulate signs on Pampa's streets, alleys and sidewalks, and gave the city commission the authority to prohibit erection or posting of signs at its discretion.

While the sign company was preparing to erect the sign for the mortuary, the city commission protested that the Neon sign was not located at a sufficient distance from the curb and mentioned that it might be an obstacle to the vision of motorists and pedestrians at the intersection.

The suit, resulting from the argument between the sign company and the commission, was styled Louis F. Hoarel doing business under the trade name of Hoarel Neon Sign Company vs. the City of Pampa, Gray County, Texas, et al. Named among the defendants were members of the city commission, W. A. Bratton, who was mayor at that time, Police Chief Art Hurst, and C. L. Stine, former city manager.

SITDOWN BOSS TO MOVE BUSINESS TO GEORGIA

DETROIT, June 14 (AP)—Walter L. Fry, Detroit manufacturer who gained publicity last year as the nation's No. 1 sitdown boss, announced today that "trapped among President Roosevelt's great experiment, Governor Frank Murphy's labor policies and Michigan's high labor rates," the company would move its manufacturing operations to Columbus, Ga.

Fry said the company had its choice between moving and going out of business. It manufactures automobile seat covers, Headquarters and minor operations will be continued here.

Mainly About People

Principal Ernest Cabe of Junior high school is working toward his master's degree at Columbia University, N. Y., this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Coffman and daughter, Vera Mae, Mrs. W. T. Pearson left for Jackson, Miss., following a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Cary. Mrs. Cary is the aunt of Mrs. Coffman and Mrs. Pearson. They are all natives of West Tennessee.

Mrs. E. E. Reynolds is in a local hospital recovering from injuries suffered recently in an automobile crash on a trip to Mineral Wells. Several stitches were required to close a gash in her forehead.

Miss Roy Riley, Junior high art teacher, is attending the University of Southern California at Los Angeles this summer.

Miss Patsy Rhoades of Clovis, New Mex., is visiting friends and relatives here.

Firemen Eddie Gray and Calvin Diltmore are delegates from the Pampa Fire department attending the state convention in Amarillo today.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Parker of Skellytown are representing the Pampa chapter Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary at the state encampment in Waco, Mrs. Parker is president of the auxiliary here.

Olaf Baldwin, postal inspector, from Amarillo, is a Pampa visitor for a few days.

Jimmy Hamlett underwent a tonsillectomy at Pampa-Jarrett hospital this morning.

Mrs. Chester Henry and baby were dismissed from Pampa-Jarrett hospital yesterday.

Mrs. E. D. Lester was taken to her home from Pampa-Jarrett hospital today.

Jimmy King of Austin, former Pampa resident, has returned to Pampa for a few weeks.

An interesting and educational talk on keeping good will of customers through collection letters was given by Shelby Gantz at the regular noon meeting of the Pampa Credit Grantors Association. He gave statistics to show that every person intentionally or unintentionally influences 10 people to or from some store during the year. The letters W and Z were discussed. Next week accounts for A, B, and C will be discussed. Seventeen members attended yesterday's meeting.

Be Judges Of Good Whisky, Speaker Urges Graduates
ATHENS, Ga., June 14 (AP)—Dr. Edwin R. Embree of Chicago, president of the Rosewald Foundation, urged Southern men today to "measure up the triple ideal of the scholar, the gentleman and the judge of good whisky."

In an address prepared for University of Georgia commencement exercises, Dr. Embree told the graduates: "When the concepts of this phrase were widely realized in the lives of her sons, the South bristled with distinction. Insofar as these ideals have fallen into desuetude, the South has drifted into mediocrity."

He said this section "will regain eminence only as its leaders climb again to the triple peaks of this homely epigram."

Scholarship, Dr. Embree said, even in the colleges "almost never

GARNER BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, June 14 (AP)—A move to draft John N. Garner as the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1940 was under way today in Texas.

The executive committee of the woman's division of the party in this state yesterday adopted a resolution lauding Garner as the "hope of the nation" and pledging the organization to "an aggressive support of his candidacy."

The resolution asserted Garner: Had brought great acclaim not only to himself but to his native state; Had served with distinction as national committeeman for the party in Texas; Had always "submerged his own identity in the interest of his party and his country"; Had achieved "the distinction of being America's greatest authority on the law-making process"; Would meet the "country's needs at this particular time."

Vann M. Kennedy of Austin, secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee, in addressing the meeting of women said Garner has the full respect of the student body, and when you come right down to cases, often has but half-hearted devotion by the faculty."

He defined a gentleman as "one who pays his debts," and added: "This means a person who is willing to take the consequences of his own actions and convictions." And to be a judge of good whisky, Dr. Embree said, implies good taste all along the line since "... an educated man—a judge of good whisky—will recognize the abyssal gap between swinish drunkenness and that mellowness and expansion of the personality which the wise men of the ages have appreciated as the gift of the grape."

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

Meeting with almost insurmountable odds, the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce staged a highly successful Top O' Texas Fiesta from the entertainment angle this year, even though it wasn't the financial success it might have been.

Deaths of two of the outstanding Fiesta boosters on the eve of the celebration threw a pall of sorrow among members of the organization with whom they had worked.

On top of that, the Jaycees were forced to buck the opposition of outsiders who moved a carnival to the city limits to compete with Fiesta attractions.

The point of these paragraphs, however, is to drop a word of appreciation to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and to the parent organization, the Board of City Development, which cooperated with the Jaycees, for what they are doing for Pampa and the Top O' Texas area by making the Fiesta possible each year.

The splendid Fiesta of 1938, despite the obstacles in its path, should spur the group of enterprising young men on to further and bigger accomplishments at Fiesta time next year.

Of course, there is no thought on the part of anyone that this is not what Junior Chamber of Commerce officials have in mind—but, one feels that it is fitting to say here a word of public appreciation for the fine work this organization is carrying forward in Pampa.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

All the civilian populations that suffer in a war are not in the areas of battle. Take newspaper readers—as far removed from the scene, say, as the United States is from Spain.

The bare casualty figures encountered in the headlines every day have their own frightfulness, but there is another kind of reading that inflicts a special torture not so much on the heart as the stomach.

A recent dispatch from Saragossa serves as a case in point. It concerned a touching incident involving an insurgent officer and a Loyalist machine gun crew. The story told how the insurgents wiped the gun crew off the face of the earth and then discovered a large dog standing bravely by the silenced gun, growling his defiance.

An officer who liked animals forbade his men to shoot the dog, so it had to be driven away with sticks and stones while the Insurgents took the position. But the dog came back again, whimpering this time, and it was found to be wounded. The men tenderly dressed the wounds, made friends with the dog, and wound up by adopting it as a mascot.

How touching! What a prince that officer was! How noble of the men to confine their slaughter to their brothers! How reminiscent the story is of some of the pap that used to come out of the propaganda machines in 1917! How senseless, how twisted, how revolting!

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 14—A nice, eight-point program for the Republican party appears to be one of the current needs in politics. The G. O. P. has been going in for numerology in a big way, but no one has yet considered the possible magic in the number eight. Here's what has been presented to the country thus far:

Five-point program of principles to guide the nation, offered by Herbert Hoover last December.

Six-point program to restore confidence and prosperity, offered by Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York.

"Seven deadly sores," of the present economic situation, offered by New York's Congressman Bruce Barton as subjects for congressional investigation.

BUT EIGHT IS SKIPPED

Nine-point party program offered by Governor Alken of Vermont as basis for attack on the New Deal.

"Nine basic headaches"—bad spots in the New Deal which the Republican Committee on Program promises to explore and analyze.

Ten-point Republican program suggested by Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan in a magazine interview.

Eleven-point program for saving the country, proposed by Herbert Hoover on his return last month from Europe.

Twelve-point "rescue plan," devised by G. O. P. National Committee and congressmen in minority report on administration's recovery-relief bill.

Most popular points have included: no more pump-pricing; revision of taxes and the Wagner act; lower relief costs and investigation

Tex's Topics

There was no mention of it made here last week, but it can be said now because calling attention to the fact cannot remove any more dollars from Pampa and Gray county residents than already have been removed. . . The reference is to the carnival which pitched its tents and money-getting devices on ground at the city's limits in direct opposition to the home-promoted Top O' Texas Fiesta.

The people should know that the Pampa Board of City Development and the Junior Chamber of Commerce were offered a fancy figure to "tie" the carnival up with the Fiesta, but turned the proposition down because both organizations felt that it was not for the best interests of the city to foist it upon the people. . . The rides and legitimate amusements with a show of that kind probably are all right, but the things that go with a "dyed-in-the-wool" carnival do untold harm. . . Officials of the Pampa Credit Association report that it will take probably three months before credits payments return to normal.

Despite this opposition, the carnival came to town, cashed in on the Fiesta publicity and crowds did irreparable damage to the local celebration. . . As a result of the carnival patronage, Fiesta officials say, they find themselves "in the red" financially. . . The carnival cut down attendance at the rodeo performances and at the dances which were the only source of revenue the Pampa Jaycees had to defray expenses of the Fiesta. . . It appears to many that the license fee charged to carnivals is far out of line. . . A carnival can come to your doorstep and for a measly $100 state fee and $50 county fee set up and stay for a year if it wishes without any further license payments. . . Many cities and counties solve this problem with a fee of at least $100 a day for every day the carnival is open.

But, if a carnival paid $1,000 a day it still would be bad medicine for the community. . . A person may go to one with the intention of not spending more than a certain amount set aside for amusement, but if his will-power isn't of the super-say-no variety, the "come-on men" will get him as sure as you're a foot high. . . And, nine times out of ten that's exactly what happens. . . They get his money, and the home-town merchant who has been accommodating him takes it on the chin.

The BCD and the Jaycees are to be highly commended for their stand in opposition to carnivals. . . The thing to do, now—it appears, is to tighten up the loop-holes of the law so there will not be a repetition of this year's sorry state of affairs in that respect during Fiesta week in 1939.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
E. E. Voss, Dallas, regional executive of the Boy Scouts of America, attended a meeting of the Buffalo Wallow council and addressed a group of "Scouting Under the Council Plan."

Lions from this district journeyed to Pampa for a session including a luncheon at the Schneider hotel and business sessions.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
Alex Schneider, long identified with welfare and unemployment relief work in Pampa, was elected chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

Jack Dione, Rotarian and editor, of Houston, held members of the Pampa Rotary club and numerous visitors for 45 minutes while he explained the evils of gasoline tax evasion.

POLITICS IN MINNESOTA

Diligent digging by correspondents has failed to produce proof that the administration is actively intervening in the Minnesota gubernatorial primaries June 20, although its interest in the results are considerable.

Farmer-Labor Gov. Elmer Benson seeks re-nomination by his party and is opposed by former Lieut.-Gov. H. Jalmer Petersen, who has conservative support. Benson has consistently supported Roosevelt and the President is supposed to favor his re-election.

Harry Hopkins recently removed State WPA Administrator Victor Christgau on the ground that he couldn't get along with others—notably farmer-labor officials—although WPA officials in Washington also had complained of Christgau's handling of WPA labor troubles.

Previously Jim Farley had told United States District Attorney Victor Anderson to file in the Democratic primary. Anderson has publicly protested removal of Christgau, whose friends insist he was efficient and non-partisan and that he was ousted—after being offered a Washington job—as a political move to help Benson. Tom Gallagher, young lawyer, is reported likely to beat Anderson and four other candidates for the Democratic nomination.

Roosevelt, asked point-blank at a press conference whether he wanted a Democratic governor in Minnesota, evaded the question. But he wants a pro-administration Minnesota delegation at the next Democratic national convention.

Martin Nelson Republican candidate for governor in a previous election, is likely to be the G. O. P. nominee again, although Harold E. Stassen and Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis are strong contenders.

A Syracuse woman has attracted attention as a button collector, but her fame is nothing compared to Fighter Henry Armstrong, the button-connector.

'You Better Let That Guy Go'

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A world-roving newspaper reporter who eschewed the glamor of far ports to write a dramatic, swift-moving saga of an American family—a proud and sometimes murderous dynasty of the Old South—is attracting a lot of attention with his first novel, "Travelers Rest" (Cottonfield Publishers, Clemons, S. C.).

The author is Ben Robertson, a young man in his early 30's with blue eyes and wavy brown hair and a widely-spread heritage of wanderlust derived from his great-great-uncle Daniel Boone. . . Wherever he has traveled—on the scorching deck of a tramp steamer in the South Seas. . . In a fog-chilled basement in London. . . Nights after working as a reporter in Adelaide, South Australia. . . In Honolulu, in Moscow and Cape Cod, Robertson jotted notes for a strange, long story of a pioneer southern family.

Robertson sometimes speaks of "Business taking him to Australia." . . That isn't strictly true, as his friends know. The "business" was simply another attack of the itching foot, and so off he journeyed, with only the horizon as a destination, until he discovered himself one morning working on a newspaper in Adelaide.

The same thing might be said of his trip to Russia. . . He went there to work. It is true, but it occurred to him that it would be a lot more fun "thumbing" than traveling as a passenger. . . So he and a pal worked their way on a lumber boat.

He used to be here in this office, in New York, and then for a while he was in Washington, looking in on the President's press conferences, talking to Jack Garner, hanging around the Mayflower lobby, the Peacock Alley of Washington, where everybody always goes sooner or later.

And so, after a trick here and there he arrived somehow back in North Carolina, where all those notes began to take shape in the form of a novel. . . He went to work on it, and it's here, and as a result he has had some amazing experiences.

For instance he writes "Some of the papers have asked me to write reviews for them, without a by-line, so I guess that is the strangest break any writer ever got. I have been very modest, just saying it was a fine book and they ought to buy it. . . It has let loose a lot of skeletons—folks have been coming to me to say they have the same kind of stories in their Carolina background.

As to the story itself, it begins in a rude log cabin in pre-Revolutionary days, continues up to the present. . . It is the Iliad of pioneers who planted the corn and fought off "the painted death," as the Indian scalping parties are called.

Richard Himber, who in addition to being a leading orchestra director is a crackerjack magician, has been asked to try his hand at dramatic acting and will journey up to Warrensburg, N. Y., to play a role in a streamlined version of "Hamlet." Dick turns actor July 15.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM.

Any casual talk with Capt. Herman Lambrecht of the Salvation Army will readily convince you that the biggest job today is handling relief and low-salaried families. Here is the story of a case that recently occupied his attention:

Along in April, a family, consisting of the father, mother, five girls and a boy, moved here from a northeast Texas city. They were poverty-stricken when they arrived, and they applied at once for aid. Being a non-resident the father was denied work on WPA projects. The family was near starvation. Capt. Lambrecht urged the father to return at once to his former home; he told the man he absolutely could not make a go of it because there were no jobs for non-residents, but the father was determined to stay—and he did. Then he became ill. Capt. Lambrecht finally arranged to get him into a hospital, but it was too late. The man died. At that time the children did not have one complete outfit of clothing. They had no underwear, no shoes; they did not have adequate clothing to wear to the funeral, and Capt. Lambrecht then managed to outfit the children.

After the funeral, the mother wanted to take her brood back to East Texas, and they are there now on a farm. "In such a situation you not only must be a sociologist, an investigator with the manner of a district attorney, but you simply must treat such people as your neighbors—and you must love your neighbor as you love yourself," Capt. Lambrecht said.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M. D.

The Laxative Habit
Constipation does not exist as a disease, but is rather a symptom arising out of excessive or abnormal "bowel consciousness." That is the conviction of Dr. Manfred Kraemer after a recent study.

His study embraced a group of 300 unselected patients (161 males; 139 females) in private practice. They represented a fair cross-section of the population.

Seventy-three per cent of the patients, equally distributed among males and females, were addicted to the use of laxatives; 70 per cent used them more often than once every three months; 21 per cent took laxatives daily, 53 per cent weekly, or more often.

The laxative habit was usually developed between the ages of 20 and 30. One hundred and thirteen of the patients were found to have used laxatives less than five years; 108 had been taking them from 6 to 40 years.

What of it? Well, Dr. Kraemer writes: "I find that I have rarely if ever witnessed any organic change resulting from the use of laxatives, and many may ask, 'Why bother about the subject, if laxatives never hurt anybody?' "My answer is that as physicians we must not only cure organic disease but must help our patients over mental difficulties. The life of the cathartic habitue is often AUSTIN, June 14 (AP)—Boxing and wrestling are doing well in Texas, says Labor Commissioner Fred E. Nichols, who also is state boxing and wrestling commissioner.

Surveying the situation in these sports, Nichols named Houston, Dallas and Corpus Christi as "bright spots," adding that shows in Fort Arthur likewise were drawing well.

Business in Galveston he characterized as "fair." San Antonio, after a lull of two years, was reported to have started boxing again. Attendance here, Nichols said, was picking up with each show. "Both wrestling and boxing are in a healthy condition," he said.

There is a limit to patience, even by elevator operators in the capitol, who, it seems, are supposed to "take it" from questioners.

A strange man was observed operating the freight elevator, which, because of heavy traffic, also carries passengers. Beside him was a placard on which had been written:

"I'm not sick. He is on vacation. He will be back about June 14."

Tangible evidence of the last hunting trip Gov. James V. Allred made to Mexico is two small rugs of hide and heads of coyotes he shot. The rugs hang across the arched rests of a leather divan in his capitol office.

A citizen of Gilmer told District Judge Ralph Yarborough, candidate for attorney general, that if Yarborough had as much common sense as his father he would make a good attorney general.

When the elder Yarborough was a justice of the peace at Chandler, he presided at the trial of a case in which the Gilmer man was a witness.

"The jury couldn't agree," said the Gilmer resident, "so Squire Yarborough ordered the case retired then and there. A lawyer objected but was unable to find any law prohibiting trying a case twice in one day, so it was done."

Ralph Yarborough agreed he had not equaled that mark set by his father.

The University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college are luckier in one respect than some schools in other states.

For years they paid the federal tax on athletic admissions while hoping it would be declared unconstitutional, and now that the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled it valid they will not have to go down in their jeans to get the money as schools which have not made the payments will have to do.

The university has paid approximately $60,000 since 1932, or an average of $10,000 a year. When the tax was attacked, it filed claim for a rebate.

The Supreme Court, in upholding the levy, overruled an opinion of a circuit of appeals. The University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, and other schools contended the federal government had no right to tax admissions at state-supported institutions.

Two young sons of Land Commissioner W. H. McDowell have done a bit for their dad. They have given him their savings banked at school to use in his campaign for reelection.

Incidentally, they made the gift on their recent common birthday anniversary. The boys are, 14 and 13, but were born on the same day of the year.

He wasn't registered at the University of Texas, but he received medical attention there just the same and nobody complained.

"He" was a small, brown Boston bull pup. None knew where he came from, but one morning recently he appeared in a second-floor room where a class in journalism was under way.

He was a frisky soul, light-hearted and joyous, and had imperfect knowledge, apparently, of cause and effect. Time after time he jumped on a window sill, twisting and turning and kindly students' hands draw him back from threatening danger. One day he hopped once too often, slipped and plunged.

Students rushed him to the office of the university health service where a physician set broken legs in temporary splints. Then he was taken to a dog hospital.

And, for the benefit of those who like detailed happy ending to a story, the pup is recovering nicely. An ad in the student paper, called to bring response from the owner, but a man paid the costs of treatment at the hospital and took doggy home to his little girl.

LOW MONEY RATES
The Treasury is issuing more than a billion dollars of money on a 2 3/4 per cent basis for 28 year bonds. This is the lowest rate on record for loans of this kind. It is rather significant that wealth can be borrowed at less than 3 per cent.

And this rate applies even if the loan is payable in dollars that are not real dollars, but only promises-to-pay real dollars later on. If we have 3 per cent inflation a year, it would mean that the lenders of this wealth would not get a cent in return for the use of their wealth.

But when the banks can pyramid credit and loan other people's wealth and receive the interest, it is natural that wealth secured this way can be secured at a low rate. This is especially true when the great majority of people have no conception whatever of what a dollar really means.

On the other hand, it means that business is very stagnant; that people with assets, or credits, are not even interested in going into business and hiring help with the idea of making a profit, even if money can be borrowed at an extremely low rate.

But, of course, money for business cannot be borrowed at the same rate because the income from it is taxed, while the income from a government bond is not taxed.

UNDERDEVELOPED MINDS
Congressman McGroarty, in discussing the conditions of the country, laments the fact that when we are seeing our government crumble, the control in Washington has fallen into hands of underdeveloped minds, theorists and play boys.

When we plow under the cotton and pay people for not producing, it certainly seems that those who are making the laws have underdeveloped minds, or they think the voters have underdeveloped minds to continue them in office with this kind of a policy.

Shortcut Planned To South Plains

A shortcut between the Panhandle and the south plains is the aim of road enthusiasts of Falls, Floyd, and other south plains points as is shown in the map above. The plan is to cross the Palo Duro canyon country from Claude to Silvertown which would save going around the canyons.

Local Chamber of Commerce officials, after studying the map, point out that the proposed road parallels Highways 88 and 18 from the Panhandle southward.

The 88-18 North-South Highway association has been active in having the north-south road recognized by the state. Recently delegates from many towns along the route visited with the highway commission and received favorably assurance that the road would be studied for designation.

"We must continue to work on the road which would connect Pampa with points to the north and south," declared James Collins, chairman of the highway committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Only 8,000 cubic yards of caliche remain to be laid before a project on Highway 88, north of Clarendon is completed. A total of 16,588 cubic yards of caliche have been laid on the road, on both sides of the Salt Fork of Red River.

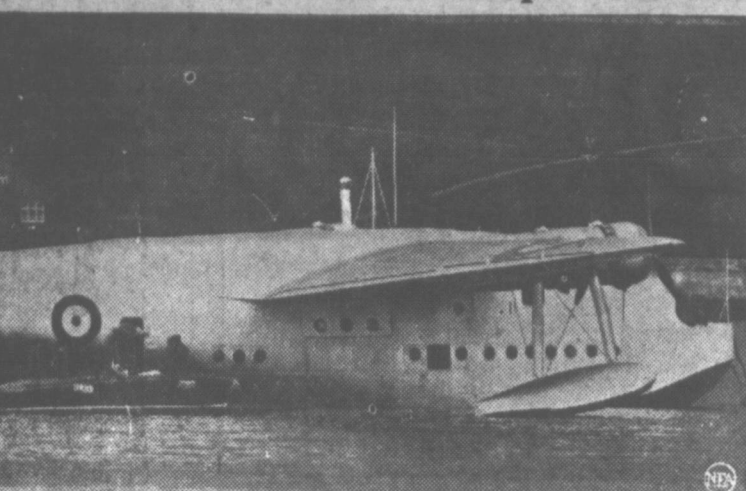

Four employees of the Texas Highway department are still at work on Highway 152, east of Pampa. Using a tractor and a team the men are cutting shoulders on the road. The road is to be surfaced soon by Cooke and Braden, who recently obtained a contract for surfacing 85 miles of Top O' Texas roads.

RANGER, BLOOD HOUND AND GIRL FIGURE IN THIS DRAMATIC STORY

LAREDO, June 15. (AP) — The dramatic personae of this story is a Texas Ranger, a blood hound, 4-year-old girl who was lost in the pine woods near Madisonville and an old gold ring set with three red stones. Time, 1902, place, Lone Oak.

The leading character was M. G. (Blaze) Delling, who 36 years ago was a Ranger in Capt. Bill McDonald's company but for many years past an immigration service inspector at Laredo. The story was recalled a short time ago by the finding of a gold ring that had been laid away many years.

In 1902 while Delling was stationed with the company at Madisonville, Capt. Jake Herring, later United States marshal of the southern district of Texas, then in charge of the convict farm near Madisonville, presented McDonald and Delling each with a trained blood hound, McDonald's dog, which was a half Walker and half bloodhound, was named "Rock," while Delling's dog, also of mixed breed and very mean, was named "Trouble."

Delling was at the hotel in Madisonville with both dogs in his custody when a man named Fexox from the Lone Oak settlement reported a 4-year-old girl had wandered from her home and could not be found, and urged Delling to go there with the dogs. It was a cold and rainy night and very dark, but Delling hired a hack, put the dogs in and with Fexox soon was on the way to the home of the missing child.

Delling found about 50 persons assembled, some carrying lanterns and others pitch pine torches. After questioning the parents Delling decided the little girl had attempted to make her way to a creek 300 yards away where a negro woman was washing clothes. Around the creek and the house he found the ground badly trampled by the

THIRTEEN FISHERMEN FINED AT GONZALES

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 14. (AP) — Thirteen Texas shrimp fishermen were given jail terms or fined by District Judge John T. Hood in Cameron, La., coastal town below Lake Charles, on charges of trawling in violation of Louisiana law within the three mile limit off the Louisiana coast.

The Texans pleaded guilty to the charge last Friday and today five of them were held in the new Parish prison of Cameron to serve 30 day jail terms.

The eight others paid their fines and court costs aggregating more than $1,050 and were released. Captains and members of the crews were fined $25 each by Judge Hood but court costs increased the penalty for captains to $148.75 and crew members to $48.75.

Those jailed in default of fines were listed as Captain Clarence Bourgeois of the "New Iberia" and Under the strain of a championship match, Camels never make me feel jittery or unsure. That shows Camels have real mildness all right. Watch the ball players pull out Camels!'"

Text includes: "Olive, do you always serve Camels because you feel that there's a big difference between Camels and other cigarettes?" and "I'm very glad you've brought that question up, Helen. I've tried as many kinds of cigarettes as most people have, I guess, and I'm amazed at how different Camels are. Camels are extraordinary—they never bother my throat at all! And Camels taste so good and rich, yet they never leave me with that 'cigarette' after-taste. Really, in so many ways, Camels agree with me."

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER "CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!"

"You bet Camel is our choice in cigarettes" say these tobacco planters—and they know tobacco because they grow it!

"I know just what tobaccos the cigarette companies buy at the auctions," says Mr. John Durham, Jr., well-known planter. "One year after another, I've seen Camel buyers take the finest grades in the market—the best of my own crops and those of my friends. They took the best part of my best crop too. Better tobaccos make better smoking, as anyone that grows tobacco knows. So, like most other planters, I smoke Camels. I know the quality tobacco that's in them!"

"There's quite a difference between fine tobacco and ordinary grades," says Mr. Calvin Wiggins, who has sold tobacco to Camel for 20 years. "From my own experience, it's Camel who buys the fine, thin leaves that make the nicest cigarette smoking. Camel bought the really fine baskets of my last crop. I smoke Camels, myself. Most of my grower friends do too. I know, and they know, Camel uses costlier tobaccos!"

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—like a new place, new jobs, new girls.
HELEN—tell in love—hard—
TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday, peace, sublime peace came to Joe and Terry in their new life and Terry misses an opportunity to make Joe doubly aware of her.

CHAPTER XIII

SIX, sly little witch, this Terry Murray! She amused Joe, tickled him, stirred him and kept him always aware of her as every woman wants her man to remain aware . . . and she did it as if he were the fount and source of all favors and delights and she a simple supplicant on his bounty. She gave nothing, ostensibly; and not giving, could not cloy. Her begging was outrageous and incessant . . . and in receiving her meed, she gave back a measure overflowing.

He knew all this, by shrewd, instinctive recognition. But to know it only led into further mysteries he was not fain to solve. They might bother anyone. Was it spontaneity or art? Was it the love she protested, or was it the cunning she would have practiced on any man who fell into her hands? Though these questions prevailed, he had not the right to answer them if he knew. She had needed help; he had given help. He could never ask it back. That was all, that was enough.

But was it enough, disregarding his own conscientious declaration? There were times . . . always, always, there would be times! . . . when he walked alone in spirit in an endless search through infinite places where there was no one any more, though he must always go looking, always alone. Quietly and secretly then he groaned a little in his quickened being, hungry with a hunger that would never be appeased.

Then one day an acquaintance accosted Joe in the shop during lunchtime. The acquaintance was from another part of the plant; he merely paused to gossip for a moment. His eyes were watchful and cunning as he talked. He only talked for a few minutes when Joe sprang to his feet, scattering lunch and box and all, his fist clenched for a blow. He did not deliver it because the fellow apologized profusely and avowed the innocence of his disinterested intentions. Joe looked at him a moment with set face, and then turned his back on him and picked up the fragments of his meal. The fellow departed softly, and the incident passed.

But that night after he had washed and dressed and eaten dinner and smoked a cigar. Joe told Terry he was going out for a while. Terry had been talking at great length uninterruptedly for some time, but at that she came to him and placed herself firmly on his lap.

"What is it, Joe?" she asked soberly. "I could see it when you came in. Tell me what it is?"

"Nothing," he said curtly. "I'm just going out for a while."

"Please tell?"

He lifted her firmly to the floor and stood up. His manner was calm but determined. He got his hat and made for the door.

Terry sprang at him. "Are you mad at me, darling?"

"No," he told her. "I'll be back."

"Kiss me."

He kissed her. He kissed her tenderly, so that she knew it was nothing she had done. Yet he was hard. She could not deter him, and he went out.

HE walked to the corner where Papke's drug store was, and he looked idly around the corner and into the store. A couple of young men lounging outside the door gave him a casual greeting in which there was the merest touch of deference.

"Tommy Withers around tonight?" he asked them.

No one had seen Tommy tonight, it developed.

Joe rocked a little, one foot to the other, looking thoughtful.

"Tell him for me if you see him," he said, "that I heard he's been doing some talking out of turn. Tell him I know where he got the information, but it doesn't matter. Tell him I won't tip his jaw this time—I'll crack it! Do you get that?"

"I get it, Joe," said one in a slightly bated voice. "I'll tell him."

"All of you tell him!" snarled Joe. "I want him to know it. If he didn't get the information straight from that lying punk Mallow, I'd do more. He's talking about my wife, and I can kill the guy does that. Do you get that too, all of you?"

They got it.

Joe stared at them a moment, soberly, and then turned on his heel and walked away.

He went to the Mallow house. He knocked on the rear door leading off the stairway landing. The door opened slightly and Terry's father peered inquiringly forth.

Joe shoved the door wide open, hard, pushing Mallow out of the way. He walked into the room. It was the dining room, and a meal was under way; Old Mallow glowered from his place and Mrs. Mallow, sharp and ferret-eyed and skinny and grim, glared at the intrusion from the place opposite.

"I'm just giving my in-laws a call," said Joe, directly to the point. "I wouldn't, only I've got to. I've got to correct some misinformation you gathered. And being spreading, I just came to tell you that Terry and I got married because we felt like it and no other damned reason, and I'll raise a little hell here if anything to the contrary is ever repeated while I'm alive!"

THEY stared, stiffly. Then Terry's father blustered, "Who said anything to the contrary?"

"I've got to correct some misinformation you gathered. And being spreading, I just came to tell you that Terry and I got married because we felt like it and no other damned reason, and I'll raise a little hell here if anything to the contrary is ever repeated while I'm alive!"

Joe advanced close to Mallow. "You talked to Tommy Withers on the street and said a thing like that about your own daughter. It's been repeated. At least it was till I got wind of it. It's going to die a sudden death tonight."

The old woman struck the table with her knuckles, trembling with ire. "We're not beholden to you, Joe Murray. We know that girl better than you. And we have a right to our suspicions when you marry her in shameless haste. We'll think and say what we feel like in this house."

"All right!" agreed Joe. "Keep right on. But every time you say anything out loud about my wife, I'll beat this prize exhibit here till the stuffing leaks out of him."

The younger Mallow was red with passion. "You threaten me? I'll put you under bond."

"You'll go sit on a flagpole! You backed down once when I cracked down on you, and you'll do it again."

"I'll do nothing of the sort. I don't know what you're talking about."

Joe grinned evilly. "You don't? You don't remember?" Joe stopped. He studied the older man. Thought was flickering in Joe's pupils; speech was checked on the tip of his tongue in sudden indecision. Then he drawled, "You didn't back down once on the understanding that I'd clip you on the jaw if you didn't behave yourself?"

There was a pause. Then the old woman said in a tone of intense, polite interest, "Ah Another of Theresa's lies?"

YELLOW RIVER FLOOD FORCES JAP. RETREAT

SHANGHAI, June 4 (AP)—Flood waters cascading through breached dikes of the mighty Yellow River blocked the Japanese before Changchow today, while engineers familiar with the ways of the meandering stream feared one of the greatest catastrophes of the century would result.

These reports said the boiling yellow river was 10 feet deep north of Chungchow, about 25 miles east of Changchow, that numerous villages were inundated, and that the flood was two and three feet deep at several points where it crossed the Lunghai railway.

Engineers and relief workers familiar with the destruction that can be wrought by "China's Sorrow," as the stream is called, said the present upsurge was only preliminary to the heavy flow that normally is not at its height until mid-July.

Deliberate destruction of the dikes, which in many places confine the river to a course above the level of the surrounding country, by Japanese artillery fire and airplane bombing, and by the Chinese themselves to impede the invader, was said by these experts to be largely responsible for the present overflow. However, there have been heavy rains, too.

Lack of dike maintenance in recent months while battles raged on the banks of the big stream was believed to have aided breaks in other places.

River Changed Course.
John Earl Baker, at present head of the International Red Cross relief work here and formerly investigating engineer for the Yellow River Commission, said the course of the flood might strike anywhere on a rough line between Chengchow and Suchow, then into the Grand Canal and along the old bed of the river through North Kiangsu province to the sea.

The old river bed entered the sea 200 miles south of the present outlet on the other side of the Shanghai peninsula.

This course would sweep much of the area now occupied by Japanese troops and lines of communications established in their Shanghai campaign to cut the east-west Lunghai railway for an advance upon Hankow, China's provisional capital, 300 miles south of Changchow.

MRS. BENTON HOSTESS TO PRISCILLA CLUB

Priscilla Home Demonstration Club members met at the home of Mrs. W. D. Benton recently.

The president called the meeting to order and plans for the club's participation in the Top O' Texas Fiesta and the county wide pie supper to be held June 17, were discussed. Mrs. Norman Walberg, council representative, announced that Priscilla Club will sponsor the cake walk at the pie supper.

Following the regular business, a program, "Women of America," was presented. This program was prepared by Priscilla club yearbook committee, headed by Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, for the home demonstration club's yearbook.

Mrs. N. B. Ellis, a guest, led the discussion with a paper, "Pioneer Women." Mrs. Albert Lockhart, using as her reference World News, gave a report on "Women in Prominent Government Positions." Mrs. Walberg, using radio and newspapers as reference, discussed "Women of Today."

Members answered roll call by naming one woman who has done something worthwhile in the community, county, or state.

Mrs. Walberg was chosen delegate to the A. & M. short course with Mrs. Lockhart as alternate.

Refreshments of tea, sandwiches, and angel cake were served to two guests, Mrs. N. B. Ellis, Mrs. George Dyer, and the club members.

Mrs. Autry Leads Lesson at Meeting of WMS on Monday

Members of the McCullough-Harsh Women's Missionary Society met at the church yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Kit Autry as leader of the program.

Following a talk by Mrs. Autry from the book, "Radiant Heart," a study on Paul's letter to the Philippians, the lesson was closed with a prayer by Mrs. H. H. Bratcher.

In the business discussion plans were completed for sending a box of supplies to the Wesley community center in El Paso. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. E. Beard. The remainder of the session was spent in quilting.

Attending were Mrs. A. D. Hasten, a visitor, and Meses. D. S. Buckner, C. W. Toole, E. C. Casey, L. F. McDaniel, T. D. Harris, Kit Autry, J. M. Nichols, O. G. Smith, H. H. Bratcher, E. H. Johnson, C. R. Vernon, J. E. Beard, and Henry English.

The circle will meet Monday afternoon of next week in the home of Mrs. C. W. Toole.

Miss O'Brian Has Week-End Guests

Guests of Miss Marian O'Brian Sunday were Miss Isabelle Robinson, head of the Art Department of West Texas State College, Mrs. A. W. Nichols, of Art Department of Texas University, and Mrs. Ira Younger, Borger.

Miss Robinson, widely recognized water-colorist, brought to Pampa three paintings which will be exhibited with paintings, lithographs, and wood-cuts of Miss O'Brian's at the Schneider Hotel gallery from June 20 until July 1.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART.

A little white book containing six tiny flacons of perfume, each made from oils of a white flower, is a nice gift for the bride for her bridesmaid, or for that matter, for anybody who likes to have a variety of perfume on hand would be pretty happy to receive this book. The flower fragrances include: bridal wreath, white camellia, white carnation, white lilac, white violet and white heliotrope.

For one who just doesn't like to be seen without makeup—even on the beach—there's a waterproof foundation base which she can use under or instead of face powder. This comes in cake form and in all shades to match all complexions. One simply applies a few dabs, then smooths them out over forehead, neck, face. It's about the consistency of grease paint and gives the skin a dull, mat finish.

For the budget-minded woman who simply can't bear the idea of throwing away nail polish that becomes thick in the bottom of the bottle, there's a new nail lacquer solvent. Add a few drops of this to the thick polish, stir thoroughly, then test on one nail.

New, too, is an electric face mask for the girl who likes to remove tissue cream before going to bed. Made by a company which manufactures heating equipment used in body reconditioning and weight reducing salons, it is really a heating pad in the shape of a mask.

After covering the face with rich cream and lining the pink velvet mask with cleansing tissues, one puts the mask on and leaves it on long enough to thoroughly warm the skin, thereby causing the skin to absorb cream more rapidly. Naturally, it stimulates circulation, too. P. S. It is not priced for very low budgets.

RAINBOW GIRLS ENTERTAIN AT TEA MONDAY

An attractive arrangement of rainbow hues set the color note for the silver tea given yesterday afternoon by the local Order for Rainbow Girls in the annex of the First Presbyterian Church.

Forming the background in the reception room, which was decorated with larkspur, was a large rainbow.

Included in the receiving line were Pauline Hogue, Mary Francis Hallett, Mary Adams, and Elaine Murphy.

Entertainment for the afternoon included violin selections by Helen Fooks, piano numbers by Gene Finkbeiner, accordion selections by Betty Shellberger, a musical reading by Geraldine Smith, accordion numbers by Elsie Ruth Graham, violin selections by Margaret Ellen Burton, and a piano solo by Marjorie Ross.

Mrs. Katie Vincent poured tea at a table decorated with white candles and a centerpiece of larkspur.

Committees in charge of arrangements were program, Elaine Murphy, Catherine Culbertson, and Mrs. Burt Graham; refreshments, Margaret Spangler, Jerry Smith, and Carrie Ann Elders; decorations, Mary Frances Hamlett, Mary Walton, and Pauline Hogue; Charlotte Malone, worthy advisor, presided at the event. A total of $7.25 was received from the event, which was given to benefit the fund for the trip to grand assembly.

The Rainbow Girls have expressed their appreciation to those who attended the event.

student naturally acquires an observance of and a sensitivity toward the beauties that are everywhere; the shell-pink, fuzzy little cheek of the baby in the family; the rich tan-brown of a newly-baked loaf of bread; the intermingled yellows and browns of early summer trees, all these and innumerable other beauties by which every person is surrounded.

The personal qualities which art can give, its practical, creative, and aesthetic values are for every person, the layman as well as the professional artist, and the true joy of doing comes only to the doer.

The housewife who is considering a streamlined kitchen with built-in working spaces, cabinets and tables, either brand new or her present one rejuvenated, may like to have these surfaced with stainless steel. Thin sheets of this durable, gleaming metal can now be purchased ready to be cemented or nailed on the surfaces desired covered, together with narrow moldings to give a neat, finished effect.

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

When summer doldrums threaten your party, make fudge.

A pitcher of iced tart lemonade and a platter of smooth fudge, is a combination certain to make even the fireflies feel happier. For a safe and sane fudge party you might try this new method.

Butterscotch Fudge (1 1/4 pounds)

One package butterscotch arrowroot pudding, 2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Put butterscotch pudding, sugar and milk into sauce pan. Cook until mixture reaches 234 degrees F., or forms a medium ball in cold water. Stir occasionally while cooking to prevent sticking.

Remove from fire. Cool until lukewarm. Add butter and vanilla. Beat until creamy and thick. Pour into buttered pan. Cut into squares. One-half cup chopped nuts may be added before beating.

If you like chocolate better, then try this one.

Chocolate Fudge (1 1/8 pounds)

One package chocolate arrowroot pudding, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Put chocolate pudding, sugar and milk into a sauce pan. Cook until mixture reaches 234 degrees F., or forms a medium ball in cold water.

Stir occasionally while cooking to prevent sticking.

Remove from fire. Cool until lukewarm. Add butter and vanilla. Beat until creamy and thick. Pour into buttered pan. Cut into squares. One-half cup chopped nuts may be added before beating.

On a "simply divine" night, maybe this is the answer—

Divinity Fudge (1 1/4 pounds)

Two cups granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup light corn syrup, 1-2 cup water, 2 egg whites, 1-3 cup broken walnut meats, 3-4 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract.

Boll sugar, salt, corn syrup and water together until syrup forms a hard ball in cold water. The hard candy ball should make a sharp sound when tapped on side of a cup.

Remove from heat and stand 5 minutes. Then pour slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites. Stir constantly. Continue beating until mixture looks dull and becomes stiff enough to hold its own shape when dropped from a spoon.

Add cut up nut meats, and vanilla. Pour into well-greased pan (6 by 10 inches). Cut into squares. Decorate each piece with half a walnut.

Pipe Springs national monument in northern Arizona preserves an old stone fort established in 1869 by order of Brigham Young to protect a Mormon cattle ranch from marauding Indians.

Four new artesian wells have been brought into production and four more are to be drilled to increase the water supply in the northwestern part of Mexico City.

BPW CLUB TO HEAR REPORTS OF CONVENTION

A regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the city club rooms.

The feature of the program for the evening will be reports of the state convention of the B. P. W., which was held last week in Fort Worth.

Delegates from the local organization to the convention were Christine Cecil, Vera Lard, Laura Bell Cornelius, Mildred Lafferty, Iva Eker, and Leora Kinard.

Although Jefferson's Declaration of Independence was adopted on July 4, 1776, the colonies had adopted the resolution of independence July 2.
