

FIVE FEARED DROWNED IN PANHANDLE

Train En Route To Pampa Dives Into Salt Fork

Five persons were missing, a train was wrecked, railroad tracks were washed out and highways inundated in the eastern Texas Panhandle Thursday when torrential rains sent brown floods down normally-dry creek and river channels.

Three passenger automobiles were sought near Wellington after highway department officials there feared they might have plunged through a washed out bridge over the Salt Fork of the Red River between Wellington and Shamrock.

A father, mother and child identified as Mr. and Mrs. Bert Freeman and son of Wichita Falls were feared drowned when a sudden rise in a creek swept their automobile from a bridge near Clarendon.

M. V. Griggs, engineer, and C. E. Burton, firman of a Fort Worth and Denver freight train were missing after the locomotive plunged through a bridge washout into the Salt Fork near Wellington.

Dick Brown, brakeman on the train, fought the current in a five-mile swim to safety despite a badly injured chest. Searching parties attempted to determine whether Griggs and Burton were trapped in the cab of the locomotive were unable to make progress against the swift current.

There was a 60-foot drop from the gap in the bridge to the water below. Divers were unable to cope with the surging water. The locomotive was lying on its side in the river bed, completely covered with water.

Fireman Attempts Rescue. A wrecker was en route to the scene and railroad officials said they hoped to drag the engine from the center of the stream to quieter water at the edge. They held out little hope for the lives of the missing trainmen.

Freeman was feared to have lost his life near Clarendon when he attempted to rescue his wife and child. Elmer Kennedy, farmer who lives near the creek, said Freeman left his automobile on a bridge, and that a quick rise—characteristic of West Texas "dry" streams—evidently carried it with his wife and child into the flood.

Kennedy believed Freeman had tried vainly to reach them. A man's shoe, a pair of trousers, and the flood-battered automobile were found by searchers at daylight but there was no trace of the missing persons.

Kennedy said Freeman came to his door about midnight seeking shelter for the family. The rainfall near Clarendon ranged from an inch to three inches. Highways were under water and sections of railroad track were washed out.

There was a light rain at Amarillo, and the eastern section of the Panhandle near the Oklahoma line appeared to be hardest hit by downpours. Rains of from two to five inches damaged bridges and highways northwest of Hollis, Okla.

Lubbock, on the South Plains of West Texas. The first two raids were made during the night with destruction of 28 buildings along Mediterranean beaches at Suburban Nazaret and El Cabanal Y Malvarrosa.

The third raid was on Valencia proper but the populace, adept by this time at scurrying underground at the first alarm, escaped with but few casualties.

Hundreds of children, however, fled screaming along the sands of El Cabanal Y Malvarrosa, when bombs fell close by a children's home. None was hurt.

Orphan babies were carried by nurses to the comparative safety of the beach. About 100 bombs were dropped thereabouts.

Baby Giant Panda Arrives Here

GRADUATES IN POOR PLIGHT WAILS WRITER

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM. HARBERT, Mich., June 16 (AP)—This year's crop of college graduates, poet Carl Sandburg said today, was being turned out into a "crash-land" which would give it few breaks.

Interrupting the work of putting the finishing touches on his complete life of Lincoln, the famous humanist writer called the situation in which most June grads found themselves "serio-comic."

"There are no prospects for many of them but little jobs in the WPA," he asserted, "and if there were jobs the bulk of the students wouldn't be qualified for them."

College students are being graduated without the slightest knowledge of the true political, social and economic life of their communities or of the nation.

"The old taboos still operate in the college environment. It is still considered the better way to whisper about certain things, to shush unpleasant subjects, to pretend that something you don't want to believe doesn't exist."

Japs Wrecked River Dykes, Say Chinese

APPLICATION FOR PAVING IN PAMPA FILED

Manila, P. I., June 16 (AP)—The disastrous Yellow river flood in China was blamed upon Japanese armies in a statement issued by the Chinese consulate general here today.

Flatly denying Japanese charges that Chinese forces had deliberately breached the dykes, the state said: "The destruction of the dykes of the Yellow river by Japanese forces was one of the greatest crimes committed by them in their present invasion."

SHANGHAI, June 16 (AP)—The Yellow river flood fed by a steady down-pour of rain unraveled a ribbon of death and disaster 10 to 20 miles wide and 90 miles long across the flat plains of Honan province today.

Heiress Weds Poor Boy

Plane Seeking Yacht And 'Pirate' Crew Of 3 Boys

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 16 (AP)—A coast guard plane was ordered aloft today in a renewed hunt for the $25,000 Ketch Tira which a "pirate" crew of three runaway boys was believed to have been sailing toward Cocos Island, legendary site of buried treasure.

Latest of many "clues" brought to the coast guardmen since the yacht and the boys disappeared simultaneously from Santa Cruz, Calif., three weeks ago, led the new plane search.

Capt. Joe Marilla of the Tuna Clipper Vigilante reported last night he had spoken to three boys last Thursday on a yacht off San Geronimo Island, 220 miles south of San Diego and 700 miles south of Santa Cruz.

Coast guardmen doubted that it was the trio but weren't "passing up any bets." The yacht Marina was white. The Tira, when it left Monterey, was black.

San Geronimo is along the 2,300 mile route from Santa Cruz to Cocos Island, pirate base of the Spanish sailing days, to which 17-year-old Lyle Tara, supposed leader of the runaway boys was known to have chartered a course.

Lew K. Poote, owner of the missing craft, said Tara and his crew—James Henniger, 17 and Bill Grace, 16—probably would have encountered no trouble except with navigation. Tara had a library book on the subject to guide him.

The Tira was stocked with six weeks provisions, 300 gallons of water, and enough fuel to run the craft.

PIGEON CARRIES PASS TO REST OF FAMILY

ROANOKE, Va., June 16 (AP)—A bird in the hand is worth two passes on the bus to a family living outside Roanoke.

Police Chief Art Hurst today authorized the Pampa Daily NEWS to announce his candidacy for sheriff of Gray county, subject to the Democratic primary election in July.

MAYOR CONGRATULATES RODEO QUEENS

HURST QUILTS POLICE POST

Police Chief Art Hurst this morning tendered his resignation to the city commission to become a candidate for the office of sheriff of Gray county.

Mr. Hurst was appointed police chief four years ago. His resignation will become effective tonight but he will remain in contact with the police department pending appointment of a successor and until cases on which he has been working have been cleared up.

"We regret the necessity of accepting the resignation of Chief Hurst," Mayor E. S. Carr said this morning speaking in behalf of the commission. "Since we took office as city commissioners, our association with the chief has been most pleasant. He has worked faithfully and diligently and we are sorry that he is severing his connections with the City of Pampa."

"I am resigning as police chief in order to make a more active race for the office of sheriff," Chief Hurst said in presenting his resignation. "My resignation is being made free of prejudice toward anyone. I have enjoyed my association with the city commission and have received every consideration from the members."

STORM BRINGS TOTAL RAIN TO 12.42 INCHES

Pampa's June rainfall climbed to 22.2 inches last evening when a thunderstorm passed over and dropped 0.4-inch of water into the Daily News government gauge at the KPND transmitter station.

Great dark clouds rolled high across the city and left spotted showers in nearby sections between 6 and 7:30 p. m. The local storm was accompanied by thunder and lightning and was followed by high winds which whipped the city for more than an hour after the rainfall.

The 1938 rainfall total for the Pampa area was boosted to 12.42 inches by last night's precipitation. The rain was not general, although almost all nearby points reported heavy clouds and electrical disturbances.

'BOB' BURNS DIES IN HOSPITAL IN DALLAS

Allen J. "Bob" Burns, 38, died in a Dallas hospital late last night following an illness of several months.

Mr. Burns was formerly assistant deputy supervisor of the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Funeral services for Mr. Burns will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in Sacred Heart cathedral in Dallas. Burial will be under direction of George Welland Funeral home where the body lies at rest.

Mr. Burns came to Pampa as assistant deputy supervisor in July of 1935 but ill health caused him to seek a leave of absence in February of this year. Before coming to Pampa, Mr. Burns was connected with the land department of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company in Amarillo.

He was popular with men in the oil and gas industry and was well known in Pampa and other towns in the Panhandle oilfield. Survivors are the widow, two sisters and a brother.

Pampa friends left today for Dallas to attend funeral services for the former resident.

Visitor Puts Punch Into House Farce

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Congress had its best laugh of the session in the closing week—a one-act farce in which a gallery visitor had the punch line.

The scene began with a discussion in the House yesterday of a bill by Rep. Strovich, Democrat, N. Y., to establish a federal Bureau of Fine Arts.

Rep. Short, Democrat, Mo., whose rich voice was heard in Czech mountain pulpits, took the floor, spread his arms and proclaimed, "All we need to do," he shouted, "with 12,000,000 people out of work, is to teach 'em dancing so we can restore prosperity."

CONGRESS SEEKS 75 PER CENT CROP RETURN

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Congress took steps today to assure farmers 75 per cent of a "fair return" on their major crops.

This was its objective in placing in the spending-lending bill a $212,000,000 fund for farm benefits in addition to the $500,000,000 previously voted for soil conservation payments.

Only Senate acceptance of a House formula for distributing the $212,000,000 among major crops was needed to send the measure to the White House.

PROSPECTS FOR GREAT WHEAT HARVEST DIM

CHICAGO, June 15. (AP) — The nation's brilliant harvest prospects of a fortnight ago dimmed somewhat during the first half of June, a survey of the farm belt disclosed today, but large crop production still is expected by grain experts.

Whereas an all-time record wheat production was forecast officially two weeks ago, most authorities believe now a big harvest comparable with average yields of recent satisfactory growing seasons is more likely, unless further unlooked-for crop damage occurs.

Because of spreading black rust, wet weather and discovery of frost damage inflicted earlier in the year many experts revised June 1 estimates of winter wheat production, some cutting as much as 100,000,000 bushels from their figures.

Harvest has revealed shriveled and unfilled wheat heads in many southwestern localities where combines already have been working. This situation, attributed partly to freeze and rust, has stirred up trade discussion as to how much of the wheat threshed would be millable.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—like new jobs, new girls, new life.
TERRY—like a hard-earned.
FERRY MALLOW—found love and kept it.

Yesterday, however, come to the Murray home, Joe loses his job, there is talk of closing the mill, and the Murray hopes fade away.

CHAPTER XV

JOE was grim these days, and Terry was silent. Her bland gaiety was impotent against this. Joe went out each day when Terry departed for work, and if he had nothing definite to attempt, he walked with her to the streetcar. He would have sat beside her in silence all the way to the mill if the carfare were not an extravagance. He was waiting for her when she alighted from the car at night, and they walked home together. When they arrived home he went furiously to work, either lightening or entirely relieving every task. He did not stay to do the work alone because he did not spend a minute alone there all the day.

He walked, walked, all the day. He went to the employment offices of the plants, where the "No Men Wanted" signs were waiting, leaning at him. He lay in waiting for bosses he knew and accosted them cheerily, uttering a set formula and hearing a set reply. He ranged mean streets downtown, eyeing people at work hungrily, resentfully, hatefully.

His mind was in the grip of a slow and morbid fever which showed only in the quiet grimness of his eyes. Terry looked at him and was frightened more at his eyes than all the menace of their plight. This was something she could not cope with either, could not beguile him out of; not all her wily charm could prevail against that grim stolidity.

Once when Joe was walking on the street a small and shiny and brand new roadster drew up at the curb just ahead and the driver got out to run into a house. He recognized Joe and waited. It was Tommy Withers, a bit older, sure of himself, prosperous looking, jaunty even in Joe Murray's sight after avoiding him so long. It was his big moment.

"How do you like the new gondola, Joe?"

then looked at the car. "Nice. Where did you get it?"

Withers was waiting for the question. "Just bought it."

"H'm," said Joe.

"Lined up a job at the new broadcasting station plant on Marshall street. Maintenance work. Steady; same old wage scale. You picked the wrong trade, fellow."

"You're an electrician?"

"Always was."

"Huh! Lucky break; not the trade," said Joe. "Glad somebody's getting it."

"Thanks!" And before going inside Withers added, "How's the missus?"

"Good!" said Joe, and walked on.

A SMALL incident, but significant. Small incidents make big thoughts, if not always right thoughts. Withers, whom Joe had once beaten ignominiously, waiting jauntily to show off before Joe, to patronize him. To patronize Joe Murray. Joe grimly, glumly, taking it, and though saying very little, irresistibly impressed, depressed. And then walking, walking. This man, Joe Murray.

He walked by night too. Not in the streets, on his lean legs, in corporeal reality, but in the mind, during the reaches of the night when Terry slept soundly in weariness beside him and there was no weariness to drug Joe. He walked far, alone. He walked even where he had no right, he knew, but far off things beckoned now, in a way which was an enchantment he could not withstand.

And when he had gone far, a certain distance, he was not alone any longer. So much had things changed, even to that extent; what was gone had returned. There was a sound of music and a familiar smell of earth in spring. There was many things; there was joy of working and sleeping and eating and loving, there was a genial, lusty and untroubled laughter, there was a light voice, a glint of sun, a perfume, a peace.

Helen! Polack! . . .

Once in the darkness he wept, silently. This man, Joe Murray.

THERE came an afternoon when, as he met Terry at the streetcar, there was a tension on Joe and a determination. She was quick to read him, quicker day by day. She hurried to join him and caught his arm, looking at him.

"You've got something to tell? News? Good news?"

"Wait till we get up the house," he said.

"Tell me. I can't wait."

"We'll go up the house," he said, and her eagerness vanished and she went along quietly. She knew it was not good news.

She did not urge him to talk when they were alone, and he found it a little more difficult than he expected. Her silence made it hard. He studied her as she went about, not looking at him, absorbed in putting away her hat, filling the kettle, opening a package.

"I found work," he said. Now she stopped and looked at him. "Where?"

"National Shipyards . . . at Port Lansing."

"I knew it," she breathed. "You want to go away?" She came to him. "Port Lansing is dead. There's no building. Why go there, Joe?"

"Refitting; refurnishing. There's work. Maybe permanent. An old buddy of mine has a big job there. I wrote to him, if there was an opening to give me the break. I just got an answer."

She started, then she said, "It's so far, Joe. We'd never see each other."

"It's a job."

"But . . . Joe, I can't let you go! What will I do?"

"It's a job, Terry," grimly.

A terror was growing in her. "No, Joe! Stay here with me. We'll make out somehow. You'll get a job here. The contracts will be renewed, the plant will open."

"The money is almost gone. There's only a few days' emergency money left. Your job isn't safe—and it can't keep us both. And there's my old pay waiting for me down at Port Lansing."

Terry lost all control. Here her art, her management collapsed. For the first time, she became impetuous, she wept, she pleaded. She grasped at straws, promising to do anything for him, to slave, to manage, to do all the worrying. She would beg for him, steal for him. She must have him, without him she was helpless, worthless, utterly undependable. All kinds of disaster would come to her.

His face was set. He argued stolidly, patiently. He reviewed the reasons; he'd likely get away to come see her occasionally. Then he ceased answering. Then suddenly he shouted at her to shut up.

"I'm going! Don't make it any worse than it is. There's not a damned thing left to do. If I could take care of you better, I would—down there I'll send you money every week and keep a roof over your head!"

"I don't want a roof over my head . . . ah alone."

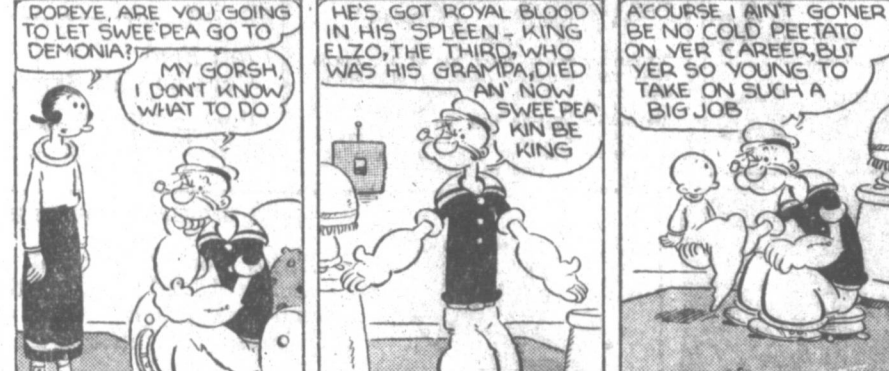

He swore and grabbed up his hat and made for the door.

ICC MEMBER PREDICTS RAILROAD SALVAGING

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—B. H. Meyer of the Interstate Commerce commission predicted today the United States probably faces the greatest railroad salvaging operations in history unless there are basic changes in the carriers' status.

The Commissioner expressed his view in dissenting from an ICC decision denying the Associated Railways Company permission to acquire and dismember the bankrupt Minneapolis and St. Paul railroad.

Adverse action on the application, Meyer contended, "avoids certain present losses, but it makes certain greater losses in the future."

GLEMENGYZ REFUSED RAPE-CONVICTED PAIR

AUSTIN, June 16 (AP)—The State Pardon Board today unanimously refused to recommend clemency for Mark Henry Calhoun of Dallas County and Tommie Wells, a Texas railroad milage of the country can be preserved.

Calhoun, 18, was convicted in Dallas County for raping a 13-year-old white girl in October 1937 and Wells, 23, was convicted in Bowie County for the same offense on a young married white woman.

Regarding the Bowie County case, the board asserted that a short time before commission of the offense Wells called at the woman's home, "begged for and was given food by her."

MEDICS TOLD TO SOLVE INDIGENT CARE CRISIS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16 (AP)—The American Medical Association exhibited little concern today over the declaration of a government representative that the public would take into its own hands the matter of supplying medical care for the indigent unless doctors themselves helped to solve the problem.

Dr. Warren F. Draper, an assistant surgeon general, delivered the message before the association's house of delegates in an executive session yesterday. He spoke for Miss Josephine Roche, head of the government's interdepartmental committee to coordinate health and welfare activities.

WOMEN BEDECK LAPELS WITH FISHING GADGETS

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)—Women this summer have taken a tip from fishermen to catch their fisher man.

Gaily colored be-feathered fish hooks and trout flies were noted today among the new decorative gadgets for the lapels of tailored suits and sport coats.

And it looks like the lady of fashion will "shell out" for shells this season. Necklaces, bracelets, clips, even hat-pins, have been fashioned of seashells.

Dainty flat fan-shaped shells about the size of a half-dollar in natural finish or dyed pastel tints, and highly polished, were attached in a series to a chain to make an interesting novel necklace.

A solitary well-formed and highly polished shell of the same type was used as a pendant on a chain finished in gold. Assorted small seashells were strung into a rope-like necklace with bracelet to match.

GIRLS, WOMEN URGED NOT TO WALK ALONE

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—Texas girls and women were warned by the State Pardon Board today not to walk alone at night on residential sections streets even though they are well lighted.

The warning was contained in the board's report against clemency for Mark Henry Calhoun, 18, negro sentenced to death for raping a Dallas girl whom he seized while she was en route home from a picture show only a few blocks away.

"The horrible experience of this young girl," the board said, "should be a warning to all girls and women of the danger they may encounter while walking alone at night on residential streets, although they may be well lighted."

LET DISCREDIT BE GIVEN WHERE DISCREDIT IS DUE

Probably it would be hard to find an American who is not in complete sympathy with the protests the government has made recently against aerial bombing of populous cities. No matter what excuses may be advanced, that kind of bombing is a crime against humanity—and every American knows it.

Yet it is extremely important for us to realize just who the enemy is, when we make these protests. It would be the worst kind of folly for us to let these bombing outrages persuade us that the Japanese people (for example), or the residents of rebel-controlled Spain, or the great mass of Italians and Germans, are bad and vicious and cruel and inhuman.

Those are people like ourselves. Some of them are good sorts and some of them are not so good. Taken by and large they are neither much better nor much worse than we are. As individual human beings they like the idea of bombing women and children no better than we like it.

The real enemy is the militarist—the army man who has succumbed to the idea that no price is too high to pay for victory, who feels that any conceivable method of beating down one's foe is legitimate if it works. And that gentleman is not the exclusive possession of any country. He can be found everywhere.

If you hate these bombing raids (as you undoubtedly do) that man is your enemy—whether he wears the uniform of the Japanese, the Germans, the Spanish, or the Americans.

He is your enemy because he has no conception of what civilization means. He is willing to use in warfare weapons which mean that the entire world is the loser, whoever gains the immediate victory. He is blood brother to the old Assyrian monarchs who used to boast about the piles of mutilated corpses they erected outside of conquered cities.

And it is important to get his identity fixed, for two reasons. First, there is no sense in letting our indignation at the bombing outrages set up in us an antagonism to some specific nation. The road to war is built on just such antagonisms. Once you believe that some particular people are cruel and conscienceless, you are practically ready to fight them.

Second, the militarist exists because we let him exist. When we shrug our shoulders at some bit of war-time barbarism and say, "Well—that's war, and it can't be helped," we hold up his hand. The only way to stop him is to denounce him and his philosophy, in season and out of season—to denounce him, and not the particular nation he happens at the moment to be working for.

Only in that way can we stop this frightful growth of savagery.

THE PERILS OF SUMMER

For the benefit of those people who have jobs to take vacations from this summer the United States Public Health Service has issued a list of hints for the preservation of health away from the office.

- The service advises: Wear light clothing, but watch out for the sun. Be careful of the food you eat and the water you drink. Protect your eyes. Avoid mosquitoes, flies, and wood ticks. Drink salty water in hot weather. Which is all right as far as it goes. But also, vacationists: If you want to keep your health: Don't give lifts. Don't accept them. Don't use tree stumps as ash-trays. Don't tell the cop the traffic rules in your town make more sense. Don't try to carry away the hotel towels. Don't tell your wife how she looks in knickers.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY County and precinct politics took final form with the completion of filings for positions on the ballots for the Democratic primary.

Just one day after the permit was granted allowing the Santa Fe railroad to take over the Kell railroad from Pampa to Cheyenne, Oklahoma, a contract was signed with the Flick Construction Company of Chicago, to build the road.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY The Pampa Kiwanis Club planned to observe "All Kiwanis Night" at the Schneider hotel. They were to join the 1873 other clubs in the United States and Canada for a simultaneous meeting.

A group of Santa Fe officials stopped in Pampa for 39 minutes and were met by many local citizens.

Tex's Topics

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out without employment, and without the prospect of it."

"In France, the political cauldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly disturbed relations in China. It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference—which happily, no man pretends to feel—in the issue of events."

"Of our own troubles (in the U. S. A.) no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously despair. And yet the very haste to be rich which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity."

EDITOR'S NOTE: When worrying too much about today remember that the editorial above is reprinted from HARPER'S Weekly, Vol. 1, page 642 of the issue dated Oct. 10, 1857—81 years ago.

And that is what is titled, "Antidote For Worry." . . . It was submitted by a reader of the News. . . . It has been reprinted frequently of late, but it still fits a situation and may serve to bring you to the realization that this is not the first time that conditions have been written about. . . . You might paste it in your scrap book and dig it up again in 20 or 30 years. . . . No doubt it will be just as fitting and proper then.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Likelihood that the government will buy surplus supplies of clothing for distribution to people who can't afford to pay for any, as proposed by Sidney Hillman, reflects growing determination in Washington to provide "over-produced" necessities of life for those who lack them.

The plan considered by WPA officials for men's clothing would operate similarly to the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, which will be rapidly expanded. The FSCC program, under which surplus food is bought for distribution to relief families, has cost $160,000,000 in five years.

Latest FSCC plan, as yet unannounced, calls for purchases of cotton to be made into quilts and bed ticking for needy families. Greatly increased distribution of milk for babies, who now go without is also being considered by Secretary Wallace, who believes families of unemployed workers should be assured adequate nourishment and clothing, stresses the importance of fruits, vegetables, poultry products for such families.

All this is the exact opposite of the massacre of the "little pigs." The aim in all programs and proposals for free distribution is to avoid displacement of any sales which might otherwise be made by retail stores. Clothing manufacturers, operating less than 40 per cent normal and suffering from price cuts, are as enthusiastic over the Hillman plan as farmers have been over FSCC operations. Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and influential at the White House, also designed his plan to benefit retailers as well as to restore employment in the clothing industry.

Biddle Back Again. Francis Biddle, the slender, quick-witted and industrious Philadelphia lawyer selected as counsel for the TVA investigating committee, was chosen almost unanimously after the committee had questioned him at length. The vote was eight to one. All Democratic members and two Republicans favored Biddle. Senator Jim Davis of Pennsylvania, who had telephoned Biddle to come to Washington, didn't vote on the ground that "we're from the same state." Congressman Tom Jenkins of Ohio, TVA critic, cast the only vote against Biddle.

Biddle, a lifelong liberal and once secretary to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, admitted he had graduated from Groton and Harvard and that his firm represented corporations such as the Pennsylvania Railroad. Although Jenkins reported Biddle wasn't "much of a lawyer," the latter impressed the committee.

Chairman of the old National Labor Relations Board in the NRA period, Biddle left Washington indignant because Roosevelt—advised by Donald Richberg—had interfered with the board and failed to support it. A member of Philadelphia's first families, Biddle has demonstrated independence, bravery, ability and willingness to express himself freely and frankly.

As a gesture of protest against Japan nobody at a recent Chicago wedding wore a scrap of silk. This is something the entire south should cotton to.

Efforts to settle a strike at an eastern carpet factory are getting nowhere. The management feels that the strikers' viewpoint is warped, and all the latter will do is grumble, "Wool!"

Illustrating That Railroad Problem

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I always wanted to be a drummer boy—but not any more. I found out from Charlie Carroll, Al Donahue's drummer boy. The first man in the band to arrive and the last to leave is the drummer. If he has all the instruments he must have to be a good drummer, it takes a ten-ton truck to move him. And his instrumental overhead would make a violinist with a brace of Strads look like a penny-pinching piker.

One of the dustiest jokes around a band is for the boys to gather around and watch the drummer set up or "break down" and wisecrack: "Aren't you sorry you didn't study the flute?"

I was not alone in that business of wanting to be a drummer boy, though. With some, it has developed into something more than a boyhood ambition. The Duke of Windsor, for example. In his Prince of Wales days, he never could resist the temptation to step into the band and beat off a tattoo. Bill Leeds, the tin plate millionaire, is another who likes amateur drumming and Harold Lloyd, who has ratted in some of the best orchestras in Hollywood—and Jackie Cooper—and Frank-veloz, who Yolanda tells me—often misses a dance step when they glide by the drum stand.

Charlie Carroll says being pushed out of the drummer's seat by drummajors is just another thing that a fellow has to put up with. But, diplomat that he is, though only 21 years old, Charlie adds hastily that he's not troubled that way by guests at the Rockefeller's Rainbow Room where Donahue is now playing.

Charlie was the youngest of the big-time band drummer boys until Dave Tough came along with Benny Goodman. Dave's only 19. Charlie has three other distinctions: (1) The boys all call him "Buttercup." (2) He's a Flatbush, Long Island, boy who made good, and (3) he's 5 feet 10 and weighs only 110 pounds.

He has everything in his layout but kettle drums and he's taking lessons on them now—from Bill Gladstone, the boom-boomer in the Radio City Music Hall orchestra. He practices two hours a day—and I thought all you had to do was hit those things, Charlie practices on rubber pads so he won't disturb the neighbors. I know a piccolo player I wish would practice the same way.

There's a whole lot more to being a drummer than just beating a drum.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M. D.

When a patient consults his doctor, they should both take an oath to consider the man, the whole man and nothing but the whole man. Such an oath might keep us from focusing our attention upon separate issues, organs and systems, to the gross disadvantage of the whole man.

It would be well also to consider disease diagnoses—for example, tuberculosis, heart disease, kidney disease—as symbolic terms convenient to indicate the focal point at which disease attacks the whole man.

The unmarried woman of 50 who comes to her doctor with symptoms of an ailing heart is likely to resent his "puzzling" questions on how well she accepts her state of single blessedness. If the doctor ventures further, affixed and asks about her relations to her parents, her friends or her work, she is likely to bring him up short with "But, Doctor, it's my heart that ails, and not my relations."

And yet, in this hypothetical case it is more than likely that organically the heart is sound and

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGM.

Note to Jess Morris of Dalhart who won first prize of $7.50 in the old time fiddlers contest: The Jaycees sent you your check yesterday. They didn't start paying prizes and bills until Monday and it took a day to get around to yours. The Roving Reporter received your letter in which you wondered if they were holding up your check because "they think I'm not an old-time fiddler." No, it was up to the judges to determine who won the contest. The judges picked you—that's all there was to it. The Jaycees had no opinion in the matter.

Mr. Morris in his letter to the R. R. admits he is a note-fiddler and says also he is a breakdown fiddler. "I came to Amarillo in 1891—47 years ago and lived and worked on my father's ranch west of Amarillo, and played the fiddle from the time I could reach the neck of a fiddle. Am an old XIT cowboy. Studied music in Austin in 1900 and Valparaiso, Ind., from 1911-13. . . . Played breakdowns all my life and have played for dances around Pampa before there was much Pampa. I have played in fiddlin' contests all over the country for the last 45 years. . . . I put Old Paint to music and sent it to John Lomax (famed collector of folk songs) at Dallas 12 years ago. A lot of the old time fiddlers have practiced on about three tunes all their lives, and want all the old time fiddlers to play these tunes. At all other fiddlin' contests that I have played for, they have allowed me to sing my Old Paint while playing it. . . . Anyway there are no hard feelings on my part, and I'm glad I was at your Fiesta and hope you come to ours."

Do all of you old time fiddlers agree with Mr. Morris? This question is always raised at an old time fiddlers contest: should a note-fiddler compete with a breakdown fiddler? What do you old time fiddlers think about the matter? Air your opinions in a letter to the R. R.

A Current Statement

The screen, hampered by fear of international market complications and reprisals for future product, has never gone so far in frank statement of its theme. There have been many anti-war pictures (most notably "All Quiet on the Western Front") but until now there has been none to grapple with a conflict currently at its bitterest. It is one thing for the screen to agree with Sherman concerning the late World War, and another thing for it to speak right out in meeting concerning what goes on in Spain—indirectly, for that matter, in China.

Directed by maximum dramatic and emotional effect by William Dieterle—the parade of peasant mothers' faces is unforgettable—"Blockade" is aided by the sensitive performances of its stars, by the smooth work of Halliday, the lightning influence of Leo Carrillo, fine supporting performances by Regina Denry and many others and especially by the musical score of Werner Janssen. John Howard Lawson's screen play, of course, is exceptional.

That such symptoms as the patient reveals are due to her anxieties and inability to adjust effectively to the life she must lead. Even where organic disease does exist, the psychological and emotional phases of the patient's life must be considered.

This was shown at the Mandel clinic of the Michael Reese hospital in Chicago, where it was found that peptic ulcer patients are best treated by a combination of medical and psychological therapy. The fundamental traits of the peptic ulcer patient, their sexual adjustment, industrial adjustment, reaction to society, economic position and so forth were studied. Treatment provided hygienic re-education (instructions as to rest, relaxation and diet) and suitable psychotherapy.

The anxiety states were dissipated by developing within the patient a better insight into the nature of his difficulties and by helping him obtain a more wholesome attitude toward himself and his disease.

The authors of this study, Drs. Jacob Meyer and J. Kasanin, believe it is "very doubtful whether one can hope for complete relief of symptoms of peptic ulcer in a maladjusted individual."

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, June 16 (AP)—If a wasp gets in your eye while you are driving an automobile, apparently it is an act of God. At least that is the view the Department of Public Safety takes. The department classifies as acts of God those traffic accidents the causes of which cannot be ascribed to human errors.

There were three such accidents in Texas in April, the department reports.

- 1. A driver was stung in the eye by a wasp.
- 2. A sudden flurry of snow during a blizzard in the Panhandle caused the driver to lose control.
- 3. A house being moved on rollers sideswiped an automobile.

"How else," asks Ralph Buell, chief on the department's drivers license bureau, "would you classify such accidents, except as acts of God?"

The report notes that slowness, as well as speed, sometimes causes traffic accidents. Speed is listed as the primary cause of 87 mishaps in April while driving too slowly for conditions on certain roads is blamed for two.

The general assumption is that automobiles run into or over pedestrians, yet the report says, this isn't always the case. Seventeen instances of pedestrians running into cars are reported.

The chief cause of accidents was said to be failure to observe right of way rules. A total of 113 accidents were reported due to such failure.

In 89 cases the driver or the pedestrian was said to have been drinking. In 23, the driver fell asleep, and in 23 more wasn't giving proper attention to his driving.

The press agent for a gubernatorial candidate says it's not only a difficult proposition to get people to weigh the merits of various seekers of the governorship but there are some folks in Texas who don't even know who's running.

The publicity representative said he asked someone recently about the local sentiment toward this year's candidates for governor and the man replied: "I don't know who's running for governor but we want a change. People around here aren't going to vote for Alired this time."

In another locality a man told the press agent he was against "that feller McGraw" because he's had it long enough.

There is a question in some Capitol circles that the question whether Gov. James V. Alired will be appointed to the judgeship of the new federal court to be set up in South Texas might be well matched by this one: "How afraid of Alired is U. S. Senator Tom Connally?"

Some persons believe Alired might decide ultimately to oppose Senator Connally for re-election two years hence and for this reason they think Connally would not mind using his influence to pigeon-hole the governor by appointment to the federal bench.

The appointment will be made by Roosevelt, who under ordinary circumstances would merely name someone on whom Senators Connally and Morris Sheppard had agreed. But the Senators assiduously are sharply disagreed, and in this situation it is suggested the governor might have a good chance to share the prize.

If the President cannot appoint either of the Senators favorites without offending one Senator, then, it is said, the field of selection might be broadened. Vice President Garner called on for advice and a compromise name advanced.

It is suggested that the President knows Gov. Alired well, likes him and would welcome the opportunity to give him the prized appointment. It is recalled the governor named Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, to the board of regents on Texas A. & M. College. Alired allegedly has been offered several federal jobs which would

RULERS' ENEMY

Here is a paragraph worth repeating on our economic problems written by Harry Scherman in his book, "The Promises Men Live By."

"If, as an individual, you really have some concern about the best way to change our present world to a better one, not a bad principle to follow is to identify the enemy. It should not be true, but unfortunately it is, that your immediate enemies remain, as they always have been, your rulers. At all times, it is a wise thing to suspect both their intellectual honesty and their economic intelligence. Nothing can be lost, everything can be gained, by doing so. Make them prove themselves in these respects—and be utterly ruthless in your judgment when they seem most plausible in your particular interests; it is not a bad course to suspect their intelligence the most. They are, in these days, the managers of a highly complex world. You have placed them in this management, and you acquiesce in it. But, unfortunately, they give not the slightest indication of being any more capable in handling the affairs of masses of men than rulers have been through all history."

"But how can you judge them, as their every act and word should be judged without fair standards? You must know how the society operates, as well and better than they do, to judge them properly. Here there is a simple general formula of action which, if it may not be the best one, is good enough for anybody to follow, in whatever station of life he may be. You must make an untiring effort to understand the economics of this world in which you live, and neither be content nor discouraged until, in honesty, you can feel that your comprehension is not too unclear. Not so unclear, at any rate, that you must ever take the word of a politician as to the wisdom of any social policy suggested."

I used to hate the idea of losing my hearing, but think of the non-sense you miss! —RUFERT HUGHES, novelist.

Christianity and democracy stem from the same source. —REV. WILLIAM F. WEFER, of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

He has taken him outside the state where he didn't want to go and which he turned down.

Under these circumstances, some speculate that if Connally, fearful of a battle from Alired in 1940, should support the Governor for the judgeship the latter would get the plum. These say Connally's influence might be the deciding factor.

Sheppard probably wouldn't object to the governor, if he couldn't get the man he picked, and Alired also is said to be on excellent terms with the Vice President.

All such speculation runs up against the opinion held by others that Alired simply hasn't the pull with the powers in Washington to get the judgeship and that Connally isn't sufficiently apprehensive on opposition to help him get it.

Alired told Press correspondents who asked him about revived reports he would be named to the bench of the new court that he had no information on the subject. However, the answer did not end the speculation. Persons familiar with the manner in which important positions as a federal judgeship are filled figure Alired probably would have given such an answer regardless of what he knew.

There is little doubt he would be quite receptive to the appointment. The position pays $10,000 a year for life and even if he should retire from the bench later to practice law a few years tenure there would greatly enhance his prestige as an attorney.

JOHNNY VANDER MEER PITCHES SECOND NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME IN ROW

NIGHT GAMES INAUGURATED IN BROOKLYN

By SID FEDER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Johnny Vander Meer moved into baseball's hall of fame last Saturday. Not only did he lead The Cincinnati Reds' 23-year-old southpaw fastballer, in his first full year in the major leagues, reached a new all-time pitching high last night in Brooklyn by hurling his second no-hit, no-run game in a row.

That's something not even the Mathewsons, the Johnsons, the Youngs ever did.

In all baseball history, only eight pitchers ever have turned in two no-hit games over their entire careers. None ever had come thru with two in one season.

And now, along comes young Johnny, who started his baseball in a church league near his home in Midland Park, N. J., and then was given the go-by from three big league teams, and pitches two no-hitters in consecutive appearances.

All in the space of four days.

Last Saturday, pitching against the Boston Bees, he hurled the first nine-inning National league no-hitter since Daffy Dean turned the trick in 1934. Last night, he repeated against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

6-9, before a sellout crowd of 38,748, which packed Ebbets field to see major league night ball inaugurated in the metropolitan area.

Eight men reached base, all on walks, as his mates fielded perfectly, but Johnny pitched his way right out of every pinch. Even in the ninth, when, with one out, he loaded the bases on consecutive walks to Babe Phelps, Cookie Lavagetto and Dolph Camilli, the Dodgers' "murderers' row," he got hold of his control again to finish the job.

In that spot, he forced a runner at the plate for the second out, and got Lippy Leo Durocher to fly to center on a two-and-two pitch to end the game.

Except for that one inning, only one other Brooklyn runner got as far as second base against the six-foot, 160-pounder and his fireball, as he posted his seventh win of the year against two defeats.

As early as the fourth, Johnny had a hunch he might repeat his no-hit job. There must have been something in the way the Brooklyners were swinging, or, possibly, because his father and mother were in the stands, and "Pop" was seeing his first big league game.

"My arm felt as fine at the finish as it did at the start," he said after the game, and then left for his parent's home in Jersey.

No-hitters are nothing new to Johnny. During his sandlot days around home, he pitched five in one season, three of them in succession.

His classy performance, which was made easier when Buck McCormick's three-run homer put the finishing touches on a four-run game winning rally in the third inning, completely overshadowed two other first-rate pitching jobs on yesterday's program. Jim Tobin, the Pittsburgh Pirates' young right-hander, hurled a five-hitter in whitewashing the New York Giants, 2-0.

The defeat, however, didn't cut the Giants' league lead any, since Deacon Danny MacFadyen duplicated Tobin's trick against the second-place Chicago Cubs to give the Boston Bees a 2-0 victory. Not a man passed first base against Danny.

Over in the American league, the Cleveland Indians retained their half-game lead over the New York Yankees when both came from behind to score victories. The Tribe snapped a five-game losing streak to top the Senators 6-4. The Yanks stretched homer as the Athletics made it two straight over the Tigers, 7-6. Jimmy Fox walked No. 19 to place the Boston Red Sox to a 7-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Cardinals collected 16 hits to win a 9-7 slugfest from the Phillies.

Henderson Wins Sixth Victory In Seven Starts

(By The Associated Press)

The leaders held the pace in the East Texas league last night but the Henderson Oilers proved the big noise by climbing into fourth place on the strength of a streak of six victories in seven starts.

The top-hand Marshall club won over Tyler, 13-8, taking advantage of the wildness of Trojan hurlers in the early innings and clubbing the ball justly the remainder of the way. It was Tyler's seventh straight loss.

Second place Texarkana ran over Longview, 15-4, bouncing three Cannibal pitchers for 18 hits. Henderson's 3-0 win over Jacksonville brought the Oilers within 2½ points of the third-place Cannibals.

Greg Lippold held Jacksonville to four hits and rarely was even threatened.

Palestine beat Kilgore, 5-3, behind the steady pitching of Frank Narbut.

Nagurski Wins Over Savoldi In Wrestling Show

LOS ANGELES, June 16 (AP)—Two ex-football stars met in a wrestling match here last night and after one fall Bronko Nagurski, 220, ex-Minnesotan, was declared the winner over Joe Savoldi, 215, formerly of Notre Dame.

Savoldi buried Nagurski against the ropes with a drop kick and then essayed another. He missed his mark and crashed into the ropes, falling back on his head. Nagurski pinned him to the mat and it developed the former Notre Dame fullback was so badly hurt he was unable to continue.

The match, which lasted 29 minutes, 12 seconds, was witnessed by 9,500 fans.

VETERANS OVER 40 YEARS OLD STAR TEXAS LEAGUE LINEUPS

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, June 16 (AP)—Overlooked, perhaps, by fickle fans who scan their box scores to keep tab on the up-and-comers, is a little bunch of Texas leaguers in the evening careers spotted with diamond drama.

Baseball's breaks, the kind that sent Schoolboy Rowe and Daffy Dean back to the Texas league a decade too early, landed some of the old-timers in the circuit. Others started, and are finishing, on the same ground.

Warm weather and blazing sunshine, the tonic that keeps some of the veterans going, isn't even available for the ancients. Night baseball is their lot.

Only yesterday, it seems, freckled Willy Moore, the nervous Texan who started out in the old Texas-Oklahoma league in '22, was hurling the New York Yankees to world series triumph. He's 41 now; closing up shot with Oklahoma City. A great pitcher was Cy Moore.

Haven for veterans is Fort Worth. Wizenard, crafty Jackie Reid confessed to being 40. He's probably older. But his floating sinker is still good and he's won eight and lost six. At least 37 is Ed Greer, but he ranks second in innings pitched and can wear out most of the youngsters. Only a few nights ago Manager Homer Peel, streaked across left field to the edge of the bleachers for a foul that ended the ball game; gave his Cats victory. Last year he was the batting champion.

Whitworth Finished

Who can forget Lee Stebbins and his bulging tobacco quid? He's still doing a great first basing job for Fort Worth at 35 and hitting better than 300 to date. But the veteran of them all, Dick Whitworth, the railroad brakeman, finally ended his 16 years in baseball. Fort Worth cut the 45-year-old hurler adrift recently after many years of memorable relief pitching.

Thirty four years is past the baseball expectancy but Ash Hillin, Oklahoma City, is just beginning to get the feel of pitching. He won 32 last year, has bagged ten so far this season. And little Sal Glatto of Dallas, at the same age, has won nine and lost five with a feeble team.

So ball players are through at 34? On top the batting averages, a lusty near 305 average, besides his name, you'll find Paul (Pound 'Em) Easterling of Houston, ten years a Texas leaguer. In that 34 bracket also goes Ernie Holman, still tops among third basemen and hitting close to 300 for Tulsa.

16 Years For Todt

Noticeably wearing, however, is one of the truly grand veterans, Phil Todt, once one of the smoothest first basemen. He's missing a few of the pickups now at Dallas, and his once loud bat is talking in a whisper now, but Phil Todt, since his 1923 days at San Antonio, has seen 16 years of baseball service that dropped him in the big leagues several seasons. Thirty eight may be the final number, for Jack Mealey, seems to be closing his fine catching career with Tulsa. He's batting less than 200.

Still a winner at 35 is Jack Brillheart, Oklahoma City pitcher, who can point to an eight-and-four record to date. And Jim Keesey, Oklahoma City manager-first baseman, still has the feel. He's batting close to 300—and in the pinches—and fields well.

Luther Red Harvel, back with Shreveport, makes kid pitchers quiver when he shakes his bat at them, and he's a good 33. George Miltstead at 34 has won six for Tulsa; Ira Smith, 33-year-old Houston player-manager, had won three and lost two, and Art Scharein, San Antonio's third baseman, shows few signs of cracking at 32.

There are other so-called old-timers in the league, still plodding along. Most of them skip a birthday every now and then. It's O. K. though—it's a meal ticket they have earned.

THOMAS WILL MEET GERMAN MONDAY NIGHT

The meeting between the American and German army representatives will be staged Monday night at the Pampa Athletic arena when Soldier Gomer Thomas of Vancouver, Wash., meets Count von Bromberg of Bergin, Ger. in a main event wrestling match. The battle was scheduled for three weeks ago but the German failed to arrive.

This time Promoter Cliff Chambers had put von Bromberg under bond to appear and the wrestling commissioner has warned him that failure to appear will cost him his license. The German said he got lost in a rain storm enroute here for his previous match and ended up in Childress.

Gust Johnson, conqueror of all before him, will meet Blacksmith Fedigo in the semi-final. The opener will send Don Hill against sterling "Dizzy Ropes" Davis who was shunted back to the preliminary last week by Mr. Johnson. Hill asked for a preliminary to become more acclimated before stepping up. He went to a sensational draw with Andy Tremaine last week.

A few fans have been howling that Thomas and von Bromberg aren't evenly matched because of the German's rough tactics but the Yank announced that tactics wouldn't make any difference in this battle because he was going to look after himself and his army.

Thomas has been improving so rapidly that last week he gave Fedigo the worst of the argument in a draw battle. He has developed more speed, new holds and some tricks that are doped to make the rough German sit up and take notice.

Mrs Winger Seeks 3rd Straight Title

AMARILLO, June 16 (AP)—Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth, seeking her third straight championship, tangles with Mrs. D. H. Cullton of Amarillo in the first round of match play today in the fourth annual golf tournament of the Women's West Texas Golf Association.

Mrs. Winger yesterday won medalist honors with a 79 to lead a field of 64. Mrs. Cullton qualified with an 89.

Other first round matches included: Mrs. Gordon Phillips, Big Spring, 91, vs. Mrs. C. E. Worrall, Farwell, 88; Mrs. J. W. Ross, Amarillo, 84, vs. Mrs. W. K. Powell, San Angelo, 81; Mrs. Harry Stalcup, Big Spring, 84, vs. Mrs. W. C. Garre, Amarillo, 89.

HERE 'TIS, JOE

It's the same right hand that put the skids under Joe Louis two years ago. Max Schmeling smiles and unlimbers his most deadly weapon for all to see, upon his arrival in the United States. Louis wasn't there to greet him, but he knows all about that right. They meet for the second time at Yankee Stadium, June 22.

Guldahl And Mangrum Tied For Golf Lead

ST. LOUIS, June 16 (AP)—Ralph Guldahl and Matt Mangrum, tied for the lead, battled par shoulder to shoulder today to win to the final 36 holes of the Western Open Golf tournament.

They were teamed up in the pairings, thus making certain that the home stretch of the 38th annual event would be anything but a yawn. Mangrum, lanky Dayton, Ohio pro, eased into the spotlight virtually unnoticed yesterday by carding his second straight 72, over par, for a 144 total at the half-way mark. Guldahl, who topped the field with a par 71 at the 18-hole mark, meanwhile slid to a 73 in his second round.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Max Baer has just completed a movie short in Hollywood and is heading east to watch Louis and Schmeling, one of who he hopes to see a little more of in September. . . Three top flight golfers Johnny Revolta, Ralph Guldahl and Denny Shute have bought permanent homes in Florida. . . One New York magazine was so taken in with that spectacular story that Tony Galento might fight the gorilla Gartua that it called the Hippodrome to see if anything definite had come about it.

The boys up at Speculator where he once trained, got a big kick out of Gene Tunney's "store" English. . . One guy went up to Gene and said: "Mebbe you don't remember me, Mr. Tunney, but I'm the fellow who used to shine your shoes up at Lake George. . . "Quite so," replied the ex-champ, shoving out a hand. . . "So nice to see you again!" . . . Giant fans have labelled Alex Kampouris O. K.

Sports editor Alan Gould who is just back from covering the open at Denver, was tagged a colonel by Governor Ammons. . . They're experimenting with a new type football which may be the best. . . It is made over a wax form and has no seams. . . Which will make it doubly tough for Mr. Sam Baugh and the other pitchers to chuck. . . the forward passers will have to learn all over again. . . The ball has been tested on a kicking machine and sails through the uprights as true as a die. . . Coaches are said to favor it.

MIDLAND PARK, N. J., June 16 (AP)—Johnny Vander Meer went fishing today, "mighty pleased" over his two straight no-run, no-run pitching performances, but happier than all get-out over personal congratulations from Babe Ruth.

The Babe's "nice going kid," and handshake was the first greeting Johnny received when he finished his 6-0 no-hitter for the Cincinnati Reds against the Brooklyn Dodgers last night.

"And the Babe has always been my idol; believe me, that was the biggest kick of all," and this quiet youngster, who hasn't changed much from the lad who personified the "typical American boy" in a baseball movie a few years ago.

Johnny's home town fans in Midland Park, who lifted the local crowd and stayed up most of the night to celebrate his success, really got him his turn to pitch last night. They wired McKeechie that they wanted to make a "Johnny Vander Meer night" of it in Brooklyn, and would he please let Johnny pitch. Some 500 of them went over to see him. All agreed they got their money's worth.

UPIRE SIGNED
 SAN ANTONIO, June 16. (AP)—Mike Williamson, San Antonio, was signed by Guy Airey, president of the Texas Valley Baseball League, as an umpire for the South Texas circuit, it was announced here today. Williamson will officiate this afternoon in Harlingen.

COURT CALLS CONGRESS' ATTENTION TO DILEMMA

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16 (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board order against the Seattle Star for reinstatement of CIO union branch managers was upheld today by the ninth United States Circuit Court of Appeals which said the dilemma confronting the newspaper should be called to the attention of Congress.

The CIO circulation employees had been replaced by AFL teamsters, and as a result the American Newspaper Guild had called a strike against the Star, Carl E. Boston, Star attorney, arguing the case here May 17, declared teamsters would not haul the papers if the 19 CIO men were reinstated.

The discussion written by Justice Francis A. Garrecht that "respondent's contention in the last analysis is that it is subjected to great hardship, which should also have been dealt with by Congress. We think that such an argument should be submitted to Congress but not to us."

Gamblers Jump Odds 11-5 That Louis Will Win

By GAYLE TALBOT
 NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—The professional gamblers, impressed by a number of things, have jumped their odds from 8-to-5 to a juicy 11-to-5 that Joe Louis will retain his heavyweight championship in his 15-round fight with Max Schmeling next Wednesday night at Yankee stadium.

That is somewhat disconcerting to those of us who already are well out on the Schmeling limb, even though the odds-layers lately have been dead wrong more often than right.

The previous odds of 7-to-5 and 8-to-5 no more than the customary "feeler" quotations offered in almost any champion's favor, but this 11-to-5 money means that Louis will enter the ring a pronounced choice of the wise boys, maybe as high as 3-to-1.

What caused the firming of the figures mostly was the fact that Louis finally opened his mouth the other day and said on his very own initiative that he intended to knock Schmeling out quick, perhaps in two rounds.

"That's enough to suit me," said one of the big bookmakers. "All I wanted to know was how Louis really felt about it. We've finally got that boy mad. That's the one thing he needed."

Lucia, Christener Meet In Finals

DALLAS, June 16 (AP)—Joe Lucia of Rice Institute met Warren Christener of the University of Texas today for the right to represent this section in the singles event of the National Interscholastic Tennis tournament at Haverford, Pa., in July.

The doubles finals, however, turned into an all-Texas U. affair with Bobby Kamrath and Edgar Weller meeting Christener and Paschall Walshall.

Schmeling To Rest Today, Tomorrow

SPECULATOR, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—With only three more ring drills scheduled before he climbs into Yankee Stadium ring against heavyweight champion Joe Louis Wednesday night, Max Schmeling took a rest today.

The German challenger will rest again tomorrow and then work Saturday, Sunday and Monday with his sparring partners. He went six fast rounds yesterday with Butch Rogers, Al Albin and Joe Mack and showed uncanny punching accuracy.

Texas cities are in the front in number and scope of air-conditioning installations in stores. In the nation, more than 700 department stores now have conditioned air as an aid to maintaining sales regardless of outside weather.

'DAFFY' DEAN AND CY MOORE TURN IN WINS

(By The Associated Press)

The embattled Tulsa Oilers swept back into the lead in the routing Texas league races last night but a couple of ex-big league pitchers, one of them battling for another chance under the main top, stole the show.

Paul (Daffy) Dean, who made baseball history with the St. Louis Cardinals, pitched Dallas to a 4-3 victory over Shreveport. It was Dean's second eight-hit game since joining the herd but went into the books as his first win under the Dallas banner.

Dean was sent to Houston this year in an effort to regain his effectiveness after an ailing arm dropped him out of the majors. He won one game and lost four for Houston and was turned back to the Cardinals who in turn sent him to Dallas.

Old Wiley Moore, another former star in the big leagues, rescued the Oklahoma City Indians from the San Antonio Missions, his relief pitching stopping the Padres with one hit in the last five and two-thirds innings as the Redskins won 7-6.

Tulsa took the last two games of the series from Beaumont to recapture the league lead. Last night the score was 2-0, Mike Christoff slinking a homer in the first inning with a runner on base to sew up the battle. Vern Olsen pitched five-hit ball for the Tulsans.

The aging Ed Greed made it a big night for old-timers by turning in a six-hitter against Houston as Fort Worth won the game, 3-0. Greer allowed but one batter to get as far as second base.
