BRIDE WINKS DURING RITES

NAHANT, Mass., June 18 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Roosevelt, for the moment at least the nation's top-ranking newlyweds, tonight slipped away for an unannounced honeymoon destination after a society wedding that combined solemnity and smiles, noise, color and pomp.

John and Anne could look back tonight on a marriage performed without the slightest slip. In the dusk of the 107-year-old union church here, contrasting with the bright noonday sunshine outside, the young couple moved through the solemnities of the Episcopal ceremony.

EX-SHERIFF BLANSSET ANNOUNCES FOR OFFICE

Lon L. Blanscet today announces his candidacy for sheriff of Gray county, subject to the Democratic primary July 23. In so doing he withdrew his name from the list of candidates for commissioner of precinct 3.

In making his announcement, Mr. Blanscet stated that he had not entered the race prior to this time because of his personal regard for the late Sheriff Earl Talley who was a candidate for re-election. In the past week, Mr. Blanscet said many friends of both had urged him to withdraw his candidacy for commissioner of Precinct 3 and to file his candidacy for sheriff.

Mr. Blanscet has been a permanent resident of Pampa since 1927. He served Gray county as its sheriff for two years, 1931 and 1932, and believes that the experience gained during that time and before and since then fits him for the office.

CREEK FLOODS FAIL TO SHAKE DAM PROJECT

Marked progress is reported on construction of the McClellan creek dam by Ted L. Smith, Senior Engineer of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, who made an inspection trip to the project late this week. Smith who is in charge of the development work of the Bureau located in Amarillo, indicated that damage done by recent heavy rains was slight on present construction but that time will be lost while forms are being straightened and the earth drying.

Pampa and the Panhandle last night lost one of its most beloved citizens and outstanding philanthropists in the sudden death of Robert "Uncle Bob" Dunlop, 69, who was found dead in his room in the Schneider hotel where he had made his home since coming to Pampa more than 10 years ago.

Death was caused by a heart attack, according to attending physicians. Mr. Dunlop was found by Alex Schneider about 7 o'clock last night when he went to Mr. Dunlop's room after learning that he had not eaten supper at his regular hour. It was reported that he had been dead about two hours.

Mr. Dunlop came to Pampa from Oklahoma in the spring of 1927 and became active in the oil business. He was the discoverer of the prolific Morse oil pool in central eastern Gray county where he had vast holdings.

Was Trail Driver He was not always in the oil business. In 1887 he was in this section of the Panhandle driving herds of cattle to Dodge City, Kan., then the location of the nearest railroad. He made the run opening the Cherokee strip. Later he was associated with W. G. Skelly in the famous Smackover oilfield.

In 1906 Mr. Dunlop entered politics, being elected county treasurer

FAULKNER TURNS DOWN CANDIDACY APPLICATION

A ruling that candidates for district offices in Texas must have their applications in the hands of the district or county chairmen on the last day for filing, and that the mailing of such applications on the last day is not sufficient, was made by the office of the attorney general in a letter received today by Siler Faulkner, chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive committee.

Faulkner had asked for a ruling on the matter when he received an application for a place on the primary ballot from L. P. Bonner of Vernon. Bonner mailed his application as candidate for a place on the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo.

Faulkner received the application June 7, the day following the last filing day, although the application bore a 9 p. m. postmark of June 6. It was pointed out by Faulkner that the ruling applies only to

HARVEST WILL START SOON

The bread bowl is preparing to receive the reaper. The wheat harvest will be under way soon. Despite drought, spring blizzards, hail, wind storms dust and grasshoppers, the Texas Panhandle will produce many a loaf. Grain men and county agents estimate the north plains production at 20,000,000 bushels.

Harvest has started in the Seymour and Wichita Falls areas and the fields on the south plains, in the Lubbock territory the rapidly turning from green to straw yellow. The peak of the south plains harvest, later this year than usual because of weather conditions, will be reached about July 1, and at about that time harvesting will be getting under way in the Panhandle.

In the Wichita Falls, Vernon and scattered south plains areas about 100,000 acres were seriously damaged by hail. Yields up to 20 bushels an acre are being predicted for the south plains, although production in general in that section likely will fall short of the yield in sections of the Panhandle.

Policemen Dismissed After Disagreement Over New Regulations

Service of three members of Pampa's night police force was abruptly terminated Friday night following disagreement over conforming to new rules and regulations announced by Police Chief J. I. Downs who assumed duties Thursday after the resignation of S. A. Hurst.

The rules announced when the night force reported for work Friday night dealt with activities of the men while on duty, and the frequency of inspection and checkup tours.

The three who were requested to turn in their badges, guns and other equipment after they disagreed with the new head of the police department on activities and duties of the night force were Assistant Chief Weldon Wilson, Desk Officer Spencer Crossman and Patrolman I. S. Jameson. It is understood that the men were represented at a conference with City Manager W. T. Williamson before the disagreement.

The police chief said Saturday that patrolmen to take their places had not been appointed, but that Jeff Guthrie and Lawrence Flaherty are filling in temporarily on the night force.

Patrolman W. C. Dillman and Traffic Officer Robert Irwin, working on the day shift, were not affected by the personnel change, the police chief stated.

After his appointment, Chief Downs instructed his officers to be more strict in the enforcement of the law.

OIL ACTIVITY HITS UPTURN

The Panhandle oilfield gradually throwing off its perverseness of present conditions in the oil industry showed continued activity last week with nine new locations, three in Gray, three in Hutchinson, two in Carson and one in Childress counties. With the exception of the Childress county test, all locations were staked in or on the edge of proven territory. The Childress wildcat is the L. O. McMillen No. 1 C. W. Furr in section 413, block H. Champion Pooch Rides Skyliner To Los Angeles

Mrs. Carolotta Buckler didn't give her blue-blooded Bedlington terrier a chance to outwit some express man and jump off the train between here and Los Angeles. No, sir. She had him sent back by plane. At English airport Friday night, C. P. Buckler, brother-in-law of the dog's mistress, tagged him and put him aboard a TWA skyliner to Los Angeles.

You'll remember that the dog, Laddie, which has a head like a sheep, broke away from a man at the Hotel Adams where Mrs. Buckler was stopping, and was lost four days here recently. She and scores of others combed the alleys and ravines around Pampa, and although many saw him and many chased him none could catch him. On June 7, Charles Mars cornered the roving pooch north of town after a four-mile chase and collected the $25 reward from Mr. Buckler who kept him until Friday. Mrs. Buckler hired an airplane to hunt for the dog here.

The dog was one of two purchased in England by Mrs. Buckler, a noted California artist. He won 22 blue ribbons in British shows. Mrs. Buckler left Pampa by auto June 6 for the West Coast.

MCRAW HITS PENSION PLAN

Declaring that aged citizens of Texas had been shunted around so much in the payment of old age assistance pensions that they didn't know whether they were "coming or going," William McCraw, attorney-general of Texas and candidate for governor, told Pampans Friday he proposed to put pension payments on a definite basis.

"Why it got so that when an investigator found a man with an extra pair of socks or a woman with an extra gingham dress, it was marked down as a luxury," the attorney-general said. "Pensions have been lowered and raised and changed so much that the situation is much that of 'on again, off again, gone again, Finnegan.'"

The average monthly pension payment throughout the United States is $20. Surely Texas could pay as much as the average, but we are $7 behind," McCraw said. The state's failure to provide adequate assistance to 200,000 old people is a reflection upon its generosity and integrity, he continued. "As governor, I propose to end the uncertainty and anxiety that grips our old people and see that the system is humanized and taken out of politics and all deserving old folks are paid adequately according to their needs without unreasonable demands or requirements upon their relatives and without destruction of their self respect."

Mr. McCraw's speech was delivered at 2 p. m. in the 100 block on North Cuyler and was broadcast over KPND. Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., introduced the attorney-general. It was the second speech of a candidate for governor Pampans had heard Friday, W. Lee O'Daniel having spoken here in the morning.

STATE CUTS ALLOWABLE OF PLAINS FIELD

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Texas oil producers received the surprising but cheering news today that statewide Saturday and Sunday oil field shutdowns would be lifted July 1.

The announcement was made by Ernest O. Thompson, state railroad commissioner and chairman of the interstate oil compact commission. Sunday closings began the middle of January and those on Saturday the second week of May. With the amount of oil in operation several million barrels less than a year ago and gasoline stocks showing a steady decline, it had been predicted Saturday closings would be terminated.

Gasoline stocks remained considerably higher than at the same time in 1937, however, and lifting Sunday shutdowns was entirely unexpected.

Thompson's announcement gave no indication of the size of the Texas production allowance for July. The current allowance, considering the Saturday and Sunday shut-ins, is nearly 1,000,000 barrels daily. Some reduction appeared certain inasmuch as the estimate by the United States Bureau of Mines of demand for Texas oil in June was only 1,325,000 barrels per day.

Railroad commission officials announced that the basic daily allowable June 16, not considering the shutdowns, was 1,200,000 barrels, a reduction of 200,000 barrels in the amount of the exercise of its new policy of maintenance cuts. The Panhandle allowance was cut back to 60,000 barrels, the same as on June 1 while that for North Texas was reduced to 50,000, compared to 81,700 at the start of the month. The Panhandle and North Texas allowances had grown to 84,175 and 85,869 barrels respectively June 15 because of well completions.

The new basic allowables for the other districts were announced yesterday. Evidence on which the commission will base its proration order for July will be received at the monthly statewide hearing here Monday.

WELL DRILLING CONTRACT LET

Drill of a fourth water well for Pampa will begin tomorrow morning. A contract was let Friday to D. L. McDonald, water drilling contractor of Amarillo, at a called meeting of the city commission.

Cost of the well, complete, will be $23,500 cash or $24,750 time warrants. Mr. McDonald will be allowed 40 days in which to complete the well. He began moving in equipment yesterday and told the commission that he expected to spend it early next week.

The contract calls for the drilling of a 10-inch test hole 300 feet deep. Total depth of the well proper will be 400 feet. The surface hole will be 24 inches with the hole then the water sand 36 inches. The contract also calls for a complete well with a maximum capacity of 1,200 gallons a minute. A 750-gallon a minute pump will be installed.

Location of the new well will be north of No. 2 well in Friesa park at the entrance of the price addition. According to the contract the well will be completed and in use for Pampa's peak consumption month which in the past has been August and part of September. Mr. McDonald is familiar with the tricky drilling conditions here having drilled two previous wells for the city.

BABE RUTH WILL TAKE OVER JOB OF COACHING DODGERS

SWATTER MAY SOON SUCCEED BOSS GRIMES

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Babe Ruth, the man that baseball forgot, came back to the big leagues today under circumstances as mysterious as they were unexpected.

The 44-year-old Babe emerged from three years of obscurity to serve as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers and will make his debut tomorrow when the Dodgers meet the Chicago Cubs in a double-header.

He signed for the balance of the 1938 season at a $15,000 salary. He would have laughed at that kind of money a few years ago when he was wielding a big bat with such deadly effect for the New York Yankees.

His last big league job went up in the smoke of controversy in 1935 when he quit a $35,000 post as vice-president, assistant manager and part-time player with the Boston Nationals.

But perhaps there's more in the deal than meets the eye.

Some baseball men predicted that Ruth would succeed Burt Grimes as manager no later than the start of the 1939 campaign.

There's no reason to doubt that Ruth, a baseball crowd pleaser for more than a score of years and an especial favorite of Brooklyn fans, will draw 'em in at Ebbets field just as he used to at the Yankee stadium, at least while the novelty lasts.

Officials of the Brooklyn club insisted, however, that Grimes will remain as manager and that Ruth was hired as a coach and nothing more.

Baseball writers tracked down the former home run king today at a golf tournament at the Leewood Country Club in Tuckahoe, N. Y.

"It's great to be back in the game," the Babe roared in that deep, bass voice of his. "I would have been back long ago if I had had a chance to hook on with some major league club. But what could I do? You can't make a guy give you a job. When I finally was offered one I grabbed it quick."

WEDNESDAY TO BE DEADLINE FOR ENTERING SOFTBALL LOOP

Wednesday night has been positively set as the deadline for entries in the Junior and Intermediate Softball leagues, according to J. G. Sturgeon who will have charge. Any club, store, church or individual desiring to place a team in either league should be at the meeting.

Exhibition games will be played now and date of league play, to be set at the Wednesday night meeting in the city hall.

Junior players must be under 18 years of age with intermediates between that age and 21. The Junior league will be affiliated with the National Veterans of Foreign Wars national softball division with each player registered. The VFW will conduct a state and national tournament and local teams will be eligible to participate in a tournament to determine state entries.

The Pampa Kiwanis club will donate a cup to the Junior team winning the league.

Kingsmill Team Will Attempt Comeback Today

Kingsmill's baseball team, after three straight defeats, will attempt a comeback against Hoover at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Kingsmill diamond.

The Kingsmill nine won their first five games but were stopped three weeks ago by a team of Pampa All Stars. Panhandle and Berger teams also downed the Kingsmill team.

Batteries were not announced last night, each team leaving the other in doubt as to whether additional pitching strength would be produced for the game.

Amarillo, McLean Polo Teams Will Play Game Today

The McLean and Amarillo polo teams will clash in a rubber game at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the McLean field south of the railroad tracks.

McLean won the first game and Amarillo took the second. McLean won the toss on the location of the third struggle.

Hub Burrow of Pampa, who has been playing for McLean, will again be in the lineup. The referee will be Dr. M. C. Owen, captain of the disbanded Pampa Rough Riders.

TEXAN BEATS FAST KANSAN

PRINCETON, N. J., June 18 (AP)—The flying feet of Wayne Rideout of North Texas State Teachers College flung cinders in the face of famed Glenn Cunningham today as the Texan raced to a new world record of 3 minutes, three-tenths of a second in the three-quarter mile run.

Cunningham, who had won the fifth Princeton invitation track and field meet mile event in 4 minutes, 72 seconds, failed by two yards to catch Rideout and score a double.

Rideout had taken the lead from Gene Venzke after the first quarter-mile lap.

The Texan's time cut one-tenth of a second from the previous world record of 3:04 set last year at Paris by Josef Morstert of Belgium. It was the lone record performance of the day.

Cunningham's time in winning the mile from Archie San Romani and three other runners equalled San Romani's performance here a year ago, when he won in a blanket finish with Don Lash.

Cunningham and San Romani were followed over the finish line by Morstert, who finished third in 4:11.9 to better the Belgian record of 4:13. Blaine Rideout, Wayne's twin brother, and Pete Bradley, of Princeton.

Wayne Rideout's surprise victory over a field that included, in addition to Cunningham, Venzke, Ralph Schwarzkopf of Michigan, Ray Mahannah, formerly of Drake, and Leslie Mitchell, New York school boy, there were no upsets.

Mrs. Winger Goes To Semi-Final

AMARILLO, June 18 (AP)—Mrs. R. E. Winger, Fort Worth's steady, two-time champion played the Amarillo Country Club today with her usual finesse to defeat a fellow townswoman, comely Miss Anna Bland Thompson, 3 and 2, and earned the right to compete for her third straight women's West Texas Golf title.

Mrs. Winger will meet sturdy, deliberate Mrs. Theron Hicks of Odessa, who took Amarillo's last hope in the top flight, Mrs. J. W. Ross.

Mrs. Hicks has been playing in the West Texas for three years, but until yesterday the sharp-shooting little lady never reached the final. Usually a slow starter, she began early to force the issue to Mrs. Ross today. She was 3 up at the end of the first nine.

Mrs. Winger stayed with her own game and although Miss Thompson put up a spirited battle all the way, she was 2 up at the turn. They played the 18 out and Mrs. Winger posted a medal score of 79, the same count which won medalist honors in the qualifying round on Wednesday.

Unless something unforeseen happens before tomorrow night, Soldier Gomer Thomas of Vancouver, Wash., and Count Siegfried von Bromberg of Berlin, Germany, will meet in a space 20 by 20 feet and exchange holds and blows, or at least the German will be on the sending end of the blows.

The two former army officers will meet in the main event wrestling match at the Pampa Athletic Arena for the unofficial army championship of the two countries. Opening event at 8:30 o'clock will see likable Don Hill meeting Sterling "Dizzy" Roper of Davis. The semi-final will be equally as spectacular with Gust Johnson and Blacksmith Pedigo in the ring at the same time.

All that will be for an admission of 65 cents, ringside reserve table paid, and 40 cents general admission. Ringside seats are now available at Creney Drug.

Von Bromberg has been out of the local wrestling picture for several weeks or since he became lost enroute to Pampa for a match. That was the time he was scheduled to meet Thomas and his failure to arrive on the scene angered Thomas and he demanded to be re-matched with the German.

Fans are wondering if Thomas will forget to stick to science and meet the bruising German at his own game of slugging, choking, and half-pulling. If he does, it will be all right with them.

Damaret Takes Texas Open Title

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
TYLER, June 18 (AP)—Smilin' Jim Demaret rolled in a 50-foot eagle put with all the chips down on the home hole to bag the Texas Open title today with a three-under-par 293 total for 72 holes.

One shot ahead of Henry Ransom, young Bryan professional, as they came to the finish hole after two days tramping over muddy Housatonic's hilly course, Demaret, Houston's Brue Bury Country Club professional, planted a beautiful iron second on the edge of the par-five ninth hole green.

Ransom methodically carding birdies and pars in a last nine effort to catch Demaret, stalled his second well on the green, 15 feet inside the Houston clouter and with an outside chance of sending the championship into a playoff.

Demaret wound it up with a sloping uphill putt that broke two feet before it hesitated on the cup's edge and seemed to drop in from the unanimous gasp of a big gallery. Ransom fell short on his try at an eagle and then half-heartedly stroked his effort at a birdie and missed it. He tapped in a one footer for his even par, 296 total.

For Demaret, it was his fourth five classes. He was runner-up in the other. His rounds for the 72 holes were 75-71-74-73.

Off to a miserable start with an opening 19 in the rainy, Levi Lynch of Dallas came back with rounds of 70, 77 and 75 to edge into third place with a 301 total, one shot ahead of Bryan Wright of Dallas.

'Whizzer' White Going to Oxford

DENVER, June 18 (AP)—Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado University's All-America back, announced tonight he definitely had declined a $15,000 offer to play professional football with the Pittsburgh Pirates and would go to England to accept a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford University.

White told newspapermen that prior to announcing his decision, he had sent a wire to Coach Blood of the Pittsburgh team and told him his plans.

"He's a great guy and he'll take it all right," White said.

White rated "straight A" in all his studies excepting two, and he won a medal for a perfect record in his freshman chemistry. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, and won the scholarship last fall.

JIM BRADDOCK SAYS JOE WILL WIN QUICKLY

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—The big fellow with the square Irish jaw and the black hair sprawled in a big chair in the inner sanctum of fight promoter Michael Strauss ("Uncle Mike") Jacobs while the never-ceasing argument raged over Joe Louis and Max Schmeling.

Jacobs ignored the crescendo of debate, and peered intently at two sets of figures, showing that the advance sale for the forthcoming world heavyweight title scrap, with four days to go, had passed the comparable sale for the Louis-Bier fight of 1935, mounted to $685,000 and indicated there's still an outside chance to hit the magic mark of $1,000,000.

"The big fellow—James J. Braddock—finally got the floor," Strauss said. "My guess is no better than yours, or anybody else's," he ventured, "because this is the toughest of all games to figure."

"For instance, there's this angle. I licked Max Baer. Baer stopped Max Schmeling. Schmeling knocked out Louis."

"That makes me look pretty good, doesn't it? But finish it off. Louis knocked me out, stiff, in eight rounds. Sure, I had him on the floor, I gave everything I had. But I'm willing to admit now that his left jab alone had so much power in it that I was dizzy and seeing double after the second round. I still don't know how I managed to last as long as I did."

"I'm telling you this Louis has twice as hard as any man I ever faced in the ring. He's the fastest and the best two-handed puncher I have ever seen."

"I think Louis will flatten Schmeling this time and do it quick—in five rounds."

Braddock's conclusions not only contrast with the views of two other ex-champions, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, who have done considerable editorial "hedging," but differ sharply with the expert consensus.

The Associated Press poll shows a 50-50 standoff of newspaper opinion so far, with scores of experts still unable to make up their minds.

Activity in the training camps, instead of furnishing definite clues, mainly has served only to accentuate the division of viewpoint.

Barring accidents or sudden developments, over the week-end, there appears no solution of the mystery, short of the actual fist-cuffing Wednesday night.

Louis continues the betting choice. He may be the 1 to 2 favorite by the time the ring is cleared for the main bout. Rumors are thick.

The fight show will start at 7:20 P. M. The main bout is scheduled for 9 p. m. It will be broadcast over the National (NBC) Networks, besides being short-waved to Germany, England and South America.

Lee O'Daniel's Big Crowds Cause Stir In Governorship Race

By HARREL E. LEE
AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel, the Fort Worth flour man, and the large crowd he has been attracting to his opening stump speeches in the governor's race provide the principal topic of conversation today among the politically-minded in Texas.

Aside from O'Daniel's initial campaign swing, principal developments of the week in the gubernatorial sweepstakes included the opening address of Clarence R. Miller, Dallas industrialist, at Mexia tonight and William McCraw's invasion of the Panhandle, home section of Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson.

There was a wide difference of opinion regarding how many votes O'Daniel would get in the first Democratic primary five weeks hence but it was unquestioned that persons in many sections, particularly "the boys at the forks of the creek," were talking about him. His visits to many West Texas points were rewarded with large "turnouts."

Backers of other candidates contended O'Daniel's present support was not sufficient to put him in the run-off and he would lose strength between now and July 23. His followers countered with claims that he already was the leading candidate and his strength would mount during the next five weeks.

Thompson's announcement state-wide Saturday and Sunday oil field shutdowns would be lifted July 1 came too late to be subjected to attacks this week but it was certain some of the other aspirants to the governorship would term it a "political move." The railroad commissioner insisted, however, that crude oil stocks had been reduced and gasoline consumption had increased to such an extent the shutdowns no longer were needed.

Attorney General William McCraw issued an opinion which was studied for its possible political effect. He held the state should increase its participation in retirement of road bonds issued by counties and districts.

Lease Fight Settled
Another new development which probably will have campaign repercussions in races for both governor and land commissioner was settlement of a dispute between the state and the Venmex Oil Company of Wichita Falls over title to a large riverbed oil lease in Wichita county. The state took the north half of the tract, which it said was the more productive, and the Venmex the second half.

When Land Commissioner William H. McDonald, now seeking a second term, renewed the lease to the entire tract to Venmex several months ago he was sharply criticized by Governor James V. Allred, and the litigation resulted. The governor claimed after the settlement that the state was "at least $1,000,000 better off" than it would have been if McDonald's renewal had been allowed to stand.

Miller was the last of the 13 gubernatorial candidates to open. He told his Mexia audience that he delayed entering the race until after the other candidates had announced their platforms.

"I found," he said, "that these other platforms were one and all simply political claptrap. There is no reference whatever to an industrial program for Texas to increase employment and absolutely no reference anywhere to labor racketeers, with their sit-down strikes, shortage and contempt for law and order."

Besides Miller, O'Daniel, Thompson and McCraw, largest field of candidates for governor in Texas history includes Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, runner-up in 1934 and 1936, Karl Crowley of Fort Worth, Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth, S. T. Brogdon of Stephenville, Joseph King and Marvin P. McCoy of Houston, P. D. Renfro of Beaumont, Thomas Self of Crockett and H. M. Ferguson of Belton.

MERCILESS CAMPAIGN AGAINST JEWS BEGUN

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—A merciless official campaign against Jews, reinforced by mob action, was extended to all Germany today by secret police orders.

Jews were in panic. Foreign consulates were besieged by men and women trying despairingly to get permission to go to other countries.

In Worms, famed as Martin Luther's home, Jews had difficulty getting food because gentiles were afraid to sell it to them.

Eyewitnesses in Frankfurt said old respectable families were routed from their beds and taken to police headquarters before dawn.

Police raids hitherto were confined to Berlin where they were called officially a drive to "capture anti-social and criminal elements."

Official estimates of the number arrested were lacking, except a report given the controlled press today—the first since the renewed anti-semitic wave started June 1.—Saying two raids in Berlin resulted in the arrests of 450 Jews, of whom 76 were found to be "heavily incriminated," 29 were without nationality, and 51 were foreigners "without proper papers."

Some observers believed, however, that raids yesterday and today led to 500 arrests, and that an estimate of 1,000 in Berlin in the last three weeks seemed reasonable.

FLORIDA CRIME POINTS TO FALSE AMERICAN WAY

It is hardly straining a point to detect in the sad business of that recent Florida kidnaping a direct reflection of the shabby, wishful thinking that we Americans are often guilty of.

The most astounding thing about that whole case was the calm, matter-of-fact statement made by the kidnaper after his arrest.

He committed the crime, he told Mr. Hoover's G-men, because "he had been wanting the finer things of life for his wife and himself and had been unable to get steady employment.

So, questing for the finer things, he went ahead and committed one of the most shocking crimes possible to modern man, killed an innocent child, and landed himself in a spot where the shadow of the gallows is very clearly visible.

If this were not so monstrous it would be funny, and yet the grotesque reasoning this stupid Florida man followed can be seen as a direct outgrowth of the sort of reasoning that is common to most of us.

We all want these "finer things of life," and we have a rather childish way of confusing them with the things that money can buy. Of course, a man who can't feed his family or keep a roof over his head is quite justified in making some sort of economic independence the first item on his list of aspirations; but when that point is passed, a civilized man must realize that the things which really make life worth living and are really worth struggling for have precious little relation to a bank balance.

Yet that is the point we so often miss. We build our success stories around the men who have made their pile, and we aren't always very particular about the methods they used in making it.

So we blunder our way through this world under a profound misconception of what life really is all about. We set the pace of our entire social order by this unthinking desire to get rich. As by-products, inevitably, our society throws up morbid excesses like this dim-brained kidnaper, who fancied that he could acquire the "finer things of life" by committing a terrible crime.

Once you assume that life's real prizes are things that can be bought with money, you open the way for weird doings in the way of money-getting. And all of us who have exalted the dollar must share a little of the blame for the dreadful crime down in Florida.

THE COLOR ON THE COVER

The democratic privileges of writing what you think and reading what has been written are usually among the first rights to go overboard at the outbreak of war, even in the most democratic of countries.

Similarly when widespread and fundamental conflicts in the world of political, social, and economic thinking reach such a point of intensity that what amounts to a war psychology is created, the same rights come in for an out-size share of punching around.

Reading tests recently given at Columbia College suggest a more democratic and effective course of procedure. The majority of the students tested simply didn't know how to read intelligently. The conductor of the tests observed that "they might know that the book was green" but they didn't actually understand what was in it. Training brought results that were remarkable.

The average citizen who gets stuck in knows only the color of the outside of the idea, whether it's red, pink, or yellow. The way to lay the ground for easing half-shot ideas into the ash-can forever is to teach the art of ignoring whatever color may be on the surface and recognizing the nature of the content when you see it.

Impossible? It may be. But if you do not believe that is possible, you do not believe in the workability of democracy.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Probably there are more gadget and gimmick collectors in Washington than any place else and a good reason is that the government supplies big offices and huge desks where gadgets can accumulate.

Where an ordinary $5,000-a-year executive in a business concern would have a desk only big enough for a telephone and a couple of cigar butts, the same executive in Washington might (but not certainly) have a glass-topped expanse the size of a backyard garden plot.

And how the mementoes and gadgets pile up. For instance, Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, has a nautical clock in his office. It doesn't chime the hours but chimes "bells" as on a ship, so that instead of quitting work at 4 or 5 o'clock of a hot afternoon he knocks off at six bells, or

Tex's Topics

They tell me the Boy Wonder must have his tonsils removed. . . Now, to all the fathers and mothers whose little boys and girls already have had their tonsils taken out, that doesn't mean a thing—but to me, it's tragic. . . He's such a swell fellow, just as your Boy Wonder is a swell fellow to you, that I can't bring myself around to the point where I can believe that having his tonsils snipped is not a serious operation.

Tonsils, the doctors say, can cause you plenty of trouble, once they become infected—and you get along just as well, if not better, with them out than you do with them in. . . So, to me, that's another of Life's little mysteries—as to why we have tonsils if they're no good to us. . . Of course, I will not go into the operating room with him. . . I am the kind of coward who cannot bear wit-ness to his own son's tonsillectomy. . . I would a thousand times rather go in and have my own tonsils snipped if I thought it would do him any good. . . Inasmuch as his mother feels the same way about it, we have been shopping around for friends to do that dreaded task for us.

I suspect that we are not much different from other fathers and mothers who have shopped around for friends to do the same thing for them when their Boy Wonder was wheeled into the operating room. . . There's something about the innocence of childhood that gets you when it comes to a thing like that. . . Now, if he only really knew what the score was—just what was coming, and understood what it was all about, it would be a little different. . . Coward that I am in this matter, I keep wondering what he will think when strange persons gather around the operating table. . . He'll look all about, and then wonder in his three-year-oldish way just why his Daddy and Mother are not here, too.

If we could only explain to him why we won't be there, it wouldn't be so bad. . . The meat of this column today is a bit jibberish, I know, but I'll bet anything that just lots and lots of you felt the same way when it came time for your Boy Wonder (or Girl Wonder) to have his tonsils out. . . Strange, isn't it, the things a child will cause you to do—and because I happen to write a column, I have just jotted down here thoughts that others of you have thought, but never had the opportunity to express on paper. . . I'm sure that's the only difference between you and me when we get to thinking about our Boy Wonders.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
Valuable information concerning the care of fire fighting equipment, fire prevention, and first aid were derived by the delegates and visitors who attended the State Volunteer Firemen's convention held at Denton.

In keeping with Santa Fe policies and standards, the new 81-mile railroad under construction between Pampa and Cheyenne, Okla., was to have standard equipment.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
Tom Rose of the Rotary club and Jet Brumley of the Lions club congratulated each other for upholding the honor of their clubs in a golf tournament.

Pampa's Magnolia baseball team went on a batting and scoring rampage in Shamrock in a Cotton-Oil league game to defeat the Irishmen of Shamrock 27 to 2 and retain first place in the league standing.

maybe it is two bells of the second watch (this bell business drives us whooshy). On his desk is an anchor and the usual telephones and penholders a person has to put up with, but for the most part he keeps his desk swept up and holystoned.

Table for Donkeys
So many donkeys have accumulated for President Roosevelt that he has set aside a special table for them, leaving his own desk free for an assortment of trays, letter openers, a vase of flowers, and the prize of all—a brightly turned butt of a brass navel shell cut down to ash-tray size. A few other favored officials about the capitol have trays like it.

The nautical tone of the administration is reflected in dozens of congressional offices where members have clocks set in a ship's helm (steering wheel, to you).

Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas has a totem pole on his desk. He says it isn't a totem pole but instead is a PWA art project in wood, but we say it is a totem pole.

Nearly all the veteran Senators have their walls decorated with the originals of political cartoons, sent them by the cartoonists. We haven't seen any displayed except those giving the member a boost. Senator Capper of Kansas has papered his office with photographs reaching back to the first Roosevelt days.

And a Machine Gun
Senator Borah's desk is so piled with papers and books there is no room for anything except an ash tray, put there for guests. He doesn't smoke. He has a bronze bust of himself in his office.
Delegations are forever bringing in this and that and it was a silver deputation which installed in the office of Senator Pittman of Nevada a huge silver disk inscribed with the ancient Aztec calendar.
Senator Copeland's office is burdened with a half dozen ship models in glass cases, but to mention the vase of red carnations from which he daily selects one for his label.
We have never seen a wine decanter on or near a congressional desk but some spirited beverages are nearby in many offices.

'What'd You Bring Back for Me, Uncle Joe?'

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — This is County Fair time. And New York is getting ready for its County Fair—only it will be called the World's Fair. Out on Long Island they have torn up a lot of earth, thrown in flats, built buildings, and exploded hulloaloo. I'm not worried so much about that, because that was to be expected.

But now there is talk of doing over Broadway, the Broadway which—so the story goes—has changed so much in recent years. I don't know exactly what they are planning to do with it and, as a matter of fact, what I think will not matter. And I cannot imagine what they will do with it when they do change it, unless they throw up a bevy of modernistic buildings. You know—the things you squint at and wonder what they are.

Broadway has changed. There is no dispute here. But the change has come gradually; so slowly that after the scene changed you suddenly realized that the old plays, the old picture, the old actors were no more. Yet Broadway was still Broadway.

True, the gaudy motion picture palaces took over where the legitimate theater once held sway. True but the legitimate theater still remains, a bit on the side streets, perhaps, but nevertheless very much there, and especially so during the past season.

Broadway itself today is a dirty, gaudy street. It has always been a dirty, gaudy street. There is still the picture of honky-tonks, the noise and curiosity. People milling, people talking, people hurrying, people happy and people discontented. Broadway has always been a dirty and a gaudy street—always a happy street and always a street of sorrow and disappointment. The same people, ostensibly, have pounded its pavement in yesteryears of today.

Broadway has changed. So they say. I say again that the change has been so gradual that Broadway is still the same. The difference—some of it good, some of it bad.

Remember when vaudeville held sway. Remember when troupers left for the hinterlands and were always glad to get back to the Palace on Broadway. They came back chuckling how good it was to get back home again, when the odds were that home really was in Wah Hoo, Neb. Broadway was changing and they didn't know it. Broadway has changed, but the place is just the same. It is still the place to which George M. Cohan, William A. Brady, Eddie Dowling and Sophie Tucker—to mention a few—and a thousand others of a day long past them come back at every opportunity.

For this Broadway has changed and isn't what it used to be. But what hasn't changed? And if Broadway has changed, it hasn't changed enough to send the beat of a million feet to other streets.

You can have your World's Fair. And if I can have my cake and eat it, I'll have it, too. But, somehow or other I still think you and I would like our Broadway as it is today. It's crazier than any street in the world, and in many ways, like the mid-way at the County Fair. Let it remain so.

Consumption of cheese in the United States has increased from two and a half pounds per capita 20 years ago to five pounds at the present time.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM.

This being father's day this one will pay tribute to a typical Pampa father—one who has the virtues that every good father has—and there the trouble started. What are the "virtues" that every good father should have? Which "typical father of 1938" should be singled out? Only the wife and the offspring of the father can answer the first question—and their answer is always right. The second question will be hard. At once a host of names comes to mind—V. L. Boyles who has three sons; W. W. Harrah who fulfills almost every requirement; J. E. Duncan and his sons and daughters; Sam Fenberg who has—how many sons? R. A. Smith who has 12 sons and daughters; or Jack Baker, R. L. Mounds, Gus Shofner, Aubrey Green, John Crook, Clarence Aulds, Art Erickson, Le Roy Archer, all of whom have sons dear to this one's heart; or V. E. Fatheree, C. L. Thomas, A. C. Enloe, Tex. Evans; or Uncle Bob Dunlop who has no boys but fathers many; or Dan McGrew and Howard Neath who are in the same class; or Mrs. Fannie Smith and Mrs. Lillie McDonald who fathers and mothers, sons who are also dear to this one; or A. H. Doucette whose sons and daughter are a credit to the community; or Roy Showers who seems to be a model father; or Frank Paul of Panhandle; or Harry Nelson—or who! This job of picking a typical 1938 father seems to be so difficult that this one should probably do as an Oklahoma paper will do—pick the father of the first baby born today, but he won't. He will simply pick his own father who has been dead these seven years but who lives in this one's heart just the same—and that is just what most of you will do too—pick your own father as the 1938 father.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Janet Gaynor's new leading man is 36, a former college instructor of English, a playwright, a stage director, and an actor with a firm conviction that six months at a time in Hollywood is enough.

Richard Carlson signed a movie contract only when he got the kind he wanted—a little speech, which may have been written by someone else," Stevenson said.

Stevenson, whom former Gov. James E. Ferguson has called the Abraham Lincoln of Texas politics because of Stevenson's physical appearance and habits of speech, is the only man who has twice been speaker of the House of Representatives.

It is said the newspaper reporter knows several times as much stuff as he is able to write.

Their was trial in the recent fluff over the financial plight of the gas utilities division of the Railroad Commission and that part of the attorney general's department which works with the division in regulating gas utility rates in the state.

He has been writing plays since high school days in Minneapolis. At the University of Minnesota he kept on acting and writing and took on directing. In high school he had played football and hockey in addition to numerous extra-curricular activities. In college he concentrated on golf in the sports line, sailed through his regular courses with time to spare for dramatics. In 1934 he had his M. A. degree, Phi Beta Kappa, a $250 in scholarship prizes, and a job as English instructor. He stuck it out three months.

"By that time I realized the college life was not for me," he says. "It seemed like living in a world apart, behind a projecting wall. If he ever gets to write, direct and act in a picture he won't have that trouble.

The way these three-way contracts usually work out is that the producer, if the actor pleads, forgets about the writing and directing. Reminded of this, Carlson says: "Even if I click, the six months' clause would protect me. I'll be away writing, or in a play, before they can make up their minds."

By One of the Boys
Underneath a rough exterior
There I found a heart of gold;
Often stern and yet so tender,
Is the memory I hold.
Not too prone to show emotion,
Not too late to set aright,
When my wandering feet misled
Or my judgment failed me quite.
But I knew he always loved us
Toiled and wore his life away,
To provide for us and make us happy
Gave himself, his best each day,
The uncrowned with fame or glory
As the world would echo fame,
In the book of my immortals
On page one is Father's name.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, June 17 (AP)—The smallest island in the world with a highway upon it may be in Buchanan Lake, the magnificent inland body of water created as a part of the lower Colorado river conservation and power project.

At this time the island simply is in a high point of land not inundated by the lake, which is not completely formed. Over its crest runs an old roadway which once traversed what is now the lake bottom.

Someone dubbed the bit of land "Shark Island," for no sound reason unless it is because no sharks are thereabouts. The nomenclature recalls O. Henry's story of the town in the midst of a vast plain named "Summit."

After the filing of the name of Ernest O. Thompson as a candidate for governor, Gov. James V. Allred remarked facetiously at a press conference that if Ernest did well in the election he (Allred) might use the name James Ernest Allred if he decided to run again for public office. Previously he had sharply criticized the filing by Ernest O. Thompson.

Gov. Allred laughed heartily when someone suggested "James Vonnally Allred" would be more appropriate than James Ernest.

In some quarters the governor is regarded as a potential opponent of United States Senator Connally, who faced re-election two years hence.

The "V" in Allred's name is not an initial. It is a letter only. It stands for no given name. The governor was given that added name because an uncle similarly bore it. As a boy in Benton, Montana county, he was called "V" Allred. Not Jimmie.

Some members of the legislature who have seen their pet bills die under his blue pencil think the "V" stands for "veto."

Rep. O. Henry, Rep. Coke Stevenson, candidate for lieutenant governor, is proving a boon to "rotten" platform speakers.

"Getting up on the stump and holding the interest of an audience is another matter from reading a carefully prepared little speech, which may have been written by someone else," Stevenson said.

Stevenson, whom former Gov. James E. Ferguson has called the Abraham Lincoln of Texas politics because of Stevenson's physical appearance and habits of speech, is the only man who has twice been speaker of the House of Representatives.

It is said the newspaper reporter knows several times as much stuff as he is able to write.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life...

By R. C. HOLES

WAGE AND HOUR BILL CLASS LEGISLATION

The amended Wage and Hour Bill certainly is unfair, on the surface of it, even if it could do what its proponents claim for it; namely, raise the minimum wage. It is unfair because it attempts to protect a certain class of workers and gives no protection whatsoever to other classes of workers, such as agricultural workers. It is not democratic, because no law should favor one class over another.

But instead of benefitting any class of workers, it will harm all classes of workers. Even the California poet laureate, McCleary, recognizes that you cannot raise wages by law. He says, instead of benefitting the workers, it will do them a lot of harm, which it certainly will.

The reason it is bound to do harm to all workers is because every employer hires people, in reality, on a piece basis and when the employer does not produce as much as he is receiving, the minute the employer finds it out, he discharges him in order to stay in business and it is only fair that he does, because no employer has a moral right, let alone an obligation, of taking from the efficient, fast workers some of the earnings that they make and give it up to the slow workers in order to bring their piece production rate up to a point where they will earn the minimum wage. This, of course, would lower production and those people who could not be employed would have to be supported by the workers who are producing.

The plan has been tried repeatedly and always has failed. Few people learn from the experience of others. It is for this reason that they want to try again the dream that wages can be raised by law.

The missing has returned; and throughout the state former students of law and engineering at the University of Texas chattering.

Several years ago Alexander Frederick Clarke, patron saint of engineering students commonly known as Alex, was captured by law students, just before a banquet for "engineers," and was brutally dismembered on the banks of the Colorado river near Austin.

One hand holding an upraised goblet—Alex was a figure in wood—ultimately found its way into the office of Bascom Cox, of Brownsville, a former law student and now Cameron county judge. The head was sent to Governor Dan Moody, who sent it on to T. U. Taylor, dean of the school of engineering then and now dean emeritus.

For a long time it was not known generally who had engineering at the hand. Finally Judge Cox made the mistake, during round up ceremonies here this spring, of disclosing its whereabouts. It disappeared from Judge Cox's office, where it was used as a paper weight and now is in possession of Dan Taylor.

The Daily Texan, student paper at the university, says two former engineering students, Rufino Lopez and Paul Lindhorn, visited Cox's office while he was out of town. One engaged the attention of Cox's stenographer with a yardstick story while the other "snatched" the hand and goblet. Lindhorn gave the prize to Taylor.

"Can't you quiet him down, Henry? I don't like to attract attention while I'm wearing this last year's dress."

Twelve New Wells, Nine Locations Keep Field Active

4,151 BARRELS OF OIL ADDED TO POTENTIAL

The Panhandle oilfield continued active last week with completion of 12 wells for oil and two for gas and the staking of nine new locations. New oil for the field totaled 4,151 barrels with the total gas flow 51,670,000 cubic feet.

Seven of the new oil wells were located in Hutchinson county good for 3,437 barrels. Gray, Carson and Wheeler counties reported one new well each. The two gasers were in Carson county.

Hutchinson county also led in locations with four, followed by Gray with three, Carson with two and Wheeler county with one. The Childrens county test was the L. C. McMullen No. 1 Furr, section 418, block H. W&NW survey, a wildcat which was spudded in Friday. Other locations will be proved territory.

Best well of the week was the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 6 Thompson in section 23, block M-23, TCRR survey, Hutchinson county, which gauged 791 barrels.

Completions to date this year have dropped slightly behind the number to the same date last year. Wells completed to date this year number 283 compared with 291 to the same date in 1937. The decrease is not as large as expected, however, considering the unsatisfactory condition of the oil industry.

Announcement by Col. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad commission and candidate for governor, here last week that the Saturday shutdown would probably end this month was favorably received.

Completions by counties follow:
In Hutchinson county:
Phillips Petroleum co., No. 17 Perkins, section 16, block X02, H&G survey, gauged 309 barrels with line formation between 2,883 and 2,932 feet.

The same company's No. 6 Thompson, section 23, block M-23, TCRR survey, was given a potential of 791 barrels with pay from 3,145 to 3,175 feet in line.

Stanford Oil co., No. A-16 Watkins, section 13, block M-21, TCRR survey, tested 518 barrels. Line pay was between 2,840 and 2,906 feet.

The same company's No. A-13 Ware, section 124, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 418 barrels with line pay from 3,040 to 3,125 feet.

Stansylvania Oil co., No. 6 Stansberry, section 129, block Z, ELRR survey, tested 398 barrels. Pay was in the lime between 3,015 and 3,030 feet. The hole was drilled to a total depth of 3,064 feet.

Stansylvania Oil co., No. 1 Ware, section 123, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 421 barrels with line pay between 3,050 and 3,100 feet.

Sturdivant et al No. 1 Christian, section 31-A, block V. V. W. Christian survey, tested 584 barrels, with line pay from 2,950 to 3,015 feet.

In Gray County:
Stanford Oil & Gas co., No. 6 Merten, section 87, block 3, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 169 barrels. Line pay was from 3,247 to 3,255 feet.

In Carson County:
Magnolia Petroleum co., No. 41 Fee Land 244, section 108, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 387 barrels with line pay between 2,930 and 2,960 feet.

In Wheeler County:
Remo Royalty co., No. 2-B Sloes-Admirer, section 47, block 13, H&GN survey, gauged 158 barrels with gran-

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, June 18. (AP)—With copper showing the way, leading stocks edged forward today in the slowest market session for nearly 20 years.

Traders had a few tid-bits of fairly cheerful news to comfort them, but most refused to be tempted to assume an extensive position pending more definite signs of a break in the lengthy recession.

The list started off slightly higher and then shifted over a narrow range. Transactions totaled only 104,530 shares, the smallest turnover since Aug. 3, 1918. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .1 of a point at 38.7, but on the week was off 4.

A little more cheerfulness was reflected in the copper which benefited from the latest foreign curtailment agreement reached in London and was in line with the recent suspensions of important domestic mines for the purpose of bringing output closer to sagging consumption.

Major stocks managed to emerge a trifle higher, although they were sluggish the greater part of the time on forecasts of the cuts in quotations for steel products were likely. Commodities generally produced the brightest market picture of the week, most finishing up ahead.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, June 18. (AP)—The wheat pit absorbed enough profit taking and hedging sales today to push prices about two cents a bushel lower.
Buying demand was limited despite plentiful trade news that could be construed as favorable to the purchasing side. Further pessimistic crop news from the southwest had little effect, however, and was offset by reports of favorable growing conditions in the spring wheat belt.

The decline of the last four days was wiped out more than three of the 15 cents advance scored since the first of June. Nevertheless, many traders believe the market has discounted crop deterioration in the winter wheat belt reported so far this month.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, June 18. (AP)—Continued unfavorable weather and threats of insect infestation sent cotton futures prices higher in late trading of today's short session and the close was steady at net advances of 5 to 8 points.

July contracts ended at 8.55-55, Oct. at 8.68-68, Dec. at 8.56, Jan. at 8.57, March at 8.42 and May at 8.66. The opening was off on profit taking but prices gradually worked upward as buyers came into the market. Spots were quiet with middling 6 points up at 8.58 cents a pound on sales of 62 bales.

Heavy rains were general throughout the growing region. Advice reported in increasing evidence of weevils in numerous sections.
Closing prices were at the highest since the upward movement started about June 1. The low was reached May 31 when the average for middling at 10 southern spot markets was 7.76 cents a pound. The average today was 8.49 cents a pound.

Wedding Gown Fit for a President's Daughter-in-Law

This beautiful and original wedding gown which Anne Lindsay Clark wore when she became the bride of young John Roosevelt, son of the President, was sketched exclusively for NEA Service and the Pampa Daily News. Made of 20 yards of French organdie, it is lavishly embroidered in a leaf spray pattern with 620 yards of shirred satin ribbon. The dull side of the ribbon is used, making a nice contrast with the rather shiny surface of the organdie. The frothy veil is longer than the train at the back, short and circular in front. Matching shirred ribbon, tied in a bow across the deep V neckline, and quaint puffed sleeves, add a demure note to the otherwise sophisticated gown. The ensemble was designed and made by Hickson, Inc., Boston.

Crow's Feet Around Eyes Walk Off With Fresh-Faced Look

The eyes are one of the first tell-tales of age. Long before there is a sign of a crow's foot line or even a faint suggestion of creases, the woman who wants to look her best through the years begins to give the skin around her eyes regular and correct attention and the eyes themselves the cooling they deserve.

With gentle rotary motions, she massages rich night cream around her eyes every single night. She puts cream into the area where crow's feet can be expected to appear in later years. She wears dark glasses on the beach, for golf, motoring and so on. She doesn't read in a bad light. She tries never to squint. And if an eye doctor says she ought to wear glasses, she wears them.

Moderns realize that adequate sleep, plenty of outdoor exercise and lots of sunshine preserve the naturally youthful sparkle that young eyes have. One who cultivates good health habits and really averages eight hours of sleep a night just isn't going to have dull, lustreless looking eyes by the time she is forty.

Tired Eyes Are Dull Then, too, eyes may not be the mirrors of the soul, as the poet said, but it is true that a happy contented, rested person has more sparkle in her eyes than one who is tired most of the time or who always is complaining and making herself more unhappy than she actually has a right to be.

Every woman should strive to keep herself in top-notch physical condition, then try not to let little things make her too miserable. There are enough big problems to be faced, and it usually is wiser to save your energy, worries, even tears for them, endeavoring to take comparatively small problems philosophically.

Manufacturers of cosmetics are doing their part to help you in your struggle for lovelier, livelier eyes. In addition to the excellent eye creams to be used at night, there are many preparations that are supposed to make lashes grow more luxuriantly. And, of course, there are various mascaras that are easy to apply and which are waterproof.

Blue mascara is the rage of the moment. Fashionables like it with the new pink makeup. And it's especially flattering with blue evening gowns in shades ranging from deep midnight blue to slate and hyacinth shades. If your lashes are quite colorless and you feel that you need mascara during daytime hours, by all means choose one which doesn't make the little hairs stick together. And use it sparingly. It just isn't smart to have your eyebrows twined into thin, hard, unnatural lines. Let them grow as nature intended, pulling out only hairs which grow above the bridge of your nose between brows and on upper part of lids.

Spectator Frocks Make Presses Hum

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Fashion Editor Many of this summer's spectator sports frocks tell their fashion news in print.

Where women gather out of doors you'll see them—simple, smooth little frocks whose surfaces are broken by a rhythmic printed pattern, generally in white silhouette against a color. Some are made of smooth crepes or non-crushable voiles. Others step out in crissaline, a rayon of rustic weave mixed with a little silk, and printed with white patterns, inspired by Wedgwood china, on grounds of light blue, rose, periwinkle blue or a cool blue-green named spruce.

There are some flower prints, too, mingling the blues and lavenders or the rusts and yellows of an old-fashioned garden, in thick floral patterns on a white voile ground. Some of these flower prints are colored with the luscious pastel hues of powder puffs.

All the frocks are simply cut, and skirts are pleated or gored. Slide fastenings, bullet buttons and narrow patent leather belts—all white—give them a frosty cooling finish. White frocks are much in evidence, too. Sleek sharkskin, now a summer standby, makes smooth little dresses with collared, square or vee necklines, short sleeves and gored skirts. These are often accented with blue and white polka dot crepe pipings and sash girdles or narrow belts of multi-colored cords. A crisp white bolero is worn over a number of them.

Other white frocks are made of raw silk or cotton mesh. Colored spectator sports dresses are seen in three outstanding colors—pastel blue, a soft ice-cream beige dubbed "candlelight" and blue with a turquoise tinge which the fashion would call "aqua."

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART.

It is an excellent idea to resolve to get great quantities of exercise, sunshine and fresh air this summer and to decide to practice at least one active sport until you are fairly expert at it. But it's not a good idea at all to get so sports-minded that you forewear make-up and seldom are seen in anything except slacks or shorts.

Femininity retains its old fascination in spite of the fact that woman's place no longer is necessarily in the home. And it's not smart to look or act mannish at any season of the year. Just because you have a coat of sustin and the wearing sports clothes often and afternoon and evening things less, don't give up trying to be alluring. You can be a "good sport" and yet retain the femininity charm that still is your greatest asset.

Some suntanned cheeks look bloomingly healthy and quite pretty minus rouge. Others, however, are prettier with it. It's up to each individual to decide for herself. Generally speaking, any mouth is more attractive with lipstick than without. You don't have to bore the men in the party by holding up a golf game while you do over your mouth, of course. But don't let anyone talk you out of putting on lipstick before the round, and again immediately after. It just happens that it's easy enough to be good at any game and still look like a lady while playing it.

Unless you are under twenty-one and, in addition, are overwhelmingly attractive, you can't get away with straggling locks and badly groomed hands, either. There are nice looking hair ribbon bands to hold your coiffure in place while you play a fast game of tennis, flattering but not sissy hats to wear fishing, and so on. And it's possible to find sports shirts that are just as comfortable as slacks. Have at least one, anyway, and wear it occasionally. Incidentally, if your legs aren't quite lovely or if your hips are too broad, better skip shorts. They do nothing to conceal even minor defects. You'll be as happy in slacks, and they are kinder to the figure.

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Hungry, hot and cross? Then try this seafood cocktail and all will be forgiven.

Seafood Cocktail (Serves 4) One cup crabmeat, 1 cup cooked shrimp, 2 hard-boiled eggs, medium-sized head of lettuce, salt and pepper, French dressing, 1 bunch watercress.

Flake the crabmeat, cut up the shrimp and the hard-boiled eggs, and chop half the head of lettuce; put all these ingredients together, add the seasoning and enough French dressing to moisten throughout, and mix thoroughly. Set bowl in refrigerator, and allow the salad to marinate for at least 1 hour, for thorough marination is the secret of its success. Serve on crisp leaves of the remaining lettuce, and garnish with watercress.

As I sat in a well-known New York restaurant recently waiting for a stuffed devilled lobster, the proprietor expounded his lobster lore. Better listen in.

"There's a knack which comes with experience in selecting a good live lobster," he said. "I can tell a good lobster by the weight and feel of it in my hand. Fine Lobster is Firm, Heavy. A good lobster feels firmer, and more weighty in proportion to his size. There's a shallowness to the feel of a poor lobster. That is because his flesh has absorbed too much water—and is not solid. The meat of these poor lobster will shrivel greatly when cooked, and there will remain only a fraction of the meat one expects to find when the shell is opened. And what there is will be rather dry and stringy."

"The lobster should be alive when cooking is started," he insists. "The most usual way of cooking lobster in the home is to boil it. It should be dropped into boiling salted water (1 tablespoon salt to each quart water). Use enough water to cover the lobster entirely. Cover the pot and cook over a slow fire—the water kept just above simmering—for 10 to 15 minutes, depending upon the size of the lobster. Remove the lobster from the water and place on its back to cool. The body of the lobster should be cut down the middle so that the meat can be removed easily. The claws are cracked and the meat removed from them with picks. But there was the dish I had been waiting for. Stuffed Devilled Lobster (Serves 4) Two large lobsters, 3 mushrooms, 1 small onion, English mustard (to taste), 1 pony glass, white wine or white grape juice, 2 tablespoons white sauce.

Boil the lobsters, cut in half, and save the shells. Chop up the onion very fine and the mushrooms. Season with mustard. Simmer in white wine or grape juice for 5 to 10 minutes. Chop up the lobster meat in small pieces. Add the cream sauce and the onion mixture. Mix all thoroughly, and stuff into the shells. Bake until brown in oven. If you prefer the lobsters to have a glazed appearance cover with a sauce made up of half whipped cream and half Hollandaise sauce, before baking in oven.

White Gets Letter Mailed to Sherman

Although Pampa is the capital of Gray county, many out-of-state taxpayers continue sending letters to county officials, addressed to LeFors, the county seat of a decade ago.

A letter received recently at the office of the county clerk had been originally addressed to the "county seat, McLean."

Not even state officials always get their addresses straight. Last week County Judge Sherman White received a letter from Austin headed "Hon. Sherman White, County Judge, Gray County, Sherman, Texas." The envelope was addressed in the same manner, and the letter had been sent to the county judge of Grayson county, re-addressed and sent here.

SATURDAY FAVORED DAY FOR LICENSES TO WED

Saturday still remains the favored day for the granting of marriage licenses in Pampa. Employees of the county clerk's office said this same situation had prevailed for a number of years, and a check up this week to be the No. 1 day for the period January to mid-June.

Of the 83 marriage licenses granted here since January 1, 29 were issued on Saturdays. Wednesday was next favored with 15. Monday and Friday were tied with 10. Nine of the licenses were issued on Tuesdays, eight on Thursdays, and two on Sundays.

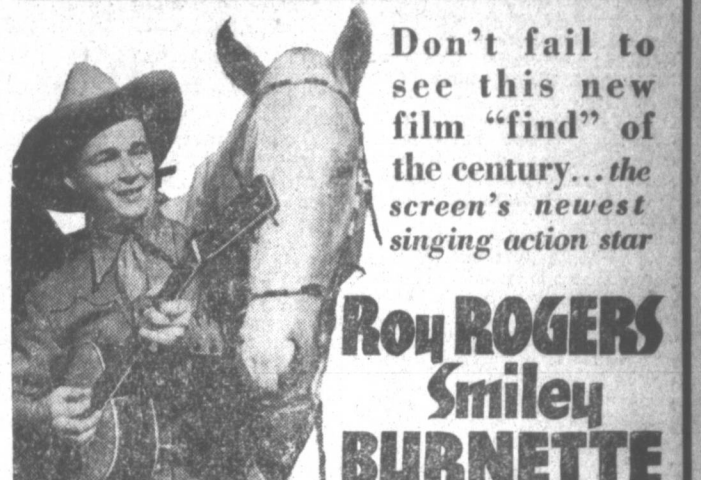

In the period since January 1, June 11 has the record of being the day on which the greatest number of marriage licenses were issued. A half-dozen licenses were granted here last Saturday, January 29 is the runner-up with four licenses issued.

January was the most-favored month with 21 licenses granted, followed by June (to date) with 15, and February's 13. April and May were tied with 12, only two more than the number of marriage licenses issued in March.

AIR CONDITIONING

is now a Practical necessity to business consult us now about air conditioning systems for stores, offices, theatres, factories, dance halls.

Summer slump hits profit figures because summer slump hits people, employees and executives alike. It's nothing anyone can help, hot weather does get a person down. But as soon as air conditioning is installed, summer slump becomes a thing of the past. Employees work better, heads are clearer, dispositions better. And, if it's a business that depends upon the general public, such as a store, restaurant, theatre, or dance hall, there's no slump in customers. They want to come because it's cool. There'll be no summer slump in your business, if you plan now to prevent the slump in people.

Southwestern PUBLIC SERVICE Company

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

Yesterday: One crisis follows another when Terry is laid off and then Joe is out as the shipyard closes. It looks like the sun is going down forever.

CHAPTER XVII

Terry sent him money out of what had been saved instantly she heard from him. It was railroad fare, in case he lacked it. Come home! Come here. Come home this minute to Terry!

He went around with the money in his pocket, thinking not answering. What he was thinking you might know without being told. Sinner thoughts, dangerous thoughts. Both of them jobs. Their home, finished. He back home again, back to the old home, a burden and a drain on them. She returning to her home, to the grim servitude it was. He would "call on her" visit her in that hostile, triumphant household, while they begrudged him the air he breathed there!

Not! He would not! Once that had a meaning. Once he came bringing something; he had strength and he shared it. There was a danger, and he averted it. There was a small, say needful one, and he had willingly enough done for her what there was to do. There was no more any meaning in it, unless it be the measure of his uselessness and his vain conceit.

plumping down a deep dish of stew savory and full of nourishment. "I guess you can make out on that."

"I guess I can," Joe said in a certain tone. "The grateful altar."

She made an indefinite sound, and he left to eat without delay. She sat down in a rocking chair near the fire and watched him. He looked at her once or twice, and was again embarrassed. She watched him eat. There was something, and he did not know what it was.

"I suppose you have a lot of fellows asking for a meal?" Joe said by way both of appreciation and conversation.

"Fellows?" she said, and her breath kind of caught. Yes. And girls too. Her eyes looked away and she stared at the glowing stove with a certain bleakness. "They're always coming, and I've fed so many of them. I can't feed them all: I ain't humanly possible. They come and I turn them away. I harden my heart and turn them away."

Joe looked at her, wondering.

She got up without saying anything more and went into the other room to her cook stove, where she shook down the fire vigorously and shoveled ashes.

He sat there in the warmth, thinking, watching the gray mist. The old woman came back presently and asked him if he'd have more, but he said no, he'd had plenty and was grateful. She gave him a sack of tobacco and cigar papers, and she smiled. He thanked her, wishing he could say something more. Then he went on. He saw her watching him from the window as he went up the road.

He went on, alone.

Joe put the money, excepting five dollars, into an envelope with a note saying he was heading west to no known destination, and he wrote Terry's name and address on the envelope and mailed it. Then he went down to the railroad and waited an hour, and swung aboard an empty box car pulling out in a freight train heading west.

It was that night Terry arrived at his boarding house to find him gone.

At another time the Murrys at home were to hear from their Joe from all parts of the nation. Frequently, managerly word came from him, rarely with any real news, never with an address to reply to. He wrote merely to assure them he was alive, fairly well, still going, dutifully. He never made mention of Terry.

How he lived no man can tell, even those who have done it themselves. It is one of these small miracles of existence. He found a vast company over the land performing the miracle daily as he. He learned from them quickly what little he did not know.

The way of the yards and jungles, a tiny fire in a gully or under a culvert in the rain with a battered pot boiling... scraps of food garnered and begged and pilfered, the company of cast-offs of every degree through the night, huddled, with newspapers stuffed in the clothes, close to the blaze. In the morning a slow freight trundling through, or a long trek on the highway, with few speeding motorists risking a lift.

The way of the cities: the charities, bitter as gall to a man who had walked where he willed in his strength, and was weak now with hunger... the streets, where hard faces rebuffed so awkwardly a plea for a cigarette, a meal... the agencies, where spiders reeled in the dust and not even a pick or shovel stiff could take on any more for as much as a dollar a day.

It was not easy to keep body and soul together, with the cards stacked against you.

Once on the national highway in a central state Joe approached a roadside gas station and lunch stand just about dusk. He had pulled out of the city behind him early in the afternoon; it was an important city, and the dusk was a gray, light of incessant traffic, cars that swirled upon one blindly and were gone in a blow of wind and humming tires on concrete.

The city had been cold to him; it did not matter. No place mattered. The country was cold to a man, too, but a man could try. Bebuffs did not matter; they bounced off, and a man went on.

Joe braced the restaurant keeper for something to eat. It was a woman, an elderly woman, gray-haired and busy and thin, the woman looked at him with a raised her eyebrows and seen them go, and now bides her time with her patient husband. They were farming people; they ran the stand and the station between tending the fields and the stock.

Joe stood in the doorway of the tiny shack housing the restaurant and spoke his ritual, and he was surprised as its reception. The woman straightened up from the stove, the old pot-bellied stove on which was lavished for mere heat lengths of beautiful native oak and hickory. She looked at Joe quickly, almost guiltily in all seeming, and told him to come in, to sit down, near the heat, to wait and she'd find something for him.

Joe sat down. He was oddly embarrassed. More oddly, the woman seemed embarrassed. She was brusque, shushing around the place, talking about the weather and poor conditions, rattling dishes. There was a feeling in the room... a curious feeling that you could not place.

"There!" the old woman told him,

BARBECUE RECALLS FAMED 1835 FEAST FOR NEW ORLEANS GREYS

By ERNEST G. FISCHER Associated Press Staff Writer

The barbecue, a pioneer institution, is staging its usual election-year revival.

From now through the elections many a yearling, goat and sheep will be led to the sacrificial altar of Texas politics with the benediction by those who aspire to office.

They are no innovations, these barbecues, although the beer and venison of pioneer days have been replaced by other viands and the wire-netting barbecue pit has been dealt a blow by the networks.

More than 100 years ago—in October, 1835—Herman Ehrenberg, a German boy who joined other adventurers to form the New Orleans Greys for the support of the Texas Revolutionists, was impressed by the hospitality of barbecue makers in East Texas.

At San Augustine, on the march from Natchitoches to San Antonio, "what pleased our company beyond anything else was the sight of large beefsteaks and roasts, especially prepared for us, lying before huge fires," Ehrenberg wrote.

How the New Orleans Greys fared at Nacogdoches is recalled by Karle Wilson Baker, Nacogdoches writer, who used Ehrenberg's journal as the basis of an article in the Southwest Review.

Pioneer Banquet

"A grand banquet given for the Greys on the second evening—a feast of liberty as a table 150 feet long—had some unique features. For one thing, $80 worth of champagne was drunk, according to Ehrenberg, in addition to drinks more usual to the wilderness; and for another, the centerpiece was a huge black bear, 'Mr. Petz,' beautifully prepared and roasted, but covered again with his skin, complete with head and claws, and holding in his terrible teeth the 'flag of the Constitution of 1824.'

"The plates were of white china and the glasses were of crystal, but the master of ceremonies had to apologize for the absence of knives and forks, and set the example for the diners by drawing his Bowie knife and ripping the skin from Mr. Petz, revealing him, all brown and appetizing, underneath.

Scaring patriotic speeches were made and toasts drunk, and the banquet lasted far into the night."

While Ehrenberg did not call the occasion a "barbecue" possibly there is no German equivalent for the word; the roasted meat, along with the death of knives and forks, is suggestive of today's barbecues.

Bowie Knife Banned

The Texas barbecue code of today is further concealed by the statute against concealed weapons which specifically lists the Bowie knife as verboten.

Ehrenberg goes on to say, "Raccoon, opossums, squirrels, and turkeys surrounded Mr. Petz, which two large legs of mutton, roasted to a nice brown, and a substantial joint of beef completed the decoration of our board."

And like its 1938 festival, "political addresses had their turn" at this banquet of 1835, Ehrenberg recorded, "the causes of the war were gone over, stirring appeals were launched forth."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

SOME SCIENTISTS SAY: PERHAPS ONE STAR OUT OF EVERY 100,000 HAS A SYSTEM OF PLANETS, THE SAME AS DOES OUR OWN STAR, THE SUN.

WHETHER there is life on other planets of our own solar system we can only guess. We do know that any life there would be different from our own, because, in most cases, conditions are so very different. It is very likely that many stars have their own systems of planets, but this, too, we can only wonder about.

BIG CROP OF WATERMELONS GETTING RIPE

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff Writer

Trucks bulging with watermelons rumbled into the market centers of Texas today, bringing reports that a bumper crop of the frost-meated delicacy was on its way.

The watermelon season has its unofficial opening Sunday with "Juneteenth," that gala occasion when the negroes celebrate the emancipation of Texas slaves, but the crop will not begin to really move before July 1.

Melons are already coming in considerable quantities from the principal producing areas in South Texas, selling at a price that is causing farmers and produce men to predict the market will hold up better than usual.

"There'll be plenty of nickel melons all right," said one dealer, "but we're hoping they'll not fall that low before we get our profit."

Present prices on the big city markets are around $2.00 per hundred pounds, meaning a fair-sized melon can be bought for about 50 cents—depending on the melon, the shop, market or wagon where it is bought and the bargaining ability of the buyer. Early Texas melons are selling from $1.25 to $1.50 per hundred wholesale.

The price is all the farmers have to worry about these days because practically every town and city provides them with a suitable place to market their produce and it's not a fight all season to grab the choice "stands" in the heart of the business district.

In The Old Days

Once they jammed their wagons around the courthouse and sold those that "thumped good" and "plugged red" to people who ate them on the spot, to wit: the courthouse lawn.

But civic-minded citizenry looked at the mess of rinds and seeds and decided they should provide some relief both for the farm and the city. So they set aside a place away from the center of town in order to prevent travelers getting the wrong idea about the local sanitation and beautification program, and also to provide the farmers with more adequate facilities.

The farmers bucked and snorted at first, claiming the "city fellers" were trying to shunt them aside except when they needed their trade.

But the plan worked out better than expected. Some cities have had to settle quarrels between farmers over "choice locations" by passing ordinances prohibiting them being on the ground at certain periods in order to give everybody an equal shot and not permit a farmer to "camp out" at one location all season without moving. But generally speaking the farmers are better satisfied with the market squares and their neat sheds and often paved underfooting.

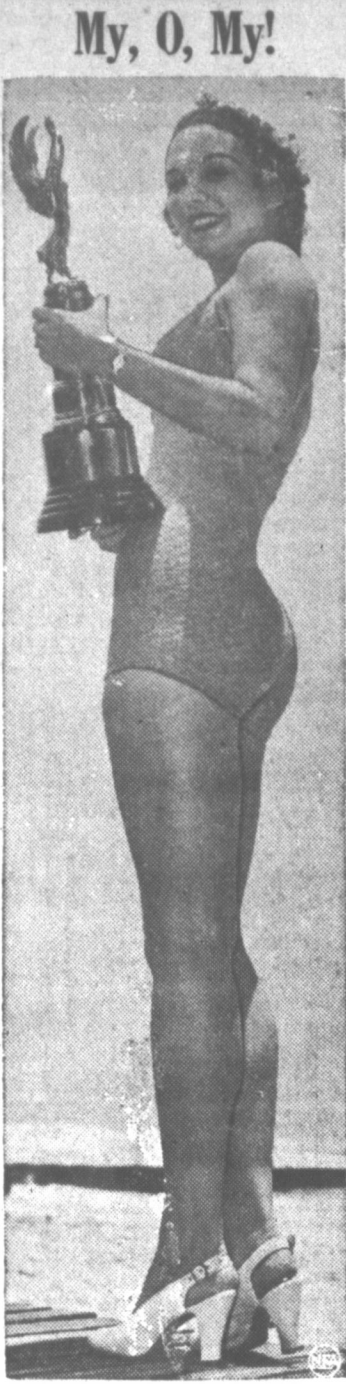

The movement of the melon crop this year, generally speaking, is earlier and the quality is better. Experts say condition of the early crop is favorable, adding that a great deal depends on the weather the next two weeks. The last estimate of Texas acreage was 49,000, compared to 46,000 in 1937. Virtually all this increase is in the early producing section.

Parker Crop Good

Most of the melons shipped out of the state come from the areas south and southwest of San Antonio because they are so early they have minimum competition from other states. Among important areas for later melons are sections around Tyler and Parker and Wise Counties.

San Antonio produce men predict the best season in years, declaring the melons already on the market are larger and sweeter than for several seasons.

The Parker County crop will be good this year but late because of cold weather. Parker County once claimed to be the world's greatest melon center but no longer applies to that distinction. Overproduction in the nation and poor prices caused a turn to peach growing and the federal census lists the county first

Man travels 100,000 miles in Gotham Bay

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Meet the man who has traveled more than 100,000 miles on the water, yet never has taken an ocean voyage.

He is John T. Parker, 70, who retired today after 21 years of taking the government cutter down New York bay to meet incoming liners at quarantine. He's met about 22,000 ships and all his sailing has been inside the harbor.

Parker isn't going to take a sea voyage for relaxation.

"Mrs. Parker doesn't like the sea and I would not care to travel alone," he says.

PAMPANS MEMBERS OF COWBOY ASSOCIATION

Pampa members of the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association, composed of oldtime cowhands, which will hold its annual meeting during the Reunion in Stamford July 4, 5, and 6, include H. C. Caffey and W. H. Peters.

Members of the association receive the highly prized oldtime cowboy's metal badge upon payment of their annual dues of $1. The badge admits the member to all rodeo performances with grandstand privileges, to the cowboy square dances at the bunkhouse each night and to the meal ticket for a chuckwagon dinner each day at noon.

Entertainment of the oldtime cowhands, whose ranks are fast thinning, is one of the main purposes of the Texas Cowboy Reunion. Their gathering is an occasion for reviving memories of frontier life on Texas cattle ranches and preserving customs and traditions of the old west.

Walt Cousins, of Dallas, former west Texas cowhand who is serving his second term as president of the association, will preside at the meeting of the oldtimers. Officers for the coming year will be elected. The meetings will be held in the enlarged cowboy bunkhouse, permanent home of the association, which is being completed along the lines it was originally designed at a cost of $6,300.
