Wind could become profitable crop for this area

By MARILYN POWERS Staff Writer

A sometimes aggravating feature of Gray County weather which may turn into a profitable crop for harvesting is the focus of two wind energy companies which have expressed an interest in establishing sites here.

"My understanding is that there are two separate companies" that are looking at Gray and Donley counties for their wind energy potential, said Gray County Judge Richard Peet.

A representative of one of the two, Wind Ventures of Massachusetts, will address Donley County commissioners Monday and County commissioners Wednesday on the company's interest in the area, he said. Another company, Airtricity, is considering placing wind energy windmills in western Gray County and parts of Donley County, Peet said. CPV Wind Ventures' interest lies east of Highway 70 in the two counties, he said.

"Right now, they are projecting placing over 50 units in Gray and Donley counties," Peet said of CPV Wind Ventures. "They will address commissioners in regard to any tax abatement.

"I'm not familiar with Airtricity, but it's my understanding that some ranchers in Gray and Carson counties have signed lease agreements with them. It's supposed to be a very large wind farm, anywhere from 200 to 600 wind generators."

Tax abatements and pilot payments are often sought by companies and industries when deciding whether to locate in a new area. When a company is granted a tax abatement by a taxing entity, the company pays an agreed-upon percentage of the property tax which would normally be collected. This percentage can be any amount and can increase on any scale over a period of time.

Pilot payments are flat-rate pay-

Judge Peet gains honor

By MARILYN POWERS Staff Writer

Gray County Judge Richard Peet will be inducted as a Fellow of the Texas Judicial Academy on Nov. 15 in Austin.

Judges who are named to the academy must complete at least twice the number of required judicial education hours and provide exemplary service to improve judicial education.

Minimum required hours of education to be completed by county judges is 30 hours the first year in office, followed by 16 hours per year thereafter, Peet said.

"I spoke to the state convention in August concerning our wildfires," Peet said of his service to improve judicial education. "I talked about how to prepare for such an Center. event, and suggested they have contact p ple in place."

He told of the importance of knowing in advance who to contact and how to contact them in response to various types of emergencies.

Peet is one of a second group of judges to be inducted into the organization. The first group was inducted in March in Lubbock, he Peet has served as Gray County judge for 12 years. Before being elected to his current office, he was mayor of Pampa for six years after serving as a city commissioner for two vears.

Peet taught government and social sciences classes for 26 years at Pampa High School and Clarendon College Pampa

This year's cotton crop begins to come in for ginning

WHITE DEER - Randy Kennedy is ginnin' right along.

Beginning Oct. 9 this year, when the first bale of cotton was brought into the Carson County Gin, the activity began and won't let up until January when the last bale is ginned.

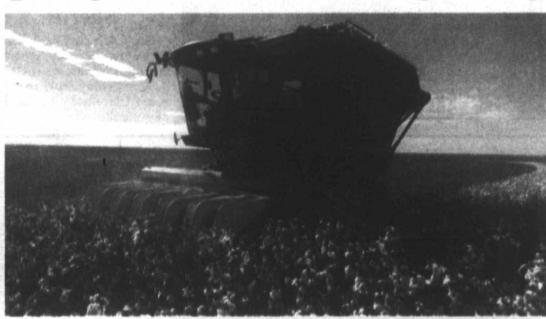

"We've had great weather again this year so far for harvesting," Kennedy said.

He said the cotton wasn't completely ready until the area got these last freezes overnight.

"It's finally getting ready to harvest now," Kennedy

An award-winning publisher who took the inspiration for her magazine from Pampa and Amarillo periodicals says that the lessons she learned here helped her create a successful California company.

Melanie Warner Kennedy, daughter of John and Judy Warner of Pampa and a 1987 graduate of Pampa High School, was recently awarded Union Bank of California's Entrepreneur of the Year for the state of California. Kennedy began her career in media at age 15, when she worked for KGRO radio station in Pampa. She attended the University of California at Los Angeles' film school and subsequently did some acting on television, followed by founding her own company in Fresno, she said.

"I started it four years ago in my infant son's bedroom. I now have 40 employees," she said.

Cactus Media Group Inc.,

Kennedy's company, includes both broadcast and print media.

"Under that umbrella, we do TV production, feature films, commercials, speaking and seminars, and Fresno Magazine," she said.

"Fresno is very much like the Midwest," Kennedy said. "A lot of the lessons I learned in Pampa have worked well here. It's a small-town atmosphere and mentality. It's agricul-Mayors sign document denouncing fence NEGRAS, That's why we're here today all human dignity."

PIEDRAS Mexico (AP) — Mexican and U.S. border mayors signed a document Friday denouncing U.S. plans to build new border fences.

In the document, the mayors of Eagle Pass, Texas, and Ciudad Acuna and Piedras Negras, both in the Mexican border state of Coahuila, declare the U.S.-Mexico border an area for union and solidarity, not division.

"From El Paso to Brownsville, Texas, we're against building the wall. ...

to support our neighbors," said Eagle Pass Mayor Chad Foster.

Piedras Negras Mayor Jesus Flores said border communities face a lot of challenges that must be confronted by governments on both sides of the border. "We can only overcome our shared problems by using the cooperation links that have been established by our communities," Flores said. "It is with our neighbors in Eagle Pass and Del Rio that we share our origins and families. ... We can't be separated. A wall is something that goes against

The document was signed before a crowd of more than 2,000 people who gathered at a plaza to welcome Ciudad Acuna Mayor Evaristo Perez and those who accompanied him on a three-day, 55-mile (88-kilometer) march from Ciudad Acuna, across from Del Rio, Texas, to Piedras Negras.

"Today, we're calling on those men and women in power in the United States to reflect on the consequences of this disgraceful plan not only for the people of the border but also for humanity," the document said.

With Our Deepest Appreciation

To all the emergency care givers, those who brought food, helped with any of the chores, came to the house to visit, called to reminisce and those who helped with other things which we may not remember at this time, we would like to "thank you" from the bottom of our hearts. Your kind words and deeds will never be forgotten. We do appreciate all you have done, the gifts of time, food, or deed. It is at times like these we find out how much our friends and family mean to us. Again, thank you for all that you have done to help during our time of grief.

Sincerely, The Family of Robert "Chuck" Hogan

examining the smooth, grapefruit-size brain of a manatee remarked that the organ's unwrinkled surface resembled that of the brain of an idiot.

Ever since then, manatees have generally been considered incapable of doing anything more complicated than chewing sea grass.

But Hugh, a manatee in a tank at a Florida marine laboratory, doesn't seem like a dimwit. When a buzzer sounds, the speed bumpshaped mammal slowly flips his 1,300 pounds and aims a whiskered snout toward one of eight loudspeakers lowered into the water. Nosing the correct speaker earns him

Hugh is no manatee prodigy. Such sensory experiments, along with other recent studies, are revealing that sea cows aren't so stupid after all.

Researchers contend that if the plant-eating beasts seem slow-witted, it is because they faced no threats to their survival before the advent of boat propellers.

"They're not under any selection pressure to evolve the rapid-type behavior we've associated with hawks, a predator, or antelopes, a prey. They look like very contented animals that don't have very much to do all day," said Roger Reep, a neuroscientist at the University of Florida's College of Veterinary Medicine.

The experiments under way at the independent Mote Marine Laboratory, could help scientists protect Florida's manatees, an endangered species, from propellers and other dangers.

At least 75 manatees have been killed this year in collisions with watercraft, according to the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.

Despite recent findings that suggest the animals hear well enough to avoid boats, researchers are not sure why manatees keep getting hit. They could be surfacing to breathe while sleeping, or they may have grown too accustomed to the sound of boats.

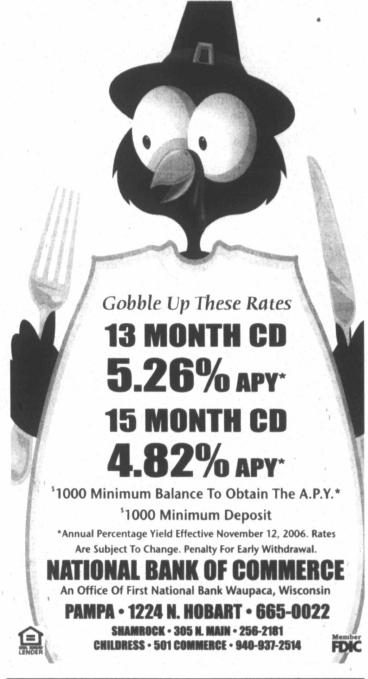

At the Mote laboratory, the buzzer experiments are hearing tests in which the tones gradually grow shorter and softer. The researchers want to know: At what distance could Hugh hear a boat's propeller churning in the water? Could Hugh determine where the sound is coming from?

Scientists have long assumed brains with many folds — such as those belonging to dolphins and humans — are a sign of intelligence. But Reep argues the cause behind those brain folds is unknown, and smooth-

The midterm elections have just whizzed by, creating a sigh of relief for thousands of ordinary citizens who had tired of the mudslinging and dirty tricks played by both major parties.

It was almost comical to see some of the junk I received in the mail. Expensive brochures told me that Chris Bell and Carole Keeton Strayhorn were up to no good. The things they were accused of would send a normal person to jail.

Rick Perry was re-elected governor with 40 percent of the vote. That is hardly a mandate from Texans. Sixty percent of voters favored someone else.

Republicans fared well in Texas, but Democrats gained at least four House seats. And now there is a move afoot in Austin by Democrats and some unhappy moderate Republicans to dump House speaker Tom Craddick, whose authoritarian mode doesn't fare well.

Moderate Texas Republicans and Democrats say they want someone they can both work with, according to The Associated Press.

The war in Iraq has proved to be unpopular. It and some sex scandals and corruption plagued the Republicans and contributed to their downfall nationally.

Now the political pundits, like so many waltzing prophets, dance around serious questions and put their own spin to their losses.

Rep. Nancy Pelosi, who will probably become the new Speaker of the House and the first woman to hold that position, said Democrats would work with President Bush to solve the nation's problems.

Where was this bipartisan spirit the last two years?

In a particularly nasty race to woman in the ad was white) in a replace Tennessee's Bill Frist in the Fox News interview several days

Senate, Republican Bob Corker, a former Chattanooga mayor, and Democratic Rep. Harold Ford dueled. Corker won the contest.

Dennis Spies Editor

That race was marked by a sleazy television ad with a somewhat sexy airhead blonde model who hinted that Ford partied with Playboy Bunnies. The ad was pulled after a public outcry, but the damage was done.

Corker was asked about the sleazy ad contributing to the race factor (Ford is black and the woman in the ad was white) in a Fox News interview several days before the election. He sidestepped the question with a nonanswer.

Scandals also played a part in the Republicans' downfall.

The Jack Abramoff scandal began a domino effect that took its toll.

Tom DeLay's seat was won by a Democrat.

Bob Ney, who pleaded guilty to corruption in connection with Abramoff, resigned and his seat was won by a Democrat.

Republican Rep. John Sweeney of New York lost his race after reports that he had roughed up his wife, an allegation she denied.

Florida Rep. Mark Foley quit after some sexually suggestive emails were sent to pages. His seat was lost to the Democrats.

Pennsylvania Rep. Don Sherwood apologized for his longterm affair with a younger woman. He lost, too. Another Pennsylvania lawmaker, Rep. Curt Weldon became caught up in a corruption investigation and lost.

Disapproval with the war in Iraq also had a bearing on others.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld resigned just hours after Democrats won control of the House. That signals a shakeup in the Pentagon and could usher in some new ideas about how to handle the Iraq situation.

When the party in power becomes too big for its britches and the sense of power overtakes these public servants, and when elected officials ignore the people who voted them in, changes are made.

What it all boils down to is that politicians work for the people. We vote them in and we can vote them

This is exactly what happened last week.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 12, the 316th day of 2006. There are 49 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 12, 1942, the World War II naval Battle of Guadalcanal began. (The Allies ended up winning a major victory over the Japanese.)

On this date:

In 1815, American suffragist Elizabeth Cady Stanton was born in Johnstown, N.Y.

In 1920, Major League Baseball got its first "czar" as Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was elected commission-

In 1927, Josef Stalin became the undisputed ruler of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist Party.

In 1929, Grace Kelly — the future movie star and Princess of Monaco — was born in Philadelphia.

In 1948, former Japanese premier Hideki Tojo and several other World War II Japanese leaders were sentenced to death by a war crimes tribunal.

In 1977, the city of New Orleans elected its first black mayor, Ernest "Dutch" Morial.

In 1982, Yuri V. Andropov was elected to succeed the late Leonid I. Brezhnev as general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee.

Passionate affair with digital unhealthy

I am concerned about society's current obsession with gadgets and our headlong rush to "go digital." That said, I have nothing against advances that improve our lives. I just think that we need to take a good look at some of those advances first, and not just throw caution to the wind, simply for something that is new and shiny.

For instance, right now, we are in the midst of a crisis over "e-voting," a new digital system that seems neither secure nor reliable. Yet, during this election, such machines are being trusted to count nearly three-quarters of our votes! That comes on top of concerns that our new electronic world is turning into a place of isolation. Overuse of email and text-messaging is rapidly supplanting face-toface friendship with cold and distant words on an electronic display.

In light of that, I wish to discuss the news article about how some Texas schools want to switch totally to "e-books" (Sunday, Nov. 5, page 2). In this case, my worries go far beyond the obvious "programmability" of digital media, and how, with just the click of a mouse, "easily updated" text

Talking calendar: What Oct has to say

It was surreal, my dream a few nights back. I've often mumbled at red lights and greeted fence posts, but in the farthest corner of my memory, there's no recollection of conversations with calendars.

In dreamland, my calendar spoke plain as day; accounts were vivid.

Actually, I shouldn't lump all 12 months together. The visit was with October – as frustrated a month as I've ever encountered. At no time was I led to believe that "month 10" in the Gregorian calendar was speaking for the other eleven ...

Accustomed as I am to public speaking, talking to a month still felt strange.

"What shall I call you – Mr. October, Mrs. October, Ms. October?" I asked.

"Call me whatever you lamented, now thinking all choose," October laughed, the rest to be better months

"It's your dream."

At annual meetings with the other months, colleagues shorten the name to "Oct."...

"I think Pope Gregory

XIII wanted to get things s t r e a m - lined," Oct said, noting

Oct explained details involving the tides, vernal equinoxes and the competing Julian calendar.

"Most countries of the world adopted the calendar across the next couple of centuries. I just wish I hadn't been so ambivalent when I opted for October," Oct lamented, now thinking all the rest to be better months

He/she admitted that for the first few centuries, things were okay. Months came and went, flipping casually over to the next.

The litany of complaints was not without substantiation ...

Oct cited political correctness, greed and ever-growing decibels of noise that are getting his goat.

"I get blamed for everything," Oct said, "But when you get down to it, I'm a bystander. I just mark the days; I don't orchestrate them."

Picking up steam, Oct spoke of being a "weather" referee. "On the front end, I've got summer holding on for dear life, and mere days later, winter's teeth are clamping down. Wedged in between is a mighty short autumn ..."

Oct didn't leave out the NCAA, claming that the organization is "campaigning to change the name of Indian Summer." Oct doesn't think the NCAA suggestion has a chance, but then "lesser entities have caved in."

"Political campaigns are stinking up the planet and have to be dealt with every

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around

Texas:

Nov. 6

The Dallas Morning News on the fate of Saddam Hussein:

And so, the tyrant will hang for his crimes. Although war in Iraq has divided the American people, on the Iraqi tribunal's verdict on Saddam Hussein, all voices should sound the chorus:

This is justice.

As the verdict was read, Saddam bellowed, "Long live the people!" a bitterly ironic remark from a mass murderer receiving a well-deserved judgment in the name of those people he for so long oppressed. In fact, the collective voice of the 148 dead men and boys, townspeople of Dujail murdered at Saddam's behest spoke through the court. Unlike the murderer's, their words had weight.

Guilty of crimes against humanity. Guilty of torture. Guilty of execution. Guilty.

Unless his conviction and sentence are overturned on appeal, Saddam will swing. Even those who oppose the death penalty in ordinary circumstances should consider the extraordinary nature of this man's savage crimes the vast majority of which he will never have to answer for, at least not in this life and the necessity for Iraqi society to protect itself against pro-Saddam vengeance.

Consider that Saddam and his codefendants were on trial for laying waste an entire Shiite village after some of its inhabitants tried to kill the despot as his motorcade passed through in 1982. One of the trial's witnesses testified that his entire family was rounded up by Saddam's thugs, brought to a torture facility, and that "I swear by God, I walked by a room and ... saw a grinder with blood coming out of it and human hair underneath."

Think about that.

That a former dictator could be put in the dock for his crimes is, as U.S. Ambassador Zalmay Khalilzad said in Baghdad yesterday, "an important milestone for Iraq ... in the building of a free society based on the rule of law."

If the ambassador is right, Iraqis in the future will look back on this

Agency issues allowables for November

AUSTIN — The Texas average rig count as of Oct. 20 was 781, representing about 48 percent of all active land rigs in the United States.

In the last 12 months, total Texas reported production was 342 million barrels of oil and 5.9 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. Texas natural gas represents production approximately 29 percent of total U.S. natural gas demand.

Texas Commission's

final production for August 2006 is 29,114,669 barrels of crude oil and 480,194,284 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas well gas.

The Commission derives final production numbers by multiplying the preliminary August 2006 production totals of 27,581,157 barrels of crude oil and 387,847,738 Mcf of gas well gas by a production adjustment factor of 1.0556 for crude oil and 1.2381 for gas well gas. estimated (These production totals do not include casinghead gas or condensate.)

Texas natural gas storage reported by the Commission for September 2006 is 402,588,531 Mcf compared to 287,700,447 Mcf in September 2005. The October 2006 gas storage estimate is 418,494,114 Mcf.

Atmos launches customer toolkit

LUBBOCK - It might be hard to think about cold weather before summer officially ends, but Atmos Energy Corporation (NYSE: ATO) has recently launched an online toolkit to help home and business owners make better energy decisions as they prepare for winter.

These easy-to-use energy management tools are now available to help consumers manage their energy use, realize efficiencies and savings, and enjoy greater indoor comfort. The tools are free to use, and they're available on the company's Web site at www.atmosenergy.com by clicking on Manage Energy Use under the Home Service tab.

"We initiated the online energy management tools because many of our customers have been asking for a way to manage their energy costs," said Robert W. Best, chairman, president and CEO of Atmos Energy. "Although Atmos Energy does not control the costs of the natural gas that is passed through to our customers, these tools give customers some control over their bills by helping them to use energy more wisely."

Dick Erskine, president of the company's Mid-Tex Division, added: "Saving energy is good for all of us, and we want to help consumers be more energy conscious. Whatever we can do to empower consumers is good for our customers, our environment, and our company."

The suite of tools includes an Energy Profile, an Energy Calculator, and an Energy Tips tool. The Energy Profile analyzes information provided by the consumer, and it then provides a picture of where and how the consumer can save energy throughout the home. The Energy Calculator enables the user to discover how much energy a home appliance uses, as well as its average cost to operate.

"Knowing each appliance's operating costs, coupled with some simple do-it-yourself tips found in our Energy Tips section, may help a consumer shop wisely and use energy more efficiently," said Erskine.

The site also contains an Energy Library which houses indepth material on gas and electric topics. Consumers will be able to receive prompt, personal, and confidential answers from Atmos Energy's own energy experts by sending their production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 20,507,877 Mcf (thousand cubic feet).

In setting the initial November 2006 allowables, the Commission used historical production figures from previous months, producers' demand forecasts for the coming month, and adjusted the figures based on well capability. These initial allowables will be adjusted after actual production for November 2006 is reported.

books can also be easily censored. Now, as I watch this disturbing stampede, my dread comes from something far more tangible, the children's eyesight. As any optician can attest, computer screens are the worst things that we could subject upon or eyes. They are built to be viewed at arm's length, the one place that our eyes were never designed to focus. They sit too far away for reading vision, yet too close for distance vision. I can remember, as a child, being warned not to sit too close to the television. Yet, with today's electronic displays, children are being told to do just that! Then, there is the issue of staring at the constant glare of these displays, and the fact that their text is not nearly as sharp as words inked onto paper. I know, from experience, that too many hours at the computer can led to blurred vision, headaches, and decreased ability to see at night.

Is this what we really want for our children? Will we doom an entire young generation to a life of premature blindness? In the future, if our high school graduates are unable to read, will it be because they cannot see the page? As a society, we may need to rethink our passionate love affair with "digital." It could be a relationship headed for disaster.

their sacred honor depends on avenging their champion's death by pushing Iraq over the brink into full-scale civil war. If so, the Saddam verdict will not represent the end of the new Iraq's painful beginning, but the beginning of its end as a nation.

From an American point of view, whether the Saddam trial outcome was worth this costly war and its calamitous aftermath is an open question, one that many voters are grappling with as Election Day approaches. Whatever one's personal verdict in that matter, it is hard to imagine men and women of goodwill shedding a tear over the Butcher of Baghdad's fate.

Sports Day

It was Senior Night at Harvester Field Friday night. Among those being recognized were Pampa Harvester cheerleaders (clockwise) Natalie Knowles, Erica Silva, Maegan Patterson, Angela Mechelay, Tanna Stowers, Halie Acker, and Whitney Morris. Pampa defeated Palo Duro, 14-7.

Pampa sends seniors off with a 14-7 win over PD

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS Sports Editor

You could sense it during the Pampa's pre-game warm-up. There wasn't a hint of pressure. The players - even the coaches - all appeared to be relaxed and ready to have some fun.

And that pressure-free aura hung over the Harvester sideline from coin toss to games' end as Pampa dropped visiting Palo Duro, 14-7 in the Harvester's final game of the Palo Duro wasted no time in showing its playing hand. The Dons, using a no huddle look, would use the passing game in an attempt to stretch the top rated Harvester defense.

It was a plan that worked to near perfection on PD's second possession of the game. Short passes to the flat that were turned into big yards, including one for a touchdown with 5:01 left in the first quarter. The extra point was true and playoff bound Palo Duro took a 7-0 lead over Pampa.

And though the Dons would rack up more yards through the air from that point, they would not score again.

As it had most of the season, the Harvester defense gave up a few yards between the 20s, but stood tall inside the red

On two different PD possessions, drives were stopped by interceptions. One by Austin Pritchett. The other by Chase Harris. Other Palo Duro possessions were stymied by simple Harvester defensive strength. Pampa defenders blew through blockers to catch PD runners at the line or in the backfield. Ryan Funderburg and James Coffee both had big tackles for losses during the

This pressure also forced a number of Palo Duro passes to fall short of their mark.

As they had throughout the season, Coffee's punts forced the Dons to play a long field.

On offense, Pampa's Brett Ferrell looked comfortable under center and in the shotgun. He was mobile and able to complete a few key passes when needed. He was also able to rumble for a few yards toward the end of the game, gaining first downs and eating time off the clock.

This game truly defined the Harvester Spirit. That Pampa Pride that is referred to so often. It would be hard, perhaps unfair to single out any one moment, play or player. However, one could not ignore the night Harris had at running back.

He scored Pampa's first touchdown, a 30yard romp off a toss from Ferrell, with 5:32 left in the first half.

But it was what Harris did minutes later that defined what the heart of a Pampa Harvester is all about. It spoke to all the seniors playing in their final game, saying, "This is our night. This is our win. This is our legacy."

With 1:16 to go until half-time and facing a third-and-13 from the Pampa 17-yard line, Harris took another toss from Ferrell. He ran to the left much as he did on his earlier TD run, only this time he was immediately penned in, in the grasp of at least two Palo Duro defenders.

Constantly looking upfield, Harris shed his would be tacklers, broke through the line and smartly used his own blockers who laid out a 79-yard path to the end zone.

Pandemonium erupted among the Harvester Nation. A penalty flag resting in front of the PD bench after the run caused only a moment of concern until the referee signaled it was a side line warning against Pampa led the PD 14-7 at the break and held on to win from there.

Emotions ran deep after the game. As coach Andy Cavalier tried to gather his troops and head for the locker room, Ray Boring asked to interview a few players. "Who do you want?" asked Cavalier. "Seniors," replied Boring.

He got them. He got them all. And he, along with fellow AM 1230 KGRO radio commentator Donny Hooper, gave each one the chance to speak. Every senior player who spoke used the opportunity to address family and fans, saying, "We love you" and "Thank you."

That, too, is the Harvester spirit. Pampa Pride.

▲ First year Pampa head coach Andy Cavalier hugs running back Chase Harris after Friday night's season-ending 14-7 win over Palo Duro. Harris had just under 160 yards rushing and two TDs in the game.

Cowboys face skidding Cardinals

GLENDALE, Ariz. (AP) - For all their ineonsistency, penalties and dropped passes, the Dallas Cowboys remain a playoff contender halfway through their season. A 4-4 record is good enough to keep hope alive in the NFC.

'There are only five teams in the conference with a better record," coach Bill Parcells said, "and three of them are only one game better. ... If you just play well from here out, you do have a chance."

A loss to the skidding Arizona Cardinals (1-7) on Sunday would go a long ways toward dashing the Cowboys' remaining hopes, especially in the wake of last week's heartbreaker against Washington and with a date against Indianapolis next week.

Terrell Owens, who dropped a sure touchdown pass in the 22-19 loss to the Redskins, comes into the Cardinals' game highly motivated.

"From here on out, I'll be a different person," Owens said. "I won't be standing here no more during the season saying I've lost the game. ... I promise you that.'

That makes Arizona cornerback Eric Green wary, to say the least.

"It's tough, especially with a guy like T.O.," said Green, whose never played against Owens. "He beats you once and he's doing his dance. I just don't want to be the guy that he's dancing on."

Green's family is coming to town for the game in front of a sellout crowd at the Cardinals' new stadium.

"My mom's like, 'Oh, my baby's playing against T.O.' She's getting all nervous,' Green said. "I'm like, 'Mom, he's getting paid just like me. Chill out."

The Cardinals are coming off a bye week that gave the team added time to settle speculation about Dennis Green's status. Green is staying as coach, apparently through the season. There also was a players-only meeting Monday after defensive end Bertrand Berry cited some teammates for a lack of work ethic and desire on his weekly radio

"This is not Friday night football in high school where you're just playing in front of your little girlfriend in the stands," Berry said on station KMVP. "You're actually getting paid to do this, so it's your job to go out there each and every day and do the job that you're paid very well to do. When you don't do it, you should not have your job anymore. It's that simple."

The air-clearing meeting that followed helped, rookie quarterback Matt Leinart

"You sit and you hear what the vets have to say and you talk among yourselves," Leinart said. "You try to fix things or whatever. We're all on the same team, no matter what, so it was really beneficial, I think, to

He was starting for the Jaguars when the Texans visited Jacksonville on Dec. 26, 2004. The Jags needed a win to essentially wrap up a playoff spot, and Houston was closing out a third consecutive losing season and playing mostly for pride.

"It was freezing out there. It was real cold and they came out with more intensity than us," Salaam recalled. "There were like 11 people in the stands and we were trying to make it to the playoffs. That's what I remember."

The Texans shocked the Jaguars, winning 21-0 and all but eliminating them from the Houston (2-6) hasn't won on the road since, a 12-game skid that is the longest in the NFL. Maybe another trip to Jacksonville will turn things around.

"That's a long time ago, so it's been a long dry spell," Texans coach Gary Kubiak road football team, and learn to play with more poise and learn to protect the ball better on the road to be competitive and have an opportunity to win a game.

"You look week in and week out in this league, the teams that go into somebody's place and win, they usually do it because of turnovers or situations like that. We're going to have to play much better."

The Texans have always played well against the Jaguars (5-3). In fact, of Houston's 20 wins in five seasons, five have come against its AFC South foe.

It started with the franchise's first road win, a 21-19 victory in Jacksonville in October 2002. It continued the next two years, with Houston winning three of four Although Jacksonville won both meetings last year, the Jaguars had to come from behind in the fourth quarter in each.

The rivalry surely heated up three weeks ago in Houston, where the Texans upset Jacksonville 27-7 in what has become the franchise's biggest debacle since the 2004 loss to the Texans.

"It was just such a bad loss," quarterback Byron Leftwich said. "It left a sour taste in a lot of people's mouth, including mine."

Leftwich convinced coach Jack Del Rio he could play despite an injured left ankle, then played poorly. He has been benched since and will be on the sideline again Sunday, giving way to backup David Safety Deon Grant gave a motivational speech at halftime, right after Del Rio asked no one to talk, then got benched for it.

The Jaguars looked like they might rally, but Fred Taylor fumbled late in the third quarter and Ernest Wilford fumbled on said. "We have to become a much better Jacksonville's next play - turnovers that made a 10-7 deficit a 24-7 rout.

> Taylor guaranteed Sunday's meeting will be a "totally different type of ballgame."

"Because we won't lose this time." Taylor

"We've got more going on than a grudge game," Del Rio said. "There's more to what we've got going on in our season right now. 'Helicopter parents' may be hindering their children

By MARTHA IRVINE AP National Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Some parents are writing their college-age kids' resumes. Others are acting as their children's "representatives," hounding college career counselors, showing up at job fairs and sometimes going as far as calling employers to ask why their son or daughter didn't get a

It's the next phase in helicopter parenting, a term coined for those who have hovered over their children's lives from kindergarten to college. Now they are inserting themselves into their kids' job search - and school officials and employers say it's a problem that may be hampering some young people's careers.

"It has now reached epidemic proportions," says Michael Ellis, director of career and life education at Delaware Valley College, a small, private school in Doylestown, Pa.

At the school's annual job fair last year, he says, one father accompanied his daughter, handed out her resume and answered most of the questions the recruiters were asking the young woman. Even more often, he receives calls from parents, only to find out later that their soon-to-be college grad was sitting next to the parent, quietly listening.

Jobs counselors at universities across the country say experiences like those are now commonplace.

"My main concern is the obvious need of the students to develop their independence and confidence," says

Serves: 6

Raisin-Onion Jam 1/2 tablespoon olive oil

1/4 medium yellow onion, thinly sliced (iulienne)

tablespoon balsamic

1/2 tablespoon honey

1/4 cup California raisins small sprig fresh thyme

1/2 teaspoon fresh lemon zest Salt and pepper to taste

Blue Cheese Glaze

1/2 cup crumbled Gorgonzola cheese

2 tablespoons mayonnaise 1/2 tablespoon chopped parsley

1/2 tablespoon chopped chives 1/4 teaspoon black pepper ribs removed

Garden Sauté

3 ounces steak-cut bacon, diced 2 1/4 teaspoons chopped garlic

1 1/2 tablespoons chopped shallot 6 cups fresh chopped Swiss chard leaves or beet greens, stems and

3/4 cup roasted USA-grown peanuts Salt and pepper to taste

6 filet mignon (about 6 ounces each) Salt and pepper, to taste

For jam, heat oil in 12-inch skillet over medium heat. Add onions and cook until soft. Stir in vinegar and honey; cook 1 minute. Add raisins, thyme and lemon zest; Remove thyme sprig and divide mixture in half. Add half to food processor or blender and pulse until smooth. Combine with remaining mixture in skillet and mix well. Season to taste and set aside.

In a small bowl, combine ingredients for blue cheese glaze; mix well and set aside.

Cook bacon in large saucepan over medium-high heat for 6 to 7 minutes, until almost crispy. Add garlic and shallot; cook 2 to 3 minutes more until soft. Stir in Swiss chard; cook and toss until wilted, 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in peanuts and season to taste. To serve, brush steaks with oil and season with salt and pepper. Spoon 1 to 2 tablespoons of glaze onto each steak. Grill steaks over high heat for 4 to 5 minutes per side until they reach preferred doneness (145°F for medium rare) and glaze is golden brown. Remove from grill and add a heaping dollop of jam. Serve with garden sauté.

tablespoons cumin tablespoons ground coriander

1 1/2 tablespoons salt

1/4 cup olive oil 6 New York strip steaks (about 12 ounces each)

Spicy Raisin-Wine Sauce 1/2 cup red wine

1/4 cup California raisins tablespoon honey tablespoons Dijon mustard teaspoon chopped fresh oregano

1/2 tablespoon chopped cilantro teaspoon chipotle peppers canned in adobo sauce 1/2 tablespoon chopped shallot

Salt and pepper to taste Warm Green Bean Salad

2 tablespoons olive oil 1 1/2 pounds fresh green beans, trimmed and blanched 2 tablespoons chopped shallot

Salt and pepper to taste

1/2 cup roasted red peppers, cut into matchstick-size pieces (julienne) cup roasted USA-grown pean

2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley 1/4 cup balsamic vinegar

Combine garlic, cumin, coriander, salt and olive oil in small bowl and mix together. Rub onto steaks and arrange in shallow dish; refrigerate 1 to 2 hours.

In small saucepan, heat wine just to boiling for sauce. Measure raisins into small bowl and pour wine over; let stand 10 to 15 minutes until raisins are soft. Add remaining ingredients and puree in food processor or blender; set aside.

For salad, heat oil in large skillet and sauté shallot over medium-high heat 2 to 3 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; cook until heated through and beans are tender-crisp. To serve, remove steak from refrigerator; drain and grill over high heat for 4 minutes per side until preferred doneness (145°F for medium rare). Remove from grill and drizzle with raisin wine sauce. Serve with green bean-peanut salad.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My youngest son, "Quinn," is 13 and has one of the most tender hearts I've ever seen. He can't stand to see anyone be hurt or left out. My husband died when Quinn was 18 months old. Quinn will make someone a wonderful husband one day. I know, because he displays these traits already. I recently had major surgery. Quinn was the one who took care of me when I got out of the hospital. It wasn't because I asked him to, but because he wanted to. He didn't miss a day of school, but the minute he got home he was right there to see what I needed. We spend a lot of time with our church family, and they love him, as do all his friends in the youth group. They invite him to hang out with them and think he's a great kid. My problem is that my mother and siblings dislike my son. They think he's lazy because he's overweight, and they say he has no personality. They never liked his father and accused him of being "controlling." They think Quinn is the same way. It started when he was a baby. They complained he was "too clingy" and a "crybaby." How can a grandmother shower so much love on all her grandchildren except one? My son is neither stupid nor insensitive. He's aware of how the family feels. That's why I have decided to keep him away from family events. I no longer attend, either. The last time I was at my parents' house I got so upset that when Mother left the room, I removed Quinn's pictures from the collage on the fridge and took them home. They don't love him -- why should he be there? As I suspected, they haven't even noticed, or they just don't care. I'm considering moving to get away from these people before they do any more damage. Talking to them is futile. Am I being petty? What would you do? Your advice would be appreciated. - QUINN'S MOM IN ORE-GON

DEAR MOM: Are you being petty? Removing the photographs was petty. Should you move? That would be overreacting to an unpleasant situation -- particularly in light of the fact that you and your son have an excellent support system in your "church family." And, in a sense, because Quinn's father is deceased and you are all he has, he needs that outside support. The young man appears to have shouldered a great deal of responsibility for someone so young. Moving away is not the answer. Keeping some distance from your family would be a better idea. Nutritional counseling for Quinn, along with professional counseling for you to help you deal with your anger, would also be helpful. I suspect there are issues in your relationship with your mother and siblings that need to be examined. Deal with those and your problems will be resolved.

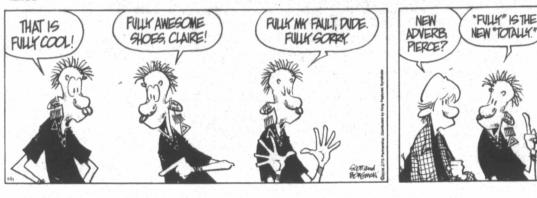

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married 30 years. Over the last couple of years, she has been going to weddings, etc. by herself, vs. our going as a couple as before. Her excuse is that they are "her" friends, and only she was invited. I think this is unusual, and it seems like they are occasions when couples should attend. Am I wrong in feeling this way? -- LEFT OUT IN CINCINNATI

DEAR LEFT OUT: Good manners require that when a married person is invited to a wedding, the spouse be included. The same applies to couples parties. If the "etc." you referred to in your letter is a gettogether for women only, that may be the reason you were excluded. However, because there could be other reasons why this is happening, this is a subject about which you and your wife are overdue for a heart-to-heart chat.

Kate Brooks, director of the Liberal Arts Career Center at the University of Texas. "I think it's great that parents want to share their advice - and even better that students of this age are willing to listen - but I think the boundaries get crossed sometimes."

Donnell Turner, assistant director of the career center at Loyola University in Chicago, is just starting to notice the trend. He couldn't believe it when he saw the first of a few parents walk into a recent job fair for students.

"What is she doing here?" he thought to himself. Some students had the same thought.

"My parents are very supportive, but they're certainly not telling me what to do," said Ferris Wilson, a senior majoring in accounting and finance at Loyola who navigated the job fair by her-

That said, she has seen many examples of parents who "dictate every move — even what their kids major in."

Often parents don't even know they're overdoing it. And it's not just at college.

Barbara Dwyer, a career coach in Sacramento, Calif., says she spoke at a Future Farmers of America meeting and met a mother whose son wanted to raise sheep for a living. The mom excitedly told Dwyer how she had done extensive research to find out what it would take for her son to get started in the business.

"I asked, 'Why did YOU do it?' And she looked shocked," Dwyer

Indeed, while many people have heard about the helicopter parent phenomenon, it's tough to find moms or dads who consider themselves one.

"You know, somebody called me that," says Diane Krier-Morrow, whose son recently graduated from Saint Louis University and is now teaching English in Taiwan. She came to the Loyola job fair to get information from employers for her son and brought copies of his resume to hand out.

"But believe me, I'm just going to hand him the bag," she said of the stack of jobs brochures and business cards she had gathered. "The rest is up to him."

She says parents sometimes worry that today's young people aren't as motivated to work as previous generations, so they feel inclined to do some nudging.

Marisa Wetzel, who graduated from New York University in May, knows what that's like. During her job search, her parents progress and to suggest friends who might have connections.

"Obviously, it can get a little annoying at times — but it's done with my best interest at heart," says Wetzel, 22. A month after she graduated, she landed a job as a publicity assistant in New York

She and other students say they use their parents as sounding boards because they trust their opinions - and don't want to repeat their mistakes.

But Ellis, at Delaware Valley College, says some students are too dependent.

Eileen Tarjan, a human resources specialist at NCH Marketing Services in Deerfield, Ill., says she gets tired of making offers to students, only to hear them say, "Can I have the weekend to talk about it with my par-

"Why can't they just say, 'Let me think about it," she asks.

And it doesn't stop there. A few colleagues have told Tarjan that parents are now calling to discuss their kids' first performance reviews.

She shakes her head: "It's unbe-

PPHM to observe History Day

CANYON — National History Day, the world's leading program for history education, and the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum invite students to enter the annual History Day competition on Feb. 24.

This year's theme is "Triumph & Tragedy in History," and students are asked to examine how these subjects have shaped the course of history.

PPHM will host the regional History Day where students will present their research and projects to a panel of judges.

The winner of the regional History Day will advance to the state level, and state winners will take their projects to the National History Day competition held in June in College Park, Md.

Most students begin preparing for the competition soon after the school year begins. Their teachers will brainstorm with them to choose topics and provide them with the guidelines for entering the competition.

A student may enter the competition in one of four categories - exhibit, historical performance, documentary and research paper. They also may decide to enter as individuals or as members of a group.

For more information on History Day, contact Millie Vanover at (806) 651-2249 or mvanover@pphm.wtamu.edu.

Local firms to offer investment program

Edward Jones offices nationwide will offer a free "Investing in Action Program" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov.

"Six Things to Consider about Your Estate Plan" with John O'Grady will be broadcast to help participants design a thorough estate plan. O'Grady will present six practical strategies for developing an effective plan.

To reserve a seat or for more information, call one of the following local representatives: Duane Harp, 665-6753; Tom Reynolds, 665-7137; or Ben Watson, 665-3359.

Additional viewing opportunities are available.

Dried plums act as antioxidant in some meats

By EDITH CHENAULT Extension News

COLLEGE STATION — To help satisfy consumer demand for more natural food products, researchers at Texas A&M University are investigating dried plums as a meat preservative.

"We found that dried plums, when pureed, actually have a very good antioxidant capacity," said Dr. Jimmy Keeton, professor of animal science and leader of the research at Texas A&M.

"We've been experimenting with dried plums and plum juice in different types of products such as pre-cooked pork sausages, roast beef and ham to see which of those products will respond most effectively as antioxidants," he said. "We found that precooked and uncured products like sausages and roast beef actually respond the best."

Antioxidants retard oxidation of fatty acids that make up fat, he said.

"If these are unsaturated fatty acids, they can oxidize more and produce off-flavors and cause shelf life problems," he said.

Synthetic products called BHA (butylated hydroxyl anisole) and BHT (butylated hydroxyl toluene) have long been used as antioxidants. The natural product, extract of rosemary, is also used.

Dried plums can enhance the flavor of some products, frankfurters in particular, Keeton said.

"We've actually had consumers tell us they prefer the flavor of products with the dried plum ingredient," he said.

Because dried plums are better known as prunes, some concerns about the laxative effects have been raised. Keeton said the dried plum puree is added in such small amounts that it should not be a concern to most people.

Researchers added dried plum pate to sausages and similar ground products while dried plum juice was found to be most effective in beef roasts.

Meats with the dried plum additives are at present a specialty.

"Companies will have to look at the market and decide if this ingredient will work for them," Keeton said. "It's not expensive, but it must be listed as an ingredient added to the product."

Researchers also want to test adding the dried plum puree to lean meat products, he

"Unsaturated fatty acids are found in lean tissue membranes, and therefore it can be a benefit because it prevents the oxidation of them in the membranes," he said.

The research was funded by the California Dried Plum Board.

Farm Credit lenders report strong results

Tenth Farm Credit District, a family of rural financing cooperatives, today reported double-digit growth in earnings and loan volume for the third quarter of 2006.

The Tenth District is composed of Austin-based Farm Credit Bank of Texas (FCBT) and 20 affiliated lending co-ops, which finance rural real estate, country homes, agribusinesses and agriculture in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Texas. Together, they form the largest rural lending network serving the five states.

District net income of $63.7 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 2006, was up $6.4 million, or 11.2 percent, from the same quarter of 2005. Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 2006, totaled $178.9 million, a 9.5 percent increase from the same period in 2005.

Several factors fueled the earnings growth, including an increase in net interest income due primarily to loan growth, as well as an increase in noninterest income.

Gross loan volume at Sept. 30, 2006, totaled $11.9 billion. This is an increase of $1.7 billion, or 16.5 percent, since Dec. 31, 2005, and an increase of $2.2 billion, or 22.5 percent, since Sept. 30, 2005. At the same time, the credit quality of the Tenth District's loan portfolio grew even stronger during the third quarter.

"The Tenth Farm redit District is Credit pleased to once again report another outstanding quarter," FCBT Chief Executive Officer Larry Doyle

"Spectacular results like these don't just happen, however, even in a strong rural real estate market like we have experienced this year. They are more the result of the focus and

AUSTIN — The drive of association and bank staff, who are working harder and harder every day to capture a growing share of our market through competitive pricing and improved customer service," he said.

District assets totaled $15.2 billion at Sept. 30, 2006, an increase of 14.9 percent from the $13.2 billion reported at Dec. 31, 2005. Members' equity in the district lending cooperatives increased by 7.5 percent over the nine months to total $2.1 billion at Sept. 30,

"As a cooperatively owned lending institution, we are proud to report these favorable results. They under-score our concerted efforts to provide value to our customer-owners," said Ralph W. "Buddy" Cortese, FCBT board chairman.

The Tenth Farm Credit District is part of the nationwide Farm Credit System, which is currently celebrating 90 years of financing agriculture and rural America.

Nationally, the Farm Credit System reported combined net income of $621.0 million and $1.78 billion for the three- and nine-month periods ended Sept. 30, 2006, as compared with combined net income of $530.0 million and $1.55 billion for the same periods last year.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Nov.

This year you make a difference and open up to new possibilities. Your understanding and insight will take you in a new direction if you relax and go with the forces that be. Somehow you get past hassles that really could encumber you. Evaluate your priorities and plug in your energy accordingly. You are a naturalborn leader. Remember that when you're taking responsibility for what heads down your path this year. If you are single, because you are such a star, you meet people easily. Choosing Ms. or Mr. Right will take slightly more talent. If you are attached, give up needing to be so dominant. LEO tosses you into the

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Nov.

You have a way about you that encourages others to get to know you better. Excitement emanates from your very being, adding to the vitality of your daily life. Romance and creativity soar to unprecedented levels. Allow greater flow in your life. Just as you love to be spontaneous, allow others the same privilege. If you are single, you add much mirth and happiness to different situations. Trust in your abilities. Join in and make what you want happen. Others will respond. Just remember, you won't always be as popular as you are now, so you might want to consider stopping and getting in touch with a special person. If you are attached, plug in more joy and excitement. VIRGO adores you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Pace yourself, and you'll get through much more than you thought possible. Think in terms of gains and growth. Let opportunity in. Be willing to do something quite different and unusual. Trust yourself. Tonight: Make it OK. to focus on details.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

* Your creativity can stun people, but it definitely pleases someone you care about. Evaluate what you want with an eye to where you are heading. Sometimes taking a strong stand might not be comfortable, but it's necessary. Tonight: Let the imp in you out! GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Sometimes even busy you needs to stop. Think in terms of gains and growth. Allow more happiness in and be less judgmental. Dig into a task and be willing to explore thinking that might make you uncomfortable. Tonight: Happy at home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★ You might want to attempt to tackle a situation in a more dynamic manner. You could be on overload. Know when to stop and regroup — like today. Use your organization skills, but also delegate if need be. Tonight: Easy does

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Expenses do make a difference. Work with others. The unexpected occurs with a partner or someone you care about. Know when to say "enough." Work with other views, but know when to say "no." Know when you've had enough. Tonight: Expenses count.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) * You are full of smiles and getup-and-go. You make a difference. Listen to your instincts, especially with family and associates. Don't overreact, if possible. Brainstorm and talk. Ideas will stem from this process. Tonight: Away we go. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Know when to lay down your arms and back off. Of course this is a symbolic gesture, but a necessary one. Know when a situation is enough or when you have gone overboard. Events will work given time. Lie back. Tonight: Easy does it

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You might have more than enough going on. If you tune in to your sixth sense, ideas will pop up left and right. Know when you have gotten yourself into a problem. Don't risk your finances. Listen to your instincts. Tonight: Find your friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Others touch base with you and have much information. Note that the information is woven with bias. Sort through what you are hearing. How you see a developing professional or community matter could differ from many. Tonight: Work late CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) * Read between the lines. You might need to do some heavy thinking in order to handle a problem. Be careful not to stop dead in your tracks trying to figure out what is happening. Tonight:

Relax your mind. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Take your time dealing with others and/or money matters. Knowing when you have had enough or when you need to reverse courses could be significant. Relate with each person independently. A friend might point to another direction. Tonight: Time with that special

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 You might want to listen more carefully. Reach out for someone close You will understand where others are coming from. Notice that a different perspective will help you deal. Others feel like they can trust you. Tonight: Let others make suggestions. You choose.

Scholarship recipient

Dr. Pamela Fry, dean of the Oklahoma State University College of Education, recently congratulated Abby Cavalier of Pampa, right, who received a $1,000 COE Alumni Association Centennial Undergraduate Scholarship. Cavalier, a senior majoring in secondary education, is the daughter of Dennis and Kathy Cavalier of Pampa.

Bill, Belle Starr and Heck Thomas.

Glenn D. Shirley, who lived his entire life in Stillwater, Oklahoma, gathered this phenomenal collection over a period of 50 years. He was a prolific writer and respected historian who published 28 books and numerous short stories and articles.

Interestingly, he began his adult life as a lawman with the Stillwater Police Department where he served from 1936-1957. During that period, he received a diploma from the IAS School of Criminology in Chicago, a Bachelor of Law Degree from LaSalle University's School of Law and a diploma from the New York Institute of Photography.

In 1952, his first book was published, a collection of true-crime "Old West" stories, "Toughest Of Them All." It was his third book, however, "Law West Of Fort Smith: A History Of Frontier Justice In The Indian Territory, 1834-1896," that established him as an author, historian and an authority on frontier justice in the United States.

From 1957-1969, he served as a deputy sheriff and identification officer in the Payne County Sheriff's Office and later as Assistant Chief of Security for Oklahoma State University. Between 1969 and 1979, Shirley was employed by the Oklahoma State University Press as a publications specialist and assistant director. He resigned from OSU in 1980 to devote all his time to professional writing

Before his death in February 2002, Shirley was recognized with many awards. The Western Outlaw-Lawman History Association instituted the Glenn Shirley Award, to be given annually to an individual who, during a 25-year period or more, has contributed significantly to the field of research and documentation of outlaw-lawman history.

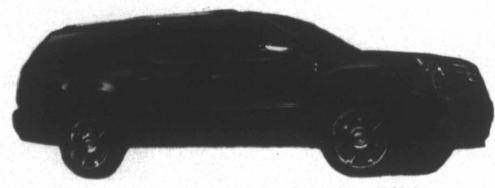

His disciplined, systematic and obsessively organized approach to research and writing was the key to his prolific literary production. This approach is reflected by his thorough record keeping, the detailed file folder label information, the comprehensive contents of those folders, and the sheer volume of files, more than 180 cubic feet. All of these materials were stored in Shirley's four-bedroom house.

"Fact & Fiction: Popular Western Imagery from the Glenn D. Shirley Western Americana Collection" is now on exhibit through December 31, 2006. This is the first public display of archival and library materials now preserved and made accessible through the Museum's Dickinson Research Center. On select days during the exhibit, visitors can view staff processing and cataloging components of the collection.

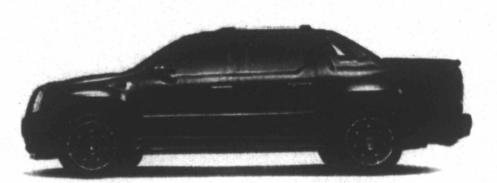

The National Cowboy Museum, America's premier Western heritage museumTM, is supported through private and corporate donations, including annual memberships. For more information call (405) 478-2250.
