ed off Loop 171. "If it was us, you'd have seen it (the interference) a long time ago," Giles said.

Two new wireless Internet towers built by Pampa Communications are also evidently blameless, according to Pam Martin, owner.

"I noticed the interference before the towers were ever built. I think it's cell phones, but I don't know," Martin said. "Mine has done it for a long, long time and it's gotten worse."

Martin has heard of the same type of interference occurring as far away as Dumas.

Douglas Campbell, vice president for AMA TechTel in Amarillo, said the source of the interference could depend on the frequencies on which it is occurring.

"It's odd that it would be on so many different things," Campbell said when told of the various devices which have picked up the signals. "That is really, really, really bizarre."

Some of the possible culprits for the sounds which Campbell listed include transmission towers, electric service equipment, some types of monitors, radar, and government equipment, even that which is "far, far away."

"It could be anything from a new power transmission line, which actually emits radio waves, to a new electrical substation," Campbell said. "If it's the government, they operate in frequencies nobody can touch."

Monitoring equipment used to monitor oil wells, water flow and pipelines operates on low frequencies and might conceivably cause interference, he said.

Other possible sources include UHF transmissions and weather telemetry devices, Campbell said.

"We deal with these sorts of interference all the time," he said.

"All those devices work on so many different frequencies, I don't have any idea," said Steve Hawkins of Hawkins Communications when asked about the possible causes of the interference. "Normally, if you have interference, it's on a specific frequency."

Hawkins said the geographic size of the area affected, plus the range of frequencies, may point to some type of broadcast station putting out a lot of power.

"All of our instruments are checked every day," said Darrell Sehorn of KGRO/KOMX radio station. "I know of no causal factor that would cause that. I'll have our engineer re-check all our equipment, just to be sure."

Meanwhile, those experiencing the interference may try to learn to ignore it while hoping the cause is eventually discovered and remedied.

program has been a popular means for interpreting local and state history and encouraging heritage tourism.

The Official Texas Historical Marker Program is representative of the THC's overall mission," Larry Oaks, executive director of the THC, said. "We are extremely proud of the success of the program and hope these new guidelines will simplify the application process and enable the continued recognition of Texas' historic sites."

The THC will begin accepting applications under the new guidelines beginning Nov. 15 in anticipation of the Jan. 2, 2007 deadline. Those interested in applying for a marker should meet with their CHCs for assistance with compiling research and documentation, and to learn about county-specific procedures or reviews.

Some travel tips to bear in mind this holiday season

As Thanksgiving and Christmas approach, so does the holiday travel season. Many of you may travel year-round. Merilee Kern with Kern Communications, poses a rather significant question for those of you planning to travel or who travel often: Do you know your 'travel rights'?

"Holiday travel season is upon us, with flights, cruises, railways, lodging and vehicles being booked at lightening speed. But, as consumers collectively spend $1.3 trillion annually for travel and tourism, far too few know what their legal 'rights and obligations' are before making their travel-related purchase, which can render them vulnerable — even to severe unforeseen legal consequences," Kern

Communications reports in a "Media News Brief."

Kern Communications called on attorney Jeff Isaac to cull forth some worthy travel advice. The following tips were lifted from the Kern news brief:

- Ensure your travel agent is legit. Before booking, ensure your travel agent or agency is compliant with state requirements. Regulations vary from state to state, every license issuing state requires registration, fees and compliance with some financial security regulation or statute. Many states even have specific laws for the regulation, registration, licensing, or bonding of sellers of travel, so it's important to know if you agency is adhering to such requirements.

- Leverage available support resources.

Purchase travel with your credit card rather than cash or a debit card. Under U.S. law, credit card holders have the right to request a "charge-back," essentially a refund, on their accounts for travel services that are not delivered as promised. Of course, the credit card company must agree that your situation is chargeback-worthy.

- Find out if your state has a restitution fund. Seek out travel-related consumer advocate groups. The California Travel Consumer Restitution Fund (TCRF), for example, compensates consumers who purchased air or sea travel, either alone or in conjunction with other travel services, from a registered California travel agent, and who did not receive what had been promised. Those believing they are eligible to receive compensation can submit a claim with the organization for consideration.

Skylia Bryant
News Editor

- Consider travel protection. Protecting large travel investments and property with a travel protection plan can insure you against possible supplier default, bankruptcy, medical evacuation and treatment, cancellations and other such vacation disruptions. Just be sure you purchase travel insurance from a reputable provider — one that is NOT self-insured lest their shortcomings become yours.

- Heed TSA regulations. If you mistakenly pack a "prohibited item" in your carry-on bag, you could be assessed a TSA fine up to $10,000! Carrying certain prohibited items could even result in both a civil and criminal enforcement action. Arguing with a TSA screener could also result in a substantial fine, so stay calm, cool and collected when you find yourself in a possible contraband situation.

- Check baggage at your own risk. Legal recourse for mishandled baggage claims is largely futile in light of the large number of airline tariffs (restrictions), albeit listed in the fine print on the back of an airline ticket that usually go unnoticed or unread by travelers. Airline regulations prohibit compensation for almost any claim, particularly for high dollar and/or somewhat fragile items such as laptop computers, jewelry and electronics.

- Invoke Rule 240 when delayed. Rule 240 — an airline's delay-and-cancellation policy — covers delays that are the airline's fault, such as mechanical problems or schedule changes. Under this rule, the major carriers must try to book you on the next available flight at no extra charge, even if it means put-

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 16, the 320th day of 2006. There are 45 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Two hundred years ago, on Nov. 16, 1806, Moses Cleaveland, the land surveyor for whom the city of Cleveland is named, died in Canterbury, Conn., at age 52.

On this date:

In 1776, British troops captured Fort Washington during the American Revolution.

In 1885, Canadian rebel Louis Riel was executed for high treason.

In 1907, Oklahoma became the 46th state of the union.

In 1933, the United States and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

In 1959, the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "The Sound of Music" opened on Broadway.

In 1961, House Speaker Samuel T. Rayburn died in Bonham, Texas, having served as speaker since 1940 except for two terms.

In 1966, Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was acquitted in his second trial of charges he'd murdered his pregnant wife, Marilyn, in 1954.

In 1973, Skylab 4, carrying a crew of three astronauts, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on an 84-day mission.

In 1973, President Nixon signed the Trans-Alaska Pipeline Authorization Act.

In 1981, actor William Holden was found dead in his apartment in Santa Monica, Calif.; he was 63.

Ten years ago: President Clinton spent the first full day of a shortened vacation in Hawaii that preceded a trip to Australia, Thailand and the Philippines.

Five years ago: Investigators found a letter addressed to Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., containing anthrax; it was the second letter bearing the deadly germ known to have been sent to Capitol Hill. A University of Georgia football fan rushing to catch his flight ran past guards and through a passenger exit at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport, forcing officials to halt flights; the man, Michael Lasseter, was later sentenced to five weekends or 10 days in jail and 500 hours of community service.

How to get translations on the Internet

Whenever I'm out speaking to different groups, one of the most common questions I receive goes something like this: "Is the Internet English-only?" I quickly answer, "Not at all!"

Remember, the Internet was started by the United States, so the foundational terms and services were created with English in mind. However, over the years, other countries have joined the Net, adding their own unique customs and culture to this online village.

Roughly, 80 percent of the information on the Internet is in English. The other 20 percent is in other languages, but that ratio is changing. Here's why: Let's say you live in Italy and run a clothing company. You decide to put up a Web site. What is your goal? What is the goal of ALL Web sites? To receive as many visitors as possible! If you design your site strictly using the Italian language, you are effectively excluding the majority of your potential customers.

For this reason, many foreign language sites usually have "English versions." As an example, take a look at one of my favorite sites, Ferrarri (<http://www.ferrari.it>).

About the only country that ignores this practice is France. They actually have government employees tasked with the goal of "preserving the French language." Believe it or not, some companies in France have been fined for not using French on their Web sites!

Having said all of that, what do you do if you run into a Web page that has no English version? (Most likely French, heh, heh, heh...) First, try visiting the Altavista Babelfish server (<http://babelfish.altavista.com/>). The word "babelfish" comes from the Douglas Adams book, "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy." In the book, the babelfish was actually a little fish, that, when placed in the ear, allowed it's host to understand any spoken language. Read the book. It really is quite funny.

Anyway, where was I? Oh, yeah, go to the Altavista Babelfish site. You will notice a large blank area ready to receive some foreign text or a Web address. This is actually a very powerful interface. Once, I received a Microsoft Word document via e-mail written entirely in French. I cut and copied into this Altavista page, hit the "French to English" button and voila! I could read it. By far, however, it is easier to translate an entire page.

Try this: Go to a foreign language page (how about the La Tribune newspaper at <http://www.latribune.fr/>). Note the URL (Web address). Go back to the Altavista Babelfish page and copy the URL into the big blank. Choose "French to English" and hit the "Translate" button. The translation is not always perfect, but it is good enough to get the main idea of the page. Also, note, words on graphics are not translated.

What about LEARNING a foreign language, though? The Internet is one of the best (and most economical) methods to do so.

My favorite site in this regard is the Foreign Languages for Travelers site (<http://www.travlang.com/languages/>). The simple, two-step process asks you for the language YOU speak and then asks what language you WANT to speak. Choose anything from Albanian to Zulu. Over 70 languages are represented.

Once you select your new language, you can then choose what types of translations you want: Basic Words, Numbers, Shopping/Dining, Travel,

■ Nov. 6
Odessa American on party power:
While much of the obsession with Tuesdays elections across the country is focused on whether the Democratic Party will regain control of Congress, a bigger issue looms. Yes, if Democrats should once again garner a majority in the House and/or Senate, the balance of power will shift somewhat.

And there are a lot of Americans who believe that the best possible situation is to have Congress controlled by the party that does not hold the presidency. They feel that offers an effective check-and-balance position against partisanship. If the Democrats should regain Congress, no doubt the nation might be taken a different direction in some of the hot-button issues that tend to incite emotions. And emotions tend to trigger large number of voters who can effect change.

But Republicans have been very good at using these issues such as family values, gay marriage and right-to-life matters. If these issues provide a backlash, the GOP has only itself to blame.

Truth of the matter, the Republicans are facing a day of reckoning. They've had time to demonstrate their use of unbridled power. And they will be judged on everything from the war in Iraq to the state of the economy.

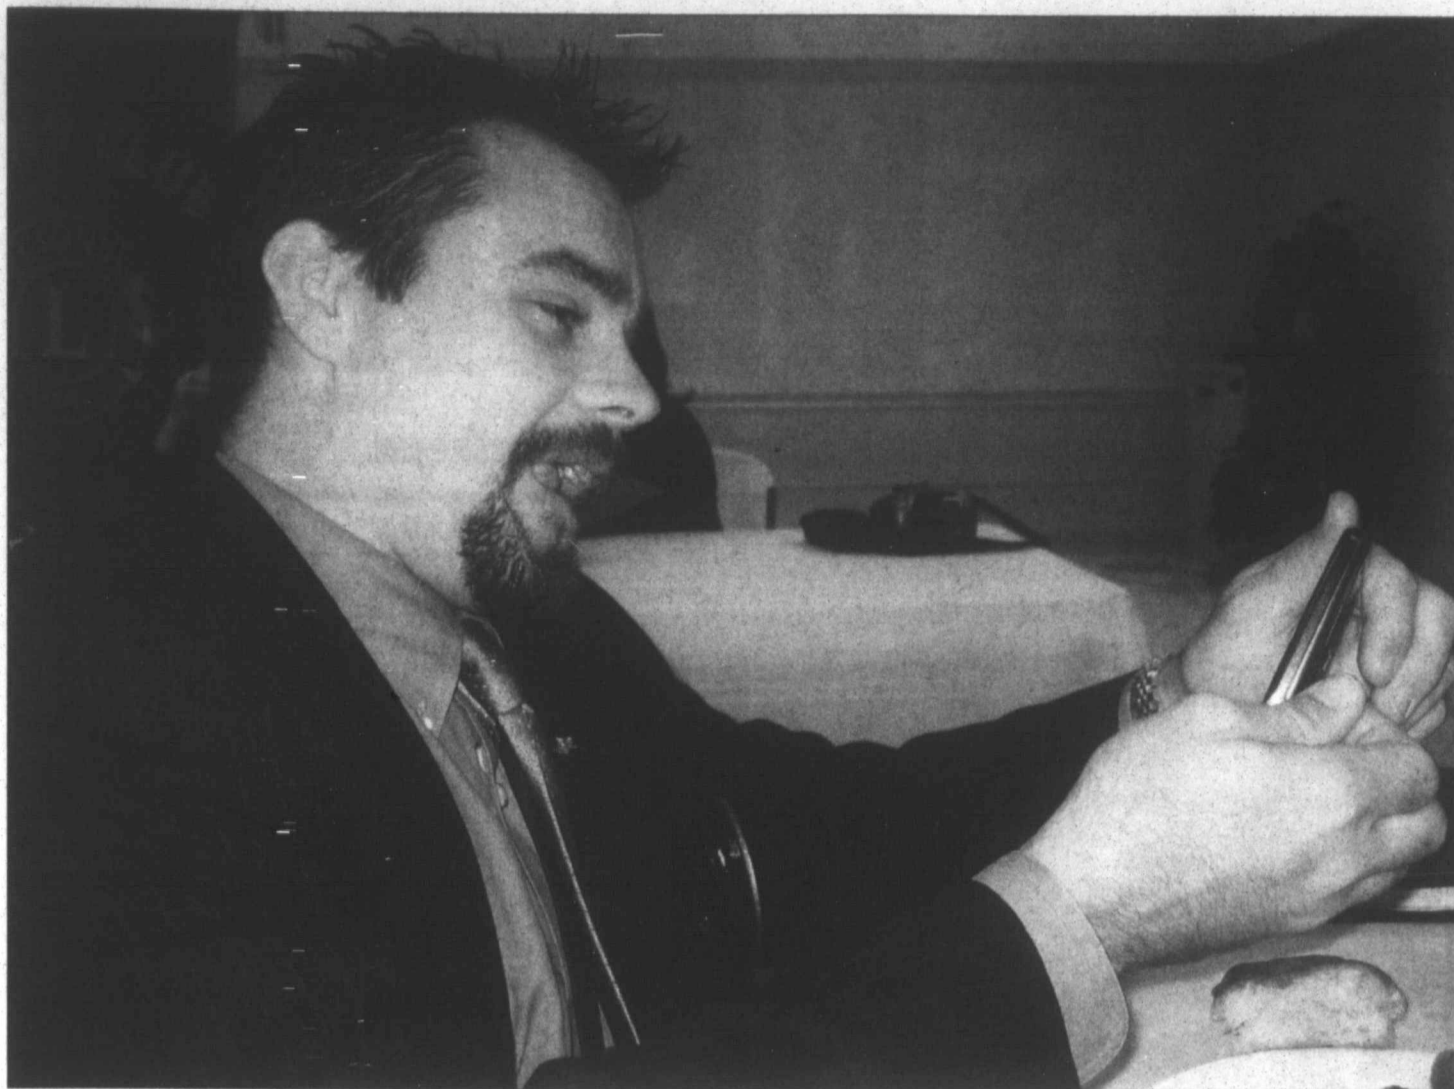

On the other hand, the Democrats haven't been very effective at offering better alternatives to current policies.

But looking at the bigger picture, neither party has been particularly strong on things that provided the bedrock for the United States from the beginning.

For instance, individual liberty has been eroding since 9/11 as a number of wide-reaching laws, including the controversial Patriot Act, have allowed government to be more intrusive in all of our private lives.

Meanwhile, government power and the resulting runaway spending seems to be expanding no matter who controls Congress.

ting you on a competitor's plane in a higher class of service. They must also get you a hotel room as well as meals or ground transportation, or both, for overnight delays or for those exceeding 4-hours for diverted flights.

• Know your "bump" rights. The Department of Transportation requires each airline to give all involuntarily bumped passengers a written statement of their rights along with an explanation of the carrier's policy on overbooked flights. Airlines must first ask for volunteers to give up seats before they deny boarding to a ticket-holder. Involuntarily bumped passengers may be entitled to an on-the-spot payment of denied boarding compensation up to $400 based on the price of their ticket and the length of the delay. Airlines must also refund the ticket price if you ultimately choose not to travel.

• Document any incidents. Should you need to seek legal assistance for a travel-related incident, be sure to detail a chronology of events leading up to the problem and be able to provide your attorney with all documents relating to the issue.

• Consider alternative dispute resolution. Should you have an escalated travel-related dispute that for which a legal proceeding is in order, a courtroom trial, often a deterrent, is not your only recourse. Alternative Dispute Resolution, Arbitration and Mediation are other means of settling the case quicker, easier and more economically.

Directions, Places, and Date/Time phrases. What really makes these pages incredible is the audio capability. Clicking on a word or phrase allows you to hear it's correct pronunciation.

What's more, you can assemble the words and phrases into sound files to save on your computer. That way, if you happen to be in a foreign country (and have your laptop), you can simply "play what you want to say."

The site also offers other travel-related services, including Exchange Rate calculators, culture guides, and travel guides.

Kind of brings new meaning to "virtual travel," wouldn't you say? I'll see you in Cyberspace!

Party

So we might all be better off if we could shake some of this us-vs.-them mentality as far as party labels are concerned.

Does it really matter whether Democrats or Republicans control Congress? Those emotional issues might see some change, but the overall direction of bigger and more powerful government probably won't be derailed no matter how it all comes out.

Probably what would be best for all concerned is a trend toward candidates, regardless of the party label they choose, who would fight for liberty and limited government. Unfortunately, there's not a whole lot of that kind of thinking going around in political circles these days.

Events calendar

• Pampa Meals on Wheels will host "Music and a Meal" from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. every Tuesday during the month of November. Various groups will be featured at 12 p.m. The Almost Live Band will perform Tuesday, and Eighth Grade Girls Chorale Group, Nov. 28. To find out more, contact Meals on Wheels at 669-1007. ## U.S. forces target nine terror suspects

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — U.S. forces killed nine suspected al-Qaida insurgents during a raid in a rural area south of Baghdad today, and more than 1,000 Iraqi soldiers launched a military operation in northern Iraq with American air and artillery support.

Deadly attacks continued in the capital, with suspected insurgents and militias using guns, bombs and mortar shells to kill 15 Iraqis. And the U.S. Army announced that four soldiers had died in combat this week.

Mike Smith of Rustlers restaurant in Skellytown smokes brisket and ribs over mesquite to prepare for hungry diners.

Skellytown has new restaurant

By KERRI SMITH
Staff Writer

Area diners now have another option when it comes to restaurant choices. Skellytown is the home of a new restaurant named Rustlers which specializes in mesquite grilled steaks and smoked brisket, ribs and sausage.

Owned by Jay and Mike Smith, father and son, and their wives Paulette and Leah, Rustlers has had great success since its opening in July.

Skellytown residents can stop in for a meal, but can also pick up a gallon of milk, fountain drink or candy bar.

The Smiths say they have not really advertised yet, so they wonder how they have had patrons from Canadian, Panhandle and Amarillo. They are hoping that the success is due to word-of-mouth.

Having a wide variety of food on the menu has also helped. Along with steaks and barbecue, they offer cheeseburgers, chicken fried steak or the "packmule," which is a combination of beans, chopped brisket, ham and sausage. They also have homemade peach and cherry cobbler.

They offer dine in, carry out and also catering services. They can be found on Main Street in Skellytown in the old Taylor Mart. Their winter hours of operation are Monday through Thursday, 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

KinderKonzerts scheduled again

A holiday tradition continues Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 in a new location as the Amarillo Symphony moves its popular KinderKonzerts into the Globe-News Center for the Performing Arts for the first time.

The orchestra will perform six special concerts in two days for kindergarten and first grade students from around the Panhandle. Performances will be given at 9:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. both days.

Public school students have been invited to the performances, and the 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. shows are completely booked. Seats should be available for the 10:45 a.m. shows for $1 for pre-school students, home-schooled students and others by calling Elizabeth Lyons at 376-6767 or via e-mail at elyonsmurphy@hotmail.com. Reservations are encouraged because seating is limited.

The program is geared to be a kickoff for holiday celebrations, and a special mystery guest will pop up to offer Christmas greetings at the end of each concert. But the concerts also serve an educational purpose: The different instrument sections are featured to introduce the young concertgoers to each instrument and the sound it makes alone and in the bigger ensemble. This light-hearted concert encourages the students to sing — and conduct — along with the orchestra.

The concerts also will serve as an educational experience for 10 students from the Palo-Duro High School theater department, who will serve as the technical crew for the performances.

Since 1924, the Amarillo Symphony has been filling audiences with an unbridled enthusiasm for the performance and discovery of great orchestral music. As the only professional orchestra in the Panhandle area, the Symphony employs 85 skilled musicians to perform for more than 2,300 subscribers each year. In addition to its regular concerts, the Symphony offers an array of successful education programs, from youth orchestras to specialized music programs.

Woman with 171 pounds of pot held

GROOM — A woman was arrested Wednesday on Interstate 40 when troopers found Marijuana inside her vehicle following a traffic stop.

At 2:11 a.m. Wednesday, troopers stopped a 2006 Dodge van traveling east on I-40, near Groom, for a traffic violation.

Troopers became suspicious of criminal activity and received consent to search. A search was conducted and 171 pounds of marijuana was found in the rear cargo area of the vehicle.

Nicole Ferguson, 28, of Mesa, Ariz., was arrested and booked into the Carson County Jail.

The marijuana was believed to have originated in Mesa, Ariz., and was headed for Tulsa, Okla. The marijuana has an estimated value of $82,935.00.

Beauty queen trades sash for fatigues

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jessica Gaulke is trading in her sash as a Minnesota beauty queen for Army fatigues — and Iraq.

Gaulke, who was chosen Minneapolis Aquatennial Queen of the Lakes in July, is giving up her title because her National Guard unit has been activated for duty. The 22-year-old Augsburg College sociology student will be going to the Mideast as a diesel generator mechanic.

"It really wasn't a decision that was mine to be made," said Gaulke. "My unit's going. I've accepted it. It's part of the whole scope of why I joined; I'll be there for all of us over here."

Her last day as queen will be Jan. 2, when she'll represent the Aquatennial in the Rose Bowl parade. Aquatennial officials will announce the new queen in January.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: "Worried Sister" (10/4), who asked if she should inform her parents that her sister, "Cindy," is playing the choking game, may feel it is a betrayal if she breaks the confidence. But imagine how she'll feel if her sister dies. I'm a high school English teacher, and one of my students accidentally killed himself this way. It is a misnomer to call it a "game." You were correct, Abby -- it is playing Russian roulette with one's life. "Worried Sister" must intervene and alert her parents now. Cindy's addiction to the high produced through oxygen deprivation may indicate an addictive personality, something therapy can help. I watched one of my dearest friends repeatedly play the "game" when we were in seventh grade. As he grew older, he progressed to greater highs -- ultimately resulting in his death from a heroin overdose. -- PAMELA IN GREENVILLE, S.C.

DEAR PAMELA: You are obviously a caring and dedicated teacher, and you were generous to offer your expertise. The mail I received in response to "Worried Sister's" letter was chilling. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I work with people with brain injuries. Each and every time "Cindy" chokes herself, she's causing brain damage, and it's only a matter of time until she's a client of mine. Signs of her brain damage will start out with gaps in memory, short-term memory loss, slurred speech and sudden outbursts of anger. The more advanced stages of brain damage include disorientation, loss of coordination and balance, and seizures. People who choke themselves to get high should visit the nursing homes in their area, as one of them will someday wind up in one. I speak from experience. I care for many people who said it would never happen to them. This is serious. That girl needs help, and she needs it now. -- ED IN SNOHOMISH, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: I lost my 13-year-old son to the "choking game." It's NOT a game.

"Worried's" sister can only be mad at her for so long. Please urge her to talk to her parents. It's the only way to save her sister. If she waits, it could be too late. -- MOM WITHOUT A SON IN VIRGINIA

DEAR ABBY: As a school counselor, I can confirm the widespread familiarity of kids 9 to 15 years old with this "game" and how often parents and other adults are clueless. (I was.) After an 11-year-old died at a nearby school, I polled several middle and elementary school classes to see if they had tried it or knew somebody who had. The percentage was 75 percent! It doesn't receive the news coverage it should because medical examiners often mistake it for suicide. Knowing about it is the key to stopping it. -- CONCERNED COUNSELOR IN OREGON

DEAR ABBY: I teach in an elementary school. One of our students died from playing the choking game. Children as young as 6 and 7 have told me they know what to do. We warn students never to put anything around their necks, and talk about "safe" games they can play. We also encourage them to tell an adult if they know someone who is playing the game. Sadly, we didn't learn that children were doing it here until it was too late. -- AMY IN INDIANA

DEAR ABBY: My grandson, "Braden," died from participating in this activity in May 2005. Since then, a nonprofit organization, Stop the Choking Game Association, has been formed to promote education about this dreadful activity. Many parents know nothing about it. Thank you for publishing that letter. -- LYNDI T., BRADEN'S GRANDMOTHER

DEAR LYNDI T.: You're welcome. My heart goes out to all those who have lost loved ones to this "game." For more information about it, visit www.stop-the-choking-game.com.

District 3-4A Tennis: Ware, Acker named to All-District Team

All-District selections were made for the fall tennis season. Pampa placed one player on the All-District 1st Team, and one player on the All-District 2nd Team.

Sophomore Jack Ware received the 1st team honor at the #6 singles position. "All year Jack had the heart and desire to win which got him to his 6-0 record in singles," Pampa High School tennis head coach Emily Laurence said. "He will only continue to get better throughout his high school career."

Senior Haley Acker was named to the 2nd team at the #1 singles position. "Haley had a great first half of her season and finished up with a 6-4 record," Laurence said. "She stepped into the #1 position this year and has been an incredible leader on the team."

The Harvester tennis team has a slight break before the spring season picks up again in February.

Publisher considers Simpson book a confession

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. Simpson created an uproar Wednesday with plans for a TV interview and book titled "If I Did It" — an account the publisher pronounced "his confession" and media executives condemned as revolting and exploitive.

Fox, which plans to air an interview with Simpson Nov. 27 and 29, said Simpson describes how he would have committed the 1994 slayings of his ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend Ronald Goldman, "if he were the one responsible."

Denise Brown, sister of Simpson's slain ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, lashed out at publisher Judith Regan of ReganBooks for "promoting the wrongdoing of criminals" and commercializing abuse. The book goes on sale Nov. 30.

She added: "It's unfortunate that Simpson has decided to awaken a nightmare that we have painfully endured and worked so hard to move beyond."

Regan refused to say what Simpson is being paid for the book but said he came to her with the idea. "This is an historic case, and I consider this his confession," Regan told The Associated Press.

Simpson was acquitted in 1995 of murder after a trial that became an instant cultural flashpoint and a source of racial tension. The former football star was later found liable for the deaths in a wrongful-death suit filed by the Goldman family. In the years since, he has been mocked relentlessly by late-night comedians, particularly for his vow to hunt down the real killers.

"He's willing to tell the world how he 'would' murder his children's mother and Ron. Sick," Goldman's father, Fred Goldman, said on CNN's "Larry King Live" Wednesday night.

Simpson has failed to pay the $33.5 million judgment against him in the civil case. His NFL pension and his Florida home cannot legally be seized. He and the families of the victims have wrangled over the money in court for years.

The victim families could go after the proceeds from the book's sales to pay off the judgment. But one legal analyst said there are ways to get around that requirement — such as having proceeds not go directly to Simpson.

"Clever lawyering can get you a long way," said Laurie Levenson, a Loyola University law school professor and former federal prosecutor who has followed the case closely.

Levenson noted that the criminal justice system's protection against double jeopardy means Simpson's book, explosive as it may be, should not expose him to any new legal danger. She added that Simpson could create an extra layer of insulation from any legal worries by presenting the story hypothetically.

"He can write pretty much whatever he wants," Levenson said. "Unless he's confessing to killing somebody else, he can probably do this with impunity."

Goldman's sister, Kim Goldman, told CNN: "He's snubbing his finger to the system, to the community again. He's telling us one more time, 'I'm gonna continue to get away with killing your family members and I'm not gonna honor the judgment and look at me, ha, ha, ha.'"

Oral Roberts upsets Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — It's party time at Oral Roberts, the religion-based school in Tulsa that gave Bill Self his first job as a head coach.

The lightly regarded Golden Eagles came into Lawrence as double-digit underdogs to a mighty Kansas team ranked No. 3 in the country, victorious in 165 of its last 175 home games. What they went home with Wednesday night was a surprising 78-71 victory over the Jayhawks, Self's current team.

"It may be the biggest regular-season win in school history," Oral Roberts coach Scott Sutton said. "Our trainer has been here over 30 years and said it was the highest-ranked team we've ever beat."

No doubt, the Jayhawks had a bad night. They were a miserable 11-for-21 from the foul line and spent most of the night missing easy shots and playing bad defense.

Nevertheless, led by Mid-Continent player of the year Caleb Green and unheralded sophomore Marchello Vealy, the Golden Eagles looked, acted and played like the best team on the court.

"When you beat the No. 3 team in the country, you have to feel well," said Green, who had 20 points and 11 rebounds. "This is a big day for our university."

Kansas' loss was nearly overshadowed by No. 2 North Carolina, which rallied to beat Winthrop 73-66 in the NIT Season Tip-Off at Charlotte, N.C. Tyler Hansbrough had 20 points and 10 rebounds, Wayne Ellington added 13 points and Brandan Wright scored 12 for the Tar Heels.

If you think... chiropractors only treat bad backs

It's easy for most people to identify chiropractic with the neck, back and spine. But what many people don't realize is that since the spinal column carries the nerves from the brain to all the organs of the body, a dysfunction of the spine could cause any number of other types of health problems.

When you think of a Doctor of Chiropractic, think of the attainment and maintenance of good health without the use of drugs or medications.

HEALTH REPORT

China to use mice to test food for Olympic athletes

BEIJING (AP) — China will use mice to test the safety of food for athletes competing in the 2008 Olympic Games, state media reported Thursday.

"Milk, alcohol, salad, rice, oil, salt and seasonings will be tested by white mice 24 hours before they are used in cooking or served to athletes," Xinhua News Agency quoted Zhao Xinsheng of the Beijing Municipal Health Inspection Bureau as saying.

Zhao told a meeting on hygiene measures for the games that the mice would develop an adverse reaction to any food poisoning within 17 hours, sooner than test methods such as bacteria cultures.

China has seen a string of food poisoning incidents in recent months. In October, more than 200 students and teachers fell ill at a school in southern China.

There have been at least eight other food poisoning incidents, but officials say they don't appear to be connected. Zhen Xiaozhen, of the medical team of the Beijing Organizing Committee of the Olympic Games, told the meeting that most of the food for the Olympic athletes would be Western style, complemented by Chinese dishes.

Health inspectors were to receive training in management and inspection of Western food preparation starting this month, said Liang Jin of the inspection bureau.

Girardi, Leyland MLB Managers of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Six weeks after he was fired by Florida, Joe Girardi won the NL Manager of the Year award for keeping the rookie-laden Marlins in contention nearly all season. Jim Leyland took the AL honor after a quick turnaround with the Detroit Tigers.

A rookie skipper himself,

Girardi beat out Willie Randolph of the New York Mets by a comfortable margin to become the first manager to win the award with a losing record.

Leyland turned around the long-moribund Tigers in his first year with the team, leading them to the World Series and their first winning season since 1993.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Nov. 17, 2006:

You might want to try something in a different way this year. Yes, you will blaze a new trail. Others could be taken aback by what goes on. Take in the possibilities and don't limit or dismiss them. The more dynamic your thinking, the better the results will be. You easily could be a trendsetter if you so choose. Be careful with frustration and anger. Don't swallow your feelings either. If you are single, you might want to do the tango with a potential sweetie for quite a while before you decide this is the right person. If you are attached, stay open and don't make judgments so quickly. LIBRA can be your greatest ally or your worst enemy.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

***** Others take the high road. You listen and act more deliberately than in the past. Frustration is a hallmark of working with you. You finally can get a financial matter resolved in the next day or two. Tonight: So many invitations, and you are just one person!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

*** Little did you know what was happening with someone. Given time and an easy, relaxing mood, you will get the facts. Sometimes you could get frustrated with how others behave. Who could blame you? Tonight: Make it easy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

***** Others choose to be more playful and open than in the past. You could be unnecessarily worried about a situation. The key is to lie low and watch the denouement. Information will come forward if you are open. Tonight: Romp.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Stay close to home and honor more of what you need and want. Happiness is defined by events and how you look at them. Frustration with an emotional or financial situation could color your day. Tonight: Go for leisurely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

***** You might want to get to the bottom of a problem that impacts you. Misunderstandings could be cleared up before you know it. Stay on top of a difficult situation that involves someone you care about but who might be grumpy. Tonight: Happy at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

*** Expenses go overboard, and you have a lot to handle. You see life from a different perspective. Consider what is going on with someone in your immediate environment. Don't let your nerves get the best of you. Tonight: Happiness plus.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

***** Be more creative and dynamic than in the past. You might want to think about your finances and spending. You have ways that draw many people to you. Be open to positive changes. Tonight: Someone might have a bad idea. Look at the ramifications.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

*** Take your time making decisions and moving around. Your decisions could be impacted by anger and looking at situations without all the facts. Think positively. Understand more of what you want. Reflect rather than act. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

***** Zoom in on what you want. You will discover that meetings and people in general stimulate brainstorming and getting to the bottom of a problem.

Your fiery spirit takes you in a new direction. Just choose your words with care. Tonight: Where your friends are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

***** You need to make a must appearance, whether you want to or not. Listen to someone's offer and where he or she is coming from. You might want to rethink a situation in which you feel that someone has hurt your feelings. Tonight: Easy does it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

***** Read between the lines. You need to think about what needs to happen with a very difficult person in your life. You might discover that your imagination goes way off the deep end when dealing with this person. Tonight: Take an overview.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*** You might want to do something very differently, whether you are comfortable or not. You might need to revamp a decision more carefully. How you see a personal matter could change when you realize the full scope of a situation. Tonight: Say yes to a special person.

COMMUNICATIONS GIANT

Clear Channel agrees to acquisition

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Clear Channel Communications Inc., the nation's biggest radio station owner, said today it has agreed to be acquired for about $18.7 billion by an investment group.

The transaction would be one of the biggest deals in which a company has been taken private, and showcases vast sums that buyout groups have recently been able to assemble to acquire public companies.

Clear Channel said the deal calls for a group led by the investment firms Thomas H. Lee Partners LP and Bain Capital Partners LLC to pay $37.60 in cash for each share of Clear Channel common stock. That is a 10.2 percent premium over its closing price on Wednesday.

Its shares climbed $1.89, or 5.5 percent, to $36.01 in premarket trading.

The buyers are also assuming about $8 billion in debt in the deal.

Clear Channel announced in late October that its board of directors was evaluating "strategic alternatives to enhance shareholder value."

Analysts had said taking the company private could push shares toward a price of $37 to $40 each.

Clear Channel said the company's board of directors "with the interested directors recused," unanimously approved the agreement and is recommending shareholder approval. Lowry Mays is the company's chairman of the board and his two sons, Mark and Randall, are CEO and chief financial officer, respectively.

People familiar with the matter had expected at least two bids to be submitted as the deadline for offers passed earlier this week. Another bid had been expected from Providence Equity Partners, the Blackstone Group and Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co.

Clear Channel owns or operates

1,150 radio stations and is the largest operator of radio stations in the country.

It also owns a majority of Clear Channel Outdoor, the outdoor-advertising segment that sells billboard and bus-stop ads.

In a separate announcement Thursday, Clear Channel said it plans to sell 448 of its radio stations, all located outside the top 100 media markets in the U.S., and its 42-station television group.

The deal would rank behind KKR's 1988 buyout of RJR Nabisco Inc., which still is the biggest going-private deal ever at $25.1 billion. It would also trail two other deals announced earlier this year. Those included the $21.8 billion buyout of airport development company BAA PLC and the $21.2 billion buyout of hospital company HCA Inc.

People in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sacha Baron Cohen, whose fictional Kazakh reporter Borat has sparked controversy, says he could never put himself and others in embarrassing situations if he weren't in character.

"I think I'd find it hard to," Cohen says in an interview with Rolling Stone magazine. "I think you can hide behind the characters and do things that you yourself find difficult."

Cohen's spoof documentary, "Borat: Cultural Learnings of America for Make Benefit of Glorious Nation of Kazakhstan," follows his Kazakh TV journalist character on a cross-country trip to report back to his homeland on American culture.

The film has become a runaway hit — generating complaints and lawsuits along the way from Borat's unwitting subjects who say they were duped into making racist, sexist and anti-Semitic remarks.

Cohen, a devout Jew who keeps kosher and the Sabbath when possible, says he purposely made his character prejudiced.

"Borat essentially works as a tool," the 35-year-old British comedian tells the magazine in an interview conducted before the film's opening.

"By himself being anti-Semitic, he lets people lower their guard and expose their own prejudice, whether it's anti-Semitism or an acceptance of anti-Semitism," he says.

Cohen says doesn't like to discuss how he got people to appear on camera or take seriously Borat's preposterous questions. Revealing his tactics, he says, would be "a disaster, terrible for me."

— Sacha Baron Cohen

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A woman who claims soul singer James Brown raped her is asking the Supreme Court to hear her sexual harassment lawsuit, which a lower court ruled this year she had waited too long to file.

Jacque Hollander argues that the state's two-year statute of limitations in such cases does not provide equal protection to women.

In her lawsuit, Hollander said Brown raped her at gunpoint in 1988 while she was working as his publicist. She seeks $106 million in damages.

Hollander said she sued Brown after she developed a thyroid condition in 2000 that doctors told her was caused by the stress of the alleged assault. She said the statute of limitations also shouldn't apply because the condition wasn't diagnosed for 12 years.

Brown's attorney, Debra Opri, called Hollander's request for the Supreme Court to hear the case "a pipe dream."

The appeal is likely Hollander's final legal option, said her lawyer, Donald Rosen.

"Then her only recourse is in the court of public opinion," Rosen said. "That would be a horrible miscarriage of justice."

A federal appeals court tossed out Hollander's lawsuit in August.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Whitney Houston's New Jersey mansion is slated to be sold at a sheriff's sale because she is more than $1 million behind on the mortgage and taxes have not been paid this year, according to reports published Wednesday.

The Jan. 4 sale was scheduled Tuesday by the Morris County Sheriff's Office, the Daily Record of Parsippany reported. The service agent for Chevy Chase Bank, the mortgage holder, sued Houston in June.

Houston's estate comprises two lots, and the sale would be of the lot assessed at $889,300. The adjacent lot is valued at more than $5.6 million, the Daily Record reported. Houston, 43, bought the properties in 1987 for $2.7 million.

Through a secretary, Houston publicist Nancy Seltzer told the newspaper the property was not in foreclosure. A woman who answered the telephone at Seltzer's office on Wednesday said Seltzer was traveling and could not be reached for comment.

Phone messages left after business hours with the service agent, Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems Inc., and the sheriff's office were not returned Wednesday.

Mendham Township is owed about $83,000 in property taxes this year on the 10-acre estate, officials told The Star-Ledger of Newark.

Texas Success Initiative Requirements (Formerly TASP)

Students entering Clarendon College must have taken an approved assessment PRIOR to enrolling in any college-level classes. Students are provided opportunities for assessment during the regular registration. For more information contact admissions.

COnline

Online Student Services

Clarendon College has online student services available. Via the Internet at www.clarendoncollege.edu, students can register for courses not only being offered at the Clarendon campus, but also in Pampa, Childress, Wellington and Distance Learning (Internet). In addition to web registration, students can view and print an unofficial copy of their transcripts, check out the availability of classes, receive an estimate of their accounts, access financial aid and scholarship information, and print their schedules. For log-on information contact the Office of the Registrar.

COnline services are available not only to current students but also to those who have taken courses in years past. Web registration, however, is only open to students who have taken classes within the past academic year and graduated from high school or received their GED. In addition, students who have not fulfilled TSI requirements will need to go through an advisor to register.

Clarendon College shall refund tuition and mandatory fees collected for courses from which the student drops or withdraws. Any student officially withdrawing from the College before the first day of classes of any semester will be refunded 100% of tuition and fees less a $15 matriculation fee. (Class days refers to the number of calendar days the institution normally meets classes, not the days a particular course meets.)

For semester-length courses for which semester credit hours are awarded:

- 100% refund is to be made for courses dropped prior to the first class day.
- During the fall or spring semester if a course is dropped during the first 15 class days a 70% refund will be issued.
- During the fall or spring semester if a course is dropped during the 16th sixteenth through 20th class days a 25% refund will be issued.
- During the fall or spring semester if a course is dropped after the 20th class day no refund will be issued.

CC's Open Door Project offers you a better future

Clarendon College's new program opens the doors to higher education for more people across the Texas Panhandle. The Open Door is a new pilot project that will allow non-traditional students to attend classes part-time and graduate with an Associates degree while working full-time.

"The Open Door will provide opportunities to individuals who may want to further their education but are initially hesitant about the higher education process," said Tex Buckhaults, Clarendon College dean of instruction.

"To meet these demands, The Open Door offers evening and online classes that are guaranteed to make," he said. "One of the biggest concerns to non-traditional students is cost. We want students to know financial aid is available through The Open Door."

To learn more about the Open Door contact Clarendon College directly at 1-800-687-9737.
