Pampa gears up for annual Woody Guthrie Day

By MARILYN POWERS Staff Writer

Pampa's annual tribute to Woody Guthrie will be Oct. 1 at the Woody Guthrie Folk Music Center, 320 S. Cuyler.

The organized events begin at 2 p.m. when members of the Guthrie family will be introduced and will share their memories of Guthrie.

Guthrie relatives who will attend this year's Pampa event include Mary Jo Guthrie Edgmon, Woody's sister, of Seminole, Okla.; Ann Guthrie, Woody's sister-in-law, of Midwest City, Okla., with her daughter and granddaughter; and Marie and Dan Nunley, a niece and nephew of the singer.

Another special guest will be Virginia Kelly Tubbs of Canadian. Her father, Harry Kelly, played in the "Junior Chamber of Commerce Centennial Band" with Guthrie, according to Thelma Bray of Pampa, one of the planners of the tribute. Kindergarten students St. Matthew's Episcopal School will sing, led by Janet Whitsell. Amy Thomas will also perform.

Chris Smith will read "Bob Dylan Remembers Woody." Rick Scott will sing original songs about Guthrie.

K.C. Mathey of Oklahoma City, Okla., will present his first-person "Portrait of Woody Guthrie," which was approved by the Oklahoma Humanities Council for their Chautaugua Lecture Series.

An Italian dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Reservations are required and are limited in availability. For reservations, call 669-9572, according to Reed Echols, president of the board of directors of the center and one of the event planners.

Those attending the evening events may also come to hear music without partaking of the dinner. Admission will be charged.

Celanese has neither confirmed nor denied rumors that it plans to pull out of Pampa, but says that it is looking at options, according to a news release from the company dated Tuesday.

"The production of acetic acid from butane at the Pampa Plant faces severe cost competition from plants stranded using gas methanol," said Dawn

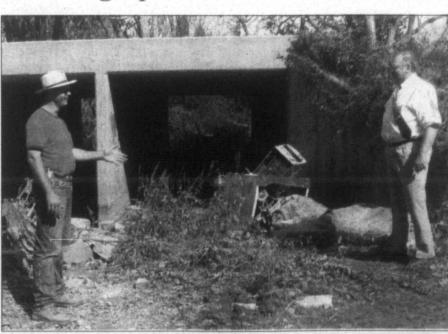

Clendening, human resources manager for the Pampa chemical plant, in the release.

"The company is looking at options to improve the long-term viability of the site. We are not able to comment on specific activities at this time," she said in the release.

Oklahoma, surrounded by family. Having been a long time resident of Pampa, Yvonne moved to Muskogee, Oklahoma, to be with family this passed year. Yvonne was born July 14, 1927, in Gould, Oklahoma, the daughter of Felton and Algie Farquhar. Her husband preceded her in death in 1992.

Born the middle child of three, of what some could say, "humble means," after finishing High School she traveled on from a small Oklahoma dust bowl town to attend Western Union Business School in Springfield, Missouri. Graduating she went on to become a teletype operator and one of the first females reporting sports throughout the country, until she met a strapping young Serviceman, Corporal Norman Gerald Quick, and married in Albuquerque, N.M., April 15,1950. After they moved to Pampa, she worked for Woolworths until she retired.

Yvonne was a member of the Women's Business Association and proud long time member of Central Baptist Church here in Pampa, where she loved serving as librarian.

Survivors include two brothers (of which she was very proud), Quinton Farquhar of Alabama and Van Farquhar of California;

Senate approves measure banning horse slaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) - A proposal to ban the slaughter of horses won overwhelming support in the Senate but split the Texas vote, with Republican John Cornyn opposing the measure.

The proposed ban was approved 68-29 as an amendment to the agriculture spending bill Tuesday evening. Texas' other senator, Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, voted for the ban. The overall spending bill was awaiting final approval Wednesday.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. John Ensign, R-Nev, would strip funding from the U.S. Agriculture Department for wages and expenses of staff who inspect horse meat, effectively barring the sale of horse meat for human consumption.

There are three horse slaughter plants in the United States, two in Texas and one in

"This is a property rights issue," Cornyn said in a statement Wednesday. "Is government going to declare that personal property is valueless without just compensation? Apparently so."

The sale of horse meat for human consumption is prohibited in Texas, but the plants have gotten around that ban by selling the meat abroad. Cornyn, while serving as Texas attorney general, issued an opinion saying the plants were violating the state's ban by selling the meat abroad.

Cop Corner

A few Cop Corners ago, I wrote about the "Pocket Rockets" or mini motorcycles how the Texas Department of Public Safety characterized them. You remember they could only be driven on private property. Before the mini motorcycles, motorized "scooters" hit the market, I made foot power scooters, as a kid, out of old boards and old-timey rollerskate wheels.

It is amazing that there are now motors, both electric and gasoline, powerful enough to move a person on a two-wheeled platform with handle bars. They even put brakes on them. There are laws on the books that allow a person to drive scooters on streets that have a speed limit of 35 miles per hour or less. The scooters can also be driven on a sidewalk or on a designated bicycle path.

Fred Courtney

The scooters we made would hardly roll on a concrete driveway, much less an asphalt street. The modern scooters can go just about everywhere, but do we want that to happen?

We, as police officers, have to consider many things in making decisions. One of the questions we have to ask is, "What are the dangers involved?"

I am scared to death for the younger kids riding bicycles, and much more a motorized scooter, away from their own neighborhood. Kids have an inherent trust in adults to look out for their safety, but they forget to look out for their own safety.

Putting an elementary age child on a scooter and sending them to school may be going a little too far. Letting them ride up and down the block on a scooter, with adult supervision is a safer activity. for both the kids and the motorist going about their daily chores.

Our children are our greatest assets. It takes both the community and the police department, working together, to insure our most precious assets are protected.

Oil rigs evacuate as Rita roars in evacuation of oil rigs spread to western areas of the Gulf of Mexico today as Hurricane Rita gained power and swept into the gulf.

Rita was beginning to affect oil production, which has not yet recovered from last month's Hurricane Katrina.

Evacuations in the eastern Gulf began Sunday in advance of Rita, which was a Category 4 storm Wednesday and was expected to hit Texas this weekend.

Gulf driller Transocean Inc. dragged four moveable rigs in the central Gulf out of the storm's projected path and evacuated about 500 workers from three rigs that are moored to the Gulf floor. The company was relying on its experience with last month's Hurricane Katrina.

"Right now, the storm path is south of those (moored) rigs, but that's what happened with Katrina until it made a looping turn and went into the eastern side of Orleans,"

DALLAS (AP) — The Transocean spokesman Guy Cantwell. "So we're not taking any chances.'

BP PLC, which had already evacuated workers from platforms off the Alabama coast, said it was also removing nonessential employees from platforms in the western Gulf, farther from Rita.

Exxon Mobil Corp. said it had evacuated about 200 employees and contractors from platforms in the path of Rita, causing "limited impact" on oil and gas production. Chevron Corp., Shell Oil, ConocoPhillips Co. and others had also evacuated nonessential employees from many rigs and platforms

As of Tuesday afternoon, U.S. Minerals the Management Service reported that 15 drilling rigs had been evacuated, up from nine on Monday and representing about 11 percent of the drilling activity on the Gulf. Updated figures were to be available this afternoon.

"There's nothing more to say than that," Swiergosz In his prepared remarks, said. "It's not possible to discuss the Able Danger program because there are security concerns."

Another Pentagon spokesman, Bryan Whitman, said later that the Defense Department would be represented at the hearing by William Dugan, the acting assistant to the secretary for intelligence oversight. Whitman also said the Pentagon believes it has provided sufficient information on Able Danger to the committees with primary oversight responsibility for the Department of Defense: the Services Intelligence committees.

On three occasions, Able Danger personnel attempted to provide the FBI with information, but Department of Defense attorneys stopped them because of legal concerns about military-run investigations on U.S. soil, Zaid said in his prepared remarks, encouraging the panel to locate a legal memorandum.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 8, 2005

PROPOSITION 1 (HJR 54)

HJR 54 would create a Texas rail relocation and improvement fund in the state treasury and would authorize grants of state revenue and issuance of public debt to relocate, rehabilitate, and expand privately and publicly owned passenger and freight rail facilities and to construct railroad underpasses and

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment creating the Texas rail relocation and improvement fund and authorizing grants of money and issuance of obligations for financing the relocation, rehabilitation, and expansion of rail facilities.'

PROPOSITION 2 (HJR 6)

HJR 6 would provide that marriage in Texas is solely the union of a man and woman, and that the state and its political subdivisions could not create or rec ognize any legal status identical to or similar to marriage, including such legal status relationships created outside of Texas.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing that marriage in this state consists only of the union of one man and one woman and prohibiting this state or a political subdivision of this state from creating or recognizing any legal status identical or similar to marriage."

PROPOSITION 3 (HJR 80)

HJR 80 would provide that local economic development program loans or grants (other than debts secured by a pledge of ad valorem taxes or financed by the issuance of any bonds or other obligations payable from ad valorem taxes) do not constitute or create debt. Any provision of state constitutional law that may prohibit or limit the authority of a political subdivision of the state to incur debt does not apply to those loans or grants.

The proposition will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment clarifying that certain economic development programs do not constitute a debt."

PROPOSITION 4 (SJR 17)

SIR 17 would authorize a district judge to deny reinstatement of bail or new bail to a person accused of a felony, if the person's bail had been revoked or forfeited as a result of the person's violation of a condition of release related to the safety of a victim of the alleged offense or to the safety of the communi-

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the denial of bail to a criminal defendant who violates a condition of the defendant's release pending trial."

PROPOSITION 5 (SJR 21)

SJR 21 would authorize the Legislature to exempt commercial loans from state usury laws that set maximum interest rates. "Commercial loans" are loans made primarily for business, commercial, investment, agricultural, or similar purposes and not primarily for personal, family, or household purpose

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to define rates of interest for commercial loans.'

PROPOSITION 6 (HJR 87)

HJR 87 would increase the size of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct from eleven to thirteen members by increasing from four to five the number of public members and by adding a constitutional county court judge. additions would ensure that the commission has an odd number of members, which is required by another provision of the state constitution

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to include one additional public member and a constitutional county court judge in the membership of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct.'

PROPOSITION 7 (SJR 7)

SJR 7 would authorize new options for reverse mortgage agreements for senior homeowners allowing them to draw advances at unscheduled intervals, if and when needed, and only in the amounts needed, during the loan term. These are in addition to options that would allow a lump sum payment after settlement or regular periodic, predetermined equal amounts over a term of vears or the lifetime of the homeowner. Additionally, SJR 7 would: (1) prohibit the agreement from requiring the use of a credit card, debit card or similar device to obtain an advance: (2) prohibit the charge or collection of a transaction fee solely in connection with any debit or advance, after the time the extension of credit is established; and (3) prohibit the lender or holder from unilaterally amending the extension of

PROPOSITION 8 (SJR 40)

SJR 40 would clear individual land titles by relinquishing and releasing all claims of state ownership interests, including mineral interests, in two local areas, namely, a roughly 4,600 acre area located roughly 14 miles southeast of Gilmer, Texas, and a separate 900 acre area located north of Tyler, Texas.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing for the clearing of land titles by relinquishing and releasing any state claim to sovereign ownership or title to interest in certain land in Upshur County and in Smith County."

PROPOSITION 9 (HJR 79)

HJR 79 would authorize the Legislature to provide staggered six year terms of office for board members serving on regional mobility authorities, with no more than one-third of the board positions being appointed every two years.

The proposition will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for a six-year term for a board member of a regional mobility authority."

America haunted by bad energy policy decisions

Our kids are teenagers now. One of the lessons we are trying to teach them is that the choices they make have consequences. If they choose to do a certain thing, they will live with the results. If they choose not to do something, they will live with the results. Actions and inactions have consequences. It is a hard lesson to learn.

Our country has had a hard time learning that lesson with energy. In 1973, the OPEC countries refused to sell us oil because of a war in the Middle East. Americans stood in long lines to fill their tanks. I remember my father and grandfather trying to figure out how to ensure that we had the fuel we needed to run the tractor and the pick-ups at the ranch.

In the 30 years since then, our country has made choices - by our actions and our inactions - about energy.

We decided we would not allow oil and gas drilling off the East and West Coasts or around Florida, so more of our domestic production has been concentrated in the Gulf of Mexico region.

We decided to put vast areas of the West and Alaska off limits as well, and now about 60 percent of the oil we use comes from other countries. (It was 36 percent at the time of the 1973 embargo.)

We decided we did not want to do anything that even appeared to help the oil and gas companies, and now we have only a few big companies that dominate the

We insisted that new power plants have minimal emissions, which led to most with the rising use.

In sum, we took energy for granted, assuming when we flipped the switch, the lights would go on and assuming that there would always be plenty of cheap fuel for our vehicles. Our choices over the last 30 years have had consequences.

Recently, the situation has things we could not control economic growth in China and Hurricane Katrina. China's incredible rate of economic growth and its corresponding increase in energy consumption has made the world supply tight. The world produces 83-85 million barrels of oil a day, and the world uses 83-85 million barrels of oil a day.

There is no slack, and the amount used is growing faster than the amount produced. Then Hurricane Katrina knocked out 25 percent of U.S. oil production, 19 percent of U.S. natural gas production, 10 percent of U.S. refining capacity, and much of the pipeline and transportation system to distribute fuel, at least for a time. In a market with no

In 1981, the Senate unanimously confirmed the nomination of Sandra Day O'Connor to become the first female justice on the Supreme Court. In 1989, Hurricane Hugo, packing winds of up to 135 of their plan for Medicare aimed at achieving $270 billion in savings over seven years.

Five years ago: An Iranian appeals court reduced the prison terms for 10 Jews convicted of "cooperating" with Israel, in a case that had drawn international criticism.

One year ago: President Bush, defending his decision to invade Iraq, urged the U.N. General Assembly to stand united with the country's struggling government. Yusuf Islam, formerly known as singer Cat Stevens, was taken off a London-to-Washington United Airlines flight because his name had shown up on a government "no-fly" list. The death toll in Haiti from deluges caused by Tropical Storm Jeanne topped 700.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Larry Hagman is 74. Poet-songwriter Leonard Cohen is 71. Actor-comedian Henry Gibson is 70. Author-comedian Fannie Flagg is 61.

THE WORST PART IS THAT THE SEASON IS JUST STARTING.

Statesmen in shorter supply than gas

around the country are demagoguing the price raises in gasoline, depicting themselves as defenders of the people against the voracious and greedy oil industry.

This is a predictable and odious reaction from politicians who are ignorant of economics, careless with the truth and indifferent to the public welfare. The rule is simple: If demand goes up and supplies go down, the price will be bid up. Hurricane Katrina reduced the supply by knocking out several refineries, which is what America is short of at the present time.

We are short of refining capacity because basically the same politicians, when demagoguing on the environment, have passed so many rules and regulations industrialized, consumer- cheap gasoline has gone the refineries in the world was literally in my backyard. There was my backyard, a small field, small reservoir and the refinery. You can get used to the smell a lot easier than you can get used to gasoline shortages.

It's all well and good to desire a pristine environment free of air and water pollution. But a pristine environment is incompatible with an mad society. People forget when they fantasize about the wonderful preindustrial wilderness that life in that wilderness was hard. People, by our standards, were poor, and necessity forced them to lead frugal lives.

As gas prices, an average of 50 cents of that price is the result of federal, state and local taxes.

These are regressive taxes. Perhaps rather than make unsubstantiated charges of price gouging, the pols should consider reducing the tax bite. After all, $3-a-gallon gas minus the taxes is about $2.50 a gallon.

Unfortunately, I believe

The future we face is a future in which increasing demand and decreasing supply of oil and its products are going to force the price higher and higher. We are addicted to gasoline, and breaking the habit is going to be as hard as going cold turkey with a heroin addiction.

Before urban planners came on the scene, cities developed naturally and logically. Housing for factory workers was close to the factory, and stores and churches were intermixed with the housing. One could live on foot, because everything that was needed was in walking distance.

Urban planners came along and decided we should put all the factories over

Katrina-related fraud simply overwhelming

There may be lower forms of life than the scammers who are using the devastation Hurricane Katrina inflicted on the middle Gulf Coast to steal from donors wanting to aid the relief and recovery efforts, but we are hard pressed to think who they might be.

"Even as millions of Americans rally to make donations to the victims of Hurricane Katrina, the Internet is brimming with swindles, come-ons and opportunistic pandering related to the relief effort in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama," The New York Times reported. "And the frauds are more varied and nies, the service stations, the administration. If there are those who are taking advantage of other people's misfortunes, should be held accountable and dealt with severely. But at some level, we all share in the responsibility because relatively cheap and accessible energy has lulled us into a false sense of complacency, and we have not insisted on the steps needed to give us real energy security. After four years of trying (longer for some of us), Congress finally passed an energy bill. It is no magic answer, but it begins to take some significant steps in the right direction. Yet recent events illustrate how much more needs to be done.

We should start by allowing drilling in National Alaska's Wildlife Refuge. It can provide billions of barrels of recoverable oil and trillions of cubic feet of recoverable natural gas. Only one hundredth of 1 percent (.01 percent) of refuge area will be affected by drilling equipment and structures. We should complete an inventory of all oil and gas reservoirs around the country, including off our coasts, so we know what we have.

We should encourage tertiary recovery to get every drop of oil we can out of the ground.

We should restore a proper balance in environmental regulation and energy production that is based on common sense, not political agendas.

We must continue research into new forms of energy and into more efficient use of existing energy sources. We are going to have to do more of everything. Energy is necessary for economic growth, for a better quality of life, and for human progress. The answer to our problems is not to have government ration energy, and the answer is not to settle for slower progress and a low standard of living. The answer is to produce more energy, safely and securely, here at home. If we do, our actions today will leave our children and grandchildren with a more hopeful and secure future.

there and all the residential areas over here and all the commercial enterprises in still a third place. Walking became impractical, and urban sprawl made even mass transit impractical. If you live in the suburbs, a car becomes a necessity. Clearly a lot of cities are designed for the automobile, not for people.

This is a simplification of a complex problem, but the fact is we can't live the way we now live with $4- or $5-a-gallon gasoline. It will get to that eventually. We are going to have to change our lifestyles and even the way we allow commercial and housing markets to develop. It won't charities are being investigated by state and federal agencies," The Times explained.

Look for that number to grow, too. Americans are generous in responding to natural disasters and other tragedies. But they are sometimes too gullible in how they do so. The Internet and its easy use by scammers prey on that gullibility. The scammers sometimes claim to operate on behalf of legitimate charities, as, for example, the Salvation Army reported.

An e-mail solicitation from americansalvationarmy—reliefsyahoo. com does not come from a valid Salvation Army address, nor is the person sending the e-mail affiliated with the nonprofit organization.

In addition to the simple and straightforward efforts to part would-be donors from their contributions, CNN/Money magazine reports three other more sophisticated types of scams taking advantage of post-Katrina generosity:

Phishing scams: In this scheme scamsters use fake Web sites that pretend to be legitimate relief organizations. If you click on the site and enter credit card or other financial information it will be used to steal your identity. Any contributions you make go into the pockets of the scammers.

Viruses and trojans: Spam is sent that includes photos of disaster areas or individual survivors, and these attachments contain computer viruses. These can enable hackers to take control of your computer and obtain information that they can use for identity theft. "Fee-based spams: These are unsolicited e-mails that offer, for a fee, to locate missing relatives and loved ones caught in the hurricane."

The Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance offers the following tips for charitable giving. These are always good common sense, and Katrina makes them more so:

- Do not give cash; always make contributions by check and make your check payable to the charity, not to the individual collecting the donation.

- Don't be fooled by names that look impressive or that closely resemble the name of a well-known organization. Check out the organization with the local charity registration office (usually a division of the state attorney general's office) and with your Better Business Bureau.

The BBB Wise Giving Alliance Web site - "www.give.org" - contains a lengthy list of charitable organizations soliciting donations for Katrina relief and recovery, with links to detailed information about whether these nonprofits meet the alliance's performance standards.

Survivors of Katrina could face identify theft as a result of sensitive information being abandoned in homes and government offices throughout the waterlogged area. "U.S. officials and consumer advocates said they had not yet heard of any cases of identity theft related to the disaster because the crime usually takes months to unfold," Reuters news service reported. "But consumers should keep a close eye on their bank statements and order a copy of their credit reports once they get their lives back together to make sure they are not being victimized," Reuters added.

"We tell people not to be alarmed but to be cautious," said Betsy Broder, an assistant director in the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Consumer Protection. Natural disasters such as Katrina bring out the best in Americans. They also bring out the worst. Authorities need to step up their efforts to respond quickly and forcefully to the latter.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am married, have a daughter I love and a fulfilling job as a teacher. But when it comes to socializing at parties and small gatherings, I have a problem. My husband loves to socialize, which is good because his ,ob is in sales. I'm the opposite. I have a hard time making small talk and become very uncomfortable in social situations. I guess you could call me an introvert. I sense that people pick up on my discomfort, which makes them uncomfortable, too. Sometimes I simply have nothing at all to say to these people.

Abby, I'm tired of feeling like an odd duck at these kinds of events. I know I owe it to my husband to be supportive when he has to entertain. A while back, you offered a booklet I think might help me, but for the life of me, I can't find that column. How can I get the booklet? Life is too short to be anti-social and insecure. Sign me ... DEAR WILTING: Almost everyone suffers from insecurity in social situations at some point or another. People aren't born with social skills; they have to be developed. There are techniques that can be helpful -- and I do, indeed, have a booklet that may help you. Other readers have told me that, by following the suggestions, they have become more comfortable in social situations

To order "How to Be Popular -- You're Never Too Young or Too Old," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $5 (U.S. funds) to: Dear Abby -- Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included in the price.)

DEAR ABBY: I live upstairs in a fourplex. My across-the-hall neighbor is a pleasant single woman who loves animals.

She has two cats and two ferrets. The problem, to put it bluntly, is they stink. I don't think she keeps up with their hygiene

The stench drifts from inside her unit into our common hallway, and too often, into my apartment -- even with the door closed. I roll up a large towel and place it at the bottom of my front door to help with the smell while I'm home. But when I leave in the mornings to go to work, obviously I can't do that. When I return home at night, the smell has crept under my door. It's very embarrassing when I have guests. I'm forever burning incense, but it doesn't help. It only makes the air thicker, especially in the hall, which has no air conditioning.

I have tolerated this for a couple of years and I don't know if I should speak with her or the landlord. How can I broach the subject and still keep harmony between us? I don't want to have to move. I was here first. Please help me. I can't live like this anymore. -- HOLDING MY BREATH IN GEORGIA

DEAR HOLDING YOUR BREATH:

You should have spoken to your neighbor when the problem first started, but it's still not too late. She may not be aware of the odor because she is used to it. Explain that her animals -- or their litter box -- need to be kept cleaner because the odor is drifting into the common areas and into your apartment. If she does not do something about it immediately, for heaven's sake tell your landlord. There may be a limit on how many animals, and what kind, a renter can have in a unit. And if that doesn't do the trick, contact the health department. If you are describing the situation accurately, the health of all three of her neighbors could be affected by the filth.

PHS tennis team edges Randall for district win

The Harvester Tennis Team competed in their first district match of the season Tuesday against Randall. It was a close match with Pampa winning, 10-9.

The Harvesters came out of doubles with a 4-2 lead and then quickly moved to a 7-3 lead. From there, things looked a little scary when Randall started winning, taking the lead at one point, 8-6.

'Our intensity was not at the point where it should be but as a team we came together and supported each other well to push us to victory."

> — Emily Laurence Head Coach, PHS Tennis

The match was then postponed and moved to the Austin Tennis Center due to a lack of lighting at the Randall courts. This gave the Harvesters time to load up on the bus, regroup, and come out ready to win. The intensity was heightened by some adversity on the court between senior Steven Smith and his Raider opponent, which only added to the excitement. Smith would defeat his opponent.

The final win of the day came courtesy of Tanna Stowers who showed that she simply would not give up. Stowers came from behind to win, and did so decidedly.

Another big win came from Haley Acker who showed her maturity in doing whatever it takes to win. Coach Emily Laurence said, "The team went out thinking we would win easy. We got the lead and then we started falling apart." Laurence said she told her team though it wasn't a pretty one, it was still a win. She noted that now they know what they need to work on.

Coach Laurence added, "Our intensity was not at the point where it should be but as a team we came together and supported each other well to push us to victory." "We have a lot to work on and a long road ahead of us, but we are still looking to have a great season."

JV team tough in loss to Lady Raiders

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS

Both the junior varsity and varsity Lady Harvester volleyball teams traveled to Canyon Tuesday to take on the Lady Raiders of Randall in the opening round of the 2005 District 3-4A season. And though both squads would leave with a district loss, they served notice they will be in the mix from now to the end of the season.

In particular, the JV squad.

This team of tenacious go-getters gave its opponent more than it bargained for from the first serve.

Pampa was tough at the net and strong in the middle, taking the first game, only to lose the next two. However, it was the comeback in the second that served as proof this team never gives up. Pampa fell behind early in the second game, by double digits at one point, only to find another gear and climb back into the fight. A comeback aided in part by points off serve and superb returns. The Lady Harvester JV team was in this game from start to finish. Randall edged Pampa in the end, 22-

Loss leaves Saints upset with 'home' game in NYC

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Now that he's been through the experience of playing a "home" game on the road, and came away a loser, New Orleans Saints coach Jim Haslett is furious about it all.

Back at the team's temporary home in San Antonio, Haslett said Tuesday the Saints were at a competitive disadvantage in their 27-10 loss to the New York Giants at Giants Stadium on Monday night - even if they were wearing their home jerseys and saw their nickname painted in one of the end zones.

"They could have done that anywhere," Haslett said. "They could have played that game in Baton Rouge. They could have played it in San Antonio and could have done the same thing.

"To play it in Giants Stadium, to give them another home game and to put us in a situation where we couldn't hear ... It wasn't why we lost that game, but ..."

"It wasn't a home game," he said. "I look up at the scoreboard and there are signs, 'Let's Go Giants'. The referees, when they flipped the coin, they asked us if we wantto play in New Jersey, Haslett would only say it put his team behind the eight-ball. Yet

after seeing his team commit six turnovers and 13 penalties, he let loose.

ed heads or tails. They had no idea who the home team was and who was away. The crowd noise we had to deal with, we never had to do a silent count at home.' Saints quarterback Aaron Brooks had some strong comments about all the hoopla surrounding the game.

"They made this seem like the Super Bowl," Brooks said after the loss. "We played a team that outplayed us today, but it was way overdone. Setting up a stage, traveling out here, was uncalled for.

"Try not to patronize us next time, traveling us to New York, saying we're playing a home game."

Residents evacuate Galveston as Hurricane Rita bears down

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — This island city today readied to evacuate hundreds of people who can't leave on their own as Hurricane Rita barreled toward the Texas Gulf Coast.

About 80 buses were set to leave starting at 10 a.m. CDT, bound for shelters 100 miles north in Huntsville. The buses were part of a mandatory evacuation ordered by officials in Galveston County, which has a population of nearly 267,000.

North of Galveston in Harris County, which includes Houston, the state's largest city, officials were not ordering an evacuation, but urged residents to prepare for flooding as much as 35 miles inland.

Authorities said they wanted to make sure Texans learned from watching the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, which slammed into Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi on Aug. 29. Hundreds of thousands of people stayed through the storm, leaving many for days without food or water.

"The real lesson (from Katrina) that I think the citizens learned is that the people in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi did not leave in time. There was great loss of life and property and misery," said Galveston Mayor Lyda Ann Thomas. "We just don't want that to happen here. We've always asked people to leave earlier, but because of Katrina, they are now listening to us and they're leaving as we say.'

"We all feel the same started driving inland.

way. These storms are horrible. They are treacherous," said Ldyyan Jean Jocque, 59, as she awaited her bus ride outside the Galveston Community Center before sunrise today. "After this killer in New Orleans, Katrina, I just cannot fathom stay-

After this killer in New Orleans, Katrina, I just cannot fathom staying.

Ldyyan Jean Jocque Galveston evacuee

The resident of the nearby Bolivar Peninsula packed her Bible, some music and clothes into plastic bags and loaded her 10-year-old dog, Aussie, into a pet carrier for the trip to Huntsville.

Also leaving was 61year-old Christina Ybarra. The lifelong Galveston resident said she, along with her cousin and other family members, were heading to Lubbock.

"We just want to go way out there, to be sure we are far enough away," she said as her brother Gerard on Tuesday boarded up their family home with plywood.

Other Texans who had ridden out major hurricanes along the Gulf Coast also boarded up windows, packed their valuables and Rita was upgraded to a Category 4 storm early Wednesday with winds reaching 135 mph. That is the same intensity reached by Katrina. Forecasters say Rita could make landfall Friday night somewhere on the Texas Gulf Coast, although Louisiana and northern Mexico were possibilities.

At 4 a.m., Rita's eye was about 175 miles west of Key West. The storm was moving west near 14 mph - a track that was pulling it away from the Keys and into the Gulf of Mexico.

This month marks the 105th anniversary of the hurricane that wiped out Galveston in one of the deadliest natural disasters in U.S. history. An estimated 8,000 people were killed.

Aware of this history, Thomas said Galveston County officials used a law passed this year to order a mandatory evacuation of its coastal commubeginning Wednesday night. But authorities said they would not forcibly remove anyone from their homes. Other parts of Texas also prepared for Rita.

Gov. Rick Perry on Tuesday declared the state a disaster area and spoke with President Bush to request approval of federal aid to affected counties. Perry spokeswoman Kathy Walt said the president did not immediately act on the governor's request.

The State Emergency Operations Center also went on 24-hour status Tuesday, with 34 state agencies on site, Walt said.

Rita readiness touted by Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration is advertising its stepped-up response plans for Hurricane Rita before the storm hits the Gulf Coast, eager to avoid the public pounding it got for its reaction to Hurricane Katrina.

Hundreds of truckloads of water, ice and ready-made meals arrived Tuesday at locations in Rita's path along the Florida and Texas coastlines, and rescue and medical teams were standing by as the storm swept across the Gulf of Mexico.

"I think we're going to be ready when it does hit land," Security Homeland Secretary Michael Chertoff promised Wednesday.

A military cargo plane evacuated 25 patients from the Florida Keys, and more than 2,000 National Guard troops were put on activeduty alert to assist as Rita slammed into the string of islands and headed west, perhaps toward Texas.

R. David Paulison, the newly appointed director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, urged local residents in Rita's path to evacuate to avoid the horrific living conditions at emergency shelters in New Orleans that followed Katrina's impact three weeks ago.

He said Rita, like Katrina, could increase in strength to a Category 4 storm, the second highest notch on the 1-5 hurricane scale.

"We know that there is going to be a period of time before help gets to you," Paulison told reporters in Washington. "So you need to make sure you have your family's plan in place, your evacuation plans in place. Make sure you have food, water, medicine, all the things you need to survive for a couple of days on your

Gay convict's abuse claims weren't taken seriously

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — More than 1,850 "life endangerment claims" were filed by Allred Unit inmates in the 18 months that a gay burglary convict was imprisoned there, and several were his reports of being raped, according to testimony. But prison employees investigating the complaints rarely talked to the suspected attackers, checked their criminal background or tried to obtain other evidence, assistant warden Richard Wathen testified Tuesday in a federal civil trial.

He was the first witness in the case stemming from a lawsuit filed by Roderick Keith Johnson, who seeks unspecified damages against Wathen and six other Texas Department of Criminal Justice officials.

Last year, a Wichita Falls grand jury did not indict 49 prisoners Johnson had accused of rape.

Johnson, 37, in prison from 2000 to 2003, says the officials refused to protect him from numerous rapes, extortion and being sold as a sex slave at the prison that has about 3,600 inmates.
