Child abuse awareness cause for increased reports

By MARILYN POWERS
Staff Writer

Gray County has a distinction it may not be proud of. It has the largest docket of the 23 counties covered by Judge Phil Vanderpool's Northern Panhandle Child Protection Court.

Deaf Smith County has the second largest number. One factor which makes these statistics less painful is that Gray and Deaf Smith counties are also the most populous of the 23, Vanderpool said.

"Childress and Dalhart run neck and neck for the next position," he said in a recent interview in his offices at Gray County Courthouse.

Judge Phil Vanderpool has a large caseload of child abuse cases.

At the other end of the list, only two counties, Armstrong and Motley, have no cases currently pending in Vanderpool's court, he said. The two are also two of the more sparsely populated of the 23.

April is traditionally proclaimed Child Abuse Awareness Month, and that awareness may be part of the reason why the number of cases of child abuse and neglect being reported is on the increase.

"The caseload has clearly increased, partly due to an increase in awareness of the problem of child abuse and neglect, and the need to report it," Vanderpool said.

"The primary problem, I think, is that parents don't put their children first, above their own needs and desires," he said.

There are more than 200 cases currently pending in the child protection court, with an estimated 350 children in care outside the home, such as group homes and foster care. Some of those children have horrific histories. One 3-month-old whose case was heard by Vanderpool suffered a broken wrist, spiral fracture of the upper right arm and three cracked ribs. Two other ribs had been broken in a previous incident and had healed. "You know how hard it is to break a baby's bones? They're soft, they're not formed yet," Vanderpool said.

A 2-year-old was beaten to death by his mother's boyfriend over a period of time. The child's injuries included bruised intestines. "The only way you get bruised intestines is with blunt force trauma," Vanderpool said.

Another 3-month-old had two healed bilateral rib fractures and had suffered two acute skull fractures, one in front and one in the back of the skull: The child had a large bruise to the right eye and cheekbone, a small circular bruise just under the corner of the mouth, and two human bite marks, one on the right forearm and the other on the right shoulder. "Then you've got the babies born with cocaine or methamphetamine in their systems," Vanderpool said.

Substance abuse can result in low birth weight and

CRP program deadline nears; ECP authorized

The deadline to sign up for the Conservation Reserve Program is April 14.

Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns designated the sign-up program would be from March 27 through April 14 according to Matthew Street, USDA Farm Service Agency County Executive Director.

Street said the sign-up is being implemented to accept offers of environmentally sensitive acreage for new 10 to 15 year contracts to begin Oct. 1 for the program year 2007 contracts.

"CRP protects fragile cropland from erosion and improves the nation's natural resources," Street said.

CRP participants voluntarily remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long term contracts for 10 to 15 years.

Street also said that Gray County has been authorized to implement the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP), Replacement or Restoration of Fences, due to the recent wildfires in the county.

"Sign-up for the ECP program will extend through May 31," Street said. "Under the ECP program, farmers or ranchers who lost fences due to the fires of March 12-15 are eligible to receive cost share in replacing or restoring boundary and cross fences.

"Cost shares will be limited to 75 percent of the cost of the fence, with applicable adjustments, due to the age of the fence," Street said.

Liquid recovery firm confusion cleared up

By MARILYN POWERS

Similarities in names and services provided, along with the mention of a Pampa office, has resulted in some confusion about just which company was bought recently by Fluid Compressor Partners, Ltd.

Fluid Compressor bought Liquid Ring Recovery Systems, LLC of California, which was reported by Fluid Compressor in a press release to have a Pampa office.

Liquid Ring Recovery Systems specializes in vacuum technology for the oil and gas industry.

Some have confused the California company with Liquid Recovery Systems, Inc. of Pampa, which provides gas processing equipment and gas compression equipment to its customers.

Liquid Recovery Systems, Inc., known to some as LRS, was begun 26 years ago by L.C. "Junior" Shelton of Pampa and his son Lonnie. LRS is not for sale and has not been sold, Lonnie Shelton said.

"Our company has been in business 26 years, and we plan to be here at least that many more. Our company has had a long history here and continues to carry on that history," he said.

The California company recently purchased by Fluid Compressor Partners does not have a Pampa office, said Tyson Curtis, production manager of the Pampa company.

"In the past, Liquid Ring Recovery Systems used a

Maintenance crew recognized

FRITCH — Superintendent Karren C. Brown has announced that the Maintenance Crew at Lake Meredith National Recreation Area and Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument have been presented Special Achievement Awards for the outstanding work they performed this year in extending the existing boat ramps at Fritch Fortress and Sanford-Yake.

Each ramp has been extended approximately 22 feet long and 60 feet wide over the past two months.

The lake level is currently 59.20 feet and continues to decrease; the "world's record" low depth was 58.41 feet in June of 2004. Under a government contract in late fall of 2004, the National Park Service extended both Fritch Fortress and Sanford-Yake approximately 40 and 50 feet each, respectively.

"This superb work by the park's maintenance crew has saved taxpayers' time and money and is a just another example of dedicated park professionals providing enhanced visitor services, while protecting resources in the park," said Chief of Maintenance Jimmy Muncy.

The Maintenance Crew that worked on the boat ramp projects includes General Foreman Steve Bullard, and employees Fred Connor, Ken Johnson, Lino Martinez, Gilbert Rendon and Robert Rodriguez. They were each presented with a cash award and a letter of appreciation by the Superintendent.

physical and mental developmental delays.

Less immediately traumatic but just as harmful as abuse is neglect.

In one case heard in Vanderpool's court, the youngest child was born with a cleft palate, lip, gum and nose, along with other birth defects which required the child to be kept in a clean environment.

"His mother didn't know who the father was. She lived in squalor, and there was dog feces and urine all over the kitchen floor because the dog was chained to the kitchen table leg. She claimed it (the feces and urine) all had happened within about an hour's time," Vanderpool said.

An 8-year-old girl went to school with dog feces on her pants and the sleeves of her shirt. Another household member, an 11-year-old boy, smelled so badly he had to be removed from his classroom because the other students were making fun of him. The children's mother lived with her three children and her boyfriend in a one-bedroom home with 10 dogs and puppies.

"There was feces everywhere -- on the bedding, smeared on the walls," Vanderpool said.

The first priority of the Northern Panhandle Child Protection Court and others like it across the state is to reunite children and their parents in a safe, loving environment free of the problems that beset the children before the court's involvement.

If that is not possible, placement with appropriate relatives is considered.

If no parents or relatives are suitable to provide the children a home, the next choices, in order, are termination of parental rights and adoption, or long-term foster care.

"The court does its best, based on the law as applied to the facts of the case, to try not to put younger children in long-term foster care.

"The primary purpose of the court is to enable the rural counties to meet the deadlines of hearings imposed by the state legislature in each case so that the children, at the end of a 12- or 18-month period, would have the most permanent home possible that was in their best interests," Vanderpool said.

There are joys and triumphs to offset the heart-breaking stories heard in court.

"Hopefully, the kids will come out of this with loving parents, biological or otherwise, and they'll be and large be smiling because they're happy. That's not to say they won't have issues to deal with, but they will think they have a future, and that's hope," Vanderpool said.

"One family in particular I watched do a 180-degree turn. The man told me that was the best program he ever went through, and they are now a loving family of four. Before, methamphetamines and domestic violence had been present in the home. They realized they didn't need that stuff. We reunited that family," he said.

Vanderpool also presides at adoptions in cases where the child is not going to be reunited with biological parents and an adoptive home has been found.

"That's a joy," he said of adoption hearings.

"The children will be successful because they're going to a permanent home," he said.

Vanderpool has been a practicing attorney since 1975. He served as municipal court judge in Pampa on two different occasions for a total of 14 years, and was a certified hearing examiner for the Texas Education Agency for five years.

He also served a number of years as attorney ad litem for children in abuse and neglect cases.

"That's what gave me the background to do this," he said.

Vanderpool was sworn in Jan. 2, 2002 as an associate judge for the child protection court. The position had just been created, and he had been appointed by the Board of Regional Presiding Judges, State of Texas. Judge Kelly Moore, presiding judge, 9th administrative judicial district of Brownfield spearheaded Vanderpool's appointment.

"There are 15 cluster courts in the State of Texas, of which this is one. Twelve of those are presided over by associate judges such as me. The other three are handled by visiting judges," Vanderpool said.

All 15 of the courts work toward the best permanent home for abused and neglected children.

"The greatest success story is when you can send them home to Mom and Dad and know they're going to be safe because Mom and Dad have realized their children are more important than anything else," Vanderpool said.

Cost of removing immigrants immense

Associated Press

As Congress debates immigration reforms, some experts say the most extreme proposal — deporting millions of illegal immigrants — would be a huge legal and logistical morass, and ruinously expensive, too.

Officials at the Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency, which would be responsible for deportations, said they have no projections on what it would take to rid the United States of an estimated 12 million people.

But the Center for American Progress, a liberal think tank in Washington, has put the cost at $215 billion over five years.

The study assumed that a crackdown would prompt a quarter of the nation's illegal immigrants to leave voluntarily, leaving 9 million men, women and children to deport.

"I think a lot of people are making emotional calls on this issue without thinking through the cost to taxpayers," said study author Rajeev Goyle, a lecturer at Wichita State University. "It would be an unbearable cost that would bankrupt the treasury. It would cost more annually than the entire budget of the Department of Homeland Security, twice that of the annual cost of the war in Iraq."

Finding and catching people would be the most expensive part, about $158 billion, Goyle said. The study calculated it would cost an additional $34 billion to detain them, $3 billion for extra beds, $11 billion for legal processing and $9 billion to put them on buses or airplanes.

gration bill, said the government has no intention of trying to deport 12 million people.

"Nobody is seriously proposing that, because that will require a massive infiltration of law enforcement officials and will disrupt the economy," said Sensenbrenner told CBS' "Face the Nation" this week.

But his bill and several others would make living in the United States illegally a felony. And felons without legal immigration status are subject to deportation.

In 2004, the Department of Homeland Security deported about 200,000 people; an additional 1,035,000 returned to their countries of origin when caught by federal authorities, according to the Office of Immigration Statistics.

Ira Mehlman of the Federation for American Immigration Reform, which advocates limits on immigration, said he does not believe a mass deportation has ever been seriously suggested.

Dear Friends:

To say the least, the last few weeks have been a very humbling experience for all of us here in Miami and Roberts County. Yes, a "Humbling Experience".

Despite very heavy, even disastrous losses in many cases, we have been so blessed by the outpouring of aid and assistance in so many forms. Dozens of Fire Departments came to our aid, service and corporate friends provided everything from heavy equipment, water transportation, food, hay, medications, and on and on. And perhaps above all our neighbors provided us with a friendly handshake or a hug, a smile, kind words, and loads of encouragement.

We regret the tragic loss of life that occurred as a result of our recent fires; however, at the same time it must be added that we were blessed that no other serious injuries occurred, or that much heavier losses did not occur to dwellings in our County. It must also be mentioned that despite long hours, exhaustion, and difficult terrain, few problems developed with any of our local resources.

To all of the employees, volunteers, and many others that put in such long, stressful hours, to all of the donors, well-wishers, friends and neighbors who were here to help, we would like to take this opportunity to pass along a very, very, sincere THANK YOU on behalf of Roberts County and the City of Miami.

Many of our donors and benefactors will go unnamed, and we know that we will overlook or just miss many personal contacts. Therefore, we take this mass opportunity to express our gratitude for all of those that came to our aid during a very difficult time.

One last thought. It is interesting that the State of Texas has mandated that Regional Mutual Aid Agreements be developed statewide. All areas of the State of Texas are being required to formalize plans to accomplish what were here in the Panhandle Region have done for years — help our neighbors.

Again, Thank You and may God bless each and every one of our friends and neighbors!

Sincerely,
Vernon H. Cook

Civil discourse better than waving other nation's flag

We had a little excitement here on March 24.

A band of about 40 to 50 young people marched down the street in front of the news office brandishing Mexican flags and shouting "Mexico, Mexico."

They opened the door of the news office and shouted at us.

They soon left, marching down the street and were apparently marching on streets over most of the town.

I think they were protesting the illegal immigration problem that is being discussed in the U.S. Senate.

The problem is that there are thought to be 11 or 12 million illegal immigrants living in America, streaming in daily, and in many cases draining resources of most border communities.

Were any in this group living here illegally? I have no idea. Most of them appeared to be teen-agers about 15 years old. There were a few older men who were driving cars and pickups accompanying them.

There is no evidence that they were all students who skipped a day of school to march. Some may have been adults who took a day off work to support the younger children.

That this demonstration coincided with similar demonstrations across the country would indicate that there is a unified effort to have these young people march and shout. This was not a spontaneous demonstration. It was orchestrated elsewhere by outside agitators.

Their cause is an emotional one, and one that needs to be addressed.

Perhaps not everyone will be happy with the results, but the problem is festering, and legislators recognize that a solution must be found.

Congress is debating the merits of a temporary guest worker program and whether any amnesty should be granted. There are powerful forces on both sides of the issue.

Another issue is that of taxes. Non-citizens who reside in the United States for more than 183 days are required to pay income taxes because they meet the definition of a "tax resident" or a "resident for tax purposes," according to a press release from the Texas Society of CPAs.

The Pampa protesters, and those protesting similarly across the nation, are not going to get much sympathy from most Americans.

If you are an American citizen and have a problem with the government you have every right to protest and try to get your point of view to be heard. However, brandishing another nation's flag for an illegal cause is disrespectful to the nation where you live. It is just not cool and has angered many Americans.

Too many people fought and died for this country and the American flag, and their families and friends do not take these demonstrations lightly. Sit down and have a discourse. Get your point of view over in a sane and controlled manner. Talk intelligently about your issues.

That is a better way to get things done. Marching and shouting in favor of an illegal cause will not win over any converts.

Last week I reported on an animal identification plan that was fraught with potential problems.

The Texas Animal Commission was expected to meet on May 4 to discuss mandatory registration regulations for areas where animals are held.

An Associated Press report last week said the commission would not visit that issue until early next year.

The National Animal Identification System would allow animal health officials to trace the movement of diseased animals within 48 hours.

The commission has met with opposition from animal owners who balk at a plan to require owners of animals to pay a $20 registration fee every two years. The fees would have begun July 1 and would have had a penalty of up to $1,000 for noncompliance.

People who own one animal would be required to register.

The AP reported that the commission would continue to accept voluntary, free registration of premises. As of Tuesday, more than 10,000 premises had been registered in Texas. There are about 200,000 premises in the state.

Nationally, more than 213,000 premises have been registered.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Palm Sunday, April 9, the 99th day of 2006. There are 266 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 9, 1865, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered his army to Union Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House in Virginia.

On this date:

In 1682, French explorer Robert La Salle reached the Mississippi River.

In 1939, singer Marian Anderson performed a concert at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, after she was denied the use of Constitution Hall by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In 1940, during World War II, Germany invaded Denmark and Norway.

In 1942, American and Philippine defenders on Bataan capitulated to Japanese forces; the surrender was followed by the notorious "Bataan Death March" which claimed nearly 10,000 lives.

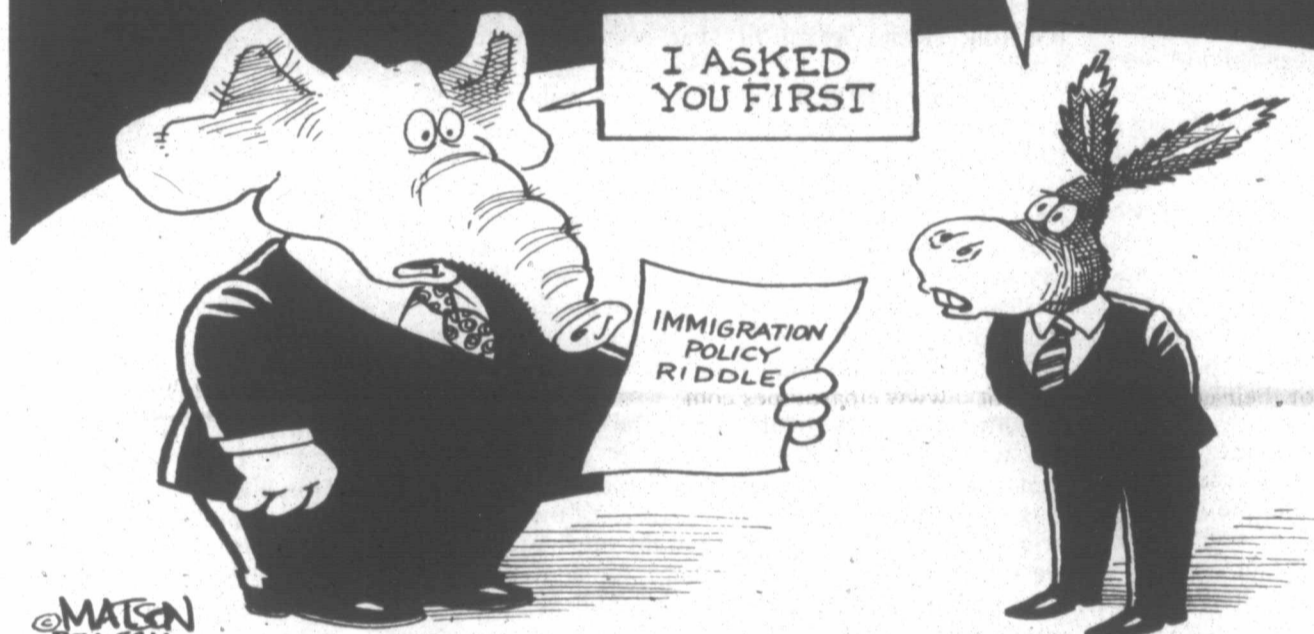

In 1947, a series of tornadoes in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas claimed 169 lives.

In 1959, NASA announced the selection of America's first seven astronauts: Scott Carpenter, Gordon Cooper, John Glenn, Gus Grissom, Wally Schirra, Alan Shepard and Donald Slayton.

March toward a cure takes giant step

The recently launched groundbreaking therapy trial for Duchenne muscular dystrophy provides an appropriate opportunity to thank the local community for helping make MDA's important scientific progress possible. It's been a long road to this significant event, and the local citizenry has steadfastly fueled the effort.

Building on the 50-plus years of research by the Muscular Dystrophy Association, the new gene therapy trial is filled with promise for saving young lives or at least slowing the damage wrought by a relentless, progressive disease.

It's one of the many cutting-edge investigative avenues that MDA's worldwide research program is pursuing in a quest for cures and better treatment for the 40-plus neuromuscular diseases in MDA's program.

We're deeply grateful to all the people across the country who've helped through their contributions to MDA, and we feel a special affinity for those among them in our own hometown.

Thanks! The march toward a cure just took a big step forward.

Owens not welcome addition to team

My Aunt Maude doesn't usually get excited about sports. But when the buzz in the thicket centers on George Mason making it to the Final Four in NCAA basketball, she takes sides.

"How could I pull for anyone other than George Mason?" she asks. "I've always used their jars ..."

Speaking of underdogs, new Dallas Cowboy addition Terrell Owens might want to contact Aunt Maude to see if she might organize a fan club in the thicket. It appears that if a club materializes in Dallas, members can hold initial meetings in a phone booth.

Owens' arrival in Dallas comes with "whammies doubled," what with the NFL's recent noose-tightening for on-field shenanigans. (Henceforth, if the football is used for a prank "prop," it'll cost offenders 15 yards. This is akin to taking bunny rabbits from magicians; they'll sniff and come up with another animal ...)

... *****

Rarely, if ever, has the signing of a sports personality caused such commotion. Media folks around close and far away aren't buying the company line from team officials, and neither are fans.

Dale Hansen, veteran sportscaster and dean of the bunch in the Metroplex, has more than 30 years in the field.

Affable and unflappable, the decorated sports authority has told it like it is since beginning his media career back in Newton, Iowa. A man who stands solidly behind amateur and intercollegiate athletics, Hansen is known for tongue-in-cheek views on most stories about the pros ...

And when he feels really, really strongly, his views really hang out.

"Dale Hansen Unplugged," highlights his Sunday night sports show periodically, and on a recent night, the topic was, uh, "anti-Owens."

Response was overwhelming, far greater than to any previous Hansen harangue.

Typically, a few dozen viewers take time to respond, with the pros and the cons usually running about neck and neck. Not so this time ...

"I've been overwhelmed," Hansen admits. "After 10 days, emails continue to roll in, and so far, the count is 441-7."

If you haven't already guessed, the larger number sides with Hansen; the other seven might consider joining a fan club ...

Hansen, never-bashful and with bulldog tenacity, burned the organization for signing a player who has left bridges burning behind him in San Francisco and Philadelphia. He challenged with topics of character, ethics, respect and integrity.

He talked about leopards' spots remaining unchanged, and said the Cowboys "can't win enough games to make

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

■ April 2

The Dallas Morning News on the immigration bill:

This is what amnesty looks like: One day you're an illegal alien building houses in Amarillo, the next day you get to become a citizen.

This is what amnesty doesn't look like: One day you're an illegal alien building houses in Amarillo, the next day you come forward, prove you have a job, pay a fine, get your taxes in order, go through a background check, learn English and go to work for the next 11 years. During that time, you can get in the back of the line and apply for a permanent visa or citizenship. No shortcuts, no guarantees.

It's important to understand these differences because Republican senators like Bill Frist and talk show hosts like Lou Dobbs claim the immigration bill the Senate is debating gives illegal immigrants amnesty.

They're wrong.

Amnesty was what happened in 1986, when Congress passed its last big immigration bill. Illegal immigrants became citizens right away if they showed they had been here since January 1982.

In return, Congress pledged to crack down on employers who hired illegal workers. Except the pledge didn't stick. Washington never found a good way to verify workers. And authorities didn't pressure employers sufficiently to stop hiring illegal immigrants.

The bargain's breakdown probably is what infuriates the Frists and Dobbses. Understandably. But let the past bury itself. The Senate is considering a different arrangement.

First, its bill contains no free pass to citizenship. Illegal immigrants must meet numerous prerequisites and then work here almost a dozen years. That's why GOP Sen. Arlen Specter, the bill's sponsor, rightly calls the proposal "earned citizenship." You don't go to sleep an illegal immigrant and wake up a legal worker.

Second, it provides employers a reliable way to ensure hires are legal.

me enjoy a team that has Terrell Owens catching passes ..."

He was "unplugged" for nearly four minutes — easily the longest of his quarter-century career in Dallas. His final words summed it up: "We used to expect more. We always wanted our team to win, but we wanted to win the right way — with class and dignity. We expected that, and sometimes demanded that. Why don't we now?"

Obviously his WFAA-TV viewers agree; so do I ...

Just one person in the universe is in the position to prove Hansen wrong, and that is, of course, Terrell Owens himself.

Fears persist, though, that long before there's an Owens fan club of any note, another bridge will already be going up in flames ...

Meanwhile, Hansen, mindful that pro sports get their due and more in coverage, will continue to strive for fairness. He'll send crews out for shots of high school athletes doing their thing. Yes, even to the little schools. And the same for the inter-collegiate sports scene.

He'll continue to trumpet the importance of education, particularly for kids who get second chances through "Dallas Can" and "Fort Worth Can" Academies. (Just a thought: Could "Dallas Can" help to?)...

Come Christmas, Hansen will have us all grabbing tissues to wipe the tears away with his annual "thank God for kids" remarks.

We will sob in agreement, thankful that every last one of them is still an amateur ...

Everyone should obey nation's law

"Illegal Immigration" — hmmm? For a "real deal" Christian this issue is very simple: Obey the laws of the land. Why? Because God said so! (Rom 13:1-6).

The only circumstance that would permit a Christian to disobey the laws of the land would be if those laws violated God's laws. National citizenship laws do not violate God's laws.

Therefore, according to the Bible, anyone who professes to be a Christian and yet willfully disobeys the laws of the USA, is a liar! And anyone who encourages people to intentionally disobey the laws of the land and yet professes to be a Christian, they too are a liar!

Jesus was obedient to Roman laws issued by ungodly dictators and told His disciples to do likewise. "Render to Caesar the things which are Caesar's."

According to the Bible, no one has a right to be in any nation unless they have taken the necessary steps to be "obedient to the laws of the land" in that nation. That goes for me; that goes for you; that goes for everyone — every color, every ethnic origin, every national origin!

No one has a right to be in any country who has not taken the necessary steps to legitimize their presence. If those steps have not been taken, then they are in that country illegally and should suffer whatever consequences the laws deem appropriate.

You see, at least part of this issue of "Illegal Immigration" is very simple. Obey the laws of the land! Why? Because God said so!

Fort Bliss soldier kills two, then shoots self during traffic stop

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A man who killed himself during a traffic stop on a New Mexico highway after shooting two people was a Fort Bliss soldier, Army officials said Friday.

New Mexico police said Spec. Tambo Cox, 20, shot and injured two women Wednesday night in a Sunland Park, N.M. home because he was angry that his ex-girlfriend ended their relationship. Police have not identified the victims, and details of their conditions were not available.

Investigators said Cox, a member of the 3rd Battalion, 43rd Air Defense Artillery, 11th ADA Brigade, later shot himself during a traffic stop Thursday along Interstate 10, near Deming, N.M.

Fort Bliss officials said Cox, originally from Trinidad, has been in the Army since 2004. He is survived by his wife and parents, the Army said.

Luncheon to benefit fund

AMARILLO — Amarillo College is sponsoring a region-wide scholarship fund drive that benefits students in the 26-county Panhandle area.

A coalition of state and local agency representatives is organizing the Living Independently Through Education (LITE) Luncheon, scheduled for 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 19 at the Amarillo Civic Center Grand Plaza.

Faith Miller-Barger of KAMR-TV/NBC-4 will serve as master of ceremonies.

College-bound students with disabilities in this area are the beneficiaries of scholarship funds raised during the next month. Along with corporate and individual donations, additional dollars are expected through a silent auction and vendor booths the day of the luncheon.

The goal is to award at least 40 scholarships this fourth year, according to Brenda Rossnagel, a representative of AC.

CANYON — Savannah Shipp, freshman theatre major of Wheeler, is part of the cast of West Texas A&M University's production of Mikhail Bulgakov's "Black Snow."

Curtain time for the University production is 7:30 p.m. April 20-22 and April 27-29 on the Branding Iron Theatre stage.

"Black Snow" is a comedy about a hapless writer named Sergei Maxudov and his bumpy ride through the creative process when his novel gets accepted as a play. The audience will enjoy Sergei as he stumbles through the process, fights bureaucracy and seeks success.

"This is one of the funniest plays I have ever seen," Royal Brantley, head of the Department of Art, Communication and Theatre, professor of theatre and director of the production, said. "I chose it because of the humor and because of its large cast. I wanted to stage something that involved many of our talented theatre students."

Brantley will direct, and John Landon, professor of theatre, will act as technical director.

Scenic and lighting designs are by James Kemmerling, professor of speech communication and theatre. The play will close out the BIT's 2005-2006 season and could well be the age-worn theatre's final production before the department moves into the Fine Arts Complex next fall.

Panhandle-Plains Museum receives special donation

CANYON — John Lunsford of Dallas has donated a painting by important Texas artist Robert Jenkins Onderdonk (1852-1917) to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in honor of the museum's long-time curator of art, Michael R. Grauer.

Onderdonk's "Oak Cliff Scene" was painted in 1889 when the artist helped found the Dallas Art Students League.

Onderdonk arrived in Texas in 1879 and can be considered one of the founders of the art colony in San Antonio. Having studied at the College of St. James in Maryland, the National Academy of Design, and the initial class at New York's Art Students League, Onderdonk came to San Antonio hoping to paint portraits of wealthy Texans.

However, commissions were not as forthcoming as he hoped, so he turned to history painting and scenes of Hispanic life in San Antonio along with portraits. Prominent Dallasites convinced him to move to Dallas in 1889 to found an art league, and he remained there for several years.

Best known for his portraits and genre scenes, Onderdonk exhibited at the State Fair of Texas, Dallas; Dallas Art Association; Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis; Fort Worth annual; National Academy of Design; and the San Antonio Art League.

Onderdonk's son, Julian, helped bring American Impressionism to Texas, focusing on the south central Texas landscape, while his daughter, Eleanor, became an accomplished miniature painter and was longtime curator at the Witte Museum in San Antonio.

Before his retirement, John Lunsford was a curator at the Dallas Museum of Art for 30 years, professor of art history at Southern Methodist University, and founding director of the new Meadows Museum at SMU in Dallas. He has been a long-time collector of early Texas art and acquired the Onderdonk painting from the artist's daughter in 1961.

Onderdonk is considered a cornerstone artist for Texas art in the late 19th century, along with Frank Reaugh who is already well represented in the museum's Texas collection, according to PPHM director Guy C. Vanderpool who concluded that with this donation "the museum's early Texas collection is unrivaled by any public institution in the state."

Panhandle Disaster Relief Fund gets donation

AMARILLO — Wells Fargo has donated $25,000 to the Amarillo Area Foundation's "Panhandle Disaster Relief Fund." The Amarillo Area Foundation established the fund to assist individuals and families affected by recent wildfires.

The "Panhandle Disaster Relief Fund" is offering direct assistance to organizations that are providing services for basic necessities (food, clothing, shelter, medical services/supplies, etc.). These include the American Red Cross, Salvation Army and churches throughout the area.

"Our Panhandle communities have been deeply affected by the recent wildfires," said Mike Coomer, Wells Fargo Amarillo president. "Our donation to the Amarillo Area Foundation is one of the many ways Wells Fargo and its team members are trying to help West Texas recover. Our team members are hosting fundraising events and volunteering with local organizations. They also are contacting their customers who may have been in harms way to see if they need assistance. Our team members know that we can only be as successful as the communities we serve. When our customers, neighbors, friends and family members succeed, we all succeed."

In 2005, Wells Fargo contributed a record $95.2 million and Wells Fargo team members devoted thousands of volunteer hours to more than 15,000 nonprofit organizations nationwide. In Texas alone, Wells Fargo donates on average $6 million each year and team members log nearly 25,000 volunteer hours.

BusinessWeek ranks Wells Fargo among the Top Ten Givers in all of Corporate America.

The "Panhandle Disaster Relief Fund" was established with an initial $100,000 donation from the Foundation. The fund also provides a direct way for others to assist through gifts to the fund. All donations are tax deductible and may be made online (below), or may be sent to the Amarillo Area Foundation, c/o Panhandle Disaster Relief Fund, 801 S. Fillmore, Suite 700, Amarillo, Texas 79101. Organizations requesting funds should send a letter with the amount and purpose to the attention of Angela Lust at the Amarillo Area Foundation.

The Amarillo Area Foundation is a full-service community foundation, providing an array of philanthropic services that work to improve, protect and ensure continued charity throughout the Texas Panhandle in perpetuity.

Scholarships will provide funds for tuition, books, fees, supplies or living expenses, as deemed appropriate. People with disabilities residing in the 26-county Panhandle region are eligible to apply.

Applications may be picked up and returned to Amarillo College Student Services Room #125, Washington Street Campus.

Scholarship recipients will be honored at the LITE Luncheon on April 19. Rossnagel says the success of this project relies on support from throughout the region.

Monetary contributions or donations of prizes are especially needed this year. Information about scholarship applications or luncheon is available by calling Brenda Rossnagel at Amarillo College (371-5436) or Susan Stokes at 655-7151.

Clarendon College planning ex-student reunion

CLARENDON — The 68th Annual Clarendon College Ex-Students Reunion is scheduled for April 22.

The reunion is open to all current and former students, faculty, regents, and supporters of Clarendon College.

The classes being recognized this year are 1956, 1966, 1976, 1981, and 1986. Registration for the reunion will start at 10 a.m. in the Bairfield Activity Center. All Alumni are invited to enjoy brunch during the registration period. Donations will be taken for the brunch.

Campus tours will be available during this time. If you would like to participate in the Silent Auction, remember to bring your items with you when you register.

A business meeting will be held in the BAC from 11:30 a.m. to noon followed by a break for lunch at a restaurant of your choice.

At 2 p.m. reunion attendees are invited to attend a matinee of "Kiss or Make Up," performed by the CC Theater Department, in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center Auditorium.

TDA honors Miami ranch family

AUSTIN — The Gill Lazy H Ranch, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herchel Ronald Gill, was recently among 119 farms and ranches from 79 counties honored during Texas Department of Agriculture's 31st annual Family Land Heritage ceremony in Austin. The ceremony recognizes families who have kept their farm or ranch in continuous agricultural production by the same family for 100 years or more.

The Gill ranch is located in Roberts County and dates back to 1904.

To date, more than 4,100 farms and ranches in 229 of Texas' 254 counties have been recognized by the Family Land Heritage Program. Three counties, Hudspeth, Ochiltree and Roberts, were added to the list of counties with honored farms and ranches.

"The families honored at the Family Land Heritage Ceremony have made an enormous contribution to the heritage of rural Texas and the history of Texas agriculture," Combs said. "The dedication of these families — especially those who have kept their properties in continuous production for more than 150 years — should be an inspiration to all Texans."

This marks the fifth year that the Texas Department of Agriculture will honor farms and ranches in the 150-year category. TDA will recognize 15 properties that were established between 1832 and 1855.

Neal Spelce, a well-known Texas broadcaster, served as master of ceremonies. Cowboy poet and entertainer Red Steagall performed following the certificate presentation. County music artist Dan Roberts opened the ceremony.

Texas Railroad Commission sets April allowables

AUSTIN — The Texas average rig count as of March 17 was 696, representing about 53 percent of all active land rigs in the United States.

In the last 12 months, total Texas reported production was 344 million barrels of oil and 5.7 Trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Texas natural gas production represents approximately 29 percent of total U.S. natural gas demand.

The Texas Railroad Commission's estimated final production for January 2006 is 30,030,644 barrels of crude oil and 455,341,301 Mcf of gas well gas.

The Commission derives final production numbers by multiplying the preliminary January 2006 production totals of 28,256,157 barrels of crude oil and 381,581,581 Mcf of gas well gas by a production adjustment factor of 1.0628 for crude oil and 1.1933 for gas well gas.

(These production totals do not include casinghead gas or condensate.)

Texas natural gas storage reported by the Commission for February 2006 is 262,182,400 Mcf compared to 219,633,989 Mcf in February 2005.

The March 2006 gas storage estimate is 272,351,639 Mcf.

The Texas Railroad Commission's

Oil and Gas Division set initial April 2006 natural gas production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 20,596,195 Mcf (thousand cubic feet).

In setting the initial April 2006 allowables, the Commission used historical production figures from previous months, producers' demand forecasts for the coming month, and adjusted the figures based on well capability.

These initial allowables will be adjusted after actual production for April 2006 is reported.

Educator's Expo in offing at WTA&M in Canyon

CANYON — It's a one-stop, find-a-job event on Monday at West Texas A&M University.

That's when school districts from across the region will be on hand from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. for the University's annual Educator's EXPO at the First United Bank Center.

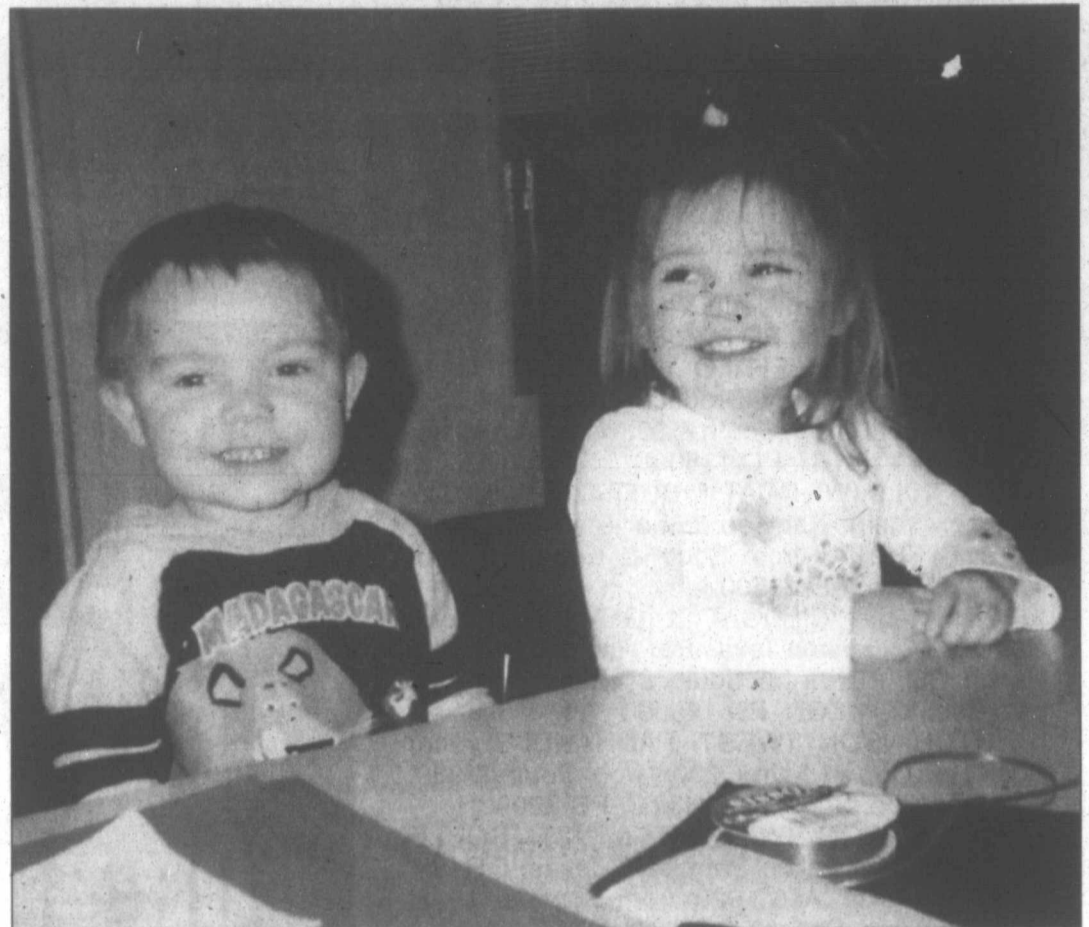

Educator's EXPO is sponsored by WTAMU's Office of Career and Counseling Services and gives education majors and prospective teachers an opportunity to learn more about different school districts, personnel needs and the career paths offered. School districts from New Mexico to Kansas will be represented at the event, and job openings range from special education to instructional technology.

WTAMU students and any educator certified to teach as of fall 2006 are invited to attend. Underclassmen also are encouraged to attend to see what prospective employers are looking for and what the various school districts have to offer.

"I encourage all students who may be considering teaching as a career to come to the EXPO," Kim Muller, assistant director of career and counseling services, said. "It's a great source of information, not just for those looking for a job, but See EXPO, Page 11

Personal management issues to top upcoming workshop

AMARILLO — Managers dealing with issues from hiring and retaining employees to conflict resolution can get some advice from the experts during a Personnel Management Conference scheduled April 25-26.

The conference developed especially for agricultural enterprises will be held at the Ritz Airport Plaza Hotel and Convention Center, 7909 Interstate 40 East in Amarillo. It will start at 8 a.m. each day and conclude at 3 p.m. April 26.

Texas Cooperative Extension, in cooperation with Select Milk Producers Inc., Texas Cattle Feeders Association and Texas Pork Producers Association, have assembled some of the top personnel management experts in the country for the meeting, said Dr. Steve Amosson, Extension economist in Amarillo.

Experts will address multicultural workforce issues and legal considerations, as well as other subjects, he said.

Partial funding was provided through a grant from Southern Region Risk information, not just for those looking for a job, but for anyone interested in the field of education."

Those attending are encouraged to bring multiple copies of their résumés and an official transcript. Some districts will be conducting interviews on-site after the job fair, and others will do on-the-spot interviews during the EXPO for openings in their school districts.

Educator's EXPO is free and allows students to make contact with a large number of school systems at one time, in one place. The event also helps students make decisions about any additional classes or activities they may need to complete their coursework for a certain career path.

University English department to offer Western Writer Series

CANYON — The Department of English and Modern Languages will host western writer Dan Flores in a public presentation of "Bad Lands: Loving the West's Most Under-Appreciated Landscapes" at 5:30 p.m. April 20 in the Hazlewood Lecture Room at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

The presentation is part of the University's Western Writers Series. Dr. Alex Hunt, assistant professor of English, organized the series in an effort to promote regional studies in literature, culture, history and environmental sciences at WTAMU.

Flores holds the A.B. Hammond Chair in Western History at the University of Montana, where he specializes in the environmental and cultural history of the west. He is a former professor of history at Texas Tech University and the author of several books about the Texas Panhandle region. Flores' presentation coincides with the museum's opening of the "Picturing Palo Duro" and "Palo Duro Canyon: The Grand Canyon of Texas" exhibits.

In his book "Caprock Canyonlands: Journeys into the Heart of the Southern Plains," Flores describes his explorations of Palo Duro and other canyons along with his research into the cultural and environmental history of the area. "Horizontal Yellow: Nature and History in the Near Southwest" is a collection of essays on the Llano Estacado.

He also wrote text for an art book titled "Canyon Visions: Photographs and Pastels of the Texas Plains" and coauthored a book on the Mississippi Kite. His

Tigers 5, Rangers 2

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Chris Shelton pushed his major league-leading home run total to five with a two-run drive and the Detroit Tigers remained the AL's only unbeaten team with a 5-2 victory over the Texas Rangers on Friday night.

Tigers starter Mike Maroth (1-0) gave up one run and eight hits with one walk in 5 1-3 innings. Relievers Jason Grilli, Joel Zumaya and Fernando Rodney combined to allow one run and three hits over the final 3 2-3 innings. Rodney worked the ninth for his second save.

Marcus Thames matched a career high with three hits for Detroit.

The Tigers have won their first four games and are off to their best start since 2004. They lead the majors with 16 homers.

Michael Young homered for the Rangers, who have dropped four of five to begin the season.

John Koronka (0-1) allowed four runs and six hits over five innings in his Rangers debut. He struck out one and didn't issue a walk.

Koronka, acquired from the Chicago Cubs last week in a three-team trade, had been sent to the bullpen by the Cubs in the spring. But Koronka has been a starter throughout most of his career and was moved into the fifth slot in the Texas rotation.

With wind gusting around 35 mph, fly balls were a challenge. In the second, Rangers right fielder Kevin Mench overran Shelton's wind-blown fly ball that fell in for a double.

The Rangers took the lead on Young's solo homer in the first, his first of the season.

Carlos Guillen's RBI single in the second tied it at 1, then Rangers third baseman Hank Blalock's fielding error on Craig Monroe's grounder allowed Shelton to score the second run of the inning.

Shelton's two-run drive off Koronka in the fourth stretched Detroit's lead to 4-1.

Detroit loaded the bases with nobody out in the sixth and Magglio Ordonez scored from third on a double play to make it 5-1.

Texas pulled to 5-2 in the seventh on Mark Teixeira's RBI single off Zumaya.

Notes:@ Shelton's first four homers of the season were with the bases empty. ... Rangers manager Buck Showalter is considering several options for Tuesday night's road start against the Los Angeles Angels, including Koronka on three days' rest. Koronka threw 71 pitches Friday night. ... Knuckeballer R.A. Dickey was originally slotted for Tuesday night's start, but was sent to the minors on Friday after giving up six homers to the Tigers on Thursday night.

Henthorn to serve as PAC assistant for summer season

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

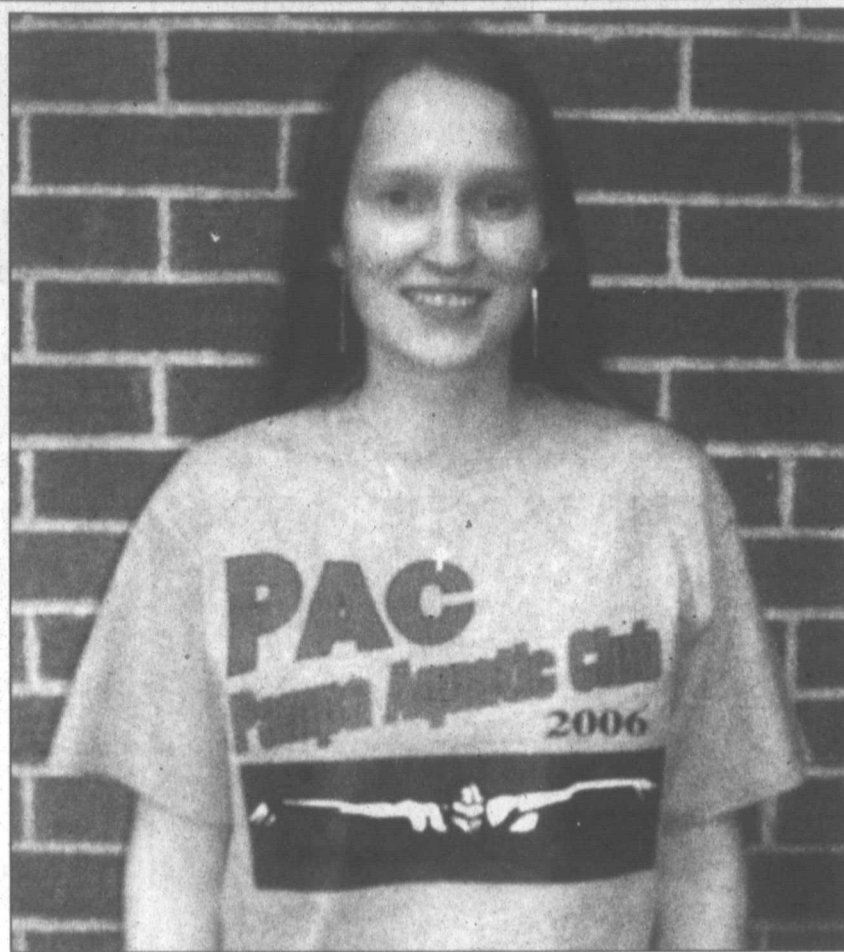

The Pampa Aquatic Club introduced Pampa High School graduate Angela Henthorn as assistant coach for the upcoming summer season.

Henthorn will work alongside coach Greg Miller this summer to help promote competitive youth swimming in Pampa.

The PAC is a non-profit organization that helps young swimmers discover their talent, or to improve on existing skills.

Those interested in joining the Pampa Aquatic Club can do so Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Pampa Youth and Community Center, 1005 West Harvester Avenue. Or call Tammy Henthorn, 665-1049.

RALPH WEST SCHOLARSHIP

Second annual youth bowling event scheduled for April 29

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

The second annual Ralph West Memorial Youth Scholarship Sweeper is set to roll off April 29 at Harvester Lanes in Pampa.

The bowling tournament is open to all YABA/USBC certified bowlers in four divisions including boys and girls 11 and under, boys and girls 12 and up.

Entry fee is $20 per bowler. Registrations are being taken now and will be up to one hour prior to the start of events April 29.

All divisions will be handicapped 80% of 200 and averages will be taken from each bowler's current average of 21 games or more as of April 15, 2006.

Bowlers unable to provide proof of current 21-game average will bowl the event using a 200 average.

This year's Ralph West Memorial Youth Scholarship Sweeper will feature a singles format where each participant will bowl four games, moving one pair of lanes to the right following each game.

One thousand dollars has been added to the overall scholarship fund this year.

Scholarships will be awarded in each division. Awards will also be given.

For additional information or to register, contact JoAnn West, 662-0026. Or call Harvester Lanes, 665-3422.

Hill aces No. 6 at Hidden Hills

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

Keep your head down and follow through with your swing and don't worry about where the ball went. That's what friends are for.

Aaron Hill of Pampa did just that at Hidden Hills March 31. On No. 6, Hill addressed the ball with an 8 iron, took a swing then lost track of it.

His friends didn't.

Hill sent his ball 143 yards from the tee to the bottom of the cup for a hole-in-one.

Rumor has it there was some shouting shortly afterward.

Witnesses were Buster Kelley (Pampa), Terry Holt (Snyder), Mark Westbrook (Pampa) and Cliff Westbrook (Pampa).

Stewart wins IROC race

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Tony Stewart climbed the fence, grabbed the checkered flag and then had to walk to Victory Lane after the second round of the International Race of Champions.

When Stewart crossed the finish line Friday night and spun out the tires to celebrate winning his third career IROC race, and his first victory of any kind at Texas Motor Speedway, something broke on the car.

"It's just parked, dead in the water right now," Stewart said. "It's all right. I don't mind walking."

Stewart had been in 13 different races on the 1 1/2-mile, high-banked Texas track, including NASCAR Nextel Cup and Busch, and the Indy Racing League. His other IROC victories were at Michigan in 2001 and Daytona in 2002.

Fellow Nextel Cup drivers Ryan Newman, Martin Truex Jr., Mark Martin and Matt Kenseth finished second through fifth in the 67-lap, 100-mile race. Max Angelelli, a Grand American road racer, was sixth.

World of Outlaws champion Steve Kinser's car got flipped for the second straight IROC race, but this time his wild ride ended with the wheels down on the pavement.

In the first IROC race at Daytona in February, Kinser's car was flipped into the air and slid on its roof after contact with ARCA driver Frank Kimmel pushed him into the back of Max Papis. It took 12 minutes for track safety workers to remove Kinser from his car, cutting away part of the door roll cage to get him out, but he had only minor injuries.

Ready Raiders

Amassing an impressive season record of 17-4, the Lefors Raiders K-2 team earned three tournament championships and a sportsmanship award under the guidance of coach Roy Lott. Clark's home run seals Pampa win in score-a-thon against Lady Raiders

By MICHAEL J. STEEVENS
Sports Editor

The Lady Harvesters took a half game lead in District 3-4A Friday with an exciting 11-10 home win over Randall as both teams opened the second half of the district season.

The victory improves Pampa's overall record to 16-5, 5-1 in district.

Pampa was tied with Caprock atop the district standings going into Friday's game. The Lady Horns were scheduled to face Hereford Saturday, while Dumas hooked up with Palo Duro.

Cassy Tice (9-4) started in the circle for the Lady Harvesters giving up five hits in six innings.

Clark hurled a no-hit seventh to secure the win for Pampa.

Both girls also went yard in the game. Clark slammed two shots over the fence for her third and fourth home runs of the season, plating four runs in the process.

Tice recorded her third homer of the year.

Errors haunted both teams, as Pampa committed 7, Randall 4.

The Lady Raiders fall to 8-17, 2-4. Pampa will travel to Hereford Tuesday.

Packer's QB Brett Favre still unsure if he will return for another season

TUNICA, Miss. (AP) - Brett Favre, one of the NFL's great quarterbacks, is still unsure if he will play another year with the Green Bay Packers.

"No change. I don't know, once again," he said Saturday during a brief news conference from the site of his charity golf tournament. "I don't know why you guys wasted a trip down here. The Packers and I will make a decision at some point soon."

The 36-year-old Favre - whose grit, durability and cannon arm have become his trademark - is the NFL's only three-time MVP (1995-97).

"I know people are getting impatient," he said. "But enjoy baseball right now."

Favre insisted he has not made up his mind, and he is not withholding his decision.

"No, I don't think that's fair to the Packers," he said. "If I knew one way or the other, for sure, and I wouldn't tell the Packers or not tell the media, that's unfair."

"I think the Packers have to go in a certain direction at some point," he added. "When I do know, I would tell them as soon as possible - maybe within the next week. It has been a strain on the family as well."

Favre ranks second behind Dan Marino on the NFL's career list in touchdown passes (396), yards passing (53,615) and completions (4,678).

He holds the NFL record for most consecutive starts for a quarterback with 221 (241 including the playoffs).

Favre has led the Packers to six division crowns, restoring success to one of the NFL's most famous franchises. The Packers won the 1997 Super Bowl in New Orleans, a 35-21 victory over New England, returning the Lombardi Trophy to Green Bay for the first time in 29 years.

Last season he threw a career-high 29 interceptions and failed to throw for more than 20 touchdowns for only the second time since 1993.

The Packers finished 4-12 for their first losing season since he joined the team in 1992.

There are concerns about the team's offensive line, which struggled last season after the departure of stalwart guards Mike Wahle and Marco Rivera to free agency.

Favre also wants to make sure the Packers are going to be competitive after a dreadful last season.

Speculation about Favre's future has become an annual rite of winter in Wisconsin. He has spoken of retirement in years past, only to return.

And through it all, there has been a string of family troubles.

His father died in December 2003. His wife, Deanna, survived breast cancer and mourned the death of her brother in an all-terrain vehicle accident. Several members of Favre's family in Mississippi were displaced because of Hurricane Katrina.

Favre memorably threw for 399 yards and four touchdowns against the Oakland Raiders one day after his father's death.

Rockets 100, Warriors 93

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - With his team playing a lackluster third quarter, Houston coach Jeff Van Gundy pulled his five starters.

The move worked as Houston overcame that sluggish quarter and beat Golden State 100-93 on Friday night.

"No message, it was pathetic effort by all five of them," Van Gundy said. "We played three very good quarters. It was unfortunate that it was marred by an irresponsible third quarter."

Yao Ming had 30 points and 14 rebounds for the Rockets, who snapped a three-game road losing streak.

He has scored 60 points and grabbed 30 rebounds combined in his two appearances in the Bay Area.

"I didn't do anything," Yao said. "I just did what I'm supposed to do. In the third quarter our patience wasn't good enough. If we don't play with patience we're not leaving here with a victory." Luther Head added 26 points, two off his career high, and eight rebounds for the Rockets. Even with the victory, the Rockets were still eliminated from playoff contention when the Sacramento Kings beat the Los Angeles Clippers.

The Rockets regained the lead for good when Alston hit a 3-pointer, sparking a 10-2 run over the final 2:30.

"We had a horrible third quarter but we got the opportunity in the fourth to get back into it," Head said. "We played better defense and had a stronger final quarter."

J.R. Richardson scored 29 points for the Warriors, who lost their seventh straight - their longest skid since a nine-game streak in January 2005. Troy Murphy had 12 points and 11 rebounds, and Derek Fisher added 17 points.

"The whole season has been frustrating," Richardson said. "We're not supposed to be losing the way we're losing."

U.S. doctors see disturbing rise in fungal eye infections among contact wearers

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Alison Bregman-Rodriguez felt as if lightning had struck her right eye, or someone had pulled skin out of it. For almost a month she could not work, drive or watch television.

"I'd never felt so much pain," the 30-year-old social worker said.

It was not until several doctor visits later that Bregman-Rodriguez was diagnosed with a fungal eye infection, a difficult-to-treat condition that can cause blindness.

Some U.S. doctors are seeing a disturbing number of such infections in contact lens wearers like Bregman-Rodriguez.

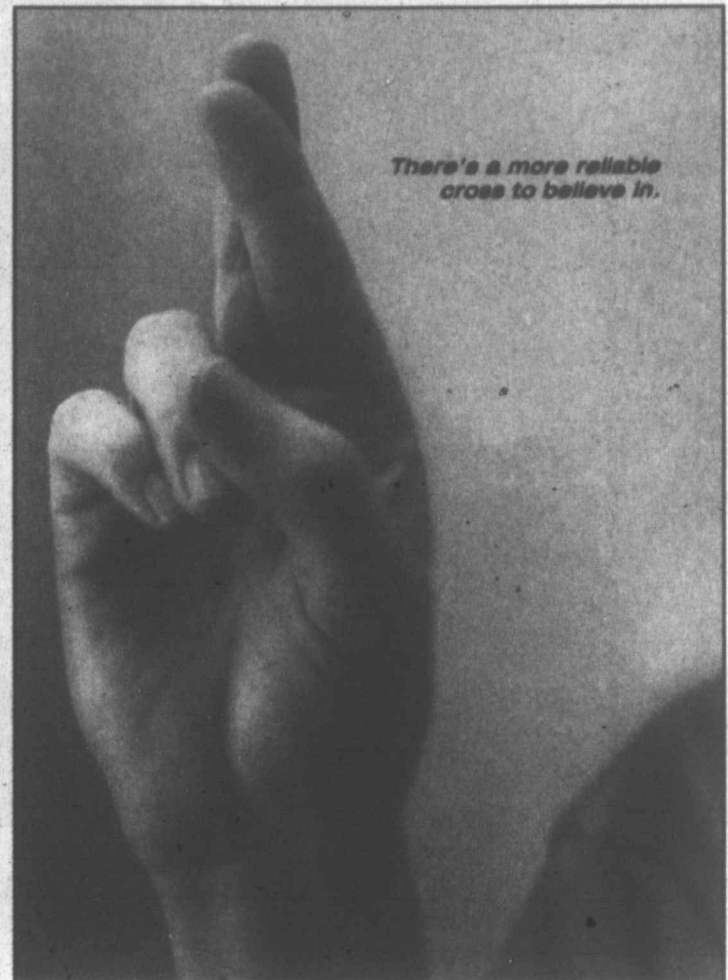

She and 20 others have been treated so far this year at the University of Miami's Bascom Palmer Eye Institute, which typically sees that many sufferers in an entire year. Twelve of those cases involved patients with contact-lenses, while previously fewer than 2 percent of those infected wore them.

Art Show and Tea

Pat Kindle uses her skills as a craftswoman to weave a basket. She and other members of Pampa Art Club are preparing for the club's yearly Art Show and Tea scheduled from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 1 in the auditorium of Lovett Memorial Library. The club has been around since 1948. Members are involved in a variety of artistic mediums including pastels, decoupage, china painting, sculpture and more.

This Easter, Don't Leave Anything to Chance!

Some People cross their fingers for good luck, but when life's really important moments arrive, there's a more meaningful cross you can turn to. God is there for you when you need Him most, no crossed fingers or lucky charms required. See how life has nothing to do with luck and everything to do with faith.

POWER TOOLS

TO SAVE TIME, EAT BETTER

FAMILY FEATURES EDITORIAL SYNDICATE

You want it all — good nutrition and more time with your family. You can have both when you use two simple tools from the American Heart Association.

First, while grocery shopping, look for the association's distinctive red heart with a white check mark. This familiar tool makes it easy to quickly and reliably find healthy foods that can be part of a sensible eating plan.

"With all the messages in grocery stores — from sales fliers to promotions on food packages — consumers are bombarded with information," says Penny Kris-Etherton, R.D., Ph.D., and Distinguished Professor of Nutrition at Pennsylvania State University. "The heart-check mark from the American Heart Association makes it easy to cut through the clutter and reliably find the nutritious foods consumers are looking for. And, because it's backed by science, it's trustworthy."

Developed more than 10 years ago by the American Heart Association's Food Certification Program, the heart-check mark on food packaging is your assurance the product meets association criteria for being low in saturated fat and cholesterol for healthy people over age 2. It takes the guesswork out of heart-healthy shopping.

To be certified, a single serving of the food must:

- Be low in fat (less than or equal to 3 grams),
- Be low in saturated fat (less than or equal to 1 gram),
- Be low in cholesterol (less than or equal to 20 milligrams),
- Have a sodium value of less than or equal to 480 milligrams for individual foods and
- Contain at least 10 percent of the Daily Value of one or more of these naturally occurring nutrients: protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, calcium, iron or dietary fiber.

Additionally:

- Seafood, game meat, meat and poultry, as well as whole grain products, main dishes and meals, must meet additional nutritional requirements.

Poultry Pot Pies

The little ones at your house will dig right in with the hungry adults when you serve this updated, home-style, one-dish meal.

Serves 6; 1 cup per serving
Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 28 minutes
Standing time: 5 minutes

- Vegetable oil spray
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon bottled minced garlic
- 1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breasts or turkey breast tenderloins, all visible fat removed
- 1 (12-ounce) bottle low-fat chicken or turkey gravy
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen no-salt-added peas and carrots
- 2 cups reduced-fat buttermilk baking and pancake mix
- 2/3 cup skim milk
- Black pepper (optional)

Preheat oven to 450°F.

Spray large saucepan with vegetable oil. Place over medium heat. Cook onion and garlic in hot saucepan about 5 minutes or until tender.

Meanwhile, rinse chicken, pat dry and cut into bite-size pieces. Add to skillet with onion mixture. Cook and stir 2 to 3 minutes or until chicken is just tender. Stir in gravy and vegetables. Heat through, about 5 minutes.

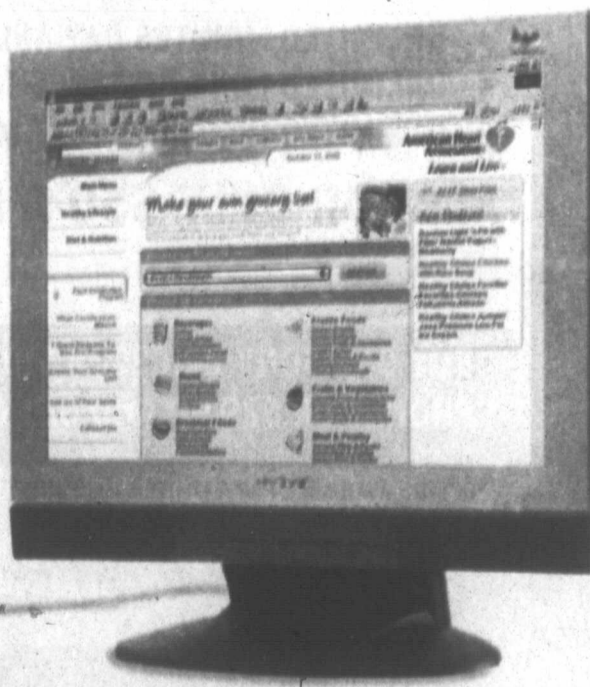

Meanwhile, in medium bowl, stir together baking and pancake mix and milk until soft dough forms. Set aside.

Transfer hot chicken or turkey filling to three 15-ounce casseroles or one 2-quart casserole. Drop dough by spoonfuls onto hot filling. Bake 15-ounce casseroles, uncovered, 10 to 15 minutes. Bake 2-quart casserole, uncovered, 15 to 20 minutes. Topping should be golden brown and filling should be hot. Let stand 5 minutes and season with pepper if desired.

Healthy grocery shopping has never been easier!
Visit heartcheckmark.org.

For even more convenience, the American Heart Association now offers you a second tool — its innovative, online Grocery List Builder.

Before you go to the store, log on to heartcheckmark.org. Click on the "Grocery List" link and create your personal list from the more than 850 certified products. Items are listed by manufacturer and by category, such as breakfast foods, dairy, meat and snacks.

With just a click of a mouse, you can select the nutritious foods you love, add other needed items such as bottled water and pet food, print a list ... and go! It's a great way to shop smart — and fast.

This free, interactive Web tool is so easy, your kids may enjoy making their own healthy-shopping lists.

"Building a healthy lifestyle starts with eating the right foods like those found in the American Heart Association's Food Certification Program," says Dr. Kris-Etherton. "This, along with regular physical activity and checkups with your doctor, can help reduce your risk of heart disease and stroke — the No. 1 and 3 killers of Americans."

To learn more about reducing the risk of heart disease and stroke through good nutrition, visit americanheart.org or call 1-800-AHA-USA1 for your free copy of the "Shop Smart with Heart" brochure.

FISHER, WORKMAN WEDDING

Vanessa Dawn Fisher and James Roland Workman exchanged wedding vows April 8 in First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Pampa with the Rev. Albert Maggard performing the service.

The bride is the daughter Keith Fisher of Pampa and Susan Fisher of Sulphur, La., and is the granddaughter of Albert and Mary Maggard and Doug and Peggy Fisher, all of Pampa.

She graduated from Pampa High School in 1999 and from Frank Phillips College Nursing Division in 2000. She is currently employed with Shepard's Crook Nursing Agency.

The groom is the son of Russell and Diane Workman of Hendersonville, Tenn., and is the grandson of Lily Sue Workman of Thornton, Ark.

He graduated from Eminence High School in Eminence, Mo., in 1994 and is currently employed as a jailer with Gray County Sheriff's Office.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in Pagosa Springs, Colo., and intend to make their home in Pampa.

Donovan Taylor Williams

Donovan Taylor Williams was born at 3:08 p.m. Jan. 4 at Northwest Texas Healthcare System in Amarillo, to Tommy and Heather Williams of Pampa. At birth, the infant weighed 1-pounds, 13-ounces and was 13-inches long. Welcoming him into the world are his parents, Tommy and Heather; his grandparents, Brenda Wentworth and Amy and Rick Nelson, all of Pampa; and his great-grandparents, Gloria and Bo Applegate and Jan Newman, all of Pampa.

WILKINSON, CRANDALL WEDDING

Amy Wilkinson and Andrew Crandall, both of Amarillo, exchanged wedding vows March 11 in Central Baptist Church of Pampa with Rick Parnell, of the church, performing the ceremony.

The matron of honor was Tricia Olona of Canyon. The bridesmaid was Dana Malone, sister of the bride of Las Cruces, N.M. The flower girl was Skye Wilkinson, daughter of the bride of Amarillo.

Standing up as best man was Harry Howell, uncle of the groom of Lamesa. The groomsmen were Ed Crandall, brother of the groom of Amarillo. The ring bearer was Taylor Wilkinson, son of the bride of Amarillo.

Taylor and Skye

Wilkinson gave their mother to be married.

Music was provided by vocalist Gail Smith.

A reception was held following the service at the church with Kay Brownlow, Jeanne Bailey, Paula Gilreath, Reba Hanks and Betty Whitson, all of Pampa, serving the guests.

The bride is the daughter of Danny and Ellen Malone of Pampa. She graduated from Pampa High School and attends West Texas A&M University. She is employed with Hochheim Prairie Insurance.

The groom is the son of James and Sue Hutson of Hereford and Stuart Crandall of Springfield, Mo. He graduated from Lamesa High School and is employed at the Clements Prison Unit in Amarillo.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Branson, Mo.,

and intend to make their home in Amarillo.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man I'll call "Chad." We have had a few rough years since our child came along. We went to counseling as long as Chad's parents paid for it, and even tried talking to the pastor of our church. Not a whole lot has changed. I know you recommend counseling for married people in trouble, but what do you suggest for those of us who can't afford it? — TRYING TO MAKE IT IN TUCSON

DEAR TRYING: A program that has been mentioned before in my column, and has enjoyed much success, is Retrouvaille, which started in Canada in 1977 and is now offered in many countries. It is Catholic in origin and orientation, but is open to all married couples regardless of religious background. Retrouvaille consists of a weekend, followed by a series of 12 presentations over the following three months. It is not a spiritual retreat, a sensitivity group or a seminar. During the Retrouvaille program, which is run by three married couples and a priest, the "team couples" — all of whom have experienced disillusionment, pain, anger and conflict in their own marriages — share their personal struggles, reconciliation and healing. For more information on programs in your area, call toll-free: (800) 470-2230 or visit www.retrouvaille.org.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "George," died seven months ago, after a four-month battle with esophageal cancer. He was the oldest of six siblings. We all got along well. My three children and I are grateful to both of our families for all the help they gave us throughout George's illness. My problem is George's brothers, sisters and their families. They have dropped us from their lives. I know they are grieving for their brother. My children and I are grieving for him, too. They say it's "too hard to see us" because there are too many memories. Abby, I like being with George's family because they remind me of my husband. I don't sit around talking about him all the time, and I don't expect them to do that either. I guess what I'm looking for is a feeling of still belonging. I'm not talking about wanting to be with these people 24/7, just maybe seeing them once every two or three weeks. We all live close to each other. Losing my husband was devastating, but losing his family makes it ever so much worse. How do I get them to see I need to stay in the family "loop"? — GEORGE'S WIFE IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR WIFE: Please accept my sympathy for your loss. You didn't mention how often you saw your in-laws before your husband's death, or what demands there are on their time. However, families are made up of individuals, and it would be interesting to know which of your husband's siblings expressed that it is "too hard to see you," whether they all feel the same way, or if one person was speaking for all of them. While it may not be possible to remain close to all of your husband's brothers and sisters, it may be possible to stay close with some of them. At the same time, please consider enlarging your social circle. Volunteer work is an excellent way to do that if you have the time. It will also give you less time to dwell on your loss.

Fire response

Fire units from McLean and Pampa speed along a county road Thursday in an effort to try and save a home at the Tukey Creek Camp of the Malouf Abraham Ranches south of Lefors.

Loneliness is linked to high blood pressure

CHICAGO (AP) — Loneliness in people over 50 greatly increases their risk of high blood pressure, researchers say in the latest study to underscore the health advantages of friends and family.

The loneliest people studied had blood pressure readings as much as 30 points higher than those who weren't lonely, suggesting that loneliness can be as bad for the heart as being overweight or inactive, the researchers said.

"The magnitude of this association is quite stunning," said University of Chicago scientist Louise Hawkey, the study's lead author.

With earlier research suggesting that more than 11 million Americans over 50 often feel isolated, left out or lacking companionship, the study could have substantial public health implications if it can be shown that reducing loneliness can lower people's blood pressure, said Richard Suzman, director of a behavioral research program at the National Institute on Aging, which helped fund the study.

Hawkey said the findings hint that one strategy for treating high blood pressure might be to get more involved, "do volunteer work, make yourself useful."

The study of 229 Chicago-area men and women ages 50 to 68 appears in the March issue of the journal Psychology and Aging.

The results build on earlier research by co-author John Cacioppo, who found that in younger adults loneliness was linked with blood vessel problems that could lead to high blood pressure.

Last year, Harvard research linked loneliness in men with increased blood levels of inflammatory markers associated with heart disease.

Unions carrying more influence in bankruptcy cases

ATLANTA (AP) — Bankrupt companies hold a big stick in how their reorganization turns out. They can cancel contracts, eliminate stock options and wipe away debt.

But increasingly, labor unions, especially in recent airline bankruptcies, are trying to show they have muscle, too. Their weapon: strike, or at least make management think you will.

From the airline to the auto industry, unions are attempting to protect their pay and their pensions. But some legal experts caution that unions can do as much harm to themselves as their companies by taking a stand in bankruptcy. And some question whether the threat of a walkout really does carry much weight.

The union activities come at a time when employees feel they're under more pressure than ever to match their peers in the money they make, the hours they work and the benefits they receive. And in this fight, not all unions are created equal, with some enjoying more success in labor disputes than others because of their role in their company.

"While unions might not have much in the way of power in a Chapter 11 case, they have a unique kind of influence," said David Dykhouse, a New York bankruptcy attorney. "They might not get their way, but they've been sort of taken into account and things end up not being the way they would have been had the union not had this role."

It's yet to be determined whether the pilots union at Delta Air Lines Inc., the nation's No. 3 carrier, will have much power or influence to decide its fate in the company's bankruptcy case.

The union voted on Tuesday to authorize a strike at the Atlanta-based company, and it says it will walk out if Delta is successful in persuading an arbitration panel to void its contract with its 5,930 pilots so the airline can impose up to $325 million in long-term pay and benefit cuts. But the company so far isn't flinching, even with some customers turning to other carriers, and with time running out for the two sides to reach a deal on their own.

Other industries, like the auto industry, also face strike threats by unions representing employees of companies in bankruptcy.

The United Auto Workers responded angrily last week when auto parts supplier Delphi Corp. asked a federal judge to cancel its labor contracts so it can impose wage cuts. Delphi filed for bankruptcy protection last fall and the judge is scheduled to consider the company's request May 9.

The UAW, which represents around 24,000 of Delphi's 33,000 U.S. hourly workers, has threatened to strike if the judge allows Delphi to cancel its contracts and Delphi imposes the wage cuts it proposed in its last offer. Delphi wants to cut pay from $27 an hour to $16.50 an hour.

But David Cole, president of the Center for Automotive Research in Ann Arbor, Mich., said strike threats are losing their power because all parties know that strikes could be deadly to the companies involved.

"Before, there was no question. Even if there was a strike, the company was going to be there. It was the Rock of Gibraltar. It was not going away," Cole said. "The company is in play today, so it just changes the atmosphere very dramatically."

Despite union rhetoric, there is much more collaboration behind the scenes than there used to be because a bankruptcy filing forces labor and management to see how much they depend on each other.

"They succeed together or they fail together," Cole said. "The risk from the union perspective is that if you throw out the contract, then all of a sudden, what you have planned for a whole career on is up in the air. That's a pretty dismal potential outcome. What's far preferred is that you come to a deal together."

That is particularly true in Delphi's case, Cole said, because the company has an older workforce and workers want to make sure they can retire with their pensions and benefits intact.

NASA perplexed by worker accidents at Kennedy Center

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Over the past three months, workers at the Kennedy Space Center have tripped, dropped things, banged into sensitive equipment and started fires in a deadly string of accidents that has NASA perplexed.

The space agency has launched investigations into three accidents — the death of a worker who fell off a roof, the bumping of space shuttle Discovery's robotic arm by a platform, and damage last week to an instrument that supplies power to the orbiters.

Since the beginning of the year, there have been 20 other incidents in which a worker was injured or equipment was damaged in excess of $25,000. There were only 14 incidents during the same time period last year.

"There's enough going on that we're very, very concerned," said Bill Parsons, deputy director of the Kennedy Space Center.

One explanation for the accidents may be that workers have been out of the rhythm of preparing for shuttle launches, since there has been only a single liftoff since the Columbia disaster in early 2003, Parsons said.

"I think anytime you have big gaps in between doing something that's like launching shuttles ... or things like that, you are always concerned that you've lost a little bit of your edge," Parsons said.

Workers had been under pressure to meet a May launch date for Discovery, but the flight was pushed back to July last month so that technicians could replace troublesome sensors in the fuel tank.

Senior managers and contractors have been urged to get out in the field to talk to workers about any problems and emphasize safety and discipline.

In the meantime, a July launch could be threatened by a new problem — "whiskering" on a shuttle engine circuit board. Whiskering is the formation of thin metallic protrusions that could lead to a short circuit.

"It's a problem that has been around for years," said Kyle Herring, a NASA spokesman. "It's probably of greater interest now because we're getting ready to fly."

In one incident in January, workers accidentally started a fire while repairing the roof of the Vehicle Assembly Building.

In March, broken glass from a lamp fell into Discovery's payload bay. Workers cleaning it up the next day accidentally dented Discovery's robotic arm. Three days later, an X-ray film container was dropped on shuttle Endeavour.

Space center director James Kennedy called a two-hour work stand-down in mid-March to re-emphasize safety after another fire was accidentally started by roofers at the assembly building. The accidents didn't stop.

The next day, roofer Steven Owens, 51, tripped on a wire and fell off a warehouse — the first worker death at the space center since 1989. Last week, electronic equipment was damaged at a spare parts depot when the electricity was reversed, and workers from New Orleans dropped a lamp on the nose of the external fuel tank while repairing it.

Lynn Beattie, a Machinists union leader at the space center, said he believes accidents are simply being reported more than they have been in the past.

He noted that several accidents, including the roofer's death and the fires, involved outside contractors, not employees of NASA or its primary shuttle contractor, United Space Alliance.

"I sometimes think there's not a real serious attempt to make our contractors comply with the same safety standards that everybody else has to out here," Beattie said.

Family sees justice in 'Mafia cops' case A little windy

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1986, an unassuming jeweler named Israel Greenwald was secretly shot to death inside a Brooklyn garage and buried.

Twenty years later, his family celebrated justice at the conviction of two retired police detectives who had doubled as hit men for the mob. The guilty verdicts Thursday for "Mafia cops" Louis Eppolito and Steven Caracappa closed perhaps the most astonishing police corruption case in the city's history.

"Finally, justice has been served," Greenwald's 28-year-old daughter, Yael, told reporters outside a Brooklyn courtroom after the verdicts were announced.

Her sister Michelle, 30, said the verdicts can't erase the past, but they do help. "We're so grateful this happened after 20 years," she said.

The ex-detectives, who had been highly decorated and praised by their New York Police Department colleagues, were secretly on the payroll of Luchese underboss Anthony "Gaspipe" Casso starting in the mid 1980s.

"There has never been, in the history of the NYPD, an officer convicted of being a hit man for the mob," said Tom Reppetto, co-author of "American Mafia" and "NYPD," a department history. "There's cases of police misconduct, but going to work for organized crime? Wow."

The federal jury deliberated for two days in the case against Eppolito and Caracappa, who spent a combined 44 years on the force and once worked as partners. The pair were immediately jailed after the verdict and face up to life in prison.

Neither defendant betrayed any emotion when the verdicts were announced in court.

Eppolito, 57, whose father was a member of the Gambino crime family, and Caracappa, 64, were respected detectives who moonlighted as hired killers for Casso between 1986 and 1990. In two of the slayings, they used their police credentials to make traffic stops that ended with the driver killed.

In another instance, the pair kidnapped a man suspected in an attempted mob hit against Casso and turned him over to the underboss. Casso, a remorseless mobster responsible for 36 slayings, reportedly tortured and killed Jimmy Hydel in September 1986.

The most shocking murder involved bad information provided by the detectives about another suspect in the Casso case. The tip led to the mistaken-identity murder of an innocent man killed as his mother washed the dishes following a Christmas Day family dinner.

U.S. District Court Judge Jack B. Weinstein immediately revoked the defendants' $5 million bail pending their May 22 sentencing. Attorneys for the two men said they would appeal.

The high winds and blowing dirt wreaked havoc throughout the Panhandle Thursday. This photo was taken looking west from Carter Road, just south of McCollough Street.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, April 10, 2006:
Make it your policy never to accept that anything is written in stone this year. If you do, you could see situations, events and agreements fall apart. By being flexible, you will be much happier. Focus on your daily life and your health habits. You could push someone away or be hard on him or her. Remember what is ultimately important as you design the quality of your life. If you are single, you will meet someone through your day-to-day travels. Fall and winter 2006 could be unusually romantic. If you are attached, nurture rather than react. VIRGO can be a good partner.

5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 The unexpected punctuates your responses. You will want to maintain a strong hand in your plans and your daily routine. Take a step forward, and a partner will step up to the plate and help you. Easy does it. Tonight: Work as late as need be.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Sometimes others get in your way; though, in a sense, because of their intervention, positive happenings head your way. Drop the word "no" from your vocabulary, if you know what's good for you. Others respond to your actions. Tonight: Let your ingenuity cook up your plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 As you might figure, you have too much on your plate and far too much ground to cover. If you think before you leap into action, you'll feel much better. Others need your strong intellect and planning skills. Tonight: In a whirlwind. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 You say and do way too much. What you find is that plans and situations are subject to lightning bolts, which not only illuminate a question but also encourage some major changes. Tonight: Stay in control.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Get a better grasp and stronger control of your finances, and you will feel much better for a sustained period than you have in a while. Knowing when to say enough or no can make or break your financial security and emotional happiness. Tonight: Gather your bills.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 You are in prime shape, ready to get everything done as quickly as possible. Though you might be a bit uncomfortable, you trigger a lot of actions. Be aware of the waves that you send out. Tonight: What would please you?

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Know when to pull back and vanish. Your nerves might be fried from a lack of sleep or a need to change your lifestyle. You can no longer say no to the inevitable. You might have your hands full, but you'll get a lot done. Tonight: Get some extra rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 You might have way too much ground to cover, and way too quickly at that. Even if you are a bit tired and drawn, you will discover that a lot falls into place. Know when to say no to a suggestion. Tonight: Swap war stories of the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 You might find plans very difficult, as someone — which, incidentally, could be you — could be changing plans left and right. Stability might need to be achieved if you want a more professional image. Tonight: Work late.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 It behooves you to take an overview, to see events and people with a better perspective. If what occurs around you jolts you, take another look. You are missing something. Laughter loosens up the tension. Tonight: Take a mental break. Go for a drive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Working with one other person could prove to be mighty expensive if you aren't careful. Work as a team, not as adversaries. You'll get a lot done quickly if you simply relax. Listen to someone who has always been a source of information. Tonight: Accept someone else's praise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Others might rule with an iron fist, causing you to be highly reactive. How smart is that? Stay on top of what must be done and know for the moment that you might need to defer to others. Be intelligent. Be docile. Tonight: The only answer is yes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 If you feel scattered, it is probably because outside elements are pushing you in every direction. Nothing has to be a problem, but a lot of opportunities will come forward if you relax. Tonight: Out late.

This Week: Expect to be at the helm of the ship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Take an overview, and you will not encounter problems. If you get uptight, you could find others far more difficult. Relax and enjoy someone you haven't seen in a while. If you listen, you will gain understanding. Tonight: Try a new restaurant or go to a movie.

This Week: You will want to study a situation before you run with it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 You could get caught in a situation where you need to spend or indulge another person. This situation could be a problem, or you could look the other way. How you play it is up to you. Think positively. Tonight: Tomorrow is another day.

This Week: Others want to call the shots; let them. You have better things to do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 You could go way overboard if you aren't careful. Others simply present a way-too-enticing scenario. You will jump in and have a very good time wherever you are. Think carefully about your choices. Tonight: Remember, there is a tomorrow.

This Week: Others want to rule the roost; let them.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, April 9, 2006:
You have a way of making room for others in your life, though sometimes you hurt yourself in the process. Don't assume that this situation is necessary or that you are stronger than many and therefore you can deal with pain or problems. Learn to start nurturing yourself as well. Curb a sweet tooth. If you are single, you cannot be too selective about who you let into your inner circle, but don't turn away from someone very different. If you are attached, you will both profit from time spent together. The more weekends away together, the happier you will be. VIRGO wants to pitch in.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You need — yes, need — to spoil yourself and get ahead. How you view someone could change with some laughter and less tension. Make the most of the moment, for your sake. Enjoy and relax. Tonight: Put your feet up.

This Week: You build toward a Full Moon Thursday, testing just how much you can handle!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Let your hair down. Make time to play with a child or hop on a swing, to remember the carefree times of when you were a kid. Why not? Make the most of this day of relaxation and enjoyment. Tonight: You feel your Wheaties.

This Week: You might want to be a little more creative. Expect your plate to be full.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Understand that not everyone can deal with change and silliness as well as you. Spend the day at home, relaxing and enjoying yourself. Family is where the heart is. Happy times naturally surround you. Tonight: Happy as can be.

This Week: Each day gets more active. Hold on tight!

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Whatever you do, wherever you speak to, good feelings prevail. You might not believe everything that is going on around you. You have a way of opening doors, which others walk through, revealing their authentic selves. Tonight: Put on some favorite music.

This Week: You get more done Monday than Tuesday. Tuesday you get more done than Wednesday. Forget Thursday!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Others simply want to be extravagant, and you do, too. Don't be surprised at how loose and easy others get. Though you might spend a bit too much, you enjoy yourself nearly anywhere. Feelings run high. Tonight: Your treat.

This Week: Curb spending, because you might need the extra money later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Clearly, the Moon in your sign tosses you into the thick of things. Those you encounter right now want to enjoy themselves and will tend to go overboard. Let worry vanish, as right now the pleasure ethic dominates. Tonight: Easy does it.

This Week: You blow into Monday a force to behold. By Thursday, you're exhausted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Sometimes you could get tired of others jockeying for your attention. The real issue is how to say no to them. Clearly, right now you aren't in the mood to shake your head about anything. Tonight: You don't have to tell everything.

This Week: You're in the pink from Wednesday on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Sometimes you could get worn out by others and their demands. You know how to say no, but be honest with yourself that you don't want to. Investigate alternatives only if you want to. You could actually be happy with the status quo. Tonight: Enjoy the last moments of the weekend.

This Week: Use Monday to the fullest. Expect to vanish midweek, if possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 If you feel scattered, it is probably because outside elements are pushing you in every direction. Nothing has to be a problem, but a lot of opportunities will come forward if you relax. Tonight: Out late.

This Week: Expect to be at the helm of the ship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

This Week: You will want to study a situation before you run with it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 You could get caught in a situation where you need to spend or indulge another person. This situation could be a problem, or you could look the other way. How you play it is up to you. Think positively. Tonight: Tomorrow is another day.

This Week: Others want to call the shots; let them. You have better things to do.
