transcribe circles in space. They look straight, but they're not. Appearances, y' know—so deceptive! Let's enter the silence, and substitute mentation for sight."

He gazed up out of the great windows into Fifth Avenue. For several moments he sat smoking thoughtfully. When he spoke again, it was in an even, deliberate voice.

"Markham, would it be difficult for you to invite Mannix and Cleaver and Spotswoode to spend an evening—this evening, let us say—in your apartment?"

Markham set down his cup with a clatter, and regarded Vance narrowly.

"What new harlequinade is this?"

"File on you! Answer my question."

"Well—of course—I might arrange it," replied Markham hesitatingly.

"They're all more or less under my jurisdiction at present."

"So that such an invitation would be rather in line with the situation—eh, what? And they wouldn't be likely to refuse you, old dear—would they?"

"No; I hardly think so. . . ."

"And if, when they had assembled in your quarters, you should propose a few hands of poker, they'd probably accept, without thinking the suggestion strange?"

"Probably," said Markham, nonplussed at Vance's amazing request. "Cleaver and Spotswoode both play. I know; and Mannix doubtless knows the game. But why poker? Are you serious, or has your threatened dementia already overtaken you?"

"Oh, I'm deuced serious." Vance's tone left no doubt as to the fact. "The game of poker, d'ye see, is the crux of the matter. I knew Cleaver was an old hand at the game; and Spotswoode, of course, played with Judge Redfern last Monday night. So that gave me a basis for my plan. Mannix, we'll assume also plays."

He leaned forward, speaking earnestly.

"Nine-tenths of poker, Markham, is psychology; and if one understands the game, one can learn more of a man's nature at a poker table in an hour than during a year's casual association with him."

"You rallied me once when I said I'd lead you to the perpetrator of the crime by examining the factors of the crime itself. But naturally I must lead you to the man to whom I am to lead you, otherwise I cannot relate the psychological indications of the crime to the culprit's nature."

"In the present case, I know the kind of man who committed the crime; but I am not sufficiently acquainted with the suspects to point out the guilty one. However, after our game of poker, I hope to be able to tell you who planned and carried out the Canary's murder."

Markham gazed at him in blank astonishment. He knew that Vance played poker with amazing skill, and that he possessed, an uncanny knowledge of the psychological elements involved in the game; but he was unprepared for the latter's statement that he might be able to solve the Odell murder by means of it.

Doubtless Vance had spoken with such undoubted earnestness that Markham was impressed. I knew what was passing in his mind almost as well as if he had voiced his thoughts. He was recalling the way in which Vance had in a former murder case, put his finger unerringly on the guilty man by a similar process of psychological deduction. And he was also telling himself that, however incomprehensible and seemingly extravagant Vance's requests were, there was always a fundamentally sound reason behind them.

"Damn it!" he muttered at last. "The whole scheme seems idiotic. . . . And yet if you really want a game of poker with these men, I've no special objection. I'll get you nowhere—I'll tell you that beforehand. It's stark nonsense to suppose that you can find the guilty man by such fantastic means."

"Ah, well," sighed Vance, "a little futile recreation will do us no harm."

"But why do you include Spotswoode?"

"Really, y' know, I haven't the slightest notion—except, of course, that he's one of my quartet. And we'll need an extra hand."

"Well, don't tell me afterwards that I'm to lock him up for murder. I'd have to draw the line. Strange as it may seem to your layman's mind, I wouldn't care to prosecute a man, knowing that it was physically impossible for him to have committed the crime."

"As to that," drawled Vance, "the only obstacles that stand in the way of physical impossibilities are material facts. And material facts are notoriously deceivin'. Really, y' know, you lawyers would do better if you ignored them entirely."

Markham did not deign to answer such hearsay, but the look he gave Vance was most expressive.

(To Be Continued)

"Recently I ran across an article by Doctor George A. Dorsey, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago, and author of 'Why We Behave Like Human Beings,' which bore intimate testimony to the scientific accuracy of Vance's theory. In it Doctor Dorsey said: 'Poker is a cross-section of life. The way a man behaves in a poker game is the way he behaves in life. His success or failure lies in the way his physical organisms respond to the stimuli supplied by the game. . . . I have studied humanity all my life from the anthropologic and psychological viewpoint. And I have yet to find a better laboratory exercise than to observe the manners of men as they see my raise and come back at me. . . . The psychologist's verbalized, visceral, and manual behaviors are functioning at their highest in a poker game. . . . I truthfully say that I learned about men from poker.'"

FINER POINTS ARE STRESSED

Texas League Prepares for Coming Exhibition Games

(By the Associated Press) In preparation for a series of exhibition games, which include a few tilts with major league teams, managers of Texas league clubs in training are adding instruction in the finer points of the game to their daily programs of rudimentary drills.

As a climax to a week of brisk workouts, the Sports of Shreveport were prepared to meet the Chicago White Sox today, and Eric Smith and Kendrick were the nominations for mound duty. At Fort Worth, Manager Jake planned further lively drills, in line with brisk ones yesterday, to fit the Cats for their week-end clash with the Oklahoma City Indians of the Western league.

Manager Bert Ellison at Dallas announced that the Steers, while by no means devoid of awkwardness acquired in a winter's rest, were set for their double duel with the St. Louis Saints of the American Association.

Light workouts continued the order of the day for the Waco cubs, who were the last of the Texas teams to begin training. Considerable interest centers on the next move of outfielder Blackerby, one of the Cub stars, who from his home at Wichita Falls has hinted he might retire from the game. Manager Pratt has denied rumors that Blackerby might be traded.

Although an old arm injury forced Frank Watt, star hurler a couple of years ago, to leave the camp of the San Antonio Bears at Fredricksburg yesterday, the Bear management was cheered by Pete Arzatti's telegraphed assurance that he would report in a few days. Arzatti, a catcher and one of the Bears' best bats for a regular receiving post, has been ill at his home at Douglas, Arizona.

Continued sunshine is the plea of Manager Claude Robertson of Beaumont, who has been forced to curtail workouts on account of wet grounds. With Hanson, Holzhauser and Williams reporting yesterday, only Phillips, pitcher, and Wingfield, catcher were missing batters, and these were expected at any time.

Frank Barnes, southpaw, and O. J. Clements, righthander, had their first workouts at Houston yesterday in a session which included some batting practice. In the latter activity, Fred Baker, outfielder who played with Mission in the Texas Valley league last season, showed to good advantage.

Manager Carl Williams has announced practice games will be started at Wichita Falls Sunday, the final date for infielders and outfielders to report. Among yesterday's arrivals, was Lyman Lamb, slugging outfielder.

Boston's Babe

Here's Joe Cicero, 17-year-old rookie shortstop with the Boston Red Sox, who is believed to be the youngest player in the big leagues. He hit well for Easton, Pa., last year and Manager Bill Carrigan hopes he will make the big top within the next year or two.

AFRICAN LEADS MARATHON MEN

Forty-Four Miles of Desert Face Group Today

MOJAVE WELLS, Calif., March 9.—(P)—To this tiny oasis in the Mojave desert, dreaded by the pioneers of yesterday, today had come afoot a band of modern treasure seekers in their race to reach a $48,500 pot of gold which awaits them in New York—at the end of a 3,400-mile marathon trail.

Like the pioneers of old, these road conquerors of 1928 trudged onward, but there the comparison ends, for they possess comforts that their predecessors lacked. Where the old trail blazers, often with parched mouths, trudged from waterhole to waterhole, these of today take beverages and fruit juices from their handlers without breaking their stride.

Their course today led them deeper into the desert to Bagdad, 44 miles distant. A blistering sun that beat remorselessly upon them and the chill winds of the desert, were battled by the marathoners yesterday in their 32.5-mile dash from Barstow. At the head of the weather beaten line of runners and walkers was the sun bronzed Arthur Newton from the yeld's of Central Africa, who, in finishing first in yesterday's lap, took the lead in total elapsed time for the 165.6 miles out from Los Angeles. The 44-year old campaigner trudged the route in four hours and 48 minutes for a total of 24 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds.

A few minutes behind Newton in total elapsed time came Olli Wantinen, 96-pound Finnish racer.

Four Catchers Out For Detroit Jobs

SAN ANTONIO, March 9.—(P)—The fight for the two regular catching berths on the Detroit baseball team involves four players, Larry Weedall and Mervyn Shea, holdovers from last year; Red Hargrave, obtained Toronto, and Ed Phillips, a recruit from Boston college. Phillips and Hargrave have been performing sensationally in training and Shea has improved immensely since last season. Woodall was the regular first string catcher last season.

Moriarty, who plans to carry only two catchers, is frankly puzzled as to where to apply the paring knife.

Senators Practice For Game With Boston Tomorrow

TAMPA Fla., March 9.—(P)—Turned back by the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 5, in their initial game of the training season yesterday at Avon Park, the Washington Senators were back in Tampa today warming up for the Boston Braves. They play here tomorrow.

George Sisler, former Brown star who is fighting to get out with Joe Judge for the first base job with Washington shared the honors in yesterday's game getting a triple and a stolen base. Judge hit once in two times up.

An error by Bluege, regular third baseman, which let in two runs, largely was responsible for the Senators' defeat.

Root Starts Off With Good Stuff

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson tell how they obtained America's favorite coffee on their famous hunting trip

FOUR years in the heart of Africa, hunting big game! What amazing adventures Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had! What wonderful motion pictures these famous explorers made of the naked savages and wild animals! "Simba, King of the Beasts," is one of the most thrilling dramatic treats ever offered America—you must see this film!

Far from civilization the explorers went. Their lives depended on their baggage. With every ounce precious, carried man-back through the wilderness, only essentials could be taken.

Carefully they chose their supplies, the one best of every kind, say Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. Above all other coffees they selected that rich blend which is America's favorite coffee—Maxwell House!

"Wishing to secure the best possible coffee," Mr. Johnson writes, "we selected Maxwell House. It was delivered to us by camels and black runners throughout our stay in Africa."

The blended richness of many fine coffees is in Maxwell House—a touch of difference that has taken the country by storm. One sip of this fragrant, mellow blend is a new experience in good living.

Knockouts Expected in Monday's Card

Pampa fight fans are likely to see what they have been looking for for some time and that is a few knockouts. Monday night is amateur night at the Pampa Athletic club and some of the contestants are sure to hit the mat for the count.

Local fans have been asking for a K. O., so matchmaker Ed Gober of the American Legion has agreed to give them what they want and has signed Battler Walker, the Pampa slugger, to meet Marion Coffee, the White Deer giant, in the main event marked as six rounds but not expected to go that far.

Both boys have been training hard and both are going out to win with a semi-final bout on one of the future cards in view. Both pack sleeping punches and both bore in and slug, as the fans have seen before.

For the six-round semi-final, Battling Young of Wichita and Jerry Haley of Borger are matched and the mitts are sure to fly in this encounter. Young is not as fast as Frankie Parrell and Haley is likely to slip over one of his sleeping punches anytime.

The special event will bring together Dynamite Smith of Amarillo and Rattlesnake Jones of Wichita Falls, two negro boys weighing 155 pounds, for four rounds.

Tuffy Graham and Kid Buster, two 140-pound sluggers, are matched for one preliminary and usually give lots of action while in the ring.

The two colored boys who battled last week have been training hard this week and will open the event Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Mays Works Out But Has Yet To Sign His Contract

ORLANDO, Fla., March 9.—(P)—Although pitcher Carl Mays has not signed his contract with the Cincinnati Reds he is here working hard to get in condition.

The Reds hoped to get in two long sessions of practice in preparation for the games with the St. Louis Browns at West Palm Beach tomorrow and Sunday.

Red Sox Rookies Defeat Regulars

BRADENTON, Fla., March 9.—(P)—The Red Sox camp was delighted today over the trouncing handed the Philadelphia Nationals by Bill Carrigan's second string men. The youngsters walloped the Phils 4-3 in a fray that saw only one so-called regular in their line-up, Ken Williams.

UNDEVELOPED ASSETS

There are few counties which do not have undeveloped resources, especially along recreational lines. Of all the beauties of the Panhandle, the Palo Duro canyon and tributaries is the most promising from a scenic viewpoint. It exists in strange contrast to the level plains, and is there to enjoy if roads are laid out so that cars may enter it.

In a lesser degree, there are natural beauties in every county if they are recognized. In Gray county, for instance, the rough country across the center of the county is a barrier to travel, an obstacle to railroads, and of little use in some portions. Yet the presence of water and trees guarantees that a wonderful pleasure resort may be developed in time. There are several alternatives. One is to measure

Gradual oil development, however, is carrying electrification of this area forward, and the agricultural possibilities may be expected to increase as the market for truck garden products enlarges. The water is not on the surface to any great extent, there is little or no fishing, but the water is there in unlimited quantities for the taking—just beneath the surface. Trees and gardens should grow there as nowhere else in the county. The water courses of the county should be kept in mind, for they will prove valuable before many years.

PRESS FORUM

Does man exist for nature or nature for man? Has scenery any other justification than utility? What are roads for? These and other collateral or resulting questions should be illuminated when the great and general court of Massachusetts discusses the bill prepared by the state forestry association empowering the commonwealth to zone the state highways. The object is to restrict filling stations, garages, hot doggeries, and so on, to sites where they won't interfere with landscape or scenic values. As usual, the proposed protection is all too hardy. Many of the best "bits" have been spoiled.

Among many roads or old loveliness now "in many places unspeakable foul and disgraceful." Mr. Walter Prichard Eaton mentions the highway that goes from Cambridge through Lexington and Concord, "perhaps as terrible an exhibit as the state affords, most terrible because of its historic associations and the great number of tourists who go over it and get their impression of Massachusetts of our respect for our past and our present, from the squalid litter of billboards and booths."

The charm of New England is being destroyed. Along the state highways tourists, whose invisible balance fills many Yankee pockets, will come no more. Seeking dignity and beauty and finding the ugly and sordid, they will seek some happier region. "We should love to see every ugly billboard, every barbarous shanty with its barbarous food and drink, every roadside defacement, swept and kept away.—From the New York Times.

Lark in the Heart
 There is a legend that a lark is one
 That leaped from earth one day to seek the sun
 Straight from a child heart, where it had been born
 In some old story of elfin morn,
 Lively the legend it,
 Would it were true—
 A lark in the heart,
 Of each one of us, too.

A lark to be singing there,
 Helping us sing
 The spirit of beauty,
 The magic of spring.

Lark in the heart,
 And the world turning gay
 In silver and shimmer
 Of beautiful day.

Truth in the spirit,
 A joy on the tongue,
 And the gesture of beauty
 To make the world young!

Methodist Missionary Society Closes Series of Lessons

The Methodist Missionary Society met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. G. C. Walstad. The last lesson in the book, "The Straightway Toward Tomorrow" was well discussed and the entire book reviewed. The subject for study was "Until the Perfect Day of World Friendship," and the program was opened with the song, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

"World Friendship" was discussed by Mrs. M. A. Finney, and was followed by a reading by Mrs. Coolbaugh. A debate, the subject of which was "Resolved, that education is the best cure for war," proved of interest and value. Those taking part were Mrs. C. E. Kingsbery, and Mrs. J. E. Ward, Affirmative, and Mrs. Sackett, and Mrs. Ridge, Negative.

News items were given by Mrs. W. Purviance, and the roll call was answered by "My Ideal Mission Study Course."

This is the last of a series of studies that have been conducted the Missionary Society. This course of study has been highly beneficial to the large number who have regularly attended.

Spring Is Lovely Motif of Decoration in Entertaining Club

Spring, with lovely flowers and tiny song birds, was ushered in to the social circles of Pampa Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Marion Howard entertained the members of the London Bridge club, and a number of additional guests, in the banquet room of the Schneider Hotel. An abundance of cut flowers made the entertaining room one of unusual beauty, and attractive cages of song birds added to the suggestions of spring.

The bridge tables were charmingly arranged with favors, of cut flowers. Miss Camille Cadwallier of Amarillo won high guest prize, while high club prize, the cut prize was awarded Mrs. P. O. Sanders. A delicious salad course was served the following members: Mrs. W. C. Upton, Mrs. G. C. Walters, Mrs. John Studer, Mrs. P. B. Carlson, Mrs. H. W. Johns, Mrs. J. D.

Baptist Sunday School Class Organizes at Social Meeting

A group of girls from the sixteen year old class of the Baptist Sunday School met in the home of their teacher, Mrs. Doughty, Thursday afternoon from the hours of four until six o'clock. After all the guests had kissed the Blarney stone, the first few minutes were devoted to a business meeting. "The Golden Links" was chosen for the class name with the motto "If We Rest We Rust."

Afterwards a number of interesting games were enjoyed by those present, and later delicious refreshments were served to the following girls. Allene Lorton, Gladys Carter, Evelyn Carter, Lillian Keahy, Dorothy McKinney, and little Frankie Doughty.

"The Golden Links" cordially invite all sixteen year old girls who do not attend Sunday school elsewhere to meet with us every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Chafin left this afternoon for a visit with her parents in Meridian, Texas.

Jones vs. Bell

BY DAVE WARREN

Skellytown-Roxana on the Santa Fe extension from White Deer probably have more trackage than any small city in the Panhandle. Roxana and Skelly oil interests together with a carbon black plant have made it necessary to build miles of trackage. The heavy construction necessary reminds one of the growth that Borger underwent, necessitating the building of more than 30 miles of trackage, a distance greater than the main line from Panhandle to Borger.

Several counties are announcing extension of the date for tax penalties to go into effect. The closing date was January 31 and we note extensions as late as April 1. Many individuals and firms sacrificed to pay their taxes on time in order to avoid penalties. Those taxpayers who were prompt should be entitled to a refund until the next penalty date, should they desire the use of the money.

This column discussed highways in Hutchinson county a week ago, especially emphasizing the need of a good highway to Skellytown-Roxana from Borger. Our attention has been called to the need of consideration of the tax angle. The writer takes it for granted that the voters and officials of each county should be capable of deciding what improvements are most desirable; also of their ability to meet the required payments.

Some time will be spent shortly in making an investigation of expenditures of tax money in Hutchinson county. We have been asked to publish a statement of tax collections and the expenditures in the various funds. We do not anticipate any trouble in obtaining this information and believe that the officials would be glad to give the data to any citizen who asks for it.

The editor of the White Deer Review says that he has found the public reads editorials. He has become so convinced of this fact that he says few issues will be published in the future without local editorials. T. T. Waggoner, editor of the Claude

News, should note this paragraph, as he says that every newspaper should publish local editorials.

Congressman Marvin Jones of the 18th district is being opposed in the July primary by J. Ross Bell of Paducah. We know little of Judge Bell, but believe that he should be an outstanding citizen to warrant nomination over Mr. Jones. Seniority is what counts in Washington or Austin. Several terms in the House have made Mr. Jones all the more valuable to the Panhandle and as long as he does conscientious work, he should be re-elected.

Because of his knowledge of legislative procedure, it was with regret that people of this district learned that Lee Satterwhite would not be a candidate for re-election. He had spent many years as a representative at Austin and was real valuable to this district.

The first of the month was the second birthday of the Nunn-Warren Publishing company. The Panhandle Herald and Pampa News were the two publications taken over on that date. The Hutchinson County Herald, first published at Borger, followed in a few weeks.

Two Hundred Couples at Pla-Mor Opening

The grand opening of the Pla-Mor auditorium and amusement hall was celebrated Wednesday evening when almost 200 couples enjoyed the American Legion ball featured by music of two orchestras and the giving of favors and prizes.

Miss Scott and Mr. Fletcher were awarded prizes for the best dancers of the floor, Miss Scott receiving a pair of ladies' shoes and Mr. Fletcher a Meerscham pipe. Mrs. Hugh L. Brady of Shamrock was awarded the prize for the person coming the longest distance to the dance.

Music was furnished by Zack Moore and his orchestra from Amarillo and W. T. Jesse and his Pampa orchestra.

Mr. Jesse and the members of his orchestra have moved to Pampa to make their homes. They are playing at the Rex theatre and the Pla-Mor auditorium and are open for dance or concert engagements.
