Electrical restructuring deadline for Texas passes

By KERRI SMITH Staff Writer

The deadline has passed for the end of Texas House Bill 1692, which was written by Rep. Warren Chisum, R-Pampa, in June of 2001 that exempted Xcel Energy from electric restructuring until at least Jan. 1, Texas (ERCOT) is the system opera-2007.

The 1999 Texas Legislature required restructuring of the electrical market in Texas to allow customers to choose their electric company, but the bill recognized that certain areas of Texas were better able to restructure in a timely manner than others.

Legislators realized that the few areas in Texas that are not served Panhandle was one of the areas that would have difficulty restructuring so House Bill 1692 was passed to allow more time for Xcel and other companies to pursue options.

The Electric Reliability Council of tor for most of Texas. They control the flow of electricity on the transmission and distribution infrastructure. It is their responsibility to ensure that each area of the system is getting adequate power.

According to Eric Woomer, director for regional governmental affairs at Xcel Energy in Austin, there are a by ERCOT. They are the Panhandle, the El Paso region, far Northeast Texas and far Southeast Texas. These regions are served by four different utilities operating in four different control regions and some are by different system operators.

Wes Reeves, Xcel Energy Senior Foundation Representative in Amarillo, said that one reason for these areas not being part of ERCOT is the geographic isolation. The Panhandle has limited transmission infrastructure in this area and in order to allow another energy company to compete with Xcel, a huge investment would have to be made to import more power plants, lines and poles. This endeavor would be so expensive that the new company would not be able to competitively compete with Xcel.

"Our goal is to keep prices down for our customers," Reeves said. "We want to do whatever is best for our customers and right now we can keep costs down by being the only energy provider in this area. Another company coming in would have to build all new equipment at a huge

Chisum gets session off with HB1

AUSTIN The House of Representatives Appropriations Committee's newly appointed Chairman Warren Chisum, R - Pampa, introduced the Appropriations bill (HB 1) Thursday, House Bill 1 is the only bill the Legislature is required to pass before the end of the 80th Legislative Session.

"This budget is the product of fiscal responsibility and the increased efficiency of state government," Chisum said.

"While having this extra money will help us meet certain goals, it is important for us to continue to spend the taxpayers' money wisely. I look forward to working with Vice-Chairman Guillen and the other committee members to bring a bill to the House floor."

House bill 1 totals $147.6 billion, with $70.1 billion in general revenue. This is an increase of $5.2 billion or 3.7 percent when compared to 2006-07. This growth is less than 1.9 percent per year, far below the anticipated population growth plus inflation.

Public education funding will increase by $2.0 billion in general revenue to fund enrollment growth, enrichment, teacher pay raises, the high school allotment and teacher incentive programs. When the cost of property tax relief is taken into consideration, an additional $14.2 billion will be added to public education appropriations, making this area by far the largest function in the state budget. Higher education will increase by approximately $600 million in general revenue to provide for enrollment growth, tuition revenue bond debt service, health care cost increases for Higher Education Group Insurance, start up funding for the El Paso Medical School, operating costs

BSA Hospice is offering a free volunteer training and community education class beginning Tuesday through March 1. This class is for anyone interested in becoming a hospice volunteer or someone who would just like to learn more about "The Hospice Approach to Living With Dying."

Janet McCracken, volunteer coordinator for BSA Hospice, said they are always in need of additional volunteers. People can volunteer on a regular basis at a set day and time or they can just donate their time and talents when they are not busy.

"People are needed for a wide variety of duties," McCracken said. "Our volunteers can go to the patient's home and sit with them while a family member gets out and does errands or can read to the patient or help them write letters. Some volunteers prefer to help in other ways by working in our office doing filing for nurses, preparing patient packets or typing information into the computer database."

McCracken said some people just like to volunteer at their annual golf scramble or like to bake items to take to patients and nurs-

BSA Hospice currently has 76 active volunteers. McCracken said that may sound like plenty of people, but they cover a 10-county service area.

"We like to have people from all different communities since our area not only includes Pampa, but also Dumas, Canadian, Borger, Wheeler and Clarendon.'

She said that a regulation states that 5 percent of the hours worked by hospice employees has to be from volunteers. So, for every 100 hours of work done by paid

Possible flu pandemic has city officials concerned

Ken Hall is worried about where to put 2,000 to 6,000 dead bodies.

State officials estimate that between 2,683 and 6,260 people in Pampa could die if there were a pandemic influenza outbreak. They estimate that as many as 207,000 people in the U.S. could die in such an outbreak and another 700,000 would have to be hospitalized.

emergency coordinator, said more Hall said. "I don't know if they see something coming our way."

He said that he and other city and county officials are working on a plan to set up dispensing points for medicine and vaccinations.

"We'll see how we can apply that to other situations, also," Hall told the Pampa City Commission Tuesday afternoon.

He said that if there were a pandemic influenza outbreak by an unidentified virus, it could spread around the globe in a few weeks.

"It could be a new virus," Hall said. "Something that we've never seen before. If we had an influenza outbreak like that, it could take four to six months to come up with a vaccine because they cannon stop something that they don't know anything about."

According McCracken's records for 2005, they had 1,884 hours of work donated by volunteers which was worth $32,394, if the volunteers had been paid for their work.

Natalie Reeve has been volunteering since 1989. She said she took the training class and wanted to learn more about death and dying and how to help those going through this time. She has done everything from sitting with patients, sending out cards, doing followup bereavement calls, typ-

"I became aware of hospice care when a friend at church was dying and wanted to be at her home instead of in the hospital," Reeve said. "I enjoy doing this to help out the people and their families who are going through a difficult time."

Ardelle Sirmans has been a volunteer for 19 years. She said she was tired of sitting in the house all day and decided to volunteer to get out and be around other people.

Washington showed her Ridglea Hills Elementary class parts of "Amistad" depicting slaves en route to the Americas, including a scene in which a character was stabbed, officials said.

Washington failed to follow school board policy requiring commercial movies to be reviewed and preapproved by the school principal.

The policy also prohibits showing any portions of an R-rated movie, and the principal would not have approved the film, said district spokeswoman Barbara Griffith. Letters were sent to parents this week explaining what happened, Griffith said.

"Amistad," released in 1997 and starring Morgan Freeman and Anthony Hopkins, portrays the physical and emotional horror of slaves' passage by ship in the 1800s.

Washington, who has taught for 27 years, declined to comment.

Larry Shaw, executive director of the United Educators Association, defended Washington, saying she was trying to give students a sense of what life was like on a slave ship. He said it's not uncommon for teachers to forget to submit movie clips for approval because they assume they are not showing a whole movie for entertainment.

But Fort Worth schools Superintendent Melody Johnson said it is a "broad overgeneralization" to assume all teachers commonly ignore or forget policies.

Now it's Shawn Hornbeck's parents abusing him what Shawn Hornbeck was forced to endure during his four-and-a-half years as a captive of an obviously deranged child abuser, but I know exactly what he's going through now at the hands of his parents.

During those years, you have to assume that he was probably sexually abused by Michael Devlin, who reportedly had child porn material on his computer. Tragically, having escaped captivity and abuse he is now being abused by his parents.

Shawn's parents have been dragging the boy from TV show to TV show, from interview to interview to interview. Four-and-a-half years this kid was held capthirst. Without showing any to reluctance to exposing Shawn to the red-hot glare of publicity, Shawn's parents couldn't wait to put him on view on the Oprah Winfrey their show less than a week after his release.

I don't care how warm and fuzzy Oprah Winfrey is, but when his parents allow themselves to be asked by the hostess if they think he was abused, while he is sit-

In my opinion, what they are doing is tantamount to child abuse, taking him from show to show and making him captive

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 2007. There are 332 days left in the year. This is Groundhog Day.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Feb. 2, 1943, the remainder of Nazi forces from the Battle of Stalingrad surrendered in a major victory for the Soviets in World War II.

On this date:

In 1536, the Argentine city of Buenos Aires was founded by Pedro de Mendoza of Spain.

In 1653, New Amsterdam — now New York City — was incorporated.

In 1848, the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, ending the War, was Mexican icated on the same site nine years later.)

In 1948, President Truman sent to Congress a 10-point civil rights program calling for measures against lynching, poll taxes and job discrimination.

In 1961, the hijackers of the Portuguese ocean liner the Santa Maria allowed the passengers and crew to disembark in Brazil, 11 days after seizing the ship.

In 1987, the White House announced the resignation of CIA director William Casey, who was hospitalized and had undergone brain surgery.

In 1996, dancer, actor and choreographer Gene Kelly died at his Beverly Hills, Calif., home; he was 83.

Ten years ago: Authorities in Vallejo, Calif., recovered 500 pounds of stolen dynamite and arrested two men in bombings that destroyed three bank teller machines and blasted a crater into the side of a courthouse wall. (Six men wound up receiving long prison terms for their roles in the case.)

Five years ago: Inside the World Economic Forum in New York, foreign economic leaders criticized the United States for protectionist policies while outside, thousands of protesters demonstrated against global capitalism. Jim Kelly of the Buffalo Bills and Pittsburgh Steelers star John Stallworth were elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The NHL World All-Stars rallied to defeat North America 8-to-5.

One year ago: House Republicans elected John Boehner of Ohio as their new majority leader to replace the indicted Tom DeLay. Tornadoes tore through New Orleans neighborhoods that had been hit hard by Hurricane Katrina five months earlier.

Churches are using Super Bowl Sunday to reach new people

By MATT SEDENSKY Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP)Football's faithful will file into house parties, bars and, of course, Dolphin Stadium on Super Bowl Sunday to observe their holiest of holy days. But they'll also turn out in force at churches across the country, which are tapping the popularity of sports in hopes of saving souls.

> 'It's a way of reaching out into our community in a very informal, low-key way where we show people we're regular Joes like they are without the pressure of church."

> > - Pastor Luis Acosta

Organizers of churchsponsored Super Bowl gatherings see the events as a departure from the formality of organized religion — the type of events that could make someone who doesn't typically attend services feel more at home.

"It's a way of reaching out into our community in a very informal, low-key way where we show people approach to nonbelievers who join in such events. There won't be so much as a prayer at the Super Bowl Sunday event. If a guest enjoys himself, a member might invite him to a church social group meeting, then maybe a Bible study, then perhaps an actual service. "We just follow God's lead," Acosta said. Pastor Mike Pierce of the non-denominational Poplar Church in the Creek > Chicago suburb of Bartlett, Ill., takes a similar approach. About 100 people will watch the game on the big screen in the sanctuary. Like other church events including a carnival, a play and a pig roast ---it's meant to simply create a friendly, fun environment, but not an overtly religious one. "We don't turn everything into a spiritual event," Pierce said. "Good, clean fun is still spiritual."

Many pastors agree, simply trying to make their churches welcoming environments for new guests. Carrollwood Baptist Church in Tampa has been holding a Super Bowl gathering for more than 15 years and attendees have become so comfortable at the event that some bring recliners from home.

"I like it because it's very laid back," said Robert Smith, a 32-year-old Rockford, Ill., resident who has attended Super Bowl parties at Dominion Christian Center there. "There's no pressure."

have stirred up today's article. It is long past time for Christians to be "dedicated disciples of Jesus Christ" and not just members of some religious club with meetings from time to time. Why? Because only dedicated disciples of Jesus Christ will spend eternity with the Father. Everyone else will spend eternity in hell.

MINISTER'S MUSINGS

Encounter #1. I thank one of my church friends for sending me a video of a 10-year-old boy being baptized. It shows a preacher waiting on a young man to enter the baptistery. About that time, the boy jumps from the top step and does a "cannonball" into the water and then proudly smiles to the whole church.

I don't know who I was angrier with - the boy for disgracing the significance of the occasion or the church audience for bursting out in laughter as if that complete absence of funny. respect was Christians had better become more familiar with the Jesus of the Gospels and how he interacted with His followers. He was full of tenderness for the lost, but He was hard as nails on His disciples.

Encounter #2. I recently

Three recent encounters had the wonderful opportunity to present the gospel to a young woman who had not only been attending our church, but had

Mike also been the focus Sublett of about a Hi-Land year of prayer Christian from her mother and our church. I asked her if she was saved. She said no. I asked her if she had ever been saved. She said yes. I asked her when that time was when she surrendered to Christ. She said she hadn't ever done that. Thinking that I had just confused her with my wording, I asked, "No, I mean when you were convicted of your sin by the Holy Spirit, repented of your sins, asked Jesus to be the Lord of your life and began living differently the very next day." She said she didn't know what I was talking about. She was simply asked if she believed in Jesus by a preacher and when she said, yes, the preacher told her to read "the sinner's prayer" and then she was saved.

Belief that is a stranger to repentance does not save. Belief that has never met conviction of sin does not save. Belief that is not full of surrender to Christ does not save. Belief that the living of a different life beginning "the very next day" does not save.

Time to serious-up

Christians better quit worrying about the number of "decisions" we get and spend some time making sure that those lost souls really get saved. Why? Because Jesus does. One of the hardest things to answer for when we stand before God will center on how many people we told that they were saved, who really were not. What will our excuse be? It had better be that we saw the error of our way and repented and began helping lost people unconditionally surrender to Jesus. That will be easy to answer for.

Encounter #3. Nathan Hopson and I were recently sharing our disappointment with frustration and Christians who thought that once they reached retirement age they could just travel and visit and spend their remaining years in full-time rest and relaxation.

How much rest and not relaxation do our soldiers to and Iraq get in Afghanistan? Not much! Know why? Because it is a war zone! Well, when are Christians going to wake not up to the fact that we live in a "war zone" right here in America.

What kind of war? A spiritual one with the stakes being the eternal salvation or damnation of souls. How dare we Christians lollygag around like we are on some kind of a permanent vacation! How dare that be our goal.

So what am I asking? Christians, as long as you breathe, live by these three proclamations:

#1 - May I die in the harness!

#2 - May I be running for God when the sand runs out!

#3 - Life shouldn't be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in a pretty and wellpreserved body, but rather, to skid in broadside, thoroughly used up, totally worn out, and loudly shouting, "Wow! What a ride! Thank You, Lord!"

God bless.

"What A Friend We Have In Jesus This hymn is the most popular wedding hymn in Japan, and 23 million people in Japan sing this song every year. It was written by Irishman Joseph Scriven in 1855, which was the same year that Commodore Matthew Perry commanded the expedition that established United States relations with Japan. Scriven was to be married one day, but his fiancee drowned the day before the wedding. He moved to Port Hope, Canada, devoting his life to the needy and working for others for no pay, and he became known as the "Good Samaritan of Port Hope." who conquered nations and provinces until his kingdom was very great in the world. Nebuchadnezzar was king over the Babylonian Empire, established by his father many years before.

This young king was destined to be one of the greatest kings. He conquered kingdoms and provinces including the capture of the Hebrews among whom was Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego.

Nebuchadnezzar began to dream about his greatness. In the first dream, a great image of a person stood before him with a head of gold, breast and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet of iron and clay.

The message greatly disturbed the king. He forgot what he dreamed, but he knew it was a message for him. All the wise men of his kingdom could not tell the king what he dreamed. It was God's message, and God's man, Daniel, would have to tell the king what he had dreamed.

According to Daniel, the head of gold seen in the dream represented Nebuchadnezzar.

After interpreting the dream for the king, the king set Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego over the affairs of the province of Babylon at Daniel's request. Daniel himself sat in the king's court. Everyone was made to worship the king, to bow and worship his image. When the four Hebrews failed to do so, the king flew into a rage and

The men who carried Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego to the furnace were overcome and died from the heat, but the four Hebrews walked in the furnace without being destroyed by the heat or the flames.

Archie Cooper Pentecostal

They felt the presence of a fourth man, not the presence of fire.

The king, too, saw the fourth man in the furnace. He witnessed the miracle for himself. He ruled that no one in his province speak a word against the God of the Hebrew men.

Nebuchadnezzar, remembering that he was the head of gold in the dream, went about making his kingdom greater. Then he had another disturbing dream. As before, he called for all the wise men. In the dream, he saw a great tree that was cut down. A band of iron and brass was placed around the stump.

Daniel said the tree was the king, and that he would be cut down because he had not given God any credit for his accomplishments, for his kingdom. He said the king would eat grass for seven years like the beasts of the field before being allowed back to his throne.

over to a reprobate mind. (See Romans 1:28) Twelve months after Daniel's interpretation of that second dream, Nebuchadnezzar was walking in his Babylonian palace saying, "Is not this great Babylon that I have built?"

While he was yet talking, a voice came from heaven, saying that the king's kingdom had left him. The Bible tells us that pride and a haughty spirit often precede a great fall. While Nebuchadnezzar was admiring his great work in the palace, God's judgment was poured out on him.

In the United States, we now have many people committing inhuman crimes every day. If Christian churches would preach and teach what they should, the wicked person would know that God kills and God makes alive, God wounds and God heals. (Deuteronomy 32:39)

God gave Nebuchadnezzar a heart like a beast to show the king that his power and blessings were from God. He eventually gave Nebuchadnezzar back his kingdom. For the glory of God, Nebuchadnezzar gives us that story of his humbling experience. Today, God is in the business of changing hearts. We as a nation need to put in our application. It will save many heartaches and trillions of dollars.

God has sent the United States some awakening judgments but has not brought her to her knees.

DEAR ABBY: My granddaughter, "Tiffany," quit school at 16 because she didn't like her teachers, and "all the kids did drugs." She got a job as a maid, then quit. She got the job back and was fired. She went to work in a restaurant. It lasted three days -- you get the picture. Tiffany has lived with various pregnant girlfriends on their child support money until the inevitable squabble occurs and she's kicked out. She has tried cigarettes, alcohol and various drugs -- and is currently "dating" a prisoner who is on work release and with whom she plans to live with when he's released from jail. She's 19; he's 32. He has been in prison or jail twice, the last time for nine years. He has two illegitimate children in New York, so we assume he's unmarried. Tiffany wants us to welcome him into the family with open arms, even though she won't tell us his name or why he went to jail the first or second time. She refuses to listen to anyone. Should we give up on her and disinherit her, or keep trying to persuade her out of this ridiculous relationship? -- LOVING GRANDPARENTS IN IDAHO

DEAR LOVING GRANDPARENTS: You have my sympathy. Not only does Tiffany appear to be intellectually challenged, it appears she has never outgrown the rebellious stage. Are you sure you can't ascertain the identity of the new boyfriend, because I am sure the authorities would like to know that he has been "dating" while on work release, since it's not what the program is intended for. As for what to do about your granddaughter: Some people need to learn their life lessons the hard way, and Tiffany appears to fall into that category. However, rather than disinheriting her, consult an attorney who specializes in wills and trusts to see how some money could be put aside to be doled out in the future, should she mature sufficiently to want to complete her education.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl who is confused. My family moved to Montana six years ago, and a couple of years after we moved here my father had an affair. My parents split up for a while, then got back together. Then Dad became an alcoholic and tried to hurt my sister. That's when Mom kicked him out for good. Not long after that, he found a girlfriend. At Christmas he got very drunk and tried to hurt the girlfriend. Thanks to my sister's amazingly brave actions, she managed to save the girlfriend. Dad and this woman are still together, and he still drinks. He is very hard-headed. He thinks my sister is a "rebel" who tries to make him angry. Actually she's a nice person who has thoughts and opinions of her own. Every time I go to my dad's, I have to act like a different person so he doesn't do what he did last Christmas. I do not have the guts to do what my sister did. Is it wrong to agree with my father to keep him happy? Should I disagree if I think he's wrong? -- CON-FUSED IN MONTANA

DEAR CONFUSED: Considering the fact that your father can become violent, you should do whatever is necessary to protect yourself. What I cannot understand is why your mother would allow you to go to your father's for unsupervised visits, considering the fact that he is so unstable. If the reason has to do with child custody and the terms of their divorce, this should be discussed with her lawyer. Enough is enough. For Better Or For Worse

Harvesters take on Hereford, recognize seniors tonight

By JORDAN REAGAN Sports Editor

As a tradition set aside for Friday game mornings, the varsity boys make their way to Briarwood church to enjoy a hearty breakfast prepared for them.

This morning, the varsity girls joined them as they ate together with family, friends and coaches and watched a slideshow projection with highlights from the season.

Both teams enjoyed one another's company as they shared a complete breakfast as tonight's gametime draws nearer

Their second time to meet in less than three weeks, The Pampa Harvesters will play Hereford tonight at McNeely Field House in Pampa.

Last time they met, the Lady Harvesters defeated Hereford 50-42, as Britteni Rice surpassed the scoring record set by Nikki Ryan.

The boys suffered a close 71-65 loss to the Whitefaces after having taken the lead at halftime.

Tonight's varsity games against Hereford will not only be another night of intense basketball action, but a night to recognize the players that have poured their hearts and souls into the program for four years.

Tonight is Senior Night for the Pampa Harvesters as the fans and community will be introduced to the 10 young men and women that have played a valuable role in the basketball program throughout their high school career.

Kenzie Clendennen, McKensie East, Holly Owens, Britteni Rice, Tamara Trevathan and Kelsie Wyatt have been a part of Pampa basketball for years now, and as graduation is rapidly drawing nearer, so is the final chapter of their times as Lady Harvesters.

Of the boys, Tyler Hall, Trent Harris, Bradley Johnson and Andrew Winton have all been heavily engaged in basketball throughout their childhood, as well as during their four years at Pampa High School. "Basketball is my life,"

Harris said, "I've been playing since I was just a 4th grader."

Harris, who plans on attending Frank Phillips College next year, will miss being a Pampa Harvester, but will value all of the good and bad memories that he's made over the years.

"I remember when I was on the JV team, and we lost to Palo Duro by just 2 points. It was tough, but I saw the team grow and learn from it," Harris recalled.

Of all things about being a Harvester, Bradley Johnson will miss the atmosphere, the Riot, and the crowd.

"I love playing basketball, Trevathan, Kelsie Wyatt and Tyler Hall. "I love going out there and playing," Winton said, "It's just a rush for me to get out there and compete in front of everyone." After graduating in May, Winton wants to attend Clemson University in the fall. where he will be going to school next fall, but wherever he goes, he plans to keep doing what he does best - year's seniors. basketball.

"It's just what I love to do," Hall said, "I've been doing it since I was little, and I'll keep doing it as long as I'm able to."

More often than not the leading scorer for the Pampa Tyler Hall is not sure Harvesters, Hall is a valuable asset to the team that will undoubtedly be missed next year, as will all of this the JV girls at 7:30.

Packers back to the playoffs.

"I am so excited about coming back," the 37-yearold quarterback said today on the Web site of the Sun Herald in Biloxi, Miss. "We have a good nucleus of young players. We were 8-8 last year, and that's encouraging.'

Packers general manager Ted Thompson confirmed Favre had told the team he plans to return.

"The Packers are excited by his decision and look forward to a successful 2007 campaign," Thompson said in a statement.

The team scheduled a 4 p.m. EST news conference Friday.

"My offensive line looks good, the defense played good down the stretch," Favre told the Biloxi newspaper. "I'm excited about playing for a talented young football team."

The news came as a surprise to Packers CEO Bob Harlan.

"I hadn't heard it, and I hadn't seen the Biloxi paper - not that I read the Biloxi paper every day," Harlan told The Associated Press today.

Favre last left the field in an emotional scene in Chicago after leading the Packers to a victory to finish the season 8-8.

He has started 257 consecutive games including the playoffs, an NFL record for quarterbacks. Favre broke Dan Marino's record for career completions (4,967) in 2006 and is closing in on Marino's marks for career touchdown passes (420) and yards passing (61,361).

As he has done in the past several offseasons, Favre returned to his home in Mississippi after the season to deliberate about his future. Last year, Favre waited until late April to tell the team he was returning.

Favre complained about game and missing his teammates in a television interview immediately after the regular-season finale in Chicago — leading many to believe he intended to retire.

Apparently, he couldn't resist one more chance to try to lead the Packers back to the playoffs after the Packers won their final four games and were in playoff contention until the final weekend of the regular season.

Favre has led the Packers to 10 postseason appearances, six division titles, three NFC Championship games, two Super Bowls and one championship following the 1996 season.

Favre was acquired in a trade by former Packers general manager Ron Wolf after one season as a backup in Atlanta in 1991. He completed his first NFL pass - to himself - on Sept. 13, 1992, catching a deflection and losing seven yards.

The following week, he replaced injured starter Don Majkowski in the third quarter and led the Packers to a come-from-behind 24-23 victory over Cincinnati.

Favre started in place of Majkowski on Sept. 27, 1992, beginning the streak he often has called his biggest personal accomplishment. The 237-game regularseason streak is nearly six seasons ahead of the Colts' Peyton Manning at 144.

Favre's accomplishments include winning three league MVP awards - he shared 1997 honors with Detroit Lions running back Barry Sanders - and throwing two touchdown passes in a 35-21 victory over the New England Patriots in the 1997 Super Bowl to give the Packers their first championship in 29 years. Earlier in that championship season, Favre spent time in the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., battling an addiction to painkillers.

Get into the sparring and don't take the fighting personally. Tonight: Find your most relaxing spot. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Your creativity surges whether you are making plans or mulling over an issue. Extremes punctuate plans and people. Get into the variety rather than miss the stability. Learn to count on yourself. A friend might not know as much as he or she thinks. Tonight: Ah - to be naughty and nice. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Recent expenses might have you sitting back on your haunches. You might not need to agree with everyone or everything, but right now you might be closing down. Creativity doesn't have to mean risk. Tonight: Fun doesn't need to run an outrageous cost.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Many might not agree with you. Fortunately, right now support isn't the issue - good choices are. Think in terms of greater risks without others cheering you on. You are your own person, no matter how you look at it. Tonight: Your magnetism speaks.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★ How you deal with someone might have a lot to do with how you are feeling. Refuse to go on automatic. Make choices because you decide to head in a particular direction. Discussions can be animated as well as informative. Tonight: Add more mystery. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 Aim for what you want. Friends, children and loved ones play into the happenings that surround you. Knowing when you have had enough might be how easy it is to reconcile what seems impossible with this approach. Cut judgments, at least for the day. Tonight: Get into a game of Scrabble or go to the movies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Work with individuals rather than get caught up in problems or your perspective. You might be surprised how extending your hand can make a difference in the outcome of an important situation. Tonight: Dinner for two. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) * Others might challenge you inadvertently. You certainly have a lot to say about a situation. Pick and choose your words with care so you don't sound like a tape recorder. Think impact. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

Funding

growing funding needs for public education and human services, especially health insurance for low-income Texans, should have the highest claims on the projected surplus. Then public safety and transportation.

And as Joseph prudently did in the Old ed bounty in reserve to meet pressing needs in leaner days in the future is also a high priority.

The state's failure to fund the park system adequately for many years not just since Perry took office six years ago - , gives it a strong claim to be at or very near the top of the second tier of pressing state needs.

"State Rep. Harvey Hilderbran, R-Kerrville, filed legislation Wednesday that would return all money from a state sales tax on sporting goods to parks. The Legislature dedicated the sporting goods tax to that purpose in 1993 but in later years rerouted most of it to other purposes. Under Perry, the state's park budget has declined while the general budget had gone up," the Star-Telegram reported.

According to then-Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn last year, the sporting goods sales tax produced an annual revenue of $100.6 million.

In 1993, the Legislature capped the amount of this tax that could go to state parks. The capped amount would have ate what once was - and again should be been $32 million of that $100.6 million. Instead, the Legislature gave state parks country.

only $20.6 million.

The Texas state parks system - 600,000 priceless acres that about 10 million people visit every year - receives less than 40 percent of its annual budget from the Legislature. Other states spend about 65 percent, on average, in tax money to support their parks systems.

"Texas ranks 49th among the 50 states in per capita spending on parks," the Associated Press noted last year.

The correlation between the sales tax Testament, holding some of this anticipat- on sporting goods and state parks use is not perfect, but it nonetheless is a strong connection. Finding a better funding Texas ranks 49th mechanism would be difamong the 50 states ficult to do. The key is to reduce the transfer from in per capita this funding source to genspending on parks." eral appropriations, where it is used for anything but state parks.

— The Associated Press

finally is how much more the state parks system needs to make up for years of inadequate funding and resulting neglect and then to function at an appropriate level.

The critical question

It is important to remember, as Perry may not, that state parks contribute substantially to the economies of their host areas, particularly the ones in rural parts of the state. The underfunding of the parks system, with degradation of park facilities, can result in fewer visitors and fewer dollars pumped into those local economies.

If Perry listens to his allies in the Grover Norquist crowd, he's likely to get a much different answer than if he listens to the people who use and truly appreci-- the finest state parks system in the arbitrary political decision made by adults. In the U.S., a person is a child until his or her 18th birthday, and therefore in many states sex with an adult before that age is illegal. But the socalled age of consent varies among the different countries of the world, and, regardless of politics, children become sexual beings with puberty. It might be better if all people were celibate until age 18, but anyone working with teenagers knows that it is not the case.

that should be dumped in the laps of the cops. I definitely disapprove of adults having sex with minors, and the older the adult, the more I disapprove. It's a little different when the boy is 18 and his girlfriend is 17. Absent the use of force in such cases, I don't think young lovers should be sent to prison for failure to resist temptation.

And what do you do about cases of voluntary relationships? One reason prosecutors have been slow to file charges against Devlin is, I'm sure, that they are trying to figure out a way to make Hornbeck appear to be a completely helpless victim, when obviously that was not the case.

the Milton congregation will screen "Power to Win," a video featuring Christian NFL stars, during halftime.

Some churches are using the Super Bowl as an opportunity to reach the poor.

A number of Nashville churches will host the homeless, feeding them, washing their clothes, letting them watch the game on big-screen TVs and giving them a bed to sleep in on Super Bowl Sunday. And at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Libertyville, Ill., members will gather donations to help fund the parish food pantry, another one for the larger community, and a school under construction for African orphans.

William Baker, a retired University of Maine professor who has written two books about sports and religion, says the interplay between the two dates back to ancient times, and that in modern-day America, evangelical Christians make the most of the relationship. He calls sports part of the new "American trinity" - along with religion and patriotism.

"Any visitor from Mars on Super Sunday, whether he watches television or goes to the stadium in Miami," Baker said, "would say these people believe, maybe in God, but for sure they believe in the American flag and in the flyover military display and in patriotism, but most surely they believe in sports."

Baker said evangelicals had long rejected sports - for the gambling it often fueled, for it often being played on the Sabbath and for the general bacchanalia that it was associated with. But they eventually realized they shared athletes' win-or-lose take on the world (only one team steps off the field victorious, and only believers are rewarded after death) and wanted to take advantage of the immense reach of athletic competition.

'Sport becomes a kind of fish hook to catch the unbelievers," he said.

PUBLIC NOTICE CITY OF MCLEAN TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The City of McLean has recently completed Office of Rural Community Affairs Program activities under its 2004 TCDP Contract #724519. One public hearing will be held to allow citizens an opportunity to comment on the completed project activities, amount of funds spent and the amount of funds spent on activities that benefited low/moderate income persons. Specific information on the TCDP program will be available.

The public hearing will be held at the City Hall, Monday, February 5, 2007 at 5:00pm, to review the City's program performance including the actual use of the TCDP funds. The City encourages individual citizens and citizen's groups to make their views known at this public hearing and welcomes the full participation of its citizens in the close-out and completion of this TCDP contract. Written complaints and grievances regarding this TCDP Contract and project activities will be received until February 5, 2007 and will be responded to in writing within fifteen (15) working days. Citizen comments may be delivered to the City Hall at any time. Groups representative of persons of low and moderate income may request technical assistance in developing comments by contacting the person listed below.

A copy of the City's Project Completion Report and Certificate of Expenditures will be available for inspection at the City Hall after the hearing. Handicapped individuals who may have difficulty in attending this meeting should contact Toni Bohlar at the City Hall to arrange for assistance. Para residentes necesitados de interpretes, favor de comunicarse con la municipalidad antes de las audiencia publica.

For further information, contact, Toni Bohlar, City Secretary at (806) 779-2481. Feb. 2, 2007 F-95
