City Commission candidates can begin to file Monday

By DAVID BOWSER Staff Writer

Monday will be the first day candidates can file for Pampa City Commission. Election day is May

The commissioner's Place Three position is the only one that will be open, Pampa City Manager John Horst said this week.

Place Three is held by Commissioner Lana Miller, who has moved outside the precinct.

The city election this year will be held in conjunction with the Pampa Independent School District elec-

Stucco work

Under state law, applications may not be filed earlier than 30 days before the filing deadline, March 12. According to Lauren Ford Crawford with the Texas Municipal League, the 30th day would be Saturday, but since Pampa's City Hall is closed on weekends, the first day of filing will be Monday.

Applications can be filed by mail, Crawford said, but they have to be received no later than March 12. March 12 is also the last day to order an election and the last day to file a place on the ballot.

Crawford said applications for inclusion on the ballot must be filed p.m. on the 62nd day before the election. Because the 62nd day falls on Sunday, March 11, the deadline is moved to the 61st day, Monday, March 12.

She recommends that notice of the election be posted on March 13. That's 60 days before the election.

Applications for early voting ballots by mail must be submitted on or after the 60th day before election

The order of the names appearing on the ballot must by law be determined by a drawing.

While the state's election code with the city secretary no later than 5 does not specify a deadline for the drawing, Crawford suggested that the drawing be on March 19. Notice of the drawing has to be posted March 16, or 72 hours before the

Each candidate is entitled to be present or have a representative present at the drawing.

March 20 is the last day for a candidate to withdraw from the race.

Early voting begins on April 30. May 4 is the last day to receive an application to vote by mail. May 8 is the last day of early voting.

City lake to receive 1,000 trout

The lake at Recreation Park is about to get new inhabitants. One thousand rainbow trout, averaging 12 inches in length, are scheduled to arrive some time Tuesday from the Dundee Fish Hatchery near Wichita

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Inland Fisheries Division will transport the fish and stock the lake.

The city of Pampa has participated in this rainbow trout stocking program since 1993. This year, the city purchased 1,000 trout and the state matched with an additional 1,000 supplied at their

By KERRI SMITH Staff Writer Many people do not have to use the many community services that are available in Pampa, but others are only able to live with the help of these organizations.

Without them, many families would have no place to live, nothing to eat and no one to call for help. Most people think bad things like domestic abuse and homelessness will never happen to them, but under certain circumstances they can happen to anyone.

This story shows how many of these services such as Tralee Crisis Center, Pampa Independent School District, and others have pulled together to help a young mother and her children. Sally is a 23-year-old woman who is raising three children. Her problems began in a relationship when her first husband started to physically abuse her. She would call the police and he would be arrested, but as soon as he was out of iail he would start abusing her again. When the abuse was being done in front of her children, Sally decided she needed to get them out of the abusive environment. She called Tralee Crisis Center and told them she needed help. Tralee helped her establish a safe environment in which to keep her children away from the violence. Sally worked as a cashier and made $6.50 per hour. This paycheck did not go far since she had to pay a baby sitter while she was at work. Her parents were not financially able to help her out very often.

The will to succeed is what kept her going. She wanted to make it on her own and give her children a better life. She was thankful when Tralee's Blessing Tree, which is supported by Pampa residents, provided Christmas presents for her and the kids. She said they would not have been able to have any gifts that year at all Texas governor's proposals big, bold – possibly vice presidential?

AUSTIN (AP) — It's been a national headline week for Republican Gov. Rick Perry, who has managed to alienate some conservatives and surprise critics with sweeping proposals to expand health insurance and fight cancer.

Though he insists he's not thinking about becoming a vice presidential nominee, Perry's big new ideas could help position him as a major political player at the federal level in 2008.

The proposals in his State of the State speech on Tuesday — to sell the state lottery and use billions of dollars in proceeds to fund health care insurance, education and cancer research and his executive order making Texas the first state to require Texas girls to get a vaccine that fights cervical cancer aren't his usual

"Actions speak louder than words, and Perry's record of serving special interests and promoting their privatization agenda speaks for itself," said Richie, Boyd Democratic Party chairman.

Perry spokesman Robert Black said there's more speculation outside of the governor's office than within about his national political. Perry has repeatedly said he's not interested in moving to Washington, D.C., but he hasn't ruled out accepting an offer to be a vice presidential Bill Lauderback, executive vice president of the American Conservative Union, based in Alexandria, Va., said Perry could certainly be considered for the GOP running mate when that time arrives.

"Rick Perry would obviously be a very attractive running mate, he's a true conservative," Lauderback said, describing him as articulate, good-looking and from a big state. "I think it's very viable that Rick Perry will be considered."

Things seemed to make a turn for the better when she met, dated and eventually married another man. She thought he was a good father to the kids until her daughter told her that her stepdad had done something to her. Sally found out that she had been sexually molested. Sally knew she had to get her children out of yet another unsafe environment so she again called Tralee Crisis Center.

Tralee representatives helped Sally and her daughter get legal aid through Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) and The Bridge. These organizations helped with counseling for both of them to make sure they could make it through this ordeal. Child Protective Services investigated Sally and found that she was not at fault so she was able to keep her children in her care.

Sally moved her children into her parents' house. This arrangement did not work because the house was too crowded. Tralee then let her and the children move into their shelter for three weeks until Sally could find a temporary home.

They are now living in a one bedroom, one bathroom temporary home. Tralee helped her get in contact with the correct organizations to help her with the bills. The two youngest children sleep in the bedroom and Sally and the oldest child sleep in the living room. Sally said she doesn't mind the small home because she is thankful to have a place to live with her children.

She takes her laundry to her parents' house since she does not have a washer or dryer and doesn't have the money to go to a laundromat. The two oldest children ride the bus to and from school. Sally does have a car, but it is not very reliable. The day of the interview it had a flat tire and she did not have the money to have it fixed or buy a new tire.

When asked if she is working, Sally replied no. She wants to work and has inquired about a few jobs, but she is so afraid of leaving her children in the care of someone else since her daughter was molested. She could work while the two oldest kids are in school, but she would still have to find a baby sitter for the youngest child.

She said both of her parents work. One works days and the other nights, and her sister also works, so none of them can watch her youngest child if she gets a job. She is hoping that she can get something figured out soon so she can go back to work again.

Sally uses a lot of other community services to help out her situation. She receives food stamps to purchase food. She has qualified for the WIC (women, infants, and children) program which lets her receive dairy products, such as milk and cheese, cheaper.

The family's medical expenses are paid by Medicaid. If her son needs diapers and she doesn't have the money, she can go to the Pregnancy Support Center and they will help her out with diapers.

Luckily, the school-age children are also being helped by Suzanne Pingel, who is a social worker and the homeless liaison for Pampa students based on the McKinney-Vento Act, a federal law that makes sure children and youth who do not have permanent housing can go to school and preschool.

These children are classified as "homeless" because they "lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence." Because they are considered homeless, they each receive free breakfast and lunch at school. None of the other students know who receives free meals because the student has to punch in a personal identification number on a keypad.

These students also received emergency clothing at the beginning of school. Pingel took them to the Tralee Resale Shop, but since none of the correct sizes were found they were taken to a local retail store and the clothes were purchased.

This at least lets them have a few new clothes for the school year. Emergency food is also provided to the family through "love baskets" that are made by local churches and donated to the school for homeless stu-

Every year, the Pampa school district gives every student a residency questionnaire to fill out. If the student answers yes to being in a temporary housing situation, they are contacted by Pingel or some other representative of the school. Currently, there are 73 students that are classified as homeless.

Being classified as homeless allows the student to register for school unaccompanied by an adult. Pingel must assist children who do not have immunization or medical records normally required to register. She also has to get the previous grades for the student.

The homeless student is able to receive free meals at school and also transportation to and from school. The school is also able to help with school supplies and assist the students in applying for financial aid for college. Pingel gives the students and families the correct people to contact for outside services such as food stamps, Medicaid, counseling services, Tralee Crisis Center and the Salvation

Pingel hopes to establish a clothing closet soon for these students to get clothing free of charge. Even though a lot of this is federally funded, they can also receive state grants. Donations are always appreciated because they can do more for the students if they have more Pingel said that many organizations around town help out by donating money as well as clothing. The Optimist Club, Lions Club, Salvation Army and numerous churches have recently made monetary donations.

Most people think that these types of problems cannot happen to them, but if you can answer "yes" to any of these questions, it can happen to you or someone in your family.

Could you ever become involved in a flood, fire or tornado? Could you lose your job due to a downturn in the economy? Could you ever suffer a long-term illness or accident without proper health benefits? Do you live in a household with only one full-time wage earner? Are you behind in any monthly bills? Does anyone in your family struggle with alcohol or drug addictions? Has there ever been domestic violence in your family?

Answering yes to one of these can help you understand 'how anyone can become "homeless."

Homeless students have many problems to overcome. They usually change schools frequently, have no place to study or be alone and lack the basic resources needed to complete assignments. These students are more likely to experience learning disabilities and developmental delays.

Due to social and emotional stresses, they are also more likely to suffer from anxiety, depression, school behavior problems and immature peer interaction.

These students are embarrassed by their situations so they are reluctant to make friends or participate in activities. If they have been exposed to violent living situations, they may act aggressively.

Students in homeless situations usually cannot afford basic school supplies. Mental health counseling is not available to these students due to their lack of medical coverage.

Tralee's Blessing Tree came through again this year with Christmas gifts from the public for Sally and the three children. Another organization gave Sally a $500 gift card to use on educational toys. She said this was great because that money went a long way for Christmas this year.

Sally and her children have been through a great deal of adversity, but she has an amazing attitude. She said she is not ashamed of her situation because she is proud of herself for getting her children out of an unhealthy environment and trying to improve their lives.

One of the things she wishes Pampa had more of is low-income housing for people who are having financial difficulties. She also would like to see more pro bono lawyers or those willing to accept a discounted rate so people without money can get the legal help they need. Sally is trying to go through the Legal Aid office, but it is very difficult to get in.

"Stuff like this happens to people more often than you think," Sally said. "Everyone needs help at one time or another and it's OK to ask for help. Asking for help doesn't make you a weaker person, but instead makes you a stronger person for admitting you need

Since Recreation Park Lake is a public waterway, state fishing regulations apply. A fishing license is normally not required for people under the age of 17 or those born before Sept. 1, 1930, at Recreation Park Lake.

Any other persons fishing at the lake are required to have a state fishing license and a freshwater trout stamp endorsement. These are enforced by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens and not by the city.

According to the 2006-2007 Texas Parks and Wildlife Outdoor Annual Hunting and Fishing Regulations, the daily catch limit on trout is five per day, with no set minimum length requirement.

However, I think the governmental intrusion into the personal lives of people is unwise. It smacks of Big Brother pulling puppet strings and controlling lives.

Texas politicians say Perry should have consulted the Legislature before he made the announcement. It surprised them.

Republican State Sen. Jane Nelson urged Perry to rescind the order. Three other Republican lawmakers filed bills to override the mandate. State Republican Party leaders have asked Perry to change his mind.

Religious leaders who are opposed to the vaccine say it would promote premarital sex.

Perry countered that it would not

"If the medical community developed a vaccine for lung cancer, would the same critics oppose it claiming it would encourage smoking?" Perry said, according to The Associated Press.

Legislators say they would like to derail the edict, but Perry's office claims the Legislature cannot overturn an executive order.

Perry softened that stance later

Legislature has the power to overturn the mandate.

Perry says parents can avoid the vaccine by filing an affidavit that would explain their religious or philosophical exceptions. Why should parents be put into such a position?

Why not a voluntary program? That would make more sense.

Another disturbing part of this story is that Merck lobbyists with pockets full of cash, are pressuring lawmakers all across the country to pass laws that mandate the use of Gardasil, and Perry has ties to Merck, according to The Associated Press.

One of Merck's lobbyists in Texas is Perry's former chief of staff, Mike Toomey, and his chief of staff's mother-in-law, state Rep.

To simply force something like this on Texas families is wrong.

Another thing that is wrong that I rail about every year is the greeting card industry, the florists and candy manufacturers marketing Valentine's Day as a day when men are forced to supply their wives or girlfriends or both with flowers, candy and cards.

It is one of those made-up days that is there simply for making

If you want proof of that, go to a grocery store on Wednesday and look at all the unhappy men buying flowers, cards and candy.

It is a sad sight.

In 1858, a French girl, Bernadette Soubirous, claimed for the first time to have seen a vision of the Virgin Mary near Lourdes.

In 1861, President-elect Abraham Lincoln departed Springfield, Ill., for Washington.

In 1929, the Lateran Treaty was signed, with Italy recognizing the independence and sovereignty of Vatican City.

In 1937, a six-week-old sit-down strike against General Motors ended. with the company agreeing to recognize the United Automobile Workers Union.

In 1972, McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. and Life magazine canceled plans to publish what had turned out to be a fake autobiography of reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes.

In 1979, followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini seized power in Iran.

In 1986, Soviet dissident Natan Sharansky was released by the Soviet Union after nine years of captivity as part of an East-West prisoner exchange.

In 1990, South African black activist Nelson Mandela was freed after 27 years in captivity.

Ten years ago: In a display of bipartisan unity, President Clinton and congressional leaders agreed to focus the new Congress on balancing the budget and other issues ranging from cutting taxes to solving the capital city's myriad problems. Space shuttle Discovery was launched on a mission to service the Hubble Space Telescope.

Five years ago: Americans Ross Powers, Danny Kass and J.J. Thomas took gold, silver and bronze in the men's halfpipe at the Salt Lake City Olympics. Controversy erupted at the games as Elena Berezhnaya and Anton Sikharulidze were crowned the champions of pairs figure skating, although many observers felt the best duo was Jamie Sale and David Pelletier of Canada.

Idle American: Small towns can boast

It's a badge of courage that we of rural upbringing shine up and wear proudly.

Maybe we are shooting for the "lousiest" of prizes, but many chests swell as we lay down challenges about the size of the towns where we grew up.

We dare others to suggest that their towns were smaller than ours. ...

If nothing else, the premise is a sure-fire conversation starter, often becoming fodder for stale jokes that still draw laughs, even when heard for umpteenth times.

You know, like the one about "our town was so small, they put up coming and going city limit signs on the same post." Or maybe "so far back in the sticks Saturday Night Live didn't arrive until the middle of the day Monday.'

Oh, there are others, like: "Our phone book just had one page, our jail was called

'amoeba' because it had just one cell, Main Street deadended in both directions, our zip code was a fraction," and ... oh, that's enough!

President Bush's Iraq "surge" plan. But should Senate lawmakers formally declare their opposition in a nonbinding resolution?

Yes. compromise reached by Republican Sen. John Warner and Democratic Sen. Carl Levin is likely to receive strong bipartisan support this week. It expresses Senate opposition to the surge but backs funding for troops now serving and rejects immediate withdrawal. The bill urges Mr. Bush to pursue diplomatic and other solutions, and it says U.S. backing of the Iraqi government must not be open-ended.

This makes sense, certainly more than competing proposals. Republican Senate critics and at least two antisurge Democrats argue that Warner-Levin would be practically meaningless. GOP opponents say it would encourage the enemy. Besides, say some, it's illogical to confirm Lt. Gen. David Petraeus as the new U.S. commander in Iraq and then vote no confidence in the strategy he'll be implementing.

The Warner-Levin bill is weak but important nonetheless. The American people are tired of this war, but they do not support withdrawal, at least not yet. Unlike other resolutions, Warner-Levin is both a concession to political reality and a firm but respectful attempt to lead this isolated president to a war policy the nation supports.

Those who say that senators must back the president despite personal doubt should ask themselves why, after nearly four years of congressional silence as Iraq has cratered, lawmakers should keep yielding unconditionally to Mr. Bush's judgment. Gen. Petraeus deserved confirmation because he's a superlative soldier and because the commander in chief deserves to choose his own team. But that does not imply that the surge strategy is correct, any said that civil strife in Iraq is getting worse and that control is slipping from U.S. hands. To believe that the surge of 21,500 soldiers which the Congressional Budget Office reported last week will require an additional 27,000 support personnel can do in months what more than 125,000 soldiers have been unable to do in four years only delays implementation of a more plausible strategy. The Senate should not hesitate to say so.

ATTENTION

Have you ever had auto insurance with Farmers?

If so, your rights may be affected by a proposed settlement and you may be entitled to a cash payment, but you must submit a claim form to get it.

If your car or truck was insured by Farmers Insurance Exchange, Mid-Century Insurance Company or any other affiliated company ("Farmers"), was damaged in an accident and you made a claim with Farmers, a class action settlement may affect your rights.

There is a proposed settlement of a class action lawsuit involving Farmers' specification of certain "non-OEM" car and truck parts that the lawsuit alleges do not meet the quality standards required by Farmers' automobile insurance policies. "Non-OEM" car and truck parts are generally the sheet metal exterior of a car or truck, such as hoods and fenders, that were not made by, or for, the vehicle's original maker. That is, parts that were not made by companies such as GM, Toyota, Volkswagen or Ford. A Notice explaining all of the benefits available under the settlement, including how you can receive cash if you qualify, is available at the website shown below.

> To receive a claim form and more information, call toll-free 1-877-576-9983 or go online to www.AutoPartsCase.com

If you are eligible, you will receive $40.00 for each eligible hood specified by Farmers for any claim you made following an accident from June 15, 1996 to November 1, 2006. You will also receive $20.00 for any claim you made during the same period for each of the following parts that are eligible

Lady Harvesters advance over Caprock

By JORDAN REAGAN Sports Editor

In what started out to be a dangerously close match, the Lady Harvesters defeated Caprock for the No. 3 seed in district 3-4A.

The game was expected to be close, just as they had been the last two games the teams played one another, during which neither of the scores were decided by no more than 5 points.

However, when it mattered most, the Lady Harvesters came out on top Friday night with a 52-37 victory over Caprock, to move on against Plainview

The first quarter was intense as Pampa was down from the start, with Caprock scoring the first goal of the game.

Haili Kotara helped the team stay alive, tossing in 4 points to tie at 9 at the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter, Britteni Rice came to life and scored 13 points, 9 of which were free throws, and helped the Lady Harvesters get as far as 9 points ahead of Caprock, finally going into halftime 27-20.

In the third quarter, almost everybody contributed to the Lady Harvesters' next big jump on the scoreboard, from Carlyn Teichmann's perfect 3-pointer 3 minutes into the quarter to Jasmaine Moore's steal and easy lay-

Pampa outscored Caprock 20-15 to pull ahead 37-25 going into the fourth quarter.

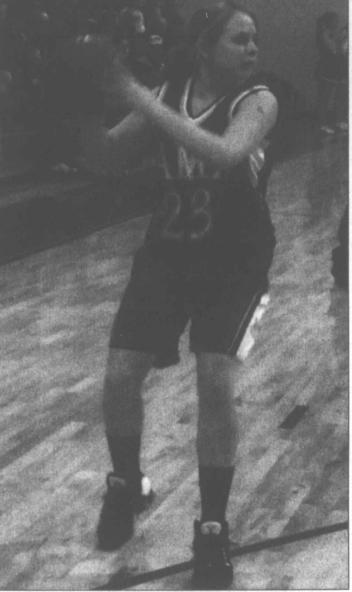

With a comfortable lead, still kept playing like they didn't have one, and kept making free throws while Caprock kept missing them.

McKensie East led the quarter with 6 points as Kelsie Wyatt and Jasmaine Moore followed close behind with 4 each.

When the final buzzer rang, Pampa was ahead by 15 points with the final score

The Lady Harvesters were led by Rice with 14 points, East with 10, Moore with 9, Wyatt with 7, Kotara with 6, and Teichmann and Tamara Trevathan with 3 points

Wade Phillips happy to have T.O. 'part of my family'

IRVING, Texas (AP) -Wade Phillips hates being asked how he's going to handle Terrell Owens — or any other player.

"First of all, I don't handle players," he said every time that word came up. "I work with them."

Phillips takes over as with a long reputation as his name. Terrell Owens." someone players like working with.

though, he heard the smooth way Phillips let everyone know during his introductory news conference Thursday that the new boss is different from the old boss, Bill Parcells, who usually referred to Owens as "the player."

"Terrell Owens," Phillips coach of the Dallas Cowboys said, smiling wide. "I did say

"He's part of the Dallas Cowboys family. So he's Will that be good enough part of my family," Phillips added. "We are going to trust Owens could not immedi-each other. We are going to ately be reached for com- be loyal to each other and ment Friday. Odds are, have a common purpose."

Then again, there's a chance Phillips may never have to deal with Owens.

T.O. is due a $3 million roster bonus in June, then a $5 million salary this season. Cutting him before then would save a lot of money and headaches. But it also would cost the club its biggest personality - especially now that Parcells is gone — and its leading receiver. Owens caught 85 passes for 1,180 yards and a league-best 13 touchdowns last season.

Owens has said he's willing to come back, but isn't to be safe, he cleared out his locker and stripped off his nameplate. When team owner Jerry Jones gave Phillips a tour of the locker room Thursday night, it was the only nameplate missing.

The decision will be up to Jones, who thus far has consistently said he's willing to deal with all the problems T.O. causes in exchange for his production.

"I've said that he's back, he's here, he's under contract," Jones said. "In the interviews I've just been through (to hire a new sure the team wants him. Just coach), it was very clear to me how highly he's thought of and how much of an impact he had on our offensive success.'

> Having a new, playerfriendly coach might help,

"I think that it can work," Jones said. "Wade has a good track record, as he said, of working with players. With what I know about Terrell and the relationship I had with Terrell, that's a potential good fit personality-wise and style-wise."

Phillips said he makes a point of getting the most out of his best players. And even though his background is in defense, he proudly noted that tight end Shannon Sharpe and wide receiver Eric Moulds flourished when he was their head coach.

"I think the most important thing is they know you are trying to get them the football," he said.

There was one thing Phillips said that Owens might not like.

"I can't get him the ball right now," Phillips said, laughing.

Wie's wrist in a cast from injury

HONOLULU (AP) Michelle Wie injured her wrist in a fall while running and is wearing a hard cast that will keep her away from golf for at least a month, a family spokesman said.

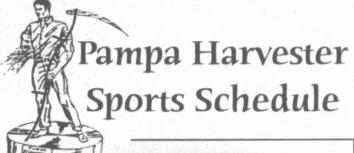

Spokesman Jesse Derris said the 17-year-old injured her left wrist this week and that her doctors expect it will take four to six weeks to heal. Wie's right wrist was tightly taped from an injury last month at the Sony Open, where she missed the cut.

"Michelle's playing schedule will be altered as needed to allow the injury to fully heal," he said.

Wie wasn't planning to play in either the SBS Open or the Fields Open the next two weeks in Honolulu when the LPGA Tour season gets under way. But the injury raises questions whether she will recover in time for the Nabisco Kraft Championship, the first LPGA major of the year that starts March 29.

A year ago, Wie was one shot behind when she faced a 25-foot chip from just off the 18th green at Nabisco. She hit it 10 feet by, then missed the birdie putt that would have allowed her to join a playoff.

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am 23. I was married at 19 and divorced at 22. I then jumped into a highly incompatible match that led me astray from home and family. I came to my senses and ran back home. Since then, I have fended off requests for serious relationships and opted instead for "flings." I have, however, become attached to one "fling" in particular. He is 31 and lives close by. I have known him almost six months. We have an "arrangement" -- we are "friends with benefits" only. However, I no longer want this. I want to take it to the next level. I have developed deeper feelings for him and have told him so. He has not voiced the same sentiments. He said he was hurt in the past and doesn't want to be hurt again, so he doesn't get involved. He sends me mixed signals, and I am confused. He doesn't call for weeks, then calls several times a week "just to talk." When I leave him, sometimes he barely notices; other days he'll walk me to my car and send me off with a kiss. He sends cute e-mails and gives me trivial gifts. I feel like a pseudo-girlfriend. I am there when he has time for a "girlfriend" type. I don't know where I stand with him. Should I wait it out or just let him go? He's a great person and an awesome man. I care for him on many levels. I want our relationship to progress, but I feel him holding back. What should I do? --TIRED OF THE GAME IN ARIZONA

> DEAR TIRED OF THE GAME: You are very young. With a failed marriage behind you, and a rebound relationship that didn't work out, it's time to slow down and realize that lasting relationships take time to build. Your problem is that you expect instant romance on your terms, and you have forgotten that you set the rules of this

"game." My advice is to stop asking for a commitment, and fill the time you're not with him with friends -- and other dates should you meet someone you "click" with. When he calls, don't always be instantly available. Show some independence. Some men find that trait very appealing -- particularly if they're relationshipphobic. After three or four more months, you can then have that chat with him about "where is this going?"

DEAR ABBY: I am a special education teacher who works with people who have mental retardation. Everywhere I go, I hear teenagers and young adults calling each other "retarded." This disturbs me greatly. Abby, I want people to understand that the word "retarded" is very offensive when used in this context. Many people, young and old, live with mental retardation as a daily struggle. Using this term in a derogatory fashion is just as inappropriate as any racial slur. Please let your readers know that using the word "retarded" lightly is not appreciated. -- IRRITATED IN MIS-SOURI

DEAR IRRITATED: I'm printing your letter because apparently a lot of people need to see it. Mental retardation is also no laughing matter to parents, siblings and other relatives of people who have it. To use the expression as a derogatory comment shows that the speaker is both ignorant and insensitive.

New Orleans not jumping on the trans fat bandwagon yet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Visitors who come to the Big Easy with a big appetite for its sinfully rich food need not fear: This city of beignets, crab cakes, fried oysters and gumbo is not about to jump onto the trans-fat ban wagon.

New Orleans, which regularly ranks among America's fattest, most out-of-shape cities, is simply not the kind of place to let health concerns interfere with the exqui- Gulf of Mexico shrimp in butter site pleasures of a meal cooked with butter, bacon drippings, heavy cream and lard.

"We take it to the butter-load, baby," said chef Paul Prudhomme at his world-famous French Quarter restaurant, K-Paul's Louisiana Kitchen, where cooks brush melted butter over pans of jalapeno bread and sauté plump and seasonings.

In truth, most of New Orleans' big-name, white-linen restaurants do not even use trans fats for their haute Cajun and Creole cuisine, but only because they prefer the rich flavors of natural oils and fats.

Prudhomme and others agree a good roux — the flour browned in oil that helps give gumbo and flavor — is done with natural oil like peanut oil.

"And there's nothing wrong with dripping a little pork loin in there," said Prudhomme, who is famously overweight himself.

Some cooking oils, shortening and margarine contain artificial trans fats, which give oil a longer shelf life and sustain higher cook-

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Feb. 12, 2007:

If you want to accomplish a project or go for that special desire, the time is now. Lady Luck will ride on your shoulder. If events force you to say goodbye to people and situations, you are creating a space for something better. Many will simply greet wonderful opportunities. The key to making the appropriate choice will be knowing your values and who you are. Friends and networking will play a significant role. If you are single, do you want to be alone? Many Aquarians are happier that way. You can have what you want . If you are attached, your sweetie could feel distant, and all your efforts to warm up a situation could be futile. Only he or she can turn his or her mood around. He or she will need space. SAGITTARIUS likes to pal around with you.

Baylor to honor Immortal Ten

By TIM WOODS Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO, Texas (AP) — For 80 years, people in the Baylor University family and beyond have talked of "The Immortal Ten."

The tragedy is well known, despite the grand passage of time. Ten men were killed when a bus taking the Baylor men's basketball team to a game in Austin was hit by a train in Round Rock. The story is told every year by candlelight at Baylor's Freshman Mass Meeting the Wednesday of homecoming week.

But those are mere words. Now, more than threequarters of a century after that day — Jan. 22, 1927 noted area artist Bruce Greene and Baylor are preparing to immortalize the immortal.

In April, the world's largest Baptist school will unveil a life-size statuary memorial for "The Immortal Ten" that has been nearly 12 years in the making.

"We thought it'd take a couple years. We never imagined it would take 12," said Chase Palmer, a 1996 Baylor graduate who conceived the idea along with two friends, then went about the chore of raising money for the statues.

"It's something I've been waiting a long time to see," he said. "When I started, I was in college, single and had a full head of hair. Now I'm married with three kids, and I'm bald."

Palmer was senior class president in 1995-1996 when then-student body president Colin Cox asked him to come up with a good idea for a senior class proj-

As he recalled, Palmer and two friends, Brett Moyer and Mark Rylander, "were thinking about things on Baylor's campus and one thing that came to mind was The Immortal Ten. We talked about it a lot but didn't have anything to memorialize it."

So began what Palmer describes as a seemingly endless process of fundraising. The cost of the statues, to be produced by western painter and sculptor Greene, was just over $280,000. As Palmer soon learned, raising $280,000 for statues of people who died way back in the 1920s was no small task.

"One of the biggest problems we found is that it was tough because all of the people from that time are gone," Palmer said. "It's not easy to convince people to give money for something that happened so long ago.'

But Palmer and his cronies stuck to it, managing to raise about $178,000 from now-discontinued Traditions Fund at Baylor, the Baylor Chamber of Commerce, Baylor Yell Leaders, individual alumni and the student congress.

Still shy of the goal, Palmer recalls, "we just got to where we didn't have anywhere else to turn."

From there, Baylor Alumni Association Executive Vice President Jeff Kilgore, Baylor Vice President for Student Life Dub Oliver and Associate Vice President for Student Life Martha Lou Scott stepped in and raised the rest of the money, Palmer said.

After that, it was up to Greene to produce the bronze statues. The Clifton artist said he's been working on the project for about three years, but not all of that time was spent in his studio. Greene said he wanted to produce likenesses of the 10 as they would have appeared then - players and a yell leader in their uniforms, a writer and scorekeeper in street clothes, a manager also in street clothes carrying a uniform.

The problem: Very few pictures of the 10 existed from that time.

In the end, Greene relied on donated family photos plus pictures from Baylor's archives. Unfortunately, height and weight records weren't kept in 1927 and "we never did find any pictures of the 1927 uniforms," Greene said.

"I did the best I could with what resources we had," he said, "and those resources were very limited."

Using all the information he could find, Greene, who sculpted has also Highlander statue McLennan Community College, went to work and sculpted a powerful and intricate monument to memorialize the victims of the 1927 crash. The outdoor work will be placed near an old fountain in the middle of campus with Pat Neff Hall as a backdrop.

"I feel very good about it," Greene said. "I did the best job I could do, so there's some satisfaction in that. The reaction from people who have seen it has been wonderful and, of course, that helps my feelings about Greene acknowledges he felt burdened to properly commemorate The Immortal Ten, both for their memories and for the tradition they represent.

"It was an honor to be asked and then it's a big responsibility, and I felt that," he said. "I've been to the candlelight ceremony with my wife and I felt that responsibility. It's not something I took lightly.'

Todd Copeland, Baylor Alumni Associations director of communications and editor of The Baylor Line, a quarterly publication, said he too felt a tremendous onus to get the facts right when he wrote the book "The Immortal Ten: The Definitive Account of the 1927 Tragedy and its Legacy at Baylor University.'

In the book, Copeland takes the reader to the scene: A freshman from West named Joe Potter, a talented halfback in football, drives the basketball team's bus to help pay for his education.

On that dreary day, Potter tries to keep the windshield clear of mud and rain, having to operate the wipers by hand while navigating country roads with 21 passengers in tow - Coach Ralph Wolf, the basketball players, a yell leader, a manager, an editor from The Daily Lariat, a scorekeeper and an assistant sports editor for the Lariat who they picked up as he hitchhiked to the game.

This March marks the one year anniversary of the largest wildfires in Texas History.

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEB. 11, 2007

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Feb. 11, 2007: Situations and others might easily distract you from your goals this year. Don't let this chain of events happen. Use care with your finances, as you could be hit by an unanticipated expenditure or cost. You can handle anything that heads down the road, but being prepared will help. New friends and opportunities mark this year. If you are single, you will have a host of new friends to introduce you to new people. Don't try to impress someone. You are impressive enough. If you are attached, work on a mutually defined goal. Socialize more. Separate checking accounts if arguments ensue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  You might want to stay more in your head rather than get involved in petty bickering. Be careful not to make mountains out of molehills. Nothing is quite as bad as you might think. Tonight:

Relax to music or a movie. This Week: Check out the facts before you take a stand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Friends might be jealous of the attention you give a key associate or person in your life. You cannot change their feelings, though you might want to discuss your actions at a calmer point. Meanwhile, be with the one you want. Tonight: Snuggle in.

This Week: An associate shares. Decide what you feel and what works for you. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Pace yourself and don't get overwhelmed. Someone might be pushing you too hard for your own good. Allow yourself to relax and be a little lazy. Ignore other demands, if you can. Tonight: What would be most relaxing? This Week: Others run the show. You are the catcher; they pitch. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Listen to your inner voice with someone who might be doing a lot of griping. Plans change, and on some level, you might be provoked to act or do something. Give others space while creatively making fun plans. Tonight: Live as if there is no tomorrow. This Week: Get as much done as you can early on. Network midweek.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Staying close to home might be exactly what the doctor ordered. On the other hand, taking on a project or dealing with someone who is picky might not be a good idea. Cocoon; treat yourself well. Tonight: Opt for easy.

This Week: Your ingenuity plugged into the practical aspects of your life proves to be a strong combo.

★★★★ You might have a lot to say, but so do others! Coming to an agreement might be close to impossible. Remember, everyone comes from different life experiences and mental outlooks. Accept and respect differences. Tonight: Hang with favorite people at a favorite place. This Week: You move slowly. Don't worry; the process works. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 You will say what you think, though people might be likely to give you a touch more flak than you would like. Run errands; catch up on news; visit with a relative or family member over a meal. Go to the movies. Tonight: Listen to someone's version of an event

This Week: Say what you think Monday and Tuesday. Watch others' responses.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Expenses might force you to reevaluate. Slowing down never needs to be a problem and might very well be an asset. Refuse to spend or take careless risks. You of all signs can go a bit overboard. Tonight: Add more play to a relationship with a child or loved one. This Week: Handle a financial matter first, then set up meetings and return calls SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  You feel much better than you have in recent weeks, though someone in your personal life could be aggravating. Don't deal with problems right now, but rather go off and pursue a hobby or take a walk. Refresh your mind and spirit. Tonight: Whatever makes you happy. This Week: Monday and Tuesday you are unstoppable. You will slow down mid-

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ Know when to back off. It appears that nearly every word you say or statement you make turns sour or is misunderstood. Take today just for yourself, knowing it is your time. Don't buck others' moods! Tonight: Curl up with a good book. This Week: Move slowly.

Wednesday, you will be confident. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Friends and people in general appreciate your efforts and presence. Know where you need to be. Know what you want. Sometimes pushing too hard or trying to do something that doesn't feel right backfires. Tonight: Try the role of cautious spender. This Week: You alternate between being a total extrovert and slamming your door

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  With your nit-picking, you might be pushing more people away from you than you realize. Stop. If you have some strong points to make, look within. How could you have a more positive outcome? What is your role in the situation? Tonight: Dinner at home. This Week: Take charge, and success will be yours by Friday.
