New Officials To Take Office Here Tomorrow

ASPHYXIATION VICTIM LIKELY TO GET WELL

W. Ivan Martin, 34, lone survivor from asphyxiation of eight persons who sought warmth in a snowbound home four miles west of here during the blizzard which raged most of Thursday night and Friday morning, regained consciousness at Worley hospital yesterday afternoon.

Late last night Mr. Martin's condition was pronounced favorable by attending physicians. He had not been informed of the death of his wife and two children although he feebly called for them.

The dead are Mrs. Martin, 28, Edward Eugene Martin, 10, Betty Jo Martin, 6, and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Turner, each 28, and their two children, Roy Lee, 8, and Ann Fay, 5.

Relatives enroute to Pampa from Oklahoma are snowbound according to telephone communications and are not expected to arrive here until late today.

The families were found about noon Friday by Everett Leland and Oren Sanderson, employees of the Cities Service oil company. When they entered the home they found members of the families lying on beds or on the floor where they had apparently fallen when overtaken by the fumes or had awakened and tried to reach doors.

Mrs. Martin and Mr. Martin were still alive but other members of the families were pronounced dead by attending physicians. Mrs. Turner expired soon after reaching a hospital.

All fires in the home were burning and rooms were gas filled, the men reported. They turned out the fires and opened doors before calling for help.

A mammoth sales meeting will be held in the BOD rooms at the City Hall tomorrow morning when Fred Thompson, finance director of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, will be in charge.

Each of the district salesmen will have three or four "branch office" salesmen under their direct supervision and the "branch office" salesmen will in turn have three or four "traveling" salesmen each to complete an organization of from sixty to seventy citizens.

The plan will function just like a giant business sales agency. Sales-manager Thompson said, "I have only seven men under my direct command. Each of these men have a few under their direct command and so on down the line to the "traveling" salesmen

Pampa's outgoing city commission will hold its final meeting in City Hall at 10 a. m. tomorrow to clean-up odds and ends of business and to prepare the way for the new city commission which will be inducted at a joint session of the two groups.

The new administration which takes office tomorrow is made up of Mayor E. S. Carr, and Commissioners Lynn Boyd, and Dave Osborne.

The outgoing officials are Mayor W. A. Bratton and Commissioners W. T. Fraser and Marvin Lewis.

Mayor-elect Carr said Saturday night that he could not make any definite statement about appointments to city posts.

"The new commission plans to do nothing hastily," the mayor-elect stated.

The outgoing commission members issued a statement last night in which they thanked voters for support in the recent election and urged citizens as a whole to cooperate with the new city administration.

The statement, signed by Mayor Bratton and Commissioners Fraser and Lewis, follows:

"We wish to thank you for your whole-hearted cooperation during our term of office as your city commission.

"We have endeavored in every way and at all times to work for the best interests of every individual within our boundaries and for the city as a whole, and in our efforts we have had the good will and support of every loyal citizen, and we are assured it was most highly appreciated, and may we solicit this support to your incoming commissioners.

Blizzard Emergency Committee Praises KPDN, Volunteer Workers, Contributors

Resolutions expressing appreciation to radio station KPDN, its staff, volunteer workers, and contributors to the storm relief fund, were passed at a meeting of the Gray County Storm relief committee, held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the radio station.

The committee decided to end its work at 5 p. m. tomorrow, the emergency now being past.

Explanation was also made in the resolutions of the purpose for which the relief fund was asked and how the fund is being used.

All funds left after paying immediate relief expenses, will be donated to the local Red Cross chapter, and will be used here.

Emphasis was stressed in the point that KPDN itself was not getting or handling the funds raised, but the committee, which had been formed at the suggestion of Mrs. Inez Carter, of Pampa, who contributed $100 and started the fund.

Because the relief drive was organized, it kept many persons safe at home, who otherwise might have gone out into the storm, was one of the advantages of the endeavor, one of the committee members said.

Present at the meeting were Rev. Robert Boshen, chairman, and Roy Bourland, secretary, committee members W. H. Heskev, T. F. Downs, Alton Hall, committee members Ed Tracy and D. C. Kennedy were not present.

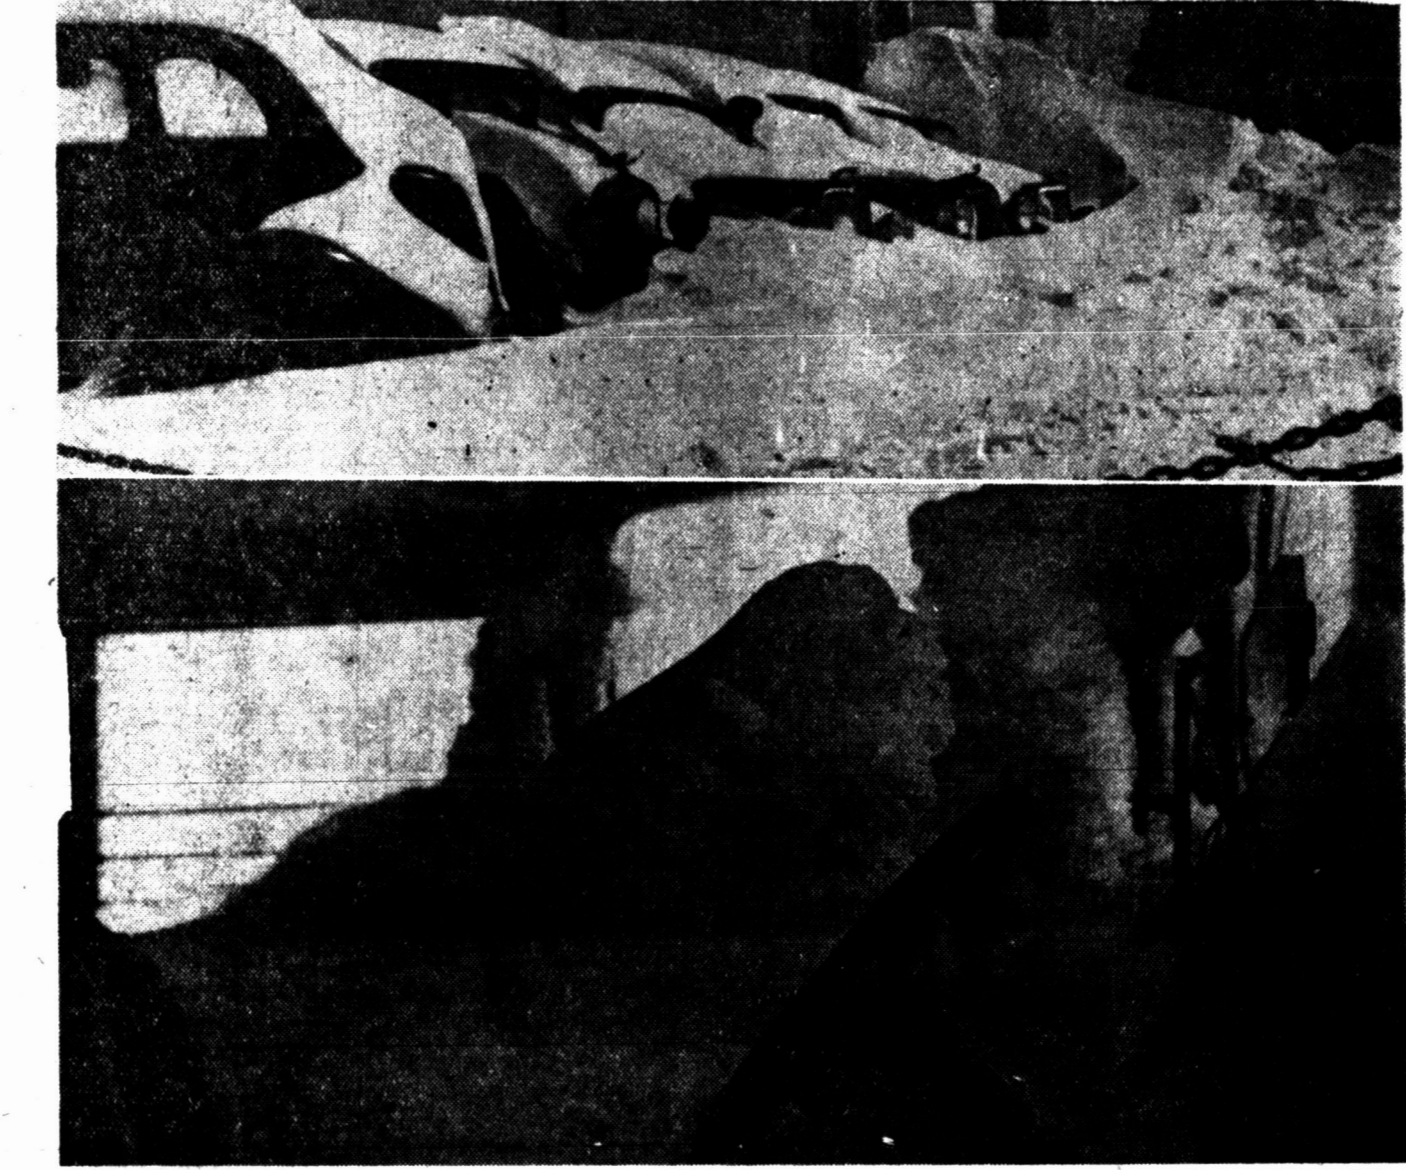

Others present were Alex Schneider, chairman of the local chapter of the American National Red Cross, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Red Cross chapter secretary, J. S. Wynn, Fred Roberts, Boy Scout executive, who had been scouted for a time by the storm in a schoolhouse near Perryton, and who has been announced as among those missing in broadcasts from KPDN, came into the office as the meeting ended.

Ewing Files Candidacy For District Judge

W. R. Ewing, district judge of the 31st judicial district court, today authorized announcement of his candidacy for re-election to that office by the action of the Democratic primaries of July 23.

In announcing for re-election, Judge Ewing stated, "I do not do so in a spirit of pride for having served my district so long, but in a spirit of thankfulness to a citizenship that has always been generous to me."

In a judicial office, there is no platform to declare, as in legislative or executive offices. We, of the judiciary, have the single duty to interpret and administer the law as we find it, therefore, I have no extended declaration of principles to make, it having been before the courts of the 31st judicial district, in various judicial capacities, for more than a quarter of a century and every man, woman and child who know anything about the activities of the courts are familiar with my record and know how I stand on leading issues and problems of the day; and my character, standing as a man, a

Apple Crop On M'Clellan May Be Total Loss

The northeastern Panhandle yesterday and today dug out of some of the deepest snowdrifts in history, and counted thousands of dollars in losses of fruits, cattle and wheat.

Although the fruit losses in Gray county would not run nearly as high as those in Wheeler and Donley counties, Pampans grieved over the frozen fruit, buds and blooms in the huge apple, peach and pear orchards of L. L. Palmer, T. T. Griffin and Mr. Bruce on McClelland creek.

Alanreed sources stated last night that the apple orchards were partially in bloom, and that it was believed that the freezing blizzard which raged for a day killed both buds and blooms. The trees were scheduled to be in full bloom April 15.

The scores of peach, plum and apricot orchards in Wheeler county were believed to be devastated by the deadly fingers of the freeze. The loss in Wheeler county alone will run into many thousands of dollars, it is believed.

Yesterday, the small bits of frozen fruit dropped to the ground. It is possible that some apple buds may yet bloom and produce fruit, it was said.

Hundreds of cattle in the Top O' Texas area were believed to have been killed by the blizzard. More than 100 cattle were dead in the immediate area.

City sanitation officer T. J. Worrell said he believed that "dozens and dozens" of calves would be found dead in snow drifts.

Many of their farmer customers reported losses of cattle, the number ranging from one to 25 head, the Gray County creamery said.

At Minaree dairy, six head were dead. Montgomery dairy lost one, H. B. Taylor lost 20 head, half of being calves, L. R. Taylor lost 10 head.

Bob McCoy said he had not been out to his ranch but did not think he suffered any losses. All of the ranchers interviewed were of the opinion that the storm was not of sufficient duration and intensity to kill off many cattle.

Mel Davis, who lost six calves, said the storm here last week was the smallest one of the six.

Much of the joint wheat in Gray county was a total loss, but damage was much less to unjointed wheat.

Sun Shines Brightly Pampa and this section of the Panhandle began digging out after one of the worst spring blizzards in history, according to old timers. More snow had fallen often, they said, but seldom had wind whipped snow with such fury.

City street department workers began at daylight the removal of huge drifts of snow from downtown streets. They were assisted, as the day progressed, by a bright sun which sent the mercury to an even 60 before starting down.

Trucks from the county progressed slowly in several directions, clearing away huge drifts which blocked main traveled roads.

The state highway department had a full force of men in action

The blizzard emergency relief committee gave assistance to approximately 700 persons Friday and Saturday, according to figures compiled at the office on the third floor of the courthouse.

The aid was in the form of groceries and clothing which cost approximately $100. Food and garments were distributed Friday at Radio station KPDN and on Saturday at the courthouse office.

Appeals for donations over KPDN netted approximately between $1,700 and $2,000. Total amount of contributions in cash and pledges was approximately $2,500.

The committee was composed of Roy Bourland, M. P. Downs, Sidney Patterson, Tom Smalling, Alton Hale, Dr. Roy Webb, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Robert Boshen, Guy McTaggart.

PAMPANS BACK FROM CORDELL

All the 17 members in a Pampa delegation which left here Thursday morning for a highway meeting in Cordell, Okla., had returned last night after being snowbound in Oklahoma for the past two days.

Garnet Reeves, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; J. M. Collier, manager of the Southwestern Public Service Co.; Tom Aldridge, manager of the C. R. Anthony Co., and Tex De Weese, editor of the Pampa News, were snowbound for two nights in a summer tourist camp at the edge of Carter, Okla. They reached Pampa yesterday afternoon.

Their arrival was shortly after that of two other Pampa cars which had put in at Sayre, Okla., after they were forced to turn back when the blizzard grew too intense

Roberts and 3 Others Burn Seats and Coal House to Keep Warm

The Roving Reporter yesterday listened to many experiences of Pampans who were stranded at pumping stations, oil field shacks, homes of friends and strangers and at other places, but the most interesting encountered to date was told by Scout Executive Fred Roberts of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council who spent 26 hours in Tax school house, 22 miles south of Perryton.

The 6-foot-4 Boy Scout leader told yesterday afternoon that he ate a huge steak, how he and the four other persons stranded in the school house rustled for fuel after they had used two big lumps of coal, all that the coal house contained.

The other four persons were the youthful school teacher, Miss Nadine Layton, and three boys, one Miss Layton's nephew and the other two the Cook boys in the Tax community. The Cook boys were 14 and 12 years old and the other lad was 10.

Stocks Soar As Reorganization Measure Fails

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—A tumult of buying today rolled up the broadest advance in security markets in months, leading stocks rising $1 to more than $6 a share.

Big-scale buying at the stock exchange opening in wake of the unexpected defeat of the administration's reorganization bill in the house transferred the ordinarily tame Saturday session on the exchange into a feverish market.

The administration setback, brokers said, obviously was a surprise to most traders, and was construed bullishly by many as possibly indicating the blocking of further reform or restriction legislation.

Coming immediately on heels of reports the administration was preparing another spending and lending drive in an effort to start business recovery, brokers said, the news imparted fresh impetus to a strong rally from the March decline which has added billions of dollars to quoted values, the past week.

Orders hit a market rather bare of offerings and prices of many shares jumped $2 to $5 or more on initial blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares.

In two hours of trading, 1,414,480 shares changed hands on the busy "big board" compared with 828,290 in the full five-hour session yesterday and only 230,350 Thursday.

Buying embraced bonds, too. Railroad obligations, badly depressed in March, scored one of the sharpest advances in recent months. Contributing to the demand, bond men said, was anticipation of the rail message President Roosevelt is expected to send to congress early next week.

Most commodities also were up moderately.

United States Steel, General Motors, General Electric, International Harvester, Standard Oil of New Jersey and other key industrial stocks were taken in sizable blocks at advances of $2 to around $5 a share over Friday's close. Eastman Kodak, less active, jumped nearly $7.

The Associated Press composite price of 9 stocks rose $2.10 to $39.90, the largest gain since November 10. At the close it had regained more than half the decline in March, when listed share values on the stock exchange fell nearly $10,000,000,000 according to the exchange's figures, to the lowest average prices in five years.

While analysts were disposed to view the week's sweeping advance largely as a technical rebound from the early spring downswing, many in financial circles were hopeful the rally foreshadowed industrial improvement later in the year. A number of business authorities lately have expressed belief business was "escaping bottom" after the abrupt fall from the recovery peaks last spring and summer.

Europe was reported to have been a substantial buyer of stocks in wall street at the week-end.

American telephone, reputed a leading target for sellers in February and March, before the one-man report on the Bell System came out of the federal communications commission recently, extended its rally nearly $4, finishing at $131 compared with a 1938 low last week at $111.

Closing $3 to $6 higher, around peak prices for the day and for the week's recovery, were American can at $86, Bethlehem steel, $49, General Motors $33.62, General Electric $35.75, International Harvester $62, Westinghouse Electric $77.50, Union Carbide $68 and Standard Oil of New Jersey $48.

PUMP-PRIMING URGED BY SECURITIES HEAD

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The pump-priming school of thought within the Roosevelt administration received powerful support today from William O. Douglas, chairman of the securities commission.

His aides said he was favoring new government spending, on the ground it would revive purchasing power of the man in the street, and thus encourage business to put to work idle capital funds.

This was the latest development in a behind-the-scenes struggle by "spenders" and "budget balancers" in the administration councils.

For the moment, at least, the spenders appeared to be making headway. President Roosevelt already has acknowledged he is seriously considering a $1,500,000,000 public works program in addition to a relief outlay variously estimated at $1,250,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 for next fiscal year, and a potential $1,500,000,000 of loans to business and governmental sub-divisions.

However, the budget-balancers have not given up, and much is expected to be heard from legislators who side with them.

The pump priming group includes Chief Harry L. Hopkins, reserve board chairman Marriner S. Eccles and PWA administrator Harold L. Ickes.

Arrayed against them are the more "conservative" advisers, led by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr. and Budget Director Daniel W. Bell.

TODAY'S SERMONETTE

When we minister to those who need our help we are ministering to the Savior Himself, and when we see the hungry and refuse to feed them or the naked and refuse to clothe them we are failing to serve Him whom we claim as Lord and Master: "And the king shall answer, Inasmuch as you have done it unto one of the least of these ye have done it unto me."—Chivers.

YOU GO TO SCHOOL TO LEARN

This is an especially apt time to think a little about what changes in the tides of education are brought about by heightened political rivalries, strengthened economic barriers, intensified international ill-will and wars.

Deteriorations and perversions in educational systems are not effected by decree alone. The faculty mind, the student mind, the aggregate intelligence, of the scholastic field, absorb the emotional colorations of the world at large, and the characteristics of an entire society become so changed in time as to make it unrecognizable. The supposedly cloistered soul is after all not quite hermetically sealed.

The values of liberal arts courses in colleges as opposed to specialized training, general courses in high schools as opposed to technical courses, are the subject of considerable dispute at present in the light of their ultimate practical benefits to the average man. But that there is a place for both . . . that the world needs men of learning as well as men of training . . . is undenied. Education as an instrument whereby a man may enlarge the scope of his cultural experience as a means to attaining simply a greater degree of pleasure out of life is also still accepted as one of the assets of a civilized existence.

The opportunities of this kind of an education are in especial danger of being abridged in periods of widespread international ill-will. The availability of courses in foreign languages, foreign literatures, is particularly subject to destruction. You may remember the disappearance of high school German courses 20 years ago.

The courses were not abolished in some schools, but few students took them where they remained. You read now that the popularity of German rose in New York's schools after the war, to a post-war high point in 1924, and then started going down steadily, and is still going down.

Language is a cultural asset, whether Nazism is or is not. At present the chance for German look as if they're rapidly approaching the vanishing point. Will Goethe be universally unfathomable in this country a few years from now?

Wouldn't it be dandy for the English language if the Americans and British got to despising one another for a few generations

SOLVING EVERYTHING

Clady Swarthout, the singer, says that a careful avoidance of "irritating foods" has in some measure been responsible for the marital happiness of her and her husband.

"The lady's ideas should be taken quite seriously," says Bernard Shaw, assuming quite needlessly a slightly defensive attitude. Everybody will agree that the very best people are slaves to their stomachs whether they like to admit it or not. The pity is that more people don't take advantage of this situation.

The proper kinds of food can be used to wonderful advantage not only as preventives but correctives. Think of the possibilities of doing good work in this world as you scan the following random suggestions

Distribute pickles among the sticky-sweet child actresses.

Put all the diplomats on what is professionally known as "a bland diet."

Open a fund campaign for the purchase and free distribution of head-lettuce among the country's bald men.

Send regular supplies of clams to your talkative friends.

See that the sallow wash all their meats down with Pink Ladies.

And make it a law that every citizen in the country take a little love potion before breakfast.

The Japs say they'll quit catching our salmon, but it would be just like 'em to spread propaganda among the schools of fish off the Alaskan coast and teach 'em to emigrate to Japan.

We supposed all the fellows in Wall Street were supreme, and then along came Whitney to show what innocents they are.

That terrible sound you hear in the neighboring back yard is probably little Willie being spanked for contumacy.

Tex's Topics

Garnet Reeves, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce; J. M. Collins, manager of the Southwestern Public Service Co.; Tom Aldridge, manager of C. R. Anthony's Pampa store, and I returned to Pampa Saturday afternoon after spending three weeks in Carter, Okla., Thursday and Friday. . . . Thirteen others from Pampa, who started Thursday morning for Cordell, Okla., to attend a meeting of Oilfield Highway 41 association, also returned late yesterday afternoon and last night from points in Oklahoma, after being snowbound since mid-afternoon Thursday.

Only one of the four cars which left Pampa made it to Cordell. . . . In this car were Reno Stinson, president of the Board of City Development; Dr. C. H. Schulkey, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; R. S. Deitz, H. C. Berry, and Frank Hill. . . . A third car carrying Sheriff Earl Talley, of Gray county; Jess Wynne, George Briggs, E. W. Voss and County Judge Sherman White pushed thru the blinding blizzard to a point about 15 miles from Cordell, and then turned back in late afternoon and reached Sayre before the drifts became too high.

The fourth car, driven by H. A. Heket carried W. V. Jarratt, owner of Pampa-Jarratt hospital and H. L. Hindman, Pampa tire dealer. . . . Their car slid off the highway into a deep snowdrift where they were marooned for five hours. . . . The men had exhausted their physical powers and their gasoline supply was running low when they finally were rescued from the raging snowstorm by members of an Oklahoma state highway department rescue crew. . . . The two cars driven by Heket and Sheriff Talley were driving together most of the time on the return trip trying to back-track to Sayre. . . . Both were rescued at the same time by the highway patrol.

Following the rescue on the highway, the two Pampa cars were able to proceed to Sayre where they remained Thursday and Friday and then left Sayre for Pampa yesterday morning when they were informed roads were passable. . . . The car driven by Reno Stinson, which left first, reached Cordell in time for the noonday highway meeting on Thursday. . . . They remained there until 1:30 yesterday afternoon when they left for home. . . . Personally, I had to be in the one car which ended up in Carter, a nice small town, and all that—but no hotel accommodations.

The storm's severity was felt all the way from Pampa to points far into Oklahoma and to the East. . . . Every town was isolated by the huge drifts. . . . As we returned yesterday they were digging out all the way along the route. . . . The blizzard was raging after we turned back between Sayre and Cordell and tried to reach Sayre to spend the night. . . . Six miles east of Sayre we were stopped and advised that it was impossible to go farther on the highway—that cars were in the ditch and covered to their tops with drifting snow. . . . The nearest point of civilization was good, old Carter, five miles south of the Cordell-Sayre highway. . . . A truck broke the way, and we followed it to Carter to learn that there are no hotels there.

Sensing the emergency, the proprietor of a summer tourist camp swept out four rooms the best he could and housed us without benefit of running water and the only heat, a small kitchen hot plate. . . . Keep in mind that outside the storm continued to howl. . . . Well, we huddled together and finally got it warm enough to play some bridge and keep our minds off the weather. . . . Later we decided we could brave the storm for a quarter of a mile to get to the town's only cafe for something to eat. . . . We made it with the wind at our back, only to find the cafe closed and the town deserted. . . . So, we started back to the cabin into the teeth of the storm. . . . Two of us had to be pulled from snowdrifts. . . . All of us finally got inside again and "bedded down" for the night with the aid of overcoats.

Daylight Friday found the storm still going strong as ever—probably just a bit worse. . . . However, at noon the snow had stopped and the wind died down. By Friday night things looked much better, and yesterday morning the sun was shining and although we were warned against starting out, we took a shot at it and managed to get through. . . . We arrived in Pampa around 12:30 p. m. an unshaven, wrinkled and bedraggled lot. . . . In one of the other cars, "Hiney" Hindman had to be thawed out when they got him to Sayre. . . . Sheriff Earl Talley had the back of his neck frozen. . . . I can't speak so well for what happened to the others, but I do know that our party spent three weeks in Carter, Okla., last Thursday and Friday. . . . If you don't believe it, ask Tom Aldridge, who slept in his shirt because we were caught without pajamas; or ask Jim Collins, whose teeth chattered most of two nights; or ask Garnet Reeves, who is one of the handiest men I ever saw in an emergency.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Hendrik Willem Van Loon, geographer, historian, and chronicler of the arts is expecting a dinner guest.

His wife greets you at the door. "Mr. Van Loon will be down in a moment," she says. She pronounces it "Van Loan."

You enter. She leaves you to go upstairs for a reconnaissance. She returns and reports: "He is dressing."

You wait. From the windows of their home you see rolling Connecticut countryside and the waters of Greenwich Cove. . . . inlet of Long Island sound.

A guest descends and announces: "He is shaving."

You say, "Thank you." You let your eyes wander about the walls where repose landscapes in watercolor painted by a Dutch friend of Mr. Van Loon.

Another guest descends the stairs. As an after thought, he says, "He is looking for a collar button."

You wait.

A fishing boat is putting out into the bay. Some boys in a shallow are playing around one of the docks. They have lost an oar and are trying to get it back.

A dachshund waddles down the stairs. He probably would like to say: "He is combing his hair"; instead takes cognizance of the room, submits to a friendly ear-scratching, and collapses on a rug.

Mrs. Van Loon goes up stairs for another reconnaissance. She comes back down and announces: "He is tying his tie."

The fishing boat is a wee speck on the edge of the bay.

The boys in the shallow have succeeded in recapturing the oar.

Suddenly the dachshund starts up. The guests throw up their heads.

You hear massive footsteps. The stairs creak. A ponderous figure, like a moving boulder, enters the room.

It is Van Loon.

It is not polite to ask a man how much he weighs, but you easily ascertain that he is six feet, two-and-one-half inches tall.

Under smoothly combed hair and a wide brow, big brown eyes peer out over glasses. Not through them. His movements are slow; his voice growly. He is a very big man.

He is also a monopolist, taking charge of the conversation and filling the air with a staccato of quips, jokes, pertinent observations.

For a while no one can talk. His wife, whom he calls "Jimmy," looks pained. She tells him: "But those jokes are so old; I heard them from my grandfather."

What his answer to this would have been will never be known. For at that moment dinner was announced. And dinner, as I pointed out in the opening paragraph, was why we were all there.

Our nomination for the season's dramatic find: Uta Hagen, the protégée of Lynn Fontanne, who makes her debut in the Theatre Guild's "The Sea Gull," playing the important role of Nina.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM.

The deepest snowdrifts in Pampa were on Carr street where three cars were completely covered up with snow piled three feet above the tops of the cars. . . . The rescue work sponsored by radio station KPND had its amusing as well as its serious side. A huge oil field truck crew pulled a car out of a snowbank in the Finley-Banks addition. Shortly afterward the crew was called to the Talley addition. It was the same car and the same driver. The longer road was a one-way street yesterday with a road wide enough for a car cut through drifts that towered on each side higher than a car. . . . Dr. Webb said several persons, including some rescue workers, suffered frozen feet and ears. . . . Bud McAfee landed in his plane at the McAfee well being drilled west in this territory, Friday afternoon. He flew from New York. His father, C. M. McAfee, Frank McAfee and another worker, were marooned at the well. . . . Radio listeners got the biggest laugh out of the radio report that a woman was mortally ill at the Five Points. The ambulance was urged to hurry. When a doctor arrived in his car, the woman was standing at the filling station with a bundle of clothes. She said she was not sick but wanted to go to a neighbor's. The driver of the car was so incensed that he drove off, leaving her standing there.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dolores Del Rio came back from her north African vacation with a new Paris-designed wardrobe of "Arab influence" and tips for tea-drinkers and for Greta Garbo.

Over a cup of tea (three sugars, no lemon, no cream) dark-eyed Dolores gftw ecstatic over the beverage as served in Morocco and Algeria. With mint, she said, and "so delicious, so refreshing."

She was wearing a sample of the "Arab influence"—a combination hat and shawl of vivid pink, a burlesque over which was a brood of black straw. It was to tricky that I had to give up figuring it out until she obligingly dismantled the thing and then, with the deft jab of a pin, assembled it again. Verdict: It looked all right on her, but then most things do.

She explained it: "Since I'd been in Africa, I thought it would be fun to have my things reflect the vacation. All of them were done especially for me—by Talbot and Reboux."

And so, girls, if you start wearing more of the same, you can blame Dolores and her two-month's vacation. But by the time those models get into the shops—if the look in Dolores' eyes means anything—Dolores will be wearing something else. I think the lady makes a game of it.

That tip for Garbo? Oh, yes, the native cities, where there are no movies.

"Recognize me there?" Dolores repeated the question, laughing. "Not a soul. They have never heard of anyone in Hollywood—even Garbo could hide out there indefinitely and realize her wish to be let alone. And for persons who might be afflicted with excessive egotism because of Hollywood success, let me recommend those towns—these lovely native towns!"

In a chartered plane, with a French pilot, Dolores and husband Cedric Gibbons "did" the obscure villages and towns as well as the cosmopolitan centers like Casablanca. She took eight reels of color film in her miniature camera, but with no cooperation from the natives.

"I would take out my camera in a colorful street," she lamented, "and before I could start taking pictures the natives would have disappeared. They distrust or fear the camera."

"They don't miss the movies. They have story-tellers, in the native bazaars."

"I never thought of pictures—not once!" she said emphatically. "That was what made it a marvelous vacation. I think we all should get away from Hollywood—often—to see how life goes on outside. And when we go to Europe, we should go to Africa too. So few people think of it, and it's only three hours by plane from Naples. It was, oh, lovely—in Marrakesh we landed in the midst of a typhus epidemic. A thousand people had died, but I told Cedric we might never come again, and shouldn't miss it then. We stayed five days!"

ish attention and control, to affect reasoning adversely, to affect adversely the power to make movements dependent on rapid and accurate coordination, and the ability of the eyes to follow clearly an object nearer and nearer.

"After taking alcohol the automobile driver may believe himself to be driving better but in fact his body works less efficiently. This happens even if alcohol is taken in moderate quantities some hours before driving, and especially on an empty stomach."

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL.

AUSTIN, April 7. (AP)—If former Gov. James E. Ferguson had his way candidates for congress would have to explain how they stood on submitting to the people the question whether this country could go to war.

"The probability of war is so pressing it should be made a burning issue in this summer's campaign," he wrote in a recent issue of his weekly newspaper. "Every member of congress should be sounded out and nobody should be re-elected who would deny the people the right to say whether they will go to war."

Clark Gable, the movie star, may come to Texas this summer, but not to charm feminine fans.

Will J. Tucker, secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, invited the actor to try the Texas brand of fishing, especially that along the Gulf Coast. Gable is fond of fishing and hunting.

There is a puzzle at the University of Texas which officials aren't quite able to explain.

This session students have been reading more books than in past years and the reason isn't altogether clear.

Except for the periods just before holidays, the library has recorded greater demand for books than at any time in the past and more than can be explained by the greater number of students enrolled.

It is suggested location of the periodical reading room nearer the main loan desk has brought students into closer contact with the books.

When the senate committee was investigating the land office and later when two members, Senators T. J. Folbrook and Joe Hill of Henderson, wanted to go farther into affairs of the attorney general's department, there was comment over the alignment among committeemen.

Holbrook and Hill, when the legislature was in session, seldom agreed on anything. Holbrook was sharply critical of Gov. James V. Alford while Hill often sided with the governor. Holbrook and Hill frequently had caustic oral exchanges on the senate floor.

Yet in the investigation Holbrook and Hill still stood side by side in voting to subpoena bank accounts of Attorney General William McCraw and his former law partner, Tom Clark.

About that time Gov. Alford was shooting acid word shafts at the attorney general and otherwise helping on the inquiry. In other words, Holbrook, Hill and the governor very definitely seemed to be on the same side of the fence.

It was even remarked that Holbrook and the governor had several friendly conferences on matters pertaining to the investigation, and many thought that all had been forgotten and forgotten between them.

However, recently Holbrook was quoted as saying in a speech he was pleased Texas was seeing the last year of the Alford administration.

A court report recently carried this item:

"Mary V. Cooke to T. U. Taylor, $10 and other valuable consideration paid, conveying crow bar."

It represented the culmination of efforts of Dr. Taylor, dean emeritus of engineering at the University of Texas, to acquire a crowbar which once belonged to Jesse Chisolm, trail blazer of the southwest. By a "little diplomacy," he said, he finally obtained the bar from the granddaughter of Chisolm. He plans to place it in a museum at Bandera.

Taylor describes Chisolm as "the only man who ever lived in Oklahoma who had the legal right to call Sam Houston 'Uncle Sam.'"

Chisolm's mother and Tiana Rogers, Sam Houston's wife, were sisters.

For most candidates a bugaboo is the possibility of automobile collisions. Regardless of the blame, the candidates must be diplomatic.

But G. A. Sadler, candidate for the railroad commission, apparently knows what to do in case of collision.

In an East Texas town a few days ago he stopped for a traffic light and a truck ahead backed into his automobile, dented a fender and smashed a light.

Sadler alighted, approached the cab of the truck and noticed the driver was a woman.

"Never mind, lady," he said. "I'll stand the damages if you will handle my campaign in this country."

It was a satisfactory deal.

LOYALISTS WIN FIRST VICTORY, THEN LOSE

HENDAYE France. (At the Spanish Front), April 9 (AP)—Spanish insurgents announced advanced to night against a government army fighting desperately to protect its lifeline army driving to separate northeastern Spain from the rest of government territory sent word that insurgent advance guards had fought their way into suburbs of San Mateo, less than ten miles from the sea.

The advance was made against government militiamen who, fighting with their backs to the wall as they did a year ago when the Madrid-Valencia road was menaced, earlier today had won one of their first victories in a week of hard battling.

Government troops, massed in coastal ravines and ridges, took the village of LaGralla in the Turnell foothills only to lose it again at nightfall.

Despite bitter government resistance, insurgent infantrymen, aided by bombing squadrons and fighting planes which strafed the defenders, conquered the whole of the Turnell mountain range, north of San Mateo.

Insurgent dispatches said a part of the extreme southern column was forcing its way around San Mateo preparatory to an attack into the heart of the town which controls the road to the port of Viljoras.

Government troops fell back from the mountains into San Mateo itself.

EL PASO, April 9 (AP)—Lee Bolhm, American consul at Chihuahua City, Mexico, reported tonight he expected the release of two American mining officials detained there by judicial police investigating the assassination of Mayor Jose Borunda E. of Juarez.

M. C. Little, employe of the Maguarthic Mining Company, was released in the custody of Bolhm after several hours of questioning. He was to remain at the consular residence until further notice.

William N. Fink, general manager of the company, was brought to Chihuahua City this morning, and tonight remained in custody of "the government's palace."

Bolhm said authorities had not explained the reason for detaining the Americans, but announced the governor had accused him of their release "after proper questioning."

Reorganization Defeat Deals Big Blow to New Deal

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—An historic upsurge of opposition appeared tonight to have forced Roosevelt administration leaders to abandon hope of regaining control of the 75th congress.

Instead, they looked for a fairly quick adjournment, to be followed by a tremendous, nation-wide struggle between the president and his critics in the 1938 political campaigns. It was considered certain the president would carry the fight for his policies to the voters, perhaps by a long stumping tour.

Mr. Roosevelt's first official reaction to the tremendous blow the house dealt his program by defeat of the reorganization bill last night was a letter declaring there should be no "personal recrimination" over the bitter fight.

He sent the following letter to Majority Leader Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), one of the leaders of the unsuccessful struggle to put the reorganization bill through:

"Dear Sam:
"Thanks for the fine fight. Will you also thank the speaker and the others.

"The reorganization bill is intended to simplify and improve the public service. With this single objective in view, I have given it my earnest approval.

"The question presented is solely one of policy. Therefore, the legislative developments of yesterday offer no occasion for personal recrimination and there should be none."

It was believed by some observers the last paragraph was an effort to avert any widening of the Democratic party breach. It was recalled that the vote of 204 to 19, by which the house sent the reorganization bill to the limbo of a committee, found many or "faithful" new dealers in the opposition ranks.

Bill May Be Dropped

Observers noted Mr. Roosevelt spoke on the reorganization bill in the present tense, indicating perhaps an intention to try and revive it at a later date. There was no sign in congress, however, of any move to bring it back for debate this year.

Moreover, there was a widespread opinion that chances of 1938 action on the wage-hour bill, a key item on the Roosevelt program, had virtually vanished.

Senator Hatch (D-N. M.), who voted for the reorganization bill, said the effects of its defeat had been "greatly magnified" but added much of the Roosevelt program would be slowed up.

"The action of the house," he said "may tend to slow up steps toward so-called reform measures, but it will have no effect on efforts to promote and carry on its general recovery program."

There was a feeling that, after final action on a few measures, like the tax revision bill, next year's relief appropriation and possibly a new public works program, congress would stampede for home. The senate has revised the tax bill in a manner highly displeasing to the administration, and the congress has yet to receive the other two measures.

Speaker Bankhead reiterated the hope congress would be able to win up its tasks and go home by May 15.

Jubilant foes of the reorganization bill declared a step toward dictatorship had been averted by last night's vote.

CHINESE CLAIM ROUT OF JAPANESE FORCES

SHANGHAI, April 10—(Sunday)—Chinese declared today they had made a large scale assault on Tsinan, Japanese-held capital of Shantung province, carrying their new offensive to the very base of Japanese operations on the central front.

With the route of the Japanese forces at Talerchwang, on the Grand Canal northeast of Suchow, Chinese said Japanese supplies lines in the Lungai corridor had been wiped out.

Tsinan is 75 miles north of Suchow on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad, along which the Japanese had been thrusting south for weeks toward the vital east-west Lungai railway.

FATAL FROM BULLETS FROM SAME PISTOL

AUSTIN, April 9 (AP)—Bullets removed from the heads of Mrs. W. G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, West Texas torture murder victims, probably were fired from the same gun, state police laboratory technicians indicated unofficially today.

Test tests, however, were not conclusive, being only preliminary in nature. One bullet was steel-jacketed and the other a plain lead pellet. Ballistics experts said they might be .32 calibre.

Stains on rubber mats in the Frome automobile were found not to be blood.

Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the public safety department appealed to citizens to aid in the search for baggage and personal effects missing from the Frome car and the automobile in which the killer—or killers—were thought to have been seen shortly before the crime occurred.

Officers said witnesses had described the car as a black (Plymouth) two-door sedan. Witnesses said it was following the Frome car and one claimed it had a white sign on one door. The driver was thought to be a man of stocky build and was believed to have been accompanied by a woman.

Missing articles from the Frome car included a square, black wardrobe trunk, 2 feet, 6 inches high and about 2 feet wide, initialed "NEF" or "NF"; a light-colored smooth-leather gladstone bag; an overnight bag of the same material with handles on top and the same initials; a light yellow or dark gray snakeskin purse with a plain gold cigarette case on one side and a mirror compact on the other, and high-heeled shoes of the same material with open toes and a cross strap.

Mrs. Frome's baggage was listed as a brown wardrobe trunk, a little larger than her daughter's, initialed "HEF" or "HF" with several European hotel stickers on it; a black bag, 18 or 20 inches square; a pasteboard box with linen pillow cases and sheets embroidered with the initials "MC" or "C"; a brown and red cotton navajo blanket; a zipper purse of dark blue material in which was a small blue-green enamel cigarette case bought in Mexico.

County commissioners will have their regular meeting tomorrow. At this meeting, the county auditor's quarterly report is to be submitted. Routine matters are all that are expected to be transacted, including approval of bills for payment.

J. C. Dingwall, highway department engineer, and R. A. Scott, maintenance foreman, made an inspection trip along highway 66 in the southern part of the county yesterday.

Texas highway patrolmen J. L. Pingent, Jr. and Norvell Redwine were in Pampa yesterday.

Mrs. Martha Walker was admitted to the Worley hospital Saturday night. She is to undergo a major operation today.

Elton Lathrop, pressman at the Pampa Daily NEWS, left yesterday for Scotts Bluff, Neb., to attend funeral services for his fiance who died Friday night.

FOR YEARS, only the biggest, most costly cars had 8-cylinder engines. When the Ford V-8 engine was first introduced, people welcomed the finer performance that 8 cylinders provided, but kept their fingers crossed on economy. It somehow seemed as if 8 cylinders had to use more gasoline.

But the news spread that Ford V-8 cars were giving just as good gas mileage as cars with fewer cylinders that did not offer 8-cylinder advantages. Good design, not number of cylinders, determined economy. By last year, more than four million people had stepped up to the 85-horsepower V-8 class.

Then the slightly smaller 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was introduced.

Reports soon rolled in from owners averaging 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. More than any Ford car had ever given before! A new standard of economy—a low price—and the smoothness of 8 cylinders! That was real NEWS!

America bought 300,000 Ford V-8 "60s" the first year and is still buying. If you'd like to know why—if you'd like to save money all ways—see and drive the 1938 version of this thrifty, modern car. There's a Ford dealer in your neighborhood.

OPINION SPLIT ON EDUCATION OF 5 DIONNES

CALLANDER, Ond., April 9. (AP)—If you think there's nothing new under the sun, you've overlooked a problem which is edging the brains of at least three men in Canada—the problem of how the Dionne quintuplets are to be educated.

Twins, triplets, even quadruplets, present no such tangle, and by comparison the educational program of British royalty is simplicity itself. For in a world full of curious things none today is as curious as the quintuplets who will be four years old May 28.

That's what makes it a problem: The guardians wish, above all things, to keep the five girls from feeling, as far as that is possible, their unique standing.

Until recently the educational program of the famous babies had been in the hands of Dr. W. E. Blatz, noted Toronto child psychologist.

Under his direction the children were being trained in social and language development by experts graduated from the advanced St. George's school for child study in Toronto.

The education of the quintuplets is now to be directed by Duncan McArthur, assistant deputy minister of education for Ontario, and an advocate of the public school system. The final decision, though, on whether the girls are to go to grade school with their three older sisters and two brothers will be in the hands of the board of guardians—Dr. Allen R. DeFoe, medical guardian of the babies, Percy D. Wilson, Ontario's official guardian of minor children, Judge J. A. Valin, of North Bay, and the children's father, Oliva Dionne.

Since Papa Dionne takes no part in the guardianship that leaves the problem in the hands of three men.

Opinion Divided
There appears to be no uniform opinion on whether the quintuplets should associate with other children in the next few years or whether they should be trained in the seclusion of their closely guarded nursery. Child experts have said and still say a lot on both sides of the question.

They regard it as doubtful, for one thing, that interest in the quintuplets will ever diminish to a point where they can appear in public without attracting attention.

On the other hand some child experts deem it necessary that the Dionne girls have normal companionship to insure their normal development.

With this in mind, it has been suggested that the other Dionne children and several more selected from the neighborhood might form a class at the nursery.

This plan would bring the Dionne children together, meeting one point in protest against the guardianship which keeps Annette, Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie and Marie from living with their family.

The family, including a baby born April 4 and Oliva Jr., born July 9, 1936, still occupy the old farmhouse where the quintuplets were born.

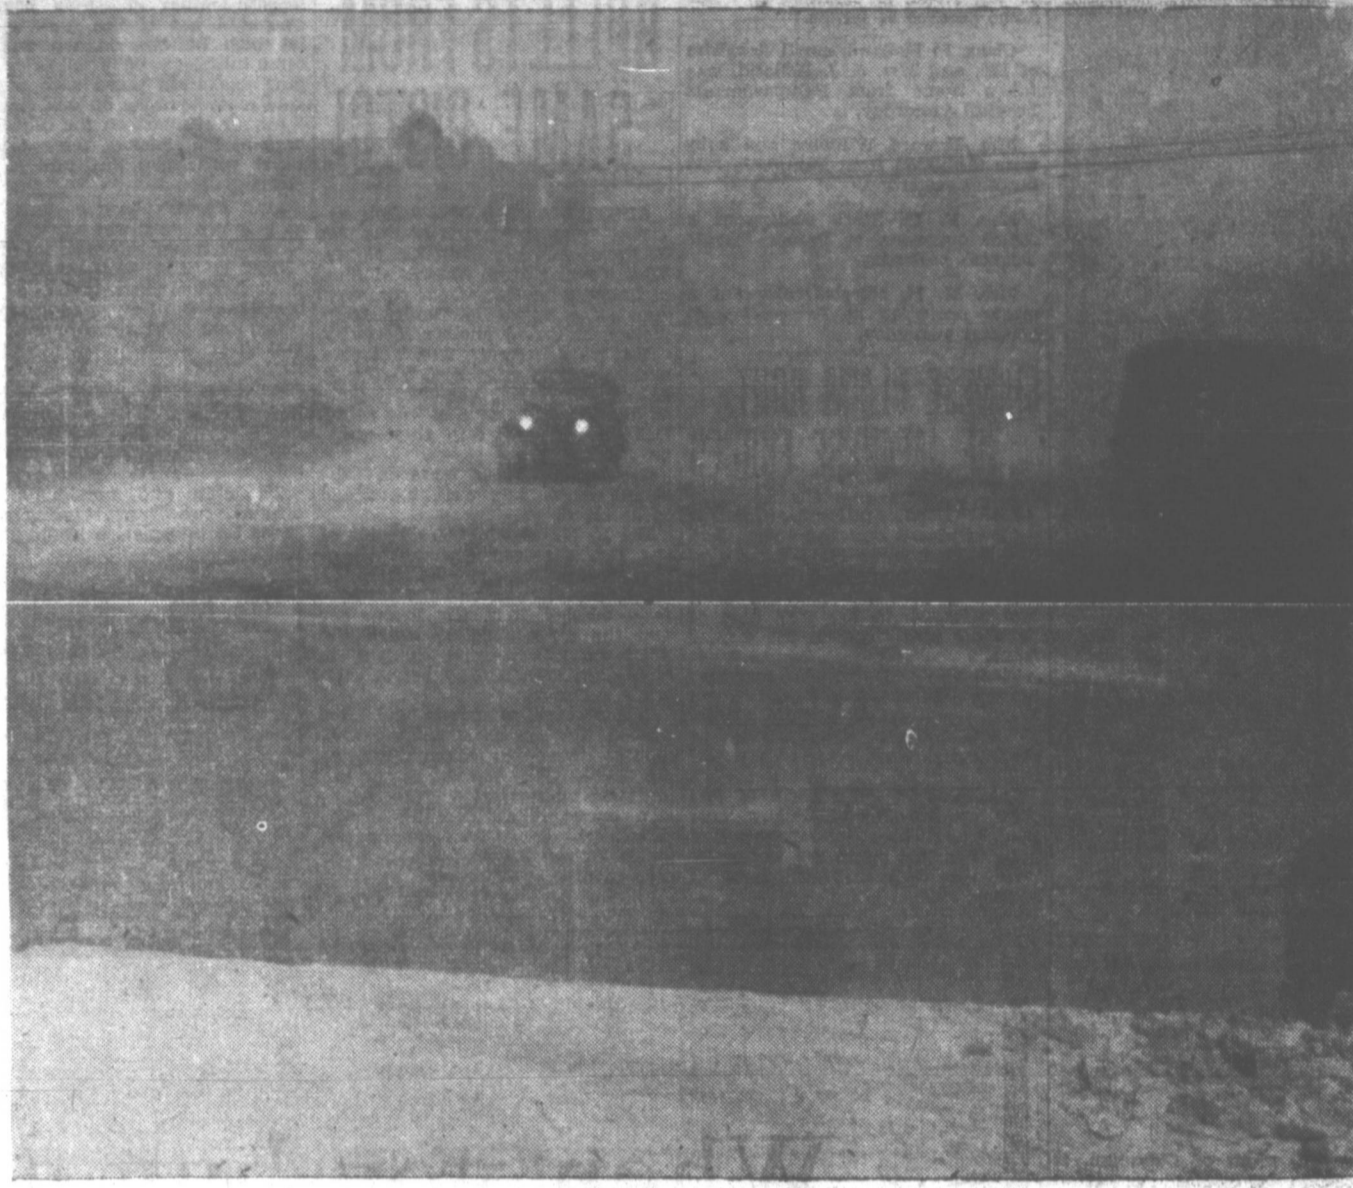

They are together only when the other children are permitted to visit the nursery.

The older children, Ernest, Rose, Therese, Pauline and Daniel, visit the nursery frequently unless they are ill.

Oliva Jr. has gone to the nursery only infrequently, and the five girls haven't seen the new baby yet.

Dionne receives $100 a month from the quintuplets fund, now estimated at $800,000, and the proceeds of a souvenir booth near his home give the family all the comforts they have so far desired.

Market Briefs

CHICAGO GRAINS
CHICAGO, April 9 (AP)—Wheat prices fluctuated within a one-cent range in a quiet market today and wound up practically unchanged.

The market was steadied by moderate buying stimulated partly by strengths in international trade, a forecast of warmer weather in the southwest and reports of welcome precipitation throughout much of the grain belt weakened July and September contracts, which represented new crop wheat.

Wheat closed 1-8 higher to 1-2 lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 84 1-8-85, July 81 1-2-5-8 September 82 1-4-3-8; corn unchanged to 1-4 off, May 60 3-8, July 61-3-4, September 62 1-4; oats 1-8 off to 1-4 up, May 28 3-8; rye 5-1 down, May 60; hard unchanged to 2 points up.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, April 9 (AP)—Cotton futures prices gained another 50 cents a bale on the exchange here today, principally because of defeat of President Roosevelt's reorganization bill and unfavorable weather in the belt.

Other factors behind the rally were the brisk advance in stocks.

WHEAT LOSSES MAY BE LESS THAN GUESSED

(By The Associated Press)
Spring struggled back to its place on the Texas calendar Saturday after a belated blizzard enmeshment which caused tremendous damage to agriculture, business and transportation and endangered human lives.

Spring temperatures permitted stalled trains to pull from snow drifts in the Panhandle and highway traffic became normal in other sections.

Despite severity of the storm, the worst April weather in 25 years, the loss of human lives was relatively small. The greatest tragedy was in the Pampa region where seven members of two families died from fumes from gas stoves as they sought warmth in a snow-bound oil field home.

Farms, ranges and orchards from the northern confines well into southern and eastern sections, however, suffered inestimable destruction.

Preliminary reports told of damage ranging from 20 to 75 per cent to the wheat crop.

The West Texas cattle and sheep ranges suffered severely. Because of the mild weather of the past few weeks, many flocks of sheep had been sheared and were hard hit by the sub-freezing temperatures.

Hail which rode before the storm Wednesday played havoc with many north Texas orchards.

In the Corpus Christi area, however, high wind did considerable damage to crops. Damage to vine crops, particularly cucumbers, in Arkansas and San Patricio counties was estimated at more than $75,000. Cotton and corn were damaged in the Bishop section.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, after a brief survey, said damage to wheat was not expected to be nearly so great as it was first believed.

Grain men, according to the newspaper, generally agreed that extent of the damage would not be accurately known for several days, but most reports suggested damage of 30 to 60 per cent in the sections worst hurt, while some other districts would show little injury and still others would actually benefit from the moisture received.

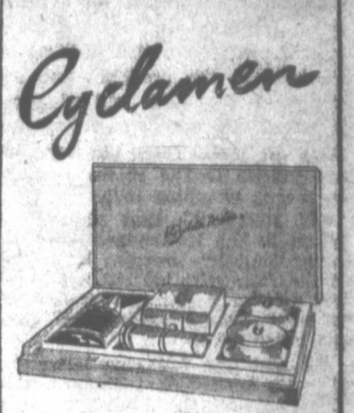

From Olney came reports that some fields of oats and wheat appeared only slightly damaged. The fruit crops in that area, however, were reported a total loss.

STEEL COMPANY BLAMED FOR STRIKERS' DEATH

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The Labor Relations board blamed the Republic Steel corporation today for the death of three "little steel" strikers last July 11 in a riot near the corporation's Massillon, Ohio mill.

Backing up the unsuccessful C. I. O. strikers for the second time this week, the board decided the Republic had violated the Wagner Labor Disputes act on eight counts before and during the bitterly fought dispute.

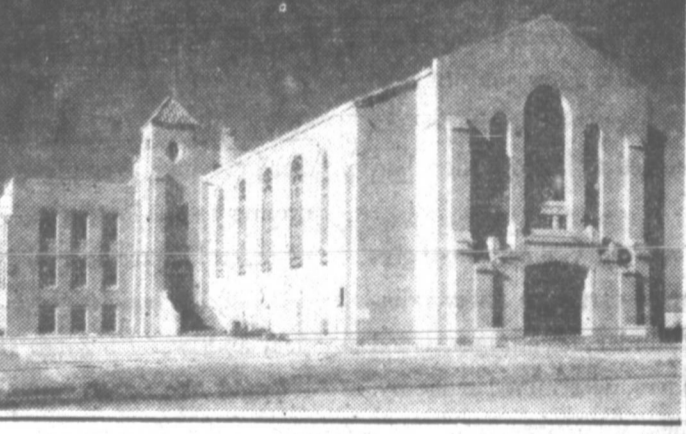

Wednesday, the board ordered the Inland Steel corporation, another of the four "independent" companies involved in the strike to deal with the steel workers, organizing committee (CIO) as representative of its Chicago production employees and to sign a contract based on any agreement reached.

After enumerating Republic's alleged Wagner act violations including responsibility for the Massillon killings, the board ordered the corporation:

- (1) To reinstate approximately 5,000 strikers, with back pay from April 8.
- (2) To reinstate with back pay 27 employees the board said had been discharged because of union activity before the strike.
- (3) To break up the employee representation plans at its five Ohio plants.
- (4) To compensate Canton and Massillon employees for the time lost during a 15-day shut-down just before the strike.
- (5) To stop all practices which would lead employees to think that they were not free to join the CIO or any other union.

The Japanese population of Peking nearly doubled during January, 1938. At the end of that month there were 8,799 Japanese citizens in China's ancient capital who had registered.

Official Reports

—on banking show an impressive feature of business recovery.

THE report of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States for instance, shows that there are about 16,000 banks in active operation under the supervision of state or federal banking authorities. Their capital totals more than three and one-half billion dollars and their surplus and reserves amount to over four billion dollars more. Their total deposits have increased in a year to forty-six billion dollars, and their aggregate resources have increased to sixty billion dollars.

In reports furnished the American Bankers Association the supervisors of banks in the various states also confirm similar forward trends in their jurisdictions throughout the nation.

These facts and figures show that strong currents of public confidence are aiding the turn toward general business recovery.

IT SEEMS IT'S A CAR FOLKS WON'T DO WITHOUT!

We were pretty sure we had a great car when some months ago we checked the final blueprints on the 1938 Buick.

It had the new and mighty DYNAPLASH engine for sparkling action—the sensationally desirable TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING for a lullaby of a ride.

Looking ahead in that promising day, we figured we had every chance of getting our sales share by reason of what this car gave the buyer for his money.

Now, when times are sterner, it appears we built better than we knew—we've got a car folks just won't do without!

This great new Buick was first introduced to the public last fall. Through September, October, November, it sold in steadily increasing volume.

In a period when sales of other cars were sliding off it went ahead, in one month actually outselling one of the Big Three of the lowest-priced field.

It's still going ahead—not car Number Seven or Eight, as one might expect by its price-class, but one of the season's Four Best Sellers!

There is only one explanation of such a record when made by a car in the thousand-dollar bracket.

Such a car is so good—has so much of value in it—people just won't do without it!

They buy it not only in preference to other cars—they buy in preference to waiting for easier times and readier money-to-spend!

That's the convincing sort of car you're about to drive when you first take the wheel of a 1938 Buick.

If you haven't yet handled a new Buick, you ought to—just to see what such a car is like!

BEAUMONT ATTORNEY CHARGED IN MURDER

SILSBEE, April 9 (AP)—Murder charges were filed today against Frank G. Vaughn, disbarred Beaumont attorney, in connection with the slaying of Willie Ray, 33-year-old negro whose skeleton was fished from a well today.

Charges were filed earlier in the week against Joe Collier, Vaughn's former partner. Ray, whose home was in Chicago, had been working out of Beaumont for E. H. Willis, general contractor, a few years before he disappeared Sept. 6, 1935.

An investigation by District Attorney R. M. Briggs and deputies U. C. McDaniels and Skeet Willford of Silsbee began a few months later.

Vaughn represented Ray in a compensation suit for injuries the negro received in 1932. Ray was awarded a $275 claim.

Briggs said today he had obtained a statement from Collier. Officers said the killers enticed Ray into their car in Beaumont and drove to Tyler county. When they were within 30 feet of the well, which the body later was dumped, one of them shot the negro in the back three times.

"We are hoping that others will join this group by mailing or bringing their checks to the Chamber of Commerce Monday so that we will save our salesmen the trouble of calling upon more prospects than absolutely necessary. If you are already sold upon the present Chamber of Commerce program it should be necessary to have a salesman call upon you," Thompson said.

In only three cases did the following members alter the amount of dues fixed by the finance committee. Thompson said. One member cut one dollar from a $25.00 pledge as that monthly bank drafts which were authorized would be of an even amount. Another member whose dues were set at $25.00 turned in a check for $50.00 saying, "It $25 will do any good. $50 will do twice as much good." The third change was a slight lowering of the dues for economic reasons. Finance Director Thompson and other Chamber of Commerce officials expressed gratitude for the acceptance of the full dues quota which was prepared after careful consideration.

All funds collected were used first for expenses in giving immediate relief, and all funds left after these expenses are paid is to go to the Red Cross and all such funds will remain in Pampa in possession of the Red Cross disaster committee.

RAINEY MAY BE NEXT PRESIDENT OF T. U.

AUSTIN, April 9 (AP)—Dr. Homer Price Rainey, 42, former Texan who now is director of the American Youth Commission, Dr. Luther H. Gulick, 46, of Columbia University may be the next president of the University of Texas, an informed source said here today.

This source said possible appointees to the $17,500-year post had narrowed to six and Dr. Gulick and Rainey were "among the top persons" on the list.

From J. R. Parton of Houston, member of the university's board of regents, came word, however, that the task of selecting a president was far from complete and many persons still had not been finally eliminated from consideration. He said the position probably would not be filled until summer.

Pending appointment of a successor to the late Dr. H. Y. Benedict, Dr. J. W. Calhoun, veteran university controller, is acting president. Dr. Calhoun is not an applicant for the presidency.

Dr. Rainey was born at Clarksville and graduated from Austin College as valedictorian. He was president of Bucknell from 1931 to 1935.

Dr. Gulick is professor of municipal science and administration at Columbia.

citizen and as an official, is well known, and it would be highly unwise of me to land my own merits, if I have any. Knowing, as I believe the people do, it is up to them to say whether I possess the character, integrity and ability that should be demanded of their district public service. The past is the best guarantee of like service in the future.

"With this brief statement, I place my candidacy before the people, with the hope that I may prove myself worthy of their continued confidence, esteem and respect."

necessary, and called upon the Red Cross and other relief agencies to assist. Disbursement began immediately, and was continued throughout Friday and Saturday.

It is not unusual at such times for public criticism to be voiced regarding the manner of collecting and disbursing such funds, and for that reason I feel that it is my duty to say to the people of this community that those who contributed to this fund did so with full knowledge of its purpose, and many contributors expressed a wish that their donations be spent as the committee saw fit.

Some investigations were made to determine the need of the recipient, but the majority of cases, owing to the lack of time, investigation were impractical or even impossible, and it was necessary under the circumstances, for those charged with the duty of handing out groceries, clothing and medicine, to act on their own judgment, with the result that many of the cases were assisted upon their own state of need.

No Apologies. In adopting this method the committee wishes me to state that it has no apologies to offer; the need was immediate and no one was referring to the fact that the money was at hand showing his condition did not warrant it. A record has been kept of the names of those receiving benefits from this fund, with the cash value of such benefits, and that record will be in my office in the city hall at Pampa, and is open to inspection to any person who desires to acquaint himself with the persons benefited and the amounts expended. Such a list is too extensive to be published in this paper, also it is my desire to emphasize anyone by publishing the fact that he or she has been the recipient of charitable benefits.

Volunteers Praised. Those composing the committee and those who gave so willingly of their time and no one in carrying out the purpose originally expressed by the Gray County Storm Relief Committee are to be highly commended, deserving the highest praise of every citizen of Pampa and Gray county, and I think, without reservation, it can be said that those who were directly connected with this work are grateful that they were able to render any assistance to those in need, and for myself and the members of the emergency board I can say that there are no complaints to be registered in any method used in handling the situation.

Fund Raised Quickly.

Donations came with such rapidity that the funds were raised within a short time, and it was necessary to broadcast that no further contributions were needed. That fact alone, in my opinion, exemplifies the unselfish and charitable spirit of the people of the city and surrounding communities, and complaints by those who did not wish to contribute or assist in this work are unthinking condemnations of that unselfish and charitable spirit of this community.

In conclusion may I use this method of saying to every person who assisted in this work by donation of money, by donation of time and services, that the Emergency Committee and the Red Cross committee are deeply grateful to each one of you and fully recognizes the able assistance you have rendered.

MRS. W. H. DAVIS.

and late yesterday afternoon J. G. Dingwall, residential engineer, started for McLean near where U. S. Highway 66 was blocked and clearing was delayed.

As the storm abated, persons stranded in farm homes, oilfield camps, at oil wells and plants began making their way to points from where they could notify relatives and friends that they were safe. Late last night it was believed everyone reported missing had been found.

Birth During Storm

The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Barton at Phillips camp south of Pampa looked out on a world of snow which fell while he was being born. Dr. A. B. Goldston battled elements to beat the storm by minutes early Friday morning.

Pampa school children who rode buses home Thursday evening looked back on their experiences. Many of them had to walk considerable distances to homes or plants while other remained in buses until they were hauled from drifts.

There was nothing of the softy nature about the more than 600 children on the buses. Superintendent Joe Shelton declared.

"Most of the children were calm and collected and obeyed every order from their driver," Mr. Shelton said. "Some of the smaller children whimpered but they were soon consoled by the older students on the buses."

Mr. Shelton said he had not heard of a serious illness among the bus students. He attributes it to the foresight of drivers in stopping their buses at farm homes and camps or in returning to the city instead of trying to go on.

Supt. L. L. Sone could not praise Pampa residents enough for their wonderful cooperation in taking stranded children into their homes. When it became known through radio station KPFD that more than 100 children were in the gymnasium or at the red school building, Pampans began calling in that they would take them into their homes and keep them until the storm abated. In less than two hours every child was comfortably installed in a private home and parents notified of their whereabouts by radio or telephone.

Many Pampa stores failed to open Friday. Oilfield men were instructed to stay at home and not try to reach their places of operation.

The Santa Fe railroad reported last night that train service would probably be restored today. No trains ran from late Thursday night until late Friday night. Service was still 24 hours delayed yesterday.

DAVIS HOLDS ACES IN MEXICO OIL GAMBLE

MEXICO CITY, April 9 (AP)—A veteran independent American oil operator was credited tonight by observers as holding the best cards in the game for a stake in Mexico's $400,000,000 expropriated petroleum industry.

He is W. R. Davis of New York, who contracted to buy oil from the wells the government owned prior to President Lázaro Cárdenas' expropriation of 17 American and British companies on March 18.

"These wells have produced 25,000 barrels of oil daily."

"We are just sitting back looking out of the window and waiting," said the 49-year-old native of Montgomery, Ala., in reply to a query whether he was interested in oil from the expropriated properties.

"I have made no proposition and none have been made to me. But before I made any deal to handle the oil I would want to be sure the expropriation was going to stand up, that there was not going to be a revision of the expropriation and that the companies will be properly paid for their properties."

be required to pay for damages to rescue trucks, chains, fenders, tires. Other expenses were mentioned. Papering of a room where several squads of rescue workers warned was listed as an item of expense. Damage to one truck was estimated at $48.00.

The committee yesterday discussed the problem of financing the burial of several members of the asphyxiation disaster in which seven lives were lost Thursday night five miles west of Pampa. Financial assistance will be necessary, it was said.

Needy Suffered. The committee in giving details of expenditures out of the emergency fund stated that an epidemic of illness was possibly averted by affording quick relief to needy families in Pampa. Families in many filthy houses in which snow drifted through and piled high in drifts, were without food a day and might have gone without food longer if assistance had not been given, it was said. WPA families which receive approximately $30 each per month might have become ill due to their weakened condition, committee members pointed out. Their government check usually provides a meager food supply, and their diet could have resulted in illness, especially during the blizzard, the relief heads declared.

Averted Suffering. The committee felt that although the situation might not have been classed as a disaster, their relief and rescue efforts probably averted a disaster which would have resulted in loss of lives through hunger, subsequent illness or exposure.

One instance of the sort of relief afforded which was typical of scores of cases, was given at a local tourist camp where occupants of small houses were not only without food but were unable to get out of their cottages because the snow drifts almost swallowed their houses. Rescue squads removed the snow and brought food to the families.

Gas for stoves was furnished in some instances to needy families. Long lines of persons were grouped in front of the relief disbursers yesterday and Friday.

Abundant praise was showered upon owners of truck lines, including M. C. Jefferys, Boyles and Luten and others, and their drivers.

Rescue Workers Suffer. Committeemen described the suffering these rescue workers went through. They said that many members of rescue parties came back to the radio station with frozen faces, frozen eyelashes and eyebrows, frozen feet and hands.

They believed the all-night broadcast over KPFD prevented many people from venturing into the storm and guided others to shelter. Scores of motor vehicles were extricated from snowbanks by oilfield trucks.

The committee met yesterday afternoon and planned mopping up relief activities. This included payment of outstanding bills.

Thursday afternoon. In this party were Sheriff Earl Talley, J. S. Wynne, George Briggs, County Judge Sherman White, E. W. Voss, W. V. Jarratt, H. L. Hindman, and H. A. Heket.

These two cars, driven by Sheriff Talley and Mr. Heket, were stranded on the highway between Sayre and Cordell in Oklahoma for several hours Thursday afternoon, before they were rescued by Oklahoma state highway patrolmen. Mr. Hindman and Sheriff Talley suffered from the cold and had to undergo treatment when they finally reached Sayre. All members of the party were chilled and wet.

The car driven by Mr. Reeves and carrying as passengers Mr. Collins, Mr. Aldridge and Mr. De Weese, was unable to proceed back to Sayre and had to turn off the highway and go to Carter in order to find shelter Thursday night. They were forced to remain there until the highways were again opened for travel into Sayre Saturday morning.

The fourth car, which was the only one to reach Cordell for the highway meeting Thursday noon, was snowbound there for two days and finally was able to start for Pampa around 2 or 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Inasmuch as traffic was moving slowly over Highway 66, the party was met of which were broken or in pieces. These old seats lasted throughout the night. Every once in a while one or the other would come off, but would awaken boats of the cold. Outside the blizzard which Mr. Roberts described far worse than it was in Pampa, snow was piled up around the windows.

The next morning there was no fuel. They waded through snow-drifts to the coal house and began the process of dismantling it. By 5 o'clock that afternoon when a farm came with a wagon and team to rescue them, the coal house was almost gone.

Mr. Roberts arrived at the school house about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon after his car had stuck in the ditch about a mile from the building. When he got to it he drove his car in front of the school house and stopped, intending to stay until the fury of the storm abated. As he got out of the car he saw one of the boys coming from an outbuilding. Then he knew that he had company—or that he was company.

Little Boy Cried. He found the three boys, and the teacher inside. Several times the Cook boys wanted to try to make it to their home in their rather used truck. Mr. Roberts persuaded the pair to give up the idea. Several times, the younger boy began crying but the teacher and the other two boys sympathized with him, and he finally became reconciled to staying all night in the school house.

Mr. Roberts managed to do his good turn for Scouting. He told them stories of Boy Scouts and his many and varied experiences with boys in the army. Before long the boys became interested and he was soon teaching them how to tie knots.

In the 26 hours they were in the school house, the five persons had two sandwiches between them which they ate at noon Friday.

Had Two Sandwiches. The farmer pulled Mr. Roberts' car through the snow drifts to a field and he made it in the machine to the farm house where he remained about half an hour before a rescue squad from Perryton, headed by Van Stewart arrived, about 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Stewart had learned that Mr. Roberts was unaccounted for by listening to KPFD's broadcast. Mr. Roberts' greatest loss as a result of the experience was his hat which the wind carried away before he could see where it went.

Anyway, Mr. Roberts believed he sold the three boys on Scouting.

Family Was Anxious. He stayed Friday night in Perryton at the home of Mr. Stewart, editor of the Ochiltree County Herald, and returned to Pampa today.

Mrs. Roberts and children in Pampa were rather anxious over the safety of their husband and father, but Fred Jr. was confident that his daddy was taking care of himself and was not sitting in his car some place. They were practically certain that he was safe, but they didn't know—and that's what hurt.

Nothing can be accomplished in this Chamber of Commerce campaign without the wholehearted support and cooperation of the entire army. If any one individual fails to attend Monday's meeting or fails to attend the breakfast Tuesday morning, the whole organization is weakened and the other workers are therefore handicapped.

"Because of this fact, I sincerely urge everyone in the sales army or may yet be contacted to attend both meetings without fail." Promptness is likewise urged at the two meetings.

The meetings will be started on time," Thompson said. "In a business, when the sales manager calls a meeting, everyone gets there, the meeting is conducted and adjourned. We plan to conduct this campaign on a business basis. There is no reason why half or two thirds of any group should be penalized by having to wait fifteen to thirty minutes on late comers."

Full information on the campaign and just how the sales army will work, the assignment of territories and other details will be covered completely in the short meeting Monday morning at 10:30.

The following "Branch Office" salesmen are to select two or three "traveling" salesmen and bring them to the BCD rooms Monday morning: Wm. T. Frasier, Vernon Hobbs, H. L. Fuller, Tommy Chesser, Chas. Butler, Sid Patterson, Fred C. Cullum, Ed Tracy and M. C. Johnson.

Salesmanager Thompson is extremely desirous that each of these "Branch Office" salesmen select their "traveling" salesmen immediately if they have not already done so and have them on hand at the meeting Monday morning at 10:30 a. m.

'COOLIES' THREATEN TO WRECK JAP DRIVE

SHANGHAI, April 10—(Sunday)—Two thousand Chinese coolies who posed as destitute coolies to filter through Japanese lines struck from behind today in a battle that threatened to wreck Japan's "grand campaign" in central China.

Inside walled Tsinan, Shantung province capital, the disguised battalion attacked Japanese defenders who fought to stem Chinese columns storming its gates from the outside.

Capture of Tsinan, base of Japanese operations in the "grand campaign" to swallow the unconquered portion of central China, would sever the link between Japanese forces far to the south and the Japanese munition and manpower reservoir at Tientsin to the north.

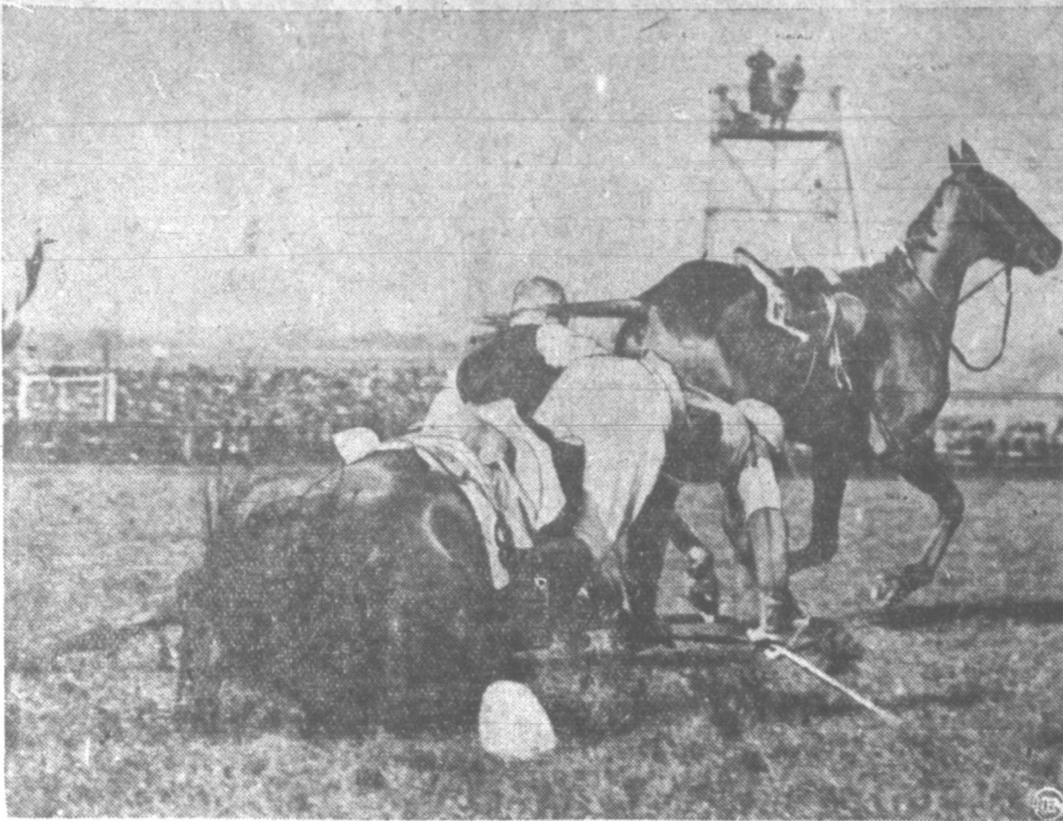

Chinese who told of the rising of the disguised battalion, said its members had filtered into Tsinan a few at a time for days. Each carried a revolver and several grenades.

When the zero hour came, they attacked near the east gate and occupied several strategic buildings.

Outside, crack Chinese flying columns were in position on three sides of the city.

GENERAL SALES TAX CONDEMNED BY McCRAW

AUSTIN, April 9. (AP)—Slightly higher taxes on natural resources, pipe lines and public utilities, provided additional revenue is needed to finance an adequate social security program, were advocated today by Attorney General William McCraw in the first part of his platform for the 1938 Governor's race.

McCraw condemned both a general sales and an income tax and said sufficient governmental economic programs probably could be affected to permit the state to take a tax holiday. He added, however, that old age pension grants must be somewhat enlarged.

The Attorney General said the remainder of his platform would be made public either in his opening speech at Arlington two weeks hence or shortly before it.

The State Liquor Control board was singled out by McCraw as one spot where substantial savings can be made. He said the annual appropriation to the board could be reduced "probably a quarter million dollars" without serious impairment of its activities. He added that state auditor Tom C. King had estimated governmental economies amounting to between $2,500,000 and $4,000,000 a year could be effected.

Increases of 22,196 Shown in State P-TA Membership

AUSTIN, April 8—Showing a greater year-to-year increase than ever before, the membership of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers at the close of the membership year, March 31, totaled 131,006. This figure represents an increase of 22,196 over the 1936-37 membership total and an increase of 30,339 over the 1935-36 figure.

The unusual increase will doubtless put Texas first among the States at the National Congress convention in Salt Lake City, May 15-22, as the state with the largest actual number of new memberships for the year. Last year, Illinois had the largest gain with 18,479 new memberships.

The increase may also have the effect of raising Texas from fifth to fourth place among the states as regards total membership figures. Last year, California with 221,989 members, was first; Ohio with 146,183 was second; Illinois, 141,740, third; Pennsylvania, 113,291, fourth; and Texas, 106,810, fifth. National Congress membership now stand well over the 2,000,000 mark.

The remarkable gain in the number of Texas Congress members is attributed by Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham, state president, to the development of an informed membership, to adequate and effective leadership throughout the state, and to the enthusiasm and constructive activity of the more than 2,000 P-TA units in Texas.

"Significant in the Texas Congress expansion program this year, and important in furthering the interests of an informed membership, was the enlarging of the state bulletin, 'The Texas Parent-Teacher,' and its every-member distribution," Mrs. Taylor said.

"The construction of the Texas Congress headquarters building in Austin to house the state office, and the attention of individual members throughout the state, doubtless this innovation was instrumental also in producing the membership gain."

For the first spring outfit or the one that you get a few weeks after you have picked your spring suit, either of these ensembles would be ideal. At the left is a short, fitted wool jacket in golden beige over a black silk crepe dress with high neckline and pleated swing skirt. The other, right, includes a crabapple print silk frock and a fitted wool coat with collar and lining to match the dress.

Glorifying Yourself

It's all very well for the 25-year-old to say, "I'll never dye my hair," or "I think gray hair is beautiful, and why in the world do women hate it?" But it is true that the day a woman notices that she has not just gray hairs-but-gray-hair, there's an important decision made.

To dye or not to dye. That's the problem. And it's one to be weighed carefully. There are so many advantages and disadvantages on both sides.

In the first place, hair dyeing is a job for an expert—not an amateur. One should go to a very good beauty shop, put herself in the hands of an experienced operator, insist that the gray hairs be dyed to match exactly the hairs that are not yet white. It is a mistake for a woman with gray to have her hair dyed red, or black, or blonde. When the job is finished, her hair should be simply brown (as it once was) instead of brown and gray.

Under the best of circumstances, she must go to the beauty shop regularly, to keep the color even, and the money required to keep the now dyed locks evenly colored, unstreaked. This, unfortunately, does not come under the heading of fun. Also, it spoils forever any chance of economizing on permanent waves.

Only the very best operators should be allowed to put a permanent wave in dyed hair. And one usually has to pay topflight prices for topflight service—in permanent waving as in anything.

However, if a woman holds a job where a youthful appearance is an advantage, all of the trouble and expense involved may be very much worthwhile. Or if white hair makes a young woman look more like her husband's mother than his wife, she certainly is justified in dyeing it. Perhaps it doesn't. Perhaps it only serves to soften her features, makes her more attractive than ever.

Only she can decide. And if her decision is in favor of dyeing she need never be ashamed to admit it. Any beauty routine that makes for the final necessary notes designed to give color to the 1938 Easter parade.

Spiced Fruit in Salad. Add spiced pears, peaches, apricots or peaches to gelatin and serve the combination as a salad to accompany veal, pork or ham. The spiced flavor makes a tasty complement for the meats.

Seasonal Icing. Use strawberry frosting for your next batch of white cakes. Mix a third cup of brushed berries with two cups of confectioner's sugar. Add two teaspoons of lemon juice. Mix until creamy and then carefully ice the cakes.

Prune Salad. Stuff prunes with cottage cheese. Roll them first in salad dressing, then chopped parsley. Serve three of four prunes on individual salads of watercress or shredded lettuce. Add French dressing.

FRUIT SCOUT NEWS. The Girl Scouts met at the little house, Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. We had the roll call, and after that the second class girls took the tenderfoot girls and helped them pass their tenderfoot class.

After that patrol meeting; then our circle, then we were dismissed.

Mrs. J. L. Vollmert will discuss the possibilities of the federation.

We wish to announce our appreciation for the many kindnesses, prayers and flowers from friends during the serious illness of our son Jerry Peake who is now at home and on the road to complete recovery.

Seeing Conditions In Texas Schools Topic of Article

AUSTIN, April 8—Unsatisfactory seeing conditions prevalent in Texas classrooms are disclosed in an article, "Classroom Lighting," which appears in the April issue of the Texas Parent-Teacher, monthly magazine of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The article was prepared by Bubi and Wolf Jensen, Austin architects, and Dr. Henry L. Hilgartner, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist of Texas, and presents the results of painstaking research and experimentation on the part of these three.

In 1937, vision tests were made by the authors in most of the elementary schools of a Texas city.

"Every classroom," the article reads, "fell into one or the other of two classifications: rooms with inadequate light and rooms with adequate but faulty lights."

"Such distressing classroom conditions are common in schools built in strict accordance with the state school building laws, fulfilling all requirements as to disposition and size of windows."

"Many school children in Texas will have lowered visual abilities at the end of this school year," the article reads. "Among these some will repeat the same grade next year. Under different conditions of classroom lighting, many of those pupils would not have visual deficiencies and would make normal progress in their studies."

"Certainly higher levels of diffused light, in the earlier years of school children, will help to minimize ocular deficiencies, relieve strain and fatigue, foster scholarship and accelerate progress in general," the article reads. "Visual acuity improved with better lighting, should result in a better attention and a better attitude among the students."

FLOODS DRIVE SCORES FROM THEIR HOMES

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Floods drove hundreds from southern river basins today while winter reluctantly relaxed its grip on the rest of the country.

In the deep south, the Coosa, Alabama, and other central Alabama rivers surged toward predicted record crests while coast guardsmen and other rescuers raced to aid endangered households.

Freezing weather in some sections of Dixie threatened to add to suffering and blast young crops.

Warmer weather cut into the snow blanket that stretched northeast from the Texas Panhandle to the upper Atlantic coast.

Red Cross reports showed a toll of 32 killed, 612 injured and 109 homes destroyed by sporadic tornadoes and floods which swept south and central United States between March 28 and April 7.

Unofficial reports indicated 44 of those deaths had occurred within the last three days.

National headquarters of the Red Cross announced it would maintain 24-hour office service to send aid wherever it might be needed. However, the weather bureau predicted warmer weather tomorrow for much of the middle west and eastern seaboard.

Yesterday 12 relief workers were ordered to strategic points of central Alabama and Mississippi. They were detailed to be ready for floods arising from the unseasonal snowfall caused by falling temperatures thru the Mississippi valley and great plains states. Some rivers in the midwest also were near the flood stage.

During the week roads were closed by snow drifts in many sectors of Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Illinois. Crop and other damage in the mid-west sector already has been estimated to exceed $1,000,000.

MULLEN WILL EXPLAIN CHRISTIAN DOCTRINES

A series of popular expositions of the teachings and practices of the First Christian Church of Pampa will be given by the minister of the church, John S. Mullen, beginning Monday night, April 11 and continuing every night through Friday night, April 15.

On most of the fundamental and essential doctrines the First Christian church of Pampa agrees with the major evangelical Christian denominations. Its agreements with other churches are far greater than its disagreements. In many of the churches little is said about doctrine and little reference is made to the Bible as a guide book in matters concerning the church. Believing that a large number of people in Pampa want to know the basis for the teachings of the First Christian church the minister has planned these expositions. Questions will be welcomed.

The meetings will begin at 7:30 and close at 8:30. The entire time will be given to the expositions.

ALLIANCE TO CONDUCT HOLY WEEK MEETINGS

Beginning Monday and extending through Friday, the Pampa Ministerial Alliance will hold daily noon meetings for men. Meetings will begin at 12:40 p. m. and end at 1:15 p. m. Pampa luncheon clubs are canceling their meetings for the week so that members may attend the meetings, which will be held in the city hall club rooms. All men are invited to attend.

Speakers for the week will be: Monday, Rev. Robert Boshen, Presbyterian church; Tuesday, Rev. R. J. Snell, Episcopal church; Wednesday, John S. Mullen, minister, First Christian church; Thursday, Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, First Baptist church; Friday, Rev. W. M. Pearce, First Methodist church. Music will be directed by Harry Minor, First Baptist church.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH WILL CONTINUE REVIVAL

A revival at Calvary Baptist church, two services of which were not held last week, on account of the snow storm, will be resumed this week, it was announced today.

There will be services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. throughout the week, as was originally planned.

Evangelist McKenzie is conducting the revival.

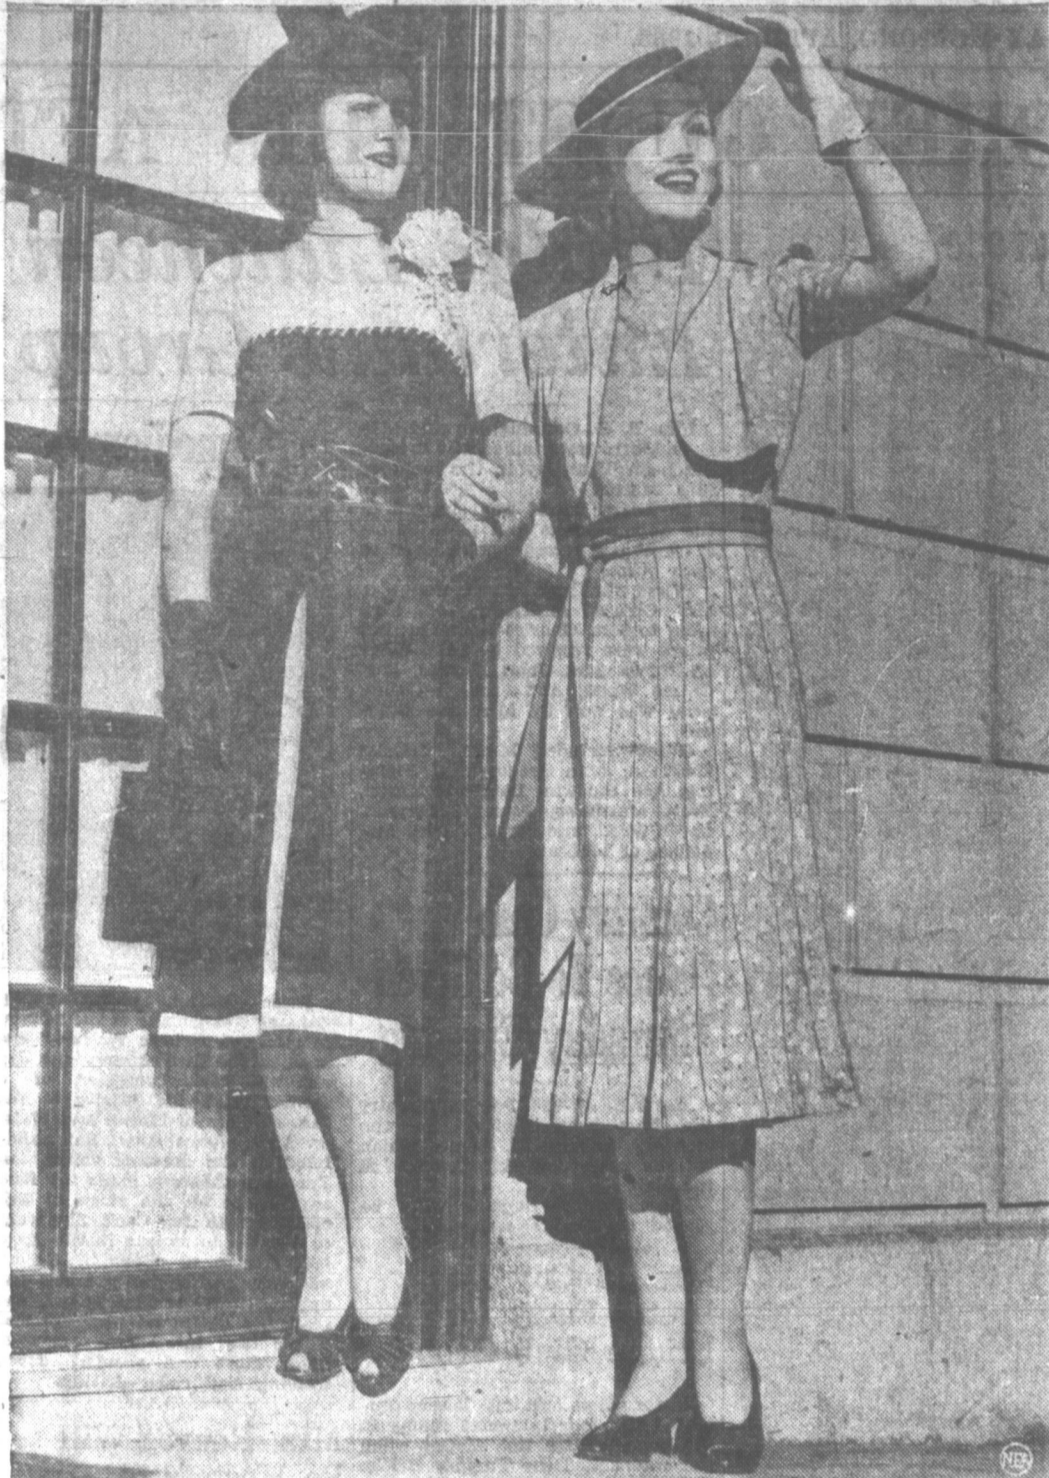

There have been several conversions to date.

A gleaming patent leather corselet belt encircles the waistline of the two-tone frock at the left. Yoke, sleeves and underskirt are of deep pink sheer which contrasts with the black slit overskirt that flies back in restful effect when the wearer walks or sits. The two colors are literally tied together at the bust line by fine lacing of the pink fabric. At the right is a softly tailored hosiery frock in dove gray printed in white, blue and deep wine. A sash in deep blue and white ties around the waistline where the stitched-down pleats begin.

PROFITS TAX ACT REPEALED

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The senate passed the five billion dollar tax bill late today.

The measure would repeal the undistributed profits tax and overhaul other administration tax proposals which have drawn criticism from business.

Just before final passage, the senate approved an amendment to make future issues of federal securities subject to taxation.

An amendment by Senator Clark (D-Mo) designated to permit federal taxation of state and local government securities was rejected, however.

The revenue bill was passed with a listless voice vote after a lengthy session consumed mostly with consideration of amendments to the measure.

Proposals rejected shortly before passage included: broadening of the income tax base, increasing surtaxes in individual incomes and imposing a system of farm processing taxes.

A joint conference committee now will seek to adjust differences between the senate bill and a vastly different measure passed by the house.

The senate measure would replace the house-approved undistributed profits tax with a flat 18 per cent rate on corporation income, and would substitute a 15 per cent flat-rate capital gains tax for a graduated sale of capital gains levies approved by the house.

David Belasco's drama of the California of the 1850's is screened in a superb manner. Singing and scenery in this musical romance are very beautiful. Narrative tells the story of the love between the young owner of a saloon and her bandit lover. Musical arrangement by Sigmund Romberg, musical direction by Herbert Strohbart, lyrics by Gus Kahn. The score includes singing of "Shadows on the Moon," "The Wind in the Trees," "Senorita," "Dream of Love," and "Ava Maria," with boys choir, by Miss MacDonald; "Soldiers of Fortune" by Mr. Eddy; "Who Are We to Say" and "Marriage" by Miss MacDonald and Mr. Eddy; and "The West Ain't Wild Any More," by Buddy Ebsen.

Two years of research have enriched the picture authenticity in settings, in customs, in such historical incidents as the colorful Spanish California fiestas and even in speech is the opinion of Carl E. Milliken, secretary of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc. Even the bandits in the film came out of the history books which records them as offshoots of the foreign colony that once existed at Fort Ross in Northern California.

The original Belasco play, upon which the film is based, was an outstanding stage success 30 years ago. Puccini, famous composer of opera, came to the United States, saw it, begged Belasco to let him write an opera around it, and five years later Toscanini directed a gala performance of the Girl of the Golden West at the Metropolitan Opera House, Caruso singing the lead.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production has been selected as one of the four best pictures of the month by the East Coast Preview committee.

SPLAWN PUT ON COMMITTEE BY ROOSEVELT

AUSTIN, April 9 (AP)—Walter M. W. Splawn, appointed recently by President Roosevelt on a three-man committee to study ways and recommend means to Congress to improve the financial condition and efficiency of the nation's railroads, obtained his basic experience in the problems of the carriers 15 years ago as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Splawn had not reached 40 when former Gov. Pat M. Neff named him to the state regulatory body, but he had already attained prominence as a member of the economic faculty of the University of Texas. He served on the commission 17 months but friends say this was long enough for him to become recognized as one of the outstanding authorities on transportation in the south.

Splawn resigned from the commission in 1924 to accept the presidency of the University of Texas, and in the three years of his incumbency the institution's graduate school was greatly improved. Splawn has spent virtually all of his time at Washington since leaving the university in 1927. He was chairman of the board of arbitration of Western Railroads and groups of employees, and later was referee in the arbitration of claims for ships seized during the world war.

Before President Roosevelt appointed him to the Interstate Commerce Commission in January, 1934, C. V. Terrell of Decatur, now chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, recommended him as "the best qualified man in the United States for the job." Splawn became head of the I. C. C. for 1938, under the body's policy of rotating the honor. Certain labor groups originally opposed his appointment to the commission but after withdrew their objections.

Splawn was born at Arlington and educated at Decatur Baptist College, Baylor, Yale and the University of Chicago. He did janitor work in a hardware store at Decatur to help pay his way through the college there, from which he was graduated as valedictorian.

The Texas Railroad Commission frequently has been a stepping stone to broader fields. Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson is a candidate this year for Governor. O. B. Colquitt was elected governor after eight years on the commission. Earle B. Mayfield stepped from the commission to the United States Senate.

Members of the other better known members of the agency since its establishment 47 years ago were John H. Reagan, Allison Mayfield and Neff. Neff, now President of Baylor University at Waco, served as commissioner after two terms as Governor.

so has said McCraw and Thompson ought not to hold office and run for the governorship at the same time. Thompson, who has nearly five more years to serve as railroad commissioner, didn't comment on the proposal.

Twenty-five women have left the imprint of their characters in Texas' governors mansion, writes Mark Twain. James M. Browning, assistant justice of the Texas Supreme Court, when the elder Browning was lieutenant governor, Joseph D. Sayers, whom Col. E. M. House helped to nominate, was governor.

It is farther by air from the capital to San Antonio than by automobile—78 miles by road and 84 by airplane.
The explanation is that the municipal airport at Austin is north of town and the field at San Antonio is south of that city.

An higar of assistant attorneys general seems to be under way. The young men who have been helping Attorney General William McCraw in state litigation for the last three years are resigning to campaign for him for governor.

They say she is as good a vote-getter as the genial Coke, who is the only man in modern times elected twice speaker of the State House of Representatives.

The story is told that the couple landed in Fort Worth. Stevenson took one side of a street and Mrs. Stevenson the other; then they repeated the course on another street. Pretty soon they knew half the folks in town.

The Supreme Court deals with, in fact, writes much of the civil law which concerns virtually every phase of Texas' activity not criminal. Its task is much more complicated.

'STRONG MAN' PROMISES TO RULE FRANCE

PARIS, April 9 (AP)—France's "man of the hour," radical-socialist Edouard Daladier, met threats of disorder and increased strikes today with a blunt warning that a "strong government" would begin to rule the nation tomorrow.
Socialist leaders, after a long talk with the premier-designate, told deputies he planned to demand full decree powers in the economic and financial field for a period of six months.

Vincent Auriol, socialist minister of coordination services of the premier's office in the fallen ministry of Leon Blum, said the premier-designate planned to meet the financial crisis with an internal loan and would seek more money abroad if necessary.

Daladier offered the socialists five portfolios in his cabinet, Auriol told deputies, but parliamentary observers indicated they would reject participation in the government although they might offer it parliamentary support.

Many Frenchmen heaved a sigh of relief, confident the man who won confidence of France's a r m e d forces and made a dramatic comeback since February, 1934, when riots wrecked his last government, would be capable of keeping order.

His immediate problem tomorrow will be to enforce the ban on Paris leftist demonstrations and get 60-70 strikers back to work before their movement spreads.

Workers of the famed "red wing" of the capital's socialist and communist districts were called by their leaders to march on the boulevards tomorrow under the red flag as a mass protest against "the old men of the senate" who won their bitter duel with Socialist Blum and wrecked his government yesterday.

Paris police banned the scheduled demonstration and troops were held ready in capital garrisons to aid the police and mobile guards to enforce order if reinforcements became necessary.

The senate's flat refusal to give Blum decree powers wrecked two socialist governments but observers said they believed if Daladier's cabinet should be as strong as he has indicated it would be, he would have no trouble in getting such powers for himself.

DANCING

Dancing is worldly and fleshly in its whole tendency and in all its effects upon those who engage in it! There is nothing in it to elevate, ennoble, or purify the heart or life of Christians. No child of God was ever led to more spiritual-minded, more devoted to Christ in any sense in the world. DANCING is not in any sense connected with the will of God. Nor does it in any sense belong to godliness. It never leads any one to love Christ more, to do any more service to God. It never gave to any one a cleaner, purer, or a more virtuous life. It never adds anything to a Christian's joy when he thinks of death, of the judgment, or eternity. No devoted child of God believes that dancing is in harmony with the will of God. That it is any credit to any church on earth for its members to dance. We never hear any dancing advocate say that it will help in any sense to take them to heaven. The very best they try to present in support of it is to say they do not think there is any harm in it; and even in saying that much for it they are trying to blind and deceive themselves. No man or woman noted for piety ever dances or in any way encourages it. The truth of the matter is that dancing is a work of the flesh, and not a fruit of the spirit. (Read Gal. 5:19-26. Try your hand at placing dancing in the list of those things said to be a "fruit of the spirit.") Every preacher in every church who cares anything about the morals, or spiritual side of the life of the members of the church for which he preaches should condemn it openly, publicly!

Isobel and Dick Strolled into the lounge shortly after five o'clock. His eyes lighted when he saw Joyce.

Yesterday, Dick makes 'amends' to Joyce for her loss and is inviting her to his table when Mrs. Porter, cruise hostess, asks him to join Dr. Gray's table. Joyce feels she will not be too welcome.

CHAPTER III

THERE were six of them at luncheon, an Joyce recognized Dr. Gray as the pleasant officer she had met on deck just as the ship's press called. He welcomed her heartily.

"I'm very glad you could join us, Miss Milner," he said. "I looked about for you this morning." His cordial manner put her at her ease immediately.

Mrs. Porter greeted her charmingly, and presented her daughter Isobel, but she endeavored, quite tactfully, to seat Joyce next to the doctor, with Dick directly opposite, between Isobel and her mother. The chair on Joyce's left was vacant.

"Mr. Gregory will sit here," the hostess explained. "He's a little late for luncheon, I see."

Presently he appeared, and the introductions were completed. Mr. Gregory was an impressive, wide-eyed sort of man, somewhere in his middle thirties. Joyce decided, he acknowledged the introductions formally, but there was no expression in his face either of pleasure or distaste. His eyes, hidden behind thick tortoise-shell glasses, were cold and fishy. But his manner was cordial and he smiled easily.

They were having dessert when Dick mentioned last night's episode. For some reason Joyce wished that he hadn't, she resented the Porter's conversation.

"How perfectly terrible!" Mrs. Porter gasped. "To lose your pocketbook, with everything in it!" She leaned in front of Mr. Gregory, laid a motherly hand on Joyce's arm. "You must come to me my dear, if you are in difficulty. I'll see what I can do—"

"Oh, no you won't," Dick contradicted merrily. "That's going to be my job. You know, Prince Charming rescues the maiden in Distress, after the Wicked Uncle spoils everything. Except that I have to work doubly hard to kill the impression I built up in my first role as Wicked Uncle. . . ."

They all laughed, but Isobel's eyes were suddenly hard, belying the smile on her lips. And when Mr. Gregory suggested a deck game after luncheon, she refused him shortly. With Dick Hamilton and Mr. Gregory at the same table, in open contrast to one another, it was easy for her to see wherein she had made an error last evening.

Mrs. Porter led the way from the table. "Suppose we all go up and have our deck chairs put together," she suggested brightly. "Then we'll be comfortable if the sea does get choppy."

Dick assented cheerfully, but Mr. Gregory excused himself, pleading a dislike for too much fresh air.

Mrs. Porter was sympathetic. "I do hope you aren't going to be ill, Mr. Gregory," she said solitarily. But her tone was not very sincere.

Joyce excused herself, too. Deck chairs, she realized, cost money.

"I haven't unpacked yet," she explained.

"Well, see you on deck later, then," Dick called to her.

Half an hour later the ship was once more rolling in earnest, and Joyce found it difficult to straighten her things with any degree of orderliness. She gave up the attempt and started up on deck. Mrs. Porter met her in the corridor outside her room.

"Oh, Miss Milner! I was just coming to see you. Are you feeling all right?"

"Fine!" Joyce assured her.

"Then I wonder if you'd help me out. Isobel is such a poor sailor. . . . she's feeling terribly."

Isobel's eyes lighted when he saw Joyce. "So this is how you've been spending the afternoon!" he remarked in surprise.

"I'd be glad to help, Mrs. Porter. What is it?"

"I want to start a little bridge game among the ladies. I thought you might help with introductions and so on. You have such a nice personality, my dear."

Joyce took the compliment lightly, but she couldn't refuse the request.

"Surely. When is it?"

"Right now. In the main lounge."

"I'd rather spend the afternoon out on deck, but I can't have Dick Hamilton think I'm tied to his apron strings."

So she went off with Mrs. Porter, glad of the opportunity to meet more of her fellow passengers. But out of 200, only 14 presented themselves for an afternoon of cards, and because of the odd number, Joyce found herself impressed into a bridge game to make an even four tables.

Mrs. Porter was her partner, and their opponents were a Mrs. O'Hara and an elderly Mrs. Higgins. Joyce recognized Mrs. O'Hara as the angry woman in the milk wrap who had followed her unsteady husband up the gangplank the moment before sailing last night. Over the cards she watched Joyce slyly, studying her, until Joyce wanted to assure her that she had never met Mrs. O'Hara previously. Occasionally Mrs. O'Hara pounced on her partner for a misplay.

It was small fun, Joyce thought presently, to take a sea trip just for this opportunity of sitting indoors and playing cards with irritable women. And she made up her mind that she would be investigated into no more card playing.

Dick would be walking the deck, his head high in the wind, fighting his way like one of her own Yankee clipper foremast. What a thoughtful person he was, she reflected dreamily, to have bought the new bag for her, as soon as the gift shop was open. . . . and to think of everything, even the lipstick.

TEA was served in the lounge, and she welcomed the respite. But Mrs. O'Hara ordered it brought to the table, and the game continued. "We have to finish this rubber," she announced grimly, as if that was the last thing left to do before the crack of doom.

Joyce wondered absently why Mrs. Porter had not mentioned that she had asked her to officiate at the bridge party in Isobel's place. But before she could speak, Isobel was complaining dramatically.

"I'm feeling so ter-ri-bly, mother! I can't go to the smoking room for a bottle of champagne. I told him it's the only thing to keep me on my feet. . . ."

"Won't you join us?" he asked Joyce.

Mrs. O'Hara answered for her, annoyed at the interruption. "We have to finish this rubber first."

Her voice was peevish, and Mrs. Porter speedily urged Dick and Isobel on their way. Joyce watched them go, disconsolate.

It was almost an hour later when she left the bridge table, breathing a solemn vow never to pick up a deck of cards again. . . .

SHE started down to her cabin to pick up her coat. She would have time for a few turns around the deck before dressing for dinner. But on the stairs she hesitated, bewildered. Her eyes were wide, and she stood there, afraid to take another step. It was as if she had suddenly lost all control of her feet. Last night on deck she had felt something of this, and now it was a thousand-and times worse. Once more she stepped down and hung there, suspended in air, until the step came up to her. There was a swift, overwhelming uncertainty in the pit of her stomach.

She pulled herself together with a tremendous effort lying down those steps as if a demon pursued her, and ran along the corridor to her room.

"Dr. Gray caught a glimpse of her as she passed him, and he followed. "What's the trouble?" he asked, looking in through her open door. "I—I don't know," she said weakly.

"He grimaced. "Just a little senisk," he told her.

"Oh, no—not that!" She shook her head quickly, think of Milner seaman who sailed before the mast.

"Why not? Nine-tenths of the passengers are down. These cross-currents to Bermuda play the old devil with a ship."

She took a long deep breath, hoping it might lead to internal adjustment.

"Just lie down and take it easy," the doctor advised. "Don't try to come to dinner. Call the stewardess if you want a cup of tea or something."

So through the whole long evening she lay in her berth and listened to the wild Atlantic lash about in fury. Or she would roll, to the other side of the bed, to stop trembling against the wall and waiting for the ship to capsize completely.

Oil Field Workers Suffer Hardships During Storm

ACTIVITY SHUT DOWN IN HUGE PLAINS AREA

Most of the huge Panhandle oil field was shut down Thursday, Friday and most of Saturday by a blizzard which swept this section of the Panhandle. Many drillers, pumpers and other oil field workers were stranded at wells and platn over the field until reached by relief crews.

Every road in the Pampa area was impassible for two days. Some refinery workers at plants located on the Santa Fe railroad line were taken to and from their jobs on a switch engine. Outlying wells were isolated, some men going 36 to 48 hours without food as they huddled near.

Several company superintendents, through facilities of radio station KPND, Pampa Daily NEWS station, warned employees not to report to work Thursday night and Friday because of the terrific storm which piled snow six to 10 feet high on roads.

No lives have been reported, lost and only a few suffered from frost bites and exposure.

Chief interest in the field last week was centered in the McLean territory where the Lone Star Gas company's No. 1 Fowler in section 118, block 23, H&GN survey, found approximately 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 200 barrels of oil in its widest test.

The wildcat is located four miles north of McLean and is five miles south of production in the Webb pool. The well caused little excitement in leasing circles, however, the Lone Star company having several thousand acres of leases surrounding the well. The Texas company had a few small leases in the area and Sinclair-Prairie Oil company has one lease.

Gas pay was topped at 2,470 feet and increased until oil was found at 2,500 feet where drilling ceased. Storage tanks and separators are being rushed in. It is believed the company will set 6-inch casing and deepen. Sea level at the location is 2,770 feet. Pay was found in the lime formation.

New locations outdistanced completions last week when 11 first intentions were filed with the local office of the Texas Railroad commission against seven completions good for 3,523 barrels of new oil.

Gray county led in activity with five new wells capable of producing 2,862 barrels, open flow. Hu chin-son county's two tests were gauged at 961 barrels.

Best producer of the week was the Shamrock Oil & Gas company's No. 6 Big Gray-Saunders, section 40, block 3, I&GN survey, located four miles southeast of Pampa, Gray county, which gauged 769 barrels.

Hutchinson county reported seven of the 11 new locations. Carson county had two and Gray and Wheeler counties one each. The Sandford Oil & Gas company announced five new locations, all in Hutchinson county.

Heavy snow began falling early Thursday and lasted into Friday practically stopped oil field activity as roads became drifted.

Completions by counties follow:

In Gray County.

Italians Display Cavalry Skill

Mussolini has built the Italian army into one of the world's most highly mechanized military forces, but King Victor Emmanuel still takes great pride in the more picturesque cavalry school of Tor di Quinto. One of the displays that thrilled the king at the school's annual show this year was that pictured above, showing riders skillfully guiding their mounts down an almost perpendicular embankment.

Hitler and Goering Acknowledge Cheers

Life has been one big round of cheers for Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and Field Marshal Herman Goering in the wake of recent Nazi triumphs. The German leaders are pictured above on a balcony in Berlin receiving the plaudits of more than a million Nazis after Hitler returned from his triumphant trip to Austria. Soon after the photo was taken Goering went to Vienna to continue the drive for "approval" of the Nazi conquest in the forthcoming plebiscite.

KILLERS' TRAIL FOLLOWED IN FROME CRIMES

EL PASO, April 9 (AP)—Confident they had found at last today the trail of the elusive killers of Mrs. Weston G. Frome, socially prominent Californian, and her daughter, Nancy, authorities tonight scoured the international border country of southern Texas.

Object of their hunt was a mysterious, "nervous blonde, believed seen as late as yesterday at Sonora, Texas, 94 miles north of Del Rio, and a male companion.

"I believe we have located the trail of the killers for the first time since the bodies of Mrs. Frome and Nancy were left on the desert," declared Sheriff Chris Fox, director of the widespread murder investigation.

The lagging, apparently stalemated investigation of the 10-day-old murder mystery was revitalized into new life by reports from Del Rio that the two suspects had been seen there a week ago Wednesday in the desolate mesquite reaches of the West Texas desert, and their bodies found near Van Horn last Sunday night.

Dove-tailing information previously obtained, reports were sent Fox that the black coach driven by the blonde and her male companion carried California and New Mexico license plates, and bore white markings on the side.

Certain About Car.
"I feel certain the machine, which was probably driven into Mexico, is the murder car," Fox said.

Search for the mystery blond centered between Sonora, Texas, and San Antonio.

Deputy Sheriff C. W. Taylor of Sonora reported a blond woman answering the description of the one seen at Del Rio had abandoned a car there yesterday under mysterious circumstances. It was a black coach with California plates.

"She said she didn't have time to wait for a repair to be made on the motor, and left on a San Antonio bus after telling several persons she was going to Florida," Taylor told Fox.

"One of the mechanics at a garage in Sonora noticed a pistol lying on the floor of the car," the woman took it out and put it in her handbag.

"She removed four good pieces of luggage and hurried off to the bus depot, where employees noticed she seemed extremely nervous and closely watched the baggage."

Fox ordered San Antonio police to check every bus station and hotel.

Voicing the theory the woman and her male companion separated at Del Rio after abandoning their car in Mexico, Fox said it was possible they had arranged a rendezvous in San Antonio.

Poses also left Del Rio and Sonora simultaneously—to search the highways on the chance the woman may have been carrying the missing Frome luggage and discarded it along the way.

Fox voiced the opinion the original black mystery car was abandoned in Mexico and the man and woman separated to continue alone.

Texas Ranger-Pete Crawford at

Del Rio said it had been definitely established the black coach was in Del Rio last Thursday or Friday, a day or two after the killings, but declared the trail there had grown cold since they were last seen on the streets.

Four witnesses, including the city clerk and a state employe, described the pair. They were thought to have spent "several days" there.

Today's findings placed the trail of the supposed slayers east of Kent, Texas, for the first time.

TWO PAMPA THEATERS MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

Improvements were announced today in three Pampa theaters.

Closed this week, the State theatre is to re-open by May 1, after being remodeled throughout with new floor, acoustical ceiling and wall treatment, new carpets, improved sound, and upholstered seats.

A new front will be installed, with an illuminated marquee. At the Rex theatre, 350 new upholstered seats will be installed in the center section, with a new carpet throughout. The job is to be done within two weeks.

A new silver screen has recently been installed in the LaNora theatre, which adds much to the clearness of the pictures.
