Big Companies and Independents Clash in Oil Meeting

MOVE BLOCKED ON REGULATION OF OIL PRICES

Winkler County Basis for Motion to Curb Waste
POLITICS USED AS BIG THREAT
Bitter Differences as to Existence of Over-Production

AUSTIN, March 10.—(AP)—Ground work for a possible solution of reported Winkler County oil waste was laid Saturday in a conference of about 100 operators before the state railroad commission but major companies blocked efforts to adopt a plan which they claimed would lead to possible regulation of crude prices.

The commission, at the suggestion of Governor Moody, called the hearing to discuss means to alleviate the "distressing condition" of the Texas oil industry, growing out of over production and low prices.

W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce's oil and gas bureau, succeeded in having passed a resolution calling on the railroad commission to instruct the chief oil and gas supervisor to appoint an "umpire" for the Winkler county field to cooperate with operators in eliminating needless waste production and accomplishing other steps incident to conservation.

Borger Man Speaks

Prior to that action, the assemblage voted down a motion by J. P. Miller, Dallas, independent, calling on the commission to appoint a committee of six, headed by the chief supervisor, to survey the whole Texas situation and recommend regulations. W. Scott Heywood, Borger, moved to amend to provide that the committee should be composed of three major and three minor operators. Heywood's move lost, after which Francis, Dallas, general counsel for the Magnolia petroleum company, had made a hot address virtually challenging the commission to take any such action.

"I represent the Magnolia company and all but 11 shares of the stock are owned by the Standard. If any man thinks he can regulate prices that way he's badly wrong," Mr. Francis shouted.

Francis declared that if "natural conditions" force prices back up to $3.50 a barrel, he would be willing to maintain them "but I won't enter a situation to create a monopoly for the University of Texas." He asserted the legislature would "frown on" such a proposal.

To the independent operators he became: "Put your shoulders to the wheel and quit this eternal cussing of the 'big' corporations. You couldn't live for five minutes without them." Here he was cheered.

Frank Cullinan, Republic Production company, Houston, asked Francis: "Do you mean that your idea is that Texas natural resources should be taken from the ground and given to other states?"

Not for University.

"I do not," Francis replied, "but when you introduce a law in this legislature trying to force high oil prices for the benefit of the university, before they get done you'll be begging somebody to kill it."

R. L. Batts, regent of the university and one of its special attorneys, said he did not believe the original motion has the motive Francis ascribes to it.

Charlie Hansen, correspondent for a mining journal, rose and said Francis' speech "is as remarkable as the silence of Colonel Stewart."

Mr. Hamilton then put over his "umpire" motion 22 to 20 and another asking the commission to appoint a committee of six soon to work out rules to be recommended to it, and if approved, govern the umpire.

O. D. Neff, Dallas, representing about 55 independents, proposed that the plan be made broader to take in any field that later may develop great "flush" over-production or waste. In a brief filed, he attacked the "big" companies and declared there as no 1927 over-production in contradiction to figures presented by Hamilton and others. The attempt was defeated.

No Over-Production?

Neff's brief using figures said to have been obtained from the bureau of mines, asserted "there is no over-production of crude in the United States" and that the industry is in "the healthiest condition it has been in during

Proposed Baptist Church Plant to Be Fine Structure

Shown above is the architect's conception of the beautiful new Baptist church to be erected here this spring. William H. Lightfoot of Amarillo is drawing plans for the structure, and it is expected that bids will be asked for about April 1. The main auditorium will be 60 by 100 feet, and with a large balcony will seat more than 1,800 people. The Sunday School department will have three stories, each 40 by 100 feet, and under the entire building will be a very large basement. There will be a kitchen, banquet hall, ladies' parlor, and other up-to-date facilities. The structure will face the Central high school building on the south, and will be of Spanish design, probably of cream colored brick. It will cost approximately $100,000, with equipment and a modern heating and cooling system. The present church property is for sale, and several offers are being considered. Disposal of this property and beginning of work on the fine new church plant are expected to take place without delay, according to the Rev. D. H. Truhitte, pastor.

UNITED CITY IS JOYOUS OVER ITS SUCCESS

The greatest week in Pampa history brought two great accomplishments by a united people—the signing for the new Kell railroad and the removal of the county seat to this city.

An intensive financial drive assured early construction of the railroad if the right-of-way is obtained without difficulty, and an equally widespread effort landed the county seat by an unmistakable margin.

Victory Soon Known

From the moment the Pampa vote of 3,524 ballots was made known, the fact of removal was certain, and the only question was the exact margin over the necessary two-thirds majority. Pampa cast 3,468 votes for removal and there were only 56 opposition votes in this box. The entire county polled 3,678 votes for removal and 1,377 for remaining at LeFors.

The law provides that removal shall be on the basis of a two-thirds majority of all the votes cast. The county total gives, under this definition, about 325 votes over this two-thirds majority, meaning that to change the result more than 650 votes would have to be thrown out. From the standpoint of the votes necessary to have doubled LeFors' 1,377, Pampa has surplus of more than 900 votes over the two-thirds majority which might have been obtained with a small total. The real victory is shown in the simple totals, 3,678 to 1,377.

Laketon Vote Even

Laketon divided her strength evenly, unofficial returns show, but Farrington delivered 43 of 45 votes to Pampa and Hopkins 36 of 42. Albreed and McLean had lone votes for removal and LeFors went 86 to 12 for that place.

The returns are to be made to County Judge T. M. Wolfe, who will count the votes and declare the results within ten days from the date of the election. The county seat will be automatically moved when the election order is entered upon the county records. With only the McLean box out, the day of removal is problematical.

Reports from over the county are that the result is being taken as final, and many who voted with their communities in opposition have expressed satisfaction that the 30-year-old issue is settled. Officials living at LeFors are making preparations to take up their work in Pampa.

Commissioners to Meet

Temporary quarters for county officers and their records will be arranged by the county commissioners, who will have a special session for this purpose. While a new courthouse will have to be built, that is a question of the future.

Gray county's total of 5,055 votes was by far the greatest in its history. In Pampa, where the jubilant spirit engendered by the success of the railroad drive was rampant, election day was a gala affair. The Clarendon municipal band was on the streets all day, and 1,800 school children paraded through the streets cheering for Pampa. Thousands of persons were here for the day. Stores were specially decorated for the event and many offered unusual attractions. Mrs. J. L. Nance received the free Whipped cream given by business men as part of the railroad celebration.

Voting began promptly at 8 o'clock, with more than two score waiting to cast their ballots. Dozens of committees worked throughout the day, and observation of voting showed the following

Nels Walberg Is Candidate for Commissioner

Nels Walberg, having decided to become a candidate for commissioner of Precinct 2, made the following statement to The News.

"To the voters of Precinct No. 2 Gray county:

"Having been solicited by many of my Gray county friends to run for County Commissioner of Precinct No. 2, I have at last decided to do so, promising if elected to perform the duties of commissioner in an honest and fair manner to the very best of my ability."

"I have resided in Pampa twenty years and during that time have served one term as commissioner and refused re-election on account of personal business.

"Served six years as school trustee while the new building was being erected.

"My record is clear and I respectfully solicit your support in the July primary."

Yours very truly,
 NELS WALBERG.

Balloon Released Here Travels 180 Miles to Oklahoma

A small balloon, inflated with natural gas and released by Mrs. A. D. Fish of the Pampa Music company December 30, was found at Headrick Okla., March 6 by Aubrey McKenzie, a farmer.

Mr. Kenzie wrote that he found the balloon, still inflated, while plowing. It had the name of Mrs. Fish and the local store printed on the side. Since being released here it had traveled more than 180 miles, assuming that it moved in a straight line, and its flight may have been much greater.

TODDS OBTAIN $5,000 VERDICT A New Trial Will Be Asked by City of Pampa

A verdict of $5,000 damages for the plaintiffs was rendered by the jury Saturday in the suit of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Todd of Shamrock against the City of Pampa.

It is understood that the defense will ask a new trial. The suit grew out of the death of Mickey Todd, daughter of the plaintiffs, in an automobile accident here last September.

A companion suit, that of Della Todd against the City of Pampa, recently resulted in assessment of $1,500 damages, and on motion of the plaintiff, joined by the defense, new trial has been granted.

In the last suit, the jury was out all day Thursday, then recessed for the election Friday and returned a verdict on after resuming work Saturday.

Shrine Club Is Proposed for City

While sitting around the table at the Schneider hotel one day last week talking over the courthouse removal election and the Frank Kell railroad, Ed Stinson of the Empire Gas and Fuel company, W. H. Johns of Duncan and Johns, oil leases; and A. Gordon of the Gordon stores, in the course of the conversation discussed what Shrine temples they belonged to and decided to form a Shrine club in Pampa.

Ed Stinson was appointed temporary president, W. H. Johns, temporary treasurer, and A. Gordon temporary secretary.

Arrangements were immediately made with Alex Schneider for the use of the hotel dining room to hold a meeting Friday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock and to extend an invitation to all Shriners in this community, Miami, White Deer, and other nearby towns.

In the opinion of the temporary officers, there are several hundred Shriners in Pampa and the plans are to form a club with recreation and meeting rooms.

MRS. DENEHEIM PLEASSED

Mrs. J. J. Deneheim, daughter Flora May, 7 years old, son Alvin, 9 years old, and maid arrived here from Kansas City Friday afternoon to make their home. Mrs. Deneheim came several weeks ago to open a new Pla-Mor auditorium and recreation building. Mrs. Deneheim was delighted with Pampa and is anxiously awaiting the completion of the new family home on Somerville street.

Lewis O. Cox for Commissioner of Precinct 2

Lewis O. Cox has announced his candidacy for county commissioner of Precinct 2, subject to the Democratic primary of July 28. Mr. Cox has been a resident of Pampa for the last seven years, coming here with the Father-ree Drug company.

He was later connected with the Gray County State bank, resigning in 1925 to become local representative of the Southwestern Life Insurance company.

He is a veteran of the World War, enlisting from Palmer, Ellis county, in 1917 and serving with the United States Marines, second division. Mr. Cox is commander of the local post of the American Legion and a constant worker for the good of Pampa and Gray county.

In a statement to the News, Mr. Cox said, "I feel that I am qualified to represent the precinct in the capacity of commissioner, and promise if elected to serve all people equally as near as possible.

"Some people do not realize that there are other problems for their interest as vital as good roads, namely, the 25-per cent court house fee collected yearly and which has been used for good roads in the southern portion of the county."

Mobeetie Is Given Support Assurance

A delegation composed of J. W. Mayfield, president of the Mobeetie Chamber of Commerce, and Shirley Cox and Nathan Hunt, directors, yesterday visited with a committee from the local Chamber of Commerce with regard to the attitude of the Highway department regarding highway 33-A.

They were assured that Pampa is with them regarding the continuance of the present highway, and when the time comes steps will be taken toward that end.

The Pampa committee is headed by F. P. Reid.

BIG AVALANCHE ENGULFS CITY Two Hundred Killed in Brazil

RIO JANEIRO, March 10.—(AP)—Sudden shifting of a side of Mount Serrat, situated in the center of the city of Santos, state of Sao Paulo, crashed thousands of tons of earth and rock without warning onto a section of that place this morning and left a dead and dying toll of more than 200.

Houses and buildings in the path of the slide were crumpled and buried, their occupants apparently unable to escape the huge avalanche.

Tonight while 2,000 men were engaged in rescue work in the stricken section of the city there were indications that the slide on one side of the mountain had weakened the dirt on another side, and there was fear that another catastrophe in an adjoining area was impending.

Mount Serrat, with a moderately high peak, is situated virtually in the center of Santos, Brazil's principal coffee port, with residences and business buildings spread around it on three sides.

While details as received here are comparatively few it was said that the avalanche occurred just before dawn this morning. Although there had been previous warnings of a possible shifting on the side of the mountain, there had been no indication that any such danger was immediate. Coming as it did undoubtedly caught many residents of the stricken area asleep.

Although Santos is more than 300 miles from Rio Janeiro the catastrophe has excited consternation here. At Buenos Aires large crowds are said to have thronged the bulletin boards of local newspapers throughout the day. It was announced on these that the "situation is most grave."

Hail Insurance Officers Returned

Sixty members of the Planters Mutual Hail Insurance association attended the annual meeting held in the high school building yesterday afternoon.

Besides transacting current business, the officers of the last year were re-elected. These are: O. P. Rust, Pampa, handle, president; J. T. Crawford, Pampa, secretary-treasurer; E. H. Grimes, White Deer; C. L. Broadus, Miami, and C. L. Nicholson, Pampa, are the additional directors.

The association has completed a very prosperous year. There are more than 450 members. The cash reserve fund amounts to $150,000, with additional assets of $32,000.

It includes Carson, Gray, and Roberts counties and was organized into the present form in 1915.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic—Jesus Feeds the Multitudes. Scripture Lesson—Mark 6:31-44.

31. And he saith unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place and rest a while. For there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32. And they went away in the boat to a desert place apart.

33. And the people saw them going, and many knew them, and they are together there on foot from all the cities and outwent them.

34. And he came forth and saw a great multitude, and he had compassion on them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd; and he began to teach them many things.

35. And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, The place is desert, and the day is now far spent.

36. Send them away, that go into the country and buy themselves about, and buy themselves bread to eat.

37. But he answered them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we buy two hundred shillings worth of bread to give them to eat?

38. And he saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they say unto him, Two.

39. And he commanded them to sit down by fifties and threes.

40. And they sat down by fifties and threes.

41. And he took the two fishes, and blessed, and gave to the disciples, and the disciples gave to the multitude.

42. And they all ate, and were filled.

43. And they took twelve baskets full of fragments.

44. And they that were five thousand.

Time: The feeding of the five thousand, April, A. D. 27, at the beginning of the third year of Christ's ministry.

Place: The first miracle, Bethsaida, on the northeast of the Sea of Galilee; the second, Decapolis, further east of the lake.

Golden Text: I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never thirst.—John 6:34.

Introduction

Jesus' fame and popularity in the north were now at their height. Herod began to worry about it (6:14). In and out of Capernaum he was followed about by great crowds, curious, interested, begging for healing from their manifold ills. As on a former occasion (3:20) Jesus and his party couldn't even get to eat and drink, realizing how greatly they and he needed rest Jesus leads them across the lake, to Bethsaida, and then down south of that town somewhere. It was their usual vacation ground. But it wasn't so easy now to get away from those enthusiastic crowds, which join Jesus on the eastern lakeside, together with many people from the villages over there. We think of Mark's saying when Jesus was up in Phoenicia: "He could not be hid."

The Shepherdless Multitude, v. 34

The thought of how shepherdless they were may have been suggested by the way in which they flocked to him, a new and strange leader. Sometimes he had watched a lot of sheep on a Galilean hillside pressing back and forth anxiously and confused, searching for the shepherd they had somehow missed. Down at Jerusalem the hierarchy were holding the people to tradition and the law, but up here in the north religion was in flux, unsettled; all sorts of strange beliefs were being offered by Greek-Roman influences. And yet the people were seekers, spiritually and spiritually hungry. Their religious distress and confusion sorely touched the heart of Jesus. He is always the compassionate Jesus; especially compassionate of spiritual destitution and need.

The Miracle Meal, vs. 38-41

The simple picturesqueness of Mark's style stands forth beautifully in this paragraph. Plainly we see the great company reclining—not sitting—in orderly ranks—order is heaven's first law—on the fresh green grass of springtime. By his inquiry, verse 38, Jesus apparently would contrast the few loaves that they had with the two hundred shillings worth that the twelve said wouldn't give each one a bite. Again he insists that they shall do their part in the wonder deed. He gives to us that we may give to men. It is his way. Grace before meals finds here its most impressive warrant. No one need ever go away from Christ unsatisfied (ver. 39). Finally, there is the little incidental remainder that because the disciples should be wasteful, neither should we.

The Christian church has always seen in this miracle an impressive illustration of the helpful, comforting, encouraging truth that its Lord is constantly taking man's little, and making it great; man's insufficiency, limited capacities, circumscribed opportunities, faltering faith—and breaking them out to the world into a service that is splendidly sufficient.

A Little Lad With a Little Food

And he saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. Here again Mark's account is condensed, for John tells us that Andrew, the finder brought to Jesus a lad with five barley "loaves" (that is, flat cakes), and two small fishes. It was probably the lad's luncheon, put up by his careful mother before she would let him run the crowd to see the wonder-worker. Little did that boy know, when he willingly gave up his lunch in what a marvelous way he would get it back again, and to a blessed miracle he was contributing. All of us have that boy's everlasting honor if we will just let Christ use whatever we have, be it little or much.

Jesus Used His Disciples

Christ gave the food to the disciples and the disciples to the multitudes. He did not give it direct himself, but he used the ministry of the disciples. And if there is one truth which ought to be revived in the church more than another, it is the priesthood of the laity. People still imagine there is some kind of different standard of holiness required of a clergyman than of a layman. I defy you to find it in any page of the Bible.—Bishop Ingram.

The Small Store Multiplied, Mark 6:39-44; 8:1-10

The miracle of feeding the five thousand is the only miracle recorded in all four Gospels. It evidently made a deeper and wider impression than any other of Christ's miracles, partly because it was worked for a larger number than any other miracle, and partly because it concerned the fundamental human need; for men can get air and water for nothing, and next to these the one thing indispensable for the physical life is food. Christ's countrymen were poor people, engaged, most of them in desperate struggle for bare existence, and nothing would so fire their imaginations as the ability to create food at will. Here was a leader worth having, exactly the leader for which the poor people had been longing. No wonder that, after the miracle, they were about to seize on him and compel him to be their king (John 6:15).

"Asking a Blessing" Before Eating, v. 41

And he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake the loaves. "Blessed" and "Brake" are in different Greek tenses, the first denoting a single act and the second a continuous act or series of acts: "He kept breaking the loaves." The blessing of the food was the customary act of the head of a Jewish household; our Lord was evidently in the habit of "asking a blessing" before eating, as is shown also in the account of the Emmaus supper Luke 24:30, and Christians should follow his example. "And he gave to the disciples to set before them." We are not told when the food was increased whether as Jesus broke the bread, or as the disciples distributed it, or both. It would be like our Lord to give his disciples a share in the miracle-working, to strengthen their faith, and prepare them for their own use of miraculous power in their work.

Nothing To Be Wasted, v. 43

And they took up broken pieces twelve basketsful, and also of the fragments that remained, "that nothing be lost" (John 6:12). He could create more bread at a thought, but he would teach his disciples—and us—that nothing should be wasted, no matter how easily it may be obtained. The "baskets" used were the small wicker baskets in which the Jews were wont to carry food on their travels, to avoid the necessity of eating food that might be ceremonially unclean.

Special Lesson

Christ himself gave us (John 6:26-59) the meaning and the purpose of this stupendous miracle. It is not intended mainly to teach us that he will supply our physical needs, through that it certainly one lesson to be drawn from the miracle; but chiefly that we are not to work for perishing food but for the bread of life, the bread which is Jesus Christ himself. He uses agents, now as then. He comes to us in his words, his ministers, in his Holy Spirit. We may refuse him, but also we may gloriously accept him and receiving him, we shall live forever. What more blessed truth can men learn and take up into their hearts and lives?

What a glorious comfort it is to think that He who worked this miracle is the Lord of the other world as well as of this, and that he will, through the valley of the shadow of death, be with us as the good shepherd to feed us and to tend us."

Little blue-eyed Janie Dwight, and little brown-eyed Tommy Bickwell were selected as the most popular pupils in Mrs. Stowell's room for the beauty contest. This is what they say:

We're in Mrs. Stowell's room. Now this you'll surely note, To win this little contest, We'll have to have your vote.

From Miss Talley's room there hails a brown eyed, black haired girl and boy, Dora Mae Swathout and George Turner as candidates for the king and queen of Baker School. They excel in grades as well as in sports, looks and popularity. They possess royal abilities so give their pour support.

Miss Wilson's room will appreciate all votes for their representatives. Who are they? Marie Tinsley, a charming blonde, who is a living proof that beauty and intelligence walk hand in hand. And Roy Carton a handsome brunette and a real boy. The votes are one cent and any child in Miss Wilson's room will take your vote gladly.

On with the Beauty contest! Mrs. Cockerills room has chosen for her queen, Evelyn Bicknell with sparkling brown eyes, and wavy brown hair. Sharing honors with her is plump little Victor Wade who is a curly haired blond.

Watch us give our candy pennies. One little girl is renting her hat to her sister for 5c. We hope her sister wear it often before March 19. Some of you older sisters and brothers might do the same. We are grateful for all votes.

Vote for the contestants in Miss Anderson's third grade room! This room has entered Julia Mae Arney and Billie would make a fine king and queen for Baker school, so help us to win by giving us votes. Remember a penny a vote and all votes appreciated.

Lafayette Pitt and Fay Redburn were chosen to represent Miss Beeler's second grade in the beauty contest. Both of them are worthy of the title and are going to be crowned king and queen of Baker School.

STUDEBAKER SALES LARGEST IN HISTORY

Both January and February set new high marks in purchases by public!

SOUTH BEND, IND., Mar. 8.—Studebaker sales continue to climb to new goals of achievement! The number of Studebaker-built automobiles delivered to owners by dealers in the United States during the month just closed, was the largest of any February in history and 31% in excess of February, 1927. Coming immediately after the greatest January sales in Studebaker history, this continued flood of public preference for Studebaker is particularly significant.

Motorists appreciate Studebaker's advanced engineering—an automobile you can drive 40 miles an hour the day the new car is delivered—that requires lubrication but once in 2500 miles—that holds all the highest speed and endurance records for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price. The public has rightly interpreted these achievements as conclusive evidence of Studebaker's championship value due to One-Plant manufacture.

By all means see and drive these new Studebaker and Erskine cars! Know the feel of championship power at the touch of your toe! Know the results of Studebaker's advanced engineering, tested on Studebaker's million-dollar proving ground. You'll realize then, if you know cars, that Studebaker stands for stability—76 years of it!

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

CHARLES CLEAVER, a man about town
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer

ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau.

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Margaret Odell is found strangled. Skeel's finger prints are found in the apartment, but Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a closet the stranger did his work. The thing that baffles police is the side door to the alley. It had been bolted on the inside the night before and found that way in the morning. Mannix, Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all he about their whereabouts the night of the murder. Spotswoode, who had called on the girl, had rushed to her door at the sound of a scream, but had been reassured through the door that nothing was wrong. Then Skeel is found strangled, after promising to reveal the murderer. Vance then demonstrates how Skeel could have left through the side door and relocked the bolt. He suggests to Markham that Cleaver, Mannix and Spotswoode be invited to play poker with them and he will tell Markham who committed the murder.

CHAPTER XLVII
 (Monday, September 17, 9 p. m.)
 Vance and I went home after lunch, and at about four o'clock Markham telephoned to say that he had made the necessary arrangements for the evening with Spotswoode, Mannix and Cleaver.

Immediately following this confirmation Vance left the house, and did not return until nearly eight o'clock. Though I was filled with curiosity at so unusual a proceeding, he refused to enlighten me. But when, at a quarter to nine, we went down-stairs to the waiting car, there was a man I did not know in the tonneau; and I at once connected him with Vance's mysterious absence.

"I've asked Mr. Allen to join us tonight," Vance vouchsafed, when he had introduced us. "You don't play poker, and we really need another hand to make the game interesting; y' know, Mr. Allen, by the bye, is an old antagonist of mine."

The fact that Vance would, apparently without permission, bring an uninvited guest to Markham's apartment amazed me but little more than the appearance of the man himself. He was rather short, with sharp, shrewd features; and what I saw of his hair beneath his jauntily tipped hat was black and sleek, like the painted hair on Japanese dolls. I noted, too, that his evening tie was enlivened by a design of tiny white forget-me-nots, and that his shirt front was adorned with diamond studs.

The contrast between him and the immaculately stylish and meticulously correct Vance was aggressively evident. I wondered what could be the relationship between them. Obviously it was neither social nor intellectual.

Cleaver and Mannix were already on hand when we were ushered into Markham's drawing-room, and a few minutes later Spotswoode arrived. The amenities of introduction over, we were soon seated comfortably about the open log fire, smoking, and sipping very excellent Scotch high-balls.

Markham had, of course, accepted the unexpected Mr. Allen cordially, but his occasional glances in the latter's direction told me he was having some difficulty in reconciling the man's appearance with Vance's sponsorship.

A tense atmosphere lay beneath the spurious and affected affability of the little gathering. Indeed, the situation was scarcely conducive to spontaneity. Here were three men each of whom was known to the others to have been interested in the same woman; and the reason for their having been brought together was the fact that this woman had been murdered.

Markham, however, handled the situation with such tact that he largely succeeded in giving each one the feeling of being a disinterested spectator summoned to discuss an abstract problem.

He explained at the outset that the "conference" had been actuated by his failure to find any approach to the problem of the murder. He hoped, he said, by a purely informal discussion, divested of all officialism and coercion, to turn up some suggestion that might lead to a fruitful line of inquiry. His manner was one of friendly appeal, and when he finished speaking the general tension had been noticeably relaxed.

During the discussion that followed I was interested in the various attitudes of the men concerned. Cleaver spoke bitterly of his part in the affair and was more self-condematory than suggestive.

Mannix was voluble and pretentiously candid, but beneath his comments ran a strain of apologetic wariness.

Spotswoode, unlike Mannix, seemed loath to discuss the matter, and maintained a consistently reticent attitude. He responded politely to Markham's questions, but he did not succeed entirely in hiding his resentment at thus being dragged into a general discussion

Vance had little to say, limiting himself to occasional remarks directed always to Markham. Allen did not once speak, but sat contemplating the others with a sort of canny amusement.

The entire conversation struck me as really futile. Had Markham really hoped to garner information from it, he would have been woefully disappointed. I realized, though, that he was merely endeavoring to justify himself for having taken so unusual a step, and to pave the way for the game of poker which Vance had requested. When the time came to broach the subject, however, there was no difficulty about it.

It was exactly eleven o'clock when he made the suggestion. His tone was gracious and unassuming; but by couching his invitation in terms of a personal request, he practically precluded declination.

But his verbal strategy, I felt, was unnecessary. Both Cleaver and Spotswoode seemed genuinely to welcome the opportunity of dropping a distasteful discussion in favor of playing cards; and Vance and Allen, of course, concurred instantly.

Mannix alone declined. He explained that he knew the game only, and disliked it; though he expressed an enthusiastic desire to watch the others. Vance urged him to reconsider, but without success; and Markham finally ordered his man to arrange the table for five.

I noticed that Vance waited until Allen had taken his place, and then dropped into the chair at his right. Spotswoode sat at Allen's left, Cleaver took the seat at Vance's right; and then came Markham. Mannix drew up his chair midway behind Markham and Cleaver. See diagram:

Cleaver first named a rather moderate limit, but Spotswoode at once suggested much larger stakes. Then Vance went still higher, and at both Markham and Allen signified their agreement, his figure was accepted. The prices placed on the chips somewhat took my breath away, and even Mannix whistled softly.

That all five men at the table were excellent players became obvious before the game had progressed ten minutes. For the first time that night Vance's friend Allen seemed to have found his milieu and to be wholly at ease.

Allen won the first two hands, and Vance the third and fourth. Spotswoode then had a short run of good luck, and a little later Markham took a large jack-pot which put him slightly in the lead.

Cleaver was the only loser thus far; but in another half-hour he had succeeded in recovering a large portion of his losses. After that Vance forged steadily ahead, only to relinquish his winning streak to Allen. Then for a while the fortunes of the game were rather evenly distributed. But later on both Cleaver and Spotswoode began to lose heavily.

By half-past twelve a grim atmosphere had settled over the party! For so high were the stakes and so rapidly did the betting pyramid, that even for men of means—such as all these players undoubtedly were—the amounts which continually changed hands represented very considerable items.

Just before one o'clock, when the fever of the game had reached a high point, I saw Vance glance quickly at Allen and pass his handkerchief across his forehead.

To a stranger the gesture would have appeared perfectly natural; but, so familiar was I with Vance's mannerisms, I immediately recognized its artificiality. And simultaneously I noticed that it was Allen who was shuffling the cards preparatory to dealing. Some smoke from his cigar evidently went into his eye at this moment, for he blinked, and one of the cards fell to the floor. Quickly retrieving it, he restuffed the deck and placed it before Vance to cut.

The hand was a jack-pot, and there was a small fortune in chips already on the table. Cleaver, Markham and Spotswoode passed. The decision thus reached Vance, and he opened for an unusually large amount. Allen at once laid down his hand, but Cleaver stayed.

Then Markham and Spotswoode both dropped out, leaving the entire play between Vance and Cleaver. Cleaver drew one card, and Vance, who had opened, drew two. Vance made a nominal ally. Vance in turn raised Cleaver, but only for a small amount; and Cleaver again raised Vance—this time for an even larger sum than before. Vance hesitated and called him. Cleaver exposed his hand triumphantly.

"Straight flush—jack high," he announced. "Can you beat that?"

"Not on a two-card draw," said Vance ruefully. He put his cards down to show his openers. He had four kings.

ONE YEAR OLD—On March 10, 1927, the Pampa Daily News issued Vol. 1, No. 1, beginning with limited facilities but much faith in and ambitions for the New Pampa—a little city then little organized yet showing much promise.

It is fitting that, as the Pampa Daily News closed its first year, screaming sirens and honking horns proclaimed the celebration of two great achievements for which the News worked with all its facilities—the Kell railroad and the county seat. This newspaper has played a part which it prefers to let its friends, its readers, its users, themselves estimate.

One year ago Pampa had the raw materials for the modern, well organized city it has become. But it had no civic clubs, no paving, no white way, no new churches, and scores of achievements have been necessary to build the New Pampa since March of 1927. The News has been aggressive for what it has believed to be right. It has had a keen sense of its own mission, so that personalities and controversies have been avoided as far as possible, but there has been no doubt as to how The News stood on public questions. The News has believed in pounding (not knocking) the raw materials into the finished product. It has lent its columns to the organizations in order that they might take birth and grow strong. This growth, day by day, may be traced through its pages. The News has desired the best for Pampa. This applies to itself as well as to other institutions. Service after service has been added to strengthen the publication, climaxed last month by the full automatic leased wire service which raised it far out of the class of the average small daily.

Before the end of this month the new home for The News will be occupied, and much fine equipment, including a large, perfecting press, will be installed. Moreover, so much has Pampa promised for the future, that the headquarters of the Nunn-Warren Publishing company is being brought here, with the result that Pampa is becoming known as the home of West Texas' largest newspaper organization.

The natal year of The News has seen it either initiate, help bring about, or back constructively many good things for the New Pampa. The following come in mind: City manager government, new school buildings, support of Harvesters, encouragement of industries, dump ground removal, better city jail and hall, white way, more paving, better clubs and churches, women's organizations, Kell railroad, county seat removal, Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's association, naming of Baker school, Pampa hospital, Boy Scouts, all school activities and starting Spotlight, Pampa Grays, sewer system; water extensions, oil activities, paved roads, larger fire department, Associated Charities, Auto show, advertising Pampa, abolish fee system in city government, new city charter, B. C. D. plan, street maintenance, larger post office, against state amendments, revival of Pampa fair, telephone exchange building, home for The News, proposed subway, Liberal, Kans., highway, and so on.

It is the policy of The News to build in advance of Pampa and work to draw this community to this standard. This will be increasingly evident in the coming months. Forward: The Daily News and The Greater Pampa!

MUSIC EDUCATION—The receptions that artists appear-Festival are receiving justifying at the Amarillo Music the assertion that people of the Plains appreciate good true art.

Music teaching in individual communities of the Panhandle is reaching an ever higher plane, with the result that musicianship is increasing and interest in better music is growing rapidly. Music is finding a distinct place in the schools.

Apropos is the statement of the Christian Science Monitor that "admission has been made by authority that music, after all, is not an essential, perhaps, to every citizen, as a private accomplishment, but an indispensable factor in the whole national scheme of civilization, nevertheless. The acknowledgement is plain, and more than that, official; the head of a university having expressed the hope in a public statement that ways and means may be found for his institution and a music school lately established to work together to advance the cause of art in the United States.

"For a long time American universities have experimented hesitantly with music education. . . . Now, for a change, it looks as though universities were to treat music as something else than a little line of business in which they must stock up in order to hold a few special customers, and as something else than a calling for peculiarly gifted persons more or less like jugglers."

St. Patrick Tea Is Given Thursday in Malone Home

The lovely home of Mrs. G. C. Malone was the scene of a most delightful St. Patrick tea, in which the Azor class of the Baptist church were hosts. The reception rooms were of unusual beauty with decorations of green and white carried out in novelties symbolic of St. Patrick. The tea table, with a center piece of green carnations, was adorned with miniature figures of Mr and Mrs. St. Patrick, and cut flowers, roses, carnations, and lillies added to the atmosphere created.

Mrs. D. H. Truhitt, and Mrs. Henry Thut, Jr., presided over the tea table. Miss Elizabeth Tolleson of Amarillo was in charge of the register book, which was later presented to the teacher of the class, Mrs. Curtis Clem, by Mrs. A. B. Kirby.

The receiving line included Mrs. G. C. Malone, Mrs. Curtis Clem, Mrs. J. P. Wehrung, Mrs. A. B. Kirby, Mrs. Ed Vaughn, Mrs. A. W. Mamm, Mrs. H. A. Gerhard, Mrs. O. B. West, and Mrs. Orville Davis.

The house party was composed by Mrs. Bonnie Rose, Mrs. Tracy Willis, Mrs. G. D. Holmes, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. H. L. Grove, Mrs. Floyd McConnell, Mrs. Ernest Metcalf, Mrs. James Bowers, Mrs. R. R. Jones, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Miss Elizabeth Tolleson, and Miss Lois Tolleson.

The program was well arranged, and included a vocal solo by Mrs. H. A. Gerhard, who was accompanied by Mrs. Vaughn. Mrs. R. R. Jones also sang and was accompanied by Mrs. Frank Elliott. Mrs. A. B. Kirby favored the guests with a number of readings while piano selections were played by Mrs. Frank Elliott, and Miss Elizabeth Tolleson.

A salad course was served to 75 guests who came during the entertaining hours from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. G. C. Malone Entertains Friday With Children's Party

Mrs. G. C. Malone entertained Friday afternoon for her little son and daughter, Harold and Charlotte Ray, in a lovely children's party. Novel favors of tiny St. Patrick dolls and balloons added to the merriment of the afternoon, and the children enjoyed a number of appropriate games.

A delicious course of refreshments were served the following guests: Idell Rice, Leora Hurst, Virginia, and Eleanor Guber, Helen Odell, and Eleanor Ruth Gillham, Jean Murfee, Bonnie Lee Rose, Mary Bell Crawford, Janice Purviance, Lemore Anderson, Alice Marie McConnell, Emma Boone Todd, J. H. Moseley, Jr., of Hillsboro, Chester Hunkapillar, Kirk and Evert Duncan, Junior McCullough, Marcus, and Billie Bratton, Hugh Anderson, and Hoyt Rice.

Other speakers were Mrs. Tom Clayton who spoke on "What Our Club Stands For," and Mrs. E. W. Hogan on "What Our Club Expects to Do."

The hostess served a delicious plate luncheon to the following members and guests: Mrs. Tom Clayton, Mrs. J. E. Corson, Mrs. E. W. Hogan, Mrs. Hugh Isbell, Mrs. L. R. Taylor, Mrs. H. Mrs. Hunkapillar Is Hostess To Child Study Club

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar was hostess Thursday afternoon to the Child Study club. The subject was "The Fairy Tale and Myth as Answering a Fundamental Need," with Mrs. Joe Smith as leader of the program. Those taking part on the program were Mrs. Floyd McConnell, Mrs. Roger McConnell, Mrs. Guy Farrington, Mrs. A. D. Doucette, and Mrs. W. Purviance.

The second study discussed was "The Educational Value of Myths," and was studied under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Lester, who added to the interest of the program by the assistance of a number of her first grade students. This was followed by a round table discussion. The meeting was closed by a reading by Harriet Hunkapillar.

AT THE REX

One of the screen's most appealing love stories, told with the photographically beautiful Ozark Mountains as a playground, is "The Shepherd of the Hills," heading the entertainment bill at the Rex theatre today and Monday.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" is a First National Pictures screen version of the famous novel by Harold Bell Wright, and the lovers of the story, "Sammy" Lane and Young Matt, are portrayed by Molly O'Day and John Boles. Albert Rogell directed the picture, which was produced for First National by Charles R. Rogers.

In the cast, also, are Alec B. Francis, who plays the title role; Matthew Betz, as the villain; and Romaine Fielding, Otis Harlan, Joseph Bennett, Maurice Murphy, Carl Stockdale, Marion Douglas, John Westwood and other notable artists. They give exceedingly human characterizations, and the plot is packed with drama and suspense.

Molly O'Day, who played opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Patent Leather Kid" and Misson Sills in "Hard-Boiled Haggerty," demonstrate her real attractiveness and ability in the role of the little Ozark girl. It is by far her best work to date, and should bring her recognition as one of the screen's most notable beauties and artists.

Dolores Del Rio and Victor McLaglen, who triumphed so signally in the Fox version of Laurence Stallings' stage play, "What Price Glory," are conspicuous again in "Loves of Carmen," from the same studios, which opens today at the Crescent theatre for two days.

A remarkable cast appears in support of the principals and the director, Raoul Walsh, has excelled his own fine record in producing a picture which is strong with realism and accurate as to the atmosphere of its many scenes. Don Alvarado plays the role of Jose. In the supporting cast are such well known players as Nancy Nash, Rafael Valverde, Mathilde Comont, Jack Bastian, Carmen Costello and Fred Kohler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Masters left yesterday for Midland.

AUSTIN, March 10.—(AP)—Driving its brilliant attack at high speed, Austin high school won the Interscholastic league state basketball championship tonight by defeating the fast Temple quintet 33 to 13, closing the two-day tournament.

The same vigorous onslaught with which Austin eliminated Breckenridge high of San Antonio and advanced to the finals gave it the edge over Temple's more smoothly working and versatile squad. Chote and Burr, forwards, and Sellers, center, augmented by the guard work of Vernon proved an unbeatable combination which scored consistently.

Sounding of the fire siren in token of success precipitated a celebration lasting many hours and spreading to Amarillo, where many Pampa people were attending the Panhandle Music Festival. A big bon fire was lighted on Albert square, the fire department got out the big truck, and automobile horns took up the victory chorus.

Closing the polls brought the conclusion of the work of the big election machine set up by Ivy Duncan and his central committee. Hundreds of citizens took part in the poll tax and election drives, and the result is taken as evidence of the united New Pampa.

Amateur Night at Athletic Club To Introduce Sluggers

Amateur boxing night will be celebrated at the Pampa Athletic club tomorrow when the American Legion will present several semi-final amateur mitt artists who are expected to give the fight fans some hard hitting exhibitions. This is the night for slugger and knockouts.

The opening event on the card will bring together Battling Walker, the Pampa sleep puncher, and Marion Coffee, the White Deer big boy, who recently hit the mat when he bumped into Warnie Smith. These boys are both sluggers and apt to put over the sleep punch early in the bout.

Battle No. 2 will be the fastest of the evening when Jerry Haley of Borger and Battling Young of Wichita mix in a six-round event. Both have met and been defeated by Frankie Farrell and should be well matched.

The big bout of the evening is expected to be the four-round special event between Dynamite Smith of Amarillo and Rattlesnake Jones of Wichita Falls, two negro boys, who are reported to be fast.

Tuffy Graham and Kid Buster, two hard hitters, are scheduled to meet in the preliminary. The opening bout on the card will be between the two negro boys who boxed here last Monday night.

This is the first amateur card to be presented here, and as numerous requests have been received by Matchmaker Ed Gober the hard hitting, inexperienced boys are being given a chance.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Via returned Friday afternoon from Wichita, Kans. Although he burned out the bearing in his car Mr. Via made it here in time to vote for the removal of the court house.

MISS COLLETT FLORIDA CHAMP

Defeats Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, 3 to 2

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—Shooting only a stroke average above the sensational 18-hole round of 74, which she turned in here early this week, Glenna Collett, former national women's golf champion, today defeated Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, 3 and 2, to capture the Florida East Coast women's links title.

Their cards:
Miss Collett out 445 434 545—38
in 354 445
Miss Van Wie out 545 555 535—42
in 344 645 4

Miss Collett's medal score of 67 for the 16 holes played showed how well her putts were sinking, a phase of the game that gave her trouble on other occasions of late in the South. In driving the Chicago girl was also usually 30 to 50 yards shorter than her Providence, R. I. opponent and this played an important part in the final count.
