Amarillo's famous Cadillac Ranch got a new coat of paint recently. TxDOT chose the pop art sculpture to call attention to its annual Click It or Ticket campaign, which runs Monday through June 3.

Some changes made for this year's high school prom city of Pampa, according to Kim their conveyances at a different location than the area usually used,

> The new drop-off location will result in a shorter walk for the students and may speed up the process, she said.

The changes are considered temporary and may not be continued after this year; they are being implemented due to the new landscaping, Hopkins said.

Public viewing of the auditorium's prom decorations is between 2 and 6 p.m. Saturday. Attendees are expected to begin arriving shortly before 7

The theme of this year's prom is "Diamonds Are Forever."

A runaway van apparently ran over a pregnant woman in the 300 block of Hazel around 2:40 p.m. Wednesday and fortunately two residents stopped to help.

Cathy Reed said she was in her vehicle when she heard a thump and scream.

"I looked in my rearview mirror and saw the van driving over a woman laying in the road," Reed said. "I thought it was a domestic disturbance and a man was driving the van and intentionally driving over this woman."

Reed jumped out of her vehicle and ran to help the woman get out of the way to avoid being run over again. She said a man in the area saw what was happening and got into the van and put it in drive to stop

"That's when we realized there wasn't anyone in the van," Reed said. "The van was in reverse and was just driving in circles when it ran over the lady. She did not speak English very well, but I think she was saying the brakes didn't work on the van and that she was about seven months

Seat belt campaign begins Monday

By KERRI SMITH Staff Writer

Department Texas Transportation is teaming up with state troopers, police officers and sheriff's deputies statewide to kick off the annual "click it or ticket" campaign from Monday to June 3, which includes the Memorial Day holiday.

State laws require drivers, front seat passengers and children under 17, whether they are riding in the front or back seat, to be buckled up. Also, children under 5 years old and less than 36 inches tall must ride in child safety seats. Adults who do not abide by these Texas laws can face fines up to $200.

According to a report from TxDOT, the number of Texans complying with state safety belt laws has climbed from 76 percent to slightly more than 90 percent since the click it or ticket effort began five years

Safety advocates report that drivers and passengers who buckle up have a 50 percent better chance of surviving serious accidents and avoiding serious injuries.

Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper Daniel Hawthorne said he knows of one incident which proves how seat belts can and do save lives.

Pakistani tied to terror plot gets 10 months

HOUSTON (AP) - APakistani student who authorities said had ties to a terrorist plot to aid the Taliban was sentenced to 10 months in prison today on a gun charge.

Shiraz Syed Qazi, 26, was found guilty of one count of possession of a firearm by an alien during a brief trial conducted by U.S. District Judge Lee Rosenthal in January. Qazi waived his right to a jury trial.

Qazi, who will get credit for time already served in jail, will probably be deported after his sentence, Rosenthal said. The judge sentenced Oazi to the low end of the sentencing guidelines, which ranged from 10 to 15 months.

Under federal law, a nonimmigrant with a student visa such as Oazi can't have firearms or ammunition.

Rain helps N.J. firefighters douse blaze

By WAYNE PARRY Associated Press Writer

LITTLE EGG HARBOR TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Rain reduced a 22-squaremile wildfire near a bombing range to mostly smoldering brush today, but fire officials warned that the flames could rekindle if the wind picks up.

"A fire this big we're not going to be able to put out," said Bert Plante, a division fire warden for the New Jersey Forest Fire Service. "What we want to do today is push everything deep enough in so that if anything happens, it won't matter."

Firefighters were using bulldozers today to plow through smoldering areas and extinguish hot spots.

The wildfire started Tuesday after a military jet dropped a flare on the Warren Grove Gunnery Range, a 9,400-acre expanse of scrub pine used for military bombing practice. Walls of flames 80 to 100 feet high raced toward nearby senior citizen communities as residents grabbed their pets and fled.

Only two minor injuries and no deaths had been reported by today, but five homes in two senior citizen housing developments in Barnegat were destroyed, and 13 homes along the border between Ocean and Burlington counties were damaged, officials said. About 6,000 people were initially evacuated, and some 500 remained in shelters overnight, authorities said.

This morning, there was plenty of smoking and smolbombing range, about 25 Lt. Col. James Garcia, a spokesman for the New Jersey Air National Guard, said the fire was believed to have been started with a flare dropped from one an F-dering material in the fire 16 fighter jet and an investigation was under way. The same range was involved in the accidental strafing in 2004 of an elementary exercise. Firefighters continued to some residents were being allowed to check on their homes along the Gunflint Trail, where a fire has burned more than 117 square miles of Minnesota and Canada. More than 60 homes have been destroyed, but two days of wet, cool weather have helped firefighters make progress getting it contained.

May is National Barbecue Month, you know

Flowers. Barbecue. ... The fire department. Well, only when my brother is chefing. When my sister cooks, no sirens ever get involved.

And, to be fair, the fire department was only called once when my brother was grilling ... that I know of ... You see, he'd just gotten one of those fancy, shiny, chrome barbecuers. It was happily smoking away when someone mistook the smoke for SMOKE and called the fire department.

Oh, well. There's plenty "they" don't let me live down, either.

With Memorial Day straight ahead and National Barbecue Month in full swing, Magic American Products has some grilling tips for consumers:

"1. Place the grill in an open area away from buildings and low hanging brush

"2. Place a heat resistant pad beneath your grill to protect your deck or patio from greasy messes.

"3. Be sure to keep baking soda nearby to control a grease fire, as well as a fire extinguisher, and never leave a grill unattended while hot.

"4. Heat the grill for 5-10 minutes before grilling, this will ensure any cleaning residue has burned off.

"5. Apply a light coat of cooking oil or spray to the grill grate prior to use; this will make clean up a cinch.

"6. Clean the interior grill completely after every use to

The National Fire Protection Association offers the following safety tips when cooking outdoors:

If you determine your grill has a gas leak, by smell or the soapy bubble test, and there is no flame:

". Never store propane gas cylinders in buildings or garages. If you store a gas grill inside during the winter, disconnect the cylinder and leave it outside.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, May 17, the 137th day of 2007. There are 228 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 17, 1954, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka decision, which found that racially segregated public schools were inherently unequal, and therefore unconstitutional.

In 1980, rioting that claimed 18 lives erupted in Miami's Liberty City after an all-white jury in Tampa, Fla., acquitted four former Miami police officers of fatally beating black insurance executive Arthur McDuffie.

In 1987, 37 American sailors were killed when an Iraqi warplane attacked the U.S. Navy frigate Stark in the Persian Gulf. (Iraq and the U.S. called the attack a mistake.)

Ten years ago: Rebel leader Laurent Kabila declared himself president of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, formerly Zaire. Russia's Mir space station got a new oxygen generator and a fresh American astronaut, courtesy of the space shuttle Atlantis. Silver Charm won the Preakness, two weeks after winning the Kentucky Derby. (However, Silver Charm failed to win the Belmont Stakes.)

Five years ago: Former President Jimmy Carter ended a historic visit to Cuba sharply at odds with the Bush administration over how to deal with Fidel Castro, saying limits on tourism and trade often hurt Americans more than Cubans.

full of acronyms and abbreviations. You have DOS (disk operating system), DPI (dots per inch), OCR (optical character recognition), just to name a few. As a side note, have you noticed that most of them are three letters long? So many of them, for whatever reason, are three letters long, that we came up with a term for these abbreviations: TLAs. (heh heh)

Anyway, back to my point: One very important abbreviation you will no doubt run in to is HTML. stands HTML for "HyperText Markup Language," but you only need to memorize that if you want to impress people at parties. When you hear the term, HTML, think "Web pages."

All Web pages are written in HTML. Now, before we computer to "do something." HTML does not tell the computer to DO anything. It describes a document. It tells the computer that certain words in the document are bolded, or italicized, or in a column. It can also describe the size of the words and their color. But, unlike procedural computer languages,

If I had to describe HTML with one word, it would be "tags." HTML is all about "tags." All tags begin with a "<" (less-than sign) and end with a ">" (greater-than sign). I think an example will make this more clear. Here is a plain sentence without HTML:

Hundreds of tags exist and new ones are being introduced every day. Every Web master (or future Web master) ought to invest in a great book titled, "HTML for Dummies." You'll find a very comprehensive list of

San Antonio Express-News on taking a step to end the redistricting game: Political redistricting in Texas has a long and ignoble history. Just ask

House Speaker Tom Craddick. Back in 1971 during his second term, Craddick had the audacity to criticize House Speaker Gus Mutscher for his links to the Sharpstown stock fraud

When the Democrat-dominated Legislature created the redistricting map for the following decade, it drew a line right down the middle of Craddick's street.

1971. Now he's in a position to help Texas take a step toward ending redistricting madness at the congressional level. Instead, he's perpetuating it. The most recent episode was also the ugliest, the second redistricting of this decade in 2003 that required three special sessions and still ended in acrimo-

Sen. Jeff Wentworth, R-San Antonio, has also been a victim of political redistricting. Rather than settling scores, he has in every session since 1993 introduced legislation that would take some of the political edge off the redistricting

Wentworth's latest attempt to bring some sanity to the system is a bill requiring the Legislature to appoint an Craddick still carries the scars of eight-member bipartisan commission of unelected officials to draw up congressional districts. While the same approach to all districts would be preferable, Wentworth has adopted a pragmatic plan of changing congressional rules now and leaving legislative redistricting for later.

The Legislature would have a straight up-or-down vote on the commission's map. In the case of a commission deadlock, the chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court would appoint a ninth member to break the tie. Last month, the Texas Senate approved Wentworth's bill. Now it's bottled up in the House Redistricting Committee, chaired by BRATTLEBORO, Vermont (AP) - Spring has arrived told the Brattleboro Reformer newspaper. "This is indein this southeastern Vermont town known for its live-andlet-live culture. The trees are less bare, and some local residents are more so.

Resident Theresa Toney said she was dining at a downtown restaurant when she spotted this spring's first naked person. She looked out the window "and saw a man in his 60s walking up and down Main Street totally nude," she Vermont has no state law, and Brattleboro no ordinance, against public nudity.

Last year, Toney became one of the town's most vocal critics of allowing people to bare it all in public after a groups of young people caused a stir by stripping naked in a downtown parking lot.

If some lawmakers want to continue an awful tradition of redistricting, so be it. But they ought to have the integrity to go on record with a vote to that effect. Which is why Craddick should show some audacity again and ensure that a congressional redistricting commission gets a floor vote in

Most Web masters create their first Web page without any formal training. In fact, one of the best ways to learn HTML is to see how others use it. Here's how: In Internet Explorer, go to your favorite Web page. Heck, go to ANY Web page. With your mouse, click on the "View" pull-down menu and choose

'Source." Voila! You are now looking at the "raw HTML" of that page. Scan through this cryptic mess and you should see many, many tags embedded throughout the text. Believe it or not, most Web pages are NOT designed from scratch. Most Web masters simply find an existing page on the Net they like and copy it. As long as you delete all the proprietary "content" you may use it as your own. HTML structure is not copyrightable. For instance, if you come across a page that has multiple columns, and you would like your page to have a similar look, simply copy that section of code and paste it into your own! It's that easy.

But what if you don't want to take the time to learn a lot of tags? Or what if you don't HAVE time to get up to speed on HTML? Well, many people go out and buy Web building software. This software hides the raw HTML from the user. The user simply designs the Web page as if it were any word processing document. When they hit "Publish," the software turns their creation into a file containing raw HTML. Popular titles in this softinclude arena Macromedia Dreamweaver, Microsoft FrontPage, and Adobe GoLive. You don't need these programs to create Web pages, but they do make it easier.

To learn more about HTML check out my three favorite sites: http://htmlgoodies.com http://Webmonkey.com; and http://builder.com.

So, now that you know the basics of HTML, how do you actually create the page? Where does it go when you're done? What format is it written in? Find out next week!

I'll see you in Cyberspace!

Diversified Lenders can turn your accounts into cash

Texas are finding that Smart Money, one of the many services available from Diversified Lenders, Inc., enables them to convert their accounts receivable into immediate cash through a process known as "factoring"

"Many people don't know what factoring is," says Don Roberts, President, in the compa-114. "Companies simply don't realize that they can sell us their accounts receivable on a monthly basis and get immediate working capital."

Just as important, Smart Money gives businesses access to complete "backroom" services. Backroom services include:

"Selling us their accounts receivable enables companies to grow their businesses not only by making capital readily available, but by solving the cash flow problems created by customers who don't always pay immediately," says Account Manager Cole Roberts. "They can now afford to go after that potential new customer who's delayed payment history had

Often, Cole adds, the increased availability of capital enables Diversified's clients to make even more money by taking advantage of substantial "early-pay" discounts available from their vendors.

Funds can be directly deposited to customers' designated bank accounts. Smart Money clients can also take advantage of eFactor, an online service that gives clients access to their accounts, view transaction status, submit invoices, manage reports and much more.

Diversified Lenders also receives client referrals from many banks throughout the West Texas area.

"We work hand-in-hand with the banks," ny's Lubbock offices at 6625 W. 19th St., Suite Don explains. "Our factoring services enable us to consider a company's accounts receivable and fund based on that."

If you've been turned down by a bank, Diversified Lenders encourages you to call them for more information.

"We get a lot of referrals from banks when additional funding is needed, or they are not able to service a client," he explains.

Smart Money from Diversified Lenders, Inc. is obviously much more than just another business loan program. It's a way to grow the business in ways previously unavailable to many businesses. When coupled with the factoring division's complete "backroom" services menu, Diversified Lenders, Inc. provides complete cash flow management.

"We provide people with peace-of-mind," Don says. "Many small business owners find that with us, they can eliminate the need to work the business by day and handle invoicing, billing, collections, etc. at night."

In its 19th year in business, Diversified Lenders has the management skill, financial resources, industry expertise and product knowledge to serve the needs of their clients. Whether a business, municipality, or bank, you will find that Diversified Lenders has a product

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Confuzzled in Florida" (March 24), regarding parents who give their children one name but demand they be called something different. I am an administrative assistant in an elementary school in New Jersey, and I have encountered the same problem with parents who register their children for kindergarten. I must check the child's original birth certificate to verify the birthday and to ensure that he or she is registered under his or her legal name and that it's spelled correctly. Abby, I've had DEAR ABBY: I use my middle name -- or parents tell me that "Little Johnny" does not know that "Franklin" is his legal name, and I should register him as "Little Johnny." I then have to explain to the parent that we DO have to register him as "Franklin" because that's the name he'll have to learn to write in kindergarten, as it's his legal name. I also explain that when "Franklin" starts school, he can tell his teacher he prefers "Little Johnny" and can then be called whatever name he chooses in the class. I advise parents to make sure the child knows what his or her legal name is before starting kindergarten. This is the name that will appear on all records throughout the school years. - JERSEY GIRL (NOT MY LEGAL NAME)

DEAR JERSEY GIRL: Thank you for DEAR ABBY: My husband, his brothers, writing. I heard from many readers who wanted to weigh in on the custom of using a name other than the child's legal first name. They admitted the practice can be bothersome, and offered ways to manage the confusion. Read on:

many unique names. Some parents do it to honor relatives; others do it to be funny. (Mac is the legal first name of a boy who weighed 11 pounds at birth -- as in Mac truck.) Other parents try to be cute and use the same first letter for each kid's name, then they run out of more common names. The solution is to use the child's given name rather than the nickname on official documents such as a library card. This will eliminate future problems, like the name on his or her library card not matching the driver's license, or the one on his or her airline ticket being different from what's on the passport. Anything "official" should have your legal name. - JOHN IN BAX-TER, MINN.

rather a shortened version of it. My childhood was spent as a victim of abuse, and after a few years in counseling, I was able to break that cycle. Part of that split from my past was to start using my middle name instead of my first, to take charge of my life and never fall into that victim's role again. Years later I married. My husband's family has a tradition of the males all having the same first name and being distinguished by their middle names. This goes back 15 generations. It's confusing at times when we go to the doctor and need a legal document processed, but where possible I always add a notation about the names my children and I answer to. - BEKAH IN KISSIMMEE, FLA.

father and nephew all go by their middle names. It may seem confusing, but there's also a benefit. If anyone calls asking for him by his legal name, my husband knows it's a telemarketer. -- RACHEL IN TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: As a travel agent, I run into DEAR ABBY: My suggestion to parents is, when picking a name for your child. remember that you could be yelling that name in its entirety 20 times a day for the next 18 years -- so make sure it's one you like to hear. - HOARSE IN NEW JERwith an iron fist, but rather in a light-hearted (dare I say?) fun practice atmosphere.

They must be doing something right though, because they've been sweeping the playoffs after finishing a perfect district season.

The girls started practice by warming up, then the varsity girls took the field.

The JV girls ran the bases as coach Gill sent all sorts of balls flying their way. Just like on game day, the girls reacted almost flawlessly, taking care of their runners one after another. Kambra Jimenez, Kelby

2 South Korean climbers killed on Mount Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Two South Korean climbers were killed trying to scale Mount Everest, a Nepalese mountaineering official said Thursday.

Oh Hee-joon, 37, and Lee Hyun-jo, 34, fell after they reached the altitude of 27,200 feet on their way to the summit Wednesday, said Khadananda Dhakal, chief of Nepal's Mountaineering Department.

Dhakal said there were not many details available, but the two climbers were part of a seven-member Korean team climbing from the southwest face of the world's highest mountain. Some 23 climbing parties are attempting to scale the peak from the Nepalese side this season. Strong winds and heavy snow have hampered many of the parties, forcing them to stay at lower camps along the icy trail.

The first teams reached the 29,035-foot summit Wednesday, and at least 31 climbers reached the summit Thursday, Mountaineering Department said. The successful climbers included 16 Nepalese Sherpa guides, six Americans, five from Britain and one each from Ireland, Egypt, South Africa and Belgium.

The climbing season began in March and is expected to end in late May when the annual monsoon usually brings fresh blizzards that make the climbing route too treacherous.

Since New Zealander Edmund Hillary and Sherpa Tenzing Norgay first conquered Everest on May 29, 1953, around 2,000 climbers have scaled the mountain. Another 205 people have died on its slopes.

Suns face elimination in wake of Game 5 loss

PHOENIX (AP) — After a heartbreaking loss, the Phoenix Suns are conceding nothing.

They believe they can win Game 6 on Friday night and bring the tense, taut series back to the desert for Game 7. Phoenix nearly won Game 5 despite playing without All-Star center Amare Stoudemire and key reserve Boris Diaw, leading most of the way before losing 88-85 Wednesday night.

"We have a lot of heart," point guard Steve Nash said. "So this thing, I think, is just heating up.'

The Spurs know they must close it out at home.

"We don't want to come back here," said Spurs forward Bruce Bowen, who has become a nemesis to Phoenix fans. "It's going to take a tremendous effort. We know they're going to be ready to go.'

Bowen, labeled a dirty player by Stoudemire and the subject of taunts all night from the Phoenix crowd, sank a tiebreaking 3-pointer with 36 seconds to play. That gave the Spurs their first lead since the game's opening six minutes.

"After all the things I was hearing from the sidelines it was great," Bowen said. "The people were calling me choice names I had never heard before.

In the other playoff game, New Jersey beat Cleveland 83-72 to cut the Cavaliers' lead to 3-2. On Thursday, Detroit takes a 3-2 lead into Game 6 of its series against Chicago.

Riding a wave of emotion, the Suns sprinted to a 16-point second-quarter lead. But they couldn't sustain it, and the Spurs patiently whittled away after a disastrous first half in which they shot only 33 percent from the floor.

"We played through a whole lot," said Tim Duncan, who led San Antonio with 21 points and 12 rebounds. "Whatever you attribute it to, a lot of their fans and energy, we just couldn't throw it in the ocean. Come next game, we're going to really have to do a better job of getting a lead in that first They'll have to do it against the full Suns lineup — and a team that seems loaded with confidence despite being on the brink of elimination. "We'll have a lot more ideas, and we'll show up ready to play," Nash said. "We have a lot of reasons to be confident.

Hamels flirts with perfection for surging Phillies By The Associated

The way Cole Hamels figures it, he'll have plenty more chances to finish a nohitter — or maybe even a perfect game.

Press

And he's not the only one who thinks so.

A rising star with a baffling changeup, Hamels retired his first 18 batters and ended the night with 11 strikeouts to lead the surging Philadelphia Phillies past visiting Milwaukee 6-2 on Wednesday. The left-hander lost his shot at history when Rickie Weeks walked to start the seventh inning and J.J. Hardy hit his NL-leading 13th home run. But the Phillies (20-20) completed their season-long climb to .500, and Hamels sounded confident he'll polish off a few no-hitters before his promising career is over. "Oh, of course," he said.

"I think every year I try and go out and at least get one. I know if I can keep fighting and keep plugging away, I can go out there and hopefully get one every year."

Now in his second major league season, the 23-yearold Hamels (6-1) allowed only two hits and one walk in eight innings, lowering his ERA to 3.30.

He showed some frustration on the mound after walking Weeks, but nothing else rattled Hamels as a revved-up crowd went wild with every pitch. A no-hitter will have to wait, but he appears to have the stuff and composure to throw one.

"I think he's going to get some," Phillies manager Charlie Manuel said. "How a few." In other NL games, it was: New York 8, Chicago 1; Houston 2, San Francisco 1; Florida 4, Pittsburgh 3;

Washington 6, Atlanta 4; Colorado 5, Arizona 3; San Diego 3, Cincinnati 2; and Los Angeles 5, St. Louis 4. Aaron Rowand hit a three-run homer for the Phillies, who won their sixth in seven games. After the first pitch was delayed 92 minutes by rain, Hamels won his fourth straight start and had his sixth career double-digit strikeout game.

"He sure looked like he had it early," Milwaukee manager Ned Yost said. "He was tough. That's as good a pitching performance as we've seen all year."

Brett Myers worked the

At New York, Jorge Sosa (3-0) allowed one hit in seven-plus innings to win his third straight start since coming up from the minors, and Damion Easley hit a two-run homer in a game that started after a rain delay of 3 hours, 7 minutes.

David Wright and Carlos Gomez each drove in two runs to help the Mets beat Rich Hill (4-3). Jose Reyes left in the eighth with slight tightness in his left hamstring. The game ended at 12:53 a.m. EDT on Thursday about 12 hours before the teams were scheduled to play again.

We feel like we have a lot left, and it will be nice to have a full team back and see what we can do down there."

Stoudemire and Diaw violated an NBA rule by leaving the bench area after Robert Horry's flagrant foul on Nash in the final seconds of Phoenix's 104-98 victory in Game 4, and were suspended for Game 5.

Horry was suspended two games for his actions.

Without Stoudemire and Diaw, the Suns essentially used a six-man rotation, nearly won a grind-it-out kind of game the Suns aren't supposed to be able to play.

"We left it on the floor," Shawn Marion said. "What more can you ask of this team?"

Ginobili, who had an awful start, scored 15 of his 26 points in the final quarter to rally the Spurs, sinking two free throws to put San Antonio ahead 86-83 with 10.5 seconds to go. Nash badly missed a 3-pointer against Duncan's defense, then Michael Finley made two free throws with 5.5 seconds left to seal the win.

The result stung the Suns and their crowd, who were livid at what they felt was an unjust decision by commissioner David Stern and NBA executive vice president Stu Jackson.

They felt they got the worst of the ruling, even though a Spurs player instigated the incident. Signs in US Airways Center read "Burn Stern," "Stern and Stu Are Dirty Too," and "Free Amare."

The energy overwhelmed the Spurs — for a while.

"They were like hurt animals," Ginobili said. "They were upset. They were playing with a lot of passion."

Marion had 24 points and 17 rebounds, but scored only four points and took just five shots in the second half. Kurt Thomas, in a strong effort in place of Stoudemire, had 15 points and 12 rebounds. Nash finished with 19 points and 12 assists.

Finley had 13 points and Tony Parker 11.

For the Suns, Raja Bell played 47 minutes, Marion and Nash 46 apiece.

"We played about as hard as we can play," Phoenix coach Mike D'Antoni said.

Landis only part of mess cycling needs to clean up

By NANCY ARMOUR AP Sports Columnist

Two years after Lance Armstrong climbed off his bike, cycling has a mess on its hands.

Positive tests, doping allegations - nobody, not even Armstrong, has been immune. The Tour de France, cycling's premier event, is less than two months away, and we still don't know who won last year.

That's because 2006 Tour winner Floyd Landis is huddled with his attorneys in a Malibu courtroom trying to prove his innocence on doping charges. So far, it's been less-thanscintillating stuff unless you're a nut for carbon-isotope ratios, 5-alpha adiol and abnormal testosterone pro-

But the dirt doesn't stop there. Cycling's problems began long before Landis got busted.

Tyler Hamilton had just finished serving his penance for one offense when his new team suspended him when additional allegations come to light. Jan Ullrich hasn't been able to retirement. Ivan Basso recently confessed to "attempted doping," but with it. Entire teams have been deci-suspect right now.

mated by doping allegations.

"I don't think it's a positive image for the sport, but it's there and you can't just move away from it that easily," said Jim Ochowicz, president of the board for USA Cycling.

"It's a problem that obviously needs some addressing, and I think a lot of people are trying to and are making good attempts at trying to resolve this."

Cycling isn't the only sport in need of a good scrub. Barry Bonds on amphetamine use. The 1998 Tour will replace Hank Aaron as home run king sometime in the next few weeks, yet most baseball fans think the San Francisco Giants slugger is a cheat. A former New York Mets clubhouse employee gave steroids and other performance-enhancing drugs to "dozens" of players, past and present, and is telling authorities everything he knows.

Some of track and field's biggest names — Tim Montgomery, Justin Gatlin, Kelli White — have been busted Yet these are considered, for the shake the cloud of suspicion even in most part, isolated incidents, not enough to taint the entire sport. Not so with cycling. Anyone who said he never actually went through puts on spandex and a bike helmet is

"We're taking the hit. But because of taking the hit, it's actually being cleaned out," said Jonathan Vaughters, director and CEO of Team Slipstream, a young, U.S.based professional road racing team.

"In the overall tilt of things, I don't see it as a bad thing.'

Doping is hardly a new phenomenon in cycling. A British cyclist's fatal heart attack during the 1967 Tour de France was blamed, in part, was almost derailed when a stash of banned drugs was found in the Festina team's car.

But Armstrong gave cycling a reprieve from its seamy side. His inspirational story, charisma and utter dominance spawned millions of new cycling fans, endearing him to folks who thought a sprocket was something on a "Saturday Night Live" skit.

Sure, Armstrong was hounded by doping allegations, including the use of EPO. The doping crisis didn't stop during his reign, either, but none of the allegations against him was ever Armstrong is retired now, but the doping scandals go on.

And the scandal du jour is Landis.

He made a spectacular comeback to win last year's Tour, on a bad hip no less, only to be busted for elevated levels of testosterone to epitestosterone. Instead of cashing in on that yellow jersey, he spent the last year playing defense.

"I have heard, anecdotally, that " people are bummed about (the scandals)," said Carry Porter, spokeswoman for the Cascade Bicycle Club in Seattle, the largest recreational cycling club in the United States.

"On the larger scale, people still want to know who's racing and who's going to be fun to watch. But they might take people's successes with a grain of salt."

Sports will never rid itself of doping. There's always going to be somebody looking for an edge and not caring about the details. But there's a difference between the occasional scandal and a flood of them. If cycling doesn't find a cure for its drug problem quickly, it's going to succumb to it. If it hasn't already.

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Tampa away from home thing," Crawford said. 600 homers. Bay delivered one key hit after another until Carl Crawford finished off the Texas Rangers.

Crawford tripled with the bases loaded and Delmon Young also drove in three runs Wednesday night to pace an 11-8 victory at Disney World, which is turning out to be a nice home away from home for the Devil Rays.

A night after squandering numerous opportunities and stranding 14 runners in a 4-3, 10-inning win over the struggling Rangers, Tampa Bay got timely hitting throughout the lineup to position themselves for a sweep of the threegame series the Devil Rays moved to Disney to increase their exposure in the Orlando area.

Sammy Sosa moved closer to becoming the fifth player with 600 career homers, hitting No. 597 in the fourth inning for the Rangers, who led 6-4 before Tampa Bay scored six runs in the fifth — the last three on Crawford's third triple of the season. Sosa's two-run, opposite-field shot off left-hander Casey Fossum (3-3) was his ninth homer of the year and extended his major league record for most ballparks homered in to 45. Victor Diaz and Mark Teixeira also homered off the Devil Rays starter, who allowed six runs and nine hits in five innings.

"I never surprise myself," Sosa said, shrugging off a question about the success he's had this season to put himself on the verge of joining Henry Aaron, Barry Bonds, Babe Ruth and Willie Mays as the only players with at least

"I work hard, go out there in the (batting) cage every day trying to figure out a plan that I've got to take to the plate. I'm a fighter. I'm going to go out there and try to do the best that I can."

The middle game of the series drew a crowd of 8,839. That was slightly more than 8,443 for the opener and well above the 8,241 the teams averaged for six dates last season at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg.

Al Reyes pitched ninth for the Devil Rays, picking up his 12th save in 12 opportunities.

The loss was the seventh in nine games for the Rangers. Vicente Padilla (1-6) gave up a first-pitch, leadoff homer to Elijah Dukes and was roughed up for eight runs and 12 hits in four-plus innings.

Denver Broncos returned to practice Wednesday for the first time since the deaths of teammates Darrent Williams and Damien Nash in the offseason.

"Their memories are going to stay here for a long time," coach Mike Shanahan said. "We're going to embrace it and no be afraid to talk about it."

Williams, a starting cornerback and one of the league's rising young stars, was slain in an unsolved drive-by shooting on New Year's morning. Nash, a backup running back, collapsed after a charity basketball game in February and died of unknown causes. Both were 24.

"Two young guys that meant a lot to this organization that died at an early age, we don't understand why, but their memories are with us," Shanahan said. "We talked about it a little today. Their memory will go for a long time. As I told our players, 10, 15, 20 years from now, we'll have a number of things up over at that stadium that people can remember."

FC Toronto defeats Houston for second straight win

TORONTO (AP) - Andy Welsh scored in the 25th minute and FC Toronto held on to defeat the defending MLS champion Houston Dynamo 1-0 Wednesday.

The victory was the second straight for the expansion franchise after four losses to open the season. Houston slipped to 2-3-1.

Toronto coach Mo Johnston pointed to his defense. The expansion team, which was outscored 10-0 in its first four games, has outscored the opposition 4-1 in the last two.

The home team shut down Dynamo star Dwayne De Rosario, a Toronto native. The fans at BMO Field controlled themselves two days after Toronto FC e-mailed its 14,000 season ticket holders, praising them for their passion and reminding them not to step over the line. Saturday's game against Chicago saw fans hurling giveaway seat cushions from the stands, and a handful of spectators ran onto the field.
