Gray voters buck state trend on amendments

By MARILYN POWERS
Staff Writer

Gray County voters bucked the trend in Tuesday's general election by saying no to three of the 16 propositions creating state constitutional amendments, all 16 of which passed in statewide balloting that drew low voter turnout across the state and locally.

The total number of ballots cast in Gray County was 1,240, or 8.4 percent. The total number of registered voters in the county is 14,764.

Proposition 15 is one of the three which Gray County voters did not support by a majority vote. The proposition requires the creation of the Cancer Prevention and Research Institute of Texas and authorizes issuance of up to $3 billion in bonds for research in Texas to find the causes of and cures for cancer.

Statewide, Proposition 15 drew 61 percent of the vote, with 39 percent against it. Champion cyclist Lance Armstrong, a cancer survivor, was a supporter and spokesman of the proposition, along with a bipartisan team of politicians which included Gov. Rick Perry.

Proposition 4, which authorizes issuance of up to $1 billion in bonds for maintenance, improvement, repair and construction for state parks, historic sites, crime labs and other state projects and money for potential new prison construction, also failed in Gray County. Local voters were against it by a vote of 577 for versus 593 against.

State Rep. Scott Hochberg, D-Houston, detailed the planned expenditure of the $1 billion on his Web site. The funds are to be distributed as follows:

- $233 million for three new prison facilities if authorized by the House and Senate, plus $40 million to renovate existing prisons.

- $200 million for new regional Department of Public Safety offices, a new crime lab and crime lab expansions, and an emergency vehicle operations course.

- $25 million for repairs to the Battleship Texas and $27 million for state park repairs.

- $48 million for historic county courthouse renovations and other historic sites.

- $71 million for repair and reno-

Water Development Board hears PGWCD's Williams

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

AUSTIN -- The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District stood up for more public input during a Texas Water Development Board meeting this week in Austin.

C.E. Williams, general manager of Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District, voiced his district board's opposition here to proposed changes in the Texas Administrative Code that Williams said are in conflict with the Texas Water Code.

The proposed changes would require Groundwater Management Areas plans for Desired Future Conditions of local aquifers to reflect only the Texas Water Board's recommendation and ignore public hearing input.

Williams said the Texas Water Code requires Groundwater Management Areas to revise their Desired Future Conditions after an initial appeals hearing in accordance with Texas Water Development Board recommendations. The Groundwater Management Areas must then hold local hearings to solicit public comment on the amended Desired Future Conditions.

"The statute then requires the Groundwater Management Areas to consider both public and TWDB comments and revise the DFC once again," Williams said.

Under the rules that the Texas Water Development Board is proposing, Williams said, the Groundwater Management Areas would reflect only the Texas Water Development Board's recommendations and disregard public comments from the Groundwater Management Area local hearings.

"This is not what's stated in the statute," Williams said.

He said that the Desired Future Conditions plan must substantially reflect the state water board's recommendations only before the local Groundwater Management Area hearings. After the local hearings, the Groundwater Management Area boards must consider both the water board's recommendations and the public's recommendations.

The Texas Water Code, Williams said, requires Groundwater Management Areas to submit their Desired Future Conditions determinations to the Texas Water Development Board for review, not review and approval. The Texas Water Development Board can and does review and approve other local actions, such as district and

FPC receives $1.6 million to support skills training

AUSTIN -- The Panhandle area workforce will benefit from $1.6 million in workforce training grants from the Skills Development Fund program that the Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) administers. Frank Phillips College in Borger will receive $1.3 million for a welding and safety center.

In addition, Frank Phillips College will partner with the High Plains Dairy Council and Hilmar Cheese Co. for a $295,686 job-training grant to be used to create 420 jobs. Upon completion of training, workers will earn an average hourly wage of $10.58.

"The expansion of welding training at Frank Phillips College will provide high-demand, skilled workers to Panhandle-area employers," said state Sen. Kel Seliger. "The Skills Development Fund supports important training and a stronger Texas workforce."

"The Skills Development Fund is a great example of how a public-private partnership should work," said state Rep. Warren Chisum. "The companies work with Frank Phillips

Thornberry cosponsors bill to reform tax system

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry said today he has cosponsored "The Taxpayer Choice Act," a comprehensive tax reform bill to simplify the tax system.

"It is ridiculous that due to Congressional inaction here we are in the eleventh month of the year and taxpayers still don't know the rules for filing their taxes," Thornberry said. "That is why I have cosponsored 'The Taxpayer Choice Act,' a comprehensive, individual income tax reform bill to simplify our tax system and give families a real choice at tax time."

The Taxpayer Choice Act would:

- Eliminate the massive tax increase that will occur under the forthcoming expansion of the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT)

- Provide individuals an alternative tax system that is fair, simple, and efficient (the "Simplified Tax").

"The Taxpayer Choice Act calls for no tax increases -- as other AMT 'reform' options would do," Thornberry said. "Above all, it offers a choice: taxpayers can

Stargazers enjoyed viewing Comet Holmes

By BOBBY SCHIFFMAN
 Special to the News
 Approximately 60 astronomy enthusiasts braved the cool night air and came out to Coronado Center Saturday night to enjoy a telescopic view of Comet Holmes and many other celestial wonders of the night sky.

 Bill Edens with binoculars, Rosemary Schiffman with a Meade 8" Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope, Jim Rhodes (Amarillo Astronomy Club president) with a Meade 8" Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope, Cliff Gage with an Orion 12" reflector telescope, the author with a Hardin Optical 12" reflector telescope and Reagan Herman with an Obsession 20" reflector telescope guided participants through the night sky.

M31, the Andromeda Galaxy.

Participants were told stories of a king and queen, a hero and heroine, a flying horse, a sea monster and a female Gorgon (Medusa) while descriptions were made of the constellations Cepheus, Casseopeia, Andromeda, Perseus, Pegasus and Cetus.

A flying swan, a soaring eagle, a musical harp, a Charioteer, seven sisters and a ram were pointed out in the constellations, Cygnus, Aquila, Lyra, Auriga, The Pleiades and Aries with their bright stars were seen. Deneb, tail of the Swan; Altair; Vega; Capella, the she goat and her kids; and Hamal in Aries were also pointed out to participants.

As the night, weeks and months pass, these and other celestial objects will fade from view in the west and allow room in the night sky for new objects to appear. Watch for announcements of opportunities to view these new objects in future star parties.

The third proposed amendment which drew Gray County voters' disapproval was Proposition 16, which earned 541 local favorable votes and 617 votes against it.

Proposition 16 provides for issuance of additional general obligation bonds by the Texas Water Development Board up to $250 million to provide assistance to economically distressed areas.

The remaining 13 constitutional amendments, and their Gray County vote totals, are:

Proposition 1: For, 766; against, 398. Continues the constitutional appropriation for facilities and other capital items at Angelo State University in a change of governance of the university.

Proposition 2: For, 656; against, 522. Issues $500 million in general obligation bonds to finance student loans. Authorizes bond enhancement agreements for general obligation bonds issued for that purpose.

Proposition 3: For, 722; against, 402. Authorizes the Legislature to provide that the maximum appraised value of a residence homestead for ad valorem taxation is the lesser of these: The most recent market value of the home as determined by the appraisal entity or 110 percent, or a greater percentage, of the appraised value of the home for the preceding tax year.

Proposition 5: For, 729; against, 427. Authorizes the Legislature to permit the voters of a municipality with a population under 10,000 to authorize its governing body to enter an agreement with an owner of real property in or adjacent to the municipality that has been approved for funding under certain programs administered by the Texas Department of Agriculture. Allows the parties to agree that all ad valorem taxes imposed on the owner's property may not be increased for the first five tax years after the tax year in which the agreement is made.

Proposition 6: For, 914; against, 279. Authorizes the Legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxation one motor vehicle that the owner uses in his or her occupation or profession and for personal activities.

Proposition 7: For, 914; against, 263. Allows governmental entities to sell property acquired through eminent domain back to the previous owners at the price the entities paid to acquire the property.

Proposition 8: For, 772; against, 389. Clarifies certain provisions relating to the making of a home equity loan and use of home equity loan proceeds.

Proposition 9: For, 956; against, 228. Authorizes the Legislature to exempt all or part of the residence homesteads of certain totally disabled veterans from ad valorem taxation and authorizes a change in the manner of determining the amount of the existing exemption from ad valorem taxation to which a disabled veteran is entitled.

Proposition 10: For, 968; against, 206. Abolishes the constitutional authority for the office of inspector of hides and animals.

Proposition 11: For, 911; against, 256. Requires that a recorded vote be taken by a house of the Legislature on final passage of any bill, other than certain local bills and ceremonial resolutions, and provides for public access to those recorded votes on the Internet.

Proposition 12: For, 596; against, 573. Provides for the issuance of up to $5 billion in general obligation bonds by the Texas Transportation Commission for highway improvement projects.

Proposition 13: For, 953; against, 240. Authorizes the denial of bail to someone who violates certain court orders or conditions of release in a felony or family violence case.

Proposition 14: For, 808; against, 372. Permits a justice or judge who reaches the mandatory retirement age while in office to serve the remainder of his or her current term.

regional water plans, but the Desired Future Conditions legal process allows the Texas Water Development Board to review, not approve the Groundwater Management Areas final Desired Future Conditions after local public hearings.

"The addition of the word 'approval,'" Williams said, "shifts groundwater management in Texas from groundwater districts to state control, which exceeds the statutory authority. Such a major change in water law should not be made through administrative rules."

Williams' comments were echoed by seven other water district managers or attorneys representing groundwater conservation districts. A like number of other groundwater conservation district officials attending the hearing indicated they planned to submit written comments supporting Williams' contentions.

As it stands now, Groundwater Management Areas are required to determine the Desired Future Condition of aquifers in their areas. Once the local Groundwater Management Area boards do that, they forward that information to the Texas Water Development Board. When it reaches the Texas Water Development Board, it can be challenged.

The Texas Water Development Board will review the Desired Future Conditions decision of the Groundwater Management Area and return it to the local Groundwater Management Area board for reconsideration.

The local Groundwater Management Area board has to consider the recommendations and present them to the public, holding a hearing on the revisions.

Then they may revise the Desired Future Conditions again, taking into consideration both the Texas Water Development Board's recommendations and the recommendations from the local public hearings.

Created by the Texas Legislature to foster cooperation among adjoining groundwater conservation districts, Groundwater Management Areas across the state are in the process of determining Desired Future Conditions of their aquifers. They face a deadline of 2010.

The Groundwater Management Area in the Panhandle, GMA 1, includes the White Deer-based Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District, the Canadian-based Hemphill County Underground Water Conservation District, the Dumas-based North Plains Groundwater Conservation District and parts of the Lubbock-based High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

College developing the curriculum they need, the college custom trains the workers with those skills and the companies guarantee jobs to the workers who complete the training."

"By advancing the skills of the Panhandle workforce, the Skills Development Fund supports economic development," said state Rep. David Swinford. "Businesses, workers and the entire community benefit from programs like these."

"Responding to the workforce needs of Texas employers is one of our top priorities, and the Skills Development Fund is one of the best methods we have for doing that," said TWC Chair Diane Rath. "With these grants, area employers gain a custom-trained workforce and workers learn valuable skills strengthening economic development."

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2007, Skills Development Fund grants created or upgraded 20,831 jobs, which paid an average hourly wage of $19.04. These grants assisted 281 Texas employers with their customized training needs. The Legislature has appropriated $50 million to the Skills Development Fund for the 2008-09 biennium.

choose the new, simplified system or stay with the current tax code — whichever option suits them.

"The new majority in Congress passed a budget, which I opposed, that would raise taxes by an estimated $2.7 trillion — more than $2,000 per household annually," Thornberry said. "Most unfairly, close to 30 million American taxpayers, including over 28,000 in District 13, are still unprotected from the AMT. When Republicans were in the majority, we acted early each year to protect taxpayers from the 'bracket creep' caused by the fact that the AMT is not indexed for inflation. Every day the new Majority delays passing an AMT fix means a delay in processing tax refunds for as many as 50 million hardworking taxpayers."

The Alternative Minimum Tax [AMT] was designed in 1969 as a mandatory add-on to the existing tax code. It was aimed at preventing 155 wealthy taxpayers from exploiting loopholes in the tax code to escape legitimate tax obligations.

But because it was never indexed for inflation, the AMT in 2008 will subject close to 30 million more taxpayers to an automatic tax increase, Thornberry said.

Leave the falling to some other season

Don't fall into fall, har-har ... OK, my sense of humor is no doubt skewed, but I recently received an electronic press release from the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons titled "Step Up to a Fall Free Autumn," so I can be forgiven my little funny, can't I? Actually, it is quite funny. A co-worker (and dear friend) advised me earlier this week that if she was walking in a peculiar way it was for a good reason. She explained that she'd fallen at home in an effort to avoid stepping on her dog.

I sort of could commiserate. This past weekend I attempted to back down onto a small step-stool in the kitchen and in the process nicked the corner of my face near my left eyebrow on the edge of the kitchen counter. And the correlation between the two incidents? Both were dog-related, of course.

I was only scrunching myself down onto the step-stool in the first place to get on a more cozy footing with my two dogs. They were prancing around me demanding attention, and I frequently perch on the kitchen stool to pet and praise them.

Though not dog-related, the following safety tips were copied and pasted verbatim from the academy e-release and are suggested in warding against LADDER-related falls:

- Select the most appropriate ladder for the job. For example, if you are working inside your home, choose a stepstool or small utility ladder — a size for working at low or medium heights. When you are working outside and need to reach your gutter, an extension ladder is most likely your best choice. Check your ladder's maximum load capacity to ensure that you, your equipment and supplies do not exceed the weight specifications for the ladder.

- Inspect the ladder. Check the ladder for any loose screws, hinges or rungs that might not have been fixed from its last use. Clean off any oil, dirt, or other substance that could be slippery.
- Properly position the ladder. Ladders should always be placed on a firm, level surface. Watch for spots on the ground or floor that are uneven, soft or slippery. Always engage the ladder locks or braces before climbing. If working outside, make sure the ladder, when extended, will not hit electrical wires, tree limbs or any other obstructions.

- Remember the 'one-to-four rule': The bottom of the ladder should be one foot away from the wall for every four feet that the ladder rises. For example, if the ladder touches the wall 16 feet above the ground, the base of the ladder should be four feet from the wall. If you are climbing onto a roof, the ladder should extend at least three feet higher than the edge of the rooftop. Additionally, the upper and lower sections of an extension ladder should overlap to provide stability.

- Wear proper footwear. Make sure your shoelaces are tied and the soles of your shoes have good traction, and are free of any debris or greasy, oily or wet substances. Do not wear leather-soled shoes, as they are slippery.
- Do not over-reach. Over-reaching or leaning too far to one side can make you lose your balance and fall. Instead, climb down the ladder, move it and climb back up again.
- Be careful when climbing. Ask someone to hold the ladder to provide stability while you climb up and down. Stay in the center of the ladder as you climb, and always hold the side rails with both hands. Also, make sure that only one person climbs the ladder at a time.

- Move materials with caution. If you need to move large items or equipment while on the ladder, do so slowly and carefully. Moving heavy items suddenly can cause you to be thrown off-balance and fall.
- Do not use a ladder as a seat between tasks. You might want to take a break from your chores, but never use the top step or pail shelf as a seat — not even on a stepladder.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 8, the 312th day of 2007. There are 53 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 8, 1923, Adolf Hitler launched his first attempt at seizing power with a failed coup in Munich, Germany, that came to be known as the "Beer-Hall Putsch."

On this date:

In 1837, Mount Holyoke Female Seminary, a college exclusively for women, opened in South Hadley, Mass.

In 1889, Montana became the 41st state.

In 1932, New York Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated incumbent Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

'Happiness is not a station you arrive at, but a manner of traveling.'

— Margaret Lee Runbeck
American author (1905-1956)

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt created the Civil Works Administration, designed to create jobs for more than 4 million unemployed.

In 1942, Operation Torch, resulting in an Allied victory, began during World War II as U.S. and British forces landed in French North Africa.

In 1960, Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy defeated

Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidency.

In 1966, Republican candidate Ronald Reagan was elected governor of California, defeating Democratic incumbent Pat Brown.

In 1966, Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., became the first black candidate to be elected to the U.S. Senate by popular vote.

In 1987, 11 people were killed when an Irish Republican Army bomb exploded as crowds gathered in Enniskillen, Northern Ireland, for a ceremony honoring Britain's war dead.

In 1988, Vice President George Bush won the presidential election, defeating Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Ten years ago: Chinese engineers diverted the Yangtze River to make way for the Three Gorges Dam, the most ambitious construction project in modern China's history. Evander Holyfield won the IBF heavyweight title in a fierce fight against Michael Moorer in Las Vegas.

Five years ago: The U.N. Security Council unanimously approved Resolution 1441, which gave weapons inspectors the muscle they needed to hunt for illicit weapons in Iraq. President Bush said the new resolution presented the Iraqi regime "with a final test."

Mail merge using Microsoft Word, part 2

Last week, I began a lesson in Mail Merge using Microsoft Word. If you missed it, you can find it your newspaper's Web site or my own: <http://www.EricSpellmann.com>

Ready? Let's start where we left off. Make sure you have the "Donor Letter Main" document on your screen. Also, make sure you have the Mail Merge Task Pane open (Pull down the TOOLS menu and choose "Letters and Mailings" and then "Mail Merge Wizard").

- Create a Data Source

Step 3 (Select Recipients) is where people tend to get a bit confused. It's totally understandable, considering some of the language Microsoft uses.

You have three choices: "Use an Existing List,"

"Select from Outlook contacts" and "Type a new list." If your data already exists (Use an existing list), you can simply have Microsoft Word link to it.

Word knows how to access a variety of file types including d B a s e , A c c e s s , Excel, FoxPro, WordPerfect and Outlook. For the purposes of this example, though, I am going to assume the data does NOT exist. What we're going to do is create the data that will be merged with our donation letter.

Click the "Type a new list" button on the Task Pane and then hit the blue "Create" link below.

A new window opens, labeled "New Address List." It's already populated with a number of common fields, such as name, address, city, etc. But, you will also notice that it is missing a place to store the amount. Click the "Customize" button and then "Add" to put it in.

Using the "Move Down" button, position this field at the end of the list. Also, delete the fields we don't need, such as Country, Home Phone, Work Phone, e-mail address, address 2, etc. When the list of fields is perfect, hit OK.

Let's hold off on adding records and just close this window. Word will now ask you to save your data source. I know, I know, you haven't created any data yet. Humor it, and give it a name like, "Donor Letter Data." Look back over at the Task Pane and choose "Edit Recipients." A window will appear showing your "recipients." Of course, it is empty, but we are about to remedy that.

Click the "Edit" button at the bottom. A data entry window will appear, allowing you to enter as many donor addresses as you want. Enter three or four records. When you're done, hit the Cancel button and then OK.

Well, we've got our main document and we've created our data source. Now, we need to replace our pseudo-fields with the actual Word

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

■ Oct. 29
El Paso Times on shield laws: On Oct. 16, members of the U.S. House of Representatives gave resounding approval to HR 2102, the Free Flow of Information Act.

The vote was 398-21 in favor of the measure that would set ground rules delineating when reporters can be protected from revealing the identities of confidential sources in federal court.

Earlier, on Oct. 4, the Senate Judiciary Committee approved S. 2035, a similar bill.

Now it's up to senators to vote for this bill when it's brought up to the full Senate.

Texas' two Republican senators need to get behind this bill, but that hasn't happened yet. Sen. John Cornyn is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee and was one of the bipartisan majority who voted for it. But shortly after his affirmative committee vote, Cornyn told about 200 people at the Society of Professional Journalists 2007 Convention and National Journalism Conference that help was needed in defining exactly who is a journalist.

A specific example given by his office was whether the definition of journalist would cover a blogger or someone who is operating a social networking site such as Facebook.

While his point is well-taken, it's unlikely that a blogger or social networker would be involved in a situation where federal investigators would want to know about confidential sources.

And there is a definition of journalism in S. 2035: "The term 'journalism' means the regular gathering, preparing, collecting, photographing, recording, writing, editing, reporting, or publishing of news or information that concerns local, national, or international events or other matters of public interest for dissemination to the public."

Trying to narrow that definition could be detrimental to the practice and spirit of a shield law and could delay passage of a shield law indefinitely.

Chesney, Underwood take top prizes at CMA awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kenny Chesney and Carrie Underwood picked up where they left off last year at the Country Music Association Awards.

Chesney won his second straight entertainer of the year award Wednesday, while Underwood made it back-to-back trophies as female vocalist of the year.

"God has blessed me with so many wonderful things," said Underwood, the former "American Idol" sensation who also won single of the year, for "Before He Cheats."

"If you told me a few years ago I had been nominated with the people I'm nominated with, I would have called you absolutely insane."

Chesney, who also took the music association's top honor in 2004, was humble in his acceptance.

"I can't believe that I get to stand on the stages that I stand on every summer and get to sing the songs that I sing," the star said. "I love country music and I love doing what I do."

Brad Paisley, who won in the male vocalist category, teared up as he thanked his father, who he said carried amplifiers and ran sound "even though he didn't know what he was doing."

"I can't tell you what this means to me to win this. I always wanted to win this award at least once — this will do," said Paisley, who also won music video for his hit "Online."

Earlier, Sugarland won vocal duo of the year, breaking Brooks & Dunn's long-standing lock on the award — they had won the duo category 14 of the last 15 years, including the last six in a row.

"If we're standing up here, we have this lofty view because we're standing on the shoulders of giants who've come before us," said Sugarland's Jennifer Nettles.

The award for newcomer of the year went to 17-year-old Taylor Swift. She gave a tearful speech in which she joked, "This is definitely the highlight of my senior year."

Rascal Flatts won top vocal group, and George Strait took top album for "It Just Comes Natural." Strait's hit "Give It Away" won song of the year.

Other winners included Tracy Lawrence, featuring Tim McGraw and Chesney, for musical event for "Find Out Who Your Friends Are"; and Jerry Douglas of Union Station as musician of the year.

Hide inspector loses job

DALLAS (AP) — Jeff McMeans didn't do much in his unpaid role as Fort Bend County's hide and animal inspector, but he was still sad to see Texas voters remove the position from the state constitution.

Much has changed since the office was established in 1871 to help prevent cattle theft. The inspectors were charged with checking hides and animals shipped out of the county for sale, according to The Texas State Historical Association's Handbook of Texas Online.

On Tuesday, about 77 percent of voters approved abolishing the office. The measure was considered a housekeeping item, because the Texas Legislature stripped the position of its powers in 2003.

"It was an antiquated office, but it's part of our history that could be enjoyed," said McMeans, who was first elected in 1990. "It was an appreciation of an era gone by. It's a changing of the guard."

Also opposed to the office's elimination was a government class at Austin Community College. The class championed a vote against the proposition, holding a rally at the Capitol and forming a Web site, www.votenoprop10.org.

Cathy Setzer, an adjunct government instructor, said the class wanted to draw attention to propositions.

Bailey Hutchison said last week that at this point she cannot either support or not support the Free Flow of Information Act, and that she is going to further study the bill.

These are not the solid commitments that this measure needs. And they are not the solid commitments the public deserves, because the public is the ultimate beneficiary of the free flow of information and protection of confidential sources. A recent example is the scandal concerning veterans care that started at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. That was made possible by confidential sources, sources who probably never would have said anything if their identities were going to be compromised.

You can tell it's a field by single-clicking on it. It will turn grey. Replace your other fields using the same steps. Two reminders: Don't forget the AMOUNT field and make sure you put appropriate spacing between the fields.

Once you've inserted all of your merge fields, click "Next: Preview your letters" at the bottom of the task pane. You will see a "sample letter" with the data filled in for you from the first data record you created. If all looks well, click "Next: Complete the Merge."

• The Actual Merge Two options appear: "Print ..." and "Edit individual letters ..." If you hit the "Print ..." button, Microsoft Word will start merging the letters and send them straight to your printer. Choosing "Edit individual letters ..." will cause Word to create one document with a separate page for each completed merge. Click this option to see the final product of all your hard work.

Congratulations, you've done your first Mail Merge! But folks, it doesn't stop there. Next week, I'll share some mail-merging secrets I've learned over the years. Until then, I'll see you in Cyberspace!

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: "Anonymous in Arizona" (Sept. 7) was wondering how to explain to her future children that their father's brother was born a girl, particularly in childhood photos in which he appears as a girl. While most of your reply was sound — especially how transgendered people are born in the wrong body (which I wish more people could understand) — I disagree with your advice about the photo albums. As a transgendered man, I'd be mortified if I knew a photo of me in dresses and pigtails from my youth was included in a family album for my son to see. But I also know many transpeople who wouldn't mind at all. How we deal with our background is a personal and individual decision. Anonymous' brother-in-law "John" should be allowed to have a say in whether or not images of him as a child should be included. It would be reasonable for her husband to approach his brother privately and ask his feelings on the issue. If John doesn't mind childhood photos in an album, then great. If he does, however, then Anonymous should do her best to find ones of her husband only, or have the pictures cropped. — MICHIGAN TRANSGUY

DEAR MICHIGAN TRANSGUY: Thank you for your authoritative response. Anonymous was hesitant to discuss this sensitive issue with her brother-in-law or any other family member. Many readers agreed with you that the wisest course of action would be to talk to John for his input. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Although the subject is "something that is never mentioned," the writer's husband needs to sit down with his brother and discuss the matter. The fact that John is transgendered appears to be the elephant in the living room that no one wants to discuss. Surely John has anticipated these things from early on in his new life, and a psychiatrist most likely prepared him for it before he even had the gender reassignment surgery. Ignoring it and acting like he's some sort of oddity that's not to be mentioned is probably the worst thing that could be done — for everyone, including John. — SAN JOSE, CALIF., READER

DEAR ABBY: Anonymous shouldn't be so sure that John doesn't know she knows. Most spouses discuss their childhoods with each other, and John probably assumes that his brother had told her about his history. At some point the children will ask more questions, as will adults. Most transpeople are open about their gender, and Anonymous can use the photo album as an opportunity to teach, as you stated, that John was always male. People need to hear this message, so that they, too, can understand. As with same-sex love, gender issues should be discussed matter-of-factly with children. — LIBBY IN ATLANTA

DEAR ABBY: To show respect and acceptance, she should ask John how he would handle such a conversation with her child. In addition, when her child asks about the apparent discrepancy in the photos, at what will inevitably be the most inappropriate moment (i.e. Thanksgiving dinner), she and John should be prepared rather than exchanging awkward glances. It takes communication to keep the dynamics of a family healthy. (Take it from someone who has a few skeletons in the closet!) — JENNY IN RENO

DEAR ABBY: I'm also a transman (born in a female body). It was refreshing to read such a sensible reply. Most often, we transgendered folk are treated as freaks even though it has been proven again and again that gender is determined by what is between your ears, not between your legs. — MIKHAIL IN GRAND RAPIDS

Harvesters play last game tonight

By JORDAN REAGAN
Sports Editor

Last week, the Pampa Harvesters (4-5, 1-3) tried to keep their playoff hopes alive with a win over Dumas, but were defeated in a close match on Harvester Field.

No longer in the running for the playoffs, Pampa will play their last game of the season tonight against Palo Duro at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

Currently standing with a 5-4 record overall, the Harvesters can even out their win-loss record with a win tonight.

"This week has been one that we talked about enjoying," head coach Andy Cavalier said, "We talked about the fact that completing any endeavor that has not turned out the way you wanted shows what is in your heart. Having this characteristic will be something that will have much more of an effect on our lives than any number of wins."

Their last week of practice has been cut short due to the game being played on Thursday, much like the week prior to their trip to Lubbock to take on Estacado earlier in the season.

Senior receiver Michael Fernuik (80), stands ready before a play during last Friday's home game against the Dumas Demons. Fernuik received one pass Friday night for a total of seven yards.

Estacado, there are no thunderstorms in the forecast for Amarillo tonight, so the game should begin and end as planned.

Pampa's opponent tonight, the Palo Duro Dons (3-6, 1-3), also no longer have a chance at the playoffs, and share their only district win against Caprock with Pampa.

"Tonight's game is much more about us and our effort and execution than anything Palo Duro will do," Cavalier said, "We need to play and coach in this game like it is our first of the year, when our expectations were extremely high. If we do that, we will have an opportunity to win. No matter what the outcome of the game is, if we compete in this manner, we will walk off the field knowing we have finished what we started."

The Harvesters will take on the Dons at 7:30 tonight at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

Franchione gives other backs a chance in Goodson's absence

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Once Texas A&M coach Dennis Franchione finished answering questions about his employment status this week, he was asked to explain why Mike Goodson missed the first half of Saturday's game at Oklahoma.

The explosive Goodson, A&M's third-leading rusher, rushed seven times for 28 yards and caught a pass for a loss in the second half of the Aggies' 42-14 loss in Norman. He spent the first half holding his helmet on the sideline.

"He missed practice time," Franchione said. "If you want to call that discipline, you can. It really wasn't that. He had some personal family issues. He kind of was a little bit behind on knowing the game plan."

Goodson did not attend Tuesday's weekly media availability, though several media outlets requested him for interviews.

Los Angeles Angels admit they'd love Alex Rodriguez

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — While other teams play down their interest, the Los Angeles Angels admit they'd love to sign Alex Rodriguez.

The Angels had a meet-and-greet with A-Rod's agent, Scott Boras, at the general managers' meetings. The New York Mets also spoke with Boras but won't say whether they're in or out of the competition.

Tony Reagins, who just took over as the Angels' GM, had glowing words for A-Rod. "We had an initial conversation with Scott, and it was introductory," he said Wednesday. "He probably makes any team that he's a part of better."

Reagins said if talks progressed, the Angels would welcome a chance to speak with Rodriguez. Reagins acknowledged marketing, as well as baseball skills, would play a role in a decision to sign A-Rod.

"In this day and age, I think that is a part of it," he said.

While the Mets have the cash to sign Rodriguez, they haven't committed to making an offer. Likely to win his third AL MVP award, Rodriguez is expected to sign a deal topping the record $252 million, 10-year contract the Texas Rangers gave him before the 2001 season. Before A-Rod opted out of that agreement, Boras told the New York Yankees they had to offer $350 million just to get a meeting with the third baseman.

Other possible destinations are thought to include the Boston Red Sox, Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers. All those teams say that they're not interested at this point.

On the next-to-last day of the four-day gathering, closer Brad Lidge was traded by the Houston Astros to the Philadelphia Phillies along with infielder Eric Bruntlett for speedy outfielder Michael Bourn, right-hander Geoff Geary and minor league third baseman Mike Costanzo. Other big names in the news included Miguel Cabrera, Roger Clemens, Tom Glavine and Kenny Rogers.

The final day of the annual meetings, GMs were to discuss whether first- and third-base coaches should wear helmets. Mike Coolbaugh, a first-base coach for the Colorado Rockies' minor league team in Tulsa, was killed in July when he was struck on the head by a line drive during a game.

On Tuesday, each general manager stood up during their meeting and stated what their offseason goals were. Many mentioned specific players they were making available. The idea was suggested by Boston's Theo Epstein and Florida's Larry Beinfest, co-chairs of this year's meeting.

"Usually it takes a while to be able to reach all 29 other teams and hear what they're trying to do. This increased our efficiency tremendously. It saves us all a lot of time," Epstein said. "Some teams were specific. Some were more guarded."

The 30-year-old Lidge was 5-3 with 19 saves in 27 chances for the Astros last year after converting 32 of 38 opportunities in 2006. He lost his closer's job to Dan Wheeler one week into the 2007 season but regained the role in mid-June.

"We're getting one of the premier closers in the game," Phillies assistant general manager Ruben Amaro Jr. said. "The marketplace, as we all know, is a little scarce out there as far as pitching. We felt this was one of the best ways for us to really improve."

Cabrera was the first really big name being dangled. He'll make more than $10 million next season, too expensive for the Marlins to retain. Having lost A-Rod, the Yankees need a third baseman but team executive Hank Steinbrenner was clear on what New York won't do.

"It's pretty obvious which players we're not going to trade," he said, before rattling off the team's most-prized young pitchers. "(Joba) Chamberlain, (Phil) Hughes and even (Ian) Kennedy. Not for a position player."

Ginobili scores 25 points to lead Spurs over winless Heat

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — There was Manu Ginobili, hitting yet another 3-pointer for the San Antonio Spurs and scoring 25 points. And there were the Miami Heat, who looked as if, even if they had Dwyane Wade back, it might not have.

"Ginobili is a handful," Heat coach Pat Riley said Wednesday night after his team lost 88-78 and fell to 0-4 this season. "He's unpredictable. It's hard to defend him."

But, even adding Tony Parker's 23 points to the mix, Spurs coach Gregg Popovich wasn't ready to claim too much credit.

"Of course you don't take huge satisfaction out of the win with Dwyane Wade not there," Popovich said. "But we're going to take the win, we worked hard for it. But we realize they were pretty undermanned."

Riley nor the team would hide behind the Wade excuse, but they did acknowledge what the recovering star creates for the Heat. Riley said Wade has been participating in full-contact drills over the last two or three days.

"I think that's where (the Spurs), a lot of times they scored in the last six or seven seconds of the shot clock with" Parker and Ginobili, Riley said. "Right now, when we break down, we don't have anybody that's doing that. He happens to be sitting on the bench. That's what we used to do."

Ginobili hit four of the Spurs' seven 3-pointers and scored 12 points in the third quarter, after San Antonio led by only one at halftime.

"In the first half we didn't have it, that was pretty obvious," Ginobili said. "Then in the third quarter we tried to change the pace a little bit — play more, play faster, better, more passes — and I think it worked. We changed the attitude totally in the third quarter."

Tim Duncan scored 12 points and Francisco Elson had 12 points and 14 rebounds for San Antonio. Parker had eight assists and Duncan grabbed eight rebounds.

USOC receives confirmation of no Bible ban in Beijing Olympic village

DENVER (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee received confirmation from Olympic officials Wednesday that there will be no restrictions on Bibles being brought into the Olympic village in Beijing next year.

The USOC contacted the International Olympic Committee about the issue in response to a story posted on the Catholic News Agency Web site citing a list of prohibited items that was reported to include Bibles.

That story said the Italian daily, La Gazzetta dello Sport, reported that organizers cited "security reasons" for prohibiting athletes from carrying any kind of religious symbol at Olympic facilities. Those reports and others were producing active blog discussions on several Web sites.

USOC spokesman Darryl Seibel said the federation contacted the IOC about the news reports.

"We have heard from the IOC and there will be no restriction on athletes bringing the Bible or any other religious book into the village for their personal use," Seibel said in a telephone interview from USOC offices in Colorado Springs.

O.J. Simpson due in court in Las Vegas armed robbery case, faces 12 charges

LAS VEGAS (AP) — When O.J. Simpson returns to a courtroom to face armed robbery charges, the former football star will also be facing years of doubts and questions about his acquittal on murder charges more than a decade ago.

A Las Vegas justice of the peace will be asked to determine after a two-day hearing starting Thursday if there is enough evidence to take Simpson and two co-defendants to trial on charges that they robbed two sports memorabilia dealers in a Las Vegas hotel room.

In Simpson's mind, according to a close friend, the charges are rooted in Simpson being found not guilty in the 1994 slayings of his wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman.

"He believes he's being tried for that now," said Tom Scotto, 45, a North Miami Beach, Fla., auto body shop owner.

The men arrested in the Sept. 13 incident were brought together by Scotto's wedding.

Simpson and co-defendants Clarence "C.J." Stewart and Charles Ehrlich face 12 charges, including kidnapping, armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, conspiracy and coercion. A kidnapping conviction could result in a sentence of life in prison with the possibility of parole. An armed robbery conviction could mean mandatory prison time.

"He's taking this serious," Scotto said. "It is serious."

No one disputes that Stewart, Ehrlich and former co-defendants Michael McClinton, Walter Alexander and Charles Cashmore went with Simpson and California collectibles broker Tom Riccio to meet memorabilia dealers Alfred Beardsley and Bruce Fromong in a casino hotel room.

Simpson has maintained that he wanted to retrieve items he claimed had been stolen from him by a former agent, including the suit he wore the day he was acquitted in Los Angeles.

The case is likely to pivot on Simpson's contention that he didn't ask anyone to bring guns, that he didn't know anyone had guns and that no guns were displayed.

Three of Simpson's co-defendants have pleaded guilty or agreed to do so and are expected to testify against him.

Cashmore, a journeyman laborer, said McClinton displayed a gun. Alexander, 46, of Mesa, Ariz., told police after his Sept. 15 arrest that he and McClinton carried guns, but that he kept one in his waistband while McClinton displayed his as Beardsley and Fromong were frisked.

"O.J. said 'hey, just bring some firearms,'" Alexander said, according to a transcript of his tape-recorded statement to detectives.

McClinton, 49, of Las Vegas, who later turned two handguns over to police and surrendered his concealed weapons permit, is expected to bolster that account.

Nevertheless, the prosecution's case has certain weaknesses, including some unsavory witnesses.

Of the eight men who were in the room with Simpson, six have run afoul of the law before, with convictions for arson, theft, cocaine trafficking and assault among them.

Moreover, Simpson's lawyers have argued that the men who turned against him lied to win generous plea bargains for themselves.

"He's got a bunch of people making up anything they can make up," Scotto said.

Simpson and the others are likely to be bound over for trial "because the burden of proof is such that all they have to show is that some evidence suggests a crime occurred," said Tom Pitaro, a veteran Las Vegas defense lawyer who teaches trial advocacy at the Boyd School of Law at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Clark County District Attorney David Roger and prosecutor Chris Owens declined comment on their plans for the hearing.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Nov. 9, 2007:

You express your unusually strong personality and equally strong sense of direction this year. You might want to change directions or do something very differently. If you allow for that possibility, many opportunities will open up. If you break past the staid and true, you will feel much better. Charisma and creativity merge this year. Surprisingly, you might find what you wish for there at your request. How nice is that? If you are single, a relationship could begin out of the blue, turning out to be "the one." If you are attached, your bond becomes much closer, as long as you curb your ego! SCORPIO understands you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ You might be sure that you are not making your points at the moment. Hearing off-the-wall answers seems to verify this fact in your mind. This attitude might not be justified. Try looking at a situation from a new perspective. Tonight: Go along with another's requests.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ You could be politely informed that you don't have all the answers. Coming to needed conclusions is important, but let's make them right. Don't jump at any old idea. Tonight: Listen to the other side.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ All work and no play never makes the Gemini happy. Use your mul-titasking abilities, and squeeze in the best of all parts of life. A boss or partner acts in an unanticipated manner. Be ready for the unexpected. Tonight: If you're tired, say so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Your creativity will be called upon, especially as others might have difficulty finding viable solutions. Though every idea you pop off won't be great, some of them will be. A relationship heats up accordingly. Tonight: Fun and games.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You gain an unusual perspective because of your willingness to explore some basic ideas. You certainly don't believe that everyone must agree with you. A new beginning is possible in an investment — personal or business. Tonight: Hang close to home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Keep communication flowing, and you will be a much happier person. Doors open up, and people become more open. You might be amazed by what you hear. Someone is ready to try a different approach. Encourage it. Tonight: Chat up a storm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Knowing when to step back and allow others to handle a problem can be considered nothing but a smart move. Evaluate what might be going on within a specific bond. You might need to clear out, for your sake. Tonight: Hang out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ You might have your hands full, and you are dealing with more than your share of stuff. The question might be, When does this end and begin? You need to make decisions just for you. Your creativity emerges as a strong force. Tonight: Live it up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Knowing when to call it quits might be more important than you realize. You also might need some personal time to pull a project together. You might want to rethink an idea or two. Tonight: Take all the space you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Others want to dominate, and you need to let them do just that. You will find their strong drive and willfulness are issues you need to deal with. Aim for more of what you want. Laugh and enjoy a special relationship. Tonight: Start the weekend well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You might need to rethink a personal or security-related matter. You also might hear some interesting ideas that at first appear to be out there. Evaluate, and you will change your mind very quickly. Tonight: Happy to be home.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ You are in the position to take an overview or see a situation differently. Grow with positive changes. You will be able to read past the obvious. What you like and what emerges could be interesting. Tonight: So many choices.

CENTRAL BAIL BONDS

Kenneth Knowles owner

Area Manager Larry Ingram

Central Bail Bonds is a privately owned company providing bail bonds service for the Panhandle, North Central and West Texas area. Owner Kenneth Knowles founded the company in 1978.

Larry Ingram has been the area manager for the Pampa area since August 1997. The Pampa office covers 9 counties, which include Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Carson, Gray and Wheeler. On average, Larry drives over 50K miles yearly. Barbara Brogdon, secretary/agent since November 1999, handles the paperwork and backup for Larry. Together they make a great team to serve all your bail bond needs.

Forty offices and seventy agents makes Central the largest private surety in Texas. Central provides jail release, assistance, supervision, and guidance to those who Qualify for bail under the eighth amendment and can secure the release of defendants in every state on all types of bonds. Central will put up the total bond and charges a fee. The fee is set on percentage of the bond amount.

Central has bilingual agents, which service the non-English speaking citizens. All area agents are equipped with cell phones to provide the fastest possible release 24 hours a day.

As a privately owned company Central Bail Bonds provides this public service at no cost to the taxpayer. The use of our service reduces your taxes.
