City personnel preparing to sell bonds to offset anticipated growth

by David Bowser dbowser@thepampanews.com

The city staff is making preparations to sell as much as $10 million in municipal bonds to finance the city's expected growth.

Earlier this week, the Pampa City Commission approved a resolution indicating their direction.

Robin Bailey, Pampa's finance director, said she talked with representatives with Southwest Securities, who normally handles

Pampa's bond issues and April. was told that the bond market, particularly for tax free municipal bonds such as Pampa would be selling, is very strong and would probably grow stronger over the next 12 to 15 months.

"Really," Bailey said, "the best time to sell municipal bonds is between January and May."

She said she would start making preparations and expected the sale of the bonds to be in February. The city could have its money by

The question is how much money?

That will depend upon how much the city commission wants to do.

Pampa City Manager Trevlyn Pitner said he thinks a lot can be done for well under the $10 million initially approved by the commission, noting that the $10 million was essentially a cap or maximum set by the com-

"We can always go down," said Commissioner

Robert Dixon.

Pitner estimated the money would need for various infrastructure costs would likely be closer to $7 million to $8 million.

About $3.4 million is needed for expansion at the landfill.

The city had initially budgeted about $1.5 million some five years ago, but exploding costs have more than doubled that figure.

"When we budgeted for

Police: Put safety first this Halloween

Sergeant Donny Brown of the Pampa Police Department listed several precautions that parents, trick or treaters, and home owners can take this Halloween.

1. Trick or Treaters: Go in a group when visiting house. Do not run, always walk and stay on sidewalks. Watch for traffic while crossing the streets, and always stay in familiar neighborhoods. Only approach houses that have a porch light lit, and stay away from animals in yards to avoid being bit.

Parade entries still sought

by Randy Pribble rpribble@thepampanews.com

There is already much interest in the parade to recognize the Traveling Vietnam Wall to be on display in Pampa next month, but local organizers said they want to be sure they don't unintentionally leave out anyone.

"We want anyone interested in being part of the parade to know they don't have to have an entry form," said Floyd Sackett, parade committee chairman for the VFW Post 1657. "They can enter the parade without one, but it would help us to run things more smoothly if they did fill out of entry form."

Those forms have been and will continue to run periodically in The Pampa News, or interested parties can pick one up at the VFW Post.

The parade is set for Saturday, Nov. 8. The theme of the event is "Patriots Going to the Wall."

All local World War II veterans will be honored by serving at Parade Marshals.

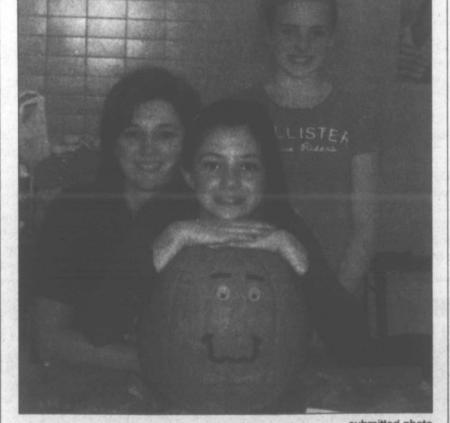

"We want to get every one of them involved," Sackett said. "No vet should be left out. All they need to do is show up and we will provide the transportation (in the

Any WWII veteran who wants to participate can contact Sackett at 440-1438 or Post Commander Danny Martin at 662-4367.

The parade will form at 9 a.m. and begin promptly at 10 a.m. at the intersection of Cuyler and Craven Streets. It will proceed north on Cuyler to Francis Avenue, west on Francis Avenue to Somerville Street, and then to the Traveling Vietnam Wall which will be erected on the M.K. Brown

Civic Auditorium parking lot. "We are going to line them up along six blocks, so all the entries should be there early so the Hoover Fire Department can give them their numbers and placement instructions," Sackett recommended.

2 shot in Dallas-area bank robbery

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — Officials say two bank employees were shot during an attempted robbery in the Dallas suburb of Mesquite.

Compass Bank spokesman Ed Bilek (BIL'-ek) says both workers were in stable condition at a hospital after Friday's shooting. He wasn't aware of other injuries.

Mesquite police dispatcher Lisa Walvel says police asked area schools to be locked down as a precaution.

years in New Jersey.

He worked for a time at FisherCal Industries, a private contractor for the military. Along with doing their brochures and artwork, he was also on call as a photographer ... a job he has tried to leave in his

"We were on call for anything that happened," Costley said. "One of the last calls I went on, a little boy had hung himself in his closet. His stepmother's children had brand new things in their rooms, and he had a dresser and a bed and nothing else."

"He'd kept a diary of Land Museum beginning everything that had happened to him, and we found out that the mother had killed him. I'd had enough. I had to get out of there.'

From there, Costley worked for Wal-Mart and United and freelanced in his spare time. He said he did a few things for CBS Records, logos and portraits of people. Eventually, he transferred through United to Pampa to be near family in Plainview.

"Then Doug Polad opened a gallery here," Costley said. "I was a closet artist then as far as my fine art goes, and he gave me an opportunity to show my work, and it started to sell."

Costley works in acrylic, pen and ink, watercolor and scratchboard. He feels, he said, that this is what he was meant to do.

"To me it's just my purpose," Costley said. "I pray about my work prior to starting. You know, a lot of people can get more out of an image than they can

One of Costley's greatest artistic inspirations is Kadir Nelson, an awardwinning artist and illustrator, who Costley says paints realistic and positive portrayals of African-Americans. As president of African-American Community Society here in Pampa, it is an issue he feels strongly about.

"It's kind of segregated here," Costley said. "The participation of African-American people in this community is very low. You know, you go to Washington, D.C., you see African-Americans in suits going to work, and I think that's hard to visualize in a town this small."

Pay close attention to wrappers on candy or treats, and toss out anything that may look like it has been tampered with. Also be mindful of costumes, and either put reflective tape on the costume or make sure it is lit in color so children are visible

3. Home owners: Be mindful of objects in the yard, like hoses, ladders, dog leashes, flower pots and anything else that may cause kids to trip over. Also, be cautious when using any open flame, or do not use it. Candles, or lit pumpkins can be a hazard and cause costumes to lit on fire.

astronomers first identified helium when they were studying a solar eclipse and spotted a previously undetected yellow atmospheric band around the sun. Another 27 years would pass before scientists discovered helium in minerals on Earth.

As researchers learned that natural gas deposits are the leading source of helium, they went to big fields of natural gas in Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma. In Texas, the hunt led to the Petrolia oilfield near Wichita Falls. The federal government built the nation's first helium extraction plant there in 1915. A full-scale plant was built in the Fort Worth area in 1921.

As future generations open these time capsules, they will realize what we know today - that the contributions of Amarillo and Texas to the development of the helium industry have earned a preeminent and enduring place in history.

Editorial Thought

A sample of editorial opinion around the nation: Oct. 17

Journal Star, Peoria, Ill., on election

America is a little insane right now."

While (Sen. Barack) Obama is getting the brunt of the irrational crowd's attention right now - he's a secret Muslim, the anti-Christ from the biblical Book of Revelation, won't recite the Pledge of Allegiance, etc. — (Sen. John) McCain is not immune. Heard the "Manchurian Candidate" rumor? Allegedly McCain was brainwashed as a POW, which brought on an early senility and, for all anyone knows, forced him to father a black child out of wedlock - a smear started by Republicans, by the way, back in 2000. Who but the maniacal could make these fictions up, and who but the ultramalleable would believe them?

Maybe it's full-moon fever, or maybe the wildly gyrating stock market has just put Americans in a state of mass hysteria. When people don't feel in control of their destinies, some go stark-raving mad. Whatever the case, the candidates but on ourselves.

First, the craziness keeps good people from running for public office. ... Second ... trying to drag specifics out of the candidates on any given issue can really be a chore. Why? Because many are scared to death to tell voters the truth — that they can't have it all, that low taxes and a government that is there for them in every conceivable circumstance are mutually exclusive goals, that we have to live within our means, that choices must be made because those who do inevitably get punished at the polls. ...

On the Net: http://www.pjstar.com.

Oct. 19 The New York Times, on U.S. infant mortality rate:

After five years of stagnation, the United States has managed to cut its infant mortality a bit. That is no great cause for celebration, especially since this country's rates remain far too high and so many other countries are doing so much better on this important measure of a nation's health and the quality of its medical system.

The Centers for Disease Control the injuries we are inflicting are not on and Prevention reported last week that in 2006 the rate of infant deaths in the United States fell to 6.71 per 1,000 live births, down from 6.86 the previous year. That is still 50 percent higher than the official national goal of 4.5 deaths per thousand.

What is particularly shameful is how poorly this country compares with other industrialized countries. In 1960, the United States ranked 12th lowest in the world in infant mortality. By 2004, the last year for which comparative data are available, it had dropped to 29th, tied with Poland and Slovakia. Even with the improvement, it is still likely to rank 29th, far behind many Scandinavian and East Asian countries that report rates below 3.5.

Infant mortality is associated with many factors, including the health and economic status of the mother, her race or ethnicity, access to quality medical care, and such cultural problems as rising obesity and drug use.

That makes it difficult to identify the cause of the United States' poor performance. ... The chief lesson we draw is that the American health care system, despite the highest expenditures in the world, is badly in need of an overhaul.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago, out of the blue, my middle-aged neighbor, "Ed," brought over a bushel of apples from his tree. He told me he didn't want them to go to waste, and he wasn't going to do anything with them. I told Ed I didn't want them, but he left them with me anyway. Reluctantly, I spent my days off peeling, coring and cooking them into batches of apple crisp, pies and jam. I gave away all of the items to friends and family, and saved one pie to give to Ed. When I took it over to him, he said, "Is that it? What did you do with all the rest?" When I told him I had given everything else away, Ed got upset and said he should have gotten more because they were his apples! Abby, I am just furious. I didn't want, ask for or need those apples in the first place. I worked hard preparing them, and the last thing I expected was for my neighbor to be so ungrateful. Am I overreacting? I seriously want nothing more to do with the man. --OFFENDED IN APPLETON, WIS.

DEAR OFFENDED: Once your neighbor gave you the bushel of apples, they were yours to do with as you chose. While it would have been generous of you to have given him a sample of each of the items you created with them, you were under no obligation to do so. To hold a grudge against this presumptuous man is a waste of time, so let it go. Something tells me he won't burden you with his apples again anytime soon.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I married very young by today's standards. We met when I was 17, started dating when I was 18, became engaged at 19 and married at 20. My family supported the marriage. We completed a full year of premarital counseling and a weekend marriage course, as well. We're financially stable and very much in love. Two years later, we're still happy as ever and know that marrying was the right choice for us. Acquaintances and strangers often feel the need to tell us that our marriage "won't last." Some even go as far as to say, "Are you crazy? Why would you do that?" Is there a polite way to respond to these comments? We find them hurtful and insulting. -- YOUNG AND IN

DEAR IN LOVE: Those comments are not only rude and insulting, they are also presumptuous, and a reflection of the speakers' biases and possible problems with making a commitment. But please do not sink to their level. Marrying late is no guarantee that the union will be successful, either. To those who say it won't last, smile and reply, "Time will tell." It's the truth.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem remembering people's names, even though I have been attending church with some of them for nearly 10 years. It's embarrassing when someone greets me and I can't recall his or her name. Have you any suggestions for me? -- BEWILDERED IN GRAND RAPIDS

DEAR BEWILDERED: Your problem is very common. Some people have solved it by using word association when they meet people, and by repeating the name after being introduced. Example: "It's nice to meet you, (true, blue) Sue." (The true and blue are, of course, silent.) A group picture from the church newsletter with a caption underneath can also be a powerful memory-jogger if you look at it before you leave for church. If all else fails, fall back on that old show-business standby, "DAHLING, you look MAH-velous!"

down. I asked her to remain standing and walked up and put my arm around her shoulder.

"So church, now you know a little about Gina. Before I let her sit down I want to ask everyone a question. How many of you can honestly say that the only difference between your story and much of Gina's is that the police didn't catch

There was a long pause and then hands started raising. Gina was staring at the floor. I asked her to look up and count the hands. She was amazed.

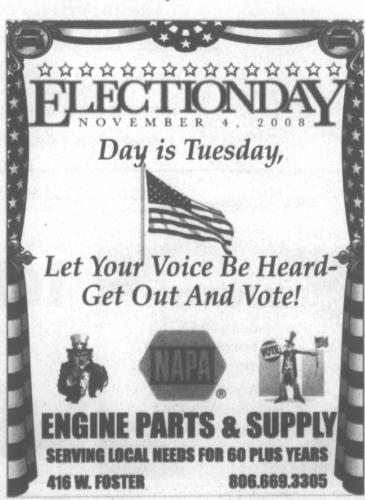

I told her, "You see, Gina, the only difference between you and many of the rest of us is that we met Jesus quite a while back and He has been working on us to make us more like Him; and we are still a long, long, long way from that goal.

After that, things were different. Oh, she always felt a little out of place, but more and more she realized where her church home was and that she had a family who loved her, no matter what.

Gina now lives in Arizona, but knows that she still has a family in Pampa, made that way by the love of God. The world is filled with lots of Gina's who just need to know that we are all lost sinners and that only the grace of God makes us into anything more.

So keep your eyes pealed for a Gina who God just might put into your life for you to love. At first, it might look like that she just needs you, but the truth is you need her, too. God bless.

Tough loss to Dumas still leaves Harvesters with playoff hopes

'I can't think of another time where

take-aways

the game."

and did not win

Andy Cavalier

Head Coach

by Bob Ericson Staff Writer

In discussing last week's loss to Dumas Pampa High School football Coach Andy Cavalier, praised his team and offered hope of making the playoffs.

Coach Cavalier first offered insight onto the progression of the Dumas game.

"I can't think of another time where a team created six take-aways and did not win the game," Cavalier said while discussing Harvester tactics. "We have been talking to our team for several weeks about the fact that we need to create takeaways and then take advantage of those opportunities. We created them, but we did not take advantage of the opportunities."

Cavalier was proud of the overall effort.

When turning to the offensive side of the ball Cavalier mentioned, "We knew we were going to get man coverage and it was going to come down to our receivers beating their cover men. We were not able to provide much time for those receivers to work and then we also just did not connect on several balls that we have catch. The defensive line for Dumas was good and forced us to make some adjustments," he said.

Cavalier further commented on switching gears in the game, and he spoke of defensive team for the team.

defensively. take-The aways have to be the number one thing. Creating six interceptions absolutely took Dumas out of their game. We also did a fine job of stopping the run and did allow them to do anything well Jeremy Maxwell, two by consistently.'

Cavalier continued saying, "we need to put it all together for four consistent quarters and see what happens."

The offensive player of the week is Madison Wilson. Cavalier mentioned a change in position for Wilson.

"We moved Madison to running back a few weeks ago and he has been to be able to throw and absolutely great. He runs extremely hard, catches the ball very well, and is a great blocker. He did a great job in all phases and the one touchdown he had was him turning something that did not look good into something that was good," "Gosh, we played great Cavalier explained.

Cavalier had high praise for the team's defensive line.

"We named everyone that played defense as players of the The week. entire unit played great all night highlighted by three interceptions by

John

Luke Covalt, and one by Sergio Salazar." He continued saying, "our defensive line did exactly what we asked of them - stay in their lanes and contain the quarterback and our linebackers did a great job of rerouting receivers on nearly every play.'

Special teams player of the week was Sergio Salazar.

"He covered every punt in a manner that allowed us to stay in control of the field position battle. He did a great job of tackling all night and just hustled all over the field."

In thinking about the upcoming game against the Caprock Longhorns, Coach Cavalier stated that they are coming in here trying to make history.

"They will be playing with lots of energy as they try to further their mission this year." They are very similar to us on both sides of the ball," he said.

Cavalier's concluded with his final thoughts on offense.

"On offense, they are almost a mirror image of us and on defense they use the same basic alignment, but use it a little differently."

Cavalier urged fans to remember, "this week is a playoff week for us and we need to approach it that way. I really feel that we have improved each week and when we put it all together and really play consistently we are as good as anyone around. "

Pampa will play Caprock at home at 7:30 p.m., this is the last home game and therefore will be Senior recognition night.

Crosby leaves Pens' loss; Stamkos gets first goals

By The Associated Press When Sidney Crosby, the No. 1 overall pick in the second period, the Pittsburgh Penguins were at a loss.

When Steven Stamkos, the No. 1 overall pick in the 2008 draft, got his first two NHL goals, the Tampa Bay Lightning were winners again.

and added an assist, and the Phoenix Coyotes beat Crosby's Penguins 4-1 on Thursday night. Olli Jokinen also scored, Steven Reinprecht and Zbynek Michalek each had two assists and Ilya Bryzgalov made 27 saves for Phoenix.

"I had some discomfort," said Crosby, who left the game with less than 5 minutes left in the second period. "I decided that in the third period, it didn't seem like I could do much."

What happened to Crosby is unclear. Replays showed Crosby skate to the Penguins bench, sit down with a grimace and try to collect himself. Per team policy, the Penguins did not disclose details of Crosby's injury. Neither did Crosby. "Honestly, I don't even 2 know what happened," Crosby said. "I have to look at the tape. I haven't seen anything yet."

The Coyotes' 4-4 start is their best since opening the 2003-04 season 3-3-2.

But what everybody already knew, the official scorers didn't until the firstperiod break. Standing in front of Buffalo goalie Ryan Miller, Stamkos deftly deflected Vincent Lecavalier's slap shot from the top of the right circle. Lecavalier was originally given the goal that staked Tampa Bay to a 1-0 lead midway through the first period.

During the intermission, the officials fixed the error.

"I knew it hit my stick right from the beginning, and Vinny knew that too, so it was just a matter of them correcting it," Stamkos said. "I had some butterflies when they announced Vinny as the goal scorer, but he told the ref that I tipped it in. It was obviously a great feeling when they corrected it." even had Lecavalier enough foresight to make sure the No. 1 overall pick in June's draft got the correct puck to commemorate the occasion.

The Lightning have won three of their past four after starting the season with five losses.

"We really played our best me," Stamkos said. game," "We've been doing things the last few games that we weren't doing in the beginning of the season.'

Canucks 4, Kings 0 Roberto Luongo recorded his 40th career shutout and visiting Vancouver got power-play goals Daniel Sedin and Kyle Wellwood.

Coming off a hard-luck 1-0 loss to Boston on Tuesday night, Luongo made 28 saves and survived a penalty shot by Alexander Frolov to 2005 draft, left with an become the 28th goaltender undisclosed injury late in the in NHL history to record at least 40 shutouts in the regular season.

Daily Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. Be aware of what you are doing and the impact you make this year. Though you might believe you want to increase your security, be it emotional or financial, you discover you have other goals. You are in a position to make these desires happen this year, if you maintain your focus. A change in residence or in your environment becomes possible. Your living situation could also change dramatically. If you are single, don't get insecure. Realize how much you have to offer. Through winter you will attract quite a few people. Be aware of the potential bonds here. If you are attached, the two of you will feel more connected. A domestic change could reflect a newfound closeness. SAGITTARIUS can

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult spend your money easily. Careful!

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  The best-laid plans could fall by the wayside. You will need to deal with several obstacles. How you reframe a situation and your perspective defines not only your day but other factors in your life. Tonight: Go for exotic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Continue to share and work with one key associate or person. You might be overwhelmed by everything that you see. You will have an opportunity to do something very different and quite satisfying. An older relative needs attention. Tonight: Off to the movies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

you might be receiving a lot of flak from many different people in your life. Remain sure of yourself and what you want to accomplish. Let others see what happens when they run the show! Tonight: So many invitations!

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Share a hobby or favorite pastime with a friend or child. Your nerves need soothing, and taking up this activity could make all the difference. A partner tries very hard to understand where you are coming from. Tonight: Togetherness is the theme.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) * With your imagination, it might be difficult to stop you once you set your eyes on a particular goal. The unexpected could impact your plans. Rather than be sad, work with the moment. You will be very happy. Tonight: So playful. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Touch base with friends and family before making plans. You could see a lot of diversity in an idea and direction. Opt for what you need most. Remember, it's your weekend too. Tonight: Order in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) * You might be taken aback by what is happening in your immediate circle. Make plans that work for you. Others, you will find, have their own ideas. You head in a new direction. Tonight: Hanging out can be fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Check out an expenditure before the fact. You might change your mind about what works for you. A family member shares by suggesting an important secret. Tonight: Make it your treat. * Defer to others, especially as SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

* You are able to make a tremendous change that could surprise many. Your intuition homes in on an important feeling in a situation. Follow through on what you think works. Tonight: Whatever knocks your socks off. (Yes, go for it!)

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  If you want to make today just about R and R, do so. Your centering emerges when dealing with only certain people. Not everyone is calm. In fact, you could hear some shocking details that force you to rethink an issue or situation. Tonight: Opt for calm and easy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) * Your positive attitude comes out in your interactions. As a result, you get much more of what you want from a friend or several key people. What might be slated as a meeting could turn into quite the happening. Tonight: Know when you have gone too far.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Move past a problem by taking responsibility for your share of the hassle. Much changes quite quickly. Investigate new opportunities or what might seem like a sudden idea. These ems could prove to be much more.

Tonight: Out late. BORN TODAY Magazine editor Larry Flynt (1942), author Stephen Crane (1871), pin-up model Jenny McCarthy (1972)
