Good Samaritan plans anniversary celebration

By KERRI SMITH
Managing Editor

Good Samaritan Christian Services has reached a milestone of being in operation for 25 years on Valentine's Day this year and they have planned an open house and reception to mark the event from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, which is 25 years to the day they originally opened.
The open house will be held at Good Samaritan, 309 N. Ward, and the reception will be just down the alley at the St. Matthew's Episcopal Church fellowship hall, 727 W. Browning.
Volunteer Executive Director Joy Bivins said she is excited to show off the newly updated facility thanks to a recent grant received from the Nona Payne Foundation.
"We recently received a $21,000 grant for renovations of our facility," Bivins said. "We've already spent most of that on our 'face life' and you sure can tell by looking around at the building and property."

"The building has been painted and the porch pillars and ledges have undergone extensive brick work. We got a new front screen door, the broken windows have been replaced, the bamboo bushes on the side of the building have been cut back and drastically thinned out. We had an old dead tree that was in the front yard cut down. It doesn't look like a jungle any more and just looks so much cleaner. We were also able to get some new equipment with this grant, so we bought a new copier."
Bivins said it is amazing that this

Canadian Rodeo Association makes changes

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

CANADIAN -- Rodeotown will have two rodeos this Fourth of July in an effort to heal a split in the community.
Last month, the Canadian Rodeo Association voted to replace the Texas Cowboy Rodeo Association-sanctioned rodeo on Independence Day with a Working Ranch Cowboy Association-sanctioned rodeo after telling citizens that the move was simply being discussed.
What followed was a range war, tearing apart families, pitting father against son and splitting brothers.
It didn't really split the town, said Laurie Ezzell Brown, publisher of The Canadian Record, the community's newspaper. She said she didn't find anybody that was for the change except for the rodeo committee.

The rodeo association was invited to appear before the Hemphill County Commissioners Court to explain themselves since the county owns the rodeo arena and the rodeo committee contracts to produce the annual rodeo.

Canadian claims to be one of the earliest rodeos in the nation, if not the first.
Initially established July 5, 1888, the Canadian rodeo is a tradition, and one that many in the town don't want to see changed.
In a statement in mid-January, the Canadian Rodeo Association said they had debated the issue for four months and decided to make the change because of steadily declining numbers over the past five to six years. They agreed among themselves that they were not producing a good Fourth of July Rodeo.

According to TSCRA records, the 2002 rodeo, which spanned Wednesday through Saturday, had 547 entries, grossed $58,635 and paid out $54,299.40. In 2003, when rodeo performances were on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, there were 555 entries, a gross of $67,520 and a payout of $64,585.50.
In 2006, the Fourth of July fell on a Tuesday. The Canadian celebration started on the previous Friday. There were 400 entries, and the purse $44,516.50.

Travis to sell Zak's Cheese

By KERRI SMITH
Managing Editor

Travis Elementary students are about to begin one of their fund-raisers for the year. Beginning Feb. 12 and continuing through Feb. 26, the students will sell Zaks Cheese products.
Booster Club representatives said the proceeds from this fund-raiser will directly benefit the students of Travis Elementary. In the past, funds have been used for field trips, costumes for plays, playground equipment, library books, PE equipment and TVs for the classrooms.
To order these products, contact any Travis student or call the office at 669-4950. You must pay for the products when you order and all products should be delivered before spring break.

Education official warns district that has not paid

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas education commissioner said Friday that he will dismantle a property-wealthy school district in Central Texas if they don't make a legally required payment to the state school finance system known as Robin Hood by next week.

"I can't be any more emphatic to say I have no choice in this case to take action against a district that fails to make a recapture payment," Education Commissioner Robert Scott said. "I took an oath as commissioner of education to uphold the laws of this state and the laws are very clear."

School officials at Wimberley have refused to make a payment on their $2.3 million debt, which is due by Feb. 15. The school district has been in negotiations with Scott and the school board will meet Tuesday to discuss the issue.

Scott said state law would require him to remove property from the Wimberley Independent School District and then make those homes, businesses and students part of a neighboring district. Enough property would have to be removed so the property wealth per student is reduced to a level that does not require property tax money to be sent back to the state for redistribution among poorer districts.

"We cannot afford to get consolidated. That is a terrible outcome for our school district, for our county and particularly for those approximately 2,000 students," said Rep. Patrick Rose, D-Dripping Springs, whose district also includes Wimberley. "We have a week to resolve that."

Wimberley Superintendent Dwain York said the district already is having to cut teachers and reduce academic programs that have helped the schools be considered "recognized," one of the top two levels given by the state.

"We perform well because we have programs in place that don't cost us a lot of money," York said Friday in a hearing before the House Select Committee on Higher and Public Education Finance. "And the key to our success is quality teachers ... I just submitted an 08-09 budget with 14 less teachers in our district. That's absurd."

York said his district has weathered a "perfect storm" of financial hardships that have led to the budget crisis.

Among them, a projected level of enrollment growth at Wimberley in previous years that didn't hold up. Because school finances are based on a per student measurement, the district now has to repay about $1 million that they were allowed to keep last year for expected new students that never came.

School officials at Wimberley have refused to make a payment on their $2.3 million debt, which is due by Feb. 15.

all volunteer organization has been able to stay open for 25 years. She said this would not be possibly without all of the volunteers, private donors and church donors. Even though they have been able to stay open this long, she says they are in desperate need of regular volunteers or substitute volunteers currently.

"Some of our regular volunteers are getting older and have to go to Amarillo for doctor's appointments and such, so we need more volunteers or those who can fill in when people have to miss for these appointments," Bivins said. "People can either volunteer on a regular basis or just whenever they have some extra time, but we'd appreciate any help we could get with manpower."

Good Samaritan is open from 2 to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The all volunteer staff is there to "respond to the immediate physical, spiritual, material, medical, social and educational needs of persons who reside in or travel through our community by providing temporary shelter, basic food needs, medical assistance and clothing."

The organization provides assistance to those in need, but they do have guidelines they have to follow, but the main goal is to be caring, accepting, compassionate and understanding as Jesus Christ was. The idea for this organization grew in the early 1980's when several ministers gathered and decided the time was right for churches to work together to be "Good Samaritans."

Good Samaritan is led by a board of directors and Bivins, who is a volunteer director. Bivins has been the director since Ellen Malone left in April 2007.

For more information of volunteering or donating to Good Samaritan, contact Bivins at 665-0073.

Rodeo

In 2007, with the Fourth of July on Wednesday and most events held the following weekend, there were 414 entries and a purse of $44,591.40.

The association said they never meant to break with tradition. In fact, they said, the initial rodeo 120 years ago was between ranches.

While the rodeo they have had in the recent past has featured individual cowboys and cowgirls in events such as bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, barrel racing, team roping, the ranch rodeo would involve 24- five man teams in team penning, branding, cow milking, cow doctoring and bronc riding.

Since meeting with the county commission in January, eight of the rodeo association members, including the president, resigned.

Heath Mitchell, the new president met with the county commission this week and suggested a compromise -- two rodeos over the Fourth of July holidays.

One would be sanctioned by the TCRA. The other would be sanctioned by the WCRA.

"What we would like to do is do both," Mitchell says. "Do the TCRA rodeo and also do a ranch rodeo over the Fourth of July Weekend."

Mitchell said they would have slack Thursday morning, and Thursday evening will be the first performance of the TCRA rodeo and probably a little bit of slack afterwards.

The annual rodeo parade will be Friday.

"At 2 p.m., we're going to have the ranch rodeo," Mitchell says.

It will be a 12-team WRCA-sanctioned ranch rodeo, he says.

"Because the rodeo board believes in the weekend celebration, we want those cowboys that are participating in the ranch rodeo to ride in the parade," Mitchell says. "We're going to deduct points from their point system if they don't."

He estimates that the ranch rodeo will take two-and-a-half to three hours.

"That evening," Mitchell says, "we'll have our second performance of the TCRA rodeo."

Saturday evening will be the final round of the TCRA rodeo.

FREE VARICOSE VEIN SCREENING EVENT

Local solutions are now available for this national problem -- varicose veins. Approximately 25 million Americans are afflicted with varicose veins - nearly twice as many patients as those suffering from coronary artery disease.

Dr. Moza will provide local residents an opportunity to participate in a free varicose vein screening event. The event will provide information about venous disease and treatment options available. Featured treatments include the VNUS/Closure/procedure. Traditional treatment has been vein stripping surgery, which can result in 2-4 weeks post-surgery convalescence. Now patients with venous reflux disease can be treated with the VNUS Closure procedure, a minimally invasive treatment alternative, and resume their regular activities typically within 1 day, with little to no post-treatment pain or bruising.

Survival button can be a real life-saver ...

This too shall pass... That is what I tell myself when I'm stressed out about something to try and help myself through the situation. I've been stressed out lately and I've been doing a lot of different things to help me cope with that and help myself through the tough times. I wonder many times how other people handle stress and do I deal with it as well as other people.

One of the girls I work with, Carrie, taught me something that she does to help her take a deep breath in a stressful situation...she counts to 10. I've done that a few times recently and it actually makes me laugh. I try to count out loud really fast, like she does, and it does make you take a few seconds out of the situation and take a breath...and in my case...laugh.

For many years, another way I try to step back from the situation and try to make myself laugh is to say "serenity now" when I feel like I'm about to blow a fuse. And I don't know why it always makes me feel better to say these things out loud. Maybe it's my way of warning the other person in the situation that they better back off or it might get ugly. I'm sure everyone has seen the Office Depot or Staples commercials on TV lately that have "the easy button" on it. I love those because when the people just push "the easy button," their problem is suddenly solved and taken care of.

A few months ago, I was shopping at the local Hallmark store when I saw a bunch of "buttons." When I investigated closer, I found out there were many different buttons one could purchase to push whenever the need arose. So, I bought a "survival button" and I can tell you that lately I've pushed it quite often. It plays the song "I will survive" and it always makes me stop and smile and sometimes even do my nerd dance around the office, which of course makes everyone else laugh.

I can sort of see how people can use drugs, alcohol or cigarettes to make them feel better. My vice is food and Diet Coke. I'm a stress eater, which is obvious by my physique, and when I get mad or depressed the first thing I want is a cookie or a Diet Coke. I'm sure the caffeine and sugar does give my body a boost, but I know it is really just psychological.

It's nice to know what kind of signs that others have when they are stressed because they gives you the opportunity to avoid them during those times. Some people pace or rub their head or bite their fingernails. My husband has a vein that pokes out on his head when he's stressed or mad about something, so that is a sign to steer clear for a while.

Whatever you do to calm down during a stressful time or situation, just try to make it a healthy choice. I'm trying to learn new ways to calm down that aren't destructive to myself or others. One thing I do know is that if you are really stressed out about something, you need to talk to someone before you "go postal" and hurt someone or yourself. Maybe you should go buy a "survival button" or count to 10, or better yet maybe 100, before you make a rash decision.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Feb. 10, the 41st day of 2008. There are 325 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Feb. 10, 1967, the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, dealing with presidential disability and succession, was ratified as Minnesota and Nevada adopted it.

On this date:
In 1763, Britain, Spain and France signed the Treaty of Paris, ending the Seven Years' War.

In 1840, Britain's Queen Victoria married Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

In 1841, Upper Canada and Lower Canada were proclaimed united under an Act of Union passed by the British Parliament.

In 1942, the former French liner Normandie capsized in New York Harbor a day after it caught fire while being refitted for the U.S. Navy.

In 1942, RCA Victor presented Glenn Miller and his Orchestra with a "gold record" for their recording of "Chattanooga Choo Choo," which had sold more than 1 million copies.

In 1949, Arthur Miller's play "Death of a Salesman" opened at Broadway's Morosco Theater with Lee J. Cobb as Willy Loman.

In 1962, the Soviet Union exchanged captured American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Rudolf Abel, a Soviet spy held by the United States.

In 1968, U.S. figure skater Peggy Fleming won America's only gold medal of the Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble, France.

In 1989, Ron Brown was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee, becoming the first black to head a major U.S. political party.

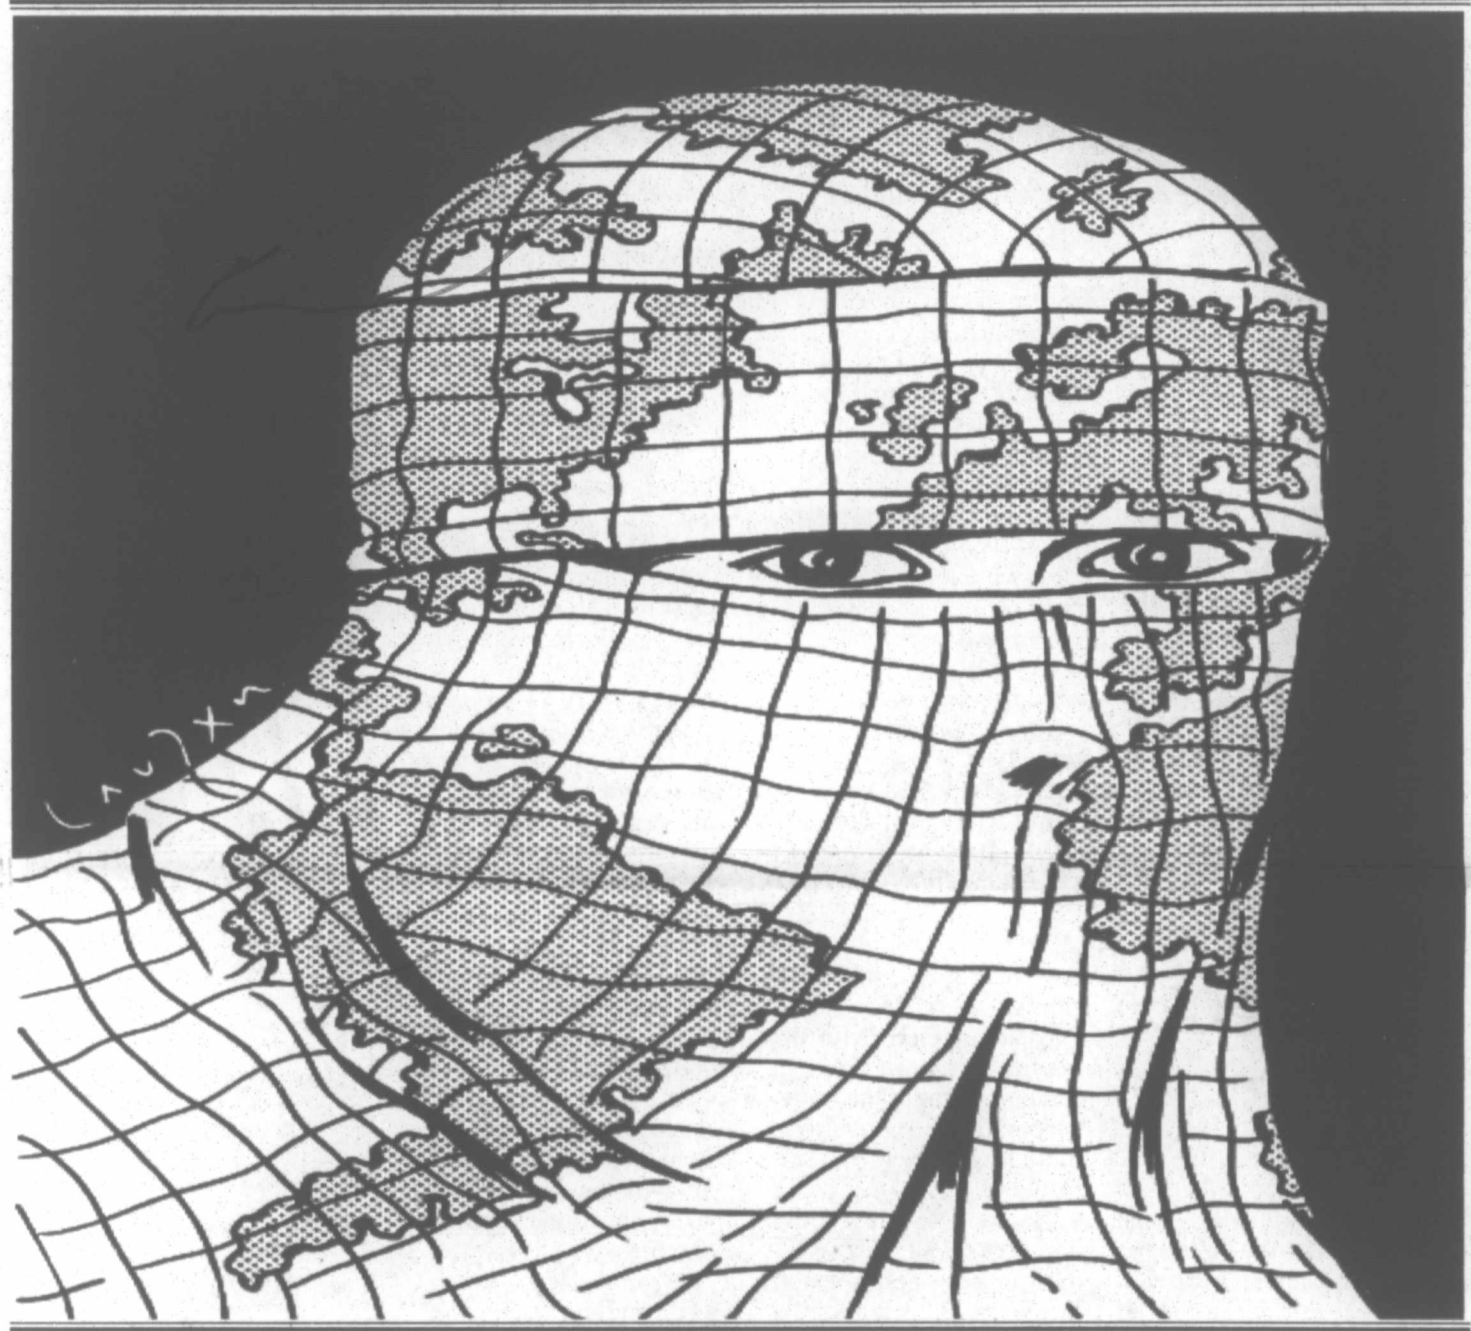

In 2005, playwright Arthur Miller died in Roxbury, Conn., at age 89 on the 56th anniversary of the Broadway opening of his "Death of a Salesman."

Ten years ago: Dr. David Satcher was confirmed by the Senate to be surgeon general. Voters in Maine become the first to repeal a state gay rights law. Monica Lewinsky's mother, Marcia Lewis, testified before the grand jury investigating her daughter's relationship with President Clinton. Speedskater Hiroyasu Shimizu won Japan's first gold medal of the Nagano Olympics, in the 500-meter event.

Five years ago: Iraq agreed to allow U-2 surveillance flights over its territory, meeting a key demand by U.N. inspectors searching for banned weapons; President Bush, however, brushed aside Iraqi concessions as too little, too late.

'Culture is on the horns of this dilemma: if profound and noble it must remain rare, if common it must become mean.'

Idle American: Bye-bye, blackbirds?

Nature lovers often refer to their "fine, feathered friends." Most Fort Worth lovers agree with the "feathered part," but Cowtown folks say that some birds are neither fine nor friends.

Their strong feelings are registered annually, October through March, when city officials estimate that up to 2 million grackles swoop in to set up housekeeping. Thousands of flustered Fort Worthians then grab brooms daily to sweep up.

Oh, they try to be stoic with shoulder shrugs about how "birds will be birds." They even re-tell lame bird jokes, many of them ending with "for some people, they sing"....

This is not a new problem. The pesky, squawky, messy creatures have plagued parks, neighborhoods and downtown for years.

The city has spent thousands of dollars to yank out the grackles' welcome mat, and nothing has worked. Some of the efforts have been, uh, bird-brained, including use of spotlights, pyrotechnics and a concoction called "grape fog" to shoo them away.

Many of us trudge through life in a fog, so do grackles....

The rules are changing, and the new ones have teeth in them, or, more correctly, beaks. Responding to pleas from Fort Worth leaders, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has new regulations in place.

The Feds have authorized trained falconers to be compensated for services rendered in the eradication of undesirable birds with birds of prey. Fort Worth Mayor Mike Moncrief is leading the "hallelujahs." The masses hope that no grackle is left behind....

Partners in Nighthawk Bird Control have a pair of trained hawks, and plan to turn them loose in downtown late at night, when at least one of them is hungry.

They'll only take down a grackle or two, but the rest of the birds will take note of the flying carnivores, and the word'll travel fast in "bird-dom."

Nighthawk trainers believe the unwelcome guests will fly out as quickly as they flew in, looking for new places to roost, perhaps in cities where they don't know the new rules....

Some may say this approach is really doing nothing more than sending the problem on down the road....

Perhaps so. But Fort Worth folks figure that it's somebody else's turn to deal with it, or at least share the pain. (Maybe Dallas?)

Shooing them away is really nothing new. Isn't this the way we usually deal with down-and-out transients? We give 'em a few bucks, and send 'em on down the road....

My hope is that the trained birds don't hear what happened in Fort Worth nearly 40 years ago, when

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

Feb. 3
The Dallas Morning News on the White House's decision on FutureGen: For years, FutureGen has been offered up as the answer to tough questions facing the Bush administration about power and pollution.

The concept for a cutting-edge, cleaner coal plant was mentioned frequently when the White House's commitment to reducing greenhouse gas emissions was in doubt.

Just wait until FutureGen, energy officials would say.

And so we waited. Years passed while a private industry alliance was assembled, applications were submitted and possible sites were vetted. Finally, patience was rewarded in December with the announcement that the futuristic plant was headed to Mattoon, Ill.

But now, only six weeks later, the Department of Energy has unexpectedly and unceremoniously killed FutureGen.

Illinois leaders rightly called this a cruel deception. More important, it's a crippling blow for those who understand the urgent need to develop cleaner energy technologies.

FutureGen provided the Bush administration with political cover as pressure to address environmental issues increased. Now, with this term winding down, the Department of two vaunted falcons from the Air Force Academy were scheduled to appear at a big event.

Before the birds performed, they were stolen.

They were never found, and the thieves were never apprehended. ...

Maybe it's better just to stick with recent history.

During the Armed Forces Bowl game played in Fort Worth back in December, the Air Force Academy Falcons dominated the University of California in the stats before the Golden Bears eeked out a 42-36 win.

Off the playing field, two of the Academy's 13 trained falcons — the feathered ones — displayed their skills, "wowing" to the utmost. ...

Please don't think me to be "anti-bird." But I join Fort Worthians in being anti-grackle.

I'm generally in favor of birds. In days of yore, movie trips were brightened with bird cartoons. Remember Tweety and the trademark line, "I 'taut' I 'taw' a 'puddy-tat'?" Earlier, those clever magpies, Heckle and Jeckle, were favorites.

More recently, I was captivated by the story of a duck taken on as a good-luck mascot by the legendary football team at Masonic Home in the early '30's. Jim Dent's "Twelve Mighty Orphans" was a great read. ...

The duck showed up one day at practice, and the youngsters begged Coach "Rusty" Russell to let them keep the bird. "Okay, as long as we're winning," he answered.

Practice after practice, game after game, the duck was always there. Late in the season, however, the "Mighty Mites" finally lost a game. Noting the duck's absence at practice the next day, Coach Russell inquired.

"After the game last night, we ate him," the players admitted. ...

Energy has pulled the plug.

Up until the end, administration officials had touted the project as a "center-piece" of its efforts to develop more advanced coal technologies. And during last week's State of the Union address, President Bush pressed for cleaner coal.

Within 48 hours, Energy Secretary Samuel Bodman was blaming cost overruns for FutureGen's demise and announcing a pared-down plan to pay for equipment that captures and stores carbon dioxide emissions at several commercial coal plants.

If there is good news to be found here, it is that Texas should be a strong contender to host one of these carbon dioxide sites. The Texas towns of Jewett and Odessa were among the four finalists for FutureGen.

But that is a distant prospect.

Last week's announcement effectively kicked this years-long effort a few more years down the road. Whether the 44th president will revive FutureGen in any form is unknown. But last week's decision made one thing clear: This White House can lay no claim to advancing efforts for cleaner energy.

DAR chapter to honor Good Citizen, essay award-winners

By DARLENE BIRKES
Special to The News

Four Good Citizens chosen from Pampa and the area high schools will be honored at a reception sponsored by Las Pampas Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, in the Education Building at First United Methodist Church in Pampa.

Also to be recognized are the winners of the elementary and junior high essay contests, Chris Smith of Austin Elementary and Elizabeth Terry of Pampa Junior High. Sponsored by the National DAR, the essay topic is titled "I Spy - Espionage During the American Revolution." The students will read their winning essays and receive a monetary award from the local chapter.

The program will include Pampa High School AFS exchange students Lina von Hacht of Germany, Hanna Baumgartner of Austria and Rene Cazenave of Chile.

The four Good Citizens were chosen by their schools using the criteria of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Each had to write an essay with the winner entered in the local, state and finally the national contests.

The senior high students and schools they represent include Kristen Dunn of Pampa High School; Callie Davis of White Deer High School; Paul Goetze of Clarendon High School; and Mark Smith of McLean High School.

Dunn is serving as president of three organizations at PHS this year - FFA, Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) and National Honor Society. An academic achiever, she has received awards in English, art, animal science and U.S. history. She plans to attend Texas Tech University and major in food technology. Dunn is the daughter of Randy and Brenda Dunn.

Davis is active in sports including cross-country, track and power-lifting. She is the girls' basketball manager and is on the yearbook staff. An academic achiever, she has earned award in world geography, U.S. history and Spanish. Davis hopes to become a pediatrician. She is the daughter of Joy Dickey.

Goetze has been class

president for the last two years. He is a baritone and section leader in the band, 4-H president, district secretary of FFA, NHS president, junior historian officer and belongs to student council and French Club.

His academic awards include BWXT Pantex Award for Excellence in Science and Math, was a team captain, is in advanced placement courses, is a member of a state qualifying band ensemble, placed in several UIL contests in speech, science and one-act play in district. He also has placed in several 4-H contests. He placed seventh in nationals for National History Day.

His plans are to attend Texas A&M Veterinary School. Goetze is the son of Larry and Lyndal Gillen-Goetze.

Smith is president of several organizations including his senior class, FBLA and NHS and was president his junior year of FFA. An all-A student, he has won numerous academic awards. He was captain of the football team and won several athletic awards including first team all-state linebacker his junior year.

Smith plans to attend TTU and major in medicine. He is the son of Terry and Linda Smith.

HPPR schedules next concert

AMARILLO — High Plains Public Radio is gearing up to present its next "Living Room Concert" with pianist, James Gardner and tenor, Robert Hansen at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 12 at its studio in downtown Amarillo.

This concert installment is called "Let Me Sing and I'm Happy" and takes its name from a tune by Irving Berlin and features songs by Irving Berlin, Hoagy Carmichael, Paul Dresser, Jay Gorney and many others. The two musicians created the program to draw attention to great American music from a bygone era.

Robert Hansen has performed with the Amarillo Symphony, Chamber Music Amarillo, Amarillo Opera and the Lone Star Ballet. Outside the region, he has made numerous recital and concert appearances in New England, the Midwest, and the Southwest and performed the tenor role in the New York City premiere of the opera "Confess, Confuse" by Bruce Tinkley in January 2007. Hansen is professor of voice and coordinator of the vocal division of the Department of Music at West Texas A&M University.

Tired of Neck and Back Pain?

Spine Decompression Therapy
May Be The Answer!

The back and leg pain associated with herniated discs, bulging and degenerative discs, spinal degeneration and arthritis may be virtually eliminated following this effective new treatment. The equipment for this treatment has FDA clearance and studies have shown that Spine Decompression can be effective in as many as 80% of the patients treated, even when surgery and other types of treatment have failed. The treatment is so comfortable that some patients fall asleep during the session. It takes only minutes and there is no need for hospitalization, medication, difficult exercises or post-treatment recovery time. If you suffer from back pain, neck pain, sciatica, or numbness and pain in your arms you owe it to yourself to try this exciting new treatment.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old girl and an only child. My parents, "Ellie" and "Miles," are divorced. My dad, a recovering alcoholic, relapsed last year. Abby, I am desperate. When Miles drinks even the slightest amount, he smashes plates and mirrors, pounds his fists into doors and grabs me roughly. I'm deeply afraid that when he is very intoxicated he may one day seriously injure me. Miles is also severely depressed, so I'm constantly on "suicide watch." Even though I attend a local Alateen chapter and am in therapy, my schoolwork is suffering, my relationships are floundering, and I'm depressed, isolated and overwhelmed. Part of me doesn't want to see my father anymore, but the other part feels extremely guilty and like I should just deal with everything on my own. Which part is right? — CONFLICTED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR CONFLICTED: The part that's telling you to avoid your father until you're sure he's back on the wagon and no longer intimidating or violent. That little voice you're hearing is your instinct for survival. Also, you should not be on "suicide watch." At 14, you do not have the tools to save your father from his self-destructive impulses. Under no circumstances should you be alone with him until he's dry again. After the treatment you have experienced and the stress to which you have been subjected, it is not unusual to feel depressed, isolated and overwhelmed. That's why it is so important that you continue talking frankly with your therapist and Alateen group, where other members have had similar experiences and can relate. Readers, for those of you who are unfamiliar with Al-Anon/Alateen, which have been mentioned before in my column, this organization offers an informative booklet online that can be downloaded, and also in soft-cover, free of charge. The title is "Al-Anon Faces Alcoholism 2008." To view it online (in English, Spanish or French), log on to www.Al-AnonFamilyGroups.net. To order a printed copy, e-mail wso@al-anon.org or write: Al-Anon Family Groups Inc., Attn: AFA 2008, 1600 Corporate Landing Parkway, Virginia Beach, VA 23454-5617.

DEAR ABBY: It has happened again! Every year I make my list of New Year's resolutions, and within two weeks I have broken my vow. My downfall is bingeing on sweets, so this year I resolved to swear off chocolate. Last night I was feeling tired and depressed, and I "found" a large chocolate bar with almonds I had stashed at the back of one of the kitchen cupboards and ate the whole thing. I'm disgusted with myself. Every year you print your list of New Year's resolutions. But now many people actually stick to them, and if so, now do they do it? Have you any tips? — CHOCOHOLIC IN NORFOLK, VA.

DEAR CHOCOHOLIC: Please stop beating up on yourself. You're not the only person who has broken a New Year's resolution. The majority of people do it sooner or later. I do have some suggestions for establishing healthier habit patterns, and I'm pleased to share them with you:

- (1) Decide what you want to achieve, but be realistic in setting your goals.
 - (2) Get support from friends and family.
 - (3) If you're trying to eliminate a bad habit, then make a plan and substitute a good habit in its place.
 - (4) Understand that we can learn more from our mistakes than our successes. If you slip up, don't give up. Forgive yourself and then rededicate yourself.
 - (5) When you do well, don't take it for granted. Look in a mirror and praise yourself out loud. Affirmations provide strong reinforcement.
- And last, but not least, remember that you're not a bad person for backsliding on a New Year's resolution. If people were perfect, there would be no need for a Dear Abby.

Student newspaper pulled due to recipe with schnapps

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Officials at a junior high school spiked an edition of the student newspaper because it contained a recipe for hot chocolate that included peppermint schnapps.

The January edition of Stillwell Junior High School's quarterly Tiger Tracks was pulled off the racks when the boozy recipe was discovered, Principal Tim Miller said. A student at the West Des Moines school submitted the recipe, which slipped through the editing process, Miller said.

Miller described the mistake as an honest one, saying the student who submitted the recipe thought schnapps was a type of candy.

CRIME

Flirtatious women robbing men in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Well-dressed men at posh Dallas hotels and bars are being targeted by a ring of flirtatious women who may be drugging them before swiping their watches and other expensive items, police said.

One man was hurt after possibly being beaten with a high-heeled shoe, police said. Another lost his wallet while in his car with his pants around his ankles.

About a half-dozen men have reported falling victim to the scheme, Dallas police detective Mark Jenkins said. Many were business travelers, and Jenkins suspects there are others too embarrassed to file police reports.

"I don't know if so much it's that the men are being attracted to them, as that (the suspects) are more or less forcing themselves on the men," Jenkins said.

The stylish W hotel in downtown Dallas is among the places where the alleged thefts began. Authorities said the women knew that were looking for; several of the victims wore Rolex watches.

The women have histories as prostitutes, Jenkins said.

In one case, police said a 37-year-old Tampa, Fla., executive lost his iPod, laptop and $4,000 watch after accepting a beer from one of the women.

The women may be slipping drugs into the drinks of their victims, police said.

Evacuated sea lions back at New Orleans zoo

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five California sea lions evacuated to Texas after Hurricane Katrina are back at the Audubon Zoo, and their admirers will be able to see them again on Valentine's Day.

Sushi, Cinnamon, Katie, Lilli, and Porter are among the zoo's most popular inhabitants — as have been other sea lions since the pool opened in July 1928.

Spokeswoman Chimene Grant Connor said Friday that the zoo's current sea lions returned Dec. 30, but their pool has been closed to the public while they got used once more to the quarters they had to leave in mid-September 2005, shortly after Hurricane Katrina hit on Aug. 29.

It will reopen Thursday. She said Cinnamon and Katie were sent to Houston Zoo and the others to Moody Gardens in Galveston, where Cinnamon and Katie went six months later.

Work on the exhibit included construction of a 20-foot-wide "back-of-house" night pool for Porter, the male, who has grown to more than 300 pounds.

The exhibit is made up of two pools — an upper pool, which patrons look down at over a railing, and a lower pool where sea lions perform. That pool can be viewed from an amphitheater and from the side, through a thick window.

Landscapers are still doing "major rock work" on the upper pool, Connor said. Until that is done, the sea lions will stay in the lower pool and the back-of-house areas.

The zoo hired two new sea lion trainers, and new public shows and feedings are planned.

Exciting game ends with a Harvester win

By KATHERINE FLANARY

The Pampa Harvesters have made an exciting turnaround from the last game, in both the JV and varsity teams.

In an exciting game Friday night, the Harvesters pulled off a thrilling win over the Dumas Demons.

Bryan brothers send U.S. past Austria in finals

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The defending champion United States advanced to the Davis Cup quarterfinals behind a commanding doubles victory by twins Bob and Mike Bryan on Saturday over Austria's Julian Knowle and Jurgen Melzer.

The Bryans won 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 to give the Americans an unbeatable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five first-round series. The U.S. will play Romania or France in the next round April 11-13.

Andy Roddick and James Blake won opening singles matches Friday against Melzer and Stefan Koubek. The now meaningless reverse singles are Sunday.

At the half, the Harvesters were leading 23-22.

With 3:30 remaining, the Harvesters scored 2 points to bring them to the lead at 47-46. With 2:15 left to go, the Harvesters put themselves a solid 3 points ahead with a score of 51-46.

With 10 seconds to go, the Demons seem determined to score, but the Harvesters held them off to win 53-49.

In the JV game, the Harvesters led 36-26 at the half, and led 52-43 at the end of the third. They won with a score of 69-57.

The JV's record is 11-12 overall, and 4-5 in district.

Pat Knight, Bob's son, wants to be known as good coach

WACO, Texas (AP) — Pat Knight realizes he will always be known as Bob Knight's son, no matter what he does on his own.

"That shadow is so big, you're not getting out of that one," Knight said Wednesday, hours before succeeding his father as Texas Tech's head coach.

That's OK with 37-year-old Pat Knight, who is finally getting to fulfill his lifelong dream of being a college head coach. But he'd also eventually like to be recognized as something else.

"I desire to just be known as a good coach. Now I don't desire not to be known as Bob Knight's son. ... That's great for me, that's my dad," he said. "In my mind, I want to be established as a good head coach, and that's what I'm going to try to do."

The sudden resignation of Bob Knight this week after 902 victories and three national titles over 42 years accelerated Pat Knight's promotion. His debut came against Baylor, the first of at least 11 games remaining for the Red Raiders this season.

Bob Knight had already mentioned to his son a couple of times in the past month the possibility of resigning in the middle of this season.

"I kind of talked him out of it. He wasn't really serious, but was 'Hey, what if I did, what if you took over tomorrow?'," the younger Knight said.

Things were different when Bob Knight called his two sons into his office Monday. There would be no changing his mind this time.

"He shuts the door, 'Boys, I'm done, I can't do it any more. It's not in me,'" Pat Knight said. "That was it. He had already gone to see (athletic director Gerald) Myers and resigned. So it wasn't like I could pull the Jedi mind trick and convince him to come back. Not this time."

Texas Tech tabbed Pat

Knight as the coach designate before the 2005-06 season, but it seemed the wait would be longer when in September his father signed a three-year extension through the 2011-12 season. Now Pat Knight has a five-year deal as coach.

Bob Knight had already mentioned to his son a couple of times in the past month the possibility of resigning in the middle of this season.

Bob Knight, the winningest coach in NCAA men's Division I history, didn't travel to Waco for his son's debut. He instead stayed home in Lubbock.

"He told me it's your team," Pat Knight said.

That means there will be some tweaks since the younger Knight prefers a faster pace and likes a zone defense. Those are changes he had already spoken to his father about making. "But the base of course is going to be the motion offense and man to man," he said. "It will be just little tweaks, but it will always have the blanket of a Bob Knight basketball team just because I believe in that philosophy." With Bob Knight stepping aside now, instead of waiting until after the season as his son expected, Pat Knight got an early start in establishing himself as head coach.

"I'm not talking to these kids about the postseason, the NCAA and the NIT," he said. "I just want to have a team that after these 10 games, we're going in the right direction."

The seemingly subdued personality of Pat Knight is a direct contrast to the volatile temperament of his father.

But Pat Knight said he does "have the temperament" and that his father has talked to him about using it at times to motivate players, but also to be himself. There was also some fatherly advice about when and how to use certain profane words.

His father also spoke to him about dealing with the media, but the message was different from what most people would expect.

"He told me keep dealing with the media like you do. He told me one time he wishes it was different for him and the media, but if he changed now, it'd look phony," Pat said.

Former LSU halfback Kenny Konz dead

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Texas native Kenny Konz, an All-Southeastern Conference halfback for the LSU Tigers in 1950 and a member of the LSU Athletic Hall of Fame, died in Alliance, Ohio, due to complications from pneumonia, the school announced Wednesday.

The last living member of the defensive backfields of the Cleveland Browns' championship teams in the 1950s under Paul Brown, Konz was 79 at the time of his death on Tuesday.

Konz played at LSU from 1948 to 1950, earning All-SEC honors his senior season. In the final game of the 1949 season he triggered a 21-0 upset win over heavily favored Tulane with a punt return for a touchdown. He returned three punts that day for a total of 125 yards, still among the top 10 punt return games in the history of LSU football.

Konz was inducted into the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame in 2000. He was also a member of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Though he played only six-man football at Weimar (Texas) High School in southeast Texas, where all 12 grades in the district were housed in one building, Konz still stood out enough to earn a scholarship to LSU. It was there that he saw his first standard football game.

While playing with the Tigers, he was selected All-Southeastern Conference in 1950 and was hailed as one of the greatest all-around halfbacks in school history.

Soccer star Hamm added to Texas Sports Hall of Fame

WACO, Texas (AP) — Soccer star Mia Hamm, who won two World Cups and two Olympic medals, was added Wednesday to the Texas Sports Hall of Fame's class of 2007.

Hamm, who spent part of her high school career in Wichita Falls, was to be inducted with the 2006 class but was pregnant with twins and couldn't make last year's ceremony. The hall requires inductees to attend the ceremony, set for March 11.

The 34-year-old competed on the U.S. women's soccer team for 18 years. She retired after the 2004 Athens Olympics.

Among the other inductees are former Dallas Cowboys receiver Michael Irvin, Dallas Stars center Mike Modano, former Texas Tech football coach Spike Dykes and former Houston Oilers and Texas A&M star Ray Childress.

Also scheduled to be inducted are Granbury girls basketball coach Leta Andrews, former Dallas Texans running back Abner Haynes, and former Baylor and Cleveland Browns offensive lineman Jim Ray Smith.

San Antonio Spurs coach Gregg Popovich was to be inducted but has a scheduling conflict.

Hendrick still the team to beat in 2008

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rick Hendrick could not have had a better year last season, when his powerful organization won 18 races, a second consecutive championship and had three of its four drivers in the Chase.

Despite that success, the car owner is anything but content to rest on his laurels in 2008. The addition of Dale Earnhardt Jr. has created a superstar lineup with tremendous potential to dominate the Sprint Cup Series, and Hendrick has encouraged all four of them to "Accelerate in '08."

"Right now we're tied for last place with 45 other teams," he said. "We did have a good year last year, but that's not going to pay any bills, not going to get us to the Chase or get us to the (championship) stage in New York. We've got to work hard and work smart."

That's terrifying news to the rest of the garage, which tried last year but failed to dethrone mighty Hendrick Motorsports.

"The 800-pound gorilla in the room is the Hendrick organization that everybody's fighting," Kyle Petty, owner and driver for Petty Enterprises. "Everybody pays attention to them."

With a lineup that includes two-time defending champion Jimmie Johnson, four-time series champion Jeff Gordon, Casey Mears and Earnhardt, the team was recently compared to the New England Patriots by NASCAR chairman Brian France.

The Patriots fell short of their ultimate goal — losing the Super Bowl on Sunday in an upset to the New York Giants — but NASCAR doesn't have an obvious challenger with the potential to end Hendrick's dominance.

That doesn't mean the teams won't try. "We're not coming into this year to take a butt-whipping," said Jeff Burton, driver for Richard Childress Racing.

"We're not here to run second. We're not here to talk about how good Hendrick is. That's not why we exist. We exist so people talk about us."

But deflecting attention from the Hendrick juggernaut will be difficult, especially early.

NASCAR will use its controversial Car of Tomorrow for the entire 36-race schedule this season after phasing it into competition during 2007. Many believe Hendrick dominated last year because its enormous work force and unlimited resources allowed the organization to get a tremendous head start on mastering the CoT.

Even though everyone should be on a level playing field this year, it was clear in preseason testing that the Hendrick crew still has an edge.

Gordon and the No. 24 team seemed to have mastered the car — so much that the vocal driver has softened his criticism of it — and Earnhardt was at the top of the speed charts last month in Daytona.

AUSTIN — Freezing temperatures, chilling winds, ice storms and snow can create severe problems for Texans who are more often used to dealing with heat waves. The Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) urges people to take extra precautions against hypothermia and other winter-related dangers.

Hypothermia, the severe or prolonged loss of body heat, begins when a person's body temperature falls below 95 degrees. Because the temperature drop may be gradual, and an early symptom of hypothermia is mental confusion, the victim may not know a problem exists.

People most susceptible to hypothermia include those 60 and older, infants and small children, the sick, those taking certain prescription drugs or drinking alcohol, the homeless, auto or boating accident victims and those unable to find temporary shelter in cold weather.

To reduce potential dangers:

- Watch for hypothermia symptoms including confusion, drowsiness, slurred speech, a drop in blood pressure, shallow breathing and a pinkish tint to the skin. Anyone with these symptoms related to cold temperatures is in immediate danger. Get medical help right away.
- Check on elderly or ill people, especially if they live alone or in isolated areas.
- Wear several layers of loose-fitting clothing, mittens, hat and a face cover. Stay dry.
- Be extremely cautious in the wind. A strong wind, even in only moderately cool weather, can cause a wind chill far below freezing.
- Winter storms also may cause power outages, leading to food safety problems. If you lose power for more than four hours, take these precautions with refrigerated food products:
 - Keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed as much as possible.
 - Discard any potentially hazardous foods such as meats, eggs, dairy products and leftovers that may have exceeded 40 degrees. When in doubt, throw it out.
 - Any frozen food that has thawed but not exceeded 40 degrees should be prepared as soon as possible. Do not re-freeze.
- DSHS officials warn that people should not underestimate cold weather and should dress appropriately. Anyone planning outdoor activities in cold weather should check local weather forecasts.

LUBBOCK — Cody Hukill of Pampa was recently invited to join Sigma Epsilon Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma Mechanical Engineering Honor Fraternity at Texas Tech University.

Membership is based upon academic ability and character. Hukill ranks in the top 25 percent of junior mechanical engineering majors at TTU.

The fraternity not only promotes and supports the mechanical engineering department at TTU but is dedicated to improving the community as well.

Members volunteer as free tutors, as Upward Bound tutors, serve as mentors to underclassmen within the department and are involved in such community service projects as Habitat for Humanity.

Hukill, a 2005 Pampa High School graduate, is the son of Wes and Lori Hukill of Pampa.

CANYON — Students from Canadian and Wheeler each earned parts for an upcoming production of "Julius Ceasar" to be staged by West Texas A&M University at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13-16 and 20-23 in the Branding Iron Theatre of the Sybil B. Harrington Fine Arts Complex on the WT campus.

"I've wanted to do this play for a long time," said Director Royal Brantley, professor of theatre at the university. "I knew it was going to be an election year so I adapted the play to a contemporary setting and put a spin on the gender just a bit."

WTAMU faculty member Perry Crafton, associate professor of theatre, will be Marc Anthony.

Savanna Shipp, a junior theatre education major from Wheeler will play the part of Portia while Kayla Jenkins, a sophomore musical theatre major from Canadian, will portray a Roman citizen.

Tickets will be $10 apiece if purchased in advance and $7 each for senior citizens and children 12 and under. For more information, call the BIT box office at 806-651-2804. Box office hours are 1-5 p.m. Monday-Friday and 6 p.m. the evening of each performance.

Shakespeare wrote "Julius Ceasar" in the early 1600s to tell the story of Caesar, an ambitious political leader who wanted to be dictator. Caesar is warned to "Brave the Ides of March," a prophecy that comes true when he is assassinated by a group of conspirators led by Marcus Brutus.

"The students are enjoying this production," Brantley said. "I wanted them to see what a master Shakespeare was and how his work transcends time. That is the power and genius of Shakespeare."

Brantley began working on the adaptation more than a year ago and finished the draft of the play in July. Auditions were held in October, and the cast has been rehearsing since November.

WTAMU Band to Present Pre-Tour Concert Feb. 10

CANYON — The West Texas A&M University Symphonic Band will kick off its annual concert tour with an 8 p.m. concert Sunday, Feb. 10 in Mary Moody Northen Recital Hall on campus.

The band, directed by Don Lefevre, associate professor of music and director of bands, will cap off the tour with a record breaking 12th appearance at the Texas Music Educators Association (TMEA) Convention at 12:30 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Lila Cockrell Theatre at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in San Antonio.

The Symphonic Band's Feb. 10 concert and tour program will feature works by Ron Nelson, Francois Borne, Philip Sparke, Richard Wagner and the premiere of a composition by retired WTAMU faculty member Dr. Norman J. Nelson. The piece, "Fugue with Drums," was commissioned in 2007 by the Alpha Psi chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi at WTAMU.

Lefevre will direct the group, and a highlight of the concert and tour and TMEA performances will be WTAMU Professor Emeritus Dr. Gary Garner as guest conductor. Garner, who retired from WTAMU in 2002 after 39 years, has appeared with the Symphonic Band at TMEA conventions numerous times. Lyndsay Eiben, a senior music performance major from Odessa, will be the featured flute soloist. She has been a member of the Symphonic Band since 2004 and is active in several WTAMU ensembles. She also plays with the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra.

The band's concert tour begins Tuesday, Feb. 12 with a 7 p.m. concert for Robert E. Lee High School in the Stan Cobb Auditorium in Midland. On Wednesday, Feb. 13, the band will perform at 11:20 a.m. for Brady High School and at 7:30 p.m. for Jefferson High School in the school's auditorium in San Antonio.

The pre-tour concert is free and open to the public. For more information, call 806-651-2840.

Sally Ride to Speak at WTAMU 'Women's Day' Event

CANYON — Dr. Sally Ride, the first woman in space, will be the keynote speaker at West Texas A&M University's "Women's Day: Honoring the Past, Celebrating the Present and Creating the Future" on Thursday, March 6 on the WTAMU campus.

The event is designed to celebrate the contributions of women to the local and global community through academic poster presentations, a luncheon, author readings and a reception. Ride's visit to the campus will complement a day of activities focused on women and their accomplishments.

Ride joined NASA in January 1978 as an astronaut candidate and was eligible a year later for assignment on future space shuttle flight crews. She got her first chance in 1983 as a mission specialist on the second flight of the Challenger — a mission that made her the first American woman in space. She flew again in 1984 on an eight-day mission on the Challenger. Ride has more than 340 total hours in space flight.

In 1989, Ride left NASA and joined the faculty at the University of California at San Diego as a professor of physics and director of the University of California's California Space Institute. In 2001, she founded her own company, Sally Ride Science, to fulfill her long-time passion of motivating girls and young women to pursue careers in science, math and technology. She is an advocate for improved science education and has authored five science books for children.

Ride has received numerous awards and honors including induction into the National Women's Hall of Fame and the Astronaut Hall of Fame. She also is a two-time recipient of the NASA Space Flight Medal. Ride currently serves on the boards of the Aerospace Corporation and the California Institute of Technology.

Her visit to WTAMU is made possible by the WTAMU Distinguished Lecture Series, Sensei Med Spa and the Women's Day Steering Committee. For more information, call 806-651-5330.

University Plans Discover WT Event

CANYON — West Texas A&M University invites high school juniors and seniors and transfer students to come and Discover WT on Saturday, Feb. 16.

Discover WT is a one-day preview opportunity for transfer students and high school juniors and seniors to find their way and learn more about the University. Check-in is at 9:15 a.m. at the Alumni Banquet Facility, but an Early Bird Campus Tour is available at 8:30 a.m.

The day's activities begin at 10 a.m. and include a WT Highlight Reel featuring highlights from each of the University's five colleges. A Department Open House follows where prospective students can tour individual departments, visit with current students and meet faculty members.

A choice of concurrent sessions begins at 1 p.m. Those attending can choose three sessions to attend. Session options are admissions, financial aid/scholarships, transfer, honors and study abroad. Students and parents also can choose to attend a parent session or a student panel.

A Student Services and Organizational Showcase from 2:15-3 p.m. will give students a chance to discover the various ways to get involved in campus groups and organizations.

There also will be a chance for seniors and transfer students attending Discover WT to apply for summer or fall 2008 admission.

Campus tours also are on the agenda as well as a chance to view the University's residence halls, Horse Center and Nance Ranch. Tours end at 5 p.m., but students and parents can stay on campus and cheer for the Lady Buffs and Buffs in a pair of basketball games beginning at 6 p.m. at the First United Bank Center.

Discover WT is a free University-sponsored event. The deadline for the Feb. 16 session is Tuesday, Feb. 12. Another Discover WT day is scheduled for March 7. For more information or to make reservations, call 1-800-99-WTAMU.

Rapist escapes through door

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A convicted rapist escaped from a South Texas jail by dashing through an unlocked door, just one day after he was sentenced to life in prison.

Abel Morin, 24, escaped from the Jim Hogg County Jail in Hebbronville late Tuesday while being moved between cells. He remained at large Friday, and Texas and federal authorities were offering a cash reward for information on his whereabouts.

On Monday, he was sentenced to five concurrent life terms for sexual assault, kidnapping and burglary in the rapes of a mother and daughter in Duval County. Just hours after deputies took Morin to Hebbronville on Tuesday, he escaped.

Jim Hogg County Sheriff Erasmo "Kiko" Alarcon acknowledged that at least one door at the jail was left unlocked, allowing Morin to run away.

"We're looking into why the door was open," he said. "The jailer assumed the door was locked. This guy saw it cracked open and went for it."

Alarcon said Morin won't be easy to catch.

"He's very dangerous," he said. "He doesn't have much to lose at this point."

Yadira Mejia, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Marshall Service, said there had not been any confirmed sightings of Morin by Friday, but authorities believe he remains in the region. He has family in Alice, Corpus Christi and San Diego, Texas.

"It's just a matter of time before we get him out of his hiding place," she said.

The Texas Rangers were offering $1,000 cash reward for information on his whereabouts; the U.S. Marshall Service was offering a second cash reward.

Morin, who authorities said is a member of the Texas Mexican Mafia gang, is 5-foot-3, 120 pounds and has tattoos running down his arms and covering his chest.

Editor's Note: To contact the U.S. Marshall Service with information on Morin, call 1-800-336-0102.

LAST REQUEST

Dogs of soldier who died in Iraq brought to his family in Michigan

GROSSE POINTE FARMS, Mich. (AP) — The family of Peter Neesley had one wish to fulfill after the Army sergeant died in Baghdad on Christmas Day.

They yearned to retrieve two stray dogs that he had taken in, and cared for. He was attached to them, and expressed in e-mails and phone calls how he wanted to bring them home to Michigan.

For weeks, the family has fought to have at least that part of Peter's life given back to them.

On Friday afternoon, their wish came true.

As Mama, a black Labrador mix, and Boris, her white-and-brown spotted puppy, hopped out of a minivan, the family ran and knelt in the wet streets to greet them.

Peter Neesley's sister, Carey, cried.

"It's been such a long, complicated struggle and to see them finally come home is just amazing," she said.

Neesley said things hadn't been normal since the family learned that her 28-year-old brother had died in his sleep.

The dogs were picked up in Baghdad this week by Rich Crook, a rapid response manager for the Utah-based Best Friends Animal Society, which helped arrange the animals' transport after learning about them from media reports. Gryphon Holdings LLC, an American-owned airline with service to Iraq, agreed to fly the dogs from Baghdad to Kuwait City.

While Neesley's fellow soldiers cared for Mama and Boris, a veterinarian with the Iraqi Society for Animals vaccinated the dogs and arranged for the health certificates allowing them to travel to the United States. Crook and the dogs arrived in Washington D.C. on Thursday and drove to the Grosse Pointe Farms home of Neesley's mother, capping a four-week transfer that involved elected officials.

Much of the family, including an aunt of Peter's who flew in from New Jersey, gathered at the home. A banner welcoming Mama and Boris hung outside of the brick house with red, white and blue balloons tied to a bannister.

"There were times when we would have a roadblock and then all of a sudden it would open up, so we knew we were on the right track," Crook said.

Carey's son, Patrick, looked at Peter as a father figure and was excited about having the dogs home. Later in the afternoon, one of his best friends called to see if he could come over and play with Patrick and the dogs.

"Patrick, when we started this a few weeks ago, said he just wanted to love them and hold them and take care of them and all of that," said Peter's aunt, Julie Dean. "It's going to be tremendous comfort for the family."

Carey says the family doesn't have any major plans for the new pets.

"We're just going to love them, work on housebreaking, and that kind of stuff," she said. She's still waiting for it all to sink in.

"I think it's going to be more of a reality as the days go on and we kinda come back to normal," she said.

"It's been such a long, complicated struggle and to see them finally come home is just amazing."

Texas cotton prospects dimming

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Cotton producer Doug Hlavaty looks across his South Plains fields and sees the potential for trouble.

The region has gone 60 days without significant rain, humidity has been low and windy conditions have prevailed since early January. The gusty conditions — with winds sometimes blowing more than 65 mph — have sucked valuable moisture from fields.

"Right now we couldn't plant at all," Hlavaty said. "I could use a rain, a good rain."

It's still about 10 weeks until farmers start planting in the world's largest contiguous cotton patch, but the arid, windy conditions already have them fretting.

While lack of rainfall isn't entirely unusual for the South Plains this time of year, the heavy winds don't usually come for another month or so. The wind robs moisture on the soil's surface, damaging the subsurface moisture that newly planted cottonseed needs to germinate and grow.

"We're starting to get concerned about the top layer of soil crusting and turning to sand when strong winds blow," said Roger Haldenby of the Plains Cotton Growers, which serves a 41-county region on the South Plains. "Without future rain, that drying continues to deepen."

Last year, heavy rainfall throughout Texas, the nation's leading cotton-producing state, led to the second-largest crop on record last year: 8.1 million bales, 5.3 million from the South Plains.

Dry conditions are worse for dryland cotton producers, who rely on rainfall only to grow the plants. But switching to other crops such as corn doesn't make much sense because those crops would need more water.

"Cotton is kind of an arid-tolerant plant, and it's the ideal crop choice for this area," Haldenby said. "Whatever you're going to plant you're going to need moisture."

For irrigated cotton producers, who have the capability to pump water as a supplement precipitation, a lack of rain "is just going to cost us more money," Hlavaty said. They'll have higher input costs to pay to pump water from the Ogallala Aquifer, the main source of agricultural water in West Texas.

Hlavaty plants half dryland, half irrigated on his 5,000 acres in Lubbock.

With a strong La Nina influencing weather patterns, the chance of heavy rain isn't good, weather officials said. The last significant rainfall came Dec. 11, dew points have dipped below zero and humidity has reached single digits.

"So we're below normal, but not that much below normal," National Weather Service meteorologist Justin Weaver said. "There's plenty of time to catch up."

If conditions improve, it will help Texas growers who are expected to account for about half (4.8 million acres) of the nation's 9.5 million acres planted this year, the National Cotton Council announced Friday.

Texas' tally is a drop of 2.3 percent from last year; the U.S. number is a 12 percent decrease from 2007.

Komodo dragons hatch at zoo

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two Komodo dragons are one of the few species capable of storing sperm, said Don Boyer, curator of reptiles and amphibians at the San Diego Zoo and species survival plan coordinator for Komodo dragons.

The Sedgwick County Zoo has had this female and one other since 1993, when they were less than a year old. They have been laying eggs since 2000.

"We never had a male dragon at the zoo. There were no tramps that came wandering through," said Nate Nelson, the zoo's curator of amphibians, reptiles and fishes.

One of the Kansas zoo's females, Gaia, laid at least 17 eggs on the nights of May 19 and 20, 2007. The females can lay as many as 30 eggs at a time.

Because the English zoos had documented parthenogenesis, the Sedgwick County Zoo checked to see whether the eggs were fertile. Only two of the 17 eggs were hatched — one on Jan. 31 and the other Feb. 1 — because the zoo doesn't have room for more dragons, Nelson said.

One is 16 inches long; the other is 17 inches. Komodo dragons can live 20 to 40 years. Males can reach 10 feet long and weigh as much as 200 pounds; females grow to between 5 and 7 feet and weigh as much as 125 pounds.

Komodo dragons are endangered, with between 3,000 and 5,000 in the wild. Eighty live in 30 zoos in North America. Only six zoos in the nation breed the dragons.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Feb. 10, 2008:
You say what you think but also mean what you say. If you aren't sure, don't take any action. Your strength and solidity add to your appeal to associates, friends and loved ones. Strong communication helps you not only zero in on what you want but also allows you to understand where others are coming from. Encourage openness and responsiveness. If you are single, you'll meet others in your day-to-day travels. Mr. or Miss Right easily could be heading in your direction. If you are attached, emphasize good communication. ARIES is fiery and opinionated — at times.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You finally feel as if you are in the thick of life, involved and making decisions. There are no guarantees with your decision-making process. Decide to please a key individual in your life. You might not have the whole story. Tonight: As you like.

This Week: Monday you charge into work. Everything that happens afterward is the result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 You can tumble into a low-key presence with ease. Knowledge and understanding seem to resonate more if you quiet down. Don't forget to make a call to someone near and dear, possibly at a distance. Tonight: Treat your mind to cotton candy.

This Week: Get information and return calls. You become a force to be dealt with on Tuesday on. Watch out, world!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Zero in on what you want. In your opinion, someone might be a tad bit resistant. Visualize and share with friends. The direction you head in might be unusual, but could reveal your depth to someone near and dear to you. Tonight: Dinner for two with a very special person.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Know that whatever you decide, whichever direction you go, others are observing. You might want to recoup recent losses stemming from confusion or a lack of understanding. A key person appreciates your caring gestures. Tonight: Could be late.

This Week: Count on being a force to be dealt with. Go out and do your thing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Reach out. If a loved one or friend is at a distance, make plans to meet in the near future. You might really love getting together. Good news might knock on your door. Be willing to take a risk or walk through that door. Tonight: Try a new restaurant.

This Week: Embody and act on your vision. Others might have little choice but to respond.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Work with a close loved one. You might be surprised by what could come up. Your creativity flourishes no matter what you do or where you are — let your imagination flow. If you're wondering what to do, do nothing. Tonight: Fun and games.

This Week: A partner would like to play a stronger role in your decision-making process.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 If you want to relax and let your hair down, now is the time. Your perspective will change radically if you lie back and just observe. Taking good care of yourself might mean snoozing late or, in some cases, getting some exercise. Tonight: Choose something relaxing.

This Week: Let others run the show. Do your thing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Your words ring the right notes for a key person or persons in your life. Don't hold back; enjoy yourself. You have that magic touch; add in some nurturing, and you'll be a full-fledged winner. Tonight: Call it an early night.

This Week: Efficiency counts. You will be covering a lot of turf.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 Let others know where you are coming from. Your lively and dynamic style hits the right notes. By allowing the kid in you out, much gets triggered. Don't let limitations hold you back — for now. Tonight: As if there is no tomorrow.

This Week: Infuse your work with more creativity and dynamic thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Your ability to deal with others becomes a stronger asset than you realize. While others hold back, you step forward and make strong decisions. Investigate a change, looking to positive ramifications. Tonight: Close to home.

This Week: Your strong will helps you cruise over the trivial and focus on the positive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Speak your mind, and others move into high gear. Others seem congenial and upbeat, for a change. The time is right to make a move or to open up a discussion. Conversations will open you up. Tonight: Ever playful.

This Week: Let the talks begin. You must mull over feelings as well as information.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
* Indulge yourself to the max. Investigate new ideas, especially involving finances. Touch base with someone you trust, but if this person seems extravagant, hold back for now. Enjoy yourself, with an eye to being reasonable. Tonight: Your treat.

This Week: Balance your checkbook Monday, so you don't need to think about money the rest of the week.

HOROSCOPES

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Feb. 11, 2008:
Expect nothing less than a dynamic year where others care and let you know it. Your opinions and feelings demand attention. Nevertheless, a problem could evolve behind the scenes. Some of you might simply be more sensitive than usual and take comments more personally than they are intended. Learn to detach rather than react. Also, be honest if a relationship or some other facet of your life is not working. It might be time to let go. If you are single, don't rush the process of getting to know someone better. He or she might not be all you think at first. If you are attached, your relationship will benefit from frequent getaways together. ARIES knows how to draw you into a conversation.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You could feel strongly about an issue. Your creativity and dynamic sense of direction will come through for you, sooner rather than later. A sense of overindulgence emerges when dealing with someone you might answer to. Tonight: In the whirlwind of life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Knowing when to leave well enough alone needs to develop into an active character trait right now. You, perhaps, could be way too tired for your own good or, for other reasons, you are not on your game right now. Tonight: Time for some extra R and R.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Aim for precisely what you want. Don't limit yourself. A key associate or partner plays a big role in upcoming events. Know when to defer. You have many supporters. Tonight: What you want.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
* Others could look to you to determine what is acceptable under the present circumstances. Others might toss a lot of ideas on the table. Go through each one, as you might be surprised by the morsel of information you gather. Tonight: A must appearance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 If you're wondering which path to head down, stop and detach from both the decision and the moment. You will know then which way feels right. Follow your intuition. Someone you see nearly daily might have strong feelings toward you. Tonight: Relax to a great piece of music.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Work intensely with one person. Many people want your attention. Still, maintaining one-on-one contact is important. Others could be distracting. Let your creativity merge with your intellect. You'll get results! Tonight: Be a duo.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Even if someone seems difficult, don't think that it is intentional or that you are the target. Assume this person is going through some tension, which is creating changes. Leave the area and let this person deal with his or her issues. Tonight: Sort through invitations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Recognize that while others have time to be distracted, you don't have the same luxury. How you deal with others could earmark a work or day-to-day situation. Be aware of what is going on and the long-term implications.

Tonight: Get some exercise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 Your ideas entice many to try another mode of thinking and perhaps even head in a new direction. Use this unique ability to inspire others. Leadership skills could emerge, allowing others to see you clearly. Tonight: What you enjoy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Don't allow a situation to become more difficult than necessary. You could be tired of being handled in a certain manner. Do discuss your feelings calmly so that another doesn't feel threatened. Tonight: Easy does it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Your efforts pay off. Make that extra effort, and you will see a difference. Do nothing halfway. Emotionally, you might be worrying too much about hurting someone close. If you simply relax, everything will work out. Tonight: Hanging out is fun to do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Use some caution before deciding to go for the key desire. Make sure you can afford the costs that you could incur. A friend means well by encouraging you, even if he or she is not considering the ramifications. Tonight: Buy a treat for yourself.
