A special election was approved to give Gray County voters a choice of whether or not to authorize a maintenance tax for Clarendon College - Pampa Center. The election will be held May 10, the same date as City of Pampa and Pampa Independent School District elections.

The tax would not exceed five cents per $100 valuation of taxable property within the county, and all proceeds from the tax would be spent at the Pampa center. Its uses might include reducing tuition, providing new programs and/or maintaining the facility.

"Everyone on the committee believes education is the key to our success," said Lee Porter of the steering committee for Pampa Area Foundation which has been working to get the proposed tax on the ballots. Pampa Area Foundation was established in 1995 to support the junior college's Pampa campus.

County commissioners would examine the Pampa center's budget and set the tax rate according to need, within the maximum Peet allowed, said. Commissioners would also decide how the collected taxes were spent each year, Porter said.

The agreement with Crawford Roofing includes a five-year warranty.

Action on possible purchase of a group ID program was deferred until commissioners could further study the system. The system is available at several capabilities and costs, ranging from $2,350 up to $7,900. The item will be included on commissioners' March 17 agenda.

A 1992 Chevrolet Blazer in Precinct 4 was declared surplus property, and bids for it will be accepted until 10 a.m. March 17.

Bids on tax-delinquent property, all of which are vacant lots, were approved. They are: Brandonn Young, $200, lot on Clark Street; Robert Mack, $300, lot on Gillespie Street; and Harold Chester, two bids of $100 each for two lots on Malone Avenue

A racial profiling report by Precinct 2 Constable Christ Lockridge was accepted. Lockridge reported that in 2007, he stopped 155 whites, 20 blacks and 26 Hispanics for traffic and/or vehicle violations. Of those, citations were issued to 23 whites, one black and one Hispanic, with the remainder being given verbal warnings. Lockridge conducted two searches, both involving whites. Precinct 2 Commissioner Gary Willoughby addressed the commissioners' court concerning dumping of discarded items on rural property. The item may be included on the March 17 agenda.

The Dallas Morning News on the need for good teachers:

Moving the needle on student achievement in Texas requires making sure the most disadvantaged students get the best possible instruction. But that combination isn't showing up enough in Texas.

In the state's 50 largest school districts, poor and minority students are likely to get the least experienced and less successful instructors, according to the Education Trust, a Washingtonbased group that monitors student achievement.

Even within Dallas schools, which say they are aggressively tackling this disparity, about 14 percent of teachers in the highest-poverty schools have fewer than three years of experience, compared with 9 percent of teachers in the lowest-poverty schools.

Statewide, similar gaps exist on teacher credentials. About 32 percent of teachers assigned to high-poverty middle schools in Texas aren't fully certified in the subjects they teach. That compares with 19 percent in schools with the fewest low-income students. At the high school level, the gap widens. About 37 percent of teachers in high-poverty schools lack subject certification, compared with 16.1 percent in the most affluent high schools.

These disparities compound achievement deficiencies that many lowincome and minority students bring to the classroom. In the next few weeks, school districts will submit plans to the Texas Education Agency on how to use $148 million in teacher incentive pay to improve classroom performance. Those plans must allocate significantly additional dollars to match talented teachers with disadvantaged students. Moreover, the TEA, which is responsible for reviewing all proposals, must hold the districts to that statewide objective.

Assigning less-experienced teachers to academically struggling students year after year perpetuates a cycle of poor academic achievement. And that's AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Democratic Party says it's making plans to handle what it predicts will be a record voter turnout in the March 4 primary.

Party chairman Boyd Richie said Friday he believes Democratic turnout to vote for Hillary Clinton or Barack Obama will exceed the modern record of 1.8 million Democratic voters in the 1988 presidential primary.

The past two presidential primaries in Texas have each attracted fewer than 1 million Democrats.

The Secretary of State's office is working with the party to make sure there are plenty of ballots and voting equipment.

town of Leadville and threatening to blow. Lake County Commissioners have declared a local state of emergency for fear that this winter's above-average snowpack will melt and cause a catastrophic tidal wave.

The water is backed up in abandoned mine shafts and a 2.1-mile drainage tunnel that is partially collapsed, creating the pooling of water contaminated with heavy metals.

County officials have been nervously monitoring the rising water pressure inside the mine shafts for about two years. An explosion could inundate Leadville and contaminate the Arkansas River.

"It could come out, we just don't know where," county Commissioner Carl Schaefer town.

we're very concerned. We're not crying 'Chicken Little' here." State and federal officials agreed Thursday to conduct a risk assessment before taking any action. Critics said something should be done immediately to ease the pressure. Peter Soeth, a spokesman for the Bureau of Reclamation, which acquired the drainage tunnel in 1959, said there was no immediate threat to Leadville's 2,700 residents.

Officials point out that a speaker system to broadcast evacuation notices has already been installed near a mobile home park that has 300 residents near the tunnel's portal.

The tunnel normally drains water that seeps into some of the hundreds of abandoned mine shafts and other mine workings in the mountains east and south of Leadville and deposits it into the East Fork of the Arkansas River about a mile north of

Opera Workshop to Present 'Two Operas by Gian Carlo Menotti'

CANYON -There will be a touch of tragedy and a bit of humor when the West Texas A&M University Opera Workshop and the WTAMU Symphony present "Two Operas by Gian Carlo Menotti" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 23 and 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24 in Mary Moody Northen Recital Hall on campus.

The production is under the direction of Dr. Cloyce Kuhnert, artistic director and associate professor of voice, and Dr. Mark Bartley, conductor and assistant professor of music.

The program will open with Menotti's "The Medium." The work is considered a tragic, serious opera full of twists and turns. The characters are involved in deceptive séances that feed off the grief of others. A brush with the afterlife causes the situation to spiral out of control and leads to the tragic end of one of the characters.

The program will close on a humorous note with Menotti's "Old Maid and the Thief." This story centers around a busybody, a spinster, a young servalit and a handsome stranger whose good looks throw everyone and everything into turmoil. Comedy ensues as one continues to gossip, another begins to steal and the remaining two run off with everything

"We are doing two operas this year because both are short and give an opportunity for more singers to participate in leading roles," Kuhnert said. "We chose the operas because both are by Gian Carlo Menotti, who passed away last year, and we felt this was a fitting memorial for such a fine composer."

The production not only requires hours of rehearsal time, but Kuhnert and the students also build the sets and sew every one of the costumes.

"It's a lot of work, but it's such a valuable experience for the students," Kuhnert said. "When I was a student here, it was a wonderful experience for me, and I want our students to have that as well. They help out so much that they see the value of it, and it makes the opera more theirs."

Tickets are $7.50 for adults, $4 for students and free for WTAMU faculty, staff and students with a Buffalo Gold Card. They are available in advance in the music office or can be purchased at the door. For more information, call 806-651-2840.

Daredevil Steve Fossett declared dead after missing for five months

CHICAGO (AP) - Millionaire adventurer Steve Fossett, who risked his life seeking to set records in high-tech balloons, gliders and jets, was declared dead Friday, 5 months after he vanished while flying in an ordinary small plane.

balloon, was last seen Sept. 3 after taking off in a single-engine plane from an airstrip near Yerington, Nev., heading toward Bishop, Calif. He was 63.

At the request of his wife, Peggy V. Fossett, a judge declared Fossett legally dead in = the cy.

Cook County Circuit Court as a step toward resolving the legal status of his estate, said her attorney, Michael LoVallo.

Judge Jeffrey Malak heard testimony Friday from Peggy Fossett, a family friend and a search-and-rescue expert before deciding there was sufficient evidence to declare him dead.

"It was very sad," LoVallo said, "and at first she hoped and sort of envisioned him walking down the road the next day with another story to tell. But as the days went on, she realized it wasn't going to happen as it had on other occasions when he'd had close calls."

While flight records brought him his greatest fame, Fossett, who was paunchy for most of his life, also climbed some of the world's best-known peaks, including the Matterhorn in Switzerland and Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania. (Everest did elude him.) With top notch endurance and concentration, he swam the English Channel and completed the Boston Marathon, the Ironman Triathlon, the Iditarod dog sled race, and, as part of a team, the 24 Hours of Le Mans car race.

"Steve's lived his life to the full, and he hasn't wasted a minute of his life," Fossett's rival-turned-comrade, British billionaire Sir Richard Branson, had said as the search went on. "Everything he's done, he's taken a calculated risk with."

attempts, including a solo attempt by Fossett and a try by a crew led by Branson, the flashy founder of Virgin Atlantic Airways.

In 2002, after years of trying, Fossett became the first person to fly nonstop around the world alone in a balloon, setting the record on his sixth attempt. It took him two weeks to float 19,428.6 around the Southern miles

Hemisphere. Three years later, in March 2005, he was first to fly a plane solo around the world without stopping or refueling, covering 23,000 miles in 67 hours in the Virgin Atlantic GlobalFlyer jet.

Solo flights represent the ultimate challenge, he told The Associated Press when the GlobalFlyer was introduced in 2004.

"They become more of an endurance endeavor, and become focused on the ability and the performance of a single person," he said.

Fossett made nearly as many headlines for his narrow escapes as he did for his successes. In 1998, during one of his solo around-the-world attempts, his balloon ripped during a storm, sending him plunging 29,000 feet into the Coral Sea. Falling at about 2,500 feet per minute, Fossett blacked out.

He said his next memory was "waking up with the capsule upside down, half full of water and on fire.'

He was fished out by the crew of a schooner and was still on the ship when Branson called to invite him on another round-the-world attempt later that year, this time as part of a team. It ended in another dramatic rescue.

Branson, Fossett and Swedish balloonist Per Lindstrand made it more than halfway before poor wind conditions forced them to ditch in the shark-infested waters off Honolulu on Christmas Day 1998. The Coast Guard spent about $130,000 sending planes, helicopters and a boat to rescue the trio.

Fossett pressed on because of his thirst for accomplishments, and for all his close calls, those who knew him well said he wasn't reckless. Fossett once said the most dangerous thing he ever did was fall off his bicycle in Chicago without a hel-

U.S. flu season getting worse

ATLANTA (AP) — The flu season is getting worse, and U.S. health officials say it's partly because the flu vaccine doesn't protect against most of the spreading flu bugs.

The flu shot is a good match for only about 40 percent of this year's flu viruses, officials at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said Friday.

The situation has even deteriorated since last week when the CDC said the vaccine was protective against roughly half the circulating strains. In good years, the vaccine can fend off 70 to 90 percent of flu bugs.

Infections from an unexpected strain have been booming, and now are the main agent behind most of the nation's lab-confirmed flu cases, said Dr. Joe Bresee, the CDC's chief of influenza epidemiology.

It's too soon to know whether this will prove to be a bad flu season overall, but it's fair to say a lot of people are suffering at the moment. "Every area of the country is experiencing lots of flu right now," Bresee said.

reported widespread flu activity, up from 31 last week. The number children who have died from the flu has risen to 10 since the flu season's official Sept. 30 start.

Those numbers aren't considered alarming. Early February is the time of year when flu cases tend to peak. The 10 pediatric deaths, though tragic, are about the same number as was reported at this time in the last two flu seasons, Bresee said.

The biggest surprise has been how poorly the vaccine has performed.

Each winter, experts try to predict which strains of flu will circulate so they can develop an appropriate vaccine for the following season. They choose three strains- two from the Type A family of influenza, and one from Type B.

Usually, the guesswork is pretty good: The vaccines have been a good match in 16 of the last 19 flu seasons, Bresee has said.

But the vaccine's Type B component turned out not to be a good match for the B

This week, 44 states virus that has been most common this winter. And one of the Type A components turned out to be poorly suited for the Type A H3N2/Brisbane-like strain that now accounts for the largest portion of lab-confirmed cases.

Over the years, the H3N2 flu has tended to cause more deaths, Bresee said.

This week, the World Health Organization took the unusual step of recommending that next season's flu vaccine have a completely different makeup from this year's. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is expected to make its decision about the U.S. vaccine next week.

But Fossett was on a pleasure flight when he vanished and not looking for a dry lake bed to use as a surface on which to set the world land speed record, as was initially reported, according to his wife's petition.

Dozens of planes and helicopters spent more than a month searching the rugged western Nevada mountains before the effort was called off as winter approached.

The search area covered 20,000 square miles, and according to the Reno Gazette-Journal, about 15 to 20 private planes have vanished in the area since 1950. In 2005, wreckage was found in Kings Canyon National Park from a plane that went down during World War II.

LoVallo said Mrs. Fossett would like to recover the remains "and really find out what happened." Plans are to resume a recovery search in the spring.

A Stanford University graduate with a master's degree from Washington University in St. Louis, Fossett went to Chicago to work in investments and founded his own firm, Marathon Securities. The fortune he amassed allowed him to take his childhood fascination with exploration to extremes - he once said he drew up a list of feats he wanted to accomplish and started checking them off.

"Business is much easier for me," he told The Washington Post in a 1987 interview. "Sports is often very humiliating, because there are so many better athletes in these events. I would like to be the best in everything, but that's not possible. I risk humiliation because I have a genuine interest in participating." In 2004, Fossett and his crew broke the round-the-world sailing record by six days. He even set world records for crosscountry skis, according to his Web site.

But he was best known for his aerial exploits, first in ballooning, more recently in airplanes.

Beginning in the 1980s, teams led by Fossett, Branson and others used steadily improving technology to try to best each other and their predecessors in a series of ever-longer balloon flights. In January 1997 alone, there were three failed

Born in Jackson, Tenn., in 1944, Fossett grew up in Garden Grove, Calif., and climbed his first mountain as a 12-yearold Boy Scout and got his pilot's license in college.

On a fraternity dare in 1965, his senior year at Stanford, he swam to Alcatraz and tried to hang a "Beat Cal" banner on the wall of the island prison, which had closed two years earlier.

"I got it up there, briefly," he told the alumni magazine. "Then a security guard pushed me offshore. Luckily, my frat brothers were following behind me in a fishing boat with a keg of beer."

Fossett was inducted into the National Aviation Hall of Fame in July. He told a crowd gathered at the Dayton Convention Center in Ohio that he would continue flying and planned to go to Argentina later in the year in an effort to break a glider record.

"I imagine that when I'm 80 years old and sitting in a wheelchair that I might do something like take a remote control airplane and try and flight it around the world," he told CNN last year. "I plan to be setting and breaking records indefinitely."

sait supplies for many towns

MILWAUKEE (AP) -From Maine to Iowa and beyond, the unusually snowy winter has left dozens of communities with dwindling salt supplies and blown snow removal budgets five weeks before the official start of spring.

The cities, many already cash-strapped, are trying to buy more supplies or make do with what's left by mixing salt with sand or selectively salting high-traffic intersections.

The nation spends billions a year to clear roads during the winter, said Dick Hanneman, president of the Salt Institute, a trade association. Snow removal is the largest single expenditure in communities' public works budgets, surpassing road construction and bridge maintenance, which are often supplemented by federal and state dollars, he said.

More important than the amount of snow is how often it falls, because of a desire to put down salt no matter how much drops, said Hanneman, who is also on the winter maintenance committee for the Transportation Research Board, an arm of the National Academies of Science.

Communities typically buy thousands of tons of salt well before winter, when it is less expensive and easier to transport. In 2006, the nation spent some $307.8 million on about 12 million tons of highway salt, according to the latest figures available from the Salt Institute.

But even with careful planning, many areas come up short during long, snowy winters, Hanneman said.

"There's a lot of anxiety out there, a lot of people who are way behind schedule, using more salt than they contracted for for the whole winter," he said.

Most situations aren't dire yet, he said, because places often find salt before the next storm hits.

That's what happened in Davenport, Iowa, which earlier this week had only the salt on its trucks, public director Dee works Bruemmer said.

Davenport started the winter with 9,000 tons of salt and has used 14,000 tons so far. The city ordered an additional 1,800 tons, which cost between $90 and $125 a ton, as much as triple the cost of earlier orders, she said.

Orders started arriving Tuesday. Still, Bruemmer said she's never been this worried about salt in her 15 years as public works director.

"We're not producing the kind of effect that we'd like to and that's disappointing for us," she said. "We've never not met our goal of having all the streets cleared and that's a hard thing for us."

It's also expensive. The city set aside $580,000 for snow removal this winter. Bruemmer figures it'll cost about $1.3 million.

Some officials tried to get ahead of the salt crunch earlier this winter.

Bill Kappel, public works director for the Milwaukee suburb of Wauwatosa, knew something was wrong in December. The city started the winter with about 5,200 tons of salt, and in that month alone, crews were dispatched 15 times to salt or plow. "I went to my council and said, 'Hey, we're not twothirds of the way through the winter, but we're two-thirds of the way through the salt,"" Kappel said.

The council let him buy nearly 1,100 additional tons for about $34,140. The budget for snow removal ---including supplies, equipment and overtime - is $892,000, which Kappel figures will easily be spent this year.

Still, he thinks Wauwatosa's 160 miles of roadways will be fine as long as crews keep plowing and salting only major roadways and intersections. They have 1,600 tons left.

In Maine, the city of Augusta was running so low that the state had to provide more to last a recent stormy weekend, said Mark Latti, a spokesman for the state's department of transportation.

The state saw four storms in five days and by Sunday, crews started worrying about supplies, he said.

Not only are we using up a lot but getting supplies to the region is also hard," Latti said.

Madison, Wis., this week set a record for the most snowfall in a single season more than 77 inches, breaking the previous record of 76.6 inches in 1978-79.

It typically plans for five citywide plowings a year but has done 12 so far. Each costs $300,000, pushing the city over budget, city spokesman George Twigg said.

UIL realignment affects Pampa's district

By KATHERINE FLANARY Sports Editor

Realignment happens every two years, and it has taken place again for the 2008-2009 school year.

According to an AP story published in The Pampa News Feb. 3, "The UIL adjusts its districts, regions and classes for about 1,200 schools every two years based on enrollement figures collected from the Texas Education Agency."

The story also states that "success and rivalries are not factors in deciding class and district."

What does realignment mean for Pampa?

It means that the Harvesters have a completely new district, and with that, new teams to play. Hereford has been taken out of PISD's district, and the teams the Pampa Harvesters will have to face include Dumas, Palo Duro, Caprock, Randall and Canyon.

What is called snapshot day took place Oct. 25, 2007.

"Snapshot day is when they take about a wash for the boys.

attendance," Athletic Director Stuart Smith said. "We (Pampa ISD) turned in 1,030 for the high school and Pampa Learning Center."

Because enrollement is at 1,030, Pampa is still a 4A school. To be considered for the 4A status, the school district must have 980 to 2,084 enrolled in their high schools. For the 2008-2009 and the 2009-2010 school years, there are 243 schools that have attained the 4A status.

Smith believes Canyon will bring a lot to the board, and that the girls teams will have a lot to live up to.

"There are really good classes of girls (in the Canyon schools)," Smith said.

The expectations with competition are going up through realignment. "It's a lot of pressure, but justified pressure," Smith said. "The coaches want to be successful, knowing that the competitive levels have gone up."

Smith feels that the competition is Feb. 14. about a wash for the boys.

"We feel like Canyon's not quite to Hereford's level (at the boys level)," Smith said.

With Canyon having the smallest enrollment in the district, Pampa comes in second with the least enrolled.

Smith said that the enrollment has not changed dramatically over the past few years.

Smith fears that Pampa's status as a 4A school may change in the future.

"This is purely my opinion but I believe that Pampa and Dumas will move down to 3A, while Canyon would stay at 4A and will grow even more," Smith said. "I think (in the future) they will move up a class."

Hereford, who is still a 4A school, competes with a different district. They are now competing with schools such as Plainview and Big Springs.

Hearings will be conducted on Feb. 21 for schools who did not like their new position and appealed to the UIL Feb. 14.

HARVESTER GOLF

On February 12, the Lady Harvester golf team came in third overall at the Canyon Country Club.

After a chilly start and an hour frost delay, the girls were tested by quick greens and fairways lined with trees.

Taylor Bell scored 99. Shelby Wisdom scored 100, while Shelby Rose scored 95. Rikki Beesley scored 103, while Whiteney Sherrill scored 136. Shelby Rose scored eighth overall, and Taylor Bell placed tenth overall. The Lady Harvester's total score came out to be 397, which placed them in third place as a team.

"I am very pleased of the way (the girls) handled themselves and battled through the tough golf course," Coach JR Blackmon said in an email.

A tournament was scheduledover the weekend. Results will be reported Monday.

Clemens pressed by Congress, denies accusations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roger Clemens struggled to find the right words under questioning during a conhearing gressional Wednesday and denied new accounts of drug use made against him by former teammate and close friend Andy Pettitte.

Using words like "misremembered" and mispronouncing the last name of his chief accuser, Brian McNamee, Clemens rambled and stumbled during his

Fees:

Hill Clemens' reputation and legacy were on the line, and there was the possibility that criminal charges could follow after the seven-time Cy Young Award winner testified.

"I have never taken steroids or HGH," Clemens said under oath, his voice rising. "No matter what we discuss here today, I am never going to have my name restored."

It seemed clear nearly early remarks on Capitol from the start of the nearly that the committee would not treat Clemens with kid gloves, despite all the faceto-face sit-downs he did with representatives in recent days — sometimes posing for photos or signing autographs for staff members.

Exactly two months after the report was released, Clemens and McNamee were separated by one seat in the same wood-paneled room where Mark McGwire and Rafael Palmeiro saw their careers tarnished during a hearing in March 2005. In a reference to McGwire's evasions that day, Rep. Mark Souder, R-Ind., admonished Wednesday's witnesses by saying: "It's better not to talk about the past than to lie about the past."

Clemens briefly stared at McNamee, his former employee, during his accuser's opening statement and later pointed several times at his former personal trainer. For the most part, they did not look at each other.

Members of Congress questioned the credibility of both three-hour morning session inconsistencies in Clemens' comments and accused him of possibly attempting to influence statements to the committee by the pitcher's former nanny.

Rep. Dan Burton repeatedly read remarks McNamee had made, and each time the former trainer was forced to admit they were untrue.

"This is really disgusting. You're here as a sworn witness. You're here to tell the truth," Indiana the Republican said. "You're here under oath, and yet we have lie after lie after lie after lie, of where you've told this committee and the people of this country that Roger Clemens did things I don't know what to believe. I know one thing I don't believe and that's you."

Even this hearing seemed to split the committee along party lines, with the Democrats reserving their most pointed queries for Clemens. and the Republicans giving McNamee a rougher time. Rep. Elijah Cummings,

D-Md., set the tone within minutes, repeatedly reminding Clemens he was under oath and admonishing the up." McNamee also was asked to pull his microphone closer.

The hearing started about an hour after several teams opened spring training. This was far from the sunny settings of Florida and Arizona.

Debbie Clemens, the pitcher's wife, sat behind her husband and listened as Waxman implicated her in HGH use, citing statements by Pettitte. Later, Clemens read a statement from his wife and said she "has been broken up over this."

IRS Special Agent Jeff Novitzky, a key member of the federal prosecution team against Barry Bonds, watched from a second-row seat. Asked why by a reporter, he declined comment.

Bonds, baseball's home run king, was indicted in November on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice stemming from his 2003 testimony to a grand jury in which he denied knowingly using performance-enhancing drugs. Because of his denials under oath, Clemens could be subjected to a similar criminal probe.

"Andy Pettitte is my friend. He was my friend before this. He will be my friend after this and again. I think Andy has misheard," Clemens said. "I think he misremembers."

McNamee told Mitchell that he injected Clemens 16 to 21 times with steroids and human growth hormone from 1998-01, and that and Chuck Pettitte Knoblauch used HGH. In his opening statement, McNamee said he might have injected Clemens and Knoblauch more than that.

"I have helped taint our national pastime," McNamee said. "Make no mistake: When I told Sen. Mitchell that I injected Roger Clemens with performance-enhancing drugs, I told the truth."

Waxman said McNamee, a former New York City police officer, lied to police seven years ago during an investigation of a possible

Goodell says he has no regrets about destroying spy tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) -NFL commissioner Roger Goodell told Sen. Arlen Specter face-to-face that he doesn't regret destroying the Spygate tapes.

"I think it was the right thing to do," Goodell said Wednesday after meeting for more than an hour with Specter, the ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary committee. Goodell noted that "we were the ones that disclosed" the New England Patriots' illegal taping of the New York Jets' defensive signals.

"I have nothing to hide," Goodell said.

Specter, R-Pa., requested the meeting so Goodell could explain his decision to destroy the tapes and notes from the case, which go back to 2002. Patriots coach Bill Belichick was fined $500,000 and the team was fined $250,000. The Patriots also forfeited a first-round draft pick. Goodell

"He said that's always. been his interpretation since he's been the head coach," the commissioner said. "We are going to agree to disagree on the facts."

Specter later said: "There was confirmation that there has been taping since 2000, when coach Belichick took over."

Specter has questioned the quality of the NFL's investigation into the matter and has raised the possibility of congressional hearings if he wasn't satisfied with Goodell's answers. Specter Goodell said he did not con- also raised the threat of Congress canceling the league's antitrust exemption and reiterated that in the meeting with Goodell.

Goodell also said he has not heard from Matt Walsh, the former Patriots employee who performed some videotaping duties for the team. Goodell said he has offered Walsh a deal whereby "he has to tell the truth and he has to return anything he took improperly."

Goodell also said he reserves the right to reopen the investigation if more information is uncovered.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl. Lately I have been dealing with overwhelming feelings of sadness and depression. Just recently I found out that my sister's ex had physically abused her and her daughter. When my sister told me, she made me swear I wouldn't tell our parents. Not only do our parents not know, but she refuses to take it to court or to report it. When I confronted her, she told me she would rather put it behind her and forget about it. I don't understand how she can let There is no going back to high school for this man get away with what he did. I don't know who to turn to. If I tell my parents, my sister will never trust me again. But if I don't tell, he might come back and hurt them. Please tell me what to do. -- TERRI-FIED FOR MY SISTER

DEAR TERRIFIED: Your sister, like many victims of domestic violence, may blame herself for what happened to her and feel too embarrassed to report it. It is also not uncommon for men who beat up their partners to also abuse their children. For her daughter's sake, the crime(s) should have been reported when they occurred and there was solid proof. However, because she didn't do that, I can only hope that she will keep the child away from her father -- who obviously hasn't enough impulse control to safely act as a responsible parent. Some secrets are meant to be kept, but this isn't one of them. There is no reason you should carry this burden alone. Tell your parents and don't feel guilty about it. I have been advised that depression is anger turned inward. You are sad because you feel helpless to do anything about your sister's circumstances. Once your parents know what happened, they can help your sister ensure her safety and

DEAR ABBY: Marrying one's high school sweetheart is common in my family. My parents, both of my aunts and two cousins are happily married to the people they began dating exclusively when they were teenagers. Now my older brother, "Aiden," has joined their ranks. He recently married a girl he had dated since eighth grade. They are only 23, but blissfully happy. I'm glad for my brother, but now my relatives are wondering why I haven't followed suit. me, so I find myself trapped in awkward blind dates as loving family members -especially my mother -- desperately try to find someone for me. How can I make them understand that I really don't want to go out with the neighbor boy who is three years younger than I am? Also, is there something wrong with me because I haven't found "the one," as my other family members have? - OLD MAID OF THE FAMILY, MANSFIELD, TEXAS

DEAR OLD MAID: The surest way to make your family understand is to keep your sense of humor about their attempts at matchmaking and not to become defensive. There is nothing wrong with being single -- people are remaining single longer now than ever before. Some men -- and women -- remain single their entire lives, and happily so. So please don't allow yourself to be made to feel time is running out because you haven't rushed to the altar. It takes some people longer than others to find that perfect match, but in most cases, "there's a pot for every lid."

Baby found in trash believed brain dead

HOUSTON (AP) - Anewborn who police say was delivered in the bathroom of a hospital emergency room knowledge, that she was and concealed in a trash can pregnant. She goes to the is brain dead, the mother's lawyer said.

The infant's 29-year-old mother, Genny Granados, remained jailed Friday on a charge of injury to a child.

Her attorney, Elihu H. Dodier, said Children's Memorial Hermann Hospital officials indicated the baby boy has no brain activity.

"We're hoping that the child will be okay," Dodier said. "But it doesn't look good."

The child has been on life support since being discovered Saturday night at Southwest Memorial Hermann Hospital by a custodian. The child didn't have a pulse but was revived by doctors.

"She has such little respect for human life that she tells no one, to my hospital, has a pair of scissors in her hand, and cuts her own umbilical cord and looks at her baby and throws it in the trash," said prosecutor Kelli Johnson.

A judge raised bail for Granados from $30,000 to $50,000 on Thursday. If she is released on bond, Granados can only see her two other children — ages 2 and 10 — under supervision.

Granados, a legal resident originally from El Salvador, has lived with the father of her two-year-old son for the past five years.

Alfredo The man, Navarro, said he did not know Granados was pregnant and doesn't think he is the father of the newborn.

Flight attendent gets $15M

FORT WORTH, Texas He was later sentenced to (AP) — An American Airlines flight attendant who alleged she was harassed by a co-worker has won a $15.6 million verdict in federal court.

A judge found Jamie Abrams, 43, was entitled to past and future lost wages, pain and suffering and punitive damages. He also ordered former American Airlines Fleet Service clerk Tim White, 43, to not have any contact with Abrams or her family.

U.S. District Judge Terry Means said Thursday that it's unlikely White could pay the amount but called the figure symbolic.

In the suit, Abrams said she, her family and friends received depraved and violent phone calls from White. In them, White mimics the voice of Karl from the movie "Sling Blade" and threatened to kill Abrams and cut her up. The calls began in February 2001 and continued through 2003, sometimes totaling 15 a day.

Worth Dallas/Fort Airport police arrested White in October 2003.

10 years probation in Tarrant County and ordered not to contact Abrams.

A few weeks before Thursday's hearing, the phone calls started again. Abrams' lawyer, Raul H. Loya of Dallas, played answering machine recordings of the threats in court. Abrams and her husband, Darren Abrams, 42, testified the voice was White's.

Abrams has been grounded for medical issues associated with the harassment. Her husband also works for American.

White resigned from American in November 2003. moved to Tennessee and later to Indiana. A man who answered a phone listed to White declined comment Friday.

Jamie Abrams also had sued American Airlines and American's corporate security chief, Henry dismissed the claims.

She plans to appeal the judge's decision.

Man injured in toughman bout dies

(AP) — A man who was critically injured while competing in a Toughman Contest has died.

Brandon Twitchell, 23, of Elkhart, died Thursday at Christus St. Michael Hospital, said Francine Francis, a hospital spokeswoman.

Twitchell fought Friday and Saturday nights in the annual contest. He was taken from the contest site by ambulance to the hospital, where doctors discovered he had sustained brain injuries. Twitchell had been in critical TEXARKANA, Texas condition and on life support since, his parents said.

The Original Toughman Contest is held in 44 states and abroad, with fighters divided by weight categories and experience. Fighters undergo pre-fight physicals and medical staff is posted ringside during the event.

Contest spokeswoman Lydia Robertson said the dangers of boxing are explained to contestants in detail. Fighters also must sign a release form saying" they understand they are: participating in a dangerous_ event.

Man sentenced in street racing deaths

NACOGDOCHES, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old Nacogdoches man will spend at least 25 years in prison in connection with a street racing accident that killed three people, including his cousin.

A judge on Wednesday sentenced Antonio Martinez to a maximum of 50 years in prison. Martinez will be eligible for parole after serving half the sentence.

Martinez pleaded guilty Monday to three charges of intoxicated manslaughter, three felony racing charges and a charge for escape. In November 2006, Martinez and another man were racing their cars when Martinez struck another vehicle, killing a 26-year-old man and a 22-year-old man. An 18-year-old cousin of Martinez riding with him was also killed.

In September, Martinez and two other inmates from the escaped Nacogdoches County jail. Martinez and one of the fugitives were recaptured three days later in San Antonio.

such a thing as a profile of a mass murderer, Steven Kazmierczak didn't fit it: outstanding student, engaging, polite and industrious, with what looked like a bright future in the criminal justice field.

And yet on Thursday, the 27-yearold Kazmierczak, armed with three handguns and a brand-new pumpaction shotgun he had carried onto campus in a guitar case, stepped from behind a screen on the stage of a lecture hall at Northern Illinois University and opened fire on a geology class. He killed five students before committing suicide.

University Police Chief Donald Grady said, without giving details, that Kazmierczak had become erratic in the past two weeks after he had stopped taking his medication. But that seemed to come as news to many of those who knew him, and the attack itself was positively baffling.

"We had no indications at all this would be the type of person that would engage in such activity," Grady said. He described the gunman as a good student during his time at NIU, and by all accounts a "fairly normal" person.

Exactly what set Kazmierczak offand why he picked his former university and that particular lecture hall --remained a mystery. Police said they found no suicide note.

Authorities were searching for a woman who police believe may have Kazmierczak's girlfriend. been According to a law enforcement official who spoke on condition of anonymity because the case is still under investigation, authorities were looking into whether Kazmierczak and the woman recently broke up.

Investigators learned that a week ago, on Feb. 9, Kazmierczak walked into a Champaign, gun store and picked up two guns — the Remington shotgun and a Glock 9mm handgun. He bought the two other handguns at the same shop — a Hi-Point .380 on Dec. 30 and a Sig Sauer on Aug. 6.

All four guns were bought legally from a federally licensed firearms dealer, said Thomas Ahern, an agency spokesman. At least one criminal background check was performed. Kazmierczak (pronounced kaz-MURchek) had no criminal record.

Kåzmierczak had a State Policeissued FOID, or firearms owners identification card, which is required in Illinois to own a gun, authorities said. Such cards are rarely issued to those with recent mental health problems. The application asks: "In the past five years have you been a patient in any medical facility or part of any medical facility used primarily for the care or treatment of persons for mental illness?"

Kazmierczak, who went by Steve, graduated from NIU in 2007 and was a graduate student in sociology there before leaving last year and moving on stunned by the shooting rampage, as was the gunman's faculty adviser, professor Jan Carter-Black.

"He was engaging, motivated, responsible. I saw nothing to suggest that there was anything troubling about his behavior," she said.

Exactly what set Kazmierczak off, and why he picked his former university and that particular lecture hall, remained a mystery. Police said they found no suicide note.

Carter-Black said Kazmierczak wanted to focus on mental health issues and enrolled in August in a course she taught about human behavior and the social environment, but withdrew in September because he had gotten a job with the prison system. He recently left the job and resumed classes full-time in January, Carter-Black said.

His University of Illinois student ID depicts a smiling, clean-cut Kazmierczak, unlike the scowling, menacing-looking images of Cho that surfaced after his rampage.

NIU President John Peters said Kazmierczak compiled "a very good academic record, no record of trouble" at the 25,000-student campus in DeKalb. He won at least two awards and served as an officer in two student groups dedicated to promoting understanding of the criminal justice system.

Exactly what sort of career he planned for himself was unclear. But he wrote papers on self-injury in prison and the role of religion in the creation of early U.S. prisons. The research paper on self-injury in prison said his interests also included political violence and peace and social justice.

Speaking Friday in Lakeland, Fla., Kazmierczak's distraught father did not immediately provide any clues to what led to the bloodshed.

"Please leave me alone. ... This is a very hard time for me," Robert Kazmierczak told reporters, throwing his arms up and weeping after emerging briefly from his house. He declined further comment about his son and with a woman and neither showed any sign of anger or aggression. "They were friendly, agreeable - just like any neighbor would be," she said.

Chelsea Thrash, a 25-year-old waitress who lives with her 3-year-old daughter in the apartment directly beneath Kazmierczak's, said he was always up late and there was frequently a lot of "trampling" noise coming through the hardwood floor. She went up and knocked on the door once recently at 1 a.m. or 2 a.m. to request quiet and he said through the closed door, "Oh, I'm sorry — I dropped my weight."

"It's kind of creepy," she said. "I never thought someone in this tiny corner of southwest Champaign would ever dream of that, let alone carry it out, and have that above me and my daughter."

Kazmierczak grew up in the Chicago suburb of Elk Grove Village, not far from O'Hare Airport. His family lived most recently in a middle-class neighborhood of mostly one-story tract homes before moving away early in this decade. His mother died in Florida in 2006 at age 58.

He was a B student at Elk Grove High School, where school district spokeswoman Venetia Miles said he was active in band and took Japanesebefore graduating in 1998. He was also in the chess club.

At NIU, six white crosses were placed on a snow-covered hill around the center of campus, which was closed Friday. They included the names offour victims - Daniel Parnmenter, Ryanne Mace, Julianna Gehant, Catalina Garcia. The two other crosses were blank, though officials have identified Kazmierczak's final victim as-Gayle Dubowski.

Allyse Jerome, 19, a sophomore from Schaumburg, recalled how the gunman, dressed in black and a stocking cap, burst through a stage door in 200-seat Cole Hall just before class was about to let out. He squeezed off more than 50 shots as screaming students ran and crawled for cover.

"Honestly, at first everyone thought" it was a joke," Jerome said. Everyone hit the floor, she said. Then she got up and ran, but tripped. She said she felt like "an open target."

"He could've decided to get me,"" Jerome said. "I thought for sure he was going to get me."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Feb. 17, 2008:

This year, focus on the quality of your daily life. You could opt to make some dynamic changes. You need to adjust or let go of what doesn't work. You are in a period in which you are gearing up for a new luck cycle. Honesty in facing problems could be most important this year. If you are single, you are most desirable. Check out your suitors carefully. If you are attached, closeness and nurturing become even more important. Give more of yourself, and you will see more feelings exchanged. CANCER can enhance your life, if you allow.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll 5-Dynamic; Have: 4-Positive: 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** Establishing your limits could be important. People often refer to "burnout," and you could experience it if you don't slow down. Make plans that you've often dreamt of. Tonight: Happy at home.

This Week: There is no holding your imagination back. Expect a change in the near future with a creative effort, romance and/or bond with a child. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★★ You smile, and others respond. Someone would like to get to know you better. Experience the depth in certain key relationships in your life, or enjoy the beginnings of a new one. Tonight: Say yes to living.

This Week: Your finances are up for scrutiny. Are you getting ready to do your taxes?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ Take your time making decisions. You might not have the complete story. Slow down and relax. You might have been pushing too hard. A break proves to be relaxing and fun. Accept an intriguing invitation. Tonight: Just make it easy. This Week: Expect a lot of action. Your decisions have impact.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  $\star \star \star \star \star$  Zero in on what you want. Friends share news and would like to celebrate and enjoy life with you. Why not? A more relaxing and nurturing daily environment becomes possible. Tonight: Go for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

This Week: Step back as far as you can. Thursday, you feel more together. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Make your plans and let others choose to join in. A new bond or deeper ★★★★★ Others toss so many great® ideas out, you might become confused. Investigate and get answers. Your inquiries get others going. You also might hear a lot of what you would prefer not to. Tonight: Time to share with a special person.

This Week: What happens could force you to detach in order to gain a perspective. Take action after Wednesday. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Go with someone else's ideas. Suggestions head your way. You might want to approach a situation far differently from in the past. Listen to a child or loved one who might be inundating you with information. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

This Week: Work as a duo. Seek out experts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★ Express your interest. As a result, the amount of give-and-take in your environment will grow. Review a situation with an eye to better times and improved understanding. If you have a great idea, now is the time to act. Tonight: Think "tomorrow." Get a head start.

This Week: Others dominate. You might be a tad taken aback by what goes down

HOROSCOPES

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Feb. 18, 2008:

Explore your options this year. Verify and confirm plans, meetings and understandings. Often, a snafu could occur. Learning and more effective communication will be instrumental in your success, not only this year but also throughout your life. Learn from hassles. Observe a tendency to go overboard and be self-indulgent. If you eye the ramifications, the end result might be far better. If you are single, you might draw many suitors. Choosing the right person could be fun if you get into the dating process. If you are attached, your relationship needs focus and more sharing. Remember that a partnership is a 50-50 venture. LEO sparkles around you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Ayerage; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** Events take on an erratic tone, and wildness could set in toward the end of the day. Getting going this Monday could take discipline, but in hindsight, it's worth the effort. Confusion could peak before it clears out. Tonight: Act as if there is no tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) *** Make calls early, as fatigue could become a factor. However, if you think about it, you could have the energy to be mischievous. With that knowledge, eye your routine and work. What would it take to fuel your enthusiasm? Tonight: Happy at home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) **** Confirm financial matters. You could be taken aback by the possibilities that pop up in your life. What might seem to be an extreme situation will right itself. Keep communication flowing, and you will have taken the first step in clearing the air. Tonight: Hanging out is fun to

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ You wake up knowing you are the big cheese. Use the p.m. to check out the financial pluses and minuses of an investment. Someone who has been aloof or difficult could suddenly start talking in the next few days. What a relief! Tonight: Hang out; chat over dinner. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

*** Though you might have a difficult time getting moving this morning, you'll perk up quickly, a force to behold. Your personality encourages others to let go. Communication that has been marred is about to be straightened out. Tonight: Happy as a cat, a big cat. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

*** Refuse to respond to social pressure or assume any more responsibilities. Your emotions could be like a runaway train if you aren't careful. Feel but don't act. You need time for yourself. Tonight: Take some long-overdue private time. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

*** You could feel like you are at a taffy pull and you are the taffy! Relax and understand that for now, you might need to spread yourself thin. A problem could rapidly eliminate itself given openness and a lack of being judgmental. Tonight: Zero in on what you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) *** Step up to the plate. Understand that your sense of commitment often puts you in a leadership position. Know when enough is enough, and say no to a weighty and unnecessary responsibility. Tonight: It could be a late night. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Make it your business to seek out more information and different opinions. Your awareness that your ideas might be limited allows you to aim for greatness, be it an idea or a situation. Understand the role of an adviser. Tonight: Your imagination comes into play.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

**** Relate to people as individuals, not groups. You will be much happier with the end results. Others respond much better when you express your appreciation. Tonight: Special time with a special person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★★ Others express their personality, wants and expectations. You might be flattered, but whether you want to pursue another's suggestions could be a different issue. Keep conversations open and expressive. Tonight: Do what you want. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*** Dig into work as if there is no tomorrow. You might be more than delighted by the end results. Don't feel a need to comment. Just do what you want. Be careful, as you could be overly sensitive and take another's words too seriously. Tonight: Early to bed.

Study: Older men may delay prostate cancer treatment

By MARILYNN MARCHIONE AP Medical Writer

Older men with earlystage prostate cancer are not taking a big risk if they keep an eye on the disease instead of treating it right away, suggests the largest study to look at this issue since PSA tests became popular.

Only 10 percent of the 9,000 men in the study who chose to delay or skip treatment had died of prostate cancer a decade later. The vast majority were alive without significantly worsening symptoms or had died of other causes.

were able to delay it for an average of 11 years. "It is important news," said Dr. Otis Brawley, chief medical officer of the American Cancer Society. "It may persuade some middle-of-the-roaders that we are overtreating this disease," and that PSA testing may be amplifying the problem, he said. The PSA blood test to help detect tumors has been widely used since the 1990s

Grace Lu-Yao of Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Jersey led the study and reported results at

Even the 30 percent who a cancer conference in San eventually sought treatment Francisco.

Whether to treat prostate cancer is one of the biggest medical dilemmas today. The disease is the most common cancer in American men - about 220,000 cases will be diagnosed this year but most tumors grow so slowly they never threaten lives. There is no sure way to tell which tumors will.

PSA tests can help find tumors many years before they cause symptoms, but routine screening of men at average risk of the disease is not recommended, because there is no proof it saves lives are tough, especially on older men. Many men are left with sexual or bladder control problems. Some doctors instead recommend "watchful waiting" to monitop signs of the disease and treat only if they worsen, but smaller studies have given conflicting views of the safety of that approach. The new study looked at the natural course of the disease in men who chose that option. It is the first involving so many older men – half were over 75 - and so many whose tumors were found through PSA tests.

Using the federal government's cancer database, researchers studied 9,018 men diagnosed from 1992-2002 with early-stage prostate cancer who did not get surgery, radiation or hormone therapy for at least six months. Most never got any treatment at all.

A decade later, 3 percent to 7 percent of those with low- or moderate-grade tumors (rated by how aggressive the cells appear) had died of prostate cancer, versus 23 percent of those with high-grade tumors. Overall, prostate cancer killed 10 percent of them.

"The great majority of patients ... are going to die of something else," so most older men with early-stage tumors could delay treatment, Lu-Yao said.

"If people are younger or have more advanced disease, I wouldn't say this is a safe option," but most cases are diagnosed in men 68 or older, and most are early stage, she noted.

The National Cancer Institute paid for the study. It is not the final word - that usually comes from studies where similar groups of patients are randomly assigned to get one treatment

Prostate cancer treatments or another, and the results compared. But absent that kind of evidence, this large study "does show that a large number of men do well with no initial treatment and indeed with no treatment long term," Brawley said.

Dr. Howard Sandler, a radiation and prostate specialist at the University of Michigan, agreed, but cautioned, "there are exceptions to every rule," and some very active, healthy older men may do better having treatment right away, along with older men who have higher-grade tumors.

Beltsville Human Nutrition Research Center (BHNRC) at Beltsville, Md.

Agriculture's (USDA) chief scientific research agency.

CNMap is part of the BHNRC's Community Nutrition Initiative coordinated by Ellen Harris, assistant center director. CNMap provides user-friendly information on food and nutrition indicators by state - compared to national levels - for nutritionists, researchers, educators and consumers.

Easy-to-read customized tables and color-coded maps can be accessed by anyone on the Internet. Indicators include data on estimated nutrient intakes, eating patterns, physical activity, body weight, demographics and food security. Food security is defined as an individual's ability to access enough food to lead an active, healthy life. Policy makers and public health workers can use these profiles to investigate diet and health issues that may be of concern both at the local and state level.

Indicators are obtained from a variety of sources. The primary source of data for Version 2 is "What We Eat in America," the BHNRC-managed dietary intake ARS is the U.S. Department of interview component of the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey. These data are combined with data from the U.S. Bureau of the Census, USDA Agricultural Marketing Service and USDA Food and Nutrition Service.

The Map Gallery provides percentages of individuals, state-by-state, who meet MyPyramid.gov food group recommendations, which include specified amounts of vegetables, grains, fruits, meats and dairy. Users can also look up percentages of individuals, state-by-state, who are at risk of nutrient inadequacy, or excess, for specific nutrients from food sources.
