War memorial Volunteers needed to help with 'Moving Wall' visit

By Randy Pribble
 The Pampa News

Although arrangements have been made to bring the American Veterans Traveling Tribute to Pampa during over Veteran's Day, there is still a need for volunteers to help in the effort.

"It is really amazing the feedback I have received so far," said Danny Martin, commander of VFW Post 1657. "We just got started last night and there were about 25 people there."

Martin was referring to the first of a series of organizational meetings held Monday evening at the Pampa VFW Post.

The traveling memorial is an 80 percent scale replica of the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington, D.C. The VFW is sponsoring the event and is securing the funding. The meeting Monday was to begin the process of setting up committees of volunteers to do everything from helping to erect the wall to providing security for the memorial.

Next organizational meeting scheduled for 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11 at local VFW post.

Annual Lions Camp caters to special-needs children

By Julie Ann Thompson
 The Pampa News

The Texas Lions according to camp director and local "a can-do attitude," Lion's Club member Brad Pingel. This year, Pingel and the Pampa Lions Club sent three special-needs children to TLC, a camp that provides outdoor camping experiences to handicapped children since the early 1950s. However, it was Pingel's daughter Lauren who made the camp's best introduction.

"I want to thank you for giving me the funnest time of my life," said the 10 year old, grinning from a video on Pingel's office computer.

"It's an unbelievable experience for them.

It's scary to send the kids off, but my daughter, you know, she talks about the camp all year," Pingel said.

Pingel has been a camp director for two years now. His daughter, who suffered a brain injury in a car accident at age 3, has been attending TLC since she was 7. He works with 26 counties and countless Lions Clubs from various cities to promote the camp and to expose more children to its opportunities.

American innovation being usurped by greed

There's an old joke that goes, "The whole world is crazy except for you and me, and I'm starting to worry about you." A variation would end with "sometimes I worry about you."

There are lots of things which make me feel that sometimes I'm living in that world, and that the joke is no joke after all.

For example, in a previous column I talked about how the meaning of words and phrases has changed. Rubber-soled sandals with a V-shaped strap over the top of the foot that dips between the first two toes used to be called thongs; now they're flip flops. Meanwhile, thongs are now an item of underclothing.

This style of underclothing places fabric right in the place where we always made sure our underwear didn't go because it was so uncomfortable. If it was uncomfortable for other styles of underwear to be in that place, why are thongs bought and worn by anyone? If someone says thongs are comfortable, it always makes me wonder what else is in their closet.

Hints that the Panhandle may face limited supplies of drinkable water and may have to begin water rationing have started to circulate. The water level of Lake Meredith, which supplies our drinking water along with the Ogallala Aquifer underground water formation, has been dropping for a long while now, and there's no indication that the trend will change.

So why are we entertaining the notion of selling our water downstate in order to make one or a few people wealthy? Why did we allow this to be possible? Apparently, we are so greedy for money that some of us willingly sold our water rights to a company which plans to ship the water to another part of the state.

I can understand the concept of mineral rights, that a landowner can also own the minerals (including gas and oil) that occur underneath their land. But water should be a different matter. Water is essential to life and should not be an item of ownership in the way that minerals are owned.

Marilyn Powers
Staff Writer

Another essential to life is oxygen, found in air and wind. Now at least one company is hinting at paying us for our "wind" rights, as long as we also sell them our water rights. The idea is that if and when the company erects wind generators, we will get paid a share of the value of the energy produced by the wind generators.

It is inconceivable to me that a country which has been responsible for so many inventions and new technology can't come up with new ways of providing energy to make motor vehicles run. Well, new ways have been proposed, and there are some hybrid vehicles on the market, but such vehicles are still relatively few and far between, even though this is not the first energy "crisis" we have faced.

I heard somewhere that on at least one occasion, an inventor came up with a workable, low-cost motor that runs on a cheap, easily renewable energy source, but the idea never saw the light of day because the oil industry got wind of the inventor's creation after a patent request was submitted, and the inventor accepted the megabucks that an oil company offered him for his brainchild. The oil company then made sure that the contraption never saw the light of day.

There is a song in the musical "Cabaret" which declares that "money makes the world go around." Sometimes, it seems, money can also make it come to a screeching halt.

Environmentalists' hold sway in Congress

Let's face it. The average individual American has little or no clout with Congress and can be safely ignored. But it's a different story with groups such as Environmental Defense Fund, Sierra Club and The Nature Conservancy. When they speak, Congress listens. Unlike the average American, they are well organized, loaded with cash and well positioned to be a disobedient congressman's worse nightmare. Their political and economic success has been a near disaster for our nation.

For several decades, environmentalists have managed to get Congress to keep most of our oil resources off-limits to exploration and drilling. They've managed to have the Congress enact onerous regulations that have made refinery construction impossible. Similarly, they've used the courts and Congress to completely stymie the construction of nuclear power plants. As a result, energy prices are at historical highs and threaten our economy and national security.

What's the political response to our energy problems? It's more congressional and White House kowtowing to environmentalists, farmers and multi-billion dollar corporations such as Archer Daniels Midland. Their "solution," rather than to solve our oil supply problem by permitting drilling for the billions upon billions of barrels of oil beneath the surface of our country, is to enact the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 that mandates that oil companies increase the amount of ethanol mixed with gasoline.

Anyone with an ounce of brains would have realized

Walter Williams

that diverting crops from food to fuel use would raise the prices of corn-fed livestock, such as pork, beef, chicken and dairy products, and products made from corn, such as cereals. Ethanol production has led to increases in other grain prices, such as soybean and wheat. Since the U.S. is the world's largest grain producer and exporter, higher grain prices have had a huge impact on food prices worldwide.

Congress and the environmentalists aren't through with us. If you're bothered by skyrocketing food and energy prices, wait until Congress re-introduces its environmentalist-inspired Climate Security Act, so-called "Cap and Trade." Cap and Trade is deceptively peddled as a free-market solution to the yet-to-be-settled issue of manmade climate change. Under its provisions, companies would be able to "emit" greenhouse gases only if they had a government allowance. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that a 15 percent cut in emissions would raise the annual average household's energy costs by $1,300. Since energy is an input to everything we use, we can expect everything to become more costly, resulting in a reduction in economic growth.

There's a hateful side to Cap and Trade that's revealed by asking the question: How will it be decided who received how much allowance to emit greenhouse gases? Congress could sell the allowances and/or give them away to favorite constituents. You can bet the rent money that a new army of lobbyists, with special pleadings, will descend on Washington to lobby Congress. And you can be sure that campaign contributions and favoritism will play an important role in the decision of who received what amount of allowances.

Much worse than that is the massive control government would have over our economy and our lives. Congress might decide that since tobacco use is unhealthy, it might not issue allowances to tobacco companies. While many Americans might applaud that, how many would like Congress to refuse to issue allowances to companies that produce foods that some people deem unhealthy such as French fries, sodas, canned soups and potato chips?

Congress might deny, or threaten to deny, allowances to companies that in their opinion didn't hire enough women and minorities. The possibilities for control over our lives would be endless and could include nuisance-type edicts such as requiring us to buy a permit to barbeque in our backyard.

The thirst to wield massive control over our economy helps explain the near religious belief in manmade global warming and the attacks on scientists and others who offer contradictory evidence.

—Walter E. Williams is a professor of economics at George Mason University.

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

■ July 26
Austin American-Statesman on Sen. Barack Obama's meeting with troops in Iraq:

There's been so much attention paid to the political jousting between Sen. John McCain and Sen. Barack Obama over the latter's trip to the Middle East and Europe that some good news is close to being forgotten already: The Iraqi government is talking about American troops leaving by the end of 2010.

Unfortunately, it is not clear that troops pulled out of Iraq would come home right away regardless of which candidate wins the presidency.

For now, there's no official deadline for U.S. withdrawal from Iraq. And yes, for a lot of Americans even 2010 would be too long to wait.

Still, the fact that the Iraqi government wants a timetable or to use President Bush's preferred euphemism, a "time horizon" for the departure of American troops suggests that there might really be light at the end of the Iraqi tunnel.

U.S. military commanders have expressed caution about any abrupt withdrawal from Iraq, which no one including Obama has called for. Troops would come out gradually.

If the Iraqi government and its security forces prove too weak to contain the violence that continues, if Sunnis and Shiites and Kurds start going at each other again, full-scale civil war could erupt even as U.S. troops pulled out. At that point, though, the threat to U.S. interests would have to be crystal clear before the American public would support a return of its troops.

Whether it's weak or strong, if the Iraqi government tells the United States to leave, it must. The U.S. government has no right to stay the course if the government it helped create says go away.

But U.S. troops leaving Iraq might be going to Afghanistan, not home.

Adm. Michael Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said this week in an interview with Newshour on PBS that the situation in Afghanistan is "precarious and urgent." About 10,000 more U.S. troops are needed there, but none can be sent "in any significant manner" unless troops are withdrawn from Iraq, he said.

In the past few months, more U.S. troops have been killed in Afghanistan than in Iraq.

There's already some debate beginning among experts about whether sending more troops into Afghanistan could prove inappropriate for the situation there.

What's not much debated is that Islamic extremism, including al Qaeda, has managed to flourish in parts of Afghanistan, a poor country with a weak but generally friendly government. There's a good chance that Osama bin Laden, the inspiration and enabler for the Sept. 11, 2001, al Qaeda terror attacks in the United States, is hiding somewhere in Afghanistan or just across the border in Pakistan.

The U.S. situations in Iraq and Afghanistan have been overshadowed this past week by Obama's successful foreign tour, which reached a climax Thursday in Berlin, where he attracted an audience of 200,000 people.

But Americans, not just Europeans, should note that whatever their differences on Iraq, McCain and Obama both have expressed commitment to U.S. military involvement in Afghanistan. URL: <http://www.statesman.com>

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR READERS: When I printed the letter about cheating in school from "Valedictorian Contender" on May 27, my staff and I were deluged with mail. If you're interested in what folks had to say, here is a sample:

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently retired from teaching at a highly rated, competitive Midwestern public school. Cheating was rampant, from copying homework to text-messaging during tests in the classroom. When confronted, the cheaters were surprised and usually asserted that "everyone else does it." And they were right. Cheating occurs in the classroom, in sports, in extra-curricular activities and in the hallways, and has become more acceptable among students than ever before. Teachers are practically powerless to control it; administrators seem to have no idea how to handle it. Parents don't want to get involved for fear of angering their children, and a strong leader may be "asked" to back down from pursuing it. My husband and I tried many times to make students understand that what they were doing or thinking was wrong and needed to be corrected, only to be met with an incredulous stare, a sneer perhaps, and then, "Can I go now?" We began asking ourselves that same question and realized last year that WE "could go now" -- and we did. More of our time was spent trying to teach moral values and ethics and less was spent on the required curriculum. You were right when you said people's codes of ethics have taken a nosedive in the last decade. It's rampant in every aspect of life as you mentioned. But when it's rampant in our schools, it eliminates any chance of fixing it for coming generations. -- RETIRED IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR ABBY: In recent years it seems cheating is encouraged by parents. I have seen it when teaching Sunday school to seventh-graders. The father of one of the Scouts in our local Scout troop even called cheating "just a form of competitive advantage." For a long time I have carried a quote in my wallet that is my favorite saying: "Our lives begin to end the day we become silent about things that matter." The person who said it was the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. -- TONY S., NEW MILFORD, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: After teaching in public and private schools for 44 years, I believe that most students are honest the majority of the time. However, I would advise "Valedictorian" to pay attention. Make mental notes of the names of her classmates who cheat every chance they get. Do not forget who they are. She will be meeting them all the rest of her life. If they go into business, shop elsewhere. If they become bankers, put your money elsewhere. If they go into the service industries, get your car or your teeth repaired somewhere else. Above all, do not let your siblings marry one of them -- marriage is the biggest "test" of all. -- E.B., LINDEN, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "Valedictorian" was, as usual, on target. The notion of (personal) responsibility is another "R" that should be taught in school. -- WAY TO GO IN MONTANA

DEAR WAY TO GO: Thank you for the kind words, but I beg to differ. Responsibility for one's actions should be taught in the home, by example, by the parents. Readers, more on this tomorrow.

"There are several areas where we are going to need plenty of help," Martin said. "We would like church groups and school groups to do parrot programs during the day. This is a tribute, and we need to stay focused on that."

opportunities. "I'll talk to any club because the more I get the word out the more the chances are of someone knowing a kid who would benefit from this," Pingel said. "I go to doctors and nurses to get names, just whatever I can do."

Pingel then meets with the children's families and presents them with literature and a video he had made with his daughter as the star, talking about how much fun she's had at the camp. Pingel said he had started making the videos to keep memories for Lauren but soon realized it was a good way to get the message of the camp across to others.

While the camp costs roughly $1,500 per child, Pingel and Pampa Lion's Club sponsor them at no cost to the family. This year, they donated a $3,500 video camera. Pingel said next year, they will film a camper's from Nov. 5 through Nov. 12 or 13. It will be free to the public. Plans are to erect the memorial in the M.K. Brown Auditorium parking lot.

"We need people to help us clean up," he said. "And we really need a parade chairman. We want to have a parade on Saturday (Nov. 8), and we need someone to take that on.

The commander added that he already has more volunteers than the 25 people who attended the first meeting.

"One lady is going to take care of getting people to man the computers from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.," he said. "The computers are there to help locate a soldier's name on the wall. Give them a name, and they can help you find it, and it will also give you a biography of that person."

Martin said special days are planned for Gold Star mothers and Blue Star mothers, as well as a special day set aside to honor prisoners of war and those missing in action.

"Part of our agreement is to provide an escort for the memorial as it arrives in town Wednesday," the commander said. "It is usually a motorcycle escort, so we will be asking all the motorcycle groups in our area to help us bring it to town. I don't think that is going to be a problem."

The next organizational meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Monday (Aug. 11) at the Pampa VFW Post.

"If anyone is interested in helping, they should come to that meeting," Martin said. "Each of our committees will take several people. It is going to be a big thing for Pampa."

experience for a full week to help promote TLC.

"People see Lions Club all over town at our dodge ball tournaments, basketball tournaments, golf tournaments, broom sales... and all of that money we send to the camp. We even provide transportation," Pingel said.

The camp, held in Kerrville near San Antonio, is conducted for a period of six weeks for handicapped children (including everything from asthma, to blind and deaf children, to amputees and burn victims) and two weeks for children with Type 1 diabetes. The children must have an IQ of 70 or above and be between the ages of 7 and 16 to qualify for the camp.

Each day, 130 counselors from all over the world take up to 1,000 pictures which are then posted on a special Web site each evening for parents to check on how their children are doing.

This year, along with Lauren, Pampa Lions Club sent Kolton Dyson and Brody Gilbert, all of Pampa, to the camp.

"I have dinner with them right after Friday's awards ceremony, and they are already wanting to make sure they can go back next year which is good because they haven't seen their parents in a week. It's a confidence builder," Pingel said. "I talked to Kolton's mom, and that's all he talks about, too. They see the same kids every year, and they build relationships, and the older they get, around 10 or 12, they can stay in touch."

Activities for the campers include fishing, horseback riding, putt-putt golf, arts and crafts, dances, swimming, a ropes course, nature studies, a music program, and archery to name just a few. The camp sits on 512 acres of rolling countryside and is one of the largest handicap camps in the United States.

There is a full-time nursing staff on site and a physician on call at all times. The physician who oversees the two-week diabetes camp has been bringing his entire staff for 27 years.

"Everything is focused to take care of special needs kids. At the diabetic camp, they teach and encourage them to take care of themselves," Pingel said. "But the positive attitude is one of the biggest things."

Pingel's goal is to send 10 children from Pampa next year.

"They can come to the camp and not worry about getting made fun of. Some kids are in wheelchairs, but half of them are not and that's the cool thing about it, you know? Who cares?" Pingel said. "So what if someone's in a wheelchair. They're people, too."

For more information about the camp, visit www.lionscamp.com on the Internet. To pass along the name of a child who might benefit from the camp, contact Pingel at 806-440-1863.

NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN AIR PERMIT

PROPOSED AIR QUALITY PERMIT NUMBER 85536

APPLICATION Pampa's West Texas Landscaping, Ltd., has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for issuance of Air Quality Permit Number 85536, which would authorize continued operation of a Sand and Gravel Processing Facility. The applicant provided the following driving directions: from intersection of State Spur 398 (south McLean Street) and Highway 273 in Lefors, go east on Highway 273 2.6 miles, turn right onto Ranch Road 291 and go 1.4 miles, turn right into the pit entrance, the pit is 0.4 miles from entrance, Lefors, Gray County, Texas. The facility will emit the following contaminants: particulate matter including particulate matter less than ten microns in diameter.

This application was submitted August 27, 2008. The application is available for viewing and copying at the TCEQ central office.

1 Public Notice

the TCEQ Amarillo regional office, and the Gray County Courthouse, 205 North Russell, Pampa, Gray County, Texas. The facility's compliance file, if any exists, is available for public review in the Amarillo regional office of the TCEQ.

The TCEQ executive director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application.

PUBLIC COMMENT/PUBLIC MEETING You may submit public comments, a request for a public meeting, or request a contested case hearing to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below. The TCEQ will consider all public comments in developing a final decision on the application. The deadline to submit public comments is 30 days after newspaper notice is published.

The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or ask questions about the application. A public meeting about the application may be held if the executive director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

If only comments are received on the application, the response to comments, along with notice of the executive director's action on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted comments or is on the mailing list for this application.

If a hearing request is timely filed, the executive director will complete the technical review, issue a preliminary decision on the application, and a Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the final deadline for submitting public comments.

After the final deadline for public comments following any required Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision, the executive director will consider the comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. If comments are received, the response to comments, along with the executive director's decision on the application, will then be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments or is on a mailing list for this application.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING You may request a contested case hearing. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in state district court. Unless a written request for a contested case hearing is filed within 30 days from this notice, the executive director may approve the application. If no hearing request is received within this 30-day period, no further opportunity for hearing will be provided. A contested case hearing will only be granted based on disputed issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on those issues raised during the public comment period and not withdrawn.

A person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the facility is entitled to request a hearing. If requesting a contested case hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number, and fax number, if any; (2) applicant's name and permit number; (3) the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing"; (4) a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the application and air emissions from the facility in a way not common to the general public; (5) the location and distance of your property relative to the facility; and (6) a description of how you use the property which may be impacted by the facility. If the request is made by a group or an association, the one or more members who have standing to request a hearing and the interests which the group or association seeks to protect, must also be identified. You may also submit your proposed adjustments to the application/permit which would satisfy your concerns.

If a hearing request is timely filed, additional notice may be provided. Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the executive director will forward the application and any requests for contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact relating to relevant and material air quality concerns raised during the comment period. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the Commission's jurisdiction to address in this proceeding.

MAILING LIST In addition to submitting public comments, you may ask to be placed on a mailing list to receive future public notices for this specific application mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk by sending a written request to the TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

INFORMATION Written public comments or requests for a public meeting or contested case hearing should be submitted to the Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, TCEQ, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. For more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call the Office of Public Assistance, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040. HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, Aug. 6, 2008:
What you can achieve comes via your excellent ability to communicate and to help others feel at ease. This year, this skill comes to the forefront, but so do your listening skills. You might be overwhelmed by a very hectic but social pace. Many new friends could come into your life, and if you are single, you could be surprised by what moses down your path. In the first half of next year, the right person could appear. If you are attached, the two of you might need to separate hot issues out of the relationship — money, for instance. Separate accounts and responsibilities. The division of power will not separate you as much as end some quarreling. LIBRA loves to swap news with you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Though you might feel more gently about an associate or person in your daily life in the next few weeks, it does not mean your incredible drive will vanish. You still want what you want. You have a lot on your back. Why not delegate? Tonight: In the thick of life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ You might want to rethink a decision and do something very different for a loved one. Think in terms of growth and new beginnings. You see life with renewed interest and energy. Think positive. Tonight: Make an effort to make another feel comfortable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Your creativity with a stronger and more focused sense of caring add much more interest and excitement to different situations. Your actions carry a deep sense of concern and caring. Be aware. Tonight: Happy at home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Your efforts need focus, and your choice with personal security and long-term desires. Investigate new ways to start conversations. Be smart, study and understand what is motivating you before committing to an idea. Tonight: In the whirl of living.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ If you ever questioned your security, you probably won't after today. You might want to respond to someone who could fill up your voicemail if ignored. You might be surprised by what heads your direction. Tonight: Another is tasty (to say the least).

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ What could be a great day could fall to the wayside if you do not express your anger in an appropriate manner. In fact, an already unpredictable relationship could blow up in your face, leaving you sad and confused. Tonight: Gather bills.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You are in the pink and can move mountains (well, nearly). Use your well-known charm, and you'll make headway. Listen to news with care. Not everyone understands what needs to happen. Tonight: Doing your thing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ You might have your share of fires to deal with. Just when you believe a situation has chilled or a resolution has been reached, the next episode occurs. Roll with the punches, but do not try to mend what clearly is not mendable.

Tonight: Run away. Lock your door. Do not answer your phone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Though YOU know what you want, you could be taken aback by some of the chaos and unexpected reactions of others. Be careful when pushing others — even if you feel the behavior could be appropriate — unless you want to deal with their reactions. Tonight: Stay focused.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Others look to you to assume responsibility. Most likely, you will, but on the other hand, you might be in the process of discovering how much you have to deal with. Unpredictability and a sudden change might force you to rethink a situation. Tonight: Out late.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Stay tuned to your higher self. Avoid and do not get into tussles with an associate or someone who has very different ideas. You will be much happier. This situation might not pass immediately. Tonight: Put on a favorite piece of music.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ You are emotional, as you could easily demonstrate today. Someone could push far too hard for your taste, forcing you to rethink a decision. Tonight: Work with a friend.
