Boys Begging For Men To Lead Their Troops

The annual meeting of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council will be held in Pampa early in January it was decided at a meeting of the council executive committee here last night. M. A. Graham of Pampa, vice-president, presided.

Committees to make arrangements for the annual meeting will be named next week by Mr. Graham. The biggest and best meeting in the council's history will be the aim of the committees.

Need of more adult leaders was advocated by those attending the meeting. Several men over the area have stepped forward and volunteered to become leaders of groups during the past few weeks, but more are still needed.

There is one cub pack in Pampa, with 32 boys registered, but which is without a leader. Two Boy Scout troops are ready to be registered but they lack leaders.

Oil Shutdown Suit Hinted

AUSTIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—A suit challenging legality of Saturday and Sunday oil production shutdowns, which have been in effect the last three months, was threatened at the statewide prorotation hearing here today.

Ray Starnes of Gladewater, an operator in East Texas, formally protested against retention of the closings, explaining such a protest was necessary before a court test could be filed. He said later his present intention was to go to court but he might change his mind.

'Uncle Bud' Drags Chain-Takes Three

"Uncle Bud" Russell made his "chain drag" into Pampa Thursday afternoon and added three Gray county prisoners to the truckload he is taking to the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

The three prisoners taken from the Gray county jail yesterday by "Uncle Bud" were F. A. (Speck) Campbell, sentenced to two years yesterday on a charge of forgery and passing a forged instrument, and O. D. James and Ellis Bonham, each under two-year sentence for burglary.

James and Bonham are to receive prison credit for the time they were in the Gray county jail, from August 1.

Campbell's being sentenced came as a result of no sentence having been passed at the time a verdict was made in the second trial of the case. Judge W. R. Ewing said it was customary for a motion for a new trial to be made, and when overruled, for sentence to be passed. Campbell had two trials in 31st district court here. In the first, the jury was "hung" when it reported on September 27.

James and Bonham were sentenced without a jury hearing, as both entered a plea of guilty.

Last Gangster Dies In Chair

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Nov. 18 (AP)—The last gangster of the Al Brady mob of Midwestern killers, once described as the worst in the country, died in a swift and efficient federal execution here today.

Little red-haired James Dalhove of Madison, 32-year-old gunman for the gang, paid in state prison's electric chair for the slaying of Paul J. Minnema, Logansport state policeman shot after the $2,500 Goodland State Bank robbery May 25, 1937.

His death was as quick but more quiet than that of his fellow mobster, Alfred Brady and Clarence Lee, Jr., of Indianapolis, federal agents shot when they captured Dalhove in Bangor, Me., Oct. 12, 1937.

In nine brief minutes just after midnight, the condemned man was hustled from the death cell between two guards, strapped in the chair and electrocuted. Physicians pronounced him dead at 11 minutes after 12.

Mrs. John Bull Can Now Wear Silk Hose And Use Lipstick

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Mrs. John Bull derived the most satisfaction today from the Anglo-American trade agreement.

The pact covered goods worth $100,000,000. But that's nothing to her. The big point is that American silk stockings now costing above 60 cents a pair will cost less.

Politicians talked about "hands across the sea," but British housewives talked about cheaper American shoes, handbags, lipsticks, refrigerators, canned fruit and electric sweeper.

All those things are luxuries over here and formerly were available only to the few who have what Brit-liners call "posh"—"fancy" incomes. British hailed it a "woman's trade agreement" and declared that now millions of girls both young and old, who, incidentally, outnumber the men in Britain, could have those things they have wanted.

Babson Says Demand Exceeds Supply Of Choice Issues

What About Security Prices?

By ROGER W. BABSON. CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Business continues to roll on toward prosperity. It is now 11 per cent under normal compared with 28 per cent below last June. This is one of the most sensational recoveries in history and the end of the rise is not yet in sight.

Meanwhile, security prices have run up even faster than business. Hence, the question in every investor's mind today is: What should I do about my securities?

In answering that question let me emphasize that no one can tell you whether the market is going up or down next week. Most of those who attempt to do so and who "play" the short swings eventually end up in the poor-house! They can lose

Hitler Seeks 'Report' On 'Queer' Views

Germans Just Can't Believe American Reaction To Drive

BERLIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—Germany today called home her ambassador to Washington for a report on "the queer attitude" of President Roosevelt and other American leaders toward the wave of violence and restrictive measures against Jews in Nazi Germany.

The summons to Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff was sent just four days after announcement that United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson had been ordered home by President Roosevelt for report and consultation.

The order for Dieckhoff to return came as a surprise even to many foreign office functionaries. It was interpreted as meaning that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and other members of the cabinet have found it difficult to believe Dieckhoff's cabled reports concerning American reaction to Germany's anti-semitism.

Officials generally had expected that Dieckhoff would return to Berlin to report only after Wilson had conferred with President Roosevelt.

Upon the nature of the American envoy's report, the gist of which Dieckhoff had been expected to learn, would depend the next German step, informed circles believed. Yesterday, however, it was reliably learned, reports from the United States were considered by Nazis to be so unfavorable that the immediate summons to Dieckhoff was decided upon.

These reports were said to have compared the general attitude during the Czechoslovak-German crisis in September with the present American frame of mind and to have noted a change from approval, because Americans felt Germany's annexation of the Sudeten areas meant the union of Germans with Germans, to one of "95 per cent" indignation over the handling of the Jewish situation.

WCTU Plans Parade Of 100,000 Against Liquor

The law, therefore, cannot apply to a race which is the enemy of the German people. Indeed, the application would directly benefit that race.

"The German people is fighting in defense against the Jewish race. The law does not apply to Jews, and the case is dismissed."

Old Order Gone, Conquerors Tell America Japs Reject U.S. Demands

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Japan today rejected all major contentions of the United States note of Oct. 8 protesting against "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China and declared that "ideas and principles of the past" no longer applied to the Chinese situation.

The Japanese reply, handed to Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, said in conclusion:

"In the face of the new situation any attempt to apply to the conditions of today and tomorrow the inapplicable ideas and principles of the past neither would contribute to the peace of East Asia nor solve the immediate issues."

The Japanese note, which had the approval of the cabinet and the sanction of Emperor Hirohito, declared that Japan was engaged in establishing a new order in East Asia "which is an indispensable condition of Japan's very existence."

The note took up the points of the American protest one by one. On some points the allegations of the United States were denied. On others counter-arguments were offered. Elsewhere pleas of military necessity were made.

The Japanese reply was authoritatively interpreted as notice that Japan considers that the new conditions created by her conquest of a large portion of China have rendered outdated the international agreements concerning China reached immediately after the World war.

Already responsible Japanese spokesmen have indicated a determination that such facts as the 1922 nine-power treaty, by which Japan, the United States and seven other nations pledged themselves to respect China's territorial integrity and independence, should no longer bind the Japanese empire.

Record Crowd Expected At Legion Meet

Many Pampa Legionnaires will go to Borger tomorrow and Sunday for the 18th District American Legion convention. A record attendance is expected, the district having its largest membership which is 1,677 of a quota of 1,940.

Registration will begin at noon tomorrow at the Black hotel and at the Legion hall. A tea for the women delegates will be held at 3:30 o'clock to open the convention. The men will have their first event, the 40 and 8 Wreck, at 5 o'clock, staged by Pampa, Amarillo and Shamrock volunteers.

A stag dinner at the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be served at 7 p. m., to be followed by a dance at the American Legion hall, beginning at 9 o'clock.

On Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock the post officers conference will be conducted with commanders, service officers and adjutants in charge. In charge will be George C. Bettes, state service officer of Austin. Also present will be Fred Young of Austin, department adjutant.

American Birth Rate Going Down Rapidly

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17 (AP)—The American birth rate is going down so fast that if everyone up to 45 who died between 1930 and 35, had lived, they could not balance the deficit of unborn babies.

The American Philosophical Society was told this today as it opened its fall meeting with a symposium on American population growth. The program was arranged by the Population Association of America.

The present rate was described by Frank W. Notestein, of Princeton University's School of Public Affairs, like a budget which has been "fixed." It showed, he explained, that in 1936 the population was increasing at the rate of five for every thousand persons.

But if that 1936 rate continues it will wind up in a loss of two persons per thousand, due to excess deaths over births. The present slight favorable balance of "five" is due to a preponderance of persons at ages of low mortality and high fertility. They are producing the slight margin of extra children.

This group is not expected to last much longer. It is a "heritage" from America's past when everyone died younger, a condition now rapidly passing with the rise in life span. This newer balance in the country's "life books," he said, means there soon will be more people at less fertile ages.

Fox Will Have Busy Sunday At Baptist Church

Dr. Arthur Fox of Morrilton, Tenn., is preaching in the revival at First Baptist church. Large congregations are hearing him each night. It was reported today.

Dr. Fox, who has been pastor of large churches in Kentucky and Tennessee resigned the pastorate six years ago to answer the call of pastors in many states to assist them in revival meetings. He has conducted revival meetings in every state in the South but one. He has also preached in a number of the states in the North. No evangelist in America has a more vital message for the church as well as for the unconverted.

Tonight the evangelist will preach on the subject "The Sin That Dams." Two services will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. School children and their parents are urged to hear his morning message, Saturday, Sunday See BAPTIST, Page 3

Lewis Elected CIO President

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP)—John L. Lewis was elected first president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today, following a 28-minute tumultuous demonstration by 500 delegates representing some 3,800,000 workers in more than 40 national and international unions.

Tables went down in the tumult. Scotch bagpipers took the head of one parade, while another marched in an opposite direction.

Lewis, smiling and grinning and laughing aloud, sat on the platform beside Mrs. Lewis.

Big and small American flags were waved by the storming delegates. One British flag was seen. The veteran labor leader was nominated by his long-time friend and right-hand lieutenant, Philip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers and chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing committee.

Lewis' goal, Murray said, had been the "better distribution of the profits of industry."

The nomination of Lewis started delegates parading, tooting horns, ringing bells and shouting. Balloons fluttered over the convention hall.

Two Killed When Bomber Crashes

HONOLULU, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two navy fliers were killed and five others injured last night when one of the VP-10 squadron bombers which pioneered the navy's mass flights across the Pacific crashed into a boathouse at the Pearl Harbor Fleet air base during an attempted landing.

Instantly killed when the front end of the bomber was smashed in were Lieutenant, Junior Grade, P. H. Ashworth, 30, of Wenham, Mass., and Aviation Cadet J. W. Beam of Bardonia, Ky.

Lieutenant Commander A. R. Brady, 40, executive officer of the squadron, was taken to the naval hospital.

The others were in the bomber's after part, so extensively damaged. Those given first aid included J. A. Paradowski, 37, of Hockley, Texas, aviation chief machinists mate.

Police Cars Crash, Patrolman Killed

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two police patrol cars, their sirens sounding so loudly drivers could not hear each other, collided at a street intersection today, killing Patrolman Henry Shippe, 35. The cars were speeding to give assistance to other officers engaged in a shooting scrape with two negroes.

Shippe's death was the first motor car fatality here in November, during which police have been engaged in an intense campaign to reduce traffic accidents.

PALESTINE, Nov. 18 (AP)—Robert Lee Barton, 9, son of Mrs. Lora Lee Barton of Cayuga, was killed late last night when he was struck by a truck. He had been to a basketball game at Cross Roads, and ran from a bus into the path of the truck, witnesses said.

Marvin Jones To Seek PWA Grant For School Here

A group of Pampans visited with Congressman Marvin Jones in Amarillo yesterday and discussed with him the application of the Pampa Independent School district for a PWA grant for construction of a new high school. Congressman Jones left for Washington last night and will investigate the status of the application upon his arrival in Austin.

The Pampans also visited the office of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and discussed the McClellan lake project nearing completion.

Making the trip to Amarillo were C. P. Buckler, Siler Paulsen, Reno Stinson, Judge Sherman White, and Garnet Reeves.

Hunters Bag Deer Hogs, Bear, Panther

Judge B. S. Via and M. C. Johnson landed at the Pampa airport at 2 o'clock this morning from a successful hunting trip along the Mexican border near Candelaria, Charles Kentling, C. T. Harris, Thomas Moss and O. R. Wasson are returning by car with the game shot on the trip.

The local hunters bagged four large deer, two wild hogs, a black bear and a panther.

So wild was the country in which the party hunted that two of their cars broke down.

On the flight down Judge Via and Mr. Johnson and their pilot had to land along the border short of gas. Both the flight down and back was made in the Aegy Drilling Company's plane. The rest of the party went by car in advance.

Turkey Shoot Will Open Here Tomorrow

The shooting range where the Pampa 40 and 8 will hold its two-day turkey shoot will be open at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon north of the Southern club. Shooting will be from 1 o'clock until dusk tomorrow and Sunday afternoons.

Ranges have been constructed for trap, 22 caliber rifle and pistol shooting.

An invitation has been extended to everyone to shoot for a turkey. Paul D. Hill and his Child Welfare committee are in charge of the shoot, proceeds of which will be used to give needy children inoculation for small pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever and typhoid fever.

Negro Talks Self Into Jail—Hose Found By Police

A negro "talked too much" and today he is in the city jail.

The negro arrived in Pampa last week and began talking about how easy it used to be to pick things up in Pampa stores he he lived here "way back in the boom days."

Officers heard about it when S. G. Burratt of Burratt's Bootery reported that he had lost several pairs of women's silk hose, one pair of which already had been sold.

The negro answers the description of a man wanted in Borger. Shippe's death was the first motor car fatality here in November, during which police have been engaged in an intense campaign to reduce traffic accidents.

Temple Doctor Wins Award At Medical Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 18 (AP)—Dr. A. G. Scott, Temple, Tex., won the first scientific award at the Southern Medical Association convention, here, it was announced today.

C. E. Sykes, public relations representative of the association, said through an error a list of last year's award winners was announced last night as winners for this year.

Dr. Scott won the award with an exhibit of Mammary tumors. His exhibit of retro-tracheal typhoid projections won second last year.

Second scientific award this year went to Dr. Graham Asher, Dr. Frank Hoecker and Dr. George Walker, Kansas City, Kas., with a large screen electrocardiogram exhibit.

Dr. R. H. Rigdon, Nashville, Tenn., was given the third award for an exhibit of lesions produced by staphylococci and streptococci toxin in experimental animals.

Honorable mention went to the following: Indiana State Medical Association, Indianapolis, Ind., "The Indiana Plan of Preventive Medicine"; Dr. Johnny A. Blue, Guyton, Okla., "Gleanings From the Dust Bowl"; Dr. Hugh Jeter, Dr. Wayne M. Hull and Dr. Maynard S. Hart, Oklahoma City, "Primary Tumors of Bone"; Dr. J. Ross Veal, Washington, D. C., and Dr. D. D. Baker, New Orleans, La., "Anatomy and Pathology of Direct Intra-uterine Hernia"; Dr. Ralph M. Stuck, Denver, Colo., "Broken Necks."

The association awarded no research medal this year. Ernest W. Goodpasture, professor of pathology at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, Nashville, Tenn., received the medal last year.

another example—they are still unattractive to many investors because of political saber rattling.

Pension Funds Growing. (2) The Social Security program of the government, plus pension policies of individual companies, call for big reserve funds. These reserves must be invested. So far, government securities have been getting the call for this purpose. Sooner or later, however, the demand from this source will spill over into corporation securities.

(3) Bond investors are having a hard job to pick up good new issues. Many a company needing capital is selling its new securities directly to insurance companies. This practice provides a defour-around some of the government's restrictions and requirements on capital offerings. Moreover, I believe that the direct sales of new securities to institutional investors will increase rather than diminish.

(4) Banks may also bid direct. A group of banks, hungry for a chance to make two or three per cent on their money, may together take up an entire issue of securities. This, of course, would further restrict the supply of desirable investments available to the public.

(5) This trend toward the private sale of securities is now limited to bonds. However, the same thing could happen to new stock offerings. Fire insurance companies and investment trusts are big buyers of stocks. They are just as eager to get good stocks as life insurance companies are to get good bonds. They could easily suck a hole in new stock offerings if they should also decide to short-circuit the S. E. C.

Huge Demand for Securities. Then there are also basic reasons why the potential demand for securities is greater than ever before:

(1) Money available for investment is the most abundant in history. Banks, insurance companies, and individual investors have huge wads of cash ready for investment. Credit reserves are very large.

(2) Tax laws are forcing money into existing securities for there are few brand new issues. Such financing has been done in recent years almost entirely by refunding of existing securities. New promotions are being discouraged by tight financing regulations, while heavy taxes on capital gains make big investors leery of putting funds into new enterprises.

End of Tax-Exempts. (3) Elimination of tax-exempt bonds will be one of the biggest factors in pushing up corporation security prices over the next few months. I think that tax-exemption bonds will be stopped. Many people who buy such bonds, because of the elimination feature alone, will prefer choice bonds and stocks of private companies.

(4) Interest rates are very low. The low rates paid at savings banks and on the issuance of new bonds and annuities, and the fact that no interest is now paid on commercial accounts, make many persons seek choice securities selling to yield 3 to 4 per cent. Some of these people were never before interested in stock or bonds.

(5) Foreign funds are constantly drifting into American investments. The United States and Canada are a haven for distressed capital from all parts of a frightened world.

Conclusion. The combination of the huge demand for good securities and the diminishing supply of such issues should push prices of well-selected stocks and bonds higher. Although prices have already advanced sharply, I am convinced that medium-grade bonds or choice stocks will move higher!

P. S.—I have received so many letters from friends and critics of Dr. Townsend regarding my statements of two weeks ago in this column that it is physically impossible for me to answer them. Therefore, I take this means of thanking both those who criticize and those who approve. I shall try to be guided by all this correspondence.—R. W. B.

Football Team Seeks 'Good Old Kiwanis Line'

Pampa Lions at their luncheon Wednesday joined Pampa Rotarians in accepting the challenge of the service club, the Borger Phillips for a charity football game to be played by members of the clubs, one team representing Pampa and the other Phillips and Borger.

Members of the Kiwanis club are to be asked today if they will join the local Lions and Rotarians in arranging for the game. Place and date of the contest has not yet been decided, pending word from all of the three Pampa clubs.

Dr. H. H. Hicks was named as chairman of the Lions club committee that is to meet with representatives of the Pampa Lions and Pampa Kiwanis club to plan Pampa's participation in the charity game.

Other members of the committee are Roy Bourland, M. A. Graham, and W. A. Bratton.

The invitation to participate in the event was extended to the Lions club by a committee headed by the high school coach, Catfish Smith.

There were 68 present at the luncheon, including J. B. Massa of the Kiwanis club, Odus Mitchell, president of the Rotary club, Hol Wagner, Rotarian, Rev. P. Gordon Bayless, pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. A. Fox, and Clifford Braly.

As next Thursday is Thanksgiving there will be no meeting of the Lions club this day. Instead, the Lions will be guests of the Pampa Rotarians at their luncheon Wednesday at First Methodist church.

The invitation to the Lions was given to the club Wednesday by the Rotary club president.

President Extends Visitors' Permits

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today that on humanitarian grounds he had proposed a six-month extension between 12,000 and 15,000 German and Austrian refugees who are in the United States on visitors' permits.

The President said unless this extension was granted the permits of this large group would be cancelled if the refugees were not back in their native land by the end of the year.

He has informed Secretary of Labor Perkins, he said, that it would be a cruel and inhuman thing to compel these persons to go back to Germany and face possible mistreatment in concentration camps or other persecution.

The President smiled but had no comment on the summoning home of Hans Dieskhoff, German Ambassador to Washington.

House Painter Faces Gallows

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Time stood still today for Peter Gendusa, 30-year-old house painter, as he heard himself doomed to die on the gallows.

At 2:12 a. m. in criminal court a jury returned against the haggard Gendusa a death verdict for a machete attack on an elderly man and his spinster sister.

One year ago today, almost to the minute, Gendusa in the same court heard a jury return the same verdict against him for the same crime.

The State Supreme Court reversed the first decision because of a defective indictment.

The charge on which the jury returned its unanimous guilty verdict today makes the death sentence mandatory. The charge read: "Breaking and entering a dwelling in the night time armed with a deadly weapon with intent to rob, steal, murder and did actually commit an assault on persons lawfully therein."

The victims were Thomas Dupont, 61, and his sister, Miss Jennie Dupont, 54.

In each of Gendusa's trials the jury was given the case at midnight and Judge Fred Ozer, who will pass sentence later, said that in the history of the local court there had never been such a coincidence in time in any trial.

I. O. U.—$43,000,000,000

A few years ago there was a tremendous amount of public concern over the fact that the national debt had passed the $25,000,000,000 point. Today it is forecast that the debt will shortly touch $33,000,000,000—yet public lethargy and indifference could hardly be greater. This gigantic mortgage against the earnings and property of all individuals and all business no longer makes the headlines.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa News Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Sure, it's the Farleys and the Corcorans that now are debating what the election results mean and who should be the boys consequently in favor at the big White House.

The Farleys are the group around the postmaster-general himself, with lines into the political organization of the Democratic party. The Corcorans are members and associates of the 100 per cent New Deal group that includes Harry Hopkins, Secretary Ickes, Solicitor General Jackson, SEC Chairman Douglas, Ben Cohen, Leon Henderson and others. They're the Corcorans because Tommy Corcoran is the President's chief liaison man.

The Farleys want the Corcorans kept out of White House political and legislative deliberations. The Corcorans want F. D. R. to cut loose from the Farleys. Hence a battle of recriminations as to which group bungled the Democratic campaign, which group was repudiated by the voters and which group should now be tossed overboard by the Head man.

In this the Farleys are supported by the Garners and other Democratic tribes whose dislike for the Corcorans is no less and whose liking for Roosevelt is not intense. More on the side of the Corcorans are such men as Senator Norris, Senator LaFollette, Mayor LaGuardia, defeated Governor Murphy of Michigan and other progressives and independents.

PRO AND CON, TAKE YOUR CHOICE
Say the Farleys: The Republican sweep was a repudiation of the New Deal radicals and of their attempted "purge." It showed the President had been too cocky, too rough and too unwilling to compromise with conservatives who advised him to go slow.

But the Corcorans, long before this, have cried "Nuts!" They say: Farley's Democratic machinery just doesn't function up north and the party suffered the heaviest part of its defeat on "good government" issues. Voters rebelled against malodorous machines with which Farley first allied himself in 1936—in alliances which have been frozen ever since.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

WHO WROTE ROOSEVELT'S FORMER SPEECHES?

As we see Roosevelt in action and hear him sell envy and hate, one is compelled to wonder who wrote his speech when he was Governor of New York, in which he said, "Taxes are paid by the sweat of every man who labors."

It seems impossible to believe that any man could write and proclaim the sound and practical things that Roosevelt did and still do what he does now. It seems logical to believe that someone else wrote this masterpiece speech and Roosevelt parrotlike repeated it. No man who made such sound statements then could make such absurd and ridiculous and inconsistent statements as he now makes.

For the benefit of the readers I am quoting from what Roosevelt said when he was Governor of New York. We do not know who wrote it. Men do not change from sound ideas, like Roosevelt declared at that time if they understood them. And no one could write such sound principles if he did not understand them. When they understand them, they stick to them. They do not switch around. They are consistent. For this reason, it is evident that Roosevelt did not think these things through but only parrotlike repeated them. Here is what he said:

"The doctrine of legislation and regulation by 'masterminds' in whose judgment and will all the people may gladly and quietly acquiesce, has been too glaringly apparent at Washington during these last ten years. Were it possible to find 'masterminds' so unselfish, so willing to decide unhesitatingly against their own personal interests or private prejudices, men almost God-like in their ability to hold the scales of justice with an even hand—such a government might be to the interests of the country; but there are none such on our political horizon, and we cannot expect a complete reversal of all the teachings of history."

"I have warned the country against unwise governmental interference with business; I have pointed out that the policies of the present leadership... in the last few years have constituted dangerous back seat driving... I am opposed to their kind of governmental interference with business. It means casual, dangerous tampering."

"I have pointed out that the... Administration has been responsible for deficit after deficit; that as one disastrous year succeeded another, no attempt was made to arrange the finances of the country so that at least the mounting loss of revenue might not be turned into a deficit for the next year. It is my pledge and promise that this dangerous kind of financing shall be stopped, and that rigid governmental economy shall be forced by a stern and unremitting administration policy of living within our income..."

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are a burden on production, and can be paid only by production. If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax sold farms. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, increased cost of what they buy, or in broad cessation of employment."

Roosevelt should seek the advice of the man who wrote these lines. As E. C. Harwood wrote in his book, "Current Economic Delusions," "I strongly suspect that he whoever wrote these lines was one of the nation's bona fide economists."

NO FIGURES TO SUBSTANTIATE
In Roosevelt's pre-election fireside speech, he said, "our economic and social progress of the past five and a half years has definitely given the United States a more stable and less artificial prosperity than any nation in the world has enjoyed."

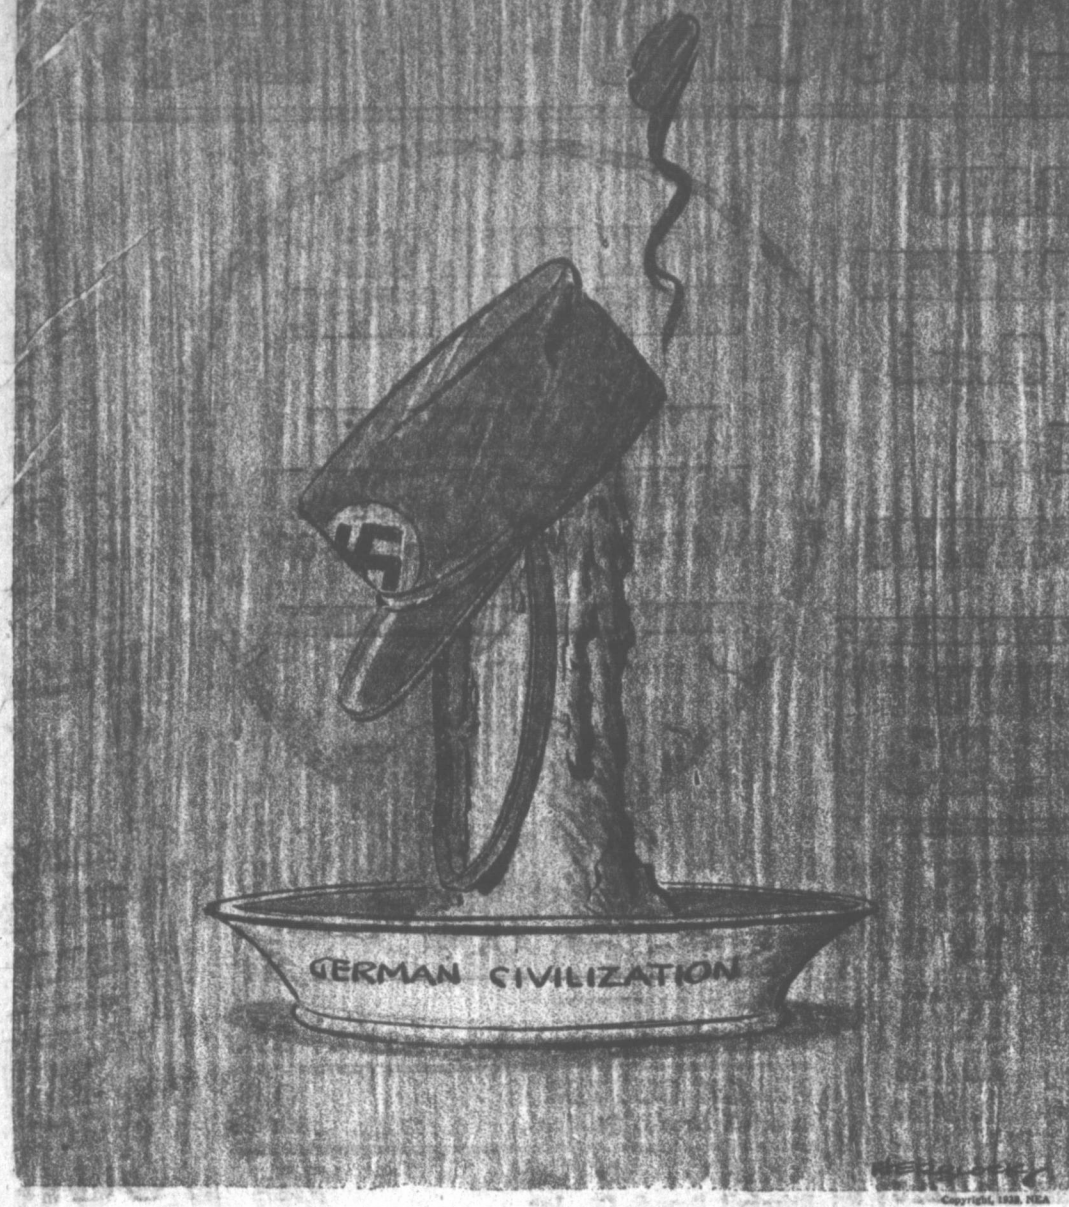

For any President to stand up and make an arbitrary statement like this, is either to show gross ignorance or base deception. Roosevelt refers to the automobile factories going to work as an indication of returning to prosperity. Everytime they have put out a new model, they always re-employ men at the beginning of the season.

It is just as reasonable to say that is a sign of returning prosperity as it would be to say that because farmers plowed in the spring and went to work that prosperity was returning.

It shows the mental ability of the President to reason or his trickery and chicanery. The highest expectations and the best hopes of American citizens came to fulfillment in Tuesday's election. From east to west, from one ocean to the other, there was a resurgence of true American ideas of proper government. The crowning achievement, of course, would have the election of Thomas Dewey as governor of New York, but even there the miss was by so much less than a mile that the very nearness of the thing completes the confusion of the subversive men who were about to remake the United States in their own image.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — That rumbling and shaking you hear isn't an earthquake, it's just Dumas jittersburging in his grave.

"The Three Musketeers" are with us again and the Ritz Brothers are IT. That makes Dumas the patsy, except that— Except for the Ritzes, it's being played straight. Accuracy in settings, costumes and all the trimmings is the rule. The romance of D'Artagnan (Don Ameche) and the lady Constance (Pauline Moore) is legitimately romantic. Binnie Bardsley is the beautiful and wicked Milady Winter, and Miles Mander an up-and-up Cardinal Richelieu. Besides all which, Zanuck is spending a million to make it a show. Besides all which, as they tell you on the lot, the three musketeers were really very funny fellows, weren't they?

I watched the boys rehearse a piece with John Carrandine (playing a French tavern keeper) and it was funny business. But I'm more convinced than ever that the Ritzes can't keep still. If they could, maybe there wouldn't be any Ritzes. On the other hand, maybe they'd be funnier.

Allan Dwan is directing — and there's no doubt of that any more. Right at first, there was. Seems the Ritzes were trying to take over. Dwan held an informal session with the boys, straightened them out, and it's been smooth sailing ever since.

This Pauline Moore is an attractive lass. She has poise and beauty both emphasized by the costuming. It's her first big role—but she isn't worried by it. She can't understand that, because up to now she's been one of the most jittery young actresses to set foot on a sound stage. Says so herself. All her other pictures bothered her. She'd go home and not be able to sleep, keep reciting lines from scripts, worry and stew about her next day's work. Working with the Ritzes—well, maybe it has a soothing effect on some people. Maybe she figures with them around nothing she does will matter anyway. She doesn't know.

Another nice girl is this Nancy Kelly, working opposite Tyrone Power in "Jesse James." Nancy retired at the ripe old age of eight from her first movie career, during which she appeared in 50-odd silent flickers. Returned, after stage successes, she is well on the way to her first 50 takies.

They gave her the leading feminine role in "Submarine Patrol," and the day she finished she was put on a train for Missouri and the long location for "Jesse James." With that one not yet done, they had her double-timing in "Talisman." First vacation she gets; if any, she'll hop to New York for whose side-walks she's pining something terrible. Maybe the trip back will cure her.

That's why Groucho Marx is back there now, for that cure. For four years Groucho has been exposed to the local climate with no let-up. "I'm ripe for disillusionment," he said before packing up. "I'm hoping I'll see enough of New York so I won't think I'm missing anything when I get back here. No, I'm not going back to the stage. I've had enough for one lifetime. When they talk about footlights glamor, I'm deaf. I served my time at one-night stands—I'm through. If that's glamor, give me tapioca pudding!"

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGEM

The work of the American Red Cross is not solely confined to taking out tonsils, fitting children with glasses, helping veterans and unemployed persons of all kinds, taking care of flood refugees (as if those duties were not enough!) The saying goes that there is no heart in the world as loving and as kind as that of the Red Cross. You could go over to the office of Mrs. W. H. Davis in the city hall and find dozens of instances of the humanity of the Red Cross, but you cannot put them in the paper, because the word and deeds of the Red Cross are confidential—just like your dealings with a physician. The Red Cross does not publicize individual cases, but once in a while an incident takes place that just has to be told. This is a story like that:

For six months, Mrs. Eula Durham who works in the library, had not heard from her son, a U. S. Marine who sailed on the U. S. S. Henderson from Guam Island to Shanghai. The son, Don Durham, who enlisted from Pampa, had written his mother that he was sailing for China. Of course he was in the war zone when he arrived there. As the weeks and months went by, the mother became more worried. Finally she felt she couldn't bear it any longer and she went to Mrs. Davis who got in touch with the war department. Immediately, a radiogram was sent to China, and almost as quickly a radio message from the boy to the mother was received, saying that he was safe. He had been getting her mail but she hadn't been getting his. The government sent that they had assured several mothers their sons were safe by the same method, and if you want to know what that mother thinks of the Red Cross, just ask her.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D.

CATCHING PNEUMONIA—II
Our respiratory tract is equipped with an efficient cleansing mechanism. Most of the respiratory channels are lined with mucous-secreting cells which have whip-like projections called cilia. The mucus entangles whatever foreign particles enter the lungs and the cilia sweep the entrapped material toward the upper portion of the trachea where they are expelled by coughing. The lowest ends of the respiratory channels, that is, the respiratory cilia, do not possess cilia. When foreign particles enter these smallest divisions, they are removed by certain of the white blood cells. Under normal conditions the cleansing mechanism of the lung is able to keep the lower part of the tract clean and sterile. But what happens when conditions are not normal, when the air cells of the lung become blocked? What relationship has such blockage to the development of pneumonia? To answer these questions, Dr. O. H. Robertson of the University of Chicago conducted a series of experiments on dogs. Pneumonia germs were implanted in the terminal air sacs of the lungs of the dogs. The germs were suspended in a starch broth paste which obstructed the terminal bronchioles of the dog's lungs. It was found possible by such procedures to produce a lobar pneumonia in dogs which closely resembled the disease developed by human beings. The spread of pneumonia germs and of the disease process to the surrounding parts was facilitated by the outpouring of serum in the infected tissues. Notable information was gained through these experiments on the mechanisms of recovery. It appears that recovery from pneumonia depends upon a generalized body process which acts to localize the infection by blocking the entrance of the pneumonia germ into the blood stream. In the local defense process certain of the fixed tissue cells of the lungs become transformed into free (unattached) cells which exhibit an extraordinary capacity to engulf and destroy the pneumonia germs. These transformed tissue cells are more active in destroying pneumonia germs than are the normally present white blood cells of the body.

Only Way To Stop Drinking, Brother, Is To Stop Now
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 18 (AP)—The old oak may be rescued from the bar room and restored to society by the psychiatrist without resorting to heroic "cures." The cure of the hard drinker should begin with total abstinence, avoiding all tapering off processes, Dr. Robert V. Seliger of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, told the Southern Medical Association here today. "A person who has been an excessive drinker," Dr. Seliger said, "can never be a moderate, controlled, or a one-or-two cocktail drinker." He suggested it often was possible to modify the influences that may have driven the patient to drink in the first place—poor vocational adjustment, family difficulties.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

Many of the epoch-making inventions of the world are produced by apparently ordinary people... The spinning frame was invented by one man in the textile industry, but by a barber. A teacher invented the cotton gin. A preacher discovered oxygen. Microscopes were first made by a janitor. A portrait painter invented the telegraph. A coal miner invented the first steam locomotive. A fiddler in a dance orchestra made his telescopes in odd moments between numbers... A Chicago street contractor designed the first Pullman sleeping car, named after him. A dry goods store invented the automatic coupler for use on railroad cars. A cloth manufacturer invented the block system which speeded railroad traffic and made it immensely safer. Another school teacher invented the electric locomotive.

Want to earn $100 a week? What does an ordinary person have to do to earn $5,000 a year? The answer, briefly, is: find out how to get new ideas. Six ways to get such ideas are: 1. Search for important general rules and put them to work. 2. Critique your own ideas. 3. Devise improvements in some daily routine, such as dressing. Then try to figure out how similar changes could apply to your daily work. 4. Seek as many friends as possible whose field of work is different from yours. 5. Learn to direct your daydreaming. Relaxation helps inductive thought. 6. Read outside your own field. Don't mind your own business but learn something about the other fellow's, too.

From four to eight per cent of the population is left-handed... Nobody is quite sure what causes left-handedness though it is most probable that the tendency is sinisterly inherited... If one or both parents are left-handed, 17 per cent of their children will be likewise. But if neither parent is left-handed only two per cent of their offspring will be southpaws. Left-handers make the best geographers, mechanics, detail men, pianists, inventors, jugglers, or technicians of any sort... Baseball's hall of fame is filled with "southpaws" and in almost all sports except golf they have been topflight performers.

Mechinist Confesses To Killing Woman
CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—A young machinist was held today as the confessed slayer of Ella Pehrson, 35, comely cosmetics saleswoman whose nude body was found crammed into a closet of his room. Emmet Morrison, an assistant attorney, said the man, Joseph Kadlecik, 27, confessed last night he stabbed the woman with an eight-inch kitchen knife when she resisted his advances.

Oil Demand Drops, Bureau Estimates
AUSTIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—Demand for Texas oil will be 27,100 barrels per day less next month than in November, the United States Bureau of Mines estimated today. The bureau recommended December production of 1,343,900 barrels daily in Texas. Its November recommendation was 1,371,000.

Germans In State Of Bondage Says Albert Einstein

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Public opinion definitely has turned against destruction of the great forests in East Texas.

"This is evidenced," Major E. A. Wood, director of the State Planning Board, said recently, discussing the forestry situation in Texas, "by the fact people who willfully start grass or tree fires there are always convicted, which was not always so." "Why anyone would want to start a forest fire is something many persons would have difficulty understanding, but why would anyone want to plow furrows up and down a hill, instead of horizontally?" "The answer to both questions is, because they think it a good thing to do. Concerning forest fires, they have been started because people wanted to get rid of the trees."

The public is viewing with growing disfavor improper commercial exploitation of Texas' forests, the Planning Board director continued. This exploitation has included in the past the wanton destruction of seedling trees in logging operations, the marketing of immature timber which had not reached its greatest value, stripping of land and failure to provide for re-growth. Wood recalled that until comparatively recent times some considerable areas of Texas were standing at the end of 1936, despite the fact a long growing season and an average annual rainfall of 50 inches makes timber grow faster in this region than any other part of the United States, except small areas on the Pacific coast.

The Planning Board has been trying to get across the idea that trees may constitute a crop, just as cotton is a crop, and that in failure to consider them as such many Texas farmers are overlooking a valuable source of income. "Trees can be harvested annually like any other crop," Wood said. "They can be planted, protected and cut when they are ready for market and the market is best, year after year. Every farmer should have a woodlot and grow trees for the market and use his own wood for the most tremendously important new source of income would be opened in this finest tree-growing area in the United States."

A Planning Board report shows that about one-fifth of the land area of Texas is covered with forest growth, but only about one-third of the timber area produces forest products in commercial quantities. The commercial area occupies the extreme eastern portion and is confined largely to about 20 counties, the remaining two-thirds of the forest area of the state being classed as "protection forest" which serves chiefly to protect the soil and vegetation and prevent rapid runoff.

Until the advent of the petroleum refining industry in 1921, lumbering led Texas in value of products manufactured, from 1921 until 1929 forest products being valued at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 annually. The depression years after 1929, with their sharp curtailment of building, put a serious strain on the industry, not only in Texas, but throughout the United States. In number of employees, the lumber industry ranked an easy first until 1928 when petroleum refining employed more than 19,000 persons compared to lumber's 16,000.

In the one-tenth of the entire population is dependent on the lumber industry for support, not including secondary industries, such as lumber yards.

Nazis Bar Jews From "Public" Parks

Vienna's beautiful parks are open to all—except Jews. The sign on the iron fence reads: "Jews Forbidden."

German Goods Orders From Abroad Drop

BERLIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—The anti-Jewish drive is costing Germany orders for her goods from abroad and it appeared today that other economic difficulties may follow. One exporter said all orders had been cancelled by customers in five leading countries around Germany. Another asserted ruefully that the steep downward curve of business extended beyond the bottom of his sales graph. The sharp decrease of foreign orders, manufacturers said, was the first effect they noted after the wrecking of Jewish shops, the decrease ordering these shops under Aryan proprietorship, and the $400,000,000 fine a consequence of the shooting by a Jewish boy of the Paris embassy secretary, Ernst vom Rath, who was buried yesterday with Nazi honors.

New prohibitions include, the newspaper Angrif said, one against tenant rights for Jews which would permit an Aryan wanting a Jew's home to have him evicted overnight. The paper said some 8,000 homes in Berlin would become available shortly for Aryans. Jewish guests are to be banned from small hotels. The larger hotels are not adhering to the ban, a reliable person said, because of their international clientele.

With the new restrictions becoming known daily while Nazi newspapers continue attacks upon the United States and Britain for their expressions of resentment, industrialists have asked that German Chambers of Commerce abroad examine market possibilities more exhaustively and try to provide counter-stimulants.

Experts of the economics ministry, meanwhile, are studying how the wholesale "Aryanization" of Jewish capital may be handled without doing serious harm to the national interest. Some economists point out that the transfer does not necessarily mean increased or improved employment, since large portions of Jewish capital have been employed in industry.

The whole upset, they say, may mean no improvement in the general business situation. Walther Funk, economics minister, likely had this in mind when he urged last Tuesday that "care must be taken that the displacement and tying up of great capital sums in the Aryanization process shall not hamper the money market in providing funds for investment in rich loans or other necessary purposes."

Compromise Predicted On Offices Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—There were new indications today that friends and foes of the administration's government reorganization bill might try to work out a compromise measure in the next session of Congress.

Interested administration officials said they were hopeful some new program could be devised to eliminate objections which sent the bill to a House pigeon-hole last spring. Among other things, they said, it might be possible to insert a definite pledge of economy—a pledge which opposition senators demanded but failed to exact.

Opponents of the bill, who generally favored government reorganization in principle, said they had certain minimum demands before any compromise could be reached. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) predicted that Congress never would consent to provisions of the administration measure which would abolish the office of comptroller general and replace the present bipartisan civil service commission with a single administrator.

Vandenberg said there also would be insistence that Congress be given some check over the proposed presidential authority to reshuffle bureaus. "Reorganizations should be a pruning of the governmental tree," he said. "It should not bring a great flowering of new functions and new agencies."

The original administration measure provided for the creation of new departments—social welfare and public works. Vandenberg asserted there easily could be a compromise if the "worst features" of the administration bill were eliminated. Some government officials studying the reorganization problem expressed agreement with a suggestion by Rep. Mead (D-NY), a senator-elect, that the various proposals in the original bill be offered as separate measures.

WTSC To Observe Religious Week

CANYON, Nov. 18.—Campus social activities will be suspended during the first annual "Religious Emphasis Week" at West Texas State college, beginning Dec. 6.

The special week, decided upon last spring by Dr. J. A. Hill, president, and local pastors, will include assembly programs on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, daily round-table discussions of religious and personal problems, vesper services, and activities by young people's organizations of the churches. Each pastor will be given an office in the administration building during Religious Emphasis Week.

Each year a local denomination will be given the duty of choosing the featured speaker for the week. This year this responsibility fell to the Church of Christ. The speaker chosen is the Rev. G. C. Brewer, minister of the Broadway church in Lubbock, a nationally known churchman who has been heard in all parts of the country.

Another special speaker, brought here by the College YWCA, will be Dr. E. E. Aubry of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. His subject will be "The Spiritual Crisis in American Culture." The "Y" also will arrange the music. Dr. Hill said activities of the week would be of a devotional and inspirational nature, "designed to stimulate the religious aspirations of the students and to emphasize and clarify the meaning and value of religion."

Rice Will Try To End TCU Reign Tomorrow

Lane Will Be Chunking On Sore Ankles

By FELIX K. MCKNIGHT
HOUSTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Team-mates bore the body of Jack Vestal, Rice Institute's scholarly full-back, to his grave today—a sorrowful prelude to tomorrow's clash with undefeated Texas Christian.

The "big game," the bid of down-trodden Rice to shake Texas Christian from its exalted national position, arrived in silence. Vestal, the senior redhead who took the blocks and knocks and made his number "75" a symbol of ruggedness, had whispered he wanted to live for the T. C. U. game.

But he died Wednesday of a cancerous affliction—the four-week-old fight of a stout heart at an end. Tomorrow some 30,000 fans will bulge Rice stadium to watch the wrecked Owls play one of the nation's greatest teams, a Texas Christian eleven that has won eight straight games with ease in a show of power and pass cunning.

Out there as the foe of wee Davey O'Brien in a heralded passing duel will be Ernie Lane, the 1937 gridiron hero who has been benched most of the season with damaging injuries. His ankles are unsteady from hurts, but Lane is expected to be turned up and shot into the game in hopes his old-time magic will return.

Doubtful was the appearance of his prize receiver, Ollie Cordill, favoring a bad knee. The rinky kicker, runner and receiver did not play against the Texas Aggies last week and has been working out in track shorts this week. Observers doubted that his knee would stand the strain of punting—a severe blow to an Owl team that has leaned on his long spirals.

Up in the Rice line, one must stand the shock of Texas Christian's stormy running game that has netted 1416 yards in eight games, there may be another hole occasioned by the expected absence of Capt. Jess Hines, who re-hurt an ailing knee in scrimmages.

Verbed Passes Concealed
Fair weather still prevailing, Texas Christian planned its usual forward passing game with David O'Brien at the helm—the little, 150-pounder who has pumped across 15 touchdowns passes, thrown three laterals for touchdowns, set up seven others inside the six-yard line, rushed across two himself and kicked 23 points after touchdown to account for 185 of Texas Christian's total of 205 points.

Passes of every description had been conceived for the Rice game by Coach Leo Meyer, who opined a week ago the Owls would be gunning for the Christians. To date, the TCU aerial barrage has reaped 1473 yards from 92 completions. Four regulars who didn't play against Texas last week while giving minor injuries time to heal, Capt. I. B. Hale, beefy tackle; Guard Forrest Kline and Halfbacks Johnny Hall and Earl Clark, the running twins, will start against Rice. Rice should have its courage up to the hilt, but Texas Christian appeared two touchdowns the better team.

Texas Tech Will Play New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 18 (AP)—The undefeated Red Raiders of Texas Tech, 31 strong, arrived here late last night from Lubbock, Texas, for their football game tomorrow with the University of New Mexico. The Raiders, directed by Coach Pete Cawthon, will work out today.

Princeton's Flight to Victory

Credit for Princeton's recent 20-7 win over Yale in Palmer Stadium went to Quarterback David Allerdice, whose deadly forward passes produced two touchdowns and set up the third. Here, at extreme left, he passes perfectly to end Stanley (42), for a big gain.

Fine Weather In Prospect For Grid Tilt

Jupiter Pluvius started in last night to make the Pampa-Plainview game this afternoon a mud-fest but Old Sol took command this morning and prospects were that the game would be played under ideal conditions.

The rain was not sufficient to make the field soggy and the bright sun which came to the front soon after 8 o'clock this morning was warm and bright which was not only expected to dry off the field but to make the spectator forget even his overcoat.

Coaches Vernon Hilliard, Jerome Vannoy and Mickey Pool and their Bulldogs arrived in Pampa this morning ready for the game. Coach Hilliard was gloomy over the condition of his team but when he heard about the Harvester troubles he perked up a little and a tough old game of football is in store for fans at 2:30 o'clock at Harvester field.

The Plainview band and pep squad was scheduled to arrive about noon and to lead a parade through downtown streets at 1 o'clock, joined by the Pampa band and pep squad. Radio announcers were in a dither over "ring how they were going to explain the Pampa-Chicago and the Plainview Graham in the ball totting department and the Pampa Kemp and the Plainview Kemp in the line. They won't be able to say little and big because all four weigh within two pounds of each other.

Apostoli Will Battle Corbett

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Having finished their training without the fracture of a single sacro-iliac, Freddie Apostoli and Young Corbett 3rd clash at Madison Square Garden tonight for the "world" middleweight championship, as it is understood by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Prospects are that the two Californians will settle their argument in semi-privacy, with fewer than 10,000 scattered about the big arena. The fight is expected to catch on, partly because the house has been sealed at championship prices and many fans do not think it is a bona fide championship fight.

The title for which Apostoli and Corbett fight is an ephemeral something, created by the State Boxing Commission. The other 160-pound title is held by Solly Krieger of Brooklyn, by virtue of his recent win over Al Hostak in Seattle. Apostoli beat Solly twice, knocking him out the second time, before Solly "smuck" up on Hostak. In the fight of imperial cities, Apostoli and Corbett are the two best middleweights in the world today, whatever the status of tonight's scrap.

Corbett, 33 and a southpaw, won a 10-round decision from Apostoli in San Francisco last February, much to the surprise of nearly everybody. The betting is 5 to 9 that there will be a different result tonight, and the probability is that Apostoli will be declared the winner before the 15 rounds are up.

DEATH VALLEY PROVES ATTRACTIVE TO TOURISTS.
LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are at least 58,330 persons for whom the dry, scorching wastes of Death Valley hold no terrors. That is the number of persons who visited the spot in the last year, according to the records of Supt. T. R. Goodwin. Now a national park, Death Valley has been improved with good roads and dependable water supply, and numerous hotels have been established. Travel in the last five years has increased 550 per cent.

Broncos of Santa Clara Reach End of Trail

Smashing line play featured St. Mary's 7-0 upset of Santa Clara at San Francisco, where the Broncos were defeated for the first time since 1935. Bruno Pelligrini, No. 23 of Santa Clara, tries to crack through for a gain in scoring territory, but is met by a stone wall in the person of the Gates' Dick Mesak. Sprawled on the turf in the foreground after attempting their blocking assignments are three Broncos—Wolf, No. 39; Ganney, No. 31, and Schiehl, No. 32.

Masonics Can Win District Title Tonight

Thirty-one conference games remain on the week-end schedule of Texas schoolboy football with clear-cut issues to be determined in all districts as the race narrows for title play on Thanksgiving day. The second district champion to be crowned is expected tonight when Masonic Home plays Poly in the decisive game of the Fort Worth sector. The Masons can take the pennant with no more than a tie. Poly must win to earn a tie for the title.

Three games were played last night, two of them conference engagements. Paschal defeated Arlington Heights 16-7 in the Fort Worth district and Austin (Houston) crushed Milby (Houston) 31-6 in district 13. Neither title had championship bearing.

San Benito and Donna played to a 6-6 tie in a district 16 non-conference game.

CIO Fight Against Ford Plants Flares

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Congress of Industrial Organizations, primed with plans for economic boycott and political action, appeared ready to put a tumultuous climax to its historic convention today with the election of John L. Lewis as its first president.

Delegates who scoffed at reports the 58-year-old militant labor leader might step aside to let the honors of the first CIO presidency fall to his closest lieutenant, Philip Murray, said it was imperative the new industrial union movement start its first year with Lewis in command.

A highly demonstrative convention grinding out a policy program for the now permanently organized CIO, highlighted yesterday's business session with the passage of a resolution threatening boycott action against the Ford Motor Company, the only major motor car concern in the United States which has not signed a collective bargaining agreement with CIO's United Auto Workers Union.

TCU Has Open Date Oct. 28 On Schedule

FORT WORTH, Nov. 18.—An inter-sectional game with Temple University in Philadelphia, for the second consecutive year, a conference game in December, and an open date October 28 are highlights of the 1939 football schedule for Texas Christian University, as announced today by Athletic Director Howard Grubbs.

We will still book a game for Oct. 28 if a suitable opponent could be found, but the chances are that the date will remain unfulfilled because almost all 1939 schedules are now completed," Grubbs says.

Not since 1927 have the Horned Frogs booked as few as nine football games as a season's work. In 1935 and 1936, with bowl games added, the schedules totaled 13 games. The 1939 bookings include all of the schools played this year, with the exception of Marquette.

Sophomores Have Varied Program At Chapel Thursday

PANEHANDLE, Nov. 18.—Sophomores presented a miscellaneous chapel program in the auditorium Thursday morning. Ellamaud Crow read two poems; Robert Weisberg and Lee Thorp played a cornet duet, "I've Got a Pocket Full of Dreams." Dawson Little played two clarinet selections, "Stop Beating Around the Mulberry Bush" and "Dark Town Strutters Ball."

A question and answer box was held with amusing questions asked and answered by the sophomores.

Wellington And McLean To Battle For Title Tonight

Many Pampa football fans plan to leave for Wellington direct from Harvester park after the Pampa-Plainview game to see the McLean Tigers and the Wellington Skyrockets battle for the district 3-B football title tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Wellington, defeated only once last year, by Panhandle in the regional final is undefeated this season while McLean lost a close game to Altus, Okla., and by one point to White Deer.

McLean's attack will be handicapped by the loss of Braxton, injured in the White Deer game. The speedster and passer may be able to play against Wellington but he is not scheduled to start. Bond, 200-pound fullback, will lead the McLean attack assisted by Lee, Humphries, and Mantooth. McLean has a big hard-charging line that may be called on to decide the outcome of the game.

Baylor Plans To Keep Jinx Over Ponies

WACO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Bullet Bill Patterson gave his famed forward passing arm a final workout today as Baylor concocted plans for keeping its ancient jinx over invading Southern Methodist here tomorrow.

Never in the history of football relations between the Southwest conference powers has S. M. U. defeated Baylor on its home ground. Tomorrow Southern Methodist will come here not only to smash a jinx but keep apace of the runaway Texas Christians. Three wins and no losses are on the Methodist's books; the only team still with a good chance of overhauling the Christians.

Patterson, the running, kicking and passing sensation who keeps Baylor listed as a dangerous club, has played 13 consecutive full games. His latest escapade occurred last Friday when he passed Loyola of Los Angeles into 35-2 defeat.

Sports Roundup

By SID FEDER.
NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—You can win yourself plenty ough-day around this town betting when Notre Dame played its first football game in New York. . . . It was against Rutgers in '21. . . . And this corner was taken for a piece of change against that one (to be brutally frank) . . . The Irish won only 490 yards in their game.

Wisconsin-Minnesota: One faltering vote for Wisconsin. Pitt-Penn State: With or without Goldberg, Pitt. Princeton-Army: Hard to figure but Army gets the nod. Iowa State-Oklahoma: The Cyclones are surprisingly tough but seem to lack undefeated and untied Oklahoma's all-around class. Oklahoma-Baylor-Southern Methodist: Ouch! From the bottom of an exceedingly deep hole, Southern Methodist, Louisiana State over Southwestern (La.); Southwestern (Tenn.) over Mississippi State; Tulane over Sewanee; Centenary over DePaul. Texas Tech over New Mexico.

The Pampa Guerrillas will meet the Canadian Wildcats at 7:30 o'clock tonight under the lights of Hoover field in Canadian. It will be the last game of the season for the Cats and probably the final appearance of the Guerrillas.

Ever since Gene Sarazen wrote that mad piece saying golf pros lose money around the circuit, the folks in the game are wondering where Johnny Cain, Denny Shuts, and Johnny Revolta used to build those new Florida homes.

STRANGER IN TOWN

THE lamps on the main street outside have just turned on and the clock in the hotel lobby says five minutes after six. A man steps out of the elevator; he lights a cigarette and walks slowly toward the dining room.

He is a traveling salesman; a stranger in town.

The stranger stops at the newsstand. He slaps a nickel on the counter and picks up an out-of-town paper. Turning away, he starts to read it, walking to the dining room.

Suddenly the stranger stops short. He frowns. Then he walks back to the newsstand and buys the latest edition of the Pampa News. He takes it to the dinner table with him, leaving the out of town paper with his hat on the rack outside. The News came from the press a bare hour ago; the out of town paper is twelve hours old.

TONIGHT this homely little drama will be reenacted in hundreds of cities and towns all over the United States. It will happen in Oklahoma City, Dallas, Houston and Oshkosh. It will happen in Augusta, Maine, and in Augusta, Georgia. Go into nearly any hotel lobby, nearly any railroad station and you will see it happen. It's as sure as sunset or high tide - - the manifestation of the twice-daily craving called news-hunger!

News-hunger is the thing that makes millions of people get up in the morning. News-hunger makes the bus ride home endurable for just as many millions every night. To satisfy it women will go late to the movies and men will paddle across northern lakes in a squall to reach the post office . . . and the mail edition - - - on the other side. It makes an empty newsstand as great a tragedy as an empty refrigerator. News-hunger is shared by banker and boot-black, prize fighter and professor, and the food it craves . . . the news of the day . . . is the one thing all civilized humanity can talk about in common.

For everybody who can read reads the news! Oswald K. Citizen may have a thousand books in his library or he may have one . . . and that one the telephone directory . . . but he reads some newspaper at least once a day. He may own a sixteen-tube radio, a four-tube cracker box, or none at all . . . he may subscribe to a dozen magazines, to three, or to not a single one . . . but it's dollars to doughnuts that part of his hard-earned income goes to buy at least one newspaper every day in the week and probably Sunday, too!

"All I know is what I read in the newspapers," said Will Rogers and it's probably the phrase that will endear him longest to America; it struck a familiar chord in the hearts of millions.

Everybody reads the newspaper. There's so much, so awfully much, to read! Just the weather report, for instance. Remember those scorching days a few weeks ago? And how you couldn't wait to pick up the paper to see if a break was coming? And the football news! Hasn't it been a grand and glorious escape from business troubles, tax worries and the thousand and one things that plague you every day? What would you do without your newspaper? What would you do without the unrolling drama of a war-tense Europe, without the Roving Reporter, Rodney Dutcher or Lil' Abner? You'd get along, of course; but life wouldn't be very exciting. And there are millions like you, mister!

Everybody reads the newspaper. Reads it excitedly, eagerly, with a thrill! That, incidentally, is why newspaper advertising packs such a wallop! That's why it out-pulls every other kind. Everybody reads news. . . everybody wants news . . . and advertising is news, too! A newspaper reader is alert, keyed-up to get the most out of advertising just because he is reading his newspaper. He's not chewing his nails off deep in a magazine mystery serial, oblivious to everything but a bloody corpse. He's not wading wearily through a mass of broadsides and brochures looking for a personal letter from his pal in Clinton, Iowa. He is avidly intent on the news in his newspaper advertising: What is it? How much does it cost! Where can I buy it?

He likes newspaper advertising and looks upon it as one of the many fine services his newspaper performs.

Finally, let's remember this! Advertising is simply selling and must always be hometown selling . . . local selling. People do not buy cars, shoes or tuna fish at a factory a thousand miles away. They buy them from a local dealer. Selling is always local . . . and newspaper advertising outpulls any other kind because it is local, too . . . because it can be keyed to local conditions, local interests, local buying-power and local taste.

That's why America is primarily a newspaper market. It is, in fact, a super-market of local newspaper markets, populated by folks who buy almost everything they wear, eat and use through advertisements in local newspapers. If you are a national advertiser aiming for larger volume you must recognize what local advertisers have long ago realized: that you need local newspaper pulling power to deliver your important message to these people. Without it, your product will remain a stranger in town.

3,016 Employed During October By Plains WPA

AMARILLO, Nov. 18.—Work for 3,016 men and women was provided during October by the operation of 80 Works Progress Administration projects in the Panhandle territory, it was reported today by Administrative officer A. A. Meredith.

Temporary seasonal agricultural activities continued to provide jobs for more than 600 workers eligible for WPA employment. Work was completed on sixteen projects and twenty-eight new projects were inaugurated during October. Included among projects completed were improvements to 28 miles of farm-to-market roads in Hansford and Potter counties, improvements to 7 miles of streets and alleys in Amarillo. Housekeeping Aid projects completed gave aid to 1,069 families in Dallam, Hutchinson, Potter and Swisher counties. Sewing rooms operated in Hansford, Randall and Potter counties produced 61,600 garments in addition to various household articles. Community sanitation work was completed in Collingsworth and Sherman counties. Other projects completed included a mineral resources survey in Oldham county, improvements to the Potter County Tuberculosis Preventionorium, construction of a football stadium at the McLean grade school, and a districtwide project operating for the improvement of library facilities.

Meredith reported that $223,876 had been expended on the completed projects by WPA, while local governmental agencies supplied $140,212. These projects provided 922,999 man-hours of work.

Crack Polo Player Starts Horse Hunt

LLANO, Nov. 18 (AP)—It is horse hunting time in the ranching country for Cecil Smith, erstwhile Llano cowboy and one of the world's top-ranking polo players, and his cowboy mate, Rube Williams, another Llano boy who won fame in the polo world. A third will be the veteran player and dealer in York Ratliff, a veteran trainer who has returned home from Long Island where he took a string of trained mounts to sell.

The three Llano poloists, whose careers began on Llano ranches, are scouting over the ranching section of Texas seeking horses to train for the game. The horse hunt will continue several months, or until the dealers obtain enough for their needs. Then the work of schooling the green ponies will start and by early spring they will be finished and ready to head for eastern polo fields.

Smith had another successful season of play in England and on Long Island, and Williams, who returned home at the end of October, was manager of the Buenos Aires Polo club last summer. Ratliff played polo on Long Island during the summer. Smith and Williams have their winter training grounds at San Antonio where the year associated with George Miller, veteran polo player and trainer, Ratliff is working out of Llano and about the first of the year will move his string to San Antonio for the tournament season.

WPA Street Project Asked By Wellington

AMARILLO, Nov. 18.—A project proposal has been received from the City of Wellington, proposing general street, park, sewer and drainage improvements aggregating an expenditure of $74,045.90 of which $50,194.10 is requested from the federal government.

The project includes 50 blocks of street paving, 2600 feet of curb and gutter, 15,000 cubic yards of drainage excavation, 2,800 cubic feet of natural stone masonry and 600 cubic yard sludge filter bed at the disposal plant.

One of the major WPA projects already completed in Collingsworth county is the city street paving project completed in the City of Wellington more than a year ago.

Texas Veterinary School Ranked As Second In U. S.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 18 (A&M)—The School of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A. and M. College now is second largest in the United States and among the largest in the world, according to a survey recently completed by Dr. R. P. Hartstetter, dean of the school. Enrollment of 357 students this term is exceeded in America only by Iowa State, Ames, Iowa, which school has 10 students more than Texas A. and M.

U. S. May Supply Goals With Coals

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Silver-fleeced Angora goats soon may have cotton coats furnished by the federal government if plans of the marketing section of the AAA are realized.

This was considered recently at a meeting of the directors of the Texas Angora Goat Breeder's Association at Uvalde.

John J. Brown, associate cotton technologist from Washington told directors that "we tried to get measurements of a goat in Washington but couldn't, so I came out here." Brown said he hadn't seen an Angora until he came to Texas.

Goat breeders describe their specifications for coats that soon may be manufactured and distributed to certain breeders in an experiment.

Brown said the marketing sections of the AAA is "thinking about" such a program and displayed a canvas coat that would fit an average goat.

Pupils Use Textile Notebooks In Study

PANHANDLE, Nov. 18.—Pupils of Mrs. Clara Cornelius' third grade are making an extensive study of Shelter and Clothing, and as a project are making textile notebooks using samples of material as silk, cotton, wool and rayon, with a short paragraph beneath each sample explaining the type of textile and its uses.

Shamrock Red Cross Seeks 250 Members

SHAMROCK, Nov. 18.—The annual Red Cross membership drive will be held in Shamrock and vicinity and opened Wednesday and Thursday. An effort will be made by the committee in charge to enroll 250 members in the organization for this year.

Mrs. E. K. Caperton, roll call chairman, stressed the fact that only 50 cents of each membership, between annual and supporting memberships, goes to the national headquarters and the remainder is used for local need. She also stressed the work of the local chapter during the past year when two first aid schools were held and four highway first aid stations installed.

The local chapter also rendered service to 42 needy families who had no other source of aid.

Farce Presented By McLean Students

McLean, Nov. 18.—"Gin Modern," a three-act farce, was presented by members of the speech department Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium, with Miss Julia Slough directing.

Posters, handbills, tickets, and programs advertising the play were planned by members of the Journalism class. Pep squad girls sponsored the selling of the tickets and helped seat the crowd Tuesday evening. Proceeds will be used for the expenses of the pep squad.

Cast for "Goin' Modern!" was as follows: Margaret Kramer, Rancy Mantooth, Jack Young, Iona Hale, Robert Wilson, Joyce Graham, Marvin Jones, Louise Cobb, Una Howard, Clint Doolen Jr., Mary Jo Blair. Musical numbers before the play began were given by the high school band, directed by C. H. Leeds. Dale Smith directed the glee club for the occasion. "When Mother Nature Sings Her Lullaby" and "A Little Old Cathedral in the Pines." Mary Jo Blair sang a special song, accompanied by members of the glee club. Tap dance numbers were given by Minnie Catherine Morse and Jo Ann Campbell.

Armstrong Rancher Finds 1832 Pistol

CLARENDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Clyde Gilbert, foreman of the Gilbert ranch of Armstrong county, found an early model cap and ball six-shooter of 45-caliber recently. The old gun measures 14 inches from butt to muzzle. A month ago he picked up a "one-shotter" bearing the date 1832. Both guns, it is thought, belonged to Indian fighters as they were discovered in what was once Comanche country.

The Woolworth building is 792 feet high; the Washington Monument is 555 feet and 3 inches.

WPA Official Lauds Library At Mobeetie

MOBETTIE, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Rosalyn T. Smiser, district library supervisor for WPA library project, visited Wheeler county schools Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Smiser was very well pleased with the work done in the Mobeetie school library, and with the library as a whole.

She examined the Dewey decimal classification cataloging, completed last term by the librarian, Mrs. Smiser also was pleased with the mending of the books and gave several pointers in book mending.

The library is completing books of stories taken from magazines and is putting important articles aside for future filing in the vertical file. Five daily newspapers, The Pampa News, Amarillo News-Globe, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Shamrock Texas, and two school papers and the Wheeler Times are in the library each day for the students to use. There are also some 12 subscribed magazines that the students have access to in the library.

Mrs. Smiser stated that there will be a Wheeler county institute in Wheeler in the near future, and asked Mrs. Beck, librarian, to demonstrate her book mending at this institute.

Mrs. Smiser classed the Mobeetie library as the most highly organized library of any she had visited.

White Deer P-TA To Study High School

WHITE DEER, Nov. 18.—"Know Your High School," will be the theme at the meeting of the White Deer Parent-Teacher association at 7 o'clock Monday night.

J. Davis Hill, principal of White Deer high school, will be leader of the program. Each department of the high school will present a demonstration or give information concerning its activities. The departments to be represented and their leaders are: English, Misses Claudia Evely and Odessa Howell; speech, Wendell Cain; physical education, Miss Virginia Martin and Gene McCollum; vocational, Miss Elizabeth Deal and Harlan Howell; commercial, Harold Drummond; mathematics, Maurice Carlson; library, Miss Gladys Holley; social studies, Mrs. B. F. Weeks; fine arts, and Glen J. Davis.

Charter Sought By Alarreed Boy Scouts

ALARREED, Nov. 18.—Efforts are being made here to obtain a charter for the Alarreed Boy Scout troop. Organized several times in the past, the movement has not been continuous as the scoutmaster has usually been one of the teachers and the troop disbanded each summer.

At the regular meeting of the troop at 7 o'clock Monday night, the tenderfoot test was passed by E. B. Reeves, Jr.

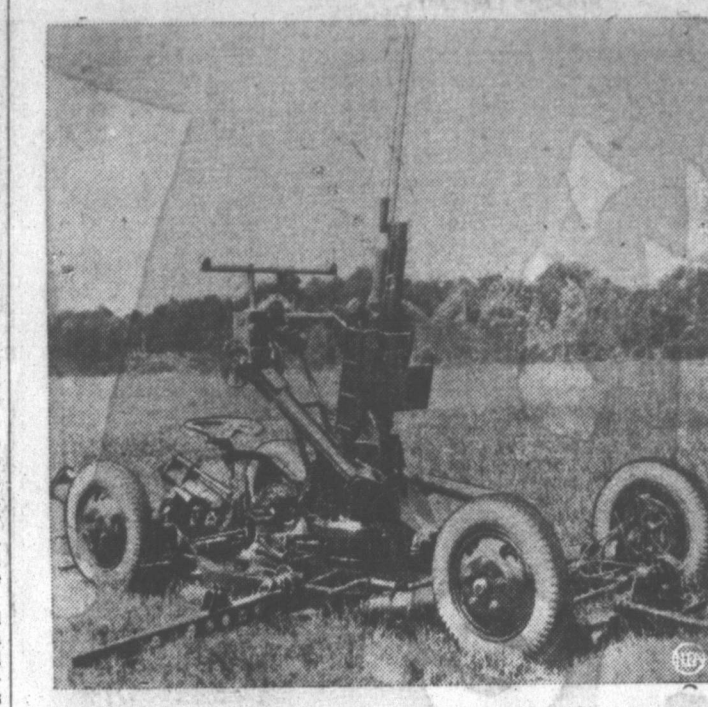

After the meeting there was a boxing match between L. W. Bryant and "Blackie" Hill. Attending the meeting were James Prock, James Bryant, L. W. Bryant, Truman Bruce, Robert Bruce, Billy Massey, E. B. Reeves, Jr., James Darnell, Jr., Hoyt Cole, Robert Cecil Hill, and J. Lewis Ellison, assistant scoutmaster.

Pampa Grad Honor Student At Tulsa

SKELLYTOWN, Nov. 18.—Arthur Bowsher, who graduated from the Pampa high school in 1936, and is attending Tulsa University, was on the honor roll of the university the last six weeks. He has also been substituting for Dr. L. R. Laudon, professor of the university, in addition to teaching a freshman class regularly.

He will arrive home next week to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bowsher, of Skellytown.

High Flyer Among Guns

One of the latest achievements in modernizing the U. S. Army is this new 37 mm. anti-aircraft gun. It can be easily towed at high speed, and has an estimated firing range of 10,000 feet.

Panhandle Scouts Camp In Palo Duro

PANHANDLE, Nov. 18.—Eleven Boy Scouts of Panhandle accompanied by the assistant Scoutmaster, Payton Reavis, spent the weekend in the Palo Duro Canyons.

They arrived at the canyons late Saturday evening and cooked their supper around a council fire. Lights were out at ten.

Following Sunday School Sunday morning, they went on a hiking trip into the canyons, and after lunch which was prepared around an open fire, they returned home, stopping at Canyon to visit the historical museum. Those making the trip were Jack Craig, Sammy Goodner, who drove the bus, Junior Knorr, Payton Reavis, Clifford Cox, Howard Cox, Tommy White, Otis Sterling, David Russ, Drennon Huff, and W. B. Tow.

Wheeler Teachers To Meet Saturday

SHAMROCK, Nov. 18.—The county teachers association of Wheeler county will hold its first meeting of the year Saturday at 9:30 o'clock at Clark auditorium. The association was organized last February.

The county organization, composed of all teachers in all Wheeler county schools, is a part of the Texas State Teachers association and is affiliated with the district teachers association, which is also a part of the state association. The trustees of Wheeler county will be special guests at this meeting. Dr. Armstrong of the University of Oklahoma will be the principal speaker. W. C. Perkins is president of the local organization, Clyde Brown of Kelton is vice-president and Miss Naomi King or Magie City is secretary.

Book Week Program Held At Panhandle

PANHANDLE, Nov. 18.—The grade pupils, under direction of Mrs. Maud Hunt Owens, public school music director, presented an assembly program of Book Songs, in observance of Book Week, in the grade school auditorium this week. Each grade has studied about the origin, binding and making of books, also contemporary authors have been studied. Book reviews, poster making, and illustrations have been given in each room.

An income tax was imposed in Great Britain in 1799 to finance the war against Napoleon.

January 8-14 To Be Conservation Week In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 18.—Culminating 25 years of work on soil and water conservation by the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College, the week of January 8-14, 1939, will be proclaimed as soil and water conservation week by Governor James V. Allred, in accordance with legislation passed in 1931.

H. H. Williamson, director of Cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics, this week said that a survey made in 1937 revealed that 90 per cent of the crop and pasture land of Texas there is need of some method of soil and water conservation.

"Although protective measures have been carried out on about ten million acres, through the efforts of the Extension Service, there is much work left to be done. We are first to admit that we need all the help we can get in this connection. Our county agricultural agents could not run all the terrace lines need in the state in 100 years," Mr. Williamson said.

"We hope to speed up the conservation process. To this end our agents have given instruction in the operation of farm levels to farmers and club boys, and there are today more than 15,000 men and boys who are qualified to run contours. Commissioners' courts, through the use of county-owned machinery, have made available something farmers have long needed—powerful equipment.

"Churches, service clubs, civic and agricultural organizations, the Soil Conservation Service, the vocational agriculture teachers, and other groups and agencies have been asked to cooperate with us in the campaign."

Dallam Farmer Gets Good Kafir Yield

DALHART, Nov. 18 (AP)—H. C. Hudson cut 20,000 bundles from 130 acres of kafir that on September 1, was less than a foot high and apparently was going to yield nothing.

The remarkable growth came after about four inches of rain in the first week of September. "I cut it in mid-October ahead of frost," Hudson said. "The grain was in the milk and dough stage and the time when it makes the very finest feed." Hudson said he would feed it to his dairy cows.

Daughter Of Texas Judge Becomes Sensational Hit In Broadway Revue

By GEORGE ROSS. NEW YORK, Nov. 18.-The arrival of Vinton Freedley's mammoth show, "Leave It To Me," was mentioned on a half-dozen counts.

It is the first grand, unanimously approved song-and-dance show of the season. (2) It was the night Governor Lehman and the defeated rival, Thomas E. Dewey, buried the political hatchet and shook hands out in the lobby.

Following the invocation by L. L. Stovall and a song by the group, H. M. Ewell, teacher of the class, gave the welcome, and Clarence Anderson responded. Purl Meaker entertained with a number of slight-of-hand tricks, an impromptu quartet composed of Biggs Horn, Clarence Anderson, Joe Seitz, and G. Giles, sang; and Mrs. Herman Coe gave a humorous reading.

FAMOUS SOCIALIST WRITER

HORIZONTAL. Answer to Previous Puzzle. 1 Most famous writer on socialism. 7 His calls for a changed economic system.

LAUGH AMBASSADOR. The last time Broadway saw Bill Gaxton and Victor Moore romping around a stage together, the moon-faced, round-shouldered Moore was trying to up himself from the position of Public Enemy No. 13 in "Anything Goes" and Gaxton was helping him out. Well, they're on a new mission in "Leave It To Me," because Moore now is the new Ambassador to Soviet Russia and Gaxton is doing all he can to get the home-sick envoy called to the United States.

Present for the party at Erwin's Drug were the guests of honor, Mary Hess and Donald Duane Davis; Betty Jo Davis, Earlene Briscoe, Geo. Briscoe, and Claudia Marie Brown-all pupils of Enterprise school; Mrs. Jim Beck, teacher; Miss Ermadell Floyd, Rev. W. A. Erwin, T. A. Landers, and Arthur Erwin.

Beautiful and well-publicized legs carried Marlene Dietrich of the films, Mistinguette of the French musical comedy stage, Broadway's Ann Pennington and a few glamorous others to the theatrical heights. Now there is a brand-newcomer to this exclusive company-sparkling Mary Martin, whose Siberian strip-tease "stops the show" in "Leave It To Me," the recently opened Broadway revue which may prove to be the biggest musical hit of recent years.

SERIAL STORY

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY A LITTLE girl—admiring daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.

CHAPTER XI
JUDY watched Diane Bell pushing the baby carriage across the station to Admiral Alcott's house.

Diane got Judy alone on the pretext of wanting a drink of water. "I hear Jack's orders to Pensacola were revoked at the last minute," she said bluntly.

Judy couldn't help flushing. Diane went on, with the privilege of her long friendship, "It's better so. I hated to think of you sitting by yourself—without a man, I mean—while Dwight and that red-head of his gave their vows."

"You're imagining things," said Judy. "So is the whole station. We've got lively imaginations. Then she said, 'Judy, you don't know what you're missing by being so blind and stubborn! Never mind his virtues. Never mind anything. But you'd have such fun! Her dark face glowed. 'Bill and I have had a million dollars worth of happiness.'"

"You love him," said Judy. "And you love Jack, too, you funny fool! You just don't know the signs. You're infatuated with Dwight. He's handsome and he knows how to—oh—you make me sick!"

"Maybe you make me sick, too," said Judy, smiling. She hugged Diane. "I'll be all right."

"They went back outdoors to the baby and Mrs. Alcott. It was an important incident, but it served to warn Judy how much talk was being aired around the station.

She wondered, too, if Jack Hanley was angry at having had his orders changed. He'd know, all right, who had changed them. She thought she couldn't bear it if he leaped to the conclusion that it had done the job.

But he telephoned her that night, and his voice was almost cheerful. "Man proposes, the admiral disposes," he said. "I'm too valuable to the Enterprise to be lost without a replacement, or some damn thing, and when I do get my shore duty, it'll be on North Island."

"Oh," said Judy. "As long as I didn't succeed in running away from you, may I come over?"

SHE remembered the things he had said. "Crums." "The most sensible way is to cut it short." But she could understand, too, that a man who had said, "I haven't forgotten in five years" would still want to try again—if he had to remain close by.

She wanted to see him. That was the worst part of it. She didn't want to lose the dependable friend, the fine companion, that Jack had always been. But she had lost him the moment he told her he loved her.

"Come over, if you like," she said. "I haven't an engagement." "Coming," he said.

She waited for him restlessly. It wouldn't be easy. The silence was strained between them, the first few seconds, as they looked at each other. Then he said, "Judy, you're thinner than yesterday. There's something—something gaunt in your cheeks."

She laughed. "You're crazy! Nobody loses weight overnight." "If they don't sleep—"

"I sleep." "About as much as I did, I'll bet."

"Why couldn't you sleep? You thought you were going to Pensacola—getting away from it all—"

"I never wanted to get away from you." "Listen, Jack," she said steadily. "We talked it out. We decided something. Now you're not going. But what we decided still stands. Can't we be friends—the way we used to be?"

The brown eyes held hers. "I'd do anything you want," he said. "On any terms."

"All I want is that we—we act natural—that I don't keep feeling 'I'—the words that came to her lips were, 'That I've knifed you.' But of course she couldn't say that, so she said nothing.

"I can't pretend I don't love you," he said earnestly. "It's too much to ask. But I'll never mention it again. We'll dance, and ride, and go to parties just as we used to—and well—it'll all be the same as it used to be."

It never would be. She knew that. But she did need him, in a certain fashion. As Diane had said, she couldn't stand up to Dwight and Marvel without the solid bulk of Jack Hanley behind her. He was so fine. It was a pity to use his love only for a shield, his deep concern for her only to hide the blow another man had inflicted. She gripped his hand. "You're swell, Jack. You're the best friend I ever had."

Mrs. Alcott was wordlessly content, pleasant to Jack, never so much as asking a leading question of Judy. But the girl knew that her mother was waiting. Waiting. For the maneuver to work. For the wild infatuation to die. For Jack to win.

Night after night she said to herself desperately, "Why can't they see? This isn't an infatuation. This is real. This is the biggest thing that can happen to a woman. I see him everywhere I go. I hear his voice, and it comes between me and the voices of other people. It doesn't matter that he's going to marry her. I ought to have pride. I ought to have self-control. But dear God, I can't help it. Oh, Dwight, Dwight!"

And then she would clutch the pillow, feeling the coolness of it against her fevered cheek. The hours would go by so slowly. There would be the tiny sound of the clock on the table beside her, and the chimes from the tall clock in the hall. Pacing. . . . But so slowly!

She had a bridge date the day the wedding invitation came. She couldn't get out of it, because a commander's wife was entertaining the girls. A new commander, recently transferred from the East.

They had called on her parents first, of course, and then on the officers' club by one in order of their rank. As the daughter of the admiral, she had to go this time, if never again.

She stuck Marvel's heavy white envelope, with its exquisitely engraved invitation, into a drawer and slammed the drawer shut. How the eyes of the women should gleam, when she entered the room! By this time, even the new commander's wife would have heard the gossip.

She dressed carefully, and when she was finished, she put two spots of rouge high on her cheeks. Mustn't look pale! Mustn't look worried. She'd have to smile at them, ignore the innuendoes, pretend everything was fine. Never before had she hated the demands of navy life. But this afternoon, walking out of her father's house toward her car, she said bitterly, "I despise it all! Even my soul isn't my own. I'd like to chuck it. I'd like to be anonymous, unknown. Oh, if there could only be no more navy, never again, for me!"

Almond Loses Place As U. S. Favorite

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Americans have experienced a change in their taste for nuts.

This was disclosed in a report by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics on a study of tree nut production and consumption in the United States in recent years.

Fifteen years ago the Almond was consumed in greater quantities than any other nut except walnuts. Today it trails behind pecans, cashews, Brazil nuts and chestnuts as well as walnuts. The walnut still is by far the most important with respect to volume of consumption.

Cashews were practically unknown in this country before 1928. They rank third among all tree nuts. In the three-year period from October, 1935, to September, 1936, they annually accounted for 18.2 per cent of all nuts in this country consumed.

The five year average of cashew imports into this country from 1925 to 1930 was 1,818,000 pounds. Imports rose steadily and in the 1935-1936 period averaged 21,633,000 pounds, an increase of 1,098 per cent.

Fortunately for American tree nut producers, the total import of nuts in recent years have decreased substantially. Imports of walnuts in the 1935-36 period dropped 80 per cent from the quantity shipped into the United States in the 1925-30 period.

Mexican Highway Quickly Repaired

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18. (AP)—The National Highway Department has rapidly repaired the damage caused by the hurricane which swept inland over Mexico in September and travel on Mexican highways again is normal.

The Mexican Automobile Association announces. Temporary structures across rivers are kept in service and repair by "stand by" crews sponsored by the highway department and the association, while work proceeds on permanent new bridges. No ferrying is necessary from the border to Mexico City via the Pan American highway and there have been no landslides in the mountainous section of the road.

The Mexican automobile association reports that the highway to Acapulco is also in good passable shape with only a few minor repairs necessary. Most of the road is paved.

Mooney, 21 Years In Prison, May See Freedom Under New Governor

By SHERMAN MONTROSE, NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Election of Culbert Olson as governor brings pardon in sight for Tom Mooney after 21 years in prison. At least Mooney thinks so, for he issued an elaborate pamphlet during the campaign urging Olson's election on the ground he was pledged to free Mooney.

Olson himself did not discuss the case during the campaign, but his views are implied by the fact he made a two-hour speech in the legislature in 1937 urging a legislative pardon for Mooney as an innocent man.

Five successive California governors (Stephens, Richardson, Young, Rolph and Merriam) have refused to pardon Mooney.

to pardon Mooney. Olson is the first to occupy the governor's chair since Mooney's conviction in 1917 on charges of bombing a Preparedness Parade the year previous who apparently believes him innocent and is pledged (at least indirectly) to pardon him.

Dastardly Crime Inflames City. Much water has gone over the dam in a ceaseless flow ever since 1917 in the Mooney case. Mooney is and perhaps he always was, more than simply a citizen charged with a dastardly crime. Twenty years of ceaseless agitation, have made him a symbol of Cause.

The undisputed facts about the Mooney case are few and simple. In July of 1916, San Francisco staged a huge Preparedness Parade. The community was filled with patriotic and war spirit. It also had been bedeviled by violent labor trouble.

As the parade was passing Market and Steuart streets at 2:06 p. m., July 22, a time bomb exploded. It had been left in a suitcase on the sidewalk in front of a saloon. Ten people died, and nearly 50 others were horribly wounded and mangled.

City police and Pinkerton detectives immediately sought Tom Mooney, a molder, an International Workers of the World radical, an avowed "direct actionist," an editorial associate with anarchists in a publication called "The Blast," an anti-war agitator previously suspected of dynamiting in connection with a power strike.

He was arrested, and with him his wife, Rena, Warren K. Billings, Edward Nolan, and Israel Weinberg. Billings was an associate and a convicted dynamiter.

Almost 20 years had passed when this photo was made at habeas corpus hearings in San Francisco. Mooney, grown heavier and grayer, walked in front of Charles M. Ficker, the district attorney who secured his conviction and relentlessly opposed his release. Mooney at left, Ficker the slender man glancing sidelong at him from the front row as he passes.

On the amateur snapshot reproduced above hung Tom Mooney's hope of acquittal on the charge of bombing the San Francisco Preparedness Parade, July 22, 1916. Mooney's defenders say the picture shows Mooney and his wife watching the parade from a building roof, at right, while a clock in the street registered a time making it impossible for Mooney to have placed the bomb.

Nolan was an officer of the machinists' union. Weinberg was a taxi driver. All were charged with murder. Billings was tried first, and sentenced to Folsom prison for life. Mrs. Mooney and Weinberg were acquitted. Nolan was released without trial.

Photos Defense. Mooney went on trial in January, 1917. John McDonald, a shabby transient and waiter, who had testified against Billings, also testified against Mooney, but there were bad discrepancies between his testimony in the two trials.

Frank Oxman, an Oregon cattleman, also testified he saw Mooney and Billings at the scene of the explosion.

Chief point in the Mooney defense was a series of amateur snapshots taken from the roof of a building more than a mile from the scene of the explosion. They showed Mooney and Mrs. Mooney watching the parade from the roof, while far down in the street, a clock was visible in the picture.

Mooney defenders claimed enlargements showed the time by the clock to be as late as 2:04, making it impossible for Mooney to have left the infernal machine at the scene. The prosecution charged the photos were retouched to show the time.

The witnesses who claimed to have seen Mooney on the spot carried the most weight. He was convicted, sentenced to hang, and for 19 months he sat in the shadow of the gallows.

Then Oxman's testimony was thoroughly discredited by a new revelation that he had tried to get a friend to come and give false testimony in the case. He was later tried for perjury, acquitted, and is now dead. Testimony of Sadie Egan and her daughter that they saw Mooney on the scene was completely discredited also. In 1921 McDonald admitted that his whole testimony had been a lie.

Tom Mooney at the time of his trial, a stocky, rough, trade unionist of the radical and "direct action" school. Suspicion immediately fastened on him because of his record.

Freedom In Sight? Friends and associates of Mooney, liberals convinced that injustice had been done, and radicals who found the Mooney case a convenient peg for propaganda, all worked incessantly for Mooney's freedom.

Trial Judge Griffin, all the living jurors, Duncan Mathewson, police captain on duty at the scene of the blast, two federal investigatory commissions, and many others connected with the case long ago aligned themselves on the side of pardon.

Even Charles Ficker, Mooney's prosecutor, came to believe that clemency was in order.

Mooney, a model and popular prisoner, has ably conducted from within the prison his own campaign for freedom. Now the first friendly governors in the 21 years of his imprisonment may give that freedom to him.

Snakes do not charm birds. The instinctive fear that small birds and animals have for a snake paralyzes their muscles and prevents their escape.

• SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE SACREDNESS OF THE HOME

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D., Text: Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-18; Mark 10:2-16.

The lessons of this quarter have a timeliness in relation to the most acute issues and problems of present-day life, that ought to characterize all lessons drawn from the Bible but that is not always so marked.

This lesson on the sacredness of the home comes at a time when it is greatly needed. The Bible in its highest teaching lays profound stress upon the purity and integrity of home and family life. One of the Ten Commandments is against adultery, and if there were any doubt of the validity and wisdom of that Commandment, surely one could find it in the evidence in our newspaper columns and elsewhere of the unhappiness and personal and social havoc that adultery causes.

Perhaps, however, we ought to recognize that the sanctity of the home and of marital and family relationships cannot be safeguarded and maintained only by negative commandments. There is a positive program of wisdom, righteousness, and good sense, that must be followed to insure happy and true relationships. We forget sometimes that such true relationships cannot be sanctified by words or by rites and ceremonies, even when these are performed by the church and the ministers of religion.

The vows and ceremonies can be only the outward expression of inner love and devotion, and where these are lacking, the vows and ceremonies themselves lack reality, and they are not likely to be either lasting or effective.

We deplore divorce conditions in America, but we do not always address ourselves properly to the causes and to preventive measures. No declaration of sanctity can make a marriage holy that is essentially unholy because of the absence of mutual love, mutual loyalty, and mutual forbearance.

We may admire those earnest and courageous souls who, even when they realize that they have made mistaken decisions, stand firmly by their vows and seek in every respect to maintain the integrity of standards, even though they themselves have failed, and who seek to make the best of unfortunate situations. But it must always be recognized that such situations cannot be in any very real sense sacred, and it is a question we are facing with increasing realism whether for those concerned it is better to maintain a pretentious and unreal sanctity of marriage or to find some relief in divorce.

But these considerations should not blind us in any way to the nobility and sacredness of a marriage made in love and devotion and of the home that is founded upon it. The marvel, after all—considering what human nature is and all the opportunities for differences and difficulties—is not that so many marriages fail, but that so many marriages succeed. With Christian spirit, common sense, loyalty and forbearance, why should not every marriage succeed and form the basis of a holy family and a sacred home?

11 Killed Trying To See Dead Ruler

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 18 (AP)—Eleven persons died today in a crush of persons trying to get into Dolma Bagtche palace to view the body of the late President Kamal Ataturk. Most of the casualties were among women. The crowd was estimated at 100,000. Approximately 300,000 filed past the body yesterday.

Some East African natives churn milk into butter to use for hair-dressing and not for eating purposes.

Soul And Body To Be Sermon Subject

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 20.

The Golden Text is: "Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee" (Isaiah 26:8).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "My soul wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him" (Psalms 62:5).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul is the substance, life, and intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit. Man is the expression of Soul."
