F-4 Phantom arrives

An F-4 Phantom fighter jet which arrived in Pampa Friday will join the collection of military aircraft at Freedom Museum USA, 600 N. Hobart. Portions of the plane, including the wings, tail assembly, nose and landing gear, were transported separately from the main body of the jet. The F-4s were used by the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force during the Vietnam War. They were also used for reconnaissance and Wild Weasel flights in the 1991 Gulf War. The Pampa plane is on loan from the U.S. Air Force.

United Way getting ready to 'Rev It Up'

by Julie Ann Thompson
 jthompson@thepampanews.com

Pampa's United Way will kick off with a new theme this year entitled "Let's Rev it up!" The organization's efforts will begin at 12 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 23 in the M.K. Brown room at the Chamber of Commerce building.

It will be a challenging year, according to United Way executive director Katrina Bigham. This year's campaign will begin with an approximately $25,000 shortfall to the loss of Celanese Chemical Company's Pampa facility. "Celanese Company is giving $25,000, but their employees will not even be solicited," Bigham said. "That's an extra $25,000 that we won't have." Pampa United Way has 100 to 125 volunteers that make up the drive team and for six weeks those volunteers will tell the community about 19 local agencies that benefit from the United Way fund. According to Bigham, these agencies address problems of all age groups. "More than 8,500 people are helped annually on a one time basis and that's not bad, is it?" Bigham said. "The main thing people need to know is that this is real people we're helping in our community." United Way's goal this year is to raise $307,364. Attorney John Warner will serve as this year's campaign chairman with Mike Ruff as assistant chairman. Eight "loaned executives" have also volunteered for the group to help spread the word about United Way's goals.

Nita Wallace
 Loaned Executive from United Supermarkets
 "Pampa United Way is a great way to help and serve the people of our community. I will help business' in our community."

Richard Stowers
 Loaned Executive from Culberson Stowers
 "I sometimes feel we support too many agencies that can compromise the value of service to agencies with substantial greater needs."

Danny Seabourn
 Loaned Executive from Pampa ISD
 "I appreciate the United Way for the positive impact it has on our community. The UW has helped countless individuals and organizations in Pampa."

Treasa Heuston
 Employment: National Oilwell Varco
 "I have never been involved with United Way before and I plan to learn more about it with this experience."

Public hearing set on 'zone'

by Marilyn Powers
 mpowers@thepampanews.com

A public hearing will begin at 10 a.m. Monday during Gray County Commissioners' meeting in the second-floor courtroom of Gray County Courthouse, 205 N. Russell, concerning formation of a reinvestment zone which has been requested by Babcock and Brown.

Commissioners will discuss the possible reinvestment zone after the public hearing.

Monday's commissioners' meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and will also include votes by commissioners on the fiscal year 2009 budget and tax rate, a three percent cost of living pay increase for county employees and elected county officials, and rates for dependent health care coverage.

"This tax rate will raise more taxes for maintenance and operation than last year's rate," said County Judge Richard Peet. "This tax rate for maintenance and operation will lower taxes on a $100,000 home by approximately $26.53."

Real estate concerns which commissioners will address Monday include a road crossing request regarding Walnut Creek Road, possible sale of two tracts of county-owned land in Alanreed and a road crossing at Eight Street in Lefors.

Commissioners will decide whether to advertise for requests for proposals for insurance including comprehensive general liability, property, public officials and employees liability, general liability and lessor's interest concerning airports, a heavy equipment floater, business auto insurance, county law enforcement professional liability coverage and workers compensation.

Other items on Monday's agenda include a schedule of commissioners' court dates for fiscal 2009, an appointment to the White Deer Land Museum board, possible replacement of an employee in Precinct 4, whether to provide flu shots for employees and dependents covered under county health insurance and charging others $25 for the vaccine, reports from the county clerk and county treasurer, budget amendments and payment of bills and salaries.

Allie Tyler Bolch, 98

Allie Tyler Bolch, 98, of Pampa, Friday, Sept. 12, 2008, in Lubbock.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday, Sept. 15, 2008, in Carmichael-Whitley Colonial Chapel with the Rev. Norman Rushing, pastor of Central Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. Bolch was born on July 8, 1910, in Concho County, Texas, to A.R. and Ruth Tyler. She graduated from O'Donnell High School in 1929 and attended Hardin-Simmons College in Abilene.

She married C. L. Bolch on Dec. 21, 1933. Allie was a member of Central Baptist Church.

She was an accomplished seamstress and homemaker. Allie's favorite things were baking, being active in church, and spending time with her dear family and friends.

Allie's relationship to God and her Savior, Jesus Christ, was and is evident in every relationship during her earthly life. She will be truly missed.

She was preceded in death by her husband; her parents; two brothers, W. J. "Mutt" Tyler and Oscar Tyler; a sister, Betty Frazier; a grandson, Zachary Lias; and two nephews, Charles Keith and Jerry Tyler.

Survivors include one son, Travis Bolch and wife Norma of Pampa; two daughters, Bettie Edwards and husband Gerald of El Centro, Calif., and

Sunshine Lias and husband Dayre of Germantown, Tenn.; one brother, Charles C. Tyler and wife Louise of Meadow; one sister, Wanda Greenfield and husband Keller of Richardson; two grandsons, Gary Bolch and wife Sherry of Pampa, and David Wade Bolch and wife Kambra of Dripping Springs; one granddaughter, Allie Sue Willits and husband Josh of Point Mugu, Calif.; four great-grandchildren; five nephews, Jimmy, Larry, Donnie and Mitchell Tyler, and Tyler Greenfield; and five nieces, Nancy Cooper, Charley Dickson, Suzanne Tsatsoulas, Carolyn Agapos and Denise Dorman.

MEMORIALS: In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch and Girlstown, P. O. Box 1890, Amarillo, TX 79174.

Verna Sue Hardin, 81

Verna Sue McCollough Hardin, 81, of Amarillo, went home to be with the Lord Jesus, Thursday, Sept. 11, 2008. Family and friends will celebrate her life with graveside services at 3 p.m. Monday at Childress Cemetery, FM 268 N. Childress, Texas, with Pastor John Love, of Trinity Fellowship Church, of Amarillo officiating.

Arrangements are by Johnson Funeral Home, 307 Ave. C, NW., Childress.

Sue was born Sept. 7, 1927, in Quanah, Texas, to Mary Leora Key McCollough and Van McCollough. She married Warren Dean Hardin, the love of her life, on Nov. 15, 1942, in Hollis, Okla., in a double ceremony with their friends, Ralph and Ruth Sides of Childress. Their life together was an amazing 53 years.

They moved to Pampa where they raised their family and resided for 42 years. Sue was a secretary for the First Baptist Church for 32 years. She moved to Amarillo following her husband's death in 1995.

Ms. Hardin died after a lengthy two-year battle resulting from head injuries and brain surgery from a fall. She was dearly loved and will be missed tremendously.

The family would like to thank the nursing staffs of Craig Methodist Windflower Nursing Home and Hospice of the Southwest for their loving care of Sue.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Warren Dean Hardin; a son, Maj. Michael Dean Hardin; and one sister, Joyce Havens.

Survivors include her daughter and son-in-law, Jenny and Sherwin Cox of Amarillo; four grandchildren, Ty Cox of Fort Worth, Texas, Teela Cox of Amarillo, Texas, Joe Hardin of Willis, Texas, Stephanie Amaya of Copperas Cove, Texas; and one great-grandson, Michael Amaya of Copperas Cove, Texas; one niece, Marsha Thomas of Rockwall, Texas; and one nephew, Larry Harris of Russellville, Ark.; and several cousins.

MEMORIALS: The family suggests memorials be to Hospice Care of the Southwest, 1301 S. Coulter, Suite 404, Amarillo, TX 79106.

Chinese dairy reportedly aware of milk fault weeks before recall

BEIJING (AP) — A Chinese dairy that sold milk powder linked to kidney stones in infants knew it contained a banned chemical weeks before ordering a recall, the health minister said Saturday.

One child has died and an official said the number of children sickened had risen to 432.

Investigators have detained 19 people and are questioning 78 to find out how melamine was added to milk supplied to Sanlu Group Co., China's biggest milk powder producer, officials said at a news conference. They said some tainted powder was exported to Taiwan but none was sent to other foreign markets.

In Taiwan, authorities seized thousands of bags of Chinese milk powder. There was no word on whether any was consumed in Taiwan.

Chinese officials defended the speed of their response to the country's latest product safety disaster. They said authorities were only told of the contamination Monday, even though Sanlu received complaints as early as March and its tests found melamine in August.

"For a comparatively long time, the Sanlu Group failed to report this incident to the government," said Health Minister Gao Qiang. "The Sanlu Group should shoulder major responsibility for this."

Gao gave no indication what penalties Sanlu might face but said those to blame would "be dealt with severely."

Officials are investigating whether word of the contamination was suppressed, said Vice Gov. Yang Chongyong of Hebei province, where Sanlu Group is located.

"We will look into whether government at any level was negligent or whether any officials tried to withhold information," Yang said. "If we find anyone did this, they will be held accountable."

Yang said he did not know the identities of the people detained but said investigators were looking into whether dairy farmers added the chemical.

Gao said it might have been done to fool quality tests after water was added to fraudulently increase the milk's volume. Melamine is rich in nitrogen, and standard tests for protein in food ingredients measure nitrogen levels.

The number of cases of kidney stones in babies who were fed Sanlu milk has risen to 432 in areas scattered around China, Gao said. He said Beijing was sending experts to treat them and will pay for their care.

"We are confident that with timely diagnosis and treatment, these infant patients will recover soon," he said.

The incident reflects China's enduring problems with product safety despite a shake-up of its regulatory system after a spate of warnings and recalls about tainted toothpaste, faulty tires and other goods.

The biggest group of victims is in China itself, where shoddy or counterfeit products are common. Infants, hospital patients and others have been killed or injured by tainted or fake milk, medicines, liquor and other products.

Our readers write

A hero in every one of us...

Dear Editor,

In reference to the 9/11 story that graced the front page of the newspaper written by Julie Ann Thompson must be recognized as a reminder that there is a hero every one of us. It truly touched me in the way she told it. It brought back the horror of that terrible day in our history. She expressed it in a flawless way that everyone could go to the moment in time when it happened seven short years ago.

I was in Wal-Mart last night and a woman came up to me and asked if I was "that man." I told her that I was the man who took the photos. She hugged me and cried. It was an equally emotional moment that Julie told so well in her article. It made me proud to have waited so long to share the story.

She, as a reporter proved, to be the right person to do the story. I want to thank her and The Pampa News for doing a wonderful job. She is surely an asset to the newspaper.

Thank You,

Darrell Nelson

Good deed deserves praise ...

Dear Editor,

Last week I was at Wal-Mart. I was in a hurry, and when I loaded my purchases in the car I forgot my purse in the basket. I didn't discover it missing until I took my daughter home.

I was horrified at what I had done.

I was so excited when someone from Wal-Mart called to tell me my purse had been turned in. To the person or persons who did this wonderful deed, I want you to know how much I appreciate you!

With so much evil in the world, it is truly a blessing to be the recipient of this wonderful act of kindness!

May the Lord bless you.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 14, the 258th day of 2008. There are 108 days left in the year.

On Sept. 14, 1814, Francis Scott Key was inspired to write his poem "The Star-Spangled Banner" after witnessing how Fort McHenry in Maryland had endured British bombardment during the War of 1812.

On this date: In 1812, the Russians set fire to Moscow in the face of an invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte's troops.

In 1847, U.S. forces under Gen. Winfield Scott took control of Mexico City.

'I venture to suggest that patriotism is not a short and frenzied outburst of emotion but the tranquil and steady dedication of a lifetime.'

— Adlai E. Stevenson
American statesman (1900-1965)

Discussing issues for the fun of it

Back when the world was young, and so was I, my father-in-law and I would stay up late and "discuss" politics.

This was pre-children and post-military, when I was a young reporter with a huge progressive slant (my father-in-law would say "liberal," but I disagree) and he was still in the workforce and a huge fan of President Ronald Reagan. Since my in-laws lived an hour or so away, Sue and I would often stay the weekend with them. We enjoyed their company and still do.

A typical Friday evening would have us playing cribbage or gathered in the TV room just talking. If the conversation veered to politics, Sue and her mom would disappear into another room or go to bed, while dad would pour two fingers of bourbon over ice in two glasses and hand me one.

Then the discussion began in earnest. Sue recalls "arguing and shouting."

I remember a lot of point/counterpoint, passionately and intelligently expressed and, at the end of the evening (after, oh, several glasses), dad putting his arm around me, smiling and shaking his head, and suggesting we sleep on it.

Gosh, that was fun!

We still enjoy each other's company when we can get together — now we live 1,000 miles away — but I'll probably have a glass of wine and we will spend most of the evening agreeing with each other. To paraphrase Mark Twain: The old coot has gotten smarter over the years.

John McCain calls politics a "tough business." He is right. However, it always has been tough even long before Lincoln's detractors compared him to a gorilla. Can you imagine what they would do to Lincoln if he were running today? Tall and lanky, not very attractive, big ears, a Senator from Illinois, humble beginnings — oh, wait

... maybe I do have a good idea.

The difference now is the immediacy of the political discussion. The so-called news cycle is compressed and controlled by whatever big issue attracts the attention of my compatriots in the electronic media. And boy, do they have a short attention span.

Nevertheless, for those of us addicted to politics, now is a time of fascination. Not that I want anything to do with politics. It is interesting to watch, but so is a hurricane.

I say this while at the same time understanding how some people find politics stupefying. Indeed, for those who do not stay abreast, it may seem that the loudest, most often expressed opinion holds sway, when it is simply the biggest mouth in the room uttering platitudes.

What happens is that people become divorced from the process.

The antidote is to become self-educated. Punditry abounds, but there are voting records and other rich, unbiased sources of information available on the Internet for anyone who really wants to find out where candidates stand on the issues and whether or not they are telling the truth.

It takes some personal effort, an open mind, and a willingness not to believe everything you hear or read.

We live in the reddest of the red states, yet if I walked out on the street tomorrow and asked folks something about their politics, they would be hesitant to speak publicly. How strange that is, when I suspect at least 90 percent of them would have conservative views that would put them in comfortable company with most of the readership of this newspaper.

That hesitancy is illustrative of the fact that we don't really discuss anything — a topic which brings me to this page.

In the coming months, we want this page to evolve into what is says it is ... viewpoints.

We are going to be reaching out to people in the community and asking them to contribute some ideas to this page — not necessarily about politics — in fact, you can keep your candidate endorsement letters or we can set you up with an advertisement — but if you want to talk about issues, send us a letter.

You might be asked to write a guest column on something that interests you — from gas prices to tornado season, from civic improvement to life on the high plains.

In the future, you will probably read some columns here that have views with which you disagree.

That's okay. It doesn't mean that we agree with them either.

A newspaper's opinion page should spark discussion and challenge our thinking. It doesn't have to simply reinforce the view we already have.

It should be fun.

I'M COMPLETELY SHOCKED AND OUTRAGED—YES, OUTRAGED, I SAY!—THAT WE CALLOUSLY USED AS A METAPHOR.

Idle American: Uncle Mort an ageless wonder

When my Uncle Mort accused me of dealing loosely with the truth, I knew that facts were stacked heavily in his favor. Were I not in his close circle of kinfolks, the charge might well have been one for bald-faced lying.

"You've been writing about me in your column for four years," he blurted. "And from day one, I've been your '90-year-old uncle'."

He opined that it's one thing to round numbers off, but even then, he recommended periodic updating. "Particularly when you missed my age by a couple of years at the git-go," he scolded. "Charlie Brown hung around comic strips for a half-century, 'aging' from four to eight in that period."

Adding that he's "not Charlie Brown," he closed the thought with a classic "good grief" exclamation.

Uncle Mort added that it shouldn't matter a whit whether he's a real person or merely a figment of my imagination. He warned me of my duty to at least get his age right.

I was surprised to learn that July 4th marked his 96th birthday, and half expected him to break out candles. He'd already broken into song, desecrating George M. Cohan's patriotic "Yankee Doodle Dandy" ditty. When he bragged about being "a real life hero of My Uncle Sam," I was mulling over multiple past references to "my 90-year-old uncle"....

I was defenseless, "hubbing it," in my old dad's words. Mort was right; I should always list his age correctly. I pledged to do so in the future.

Hereafter, I promise to reference "his 97th year" until July 4th of '09. Needing a subject change,

I asked Uncle Mort about his political feelings. ...

"I've digested dozens of long speeches at both national conventions," he responded. "Speakers spent 20 minutes inspiring us, and then 20 minutes talking us out of it." Aunt Maude, his wife of 75 years (or so), confirmed his claim. "The more he digests, the more indigestion I get," she laughed.

Mort, a basic conservative who wants government to just defend our shores and deliver our mail, says one sobering thought is entrenched: One of these guys is going to be elected President. ...

Reminded that Republican vice presidential candidate Sarah Palin has "zero Washington experience," Mort answered, "She gets points for that."

He's fascinated by the Alaskan's varied background: governor/mayor/sports broadcaster/"soccer mom"/wife. And her hubby is a snowmobile racing champion.

"Just think, when her political career is over, she can slide off into the sunset," Mort joked, with an afterthought that if at that time global warming has set in, she can swim/sail/ski toward the setting sun. This depends, of course, on whether her career completion coincides with "sun-setting season" in the icy northwest. ...

Mort asked what I thought about "handguns in Harold," the little school in the remote northwest corner of Texas where certified personnel have been authorized to carry concealed firearms.

"That should give Mary's lamb second thoughts about

Bonnell, Plunk Wedding

The nuptials for Jennifer Bonnell and Michael Plunk, both of Pampa, were June 21 at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church of Pampa. The Rev. Linda Kelly, of the church, presided over the ceremony.

The parents of the bride are Jim and Karon Bonnell of Pampa. Melissa Harrison of League City served as the bride's matron of honor at the wedding. The maid of honor was Erin Locke of Lubbock. The bridesmaids were Lacy Plunk of Marina Del Rey, Calif., and Gina Lewis of Pampa.

The parents of the groom are Forest and Patty Plunk of Pampa. The groom's father stood up as best man at the wedding. The groomsmen were Micah Nolte of Austin, Isaiah Nolte of Amarillo and James Thaxton of

Jennifer Bonnell and Michael Plunk

Houston.

The flower girl and ring bearer were Elizabeth Arnold of Pampa and Taylor Harrison of League City, respectively.

Doug Moss of Amarillo and Tane Webb and Jace Webb, both of Hollis, Okla., acted as ushers at the event.

The acolyte was Alex

Ragsdale of Groom.

Music was provided by Rick Land and Russ Tapp, both of Memphis, and by The Vienna Conspiracy Quartet of Amarillo.

The reception location was St. Matthew's Parish Hall. Servers at the reception were Karla Webb of Hollis and Lacey McClendon of Pampa.

The bride holds a degree from Oklahoma State University and is employed as a third grade teacher at Travis Elementary School.

The groom holds a degree from Texas Tech University and is employed as production engineer at Celanese.

The newlyweds honeymooned on an Alaskan cruise and intend to make their home in Pampa.

LEWIS ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Lewis of Pampa celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary September 5th in Minden, Nebraska, with their son, Brenton and his family.

Dalton and Omajeane Trainer were married in the First Baptist Church of Borger with the Rev. Dr. Winfred Moore officiating. They have been Pampa residents for 43 years and are members of The First Methodist Church.

Dalton is a fourth-generation rancher whose paternal grandfather, T.D. Lewis, came to Hutchinson County in 1887, and his maternal great-grandfather, P.E. Riemer, arrived in Gray County in 1890. His paternal grandfather, John Morris

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Lewis

Gores, came to Potter County, Texas, in 1893.

Later John and Emma Riemer Gores bought a ranch where she graduated from high school in 1953.

Mr. Lewis worked for Cabot and IRI International, retiring as manager of Industrial Engineering and CAM in 1997 after 32 years of service. He was a member of The Board of Directors and secretary of Cabot and IRI Employees Credit Union for 12 years. He was a member and past president of the PEDC Board of Directors and is Vice President of the Gray County Chapter of ACCORD Inc.

Mrs. Lewis is a published photographer, author, poet, artist and

Wilson, Richardson Wedding

Lenna Wilson and Jody Richardson were married Saturday, Aug. 2 at the Whitaker Ranch in Canyon. Mike Kuhlman officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Alton and Stacy Wilson of Canyon; and is the granddaughter of Bill and Evelyn Leonard of Mayhill, N.M., and Ruth Wilson of Carrizozo, N.M.

The groom is the son of Mickey and Zindi Richardson of Amarillo; and is the grandson of E.W. and Marguerite Clement of Mangum, Okla., and Buddy and Joyce Epperson of Pampa.

Megan Wischkaemper of Wellington acted as the bride's matron of honor. The bridal attendants were Shaylee Burling, sister of the groom of Abilene, Ashlee Kuhlman, Tiffani Lowe, both of Canyon, and Amanda Griffith of Albuquerque, N.M.

Serving as the groom's best men were Matt

Lenna Wilson and Jody Richardson

Epperson and Monte Epperson, both cousins of the groom of Amarillo.

The groomsmen were Kaleb Snelgrooves of Pampa, Will Lowe and Cody Parks, both of Canyon.

The flower girl was Sidney Tracy of Amarillo, and the ring bearer was Alex Burling, nephew of the groom of Abilene.

Bree Proffitt, soloist of Boulder Creek, Calif., played the guitar and sang "How Great is Our God" by Chris Tomlin.

Ushers were Gary Burling, brother-in-law of the groom of Abilene, Wes Tow of Amarillo and Jered Snelgrooves of Canyon.

A reception followed the wedding at Whitaker Ranch. Reception attendants were Starla Tracy of Pampa, Shelli Tracy, Scena Snider, Mary Epperson and Katy Tow, all of Amarillo.

The bride is employed as Internet banking coordinator by Happy State Bank. The groom, who holds a degree from West Texas A&M University, is employed at Conoco-Phillips Petroleum of Borger.

The newlyweds plan to honeymoon with a trip to Zihuatanejo-Ixtapa, Mexico, and will reside in Amarillo.

Bowen/Moler

Haley Michelle Bowen and Justin Wayne Moler, both of Amarillo, plan to wed Friday, Oct. 10 at Country Home Weddings in Canyon. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Bryan and Glenda Bowen of Pampa. She graduated from Pampa High School in 2004 and is currently pursuing a master's degree in accounting at West Texas A&M University. She is scheduled to graduate from WT in May 2009. The future bridegroom is the son of Wayne Moler of Pampa and Pam Moler of Tulsa, Okla. He graduated from PHS in 2003 and is a full-time student at WTAMU, where he is pursuing a bachelor's degree in criminal justice. He is employed full-time at Wal-Mart.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Davis

DAVIS ANNIVERSARY

Kevin and Whitney Davis of Pampa celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary in August with a trip to the Babe Ruth World Series in Arkansas.

Mr. Davis and the former Whitney Kidwell were married Sept. 17, 1983, at First Baptist Church in Pampa. They are lifelong Pampa residents.

Mr. Davis has worked for Xcel Energy for 20 years and has belonged to the Pampa Optimist Youth Club for 25 years.

Mrs. Davis has been employed with Fluid Compressor Partners for three years and has belonged to Opti-Mrs. Club for 25 years.

Both are active in Pampa High School Choir Booster Club and are involved as teachers in the youth department at First Baptist Church.

They have two children, Keenan and Tanner, both of Pampa.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old married man. "Lana" and I have been married 10 years. We deal with the usual problems (our son, jobs, money) as a team. I feel blessed to have married my best friend. My job requires traveling. While seeing new things and meeting new people interest me, when I'm away from Lana and our young son, I suffer from extreme separation anxiety. Abby, it's not a trust issue. I trust Lana completely, and I know she is taking excellent care of our son. My problem is I miss them terribly. I cry every night that I'm away. When I call home, I break down. Lana understands this is how I am and doesn't judge me. She's always supportive. Am I crazy? Is this normal? Other guys I know who travel appear to enjoy it. But if I look at a photo of Lana or our son while I'm away, I end up in tears. I don't want to be this way, but it has reached the point where I can't see myself traveling anymore for business. -- BAWLING AT THE AIRPORT

DEAR BAWLING: Your level of sadness and stress at being away from your wife and son is off the charts. This is something you should discuss with a licensed mental health professional because I am sure there is a reason for your feeling the way you do. With help you will find out what it is and learn to cope. Please start now so you can decide rationally whether or not it's time for a new career -- with all the sacrifice that it could entail.

DEAR ABBY: I am the proud mother of four beautiful daughters, ages 9, 16 months and a set of 4-month-old twins. They are lovely, well-behaved children. My problem is that strangers feel compelled to make comments, especially about the younger ones. They say things like, "Whoa! That's a lot of work! I'm glad I'm not you!" or, "You sure don't waste any time!" -- and my favorite, "Are you going to keep trying for a boy?"

How rude! They even say to my 9-year-old, "You must have a lot of work to do at home, helping your mom with all those babies." She hears it almost daily.

My child does not raise my babies, and no, I'm not trying for a boy! I hear these comments every time I step out the door with my kids. It's starting to get to me. What should I say to these people without being as rude as they are? -- NO DRAMA MAMA IN SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

DEAR NO DRAMA MAMA: Look them straight in the eye and say, "My children are my joy -- and no, I'm not trying for a boy." And when your daughter is asked if she's being exploited as child labor, she should reply, "No, I have too many other things I enjoy doing." It's sad that some people have so little sensitivity -- or common sense -- and forget that they cannot always say the first thing that pops into their heads.

DEAR ABBY: My family and I recently went to a hibachi restaurant for dinner. The chef was great and the food was OK. We enjoyed ourselves. When the customers next to us left the table after their meal, the chef looked confused -- as if he were expecting a separate tip from the server's. I have never tipped a chef separately. Is that wrong? -- SHELLI IN BROOKLYN

DEAR SHELLI: If the chef was cooking your meal to order, then he (or she) should have received a gratuity separate and apart from your server. It is never "wrong" to tip someone who gives you good service -- at least not here in the United States.

TSCRA provides COOL forms

FORT WORTH — Cattle raisers now have forms available for download to help them more easily fulfill their part of the country-of-origin labeling (COOL) law that goes into effect at the end of the month, according to a press release from Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

COOL is a USDA marketing program mandated by 2002 farm legislation requiring retailers to notify customers of country-of-origin of beef (including veal), goat meat, lamb, pork, poultry, fish and other perishable agricultural commodities.

Equipped with background knowledge provided by the USDA, TSCRA representatives worked with national and state livestock groups, packers and processors to craft affidavits to allow producers to declare the origin of the cattle they are selling into the production chain and to satisfy the information needs of the beef production segments on the way to the retail meat case.

The Livestock Marketing Association has facilitated a number of industry talks on the subject of COOL.

Results from some of these talks can be found online at the TSCRA Web site.

The site also contains affidavits and a thorough list of questions and answers about COOL. For more information, visit www.texascattleraisers.org on the World Wide Web.

Harvesters fumble to Big Spring

Staff Report

The Pampa Harvesters lost last night in the second half of the game against Big Spring. Despite Harvester strength in the first half, the final score tallied at Big Spring 43, Pampa 21. Look for a full story and pictures in Monday's edition.

Texas baseball

Harrison's 5-hitter leads Rangers past Athletics

Matt Harrison has proven to be a good student. Texas manager Ron Washington gave him a passing mark for his latest effort. Harrison pitched a five-hitter for his first career shutout and complete game and the Rangers beat the Oakland Athletics 7-0 on Friday night.

"Every time I go out I want to learn something new, whether it's pitch selection or pitch location, what to do when I'm ahead in the count," Harrison said. "I had to get through those first few innings. After that I kind of got in a groove and kept throwing strikes."

Standing in front of his locker, Harrison looked like a veteran. He appeared calm and casual, not like a kid who just threw his first shutout.

"It means a lot to me," he acknowledged. "I worked all my life trying to get here. To accomplish this is a great feeling. I can't really explain how excited I was when we made that final out. It was just great."

Washington, who has been around the game a little longer than Harrison, was the giddy one in the clubhouse.

"He was the star. He stayed in command the whole night," Washington said. "When he was in trouble he made the pitches he needed to make to get out of it. He's showing that he's got something to work with."

After making nine birdies and an eagle to reach 11 under after 15 holes, the 56-year-old Eaks had good birdie chances on the final two holes, but missed a 5-foot putt on No. 16, a 13-footer on 17 and a 10-footer on 18.

The 61 — the best score this year on Champions Tour — left him a stroke short of tying the record on the 50-and-over circuit.

Tom Jenkins had a bogey-free 64. Fred Funk opened with a 65, and Senior British Open winner Bruce Vaughan, Tom Purtzer, Tom Kite, Dan Forsman and Tom McKnight shot 66s. Haas, the 2005 winner, had a 68.

Harrison (8-3) allowed four hits in the first five innings, retiring 14 of the last 16 batters he faced. He walked three and struck out five in setting a left-handed rookie pitching record for wins. Greg Smith (7-15), coming off one of his best efforts of the season, gave up six runs on seven hits over 5 2-3 innings. He walked two and struck out two while becoming the losingest pitcher for Oakland since Tom Candiotti lost 16 games in 1998.

"This start was just bad pitches," Smith said. "If I didn't leave the ball in the middle I left it up. Maybe it's just a mechanics' issue because I don't feel fatigued or anything like that."

Despite a couple of hard hit balls from Jack Cust and Aaron Cunningham, who each hit doubles, the A's never mounted much of a threat against Harrison.

"We hit some balls hard early but the ball didn't find the barrel of the bat much after that," A's manager Bob Geren said. "He threw a lot of pitches but he stayed consistently around 93 miles per hour throughout."

The Rangers turned a pair of double plays to establish a club record with 180.

Blalock, who also had a sacrifice fly, hit his seventh home run of the season to open the scoring with two outs in the second. The three homers he's hit in the past three games all came against left-handers.

Teagarden hit his fifth home run in his last eight games. He leads the Rangers with 11 RBIs and seven extra-base hits in September. "It's the best I've felt all year," Teagarden said.

Weekend sports in brief

TENNIS
LONDON — Russian tennis star Nikolay Davydenko was "cleared by the ATP after a yearlong investigation into suspicious betting patterns on a match he lost to a low-ranked opponent."

The governing body of men's tennis said it found no evidence of wrongdoing by Davydenko, opponent Martin Vassallo Arguello of Argentina or anyone else associated with their match in Sopot, Poland, on Aug. 2, 2007.

Davydenko, then ranked No. 5, pulled out of the match against the 87th-ranked Vassallo Arguello in the third set, citing a foot injury.

Betfair, an online bookmaker, voided all bets on the match. It received about $7 million in wagers on the match, 10 times the usual amount for a similar-level match. Most of the money was on Arguello, even after he lost the first set. NFL

NEWARK, N.J. — The New York Giants and Jets have canceled negotiations on stadium naming rights with a German insurance company that once had ties to the Nazis. Allianz had been seeking a deal to put its name on the stadium being built by both teams in the Meadowlands.

The deal could have been worth an estimated $30 million a year. The stadium is scheduled to be completed for the 2010 season.

Allianz once insured Nazi death camps and refused to pay life insurance claims to its Jewish clients — instead granting the proceeds to the Nazis.

The proposed deal was criticized by Jewish organizations, Holocaust survivors and football fans who said seeing the company's name emblazoned on the stadium would be a constant reminder of the company's ties to the Holocaust.

OLYMPICS
OSLO, Norway — A physicist has done the math, and says Usain Bolt could have run the 100-meter Olympic final in 9.55 seconds if he had not slowed down to showboat.

"We estimate that he could have finished the race in a time between 9.55 and 9.61," Norwegian physicist Hans Eriksen said in a telephone interview.

Bolt won the final at the Beijing Olympics last month in 9.69 seconds, shaving 0.03 seconds off the record he set in May.

Eriksen, a physicist at the Institute of Theoretical Astrophysics at the University of Oslo, and his colleagues analyzed TV footage of the race, focusing on Bolt's position, speed and acceleration, as well as that of runner-up Richard Thompson.

BASEBALL
Storm systems throughout the country wreaked havoc on the baseball schedule, postponing six games and creating a weekend full of double-headers.

Hurricane Ike, a colossal storm nearly as big as Texas itself, began battering the Gulf Coast, a day after officials postponed the first two games of the weekend series in Houston between the Astros and Cubs.

It was the most major league postponements in one day since six games were wiped out on April 15, 2007. Prior to that, there hadn't been that many since April 12, 1997, when eight games were postponed, according to the Elias Sports Bureau.

It also set up an unusually full slate of games for Saturday. If the schedule holds, there will be 12 games in the American League for the first time since Aug. 8, 1985, and 20 games in the majors for the first time since Aug. 4, 1974, according to Elias.

REGENSBURG, Germany — The International Baseball Federation allocated the first round of next year's World Cup to five European countries in another effort to give the sport a wider, international profile in its quest to return to the Olympics.

The competition slated for September was originally scheduled to be played in Cuba, which agreed to the move the tournament to help grow the game. Baseball has been thrown out of the 2012 London Olympics.

GOLF
CONOVER, N.C. — Defending champion R.W. Eaks shot an 11-under 61 in the Greater Hickory Classic, missing a chance for the first 59 in Champions Tour history when he parred the final three holes.

After making nine birdies and an eagle to reach 11 under after 15 holes, the 56-year-old Eaks had good birdie chances on the final two holes, but missed a 5-foot putt on No. 16, a 13-footer on 17 and a 10-footer on 18.

The 61 — the best score this year on Champions Tour — left him a stroke short of tying the record on the 50-and-over circuit.

Tom Jenkins had a bogey-free 64. Fred Funk opened with a 65, and Senior British Open winner Bruce Vaughan, Tom Purtzer, Tom Kite, Dan Forsman and Tom McKnight shot 66s. Haas, the 2005 winner, had a 68.

University to Launch Mobile Go Center Sept. 16

CANYON — College and career planning is going to get easier for students across the region come Sept. 16.

That's when West Texas A&M University will launch its Mobile Go Center in a special celebration at 1 p.m. at the University's Pedestrian Mall. The 42-foot trailer, splashed with WTAMU colors and images, is specially equipped to deliver college information. Tours will be available, and WTAMU personnel will be on hand to answer questions about the mobile facility.

"We are really excited about the Mobile Go Center and what it will mean to students and families across the Texas Panhandle as well as our neighboring states of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas," Dan Garcia, vice president of enrollment management, said. "The Mobile Go Center will allow us to take information about college opportunities to these areas to support and encourage higher education goals for all students."

WTAMU's Mobile Go Center is equipped with 16 laptop computers, a satellite for Internet connection and work stations stocked with college planning materials. The trailer is wheelchair accessible and is fully heated and air conditioned. The Mobile Go Center and a 2008 Chevrolet Silverado one-ton truck are possible through a $130,000 grant from the Texas Pioneer Foundation.

A $15,100 grant from Panhandle-Plains Student Loan Center provided the laptop computers and a printer. The trailer will offer a comfortable setting for students and parents to ask questions and get help in the sometimes confusing process of college preparation as far as admissions, financial aid and scholarship opportunities.

"We want to reach all students in our surrounding communities," Garcia said. "We want to especially reach first-generation students and those from low-income backgrounds who can really benefit from this mobile center."

And plans are under way to reach as many students as possible. In addition to the University's regular recruitment schedule, the Mobile Go Center will cover 5,000 to 8,000 miles this year, traveling to county fairs, high school athletic events, community festivals, major livestock shows, UIL activities and other family-oriented events throughout the region.

The Mobile Go Center fits well with the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board's "Closing the Gaps" initiative, and several WTAMU student outreach programs are involved in supporting the goals of the trailer. The programs include College Talent Search, Upward Bound, College Assistance Migrant Program, University Success Academy, Go Team, Go Theatre Group, Collegiate G Force and Buff Promise.

"The Sept. 16 launch is just the beginning for our Mobile Go Center," Garcia said. "It's going to be a visible and valuable presence throughout the region."

For more information about WTAMU's Mobile Go Center, contact Garcia at 806-651-2031.

Convocation to Feature Subject of Readership WT Book: Public Invited to Hear Lost Boy of Sudan Speak to Freshmen

CANYON — Valentino Achak Deng, one of the 20,000 Lost Boys of Sudan, will be the keynote speaker at West Texas A&M University's Convocation for freshmen at 5 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18 at the First United Bank Center.

The event is free and open to the public. Seating begins at 4:15 p.m.

Deng, a refugee of the Sudanese civil war, is the subject of What is the What, the University's 2008-2009 Readership WT selection. The book, written by Dave Eggers, is a novel about Deng's experiences as he escaped his village, hid from government soldiers and fought disease in search of a safe home. The story also relates both details about the conflicts in Sudan and the experiences of refugees in America.

Readership WT is the common-reader program launched in 2005 for WTAMU freshmen as part of the University's Quality Enhancement Plan, "Engaging the first-year student." Every summer copies of the selected reader are distributed to all incoming freshmen to help ease the transition to college and help develop in them a lifelong love of learning and reading. Hardback copies of this year's book were distributed to all incoming freshmen as well as to members of the WTAMU faculty and staff.

As part of the Readership WT program, the University also hosts Convocation, and the keynote speaker has traditionally been the author of the common reader. This year's Convocation is taking a different angle by featuring the subject of What is the What.

"Having Valentino Deng here to speak to our freshmen is very exciting," Dr. Russell Lowery-Hart, associate vice president of academic affairs and director of Readership WT, said. "He can share first-hand the hardship, loss and tragedy that he experienced. It's something that continues in East Africa today. It will give our students further insight into man's inhumanity to man and how to fight it."

Deng also will appear at a ticketed recep-

The road from car town to car-less can be a bumpy journey

By COLLEEN NEWVINE TEBEAU
Associated Press Writer

"How will you grocery shop?"

It was one of the most common questions people asked when we announced we were moving from Michigan, cradle of the American auto industry, to Manhattan.

What they really were asking was: "How can you even consider life without a car?"

In my hometown, Saginaw, Mich., every family seemed to include at least one General Motors employee. We had enough different auto plants in town that we knew each by a specific moniker. Steering Gear, for example, was the sprawling one out by I-75.

Malleable Foundry was where my grandfather worked and served as union shop steward. He died about 30 years ago, but for years after, invoking his name still got our family a discount on the UAW hall where we've had so many wedding receptions.

One of my best friends turned 16 long before me, immediately claiming the car her parents had waiting in the driveway. We spent countless hours cruising around with no destination whatsoever, passing other teens doing exactly the same thing.

When I had to request my Michigan driving record to apply for a New York license, the documentation showed my license having first been issued the day after my 16th birthday, and I remembered anew my teen-age frustration at having to wait the extra day for that rite of passage.

By contrast, when I stood in line at the New York Department of Motor Vehicles, my Michigan license had already been expired for several months. I might have procrastinated even longer had we not been about to visit Michigan, where not driving is not an option.

In moving to what is probably the most public-transportation-friendly city in the United States, my husband, John, and I were trying, partly, to escape the tyranny of cars. Though I had taken an auto maintenance class in college and John learned the hard way by owning an old VW, neither of us loved the demands of car ownership.

We do love to walk. While New York City is an enormous place interconnected by subways, buses and a sea of taxis, much of city life takes place on foot. It seems most New Yorkers really live within a 10-block radius of home, because in that short distance they can eat, go to the doctor, drop off dry cleaning and do virtually anything else imaginable.

That kind of convenience can make you provincial. I've heard women dismiss as geographically undesirable a guy who lives in another part of Manhattan because what amounts to a 20-minute walk is just too far.

My morning commute is either 20 minutes by subway or 40 minutes on foot, so often I choose the walk, both for exercise and to feel connected to my part of town. When I tell people back home that I walk 40 minutes to work, I might as well be saying that I voluntarily ride a unicycle through a swarm of bees.

For perspective, many people in Michigan commute a lot longer, but it's by car, so it's normal.

"If I lived in Manhattan or a European city, I would certainly get by without a car, but that would entail a completely different lifestyle," says one of my biggest gearhead friends, Barry Kluczyk, an automotive PR guy in Dexter, Mich., who currently has a fleet of eight. He buys and restores cars in a garage bigger than most New York apartments.

But we aren't alone in happily making the adjustment to life sans wheels. A friend, Mary Jean Babic, who was pregnant with her second child, walked to the nearby hospital in Brooklyn with her husband when her contractions sped up.

They returned home with tiny Nate in a baby sling, not a car seat. This most certainly would not have happened in Babic's hometown of Crest Hill, Ill., near Joliet.

"We chose that hospital for our birth pretty much because it was within walking distance," she said. "I couldn't quite see getting on the subway while I was in labor."

In a city where nearly everything is outrageously expensive — rent on our one-bedroom apartment is about three times what we paid on our Michigan mortgage — we take some solace in saving money on car expenses.

following her to school," I answered. Mort agreed that lambs "making children laugh and play" could quickly transform lambs to scapegoats.

I remember a convenience store, where a sign placed boldly under a one-way mirror worked wonders. It read "An employee holding a sawed-off shotgun stands behind this mirror one night each week. YOU guess which night."

At the school, maybe all employees could wear signs, proclaiming that, "One of us has a concealed weapon. YOU guess which one." ...

My uncle asked me about interesting people encountered on my recent "speaking rounds" to kick off public schools' in-service programs for employees.

Pleasant memories include Glen Rose Superintendent Wayne Rotan, who laughed when a soon-to-be second-grader told him why he was so eager to get back to school. "I've forgotten a bunch of my words over the summer," he explained.

There's excitement in Andrews over new state-of-the-art facilities and equipment. Superintendent David Mitchell is proud of his community which has always gone "thumbs" up for bond proposals, including two since 2002 totaling almost $50 million. Center pieces include two new elementary schools and a marvelous performance hall. ...

At Brazosport ISD, frenzied beginnings were ignited by Superintendent Joe Ripple, who dashed about leading "the wave" to generate excitement for the new school year. And his enthusiasm "rippled" through the ranks of the family of educators.

Speaking of family, folks in Abernathy re-define "close-knit" as they minister to a senior boy who is dealing with cancer. (More detail on this next week.)

Uncle Mort was quiet as I rattled off details of the 2,000-mile trek that included nine speeches over the course of four days. Maybe good listening habits, so elusive for more than nine decades, emerge when uncles reach their 97th year. I thanked him, urging that he look after Aunt Maude and her indigestion. ...

4-H achievers

Local program stages annual banquet

McLEAN — This year's Gray County 4-H Achievement event was recently held by the McLean 4-Clover 4-H Club at Trinity Church. Outstanding 4-H members were recognized for their accomplishments during the 2007-08 4-H year.

Tammy Syfrett, daughter of Jack and Linda Syfrett of McLean, and Emily Jackson, daughter of Barry and Lendi Jackson of Lefors, received Gold Star awards. The Gold Star Award is the highest award presented on the county level and can be awarded only once in a member's 4-H career.

Jackson also received the Danforth I Dare You Leadership Award. This American Youth Foundation National Leadership Award recognizes a young person's personal integrity, balanced living and potential for leadership.

Syfrett is president of McLean 4-Clover Club and has been involved in 4-H for eight years. Jackson is delegate-at-large of the County 4-H Council and is a member of the Super Clover Club. She has been involved in 4-H for nine years.

The Zach Doan "Heart of Diamonds" Award was presented to Brittany Chisum, daughter of Jeff and Leigh Chisum of Pampa. Sponsored by the Doan family, the award recognizes dedication, leadership and role model in 4-H. Chisum also received the Special Recognition Award this year.

Chelsie Jasper, daughter of Rickie and Brenda Jasper of McLean, earned Rookie of the Year status. This designation is awarded based upon a first-year member's record-book scores and participation points.

The 4-H Recordbook Achievement awards were presented to 4-H members who had submitted a completed 4-H recordbook for major projects. The awards were bestowed upon the following 4-Hers: Clothing and Textiles - Jasper, Macy Cochran and Emily Jackson; Computer Technology - Gabriel Miller; Consumer and Financial Education - Marlee Youree; Energy Management - Ty Baggerman; Food and Nutrition - Daniel Syfrett; Leadership - Tammy Syfrett; Poultry - John Baggerman; Swine - Ty Youree; and Vet Science - Jessica Baggerman.

Points awards for 4-Hers who have accumulated a required number of points through 4-H participation were awarded to Jessica Baggerman, John Baggerman, Ty Baggerman, Macy Cochran, Maria Haynes, Laura Kirkland, Jackson, Jasper, Gabriel Miller, Valerie Miller, Kirstie Perkins, Daniel Syfrett, Tammy Syfrett, Lina-Marie vonHacht, Marlee Youree and Ty Youree. Other awards presented at the banquet included year pins as well as junior leader and teen leader pins.

The 4-H program is open to all youth ages 9 (or in the 3rd grade) to 19. For more information, please contact the Gray County Extension Office at 669-8033.

Symphony: Kimbo offers new take on established works

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Symphony opens its 84th season with a new face.

Kimbo Ishii-Eto begins his first full season with the Symphony with a pair of concerts on Sept. 19 and 20 that reexamine some of the greatest orchestral music ever written.

"These works and composers are familiar to audiences everywhere, and we will have new takes on them that will bring them to life in exciting ways," Ishii-Eto said.

Concerts begin at 8 p.m. in the Globe-News Center for the Performing Arts. Tickets normally run from $18 to $56

($16 for students and seniors), but by taking advantage of the Fly Standby with the Symphony offer, many audience members will get their seats for $15 each in some of the best seats in the house.

For these limited standby seats, call the Symphony office at (806) 376-8782 or visit www.amarillosymphony.org. Otherwise, patrons can purchase tickets through Panhandletickets through its several outlets, via phone at 378-3096 or its Web site, www.panhandletickets.com.

Ishii-Eto decided on three works by highly recognizable conductors to open his first full season with the Symphony. Maurice Ravel's "Menuet Antique," which Ishii-Eto cited for its "refreshing" musicality, opens the concert, and Dmitri Shostakovich's Symphony No. 1, the composer's early masterpiece, written while he was still a student.

The concert's centerpiece is Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto in D major, featuring world-renowned violin soloist Kyoko Takezawa.

"She is truly one of the very best violinists in the world, and I'm thrilled that she can join us for this concert," Ishii-Eto said.

Takezawa has performed the Tchaikovsky concerto around the world but said she always finds a way to make it fresh every time. That's the challenge of the piece, she said.

"Every time I perform this music, I try to start from zero and then build up my interpretation again, even though I've played it so many times," Takezawa said.

She said she's especially looking forward to performing the concerto in Amarillo because it will be under the baton of an old friend. Takezawa and Ishii-Eto have been friends since their days at Juilliard.

"I think it will be so much fun to make music together, and hopefully the audience will enjoy the piece as well," Takezawa said.

The opening weekend of concerts is exclusively sponsored by Sprouse Shrader Smith PC.

tion at 6:30 p.m. in the First United Bank Center Buffalo Room. Tickets to the event, hosted by the Readership WT Ambassadors for Poland, are $100 each and come with an autographed copy of What is the What. For ticket information, contact Teresa Clemons at 806-651-2647.

Proceeds from the event will help send winners of a freshmen essay contest to Africa next spring, much like last year's essay contest sent 20 WTAMU freshmen to Poland.

"Last year's essay winners spent spring break in Poland following in the footsteps of Elie Wiesel, author of last year's common reader Night," Lowery-Hart said. "We plan the same contest this year and hope to take 20 freshmen to Africa, where they will work in orphanages and on AIDS issues."

The WTAMU group more than likely won't travel into Sudan, but Deng often returns to his hometown of Marial Bai in southern Sudan. The village was burned to the ground numerous times during the civil war, and the Valentino Deng Foundation is helping rebuild the village. One of the construction projects is an educational center. The Foundation is using proceeds from the sale of the WTAMU hardback books to build a wing on the center's secondary school complex. The completed wing will feature a sign designating West Texas A&M University as a contributor.

For more information about WTAMU's Convocation, contact Lowery-Hart at 806-651-2931.

Project Looking for Veterans for Focus Group

CANYON — The Department of Psychology, Sociology and Social Work at West Texas A&M University and neuropsychologists from Memorial Hermann TIRR in Houston are looking for veterans to be a part of a special focus group.

Veterans of Operation Enduring Freedom or Operation Iraqi Freedom who sustained traumatic brain injuries are needed to take part in a focus group that will help design a Traumatic Brain Injury/PTSD Recovery Assistance Program for veterans and their families.

"We want to know how to better serve veterans and their families," Misty Rueda, program coordinator, said. "We need veterans who have suffered a traumatic brain injury and their families to participate in a focus group."

Veterans and families who participate will meet with neuropsychologists to help determine that the best possible services are available to those in need. The sessions will last for approximately one hour, and those participating will receive a small reimbursement for time spent.

"Brain injuries vary in severity from mild concussion to severe injury, but all may impact the individual's ability to reintegrate back to his or her normal lifestyle," Dr. Timothy Atchison, interim dean for Graduate School and Research and project director, said. "We believe with the help of veterans and their families we can adapt known effective programs to serve their needs."

The Traumatic Brain Injury/PTSD Recovery Assistance Program is funded through TRIAD (Texas Resources for Iraq-Afghanistan Deployment) funds from the Permian Basin Area Foundation. For more information about signing up for the focus group, contact Rueda at 806-651-2729 or 806-690-7267 or at cogrehab@wtamu.edu.

Workshop to Examine School Violence

CANYON — Guidelines for preventing violence in schools will be one of many topics discussed in a "School Violence Workshop" Sept. 26 at West Texas A&M University.

The one-day session will meet from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. in the University's Alumni Banquet Hall. Dr. Amy Andersen, assistant professor of education, and Dr. Harry Hueston, associate professor of criminal justice, will present the program and talk about violence in schools, how to be prepared and what to do in a crisis.

"The possibility of violence in schools is a rising concern for teachers, parents and the community at large," Andersen said. "Our goal is to give teachers tools to help them prevent violence when possible but also to react appropriately if an incident does occur. We want teachers to have as many tools as they can to deal with these concerns."

Those attending will learn how to deal with the police response to an active shooter in the school or college setting and how to determine risk factors and solutions. Andersen and Hueston also will talk about lockdown procedures and action plans for weapons. The session also will provide information on making life-saving decisions and dealing with risk factors and solutions.

The workshop is sponsored by the WTAMU Office of Continuing Education (OCE). Six Continuing Professional Education (CPE) hours are available, and certificates will be provided. Cost is $135. Refreshments and lunch will be provided. For more information, call OCE at 806-651-2037.

Goldwater Scholarship Opportunities Available for WTAMU Students

CANYON — The Office of Nationally Competitive Scholarships at West Texas A&M University invites students interested in a career in mathematics, the natural sciences or engineering to apply for the Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Program.

The program was established by Congress in 1986 to provide opportunities for outstanding U.S. students with excellent academic records and demonstrated interest in, and potential for, careers in mathematics, the natural sciences and engineering.

In spring 2009, the Foundation will award scholarships to students who will be classified as college juniors or seniors during the 2009-2010 academic year. To be considered, students must be nominated by their institution.

Submission deadline for 2009 awards is 5 p.m. Jan. 30, 2009. Applications are available at www.act.org/goldwa ter. No paper applications will be accepted. All supporting documents are due by Feb. 2, 2009.

The scholarship award covers eligible expenses up to a maximum of $7,500 per year. Junior scholarship recipients can expect to receive a maximum of two years of support and senior students are eligible for a maximum of one year of support.

To be eligible, a student must be a current full-time sophomore or junior and pursuing a baccalaureate degree, have a B average or equivalent, stand in the upper fourth of the class and be a U.S. citizen, permanent resident or U.S. national, who will pursue a career in mathematics, the natural sciences or engineering.

For more information, contact Dr. Freddie Davis, head of the Department of Engineering and Computer Science and Goldwater faculty representative at 806-651-3530 or Elly Mons, coordinator of nationally competitive scholarships at 806-651-2587.

The McLean Volunteer Fire Department recently held a building dedication for its new fire house. The building was dedicated in memory of Jim McDonald, and Roy and Chloe McMullen.

McLean VFD dedicates building

McLEAN — McLean Volunteer Fire Department recently held a building dedication for a brand-new addition to the fire station. The new addition was dedicated to the memory of Jim McDonald, and Roy and Chloe McMullen.

The festivities included a barbecue dinner. The Rev. Thacker Haynes, of United Methodist Church in McLean, delivered a speech and conducted the building dedication.

In 1965, Jim McDonald became a member of the McLean VFD and was an active member until his death in November 2007.

One of the first paramedics in the region, he served as McLean VFD chief for 20 years. He worked on many fire trucks, building them from the ground up. Unit 6 was the last fire truck he ever worked on and maintained. He then became a constable for Gray County, serving a couple of years at that post before becoming a deputy sheriff for Gray County. He was a deputy sheriff until the time of his death.

Roy McMullen became a member of McLean VFD in 1967, and up to his death served in various capacities for the department, including everything from gathering water to driving the fire trucks.

Few US med students choosing primary care

CHICAGO (AP) — Only 2 percent of graduating medical students say they plan to work in primary care internal medicine, raising worries about a looming shortage of the first-stop doctors who used to be the backbone of the American medical system.

The results of a recent new survey suggest more medical students, many of them saddled with debt, are opting for more lucrative specialties.

Just 2 percent of nearly 1,200 fourth-year students surveyed planned to work in primary care internal medicine, according to results published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. In a similar survey in 1990, the figure was 9 percent.

Paperwork, the demands of the chronically sick and the need to bring work home are among the factors pushing young doctors away from careers in primary care, the survey found.

"I didn't want to fight the insurance companies," said Dr. Jason Shipman, 36, a radiology resident at Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville, Tenn., who is carrying $150,000 in student debt.

Primary care doctors he met as a student had to "speed to see enough patients to make a reasonable living," Shipman said.

Dr. Karen Hauer of the University of California, San Francisco, the study's lead author, said it's hard work taking care of the chronically ill, the elderly and people with complex diseases — "especially when you're doing it with time pressures and inadequate resources."

The salary gap may be another reason. More pay in a particular specialty tends to mean more U.S. medical school graduates fill residencies in those fields at teaching hospitals, Dr. Mark Ebell of the University of Georgia found in a separate study.

Family medicine had the lowest average salary last year, $186,000, and the lowest share of residency slots filled by U.S. students, 42 percent. Orthopedic surgery paid $436,000, and 94 percent of residency slots were filled by U.S. students.

Meanwhile, medical school is getting more expensive. The average graduate last year had $140,000 in student debt, up nearly 8 percent from the previous year, according to the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Another likely factor: Medicare's fee schedule pays less for office visits than for simple procedures, according to the American College of Physicians, which reported in 2006 that the nation's primary care system is "at grave risk of collapse."

Lower salaries in primary care did not deter Dr. Alexis Dunne of Chicago, who is 31 and carrying $250,000 in student debt.

Last year, a parade of specialists couldn't solve the mystery of her mother's weight loss, fevers and severe anemia. Finally, an internist diagnosed a rare kidney infection. The kidney was removed, and Dunne's mother has felt fine since.

Watching her mother go through the health crisis affirmed her decision to go into primary care. She also enjoys being "the point person" for her patients.

"You become so close to them you're almost like a family friend," said Dunne, who completed her residency at Chicago's Northwestern Memorial Hospital in July.

She also found inspiration from the doctors she met during training: "They were the ones who would sit at a patient's bedside and spend more time with them rather than running off to surgery."

A separate study in JAMA suggests graduates from international medical schools are filling the primary care gap.

About 2,600 fewer U.S. doctors were training in primary care specialties — including pediatrics, family medicine and internal medicine — in 2007 compared with 2002. In the same span, the number of foreign graduates pursuing those careers rose by nearly 3,300.

"Primary care is holding steady but only because of international medical school graduates," said Edward Salsberg of the Association of American Medical Colleges, a co-author of the study. "And holding steady in numbers is probably not sufficient when the population is growing and aging."

Daily Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Sept. 14, 2008:
You have the ability to help others relax, but not when you are tired and your nerves are fried. To make this year work, you must get enough rest or else you cannot maximize the opportunities that come your way. Your inner negative voice could strike if you're exhausted. If you are single, relationships continue to be a major focus. You are likely to meet the right person this year, if ready. For those who are attached, let your sweetie have greater say; your relationship will benefit. PISCES tries to help.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You might want to take the day off and relax. You might need your privacy, as so much is happening and so quickly at that. Fatigue could play an even stronger role in your mood than you realize. Tonight: Chill out.
This Week: You come into your own late Monday. Others know when they see a force to be reckoned with.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Do not hesitate to hook up with friends. A child or a romantic partner could be out of sorts and find issue with your plans. Just make time to indulge this person too. You will be much happier as a result. Tonight: Do not hesitate to make happen what you want.
This Week: Magic doesn't happen until Thursday. You feel as if you are facing one task after another until then.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Stand up and be counted. You could be more in demand than you realize. An older friend or relative appreciates a call. You perhaps do not realize how much your attention means. A misunderstanding does not need to be "a heavy." Tonight: A must appearance.
This Week: Reach out for others. Network to your heart's content.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Take an overview. If you feel inextricably entangled with someone or a situation, consider a drive to the country or a trip to the movies. In a new atmosphere, you can recharge and let go of stress. Tonight: Continue relaxing your mind. Try a new restaurant with a friend.
This Week: Take a long-overdue stand. You need to express your opinions.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 A partner wants to make the plans. Do not hesitate to let go of the reins. Though a minor misunderstanding is possible, you can resolve it with ease. Do not feel like you always have to treat. Tonight: A partner continues to want a say.
This Week: Reach out for new answers, which could entail finding experts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Defer. If you really slow down, you could be surprised by how very tired you are. Though you might want to do more than you can, it would be wise to slow down and even take a nap. You also could avoid a disagreement. Tonight: Let someone else choose.
This Week: Work with a partner. If you don't like the results, find an expert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 A project might be overwhelming, as you need some private time. Encourage those around you to do something different and take off, leaving you with some downtime. You might be surprised by what you could accomplish. Tonight: Early to bed.
This Week: Others want to dominate. Let them! Think about taking a personal day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Your imagination takes you to many different realms or gives you different ideas from many. Schedule time with a child or loved one — someone you can let go with and totally enjoy yourself. You revive with a little spontaneity. Tonight: Let the child in you out.
This Week: You might be asking yourself is there anything but work. There is, as you will discover Thursday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 You might feel as if you must do something. In reality, you need to chill and spend an easy day at home. Cancel a visit with an older friend or plans to go to a lecture or museum. You need some downtime. Tonight: Order in.
This Week: Let your ingenuity go to work and make this week easier. You might even enjoy yourself too.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Your words flow, although someone might not be able to hear them as this person's head is on another agenda. Know when to step back and not be pressured. You greet others with a smile if you relax. Tonight: Confirm where you are meeting.
This Week: Getting going could be tough, but by Thursday, you will be in fifth gear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Be aware that even treating someone to a wonderful afternoon might not pacify a situation. You are better off sitting down and having a long-overdue talk. Choose your moment, but make sure it is in the later part of the day. Tonight: Confirm plans.
This Week: Make calls and schedule meetings early on this week. Do not be surprised if you lag from Thursday on.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 You are all smiles, yet a friend could have difficulty stepping up to the plate. He or she is overwhelmed by all he or she needs to do. Either pitch in and help, or do not make demands of this person. Tonight: Treat someone to dinner.
This Week: Deal with money — making it and spending it! You will smile by Thursday.

Daily Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Sept. 15, 2008: You are unusually energetic and full of fun this year. How you deal with someone could radically change. You want more out of life and understand that hard work and responsibility are only part of it. Letting go and not getting wound up in the details also could be critical. Often, others surprise you; they, too, are growing in new and different ways. Honor differences rather than make them bigger. If single, you could meet quite the fantasy lover in the next few months. You will remember this one. If attached, let your sweetie express more of his or her personality. Both of you will be happier. ARIES helps you anchor.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  You might be slow to start, but you hit the finish line with a big bang. Do not push yourself beyond your normal comfort level. You might need to evaluate before acting. Insight is forthcoming if you remain open. Tonight: Feeling invigorated, you could go very late.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)  Act on key issues early. You will be surprised by someone's opposition or a change in plans. You do not need to understand everything that occurs. Simply establish limits in your mind; after that, decisions are a piece of cake. Tonight: Head home early.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Accept all that drops on your plate. You might want to rebel or run out the door. Certainly, this is an option. Give yourself space to figure out who, where and when. Meetings at the end of the day are favored. Tonight: Join friends. CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Reach out for others. Seek new information. You might be stunned by what pops up out of the blue. The unexpected does occur, and it forces you to regroup. Responsibilities demand all your time and attention. Tonight: It could be late.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  You might want to rehearse a statement, as nothing will come out as you expect it to. Listen to the stories you hear, and then laugh. You do not always get to trigger others without trying like that! Tonight: Zero in on what you want.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  If you feel challenged, you are right-on. The question is not the challenge, but how you handle it. If you express your normal energy and thoughtfulness, you will be on cruise control. Still, let a key associate or partner have more say. Tonight: Go with another's suggestion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  You might feel as if you are literally in the trenches. Relax, and do what you must, looking to a change in the afternoon. You cannot suppress your social side, no matter what. Network away. Tonight: Rethink plans... especially if a new invitation appears.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Your ingenuity punctuates your actions at work or within your daily life. Where others groan and cannot get through their must-dos, you are on cruise control. Schedule an appointment or meeting for late p.m. Tonight: Fit in a stress-buster. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Stay anchored, knowing what is needed. Do not compromise yourself, your thinking and or any other key element. You will find a way of making yourself and another person happy. Just trust in your abilities. Tonight: Act as if it still is the weekend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Many seek you out and want your opinion. Take actions as well this morning. Let others know that you walk your talk. An important domestic or investment matter needs tending late in the day. Tonight: Mosey on home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Deal with finances directly, knowing what you want and expect from others. A discussion needs to open up to a brainstorm session. You might be surprised by the many suggestions you receive. Tonight: Chat over munchies.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Move quickly, as there is a lot you might want to accomplish right now. Stopping or slowing down might not be comfortable later in the day, but it's necessary. Stop and reflect on all that you've heard and seen. You might want to make a vital change. Tonight: Pay bills first.
