

Senate Opens Debate On Red Invasion And U. S. Bombing Response

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is opening debate on the Communist invasion of South Vietnam and the U.S. bombing response. War funds may hang in the balance.
Three hours of the Senate agenda was set aside today for a discussion by 22 senators of President Nixon's Vietnam policy.
While no specific legislation is involved in the informal discussion, the Senate next week will consider an amendment to cut off funds supporting U.S. combat forces in Indochina at yearend.
In the House, Democrats scheduled a caucus to vote on what could be a 30-day deadline for ending the war. The caucus planned to consider a bill to cut off funds for U.S. war operations 30 days after enactment, provided arrangements were made for release of prisoners of war.

But there were indications that the caucus might be forced to delete the 30-day deadline or prevent a vote, rather than risk rejection that might be interpreted as a show of Democratic support for Nixon war policies.
Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who organized today's Senate war debate, said in prepared remarks that Nixon should either get out of Vietnam or out of the race for re-election.
As a candidate for re-election, Cranston said, Nixon must limit military escalation to avoid domestic upheavals, take enough military action to prevent collapse of the South Vietnamese government and keep "right-wing" support, and avoid triggering World War III.

Today's debate was the first full-Senate airing of the situation in Vietnam since the North Vietnamese crossed the DMZ in a conventional ground assault. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee already has spent two days this week hearing administration explanations of Nixon's decision to send more warplanes northward, where last weekend they bombed targets around Hanoi and Haiphong.
Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told the committee Tuesday that Nixon policy is aimed at withdrawal of U.S. ground-combat troops from South Vietnam, and he said it is succeeding.
"I am not going to outline target areas," Laird said of the bombings, but added that strikes are continuing over the demilitarized zone and north and south of the boundary.

"Any area of North Vietnam, as long as the invasion continues, is subject to attack."
Laird repeated the remarks of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who testified Monday, that all avenues are open, short of reintroducing U.S. ground-combat forces or using nuclear weapons.
In response to questions, Laird said the mining of Haiphong harbor and a naval blockade of North Vietnam have not been ruled out.
U. S. 7th Fleet destroyers have suffered their first fatalities of the three-week North Vietnamese offensive.
The U.S. Command, after nearly 24 hours' delay, announced Tuesday that two Americans were killed and 16 injured in incidents Sunday and Monday involving the guided missile frigate Worden in the Tonkin Gulf and the guided missile destroyer Buchanan off North Vietnam.

The command said one sailor was killed and seven were injured aboard the Buchanan by a shell from an enemy shore battery. The ship suffered damage to its superstructure.
The other incident was an "explosion" aboard the Worden which killed one sailor and wounded nine.
The U.S. Command, pressed with queries from newsmen, was reported to have put pressure on Adm. Bernard A. Clarey, commander of the Pacific Fleet, to give it a report on the Worden incident. A command-statement later gave scant details, saying only: "The exact cause of the explosion has not been determined."

Apollo 16 Speeds On Toward Afternoon Orbit Of Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts, firmly in the grip of lunar gravity, snapped pictures of their cratered target today and sped on toward an afternoon orbit of the moon.
The problems of flaking paint, a locked guidance system, plumbing troubles, a balking dock latch, and a faulty radio antenna were behind them and their spaceship was running smoothly.
John W. Young, Charles M.

Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II awoke an hour early today to begin their own countdown for the engine-firing that would thrust them into orbit to start six days of scientific adventure in the vicinity of the moon.
In mid-morning, about 17,900 miles from that alien world, Mattingly used a camera equipped with special film and filters to take pictures of the moon.
They were not ordinary tourist snapshots, but scientific photos to obtain information on the lunar atmosphere and radiation emitted from the surface.

The moon took gravitational control of Apollo 16 at 12:07 a.m. when the astronauts passed through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal.
They zipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal at 12:07 a.m. EST.

Governor To Go On TV Tonight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith goes on statewide television tonight with a speech on taxes and state spending which he says will contain some surprises.
There have been some indications Smith might recommend a 1973 state budget that will require no new taxes.
Nineteen stations, covering most of the state's major population centers, will carry the 30-minute taped address, but in some places viewers will have to stay up until 11 p.m. to see it all.
Smith will pay for the television time with campaign funds, aides said.
The speech will pertain to taxes, funding of programs vital to our state, the calling of a special session of the legislature and my recommendations on how to fund and carry out the important work of our state for the second half of the current biennium," Smith said.

The governor must call a special legislative session, which he has indicated will be in June, to vote funds to finance state government for the year starting Sept. 1.
Estimates of new taxes to finance additional spending have been in the neighborhood of $150 million, but Smith's staff has been working on a budget that might be paid for with existing revenue sources.
"We are hoping there won't be any kind of new taxes needed," Smith said Monday in Cleburne.

Gettin' So Most Folks Drive Into Puckett's..

"Mr. Puckett, do you have any squash?"
"Yes ma'am. Right there between the lettuce and the station wagon."
"—STATION WAGON!"
Even though the folks at Puckett's Food Store at McLean are rather familiar with the sight of a car in the building it is difficult not to get excited for Puckett's is NOT a drive-in grocery.
The station wagon at the vegetable counter Tuesday was driven in through the brick wall by two teenage girls from Ft. Sill, Okla. Some 60 days ago a pickup truck took the easy way out — oops! — in... through the plate glass window.
The girls evidently had their vehicle in the wrong gear when they attempted to speed away after finding the store closed. The brakes failed on the pickup. There were no injuries in either accident.
No sale, either!

Report Says Economy Gains Strong Upsurge

Rise Said About In Line With Government Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy recorded a strong gain in the first three months of the year, but the post-freeze, rate of inflation surged to a sharp 6.2 per cent, the government said today.
The Commerce Department reported that Gross National Product, market value of the nation's goods and services, rose $30.3 billion in the January-March quarter, advancing at an annual rate of 11.8 per cent.
But well over half the increase was attributed to inflation, as prices soared following the close of the wage-price freeze and the onset of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls.
GNP is the broadest measure of the economy. The Nixon administration has projected that it will rise by 9.4 per cent for all of 1972.
The $30.3-billion gain brought GNP to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.103 trillion, the department said.
The increase was about in line with administration projections although the rate of inflation was sharply above the forecast.
According to administration projections, about two-thirds of the expected 9.4 per cent growth is "supposed to be a noninflationary gain."
But the figures for the first quarter showed that the gain in that period, with inflation discounted, was 5.3 per cent.
This was slower than the 5.8 per cent recorded in the last three months of 1971, when the economy quickened after a mid-year slowdown.
GNP increased $19.5 billion in the last three months of last year, but the rate of inflation was only 1.7 per cent.
The 6.2 per cent figure on price increases the first quarter was the highest since the 6.3 per cent recorded in the fourth quarter of 1970, Commerce officials said.
The administration says the post-freeze bulge in inflation already has subsided and the slower rate should show in later statistics.
Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson told newsmen that the first-quarter gain puts the administration on target in reaching its $100-billion goal in production this year.
"But," Peterson said, "I would acknowledge that the toughest challenge we're facing is the inflation part of it."
In another report, the department said personal income of all Americans increased $3.3 billion in March to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $905 billion.
The department also said personal income in February actually increased by $9 billion instead of the $5 billion reported originally.

Ben Barnes To Be Here Tomorrow

Dallas Cowboys Bob Lilly and Walt Garrison will be accompanying Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes when he visits Pampa tomorrow morning on his campaign tour of the Panhandle.
With a party of two helicopters, Barnes, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in the upcoming May 6 primary, will land at Coronado Inn at 7:30 a.m. to meet with workers and supporters.
Pampa is the first of nine stops for the lieutenant-governor tomorrow. Today he was due to visit Levelland, Morton, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Hereford, Dimmitt, Plainview, Floydada and Tulia.
While Barnes speaks on the issues, Lilly and Garrison will be available to speak to fans and give autographs. Both are members of the Super Bowl champion team.
After Pampa, the tour will stop in Canadian at 9:30 a.m.; Perryton, 10:25 a.m.; Spearman, 11:20 a.m.; Stratford, 1:15 p.m.; Dalhart, 2:05 p.m.; Dumas, 3:05 p.m.; Borger, 4:05 p.m.; and Panhandle, 4:55 p.m.
Barnes will speak to members of the Panhandle Press Association at its 63rd annual convention at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Amarillo Club.

Reds Capture District Town

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam's three-week-old offensive scored today in coastal Binh Dinh Province east of the central highlands as Communist forces overran a South Vietnamese battalion headquarters and captured the nearby district town of Hoai An.
It was the first major success on the central coast for the offensive, in which the North Vietnamese previously have taken a 10-mile strip below the demilitarized zone and captured two district towns near the Cambodian border north of Saigon.

The defender of Hoai An, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, and Landing Zone Orange, the battalion headquarters two miles away, fled in confusion. Field reports said that in a week of fighting prior to the climactic thrust, at least 80 government troops were killed and 70 were wounded.
Hoai An is the sixth of South Vietnam's 242 district towns lost by the government in the enemy offensive, while Landing Zone Orange is the 17th government military position given up. Landing Zone Pony, just south of Hoai An was abandoned under pressure two days ago, field reports said.
Three American advisers were evacuated by helicopter from Hoai An and Orange. One of them was slightly wounded.
A battalion of South Vietnamese troops from the 22nd Division fled from Orange under heavy fire. They broke up and ran, said one field report.
In the air war, meanwhile, U.S. fighter-bombers returned in force to North Vietnam's skies after a two-day curtailment and flew between 100 and 150 strikes against fuel and supply depots in the southern panhandle.

The planes stayed away from the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland for the third straight day. U.S. military sources said. Despite denials from Washington, sources in Saigon say President Nixon has put the area above the 20th parallel off limits to American bombers in hopes that Hanoi will wind down its offensive in the South.
In the central highlands to the west of Hoai An, North Vietnamese forces attacked two border ranger camps six miles from the Laotian frontier and 19 miles apart.
More than 300 rounds hit the Dak Pek camp, and the enemy followed up with a ground assault. Initial reports said more than 120 North Vietnamese troops died in the frontal assault, while four government defenders were killed.
There were no details available on the attack against the second camp, Dak Seang.
Also in the central highlands, a four-engine U.S. Air Force C-130 on a supply air drop to Fire Base 421 was hit by enemy fire and crashed landed.
The crew was rescued, informed sources said.

Barefoot's Beauties Tour Panhandle Cities For Dad

Candidates for a state-wide race have always had trouble covering an area as large as Texas, but the Sanders family think they have the answer to the problem.
Partial evidence of this was seen here yesterday afternoon when the two attractive daughters of Barefoot Sanders, Democratic candidate for nomination for U.S. Senator, visited in Pampa.
Janet, 18, and Martha, 17, visited various parts of the city after having been in Borger yesterday. They have also visited Lubbock and Amarillo.
Janet is a freshman at Stanford University in California but has taken time off to help her father. Martha attended public high school in Dallas and graduated early to help with the campaign.
Passing out cards and cookies, the girls campaigned in stores downtown and at the shopping center and other places.
The cookies are in the shape of a foot and were prepared by their grandmother, Mrs. Harold B. Sanders of Dallas. She has been making about 700 of the cookies daily for the campaign, the girls said.
The girls work for their father because they believe he would be the best senator for Texas.

MRS. CHARLES MILLER

Contest Winner Named

The dining hall of the new M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium will be known as the Heritage Room.
That was the decision of Pampa city commissioners as they met last night to go over nearly 300 entries in the City's contest to name the banquet area.
Mrs. Charles Miller, 411 N. Frost, submitted the winning name.
Mayor Milo Carlson said two other persons submitted "The Heritage Room." But Mrs. Miller's entry was simply "Heritage Room." Her entry also bore the earliest postmark.
The Heritage Room will have chairs and tables to accommodate more than 500 diners. It can be serviced to take care of a capacity crowd of nearly 800 if necessary.
The first public event scheduled for the Heritage Room will be the April membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Monday noon.
The luncheon will be open to the public as well as chamber members and their wives. Reservations will be taken up until 5 p.m. Friday at the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 669-3241.

Senate Unit Seeks Talk With Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has made a counteroffer aimed at producing testimony from White House aide Peter M. Flanigan about his role in three antitrust suits against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.
Flanigan wrote the committee Tuesday that he would testify only if questions were limited to his involvement in obtaining an independent financial analysis for the Justice Department and in a group meeting he held last February. That session, attended by ITT President Harold S. Geneen, involved a discussion of revenue sharing and government reorganization.
After Flanigan's letter came in, the committee met in executive session.

WORKING TOGETHER not only makes for marital harmony but is a lot of laughs for Troy Strait and Teri-Anne. They are a couple of clowns, right, the only such husband-wife team in the United States, they believe. Billed as Buppa, Troy, 27, wears the traditional baggy pants and outsize shoes. Teri-Anne, 26, is Polka Dotty and dresses accordingly. From Virginia, Troy was performing at a television station when he decided to enroll in clown school and join the circus. His wife went along with the wardrobe staff but ended up in the act. Below, flatfooting through the tulip at the circus opening in New York.

Insurance And Working Wife

The life insurance industry is neglecting the working wife, and vice versa.

What amounts almost to a revolution has occurred in the past several years as married women hung up their aprons and joined the ranks of the employed, alongside their husbands, as breadwinners. More than four out of 10 are now classified as "in the labor force," and one working wife in five (full time) earns as much as her husband, or more.

All this has affected profoundly the social economics of the family, and in particular its thinking about the role of life insurance in its financial security program. Until fairly recently, most families were entirely dependent for survival on the earning power of a single person—the husband.

Financial security meant

Tips On Tax Deductions

NEW YORK (AP)—It is too late now to do much about last year's taxes, but if you were to plan your affairs so as to reduce next year's payment you might consider marriage, having children, going into debt, buying rental property.

You might also consider purchasing municipal bonds, investing in cattle-feeding, plunging into oil exploration or risking your money on stocks in search of capital gains.

In any of these decisions you wouldn't be alone. You would instead be in partnership with the tax collector, Uncle Sam himself, who feels that for social and economic reasons you should receive special handling.

You can't easily explain the subtle shift in the role of taxes from that of financing government to that of social change, but it has taken place. Through the lure of tax breaks, government directs millions of personal and business decisions.

The married couple generally make out better than the single person. And the creation of children, which places more demands on social institutions, results in deductions.

The person who runs up debts can deduct the interest paid on them. The owner of rental property can obtain quick depreciation deductions and then resell to another owner, who can begin the process all over again.

Municipal bonds are tax-free partly because one governmental agency doesn't tax another, partly because the federal government feels it must encourage a flow of money into municipal improvements.

Cattle-feeding and oil explorating the life, or the earning power, of the husband—and that's where the emphasis has traditionally been placed, both by families that had their heads on straight, and by the people selling insurance. The insurance industry still clings firmly to that concept, in the main, largely ignoring the changed circumstances of the working-wife family.

Dr. Starr Roxanne Hiltz, a sociologist, has twitted the insurance people about this in one of their own more thoughtful publications, the "CLU Journal." Where the wife contributes substantially to family income support, she says:

"The family has different needs, values and payment capabilities than the family in which the husband earns most or all of the income. Yet, for the most part, the life insurance industry has not recognized ation are considered risky enterprises, and economically desirable as well, so the government feels it must make it possible to defer or reduce the tax on profits so made.

The capital gains tax limits to 25 per cent the tax obligation on long-term profits from the sale of capital assets, such as stock or property, in order to encourage investments.

The ordinary individual who lives an uncomplicated life generally cannot expect to benefit from these tax shelters or exceptions or incentives or whatever they might be called. Usually it takes money to save on taxes.

The assumptions on which tax privileges are based has disturbed Congress for years and may eventually lead to an overall examination. But that still leaves another problem area: subjectivity of application.

So complex have the laws become, and so open to interpretation, that the same question put to several different Internal Revenue Service offices is likely to elicit as many different answers.

To simplify the tax law so that everyone pays a percentage of income, no matter how earned, wouldn't be the answer. That would tax the poor unjustly, reducing usable income in some instances to the poverty level.

There are no easy ways of simplifying the situation. But there is one simple question that deserves a clear answer:

Are taxes a means of financing government or a system of rewards and penalties to bring about social change?

the working wife as constituting any different type of market than housewives in general."

And the working-wife family, in turn, has neglected the insurance industry. Dr. Hiltz cites surveys indicating that these families carry less life insurance, proportionate to income, than "housewife families." There is no longer the feeling, of course, that the death of the husband would mean the poorhouse for his survivors, since the woman is a capable breadwinner. Thus these families tend to regard insurance as chiefly useful for cleaning up death expenses.

Yet the working-wife family has its own security needs, Dr. Hiltz observes. Its style of life, its expectations of financing the education of children and building retirement income for the parents are geared to a double income. The wife's death could seriously disrupt the family finances.

What might be attractive to the working wife, it's suggested, is a program combining investments in "equity products" (variable annuities, mutual fund shares, etc.) with appropriate insurance—keeping in mind the possible need of disability or income insurance for the wife, where her contributions to family income are heavily depended on.

Such a program, says Dr. Hiltz, should be "very flexible, to allow the wife to cease purchase of new savings or investment shares in periods when she might drop out of the labor force."

There, in broad outline, are the elements of financial planning in terms of the new family economics. The insurance industry has at hand, Dr. Hiltz notes, "recently introduced individual equity products, potentially very attractive to the working woman, single or married." But so far, not much has been done to package and market such programs.

Working wives and their husbands, it seems, will have to sit down and do their own thinking-through and planning, and put together their own savings-investment-security programs.

Good looks alone won't 'make it' in bed

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: "ON THE VERGE," who complained because his wife was frigid, gave a good physical description of himself. [Six feet two, well-built, a full head of hair, gray in the temples, good looking.] But he didn't describe the psychological conditions his wife had to live with.

A man who doesn't let his wife make any decisions in their marriage will soon find that he is living with a robot, and robots make very poor bed partners.

I know, because my husband has made all the decisions in our marriage. I have become very angry, and I take my anger out on my husband by not responding to his emotional needs, especially those related to sex.

I am a college graduate with a good mind, but somehow my husband has always smothered and belittled everything I've ever tried to do. I wonder where in the world my husband thinks my head was before I married him?
RESIGNED ROBOT

DEAR ROBOT: You don't say how long you've been married, but if you have resigned yourself to being a "robot" for the rest of your life, your head is not where it's doing you the most good.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps "ON THE VERGE," that handsome, athletic husband who couldn't get his wife into the bedroom, should evaluate his "game" in the bedroom.

He may have a headful of premature gray hair, play golf, tennis and handball—and still be a complete dud in bed. Even two heads of gray hair wouldn't make up for a nothing performance in bed.

It just might be that 25 years of nothing, nothing, nothing has produced a frigid wife. Believe me, most frigid wives did not get that way by themselves, and I'll bet "On the Verge's" hunger can't hold a candle to his wife's.
HUNGRY FOR 30 YEARS

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "ON THE VERGE" and I got the shock of my life.

It could have been written by my husband, except for the color of his hair and his age. My husband is 33.

I love my husband and have no reason or excuse for treating him this way. I just never felt like going to bed when he did, so I'd stay up and do something else until he'd fall asleep. I never realized that he would get the notion that I was avoiding him.

After reading that husband's letter I realized that if he could be considering looking elsewhere for love, so could mine. [If he hasn't already.]

My husband's birthday is the last of next month, but he is going to get his gift early. A changed wife!
I just hope and pray I'm not too late. STUPID IN B'HAM

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of reading letters in your column from self-confessed "great" lovers who complain because their wives are frigid.

The sexual prowess of the American male is a myth, perpetuated by men who think they know all there is to know about women.

Your stock answer is, "Talk it over with your mate." Well, forget it.

If a wife says one word to her husband about what arouses her, or what turns her off, he will regard it as a brutal assault on his masculinity. For no American man will admit that he is no good in bed.

There is an old saying, "There are no cold women. Only clumsy men." How true! But it took a Frenchman to say it. After twenty years of marriage, you may sign this wife either "DISGUSTED," or "SLEEPING ALONE IN W. VA."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Garden Club Urges Planting Of Mums

Residents are urged to plant cushion mums, available at most local nurseries and florists, by mid-April, reported Mrs. Thelma Bray at the recent meeting of the Pampa Garden Club. This is a city-wide effort sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee to make Pampa a mum showplace. Mrs. Holly Gray, flower show chairman, announced that plans are underway for an October mum show.

A report was made by the Civic Beautification Committee members on plans being drawn for landscaping at the Country Club. Notes of appreciation were read from faculty members at Baker and Wilson Schools for the books, "People and Their Environment," donated to the schools through a community effort, sponsored by the Pampa Garden Club. In conjunction with Arbor Day, and through the assistance of Bob Echols, trees in Aspen Park are being labeled by club members.

Mrs. Holly Gray and Mrs. W.R. Campbell presented a program and demonstration on "Setting a Beautiful Table." "Presentation of the meal is as important as the food itself," said Mrs. Campbell. "It improves the quality and establishes a feeling of warmth and hospitality."

Children's Interests Surveyed

Surveys of the reading, listening, and viewing interests of students in elementary and junior high school were presented by Mrs. Exie Vantine, Mrs. Austin Ruddick and Miss Elena Donald at the meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma, Theta Delta Chapter. Mrs. Vantine presented excerpts from TV shows that students had indicated as those most popular with them. Members were then asked to give an evaluation as to the suitability of these programs for children.

Music and reading tastes of children showed that current popular music was what they preferred and that reading interest seem to reflect the more traditional "children's" books.

President Genie Murray, Panhandle, welcomed new members to Theta Delta and announced that honorary member, Mrs. Joella Randall, would be conducting a museum workshop at Panhandle.

The memorial committee announced the memorial for Mrs. E.E. Ewing would be in the form of a Delta Kappa Gamma scholarship.

Mrs. Homer Bowers, W.K. Mackey, Jack Williams, and Henry Gruben were hostesses. Twenty-nine members from Panhandle, White Deer, Groom and Pampa attended.

FRESH ASPARAGUS SOUP
It's a pretty pale green color, and can be served hot or cold.

1 1/2 pounds fresh asparagus
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (13 3/4 ounces) chicken broth
1 1/2 cups light cream
Dash of white pepper

Break off asparagus stalks as far down as they snap easily; discard tough ends. Wash stalks well. Cut asparagus crosswise into 1-inch pieces. Into a medium saucepan turn the asparagus, onion, salt and 3/4 cup of the chicken broth; cover and boil gently until asparagus are tender—about 10 minutes.

Turn into an electric blender and blend until smooth. Stir in remaining chicken broth, cream and pepper. Heat if soup is to be served hot; chill if soup is to be served cold. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

A BEEHIVE OF BIHARIS is the refugee camp that once was Mohammadpur high school in Dacca, capital of Bangladesh. Some 10,000—mostly women and children—live in squalor under whatever shelter they can muster. Three or four water taps, food from the Red Cross. Biharis are Moslems who settled among the Hindu Bengalis of East Pakistan. Now that East Pakistan is Bangladesh, the only hope of about a million Biharis is to be exchanged for about 400,000 Bengalis of Pakistan.

BELEAGUERED BIHARIS like this woman and children through the Mohammadpur high school grounds, now a refugee center in Dacca, Bangladesh capital. Said one, "... men who have property and bank accounts are taken away and forced to sign papers giving their money and all they own to Bengalis. But we will leave everything here... We do not want to stay in Bangladesh."

Expert Talks About Cause Of Nation's Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cause of the country's energy crisis is neither lack of exploration nor lack of technical research, Adm. H.G. Rickover told Congress Tuesday, but simply because the supply is limited and demand is skyrocketing. Rickover said experts are failing to make clear to the public "that nature is impervious to human demands, to assertions that we have a 'right' to live in the style to which we have become accustomed. There are no 'rights' that government or anyone else can enforce against nature," said Rickover, director of naval reactors. He told a House Interior Committee probe on energy problem "that economists and others still take pride in the rising consumption pattern, praising success on the basis of how many telephones, refrigerators and cars each persons owns. "What needs to be generally understood is that nature is completely unconcerned with man, his needs or his desires," Rickover said. "We are in a painful adjustment to a world from which we can neither escape nor control." He said Russia seems much more aware of the importance of access to energy resources for all industrial countries. "Compare her policy of courting the Arab oil companies with our policy of continuing to export enriched uranium for the sake of improving our balance of payments position," Rickover commented. "Russia's new naval strength in the Mediterranean poses a very real threat that she might succeed in controlling the Middle East and its oil." Seventy per cent of the world's oil supplies are in the Middle East. Rickover said the Navy must be the equal of any other navy in the world if this country's sources of energy including the projected importation of half the oil supply within a decade—is to be protected. "If we do not have a Navy to insure the safety of our oil sources and the means of transportation, we could risk our industrial capacity," he said. The admiral said the dependence on man made fuels has been unrealistically exaggerated as a hope for the future. Rickover also suggested: Discontinuance at once of exporting energy sources this country now possesses, including coal and enriched uranium. —Establish a minimum level of use for utilities and make it expensive to use more, creating incentives to use less rather than more energy. —Discourage inefficient uses of energy, such as construction of office buildings with no windows or access to natural light and which therefore must be heated, cooled and lighted by electricity. —Tax automobiles by weight and the amount of fuel they require and put upper limits on what is allowed.

LRL To Be Used Next Year To Protest Skylab Crewmen

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Lunar Receiving Laboratory, which once protected the world from germs returning Apollo astronauts might have brought with them—but didn't—will be used next year to protect Skylab astronauts from the world. Dr. Willard R. Hawkins, an official in the space agency's medical office here, said astronauts returning from 28 or 56 days visits in the Skylab orbiting laboratory next year will go immediately into a semisolation in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory (LRL). During their long stay in the independent environment of the orbiting Skylab, said Dr. Hawkins, the astronauts "will lose some of their natural immunity to disease." If they immediately plunged back into a normal association with other people, said the physician, they could end up in a hospital, felled by one of the common disease organisms against which people are usually immune.

Dr. Hawkins said the semisolation will last about 21 days, the same length of time that returned moon astronauts were in total quarantine. The purpose for isolating the moon astronauts, however, was to protect the world from any alien germs they may have picked up during their lunar stay. No such germs were ever found and this quarantine was dropped after the third moon landing. Skylab astronauts will be re-exposed to common disease organisms by easy stages. A health stabilization program before their long space adventure will be even more rigorous than the pre-flight program faced by Apollo spacemen, said the doctor, because Skylab crews will be in space for a much longer period. Dr. Hawkins said that extensive laboratory and physiology testing will begin 45 days before launch and will continue up until a final physical examination only a few hours before the rocket engines are ignited.

NY Dancer Choreographing Multimedia Performance

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City dancer is choreographing a spectacular multimedia dance for the famed Seagram's building here in an effort to make people more aware of their environment. "You can't make extravagant claims but I know it would give them a different sense of their environment, change people's sense of moving through the city," explained dancer-choreographer Marilyn Wood. Miss Wood, formerly of the Merce Cunningham Dance Company, and now a leader in the environmental events movement, received $5,000 from the New York State Council on the Arts and another $11,000 from Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc. for two performances to be held in September. It is believed to be the first time a dance has been commissioned for a building. Miss Wood said the grant from the arts council had been for any building but that she had negotiated for four months with the Seagram's company for the use of its Park Avenue office headquarters. The 38-story building, between 52nd and 53rd streets, is unique because it sits behind a large plaza dotted with marble benches and two rectangular fountains. Setting the scene, Miss Wood said that as the audience arrived there will be an oboe and flute player by each fountain. Later electronic music will be played and the sounds of the fountains will be amplified. A film showing the use of the plaza in different seasons, will be shown on large banners and 16 dancers will perform within the building and on the plaza.

Conference Will Note Feed Needs

AMARILLO—Problems that plague the High Plains cattle feeding industry will take the spotlight at a one-day conference at Amarillo, April 20. The meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. at the Villa Inn, with a host of specialists and animal scientists presenting the latest research from Texas A&M University. "This conference has been designed mainly for feedlot personnel and stock cattle managers," says Dr. Carl Parrott, Extension area beef cattle specialist at Amarillo. Animal health will be in the front seat, with an overview of disease research presented by Dr. Fred Maurer, associate dean of the A&M College of Veterinary Medicine. "Viruses, Vaccines, and Feedlot Diseases" will be covered by Dr. Stewart McConnell of the Veterinary Microbiology Department of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Dr. John Coleman will discuss problems of newly-arrived feeder cattle. Dr. Lowell Schake of the Animal Science Department will talk about the effects of season, breed, grade and prior treatment on feeder cattle performance. The lingering problems of feedlot waste disposal will be discussed by Dr. Don Reddell of the Agricultural Engineering Department. Dr. Arno Dreidger will cover new developments in grain sorghum research; and beef carcass studies will be the topic of Dr. Zerle Carpenter. Dr. Robert Branson of the Department of Agricultural Economics will finish the presentations with a discussion on more effective beef marketing from High Plains feedlots. Dr. L.S. Pope, associate dean of the A&M College of Agriculture will offer a wrap-up of the day's talks. The meeting is being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A&M College of Veterinary Medicine and the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, as part of the Panhandle Economic Program.

Laird Charges N. Viet Violates 'Understanding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Tuesday it would be the "height of irresponsibility" to negotiate for peace with the North Vietnamese while their invasion in South Vietnam is under way. Laird accused the North Vietnamese of "massive flagrant violation" of a 1968 understanding in their penetration of the demilitarized zone. "We can't negotiate with an enemy that refuses to abide by its accords, understandings and treaties," Laird said. "If the enemy withdraws its forces invading across the demilitarized zone, if those forces are removed north of the demilitarized zone, then there would be a viable opportunity for negotiation. To talk of further treaties and understandings under present conditions—is the height of irresponsibility." Laird appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after it voted Monday to stop all funds for U.S. combat activities in Indochina be halted Dec. 31 if Hanoi releases U.S. prisoners of war. The committee is considering the foreign aid bill. Laird said President Nixon's Vietnamization policy has shown progress. He said the South Vietnamese armed forces are performing well and cited reductions in U.S. military troops and air and naval activities in Vietnam since 1968. Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said it appeared to him that the Nixon administration now insists upon a military victory, with "no hope of negotiating with North Vietnamese until their military capacity is destroyed." "That is not the case," Laird responded. At this time, he said, American air forces are striking in the demilitarized zone, below the demilitarized zone and north of the demilitarized zone and also in Cambodia and Laos. He said the B52 force is there for tactical commanders to use as they deem necessary. Laird said naval ship augmentation in Southeast Asia will continue as "an insurance reserve." Laird, prior to his appearance before Fulbright's committee, appeared before a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Existing U.S. airports are valued at $10 billion, but the Air Transport Association of America says another $13 billion in facilities will be needed through this decade.

But then his name is Mark West and his father, Jerry, has been known to make an occasional basket for the Los Angeles Lakers and shows a remarkably similar good form himself as he drives past Luke Jackson of Philadelphia in a recent National Basketball Association game at right.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
The ball skipped off John Jeter's bat toward shortstop Chris Speier. It looked like a certain double play for the San Francisco Giants.
Speier scooped the grounder and pitched to Tito Fuentes, who stepped on second for one out and fired to first. Right after he let the ball go, the second basemen wished he hadn't. It cost the Giants their star first baseman, Willie McCovey.
McCovey, diving forward trying to snare Fuentes' wild toss, broke his right arm in a collision with Jeter and was knocked out long before the Giants won a 5-1 baseball game over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.
There's no way we can replace a Willie McCovey," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox. "But there's no use crying over spilled milk. Injuries are part of the game."
A doctor estimated that it would take six weeks for the fracture to heal and surmised it could be at least two months before the slugger returned to the lineup.
In the other games Tuesday, the Chicago Cubs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4; the Houston Astros topped the Cincinnati Reds 8-4; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Atlanta Braves 3-1; the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 and the Montreal Expos pounded the New York Mets 7-2.

Pensions are one thing, but if the major league baseball players ever strike for a shorter work week, Wilbur Wood is in big trouble.
Chicago's veteran knuckleball artist thrives on action and proved it Tuesday night when he shut out Texas 14-0 on a three-hitter. The complete game came just two days after Wood had hurled 82-3 innings for no decision in Chicago's post-strike opener.

Pampa Downs Amarillo

The Pampa Harvester baseball team made it two in a row Tuesday afternoon, downing Amarillo High 6-4 in Amarillo.
Amarillo went ahead in the game in the first inning 2-0 on a two-run homer by Herby Bolden. He drove the first pitch delivered by Pampa starter Jody Johnson over the center field fence.
Pampa evened the score in the second with the help of three Sandie errors. From that time on, Pampa, playing error-less ball, was in virtual control of the game.
Johnson got into ball control problems in the bottom of the second inning, and senior Jeff Hogan came in with two away and struck out Amarillo's James Campbell to retire the side.
Hogan evened his season mark at 4-4 and will remain a leader in the district in E.R.A. He struck out five, walked only one and gave up four hits in the 5-3 innings he was in the game.
Hogan helped his cause a great deal when he came to bat for the first time in the fourth inning. He homered and drove

Mike Edgar got into the hitting action in the fifth when he homered to make the score 5-2. Dale Ammons accounted for Pampa's final score when he was driven in by A. J. Brewer later in the inning.
The Sandies' final scores came in the bottom of the fifth when Amarillo garnered three of their four hits off Hogan. John Carroll and Sears Woods made the runs for Amarillo.
Both teams hit the ball frequently and the difference in the game was in Pampa's heads up fielding and throwing. Ammons caught Robert Cato off first base in the fourth and he was put out in a run down by Edgar and Larry Knutson.
An interesting note in the game is that all three home runs came on the first pitch thrown to the batter.
Pampa's victory dropped Amarillo's district record to 3-2 but the Sandies remained in a tie for second with Tascosa. Borger 5-0 has a two game margin over both teams, as they downed Tascosa in their Tuesday game.
Caprock comes to Pampa this Friday afternoon. The winner of that game will be in sole possession of third place in the league. Both teams stand at 2-3 in loop play.
The game will be at 4:00 in Optimist Park.

Wilt Amazing In L.A. Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now Bill Sharman is talking about a six-game series as his Los Angeles Lakers have the defending champion Milwaukee Bucks on the ropes in the National Basketball Association playoffs.
The Lakers ran away from the Bucks 115-90 Tuesday night by rebounding—literally—from the 114-88 beating suffered Sunday in Milwaukee.
The best-of-seven Western Conference series moves back to Milwaukee Saturday with the Lakers leading 3-2.
"I've said all along that rebounding will decide the series," said Sharman in a hoarse voice after Wilt Chamberlain & Co. grabbed 23 more missed shots than Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Bucks, 70-57. "And if we can outbounce them Saturday, we can end the series in six games."

Hughes' Widow Seeks Payment

DETROIT (AP) — A question of whether or not the death last October of Detroit Lions' flanker Chuck Hughes was connected with his job as a pro football player may force his widow to go to court to collect workman's compensation.
A pretrial examination is set for May 5 before a compensation referee in Detroit on the matter.
The compensation petition filed by the widow, Mrs. Sharon Hughes, contends that her husband died on the job. She is seeking compensation which could reach as high as $80,000 if she elects to take weekly payments until her two-year-old son, Brandon Shane Hughes, reaches 21.
Hughes collapsed on the field at Tiger Stadium last Oct. 24 during a National Football League game against the Chicago Bears. He was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital more than an hour later, although doctors said for all practical purposes he died on the field of a heart attack caused by hardening of the arteries.
But the Hartford Insurance Group, which is the Lions' comprehensive insurance carrier, says Hughes' death didn't have anything to do with football.

Game No. 7, if the Bucks win Saturday, will be played next Wednesday night in the Forum, where there would be another sellout crowd of 17,505.

The partisan fans chanted "defense, defense" and "rebound, rebound"—apparently taking Sharman's cue. The coach had called for more vociferous support on the plane ride back from Milwaukee Sunday.

"It is easier to get up for this game than on Sunday," said Chamberlain, who made all eight of his free throws, a remarkable achievement for the 7-foot-2 veteran considered one of the league's worst free throwers. He finished with 26 rebounds and 12 points.

In all, the Lakers converted 35 of 44 free throws, including 19 of 22 in the third period when they broke things open. It was 55-51 Lakers early in the third period but Gail Goodrich led the spurt to a 23-point lead with a 13-point quarter.

In the American Basketball Association, the Indiana Pacers meet the Utah Stars tonight in a do-or-die situation at Anderson, Ind., high school gymnasium. The Stars outshone Indiana 106-100 and 117-109 earlier and lead the West Division final series 2-0.

In the East Division, the New York Nets, trailing Virginia 2-0, are idle until next Monday when they play at home in Uniondale, N.Y.

Sullivan Signs With Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan, who personally negotiated a multiyear contract with the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League, says he did it without hiring an agent because "that was my way."

Sullivan, the ace quarterback who guided Auburn to 25 football victories in three years, signed an estimated $125,000 contract Tuesday for three years.

Clarence Ellis of Notre Dame, the Falcons first-round draft choice, signed a similar pact.

"Everyone has his own way of doing things, and I didn't see any benefit in having an agent and paying him a commission," said Sullivan.

Ellis, a 5-foot-11, 183-pound safety, said he was "glad the Falcons drafted me because, frankly, I like the weather in the South. I've had enough of that snow and cold."

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

11—The Inside-Out Swing

The most frustrating shortcoming of weekend golfers is the slice. That banana ball, as it's loathsome called, that bends sickeningly to the right and into trouble.
Without getting into a lot of technical jargon, let me explain quickly that a slice is caused by the clubface moving from outside the target line to inside it as the ball is struck. A slice spin results.
The correction is to hit the ball with a swing that comes from inside the target line to outside it in the hitting area. Assuming that your address position and grip are adequate, you can encourage this type of swing by turning your shoulders more fully, until your back is facing the target. You should feel tension through the area between your shoulders if you are turning fully enough.
Then be sure you shift your legs toward the target on the downswing. Don't let the up-

Doing Something About Suicide

By DAVID HENDIN

Mr. X is a white male in his 50s, who is separated, widowed or divorced. He lives alone and is probably out of a job. He drinks and owns a gun. He is the composite of a suicide victim. "A very high risk individual," says University of Michigan psychologist Floyd M. Wylie. As director of the Highland Park (Michigan) Mental Health Center, Wylie has initiated a crisis intervention program to train service and medical personnel in his city to detect the potential suicide victim before he acts. The warning signs, the psychologist says, are so obvious that they are sometimes not taken seriously. Among them are: Inability to sleep for long periods of time. A handwriting kind of anguish and deep depression. Key phrases such as "It'll all be over soon," and "You'll be sorry when I'm gone," are spoken frequently. "There is a misconception that people who talk about suicide won't try it," says Wylie. "On the contrary, they are most likely; they're trying to tell people, 'Listen, I'm really in trouble.' They should be taken seriously." Wylie explains that traditionally religious and moral taboos have prevented even recognition, let alone intervention and treatment, of suicide and potential suicide. It has only been since the mid-60s that suicide has become regarded as a major health problem. The responsibility for suicide prevention today lies with all community agencies—police departments, hospitals, social agencies, youth service bureaus, schools and all of the individuals who serve them.

Morals And Medicine

Should suicide laws be repealed? Mercy killing be removed from statutes prohibiting homicide? Are we prepared to take affirmative steps toward reducing the number of genetically defective individuals and hopefully eliminate some genetically-transmitted conditions? These are a few of the questions posed in a recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Assn. The Judicial Council of that organization has decided to provide leadership in seeking solutions to such urgent and troubling ethical, social and legal dilemmas which have, ironically, resulted from the extraordinary advances in medicine and biology in recent years. The AMA has named a group of eminent consultants to their advisory committee. To be focused on are six major topics of concern: abortion, technology of reproduction, behavior control, genetic engineering, human experimentation and euthanasia. "These are not questions of medical ethics to be answered solely or exclusively by physicians. They are ethical issues of society. Physicians advise, offering the benefit of their expertise, their knowledge, competence and experience." But even with the best of talent and efforts it is not likely as the journal's editorial admits, that clear-cut answers will be found to these ethical issues. If, however, the AMA and its committees can organize and effectively transmit information to the public, they will have performed a considerable service in clarifying the issues in these areas that daily gain in significance.

Militia Is A Key In Vietnam

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In the end, the battle for South Vietnam may depend on the local militia—the abominably paid, lightly armed and often-derided regional and provincial forces. Unless these groups hold, South Vietnam's regular forces cannot hope to stand off a determined invasion attempt without giving major chunks of territory. But if these local militia do provide the irregular services for which they have been "trained," Hanoi's invasion armies cannot possibly prevail.

The local militia have done surprisingly well. On the fringes of the main battles, they have picked off North Vietnamese sabotage and demolition groups and slowed the small-unit infiltration that had accompanied major North Vietnamese thrusts. These local militia actions have been important in the battles to date—not crucial. But as the fighting goes on, and providing their surprising morale holds, their spoiling actions could make the difference between Hanoi's success and failure. North Vietnam's armies have one great weakness. They are inexperienced in conventional logistics. Their successes in the past have depended on their ability to put the supplies they needed in the battle area in advance of the fighting—by using guerrillas to infiltrate in small numbers over periods, say, of six months or a year, gradually building the stockpiles to required size.

If air power battered the advance supply units sufficiently, the timetable for attack would simply be moved to a later date. But the current invasion is run on a somewhat different pattern. Though some large stockpiles have been built in the border areas and at some points within South Vietnam itself, more than ever before the North Vietnamese are dependent on supply trains moving with and behind the main forces.

When these are hit heavily, the North Vietnamese must concentrate on getting through essential ammunition and replacements, increasing their dependence on local food and other supplies. In this field, the local militia can do great damage to the fighting ability of the northerners. The second stage—wide-scale Viet Cong and North Vietnamese guerrilla attacks through the southern delta and along the coasts—will hit heavily on the local militia. Saigon's main forces being fully occupied with the mainline invasion armies.

These second-stage North Vietnamese-V.C. guerrilla attacks will be aimed at cutting the heart out of the local structure. Though it has received little notice for the past two months, armed VC squads have been cutting down village policemen and pacification teams, whose job it is to build local civic, economic and self-defense strength. If the local militia can guard these police and these teams from slaughter while the regular armies are away fighting the invasion, then Hanoi will have retained the means to survive. But if the local militia fails, and if the Communist guerrilla forces are able to destroy major numbers of police, pacification teams and local hamlet and village governments, the door will be open for Hanoi to effectively rebuild the underground structure necessary for eventual success.

BRUCE BIOSSAT
Primaries Blur Democrat Picture

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Talking to political leaders across the nation, I discover that a good many think things were going pretty well in the 1972 Democratic presidential race until the people started voting in primaries and messing everything up.

Indeed, in their rage some politicians seem to stop just short of describing the primaries as some kind of plot against the party. There are wails that the whole setup ought to be junked. In some states where the primary is a new device, talk of getting rid of it is bubbling up. What's it all about?

The surface gripes are easy to lay out. There are too many primaries—23 this time against 15 in 1968. They encourage too many candidates to be active, or at least show on the ballot. Some 10 state primaries roughly fit the description of "all-candidate" affairs wherein even the faintest contender appears. But the moans go deeper than this. A lot of Democratic regulars are furious that a fellow like Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, who they say has no chance to be nominated, can run around to Florida, Wisconsin, Indiana, Maryland and Michigan and disrupt other candidates' plans.

H.L. Hunt Writes

RUSSIAN ROCKETS

There was a flurry of speculation recently that maybe the Russians had slowed down on their aggressive intentions by halting work on underground silos and improvement of their nuclear delivery system. The speculation was tied to the forthcoming visit of President Nixon to Moscow where he undoubtedly will discuss arms limitations. But Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has given tie to this liberal-oriented speculation.

Laird told a news conference recently at Ft. Hood, Tex., that the Russians are going ahead with a build-up of their strategic weapons and may be about ready to launch tests of improved, or possibly new, inter-continental ballistic missiles. He said the Soviets may be about ready to test a weapon with even more nuclear punch than the present SS-9 ICBM which mounts a 25-megaton warhead. The Secretary probably has excellent information. Pictures don't lie and our ever-faithful satellite cameras do their work well. So we ought to ponder again just what the true intentions of the Russian communists are. There is no indication that they have changed their aggressive designs.

Strategic Arms Limitation Talks are not the answer to this problem. Rather the answer lies in a superb and superior costly defense system. It is true that we are in debt nationally. But much of this debt can be lopped off through elimination of waste in foreign aid and worthless projects at home, including much of the welfare program and bureaucratic system.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Alcohol, Fat Close in Calories

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am exceedingly perplexed about your statement that alcohol has only a bit fewer calories than pure fat. A book I have says there are 83 calories for one ounce of bourbon and 73 for one ounce of scotch, and this accords with what I have always read and what doctors have consistently said in connection with alcohol and weight. If there is new evidence which is available to you, I am sure that others of your readers as well as I would like to know what it is.

I was a teetotaler until I was 50 and am just as much against the abuse of alcohol as you are, but in recent years I have taken one and one-half ounces of bourbon in water at bed time to help me sleep.

Since I do gain weight every winter and take it off every spring, I shall certainly cut out the whisky if you can make good the statement in your column which at the moment I frankly believe to be completely inaccurate.

Dear Reader—I wish everyone's problem was as easy for me to solve as yours. Neither bourbon nor scotch is all alcohol. My statement comes directly from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's analysis of food. One gram of alcohol contains a little more than 7 calories. A gram of fat contains from 8.37 to 9.02 calories.

A one and one-half ounce jigger of whisky like you take at bedtime will vary in its caloric content from 100 calories for that with only about 40 per cent alcohol to about 125 calories for whisky made with 50 per cent alcohol. Even the strongest whisky is only about 50 per cent alcohol and most of the rest is water.

Now in reference to whether you need to quit taking your one and one-half ounce of bourbon at bedtime, that is an individual matter. It certainly is a useful sedative and helps a number of people in this regard and although it does contain some calories, I am sure that it represents only a small portion of the total calories you consume on a daily basis.

The people who really get into trouble with alcohol as calories are individuals who drink a great deal regularly—the persistent beer drinker or the person who has two or three highballs every evening, none of them weak in alcoholic content. Those who can afford it add these calories to usually large evening meals; hence, many of the executive drinkers and alcoholics from moderate to well-to-do families are fat. The poor alcoholic from the slum areas will often spend his money for alcohol and not food and he may actually be suffering from malnutrition. Alcohol does not contain any useful nutrients for the body and its only contribution is calories plus its drug effect which is a sedative in mild state or in larger amounts can actually be poisonous.

RAY CROMLEY
Primaries Costly, Don't Count Much

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It is known President Nixon is nearly as frustrated by the present presidential primary system as some of the Democrats involved. He's gone to unusual lengths to back a highly-critical study of the primaries by close political adviser Robert Finch.

This is what Finch found: Primaries in 22 States, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands, represent 2,007 out of 3,016 votes at the Democratic convention and 802 out of 1,346 votes at the Republican Convention. The primaries bind delegates to follow the results of the presidential preference vote in only 13 states and D.C.

In New Hampshire, Nebraska and Pennsylvania, the delegates are only partially bound—usually for two convention ballots. In New York, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey, the delegates are not bound at all. In California, the winner takes all.

This narrows the number of sure convention votes to be won in the primaries down to 1,001 for the Democrats and 395 for the Republicans—not nearly enough for one candidate to win either nomination.

Though John Kennedy and Mr. Nixon did position themselves for the nomination through strong primary showings, Theodore Roosevelt was refused the nomination after winning 11 of the 13 primaries he entered, including the contest in Howard Taft's home state of Ohio, thereby securing 278 delegates to Taft's 48.

In 1952, Sen. Estes Kefauver entered 15 out of 16 primaries and won 12. The convention nominated Adlai Stevenson who had not entered any. In practice, presidential primaries have been effective as "sudden-death" candidate killers.

Wendell Willkie's 1944 defeat in Wisconsin ended his hopes for a comeback. Oregon cut down Harold Stassen in 1948. In 1952, the New Hampshire primary badly damaged Sen. Robert Taft's presidential hopes. West Virginia hurt Sen. Hubert Humphrey sorely in 1960 and California seriously damaged Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in 1964.

With all this, what do the primary votes mean? A recent district court ruling upheld the right of cross-over voting in primaries. The results were seen in Illinois and Wisconsin.

On top of this the primaries vary so greatly from state to state that what happens in one state may have a meaning entirely different from that in another. What we have now amounts to 24 different sets of rules, players and stakes.

The primaries are not cheap. In 1968, the Democrats reportedly spent $25 million before the convention in Chicago. Democratic candidates this year, it is estimated, spent $6 million even before the New Hampshire polls opened.

Mr. Nixon has made it clear to White House aides these past three years that he has a great personal ambition to bring greater order into our political and governmental systems before he leaves office.

This was seen in his attempt, so far negated by congressional inaction, to restructure the major government departments into his concept of a more effective setup.

It was seen again in his efforts, working through Treasury Secretary John Connally, to begin restructuring the world's monetary system.

In like vein, the primary system for choosing presidential nominees, as it has developed, clearly offends his sense of the proper way to do things. You will hear more of this from Mr. Nixon and Finch after the November election.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Safe travel on the high seas throughout the globe depends to a considerable extent on the navigational services rendered to U.S. ships by the U.S. Naval Oceanographic Office, known by mariners as NAVOCANO. The World Almanac notes that specialists at NAVOCANO produce and distribute, under Congressional authorization, the nautical charts that U.S. mariners require for oceanic travel.

The U.S. government, through the Government Printing Office, issues a vast number of pamphlets, books and reports of studies and research conducted by departments and agencies. The World Almanac says that the government sells about 78 million publications annually and distributes many more to libraries and offices.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Howard has changed from a good-natured mate into a family "bear cat" who grows and criticizes. But that is due to one of the two semi-castrating influences that are zooming our American divorce rate. Take heed!

CASE T-557: Howard R., aged 38, has upset his family.

"Dr. Crane," his wife began, "we used to be a very happy family."

"But now Howard is as grouchy as a bear most of the time!"

"He yells at the children and grows at me over very trivial things."

"And he now demands twin beds."

"For he says he doesn't love me any more."

"He is so caustic and critical of my housekeeping, too, that I am in tears almost every night."

"But this isn't the way he used to be, even up to a year or so ago. What is wrong?"

Howard's Confession

When a man is irritable at himself, he tries to pass the buck and blame somebody else.

This is a standard technique of husbands.

Sometimes the wife is entirely innocent of any significant faults, but her husband will still be sarcastic and hypercritical, anyway.

Many men thus keep on with their nagging till their frustrated wives break into tears.

Tears usually mollify a man. Why?

Because they intimate that the man is superior.

And it is usually his basic inferiority complex that goaded him into being a caustic mate.

"But why should Howard feel inferior?" you may inquire.

Well, his original weight of 165 pounds on his wedding day, has now zoomed to 208.

So that extra 43 pounds of blubber he carries all day long, has fatigued him unduly.

After a hectic day at the office, he is thus so tired at night that he has lost most of his libido.

And this reduction in their erotic prowess scares men until they may soon throw themselves into a complete platonic state.

But they never want their wives to realize that lack of boudoir romancing is due to their own inability.

Thus, they universally hit upon the ruse of criticizing the wife, even about trivial faults, just to keep her on the defensive.

For if they can thus make their wife indulge in self-analysis and wonder what is wrong with HER, she is not likely to suspect what is wrong with HIM!

This is a neat psychological trick that impotent husbands often devise.

So the way to restore Howard to his former good-natured, happy personality, is to banish the basic cause of his platonic nature.

Here's how to revive a man's libido:

(1) Wives, if you are so plump you create the "motherly" instead of "siren" image, then diet!

(2) And aggressively stress more cheesecake in the boudoir, even if you radically cut down on the roast beef in the dining room.

PROFESSOR GETS POST AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Willard Bessent, University of Texas professor of educational administration, has been elected president of the University Council for Educational Administration.

The organization, comprising 58 major U. S. universities, promotes research in educational administration and works toward the improvement of the preparation programs for educational administrators.

New Opportunities For Army Vets

(3) Husbands, if you lop off your excess blubber, you will also feel and act more kittenish, for you'll then have more surplus energy to generate romancing.

(4) Cut out tobacco, too, since it seems to kill your erotic hunger much as it also curbs your gastric hunger at the dinner table.

So send for the diet booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

For obesity and cigarettes exert a semi-castrating effect on both men and women!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellet Indiana 47658, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Thousands of Army veterans who want to return to duty with the Regular Army can now do so with a change in enlistment rules announced by the Department of the Army, according to Sgt. Bobby Wallin, U.S. Army recruiter, 115 N. Cuyler.

With its strength decreasing as a result of small commitments in Vietnam, Sgt. Wallin said, the Army had been forced to restrict enlistment of some former soldiers who did not meet grade and skill vacancies. The few openings which did exist were held for those who had training in highly critical career fields.

Now, the Army will return to standards similar to those which had been in effect before July, 1968. The change was effective March 1st and applies to several categories of former servicemen. In the first category are former members of the Army who had six or less years service and who had been discharged in pay grades E-4 to E-6. These individuals may return to the Regular Army in their former pay grades if they re-enlist within three months of their date of separation and if the Army has a vacancy for someone with their combination of skill and pay grade. After separation of more than three months, the grade in which they may return will be determined by the Army.

The second category of prior service people includes those who were discharged as sergeants first class, master sergeants, sergeants-major, and all other individuals, who have served over six years. These individuals may not return before they have been separated from service for three months. They may then be accepted at a grade to be determined by the Army. The same requirement for a vacancy within the Army also applies to this category of former servicemen.

The third category concerns those who were discharged in pay grades E-4 to E-9 for whom no vacancies exist in their former skills and pay grades. These individuals will be given the opportunity to enlist in pay grade E-3. In consideration of the strict standards applied to former members of the Army, individuals who have served in other branches of the armed services are also subject to the same rule.

Senate Okays 73 To 0 Bill On Black Lung

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed 73 to 0 a bill greatly liberalizing benefits for coal-miner victims of black-lung disease.

The action appears to assure that Congress will send to President Nixon this year legislation qualifying thousands of additional miners and their dependents for the payments.

The coal industry, which opposed the Senate measure in Monday's debate, wants Washington to bear the full cost for at least two more years, and not to expand the program.

The Senate bill would boost the federal cost by $2.5 billion in the next five years.

From 40 to 50 gallons of tree sap are boiled down to get one gallon of maple syrup.

14 Accidents Reported On Rural Hwy In March

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 14 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of March, according to Sergeant J.L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed and 12 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first three months of 1972 shows a total of 48 accidents resulting in one person killed, and 18 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for March, 1972 shows a total of 420 accidents resulting in 23 persons killed and 218 persons injured as compared to March, 1971 with 521 accidents resulting in 20 persons killed and 251 persons injured.

The 23 traffic deaths for the month of March, 1972 occurred in the following counties: Montague, four; Hale and Dallam, three each; Briscoe, Gray, Hardeman, Hutchinson, Farmer, Wheeler, Crosby, Floyd, Garza, Hockley, Knox, Lynn, and Young, one each.

AIR TRAVEL INCREASE HOUSTON (AP) — While 1971 was a poor year nationally for air travel, the number of passengers flying out of Houston's Intercontinental Airport increased almost 7 per cent, says Joe Foster, city aviation director.

The biggest increase was in international passengers which grew more than 12 per cent. In all, 4.8 million passengers passed through boarding gates.
