

Johnson's Impossible Dreams Seem To Come True In Final Hours

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"We now have taken another long, forward step toward peace," said President Johnson. These were words of a man driving hard toward impossible dreams, and drive he would until the final hour of his presidency.

But after months of frustration and discord in the country, the often reviled President has seen one dreamed-of blessing after another come true, have been outpourings of the

The historic Apollo 8 flight to the moon and back in the dying days of his administration was a source of tremendous refreshment for Johnson. For he was the one President John F. Kennedy asked to head up the space program when the decision was made to go for the moon in the 1960s.

All this week, in all kinds of receptions and gatherings, there deepest sentimentality and feeling, with shedding of tears on the part of the many who gathered around him.

There were his poignant returns to his beloved Congress—his alma mater—to deliver his State of the Union message and to go to a reception Thursday.

Almost up to the very minute when he leaves office he has worked at achieving progress in ending the Vietnam War—the biggest burden he has had to carry during his presidency.

Early Thursday morning the word he had been waiting for came. Secretary of State Dean Rusk awakened him to say that the negotiators in Paris had agreed on the size and shape of their table so that substantive peace talks can now start.

When Johnson read his prepared statement at the White House later in the morning, he was visibly pleased. And at a State Department reception for Rusk late in the day, he said "we now have taken another long forward step toward peace."

Johnson called the Paris developments the answer to "our prayers for many days and many nights."

Johnson said he "never questioned my judgement" in deciding not to run for reelection because "if we were to ever get to the peace table" he knew he better get out of the way."

"I knew my friends and my foes would say that everything I said was political" if he had been running for reelection, Johnson said in the nostalgic Senate farewell party.

The Senators feted Johnson, his wife Lady Bird, their daughter Luci Nugent and her son, Lynn, at a Capitol meeting room.

"I spent many of my most pleasant years in the Senate working with you," Johnson said. As President, he said,

"we've had lots of debates on the war and fiscal matters... but I don't have an enemy in the Senate as far as I'm concerned... I've been treated fairly."

"I'm mighty grateful."

"He's been a good president," said Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, his arm around LBJ. He turned to Johnson.

"You did good for the country," Dirksen said.

Civic Clubs Prepare For Bucket Brigade

"Man the buckets" will be the battle cry of more than 100 Pampa men's civic club workers tomorrow when they take part in the annual "Bucket Brigade" in behalf of the March of Dimes' fight against birth defects.

Eight organizations will take part in the affair, led by David Holt. They will be stationed at business intersections throughout the city between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Participating groups and their respective intersections are Key Club, Ballard and Browning; Top of Texas Kiwanis, Somerville and Kingsmill; Knights of Pythias, Cuyler and Francis; Pampa Boat & Ski Club, Cuyler and Kingsmill; Optimists, Cuyler and Brown; Noon Lions, Hobart and Brown; Kiwanis, Hobart and Alcock; and Evening Lions, Hobart and Kentucky.

Pampa Hardware Co. is again lending the "buckets" for the event.

The "Bucket Brigade" is also scheduled for tomorrow in Lefors and McLean, according to M.O.D.'s Gray County drive chairman Charles R. Martin. Heading the Lefors group is Danny Wileman; Greed Lamb is in charge in McLean.

This year marks the 31st anniversary of The National Foundation-March of Dimes. Originally formed to combat polio, this volunteer organization is now leading the fight against birth defects.

March of Dimes contributions help support more than 100 Birth Defects Centers throughout the country. The Salk Institute for Biological Studies in San Diego, Calif., and growing community service program urging women to obtain prenatal care.

Accident Injuries Show Decline In City During 1968

By RON CROSS

A beaming Pampa police chief announced the 1968 traffic accident results in Pampa today and said that although accidents had increased slightly, there was a huge drop in injuries.

"We had a 2.6 per cent increase in accidents but there was a 41 per cent decrease in injuries in our city during 1968," Chief Jim Conner said.

Conner said probably there would not have been an increase in accidents had private property accidents not been included for 1968.

"We only started adding private property wrecks in our reports in September, 1967 so this is the first time we've had

IN JFK'S DEATH

Autopsy Material Discounts Garrison

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A secret, independent study of X-rays, autopsy reports, photographs of his wounded body and actual clothing worn by President John F. Kennedy shows he was killed by two bullets fired from above and behind him as he rode through Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

This newest disclosure in the controversial assassination case agreed with conclusions of the Warren Commission.

Review of the hitherto closely guarded autopsy material was conducted last year by a panel of four doctors at the request of Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark. The findings were made public Thursday night with approval of the Kennedy family.

The panel said the autopsy reports, X-rays and photographs eliminated "with reasonable certainty" any possibility that Kennedy was shot to death through the head from "any direction other than from back to front."

Although many vocal, active critics of the Warren Commission were good bets to cry "whitewash," the panel study by physicians with no prior connection with the case appeared to dispose of a controversial, unconfirmed idea that the late President was shot from the front.

A leading exponent of this idea has been New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison, who contended Kennedy was shot by more than one man and that the fatal head wounds resulted from shots fired from in front of the President. Current court action by Garrison was responsible for Clark releasing the panel report.

The Warren Commission established by President Johnson in 1964 concluded after months of

Czech Student Sets Himself On Fire in Protest

PRAGUE (UPI)—A young student who set fire to himself in Wenceslas Square Thursday was one of a group of 15 who have vowed they will sacrifice themselves one at a time until a 10-point list of student demands is met, student sources said today.

They said the students' protest involved not only the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia but political conditions in the nation as well.

The student, Jan Palach, 21, remained in serious condition today with third degree burns on 85 per cent of his body, the news agency CTK said.

Palach, a history and political economics student, could not be questioned immediately as to exactly why he doused himself with gasoline near a fountain at the head of the square and then ran covered with flames into the street.

The student sources said the 10-point list of demands was the same as that adopted during a massive student sit-in strike in November. It included requests for personal liberties, press freedom and for observance of principles of sovereignty in international relations. The list did not specifically mention the invasion or the Soviet Union.

Vilibald Bezdicke, the new Czech minister of education, summoned the heads of all Prague universities and student leaders to an emergency meeting to discuss the incident.

A committee was appointed at the student-faculty meeting to investigate the circumstances surrounding the self-immolation, the first since the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20, 1968.

Eyewitnesses to the incident told the newspaper Prace that Palach left a note explaining his motive in his overcoat on the railing of the fountain. A clerk in a nearby shop said the burning student told her he left a letter in his briefcase. Police did not disclose the contents of any note.

Three Red Cosmonauts Return To Earth After Orbital Flights

MOSCOW (UPI)—Three Soviet cosmonauts returned today to a pinpoint landing on the wind swept steppes of central Asia aboard their spacecraft Soyuz 4 and were greeted by exuberant helicopter crews who told them to pull down their ear flaps against the minus 31 degree cold.

In space they had performed a number of historic firsts—the first linkup of manned spacecraft and the first transfer of crew from one spacecraft to another. Russians hailed their feat as the first actual space platform constructed in orbit.

The spaceship Soyuz 5 which had carried two of the cosmonauts aloft on Wednesday remained up with only Boris Volynov aboard. He completed his 35th revolution of the earth at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. CST) and informed sources said he would land Saturday.

Soyuz 4 rocketed aloft Tuesday with Vladimir Shatalov as its pilot. Soyuz 5 went up Wednesday with Volynov and the two men who walked through space to the other ship—Lt. Col. Yevgeny Khrunov and Alexei Yalyshev.

The soft landing aided by a huge orange parachute and braking rockets described as a "gunpowder engine" was right on target in sparsely inhabited country 25 miles from Karaganda, the industrial center of Kazakhstan, 1,700 miles from Moscow.

The Tass news agency said a patrolling helicopter spotted the huge orange dome of the parachute as it swayed toward earth through a frosty haze and another chopper was already on the ground as the spacecraft fired the gunpowder engine only a few yards above the earth and settled softly into the snow.

Sports Commissar Ivan Borisenko, pilots from the Baikonur Space Center and peasants from the nearby Boromyaki collective farm rushed up to shake the hands of the three cosmonauts. Yalyshev gasped in the frosty air: "Words can't say. Very glad... extremely happy."

The three then boarded a helicopter for a flight to Karaganda where they were put up in the Chaika Hotel. On the way they went through the "cosmic mail bag," reading newspaper comments on their flight.

Tass said the three men were "feeling well" and that Volynov in Soyuz 5 "is carrying out the operations envisaged by the flight program." He, too, is in good health, the report said.

Soyuz 4 rocketed aloft Tuesday with Shatalov its pilot, the 13th Soviet space traveler. Soyuz 5 followed Wednesday with three men aboard, two of whom made the transfer later

Former UT Student Tested by Detector

AUSTIN (UPI)—Clyde "Tink" Durbin Jr., 21, a former University of Texas student from Dallas, was charged today with murder today 50 miles apart from the drowning death of a nude coed and the pistol slaying of her date.

Durbin, a 6-2, 185-pound karate enthusiast, was charged in Austin before dawn with the shooting death of John Albert White, 21, a University of Texas student from Corpus Christi. He was shot in the back of the head and beaten on the head with a rock at a shaded picnic site near Austin Jan. 8.

Later in the day, Sheriff Wallace Riddell at Burnet, Tex., said he would file murder charges against Durbin in the death of Keitha Morris, 19, of White Deer, whose little body was found 65 miles north in Inks Lake 20 hours after White's death.

Travis County Sheriff T. O. Lang in Austin said Durbin was charged with murder after 15 hours of questioning. He said a tip from an Austin gun dealer led sheriff's deputies to the suspect's door early Thursday.

Durbin took two lie detector tests, Lang said.

The suspect's father, Clyde Durbin Sr. of Dallas, right, learned that his son had been charged with murder by a United Press International reporter who telephoned his home.

"Oh, for God's sake," the father said when he learned the news. "I don't know where we go from here."

Durbin said his son had been an engineering student at the university and was working "as a technical assistant in a nuclear lab there."

"I really don't know why he dropped out of school," the father said.

Sheriff Riddell said he would file murder charges against Durbin in the drowning of Miss Morris.

"Murder by Drowning" "I guess I'll file for murder by drowning," he said. "I'm fixing to file the case against this man (Durbin) right now."

Sheriff's deputies in Austin left the Department of Public Safety headquarters where the father said.

Phone Numbers In Pampa, Lefors To See Changes

Telephone numbers in Pampa and Lefors will change in August, 1969.

"Prefixes will change from two letters and one number to three numerals, and some other digits in Pampa—and Lefors telephone numbers also will change," said George Newberry, local manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

In Lefors, the prefix will convert from TErminAl 4 to 838. The fifth digit of some current telephone numbers will change from 4 to 9. For example TE4-2400 will become 835-2900.

"The last four digits of all other numbers in Lefors will remain unchanged," Newberry said.

In Pampa, the MOhawk prefix will be changed to 66, which is the same in dialing. However, there will be other number changes, Newberry noted.

Numbers in the MO 4-8xxx (xxx represents the last three current digits) group will become 665-8xxx. Numbers in the MO 4-xxxx group will change to 665-1xxx.

All other MO 4 prefixes will change to 669. The last four digits of those numbers will be unaffected.

"The conversion to all numbers is part of a nationwide program," Newberry said. "About 80 per cent of the nation's telephones already have all numerals."

"He said that all numbers increase by about 50 per cent the total of combinations that can be used for prefixes."

Newberry said the change of other digits in the telephone

School Plan May Affect District

Pampa School Board learned Thursday if the proposed state school consolidation plan goes into effect, all school districts of Gray County would be combined into one district.

The governor's Committee on Public School Education has set a timetable for beginning consolidation actions Jan. 1, 1971.

By that date, according to a report published by the committee, the State Board of Education should appoint a School District Reorganization Study Committee in each Texas County.

School Superintendent Dr. James F. Malone said this committee probably would not be made up of teachers or parents, but of a group of impartial county residents.

The committee would be expected to approve proposed district alignment for its county or propose an alternate pattern which would meet the state board's standards.

According to the committee's published report, the school districts of Lefors, Hopkins, Grandview, Alanreed, McLean and Pampa would be combined into one district. The total school population of the county, based on 1967-68 average daily attendance, is 6,157.

Television In Review

By RICK DE BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The ghost of "Sgt Bilko" dies hard. Ever since Phil Silver's huge television success as the wheeler-dealer non com, the networks have kept trying to reincarnate the formula in one way or another. "McHale's Navy" was one offspring. And now we have "The Queen and J," which arrived on CBS-TV Thursday night.

think we ever have to worry about having him show up in the latest discotheque apparel. Appearing with King Thursday night, in a sort of comedy ensemble—with no big, fancy introductions—were Tony Randall, Shirley Jones, Leslie Uggans, Jack Carter, Nipsey

This latest half-hour situation comedy, however, deals not with military service, but with the crew of an aging ocean liner that is about to be sold for scrap. As the latest offshoot of "Bilko," there is a bustling, sneaky pursuer who is determined to save the ship—chiefly to protect the great racket he has built up in his job, in which he has arranged to have lucrative fringe benefits. The pursuer is played by Larry Storch.

Retirement Income Credit Is Tax-Saver

As the latest offshoot of Bilko's nemesis (the commanding officer played by Paul Ford), we have, on the ocean liner, a suspicious first officer, portrayed by Billy De Wolfe. Aside from the fact that Storch and De Wolfe are hardly a match for Silvers and Ford, there is the added obstacle that the script of "The Queen and J" is entirely without wit.

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is time to think about the income tax again. This is Chapter Eight of a Series reviewing the regulations, with emphasis on taking advantage of all exclusions and deductions legally due you.

Thursday night also brought the always-welcome Alan King in an hour NBC-TV special of contemporary comedy via songs and sketches. Alan King is not only a very funny and wise man, but has the good grace, in a rather graceless age, to keep working in a tuxedo. I don't range of the surcharge before the retirement income credit, but among those exempt from the surcharge after credit.

NEARLY 70, but silent-film star Gloria Swanson is still attractive, stylish and svelte. Here she is during a recent Moscow visit.

Russel and Linda Lavin, a very high type supporting cast. Randall may very well be the most outstanding all-purpose supporting comedian in the universe.

Under the guidance of producer Stanley Prager, one of the real talents in show business, the King special moved very quickly through its hour, interspersing some "Laugh-In" style fast bits with the other sketches. Yet the dry, often pertinent monologues and commentary by King gave the hour its own definite tone, an adult one.

He took off after the airlines again, this time for that ad in which businessmen trying to get out of town are urged to take their wives along. A cruel commercial, that one. And there was a skit on airline entertainment.

Man Leaves Car Before Train Strikes

Robert M. Akers of Pampa was breathing today, but probably just barely. Akers, 2109 N. Wells, jumped from his stalled auto just in time Thursday evening before his car was struck by a train. The Cabot employe was on his way home when his vehicle stalled on the tracks which run alongside U.S. 60 near the Cabot plant west of Pampa. Akers said he tried for about a minute to start the car again but his attempts failed. "I had plenty of time to get out of the car and get to safety," Akers said. "But I'm still pretty nervous."

Engineer on the Amarillo to Chicago Santa Fe freight was L.W. Urban of Amarillo. Highway patrol trooper Paul Gieser investigated the accident.

(Continued From Page 1) beaten out by a street control officer. The incident occurred as the Czechoslovak Communist party central committee was meeting to discuss the current political situation. Party sources speculated the student incident and an anti-Soviet meeting of 1,000 youths Wednesday would be discussed. Eighteen speakers at Thursday's session of the Central Committee meeting approved a proposal that parliament president Josef Smrkovsky be replaced. Gustav Husak, chairman of the Slovak Communist Party, was the first to demand that the nation's new federal government parliament be headed by a Slovak. Smrkovsky is a Czech. But the real reason for the change was Smrkovsky's reformist views, political sources said. Smrkovsky had refused to abandon the reforms even since the Aug. 21 Warsaw Pact invasion.

Bond was set at $500 today by Justice of the Peace E. L. Anderson for Mary N. Power, 36, of 616 N. Gray, charged with passing a worthless check in

Accident

(Continued From Page 1) to report them for the full year," Conner said. There were 49 private property accidents reported and investigated in 1968. During last year Pampa police investigated 665 accidents in which one person was killed and 131 persons were injured. In 1967 two persons were killed, but only $90.91 higher than in 1967. In 1968 property damage was estimated at $213,839.20. "This property damage is always just an estimate and it might be a little higher, actually, since the estimates are usually a little low," the chief said. The going-home hours after work and the eating hours of lunch time were the two leaders in times when accidents occur. There were 71 collisions between 4-5 p.m., and 52 between noon and 1 p.m., with accidents happening between 5-6 p.m. Agewise, the young people, from starting drivers through age 19, had the most accidents—289 of them—with ages 20 through 24 next with 149. And surprisingly, the lady-type driver had only 401 accidents in Pampa in 1968 while males accounted for 724. The ladies, in fact, had 10 fewer accidents in 1968 than in 1967. Saturday saw the most accidents happen, 123, while Friday was next with 109. Failure-to-yield-right-of-way was the cause of most accidents, 146, with speeding a close second with 119. Drinking contributed to 22 accidents. There was a decline in the number of accidents contributed to drinking and Conner cited good work by his officers as the reason. "Our boys are working the bars better and spotting some of these people. And if they are in no condition to drive, we stop them before they have a chance," the chief said. "Too, we are able to work the traffic better now and our winter has been milder than it was in 1967. We've had only a couple of slick days," Conner said.

Murder

(Continued From Page 1) lie detector tests were run on Durbin early today with the suspect to "get some other evidence." They returned about 2 a.m. and one deputy carried a bundle of clothing under his arm. Lang refused to say if it was Miss Morris' missing clothing. Searchers near the lake found only one of her shoes and an earring. Additional Evidence "He has recovered additional evidence for us and has been charged," Lang said. The charge was filed shortly after the deputies returned before Justice of the Peace Bob Kuhn. Kuhn warned Durbin of his constitutional rights and denied bond. Lang said early today Durbin was completing a statement written in longhand and had not asked for an attorney. Miss Morris' neck was broken and she had been choked with a soft instrument, an autopsy showed, but indicated she was still alive when dumped into the lake. There was no evidence of rape. Lang said, "It is not known if he (Durbin) knew them."

Durbin, a karate enthusiast, is 6-foot-2, and weighs approximately 185 pounds. He is nicknamed "Tink." Authorities said he has no previous criminal record. "There is still some other evidence to be gathered," Lang said. Durbin enrolled at the university in 1965 and attended until 1968. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Durbin of Dallas. He drove to the sheriff's office in a light-colored, late model Volkswagen, similar in description to a car sought since early in the investigation. Lang said blood was found in the car but he was "not at liberty to discuss" the laboratory tests run on it. He said ballistics tests on a .38 caliber pistol which "entered the case" Wednesday had not been completed. He also refused to discuss a motive in connection with the case. Miss Morris was the daughter of a school principal in White Deer, Tex., a small town in the Panhandle. White was the son of a prominent Corpus Christi, Tex. attorney. School records showed Durbin had been a member of the university's karate club. Unidentified informant An unidentified informant reported seeing a car similar to

Police Hire New Officer

Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner announced today the hiring of a new officer to bring the total number of policemen to 18, only one short of the allowed number in the city. Jimmy Earl Woods, 28, of 401 Lowry, began his duties on the morning shift today. Woods was formerly with the Amarillo Police Department for six years, four of them as a vice squad detective. He, his wife and two children have been living in Denver the past year where officer Woods worked as a security officer for Montgomery Ward.

Man Pleads Guilty To Enticing Minor

Junior Davis, 38, of Borger, pleaded guilty Thursday afternoon in Justice of the Peace E. L. Anderson's court to a charge of enticing a minor from legal custody and was fined $54. The offense, a misdemeanor, was filed Tuesday in the justice of the peace court by the mother of a three-year-old girl. The child was taken from a house here Monday afternoon by Davis and another man, who told the mother's friend they were going to get the child a soft drink. Mrs. Charlene Mackey telephoned the sheriff's office a short time later to report the incident. The two men were later picked up in Canadian and jailed until brought back to Pampa. The girl was reported to be unharmed by a doctor who examined her.

Autopsy

(Continued From Page 1) study and an exhaustive investigation that Kennedy was killed by one man alone, Lee Harvey Oswald, without outside help or any evidence of a plot. Oswald was killed in the Dallas jail before he could be brought to trial or for that matter, questioned at great length. At the request of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, the President's widow, the autopsy material was sealed in the U.S. archives at least until 1971. The only persons known to have examined the material prior to Clark's announcement Thursday night were Navy doctors who performed the autopsy, naval medical personnel who took the X-rays and photographs at Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital and some members of the Warren Commission. Release of the report was prompted by Garrison's continuing investigation. As a result of Garrison's court case against Jack Shaw, accused as a conspirator in the assassination, the man in charge of the national archives, Dr. James B. Rhoads, has been ordered to appear in court. Garrison obtained a court order directing Rhoads to tell the court why he should not deliver up the autopsy reports to the trial in New Orleans.

Two Sentenced For Passing Of Counterfeit Bills

Two men arrested here Oct. 19 on charges stemming from passing bogus $20 bills were sentenced in U.S. District Court in Amarillo yesterday. John Richard Flores, 22, of Liberal, Kan., and Clyde Tillman Durham, Jr., 35, of Pampa, pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and passing counterfeit bills and were each assessed five-year probationary sentences and $500 fines. Two other men arrested on the charge, Harold K. Wares, 29, and Willis F. Whitley, 37, both of Liberal, Kan., are serving five-year sentences in Leavenworth penitentiary. The four were arrested here within an hour and a half after the Gray County sheriff's office received information that the bogus bills were being passed in the south part of the city. They were charged with passing as true false instruments, but were later arraigned before a district commissioner in federal court in Amarillo and charged with counterfeiting, a federal offense. A total of 17 counterfeit $20 bills were recovered.

Woman Escapes Serious Injury In Accident Here

A 24-year-old Pampa woman, Carolyn Sue Watkins, 703 N. Frost, was treated and released from Highland General Hospital Thursday night following a two-car collision at the intersection of Hobart and Wilks Sts. According to the police investigation report, the woman was traveling north on S. Hobart and a car driven by Charles Wayne Jackson, 21, 1108 S. Dwight, was traveling the same direction on Hobart in the turn lane. According to the report, the Jackson vehicle struck the left side of the Watkins car when Jackson attempted to make a left turn onto Wilks street. Damage to the Watkins car was estimated at $600 and to the Jackson vehicle at $500. Officers Norman Neece and George Hendricks investigated the collision.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Socialization and the Schools

Are you, perchance, one of those old fogies who persists in believing that the primary function of schooling is to teach the student to read and comprehend the written word; to write a legible hand; to add two plus two and get four with a fair degree of consistency; to develop at least a nodding acquaintance with history, the configuration of the planet on which we live, literature, the arts, the sciences; to reason from principles to logical conclusions; and, hopefully, to have a high degree of respect for economic and moral truths?

Does the foregoing pretty well describe your idea of the proper role of the school and is it in expectation of it performing that role with respect to your children that you turn over to the system a goodly portion of your earnings?

If your answer is "yes," get ready for a shock. For those in control of the system increasingly regard the school as a means of turning human beings into political animals; unquestioning, obedient worshippers at the throne of the Almighty State.

Asked to assess the school system of this country, Robert D. Hess of Stanford University gave his views, as one of five contributing authors in the article "Political Socialization in the Schools," published in the Summer 1962 issue of "Harvard Educational Review." The following excerpts from his findings are both interesting and informative:

In its formal meaning, socialization is the process of transmitting stable patterns of behavior and values and of grooming the young for filling established adult roles in the society. . . . the role of the educational establishment in the socializing of political values and orientations. . . .

In addition to the task of conveying information about the political systems and processes, the school also acts to promote and teach political values and traditions. In this sense, political socialization in the school is a form of political indoctrination, designed to perpetuate the dominant values of the present system. . . .

"Empirical evidence indicates that in the United States, young children view the nation, government and its representatives, and other elements of the political system as wise, powerful, and benevolent. . . . The image of the United States, then, is one of a country which is an effective force for world peace, in which the laws are fair, justice prevails, people who break laws are usually apprehended, and what goes on in government is all for the best."

"This is the nature of the socialization that children receive both in the home and at school. Accompanied by feelings of strong attachment and loyalty, this image of the nation is designed to encourage pride in one's country and a desire to maintain it and support its policies. . . . This view of the United States and its government is both distorted and incomplete, and in the past few years these inaccurate representations have been seriously challenged, particularly by college students and other young adults who have recently been through the socializing experience of the schools. . . .

In short, much of the political socialization that takes place at elementary and high school levels is lacking in candor, is superficial with respect to basic issues, is cognitively fragmented, and produces little grasp of the implications of principles and their application to new situations."

Essentially, that is what this newspaper has been saying for many years.

The Substance in Man's Dreams

Dreams are more real than reality.

Orville Wright, long years after he had seen airplanes become an everyday thing, when the Atlantic had been turned into a puddle that was flown across routinely, wrote that what he remembered best was simply lying in bed at night as a young man, trying to imagine what it would possibly be like to fly through the air.

Men no longer dream about flying, or even about what it would be like to soar into space beyond the earth to another celestial body. It has happened. "Yes," said James Lovell of the Apollo 8 crew, "I stepped into my back yard, looked up at the moon and couldn't believe I'd been there."

We now know that the moon is not made of green cheese, or if it is cheese, that it is a gray and unappetizing kind. "The moon is so cold and lifeless," added Lovell, "that I'm curious how all the songwriters could refer to it in such romantic terms."

Even the stars are unimpressive from the vantage point of space. They don't twinkle as they do when seen from the earth. "They're either there or they're not," said William Anders.

The astronauts related that they became fixated on the sight of the earth as it receded from them. "Even out at the moon," said Frank Borman, "the deep blue of the earth is the only color you see anywhere you look in the universe."

No one, of course, expected to find life on the moon; no one expects to find any on any of the other planets that men will eventually visit, except possibly some elementary plant forms on Mars. And you can't communicate with a lichen.

The earth is indeed an oasis in space, as Lovell described it, and the only one at least in our solar system. But now, even our fond imaginings that there might be thinking beings elsewhere in another star system have been bruised by the finding of University of Colorado scientists after a two-year study of unidentified flying objects that there is "no direct evidence whatever of a convincing nature for the claim that any UFOs represent spacecraft visiting earth from another civilization." They recommend that no further money be wasted on the inquiry.

Apollo 8 reduced the moon from an object that stirred man's romantic imagination for centuries to a mere scientific curiosity even as the Wrights' flying machine has been reduced to a set of mathematical formulae. Later space projects will do the same with the rest of our planetary neighbors. In this sense, man's greatest adventure may be man's greatest disillusionment.

That is why UFOlogists have attacked the Colorado report with such vehemence and why those who believe in flying saucers will continue to do so, despite what the laws of relativity say about the impossibility of interstellar travel. They have to.

There always has to be something more to know beyond what we know, something more to do beyond what we have done, something more to explore beyond what we have explored. Man cannot live without his dreams.

—Don Oakly

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Aristotle and Jacqueline

ATHENS, GREECE: Last week we discussed Greek affairs of state. Now let us talk about the state of Greek affairs — such as those of one Aristotle Onassis. Think not what Onassis can do for the Mediterranean but what the Mediterranean can do for Onassis — and for America's most adored woman, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis.

Most Americans have been denied the exquisite pleasure of fully appreciating the nature and accomplishments of this man, Onassis. It's not enough to dismiss the matter by saying if Nixon can run with a Greek, why can't Jackie? Jackie's Onassis is no ordinary Greek, folks. Like Jacqueline, he is a legend in his time. (The dictionary defines legend as a popular myth of recent origin.)

"Onassis, so great he is even above country, once said his 'favorite country is the one that grants maximum immunity from taxes, trade restrictions and unreasonable regulation.' He puts most of his vast fleet of ships under a 'flag of convenience' (mainly Liberian and Panamanian) to take advantage of minimum fees, restraints and taxes. Isn't it ecstatic that America's former 'First Lady' is now the high queen of all the high seas?"

Aristotle Onassis started his career at 17 in a strange land. So did Jackie. Since he makes most of his money on the high seas and not in any country, why should he pay taxes? He could not very well pay taxes to the high seas, not until the United Nations takes them over, anyhow. The Kennedys live out their foundations, the Onassis live on their yachts, and the hoi polloi pay taxes. Onassis' main home is — or at least has been — the "Christina," a $3 million palace longer than a football field. At 25 Onassis had made his first million. So had Jackie. He has traded in tramps — steamers that is — ever since.

Aristotle Socrates Onassis controls or owns a major interest in 70 corporations. His 100-vessel fleet fly countless different flags: in peace and in war, and often the flag of opposing nations. For Aristotle wants "piece" above all — a piece of the action.

Americans have always loved fairy stories, and no fairy story ever surpassed the fictitious life of America's Jackie. The midnight for our Cinderella having come and gone and been accounted for, we find that the new Prince, coach, pumpkins, footmen and floating palaces were paid for partly by our people, who at the time had never even heard of the Prince.

Onassis built a large part of his fortune with American ships given to him at a tiny fraction of their original cost. He made a killing during World War II. What are wars for, except to re-establish boundaries and make killings? In 1953, under a Republican administration, of course, the U.S. Government charged Onassis with conspiracy to defraud in connection with his purchase of some surplus ships. Criminal charges were dropped when he paid a "penalty" of $7 million. But his gain was much more. Onassis has been penalized again and again but each time he makes a gain and a gain.

Way back in 1963, at a time when the wife of the soon-to-be assassinated President of the United States happened to be visiting Mr. Onassis aboard his yacht, an Ohio Congressman, Oliver P. Bolton, placed some of the facts about our hero in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD: "We are aware, I am sure," the Congressman said, "of the history of the relationship which Aristotle Onassis had with our government. . . . Two congressional investigations have been conducted into his schemes and methods. One Attorney General took him to court where he was found guilty on over 10 counts, fined some $10 million, and forced to divest himself of certain stock and assets."

"These are all matters of history. But how many know of our government's present dealings with the interests of Onassis? Apparently no one in government. There have been some hard working reporters who tried to put all the pieces together, before the information doors were closed to them, and they were unable to put the puzzle together."

More on the "puzzle" next week.

Pueblo Boners Not Bucher's—Data Points Higher Up

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Navy can expect lots more criticism as a result of North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo, but few of the brickbats will be tossed at Cdr. Lloyd Bucher and his 81-man crew.

That is the present reading at the Capitol, where new information on the seizure is being circulated now that members of the crew are telling their stories to Navy authorities.

Data now available on the incident suggests that there were a number of errors of omission or commission. Generally speaking, however, they do not appear to have been made on board the beleaguered ship but further up the Navy chain of command.

To use an overworked Pentagon word, it appears no Navy "scenario" ever accurately envisioned a determined attempt to seize one of the lightly armed electronic spy ships which cruise close to unfriendly shores. To a considerable degree, Bucher and his crew seem to have been the victims of mistakes made by others.

One qualification must be made in that appraisal, however. No assessment has yet been made of the statements and "confessions" made by some Pueblo crew members and the circumstances under which they were extracted. That will be a central topic in the forthcoming Navy court of inquiry.

For the present, these comments can be made:

ORDERS — Bucher's basic orders, drafted by his Navy superiors, were ambiguous. It's clear that the Pueblo skipper was NOT ordered to scuttle his ship rather than let it fall into Communist hands.

Bucher WAS under orders, however, to take all possible steps to prevent capture by the Communists of the Pueblo's secret electronic equipment. He had to resolve this conflict on short notice under the heaviest of pressures.

In resolving it, Bucher may have read a hint of non-belligerence in the portion of his orders directing that the ship's 50-caliber machine guns be kept covered. Navy authorities insist, however, that this proviso was designed to make the Pueblo a service vessel and not a warship in its day-to-day cruising.

INSTRUCTIONS — Once the North Korean patrol craft began to harass the Pueblo, Bucher's radio reports to shore headquarters brought him no useful instructions. Informants who have studied the radio exchanges say Bucher got no help.

In contrast, according to these informants, the senior North Korean officer was being prodded, in radio exchanges, to get on with the boarding and seizure of the Pueblo. "Everyone was in the act," says one knowledgeable source, "but there was no one who could make a decision, right on up to the Pentagon and the White House. I do not know what would have happened if it had been missiles fired at the United States."

COVER — The response would have been the arrival of U.S. fighter planes, but none were then stationed at bases in South Korea and none had been assigned to cover the Pueblo's mission. The Communists had air superiority unless and until U.S. planes could be shuttled from Japan. When the time came, that could not be done.

EQUIPMENT — Contrary to some published reports, efforts were made to destroy some of the ship's sophisticated radar and electronic gear with explosive devices. These efforts were unsuccessful, however, and Pueblo crewmen then tried to do the job with axes.

There was not time to complete that sort of job, and it is now clear that secret materials were seized for analysis by Russian experts.

Navy spokesmen will face intensive questioning on these points in about a month. That is when House and Senate Armed Services Committees will begin their annual hearings on U.S. military posture.

One participant in the forthcoming hearings, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., has already staked out some lines of questioning for Navy witnesses. In the first place, Russell believes the Pueblo should have been scuttled.

The Navy is now reported to be studying a plan under which the crew could prepare to abandon such a ship, from a protected main deck area, while a large explosive charge was detonated below the water line.

Russell also believes air cover should be provided for missions such as the Pueblo's. He has said the Navy should use a more sophisticated selection process in choosing commanding officers for its spy ships.

The latter statement by Russell has been interpreted as a rap at Bucher. The senator explains, however, that he thinks the Navy should carefully assign to such sensitive missions the officers who are best qualified and trained to conduct them and to risk a sudden confrontation with the Communists.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION:—My history teacher seems to favor "guaranteed national income" as the solution to eradicating poverty. The logical conclusion of a guaranteed income is that if the government takes more and more money from hard-working tax payers and gives it to people who won't work, the middle class will eventually stop working and get in on a government handout, too. She says, however, that the middle class would not be content to "live on a minimum handout and therefore would continue to support the lazy and everything would be fine. How would you reply to this?

ANSWER: There are even some so-called "conservatives" who are advocating the idea of a guaranteed national income or negative income tax as a substitute for all other welfare programs. Milton Friedman, Chicago economist, is one of the leaders in this group. However, it should be pointed out, when politicians adopt new welfare programs, they do not repeal the older ones. They merely add a new patch to the patchwork of welfare programs, and with it add another layer of tax-eating bureaucracy to the already top-heavy pile.

It is true that some individuals will not be content to stay at the minimum handout level. Some will be content to do so. Friedman's suggestion is that an individual who earns some of his way not suffer a total deduction from the amount granted from others' taxes, and that he therefore would be willing to try to earn some of his own expenses. Again, this would be true with some persons and would not affect the individual who is content barely to exist on the guaranteed handout.

Judging from past experience the recipients soon would be stirred up into demanding higher and higher guaranteed incomes until the figure became so high, that an increasing number of individuals would quit working and rely on the dole.

The trouble with a guaranteed income-negative income tax idea is the same as all other welfare schemes—they do nothing to encourage individuals to be self-reliant producers. Rather than continue to pile up more and more welfare programs, what is needed is to follow the advice of another Chicago economist, Yale Brozen, who proposes to eliminate minimum wage laws and other legislation which makes it impossible for marginal employers to hire marginal workers who cannot produce enough to earn the minimum wage.

If political restrictions on production were wiped out there would be much greater chance for workers to be employed in various endeavors to try to satisfy the unlimited wants of

N.Y. City 'A Terminal Case'

By PAUL HARVEY

We should all look to New York City as an example — a horrible example.

Its problems there are on their way here.

All the ugly ills which inevitably derive from unplanned growth and crowding now threaten the very life of New York City. Indeed, the respected financial publication Barron's calls it "a terminal case."

For all of Mayor John Lindsay's efforts to create the image of a "fun city," it's not much fun.

Its population has not grown in 25 years. Its crime rate has. Last year, two murders a day, four forcible rapes per day, more than 100 robberies per day.

There are a million New Yorkers on welfare. One in eight New Yorkers is living off the taxes of the others — and the big city's welfare rolls continue to increase 20,000 a month.

The cost of supporting all these welfare recipients is almost $2 billion a year, has increased almost half a billion in just the past year.

Gainfully employed New Yorkers are groaning under the heaviest tax burden in the nation and it's not enough.

New relief recipients in New York City have formed their own union. The New Left and militant blacks apparently intend to make their demands so exorbitant that they can cause the whole welfare system to break down.

Doubtless, some of their misleaders see this as a chance to take over the city.

New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Mayor Lindsay insist that you must rescue their city. They say the financial crisis is of such dimensions that the federal government must take over the welfare load. That means YOU.

While New York City's politicians have been trying to buy their way out of trouble, a noteworthy alternative has been tested and proved in Detroit.

Campaigning for President, Richard Nixon said "providing jobs is an essential first step to solving the problems of the slums. . . getting the people of the slums into private enterprise and off the government dole."

Historically, we considered about 2 per cent of Americans to be unemployable. The urgent demands of the Big War showed us that most of those could be gainfully employed.

In April, 1968, General Motors undertook training and employment of unemployables. GM president James Roche said he hoped to have 13,000 of them working within 12 months. Within eight months he had 21,000 of them working! And working well. Their job retention rate is almost identical to that of other workers.

For New York to get its one-eight freeloaders back to work is perhaps not the whole answer to the Big City's problems, but certainly it is what Mr. Nixon has called "an essential first step."

Rival Reds' Joint Distrust Opens Way for U.S. Coup

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The U.S. government should not let the war in Vietnam or the Middle East crisis, crucially important as they are, blind it to the most unusual situation developing in the Communist opportunity for diplomacy is now in here, but today there is deep, almost hysterical, worry in Moscow that Mao Tse-tung's Communist China and the United States might reach an understanding.

In Moscow, Red Chinese aides are being reviled with contempt and fury for aims so "traitorous" to the "socialist camp." The same Soviet government sources suggest that what's needed instead is closer relations between Moscow and Washington. Apparently, this would not be a betrayal of "socialist" principles.

It's known also that there is deep concern in Communist China that the United States and the Soviet Union may be heading for some sort of an accord.

In Peking, Kremlin representatives are being attacked as traitors to the socialist world for seeking to "ally" themselves with the United States.

But, as is now well-known, Mao himself has made proposals for talks with the United States in Warsaw aiming at an agreement on "the five principles of peaceful co-existence."

Mao has been known to tell friends that eventually relations with the United States must be bettered.

The mutual fear, in both Peking and Moscow, that the United States might make a deal with the other, would seem made to order for tough, realistic American negotiations.

These U.S. diplomatic moves would aim at making Communist aggression more difficult and at lessening the chances for a nuclear war.

Such negotiations would be exceedingly difficult and most frustrating. The Russians and the Communist Chinese would be out to get what they could, while giving next to nothing. They would attempt to trap the United States into accepting their proposals in exchange for hope that this would lead to a better world. That is, Moscow and Peking would attempt to secure American actions in return for Communist promises.

have to have ironclad procedures that would not depend on faith in Communist promises.

But with this understanding of the realities of dealing with Mao and Leonid Brezhnev, this opportunity for talks must be explored. It could be the opening the United States has sought for two decades.

The migrants are getting ready to leave Washington, about 2,200 of them. They are what is known in politics as "the expendables." But the little fellow ain't got nothing to cheer about. There are still 3 million gov't employees that can't be pushed out, come Nixon or high water.

There's a saying that Presidents and Secretaries may come and go, but the federal worker stays forever. You see, in every agency there is an assistant secretary who hovers over his chicks like a nothe hen. Every president runs head on into these mothers and collide with civil-service regulations. They get stymied before they start.

The only way you can get any of these guys out is by congressional action. O, it has been tried; in fact the first one to make a stab at it was Thomas Jefferson way back in 1800 when he found out John Adams had appointed a batch of judges for life.

But of the 2200 who must go, there is already a mass exodus as they turn the calendar and see that their number is up. Four-hundred of them left even before Mr. Richnick announced his cabinet members.

Washington had a lot of Birds around for a while, but they didn't seem to make much headway on the worms.

Wit and Whimsy

A rural-reared old man on his first trip to the city, wandered into a hotel lobby. He saw an old lady step into one of the elevators, and disappear. A moment later, the descending elevator door opened and out stepped a beautiful young girl.

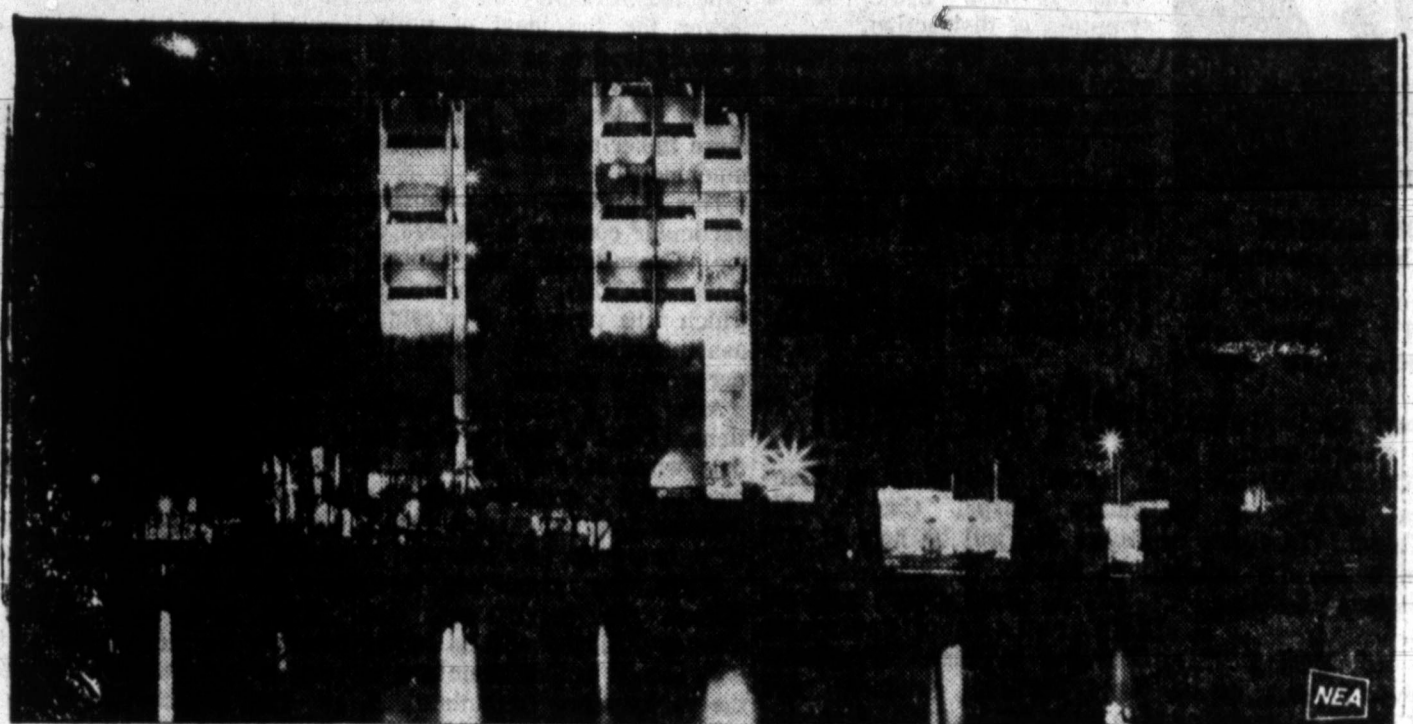

"My gosh," he exclaimed, "I should have brought the old woman with me."

If you feel that you have no faults, that makes one more.

When the lady who was making out the application came to the little square headed "Age," she did not hesitate. She simply wrote: "Atomic."

BY DAY the structures on Long Beach's oil islands appear to be ultramodern apartment buildings, complete with balconies and landscaped grounds.

BY NIGHT the flood-lit Astronaut Islands are a fairyland of light. Waterfalls, also lighted, add to the shimmering wonderland effect.

"THROUGH THE SOUND BARRIER" is the title of this work by Asmundur Sveinsson, one of Iceland's greatest contemporary sculptors. It stands in front of a hotel in Reykjavik, the island's capital.

Washington Window

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the Senate, there are choice committees, less-than-choice committees, less-than-less choice committees and the Ethics Committee.

At the start of each Congress, the members of each party in the Senate play a version of the with committees

Because everything in the Senate's inner workings is based on seniority, the prize the senators who have been Mating game, pairing senators around the longest.

Therefore, a senator with enough seniority will get, to fill a vacancy on the Foreign relations, Appropriations, Finance, or Armed Services committees.

A less-senior senator or a newcomer can dream of these committees and then with good grace (bad grace is bad form) get a spot on the almost-as-good committees—Banking, Judiciary, Agriculture, Post Office and Civil Service, and Public Works committees.

Then there's the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct, which falls into a special category all its own. Nobody wants to get on it and at least two of the five remaining members want off.

Picked by Leadership
Unlike all other committees, the members are not assigned by the Democratic and Republican caucuses. They are picked by the leadership—Sen. Mike Mansfield for the Democrats and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen for the Republicans.

There have been easier talent hunts. The Ethics Committee was created in the wake of the Bobby Baker scandal but it took months and months for the leadership to convince six senators they should serve.

The line-up finally had Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, vice-chairman, and Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., James B. Pearson, R-Kans., Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Mike Monroney, D-Okla.

Monroney's problems — at least in relation to the committee—were solved by the electorate which chose not to send him back for another term.

McCarthy and Pearson are both on record as wanting to give up their seats. Stennis, Cooper, and Bennett appear content enough to stay or at least not rebellious enough to get off.

McCarthy never had any great fondness for the work and, even during deliberations of the Dodd case, he would absent himself from time to time.

Pearson, on the other hand, was an active committee member.

The Kansas senator feels that membership on the committee should be rotated. He fears that a senator who stays too long on the Ethics Committee could become rigid in his views.

So far, at least, Pearsons on, not off. There were no takers among Republicans for his seat and he apparently has agreed to stay—for a while. The Monroney seat and possibly the one occupied by McCarthy, will have to be filled.

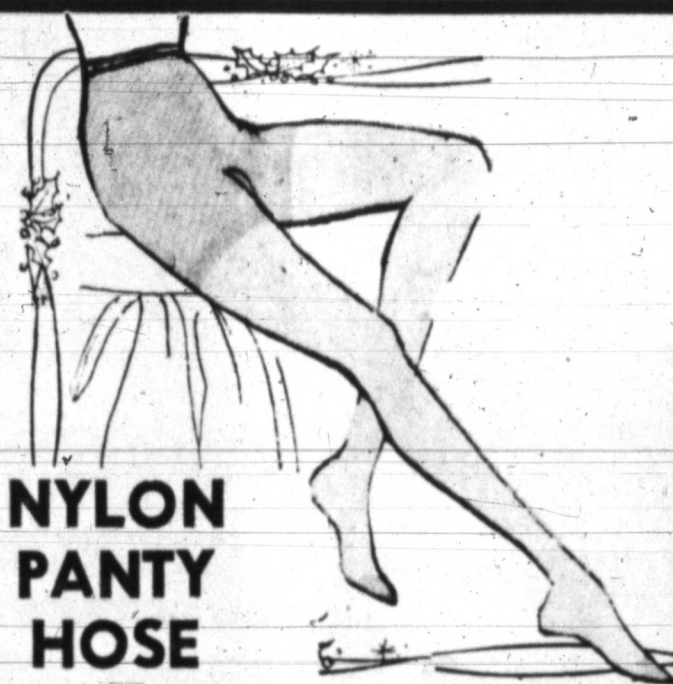

The easy way out would be for no senator to get into trouble.

Ecumenical Movement Slowing Down in Denominational Unity

By LOUIS CASSELS

Protestants and Catholics around the world will observe their annual week of prayer for Christian unity Jan. 18-25. This period of joint prayer is at once a testimonial to how far Christians have come down the road to reunion, and a reminder of how far they still have to go.

After 10 years of dramatic progress, during which Catholics and Protestants moved from a state of cold war to at least the threshold of brotherhood, the ecumenical movement seems to be slowing down.

This may be a necessary and constructive phase—a pause for consolidation of gains.

But it also could be a symptom of distraction.

Catholics are preoccupied with internal dissension over birth control and the exercise of authority in the church.

Protestants are embroiled in controversy among themselves over what role the church should play in trying to remedy the ills of the world through direct political and social action.

Much of the energy and dedication formerly channeled into the ecumenical movement is now being diverted into these intramural disputes.

The ecumenical movement also is being hurt to some extent by the spirit of anti-institutionalism which is endemic among the younger clergy today.

Many of the younger clergy educated young people today.

and laymen, who might be expected to display the greatest fervor for the ideal of unity, actually tend to be disdainful of moves toward organizational union, which they regard as mere tinkering with institutional machinery.

This attitude is causing particular concern to leaders of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU), the forum in which 10 major Protestant denominations are trying to agree on a merger.

After seven years of negotiations, COCU is approaching the day when it can offer to its constituent denominations a detailed plan for coming together in one great new church.

While the plan has been difficult to work out, the greater difficulty will be selling it to the 25 million members of the participating denominations. Recognizing that middle-aged and elderly people naturally tend to shy away from any change in familiar ways, COCU leaders feel the only hope for putting the merger across lies in enlisting the enthusiastic support of the younger clergy and laity who are receptive to change. Thus far, however, there is no indication that the proposed merger is generating much excitement among the young.

While indifferent toward the redrawing of institutional lines, many young people are intensely concerned with establishing warm human relationships with members of other denominations. They have found that Christians can love and respect each other, work together toward common goals, and attain a strong sense of community without wearing the same label.

A large number of them also are convinced that the urgent need right now is to renew the church, all branches of it, with each person working at the task of renewal in the particular corner in which he happens to find himself. Reunion, they believe, can afford to wait on renewal, and will tend to follow it quite naturally.

The founding fathers of the ecumenical movement saw it the other way around. They looked upon unity as a source of new vitality.

What both views have in common is the intuition that reunion and renewal go together. The church can't achieve one without the other.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1852, the butchers of Frankfurt, Germany, first made smoked and spiced sausages in the shape of dachshunds, popularly called frankfurters. But the hot dog in a roll is an American innovation, the World Almanac says. In 1857, Charles Feltman, who had a pie wagon in Coney Island, N.Y., successfully met the competition of inns offering hot sandwiches when he cooked up the idea of selling hot sausages wrapped in rolls.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Progressive Baptist Church

Scripture Matthew 24:42; "Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

If we ever get to Europe, we must cross the Ocean. If we ever get to California, we must scale the mountain. So there is some "must" in the Christian religion. Jesus said to Nicodemus, you must be born again. In this Scripture, Matthew 24:42; Jesus said, Watch. This must or should be practiced by every christian, every day.

W. — We must watch our "WALK!" Romans 8:1-4. John 1:7.

A. — We will watch our action. This means if we are Christians, it must and will be seen in our action. Jesus said the tree is Known by its fruit. A good tree brings forth good fruits. We are lights in the world, we must shine, not for men to see us, but Jesus in our lives.

T. — We must watch our tongue. Psalms. 34:13. James 1:26-27.

C. — We must watch our Company. Psalm 1:1-3. Acts 20:31-32.

H. — We must watch our heart. Prov. 4:23. Romans 10:10. Mark 12:30-33.

Thousands and thousands of people are watching to see what country will land on the moon first. It is not who will land on the moon first, but who will come from beyond the moon, we should be concerned about. May I repeat to you the words of Jesus Christ: "Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh. What I say unto you all; Watch! Watch! Watch!

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

While Sweden's recognition of Hanoi and the elevation of its consulate in Havana to embassy rank should not have come as any surprise, neither could be expected to bring joy to Swedish businessmen.

They long have feared that Sweden's outspoken disapproval of U.S. policy in Vietnam would affect Swedish trade with the United States, which has been going up at the rate of 15 to per cent per year.

"Sweden cannot be the conscience of the world," Baron Carl De Geer, vice president of Stockholm's Enskilda Bank, one of Sweden's largest, told this correspondent on a recent visit to Sweden.

Fearful of the effect on American public opinion of statements by some Swedish politicians and violent anti-U.S. demonstrations of Swedish youth, a large trade group took the unusual step of warning the government that Sweden had large business interests in the United States which should be remembered.

Of these leftist youths another business man remarked, "All they know of the United States is 'Bonnie and Clyde.' They don't remember that the United States saved Europe first from Hitlerism and then from Stalinism."

The reference was to the film which portrayed the two mid-western desperados and the picture of a violent America which grew in European minds after the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Another businessman said that in the United States he was grateful to be taken for a Dutchman and thus escape the onus of the "hate-America" campaign.

As for the politicians, they declare that neutrality as an official policy for Sweden is one thing and neutrality in sentiment is another. And their sentiments about Vietnam are distinctly not neutral.

Most outspoken of these is Sweden's young minister of education who is touted as the likely successor to Tage Erlander, Socialist premier for the last 22 years and expected soon to retire.

He is 43-year-old Olaf Palmer who in 1968 aroused U.S. anger by marching in a demonstration which also included a high-up representative of the Hanoi. Palme has been accused of flirting with the anti-U.S. left win votes.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For years her this winter. What would you several of us women in the neighborhood have had coffee together regularly. A newcomer has joined our group and she is our problem.

Abby, you know how women are. They talk about different things, and people, and so on. Well, nobody can say a word about anything without Mrs. Newcomer butting in with, "Were you there? Can you prove it? From where do you get your information?"

This puts a crimp in our coffee parties as no one wants to go on the witness stand and take an oath on a Bible that what she says is gospel.

We would like to drop Mrs. Newcomer from our group as she is not our kind. But how?

DEAR OLD TIMERS: I doubt if you will be troubled with Mrs. Newcomer much longer, for she will soon conclude that YOU are not HER kind. And frankly, if I had to choose between her company and yours, I'd choose hers.

DEAR ABBY: When my married daughter visits me I always give her the best sleeping accommodations in the house, but when I visit her on her davenport or any make-shift place.

This year she has written to say that if I come again this winter, she will put me in her unfinished, unheated attic room. There is no bath on that floor and I had a stroke two years ago which makes walking stairs difficult for me. Also I have weak kidneys and need to use the bathroom during the night.

My daughter is kind and good in other respects, but I am terribly hurt by these sleeping arrangements and I am thinking strongly of not visiting

Body Temperature Registers Health Status by Raising, Lowering Fever

NEW YORK, N.Y. (SpI) — Just what does a child's fever mean? When the mouth temperature is taken and the thermometer's red line climbs above the 98.6 degree arrow, a mother may have cause for concern.

That's understandable, for the child's fevered brow and flushed face are signs that something could be wrong. Actually fever can be friend as well as foe. It's the body's early warning system. It is rarely dangerous. And, it is also one condition that can almost always be relieved.

The body's heating system is not constant. During any 24-hour period, it has several ups and downs from the 98.6 degree norm. It is generally at a low — usually 97 degrees or a bit lower — during the early morning hours. This is because the circulation of our blood slows down while we sleep. By late afternoon or early evening, with the day's activity, it may go up to about 99.5 degrees.

The body's heating system is very similar to that in your own home. The body, like a furnace, burns fuel which, in this case, is food that is burned primarily in muscle tissue. This generated heat is then distributed through a vast network of blood vessels in the same way the furnace's heat is sent out through the house through a system of pipes. Like a house, too, the body is insulated. The insulation is a layer of fat under the skin.

The body likewise has a "thermostat." It is located in the hypothalamus, a part of the brain. This thermostat goes into immediate action once there's an infection or outbreak of disease.

When a hand, for instance, becomes infected and inflamed, you will notice it gets quite hot at that place. This is a little localized fever. If this localized fever does not overcome the infection, then toxins known as pyrogens accumulate and go to the brain's thermostat. This signals an action that fires up the entire body to battle the invading germs. Body fever signifies that the infection isn't minor or limited to one area but is now serious enough to summon all the body's natural defenses.

Babies and young children tend to get very high temperatures from only slight infections. A child's temperature can shoot up to 104 degrees for a few hours with just a simple sore throat. This is mainly because the thermostat in the child is not fully developed. Conversely, there are a number of serious ailments, such as appendicitis, that often produce only low fevers.

As a rule, when your child's temperature goes over 103 degrees you should summon the doctor. A fever of 103 degrees or more usually leads to excessive loss of water, known as dehydration. It's important that the water lost at this time be replaced.

High temperatures also burn up proteins, carbohydrates and fat at a rapid rate. This weakens the child at a time when reserves are so badly needed. That is why doctors suggest a balanced diet that is especially high in protein.

There was a time when fever was allowed to run its course on the theory that once it broke, recovery was imminent. Today doctors believe in bringing the fever down as quickly as possible.

The most widely used method of bringing a child's temperature down is aspirin. How it does this is still a mystery being probed intensively today by medical scientists. Until recently it was believed that aspirin acted directly on the body's thermostat in the brain. Now other studies point to the possibility that aspirin may work to inhibit formation of toxins in the body's white blood cells thus allowing the thermostat to start reducing the temperature by increasing sweating. Usually aspirin will start to bring a fever down within 30 minutes and will hold it at a lower level for as much as four hours. This should give you enough time to consult your physician, so he can determine the underlying cause of the fever.

Each year dolls "do" things. And this season is no exception. Baby Grow-a-tooth (top) does just that. She wiggles her arms, sits up and plays with her crib gymnasium, takes her pacifier. When it has been removed, she has grown a tooth. Looonie Lites (lower left) are fast becoming a fad among youngsters. The 3 1/2-inch vinyl figure can be worn as a necklace or bracelet charm. When its tummy is pressed, its eyes, nose and teeth light up. Little charmer (lower right) is constructed so that her head moves in all directions. She can do backbends and handstands, too.

Hats Spring Into Pastels

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's fade out for the flower bedecked hats of other springs and fade in for hats designed, especially to go with the pants costumes pervading the fashion scene.

But the diminishing of the all-over florals doesn't mean that the new hats are harshly tailored numbers. They're not, they're softly feminine with their face-framing brims, their soft chin ties of chiffon, their "whisper soft" pastel colorings.

At the industry's semiannual style show rounding up the outstanding trends for the new season, the phrase used to describe new chapeaux was "tender greater emphasis on soft, feminine fashions... more delicate colors, fluffier fabrics".

Only an occasional flowered number showed; the accent was more on shape and the pale pastels.

Watch also for turbans by the dozens, any number of variations of the gaucho or sombrero shapes, and huge brims reminding of the days when the "picture" hat was a springtime classic.

The Millinery Institute of America gave the trend show for the nation's fashion reporters in New York to look at all phases of new ready-to-wear.

"Because the pants look runs so strongly through almost all spring collections, the industry took note of it in styling hats to go with—not the "sportive, tie-on headgear" of previous seasons, but snappy felt and straw numbers just as pretty with dresses or suits as with pants.

One of the prettiest of this group was designer Frank Olive's exaggerated newsboy hat in puffy white straw with a wide, pastel-printed scarf banding it and streaming down the back. Its visored front marked a trend in that direction too.

In its pastel group, the industry rounded up the delicate neutrals plus pale pink, blue, peach, lime and lilac, to replace the wild psychedelic shades of last year. The accent was on felts here too.

Don't dryclean electric blankets or use drycleaning fluids on them, warns the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Follow laundry instructions that come with the blankets. They specify short wash, rinse and spin cycles in cold or warm water and caution against drying blankets in a dryer. Hot water or heat in drying will shrink and coarsen fibers. Drycleaning electric blankets can damage insulation or wiring.

La Cultura Club Members Study President's Life

Mrs. Jimmy Hayes presented the program on William Howard Taft for the recent La Cultura Club meeting.

"Taft was the largest man to become President," Mrs. Hayes said. "He was 6 ft. 2 in. and weighed over 300 lbs. He was also the only man to become President first and then Chief Justice."

"His entire life was spent in public service. He began as a lawyer, judge, solicitor general, federal judge, governor of Philippines, secretary of war, President of the United States and finally chief justice," she said.

"Taft, who had a judicial mind, considered being chief justice the highest honor he had received. He retired from this position one month before his death March 8, 1930," she said.

The hostess was Mrs. Malcolm McClelland. Guests were Mrs. Bill Davis, Mrs. Walter Colwell, Mrs. W.R. Whitsett, Mrs. Ralph Dozier and Mrs. L.W. Wendling.

Veterans' Auxiliary Members Slate 3 Films on Cancer

The Women's Auxiliary and Pampa Post No. 1657 Veterans of Foreign Wars are sponsoring an educational program on cancer in Lovett Memorial Library, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The public is invited.

Mrs. Kermit Lawson, Pampa public educational chairman of the American Cancer Society, will present the program.

Three brief films will be shown on effect of smoking on cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and skin cancer.

Films to be shown are "Sense in the Sun," "Smoking and You," and "Time to Stop Smoking Is Now."

Aftermath Of Feud: An Easing Of Tensions

By LEE MUELLER
NEW YORK (NEA) — Strange, it seems only last month that Gardner Dickinson wiped off his sand wedge, stuffed it into his bag and settled down for a long, unpleasant chat with the Professional Golfers Association.

Now it's that time again. After the customary month layoff, the professional golf tour again is beginning to stir in California — out where the sun is warm and the land is conducive to pitch-and-run shots. To the surprise of many, it is still called the PGA tour.

Dickinson, it seems, was president of a now-dissolved organization called the American Professional Golfers Association which wanted, among other things, nothing to do with the PGA.

The group, composed largely of the pro tour's main attractions, said it wanted to and was capable of running its own show. The PGA, it said, was more hindrance than help.

The PGA, meanwhile, said the APG was an ingrate, collectively speaking, of course.

Time and several bitter words have passed, however, and at last — nay, at LONG last — the PGA and the touring professionals have settled their differences. It only took 30 years.

Exactly where victory lies in a debatable question, and a testy one. The players have one more member than the PGA on the tour's policy board, which is what they wanted. The PGA still has its name and considerable power on the tour, which is what it wanted.

Gardner Dickinson

The end result is that the 1969 tour is little different from its predecessors. On the surface, the only noticeable change is the annual increase in prize money. Last year it was $5 million. This year the expected figure is $6 million.

Underneath, however, is another story. The tensions that welled out of the dispute have eased. Nearly everyone involved is relieved.

"I feel as if a Mack truck moved off my head," said Dickinson, preparing for California.

"We did some giving and the PGA did some giving. That's the way to settle an argument, isn't it? And I'm sure as far as the golfing public is concerned, we've got to be better off not fighting."

In the heat of the APG-PGA battle, there was considerable mention of greed. Several newspapers expressed total impatience with the entire uproar. "All they're doing is hurting golf," a New York columnist wrote.

Whether the feud hurt golf remains a moot point. The real point, as far as the PGA and players are concerned, is that it's over and both are relatively satisfied. Dickinson, for one, does not anticipate a return bout.

"I don't see how the dispute could be renewed," he said, "unless some terrible people are elected to the board. Personally, I do not think we have any terrible people. . . I know there won't be anybody on our side to rock the boat."

So, the pro tour, 1969, is rolling. From California, it moves eastward in February to Arizona and then to Florida and North Carolina before settling in Augusta, Ga., for the Masters in April.

The magic that draws thousands to golf courses each year was still intact at last observation. This year, Robert De Vicenzo might win the Masters; Lee Elder might beat Jack Nicklaus; Arnold Palmer might win a big one; Lee Trevino might, well, he might do anything.

It is improbable, though, that the new tour will offer either the high adventure or sappy melodrama of 1968. But it can try.

Pampa Tests Bulldogs

Johnny Epperson

By RON CROSS
Pampa will try to put a feather in its cap and tie for second in first half of district play tonight when the Borger Bulldogs play host to the Harvesters at 8 p.m.

The district clubs will close out first half action tonight and the Bulldogs will be hoping they win and Tascosa loses so part of the first half title will go to Borger.

The Rebels meet Amarillo tonight and stand 8-0 in first at 7-1 and Pampa is third at 6-2.

The winner of the first half of District 4-4A meets the half play while Borger is next second half winner in a playoff unless the first half winner also wins or ties for the second half championship.

A full slate of district games are on tap tonight with Monterey playing at Lubbock, Coronado hosting Plainview and Caprock playing at Palo Duro. Borger has the best offensive average in the district and one of the better defensive averages, although Pampa and Tascosa are 1-2 in the district's defensive standings.

The Bulldogs are scoring at a 71.9 per game clip while giving up an even 54 points per game. They have scored 575 points while giving up only 433.

The Harvesters are averaging just over 59 points per league game and saw their defensive average slip just a bit against Lubbock Coronado to 49. 1 from 48.1.

District 4-4A's leading scorer Jim Hollis saw his average continue to take a nosedive to 20.2 while the Harvesters Billy Thomas jumped from 9.5 to 11.1 to rank him 12th in the district's top 20 scorers.

Only Hollis and Thomas are averaging in double figures for Pampa but Johnny Epperson continues to take the charity line for granted. Epperson has scored 69 points, 43 from the foul line for a 8.6 average.

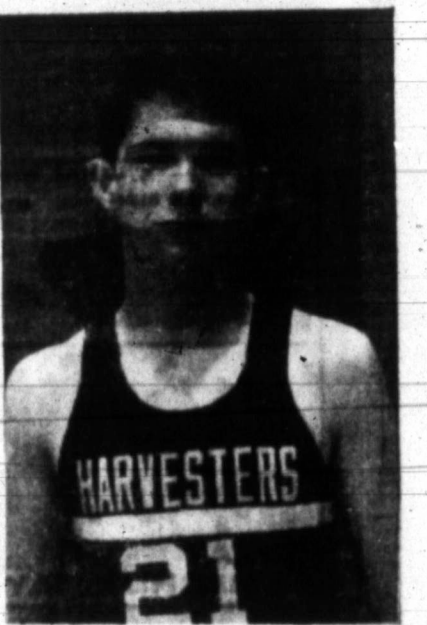

The Bulldogs have lost only to Tascosa in district play, 55-48, the only time they have scored under 50 points this season. Borger has a 13-5 season mark while Pampa is 11-5.

Coach Duane Hunt sports three players averaging in double figures, including 6-1 Junior Carl Taylor at 15.6, 5-7 Junior Earl O'Steen at 12.3 and 5-9 senior Ray Coffey at 11.8.

Only Taylor started for the Bulldogs last season and Hunt has two others who started last year also. Mike Steinkoenig, a 6-5½ senior started most of the time last year and is just healing from an injury. He currently is averaging 8.7 points per game and 11.7 rebounds per contest. Mark Graves, a 6-2 senior also started last season for hunt and is currently carrying an 8.6 mean, which is his last season's average.

The Shockers, winners of four in a row and sporting a 6-4 season record meets the Bulldogs Junior Varsity at 6:15 p.m.

NFL Pro Bowl Duel Set Sunday

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three Baltimore Colts will be in the starting backfield for the West team in Sunday's 18th National Football League Pro Bowl game.

Coach George Allen Thursday selected quarterback Earl Morrall, running back Tom Matte and flanker Willie Richardson of the Colts. They will be joined in the starting backfield by running back Ken Willard of San Francisco.

Coach Tom Landry split the starting backfield for the East between his own Dallas Cowboys and the Cleveland Browns. Quarterback Don Meredith of the Cowboys and teammate Don Perkins will be teamed with running back Leroy Kelly and flanker Paul Warfield of the Browns.

Allen explained he selected Morrall as starter over Roman Gabriel of his Los Angeles Rams because, "Morrall was Player of the Year in our league so he deserves to start. He reads defenses very well and does an excellent job of mixing up his plays. We know because we faced him twice this season and Baltimore won both games."

In selecting Meredith to start in place of Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants, Landry said he did so because Meredith was more familiar with the type of offense he had installed for the East. But he added, "Fran will play an equal amount of time."

Murphy Hits 47 Points In Niagara Loss 107-84

By United Press International
Calvin Murphy is breaking more records but enjoying it less these days.

The 5-foot-10 all-America from Niagara pumped in 47 points Thursday night in University Gym on the Columbia campus to smash the arena record. His 21 free throws also set a gym record.

But it was to no avail as the smooth Columbia team boosted its record to 12-1 by routing Niagara 107-84. Niagara, which doesn't have a supporting cast to go with Murphy, is only 5-7 this year.

"So, I set a record—wow," Murphy said dejectedly after the game. "I'd rather win and score less points. I really would."

Murphy's 47-point outburst smashed the arena record of 45 set by Columbia's Chet Forte in 1957. Murphy hit only 13 of 40 field goal attempts as Columbia forced him to take numerous bad shots. But he was 21 of 22 from the free throw line and the 21 free throws broke Forte's mark of 19 in the cramped Columbia Gym. Only 1,756 fans were able to cram their way into the old structure.

Niagara's problem is that it doesn't have any big men to control the backboards. Bob Churchwell at 6-6 and Steve Schafer at 6-5 are the two biggest players on the team.

"Churchwell and Schafer are doing a fine job considering their height," Murphy said, "they're getting all the rebounds they can. But if we only had a good big man, things would be different."

Columbia also doesn't have a player over 6-6 but the Lions are much better ballhandlers and are a cohesive unit with three standouts. Jim McMillian scored 29, Roger Walaszek 26 and Heywood Dotson 20 for Columbia.

In the other games Thursday night, third-ranked Santa Clara rolled to its 15th straight triumph with an 89-69 upset over Santa Barbara, Utah upset New Mexico 77-76. Utah State beat Denver 102-87. Brigham Young whipped Wyoming 89-78. Colorado State tripped Air Force 83-65. Arizona whipped Creighton 72-63. Clemson beat Furman 91-70 and Tulane stopped Miami of Florida 90-79.

Utah built up a big lead and then just survived to edge New Mexico in a thriller. New Mexico, trailing by a 69-59 count with 10 minutes remaining, narrowed the deficit to one point and picked up a loose ball in the final 16 seconds.

Lunn's 65 Snares Lead

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Bobby Lunn didn't think much of his seven-under par 65 in the first round of the $135,000 Kaiser International Open golf tournament and said he'd gladly settle for a '70 or so' today in the second round.

Lunn's 65, which included seven birdies and not a single bogey, was carved out over the Silverado Country Club's North Course. Today, he plays the shorter but trickier south course, the leader by just one stroke over another hot player—Jacky Cupit.

Cupit had six birds and no bogeys as he toured the North Course in 32-34-66, and he, too, said he wasn't especially ecstatic about the round. Lunn's card showed 34-31-65.

"The North Course is easier," said Cupit. "Maybe it won't be that easy on the South Course."

"I was driving well and hitting my wedge shots close to the hole," said Lunn of his 65. "That makes a difference. But I know the South Course is tougher and my lead may fade today. I'll gladly settle for a 70."

Irving Voters Approve State's 2nd Domed Stadium Overwhelmingly

IRVING, Tex. (UPI)—Texas' second domed sports stadium will soon begin rising among a series of mingling freeways and between a sluggish river and a golf driving range.

The roofed playgrounds—Texas Stadium—is designed only for football and soccer, will seat 65,000 and perhaps rob the storied Cotton Bowl of both its tenants.

The stadium, brainchild of Dallas Cowboy millionaire owner Clint Murchison, will be the home field of the Cowboys and will probably lure the Southern Methodist Mustangs as well.

Birth of the stadium was assured Thursday when Irving voters overwhelmingly approved the sale of stadium bonds by count of 5,366 to 2,439.

The vote was the final word in a year-long dispute between proponents of the stadium and those who protested what they said was the high cost of season tickets.

One of the dissenters, Howard W. Currens, filed suit last month blocking construction on the grounds that the final product would not include all the comforts originally planned in the blueprints.

Voters originally had approved the sale of bonds by a 3-to-2 margin, but Currens said he thought many of them had changed their minds in the past year. He agreed to drop his suit in exchange for another referendum. The stadium proved to be even more popular the second time around.

Murchison has said more than $11 million worth of bonds have already been purchased. A football fan must purchase a $1,000 bond just to have the opportunity of buying a season ticket between the 40-yard lines. A $250 bond gives him the opportunity to buy a season ticket inside the 20-yard lines.

Lady Golfers Tee Off in Burdines Meet

MIAMI (UPI)—Some of the biggest names in women's golf prepared to tee-off today in the 54-hole, $35,000 Burdines Invitational ladies golf tourney, richest and first of the LPGA tour.

The field of 36 professionals and 13 amateurs was headed by Kathy Whitworth, 1968 player of the year and top money winner.

She will have her eye on the tournament's first prize of $5,200 to add to the nearly $60,000 she earned on the circuit last year.

Temperatures were expected to be in the high 70s at the a.m. CST tee-off on the well-trapped and hazardous par-72

East Course at the country club of Miami.

Aquanauts to Live, Work Under Sea

Four aquanaut-scientists (from top: Richard A. Waller, Conrad Mahnken, H. Edward Clifton and John Van Derwalker) will spend 60 continuous days in the four-chamber habitat shown above at a depth of 50 feet off Great Lameshur Bay, St. John Island, in the Virgin Islands. Starting Feb. 15, the Department of Interior aquanauts will participate in the program to determine the capability of a small group of men to satisfactorily perform a scientific research mission while living isolated on the ocean floor. The program, TEKTITE I, is sponsored jointly by the Navy, National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Interior, with participation by the Coast Guard. Interior view of crew's quarters shows bunks and galley in the GE-built habitat.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. notes that the market, in a search for a bottoming out area, now might have found it. Tuesday's rally, with trade cautious at first, then accelerating near the close, might have been a test of this bottom. The next few sessions could be quite important, the firm says, "for the market is in the process of proving itself."

Harris Upham says the most encouraging action the market could take would be to quiet down and build a base. First rallies after a sharp decline are usually not to be trusted, the firm notes. If the market is quiet on a secondary test of lows, future action usually proves more reliable.

anticipates that "1969 in the stock market will look pretty much like a playback of 1968—wide trading swings, high volume and some new leadership in individual stocks." The firm also expects there may be "excesses in speculation, new issue appreciation and emphasis on performance."

policy. "We believe," the firm says, "such waiting could be damaging if it leads to nothing more than inaction. The period ahead could be an ideal occasion to switch investments and improve representation in groups which are likely to do especially well."

Harris Upham says the most encouraging action the market could take would be to quiet down and build a base. First rallies after a sharp decline are usually not to be trusted, the firm notes. If the market is quiet on a secondary test of lows, future action usually proves more reliable.

"Over the past several years the low points of either November or December have become important market points for stock market students. Perhaps it is because a market that has confidence as to the outlook for the next year expresses it by holding above those lows while a skeptical market will show its weakness if buyers refuse to step in and give support where they did in the last two months of the year."

Diamon, Turk & Co. says it has "turned bullish for the short-term" while remaining bearish for the longer term. The firm expects a substantial gain during the start-up period of the new administration in Washington, but doesn't expect strength "to carry beyond the first 90 days of the Nixon administration, at which time the realities of economic policies and international events should again take their toll of stock prices."

HIGH BALL

LIVERMORE, Calif. (UPI)—A lost ball and a nerve-racking experience shook up Russell Marley's golf game Wednesday.

While approaching the first green at Las Positas Golf Course, he drove the ball 75 feet in the air where it crashed through the cockpit of a light plane making a landing at nearby Livermore Municipal Airport.

The pilot, Navy officer Bryan Pownall, was hit on the head but landed safely.

Marley, who usually shoots in the low 80s, finished with a 94.

Churches Seek End Of Death

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Church leaders who've had only modest success in a long campaign for legal repeal of the death penalty are now pinning their hopes on de facto abolition.

Although 38 states, the District of Columbia and the federal government still have laws authorizing capital punishment, not a single person was actually executed in the United States during 1968.

This was the first year without any executions since the U.S. Bureau of Prisons began keeping records.

Within recent years, several major denominations, including Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Lutherans, have come out formally for abolition of the death penalty. They contend it is often unfairly applied, that its mistakes are irremediable, and that it expresses an un-Christian spirit of vengeance. Many state and local councils of churches have taken similar positions.

The campaign has helped to create a climate of public opinion in which the death penalty, while remaining on the books, has fallen increasingly into practice disuse.

From a level of about 200 a year in the 1930's, the number of executions in the United States declined to two in 1967 and finally to zero in 1968.

Executions could be resumed at any time, of course. At latest count, 435 prisoners were under sentence of death and awaiting the outcome of court appeals or pleas for executive clemency.

Catholics and Protestants throughout the world will join in observing a week of prayer for Christian unity Jan. 18-25. The annual observance began on a very small scale in 1908. Within recent years, it has blossomed into a major ecumenical event, with the official blessing of the Vatican and the World Council of Churches.

In many communities, the week of prayer signals the beginning of year-long programs of ecumenical dialogue, study and joint community action by local churches.

Although the religious Society of Friends is one of America's smallest denominations, with fewer than 250,000 members, it is surpassed by only three other bodies in the number of presidents it has contributed to the nation.

Richard M. Nixon will be the second Quaker president. (Herbert Hoover was the first).

The only denominations able to claim more than two presidents are the Episcopalians, 6; Presbyterians, 6; and Unitarians, 4.

Tied with the Quakers in fourth place, with two presidents each, are the Baptists; Dutch reformed; Methodists; and Disciples of Christ.

A Jewish religious leader charged this week that Arab propagandists are conducting a "blatant, systematic, well-financed" campaign to arouse anti-Israeli sentiments in Catholic and Protestant churches across the United States.

The charge was made by Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee.

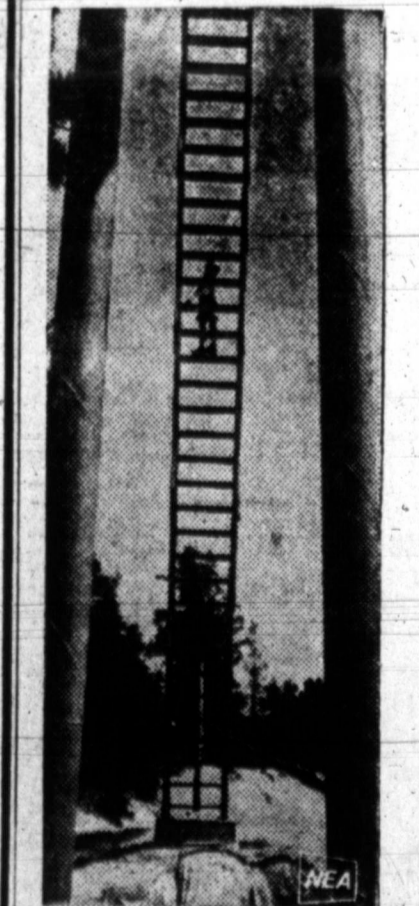

"There is clear evidence that Arab information specialists operating out of Arab countries, and especially from Beirut, Lebanon, have moved massively to gain Christian support for the Arab League nations and their anti-Israel policies," Tanenbaum declared.

He voiced hope that Christians will not be taken in by the drive which "threatens to undermine interfaith harmony" in the United States.
