Commission Considers County Equipment Use

By RON CROSS

Gray County Commissioners discussed the use of county equipment on private property and proposed consolidation of county precinct barns after an early start Saturday morning in a meeting that was interrupted by illness. Gray County Commissioners started early, "to beat the crowd" as they put it, and Judge Sherman Lenning, Jr. became ill, left early and missed the crowd.

Commissioners started their meeting at 9 a.m. instead of 10 a.m., as had been previously announced by Judge Lenning, okayed routine business, paid monthly salaries and then got down to the business at hand, or at least tried to.

The commissioners' efforts were blunted a bit however, since the judge, who is chairman of the board, had to leave after he became ill. On hand for the commissioners' meeting were seven county ranchers and farmers, who made known their feelings on the consolidation of the county's present four precinct work units into one combined unit and the use of county equipment on private property.

Also on hand was Pampa contractor Earl Hilton, who first reported the county using its equipment on privately owned property.

Judge Lenning had stated earlier in the week the commissioners might discuss the issue. They did at Hilton's insistence, but they decided nothing and would make no statement until Judge Lenning could be present.

Hilton told the commissioners (See COUNTY, Page 3)

Sen. Hazlewood Gives Up Power To Subcommittee

AUSTIN (UPI) — When Sen. Grady Hazlewood's Senate finance subcommittee begins hearings Monday on the state's $5.6 billion budget, Hazlewood won't be in charge.

For the first time in more than a decade the Senate finance chairman has relinquished his real source of power — the chairmanship of the finance subcommittee that decides who gets money and who doesn't.

Gov. Ben Barnes last week gave Hazlewood the honor of being Senate finance chairman, nominally the most potent job in the Senate.

But Barnes gave the power to Aikin, who will head the subcommittee.

The reasons are mainly political.

AFTER INVASION

Hungarians, Czechs Improve Relations

PRAGUE (UPI)—A Prague Communist leader said Saturday he found improved relations between Czechoslovakia and Hungary, one of the five Warsaw pact nations that took part in the Aug. 21 invasion.

Bohumil Simon, the head of the Prague Communist party organization, said on a recent trip to Budapest he did not encounter free advice on how to run Czechoslovakia.

In an interview with the party newspaper Rude Pravo, Simon said, "There were no tendencies and attempts to formulate views of our internal policy, its strategy and tactics."

Cordial Welcome

He said the "reception was really cordial" and he was pleased that relations were good in view of the invasion, which "sometimes created conditions for undermining these relations and mutual understandings."

Hungary appeared to be the least enthusiastic of all the invading nations last August.

The Hungarian troops that occupied southern Slovakia for two months did not meet with the hostility encountered by Russian, Polish, East German and Bulgarian units.

Simon, who has been a strong ally of Communist reformer Alexander Dubcek, was in Budapest as the head of a three-member "goodwill" delegation to the Hungarian capital.

In another development, the Slovak trade union newspaper Praca said Saturday there were "shortcomings and errors" in a recent Congress of Slovak Trade Unions.

Ignored Problems

The congress was criticized because it failed to observe a silence in memory of the dead political martyr Jan Palach and because speakers ignored pressing political problems and criticized the mass media.

Praca said the "very strong emphasis on wages, working and social problems . . . gave the impression of a freeze on debate on political issues."

The Slovak congress' shunning of politics contrasted with a similar congress for the Czech lands, held the previous week in Prague.

In resolutions and speeches, the Czechs made strongly reformist demands for elections, economy reform and national sovereignty, and warned they would use the strike if necessary to achieve political goals.

Britain Says Nato Forces Would Use Nuclear Arms

Warns Against Red Invasion of Europe

By WERNER ZWICK

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI) — British Defense Minister Denis W. Healey said Saturday NATO forces were prepared to use nuclear weapons in the event of an all-out invasion of Western Europe by Soviet troops.

"Nuclear escalation would be the only alternative to surrender in case of a major attack," Healey told an international military seminar here.

Healey said the superiority of Soviet jet Warsaw Pact forces in conventional weapons was so great "as to make doubtful any prospect that NATO might have of putting a conventional defense force on its feet in a few days."

The British defense chief said Britain and West Germany were "currently working out NATO doctrine for the use of nuclear weaponry in a number of tactical situations."

Healey spoke as U.S. troops engaged in war games in West Germany near the Czechoslovak border demonstrated air cavalry assault techniques developed in South Vietnam.

NATO spokesmen said man-portable tactics may make possible for European countries to scrape large standing armies in favor of small regular force backed by reserves.

In his Munich speech, Healey argued against NATO's trying to match the Soviets and the allies "in every element of military capability."

He said the "past 10 years have shown" (See NATO, Page 3)

U.S. to Launch Communications Satellites Soon

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—

The United States plans to launch two communications satellites next week — one to expand commercial transpacific service and the other to link tactical military units in the field, air and at sea.

Both spacecraft will be fired into 22,300-mile high orbits where their speed will match earth's rotation and thus will appear stationary over one point on earth.

Up first is a 222-pound commercial satellite identical to one that was orbited above the Atlantic Ocean in December by the Comsat Corp. and its 62 partner nations. The new commercial satellite is set for launch Wednesday night toward an orbital parking place above the Pacific.

Most Powerful

It will be followed into space Friday afternoon by the most powerful radio relay satellite ever built — a 1,600-pound Defense Department craft designed to relay messages between small remote military units and their headquarters.

The satellite, which with its antennas is as tall as a two-story building, will be launched by the nation's mightiest military rocket — a triple-barreled Air Force Titan 3C. The commercial craft will be launched by a smaller Delta rocket.

The tactical communications satellite, built under Air Force direction by Hughes Aircraft Co. of Culver City, Calif., is expected to have a communications capacity comparable to 10,000 two-way voice channels.

Local Firemen Get Workout

Pampa firemen got a real workout Saturday and weren't a bit happy about it.

Starting at 3:10 p.m., firemen answered six calls, the last one at 7:30 p.m. Three of the alarms were near Pampa businesses where dumpster dumpsters had been set afire.

One fire was in a dumpster in back of Tom Rose Motor Co., another back of Leland's Grocery and another near another food store.

Firemen answered another call when a barn caught fire two miles southeast of the city. They then extinguished a grass fire in town.

The final blaze was a grass fire that burned off 60 acres 14 miles east of Pampa on Highway 152 near Heaton.

Units from White Deer and Skellytown were battling another grass fire about 8:30 p.m. near the stock pens at Skellytown.

One fire official said that most of the dumpster fires were set by youngsters who should be made to realize that a building could also catch fire.

"Some of these dumpsters set close to a building and could spread to the building itself," the fireman said.

PLAN CONCERT DRIVE — Mrs. Ruth Riehart, left, and Mrs. Mary Hiatt, right, co-chairmen for the 1969 membership campaign of the Pampa Community Concert Association, are shown going over drive plans with Mrs. Lillian Kilgore, representative of Columbia Artists, New York City. Renewal memberships can be made the week of March 16, followed by the open membership drive starting March 23. Mrs. Kilgore has been meeting with campaign division chairmen during the past four days.

Israeli, Jordanian Troops Battle in Border Clashes

By United Press International

Israeli and Jordanian troops battled twice Saturday across the Jordan River. The Vatican said Pope Paul VI has asked Jordan to spare the lives of two Arab Christians convicted as Israeli spies.

The latest border clashes coincided with the opening of a meeting of Palestinian refugees in Cairo to consider a proposal that all-out war against Israel was the only solution to the Middle East crisis.

In London, U.N. Secretary General U Thant got Britain's assurance that it was "sympathetic in principle" to Middle East peace talks involving the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

President Nixon met with his National Security Council in Washington to chart the United States' course in the Arab-Israeli conflict and to decide on France's proposal for "Big Four" peace discussions.

The developments in London and Washington followed reports from Cairo that the Soviet Union has made a "new assessment" of the Middle East crisis for consideration by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt—apparently the makings of a new Soviet peace move.

The fiercest Jordan River clash went on for 35 minutes until just past midnight near Al-Adassiyah, three miles south of the Sea of Galilee, Jordanian spokesmen said. They said Israeli troops opened fire first with mortars and machineguns and the Jordanians fired back. No one was reported hurt.

The second clash Israeli officials said, started before dawn with a Jordanian attack on an Israeli patrol across the river north of Um-Sidra. In two bursts of fire 40 minutes apart, one Israeli soldier was wounded, the report from Jerusalem said.

The Pope's appeal to Jordan for clemency was identical to his unsuccessful plea to Iraq to spare 14 persons, nine of them Jews, who were hanged Monday as Israeli spies, triggering worldwide dismay.

This time the Pope interceded on behalf of two Bethlehem-based taxi drivers, Anton Nasser and Zuhair Abu Rodeina, sentenced to death in Jordan for allegedly spying for Israel. There was no reply from Jordan.

Gov. Preston Smith Still A Country Boy

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith, determined to maintain an image as common as his last name, is surprising everyone from capitol guards to lawmakers with "how're-you-doing" back-slapping visits.

In office less than two weeks, Smith already has dropped by for coffee and small talk with senate and house employees and many other capitol workers.

He has eaten lunch twice at the state employe cafeteria. And he continues his custom of walking to a downtown hotel for breakfast.

"He just hopped in one morning and chatted with us awhile," said John Kokernot, assistant sergeant-at-arms in the house of representatives.

"I never saw (former Gov. John) Connally except when he came to make a speech."

Smith, born and reared on a farm, remains a country boy at heart.

An early riser, he was up by 7 a.m. and in his office by 8 the day after he was inaugurated, despite festivities that lasted into the early morning.

Guards who hurried to escort him to work at 8:30 a.m. couldn't find the governor. They searched for more than an hour before one of the governor's aides notified them Smith had walked to his office.

Disdaining to use the big black custom-made limousine former Gov. John Connally used, Smith continues to elude his escort and on occasion, flatly refuses to ride.

"What's the matter with me walking?" Smith asked aides when they told him he was perceived as a country boy.

State President To Preside Over Jaycee Banquet

BOB BUCK, state president of Texas Jaycees, will arrive in Pampa Friday to preside over the Texas awards banquet to select the state's Outstanding Young Farmer. The affair is scheduled for Saturday night in First Christian Church.

Approximately 30 regional winners from over Texas will attend the banquet hoping to pick off the state award honor. Among them will be Robert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has taken steps to increase the armament of its intelligence ships and provide them with means for quick destruction of secret weapons and for scuttling, officials said Saturday.

Soon after the intelligence ship Pueblo was seized by North Korea a year ago, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of Naval operations, ordered "Pueblo type" operations suspended throughout the world.

He also ordered a complete study of the role of such vessels and how such incidents could be prevented in the future.

While declining for security reasons to be specific, officials said steps resulting from the study include——Increasing armament on civilian-type ships used for intelligence missions.

—There are fewer than a dozen such vessels. The two sister ships of the Pueblo, the Banner and Palm Beach, already have received improved weapons.

Rapid destruct and scuttling systems which could be activated by a few people, but which include "failsafe" protection against accidental use. The Pueblo crew had to use sledgehammers to destroy secret gear. The ship had no means of quick scuttling.

"Amplified" instructions on what to do in cases of harassment.

—Improvements in "command and control" to make sure decision-makers on shore are in touch with any fast-moving situation at sea.

—Re-examining the whole question of how such ships should operate, where, and how often. The Navy has never announced resumption of such missions and prefers to keep other countries guessing on this subject.

—Review of "protection measures" to make sure protection forces could be used in full range of intelligence vessels.

The Navy review was headed by Rear Adm. Leslie J.O'Brien, Jr., special assistant to the chief of naval operations. He submitted his final report at the end of March, 1968.

Senate to Vote On Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, which had hoped to spare itself the political pain of a vote in the coming week whether members of Congress should be given a 1 per cent pay increase in the face of government economy demands.

A record Senate vote was scheduled Tuesday on a proposal to veto an executive order raising salaries for both senators and representatives for $30,000 to $42,000 a year. The increases, recommended by the federal pay commission, take effect Feb. 14—Valentine's day—unless both chambers vote to kill it.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he had "The slightest idea" whether proposal to block the increase by economy crusader, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., would pass. But most signs indicated defeat.

The Prairie Wind

By CLEO TOM TERRY

As the Boss and I drove around the cottonwood grove and on to the little flat where we feed three silvery gray deer we walked out of the trees, so nearly the same color that we almost missed them. The doe and her two almost-grown fawns stood immobile, casually looking us over; then as we honked the bull horn for the cows, they bounded away and across the creek.

Deer have very sensitive ears. Bambi, who was our "child" for almost a year and a half—till he conformed to popular belief had, not two but four points on one side and four with a beginning bump on the other—used to "throw a fit" when Northern Natural pipeliner blew out their big inch pipeline a mile away at the end of the lane. Bambi would race around the yard, shaking his head, then he'd run up to me, snort and stamp, as if to say "Siop that noise!"

A chapparral half fawn, half scurred across the road in front of us and into the plum thickets where he stretched out, head flat on the ground, for all the world like a hidden fawn, so brown that you could hardly distinguish him from the carpet of fallen leaves.

Animals are the "smartest people." I once had a half-greyhound, half-Russian wolf-hound who, for some time was the only dog other than Ernie's little puppy Kazan, on my Dad's ranch. We also had only one hog, a big white Shoa. "I never carry stop to hogs for two cents a pound" my Dad said when he sold our sow.

Well, "Puppy" the hound and the white pig were day-long pals. When she decided to go over to visit Mr. Matheson's hogs, Pup went along. Trotting along with her, whenever he saw a car or wagon, he'd herd her out of the road. If she was stubborn he'd nip her ear just the way a cowhorse will nip a baby calf. The neighbors first told us of this, then the people from the oilfield who'd go to Hay Hook Ranch "wild plumbing." Later we saw it for ourselves.

Pat, the Matheson dog who lives with the Terrys, has accepted complete responsibility for our young dog, Smoky. When she is fed, if he acts hungry, she lets him have her feed. If another puppy comes to visit, and gets too rambunctious for Smoky, Pat takes a hand. She helps him catch the black cat, with whom Smoky grew up, though Pat never takes part in the "wooling around." Smoky inflicts on Midnight.

The old cat, Creamy, who lived here all the years with Jack and Daisy, became somewhat psychotic after old Jack was run over. They were never real good pals, but they were "family" and for months

Sometimes I wonder, if these animals, both the ones who belong to us as part of our family or property, and those who just delight us by being around like the deer or the quail in the yard—won't have a hereafter just as we will after death. Perhaps they'll serve us well in the next world, too. I hope so. As I see the tiny white star in the face of Old Cowboy, drifting like snow down over his nose, it gives me comfort to believe I'll see him again, maybe coming out of a celestial roping chute, when his days and mine here are over.

True, the Bible doesn't say so. It doesn't say not so, either. And Cowboy, like other smart pets never learned to read the Bible anyhow. Neither, for that matter, did the common red ant nor the wasp and bee. And they perfected a "civilization" more necessary to their needs than any man has so far come up with. Turning drones to workers, or nurses, as the needs of the hive require. I never have seen a cowboy become a lawyer (or vice versa) without prior training just because his neighborhood needed a lawyer more than a cowhand right then!

My favorite collegian, outside my own nephew, is back home Patricia Beighle, well-ed in one door just as her parents walked out another, en route to church last Sunday night. She will be "all theirs" from now till Feb. 15. Finishing college in less than three years. Patricia has been attending Abilene Christian College almost uninterrupted for that period and so her parents and brother and her grandmother, Edith Beighle, will have her for the longest visit in a long long time.

Lorene and Bill Thompson took their calves to Amarillo to the auction on Tuesday. Took them off the cows at noon and were there by 2 p.m. They sold, and sold well by 7:30 p.m.

Kemp and Billy Lou Thompson, of Clarendon, were up to visit the Bill Thompsons last Sunday night. And the Terrys had a visitor from Kim, Colorado, next door nearly to "Festus." Terry Howe, son of Bill and Merle Terry Howe, grandson of "Alhambra" Terrys visited his Uncle Cammie and Foye Terry very briefly en route back to his ranch from Vernon, Texas, where he had gone on business.

Mishaps at the Movies

During the intermission at a movie, a man stepped over to an ash tray to snuff out his cigarette. But as sparks touched the tray, as inflammable liquid—placed there by an anonymous prankster—flared up and scorched the man's hand.

Was the theater management legally liable for his injury? No, ruled a court. For a theater does not guarantee protection against every possible hazard. The judge said the management could not fairly be expected to guard against an invisible, unforeseeable danger like this one.

Nevertheless, simply by selling you a ticket, the management does take on a substantial degree of responsibility for your well-being. For instance, it must maintain the premises so as to keep the likelihood of an accident at a reasonable minimum.

Thus, when a seat caved in under a woman customer, the management was held liable—even though she happened to be on the heavy side. The court said seats ought to be sturdy enough to allow for the fact that patrons come in assorted sizes.

Furthermore, theater employees have an affirmative duty to keep order.

In another case, when an usher suddenly released the rope holding back a surging crowd, a woman was knocked down in the rush. A court held the theater liable because, with clear signs that the crowd was unruly, the usher should have done more than just "turn'em loose."

On the other hand, you yourself, by choosing to attend a movie in the first place, assume certain risks natural to the environment. For example: A woman who stumbled over someone's foot, protruding into the aisle, demanded damages on the ground that the theater was too dark for her to see where she was going.

But the court denied her claim, on evidence that it had been no darker than it usually is at the movies. If the woman wanted to avoid the danger of darkness, said the court, she should have waited for an usher to light her way to a seat.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On May 24, 1967, Arthur J. Goldberg, then U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, proposed that the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union take joint action to "restore and maintain peace" in the Middle East.

The action, he said, should be taken both within and outside the United Nations.

On that same day President Charles de Gaulle of France proposed a Big Four conference to resolve the mounting Middle East Crisis.

The French declared no longer realistic the 1956 pledge by which the United States, Britain and France promised joint action against any violation of the truce that ended the 1948-49 Israeli-Arab War.

No joint international action could be taken in the Middle East, the French said, without Russian participation.

Neither proposal ever was acted upon, probably because less than two weeks later the war erupted and six days later, the Israelis had won it.

Under considerably different circumstances, the same proposal is being made today.

The Russians took the 1967 proposal under "consideration." This year it is the United States that hesitates.

In 1967, the French still maintained a position of traditional friendship for Israel, most of whose air force was French-supplied.

Today, De Gaulle declares Israel the "aggressor" in the Middle East, denies it arms or even replacement parts for French built equipment, and proclaims his friendship for the Arabs while permitting arms deliveries to Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Lebanon.

Even in the eyes of Frenchmen, he has removed himself from any role as neutral arbiter.

NEAR MISS
BLACKPOOL, England (UPI)—Student John Keys guzzled 30 pints of beer with time to spare Thursday and confidently boasted he had the Jew world's record.

However, a quick check with the record book showed he had failed by .79 of a pint.

Keys thought the old record was 24 pints in an hour and stopped drinking in his attempt with about a minute to go after downing 30 pints. However, he found that German Horst Pretorius held the record with 30.79 pints in exactly one hour.

BRavery MEDAL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—For President Nixon and his advisers, the decisions they must make on the Middle East are crucial.

U.N. Secretary General Thant's appeal to the Big Four to bring moral pressures on Israel and the Arab nations underlines the fact that no U.N. action can be effective without agreement of the big powers, and that means the United States and the Soviet Union.

GOODELL TO BIAFRA
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., may go to Biafra next week to help with the delivery of food and other emergency supplies sent to the embattled nation. Goodell said he felt "morally committed" to see that the supplies collected are properly delivered. He said the trip would be at his own expense.

HANSEN DEPUTY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Rep. George B. Hansen, R-Idaho, has been named deputy under secretary of agriculture for congressional relations. Hansen, 38, was defeated in the November election when he tried to unseat Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

summer when he presided over the Area I summer convention, hosted by the Pampa Jaycees.

The contestant chosen here Saturday night as Texas' Outstanding Young Farmer will receive one of the highest awards given by the state Jaycees. The winner will travel to the national Outstanding Young Farmer banquet in St. Paul, Minn., April 7-9 and will be accompanied by the Texas state OYF chairman, Jim Osborne of Pampa.

The banquet here will be open to the public and tickets can be purchased at the door or from any local Jaycee member.

State President Buck resides in San Antonio with his wife, Vivian, and their daughter. After graduating from Rice University with a BA degree in architecture, he opened his own office and now owns and operates a state-wide architectural firm.

He was a state director of the Texas Jaycees in 1962 and was elected to the executive board for four years. He then served as public relations director for the Texas Jaycees for several years before being elected state president in May of 1968 at Austin.

He will leave office this May at the state convention in his hometown of San Antonio. In June he will then travel to the national convention in Louisville, Ky., where he will be a candidate for national vice president.

Kiwanis Watch
Celanese Film

An industrial film depicting operations and processes at the Pampa Celanese Chemical Co. plant were shown to Kiwanis Club members at their Friday luncheon in First Methodist Church.

The program was presented by Lloyd Braffett, Celanese public relations and personnel director.

Three new members, Morris Kille, Carl Adcock and Raymond Laycock, were inducted into club membership. It was announced that Helen Elizabeth Hill, a foreign exchange student from South Africa, will speak at next Friday's luncheon meeting of the club.

Railroad Taxes

Toal $45,139 For County Agencies

Current annual taxes paid to various government agencies by Texas railroads in Gray County totaled $45,139, it was announced Saturday by the Texas Railroad Association.

That amount was the county's share of the more than $10,000,000 the railroads paid in Texas on their own right of way and other property.

The biggest railroad contribution was to the school systems throughout the state. Large sums were also distributed to city, village and county governments and for road and bridge funds.

In addition was the total in taxes the railroads' 30,840 Texas employees contributed on their own property. The vast majority of rail workers, many of whom live in Gray County, own their own homes.

"I am delighted that nearly half of the taxes paid by the railroads in Texas go to support the schools," said Walter Caven, general counsel of the Texas Railroad Association. "The future of our country depends to a great extent upon the education of our youth," he said.

Music Tapes Western
The governor's mansion is only a block from the capitol, but in the past it has been considered a point of prestige as well as safety for the governor to ride to and from his office.

When Smith does use the limousine—usually for the benefit of guests—specially prepared tapes of country and western music are played.

"They know what kind of music I like," Smith said.

Smith invited country and western singers to entertain at his inauguration and turned the traditional festivities into a kind of state hot-down.

The 56-year-old governor was delighted when Jimmy Dean introduced him as "our kind of people" and said Smith is "plain as a bar of home-made laundry soap after a hard day's washing."

for the Williams motion. Even if it passes, the House is unlikely even to vote on a similar measure now locked up in committee.

The pay bill was the only major item on the agenda of either house, as Congress marked time while it waited for guidance from the new Nixon administration.

The Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, designed to stop the spread of nuclear weapons to countries which do not have them now, was still in limbo. Mansfield, in an interview Saturday, said he supported the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's decision to hold up ratification until Nixon submits his recommendation. To ratify it without the administration's support, he said, would make the pact practically meaningless.

"If they don't support it, there will be no treaty," Mansfield said, adding that he fully expects Nixon to send up a favorable recommendation shortly.

In the House, no floor action was scheduled but a special subcommittee begins an investigation Monday into campus disorders to determine if further federal laws are needed.

Hazlewood

leagues as "The Gray Fox," is second only to Aikin in Senate seniority, having served 23 years. He helped Barnes carry Amarillo last fall while Republicans were "rouncing other Democrats in that city."

"He deserved a top committee assignment," Barnes said.

But Hazlewood also is a bitter enemy of Gov. Preston Smith. Last session Hazlewood denounced Smith with such words as "cheap," "ambitious," "unfair" and "black-maler."

Eying from Amarillo, Hazlewood also is anathema to Smith's hometown, Lubbock. Lubbock wants a new medical school. Amarillo wants it, too. When Hazlewood got the finance chairmanship, Smith's gain appeared to be Lubbock's loss.

But it is now clear that Barnes had an advance understanding with Hazlewood that would enable him to reward "The Gray Fox" without alienating Smith and Lubbock.

On Tuesday, Hazlewood was named finance chairman. On Thursday, he announced that "after consulting with the lieutenant governor," he would step aside and let Aikin head the crucial subcommittee.

Thus "The Gray Fox" became one of several new committee chairmen who got more glory than power.

Barnes won headlines by giving liberals, big-city senators and newcomers more chairmanships than they had ever held before.

But he carefully minimized their real power.

For example, Barnes named Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston, chairman of the Labor Committee and gave the vice chairmanship to another liberal, Sen. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur.

But the other three members are Sens. David Ratliff of Stamford and J. P. Word of Meridian, both staunch conservatives, and Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall, a Barnes man who holds the swing vote.

In the House, Speaker Gus F. Mutscher kept his promise of a wholesale reshuffling of committee chairmanships, but he did it by playing musical chairs.

Cable TV Week
To Be Observed
By Local CATV

Pampa Cable TV will join in observance of the third annual National Cable TV Week today through Saturday, Al Williams manager of the system, said yesterday.

The cable system will show its appreciation to its subscribers and the community with a week-long series of specials, according to Williams.

"Our industry has had a remarkable growth in less than two decades," Williams said. "Now it once again marks its progress by observing National Cable TV Week, and Pampa Cable TV is proud to be a part of this celebration."

New subscribers will be given an opportunity to become cable customers for a reduced installation charge.

Williams said cable TV systems now serve about 13 million viewers in 3,000 towns and cities throughout the United States. Franchises have been issued for systems in many additional communities.

The local CATV system was established in 1967 and now provides 5 channels of television and FM music, to approximately 2,200 Pampa homes.

that if something wasn't done about the matter soon and if he was not allowed to witness the matter he would file an injunction with the attorney general.

Commissioner Hershel Wilks, in whose precinct the work took place, said he had not been in touch with Judge Lenning, and he did not know when a bill would be presented nor for how much for the work the county did.

The controversy arose Jan. 21 when it was found the county was using trucks to haul sand for a construction project at Panhandle Packing Co.

Later Lenning said the company would be presented a bill for the work and that Hilton had decided to drop charges.

Hilton said Saturday he had not decided to drop the charges. "I haven't filed any in the first place," Hilton said, "but if a reasonable settlement isn't made, I will file."

It was pointed out by the landowners present that the county actually doesn't own very many roads. Most of the roads the county maintains actually belong to landowners and are private property.

Commissioners were asked if they intended to stop maintaining the roads, which sometimes are graded so persons who live in the county can get to town and school buses can pick-up children.

Commissioners agreed this probably wasn't illegal, but they would have to study an attorney general's opinion on the matter.

Hilton told the group he wasn't troubled by this type of work by the county but it caused him to lose money as a contractor when the county worked and helped a private firm or individual.

Commissioners also told the group that Judge Lenning had proposed only to study the possibility of consolidation and see if it was feasible.

that the nuclear deterrent works."

Challenges Doubters
Healy rebutted doubters who claim the United States might refuse to put its nuclear forces at the service of the defense of Europe.

"Any reputed reduction in America's readiness to accept escalation rather than surrender is more than outweighed by the tremendous increase in America's nuclear striking power," he said.

"Faced with these hard facts, no rational Soviet government would stake the survival of the Russian people on a guess that the United States government would prefer to see its Allies occupied and the American Army in Europe destroyed rather than raise the level of the conflict," he said.

215 Rural Accidents
Reported in County

A Department of Public Safety annual report shows there were 215 traffic accidents on rural highways in Gray County during 1968.

The accidents resulted in four deaths and 110 persons injured. Total property damage, according to the DPS report, was $266,582.

Youths Charged With Burglary

Bonds of $1,000 each were set Saturday for a 17-year-old Pampa youth and 19-year-old White Deer youngster on charges of acting together on burglary of coin operated machines.

Justice of peace E.L. Anderson set the bonds.

Pampa assistant chief of police George Wallace announced the breaking of the burglaries Saturday and said one more youth would also be charged in connection with the incidents.

Charged were Cecil Ray Williams, 17, of 1240 S. Farley and Joseph David Harvill, 19, of White Deer.

Wallace said the pair was charged with burglary of soft drink machines at Griffin Gulf Service, Trimble Shamrock, Drinnon Humble, Dian Texaco and a newspaper machine at Foodway.

Adobe Walls Council Has Awards Banquet

Rep. Bob Price of Pampa, visiting his home district for the first time since Congress convened in December was guest speaker Saturday night in Borger for the annual banquet for Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Milo E. Carison, Pampa, was elected council president and presented one of three annual Silver Beaver Awards. The awards are presented for outstanding contribution to youth through scouting leadership, according to Bill Walker, Pampa, scout executive for Santa Fe District.

Other Silver Beaver awards presented were to Ora DeSpain, Guymon, Okla., and Frank Phelan, Jr., Clarendon. Since 1938, 72 of these annual awards have been presented in Adobe Walls Council.

Other council officers elected at the annual business meeting were vice presidents George Newberry, Pampa; Phelan, Clarendon; C. W. Foote, Perryton; Dr. Royal Bowers, Goodwell, Okla., and Brac Biggers, Borger. James A. McCune, Pampa, was elected treasurer and H. C. Grady, Jr., Pampa, assistant treasurer.

New members of the council executive board were Dr. James Malone and George McCarroll, both of Pampa; Jack Boone, Memphis, and Dr. B. G. Dollins, Guymon.

Outgoing council president Frank Cuberson, Pampa, honored for his service to scouting, was presented an original oil painting depicting his scouting accomplishments, Walter skaut.

The painting was done by Reginald V. Powell, Guymon, Okla., a member of the Adobe Walls Council Staff.

Rep. Price, re-elected to the 18th Congressional district, has been appointed to the House and is also a member of the aerospace committee recently House agricultural committee.

Donors Volunteer To Replace Blood

The 24 blood donors volunteering to replace blood used by Highland General Hospital patients should report to the hospital 9 to 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, according to Wes Langham, hospital administrator.

Technicians for the blood mobile from Coffee Memorial Blood Bank, Amarillo, have said they would come anytime we had 20 people volunteering to donate blood," Langham said.

Gene Reed, chief technician for Highland General Hospital, will work with the Amarillo technicians to take donations. "If anyone who has not already volunteered wants to be a blood donor, he may also come during the specified time. "Anyone donating blood must not eat before coming to the mobile," Langham said.

DOG LOVERS will be pleased to know that through the years canines have been well-represented at the White House. The absence of cats is understandable when one realizes that no feline would put up with all the comings and goings, erratic hours and impermanence of the Presidency. Top row, from the left, are LBJ with "Yuki," Richard Nixon, when he was vice-president, with "Checkers"; and JFK trailing after "Charlie." Bottom row, same order, shows "Heidi," Eisenhower's Weimaraner; FDR with "Fala"; and "Feller," Harry S. Truman's pet spaniel.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

APRIL 7-23
4:00—Polywogs
5:00—Beginners.

MEMBERSHIPS:
Did you know the Youth Center is really a Community Center open to all ages? Did you know that you receive free swim lessons with memberships? So many people do not take full advantage of such a facility because they have not heard about us. All Pampans should be proud of such a facility and want to really help all Pampans know about it.

Participation cost at the Center is very nominal. For a family the cost is only $20 per year or $12 for six months. Yes, this includes all members of the immediate family. If just an individual who is 8 years of age or older, you can purchase a membership for $8 per year or $5 for six months. There just is not any comparison in this price range anywhere in the United States.

TEEN DANCES:
The Center has an opening for a Pampa band who would be interested in playing on March 29. Anyone interested should contact Mr. Smith at the Center and he will explain the conditions and rules setup for the dances.

The Center sponsors a teen dance every Friday night for those teens interested in such an activity. On Friday nights

5:00—Swimmers Lesns.
7:00—All Ages Swim.

from 8-11 p.m. until Feb. 14 all age young people may attend the dances. Starting Feb. 21 the dance will revert back to the high school and college age group. This will be after the close of basketball season.

The Center has been thinking of the Jr. High age group after Feb. 14 and would like to know if they would be interested in a Tuesday night dance from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. If so, they should let this be made known to Mr. Smith soon.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE:
The men's basketball league leadership dwindled down to two this week. Emerging still tied for first at 6-1 were Cock o' Walk and First National Bank followed by Curtis Well Service at 5-2. The leaders get a rest this week playing other teams, but tangle on Feb. 12.

The season will end with an invitational tournament on Feb. 24-March 3. Teams interested should contact George Smith at the Center. Results and high scorers are:

First Baptist Church 47, George Smith 10; Coca-Cola 40, Red Porter 11;
Cock o' Walk 45, Carl Miller 13; Curtis Well Serv. 38, Eob Branscum 15;
First National Bank 48, Max Patton and Frank Schaeffer 17; Celanese 40, Bill Cornman 17.

R Clinical Judgement Is an Physician Asset

It is a faculty physician, after years of medical study, develops through experience in the practice of medicine. It enables him to make the right decisions about diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis (the ability to forecast the future of a disease). This medical wisdom comes from the professional observation of patients.

The clinical judgement of physicians, an ability no layman possesses, is the reason why it is wise to consult a physician at the first sign of any illness.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — February, says Dr. Willard E. Edwards, is "unfair to many people."
He certainly will get no argument from me on that point.
Indeed, I feel that Edwards is letting February off too lightly. If I were presenting the case against February, I would add several more charges to the indictment.
Among the other infractions of which February might properly be accused are loitering, bad breath and following too closely.
Its chief transgression, however, is arriving at the wrong time of year.
Years For Change
By the time February gets here, most people are fed up with whatever it is that has been going on. They yearn for a change. But February offers no hope in that direction.
All you ever get from February is more of the same old Chicago.
Edwards, a distinguished Honolulu engineer and inventor of something called "the perpetual calendar," bases his unfairness complaint on the fact that February has only 28 days.
"Workers paid by the hour earn considerably less in February but may have the same monthly bills to pay," he points out. "Employers paying their people a fixed monthly salary get less work from them in February."
True enough. But for a month like February, even 28 days is too many.

Terrible Drag
Edwards may be going easy on February because he lives in Hawaii. In that state, February probably is a relatively benign month. For most Americans, however, it is a terrible drag.
The way to deal with February is not to add two more days to its span, as Edwards proposes to do in his perpetual calendar.
The way to deal with February is to abolish it entirely.
Although Edwards' concept of an unchanging 12-month calendar with eight 30-day months and four 31-day months may be mathematically appealing, it fails on humanistic grounds.
What we need is an 11-month calendar with the 365 days divided as follows: seven in January in which to recover from New Year's Eve; none in February; 10 days in March in which to prepare for spring;

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of the nicest things about television is that it gives movie buffs a chance to determine which old films hold up best over the years, and why.
What becomes increasingly obvious in watching the reruns is that the motion pictures attacked to a timely contemporary theme of a given moment are those that date the fastest, and fail to hold up.
For example, there seems little doubt that the current rash of movies about homosexuality and lesbianism will date particularly fast—if one is talking about the American films about these subjects.
For while the themes are universal and timeless, the contents and attitudes expressed in these American films are geared pretty much to satisfying the sudden new freedom of audiences and creators. In short, exploitation of an explosive, sudden escape from the puritanism of the past, it may, by the way, seem odd to refer to explorations of sexual themes as contemporary. Yet it is the American nature—and films are no different—to treat sex as though it were just discovered yesterday, particularly the forms of sex that are generally considered unnatural.
And this juvenile exploitation of the subject is going to make many youngsters who are growing up today wiser than ever, wonder in just a few years what all the excitement was about concerning these primitive American sex epics.
As seen to this viewer from television, the movies that seem to hold up best are frank period pieces or "genre" films—that those of a specific type, in which the style of the motion picture is virtually everything, and the content not very important. Gangster films, for instance, and Westerns.
The period piece need make no excuses for its lack of relevance to our particular place and time—for it is, frankly, of a special period, and we can plunge in wholly without having to think too hard about its whys and wherefores. We either accept it on its own terms, or reject it. The closest we can come to it is if it has a solidly universal theme.
The genre film, in the days of the big studio schedules, was the bread-and-butter stuff, and anything that is stylish always holds up. If not for this kind of movie, the video reruns would be pretty short in supply, and pretty dismal too.

A MARTYR NAMED JAN is turning into a nightmare that won't go away for the Soviet occupiers of Czechoslovakia. The death of Jan Palach, the student who burned himself to death, is the focus of continuing protest in Czechoslovakia and abroad. Top, a sign reading "Jan Palach Square" proclaims the unofficial renaming of a corner near Prague University. Lower left, demonstrating Italian students in Rome spit on a Soviet flag. Lower right, marchers take to the streets in London.

NEW YORK (UPI)—W.E. Hutton & Co. describes the present market as "uninteresting," pointing out that fluctuations have been minor and actively limited. The company says it sees a lack of "financial community conviction" about such issues as the Vietnam peace talks and the fate of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.
Wright Advisory Reports suggests that investors keep a liquid reserve of about 30 per cent of investment funds, with a third of the reserve in U.S. treasury bills and the rest in long term—U.S. government bonds. It says it would use all or most of the reserve within six months for purchases of selected common stocks which should be available in mid-summer at lower prices.
Bache & Co. notes the "mixed" news background, with stimulation provided by quarterly earnings statements but auto production cutbacks and the East and Gulf Coast dock strike company suggests a "position of caution" pending resolution of the current trading range of the Dow Jones industrial average, but says there are enough investment opportunities available for those taking a "selective" approach.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE— This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News as a public service to taxpayers.
Q—I'm all set to file my return but my W-2 hasn't come yet. What should I do?
A—Wait until your W-2 arrives. The law requires employers to issue tax withholding statements to employees by Jan. 31 so you should receive the statement shortly. If you haven't received your W-2 statement yet, ask your employer about it.
Q—Where can I get a copy of the new 1040 ES tax form?
A—About 13 million new estimated tax form packages were mailed to taxpayers Feb. 1. If you filed an estimated tax declaration last year or owed more than $40 when you filed your 1967 return you will receive a 1040 ES form, Declaration of Estimated Income Tax for Individuals in the mail.
Q—When parents are divorced which one gets to claim the children as dependents?
A—Generally the parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the dependency exemption. However, if the other parent contributes at least $600 during the year to the support of the child he or she may be entitled to the exemption. There is also a special rule for a parent who furnishes more than $1,200 of support during the year but does not have custody.
Q—I operate my farm on a cash basis. Does this mean I won't have to figure out my inventories for tax purposes?
A—Farmers using the cash method do not have to report the value of their inventories for tax purposes. However, you should keep good records so that income and expenses can be accurately reported.
Q—If I file my return now, how long will it take for me to get my refund?
A—The normal processing cycle for refunds mailed now is 5-6 weeks if the return is accurate and complete. Send your return to your regional service center.

Q—I'm paying back a loan I took out for my son's college education. Can I deduct these payments on my 1968 return?
A—No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.
Q—I can reduce my taxes if I itemize my deductions and my wife takes the standard deduction. Can we do this?
A—No. Married couples filing separate returns must handle their deductions the same way. If one itemizes deductions, the other must also itemize.
HUNGER STRIKE
ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Six young Czechoslovaks began a hunger strike in a plaza here Friday to protest Soviet occupation of their homeland. The five boys and one girl said they planned to go without food for three days.

Join the 4-H Teen Caravan for a summer of learning and living in Peru!

Action-minded 4-H'ers, interested in a summer living experience abroad, join the 4-H Teen Caravan every year. Designed for older 4-H'ers—17 to 19 years of age—the Teen Caravan provides six weeks of living and working with host families in Europe and South America. A 10-day educational tour is provided at the end of the six-week program.

The Teen Caravan is far more than a sightseeing tour. Caravaners have an opportunity to learn about people, the land, the problems, the similarities and differences in their host country.

A Caravan in action may be helping his host farmer milk cows or he may be working on language study with a host sister; attending a local rural youth club meeting; in Peru, or learning the Peruvian version of the frog. He is learning about life as it is lived in another land.

The 10-Day tour following the host country visit provides an opportunity for the Caravaner to study the history and culture of other lands. Arrangements for the tour are completed before Caravaners leave the United States.

The program in the host country is arranged by an organization similar to 4-H. Each Caravan group is accompanied by a professional extension worker or other qualified leader from the United States. This group leader assists the host country organization in planning and conducting the program.

Sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation, the 4-H Teen Caravan is conducted on behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service of the State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

To get in on the action, you must be 17 to 19 years old by June 1 of the year of participation, interested in current world events, and willing to study your host country language extensively before departure.

Your local and state 4-H leaders and the National 4-H Club Foundation will provide orientation material. If interested notify the Gray County Extension Office. Deadline for applications is March 1.

The Texas 4-H Adult Leader Forum will be held March 11, 12 and 13 at the Driskill Hotel in Austin this is one of the most inspiring learning experiences in which the leaders can participate. We hope our county can have at least one application. The applications are due in the district office by Feb. 7, 1969.

The quota for District 1 is eight adult leaders, four men and four women. Applications

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
The Agricultural Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce has under consideration a proposal to organize a farm and ranch council or an agribusiness group. The purpose will be to promote the full development of agriculture and agriculturally-related industries. The Jaycees will act as host for the organizational meeting scheduled to be held Tuesday Noon, Feb. 11.

All business men, farmers and ranchers interested in promoting agriculture in this area have an invitation to attend this meeting. You are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce by not later than Monday noon, Feb. 10, if you plan to attend.

John McHaney, extension economist, Extension Service, Texas A&M University, will speak on "The Importance of Agriculture to the Agribusiness Community."

Much can be accomplished by an organization such as this. These organizations have been formed all over the state. Many have had great success.

were sold in Gray County. By 1964 this had risen to close to eight million dollars. This is a direct result of Moody Farms Feedlot.

Now with the addition of the Heaton Feedlot, we anticipate this figure will exceed ten million dollars in 1969. These census reports are made every five years.

The thing we should keep in mind is the fact agriculture is still the biggest business in Texas and is highly important in all the Panhandle counties.

We have a new breed taking over much of the specialized areas of agriculture. We have more business men entering some specialized field of agriculture than ever before. They are applying good business principals and making it work. Most of them are in it for profit and not tax write off as in other areas.

I was visiting with a fellow from the McLean area who is presently having over 2,000 head of cattle custom fed. He's presently engaged in the oil and gas business and formerly was in the dry good business. He has been successful in all his endeavors.

Today we have many people engaged in commercial cattle feeding that never owned a hoof before the advent of the commercial feedlots.

Quite often I hear these individuals criticized for invading what many farmers and ranchers feel is their sacred occupation. We should keep in mind that many of them are filling a vacuum that the farmers and ranchers have failed to respond to in many cases.

Likewise, every day I hear of a rancher purchasing and developing a shopping center in some Panhandle city. We have some local farmers that have made outstanding success in the oil and gas business.

You will see more and more vertical integration of agriculture. Farmers will be integrating into related fields to agriculture and business leaders will be dropping down to agricultural endeavors. Change is the word.

Soils Require Management

By EARL LEWIS
Soil Conservationist

Heavy clay and clay loam soils require good management for profitable long time use.

Soil series such as Pulman, Mansker, Olton, Zita, Portales, Potter, Randall, Spur and Guadalupe soils have built-in problems due to their high clay content. These soils are easily compacted when wet. Their structure is broken down when tilled too often. The soil runs together and becomes extremely dense when low in organic matter.

The crops adapted to these soils must have air, moisture, and nutrients available for proper growth. A conservation cropping system will provide these requirements.

A conservation cropping system includes crops in rotation that will supply enough residue to replace or increase the organic matter used up by the previous crop. A system like this will not only maintain but will also improve the soil.

When large amounts of residue are produced, 20 pounds of nitrogen per ton of dry residue just before time of planting the next crop will get it off to a good start. Additional nutrients must be supplied as needed.

Contact the local Soil Conservation Service technicians for assistance in planning a conservation cropping system that will fit your particular soil and system of farming.

ASCS News

By LYNN McDANIEL

Burning of crop residue can be very harmful to the soil. Burning residues causes the soil structure to gradually deteriorate as the soil organic matter is reduced.

The water intake rate, aeration and porosity are lessened. Erosion becomes a greater hazard due to exposure of the soil to wind and rainfall.

As the organic matter is reduced, our soil becomes more compacted. This compaction restricts the movement of the roots, and reduces aeration. This causes a reduction in yield. Gaseous elements such as nitrogen and sulphur will be completely lost by the burning. Burning destroys the food for the bacteria.

This amounts to about 30 pounds of nitrogen and three pounds of sulphur.

Certain bacteria depend upon organic matter for their food. These bacteria which fix gaseous nitrogen into available nitrogen at an unusual rate of about 10 to 50 pounds per acre.

Burning destroys the food for the bacteria.

One study carried out showed the water intake rate of 1.56 inches at the end of one hour where the stubble was left on the land. Where the stubble was burned off the intake rate was only 0.83 inches per hour at the end of one hour.

It should be realized that 40 per cent of the people in Texas are still engaged in the business of production agriculture or selling to or buying from agricultural people.

Texas ranks in the top 10 states in cash receipts of a number of agricultural products. Texas stands fourth in the nation on value of all farm commodities.

Below is the position of Texas in cash receipts of various commodities: All livestock — third; all crops — third; cattle and calves — second; dairy products — ninth; sheep and lamb — second; broilers — seventh; turkeys — fifth; eggs — seventh; mohair — first; wool — first; cotton seed — first; cotton lint — first; sorghum grain — first; wheat — eighth; peanuts — third, and rice — first.

Total cash receipts for all Texas agricultural commodities came to over two and one-half billion dollars.

Texas also does a pretty good job of farming the government. The State stands first in cash receipts in Government payments. A total of four hundred sixty-two million dollars was received in the 1967 crop year. This is well over twice as much as Kansas (second place) received, which came to two hundred twelve million in 1967.

In 1959 the Agricultural Census reported a total of five and seven-tenth million dollars worth of agricultural products are available at the Extension office.

Helen Wright, Simplicity Pattern Company, is scheduled to give a special interest program on fashion artistry and the new look for spring on Feb. 6 at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo. The program starts at 10 a.m. Interest 4-H leaders who feel that this program would be helpful to them are invited.

Solemnity Marked End For Era Of Johnson

EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of the following dispatch has covered the activities of three presidents and their families and accompanied former President Lyndon B. Johnson on this trip home to Texas. She returned to Washington this week to cover the Nixon White House.)

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—He has surrendered the presidency to Richard M. Nixon less than five hours earlier and the deep shadows of the chill winter afternoon were reaching across Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland when he finally left.

There had been the traditional ride with the new President to the Capitol for the swearing-in ceremony, followed by the nostalgic farewells of friends and political associates. There was a surface air of gaiety. But underneath was the solemnity—and occasional tears—which inevitably must mark the end of an era.

There no longer was the inevitable man with the black satchel containing the Nation's nuclear attack codes. There were no business or ceremonial deadlines to meet. The war and peace decisions with which he had wrestled so long had passed to Nixon.

Johnson and Lady Bird launched their retirement with long walks and miles of horseback riding in the brilliant sunshine which bathed the range and the Pedernales River. The former President said of those first few days that it was "like having a day off."

But summoning newsmen for a post presidential chat barely two days later, Johnson was asked if he was happy.

"Yes, I think so," he replied. Johnson was handsome in olive green gabardine slacks and matching jacket. But his mood was subdued and his manner short. His answers were barely audible to reporters who formed a close semicircle around him.

To Johnson watchers, it seemed to have hit him that he was no longer President. There was no longer that driving responsibility. It would take time for any ex-President to unwind. For Johnson, with his need for total involvement, it probably would take longer than for most.

Mrs. Johnson's mood was in sharp contrast. She long had wanted Johnson to quit at the end of his first full term and now she was exuberantly happy. "We knew it was only temporary," she said of their White House days. She looked as though she had been released from prison and was looking forward finally to leading her own life.

Part of her job will be to keep her husband from missing the power and the glory. He used to say, "I go to the office at 9 o'clock and I make decisions." Now he scans a newspaper, flips on the radio or television and knows the big problems are no longer his.

Friends say they are confident he will take the transition in stride.

"He'll take to his life like a duck takes to water," said former Ambassador Edgar Clarke, a Johnson intimate. "He loves the land and the cattle. Of course he'll be giving assignments to everyone, keeping them busy."

Secret Service Guard The atmosphere changed at the Johnson place the moment he relinquished the presidency. Barricades were removed and the gatehouse guards departed. Security became minimal although Johnson still has Secret Service protection as an ex-President. Souvenir shops still sold rocks from the LBJ ranch and crockery embellished with Johnson's portrait. But there was a for sale sign on a new Johnson City motel.

The center of Johnsonian activity has shifted to Austin where the former President's offices, with their wall-to-wall carpeting are being organized to handle the 2,500 letters and 200 telephone calls he has been getting every day.

Secretaries have started the mammoth chore of filing some 20 million documents—many of them top secret—which will be processed and declassified in the years ahead.

"I don't want little Lyn to have to do it," says Johnson, speaking of his cherished 18-month-old grandson Patrick Lyndon Nugent.

On the campus of the University of Texas, the LBJ Library and School of Public Service is scheduled to open officially in the spring of 1970.

Eyes on History Detractors call it a mausoleum for "Ramses III." Johnson and Lady Bird want it to be the "biggest and best" of the various presidential libraries. They have always had their eyes on history and kept meticulous records of the Johnson years.

The ex-President looks with pride at the smooth transfer of power to Nixon. He says he has no bitterness and no animosities. He noted, with some irony, that his popularity rose in the public opinion polls 20 per cent after his farewell State of the Union speech.

The polls were a good barometer of the presidential mood during the five years and 59 days Johnson was—as he put it—"President of all the people." And he often reminded people "I'm the only President you've got."

Now he speaks of Nixon much in the same vein and cautions fellow Democrats to be compassionate and to remember that Nixon is the "only President" around.

Johnson's respect for those who win and hold public office is deep and genuine. It was the name of the game for him for 38 years. As a congressman, senator and vice president, Capitol Hill was his home. The portrait of himself that he left behind at the White House has the capitol in the background.

Knowledge of Congress But Johnson also remains in awe of the destiny that catapulted him into the presidency. The first time was in a moment of national tragedy—Kennedy's assassination. "Let us continue," he told a distraught people at the time.

He proceeded to win congressional approval of an unprecedented legislative package, partly because of the national wave of emotionalism and partly because of his own skills and knowledge of Congress.

His search for his own presidential image came harder. In the early White House days, he sat in a rocking chair reminiscent of Kennedy. He took early morning walks in the tradition of Harry S. Truman and a few times he played golf, sports symbol of the Eisenhower era.

None of the shoes fit well, and could not. In the end an overpowering personality such as Johnson had to be his own man.

He introduced the nation to the colloquialisms of Texas and down deep nursed an inferiority that he would be faulted because he was not Harvard-born and a member of the Eastern Establishment. He felt to the end that his critics concentrated on his big sky country freewheeling personality rather than his record.

Ticking off his accomplishments recently, he said: "This may not have been done with charisma or style, but it was done."

Vietnam Approach If votes are proof of accomplishment, Johnson got it in 1964 when he buried Republican Barry M. Goldwater with a 16-million plurality. Biggest in the nation's history.

Possibly his most telling campaign battlecry was a question keyed to Goldwater's militant approach to Vietnam: whose finger would the voters prefer on the Vietnam policy favored by Goldwater.

Johnson also set forth his "Great Society" program and let it be known that henceforth it was going to be the "Johnson administration." He was weary of the Kennedy shadow. Washington was to wear the LBJ brand.

His legislative accomplishments included a new civil rights law, medicare, education for all, from four-year-old headstarters to 74-year-old adult students. A broad housing bill was passed and "open housing" became the law of the land. He paid high praise to the "fabulous" 89th Congress.

During those days, Johnson proudly boasted that no "Bay Pigs" disaster to plague his administration as it did that of the slain Kennedy.

But it quickly became obvious that he was more at home in the war against poverty, illiteracy and hunger than he was in the jungles of diplomacy where even the world's most powerful nation could not impose peace.

Dominican Revolt His first crisis was the Dominican Republic revolt. He sent in the Marines with changing explanations; first to save American lives; then to prevent a Communist takeover.

He helped restore a stable government but did not get much credit for it.

He considers the Arab-Israeli war in June, 1967, the eyeball-to-eyeball crisis of his administration. He used the "hot line" to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and believes he prevented a world conflagration. But the Mideast is still a tinderbox and the Soviets for the first time have a power base in the Mediterranean.

Vietnam was Johnson's Waterloo. He has told visitors that he might have sought reelection had it not been for that conflict and the national disunity it created.

Plans for airstrikes against North Vietnam designed to bring Hanoi to its knees in six weeks were on the drawing board in 1964. In February, 1965, Johnson went along with his diplomatic and military experts who said the bombing was necessary to save South Vietnam.

Escalation of the ground war followed and the battle was on. Johnson liked to compare the U.S. position with the situation just before World War II. He said he refused to appease the Communists "like Chamberlain" appeased Hitler. He did not, he said, plan "to cut and run."

In those days the Vietnam "doves" were ignored in the White House. Johnson sometimes greeted his former press secretary, Bill Moyers, at top-secret meetings with: "Here comes Mr. Stop the Bombing."

As the war dragged on, the ranks of the protesters grew, however. Civil strife, violence in the cities and on the campus and outspoken dissenters were tearing the nation asunder. Johnson was a man besieged, but righteous in his cause. He appealed for patience and perseverance during "a time of human testing."

He stopped dancing at White House parties. He became the commander-in-chief, personally picking bombing targets, worrying about returning pilots. His wife worried with him and kept reminding him that they had decided on Inauguration Day in 1965 he would only serve one term. In her diary she counted the days when they would leave the White House.

On March 31, 1968, he dropped the bombshell. Johnson would not seek re-election. He felt that he was the "target" and that he could get Vietnam peace talks started and cool off the domestic extremism and hatred if he removed himself from politics.

One of the things he took home with him to Texas was the belief that he succeeded at least in part. Johnson feels he was so mistrusted that it took a complete act of personal sacrifice to be believed.

The former President acknowledges that he suffered from a "credibility gap," but he attributes it to his failure to communicate rather than to his credibility. Others close to Johnson believe his need for secrecy led to suspicion and misinformation.

He kept his options open and he was the master of government by "fait accompli." The people learned of his decisions only after they were taken. He did not prepare the public for acceptance. It was Johnson's way—that "big daddy" could take care of it all.

Friends attribute part of this secrecy to Johnson's desire not to disappoint anyone. He remembers how eager he was as a child when his father drove him to a county seat to hear a campaign speech by Gov. Dan Moody of Texas. Moody didn't show up. When it happened a second time, it made a lasting impression on Johnson.

Johnson's White House was a closed institution. His staff spoke only with his permission. Johnson aides referred to him as "The Boss" and often were scared of his wrath. His aides, he later admitted, sometimes were abused by a President in a hurry.

The press, in Johnson's eyes, was the not-too-loyal opposition. He never found a comfortable news conference technique. The early walks around the South Lawn with a gaggle of huffing and puffing reporters were dubbed by participants as "death marches."

In combative tones he would complain to reporters "you-all have the First Amendment," as though it gave them a special license to harrass the chief executive.

Dissenters got under his skin and he had a story for them. He told about the farmer who was driven mad by the creaking of what seemed to be thousands of bullfrogs in his pond. The farmer finally drained the pond. "You know how many bullfrogs he found?" Johnson would ask archly. "Two," he would answer himself with a grin.

One of Johnson's greatest concerns was the economy and he was careful not to rock the boat unnecessarily. He knew, for example, that the President's health was a factor on Wall Street. After his gall bladder operation, he opened his eyes and heard press secretary Moyers say: "Mr. President the stock market opened steady."

Once his 80-year-old cousin, Oriole Bailey, was asked how she thought the President looked. "Tired," she confided to a reporter. "But don't print that," she added, "the President says it will cause a depression."

Johnson has kept his personal opinion of Nixon a secret. He has told friends, however, that he ran for the vice presidency because his beloved friend, the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, could not bear to see Nixon as president in 1960.

"I wanted to be vice president about as much as I wanted to be the 'Pope,'" Johnson once said glumly.

CHEVY TALK

JIM CARROLL

Are you looking for a truck which facilitates side-loading? You may be interested in Chevy's new Stepside Pickup. Between the cab and rear fenders are step running boards. These steps are on both sides of the truck. And they help you speed-up your loading and unloading.

The inside width at the floor is fifty inches. This allows you to load standard four-foot-wide materials. The floor of the Stepside Pickup is made of wood. To this is added steel skid strips. On these strips your cargo easily slides in and out.

The floor runs 78 1-8 to 108 1-4 inches in length. There is a different length for each of three models. The tailgate adds 17 3-8 inches for extra-long loads.

Cotton Insects Out of Control Despite Sprays

By KENNETH R. CLARK

MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI) — Insects which infest Texas' cotton and grain are almost out of control despite massive chemical spraying, according to Texas A&M's chief entomologist.

And the insecticides have killed thousands of bees and resulted in 275 cases of "acute pesticide poisoning" among humans, Prof. P. L. Adkisson told a pesticide conference.

Adkisson said chemicals like DDT and methyl parathion have been used so indiscriminately that the insects have become immune.

Explains to Conference He told the conference: —In 1963, it took 50 times as much DDT to kill insects in the central Texas plains as in 1961. —DDT will now only kill 10 to 15 per cent of the insect population in a field no matter how much is used. —Methyl parathion has been dumped over the Rio Grande Valley in massive amounts, but the tobacco budworms it was supposed to kill are thriving. —Conversely, thousands of bees owned by Valley beekeepers have been killed.

Waiting for Change A delegation of beekeepers attended the pesticide conference. One, Ed Walker of Pharr, said he had "waited a long time" for a change in the program. "Those people really have their backs to the wall," he said. "They've poisoned themselves out of business, and I'm favorably impressed with the fact they've finally found out they've got to do something different."

Seitz Due Hall of Fame Honors in Amarillo

By MIKE WESTER
AMARILLO (UPI)—Two football greats and the most successful baseball manager in the area's history will be inducted into the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Burl Bufkin, Pete Shotwell and the late Grover Seitz will be installed as the latest members in the hall at Amarillo's new Civic Center Auditorium.

Bufkin and Shotwell are associated with football. Seitz won his way into the hall in baseball. He and his wife were killed in an automobile accident near Amarillo Feb. 1, 1957, and his son Bobby Seitz of Odessa will accept a plaque for his father.

Both Shotwell and Bufkin are expected to attend and receive their own plaques.

Special Olympians Award Olympic stars Randy Matson of Pampa and Tommy Pool of Groom will receive special awards. Matson won the gold medal in the shotput in the Olympics in Mexico City last year and Pool won a bronze medal in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo in the small bore prone position rifle firing.

Also to be honored will be area athletes and coaches of 1968 in football, basketball, track, golf, tennis and baseball.

Seitz won seven championships as a manager in the old West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League—1940, 1946, 1950 and 1955 at Pampa and 1941, 1942 and 1952 at Clovis. During 16 years as a manager his teams gained the playoffs every year except one.

Aggies Keep Lead With 65-57 Win

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Ronnie Peret used his muscle to bull through the Texas defense for key layups in the second half Saturday to give the Texas A&M Aggies a 65-57 triumph that kept them in command of the Southwest Conference basketball race.

The win kept A&M undefeated in the SWC chase and dropped Texas two full games behind with a 3-2 mark. It was the second major victory for the Aggies on the road, having previously knocked off SMU in Dallas.

Texas stayed in front most of the game, and held a narrow 29-38 lead after the first half in which both teams played deliberate ball. The Longhorns kept a tight margin until seven minutes left when Peret shouldered his way through the crowd for two straight buckets.

That gave the Aggies a lead they never relinquished. Peret, playing in the middle for Steve Niles who had gotten into foul trouble, wound up with 26 points, 19 of them coming in the second half. Wayne Doyle kept Texas in the game with his accurate outside shots, hitting 25 points.

TCU Downs Hogs, 85-79

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Defending Southwest Conference basketball champion Texas Christian finally got its first league victory Saturday, using the timely free-throw shooting of Rick Wittenbraker to bump off Arkansas 85-79.

TCU had lost its first five conference games before picking up the win. TCU caught up with 13 minutes to play on a jump shot by Jeff Harp and took the lead to stay with six minutes to go.

The Frogs played for the sure shot from then on and Arkansas fouled repeatedly. TCU made all 12 of their free shots

Little's 67 Good for Lead

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Gene Littler treated the hometown folks to a fine show Saturday, shooting a five under par 67 to take the third round lead in the $165,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament with a 54-hole total of seven under par 209.

Littler, who lives down the road a few miles from the Torrey Pines Municipal course, started the third round with a two under par 142 score, and then went out and bagged six birds in a 35-32 round to take the lead by two strokes over Jack Nicklaus.

CONCERNED — Jim Hollis (with ball) shows concern as does Pampa's Edward Moultrie (31) as Hollis comes down with a rebound. Next to Moultrie is Amarillo's Hershell Mitchell (42) and No. 45 is Pampa's Jim Gallman. Pampa beat Amarillo, 57-51.

Phil Rodgers had a 68 to tie second round leader Larry Ziegler and Bob Charles at 215. Ziegler, who started the day a stroke ahead of Nicklaus and three strokes ahead of Littler, skied to a 76 while Charles moved into contention with an even par 72.

Six players were tied at even par 216 and the group included George Archer (69), Dave Stockton (70), Tommy Aaron (70), Tony Jacklin (71), Bruce Devlin (72) and Dow Finsterwald (72).

Elly Casper, U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino, Masters champ Bob Goalby and PGA-

CAUGHT IN THE ACT — Hurles Scales of Amarillo (54) was caught in the act Friday night and the official indicates a foul. Scales was guilty of the infraction against king Julius Boros continued to have their troubles. Trevino shot a two over 74 and was in a group of eight deadlocked at 218; Goalby and Boros had 73s and Casper a 76 and were five down the list with seven over par 223s.

Littler, who won the San Diego Open in 1954 as an amateur, had two of his six birdies on the front nine. On the 18th, a par five, 501-yard hole, he chipped to within two feet of the pin to miss an eagle.

Nicklaus, who started the day a stroke off the lead at 140, also birdied the 18th after taking a bogie on 17.

Smith, who won $30,000 on the tour last year as a rookie, played in a threesome with Nicklaus and Lotz, winner of the Alameda Open earlier this year. Ziegler, Littler and Charles were in the last threesome to tee off and the crowd favored that group and cheered every time Littler made a bird.

Littler, 37, has won 20 titles over the years on the PGA tour and is the 1961 U.S. Open champ. He did not win a single title in 1968 but still banked more than $61,000.

Howe Is One of A Kind Olympians Hit Doldrums As Do Fans in Busy Season

NEW YORK (UPI)—Somebody who got a bit carried away once likened Gordie Howe to a cyclone on ice.

The guy missed the whole point, Gordie Howe is even better off the ice. He's like a breath-of-fresh air.

He would never know how to be a "house man." In other words he's not a shill. He's never going to say something simply because it happens to be the pat, accepted thing for him to say. He doesn't play those games other people play. He says exactly what he thinks.

The greats in all the other sports, for example, all say the same thing. They're all going to quit while they're on top. It sounds great but there's only one trouble. Few if any ever do voluntarily.

Gordie Howe says you don't have to worry about him in that context.

Through At 21? "I don't believe in the theory of quitting while you're on top,"

well now, my 23rd season with the club, and if next year turns out okay, who knows, maybe I'll try for 25."

Nobody, not even Gordie Howe, stick handles his way past mother nature forever.

At the age of 40, the pride and joy of the Red Wings ranks as the NHL's third leading scorer and he still can outmaneuver, outshoot and out-think anything most of the 20-year-olds around but there are visible signs of the 22 seasons he has served with Detroit.

The scars and stitches he bears are only a couple of reminders. Then there are the gray hairs where once it was all jet black and that extra inch or two around the mid-section where once it was just like a washboard.

It's only natural that people keep asking Howe when he plans to quit.

"I've said I'd quit the first time I put two bad seasons together," he says matter-of-factly. "Well, I'm doing pretty other effort being Seagren's 17-4 1/4 indoor track record in last year's Millrose.

And it wasn't much of a homecoming for New Yorker Bob Beamon, world record holder in the long jump. Beamon, making his first hometown appearance since his prodigious 29 feet, 2 1/2 inch leap at Mexico City, was bothered by a leg injury and bowed out of the competition after one jump.

Fosbury Beaten Daring Dick Fosbury, creator of the famous Fosbury flop high jumping style, also had his problems and had to settle for a leap of 6 feet, 8 inches. The Oregon State athlete was beaten in his specialty by upstart Ron Jourdan of the University of Florida who jumped seven feet, one inch.

Then there was the case of world 800-meter king Ralph Doubl of Australia whose travel problems brought him from Montreal to New York via Baltimore.

Recruiting of State's Best in Home Stretch

By MICHAEL RABURN
United Press International

The recruiting war has entered the home stretch around Texas with some key prospects already committed, but most of the big prizes apparently still up for grabs.

The first scattered returns show Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Christian coming up with some big names early in the race. Such plums as Lex James, Gary Keithley and Joe Wiley, however, are still to be picked.

Cougar staff has not announced any schoolboy signings.

Two of the top players to be committed thus far are quarterbacks Erad Dusek (Texas A&M) of Temple, and Alan Lowry (Texas) of Irving.

Dusek made the Texas Sports Writers Association's all-state Class AAAA team as a defensive back. Lowry was picked as quarterback on the AAAA all-state second team.

ing colleges before making a final choice.

Texas Has 12 Texas has announced 12 commitments thus far and besides Lowry they include Jerry Sizemore of Plainview and Steve Valek of Dallas Bishop Lynch.

Texas A&M is also reported to be in the running for another top quarterback, perhaps the best in Texas last season. That would be Lex James of Houston Sam Houston. James has yet to make any commitment, however, and is still vis-is going all out for a couple of prize athletes.

Rice coaches are said to have made favorable impressions on Alvin quarterback Gary Keithley, another one of the excellent crop of signal callers this year, and Henderson running back Joe Wiley, considered to be among the very cream of this year's blue chip crew.

The big catch announced thus far by Texas Tech has been Larry Ward, a flanker from Fort Worth Arlington Heights who made the second team, and end Lane Bowen of Brownwood, who was named to the Class AAA first team.

Pampa Boosts Mark to 4-0

By RON CROSS
AMARILLO — Pampa overcame all the odds and without doubt displayed the best basketball team here Friday night, and kept pace with Tascosa and Borger in the second half of district 4-4A basketball play.

The Harvesters overcame first half fitters and fantastic Amarillo shooting to score a 57-51 victory over the Sandies.

But Borger and Tascosa both won and both, along with Pampa remained tied for the second half lead, all three with 4-0 records.

Borger edged Caprock, 45-38; Tascosa whipped Lubbock Coronado, 71-59; Plainview beat Monterey, 50-46 in overtime and Palo Duro clubbed Lubbock High, 92-54.

Next week Tascosa will meet both Borger and Pampa. They play Borger at Borger Tuesday and host the Harvesters Friday.

Amarillo hit a fantastic 68 per cent of its shots in the first half when it held a 15-14 first quarter lead, and 28-27 halftime margin.

Pampa hit only 43 per cent in the first half but came back for 55 per cent in the second half while the Sandies could muster only 21 per cent.

For the game Pampa connected on 47.8 per cent of its shots (22 of 46) and Amarillo hit just 34 per cent (22 of 62). The Harvesters actually won the game from the free throw line, hitting 13 of 19 while the Sandies struggled about with only seven of 14 charity shots.

Pampa made a shambles of the contest in the second half and only a three point play by Amarillo in the closing seconds made it as tight as it was.

The contest was tied five times and the lead changed hands 17 times before Pampa went in front to stay at 32-31 with Jim Hollis's free throw doing the trick with 4:33 showing on the clock in the third quarter.

Hollis upped his season and district scoring average with a 22 point output, high on both teams. Only other Harvester to hit in double figures was center Jim Gallman with 13 points, most of them coming at crucial times.

Johnny Epperson added nine points, Billy Thomas seven and Edward Moultrie six. Moultrie and Gallman swept the boards clean against the taller Sandies.

Amarillo had a new face in Johnny Johnson, who became eligible for the second semester.

Mitchell had been highly touted and paced his team in scoring with 16 points but was no match for Moultrie and Gallman on the boards. Kenny Roberts and Kyle Pipkin added 14 points each for the Sandies.

Pampa held one three-point lead in the second period on a free shot by Gallman and a basket by Moultrie at 27-24.

But the Sandies scored two quick buckets to go in front at halftime.

Amarillo led 10-7 with 4:07 left in the first period but Gallman scored and Thomas hit a free shot to knot it a 10-10.

Once in the second period Amarillo seemed about to pull away leading 22-18 with 5:46 to play.

But Hollis and Gallman hit buckets to tie it and Epperson put the Harvesters in front by a point with a free shot.

After Hollis goaled to put Pampa in front to stay the Harvesters ran up a 36-31 margin with 3:34 left in the third period on added buckets by Gallman and Hollis.

Pampa's biggest spread was 10 points near the end of the game at 53-43 when they scored six quick points.

This came after the Sandies had pulled to within four points, 44-40 at the opening of the final period. But the count quickly went out to 48-42 on free shots by Epperson, Hollis, Gallman and Epperson again.

The Harvesters entertain Caprock here Tuesday.

Pampa's Shockers fell to the Amarillo Junior Varsity, 30-41 and stand 9-7 for the season.

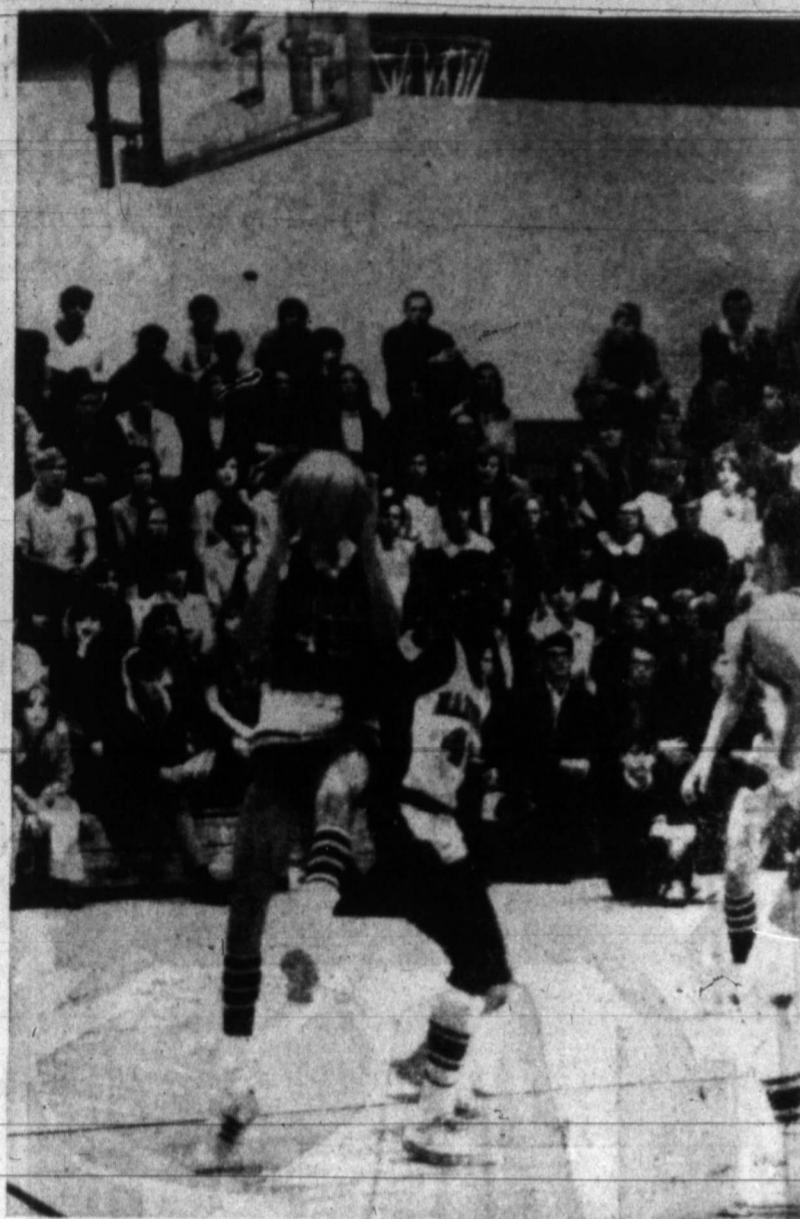

John Jenkins paced the Shock's scoring with 12 points, Jordan scored nine, Thompson nine, Brumfield 5 and Johnston and Hoed, three each.

Rumors Spread Again That Mavericks Moving to South

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Mavericks officials, who are having a hard time trying to convince people the club is not going to move to North Carolina, have made it even harder.

Maverick owner Jim Gardner, from his headquarters in Rocky Mount, N.C., announced Friday the Mavericks had traded sparkplug guard Willie Somerset and forward Leary Lantz for the New York Nets' Hank Whitney, Lavern Tart and Bob Verga.

Verga played his college ball at Duke University in Durham, N.C.

Officials of the American Basketball Association team have been trying for a week to stomp out rumors that the club is moving to North Carolina.

Don DeJardin, the new general manager for the Mavericks, announced late last week that "we're not planning on moving and if we were moving we would not be moving to North Carolina than anywhere else."

The Mavericks, however, have drawn poor crowds during their two-year existence and the league had to take the franchise over late last year when it faltered financially.

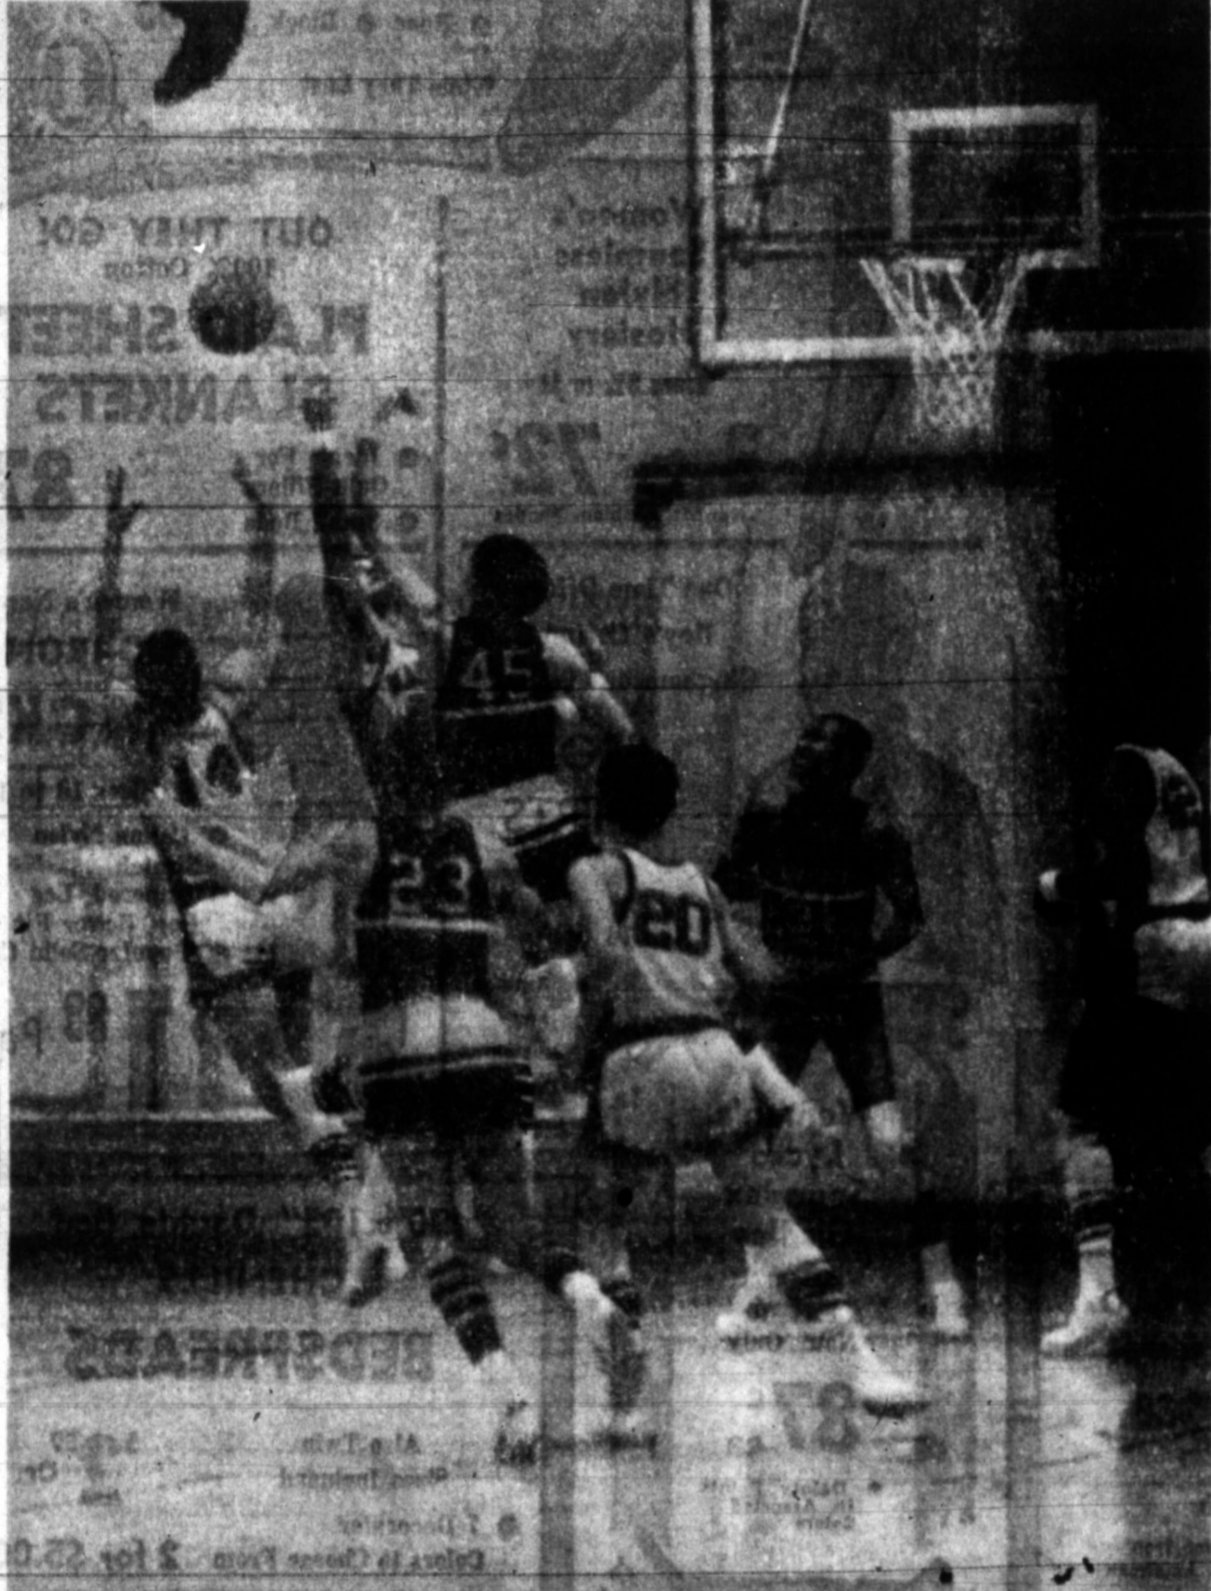

Gardner, president of Southern Sports Corp., bought the club, and the rumors immediately began flying that the team would move to the basketball hotbed of North Carolina.

Friday's trade added fuel to the rumors.

Somerset was about the only crowd-pleasing player the Mavericks owned and was Houston's lone representative in this week's ABA all-star game.

Lantz seldom starts for the Mavericks.

Verga, who played with Dallas and Denver before being traded to New York, is a popular player in North Carolina. Neither he nor Tart, both guards, have logged much playing time this season for New York. Whitney is a reserve forward.

BATTLE ROYAL — Jim Gallman (45) and Amarillo's Kyle Roberts (14) stage a battle royal with Ken Johnson for a rebound in Pampa's 57-51 victory Friday night. No. 23 is Johnny Epperson and 31 is Edward Moultrie.

Person Favored in Over 40 Golf Tournament

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI) — Three-time champion and defending titleholder Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., again will be the favorite when he opens defense of his Life Begins at 40 Golf Tournament crown next week.

Person apparently has fully recovered from an attack of flu and pneumonia which sent him home from the Bing Crosby Pro-Am more than a week ago.

He went on to play in the Interantional Seniors Tournament in Florida this week and carried a three-stroke lead over the field into Saturday's final round there.

All of the big names from last year's tournament will be back for the 17th renewal of the week-long affair which has a long waiting list of would-be entries trying to crowd into the limited field.

Along with Person will be last year's runner-up, John Townsend of Houston; and semifinalists Henry Richards of Jacksboro, Tex., and Dr. John Kennedy of Mount Pleasant, Tex.

Last year's medalist, Pete O'Sullivan of Baytown, Tex., will also be in the field at the Harlingen Municipal Course.

A scotch foursome will open the tournament Sunday with qualifying rounds set for Monday and match play running from Tuesday through Saturday.

Four Pokes Are Charged

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Four Oklahoma State freshmen football players from Texas were charged Friday with second degree burglary.

The four, all starters last season, were charged in connection with the Jan. 8 theft of automobile stereo tape players on an OSU parking lot.

Arraigned before special Judge Richard J. Stead were Jimmy Layton Davis Jr., 20, and Robert Lee Barbee, 19, both of Garland, Tex.; Richard Earl Graham, 19, of Amarillo, Tex., and Joe Kyle Crews, 20, of Dallas. They were released to their attorney's custody without bond.

The arrests resulted from an OSU security force investigation.

Preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 18 in district court.

Cokes Okay, Sets Feb. 10 As Fight Date

DALLAS (UPI) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes said Saturday he had about recovered from a bout with a virus infection and would be ready to face Don Cobbs of St. Louis in a non-title bout in St. Louis Arena Feb. 10.

The bout against the fast-rising former Golden Gloves junior middleweight champion originally was scheduled for Feb. 5, but Cokes said it had been moved back five days "in order to allow me time to get my strength back."

Cokes said he planned to have at least one more nontitle bout, "either in Washington or Dallas," before his next title defense April 18 in Los Angeles against Ernie Lopez.

GETS FRANCHISE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Manchester, N.H., was granted an Eastern League franchise yesterday, replacing Binghamton, N.Y., which was forced to discontinue operation when it lost its ball park.

The new franchise will be either operated by the New York Yankees, who ran the Binghamton club, or under working agreement with the American League.

SUCCEEDS BROWN
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Gerry Alaimo, currently coaching basketball at Middlebury (Vermont) College was named to succeed Stan Ward as head coach at Brown.

Alaimo, who starred at Brown in 1957-58, will take over next season when Ward's resignation becomes effective.

Briscoe Wins Pair
 Briscoe took a pair of games from Groom Friday night, the boys winning, 58-39 and the girls taking a 54-32 decision.

Phyllis Aderholt led both teams in scoring with 32 points, her highest output of the season and Margaret West scored 11 for Groom.

Rusty Atherton and Bill Walker hit 15 points each and Bill Heffy scored 16 to pace the Briscoe boys. Fredireksen hit 12 and Lovelace and Howerton scored 10 each for Groom.

Benefit Dance To Aid Patients

REPORTING RESULTS OF PAMPA AND NATION-WIDE MD DRIVES
... Rob Roy Cannon, Lee Thomas, Mrs. Irvin Hungerford, Mrs. Verto Plunk, Leonard Cannon

Another first annual event will start Saturday when Pampa couples attend the Epsilon Sigma Alpha benefit dance for the Muscular Dystrophy fund. Pat Carter and his musicians will perform for the semi-formal dance which starts at 9 p.m. in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room. Proceeds from the benefit will be used for MD supplies and equipment for the 11 patients in the Greater Plains Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Kappa Alpha Epsilon members of ESA joined the Greater Plains Chapter in September, 1968. Working in their first door-to-door campaign that same month, they collected $1,000, according to Mrs. James Scott, chairman of the M.D. public health education committee. "We joined the chapter because the Pampa area officers needed someone in this area to help with the fund-raising drive, and because we believe it is a good cause," Mrs. Scott said.

"Proceeds from the dance will go into the association's general fund which serves 26 counties in the Greater Plains area and includes Pampa and the Amarillo area in its coverage,"

Leonard Cannon, MD chapter vice president, said. "The general fund is used for any apparatus needed by the 11 MD patients in the Greater Plains chapter. Last year we received $5,200 in the annual drive and bought six wheelchairs. When you consider they are about $200 each, it doesn't take long to spend a lot of money," Lee Thomas, MD chapter president, said.

"Except for the annual drives held about the same time as the national campaign, we don't have an active program here, but we do need to get more people interested in the problem of muscular dystrophy. It's no respecter of age as the age range of our 11 patients shows. Of the 11, nine are children and two are adults, with ages ranging from five to 50 years old," Thomas said.

Patients in the Greater Plains chapter live in Pampa, Spearman, Gruver, Stinnett, Borger, Memphis, Darrouzet, Hooker, Okla., Guymon, Okla., and two in Clarendon.

Of the money collected for MD drives, 75 per cent is sent to New York City, to the national headquarters for research, and 25 per cent is allocated for the chapter, Thomas said. In Pampa, the Greater Plains Chapter for MD has 20 members, four officers and 16 Kappa Alpha Chapter members of ESA. Officers here for the MD unit are Thomas, president; Leonard Cannon, vice president; Mrs. Verto Plunk, secretary, and Rob Roy Cannon, treasurer. Howard Wright of Lubbock is the Greater Plains director.

Rob Roy Cannon, the only MD patient in Pampa, is a second semester freshman at Oklahoma State Tech at Okmulgee, Okla. An accounting major, he made the Dean's list for the first semester with a 95 average, and was home between semesters visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cannon, 101 S. Dwight.

ESA members organizing the dance as committee chairmen are Mrs. Dale Haynes and Mrs. Claude Taylor, co-chairmen; Mrs. R. O. Johnson, publicity, and Mrs. Horace Henley, business contacts list.

ESA members mailed 200 invitations out of Pampa and has contacted several business firms here to enlist support for the MD cause, Mrs. Irvin Hungerford, ESA chapter president, said.

Home League Sets Style Show Date

Mrs. David Tucker, member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, will narrate a Salvation Army Home League fashion show at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Army Center, 701 S. Cuyler.

Cottons for all seasons will be featured by 10 Pampa models. Sheila Givens, Kandy Killy, Sheila McCarrell, Tina Givens, Katie Woods, Jolores Duncan, Janine Duncan, Sherry Smith, Teri Lyles and Mrs. Peggy Ennis.

The traveling collection of fashions, Cavalcade of Cottons, is a loan service made available by the National Cotton Council and a pattern company. It is offered to demonstrate versatility in home sewing and as information on new trends in fabrics and pattern styling.

Mrs. Jess Duncan, a Salvation Army Captain here, said. The wardrobe, made by seamstresses in Memphis, Tenn., includes casual clothes, tailored suits and coats, late-day dresses and children's wear.

The show and dinner meeting are open to the public. To make reservations, call the Salvation Army office, 9-9921 by Tuesday, Mrs. Duncan said.

2 Women Present Audience Program

Mrs. Buddy Lamberson presided at the meeting of Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi recently at the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank.

The Ways and Means Committee gave each member tickets to sell for a $75 gift certificate which will be awarded March 15.

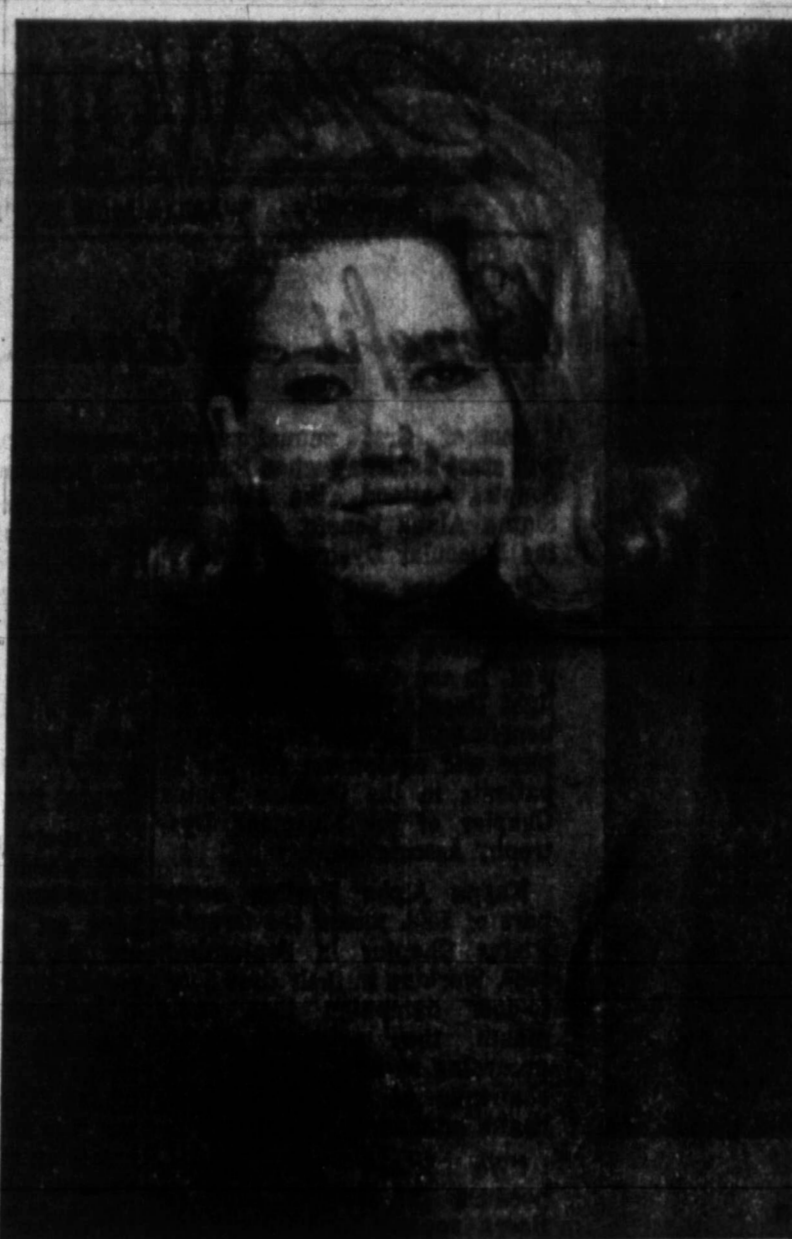

The program "You and Your Audience" was given by Mrs. Sonny Golden and Mrs. Ronald Beard, who presented a humorous skit on public speaking.

Hostesses Mrs. Woody Crawshaw and Mrs. Bill Miller decorated the table with candles, and had horseshoe books and napkins for each month.

Those present were Mmes. Buddy Lamberson, James Lee, Dwayne Blakemore, Sonny Golden, Robert Benyshek, Penny Stout, Charles Thompson, Jim Cunningham, Warren Chisum, Charles Snider, Woody Crawshaw, Ronald Beard, and pledges Mmes. Jack Zuerker, Bill Miller, Tommy Hill and Richard Serrurier.

The wardrobe, made by seamstresses in Memphis, Tenn., includes casual clothes, tailored suits and coats, late-day dresses and children's wear.

The show and dinner meeting are open to the public. To make reservations, call the Salvation Army office, 9-9921 by Tuesday, Mrs. Duncan said.

Miss Carolyn Jean Hudson

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hudson, 1936 Fir, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Jean Hudson, to Bob Stout, son of Dr. and Mrs. Sid Stout, Amarillo. The Spring wedding will be performed in First Methodist Church, Pampa. Miss Hudson is employed by Bell Helicopter, attended Oklahoma State University and West Texas State University and is a member of Alpha Delta Phi Sorority. Her fiancé, a University of Texas graduate, member of Phi Delta Theta, is stationed at the Naval Base at Pensacola, Fla.

Miss Joy Howard

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Howard, 2129 Williston, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joy Lynn Howard, to David Mark Henkel, son of Rev. and Mrs. Hershel H. Henkel, Wilcox, Ariz. Wedding vows will be exchanged March 8 in Central Baptist Church here. Miss Howard graduated from Pampa High School at midterm, and is employed in an office supply store here. Her fiancé, a graduate of a Tonkawa, Okla., high school, attended Phoenix College, Phoenix, Ariz., and is employed as a cable television technician.

Miss Myers Weds Randy D. Miller

Miss Lydia Ann Myers became the bride of Randy Dale Miller Jan. 22. Rev. J.B. Caldwell, of Pentecostal Holiness Church, performed the ceremony in the church parsonage.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ammons, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen Miller, of Pampa.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Jim Wheeler, 2229 Dogwood after the ceremony. The couple both attended Pampa High School and will live here. The bridegroom is employed with Cities Service.

Sorority Members Review Lighting Effects on Homes

Members of Phi Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the Southwestern Public Service Bldg., as Mrs. John Lyle conducted the business meeting.

It was decided members would go to Girlstown, Berger, Feb. 1 to take a birthday cake and presents to Connie Gardner who is sponsored by this chapter.

The Valentine Dance was discussed and planned with an open house before the dance in honor of the chapter sweetheart, Mrs. Dennis Wyatt. Slides were shown by Mrs. Dennis Wyatt and Mrs. Ronnie Atkinson illustrating proper lighting and lighting effects to be used in the home. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jackie Narrell and Mrs. Don Hufstедler to 17 members.

Look's Revival

length white veil of illusion was accented with Italian lace secured by an Italian lace tiara. She carried a white feather flower bouquet centered with a glabella and placed on top a white Bible. For something old, she wore pearls belonging to her paternal grandmother, something borrowed, her maternal grandmother's handkerchief. Her something new was pearl earrings from the bridegroom and a white Bible, a gift from her father. She wore a blue garter and said vows with a penny in her shoe dated the year of her birth.

ATTENDANTS
Bridal attendants were Mrs. Malcolm Kirkland, Universal City, matron of honor; Miss Jan Huffhines, Amarillo, maid of honor. Others were Miss Raffkind, Norman, Okla.; Mrs. Dick Hamilton, Lubbock, and Mrs. Ronnie McMurray and Miss Joan Hall, both of Amarillo.

Candlelighters were Miss Brenda Denny, Killeen, and Miss Mary Margaret Peppard, Mineola.

All bridal attendants were dressed identically in ruby velvet formal evening gowns accented with alencon lace at the waist. Their headpieces were pink velvet Dior bows. Each carried a pink velveteen muff topped with a ruby rose corsage.

Best man was Charles Harker, Lubbock. Groomsmen and ushers were Lanny Lewis, Guyton, Okla.; Dick Hamilton, Lubbock; Phil Crenshaw, Norman, Okla.; Ronny McMurray, Amarillo; Roger Estes, Midland, La; Malcom Kirkland, Universal City, and Bill Barkley, Hereford.

Organist, Miss Delores Gray, Amarillo, accompanied vocalist, Dan Hood, Amarillo. Wedding selections were "A Wedding Prayer," and "Climb Every Mountain."

The bride's mother wore a pale blue silk dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a celery colored silk dress with matching accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage. The church altar was decorated with a center arrangement of white mums. Three 15-branch candelabras with chapel candles completed the setting. Pews were marked with white chapel candles. The couple knelt on a kneeling bench and white satin carpet at the front of the church.

RECEPTION
The reception in Lydia Parlor, St. Paul Methodist Church, was arranged by Mrs. Freeman Barkley and Mrs. Gertrude Archer, Spearman, the bride's aunts.

The table was decorated with white organza cloth and centered with an arrangement of white mums. The cake was decorated with white roses and topped with a pair of white doves beneath a heart of seed pearls.

The bridegroom's table was decorated with an imported white linen cloth and centered with a light fountain.

Those assisting with serving were Mrs. Roy Miller, Lubbock, punch; Miss Carol Cloyd, Dallas, coffee; Miss Donna Johnstone, Albuquerque, N.M., cake. Others assisting were Mrs. Jerry Pyne, Salt Lake City, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Gaylene Pfeffer, Fort Worth, register and Mrs. Don Remling, Amarillo, the bridegroom's cake.

For the honeymoon, a skiing trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the bride traveled in a pink wool dress with coordinated pink plaid coat. Her flowers were the glabella from her wedding bouquet.

The bridegroom's grandfather, G.W. Redman, El Cajon, Calif., and his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. S.P. Hall, Pampa, attended the ceremony and reception.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Tascosa High School and is a senior at Texas Technological College where she is a member (See Miss Huffhines, Page 17)

MRS. ROY CROUSE
... nee Carol Conn

Miss Carol Conn, Roy Crouse Say Nuptial Pledges

Nuptial vows were repeated recently by Miss Carol Conn and Roy Crouse in Central Baptist Church of Pampa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Conn, Bartlesville, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Margie Crouse and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. B.R. Nuckols, 1324 Williston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Foster Elder, Jr., Dallas, formerly of Pampa, were the couple's attendants.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Oklahoma State Tech and have been employed in Dallas with an instrument company. The bride is living in Pampa while the bridegroom is serving with the Armed Services.

On Fashion Scene
Long pants and jeweled or embroidered vests are still the evening fashion scene. Satin, crepe, velvet or sequined pants with vests of brocade should be at the top of any party-goer's list.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

FOR SUNDAY, FEB. 2
YOUR BIRTHDAY today: Adjustment is the path upward for the coming year. From the most extreme external force to the finest detail of personal routine, some profitable or constructive change will become apparent to you. Try for it purely for your own satisfaction. What the outside world is more likely to see of your personality comes on smoother as the year progresses. Today's natives are usually gifted in many lines but often do not work at their highest levels of skills.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): — Share in the community expression on this day. Take pride without boasting; give others benefit of the doubt. Make an early end to the day's activities, conserve energy and tempers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — There is such a thing as running a good line of action to an extreme. Courtesy and tact are essential, as any error will be at once beyond reach of retraction. Avoid unnecessary travel this evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Make the most of the day's opportunity for social expression. Using patience, wind up the amenities in good order among all closely associated with you. Restrain the temptation to scatter small money in the afternoon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — If you will placidly do what is expected of you, many little snarls will dissipate, and leave you free. It's better to stay near your homebase and let others come to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Seek family conferences for stabilizing any problem for perspective on the expectations of everybody in the immediate future. Calm discussion well ahead of time can avert squabbles later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Accept every chance to reconcile. Where relationships are ending, keep things very simple and clear without recrimination or bitterness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — During the day's activities, listen rather than offer commentary. Some of your insights into the nuances of your friends may surprise you. Create a light mood in companionship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Forebearance continues to be very important in your life over this long Sunday. Wait for others to settle their confusions. Tonight set aside time to consider the merits of your present plans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Do your full duty to the community, your family, your friends this Sunday. There will be other times for your needs. Younger people find your comments very important, so consider carefully what you say.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — The full moon tends to bring out into the open emotional conflicts; this one provides you with relative peace within yourself while others are wide open for your view.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Today marks turning points for most Aquarians. Personal ties may diminish; offer every courtesy but there is no immediate help for it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — This day brings release, deeper understanding of some old problem. Make a mental survey of your environment before you clutter it up.

Dear Abby
by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my parents — now both in their eighties. Dad is a retired rancher who enjoys a little chew of tobacco occasionally, and mother literally letests this habit of his.

Dad is a distinguished looking gentleman. He's nice and clean and never dribbles tobacco juice around his lips, chin or the corners of his mouth. There is never any physical evidence to reveal his tobacco chewing, furthermore he never chews in company—only when he's alone in the back yard.

Don't you think Mother should allow him this one small pleasure in their declining years? It has become a terrible source of bitterness between them. Perhaps if you will print this Mother will recognize herself and know that one of her three sons wrote it. Thank you.

HOUSTON POST READER
DEAR READER: I can not understand why you and your brothers can't get the word to your mother without the help of me and the Houston Post. Quietly tell your mother what you have told me—to allow her husband this "one small pleasure." If she remains unmoved, forget it. They understand each other better than you will ever understand either of them.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like an answer to my question immediately. I've had three dates with a man and I could be interested in him. In fact, I am already, but this man wears a ring (See ABBY, Page 17)

WELLS-MCDANIEL

Miss Jane Carol Wells

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wells, 1908 Russell, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jane Carol Wells, to David Alan McDaniel, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. McDaniel, 1801 Charles. The wedding is planned for April 5 in the First Methodist Church here. Both are 1965 graduates of Pampa High School. Miss Wells attended Texas Technological University in Lubbock two years before transferring to Texas Christian University. A member of Phi Beta Phi Sorority and Corps-dettes, she plans to graduate in June with a BBA degree in Business Education. Her fiancé, a TCU senior, is majoring in economics and history and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. He is employed by a Fort Worth credit company.

For a Special Flair
This is the age of the body shirt — tailored clean lines that give the wearer a classic look. Of course, as with an 'in' thing, body shirts sometimes lack that certain something to set you off from the crowd. To give yours a special flair, use rodeo ribbon to transform it into a western wow.

Church Wedding Ceremony Unites Miss Judy Stone, Garry Crafton

Miss Judy Stone and Garry Crafton repeated marriage vows in an evening ceremony in Calvary Baptist Church Jan. 23. Rev. E.W. Boyle, pastor, officiated as the couple exchanged rings.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Stone, 117 N. Gillespie. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Crafton, 416 Roberta.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride was dressed in a beau de soie candlelight color wedding gown designed with scalloped lace neckline trimmed with pearls. Her full sleeves were fastened with small covered buttons at the fitted wrists. Her A-line dress designed with an empire bodice, was accented with chantilly lace and seed pearls.

The Dior veil was attached to a beau de soie bow and pearls. She carried gardenias with stephanotis in a cascade arrangement and placed on a 100-year-old Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Bride's maid of honor was Robbie Hendrix. Bridesmaids were Lee Bowerman, Judy Murrell and Becky Flowers. All were dressed in red velvet A-line dresses with empire bodices. They carried heart-shaped peppermint carnations with a cascade of red and white ribbons.

Best man was Eobby Trolinger, assisted by Mike Stone, the bride's brother; Lannie Crafton, Derril Crafton, and Robert Schaub as ushers.

Baskets of white gladiolas with two gold spiral candleabras decorated the church as Ricky Land, organist, and Mrs. Wanda Loooper, vocalist, presented wedding music. Wedding selections were "Lord's Prayer," "Melody of Love," and "True Love."

The bride's mother was dressed in a pink fitted knit dress with magenta accessories and pink feathered carnation corsage accented with pearl hearts. The bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue knit with black accessories and a light blue feathered carnation corsage with pearl hearts.

For the reception in the church Fellowship Hall, a three-tiered cake was decorated with red hearts and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, Susan Richardson, Susan Maynard assisted at the punch and coffee service as Jamielou Schaffer served cake. Sheila Hickey registered wedding guests.

The reception table was covered with lace cloth with gold and crystal candleabras and bridesmaids' bouquets placed at the candleabra base.

For the honeymoon by plane to Dallas, the bride traveled in a lime green and white knit dress with lime green tweed coat and black patent accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

The bride plans to graduate in the Spring from Pampa High School. The bridegroom attended Pampa High School and is employed in a Cabot laboratory.

MRS. GARRY CRAFTON ... nee Judy Stone

Miss Diana Sanders, Dan Childers Say Nuptial Vows In Keene Church

Miss Diana Lynn Sanders exchanged marriage vows with Dan Wayne Childers in the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Keene Dec. 21 with Elder Lloyd Davis officiating for the exchange of vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sanders, of Keene. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Childers, 1406 E. Francis.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was dressed in a candlelight beau de soie floor-length gown fashioned with a portrait neckline and long bell sleeves. Re-embroidered lace appliques trimmed with tiny seed pearls accented the bodice and skirt of her gown.

The long chapel train was attached at the shoulders and edged in white Chantilly lace. Her waist length tulle veil of illusion was attached by tiny beau de soie rosebuds. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations centered with white orchids.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Beverly Shoemaker, Dallas, served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of hot pink beau de soie with empire waistline and long bell sleeves. Her headpiece was an illusion net veil attached with small hot pink flowers. She carried a pink candle shaped like a rose and accented with pine bows and pine cones, with avocado ribbon streamers.

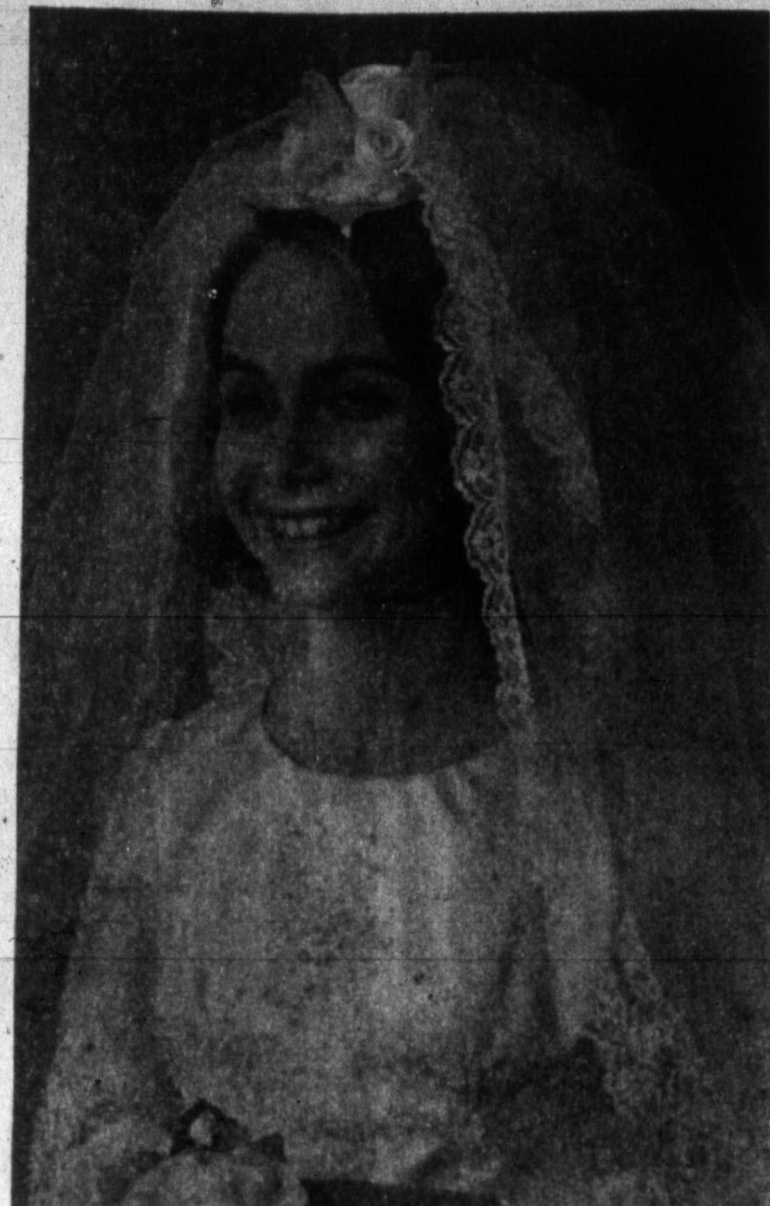

Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Cheryl Bell and Miss Brenda Northrop, both of Keene. Both wore hot pink beau de soie dresses and headpieces identical to the matron of honor's and carried pink rose candles. Best man was Bruce Childers, brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Billy Wiist and Jerry White, both of Keene. Steve Shoemaker, Dallas, and Charles Cherry, Keene, seated wedding guests.

Palms and candleabras formed the nuptial setting. Traditional wedding music was provided by Tommy Kimbro of Keene at the organ. Billy Sanders, brother of the bride, and Kathy Davis presented instrumental numbers.

The bride's mother wore a hot pink two-piece suit with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a pale pink silk suit with (See SANDERS, Page 17) and nothing seems to come easily. Be content with a slow start. Romantic considerations are confusing; wait for a better response.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): More than usual, your regular routines require full and undivided attention. You have what it takes to do the job right. Your loved ones may be capricious; have patience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Today begins the first of a series of stray thoughts. Take none of them seriously until later verification or repetition. Don't scatter energy over such a broad range that nothing is achieved in any direction. Endeavor to straighten out this evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Petty aggravations provide you with an opportunity to develop your ability to endure. Every detail is expanded beyond its proper importance. If you overreact you miss the message.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Leave tensions in the office. Home affairs develop some added quirk, requiring presence of mind. Pay attention to this passing opportunity! Children, your own or others, are very important to your happiness now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Working conditions test your tolerance this week. Improvement is slow. Remain out of others' disputes, particularly at any place of employment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Social amenities (avoiding incongruous combinations) go a long way to bridge the gaps this week. Begin early this morning making life more pleasant for yourself and those around you. A slow start is no serious deterrent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your personal concerns must be put aside for professional considerations. Muster as much enthusiasm as you can. When you quit for the day, take your mind entirely off the work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The spirit is hidden in the pile-up, but it is there! Work out details since nobody else has a quick grasp of anything today. Children are important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Begin planning for promotion. Consider home situations to increase enjoyment of what you have. It is not yet time, however, for action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): New associates or at least some new personal expressions come into view. Take nothing for granted, check it all out. The temptation is to invest in gadgets; save your money.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): People around you scatter their energy. Just don't let anybody stampee you into excess spending. Avoid loans at this time! Lend your shoulder this evening for somebody to have a good cry, but don't intervene.

RECEPTION

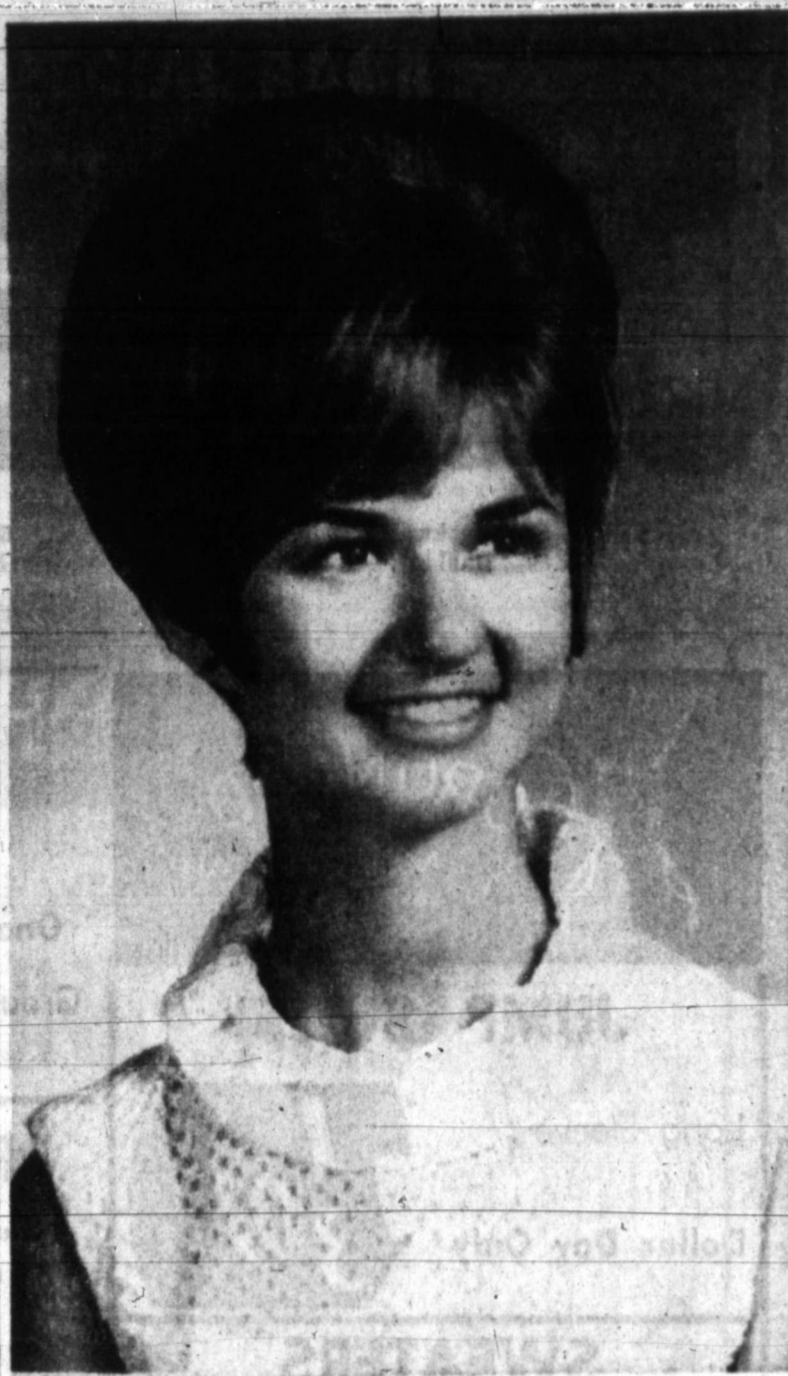

For the reception in the Fellowship Hall, the bride's table was decorated with a white lace cloth with white floral centerpiece. The four-tiered cake was decorated with white roses and bells and accented with a miniature bride and bridegroom on the top. Mrs. Mary Barbee of Cleburne served cake. Mrs. Linda Haltman, Fort Worth, assisted at the crystal punch service with Mrs. Kay Cherry and Miss Barbara White, both of Keene.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a white linen cloth. Miss Vir Lynn Rusk served punch. Miss Debbie Sanders, Bethany, Okla., and Miss Rusk presided at the guests' register. Timmy Kimbro provided music for the reception.

For the honeymoon to Corpus Christi, the bride traveled in a white two-piece suit with a full-length black and white, checked cape with black patent accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a high school graduate and 1967 graduate of Southwestern Union College in Keene. She is employed with a Fort Worth petroleum company. The bridegroom is a Pampa High School graduate and a student at Southwestern Union College.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood White, formerly of Pampa, hosted the rehearsal dinner.

which looks as though it could be a wedding ring. I'd like to keep the relationship going, but not if he's married. If seems to me if he were married and is only "playing around" he'd take the ring off rather than advertising it, right? But isn't it rude to pry into a man's personal life and ask if he's married?

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Will There Be Any Changes?

With the "changing of the guard" in Washington, D.C., some folks believe the "good guys" have replaced the "bad guys." Some others believe the opposite. Meantime there has been for several weeks a meaningless debate over which of two horrors will be adopted by the new administration.

One horror is continuation of the present inflationary spiral. The other horror is "inflation-fighting steps" which, it is claimed, will increase unemployment. The latter course of action seems to be favored by so-called "orthodox" economists who hold that full employment creates inflation.

Reduced to plain words, the argument is simply this. One side is saying the government should continue creating more worthless money (the sneaky inflationary method of imposing taxes) and slinging it into the economy. The other side, implying that inflation is something other than the government increasing the amount of worthless money in circulation, is saying that the government should slow down its "money" creation and speed up its "orthodox" tax collections.

Both arguments, since no government has anything other than what it steals, amount to the same thing — continuing plunder of productive workers. Admittedly, so-called full employment (such as exists in Soviet Russia and Red China) obtained by government created "jobs" causes market place unemployment and generates "reasons" for the government to create more phony money to pay such "workers." But the arguments that shutting off the inflationary process will cause real unemployment, or that real market place, productive, employment causes inflation, are so much Keynesian hogwash.

Neither horror is necessary. The research staff of the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc. argues, cogently, in the federation's January 7 bulletin.

As a matter of fact, as the federation's research staff clearly shows with a list of examples, it is the government itself that is creating both inflation and unemployment and, at the same time, a critical shortage of both skilled and unskilled labor vitally needed by business and industry. Categorizing the government's attempts to shape economics to political expediency as "hermaphroditic economics," the research staff cited actual cases which reveal the extent of governmental distortion of the economy:

The owner of a Texas crosstite company with 89 employees reports, "Need six more men to work. Cannot get them due to extensive give-aways and welfare."

A North Carolina operator of a service business reports, "Our greatest hindrance today is securing common labor and semi-skilled labor. Quite a few of the common laborers in our area were hired by country stores and service stations. Today these people are drawing food stamps, welfare checks, and various other handouts and are not in the mood to take a job of any kind. Most take great delight in telling prospective employers how much they are drawing and thus are not interested in working for anyone."

The owner of a California construction firm with five employees comments, "If we made it harder to qualify, or did away with unemployment payments entirely, maybe our labor problems would be less."

A Florida auto dealer with 25 employees says, "We need ten men now. But good men are scarce and unskilled labor is satisfied with unemployment handouts."

An Illinois retailer with 13 employees says, "I have worked closely with public aid and welfare to help get people off relief, but because welfare aid is so freely given it becomes a real source of competition in the labor market."

A Mississippi grocer remarks, "If government would quit giving food and dollars to people to sit down and do nothing this farming area would be a lot better off. Maybe we could get someone to pick peas, haul hay, and do a number of jobs not big enough for mechanical operations."

A Texas manufacturer commented, "Too many governmental agencies going about creating needs that do not exist and promoting help and assistance for the mere sake of spending federal money to perpetuate their existence."

"Those typical comments among hundreds received," the federation researchers concluded, "indicate inflation (and by extension unemployment) has not been created by (market place) overemployment, but rather by government encouraged and subsidized under-employment."

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON
Jackie and Onassis, PART II

ATHENS, Greece: Aristotle Onassis, sometime husband of the former Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, once said: "I am a sailor and sailors have women in every port." A magazine recently quoted a woman acquaintance of Jackie's as saying: "She borrows husbands the way other women borrow a cup of sugar." It would doubtless require an exhaustive survey to determine what percentage of borrowed cups of sugar are ever returned.

Jacqueline and Aristotle are actually better matched than most married couples. He likes money, jet set people, free love, dirty jokes, power. And so does she. Mrs. Kennedy "vacationed" with Onassis on his yacht before her husband was assassinated, and after, as everybody in Greece knows.

Onassis' parties are the richest, rawest and raunchiest since Rasputin. Sex is passed around like a handkerchief at a "drop-the-handkerchief" party. But it's never dropped, of course. There is something for everybody. And "everybody" might include an ex-king or two, several movie queens; enough "starlets" to meet the demand, assorted gangsters and "liberal" illiterates.

While Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis may be a "public sinner" in the eyes of good Catholics for having married a divorced man, Onassis' Greek Orthodox Church permits its members to marry three times. So, Aristotle has one more to go. His first wife divorced him merely because he had taken on as a companion a notorious opera singer named Maria Dallas. Even though Ari hates arias, Maria evidently preferred to sing to him rather than to the opera-loving, land-lubbing husband she abandoned. She took Ari for better and got the worst. After 10 years of companionship, high notes and low notes, Ari gave Maria her last curtain call a few months ago and Jackie took the stage. And Maria now sings: "I lost my weight. I lost my voice. And now I have lost my Onassis."

I came to Greece on Olympic Airways, a magic carpet owned by the Magi Onassis. Perhaps some magic day I may get a glimpse of the island of Skorpios where Jacqueline will build her camelot-castle. Perhaps I can even talk to one of their 200 servants or maybe even one of their beautiful jet set people! Oh to BE, even for an instant, where THEY have been! Or maybe even see them do their thing!

In any event, I resent the slurs many writers have cast on Mrs. Kennedy for marrying Aristotle Onassis. So what if the Onassis chassis is only 5'7"? It is also roomier. So what if he says he's 62 and his passport says he's 68? When she's 68, he'll be only 97! So what if he's got $500 million and she's got only $20? Give little Jacqueline time, baby! Jacqueline "turns on" with bikinis, madmad parties and the boats, castles, foreigners, "beautiful people" of the international jet set. Jacqueline and Aristotle richly deserve each other. Do not worry about our Jackie.

After all, Jackie's sister spent about six months with Onassis on his yacht, off and on, and evidently pronounced it seaworthy.

Is this still a Democracy or did the Republicans get in? Of course this country started out as a Republic, but it has since turned into a Democracy that is fast becoming Socialist.

The first Republic which the founders set up was strictly limited in its powers by a constitution. But in the 19th century the bureaucrats started a drive to change the government from a Republic to a Democracy. This lets the government do anything just as long as they can claim the majority wants it done. Today they don't even bother with the majority—they do anything they want as long as the minority opposes.

In a Republic the gov't cannot infringe on individual rights because the constitution forbids it but a Democracy can destroy individual rights in the name of the "public interest."

That is why the country is fast going downhill on a socialist sled. Until they clean up the Supreme Court and get some men who believe the original founders of the Republic knew what they were talking about, we are going to keep heading for the looming cliff of socialism at such a pace we won't be able to put on the brakes in time to keep from going over the side.

Were These Trips Necessary? — Lawmakers Ask Of Spy Missions

WASHINGTON — While Commander Lloyd M. Bucher and his crewmen have been telling their stories to a court-of-inquiry, senators and congressmen have been raising questions which go beyond the compass of the Navy's Pueblo inquiry.

Central to many of the congressional queries, which have been swamping Navy liaison officers, are two questions: Who was chiefly responsible for the spy mission which saw the Pueblo steam unprotected into unfriendly waters? Was the electronic intelligence data to be obtained worth the clear risks involved?

Questions of this sort have been fostered by a memorandum, circulated by the staff, to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Some of the members, including Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., have long been critical of the impact of intelligence operations on U.S. policy.

The memo contains some Pentagon data, and it is classified "secret." It can be reported quite safely, however, that the committee staff raises the question of how the government exercised command and control over the Pueblo's mission.

The memo presents the Pueblo's seizure as the most recent in a series of disastrous incidents in which intelligence operations caused great embarrassment to the United States. Listed as forerunners to the Pueblo incident are Russia's downing of the U-2 spy plane in 1960, the 1964 attack on U.S. destroyers in Tonkin Gulf, and the attack by Israeli forces on the spy ship Liberty, in 1967.

The memo questions whether the aims of these missions had been coordinated with the broader interests of U.S. policy. It also raises the question of what echelon of government officials made command decisions in connection with all the ill-fated operations.

Stressed by the memo is the confusion with which top government officials reacted when the missions went sour. (It is reported, for example, that former Secretary of State Dean Rusk blamed the Arabs in the immediate aftermath of the Liberty attack, while former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara blamed the Russians.)

TOP-LEVEL APPROVAL — Whatever the fruits of a successful Pueblo mission might have been, all evidence indicates that the mission was approved, in concept at least, at a high government level.

In testimony last year, before the Senate Armed Services Committee, Secretary McNamara called the Pueblo's assignment "justified," even in hindsight. McNamara said that, while the mission was first proposed by field-level commanders, it was approved by their superiors and reviewed at the upper echelons of government.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the House military appropriations subcommittee, that the top-level government review included the Joint Chiefs.

Now it is being reliably reported here that the Pueblo's mission was, in fact, reviewed by the National Security Council. Such a review procedure is frequently followed in the case of sensitive intelligence operations.

Even if such was the case, however, some of the questions posed at the Capitol will need a more detailed answer. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, has already asked why no protection, in the form of air cover, was available for the Pueblo.

CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY — For the present it appears House will order a special investigation of the Pueblo seizure. As of now, it appears that regular Armed Services committees will review the incident after the court of inquiry has completed its deliberations.

Both committees, Senate and House, are scheduled to start soon on their annual hearings on the state of the nation's military posture. Those hearings are a regular prelude to action on the Pentagon's annual authorization bill, but they often dwell at length on such irregular matters as the Pueblo incident.

That is the way Senate and House leaders want to handle it this time. The staff of the Senate's preparedness investigating committee, has been directed to keep up to date on the Navy investigation but to keep out of the inquiries for now.

Demands for closer scrutiny could change these plans, however, and set the stage for a special Pueblo inquiry, similar to the investigation by a special Senate subcommittee of ammunition shortages in the Korean war. The thoroughness and candor of the Navy court could be important here.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., a member of the Armed Services Committee, is already complaining that McNamara did not tell the committee last year that Bucher had requested devices for destroying his electronic equipment and that such destruct devices were denied him. Dominick wants to fix responsibility for turning down Bucher's request.

Note: We are told that other ships have been denied vital equipment, or had requests sharply modified, on the same economy grounds cited to Bucher when he sought destruct devices for the Pueblo. Ships headed for duty off Vietnam have not been exempt from tight economy restrictions, according to reliable informants.

A Good Way to Begin Is Rhodesia

In cleaning up the mess made by the last administration, President Richard M. Nixon will have his hands full. The catalog of errors made on the domestic and international fronts in the last eight years is enormously long. A good way to begin, however, would be to rescind the Executive orders issued by former President Johnson authorizing economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

The Johnson administration went into a tailspin in its handling of relations with independent Rhodesia. Though Rhodesia isn't the biggest problem on the international scene, the former administration's mistaken policy-making regarding that country is symptomatic of what's wrong with U.S. foreign policy in many parts of the world.

The last administration, like the Kennedy administration before it, alienated friends while it appeased foes. This was the case with respect to Rhodesia. The Rhodesians offered to send a contingent of soldiers to fight alongside the Americans in the struggle against communism in Vietnam. No black African country has even come close to making such an offer. On the contrary, the nations of black Africa have been part of the chorus that shouted condemnation at the United States.

So what did the Johnson administration do? On July 29 of last year, Lyndon Johnson issued Executive Order No. 11419, prohibiting U.S. nationals from engaging in commercial and financial activities that would support the Rhodesian economy. What a way to treat a nation that extended the hand of friendship! The Executive Order backed up a resolution for sanctions that was pushed through the U.N. by the radical Afro-Asian bloc.

As a result of the order, American industry was refused permission to import chrome ore from Rhodesia, a highly strategic metal. Where did American purchasers have to turn? The answer is "Russia."

But that was all right with the Johnson administration. While the Johnson administration was quick to punish Rhodesia, a Western-oriented nation with a free enterprise economy, it was all for "building bridges" to the Soviet Union and its communist satellites.

Though the former administration was all for applying thumb screws to the Rhodesians, it rejected economic sanctions or pressures against the Soviet Union into the Kremlin sent 600,000 men into Czechoslovakia in a shocking act of ruthlessness and terror.

It is time for the United States to discard the double standard that has been employed in the last eight years. If economic sanctions are to be employed, let's use them against enemies of the United States—the communist and socialist states that hate freedom.

Let's not join any more U.N. lynch mobs that want to destroy friendly, progressive governments such as that of Rhodesia. The Rhodesians have as much right as any people to enjoy independence on their own terms, as much right, for example, as the American colonists of 1776. They not only have the right to self-rule but they have the capacity for it. This is not the case with the majority of African countries, for their economies are in a state of chaos and their politics often are the politics of terror.

The extremists in and out of the U.N. try to present independent Rhodesia as a threat to the peace, when that country isn't menacing anyone and is in a state of internal peace. But the U.N. won't even consider the civil war in Nigeria which has resulted in the death of hundreds of thousands of Biafran secessionists—and which also has led to the use of Soviet weapons on the African continent. The government of Kenya, another black African state, expels thousands of longtime Asian residents, but the U.S. doesn't do anything about that. The Johnson administration didn't issue any Executive Orders to reprimand Kenya or Nigeria.

President Nixon has a great opportunity to make a new start in foreign policy by ending the shame and hypocrisy of Executive Order No. 11419 issued by his predecessor. With a stroke of the pen, he can allow resumption of normal U.S. trade relations with Rhodesia. This step logically should be a prelude to U.S. recognition of the government of independent Rhodesia and an exchange of ambassadors.

From this action, the world would know that there's a "new broom" in Washington and that the mistakes of the last will be swept away. The world would know that henceforth the U.S. will reserve its hostility for foes of freedom and will give the anti-communist nations the support and solidarity they deserve.

Why Noninvolvement?

The more witnesses when someone is in trouble, the less likely that any of them will try to do anything to help.

This lamentable "law" of human nature has been discovered by Dr. John M. Durley, Princeton University psychologist, and Dr. Bibb Latane of Ohio State after a three-year investigation into the way people respond to emergencies. The research was inspired by the murder of Kitty Genovese in New York in 1964, which took place before 38 passive observers.

Re-enacting the incident in a laboratory, the psychologists found that 81 per cent of their subjects gave help when they thought they were alone with the victim, reports Science Service. In groups of five observers, only 31 per cent reacted.

The same thing was found in several different emergency situations. The more people there are, the more they pass the buck of responsibility. It's not that people are basically uncaring. The very presence of a crowd, say the psychologists, can force inaction on its members by implying, through its passivity and apparent indifference, that an event is not an emergency.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 1969 with 332 to follow.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history: In 1848 Mexico signed a treaty giving what now is Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California to the United States for $15-million.

In 1876 Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Hartford, and Louisville formed the National Baseball League. In 1933 Adolf Hitler issued an order dissolving the Reichstag. In 1968 North Korea refused demands for the release of the 82-man crew of the USS Pueblo. A thought for the day: Roman Poet Ovid said, "To be loved, be lovable."

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES

Resisting The Irresistible
They were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spoke" (Acts 6:9, 10). These words were spoken about Stephen, a man who was greatly used of God in the time of the early church and who was irresistible in his arguments. The wisdom of Stephen's arguments was apparent because it was the wisdom of the Word of God. When you argue from the Word of God, no man can defeat your arguments; for God's Word is not divided. The spirit of Stephen's arguments was the spirit of the Writer of the Book from which Stephen quoted. Today men do not like to meet "head-on" the Word of God. When you begin to speak from the Bible, they will not face your arguments but will do as they did to Stephen—question you "motives" and accuse you of something of which you are not guilty. Rather than face Stephen's arguments, the accusers charged that he had taught that God was going to destroy "the holy place, and the law." Stephen had said nothing of the kind. The Lord had said, "If you destroy this temple, I will rebuild it again in three days" (John 2:19). But He was speaking of the "temple of his body" (John 2:21). Stephen's accusers twisted the Lord's Word and Stephen's words. They will do that to you, too. How strange the spirit of the argument of those who do not argue in the wisdom of God's Word! I received a letter from a man who said, "You will go to Hell. You ought to go to Hell. You do not practice love." What a wonderful example of love he is! Certainly he does not practice what he preaches. He did not try to answer any of the Scripture we had quoted in dealing with a principle that is clearly set forth in the Word, but he hopes we will go to Hell because we do not practice love. How foolish are they whose word is not the Word of God and whose spirit is not yielded to the Spirit of God.

YOUTH IS STRONGER

Pop Sounds Drown Out Vienna Waltz

By ROBERT PIERRE VIENNA (UPI)—Youth is stronger than tradition. So the younger generation in Austria is showing a distinct preference for rock and roll, country and western ballads and the blues over the waltzes on which it was weaned. The older generation, including music publishers and others with a vested interest in the past, have all but surrendered. The young folks can't hear their arguments anyway. They are listening to the music of Nashville, Motown and Tin Pan Alley as it emerges from transistor radios practically around the clock. Once upon a time this cultural capital's heart beat mostly in three-quarter time. It might have remained that way had not public demand forced the

Quirks In The News

INDIAN WAR

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Five men were fined $25 for participating in an "Indian war" during the weekend.

Police Sunday were called to a West Side home where a group of Chippewas had invaded a party thrown for a group of Menomonees. No small act of bravery considering what police saw:

The front door had been battered down and about 20 persons were swinging ax handles, iron pipes and beer bottles.

Judge F. Ryan Duffy said he hoped the fines—for being drunk and disorderly—would "put a stop to these Indian wars."

AUSTRALIAN ROULETTE

SYDNEY (UPI)—A young man ran onto an airport runway and stood with raised arms as a Trans-Australia airlines jet raced toward him Saturday, police said. The pilot managed to stop the plane and authorities took the man away. They said he apparently had escaped from a mental institution.
