Espionage Head Under Criticism

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—Lt. Stephen Harris, who ran the espionage unit on the USS Pueblo, is coming under increasing criticism for failure to destroy secret documents before Communists captured the ship.

The Navy Tuesday made public testimony that an enlisted man under Harris' command gave the order to begin destruction of secret papers on his own initiative after Harris failed to do so.

Chief Communications Technician James F. Kell told a court of inquiry into the Pueblo's capture by North Korea that he passed the word to "commence emergency destruction" in the absence of orders from Harris.

Testimony Secret

Kell's testimony was given in secret Monday. He described Harris as "an average officer—nothing outstanding and nothing bad." He said that Harris, a Harvard graduate with Russian language training, appeared nervous during the Pueblo's capture but was not confused.

Kell, 32, of Hayward, Calif., told the board of five admirals conducting the inquiry he first tried to have secret papers thrown out of a porthole, but the one he wanted to use could not be opened.

Communications Technician 2C, Peter M. Langenberg tried to go on deck to throw a bag of papers over the side, and was wounded by North Korean gunfire.

The Navy quoted Kell as saying that after Langenberg was wounded he did not send another man on deck because it would have meant "certain death."

Kell said the burning of classified publications lasted only 10 to 15 minutes, but that destruction of the equipment in the "spook unit" where the espionage archives were housed went well.

The court is in recess today, while the admirals consider its future direction. Public testimony of the mistreatment of the Pueblo crew during its 11-month captivity in North Korea is expected to begin Thursday.

Last Man To Leave

Another witness Monday was the last man to leave the espionage center, Senior Chief Communications Technician Ralph D. Bouden, of Nampa, Idaho.

Bouden said the research area was locked before the vessel's (See ESPIONAGE, Page 3)

Students and Police Clash As Unrest Hits Campuses

Radicals Press Aims For Greater Control

By United Press International

Campus police Tuesday scattered black and white militants who used force to restrain students and teachers from entering four buildings at the University of Wisconsin. Fifty students sat-in at the Administration Building at Michigan State University for 90 minutes before police ordered them out.

Some 300 students marched six blocks through falling snow to hold a "grovel-in" in front of the campus home of the president of the University of Illinois.

Student unrest spread to several new campuses Tuesday as radical students pressed their demands for a greater voice in the administration of their colleges and universities.

At the University of Chicago, rebel student occupation of the Administration Building entered its second week today. A committee of professors was to make its recommendations today in the case of a radical woman sociology professor whose dismissal touched off the demonstration.

Protest leaders claimed that a picket-line around the Social Sciences Building cut attendance in the division by 50 per cent, but university officials said attendance was normal. The picket line appeared to have little effect, with protesters shouting "scab" at students entering the building.

Urban Affairs Council To Present Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's Urban Affairs Council was likely to present him today with recommendations for changing the war on poverty.

The new plan was expected to strip the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the White House-directed agency for administering antipoverty programs under the Johnson administration, of much of its responsibilities and transfer them to various Cabinet departments such as Health, Education and Welfare and Housing and Urban Development.

Head Start and Upward Bound programs probably will be transferred to the Office of Education, and the Job Corps to the Labor Department, Health Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch indicated to a group of newsmen Monday.

The Cabinet level policymaking group for dealing with urban problems hammered out ways of restructuring the multimillion dollar package of federal programs during a Saturday meeting at the White House while Nixon was vacationing in Florida.

The agenda called for New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to present to the council his views on a broad spectrum of federal-state relationships. He was expected to push his recommendation that the federal government standardize requirements for welfare recipients and assume the cost of financing welfare programs, a cost now shared by federal state and local governments.

Antisubmarine Plane Crashes

EL TORO MAS, Calif. (UPI)—A Navy antisubmarine warfare plane with seven persons aboard crashed late Tuesday and exploded in a fireball while practicing night landings.

Three bodies were recovered from the wreckage seven miles from this base and a spokesman said "it doesn't look good" for any survivors.

The four-engine P2V Neptune was being used for night familiarization training by a Navy reserve squadron from Minneapolis-St. Paul, names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The spokesman said the plane had just taken off from the runway when the pilot reported he could not remain on visual flight rules—he was unable to see the ground—and then contact was lost.

Committee Approval Expected For Liquor-by-Drink Measure

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso predicted today quick committee approval of his proposed constitutional amendment to legalize liquor by the drink and said full senate may vote on it by Monday.

Christie, chairman of the senate constitutional amendments committee, said he will make a brief talk for the proposal and limit opponents to an hour.

The committee must adjourn in time for the senate session where the re-appointment of Frank C. Erwin Jr., to the University of Texas board of regents will be voted on.

Confirmation of Erwin and two new UT regents, Jenkins Garrett of Fort Worth and Dan Williams of Dallas, was recommended Tuesday by the senate nominations committee after two days of hearings.

Erwin drew sharp questioning by some senators in the hearings—the first open to the public in Texas history. But the vote by the full senate today will be behind closed doors. Six other lame duck appointments of former Gov. John Connally are also expected to come up for debate.

Christie said he expects little debate from his committee on the constitutional amendment to allow sale of mixed drinks on a local option basis.

A house version was steered to a friendly subcommittee Tuesday after a hearing lawmakers said set a record for brevity on a liquor by the drink proposal. Four of the five subcommittee members are "wets."

Reps. Cletus Davis of Houston, sponsor of the house measure, spent less than 10 minutes arguing for it and only three opponents testified. The entire hearing lasted only two hours.

Speeded Up

In the past such hearings have dragged on for five and six hours.

Davis said the measure is "not a liquor by the drink issue... it's just a measure to permit the people to exercise the most basic form of our democratic government—self-determination."

Don T. Cates of Dallas told the lawmakers "it would be strange if this legislature allowed the people to pass laws that create problems (such as) greater alcohol consumption, more sclerosis of the liver, more alcoholism and more drunk driving."

"I don't think we can hide the basic issue here behind a constitutional amendment—the question is whether we're going to have liquor by the drink," Cates said.

Hanoi Delegation Will Not Make Any Concessions

PARIS (UPI)—A North Vietnamese official today said his delegation will make no concessions in Thursday's session of the weekly Vietnam peace talks.

He said both North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates remain glued to their demand for an "immediate end of the American aggression."

There had been some hope the Communist delegates would be more flexible. The North Vietnamese source however said, "We have neither hardened nor softened our position. 'We merely maintain our position,'" he said.

Allied sources already have made it clear the United States and South Vietnam would not bow to the Communist demand for a blanket acceptance of the Hanoi and Viet Cong negotiating planks.

Allied officials said that chief American negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge and his Saigon counterpart, Pham Dang Lam, also will reject Thursday the Viet Cong's six-point negotiating platform, formulated last Thursday.

Its acceptance, the sources said, would be tantamount to an "outright surrender."

No progress in the Paris talks was expected before each man belligerent had reappraised his position, Western diplomatic sources said.

They said that both Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese delegation "supervisor" and Saigon's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who plays a similar role, were home to consult on further diplomatic moves.

Agriculture and Business Need Each Other, McHenry Explains

By RUTH LEWIS
News Staff Writer

Agriculture no longer is the concern of the farmer alone, J. H. McHenry, extension economist from Texas A&M University, said at Tuesday's luncheon meeting of agricultural and business leaders. Instead it involves the whole community in any given area.

For this reason an agri-business council, the formation of which was the chief purpose of the meeting, is an essential for the complete growth of this or any similar area.

At the close of the scheduled program, a six-man committee was appointed to begin the council's organization and to report to the membership.

Members of the committee include Don Jackson, Rex McAnelly, Foster Whaley, Lynn McDaniel, Bill Tidwell and James Osborne.

In making his own point for the council Foster Whaley, county agent, had noted that the agricultural committee of the chamber, with Clyde Carruth as chairman, was "the most active of the chamber's committees", and that "we have the finest chamber manager extant."

Carruth presided, following an introductory program, with Bud McVickers, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, as program chairman. The Junior Chamber was host of the luncheon served at First Methodist Church. More than 100 members of both groups attended.

"Agriculture," McVickers told the group, "is the foundation of our economy. In this area only the oil industry, which employs millions, has a greater impact."

It was 18th century Adam Smith who first equated publicly the production of food to the general economy when he said that if one man could produce enough food for himself and one other person, the society would survive.

"What would Mr. Smith think of America today — with its two- or more bathroom houses, each bathroom in color? (See AGRICULTURE, Page 3)

AGAINST LEFTISTS

Berlin Authorities Threatening Action

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berlin authorities today threatened police action against leftist students planning to protest the visit here by President Nixon on Feb. 27.

And West German authorities today spurned Communist warnings of a new Berlin crisis by formally ordering the election of the country's president held in West Berlin a week after Nixon arrives.

City officials said they may declare illegal a student resolution passed Tuesday calling for demonstrations against Nixon. The resolution, passed by the student council at the city's Free University, called Nixon "an agent of the reactionary wing of the American bourgeoisie."

West German Bundestag (parliament) President Kai-Uwe von Hassel, defying threatened Communist reprisals, formally told the federal assembly in Bonn to meet in West Berlin March 5 for the presidential election.

That order defies East German threats to prevent federal assembly members from reaching the isolated city by overland travel. The Communists declared that the use of Berlin for the election is illegal. The travel ban is to begin Saturday.

Von Hassel said he decided to reaffirm the election site after conferring with West German and West Berlin authorities and all parliamentary parties.

Officials here and in the West German capital of Bonn said they did not believe the East would take any serious steps against the city in retaliation for the March 5 election here of the West German president.

But they could not be completely sure.

Officials said they think the East Germans and Russians would be content with the measures announced Sunday that banned the ground travel to the city effective Feb. 15 of delegates to the electoral college.

This ban would be sufficient to allow the East to save face and at the same time avoid a confrontation with the West.

Abel Is Assured USW Presidency

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—United Steelworkers (USW) President I.W. Abel led a little known challenger by a margin of more than 2 to 1 today, assuring him of re-election to a second four-year term as leader of the 1.2 million member union.

Abel ran as much as 10 to 1 ahead of Emil E. Narick, a union staff official, in some areas. The 60-year-old USW president showed his expected strength in Tuesday's voting in all but the Pittsburgh district and in West Virginia. Narick's home state.

Four years ago, Abel, then USW secretary-treasurer, won the $50,000-a-year union presidency from David J. McDonald on a platform of restoring union power to the locals and greater rank and file participation in union policymaking. Narick, charging Abel reneged on his promises, tried to use the same issue on him but failed to stir widespread enthusiasm.

The pre-election campaign was mild compared to the 1965 Abel-McDonald donnybrook.

Unofficial returns from 2,225 of the union's 3,800 locals gave Abel 129,888 votes to 66,413 for Narick.

Despite Abel's huge lead, Narick refused to concede. He said late Tuesday night he and his staff were "as confident as we were before."

Israeli Air Force Hits Syrian Jet

By United Press International

Two Syrian jet fighters flew over Israeli-held territory today and Israel's air force shot down one of them—a Soviet-built MIG21, military spokesmen in Jerusalem said.

The spokesmen said the Israeli interceptors returned safely to their base from the dogfight over the Al Qunaytirah area of Israeli-held Syrian territory.

The downed Syrian MIG was seen falling into Syrian territory, the spokesmen said.

The spokesman said Israeli aircraft intercepted one plane, the downed MIG21, indicating the other got away before the arrival of the Israeli jets.

The incident took place over the Golan Heights, the strategic Syrian border area seized by Israel in the 1967 Middle East War.

The Israeli spokesmen gave no further details immediately. In Jerusalem itself, a terrorist bomb exploded today in a washroom in the East Jerusalem Central Bus Station, wounding a 23-year-old Arab, police said. They said he was not seriously hurt.

Red Terrorists Try to Blow Up Buses With GIs

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist terror bombers tried today to blow up two buses carrying about 100 American servicemen in Saigon but the GI passengers thwarted both attempts.

The terrorists attached one bomb to a protective screen on a bus window but a soldier cut it loose before it exploded. The other bomb, placed against the wheel of a bus, was discovered and disarmed before it detonated.

Israeli Air Force Hits Syrian Jet

In northern South Vietnam, 7,000 U.S. and allied troops drove into the A Shau Valley area to "break up" what American commanders said was a Communist buildup threatening the cities of Da Nang, Hue and Quang Tri. In that drive U.S. Marines today threw back a counterattack, killing 12 Communists.

In Saigon, two Viet Cong on a motorcycle hooked a bomb onto a window antireflective screen of the bus carrying about 50 U.S. officers. An Army major spotted the charge and alerted Marine Lt. Col. Harold J. Keeling, 41, of Topeka, Kan., seated next to the window.

Keeling detached the hook and the bomb fell to the ground. The bus sped off. Seconds later the bomb erupted, damaging a building and slightly wounding a Vietnamese child.

About 30 minutes later, a GI spotted a briefcase lying against a rear wheel of another bus about to shuttle 50 soldiers to Tan Son Nhut Air Base, where the officers' bus also had been headed. The GIs evacuated the bus. A bomb squad found the briefcase contained about six pounds of explosive set to go off the moment the bus moved.

The second bomb was disarmed without incident. The terrorists escaped.

Russo Indicates Plot Agreement Not Serious for Shaw, Others

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The principal state witness in the conspiracy trial of Clay L. Shaw has implied in his testimony there was no firm agreement to kill President John F. Kennedy and no plot of consequence.

Four times in cross-examination, Perry Raymond Russo indicated his doubt about an agreement to kill, three times he said Shaw was "shooting the breeze" with the other alleged conspirators and once he said he did not know whether to take the talk as a serious threat or a "bull session."

Shaw, 55, a retired businessman and New Orleans civic leader, is charged with conspiring in September, 1963, with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie to kill Kennedy.

Russo, 27, a book salesman, ended two days of testimony shortly before court adjourned Tuesday on the same note he had struck several times in cross examination.

Sat In On Meeting

"You say you sat in on a conspiracy meeting, in which Oswald participated, and then saw his picture on television after the assassination and didn't say anything about it?" asked defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond.

"No," said Russo, "I never said anything about a conspiracy. I didn't sit in on any conspiracy."

He had testified for the state that he was present part of the time during a session in Ferrie's apartment here in which the three discussed ways of killing Kennedy and setting up alibis.

Most of the talk was done, he said, by Ferrie, 49, a bizarre and brilliant flying instructor who said "We'll kill him." He said Ferrie also talked of killing Fidel Castro.

But when asked by Dymond, he said he never heard Shaw or Oswald agree to kill Kennedy. He said the three seemed to agree "where certain things were concerned" but "They never all three said they would do it and would do it this (certain) way."

PORTRAIT REPLACED
SELMA, Calif. (UPI)—The portrait of Lyndon Johnson on the wall of the City Council chambers has been replaced. But not by a picture of Richard Nixon.

Instead a clock has been hung. The councilmen said this gives them more guidance than a portrait of a president.

COSTLY LEAK
CINCINNATI (UPI)—Mrs. Thomas McCoy got her quarterly city water bill and blanched.

The total was $175.75. She complained and city manager Richard Krabarb sent out an investigating team which discovered a leaky pipe beneath her basement floor.

Krabarb ordered the waterworks department to adjust the bill, saying there was no way Mrs. McCoy could have known about the leak short of ripping up the basement floor.

SPEED READING COURSE SCHEDULED FOR PAMPA AREA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a SPEED READING COURSE here in Pampa, to be taught in evening classes. The average person today reads between 150-300 words per minute and comprehends about 55 to 65 percent. This course guarantees that its graduates will read at least 1,000 words per minute and with a marked improvement in comprehension. However the spokesman said, "the guarantee is a bare minimum, because the average person can increase his speed TEN TIMES with a profound improvement in comprehension and concentration."

The average graduate of this course should be able to read 1,000 to 3,000 words per minute and attain the 80 percentile in comprehension. This means, after graduation, a person should read books of average length in 45 to 60 minutes and understand, enjoy, and remember them better than ever. Those who enroll will attend ONE CLASS PER WEEK, for NINE WEEKS and will receive a DIPLOMA upon completion.

Those who are interested in further details may attend one of the FREE, one hour, orientation lectures that have been scheduled. At these meetings the course will be explained in detail, including requirements, tuition, and class schedules. A person may attend one of these meetings without obligation to enroll.

Students

Madison and Dane County police moved in after black and white militants—demanding a black curriculum, enrollment of more black students and teachers, and admission of 90 black students expelled from Oshkosh State University because of violence there in November—fought and restrained teachers and students.

Michigan State University campus police said outside agitators were taking part in student demonstrations. Governor Milliken warned he was "deeply concerned" about disruption on the campus and requests for police aid would be met "immediately" with state police and whatever other means is necessary to maintain the orderly processes of the university.

At the University of Illinois Tuesday night, about 300 students gave up plans to conduct a protest sit-in at the Illinois Union. Instead, they marched six blocks through falling snow to the home of university President David Dadds Henry to hold a "grove-in."

The demonstration was to urge the administration of the 27,000-student university not to prosecute 15 Black Panthers from Chicago who reportedly visited the campus to recruit among 500 black students in "Project 500"—a program in which ghetto youths are brought to the university. Several hundred of the Project 500 youths were arrested at the color TV, its abundance of food and clothing, its machinery, all provided, when traced to the source, in some degree by agriculture?"

Agriculture indeed is a business, McHenry noted, just as business depends upon farming, cattle feeding, the growing of crops. In receipts, only oil exceeds agriculture, the speaker said.

Agriculture's activities are in turn supported by distributors of machinery, for instance, whereas in the past the farmer had to raise and feed his transportation in the form of horses and mules.

Supporting the thesis that farming is a business is the fact that many thousands of cattle are commercially fed, McHenry noted. Of the $2.5 billion farmers and ranchers received last year, only $6 billion was kept. The remainder was spent with manufacturers and dealers producing and handling items needed to carry on the operation.

"What would an agri-business council do?" the speaker asked. It would sponsor tours of business, of farms and ranches, of proposed feedlots and watersheds, with a view to providing more of these as needed.

Lynn McDaniel of the Soil Conservation Service spoke of the importance of water promotion — for sports and recreation — to any area, pointing out that water sports are an urgent need in the Texas Panhandle.

"Where does agriculture stop or start?" Whaley asked. "It has no end or beginning, so closely are all facets of a community allied."

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

How do you like Pampa? A newcomer is bound to hear this question, to whatever new location he or she has just been introduced. My answer is "Fine."

But I must admit the reply would be the same, probably, in Tokyo, Baghdad or Timbuctoo. I'll admit there would be some homesickness in any of the latter areas, for I am deeply sensitive to strangeness—what woman is not? But "liking" a new community goes much deeper than geography.

Communities are made up of people and the very same kinds and qualities of people are to be found in all places, I firmly believe.

Right here I have met almost the exact prototypes of men and women whom I knew in Oklahoma, or Kansas, or Ohio (I spent an interim year in the last-named state and made some friends I am sure I never shall forget).

Helpful. That is the adjective that describes several persons met here. Naturally, these include members of the News staff—editors, reporters, printers, business and circulation staffs. But there are others also.

"Moving" is a word most women loathe. And their husbands find it even more abhorrent. That ghastly interval when nothing familiar is close at hand but packed "somewhere in one of those cartons" is well calculated to make a person feel lost, unconnected with anything of the past, either as to time or place, and still unaware of the future.

Not until a space has been cleared, a few shelves readied and their contents assigned, does a woman begin to feel that this new set of rooms can be transformed into a home.

In doing this, arranging the misplaced household always meets with frustrations.

There was the foot locker that locked itself en route here and had to have a keysmith to open it. This was a professional job of course but the "key man" was especially good at it, or so it seemed.

I never had had to "pick" a lock before, so I watched in fascination. He first used a flash to inspect the lock—a routine that would have told me nothing even if I had thought of it. Then the man ran out to his car for a key board hung with simply hundreds of keys, big, little and in varied designs. Suddenly he selected one, tried it and voila! It worked.

Next, as drawers and cupboards were made available, there were box loads of wrappings to be carted to the alley trash cans.

On one such occasion the screen door slammed shut behind me and it too locked me out. I had nothing in my hand but a trash can and an inspection of the alley area disclosed that no materials were at hand for infiltrating via a wire screen—the alley house-keeping was too good.

What does one do in such a case? Seek the neighborhood grocery, if there is one, and I did. I could find nothing for sale that had a wire attached, or I'd have bought it. But a gentleman standing by and hearing me explain my problem thought he might find something.

He vanished through the back door and came in with an old coat hanger. He straightened the curved end and came across the street to see if it would work. I think he had some compunction about the length of the straight piece of wire.

But this too functioned perfectly, and on the first try, just as the man said his name was Griffin, or Griffith, I am not sure exactly. But I congratulate his wife. Perhaps she herself had "trained" him, as we say sometimes of a helpful and imaginative husband.

There were also the Beaver Express personnel and the owners of my apartment house who happened to be at hand when the cartons arrived. They all gave advice as well as assistance.

These are just a few of the kindnesses one newcomer to Pampa has met with.

Do I "like" Pampa? Naturally. I like people.

Injured Whale Towed to Sea

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—A harmless whale somebody shot for no apparent reason tried all day Monday to turn Long Beach Harbor into his personal hospital room before consenting to be towed out to sea.

The mammal had big sad eyes, and city officials viewed him with a mixture of sympathy and vexation. Fearful he might die on their beach, they planned to destroy him today, if he didn't leave. Dead whales have a way of smelling awful in a warm place like Southern California, and it's hard to move them once they're securely beached.

On their sixth try Monday night, lifeguards got a line around the whale's tail, and towed it three miles out to sea. This time it didn't come back.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chances are you don't have a burning interest in the love life of pink bollworm moths. Neither do I.

Given the option of reading about pink bollworm moths or seeing the motion picture version of "Candy," I would not hesitate to choose the latter.

But when a major breakthrough is made in man's age-old struggle to gain the upper hand over insects, all of us are personally involved. I trust, therefore, that you will pay close attention to the following chain of events:

Not long ago some chemists in Germany mixed up a batch of "propylure," which is the substance that makes female pink bollworm moths attractive to male pink bollworm moths.

Becomes Amorous
When exposed to propylure, a male pink bollworm moth ordinarily becomes extremely amorous. This explains why the chemists were producing the stuff synthetically.

They figured that propylure produced in the laboratory could be used to lure male pink bollworm moths to their destruction, thus scoring another point for man in his battle with the insect.

It turned out, however, that the male moths failed to respond to this particular mixture. Something obviously went wrong. But what?

Well, the answer has now been provided by Martin Jacobson of the U.S. Agricultural Research Service.

Jacobson has discovered that propylure actually exists in two forms, one of which turns a male moth on, and the other of which dampens his ardor.

Combined Forms
The German chemists had combined the two forms, so that the come-hither effect of one was neutralized by the ho-hum effect of the other.

I hardly need point out the significance of Jacobson's finding. He has given man a mighty new weapon to use against the insect.

All that man needs to do now is produce large quantities of the negative form of propylure in the laboratory. Then he spreads the stuff around everywhere that male pink bollworm moths hang out.

The male moths immediately lose interest in the opposite sex. Rather than mating with female moths, they spend their time watching football games on television. Or something of the sort.

It shouldn't take long for pink bollworm moths to become extinct, the victims of their own indifference.

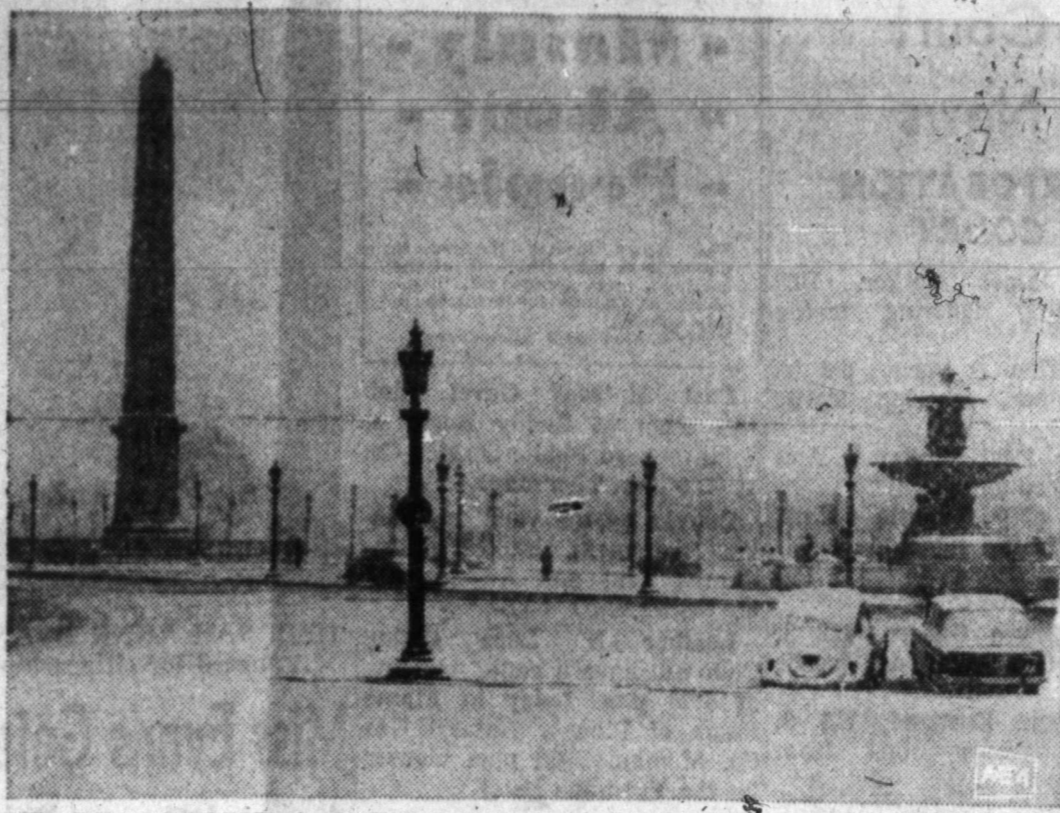

Insects may develop immunities to pesticides, but they can't survive for long, once without romance.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reynolds & Co. disagrees with recent observations by market analysts that the market is experiencing massive liquidation by informed investors, resulting from a steady deterioration of leadership over the past five years and failure of steady infusions of capital to move up stock prices. On the contrary, the firm says, the blue chips appear to be coming back and assuming market leadership and the massive flow of public funds into the market has been primarily into established mutual funds, and thus well spread out over the market.

Hertz, Warner & Co., surveying the market during the past month, notes that some interesting patterns developed. "Activity centered on the extremes of either very conservative or very speculative areas," it says. "It would appear that investors and traders are taking a defensive-aggressive posture respectively. The simultaneous pursuit of relative safety and speculative gains is a type of hedged position that sometimes occurs when the economic and market outlook is uncertain."

Standard & Poor's believes that the past month gives an accurate preview of the market's major trend direction. "In its creeping advance of the past month," the firm observes, "the market has regained more than one-third of the ground lost in the November-January decline."

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Latin America, the new administration of President Nixon faces a matter of conscience.

It goes back to Dec. 2, 1823, when President James Monroe enunciated the document bearing his name, and extended the United States' protective umbrella to all the independent countries of Latin America.

It has run the gamut from gunboat diplomacy to the late President John F. Kennedy's idealistic Alliance for Progress and it has irritated Latins probably more often than it has pleased them.

A New Approach
Seeking a new approach to a new problem, Nixon has called for a policy of cooperation with Latin American nations and not one based simply on dollar aid.

He has asked New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to visit those nations and determine economic needs.

Kennedy's Alliance for Progress sought peaceful evolution rather than violent revolution and in principle would limit its aid to those nations giving the people freedom of choice.

In practice, the U.S. conscience frequently has had to give way to realities.

Military Rule
Four Latin American nations, each the recipient of large amounts of U.S. aid, are under military rule, including Brazil and Argentina, the two largest.

The two most recent to be taken over by the military are Peru and Panama and they are at the moment the most troublesome to the American conscience.

Among others, Bolivia has an elected government which is under close scrutiny by the military. Chile, with a long record of freely elected governments, is at the same time the one with the greatest chance of electing a parliament heavily tinged with Marxists if not outright Communists next months.

In Peru, a regime not notably friendly toward the United States has escalated claims against American oil properties to nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars.

U.S. laws ban both economic aid and access to the American sugar market to any country expropriating privately owned American properties without just compensation. For Peru, it could mean a loss of $90 million annually.

Panama is an embarrassment to the United States, both for the U.S. presence in the Panama Canal and for the fact that Panama provides the base for U.S. training of Latin American military men.

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: Eight years as vice president during the Eisenhower Administration may not have given President Nixon full realization of how much strain the presidency would produce in personal friendships. He is beginning to find out now.

One of Nixon's closer personal pals for well over a decade has been a rather self-effacing south Floridian of Cuban parentage, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo. Rebozo is Nixon's next-door neighbor on Key Biscayne, Fla., and thus far, a relatively frequent visitor at the White House.

Every relatively recent president has had his Rebozo or reasonable facsimile thereof—an utterly trustworthy personal friend outside government who could be trusted to hear or see virtually anything with no danger of the event or the words going any further.

Because of Rebozo's closeness to Nixon, particularly in Florida, if Bebe now so much as buys a full tank of gas for his Lincoln Continental, there are some who will connect this in some insidious way with the presidency. If Rebozo is present at Key Biscayne when Nixon is discussing affairs of state, certain antennae shoot up for any slight signal of a situation which might lend itself to criticism of Nixon and-or Rebozo.

The fact that Rebozo may have been privy to off-guard discussion of serious international problems should be viewed in context of what went before. Former President Lyndon E. Johnson often talked over serious world affairs with one of his closer Texas pals, Judge A. W. Moursand. The late President John F. Kennedy enjoyed the constant attendance of an old schoolmate and New York advertising man, L. K. "Lem" Billings.

The list goes back through history.

History, however, does not seem to still current criticism. Rebozo now figures in a possible congressional investigation of the relationship of the Small Business Administration (SBA) to a Miami shopping center in which Nixon's friend has a big stake. Discussion of Rebozo and the shopping center often ignores the fact that financial arrangements with the government were made more than two years ago. Nixon, then a New York lawyer, was not in a position to throw much weight around SBA even if he had so desired.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a woman he calls and runs over to see nearly every night. He says there is nothing wrong in it. He tells me that every man needs an extra woman in case his wife dies. He says he isn't getting any younger and he doesn't want to end up alone. Abby, he is 47 and I am 44, and this other woman is 40. I am in good health and I don't know what he is worried about. If you think I'm wrong, I will apologize and let him see her. If he is wrong, please say so in your column as he is a big Abby fan. Thank you.

MAGGIE

DEAR MAGGIE: Your husband may not be such a big Abby fan when he sees this. Tell him that I said it's nice to be "prepared," but not to build a snow fence until a blizzard hits.

DEAR ABBY: I now think I have just about heard everything. I have just been told by my 21-year-old son that I may not visit him in his one-bedroom apartment overnight! I had planned on visiting a friend who lives 200 miles from here, and my son lives half-way between our homes. I asked my son last night if I could stop over at his place

Country Neighbors Set Demonstration Date in Panhandle

GROOM (Sp)—The Country Neighbors Home Demonstration Club held its first meeting of the new year recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Kuehler, with Mrs. Charley Hermsmeyer and Mrs. Mary Kuehler serving as co-hostesses. The Southwestern Public Store Company and a food store chain will sponsor a food demonstration Feb. 22 at Panhandle in the County Agricultural Building. Committee chairmen named for the year were Mmes. Robert Kuehler, finance; R.W. Willis, program; L.R. Shiflet; year-book; T.G. Fields, exhibit; Clara Britten, health; Duane Stamps recreation; Bonnie King historian; Mrs. L.M. Ruthardt, family life and Johnny Lee, 4-H. Club goals and project selected for the year were to have better attendance and better Secret Pal response, be of more help to Girlstown, U.S.A., and to help the Groom Library in its projects. Refreshments were served by hostesses to Mmes. Joe Eritten, Glenn D. Harrell, Minard Henderson, Bonnie King, George Latta, W. H. Olinger, L. M. Ruthardt, L.R. Shiflet, Duane Stamps, R.W. Willis, and Mrs. Albert Britten, a new member.

NEEDS ADVICE
DEAR NEEDS: There is nothing you can do. The girl needs advice more than you do, poor kid.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL YOU DEFENDERS OF ANIMAL VIRTUE: All right, so there are some animals who mate for life. Mongooses (yes, that's the plural for mongoose), barn owls, red foxes, wolves, coyotes, leopards, and American beavers, to name a few. But I still say that when it comes to a love-in, most two-legged animals who walk upright are somewhat more discriminating than the other kind.

Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, FEB. 13

Your birthday Thursday: Both ends are concentrating against the middle during the coming year. It will be difficult to translate increasingly high personal energies into actions for your own benefit; scattered efforts will only help everybody else first. Expect great expansion and exposure. Thursday's natives are fond of historical fact, research, and literal reconstructions of the past.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): If you can be just your normal self without strutting, boasting, this can be one of the luckiest days in several weeks. Your efforts really sparkle with the self-respect you project. Celebrate!

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Group activities are under some pressure, but keep a cheerful surface going. Sidestep hasty actions. Focus on the diplomatic approach, the soft sell.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your patience is just as important today as yesterday, and there is even more need to avoid getting needlessly entangled in differences of opinion. Wait for better information.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Where resources of any sort are shared, discussion may arise. There is a great deal to be gained from full conference with those you love and trust.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Now comes a time when your emotional needs shield you from seeing life and some situations as others see them. A positive approach eventually pays off, even where deception is attempted.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The conservative approach is the only feasible path today. Guide your actions and statements accordingly. Notice how everybody has his own version about what is best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You spread out a bit Thursday and share many emotional and aesthetic satisfactions with people you care about. Romantic interests thrive. Financial moves are better deferred.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Personal feelings build up and bring powerful reactions, according to your attitudes and the situation. The optimistic slant is best — even where it may seem unrealistic. Promote and protect human dignity, particularly your own.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Go along with your friends and seek to improve and expand what you hold in common. Consistent application of thought and skill to your work pays off well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Improving potentials spring up within. Express your skills for organizational talent while this mood runs. Financial moves and friendship are now extremely incompatible.

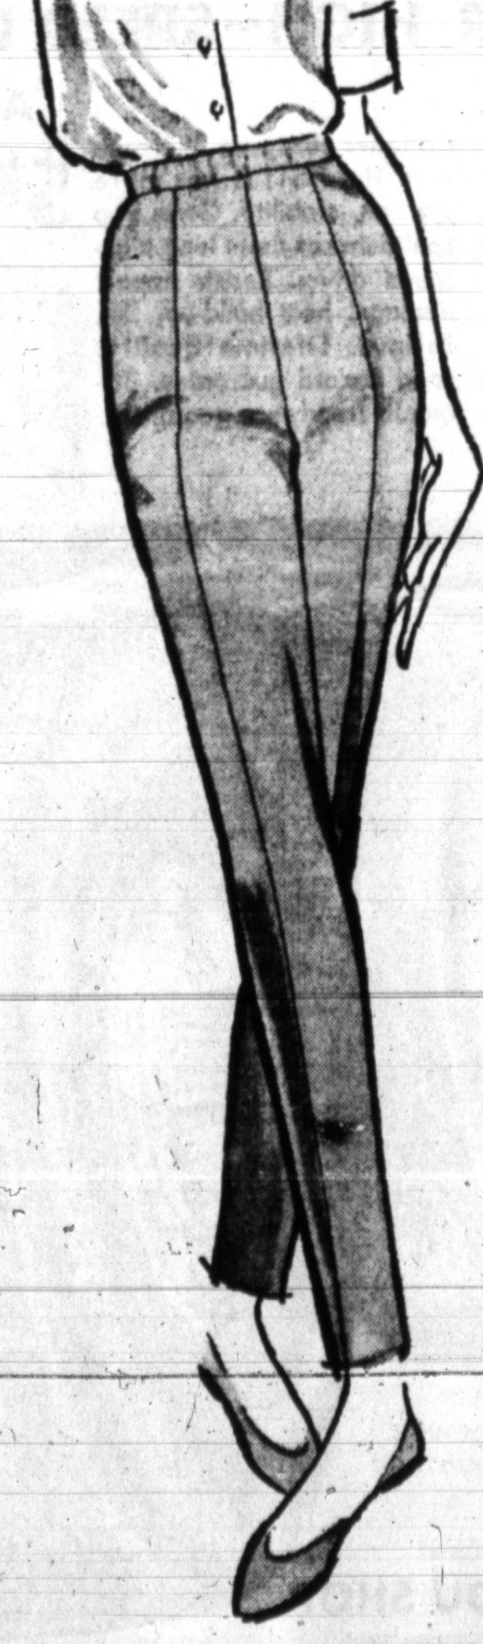

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Glib talk is all about you; once you get the basic drift, go on with a more thoughtful survey of what the story is. Purchasing is better postponed or minimized since conditions are about to change for you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Vigorous expression may overset all inhibitions. Hasty letters torn up before mailing offer a safe outlet until your meditations show you the truer and wiser course.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The decision to junk ABC-TV's topical, controversial new series, "Turn-On," after one performance may have wide-ranging implications for all of television.

This was the first major setback in some time for television's "new freedom," which has been exemplified in the last few years by much double entendre, outright suggestiveness and the severe skewering of sacred cows.

By the standards of any other adult art form, television is still positively conservative. But video remains basically a mass family medium, and has an impact among all segments of the nation that is enormous—and incomparable.

Opened The Door
And now the speed and manner with which "Turn-On" was dismissed may well have opened the door for significant parts of the public to speak out strongly on these matters—having seen the ABC-TV cancellation.

It may not be too much to suggest, therefore, that the reaction to, and ejection of, "Turn-On" may also have an effect on network sensitivity to "Laugh-In" and the Smothers Brothers.

One top network source says frankly that there has been quiet but definite concern for some time about the early prime time broadcast slot of "Laugh-In": In short, the programming hour at which youngsters can watch some of the racy material. This may seem a silly concern to some viewers, but not all.

Bit Of Theory
Here in Hollywood, one seemingly wild bit of theory

'Hot Check' Seminar Set For Friday

Gray County Attorney John Warner announced Wednesday that his office would hold a "Hot Check" seminar, beginning at 10 a.m. Friday.

Warner said the seminar would be held in the county courtroom and would be open to the public.

The county attorney said he would like to urge all businessmen and persons who handled checks and okayed checks in businesses to attend the seminar.

A mimeographed copy of the new hot check law in Texas will be passed out and Warner will explain defenses against hot checks, what stores need to do to protect themselves and how to get the legal ball rolling quickly on hot checks.

Centenarians Have Memories To Recall

By CRAIG A. PALMER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Charles Steurer of Tarrytown, N.Y., observes after 102 years that the younger generation with all its flower children and revolutionaries isn't all that bad.

"No generation is perfect," he said.

Mrs. Anna Burgess of Camp Springs, Md., figures she'll have to stop lying about her age now that she is 101 and getting all this attention.

"I guess once people read this story in the newspapers I won't be able to lie about my age any more," she told the Social Security man.

These are among 65 persons who talked to Buffalo Bill and voted for William Jennings Bryan for president and lived through the depression.

100 And Oyer
All are more than 100 years old and all receive Social Security benefits.

Their accounts comprise a story rich in history and in folklore. The stories have been compiled in volume 8 of the Social Security Administration's publication America's Centenarians.

Joseph Morrow, 101, of Ambridge, Pa., predicts a pennant this year for the Pittsburgh Pirates whom he follows avidly.

He says that wars are a natural result of having two or more people in the world. He disapproves of the space program.

"Man doesn't belong up there."

SEEING THE SIGHTS, Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Jacqueline Onassis, walks up the famed Spanish Steps of Rome while touring the Italian capital.

God put him on earth and that's where he belongs. Furthermore, I think all that is a waste of money."

Mrs. Anna Moten of Jackson, Tenn., has outlived 11 of her 16 children and two husbands and she isn't sure how many grandchildren she has.

She will be 102 on March 1.

Like the other centenarian beneficiaries she will receive a personal birthday greeting from Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball.

Ellsworth Bennett of Elwood, Ind., was a railroad worker in his youth. He recalls eating meat furnished by Buffalo Bill and talking to him once. Now he stays up late nights to watch the Johnny Carson show on television. He will be 102 on Feb. 15.

Franklin Jones of Hartford, Conn., was born June 7, 1867. He is the oldest living alumnus of Brown University at Providence, R.I.

The 101-year-old Jones believes physical fitness played a part in his longevity. He was a tackle on the Brown football team managed by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Not Drinker
James Johnson of Osceola, Ark., 101, was 70 when Social Security began withholding taxes. He has lived this long because, he says, "I've been good to everyone. I never smoked or drank."

But he rethought and told an interviewer he had been using snuff for 40 years.

Some recall being caught in a cyclone or being tossed about by high seas.

Mrs. Mary Muckler of Dell Rapids, S.D., age 102, recalls being attacked by Indians.

She and two other children were home alone when the raiders burst through the door. They were searching for money and whisky and they scared her "out of my wits," she said, until her father came in from the prairie for dinner with some of PRINTS FOR POSTERITY. Workmen lower a slab of black stone in which a bronze plaque bearing the footprints of Patrick Lyndon Nugent, grandson of former president Johnson, are imbedded. It will become part of the walk which winds through holly trees leading to the children's garden at the White House grounds. Two other plaques—one with the Johnson's granddaughter Lucinda Desha Robb's handprints, and one inscribed "To the White House grounds from President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Christmas, 1968"—also were placed in the walk.

QUIRKS IN THE NEWS
MISTAKEN IDENTITY
ASHTON-UNDER-LYME, England (UPI)—Herbert Lawton has been promised by police his brothers and scared them off.

If there is anything to be said for the horse and buggy days, Mrs. Annie Risinger, 102, of Ringoes, N., said it.

"You could whip a horse and change his mind but if a car gets stubborn you can't do anything. But then, the horses were always running away, and a car will stay put until you need it."

that he will get no more tickets for parking offenses he did not commit in places he's never visited.

Lawton's problems started a few months ago when he began getting dozens of tickets in the mall from towns and cities all over Britain. He ignored them at first, but went to police after being threatened with a court summons.

Officials at the home office checked computers and solved the mystery: Lawton's car has the same registration number as it carried by one from continental Europe. The tickets were meant for a foreign visitor.

SAVING TIME
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—The question of how to save time by limiting the introduction of school children who visit the Iowa Senate during sessions was debated in the Senate Monday for 25 minutes.

OUT AGAIN, IN AGAIN
BLACKPOOL, England (UPI)—Irishman Martin Glennon was deported from Britain Monday for the eighth time.

His attorney explained to a court here, that Glennon kept coming back because he was in love with an English woman.

While an official commented that "this must be costing Ireland an awful lot of money," the judge ordered Glennon deported again—this time after spending a month in a British jail for defying the previous order.

DEPARTMENT CONCERNED
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department says it is "very much concerned" over Canada's intention to explore the possibilities of establishing diplomatic relations with Mainland China. Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said the concern came from the "possible implication of such moves" for the nationalist Chinese government on Formosa.

Pampa In District Tie

By RON CROSS
Pampa was the only District 4-4A favorite that did what was expected of them Tuesday night and the Harvesters moved back into a first place tie with Borger for the second half lead.

The Harvesters put on a shooting exhibition and out-classed Lubbock High, 70-51, but the big news in the district was losses suffered by Borger and Tascosa.

Coronado, Pampa's next opponent in Lubbock, edged the Bulldogs, 67-65 at Borger and Plainview handed Tascosa its second loss, 59-55 at Plainview. In other district games Amarillo ripped Palo Duro, 63-52 and Caprock upset Monterey, 48-46. Borger and Pampa now have second half records of 6-1. Tascosa stands 5-2 and if the Harvesters get by Coronado Friday the Tuesday night encounter with Borger will be for the second half district title.

If the Harvesters defeat both Coronado and Borger they then would meet Tascosa, the first half winner, for the district title.

Pampa had no trouble winning its 17th game in 24 outings Tuesday night and handing Lubbock its 26th loss in 28 games.

The Harvesters were never in trouble and never trailed and hit 11 of 12 shots from the field in the first period while the Westerners could manage only one of nine.

For the night Pampa pumped in 26 of 43 (60 per cent) while Lubbock managed only 17 of 54 for 31 per cent. The Harvesters, for the first time this season hit better from the field than they did from the free shot line. Pampa made only 18 of 31 charity tosses for 54 per cent.

Pampa reserves played the second quarter and most of the final period as the Harvesters built up a 25 point lead.

The District's leading scorer Jim Hollis paced Pampa in scoring with 21 points and Edward Moultrie hit on six of seven from the field and contributed 14 points. Billy Thomas was in double figures also with 10. Jim Gallman had eight and Johnny Epperson added four.

For the reserves Haynes put in six points and Tommy Ivey hit for three points.

Randy Pope, the district's No. 13 scorer was Lubbock's only double figure scorer with 16 points. Bob Hutcheson added eight.

Pampa broke to a quick 4-0 lead before the Westerners could score on a free shot. Things then got worse with the Harvesters going from the three point spread to a 11-2 reading on 10 straight points.

When the first period ended the Harvesters led 23-5 and at halftime it was 37-19. The Harvesters built up a 55-51 third quarter bulge and with 4:06 left it was 63-38.

The Pampa Shockers upped its record to 11-9 with a 75-50 victory over the Lubbock B team.

A total of 14 players scored for the Shocks with Mike Jordan leading the way with 14. D. Jenkins had 10. John Jenkins and Johnston nine each. Thompson 8, Wallace, Yearwood, Trice and Morris, four each. Rice and Edwards 3 each. Brumfield and Long two each and Sims 1.

Aggies Take Sole Possession Of First Place

By United Press International
Bill Menefee and his Baylor Bears might have spent part of today walking around the campus wondering whatever happened to the home court advantage.

The Bears have been knocked out of first place in the Southwest Conference twice, both times by teams regarded as also-rans, and both times on their Heart O' Texas Coliseum.

Meanwhile, the Texas Aggies, in sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference today, might just be humming a similar tune. A&M had little trouble handling rival Texas in their first meeting in Austin, but Tuesday night the Aggies had to come from behind to win a 70-69 overtime decision in College Station.

It was Rice's turn Tuesday night to deal the Bears a setback. The Bears had what appeared to be a comfortable three-point lead with 40 seconds left when Rice's Greg Williams and Bob Rule each scored a layup and Steve Wendel connected on a free throw with nine seconds left to hand Rice a 75-73 win.

NICE AND EASY — Johnny Epperson goes up for an easy basket with a nice touch Tuesday night in Pampa's 70-51 runaway over Lubbock High School.

Baylor Now Second

The Bears, now in second place in the SWC, received their first conference loss at the hands of Texas Tech in a game played in Waco.

Ronnie Peret sank both ends of a crucial one-and-one situation with seven seconds left in overtime to give the Aggies their margin of victory.

The Longhorns appeared to have the conference's second major upset of the evening until Mike Heitman, known for his late-game antics, sank two free throws to tie the score at 61-61 just as regulation play ended.

It was the fourth conference win for A&M by a one-point margin.

SMU remained in contention by galloping away from Texas Tech 84-65 as their two most prolific point makers went on another spree. Bill Voight scored 24 points and Gene Phillips, the league's top scorer, contributed another 21. The win propelled the Mustangs into a second-place tie with Baylor for the crown.

TCU was the only team to have troubles away from home Tuesday—but what troubles they were. The Frogs shot a miserable 23 per cent from the floor and were dropped by Arkansas 63-47.

Shoemaker Returns to Saddle To Ride Home Three Winners

By United Press International
A lot changed in Willie Shoemaker's domain between winners, but he proved himself more than equal to it by booting home three charges at Santa Anita on Tuesday. It was his first day back at the races since Jan. 2, 1968, when he suffered a fractured leg in a spill.

Shoemaker had only three mounts, including Racing Room in the feature, and by bringing them all home he boosted his career total to 5,761 victories.

The five-time national riding champion trails only the retired Johnny Longden, who had 6,032, in the all-time jockey standings.

Diane Crump, who last Friday became the first female jockey to ride in a race at a major U.S. track, finished fifth in the fourth at Hialeah, in an 11-horse field aboard Bridle 'n Bit.

Shoemaker started his comeback aboard Princess Endeavour in the sixth race, then after sitting one out he scored with Racing Room in the eighth and Jay's Double in the ninth.

In the feature race, at Hialeah favored Futura-Bold beat Golden Buttons by a length and one-half with Yumbel third.

Good News Week defeated Persian Intrigue by three-quarters of a length in the $8,500 feature at Bowie, Otoma-

Lee 9th, Reaper Eighth Cagers Clinch Titles

Lee ninth and Pampa Junior High eighth grade basketball teams clinched district titles Tuesday and set the stage for the big battles between the two schools Thursday.

Ninth and eighth grade teams from the schools meet in Pampa Junior High gym with the ninth grades tipping off at 4 p.m. Eighth grade teams meet at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Lee ninth dumped Borger Houston 57-44 Tuesday for a 10-1 district record and 13-1 season reading and Pampa eighth won its 13th game without defeat by crushing Perryton, 46-28.

Coach Don Drinnon's cagers built up a 31-12½ halftime margin to sail to the district title.

Lee ninth led in every period and took a 30-21 halftime lead and stretched it to 42-27 after three quarters.

Jeff Hogan led the scoring with 14 points. Gary Haynes and Marsh Gamblin scored 13 each. Dale Ammons added eight, Mike Edgar seven and Don Cain 2.

Lee eighth upped its record to 9-2 with a 65-44 victory over Houston. Lee led 33-30 at halftime and 45-36 after three periods.

Ricky McGuire paced Lee with 14 points, T.J. Brewer and Ferrell hit 12 each, Elmer had 11. Simon 6, DeWitt and Richardson 4 each and Rick Musgrave scored two points.

Pampa ninth lost only its third game in 11 outings, 60-43 to Perryton ninth.

Larry Knutson scored 24 points, Al Ferguson 9, Roy Hendricks 4, Richard Bunton and James Bradley, 2 each and Darrell Nipp 1.

Stallings, Broyles Get Best in Grid Recruiting

By United Press International
Texas A&M's Gene Stallings and Arkansas' Frank Broyles are of the relaxed, easy going, "hi, how are u'll doing," recruiting school. It seems to work.

Stallings and his blitzkrieg of assistant coaches crisscrossed Texas by land and in the air

Tuesday, the first day high school athletes could sign a letter of intent with a Southwest Conference school, and wound up with 24 athletes including six of the top prospects in the state.

Broyles signed the first two Negro athletes in Arkansas' history and then pulled a coup by obtaining the services of the youngster considered to be the best high school player in the state of Louisiana—quarterback Joe Ferguson of Shreveport's Woodlawn high.

Four Schools Score
Texas, Texas Christian, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist all came up with one or more so-called "blue chippers" from Texas, but they had to take a back seat to Stallings and Broyles.

About the only top prospects left untouched Tuesday were quarterback Gary Keithley of Alvin and running back Joe Wylie of Henderson.

Keithley said he just had not yet made up his mind while Wylie will wait until after the high school track season to make a collegiate commitment.

New Athletic Complex Near?

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—An underground athletic complex, including a subterranean football practice field, is more than "just a dream" for Texas Tech College.

Such an unprecedented facility, ranking perhaps alongside Houston's Astrodome as a revolutionary move in sports, isn't quite on the drawing board, but Athletic Director Polk Robison says "it is further along than just a dream."

"We have plans along more of an athletic complex instead of just a practice football field underground," said Robison. "It would be similar to a field house although not built primarily for basketball. We are studying the possibility of putting it under our present intramural fields—just across the street from our present athletic offices and Jones Stadium."

Robison said such a structure could feature tunnels from the present dressing room into the complex under the street and would be ideal for closed practice sessions. It would also be close to the overall athletic plant.

"We favor the underground complex because it would be enclosed and could be used by all sports in all weather conditions," Robison said. "It would also have playing fields at ground level on the top of the underground structure. It could contain ramp up and ramp down, with the ramp up being to the 'outside' fields and the ramp down to the 'underground' facility."

Funk Jr. Wins World Title

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Former West Texas State tackle Dory Funk Jr. defeated Gene Kiniski for the world's heavyweight wrestling championship before a crowd of 7,000 Tuesday night.

Kiniski, the champion since 1966, conceded after 27 minutes when Funk got the spinning toe hold. It was a one-fall bout by special permission of the National Wrestling Alliance.

Kiniski won the title from Lou Thesz in St. Louis a few years ago. He successfully defended it against Funk a year and a half ago in Amarillo, Tex.

Funk, now 27, played tackle for West Texas State against Ohio in the 1962 Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

Funk said he would have to fulfill Kiniski's championship bookings, but he didn't know immediately what they were. But, he said, "I will love it. I love to travel anyway."

What Would Abe Say Today?

In a young nation already suffering the barbs of divisiveness, there emerged a new strong voice, speaking out against the sorest issue of the day — slavery. A poor man, who was to campaign for the Presidency as Abe the Railsplitter, signifying his early beginnings, left his legal office in Illinois to make speeches on slavery. "I hate it because of the monstrous injustice of slavery itself. I hate it because it... enables the enemies of free institutions, real friends of freedom to doubt our sincerity."

When his son Robert failed to pass the entrance examinations at Harvard College and he enrolled instead at Exeter Academy in New Hampshire, his father accepted a $200 fee to make a lecture which would enable him to visit his son. Speaking in New York City at Cooper Union on a stormy February night, "he held the vast meeting spellbound by his logic, and at the close, the audience broke into wild and prolonged enthusiasm." Chiefly through enthusiasm for his plainspoken utterances against slavery, the Illinois lawyer went on to defeat William H. Seward of New York as the Republican candidate and eventually to win the Presidency of the United States.

Today his memory is honored by Republicans and Democrats, by northerners and southerners, by men of all races and creeds. Today, a little more than a century after his death, there is a new divisiveness in the country, and a kind of slavery, a slavery which is even more insidious in that it is breaking down the will of individuals to be free and self-reliant. We wonder how "Honest Abe" would have spoken out at the new slavery in which so many persons favor prohibiting individuals from peacefully using the fruits of their own labor in order to do such things as: — Perform our "charities"; attempt to "insure" us against illness and old age; attempt to protect us from floods, droughts, hurricanes, earthquakes, fires, freezes and insects; subsidize schools, transportation, loans of various kinds; and to prohibit individuals from pricing their own services; freely planting what they want; selling products at a price at which they think they can make a profit; the list of encroachments on individual liberty is long.

Although Abraham Lincoln was a complex man, we suspect he would have spoken out. It will be remembered that Mr. Lincoln was the man who said: "You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot lift the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot help the poor man by destroying the rich. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred. You cannot establish security on borrowed money. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves." Mr. Lincoln's "canonments" seem as true today as they were more than a century ago.

The Latest UFO Finding

As readers of the news columns know, a panel of scientists of various fields has announced that it has no basis for believing in Unidentified Flying Objects, and those who are convinced there is something to UFOs are "objecting to the findings of the committee headed by Dr. Edward O. Condon of the University of Colorado."

The National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena (NICAP), through former Marine Maj. Donald E. Keyhoe, accused the panel of scientists of having ignored "the vast majority of the reliable unexplained UFO sighting cases," supplied to the panel. Dr. David R. Saunders, who was one of the principal investigators of the group until he had a falling out with the others, has similar comments in a book "UFOs? Yes!" with a subtitle, "Where the Condon Committee Went Wrong."

Dr. Saunders describes attempts to investigate the unidentified objects, pointing out that some were hoaxes, and some were mistaken; but, he contents, others clearly have not been investigated adequately.

Whether one side or the other is correct, we have no way of knowing. However, we do find one part of the Condon Committee report with which we heartily agree. The committee, which spent a half million dollars of taxpayers funds, says further investigation of UFOs should not be conducted at taxpayer expense.

If there are UFOs—and there are some pretty responsible people who believe there are—and there are private citizens, including scientists, who want to investigate them, we suggest they go ahead. We question why the taxpayer should be asked to kick in more of his hard-earned dollars to find out the truth, if he does not really care one way or another. If he does care, we suggest he make a contribution to an organization like NICAP, which has done a first-rate job of investigation on its own in what appears to be an intelligent, scientific manner.

About Sharing Secrets

At least one private citizen thinks Americans are overreacting to threats of invasion of privacy by governmental or other agencies.

"Secrets are for sharing," says Boston University psychologist Chester C. Bennett in an article in "Psychology Today" magazine. "The emergence of privacy as a social and political issue is a modern phenomenon, claims Bennett — a function of the population explosion, urbanization and technological progress."

In an earlier, rural and less complex age, there was security in knowing one's neighbors and being known by them, he says. But as life becomes more crowded, privacy becomes elusive and, therefore, treasured.

We need to share experiences, he feels, to understand each other's views and aspirations as groups and institutions and individuals.

The right to privacy is not absolute, Bennett claims. There are many situations in which, by law, the general welfare demands disclosure of personal information, he says.

Well, we think that would depend on a number of other questions, such as:

Will government ever be able to reciprocate and begin sharing its secrets with us? Can bureaucrats shed their traditional suspicion and condescension toward those they supposedly serve, not to mention overlooking their talent for boondoggling that not infrequently results in the least good for the greatest number? Until such time as these ques-

Nixon Will Pick Top GOP For '70

WASHINGTON (NEA)—By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent... Slowly, quietly but surely, the remaking of the Republican party under President Nixon has begun.

New co-ordination of effort is developing between the Republican National Committee and the two campaign committees of Congress which normally focus on trying to enlarge GOP membership in House and Senate.

With Republicans needing only 26 more seats in the House and eight in the Senate to take full command of Congress in 1970, the matter has high priority in the Nixon administration.

The first visible gains in co-ordination may appear small, but they are a sign of things to come. There will be some joining of funds, and the National Committee will undertake to provide some key campaign managers for certain races or areas under the normal "jurisdiction" of the Hill committees.

On the way to fulfillment is a much larger accomplishment—the acceptance by important party leaders of the judgment of the President and his associates that he should play a major role in the selection of candidates for top office.

Nixon's success in campaigning for carefully chosen new candidates for congress in 1968, and their success in winning re-election in 1968, are the cornerstones which underlie the present bold concept that he should intervene strongly in 1970 selections.

In the past, even so politically-minded a group as the Kennedy cadres have looked upon such intervention as too difficult and delicate to bring off without crushing toes at the state-local level.

The President and his men believe it will be manageable in many places, though not all. In a few, the state party is so well-gearred for candidate selection that outside help would be superfluous. In some states, predictably, resistance will be high.

The heart of the Nixon administration's plan is to move early—to search out good prospects as quickly as possible, and then to anoint them quickly but firmly so that, in most instances, they will enjoy so strong an advantage as to discourage serious primary opposition.

Richard Helms, director of CIA, has been scheduled as the subcommittee's first witness. Last week Helms repeated that neither he nor the CIA had anything to do with the Pueblo mission or any of the spy ship's crew.

By law Helms, in addition to running the CIA from its nearby Langley, Va., headquarters is also "Director of Central Intelligence" — that is, he is the coordinator for all the government's intelligence operations. Subcommittee members want to know how spy ship missions are conceived and authorized and how, once authorized, they are supervised and directed. In a letter to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., last week, Helms stated that:

"The information that the Pueblo was tasked to gather during this mission was of tactical and departmental interest to the United States Navy."

If coordinator Helms played no role at all, subcommittee members would like to know how the Navy got clearance for electronic spying of the North Korean coast.

FOREIGN POLICY EXPERTS: — Actually, the CIA subcommittee is two merged subcommittees, from the Senate Armed Services and Appropriations committees. It is headed by Sen. Richard B. Last year, after a long jurisdictional controversy, Russell invited representatives of the Foreign Relations Committee to sit with the CIA subcommittee in its hearings. All indications are that foreign policy experts will be invited to participate again.

That is important because, as reported here previously, some members of the Foreign Relations Committee are interested in the high-echelon command and control of the Pueblo. Sen. J. Senate CIA Subcommittee Has Some Policy Questions on Pueblo

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The first of many congressional inquiries to touch on the Pueblo mission will begin very soon, without fanfare and behind closed doors.

Hearings will be conducted by the Senate subcommittee which oversees the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Periodically, the subcommittee takes a look at world trouble spots. This time it will also focus on policies and decision making with respect to spy missions such as the Pueblo's.

There is no risk that these early hearings will interfere with the Navy's continuing inquiry. The CIA subcommittee does all its business in private. It issues no reports and publishes no hearing transcript — not even a censored "sanitized" version.

Richard Helms, director of CIA, has been scheduled as the subcommittee's first witness. Last week Helms repeated that neither he nor the CIA had anything to do with the Pueblo mission or any of the spy ship's crew.

The Doctor Says

Children Develop At Varying Rates

A mother writes that her 5-month-old son cannot yet sit alone and has poor coordination when he reaches for his toys. She is worried that he may be mentally retarded. It is certainly too soon to make any such assumption because children develop at widely varying rates and many a slow starter later catches up and surpasses children his own age. But is this child really a slow starter?

Most babies don't sit alone until they are 6 or 7 months old and then for only a short time. At 5 months most infants use both hands—rather awkwardly—to grasp a toy and hold it very briefly. Coordinated grasping with the thumb and fingers of one hand usually doesn't come until they are 10 or 11 months old. Don't expect a child to be a prodigy at 5 months.

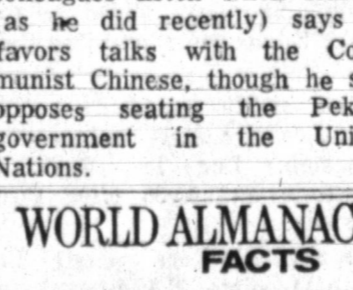

Q—How old should a baby be before he can stand alone? Would standing him on his feet earlier make him bowlegged?

A—A child usually stands alone, holding onto a chair or table, at 10 or 11 months and stands unsupported—for two or three seconds only—at 12 or 13 months. If a baby who is not yet ready to stand alone is placed on his feet, he will simply slump to the floor. Bowlegs are caused by excessive weight for the child's age or by a deficiency of sunshine and vitamin D.

Q—I recently read an article that said hormones could be used to curb a child's growth. My daughter, 11, is 5 feet 2 inches tall. Should she take hormones?

A—Although this is a controversial matter, I believe it is better to reassure your

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The equatorial Galapagos Islands, 600 miles west of Ecuador, were uninhabited when discovered in 1535 by Tomas de Berlanga, but had the earth's oldest living animals. The World Almanac says, Berlanga wrote of the tameness of the wildlife, because of man's absence, and of "giant galapagos (land tortoises) which carry men on their backs."

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Story of the Little Red Hen

(A lesson in economics suggested by Gaylord Sutherland of Muskegon, Mich.)

By PAUL HARVEY

Once upon a time there was a Little Red Hen who scratched about and uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her barnyard neighbors and said, "If we work together and plant this wheat we will have some fine bread to eat. Who will help me plant the wheat?"

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen—and she did.

After the wheat started growing the ground turned dry and there was no rain in sight. "Who will help me water the wheat?" said the Little Red Hen.

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen—and she did.

The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. "Who will help me reap the wheat?" asked the Little Red Hen.

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "Out of my classification," said the Pig. "I'd lose my ADC," said the Goose.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen—and she did.

When it came time to grind the flour, "Not I," said the Cow. "I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the Duck.

When it came time to bake the bread, "That's overtime for me," said the Cow. "I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the Duck. "I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the Pig. "If I'm the only one helping, that's discrimination," said the Goose.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen—and she did. She baked five loaves of fine bread and held them up for her neighbors to see.

"I want some," said the Cow. "I want some," said the Duck. "I demand my share," said the Goose.

"No," said the Little Red Hen. "I can rest for awhile and eat the five loaves myself." "Excess profits!" cried the Cow. "Capitalistic leech!" screamed the Duck. "Company fink," grunted the Pig. "Equal rights," screamed the Goose.

And they hurriedly painted picket signs and marched around the Little Red Hen singing, "We shall overcome." And they did.

For when the Farmer came to investigate the commotion, he said, "You must be greedy, Little Red Hen. Look at the oppressed Cow. Look at the dis-daughter that tallness is no tragedy than to ply her with drugs to stunt her growth. Female hormones often give preteen-age girls a new set of anxieties without completely getting rid of the original one. One doctor who uses hormones in such cases says that they should never be given unless both parents are 5 feet 10 inches tall or taller and the predicted height of the daughter (twice her height on her second birthday) is more than 70 inches. The treatment must be started before the child is 12 and her bone age is less than 12 years.

advantaged Duck. Look at the underprivileged Pig. Look at the less-fortunate Goose. You are guilty of making second-class citizens of them!"

"But—but—but—I earned the bread," said the Little Red Hen. "Exactly," the wise Farmer said. "That's the wonderful free enterprise system; anybody in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. You should be happy to have this freedom. In other barnyards, you would have to give all five loaves to the Farmer. Here you give four loaves to your suffering neighbors."

And they all lived happily ever after. Including the Little Red Hen, who smiled and smiled and clucked, "I am grateful. I am grateful."

But her neighbors wondered why she never baked any more bread.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION:—Does a person ever willingly act in any way other than in his own interest?

ANSWER: In answering this question, we have to first clarify what is meant by "in his own interest."

Most people believe material rewards represent a man's own interest. But Bruno, the great Italian philosopher had certain beliefs about the nature of the universe which disagreed with others, especially by other the doctrines then held by scholars and the church. They put him in jail and kept him there for eight years trying to make him retract his beliefs.

He would not do it, so they burned him at the stake. He put his own self-respect, his own integrity, above his life. That is, he put his spiritual, intellectual interests above physical, or material interests. But he was, nevertheless acting in his own best self interest as he saw it.

We believe that in any given situation a person always acts in his own best interest as he sees it, from his knowledge and the alternatives available to him.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES

As a String Around God's Finger

When the flood was over and the waters had receded and the ark had settled on the dry ground, God made a covenant with Noah and his sons that never would "all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood." The word covenant is one of the wonderful words of the Bible, and it means literally "a coming together." It signifies a voluntary promise, a pledge made by God to His creatures. The very word speaks of Divine mercy and grace and condescension.

God not only made a promise to Noah, but He also sets the sign of His covenant in the heavens for men of every generation to behold. Indeed, this covenant has been called the Rainbow Covenant for God promised Noah that when the storm clouds gather His bow shall be set in the clouds; and God said, "I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature" (Genesis 9:16). God pins the ribbon of the rainbow upon the breast of the storm to remind Him of His covenant to man.

Whenever God looks upon the promise, it reminds Him of the promise that He made, though man may see the rainbow only as an arch of color across the sky, a thing of beauty, forgetting that it is a sign of God's faithfulness.

Men forget God so easily. They accept the blessings which He gives with never a thought to the Giver. They live for themselves with no regard for the Author of life. Or, in times of trouble and distress and special conviction, they make promises to the Lord which they forget with the passing of the days. Men are faithless and forgetful, but God remembers and keeps His covenant. God's promises are fixed and sure. However faithless we may prove, He is still the Faithful One. "Though I forget Him and wander away, yet doth He love me wherever I stray."

The promises of God's judgment are as sure as the covenant of His mercy. Just as surely as He will save and redeem, as He has promised to do, those who trust Him, so surely will He keep His word in punishing those who make a mock of sin and reject the atoning blood of His Son.

Washington Report

BOB PRICE - 8TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

Tax reform legislation will apparently be high on the Nixon legislative agenda. He has indicated that proposals for income and other tax reforms will be sent to Congress soon.

The Chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee has already announced hearings to begin Feb. 18 on tax reforms in general. That Committee, jointly with the Senate Finance Committee, has published, for information purposes only, the Tax Reform Studies and Proposals of the U.S. Treasury Department.

The Revenue and Expenditures Control Act of 1968, which included the 10 per cent surtax, also directed President Johnson to submit to Congress by Jan. 1, 1969, his recommendations for tax reforms. Although President Johnson didn't send such a report to Congress before he left office, the Treasury study is the one he ordered made but without his or President Nixon's recommendations. President Nixon says he is now reviewing the proposals and will make his recommendations shortly.

Included in the study is a recommendation for an increase in allowable deductions. Under the proposals — and they are only proposals — tax relief from the liberalization of the minimum standard deduction amounting to more than $1 billion would go to the lower incomes. More than 70 per cent would go to the under $5,000 group and 18 per cent would go to the $5,000 to $7,500 group. I have already introduced my own bill to increase from $600 to $1,200 the personal income tax exemptions of a taxpayer (including the exemption for a spouse, the exemptions for a dependent, and the additional exemptions for old age and blindness). My bill and others like it will be among the proposals considered during the Ways and Means Committee hearings.

Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage of the House Agriculture Committee announced that the first business of that Committee would be on a special milk program bill. This measure would increase and make permanent the authorizations for appropriations to finance the distribution of milk to schools, nurseries and day care centers.

The Committee also expects to discuss a resolution now before the Ways and Means Committee aimed at preventing a threatened drastic reduction through tax levies by European Common Market nations of American soybean products shipped to Europe. The Committee may adopt a resolution of its own in support of the Ways and Means resolution.

The Committee will also consider a Rural Telephone Bill introduced by Chairman Poage which is identical to one he sponsored in the 90th Congress. That bill was approved by a 23-5 vote of the Committee but never reached the House floor. It's intended primarily to bring funds from the private money market into the rural telephone program but does not incorporate any provisions affecting rural electric system financing.

Although I will not be able to visit in Panhandle communities during the Lincoln Day recess because of minor surgery my doctor has recommended, I would like to reemphasize President Nixon's message to move "Forward Together" during these troubled times.

Although we are a nation severely divided on many fronts and confronted with a crime crisis, galloping inflation and many other critical problems,

Commissioners

Will Meet Here Thursday

Gray County commissioners will hold their regular monthly meeting at 9 a.m. Thursday in the county courtroom.

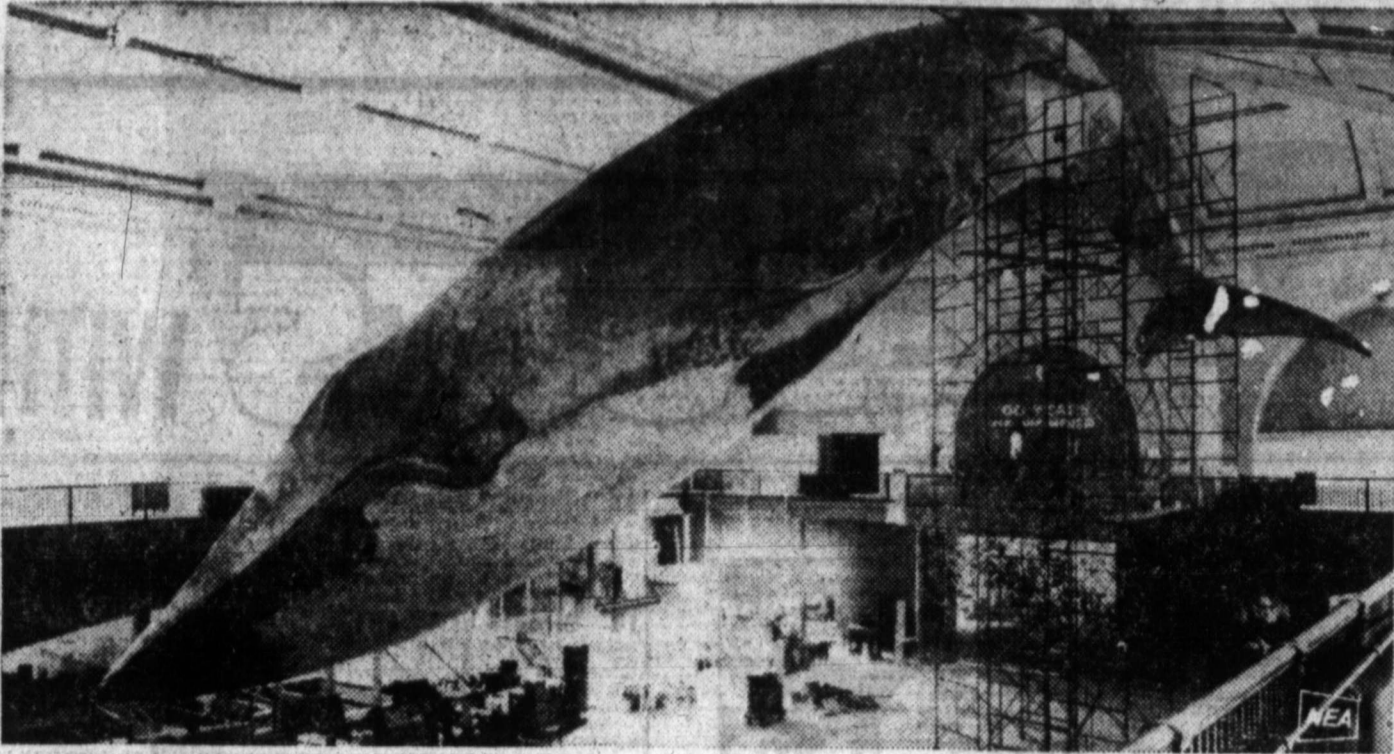

County Judge Sherman Leaning, Jr., said routine business matters would be discussed by the commissioners.

On the agenda, the county plans to open bids for the county depository and pay county bills.

Abraham Lincoln faced a situation that almost defied solution — a nation torn apart by the war between the states, one of the longest and bloodiest in our history.

So let us remember Lincoln's advice then which is timely on his birthday: "When an election is past, it is altogether fitting a free people... that until the next election they should be one people."

MODERN MATERIALS went into this 94-foot-long model of a blue whale which will be the star exhibit in the new Hall of Biology of Mammals at New York's American museum of Natural History. Weighing 21,000 pounds, the whale replaces the museum's 60-year-old plaster model and uses latest materials to do it—steel "skeleton," polyurethane "flesh" and Fiberglas "skin." The model took more than two years to complete and cost $200,000.
