North Viet Troops Seize Two Villages

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops unleashing what a captured prisoner said was a final offensive to "reunite Vietnam" seized two villages on the northern fringes of Saigon today and then held off 2,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops in house-to-house fighting.

The fourth day of the Communist offensive sent several thousand North Vietnamese attacking the villages of Dong Lach and Ho Nai near the American base at Bien Hoa and Long Binh, 15 miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. artillery and air strikes turned part of the urban area into flames.

The Communist offensive inflicted losses on more than 100 South Vietnamese villages and U.S. bases, including nine helicopters destroyed at Chu Chi, about 20 miles to the west of Saigon. But the loss to the Communists was staggering.

The Communists lost 133 dead in the fighting near Bien Hoa and Chu Chi, another 168 in a major battle Tuesday near Quang Ngai on the coast and 157 in a battle near the Cambodian border.

Since the beginning of the offensive early Sunday the Communists have lost an estimated 3,500 killed, U.S. officials reported. American losses were put at 200 dead, South Vietnamese troops at 400 and South Vietnamese civilians at 130.

The fighting did not compare in scope with the Communist Tet offensive of last year but it set off the heaviest ground fighting in many months. Allied officials still believed the main push was aimed at Saigon.

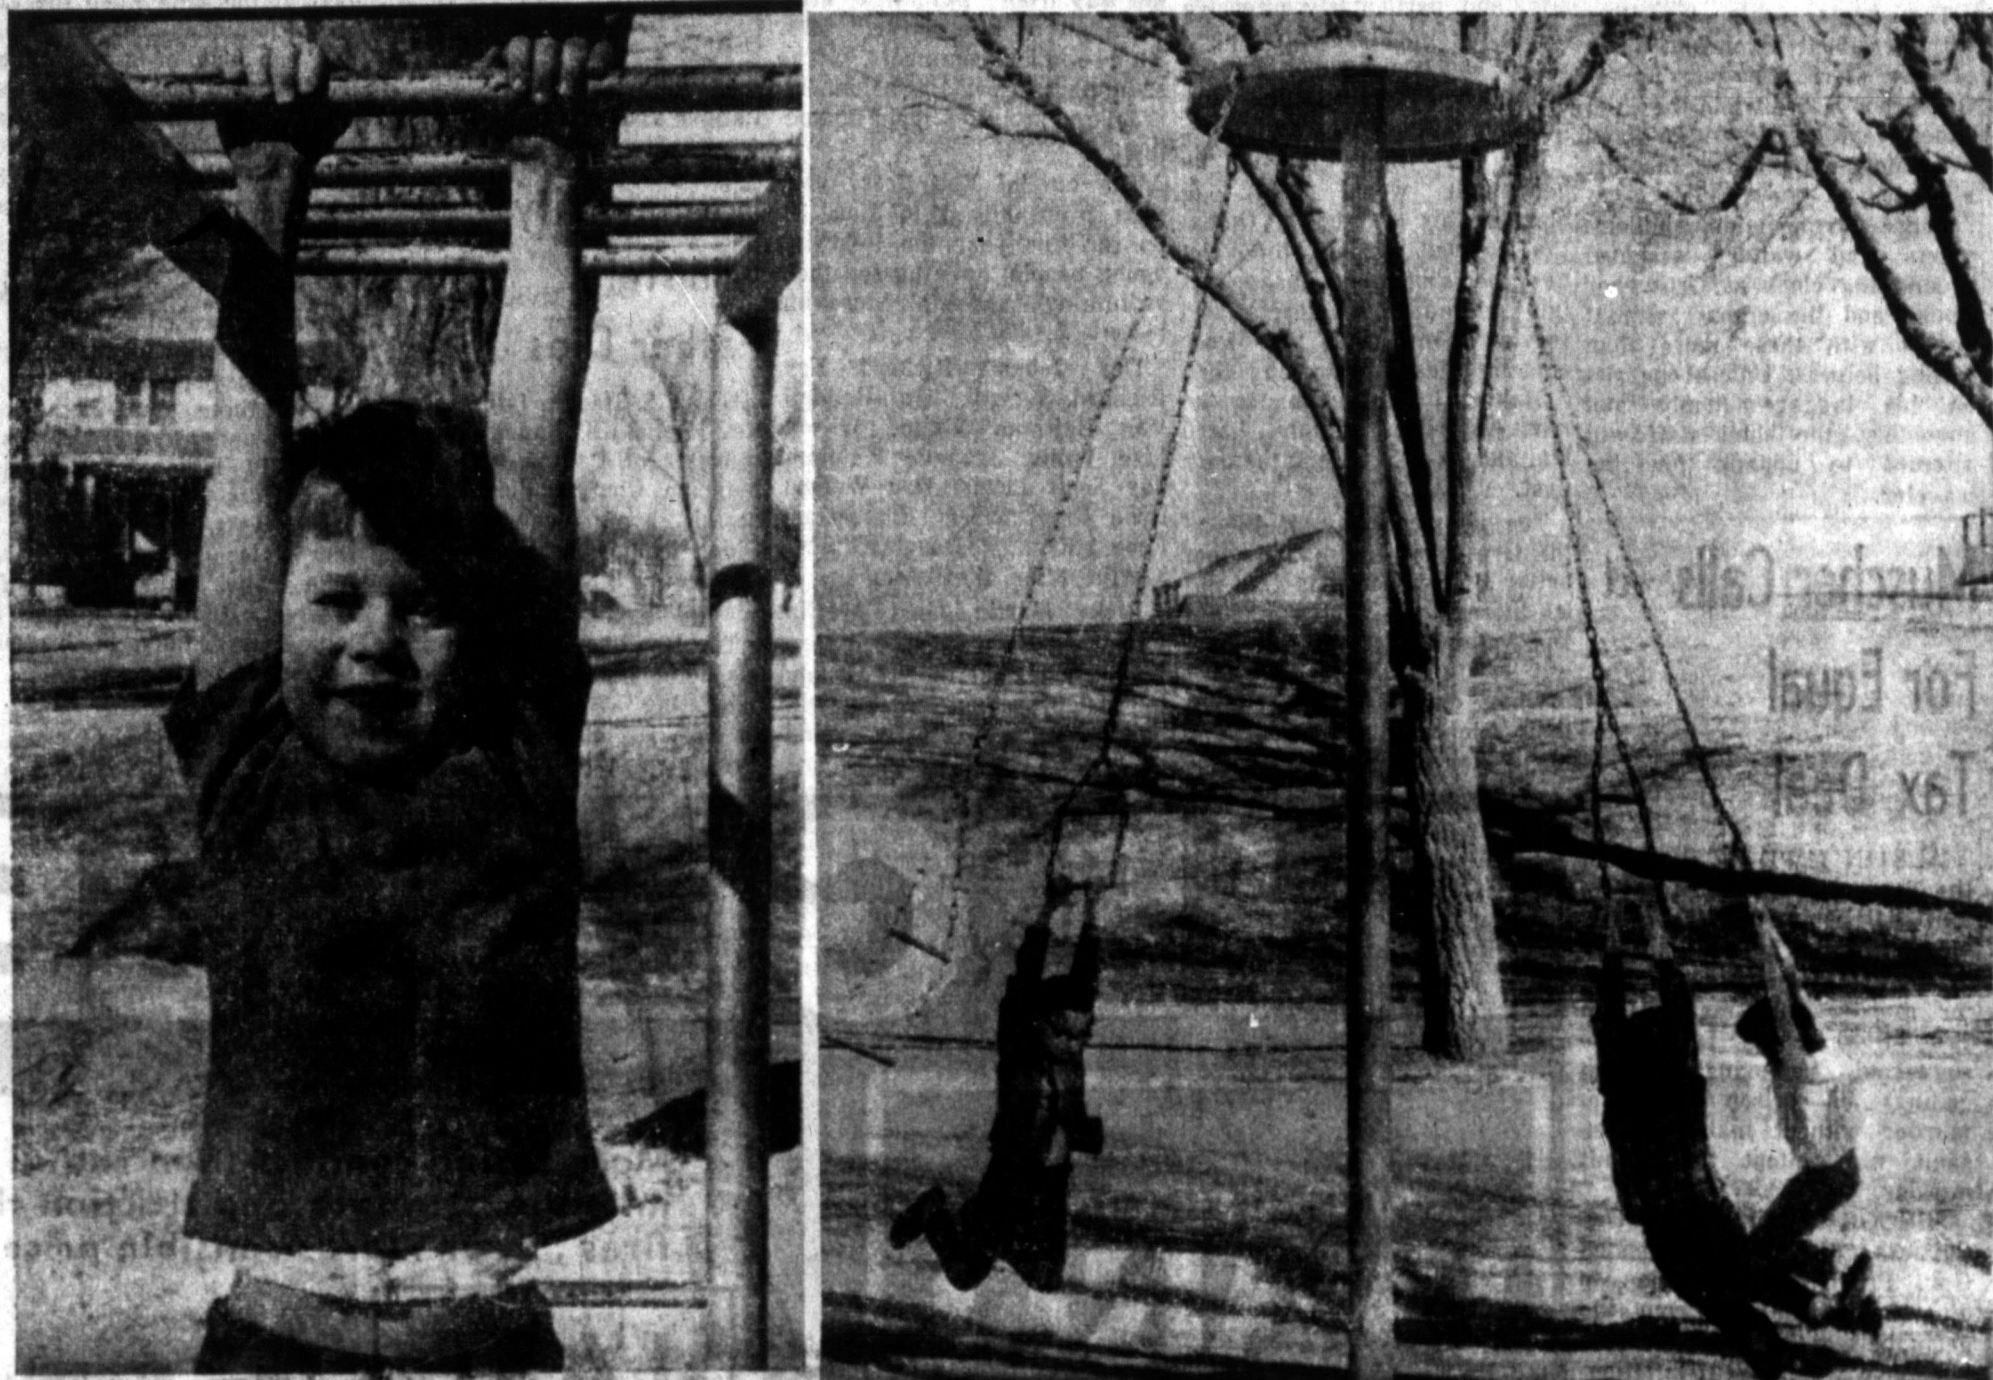

A North Vietnamese soldier captured today in fighting around U.S. Army headquarters at Long Binh, base for a 40,000-man American unit, said the Communist troops were told the assaults would be the "final attack to reunite Vietnam."

The soldier, Pvt. Tran Van Thien, 19, said a Communist political commissar told the troops the disastrous attack on Long Binh Sunday "would be easily successful." That attack cost the Communists 132 dead.

Then said the Communists promised that after this offensive they could return to North Vietnam. He also said they were told the men at Long Binh were "desk soldiers" and they could have all the C rations they could eat.

The heaviest fighting of the day raged around the villages of Dong Lach and Ho Nai where U.S. and South Vietnamese tanks were trying to dislodge the North Vietnamese. But the biggest Communist losses apparently were farther north.

President Achieves Support For Talks With Kremlin Chiefs

DELIGHTFUL DAY — The sun made its first appearance in Pampa in several days Tuesday and what better excuse for youngsters to hit the playground. On the left Lee Edward Durdin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Durdin, 827 N. Somerville, enjoys the play bars while another group of youngsters play on the swings. Ah, youth. ## Declares He Won't Impair NATO Aims

BONN (UPI) — President Nixon arrived in West Germany today on the third leg of his European trip and won quick assurance of the Bonn government's "full confidence" in his plan to begin talks with the Kremlin to ease world tensions.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger gave his pledge of support in the Rhine-side Palais Chaumery after Nixon declared he would make no agreement with Moscow that would impair NATO. He had given similar assurances in Brussels and London.

The exchange of guarantees came at the end of their first round of political talks in Kiesinger's office in the white-walled palace, heavily guarded today by the Federal Border Defense Force and mounted policemen who kept 300 curious persons away from the building.

Nixon arrived in prosperous West Germany from London, landing in a snow storm that was turning into a drizzle. The weather forced the Nixon-Kiesinger party to travel by limousine into Bonn instead of taking helicopters.

In his formal airport statement, Nixon pledged anew America's promise to champion reunification of divided Germany. He called it a "commitment," part of three basic goals dedicated to "the orderly construction of a durable peace in the world."

Although the inclement weather marred the President's visit, none of the anti-American demonstrations that occurred during his earlier stops in Brussels and London were reported here. However, left-wing extremist students in West Berlin have threatened to block his passage with huge demonstrations when he visits that city 110 miles inside East Germany on Thursday.

Nixon and his German host began their political talks in the backseat of a Cadillac limousine bearing Washington, D.C. license plates on the drive from Wann Airport.

They continued it in Kiesinger's office for another 50 minutes with only interpreters present.

An hour before lunch they were joined by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and other advisers. After this conference they walked from the palace to the villa Hammerschmidt next door, official residence of President Heinrich Luebke, for a 15-minute chat before lunch.

Luebke shook Nixon's hand at length and addressed him energetically as photographers scrambled for better views. After gazing out over the winter-white park with its snow-covered trees the party reentered the villa. Mrs. Luebke on Nixon's arm.

The President told Kiesinger he wanted to "intensify communications and cooperation" with the allies, according to spokesmen.

The bad weather failed to deter an enthusiastic crowd of school children and adults who shouted, "willkommen, Nixon!" as he arrived.

Nixon's five-nation tour of Europe took him to Brussels Sunday where he told the NATO allies he would seek a summit (See NIXON, Page 3)

Cole Orders Wiley College To Close Doors

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI)—Students milled around the campus of Wiley College in the bright sunshine, occasionally gathering with classmates for impromptu meetings. They faced an order to be off campus by evening.

President T. W. Cole Sr., with about 100 students chanting nearby, tacked a note on an oak tree closing down the school indefinitely because students had "voted not to return to classes."

The action came at the end of a week of smoldering student protest that finally resulted in a sweep of the campus by 100 Texas Rangers and local police officers, removing barricades to classroom buildings and searching dormitories for weapons. No guns were found.

Texas Ranger Capt. Robert Crowder complimented the students on their conduct during the search. He said there were no bad incidents or cursing. Crowder said the search resulted from "bad information."

Wang Cole Out
The protesting students have asked for Cole's resignation. They also protested the discontinuance of all intercollegiate sports except basketball, asked for more black professors, a younger dean of women, an annual meeting between students and trustees and the hiring of a Negro staff at the school cafeteria.

Crowder said late Tuesday many of the state policemen had been dismissed but about 70 would stay through noon today to assist local police.

Cole's statement ordered students off campus by 6 p.m. but later in the afternoon he said, "I'm pleased to announce that those who are unable to make final arrangements may remain in the dorms for the rest of the evening."

Some Furnished
All but about 100 of the 730 member student body had left. Some of the remaining students were awaiting funds from home before they could leave and Cole said the students working their way through school would be furnished funds to get home if they did not have the money.

Cole said the board of trustees executive committee would meet "in the next few days" to discuss future plans for the institution and plans for reopening.

He said he hoped the school could be opened early enough that students who wished to do so could complete the current semester's work. But he said no time has been set for reopening.

"I've been trying to get a degree for seven years," said a 34-year-old Army veteran senior. "It looks like I'll be delayed again."

West Coast Storm Buries 17 Alive

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 20-ton wall of mud buried alive 17 storm refugees seeking shelter in a fire station, killing at least five, in the latest in a series of rainstorms that brought death and destruction to Southern California.

About 12,500 persons were temporarily homeless today and helicopter crews were evacuating thousands more stranded by floodwaters.

At least nine deaths were blamed on the killer mudslides, including a family of four trapped when a hillside collapsed and crushed their two-story home.

Hundreds of homes slid down hillsides made soggy by a month and a half of rain during Southern California's worst winter in 85 years. Clearing weather was forecast for tonight.

At Santa Paula in Ventura County, 5,000 persons—about one-third of the population—were evacuated hours before the raging Santa Paula creek (See STORM, Page 3)

School Board Approves Administrative Chart

By WANDA HUFF
Staff Writer

After a 45-minute executive session today in which the school board approved a new administrative position chart for personnel for a year's contract, trustees began a regular session for Phase I construction and routine agenda items.

The board accepted Supt. Dr. James F. Malone's recommendation for administrative position chart which includes 27 positions, four of which are not yet filled. Those are co-ordinator of elementary schools and co-ordinator of secondary schools.

Under Mrs. Gaut's direction as educational services head are elementary and secondary co-ordinators; guidance and testing director, PESO (Panhandle Educational Services Organization) directed by Mrs. Wilsam Hill; special education director Mrs. Doris Friend and special projects director, still unfilled.

As administrative assistant Trusty, former business manager, will be in charge of from assistant business manager to position and title of administrative assistant, and Claude Robertson from teaching position to co-ordinator of special services.

The administrative position chart is headed by the board of trustees and superintendent of schools. Under these directors are the director of educational services, director of business services, administrative assistant, co-ordinator of special services, athletics, health and library services and principals.

General Motors Recalling Nearly 5 Million Vehicles

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced today it plans to recall 4.9 million cars and trucks, including 2.4 million 1965 through 1968 model Chevrolets in which exhaust fumes could enter the passenger compartment.

It was the biggest recall ever announced.

The possible entry of exhaust emissions into certain of the Chevrolet models involved occurs only when the exhaust pipe is substantially out of design position or deteriorated from use," GM said.

The 2.4 million Chevrolets included certain Biscayne, Bel Air, Impala and Caprice models for the years 1965 through 1968, and 38,000 of this year's models with optional 350 cubic inch engines.

The recall of the other 2.5 million 1968 and 1969 Chevrolets, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Buicks, Cadillacs and GMC trucks were to replace a part in a four-barrel quadra-jet carburetor.

GM said there were reported cases in which exhaust fumes "were claimed to be entering the cars." The carburetor part failed in 48 cases, GM said.

GM said exhaust could enter the passenger compartments of the 2.4 million Chevrolets only if three conditions existed—a neglected exhaust system, the development of a nearby body opening and a negative air pressure in the interior.

"However, to prevent the possibility of such entry, GM dealers will reseal the nearby body joints and replace a drain plug in the body which was used to remove the surplus of honderizing solution during manufacture," GM said.

The recall campaign was more than double the size of any such campaign previously announced. From September of 1966 until today, GM had recalled 2.7 million vehicles.

Lowering Of Voting Age Near

AUSTIN (UPI)—Advocates of the "old enough to soldier-old enough to vote" stand, appear likely to win legislative approval of a constitutional amendment to lower the Texas voting age.

The proposal to amend the constitution and let the legislature set a voting age as low as 18, breezed through a senate committee Tuesday and is ready for full senate debate.

Gov. Preston Smith, who included the proposal in his legislative program, predicted the legislature will pass the amendments and that voters also will approve it.

There was no opposition at the hearing Tuesday and the amendment, sponsored by Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio, cleared the committee by a 7-4 vote. A similar proposal was approved by the committee in 1967, but failed on the senate floor.

Go To Electorate
If lawmakers approve the proposal this year, the question will be submitted to voters in the 1970 general election.

In other developments Tuesday:
—Gov. Smith said he will recommend some other way of raising $71.5 million if the proposed "Cavness Plan" is declared unconstitutional by Atty.

Gen. Crawford Martin. Martin is expected to issue an opinion on the legality of the plan Thursday at the request of house appropriations chairman Rep. W. S. Heatly and Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Sadler contends the plan—the largest single revenue source in Smith's budget—is unconstitutional.

The house tabled a bill to increase retirement pay for municipal employees in 185 Texas cities after Rep. Bob Thomas of Waco won approval of an amendment excluding employees of the Municipal League, a private corporation. Rep. John Traeger of Seguin, the bill's sponsor, said the league employees had been covered by the retirement fund "for years" and pulled down the bill charging the amendment would have wrecked the retirement program.

Liquor Changes
—Sen. James S. Bates of Edinburg asked lawmakers to legalize campaign contributions by liquor dealers to "bring out in the open what's already going on." Bates' proposals for changes in liquor laws were referred to a senate subcommittee for study.

Church spokesmen protested his proposals to allow 18-year-olds to sack beer at grocery stores and 16-year-olds to clear beer bottles off tavern tables.

The house voted to let non-elective state officers hold other non-elective positions so long as they report any salary or expense reimbursements. Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock sponsored the bill.

Debate Breath
—Senate committees approved for full debate bills to require suspected drunks to take breath tests, give teachers better retirement benefits and five day's sick leave a year, and create an advisory council (See AGE, Page 3)

Water To Become Problem

Water. Where to find it. How to deliver it. What the situation brought in the Panhandle-South Plains area. All these are points being considered seriously under the Texas Water Plan, according to Felix W. Ryals, manager of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District, and Fred Vanderburg, district president. Three observation wells that have been checked annually over the past 13 years, "tell the story," Ryals maintains. The wells are scattered over a 3-county area and their functioning indicates better than words the "decline of our underground water reservoir that we call the Ogallala Formation," Ryals notes.

It was in 1956 that irrigation came to the Gray-Carson County area and each year since, there has been a steady increase in number of wells drilled for irrigation purposes, both industrial and municipal.

The decline of the water table has been reflected in a bigger drop in the static level of the underground reservoir.

Experts have set the year 1965 as the time when the Lubbock-Plainview area will begin to "run out of water," says Ryals. "Our area is supposed to feel the pinch a few years later. But some who are close to the situation here believe that our economy could feel the lack earlier if we do not come up with a new source of water."

"This source," Ryals adds, "means imported water." The importing of water from the Mississippi River area is one of three plans being considered under the Texas Water Plan, 10 billion-dollar project now before the state legislature, says Ryals, who is closer to the water situation, perhaps, than any other Panhandle resident. Ryals will discuss the topic more fully in his next farm-page column.

County Red Cross Has File on Young Swimmers

The Gray County Chapter of American Red Cross maintains a card-indexed file of all young swimmers who have been taught by Mrs. Jackie Marlar, water safety instructor for the chapter, according to Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary of the chapter.

"Our records take them all the way from 'swimmer' classification to Life Saver," Mrs. Shotwell comments. "The swimmers, especially beginners, are very proud of their distinction."

The official Red Cross year runs from July 1 to June 30. So far this year the following young people, have passed their swimming and-or lifesaving tests:

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
LONDON (UPI)—Backstairs at the travelling White House:

It makes a White House traveler nothing less than ashamed to check into the austere genteel Grosvenor House hotel (none but Americans add the word "hotel" because everybody in London knows what Grosvenor House is).

The press party travelling with President Nixon and much of his staff are put up at Grosvenor House while the chief executive himself resides at an even more eminent inn, Claridge's.

There are maids, butlers, valets and waiters assigned around the clock at Grosvenor House and the embarrassment begins with these more than willing helpers. Unless one sits on his luggage firmly and uncouthly, the hotel staff will attempt to unpack for the traveler.

For at least one journalistic camp follower—this one—there is nothing quite as levelling as having a stern British valet look at his very best off-the-rack suit while muttering, "You must have been through a great deal, sir—I'll have it patched up in no time."

Americans also jar the Grosvenor composure by packing along their own shoe-shine kits, and particularly offensive to a valet worthy of his alpaca jacket and heavy apron are the little packets of plastic, automatic shoe glaze.

In the first place, no gentleman would think of blacking his own boots. Unless the traveler is alert, the valet has the shoes and disappears into a maze of closets and service rooms while the owner contemplates his stocking feet. Making instant coffee in the room—horrible, simply horrible, and be sure to lock the door first.

The simplest way of life at the Grosvenor House and other better British hotels is give up; let those maids, butlers, valets and waiters take over completely.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

(Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tight money has finally caused the market to turn, with fundamentals and the market finally in gear—on the downside, according to Reynolds & Co. "This is not the time to be a hero or have pride in a previous erroneous position," the firm says. Rather, it is a time "for caution, for getting your house in order, and for considering the possibility of an unpleasant correction of some real speculative excesses."

Though the rapid decline of the market last week may suggest a technical, or "soda pop" rally is a nearby possibility, Spear & Staff believes "a long period of consolidation or base building may be necessary before any rallying tendency will be taken at more than face value." The market is "extremely sensitive" at present, the firm says, and the light downside volume of trading suggests that a "selling climax"—heavy morning selling followed by heavy afternoon buying—is still some distance away.

E.F. Hutton & Co. observes that the short interest for February is slightly lower than it was in January, but that this is not expected to be much of a market factor. It says the "short figures probably are already out of date, having a settlement date of Feb. 14 and therefore a trade date of Feb. 13. If the odd-lot short figures are any indication, shorting has increased substantially in recent sessions," the firm says.

Muscher Calls For Equal Tax Deal

AUSTIN (UPI) — Events in the Texas Legislature: MURDER — Rep. Cletus Davis of Houston introduced a bill to raise the minimum sentence for murder with malice from two to 20 years. Davis also suggested removing present ceilings on prison terms of murder without malice of assault with intent to commit murder.

SCHOOL FUND — Rep. Don Cavness of Austin defended Gov. Preston Smith's plan to divert $71.6 million from the permanent school fund and said the move will prevent inflationary losses. Cavness, sponsor of the proposal the governor included in his tax message, accused Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler of "misrepresenting the facts" in an attempt to defeat the plan.

TAXES — House Speaker Gus F. Muscher said he is "alarmed at the governor's tax proposals and called for a 'more equitable deal' for consumers. Muscher called Smith's proposal to levy a $10 surcharge on traffic violations "impractical" and said he doubts the constitutionality of the Cavness plan.

CAMPUSES — Rep. Felix McDonald of Edinburg, Criminal Jurisprudence Committee chairman predicted approval of a bill to outlaw "disruptive activities" on college campuses. There was no opposition at a hearing on the bill proposed by Rep. Joe Shannon of Fort Worth.

CITIES — The House vote 132-14 for a bill to cut the waiting period between city sales tax elections from two years to one. The measure now goes to the senate.

REGENTS — The Senate passed 23-5 a bill giving West Texas State College its own board of regents. The bill by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo would put the school under a nine-member board appointed by the governor instead of the state Senior College Board of Regents.

INQUIRY — Sen. Criss Cole of Houston announced a hearing in Houston Friday on conditions in the state youth institutions, Cole said more than 50 witnesses have been asked to testify.

OPTOMETRY — The "chain store" optometrists won the first round on a bill to limit the power of the State Optometry Board. A Senate committee by a 6-3 vote approved the measure — opposed by private practitioners — for full Senate debate. Sen. James S. Bates of Edinburg is the sponsor.

Kennard — Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth took over Senate gavel in the absence of Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, hospitalized for a back ailment. Kennard is Senate pro tempore.

MEDICAL SCHOOL — Sen. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock introduced a bill, backed by the governor, to create a new state medical school at Lubbock as part of Texas Tech.

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

That "magnificent woman" whom a recent speaker at the Knife and Fork club dinner told of meeting somewhere in the Far East must have been memorable. She was not just beautiful, you see; she was—again—"magnificent." The woman had a total of four husbands, we were told, plus 147 ponies, as I recall.

I still wonder, though, what is the distinction between beautiful and magnificent. I can hear the answer; 140 ponies.

Seeing the heavy, apparently canvas-covered binders on the shelves at the county clerk's office I inquired about their cost. (This is not so rude a question as might be thought at first since the lordly taxpayer is expected to ask about where his money goes... no matter that I am not one of these as yet; Mr. Charlie Thut was very gracious anyway.)

"The last time I ordered they were $56," he said.

That means each, too, not by the dozen or something else. I was enormously pleased. You see, I had asked the same question in a Kansas courthouse 10 years ago and even then the record books were priced at $50. I had been certain the Gray County items would now be priced at close to $100 each.

Yet see, these heavy books with leather-bound covers must be worth a good deal more.

Israel Leader Believed Dead Of Heart Attack

By United Press International

The Arab Al Fatah guerrilla organization claimed Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol died today in a Jerusalem hospital of wounds suffered Monday night in a rocket attack carried out on his home at Deganiah in reprisal for Israel's "barbaric" air attack against Syria earlier in the day.

Israel said Eshkol died of a heart attack at the age of 73, that he had not been in his Jordan Valley home since Feb. 3 and that the Al Fatah claim was simply "Al Fatah boasting. It is the most ridiculous and infantile of the Fatah's one thousand and one nights fairy tales."

last—well, forever, it is hoped. They contain irreplaceable history. Even in case of fire the flames could not get past those covers. There still are some things in the making of which there can be no cutting of corners. Quality must be the word.

Ever hear of a Corporate Farm? Or a Family Farm? According to a report of the recent meeting of the National Farm Institute, these may be the answer to the rising costs of farming. And ranching. A corporation would operate with a president, board of directors and (probably unionized) set of workmen. Its records would be computerized and the corporation would make annual reports to stockholders...

The Family farm would, as the name implies, be owned and operated by branches of a single family. All the families would reside on the farm property, in individual homes, set apart as in a small town, or city residential district.

The H.C. Hitch farm near Guymon, Okla. is a little like this. When Jane Hitch was named Miss Oklahoma four years ago reporters asked her frequently if she ever rode cow ponies or herded cattle. She was surprised to learn that she knew very little of ranch operations. She and her parents, like her grandparents and uncles, lived in a handsome rock house hidden in big trees, set apart from the feedlots and other ranch operations.

Mrs. Mildred Wilkie, secretary in the State Welfare office, has a handsome copy of the familiar and beloved "Irish Blessing" standing on a miniature easel on her office desk. The item was a guest prize at a recent fashion show, Mrs. Wilkie says.

"The programs distributed to us each had a star somewhere," she said, "and two of these had two stars each. Mine was one of those."

The Irish Blessing runs: "May the road rise to meet you; may the wind be always at your back; may the sun shine warm upon your face, the rain fall soft upon your fields and, until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of His hand."

Another, more poignant, quotation is the Breton Fisherman's Prayer of just three lines:

Dear God, be good to me— The sea is so wide, And my boat is so small.

Mainly - About - People - Like Making Remarkable Recovery From Operation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, making another remarkable recovery at age 78, is chatting with his wife, Mamie, sipping water and tea—and even doing some light reading.

The second medical bulletin of the day late Tuesday said Eisenhower spent a comfortable day and his cardiovascular status was remaining stable.

In fact, according to doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, the general's eventual condition may be better than before his intestinal surgery Sunday night. The operation removed obstructions that caused gastrointestinal upsets the past year.

Eisenhower has been in Walter Reed for 10 months and has suffered four heart attacks in that time, in addition to the weekend surgery. In all he has suffered seven heart attacks and had three operations over the years.

Eisenhower is in a four-room suite on the third floor of the main building's east wing. He has available all the facilities of an intensive care unit. Mrs. Eisenhower is in a VIP suite next door.

Sirhan Is Willing To Enter Guilty Plea

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan is willing to plead guilty to the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and die in the gas chamber rather than proceed with his present trial.

The 24-year-old Arab exploded in anger in the courtroom Tuesday at presentation of notes in which he wrote that Kennedy "must die like his brother."

Sirhan stood up and shouted and had to be shoved to his seat twice by bailiffs when the prosecution presented the diaries in which he had scribbled that he favored the overthrow of the United States government, backed Russian and Chinese Communists and wrote over and over again that "RFK must die."

Sirhan told Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker in private chambers that he would rather die "than have people think I am getting a fair trial."

In notebooks dated May 18, 1968, Sirhan wrote in disjointed and unpunctuated phrases: "Robert Kennedy must be sacrificed for the cause of the exploited people. My determination to eliminate RFK is become the more of an unshakable obsession."

"RFK must die—RFK must be killed—Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated—RFK must be assassinated, assassinated, assassinated."

"Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before 5 June 1968."

Kennedy was cut down by gunfire in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel early last June 5.

Today Sirhan was coming back to court again and the question is whether he is still determined now to plead guilty and throw himself on the decision of the jury as to death.

Man Sets Self On Fire as Protest Move

PRAGUE (UPI)—A young man burned himself to death in Prague today on this 21st anniversary of the Communist Party's takeover of the nation's government.

The man left a note saying he was "Human Torch No. 2" and was taking his life in support of Jan Palach's demands.

Palach burned himself fatally earlier this year to protest the Soviet occupation and to demand more reforms for the occupied nation.

Witnesses to the burning, which occurred in one of the half-dozen passages leading off Wenceslas Square, said others at the scene told them of the youth's letter.

His name was not available immediately.

"He doesn't know what he's doing," said defense counsel Grant B. Cooper. "He has blown his top. We are his lawyers and we are going to protect his constitutional rights."

Another entry in the notebooks said: "The so-called presidents of the United States of America must be advised of their treasonable crimes against the state, against the glorious United States of America will eventually be felled by an assassin's bullet—bullets assassin's bullets today I must come home in a new car today I must plan to drive home a new Mustang a new Mustang tonight must buy a Mustang."

Foreign News Commentary

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

CHEQUERS, England (UPI)—There may be no immortal parchment issued just now from the 12th century home of British prime ministers—no Nixon-Wilson Declaration of Chequers.

But it was evident the leaders of the United States and Britain were on good speaking-laughing terms when their first evening together ended Monday.

Before a fireplace over which two old swords of Cromwell hung in gleaming reminder of how politicians once could literally lose their heads, Prime Minister Harold Wilson and President Nixon spent a leisurely business-suit evening that went on considerably longer than their original schedule provided.

Either Chequers and-or Wilson captivated Nixon, for he remained in the damp countryside longer than planned. He did not reach his London headquarters at Claridge's Hotel until midnight, running nearly two hours behind schedule.

Arriving at Chequers, Wilson ushered the President up the front steps and into the museum-like country house, which has been rebuilt at least three times through the centuries.

The two men stood and chatted before the broad fireplace on one side of the room, the so-called "Great Hall."

The prime minister took Nixon for a sightseeing tour of some of the other rooms, notably the second-floor book-lined long gallery with still another fireplace and another of Cromwell's swords plus several letters in Napoleon's handwriting and one battlefield report by Cromwell in which he said of the enemy, "God made them stubble for our swords."

The talk was spirited and friendly—particularly on world issues—as they worked through consommé, roast Aylesbury duckling for which this area is noted, apple sauce, peas, duchess potatoes and that inevitable British delicacy, brussel sprouts.

Over dessert and coffee there was more than the polite goodnight amenities. Nixon, Wilson and their foreign secretaries, William P. Rogers and Michael Stewart, plus a few other high-ranking advisers, resumed their discussions and talked until about 11 p.m.

The Crazy World That Is Washington

By LEON BURNETT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:

Wayward Words:
At a luncheon Mrs. Pat Nixon gave for female reporters who covered the presidential campaign and inauguration, each guest's place was marked with a small easel bearing an old-fashioned lithograph of the White House, with "Patricia Nixon" handwritten on the border.

Mrs. Gerry Van Der Heuvel, the first lady's press secretary, was at pains to explain: "Mrs. Johnson personally autographed each one."
"I wish I hadn't brought it up," she added, after the laughter died.

F. Lee Bailey, the somewhat well publicized attorney, appeared before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee to talk safety on behalf of unionized air controllers.

For opens he read, rapidly, a seven-page statement. Then, in the same staccato style, he commented . . . and commented . . . and commented . . .

Commented Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Tex.: "He reminds me of the weather man who delivered his report at 150 words a minute, with gusts up to 300."

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has been in the House since 1924, which to some of the more junior members must seem like forever.

In any case, when Celler

The Lighter Side
By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Perhaps the most discouraging aspect of life today is the rapidity with which things become obsolete.

I don't mean just blowing the budget on some expensive item which a newer model will render outdated six months later. That sort of frustration is itself archaic.

The world is now progressing much faster than that. The current trend is for things to become antiquated even before they are built.

For want of a better term, I call this "prenatal obsolescence."

Hubert H. Humphrey asserted the other day that the proposed $10 billion antiballistic missile system would be obsolete by the time it was finished.

Although some defense experts might dispute that assessment, it is very much in tune with the times.

My sense of futility, however, was unrelieved by Humphrey's suggestion that the $10 billion be spent on solving urban problems instead.

The last time I checked, new urban problems were cropping up with even greater frequency than new ballistic missiles. Any $10 billion solution someone might now devise would undoubtedly become superannuated before it became operational.

Freeways are a classic example of prenatal obsolescence. During the period that plans for a new freeway are on the drawing boards, traffic increases beyond the capacity of the freeway to handle it.

Other examples are legion, but none is more portentous than some recent experiments which apparently brought scientists closer to the creation of human life in a test tube.

I wouldn't attempt to enumerate the various things that might become obsolete; should artificial procreation become possible. But this might be a good time to sell your stock in the Planned Parenthood Foundation.

We could be getting into a situation where a woman will endure nine months of pregnancy only to be told in the delivery room that childbirth is obsolete.

It may be that the only way to cope with prenatal obsolescence is to adopt the "stopper clock" approach. Even when isn't running, a clock is right twice a day.

That probably is more than can be said for people who design missile and freeway systems.

New Offensive Not Consistent

LONDON (UPI)—A White House spokesman called the Communists' new Vietnam offensive "not consistent" with the U.S.-Hanoi understanding that halted the bombing of North Vietnam and opened the way for peace talks in Paris.

President Nixon's aides kept him up to the minute on the latest developments in Vietnam, where Monday night and today the Communists attacked 50 more cities and military camps.

"It (the offensive) is clearly more than the normal pattern (of attacks) and clearly the attack on Saigon is not consistent with the understanding as President Johnson expressed it," Nixon's aide said.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, announcing the full Nov. 1 bombing halt, disclosed an "understanding" that the Communists in turn would stop their attacks against populated areas of South Vietnam.

Protests Hit TCC Merger With Catholics

AUSTIN (UPI)—Church leaders tried to smooth the way for a merger of the Texas Council of Churches with 10 Catholic dioceses but Mexican-American protesters said the TCC had made three "drastic decisions" without consulting the persons involved.

Ceremonies marked establishment of the nation's first statewide alliance of Protestants and Catholics in the Protestant-Catholic Conference of Churches.

About 70 sign-carrying Mexican-Americans picketed the site of a TCC gathering Monday, protesting what they called three "betrayals of poor people."

Church leaders Monday dissolved the TCC to make way for the formation of the new organization today.

The protesters, mostly members of the "Colonias del Calle," an organization in the Rio Grande Valley, distributed printed leaflets listing the three "betrayals."

The leaflet said the three items were the dropping of a suit alleging brutality by Texas rangers during a farm workers union organization effort in 1966; the firing of the Rev. Ed Krueger from his Valley ministry post; and an "attempt to destroy" the Hidalgo County VISTA program.

"We have tried to clean the slate as much as possible in order for the new conference to have the fullest freedom," said Bishop W. Kenneth Pope.

He said included in issues

"we must bid farewell to" were the "Valley ministry," sponsorship of VISTA and a lawsuit against the Texas Rangers.

But he said work with the Mexican-Americans would continue more effectively under the new conference. He called this work a "moral obligation."

"The determining reasons for these staff changes was a breach of attitude and conduct," he said.

He said misunderstandings about the sponsorship of VISTA program had been "cleared up" and continued sponsorship will be recommended to the new conference.

But he said the council maintains its decision to drop the lawsuit against the Rangers. Reynaldo de la Cruz, spokesman for the protesters, said the group would stay in Austin through today to protest at ceremonies to form the new conference. He said the pickets were not protesting the merger.

De la Cruz said the group "has no hope of getting Krueger rehired." He said the minister did not know about the protest.

The leaflets distributed by de la Cruz said:

"Our presence here is a protest and a warning. We protest the recent decisions made by the Texas Council of Churches, and we warn the new Texas Conference of Churches that Mexican-Americans will no longer be content with decisions made for them."

"We insist upon an influential voice in matters that affect us."

State's Roads Were Busy With Traffic

AUSTIN — Expenditures by a record-breaking number of automobile-visitors to Texas last year topped $1 billion for the first time, the Texas Highway Department reported today.

The Department's annual survey showed a record-breaking 16.6 million visitors toured the State's highways by automobile.

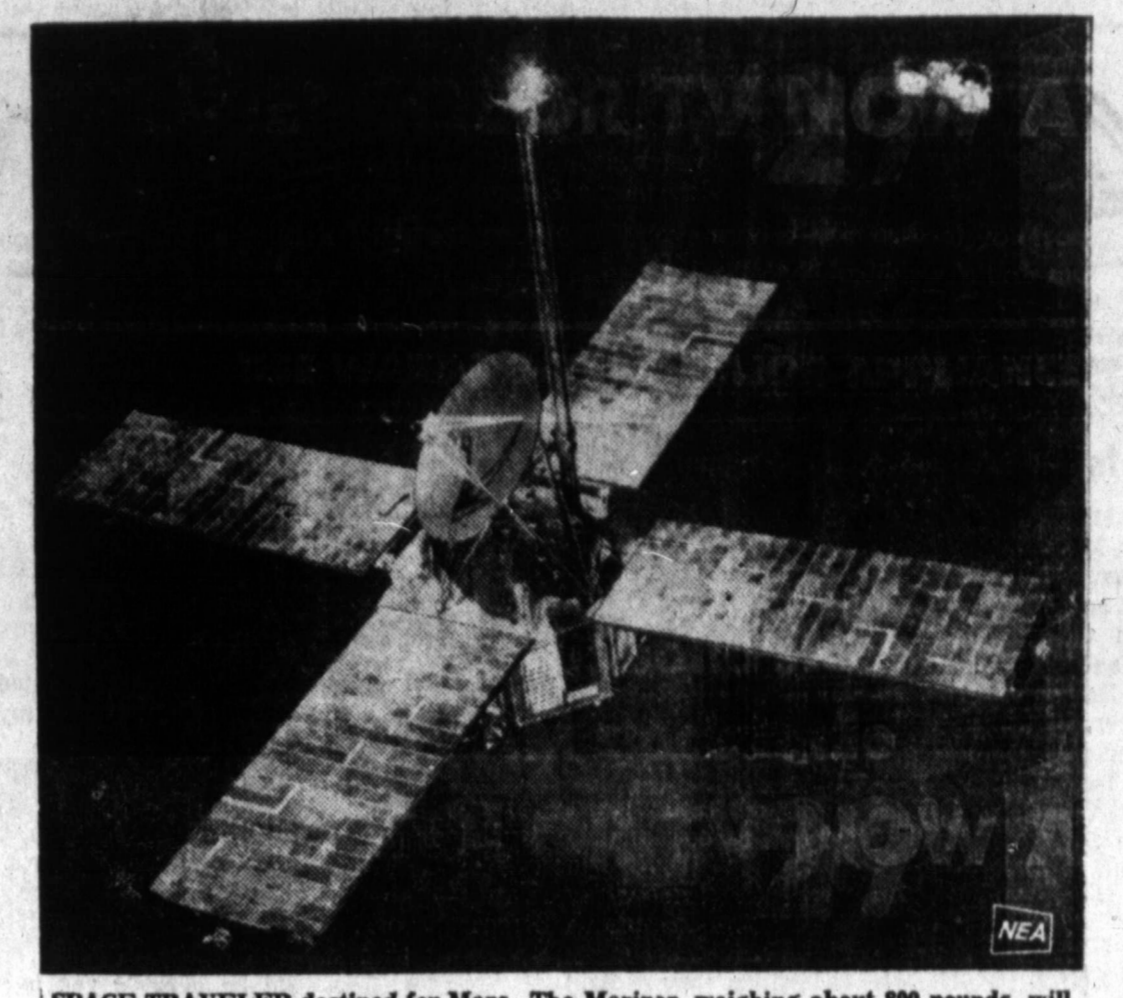

Significance of the automobile to travel is underlined by U.S. Bureau of the Census figures that indicate that 86 per cent of all travel in the U.S. is by automobile.

Estimates gathered by the Texas Tourist Council, representing the private sector of the travel industry in Texas, indicate that another 5.9 million travelers arrived by commercial carriers — planes, trains or buses — and spent an estimated $467.5 million in the State.

The combined $1.5 billion impact in visitor spending marked the third straight billion-dollar-plus year for the Texas travel industry.

The Highway Department figures show an increase of 9.1 per cent in the number of auto visitors over the previous year, and a gain of 25.8 per cent in the amount of money spent while in Texas.

The increase is still more significant in that the 18.2 thousand visitor parties surveyed by the Highway Department during the year reported more money was spent last year for entertainment and retail sales than ever in history.

SPACE TRAVELER destined for Mars. The Mariner, weighing about 800 pounds, will carry 50 pounds of scientific instruments to study Mars and its environment. In addition, the NASA spacecraft will photograph the planet's surface and gather data to be used in the design of landing capsules for later Mars missions.

Agnew, Former Coach To Head New Team

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has denounced "the rule of force" which he says marks much campus protest and has directed Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former football coach Bud Wilkinson to seek means of coping with it.

The President, through a letter released by the White House, spelled out his views on the current wave of college unrest with unmistakable clarity. He doesn't like it.

Nixon underscored his feeling in yet another way. A "Dear Ted" letter went to the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, and an old friend.

Father Hesburgh is the author of what is becoming known as the "15 minutes of meditation" policy, a get-tough attitude that gives protestors employing force the choice of stopping, or being suspended, expelled or arrested.

"I want to applaud the forthright stand you have taken," Nixon wrote in a letter sent shortly before he left for Europe Sunday.

In addition to blaming violent student protests on "a small, irresponsible minority," Nixon set his administration to the task of seeing what could be done about them.

Agnew said Nixon's letter to Father Hesburgh, was instructed to discuss with the nation's governors, meeting in Washington this week, "what action, consistent with the tradition of independence of American universities, might be taken at the state and federal levels to cope with the growing lawlessness and violence on our campuses."

Wilkinson, a near immortal at the University of Oklahoma, an ardent campaigner for Nixon and now a White House assistant, has been working on possible programs, according to White House officials, and expected to submit recommendations at a later date.

Television In Review

By RICH DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The conflict between a nonconformist young scientist and the square, suburban company that employed him was the basis of an original CBS-TV drama, "The Experiment," Tuesday night.

Although the 90-minute drama by Ellen M. Violet is sometimes diffuse—and a little preachy with several cliché characters—it was by far the best of the "CBS Playhouse" productions to date.

It was a very fine way to spend 90 minutes Tuesday night, for several reasons. One is that, despite the occasional decline into stereotyped reactions, the feel of the so-called generation gap was transmitted with more genuineness than one might have expected.

Another reason is that the performances by M. K. Douglas, son of Kirk Douglas, and Tisha Sterling, daughter of Ann Southern and Robert Sterling, were true and forceful and affecting as the young scientist and the girl who lives with him pretending to be his wife.

Believable

In the story, the young lovers are just out of college, where he has been a brilliant student, wrapped up mainly in his work, and where she has been a political activist. But more than their specific roles, Miss Sterling and Douglas were wholly believable in expressing the relationship of their contemporary love and wishes. In her idealism and directness, Miss Sterling particularly scored in getting across what many young persons find wrong with establishment values.

The catalyst—the recruiter who brings Douglas into the firm—was portrayed by that fine actor John Astin, who had the interesting role of a middle-aged man who sympathized with the young man because of his own past idealism—but who had long since bent to compromise.

Professional Job

Barry Sullivan did his usual professional job with an ill-defined role—a pivotal member of the firm whose troubles with his own daughter lead him to a distressing showdown with Miss Sterling, especially after he finds out she is not married to Douglas. The daughter was played by Susan Strasberg.

"The Experiment," produced by Martin Manulis and directed by Robert Butler, was well cast. And the story of what happens when a longhaired, casually-dressed, college nonconformist is absorbed into corporate suburbia is surely well worth going into. It is nice to report, by the way, that "CBS Playhouse" finally found a place for natural humor arising from some of Tuesday night's situations. Until now, "CBS Playhouse" has been a dreadfully, fatally serious place.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1969 with 308 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

- 1815 Napoleon Bonaparte and 1,200 men fled from Elba to start a second conquest of France.
- 1870 New York City's first subway line was opened to the public with a fare of 25 cents.
- 1919 Congress established Grand Canyon National Park.
- 1935 Germany began operation of its Air Force under Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

O'Neill Says No to Suggestion He Should Quit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Premier Terence O'Neill narrowly defeated the electoral challenge of the Rev. Ian Paisley and rejected suggestions today that he should resign in the face of growing opposition to his civil rights reforms for Roman Catholics.

"I have no intention of resigning," he said.

But so strong was the vote for Paisley in O'Neill's home Banmishere district that Paisley supporters hailed their near victory in wild celebration. Paisley had led the opposition to O'Neill's policies of giving the Roman Catholics equal rights in voting, housing and jobs.

O'Neill said his victory margin—1,414 votes—was "not as big a mandate as I had hoped for, but it is still a mandate to carry on with the work I am trying to do in Northern Ireland."

For O'Neill's ruling Unionist Party it was one of the most sobering experiences in its 48 year history.

Though he won a narrow victory, O'Neill failed to cleanse his own party of opposition to his program of equality for Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics whose protest against alleged discrimination brought widespread violence.

With six results still undecided, O'Neill's Unionist Party held 35 of the 52 seats in parliament. Only 26 of those were won by O'Neill backers. The other nine were held by Unionists who oppose O'Neill's policies.

The Nationalists had won five of the 46 seats decided by noon today, the Labor Party two and other splinter groups four.

Under Northern Ireland's parliamentary system O'Neill must be elected to parliament before he can serve as premier. O'Neill beat out Paisley for the house seat by only 1,500 votes.

Hundreds of Paisley supporters whopped it up until well into the morning in the deeply Protestant sections of the city.

ROGOVIN APPOINTED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has appointed Charles H. Rogovin, an assistant attorney general in Massachusetts, as administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The agency was created by the 1968 Omnibus Crime Act to help Justice Department aid state and local law enforcement.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

The snow was too deep for me to get out Thursday afternoon, so want to thank Mrs. Catherine Sullins, Altrusa chairman, for furnishing me with these notes of the Senior Center meeting at Lovett Memorial Library.

C.N. Hallon has recently returned from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where he served in the Armed Forces several years and has retired. Mrs. Hallon has lived here to take care of her father, Frank Carter, who comes often to the Center. Mr. and Mrs. Hallon are moving here permanently and live at 1324 Frederick.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Murial Kingerly and Earl Lewis. Hostesses were Twentieth Century Cotillion members. Serving refreshments were Mmes. Bory Mills, Dean Copeland, Kenneth Royce, Gene

Hall and Charles Walsh. Altrusans serving were Miss Jay Flanagan, Mrs. Louise Sewell, Mrs. Olive Hills. No Red

Skellytown WMU Selects Officers

SKELLYTOWN (Spl)—The WMU Group II of Skellytown First Baptist Church met recently in Mrs. Ethel Mae Thurmond's home with Mrs. J.C. Jarvis giving invocation and reading the prayer calendar. Each member present participated in the program which was conducted by Mrs. Bill Price. Mrs. Wanda Rogers, WMU president, gave the benediction.

Mrs. Thurmond conducted the business meeting as members elected and installed new officers for 1969. Officers are Mrs.

Cross transportation service was provided because of the deep snow, but 26 attended the meeting.

Ethel Mae Thurmond, group leader; Mrs. Bill Price, current missions leader; Mrs. Jimmie Davis and Mrs. J.C. Jarvis, mission book chairmen; Mrs. Roy Paul Thurmond and Mrs. A.R. Baker, secretary and treasurer. Attending were Mmes. Roy Paul Thurmond, Bill Price, Della Grant, J.C. Jarvis, Jimmie Davis, A.R. Baker, and one guest Mrs. Wanda Rogers.

WANDA MAE HUFF, WOMEN'S EDITOR

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I propose that we adopt the following code of behavior between the sexes: "Henceforth a man may touch any part of a woman's body that he is able to see."

I believe that such a code would induce women to impose upon themselves some restraints on the manner in which they dress.

Our mini-skirted bare-bosomed gals go about exuding as much sexiness as they possibly can, then they expect to be treated like virtuous unapproachable young ladies. Any comments?

LEO IN COLUMBUS DEAR LEO: Yes! I am in favor of "truth in packaging" and against advertising that which one has no intention of delivering, but since when should one be able to touch everything he sees? One should be able to enjoy viewing a mountain without climbing it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 68 years old and he's still in good health, but he is one of those who made his will out 10 years ago and he has changed it half a dozen times since.

The last time he changed it I asked him what changes he had made this time, and he refused to tell me. As his lawful wedded wife, am I not entitled to know what is in my husband's will?

"IN THE DARK" IN DULUTH DEAR IN: In Minnesota, a will is a personal matter, and your husband is under no legal obligation to reveal its contents to you.

Should he precede you in death, however, and if you're not satisfied with the terms, you have the right to renounce it, and take from the estate that which you'd have been entitled to, had your husband left no will at all. (The laws in the various states differ!)

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Jack H. in L.A." said you goofed when you made reference to the "wives" of the famous Wright Brothers, because the Wright brothers were both bachelors!

Well, Jack H. is the one who goofed, because my grandmother's sister was married to Wilbur Wright.

Very Truly Yours, O.D.T.: OLYMPIA, WASH.

Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

FOR THURS., FEB. 27
YOUR BIRTHDAY Thursday:
 — The coming year is one of harvest — counting the blessings you have earned over a decade by making the best of the situation. Meditation will guide to a philosophic balance. Travel lightly, at least in symbol. Thursday's natives tend to manual dexterity, mimicry, nearly always have very ble personalities.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19):
 — This is a day in which things go easily enough without any extra special push. For once, let well enough alone; just go through the routines normally. Be nice to your own in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20):
 — In this rather complex day, work through the backlog of correspondence, delayed errands, partnership papers, joint plans. Clear out anything in the home which has lost its function and is merely taking up space.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):
 — Everything seems going for you. Avoid extremes or too many words. A great deal can be done if you have your wits about you. Come home fairly early!

CANCER (June 21-July 22):
 — In your urge for expanding self-expression, do not forget the other fellow's need for recognition. A little diplomacy will take you a long way toward where you want to go.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22):
 — In solitude make an effort to review briefly all the past incidents on which you still show reactions. See what you may be able to do to improve your prestige. Mere spending will not help.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):
 — If you will avoid haste and temper, you will be transcending a strong trend. The people in your home will respond readily to kindness. Organize a small party in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):
 — Your situation should be improved as a result of the sincere efforts you have made lately to stay out of squabbles. Take full advantage and continue in this direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):
 — Thursday is ideal for beginning long journeys: either physical geographical moves or symbolic moves such as new courses of study. The goals are related to self-discovery, self-evolution to a new human condition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):
 — Get rid of any long-standing nuisances if you can, or make plans to by-pass them in such a way as to detour their impact on your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):
 — The evening hours are great for gay social activities and lightly pursuing affairs of the heart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):
 — You should concentrate unwaveringly on following up previously settled plans. Anything along experimental lines is not within your scope. Put work-a-day matters out of your mind altogether with a refreshing evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20):
 — You can do anything within reason with the splendid influences of Thursday. However, carefully fill the day with all the doings that are within regulation.

Great-Grandmother Keeps Physically Fit By Jogging Four Miles Daily

By GAY PAULEY

"The best way for me to live is to be fit for myself to know." The words come from a tiny great-grandmother who all her life has made physical fitness part of her daily regimen. Now at 82, Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, born a Philadelphia Biddle, has taken up jogging.

Julia Rush Henry represents everyone's reason for keeping physically and mentally in tune. She's never had a serious illness — "although I'm afraid to mention this. Lightning might strike." She goes to Europe a couple of times a year. And at 89 to 90 pounds, she weighs the same as she did when she was a debutante in Philadelphia where her father, Alexander Williams Biddle, was a doctor. Mrs. Henry is the product of a family long conscious of public service—three of her ancestors were signers of the Declaration of Independence. "We Biddles have always been into something," she smiles.

She grew up in a family conscious of sports too—golfing, swimming, tennis and the like. And each day of her adult life she has done one hour of exercise although she conceded, "some days you just have to make yourself do them."

Her walking and jogging clothes are casual when she takes to the high school track 200 yards from her home at Chestnut Hill in Philadelphia. I met this indefatigable widow when she came to New York for a gathering of the National Jogging Association, which is sponsoring a three-months tour by Robert (Bob) Richards, the Olympics champion. Richards will jog and cycle coast to coast to dramatize the need for fitness.

Odessa Advances To 4-A Tourney Lefors Girls Set To Play Hartley

Odessa beat Tascosa at its own game Tuesday night in a bi-district clash in Lubbock and advanced to the AAAA regional tournament this weekend.

A little closer to home, Allison built up an early lead at Shamrock and dumped Quail, 77-66 in a Class B bi-district title.

Quail cut the Allison margin to one in the third quarter but the Antelopes quickly widened the gap.

James Richardson scored 22 points to pace Allison and Burdon Duke added 19.

Allison now advances to the Class B regional Friday and Saturday in Levelland.

In another bi-district game Spearman advanced to regional competition in Class AA with a 56-49 victory over Childress in Clarendon.

Odessa led Tascosa 40-31 entering the final period and the Rebels came back for a 46-45 lead but lost, 48-46 on a three-point play.

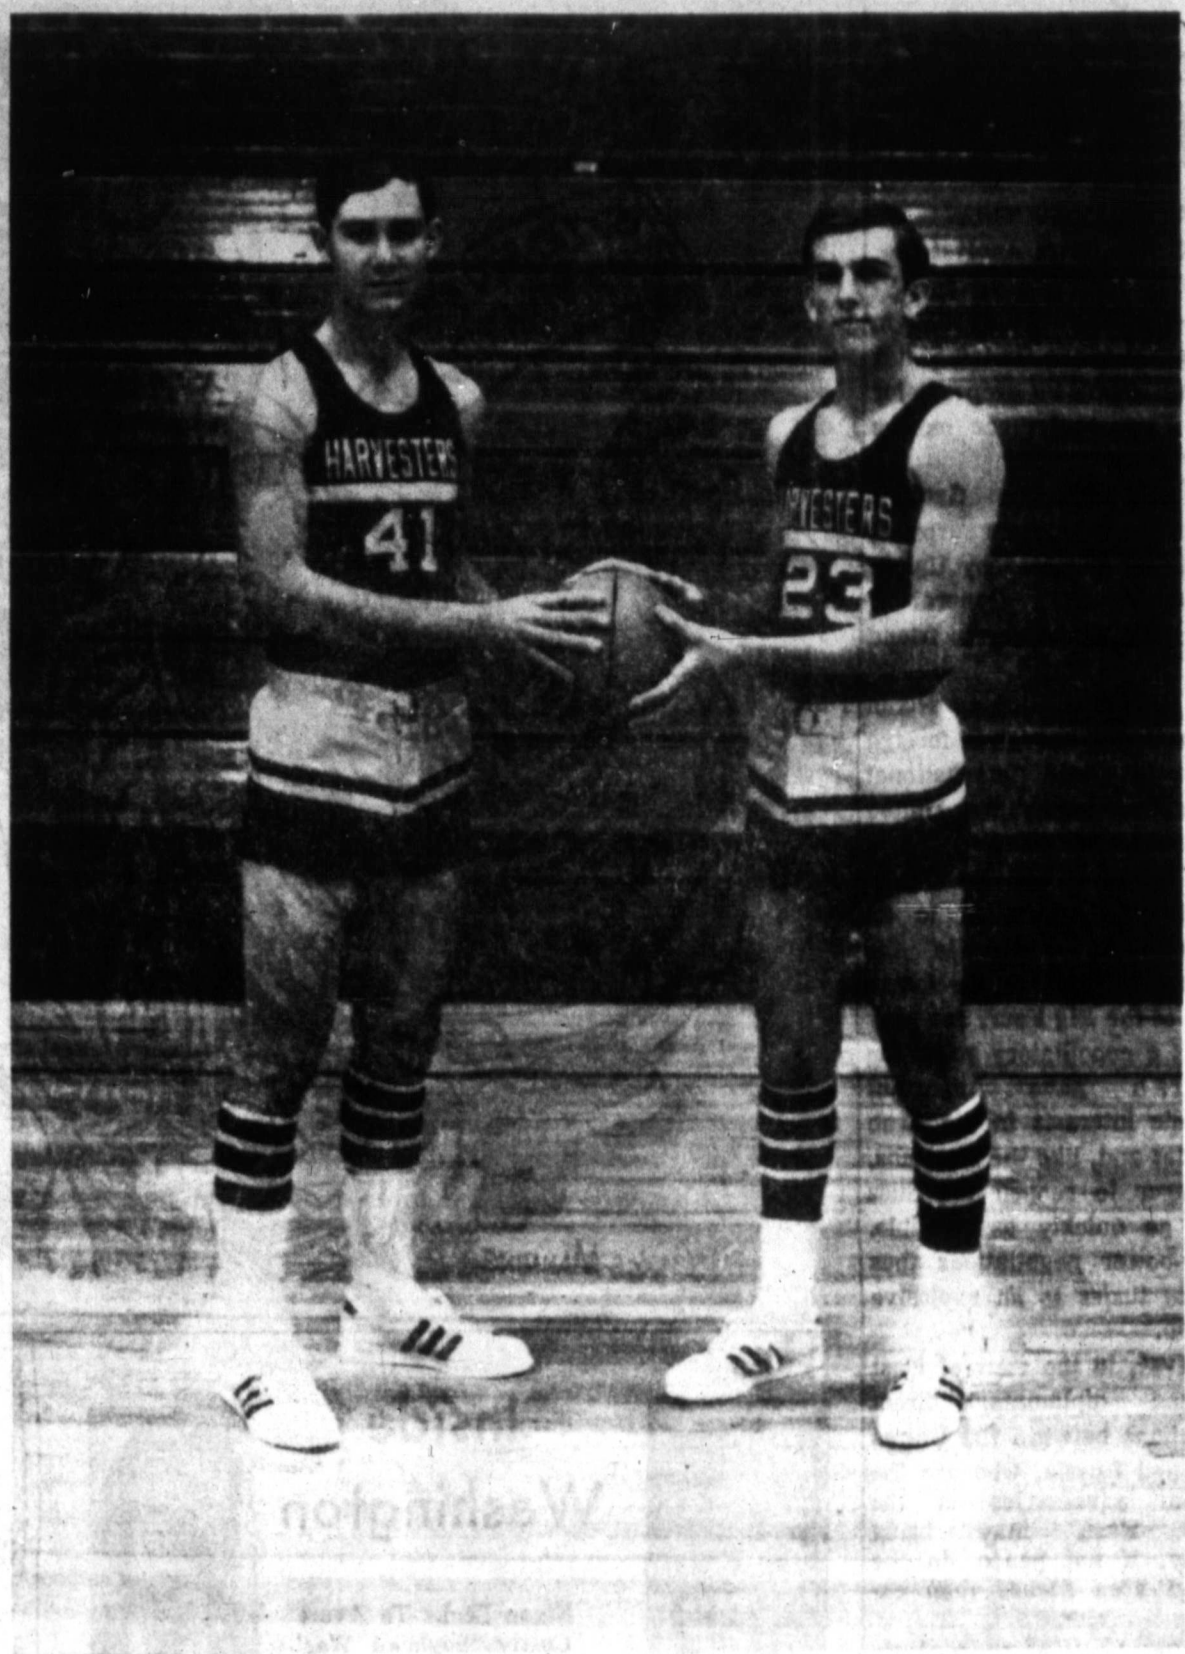

LONDON (UPI)—British Junior Lightweight champion Jimmy Anderson made a second successful title defense Tuesday when he stopped Colin Lake in the seventh round.

Anderson, 129, recorded his 26th win against seven losses while Lake, 130, suffered his seventh setback in 29 bouts.

LAKE STOPPED

LONDON (UPI)—British Junior Lightweight champion Jimmy Anderson made a second successful title defense Tuesday when he stopped Colin Lake in the seventh round.

Anderson, 129, recorded his 26th win against seven losses while Lake, 130, suffered his seventh setback in 29 bouts.

TEAM CAPTAINS — Jim Hollis, left, and Johnny Epperson were elected co-captains of the Harvester basketball team by their teammates at the close of the season.

Apology Is Offered To Lefors Basketball

An apology may be in order to the 200 Pampa News subscribers in Lefors, the girls basketball team and its fine coach Harley Lewis.

The Lefors gals, you see, won the district basketball title Friday night by waxing Briscoe by 10 points.

This was the first time in the school's history that a girls team from Lefors has ever won the district title.

Some people were quite elated over it and well they should have been.

One of those elated persons (a woman) called Saturday morning and informed me that if there wasn't a story on Sunday's sports pages about the victory everybody in Lefors would discontinue their paper. The lady said, I believe, "We want to see a big story."

I quickly informed her that a story had already been turned in containing the pertinent information.

She then informed me that Lefors hadn't gotten any basketball news all season and being well aware of this I quickly informed the woman why they hadn't.

Before the basketball season started letters were sent to all area basketball coaches asking for team rosters and informing them of my telephone numbers where they could call collect to turn in their team's results.

Now that the season is over I can safely say that only the coach from Briscoe and Allison ever called to turn in a score.

A nice woman from Pampa

You Don't Say ...
By RON CROSS

turned in all of Briscoe's number here at the paper is MO 4-2528.

Personal coverage of area basketball games is something else. Almost impossible.

With Pampa playing on the same night and with no one else available to cover games of any kind all we can do is say we're sorry.

We would like our area coaches to call on track meets, baseball games, tennis and golf. We would, in fact, like to have your rosters in these sports.

Anyone who calls in results will be paid.

Anyone who calls should ask for me if they don't call me at home; if they can't reach me at the paper then ask for the city editor. He'll be glad to take your information.

My chances of winning a popularity contest in Lefors are probably over. I'll probably never go to speak at an athletic banquet there and the woman who called thought I was "huffy" and she's right.

But then aren't all redheads?

Angels Finish Depends On Pitching Potential

NEW YORK—AL WEST—PROSPECTUS — Angels finished in a disappointing tie for ninth in the American League last season with a woefully weak pitching staff (the best record among starters was George Brunet's 13-17). Bill Rigney's big job will be to find some pitchers who can go the distance—and win. Rest of club has good potential, but how far Satriano, who hit 50 points better than Rodgers, could be full-timer this year. Rating: C.

INFIELD — Loss of Don Mincher leaves first base open, but Jim Spencer who played 19 games there last season may be ready to take over. But Dick Stuart, back from Taiyo, Japan, can't be overlooked. Bobby Knoop is set at second, Jim Fregosi a fixture at short. They make Angels quite strong up the middle. Third base could go to either Chuck Cottier, Chuck Hinton or Satriano, if he doesn't catch. Rating: B minus.

OUTFIELD — Vic Davalillo hit .296 for Angels after being obtained from Cleveland and will be centerfielder. Rick Reichart (21 homers) and Roger Repoz will flank him. Jay Johnstone and Bubba Morton will see spot duty. Rating: B.

ROOKIES TO WATCH — Joe Henderson, a righthanded hurler, may stick after big year at San Jose. He was 17-3 and fanned 186 in 188 innings. Outfielder Bill Voss (.282 at Hawaii) also will get look.

Predicted Finish: 4th in West

MAMMOTH ENTRY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Rigid qualifying will be necessary to pare the fields for the finals of the 1969 IC4A indoor track championships here March 8. A total of 1,289 athletes from 62 colleges have been entered.

CATCHING — Eob Rodgers and Tom Satriano split catching duties last season and neither hit with great consistency.

Aggies Started To Win Early In The Season

By United Press International
The turning point in the season for Southwest Conference champions Texas A&M came, surprisingly enough, before the conference season started.

The change in attitude hit the Aggies during the All College Tournament last December. A&M coach Shelby Metcalf said today a short while after his team wrapped up the title with a 79-66 win over Arkansas.

"We had lost the opener in that tournament," Metcalf said. "That left us three and four for the season. Then we came back and beat two good teams, Pacific and Wyoming, and we started to jell."

Metcalf said his team had three "key" conference games.

"The Arkansas game at Arkansas was big because it was our first road trip. Our third game at SMU was important because at that time we thought they were the team to beat. And Texas at Austin is always a big game and that one was on television," Metcalf said.

The biggest surprise of the season was "playing those seven one-point ballgames. When you win one of them it sure builds up the confidence."

Which may explain the overwhelming confidence the Aggies displayed towards the end of the season—his team won six of the seven games decided by one point.

"You get the feeling after a while that somebody up there really likes you," he said.

The conference championship gives A&M the right to play in the NCAA tournament but like any coach Metcalf said, "We are only looking to SMU, our next game."

He said the game would be especially important because four seniors, three of them starters for three years, would be playing their last game in College Station.

In other games around the SWC and the state Tuesday night, TCU once again helped the Aggies by knocking Baylor out of contention, 70-66. SMU squeaked out a last second 71-69 win over Texas. Texas Tech just got by Rice, 84-83, and North Texas State defeated Missouri Valley Conference foe, Wichita State 102-100.

Billy Bob Barnett led the Aggie offensive and defensive attack with 21 points and 16 rebounds to put A&M into the first round of the NCAA playoffs against Trinity March 8 at Fort Worth. The win gave the Aggies an 11-1 conference record and a three-game lead with two games left to play.

Teams Put Out Welcome Mat for Veteran Players

By United Press International
The Big Crisis over, major league baseball teams put out the welcome mat today for their veteran players and set about the task of finding their starting lineups for the campaign ahead.

Soon after the spring training boycott ended Tuesday with agreement between players and owners on a new pension program, players started flooding the switchboards of the Florida and Arizona training sites, telling club officials they were on their way.

Virtually every club said it had most of its players lined up on contract terms and expected them on the field for workouts within the next two days.

A notable exception was the Los Angeles Dodgers, who have four starting pitchers and eight other players still unsigned over salary differences. But Dodgers owner Walter O'Malley was making plans to see he wasn't left at the gate.

In what O'Malley admitted was "a change of policy," he sent telegrams to all 12, asking that they report to camp immediately.

"Traditionally, a player who hasn't signed his contract is not invited into camp," O'Malley said. "However, this is an unusual situation."

The telegram to the players from the Dodger management said, "We want to win the pennant in 1969 and do not want to let other clubs get ahead of us in conditioning."

SODASKI SIGNED
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have signed John Sodaski of Villanova.

Sodaski, from Phoenixville, Pa., played both quarterback and defensive halfback for the Wildcats. He was the Steelers' ninth draft choice last month.

Pill To Understandings

A scientist had an encouraging message for mankind as the sorry old year ended and the new one began.

It was not exactly couched in scientific language but was a vivid capsule summary of what has been learned about human beings through recent inquiries into the actual physical functioning of the brain and nervous system—how it receives, processes stores and utilizes sensory information from the outside.

There may be much less downright meanness in the world than we supposed, University of California neurophysiologist Dr. Robert B. Livingston told fellow scientists at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

That is, the disputations, petty or grave, that strain our daily relations with our fellowmen are not due so much to malice as to a lack of understanding of the brain structure and its functions. It is different from every other brain, and the difference can be slight or it can be radical.

It is in the childhood years, said Livingston, where the brain is doubling in size in the first six months and doubling again by the age of 4, that "people become embedded in language and culture, so that much of what we consider 'common sense' in any culture is actually what we experience before age 12."

Everything coming into the mind is modified by our experiences, expectations and purposes, with much data either shielded out or distorted so that it may never reach any two people in just the same form.

Observers of human behavior have always been aware, of course, that each man views the world through his personal set

Older Drivers Are Safer

"They should take away drivers' licenses of older people; they're a menace on the highways." That was the gist of pre-meeting conversation recently of a group of men ranging in age from 32-55.

"Why do they let old people drive?" was the question of a high school student when the car in which he was riding was slowed momentarily by an older person driving a bit slower than some other traffic.

In each instance, there was an assumption that declining physical abilities of some older persons does, in fact make them more dangerous on the highways. Apparently this assumption is accepted among many persons.

But "it ain't necessarily so," as the song goes. As a matter of fact, there's a scientific study which tells quite a different story. A nationwide study on the driving records of senior motorists showed that persons 65 and over averaged 37 per cent fewer accidents.

Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, head of the study for the University of Denver College of Law, said the report is so favorable to the senior motorist that it "will be pivotal in refuting current popular thinking about older drivers."

The study was based on examination of the records of the total driver population of each of 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Although senior drivers represented 7.4 per cent of all drivers in the states surveyed, they were involved in only 4.8 per cent of all accidents in those states.

Here are some more highlights: Senior drivers averaged lowest of all age groups in frequency of injury producing accidents. The senior driver's

Stage Is Set To Cool Off Middle East

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(NEA)—It is obviously not in the interest of the United States to accept France's proposal for a Big Four conference on the Middle East.

President De Gaulle's suggestion, to no one's surprise, was hastily endorsed by United Nations Secretary General U. Thant, who is hardly a friend of the United States.

But President Richard Nixon is experienced enough in foreign affairs to avoid international negotiations where the United States will be isolated.

The Russians and De Gaulle are already committed to an anti-American policy in the Middle East. Britain, the fourth nation of the Big Four, can play at best a conciliatory role. The British have important economic interests in the Arab countries and, like the Russians, are eager to reopen the Suez Canal as quickly as possible.

Four-power negotiations thus will add tinder to an explosive situation.

However, in the view of East European diplomats, direct negotiations between the United States and Russia, who are the principal adversaries in the Middle East, may bring stability, if not peace, to the troubled area sooner than expected.

Israel's leaders have little faith in the good will of Russia or the impartiality of De Gaulle. But they are increasingly confident that Nixon will indeed pursue an even-handed policy in the Middle East.

The proposal by Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban to exchange views with the Arabs through U. N. Ambassador Jarring—rather than by direct negotiations as Israel had previously requested—clears the way for serious negotiations.

The Israelis seem no longer convinced that massive retaliation discourages the Arab terrorists. They are also hinting that they will relinquish much of the Arab territory they conquered in 1967 in exchange for a settlement that will guarantee their right to exist.

On the Arab side, Egypt's President Nasser and Jordan's King Hussein, despite pressure from extremists and terrorists for another military confrontation with Israel, are also anxious for a relaxation of tensions.

Even though Egypt's armed strength is now back where it was before the war in June 1967, the Arab leaders know perfectly well that they are today even less likely to win another round with Israel.

Moreover, it has now been confirmed that Moscow warned the Arab leaders to curb their terrorist and guerrilla warfare which seek to escalate Arab-Israeli hostilities.

To be sure, Russia's role in the Middle East, the Kremlin's policy of "no peace and no war," is ambiguous.

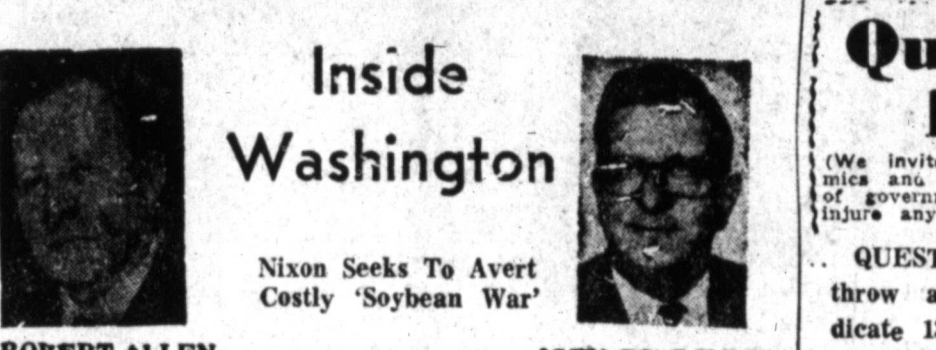

Where their interests are involved directly, as in Czechoslovakia, the Russians will not hesitate to resort to armed force. But it is increasingly clear that for the immediate future they are not interested in encouraging another war in the Middle East which they know their Arab clients cannot win.

More important is the Kremlin's belated realization that the Arab guerrillas, sustained and armed by Russia, have become pawns in Red China's anti-Soviet game. Peking has gradually replaced Moscow as mentor of the Arab extremists.

As Moscow reconsiders its involvement in the Arab-Israeli conflict, the latest conference of pro-Russian Arab Communist parties has even adopted new positions, criticizing guerrilla raids against Israel and calling for a "negotiated peace."

This significant development, largely overlooked in the West, will hardly improve relations between the pro-Chinese Arab extremists and the local pro-Russian Communists who put Soviet state interests first. But it is important as an indication of current Soviet policy. Peace in the Middle East is not imminent, but neither is another war.

Nixon Seeks To Avert Costly 'Soybean War'

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, in his top-level talks with government leaders in European capitals, is planning to discuss a wide range of vital mutual interests—including soybeans.

Almost unnoticed, soybeans have become a very vital mutual interest. Some authorities here and abroad think they could furnish the opening battleground for a damaging and disruptive trade war between the United States and the six-nation European Economic Community.

The Common Market is presently considering a consumption tax on soybean meal and soybean oil. Common Market nations have built up a huge butter surplus, and they want to check imports of vegetable oils which are used to manufacture margarine.

A consumption tax, which applies in domestic as well as foreign markets, is not technically a tariff. Nevertheless, the tax is viewed here as a device to curb imports and a violation—at least in spirit—of international trade agreements.

The Agriculture Department describes the proposed Common Market action as the U.S. Farmer's "most important trade problem" with respect to markets in Europe. Congressional leaders have been sharply critical.

At a White House meeting last week before Mr. Nixon's departure for Europe, the President discussed the soybean problem with House and Senate leaders. Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, III, called the discussion lengthy and specific.

Actually, the congressional group urged the President to discuss the matter with leaders of the European Economic Community on his European tour. They left with assurances that Mr. Nixon would express the deep U.S. concern over the proposed consumption tax.

CONGRESSIONAL REACTION—Even before the White House meeting, House and Senate leaders had reacted sharply to the tax. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had offered a resolution warning of "retaliatory action" by the U.S.

Dirksen had planned to offer an identical resolution in the Senate last Wednesday—the day of the meeting with the President. After that White House session he decided to withhold his resolution for the time being.

The GOP leader has told friends, however, that he will introduce a bill to curb imports of European "manufactured goods" if the Common Market goes ahead with the controversial tax on soybean products. He says he was prepared to announce that intention in a

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Segregation Not Illegal Says Finch, 'Head of HEW'

By PAUL HARVEY
If any school remains all white or all black because it is in an all-white or an all-black community, this is "segregation" but not necessarily "discrimination."

The Nixon Administration is taking another look at the guidelines by which we have sought to force race-mixing in all schools whether it made sense or not.

The President's secretary in charge of health, education and welfare, Robert Finch, says segregation per se is not illegal. "If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation in fact is not prohibited by law. What is prohibited by law is deliberate discrimination."

Secretary Finch says, "If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Heretofore there has been agitation to mix up the blacks and whites in every classroom, even if youngsters had to be bused across town to do it.

Now, says Secretary Finch, we are re-examining the old guidelines.

Many Southern school districts have long protested that they are providing equal or better schools and facilities for black youngsters. The Supreme Court decreed, nonetheless, that "separate but equal" constituted discrimination.

Mr. Finch now says that we should consider whether a district is making a genuine effort to make certain that every child, regardless of race, is getting an equal share of the district's educational resources.

It may sound as though Secretary Finch is talking one way and acting another. Recently he denied further federal aid to eight Southern school districts for "failure to meet the guidelines."

He said this was the "ultimate punishment" the federal government could decree in school desegregation disputes.

But then, within hours, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed lawsuits against school districts in Houston and Louisiana.

Finch says the lawsuits were filed by the attorney general without consulting him. He called it "part of the birth pangs of a new Administration."

He said, "I think down the road ahead we are going to have to have greater cooperation between the Justice Department and HEW in this whole area of compliance."

And defending his own action in withholding further federal aid from those eight school districts for "failure to meet the guidelines," Secretary Finch said he now had no alternative but to follow the guidelines inherited from the previous Administration. It is those guidelines he promises to re-examine.

Secretary Finch says he is "not arguing for a dual school system which constitutes a prima facie indication of deliberate discrimination."

But his stated position indicates a new degree of respect for those state, city and school administrators who have been conscientiously seeking to eliminate discrimination from public schools—but who have considered the arbitrary busing of youngsters to distant schools merely for the purpose of race-mixing to constitute another kind of discrimination maybe worse than the first.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Repeated Tests Needed For Correct Diagnosis
One often hears a person say, "There's nothing wrong with my heart. My electrocardiogram didn't show a thing," or "I had a chest X ray and there's no trouble there." Such an attitude shows a lack of understanding of the true value of X ray and other diagnostic procedures. These tests offer your doctor valuable clues about your health or lack of it but they do not make the diagnosis for him.

It's possible, but very unlikely, for a man whose electrocardiogram is normal to die of a heart attack the day after it was made. This is because ECG tells us nothing about the state of the coronary arteries that supply the heart muscle. It's only when an obstruction in one of these arteries severely damages the heart muscle itself that the ECG changes will show up.

This is why tests sometimes have to be repeated and compared with the results of previous tests and why your doctor must weigh them against results of a careful evaluation of your complaints, together with the findings of a physical examination before he can make his diagnosis. In the last analysis your doctor is the best diagnostic instrument of all.

Q—What foods are low acid formers?
A—Surprisingly enough, most fruits and vegetables, even though they have a tart taste, will alkalize your system because the weak acids they contain are offset by the fact that their ash when they are fully consumed (oxidized) is alkaline. The acid formers include fish, fowl, red meat, nuts and sweets. If you want to avoid acidifying your blood you should reduce your intake of these foods but not avoid them completely.

Q—My husband has had pains in his lower back for over six months. Now he is having blood in his stools. What could cause this?
A—Low back pain may be caused by a ruptured intervertebral disk, spondylitis or faulty sleeping posture due to sagging bed springs. Blood in the stool may be caused by piles or amebic dysentery. A combination of the two symptoms, however, is strongly suggestive of cancer of the rectum. A thorough examination without delay is in order.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt can't answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The little old lady entered a suburban bungalow and found a boy of four playing with his toy train.
Mrs. Bell — You don't know me, but I'm your grandmother, on your father's side.
Without looking up from his play, the lad replied,
Little Johnny — I'll tell you right now, you're on the wrong side.

The Weather Bureau received this message on a postcard:
"Gentlemen, I thought you might like to know that those clouds are mighty heavy. I have just shoveled three feet of my partly cloudy from your driveway."

A nun was shopping in an art store. She selected a wooden picture frame, but complained of a knot in it.
Mr. Lee (the clerk, seeking to test her faith)—Sister, don't you realize that the good Lord put that knot in that picture frame?
The unflappable nun hesitated only a moment.
Sister Mary—Yes, I suppose He did. Now find me a frame that He didn't put a knot in.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Frank Lloyd Wright was an early advocate of abstract art, although he eschewed painting and sculpture in his later buildings. The World Almanac says he believed a picture should be more than an imitation of reality because "Nature is never right for a picture, that is, not ready made." Wright advised "If you see a picture in which perhaps a cow is looking out at you so 'real,' so 'life-like,' don't buy the picture—buy the cow."

SENSITIVE GUARD is designed to improve the security of front-line troops against camouflaged or nighttime infiltration. The pocket-sized electronic sensor is implanted in the ground where it detects vibrations caused by moving humans or vehicles up to 75 feet away and relays a coded warning signal to a receiver up to five miles distant. Sixteen sensors can protect a 2,400-foot perimeter. Each has its own identity, enabling immediate pinpointing of an attempted intrusion.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—Legislators are beginning to move along with some of the important decisions facing them.

A Senate committee gave approval to a constitutional amendment by which voters will be allowed to say "yes" or "no" at the general election, November, 1970, whether they want liquor by the drink in Texas on a local-option basis.

A House Committee gave the companion proposal a friendly reception, and is expected to approve it there, too. But sponsors agree that it will be hard to get the two-thirds majorities necessary in each house to pass the proposal on to voters.

Next big proposal for the House Constitutional Amendments Committee is the $3.5 billion water bond proposal sponsored by Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake. This is the state's share of financing for the $10 billion Texas Water Plan. It, too, will go to the voters in November of 1970, if two-thirds majorities in each house agree to submit it.

BILLS ADVANCE—A bill to raise retirement benefits of state employees to 25 per cent (up 10 per cent) landed on the governor's desk following passage by both houses.

Another measure approved by both houses raises the maximum interest rate on state and local bonds from five to six and a half per cent.

Senate has passed proposed constitutional amendments to guarantee equal legal rights for women, grant state funds to governors-elect and to exempt rural water supply districts from taxation.

Bills passed by the Senate include measures to transfer 45 acres from Harris to Waller County, permit Texas A&M University to issue revenue bonds for water and sewage facilities on its campuses and authorizing sale of a Texas Woman's University lot in Denton to finance a music scholarship.

BILLS GALORE—Usually the number of bills filed at the Capitol slackens after the first few weeks. So far this session, it hasn't happened.

Rep. Grant Jones of Abilene has introduced a bill to add at least 50 per cent to the tuition fees of non-Texas students at state colleges while increasing tuition for Texans only slightly.

Rep. George Hinson of Mineola has a bill through committee to allow school districts to get full state aid for students taking vocational courses in another district.

Rep. Carl Parker of Port Arthur has dropped a bill into the House which would allow public employees to have labor unions.

Four House bills to strengthen the obscenity law have been introduced.

Rep. Cletus Davis of Houston has announced that he will introduce a bill to replace article 1220 of the Texas Penal Code (known as the paramour statute) which allows a husband to murder legally a man "taken in the act of adultery with his wife."

Two bills to up the punishment for firearms crimes have been introduced by Sens. Jack Hightower of Vernon and Henry C. Grover of Houston.

Representative Parker also has introduced a bill to regulate and license private detectives and guards and their employers.

Sen. Criss Cole, Houston, has introduced a bill providing that subdivision plats in unincorporated areas must be approved by the county commissioners count before they may be filed and recorded.

Senator Cole also has introduced a bill providing for improved control of solid waste disposal, and giving authority to counties, the State Health Department and the Water Quality Board. Rep. Rex Braun of Houston also has introduced some pollution control bills and opposition between the two has arisen.

SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION OPPONENTS—The Little Red School House Committee, made up of rural landowners, farmers and ranchers from all over Texas, will lobby against the companion bills by Sen. A.R. Swartz of Galveston and DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi. Their bills would reduce the number of school districts in Texas from 1,218 to 353.

Charles Schreiner III, Mountain Home rancher and chairman of the Committee, said, "More bigness is not an absolute guarantee of excellence."

COURTS SPEAK—Texas Supreme Court refused a hearing on the State of Texas' plea to put some 4,000 acres of land on Matagorda Bay into the public domain class.

Other half of the case is H.P. Baxter Jr. who owns a tract of 4,505 acres which was originally about 355 acres. State says the land was "grown" by dredging and the like, while Baxter's lawyers contend it was a gradual process since 1803. So far, Baxter has won in the lower courts, so will keep the land.

COLLEGE KNOWLEDGE CLIMBS—Higher education planners handed the legislature an explosive new issue—higher tuitions and steep building use fees for college students.

Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, adopted by a wide margin the finance committee proposal to double tuitions and establish of $165 a year fee for students at six proposed new schools. Fee would go to retire building bonds.

Levies are necessary, Board concluded, to finance a $401 million building program and college-university operating costs expected to reach $404.2 million by 1975-76.

Board is asking the Legislature this year not only to approve controversial fund-raising methods but also to appropriate $6 million to begin coordinated master planning for new institutions, latter would be located at San Antonio, Midland-Odessa, Dallas, Corpus Christi and two at Houston.

Opposition outcries already have been raised against the recommended $7 per semester credit hour (about $210 a year) tuition for residents and $20 an hour for non-residents. Milder protests have been lodged against building use fee as discriminating against new college enrollees. Board claims both increases are necessary, and that new school students really will be saving money by having higher education brought to their hometowns.

APPOINTMENTS—Forrest W. Reece, former Texas newsman, has been named assistant to the administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration.

Gubernatorial appointees to the Board of Regents Frank C. Erwin Jr. of Austin, Jenkins Garrett of Fort Worth and Dan Williams of Dallas were confirmed by the Senate.

Gov. Preston Smith nominated Tom Hamilton of Plainview district attorney of the 64th judicial district. Hamilton is a native of Matador.

Dr. Joseph R. Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, will become president of the University of Texas at El Paso next June, says Chancellor Harry Ransom.

Dr. Elmer C. Baum, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has appointed three new subcommittees. Those groups: Youth Activities with chairman Jerry Craft, Jacksboro rancher; Women's Organization with Mrs. Stuart Coleman of Brownwood as chairman; and Communications with State Senator Charles Herring of Austin as chairman.

TEXAS POPULATION BOOMING—Texas' population has grown to 10,945,000, according to a new study by UT's Research Center.

Growth rate from 1960 has been a steady, average 1.7 per cent a year.

Major cities have been growing beyond that rate. For example, Harris County with 1.5 million inhabitants as of last April 1, grew at a rate of 3.1 per cent; Dallas with 1,231,000 population jumped 3.2 per cent; and Bexar with 802,500 inhabitants has jumped 1.9 per cent a year since 1960.

CAR INSPECTION DEADLINE NEARS—Only a third of Texas' six million cars have been inspected, warns the Department of Public Safety.

DPS noted that April 15 is the deadline and urged motorists to have their cars checked before long lines form around the state's 5,466 inspection stations.

Average cost to drivers so far this year has been $3.02. That includes the standard $1.75 fee and whatever else is necessary to secure the red, white and blue safety sticker. Headlight alignments and brake adjustments account for most of the ordered corrections checked to date.

State Senate authorized Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes to name a six-member advisory committee on youth problems.

House appropriations committee has completed its budget hearings but the Senate finance sub-committee will continue hearings until Feb. 26.

Dallas families are challenging in federal court the Texas Department of Public Welfare's cut in financial aid to dependent children.
