Astros Conduct Tests In Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 9 astronauts jockeyed the nation's first complete moonship gingerly around in orbit today and the sudden acceleration kicked up their oxygen hoses like a "pack of wild elephants" on the attack.

"Did you ever dream of octopuses?" quipped astronaut Russell L. Schweickart.

Schweickart, James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott began the second day of their demanding 10-day test flight by firing the command ship's main engine for nearly two minutes and they reported it was "pretty smooth" despite the wildly lashing hoses.

The main powerplant of the 58-foot long tandem spacecraft was purposely waggled back and forth to simulate an emergency and see how well the ship's guidance system could control the massive machine.

Scott had anticipated an "exciting" ride when the engine was triggered at 8:02 a.m. CST. But after the firing was completed, he reported matter-of-factly that it was "pretty smooth."

He asked communicator Stuart Roosa: "Have you ever been attacked by a pack of wild elephants?"

The command ship, with its little ugly duckling moon lander latched to its nose, darted 77 miles farther into space to a new orbit of 221 miles. It was the first of three engine control test operations that McDivitt said would never be performed under normal conditions.

The engine was fired with a (See ASTROS, Page 3)

Questions Asked On Performance Of Pueblo Crew

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—Five admirals asked more questions today about the "bugs" in the USS Pueblo's performance when her crew went to battle stations against the North Korean navy.

Testimony by enlisted men Monday asserted:

—The man who was supposed to load the forward machine gun had "no idea" how to get ammunition for it.

—No order was issued to make the ship watertight.

—A lieutenant's suggestions were openly disregarded by an enlisted man in the officer's presence.

The Navy is holding a court of inquiry into the espionage vessel's capture Jan. 23, 1968, and the crew's conduct during 11 months of captivity in North Korea.

Eight more men told their stories Monday and nine were summoned to testify today.

Capt. John R. Brook, a sea law expert from the judge advocate general's office in Washington, had been scheduled to testify today, but his appearance was postponed until Wednesday.

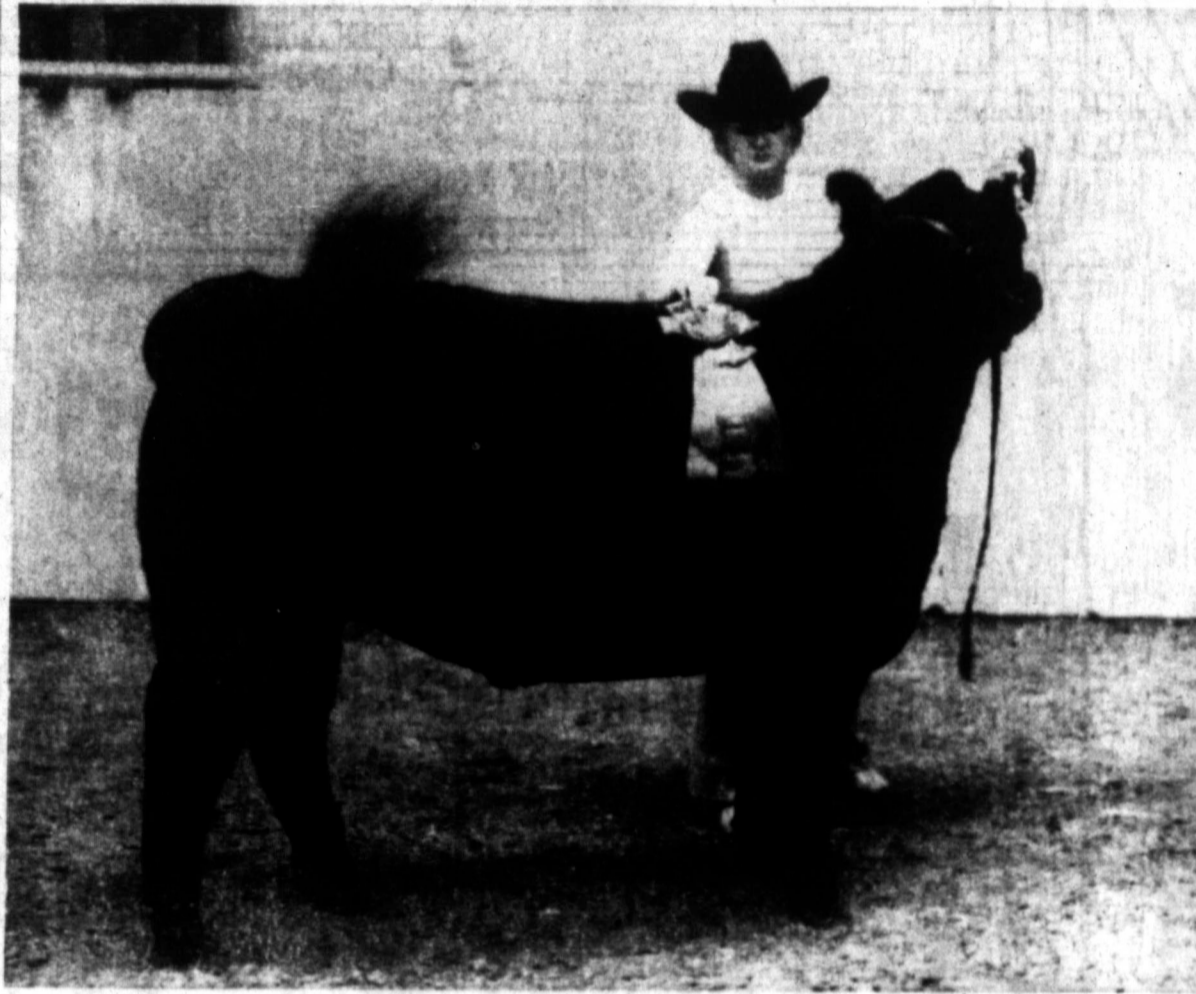

In Washington, a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee opened its own investigation of the Pueblo affair, with the chief of naval operations, Adm. Thomas Moorer, scheduled as the first witness.

A Navy spokesman said Monday the court of inquiry hoped to complete testimony about the middle of next week, with skipper Lloyd M. Bucher as the concluding witness.

Testimony from Brook and the enlisted men is expected to continue through this week.

Storekeeper C.C. Earl R. Phares, 20, Ontario, Calif., said Monday he went to the forward 50 caliber machine gun when Bucher sent the crew to battle stations.

Phares was supposed to be (See PUEBLO, Page 3)

Police Issue Bulletin Throughout the Area

By RON CROSS

MIAMI — Ernest L. (Rusty) Huff, made good, for the time being at least, his second bid for freedom when he escaped from the Roberts County Jail here early this morning.

An all-points bulletin was radiced throughout the Panhandle today for Huff, who with his wife, Wanda Carver Huff, robbed at gunpoint the Miami State Bank in March of 1967.

A Miami sheriff's office employe said this morning that Huff escaped between 2 and 6 a.m. and had stolen a red flatbed pickup loaded with 12 to 14 bales of hay.

The sheriff's official said that Huff apparently chisled out blocks in his cell to gain his way to freedom, but it was not known what implement he used or if he was armed or whether he had help in his escape.

The sheriff's office said they believed Huff would try to get a weapon.

After Huff and his wife robbed the bank in 1967, they were captured hours later north of Pampa and Huff was shot.

He was later hospitalized in Amarillo, where he escaped, but was caught a short time later in a panel truck he had stolen.

Huff, 36, was sentenced to 20 years in prison for bank robbery but had surgery in Highland General Hospital in January.

He was taken to the Miami (See HUFF, Page 3)

Bond Issue Election Set For March 25

By WANDA MAE HUFF
News Staff Writer

Properly owners in the Pampa Independent School District will go to the polls March 25 to approve or reject a proposed $900,000 bond issue for several improvements in the school system.

The bond election was called by the school board at a special meeting late yesterday afternoon.

Homer Craig, director of school business services, said today if the bond issue is approved it would mean an increase of 6 cents per $100 property valuation.

The current school tax rate is $1.75 per $100 valuation, but the total tax rate could not be more than $1.90 per valuation which is allowed by law.

Craig said a new tax rate would probably be set in August when the board adopts its new budget to meet increased costs of school operation.

"It will take 40 cents per $100 valuation to retire the old and new bond issues. With the bond maturity schedule adopted Monday by the board, the district would pay off all of its indebtedness in eight years," Craig said.

"To pay for the new $900,000 bond issue, the tax rate for interest and sinking fund would be raised six cents per $100 valuation for the first four years, and then drop back to its present rate of 34 cents per $100 valuation for the interest and sinking fund," Craig said.

"This means that if a person owns a $10,000 home, on the tax duplicate at $4,000, it would cost him 20 cents more a month for four years, or $2.40 a year. After four years, the new bond (See BOND, Page 3)

House Approval Seen For Water Plan Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—Sponsors of a proposed constitutional amendment seen as a major step toward implementing the long-range Texas water plan predicted the measure would win overwhelming house approval today.

The upper house, meanwhile, was expected to give its okay to a bill by Rep. Joe Shannon Jr. of Fort Worth which would make it a misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in jail to take part in disruptive activities on college campuses.

The water amendment, authored by Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, would increase the state's water development fund authorization to $3.5 billion and would eliminate the present 4 per cent interest ceiling on water development bonds.

"This is the big baby" in a 12-bill package to implement the 50-year $10 billion plan to import water into Texas from the Mississippi River, Clayton said.

He said the proposal would get the required 100 votes in the house "pretty easy."

"We may get a pretty good bunch more than that," Clayton said. He said only one lawmaker has told Clayton he will oppose the amendment.

If both the house and the senate approve the amendment by the required two-thirds majority, it will be submitted to voters in November, 1970.

The issue has not come up for consideration in the senate.

House Speaker Gus F. Mutscher endorsed the amendment Monday at his weekly news conference, and said he was encouraging house members to vote for the proposal.

Shannon's disruptive activities bill, which would apply to all public and private schools in the state, was unanimously approved by the senate state affairs committee Monday.

Only one witness testified against the proposal.

Shannon said the bill would not prohibit peaceful demonstrations on campuses, but would "fill the gap" left by a federal court decision which threw out the state's disturbing-the-peace law last year.

Lodge, Ky Meet For Routine Talk

PARIS (UPI)—Chief U.S. peace negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge today held an unscheduled meeting with South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky against a backdrop of rising allied concern over the continued Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

American officials said the 30-minute session at Ky's residence was "routine." Diplomatic observers noted the meeting followed a statement from Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington in which he said "indiscriminate" attacks by the Communists would not wring more concessions from the allies.

Lodge and Ky discussed the effects of the Viet Cong attacks on South Vietnamese population centers and the effects they will have on the stalled Paris Vietnam peace talks.

Tran Bui Kiem, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NLF) foreign minister, spoke about President Nixon's visit to Paris at a meeting of French students Monday night.

Gray County Residents Lead Top O' Texas Livestock Show

By RON CROSS
Staff Writer

Gray County farm boys and girls dominated the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and Sale in the initial day Monday and a Carson County 4-H'er swept one of the big awards.

While Pampa FFA members and Gray County 4-H members copied most of the awards, the Grand Champion Calf came from out of the county.

Pretty Mary O'Neal of Carson County showed the Grand Champion calf, a heavy-weight Angus, that was also named breed champion from the three classes of Angus shown.

Reserve Grand Champion honors went to Gray County 4-H member Mike Long and his medium weight Hereford, that was also named breed champion from a class of two.

Gray County and Pampa youngsters won a total of 16 first and second place ribbons in the swine and calf divisions.

Pampa FFA members won four first and three seconds in the swine division and one first in the calf show.

Gray County 4-H members copied two first and the same number of seconds in the swine showing and two firsts and two seconds in the calf showing.

Pampans had the grand champion and reserve grand champion swine.

Gray County 4-H also was awarded first in the best group of five calves and Pampa FFA was second, with Carson County 4-H third.

Dr. Charles Smallwood, chairman of the agriculture department at West Texas State University, judged the calves.

The FFA team livestock judging contest got things underway this morning and judging of Hereford breeding cattle and the junior heifer show took place this afternoon.

The top livestock judging teams were to be named this evening at the Livestock Judging Banquet, scheduled to take place at 5 p.m. in Pampa High School.

The Frank M. Carter scholarship award was also to be presented at this banquet.

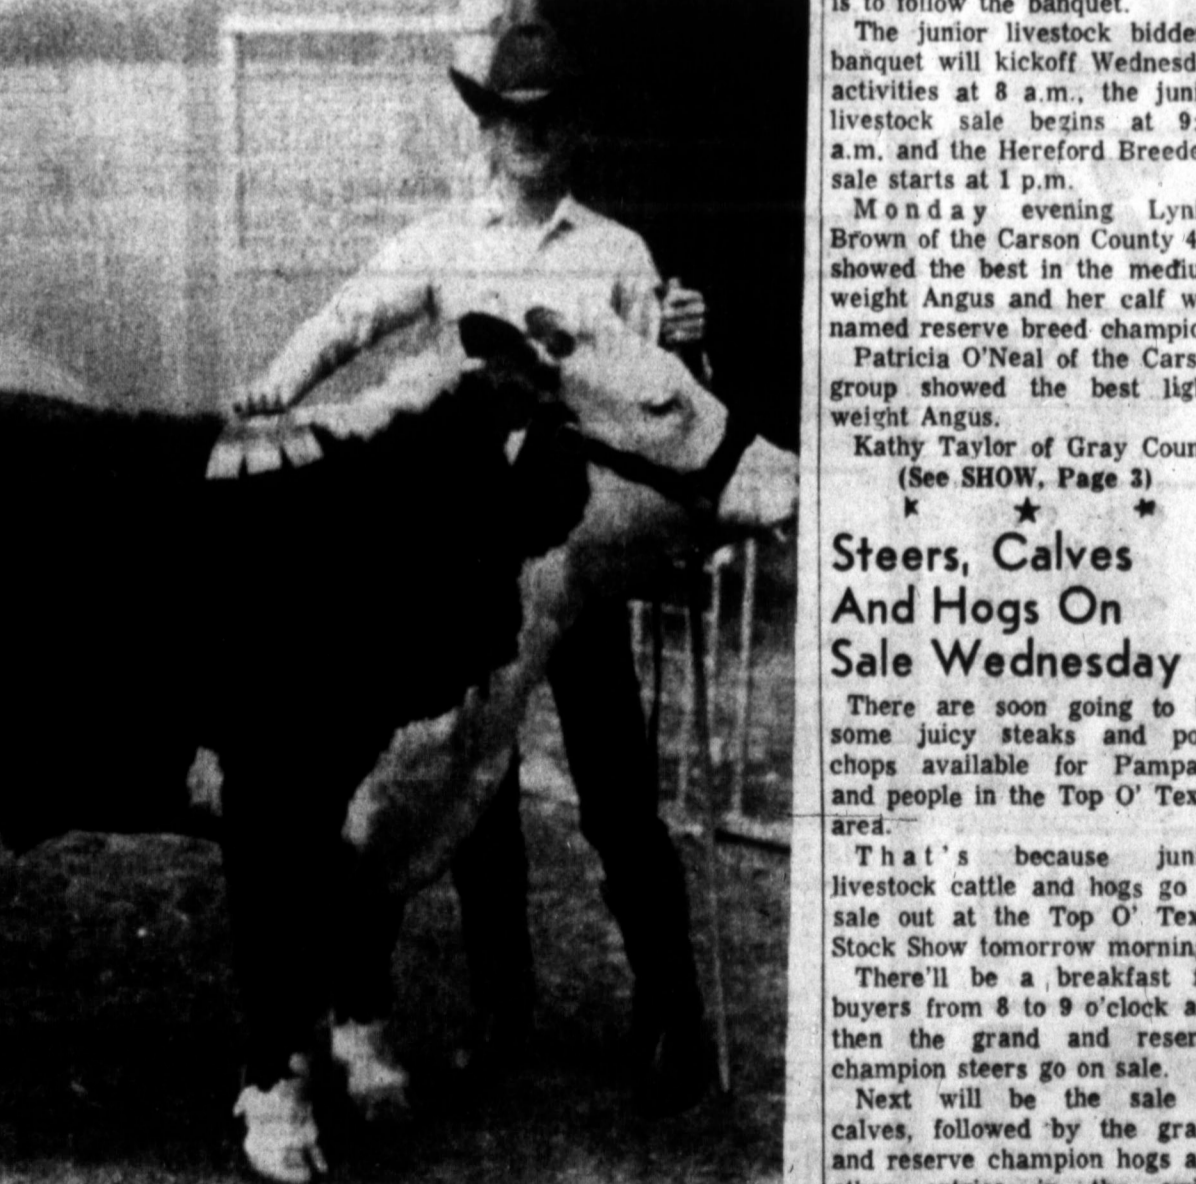

The Hereford Breeder's banquet was slated at 7:30 p.m. this evening. Election of officers is to follow the banquet.

The junior livestock bidder's banquet will kickoff Wednesday activities at 8 a.m. the junior livestock sale begins at 9:30 a.m. and the Hereford Breeders sale starts at 1 p.m.

Monday evening Lynita Brown of the Carson County 4-H showed the best in the medium weight Angus and her calf was named reserve breed champion.

Patricia O'Neal of the Carson group showed the best light-weight Angus.

Demonstrations Show Extent Of Sino-Soviet Split

HONG KONG (UPI)—Peking said "tens of millions" of its soldiers and civilians joined a second day of anti-Soviet demonstrations across Communist China today, 400,000 of them in front of the Soviet embassy in Peking.

China accused the Kremlin leadership of increasing "military pressures" along the 5,000-mile Sino-Soviet border in an attempt to "cause war." "If others attack us, we shall strike back," Peking radio said.

(From Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said Russian workers held "mass meetings of protest" against the "armed provocation" of Chinese troops on the Sino-Soviet border Sunday.

(The meetings in Blagoveshchensk and Khabarovsk near the scene of the Sunday border battle, "took pride in the endurance and courage of the Soviet frontier guards who gave a resolute rebuff to the Chinese provocateurs," Tass said.

"The government of the Chinese Peoples' Republic bears full responsibility for these actions," one worker was quoted as saying.)

For the first time, Peking brought President Nixon into the latest Sino-Soviet dispute, saying the Soviet leadership is "trying very hard to please the Nixon government and to make a deal" with the United States.

Peking Radio broadcast the reports from the Chinese capital Moscow said Monday that Chinese troops had staged "gangster raids" across the border.

The most serious Soviet-Chinese dispute since their ideological split 10 years ago began with both sides reporting their troops in battle Sunday at a border island in Far Eastern Russia.

The border battle Sunday ended with both sides reporting casualties and blaming each other for starting it. Communist China claims to own more than one million square miles of Russia's Far Eastern underbelly.

Snow Forecast For Panhandle

By United Press International

The second Pacific cold front of the week headed for the Panhandle today and by Wednesday forecasters said it will dump three to five inches of snow on the ground, causing hazardous driving conditions.

Travelers' warnings for snow and ice on highways were posted beginning this afternoon in the Panhandle, where light snow had begun drifting down early today over Amarillo. One inch of snow already was on the ground at Amarillo and Childress. Monday's snow at Childress had about disappeared.

Light snow fell over Pampa early today, continuing at late forenoon. Heavier snowfall and possible freezing rain was forecast for this afternoon.

A 90 per cent chance of moisture existed for Pampa and vicinity today and Wednesday.

Temperatures in the area today and tomorrow will top in the 30s, while early morning lows were in the low 20s.

Small craft warnings were posted on the Gulf Coast because of winds up to 30 miles an hour.

Snow fell in amounts up to eight inches Sunday night and Monday causing schools in at least 20 cities to close, including Pampa, Stratford, Spearman, Canadian and Shamrock.

Winds gusting to 29 miles an hour and thunderstorms were expected along the coast tonight and Wednesday.

Your Horoscope

JEANE
DIXON

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5
YOUR BIRTHDAY

Wednesday — Prepare to exert more effort in the coming year. Responsibilities increase along with ways and means to meet them. People pay more attention to your opinions. An undertone of excitement or tension characterizes most of the year, so you are challenged to maintain an even keel. Wednesday's natives tend strongly to extraversion; where details of the horoscope favor it, a genial, generous nature; otherwise a tendency to be controversial.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): — The time you use Wednesday to avoid being stampeded into unexamined new deals is priceless. Set your own pace, with breather spells. Use the evening for thought.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): — Disregard distractions from changes all around you. Keep notes of names and figures where you can, and review the circumstances at night.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — People pop in and out of your life, and sometimes the parting brings you a sad moment. Material concerns prosper Wednesday. Your loved ones will appreciate a nice gesture on your part.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Check the condition of appliances. Prudence and safety can make all the difference Wednesday.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — A good deal of new information to pick up. Listen carefully, while restraining some of your tendency to offer leadership. Catch up on your shopping and household routines.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Spending is misjudged Wednesday. There are apt to be sudden breaks in your income. Your possessions develop a tendency to stray unless you are watchful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — There are enough changes going on now without adding to them with unnecessary snap decisions. If you are not mindful, the bickering of others envelop you too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Friends are full of surprises for you. Keep an eye open for the chance to be helpful. Some situations tend to provoke you into premature comment; look well before you commit yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Things long-wished come to pass and according to how realistic your aspirations are and what you have done to attract results. Find time to meditate or pray. Change the atmosphere altogether in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — No point in jumping to conclusions about shifts in public office, near or far. Avoid letting yourself be distracted from your work and personal welfare by surprising news.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — There seems no leeway in any financial arrangement for last-minute changes or putting off demands. Distant prospects are promising and long range planning is unimpaired.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): — Now begins a three-week seige of variation in your share of any group program. The result is likely favorable despite the stresses of the intermediate phases. Hold your calm.

DEAR ABBY: We have a 15-year-old daughter I'll call "Mary," who has always given us a lot of trouble. I won't go into the sordid details, but take my word for it, she is a handful!

Her mother found proof that she was going the limit with a long list of boys, and Mary admitted it. She said it was her life, and she did not see anything wrong with it, and if we did, that was our "hang up."

We finally sat her down and told her that if she was going to behave that way, we insisted she take birth control pills, not so much to protect her — but out of consideration for any unwanted child she might bring into the world. (We got the pills through our family doctor.)

Mary now informs us that she is flushing the pills down the toilet and does not care what happens to her. All right, Abby, if Mary were your daughter — what would you do?

MARY'S FATHER: I would ask my family doctor to recommend an expert for young people with emotional problems. Mary is settling with hostility, and she's determined to punish you regardless of the price she herself must pay to do it. Admit your share of the "blame" for the communication failure between you, and offer her "help" to discover the real reasons why she wants to destroy herself, and embarrass you.

DEAR ABBY: When we eat out, even in real high-class restaurants, my mother scrapes everybody's dishes and stacks them one on top of the other — to help the waitress. (She used to be a waitress.) She says she knows this isn't considered etiquette, but she doesn't care. People look at us like we just came off the boat, and my brother and I want to crawl under the table.

Daddy just laughs. He says it's good for Mom because she just gave up smoking and it gives her something to do with her hands.

ANNE (I am 12)
DEAR ANNIE: Yes, laugh, too.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my husband and I had our millionth fight, and it's always over the same thing, his relatives! He must think I'm running a hotel here. Just before Christmas I got the flu and was sicker than a dog. I was up all night coughing and was so weak I could barely drag myself out of bed. Then my kids caught it and I was run crazy nursing

In his budget message to Congress before leaving office, President Johnson included a warning that "it may be necessary within the next few months to raise the present debt limit."

President Nixon found when he took office that the public debt subject to limit was $364.2 billion — only $800 million below the statutory ceiling of $365 billion. Present estimates now indicate that borrowings needed to provide the Government with minimum cash balances essential for its operations will place the debt subject to limit at or above the legal ceiling by mid-April.

In a recent message to Congress, President Nixon said that these projections have been reviewed and updated on the basis of the latest revenue and expenditure flows but there was still inadequate leeway under the debt limit to meet all anticipated cash requirements through the middle of April.

Therefore, the President said he would ask Congress to revise the debt limit before mid-April and provide a reasonable margin for contingencies. All department and agency heads, he said, are now reviewing their programs in a determined effort to reduce costs.

"But we should not let our hopes for success in this effort deter us from the necessary action on the debt limit," the President said. "Such cost reductions can have only a minor effect on expenditures in the next month or two, and it is in early March and again in early April that the treasury will be faced with the heaviest drain on its resources."

During both sessions of the 90th Congress — my first term — I supported all efforts to reduce Federal spending including my vote against establishment of the Kappel Commission whose recommendations resulted in the recent pay increases for members of Congress, Supreme Court Justices, Cabinet Secretaries, and other high-ranking Federal officials. I also opposed the 10 per cent surtax which the President now says must be extended in his fight against inflation.

When the so-called Revenue and Expenditure Control Act of 1968 which included the 10 per cent surtax was passed, I said that I had opposed the bill because I believed — and still do — that our problem is, as it has been for the past eight years, Government over-spending, not undertaxing.

The deficit for Fiscal 1968 was more than $25 billion and since the last balanced budget of 1960, the Federal Government has spent $60.6 billion more than it has taken in. The 1970 budget proposed by President Johnson and now under study by President Nixon predicted a surplus of some $3. billion.

But this was based on extension of the 10 per cent surtax and income from other proposals yet to be approved by Congress. The surtax alone would produce an estimated $9 billion so, obviously, without it there would be a substantial budget deficit.

A former White House assistant made the observation that one of President Johnson's defenses of the high spending outlays of his Administration was "carrying on a commitment made by President Eisenhower and continued by President Kennedy."

"Eisenhower got the credit card, Kennedy made a few purchases with it, and the big bills came to LBJ," he said.

He did not mention, however, the mass of domestic and other non-military spending legislation that was railroaded through the lopsided Democratic 89th and 90th Congresses by LBJ.

President Johnson insisted on guns AND butter as he pushed his Great Society programs through Congress and refused to heed the warnings of inflation. So, more accurately, the big bills are coming to President Nixon who has inherited the mess but has made it clear that he will do whatever is necessary to halt inflation and stabilize prices.

Like the withdrawal agony of a dope addict, the process will be painful. Until the economy can be brought under control and meaningful reductions in Government spending for non-military projects can be made, the "pain" will probably include a boost in the public debt ceiling, continued high interest rates and a temporary extension of the surtax.

If successful, these measures, as distasteful as they are, will certainly be preferable to a continuation of cost-of-living increases which ran at a rate of almost 5 per cent last year.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—President Nixon's news conference tonight in prime television time indicates again his apparent desire to use video to stay in contact with the public.

All three major commercial networks, ABC-TV, CBS-TV and NBC-TV, will carry the conference live for one hour starting at 8 p.m. CST.

And there is no doubt that it is unusual and significant that the Chief Executive has chosen the prime viewing hours to have his session with the press.

In the past, presidents such as Dwight Eisenhower, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson have appeared in prime time broadcasts—but usually for such events as, say, a State of the Union address or a lengthy, planned interview.

Thus the decision of Mr. Nixon to choose prime time for his news conference shows clearly his desire to transmit his views on key subjects to the widest possible number of persons.

There is no question Mr. Nixon is keenly aware of the good notices he got in his other recent television appearances—such as the prime time introduction of his Cabinet and his inaugural address.

And all of these factors have led him, at least at the beginning of his administration, to use the television medium more than some viewers might have expected.

The conference will, in fact, be basically a report to the nation after Nixon's eight-day European tour. And the questioning apparently will be limited to international affairs.

And from a showmanship and audience viewpoint, it is surely a more lively event when a president is in a news conference rather than delivering a speech.

NEWS BRIEFS

GETTING STRONGER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is getting stronger and his pneumonia is disappearing. Doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center call the progress "gratifying."

Eisenhower's vital signs, including his heart, continue to remain stable and his overall condition "continues to improve steadily," doctors reported. They said the 78-year-old general's diet was being increased.

Eisenhower was operated on one week ago Sunday for an intestinal blockage, and later developed pneumonia in one lung. He has suffered seven heart attacks since 1955, including several since he has been hospitalized.

TRAWLERS RELEASED

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI)—The government has released two Russian fishing trawlers and their crews after holding them for four months on suspicion of spying.

A Government statement said Monday that the boats were released after an investigation determined that the nation's security "was in no way compromised."

Sino-Soviet Friendship Not Indestructible

HONG KONG (UPI)—Nineteen years ago last month, Mao Tse-tung stood in the freezing air at Moscow's railway station and spoke of warm Sino-Soviet friendship.

"It will be clear to everybody that the solidarity between the Soviet and the Chinese people, consolidated by a treaty, will be everlasting, indestructible and inalienable," he said.

That's one remark by the Chinese Communist party chairman you won't find among all the quotations of his that are flooding China today.

When Mao spoke those friendly words, he was on a two-month visit to Moscow as guest of the late Soviet dictator, Josef Stalin.

During that visit, he and then Foreign Minister Chou En-lai negotiated a mutual defense pact, a $300 million loan (since repaid) and other agreements, some involving long-disputed territorial claims.

On Feb. 17, 1950, three days after signing a 30-year treaty of "friendship, alliance and mutual aid," Mao ended his first trip outside China with those warm words of friendship.

In less than 10 years, the "indestructible" friendship of which Mao spoke began to turn sour.

At first, both Mao and Stalin's successor, former Soviet President Nikita S. Khrushchev, tried to keep the steadily souring relations a quiet, private affair.

But the rift grew too wide. It broke into the open at the start of the 1960s. Today, China ranks

Sirhan Testifies Calmly About Assassination

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan took the oath of a witness with a clenched fist raised in the air and then said calmly he shot Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

In the next breath he said: "I was not aware of anything."

The defense puts its case on the table in the first few minutes of the appearance of the 24-year-old Arab immigrant Monday on the witness stand at his murder trial.

Sirhan was on the stand all day today under direct examiation from veteran criminal lawyer Grant Cooper who said: "I haven't even warmed up yet."

Apologized to Judge
Sirhan, who apologized to Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker for his emotional outburst last week, also conceded he wrote dozens of times in a notebook that "Robert F. Kennedy must die."

The jury stared in fascination as Sirhan finally testified at his trial. He was calm, neatly dressed in a light blue suit but he gripped the front of the witness box and leaned forward in intensity as he said the "Jews kicked us out of our homes."

Sirhan was called after his mother had told of his being exposed to atrocities in Jerusalem when he was a young boy and becoming stiff with fear.

Sirhan took deep gasps of breath before walking to the witness stand in the fortress-like courtroom.

Said Cooper: "Sirhan, you are charged in count one of the indictment with the offense of murder. It is alleged that on the 5th day of June, 1968, you shot and killed Robert Francis Kennedy, a human being. Did you or about the 5th of June shoot Robert Kennedy?"

"Yes, I did," Sirhan replied.

Not Aware
Then Sirhan was asked whether he also shot Paul Schrade, a United Auto Workers executive who was in the Kennedy party.

"If the indictment says I shot him, I must have," Sirhan said. "I was not aware of anything."

Mrs. Sirhan told of her son witnessing terrible scenes in Jerusalem including a truckload of Arab girls with their breasts slashed and Israeli soldiers clapping their hands and saying that was what happened to those who would not leave their homes.

Sirhan was expected to be on direct examination all of today and to remain on the witness stand through Wednesday.

Jim Garrison Files Perjury Charges Against Clay Shaw

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, thwarted by a jury in his attempt to prove Clay Shaw conspired to assassinate John F. Kennedy, has filed perjury charges against the New Orleans businessman. "Outrageous," Shaw fumed. Shaw was acquitted Saturday of conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie to assassinate Kennedy. The jury vote was unanimous.

Garrison's latest charges Monday allege Clay lied on the witness stand when he said he never met Oswald or Ferrie.

The charges referred to the following exchange on direct examination between Shaw and his chief counsel, F. Irvin Dymond:

"Mr. Shaw, I show you a photograph which has been introduced in evidence . . . purporting to be a photograph of the late Lee Harvey Oswald, and ask you whether you have ever seen this man in person?" Dymond asked.

"No, I never have," Shaw replied. "I now show you, Mr. Shaw, a photograph . . . purporting to be a photograph of the late David W. Ferrie, and I will ask you whether you have ever known this man?"

"No, I never have." "Have you seen this man in person?" "No."

Ten persons, including star prosecution witness Perry Raymond Russo, had given testimony during the trial linking Shaw, Ferrie and Oswald.

After signing a $1,000 recognizance bond on the perjury charges, Shaw said he would stand by the statements he made in court.

Dymond said he would not ask for outright dismissal of the perjury charges, but would ask for a preliminary hearing which "amounts to the same thing."

CoC Okays Water Plan

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas State Chamber of Commerce today announced its endorsement of the Texas water plan now pending before the legislature.

Beverly King of Graham, president of the state chamber, said the plan has the support of the four regional groups that make up the state chamber — the West, East, South and Rio Grande Valley chambers of commerce.

The 50-year plan calls for importing Mississippi River water to Texas through a network of canals and reservoirs at a cost of some $10 billion.

King said the plan is flexible enough to protect the water rights of "all affected areas."

HANDBAGS FOR MEN once again are trying to make it as a fashion accessory and with the current trends may this year have the best chance. At left is the "Swinger," a his-and-hers pocketbook by Eger Kress. Ten years ago, the purse at right was offered as a French import, but didn't catch on. Wearing a pocketbook is nothing new for men; the style dates back to Classical Greek times, when every self-respecting male carried one. In center, a Claus Berg statue of a man from the Middle Ages in Germany shows him with a purse slung over his arm.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. points out that, historically, markets have been unable to mount sustainable advances during periods in which the economy is undergoing tightening. However, the firm says, favorable developments at the Paris negotiations could not only change the psychological atmosphere but may "prove to be a meaningful contributor toward successful resolution of the program against domestic inflation."

An investor attitude survey conducted by Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis reveals that experienced investors — fairly active in the market for at least five years—expect equity prices to increase only slightly through the end of April. Three out of four investors, according to the survey, do not expect to be more active in the next few months and, among the most active investors, one-third said they expect to be less active.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says investors appear to have "succumbed to the fear" of another distinctly possible increase in the prime interest rate. The firm urges investors to bear in mind that the "rush into stocks last year was because of inflation fears."

With the nation committed to preventing extensive unemployment, "The only real remedy for inflation"—stocks are not likely to lose their appeal.

The Constitution provides that the president may convene Congress in special session under extraordinary circumstances, so it is possible for him to have Congress meet outside of Washington.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Among "top priority" problems must become more top than others.

In his first day in office the President promised top priority White House attention to the problems of Latin America and U.S. relations with it.

His swing through Europe seemed to demonstrate that that particular top priority had been peaked by another as shown by his obvious preoccupation with his forthcoming talks with Soviet leaders.

Preliminary negotiations for those talks covering such diverse fields as antimissiles and the Middle East are expected to start this month and possibly reach the serious business stage in April.

But also in April, a crisis in U. S. Latin American relations is to reach its deadline, with the possibility the President may have to reshuffle his top priorities and even find new labels for them such as top top priority or triple top.

In such a way he could establish a matter of degree as he sorts out his timetable for such problems as President Charles de Gaulle of France, the Soviets, NATO, Vietnam, etc.

The foregoing is perhaps facetious but it does point up the awesome responsibilities that go with awesome power and decisions that only the President can make.

President John F. Kennedy may have had bad advice but he alone had to take final responsibility for the Cuban Bay of Pigs fiasco.

Lyndon B. Johnson had to take responsibility for Vietnam and for U. S. action in the Dominican Republic crisis.

In Latin America, Nixon's cross may be Peru.

Whether or not other Latin American nations would have acted as the Peruvians did when they expropriated American oil properties and seized one American fishing vessel and fired upon another, all applauded.

Latent in all Latin American nations is suspicion and dislike for the giant to the north.

It is noteworthy, too, that Peruvian action against U. S. interests is being taken not by wild-eyed leftists but by a right-wing military junta, strongly nationalistic and, like similar Latin American governments, determined to end economic dependence upon the United States.

To this end, Peru's military rulers already have established diplomatic relations and signed a trade agreement with the Soviet Union.

Texas Politics

By REP. MALOUF ABRAHAM

AUSTIN — This past week marked the beginning of the real work in the Legislature. Six hundred and twenty five bills have been introduced and the Committee hearings are underway, with about 60 bills being heard last week.

Our sessions on the floor are beginning to show some signs of life. We had a couple of bills that created considerable sparks and a few scars for this early in the session.

The Governor has laid out his budget and his plan to raise the nearly $260 million additional funds the next two years to finance the budget. Of course, he does not actually expect that his proposals will be the end result. This is just to get something before the House as it is primarily up to us.

Everyone is making very statesman-like comments about how it needs to be trimmed and as to how the tax should or should not be raised. I know it would be extremely popular if such a thing as lowering spending and taxes were to happen. There just isn't any way of getting around the increased costs of government.

Inflation has taken about 10 cents out of every dollar the past three years and people continue to demand more and more services. We are a fast growing State and it takes money.

Our only hope is that the present administration in Washington will be able to cut down some of the programs there that have expanded so much the past few years, and that require the states to come up with additional funds or else.

However, this isn't going to happen in the immediate future whether you like it or not. This mess did not come about overnight nor is it going to be solved overnight either. I am convinced that we come nearer getting our money's worth out of our State taxes than from upstairs.

There is no question that Education is very essential to upgrading our economy. We have extreme shortages in Mental Health programs, Rehabilitation, Medical and Dental Schools and on and on. This all takes money and there is only one place to get it. Any Volunteers?

The Almanac

Today is Tuesday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1969 with 302 to follow.

The moon is full.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1791 Vermont became the 14th state.
In 1801 the third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson, became the first chief executive to be inaugurated in Washington.
In 1945 units of the Ninth Army reached the Rhine River opposite Dusseldorf.
In 1963 the Supreme Court ruled against railroad "featherbedding."

HERE ARE THE CONVICTIONS THAT LED TO OUR BELIEF IN A UNIVERSAL SINGLE STANDARD OF RIGHT

Want Information

We believe that most of our political trouble comes from putting confidence in persons who continue to advocate government economic planning even though they can neither rationally answer questions about what they advocate, nor find anyone who can.

We know of no better way to learn and develop, and thus be able to be useful, than have our convictions questioned either privately or publicly.

The Pampa News believes in a system of universal natural law.

It is our belief that every fact of existence—if it is a fact—is immutable, irrevocable and eternal.

That is—we believe that moral facts are no less concrete and timeless than physical facts. The law of gravity does not change with seasons; atomic behavior is not subject to the good intentions of man. For physical facts are not capable of change; else they would not be facts.

And so we believe it is with moral facts which stem from the same source as physical laws.

Let's take two facts, one physical and one moral.

1. Water seeks its level.
2. Stealing is wrong.

It is commonly accepted that the first fact is not subject to amendment. A change in political administration, a vote of the people, a petition of the Society of Learned Mathematicians of the World cannot change it. It exists as a fact.

The second law, we believe, is no more subject to amendment than the first. The majority might wink at it, try to reconcile it with some base or unsound conviction. But that does not affect the law—only the people who must live by it. Jumping out of a five-story building to flout the law of gravity will hardly bring about a suspension of that law. Neither will disregarding moral law bring about its abolition.

Guide To Morality

Now, we have outlined our convictions in fundamental moral law, or fact.

Next, it is incumbent upon us to state a single universal law or fact as we believe it:

Persons, groups and governments ought not threaten to initiate force or use it to attain their ends. This would certainly mean, Thou shalt not steal individually or collectively. If no person or group stole, there would be no murder, no false witness, no adultery.

To express the belief positively, all individuals or groups should get what they get in a manner that would be profitable to all. Then all would respect the private property of others 100%. That would be true liberty and voluntarism.

That is our interpretation of the Declaration of Independence. This is the universal single standard of right we use as our measuring device of morality—a yardstick of ethics.

Thus we believe:

1. That every man is born with equal unalienable rights to take moral action to make more secure his property which includes first his life, then his liberty and all he produces.
2. That these rights are the endowment of the Creator and not the gift of any government.

Since we believe these facts are expressed in this guide of human conduct, we do not believe any man has the moral right to curtail the rights of his brother. That is, no man has the right to initiate force against his brother. Every man, to be sure, has the right to resist the initiation of force, but should not initiate it.

In all of recorded history, men have banded together for certain reasons—to hunt, to play, to trade, to build. In a voluntary association, such as the one that publishes this newspaper, each man exercises his rights through the group. BUT, simply because each man is a member of a group, he cannot morally assume rights he did not possess as an individual. And, neither does the group possess rights which the individuals in that group do not possess as individuals.

An example—John Doe is a shoe salesman. He does not have a right to sell shoes at gunpoint. Even if 10,000 John Does in the shoe business form an organization, that organization does not have the right to sell shoes at gunpoint.

Rights and morality are individual matters. These moral laws do not make exceptions for groups. They do not say, "Thou shalt not steal except at the desire of the majority." They say, "Thou shalt not steal" Period. And a man's association with a group does not relieve him of the burden of these laws.

We believe, therefore, in a single standard of conduct. Thomas Jefferson stated the matter. He wrote: "I know of but one code of morality, whether it be for men or for nations."

Immanuel Kant, another great student of morals, in his "Metaphysics of Morals" wrote: "... I ask myself only: Can I will that my maxim become a universal law?"

Single Standard of Conduct

Our belief in a single standard of conduct, and in the existence of individual rights, and in the fact of universal Natural law, brings us to oppose all things in which an individual or group seeks to initiate force—that is, curtail the just rights of any other individual or group.

We must oppose each brand of socialism, whether it is called Communism, Fascism, Fabian Socialism, New Dealism or New Frontierism.

We oppose socialism in factories, schools, churches and in the market place.

We do not believe there is any such animal as "good political socialism," either on a local, national or international scale. We do not believe in initiating force for any reason, even though the cause is a "good" one.

We believe it is violating the rights of the individual to force him to support a school, church, industry, business or profession if he does not choose to do so.

Two men out of a hundred have no moral right to force the 98 to support a school or church. Neither do the 98 have the moral right to force the remaining two men to support that school or church.

If that belief is contrary to the above standards we want to be convinced. Repeatedly we have offered as much as $1,000 to prominent persons who advocate using collective initiated force to examine publicly the morality of using such force where each person would agree to answer questions as he would before a court. We earnestly seek to be shown any errors in our reasoning.

If six, 26 or 6,000,000 individuals voluntarily get together to establish a church, school, business or club — and if those people do not curtail the rights of anyone inside or outside their own group—we have no argument with them.

The majority cannot write moral law. Neither can the minority. But, neither does the majority enjoy any moral advantages denied the minority, or the individual.

We believe, therefore, in a voluntarily supported government. The state, at best, exercises those powers which the individuals in that state voluntarily have turned over to the state for administration. An example: We prefer a private police force because we'd rather support a police force than wear a gun. But if some do not want to support a police force, they should not be forced to do so. Nor should they receive its services. The police force should have no powers denied any individual, and neither should the existence of a police force abridge the right of any citizen to defend himself.

We do not believe the state has any rights simply because it is a state.

Governments should exist only to try to protect the rights of EVERY individual—not to redistribute the property, manipulate the economy or establish the pattern of a society.

These are the basic elements in our belief and of our editorial convictions.

*Regrettably, we do not always follow this principle. We fall into error. Our humility, perhaps, is not sufficient to the effort. But if it is our belief to the degree a universal single standard of right is followed you will have a deeper understanding of your religion, greater freedom and security and more happiness and a higher standard of living. This belief will also benefit every person in the community, the state, the nation and the world. That is the reason it is our belief.

INDOOR BLIZZARD? From the looks of things, someone forgot to shut the doors of this warehouse during a snowstorm. Actually, the white stuff is detergent foam generated by a new fire-protection system. In a recent test, the 60-foot-high, 8,000-square-foot building was filled from top to bottom in seven minutes. Because foam smothers fire quickly and its low water content minimizes stock damage, the system was installed at Ford's Fostoria, Ohio, plant.

Police Clash With Firemen

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—Police using tear gas Monday clashed with 200 firemen and striking city workers who tried to seal off the Pontiac City Hall with picket lines.

One fireman was taken into custody and about 140 fellow firemen walked off the job in protest. Another fireman was taken to General Hospital following the clash with police.

The walkout by firemen left this city of 90,000 with fire protection provided by supervisory personnel only.

The firemen were seeking wage parity with Pontiac's policemen, who earlier won pay increases to a basic $10,300 a year.

The other strikers included secretaries, public works employees, sanitation department workers and water department workers.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said police strength had been reduced when policemen had to assume secretarial duties.

The injured fireman, Junior Deneen, 40, was treated and released at General Hospital.

"Police used the force necessary to subdue him," Police Chief William K. Hanger said, of the injured man.

Hanger said two women employed by the city were also injured slightly.

Football Head Discovers Wife, Son Lying Dead

ATLANTA (UPI)—The wife and son of Atlanta Falcons' General Manager Frank E. Wall were found shot to death in their fashionable northwest Atlanta home Monday and police said it appeared the shootings were a murder-suicide.

Eight-year-old Christine Lee Wall, a daughter, was found alive but badly wounded. She underwent emergency surgery for a head wound and was in intensive care unit at Piedmont Hospital.

Fredric Samuel Wall, 10, clad only in his pajamas, was found stretched across a bed in his bedroom. He had been shot in the head.

Mrs. Mary Johnson Wall, 47, was found on a bed in the master bedroom. She too had been shot in the head.

Investigators said there was no sign of a struggle. The death weapon was in Mrs. Wall's hand, pointed at her head, officers said.

Wall, named vice president and general manager of the National Football League club in 1967, discovered the shootings when he returned to his home from an out-of-town trip, club officials said.

Our chief executives realize that history likely will judge them by the number of new eras they usher in. It is gratifying to know that it is less than a year since President Nixon took office already has ushered in a new era.

As a result of the talks with Franco-American relations.

Life Expectancy The era may not last long, of course. (The life expectancy of a new era of Franco-American relations is slightly less than two weeks.)

De Gaulle could have retaliated by refusing to serve American wine at his parties. But the gesture would have been meaningless, mainly because he had never started serving American wine in the first place.

So he kicked out NATO instead.

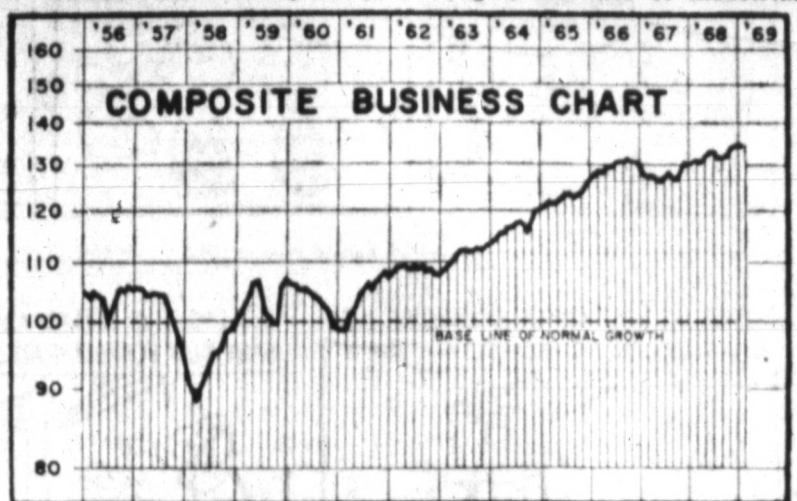

If De Gaulle now softens his opposition to U.S. foreign policy, Nixon's wine policy will be largely responsible. Which proves there is only one way to deal with France:

Speak softly, but carry a big corkscrew.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

Industrial Activity Gain Shows Diminishing Rate

By The Babson Staff
Industrial activity during the month of February inched upward by a modest amount, on a seasonally adjusted basis. While this was the sixth successive monthly advance, it was also the second successive month in which the gain was at a notably diminishing rate. Moreover, the February increment was a bit shy of the normal long-term growth rate of the economy. As a result, the Babson Composite Business Index made no progress during February.

Output of primary metals continued to pace the upward progress of industrial activity. Steel production was still displaying surprising strength in its recovery from the liquidation last summer of strikehedge stockpiles. Nonferrous metals output also retained the vitality which marked the fall and early winter weeks.

Other sources of strength on the industrial front included the machinery, textile, paper and paper products, chemicals, furniture and fixtures, and consumer staples lines.

Instruments and related products, clay, glass and stone products, and petroleum products held firm, but lacked definite upside impetus.

The most disappointing sector of the industrial scene was transportation equipment. Automobile producers again kept new car output under reactivity maintains an upward bias, contrary to expectations. This reflects the still powerful underlying momentum, which should sustain business in a peak range through the balance of the winter and well into spring. But the diminution of the uptrend suggests that a crest may be near, and the effects of tight credit are commencing to exact their toll.

Too Hard Work Causes Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The dive that claimed the life of Sealab III aquanaut Berry M. Cannon on the ocean floor of the Pacific "should never have been made," the leader of the four-man team told a Navy board of investigation.

"We were pushed to the point where mistakes were inevitable," aquanaut Robert A. Barth testified this week. "We were worked too hard and too long."

The fatal dive was the second in 12 hours for the team. The men were trying to seal helium leaks in the trouble-plagued yellow capsule 610 feet below the surface off San Clemente Island.

Cannon died of carbon dioxide poisoning as he and the other three aquanauts were swimming from a transport capsule to the laboratory-habitat Feb. 17. They were to spend 12 days in the 70-foot long chamber to test man's ability to live and work in the ocean depths.

Wall, named vice president and general manager of the National Football League club in 1967, discovered the shootings when he returned to his home from an out-of-town trip, club officials said.

Johnny, Dan Reap Rewards

Both Dan Carlton and Johnny Epperson had what was probably their most rewarding hour Monday night in the high school auditorium.

Carlton was the winner of the 'Fighting Heart' award, given to an outstanding football player and Epperson was awarded the 'Hustling Harvester' plaque, presented to the hustlingest Harvester basketball player.

It has been a while since Pampa has had a three sport letterman up on the hill and Carlton will fill the bill when baseball season ends.

Dan will have picked up letters in football, basketball and baseball this season.

He hadn't played football since junior high school, intending instead to devote his high school days to basketball, especially since a couple of years ago you had to make a choice. You couldn't play both.

But Dan asked to be allowed to give pigskin toting a try this past season and was given that chance.

He paid back Swede Lee in full when he won the 'Fighting Heart' award.

Epperson, although he would never admit it, and can't stand for anyone to even think it, was and is the main reason the Harvesters finished 19-3 and won the second half title in District 4-4A basketball.

This is the kid who didn't average 10 points a game and wasn't given an honorable mention on the District 4-4A All-District team.

But if you took those 15 who did make all-district Saturday and mash them all together you'd have one Johnny Epperson, with just a little less scoring punch.

He was rewarded by his teammates by being elected basketball captain and those are the fellows who should know just how valuable Johnny was to his team.

Both awards were presented at the annual All-Sports Banquet Monday night where Dallas' all-pro tackle Bob Lilly was the guest speaker.

Carolyn McKinley was crowned basketball queen and Jan Wallace, who heads the cheer leaders in her spare time, was crowned basketball queen.

The 1969 All-Sports banquet left me cold for a while until the thought struck me that the banquet wasn't for me, or you — it was for the kids.

I think that sometimes we forget things like this. I did, temporarily, Monday night.

Bob Lilly told some jokes (they were funny), then spoke about 10 minutes on "It's Where You're Going That Counts, Not Where You've Been." Then the 1967 Dallas Cowboy highlight film was shown.

The first thought that hit me was you mean he gets paid for besides just athletic events our have no way of whether you care or when they see you attend like the All-Sports and know you've up three bucks to attend when they know that there are some people behind 'em and that just makes 'em try a little harder.

The Harvester Club did a good job on this banquet and they brought in a good and entertaining speaker in Bob Lilly, who I'm sure left a good impression on our athletes.

The athletes that play spring sports will have a picnic or barbecue in April or May and Texas A&M coach Gene Stallings has been lined up to speak.

This will give us a chance to show these people again how much we appreciate their hard work.

Bufs Going Bowling in NY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tennessee, Baylor, Fordham, Long Petri's were high on the list teams hoping to receive bids from the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) today as the post-season basketball classic moved closer to filling its 16-team field.

Eleven openings remained for the 32nd annual NIT, March 13-22 at Madison Square Garden, following Monday's selection of former champions Southern Illinois and Temple along with Rutgers and West Texas State. These four joined Boston College which became the first team to accept a bid last week.

Tennessee and Baylor are runners-up in the Southeastern and Southwest conferences, respectively, while Fordham, LIU and St. Peter's are among the better New York City-area teams which are usually called upon to round out the field because of their crowd-drawing ability.

After the probable addition of another four or five teams today, the NIT figures to wait until the completion of all conference races at the end of the week, before issuing its remaining invitations. Almost automatic choices for the tourney are try runners-up in the Missouri Valley, Atlantic Coast, Big Eight and Western Athletic conferences, all of which are still in doubt.

Southern Illinois, led by senior Dick Garrett, who is averaging 18.5 points a game, will be looking to repeat it's previous NIT appearance in 1967.

FIGHTING HEART — Dan Carlton, who will be a three sport letterman this season was presented the 'Fighting Heart' award for being the Harvesters outstanding football player in 1968.

HUSTLING HARVESTER — Johnny Epperson was awarded the 'Hustling Harvester' award Monday night for his outstanding contribution to the Pampa basketball team.

Ted Makes First Stake

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ted Williams said he'd make mistakes managing and it's always good to get that first one out of the way.

He already has. Maybe he didn't realize it but that was mistake No. 1 when he announced nobody'll be allowed in the Washington clubhouse until 15 minutes after a ball game.

Good old Ted. He can be away eight years but he has a mind like a steel trap. He never forgets. Keeping those clubhouse doors closed is an old story with him.

He was instrumental in keeping newsmen out of the clubhouse for protracted periods not only after the ball games but also before them while with Boston. In his defense it should be said a number of Red Sox players in his day felt the same way he did about the rule which kept reporters cooling their heels but Williams was the only one to seal out in favor of it. That lent the situation its share of humor because whenever the newsmen finally would be allowed in and they'd protest the delay to some other Boston player, the player generally would lower his voice and confidentially say:

"Don't blame me. You know who it is. It's No. 9's rule, not mine."

That was then and now is now.

More Harm Than Good There's no question who's making the rule now regarding the Senators' clubhouse but there is some question about the thinking behind such a rule, especially in these trying times when baseball desperately needs more lines of communication, not less.

If Ted Williams or any other manager thinks out the entire matter clearly, he must come to the inescapable conclusion that more harm than good is done by preventing any legitimate newspaperman from entering his clubhouse for any specified length of time.

There is no possible way any manager, even Ted Williams, can seal off his players from the news media. Leo Durocher made a half attempt at it one night last year and the whole business resulted in a botched-up disaster.

The quickest way to get rid of any newspaperman is to let him get what he came after as soon as possible. When he gets it he generally goes. He isn't going to hang around because he has a dispatch to file.

But keep him waiting and he starts to fret and when he starts to fret he usually gets angry.

angry and when he gets angry he is in no mood to go out of his to help the manager or the ballclub. So who suffers in the long run? The manager. Frequently the public, too, because no man is at his best when he's

Cardinals Sign Gibson, Four Others To High Priced Pacts

By United International The St. Louis Cardinals restored harmony in their player ranks Monday at the highest one-day price in baseball history—a cool $424,000.

The price, give or take cigarette money, enabled the Cardinals to sign pitchers Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn, outfielders Curt Flood and Lou Brock and third baseman Mike Shannon and left Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier as the only unsigned members of the National League champions.

Gibson, the NL's Most Valuable Player in 1968 when he had a 22-9 record, 13 shutouts and a 1.12 earned run average, agreed to a club record $125,000. Gibson thus topped Hall of Famer Stan Musial, the man with whom he negotiated, as the highest-paid Cardinal in history.

The remaining $300,000 package was divided as follows: $88,000 for Flood, $87,000 for Brock, $52,000 for Shannon, $38,000 for Briles and $35,000 for Washburn. Still remaining to be signed are Javier and Maxvill, with the former believed asking for $70,000 and the latter $65,000.

The world champion Detroit Tigers, meanwhile, were continuing to find that Willie Horton is as tough at negotiating a six-figure contract as he was in the clutch at the plate last season. Horton, who hit 36 homers and batted .285, is negotiating through an attorney and General Manager Jim Campbell said Monday he was "unsure of the status of the talks."

ATLANTA, NL EAST — PROSPECTUS — Young pitching staff showed promise last season, but must do even better to stop St. Louis in NL's Eastern Division. Return of Carty (out last season with tuberculosis) should bolster hitting attack, which will be even more productive this season with the fences Atlanta Stadium moved in. If pitching comes through, Lum Harris' team'll give Cards run.

PITCHING — Pat Jarvis (16-12), Phil Niekro (14-12) and Ron Reed (11-10) are young and fast. They are capable of improving records this season. Milt Pappas will be around for a full season and will help. Ken Johnson (5-8), and Jim Britton (4-6) need better seasons. Rating: B.

CATCHING — Joe Torre wasn't traded (although he hoped he would wind up with Mels) and will return behind plate. He hit .271 last season, but home run production tailed off to 10. Bob Tillman spells him. Rating: B plus.
