Two Candidates Now Running for Election

By WANDA MAE HUFF
News Staff Writer
Pampa school business office personnel drew two names for places on the April 5 school trustee election ballot today and placed Bobby G. Tinney's name first and Dr. R. M. Hampton second.

tinney attempted to file for the lone trustee vacancy Tuesday afternoon by giving his wife a power of attorney to file for him, but his filing method was ruled illegal. He officially and legally filed for the post at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Homer Craig, director of school business services, said today.

Mrs. H. R. VanSickle, office manager, did the official drawing, with Craig, James

Salvation Army To Hold Annual Banquet Tonight

With Col. Paul Thronburg, divisional commander of the Salvation Army as speaker, tonight's annual recognition banquet is expected to attract at least 100 guests, reports indicate.

The dinner will be at 7 p.m. at the new citadel, 701 S. Cuyler.

Col. Thronburg stands second in public esteem to the late Commander Booth, Army founder, himself in the eyes of Texans, for Thronburg has the entire state under his direction, Capt. Jesse Duncan, local commander, noted.

New officers of the organization will be installed and recognition of individuals and agencies contributing to Salvation Army growth here will be a feature of the program.

County To Consider New Voting Proposal

County Judge Sherman Lenning, Jr., said today that when County Commissioners meet March 13 he would bring up for discussion a one man-one vote proposal.

Lenning said he had discussed the idea with commissioners already.

The judge explained that his proposal would mean that a commissioner would have to qualify in his precinct but that all voters in Gray County would vote for or against him.

"They are doing this in other counties now," Lenning said.

At present commissioner Hershel Wilks represents 80 per cent of the county's 13,790 registered voters, while precinct 2 commissioner Jimmy Mc-

Cracken represents only two per cent of the voters.

Lenning said that discussion would be heard also on the county's fire contract with the city.

"I don't feel we can accept the city's current proposal as it is so we will make a few recommendations and see if something can't be worked out," Lenning said.

Lenning was then asked what would happen if the city and county couldn't get together.

"I don't know right now, but we just can't go on their last proposal," Lenning said.

Also to be brought up in the meeting will be a right-of-way agreement between the county and state for work to be done on Highway 70 later this year.

Astros Prepared For Test Despite Nausea Attacks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Two bright and chipper Apollo 9 astronauts returned to their locust-looking landing craft today for an open-hatch test of the "moon suit" lunar explorers will use.

The transfer of James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart from their command ship "Gumdrop" to the attached landing craft "Spider" opened the fourth day of the 10-day orbital trial run for a May moon flight.

David R. Scott stayed behind in command ship, preparing to open the front door in the cone-shaped three-seater at the same time Schweickart swings open the lunar module hatch and faces the harsh vacuum of space for about 45 minutes.

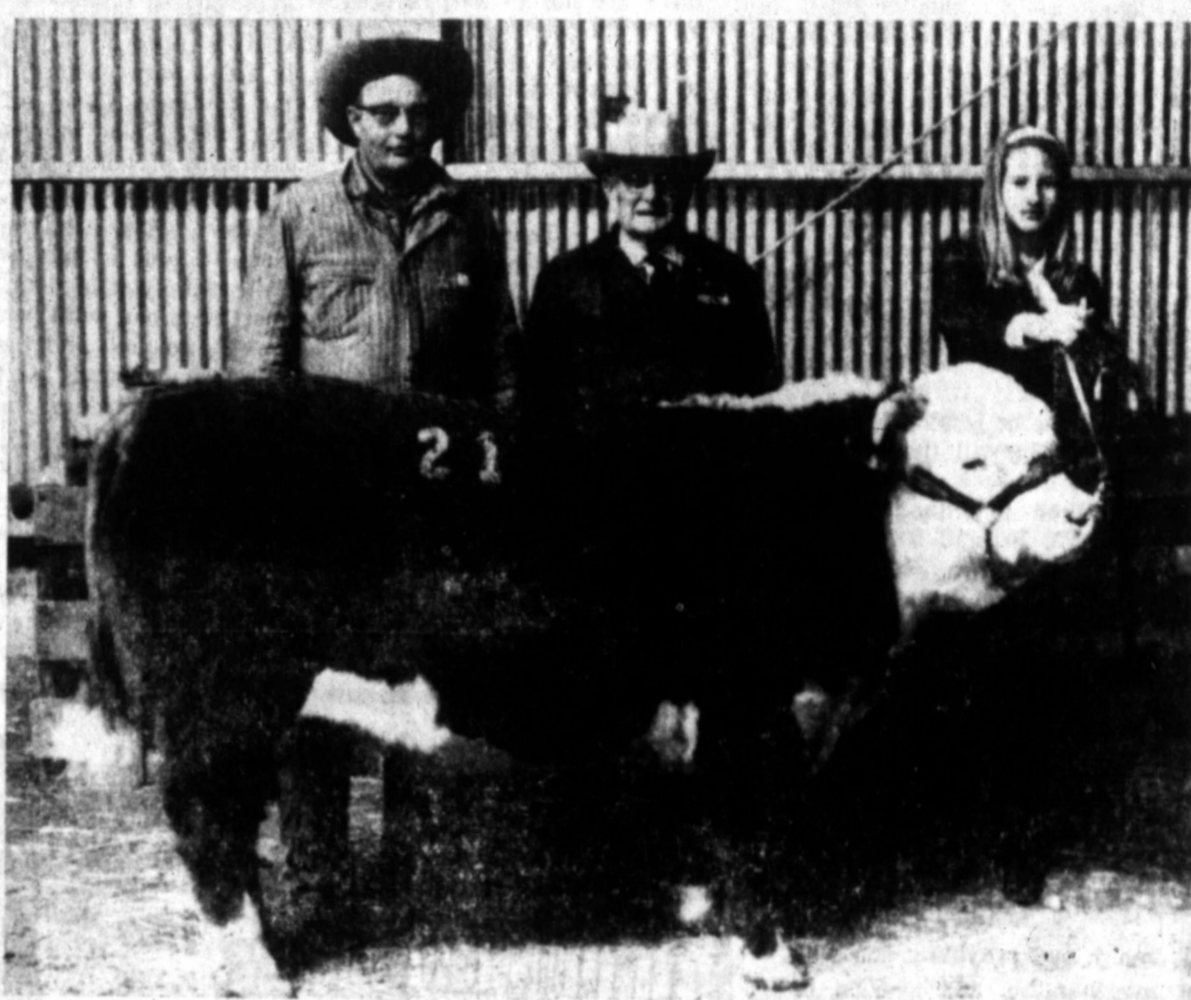

Schweickart, wearing water-cooled long johns and a 15-layer moon walking suit, was first to climb through the 32-inch tunnel leading to the lunar module. He showed no signs of the mysterious sickness that forced cancellation of his scheduled spacewalk.

McDivitt followed a few minutes later, slithering aboard at about 8:38 a.m. CST. He reported earlier today that the operation was running late for the second day and "we're going to be scrambling to get caught up."

McDivitt and Schweickart gave the ugly duckling lander its first tests with men at the controls Wednesday and they proved its vital systems work well. The only hitch was Schweickart's twin bout with nausea.

Livestock Sales Reach $49,100 Despite Bad Weather Condition

Total sales from the 1969 Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and Hereford Breeder's Sale totaled $49,101.30 according to figures released today. The total sales figure was almost $9,000 lower than 1968, when sales from both shows totaled $58,512.

Bad weather, snow and mud cut down on the crowd at both sales Wednesday morning and afternoon.

In the Junior Livestock Show and Sale a total of 69 calves sold for $23,677.79 for an average price per calf of $343.15 and an average of 41½ cents per pound.

The 101 swine sold at the sale totaled $9,338.51 and sold for an average price of $92.46 per pig or 45 and three-fourths cents per pound.

In the Hereford sale there were a total of 42 bulls that sold for $16,095. In 1968 the Hereford sale brought $25,825. The bull that brought the top price in Wednesday's Hereford sale was JPC Tex Onward 106, owned by J. P. Callihan of Conway.

John Bissell of the Grand-valley Ranch in Michigan paid $3,100 for the bull that was calved on Oct. 7, 1967.

Joe Fox of St. Francis, Kan., paid $1,050 for another Callihan bull, JPC Tex Onward 110. This bull was calved Oct. 18, 1967.

Two other bulls brought $550 each. B&C Mr. Mischief 30, owned by Breeding and Caldwell of Miami, sold for $550 to Epperson Bros. of Cherokee, Tex., as did Real Husker B50, owned by Robert L. Newton of Lark, who sold to McDaniel Ranch of Folsom, Okla.

Wanda Carver Huff Faces Probation End

By RON CROSS

Three of the Panhandle area's best known criminals, convicted bank robbers Rusty and Wanda Carver Huff and convicted rapist Tom R. Vessels, were either in Gray County jail today or expected to be soon.

Huff, who gave himself up Wednesday afternoon in Hereford after escaping from his jail cell in Miami early Tuesday morning, and Vessels, sentenced to death in the electric chair for the rape of a Pampa woman, are both locked up in Gray County jail here.

Huff's wife, who helped him rob, at gunpoint, the First State Bank of Miami in March of 1967 and was given a probation, is being sought by Robert's County Sheriff Cy Carr and District Attorney Guy Hardin.

Hardin said today that he had made application for District

Judge Grainger McIlhenny to issue a warrant on a probation revocation for Mrs. Huff.

"We felt that she has broken the provisions of her parole four times now and is breaking it at this time," Hardin said.

Hardin said shortly before noon that he had given the application to Sheriff Carr Wednesday afternoon but did not know if the sheriff had presented it to Judge McIlhenny.

Mrs. Huff first worked for a nursing home in Pampa after being put on probation, then moved out of town and finally ended up in California and then Kansas City.

She was brought back from Kansas City by Carr, but no action was taken.

She was last known working for a nursing home in Claude but quit her job Jan. 20 and her whereabouts are not known at this time.

Hardin said he had also filed auto theft charges Wednesday against Huff and planned to file on Huff as being an habitual criminal.

Huff first called Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan "rebel" Wednesday afternoon and told him he was in Hereford and wanted to give up.

"I told him to call the sheriff there and then have him call me," Jordan said. "Just a few minutes later they called and had him picked up," the sheriff stated.

An official at the Deaf-Smith County sheriff's office in Hereford said Huff called them about 5:25 p.m. and he was booked in jail about 5:30 p.m.

Deputy Travis McPherson and Liquor Control Board agent Bill Austin went to the Little Mexican Cafe and arrested Huff.

According to reports, Huff's officers here had hopped a freight near Amarillo and rode it to Hereford.

He would not tell officers (See HUFF, Page 3)

Saigon Protests Red Shelling Of South Vietnam

PARIS (UPI)—South Vietnam cut short the Vietnam peace talks today in protest against the Communist shelling of towns and cities in South Vietnam. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky already was hinting that Saigon might pull out of the talks altogether.

The move came after Saigon negotiator Pham Dang Lam denounced the rocketing in bitter terms and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge formally relayed to the Communists President Nixon's warning that the shelling could bring an "appropriate response."

Lodge told newsmen at end of the brief meeting: "South Vietnam moved to adjourn, saying that with these kinds of activities going on there was not a proper atmosphere for discussions of peace."

He said the unprecedented South Vietnam move was "definitely not" a South Vietnamese walkout.

Despite previous protests, the Communists hit Saigon again today with a rocket barrage that killed 22 South Vietnamese men, women and children and wounded scores of others.

Lodge already had prepared a protest against the previous shelling of a hospital in Saigon.

FELON RETURNS — Ernest L. "Rusty" Huff, who escaped from the Roberts County jail in Miami early Tuesday morning was returned to the Gray County jail about 12:30 a.m. today, after surrendering to authorities in Hereford. Minor Incidents Mar Presidential Election

BERLIN (UPI)—The Communists closed the West's main highway to West Berlin for three hours today and a U.S. Army train was reported shot at as it moved across East Germany.

The action came as the Communists claimed credit for avoiding a showdown with the Allies over the West German presidential election held in the isolated city Wednesday.

Armed East German soldiers sealed off both ends of the 110-mile roadway linking West Berlin with West Germany for three hours beginning at 9 a.m.

The United States and its Allies in Berlin protested the move but the Russians replied the blockade was necessary because of Communist military exercises in the area through which the highway passes.

The incident involving the American Army train brought conflicting reports from West German and U.S. officials.

West German customs officers said at least one pistol shot was fired at the train en route from Berlin to Frankfurt. But an American spokesman said that while a window was broken and its frame dented, "it definitely was not a bullet" that caused the damage. No injuries were reported.

In Moscow, Communist and Western diplomats said the highway incidents would gradually diminish. There was no indication the Communists would hold up traffic after their war games in East Germany end, they said. No date has been set for their termination.

West Berlin Communist leader Gerhard Danelius boasted in his party newspaper Die Wahrheit (The Truth) that East Germany and the Soviet Union did not take more severe action against the West in the interests of peace and security.

The Communists sealed off all of West Berlin's highway life-lines for 4 hours Wednesday while West German delegates elected Gustav Heinemann as their new president. It was the longest blockade in four years.

But despite repeated threats and warnings of serious consequences from the Communists because of the election, little else occurred.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 40 and have four nearly grown children. My husband has fallen in love with his secretary and has asked for a divorce so he can marry her. He says he will continue to support me and the children as before, and he is well able to.

He has always been a devoted husband and father, and I love him very much, but I've known from the day we were married that his love for me was not as strong as mine for him.

Should I give him a divorce? I know he is miserable and torn between his "love" for her and his loyalty to me and the children.

This has been going on for six months, and it is tearing me apart. I've even threatened suicide.

If I refuse to give him a divorce, do you think he will eventually give up the other woman? Or will he end up hating me?

DEAR ABBY: I have a 73-year-old aunt who has lived with us for the past 10 years. My husband and children adore her.

My problem is that lately she is forgetful and misplaces things, and then she accuses people of "stealing."

I have seen her give someone something, and the next day she will tear the house upside down looking for it. When I remind her that she gave it away, she'll tell me I'm "crazy."

Last week she tore one of her galoshes, so she threw them in the trash. Yesterday she told one of her friends of 40 years' standing she visited her and stole her galoshes. When I reminded her that she threw them away, she said, "Oh, you're crazy!"

Abby, how should this be handled?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Auntie is becoming increasingly forgetful, and a bit crotchety in her old age. Be patient, and do not contradict her. And keep the sense of humor.

or you will go "crazy," too.

DEAR ABBY: This is in answer to "WORRIED," whose wife awakened him in the middle of the night, kissing him and calling him "Walter" — her doctor's name.

I have been married for over 26 years to an orthopedic surgeon, and you'd be flabbergasted how many women think they "love" their doctors. But you see, it isn't "love" — it's a combination of confidence, trust, gratitude and hero-worship.

I've had women of all ages rave about my husband, and some have come right out and said, "I just love him!" I've also been told that many young nurses have had a crush on my husband. But it is usually no more serious than a teen-ager's crush on a teacher.

How do I feel about this? I'm a nurse, and my father, who was very handsome, was a physician. My mother trusted my father, and I trust my husband. And when women gush about how great Leslie is, I smile and say, "Thank you." Then I think to myself, "My, she has good taste!"

Sincerely,
GREENVILLE, S.C.

DEAR ABBY: A 13-year-old child wrote that her grandfather is 82 years old and has had 23 children — the youngest being 10.

I hope he is able to feed them all. When will these aged men learn to seek other things to do than to father a child at age 60, 70, and 80? Don't they realize that a child needs a father — not a grandfather, to bring him up? It's nauseating. They try to keep up with the

FRIDAY, MARCH 7

YOUR BIRTHDAY Friday: Physical and material improvement are the goals of the coming year. Opportunities open so you are free to select the best course. The tendency is to try to exceed limitations. Romantic ventures are not so well favored, although well-tested relationships are quite likely to remain intact. Friday's natives are generally prudent, talented in managing money, and alert with scientific or intellectual curiosity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You have the opportunity to improve your standing by becoming more cooperative. Determined insistence on your own way in some critical matters will surely boomerang. Think what you have missed lately.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Put in a full day concentrating on the routines. Clear off what you can. Take into account the pace of other people and thus avoid frustration.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): None of your friends is really quite with you in your mood. Just go alone with whatever appeals to you, and they will join you by and by if you do not cause tensions. Patience is the watchword.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Tidy up your situation locally. Catch up on sorting out answering notes. Make a long evening of this. You may not get as good a chance for a while.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Direct your attention to connections, friends and relatives far away; make a firm effort to establish or improve relationships. The evening is best spent in study, prayer.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your intuitions continue to be your best guide on what to do next. At hand are a thousand small deals to be worked out. A housecleaning program is helpful in unexpected ways.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Patience becomes the hardest virtue Friday as everything tends to go awry. Manage a little time out for diversion during the day. Hospitality at night helps bypass the pressures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The tendency is for you to expend more energy than the results justify. Take it easier and space out efforts a bit. An excellent time to improve your diet regime, drop bad habits. Mull over these in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Younger people almost certainly pose a complex problem before the day is out. Expect delays in any travel. Couriers mix things up a bit too. The evening will probably be full of leftovers from the day's confusion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you can get some privacy, even for part of the day, you will find a most desirable purchase of long-wanted items. Pay no attention to people set for high pressure. Find a good show at night.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One of the things to do now, if possible, is to take a weekend trip. If you must stay put, find some symbolic ballot, there isn't much difference in which one is first," Craig said.

Dr. Hampton, incumbent, filed Feb. 20 to succeed himself for a fourth three-year term on the board. Tinney's method of filing was declared illegal yesterday by Bill Waters, school district attorney.

Waters also ruled the filing deadline was Wednesday, instead of Tuesday as previously announced by Homer Craig, director of school business services.

The confusion over who was eligible to run for the school board vacancy started Tuesday afternoon when Craig informed Bob Sholar, who filed for the post Tuesday morning, that he believed he would be ineligible to run.

Sholar moved to Texas April 28, 1968, from Oklahoma, and had lived in the district eight months when he filed for the trustee office. According to his poll tax receipt he would be eligible to vote May 1, 1969.

"To file for a state or local office, a person must be a resident of the state a year and of the county six months," Craig said. "Sholar had not lived in the state a year when he filed and will not have lived here a year by the April 5 election date."

After Craig informed Sholar of his ineligibility, Sholar suggested Bob Tinney file for the office. Mrs. Tinney, with power of attorney, filed in behalf of her husband before 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Craig said.

"I told her we weren't sure it was legal and would have to check with an attorney, but we let her sign the papers for Tinney," Craig said.

Waters ruled Sholar was not a qualified candidate because "the law requires a candidate for school trustee to be a qualified voter."

A qualified voter under the law is one who has lived in the state for one year immediately before the election and for six months within the district, and who is a registered voter.

"Mr. Sholar met the last two requirements. He has lived in the district six months and has registered, but will not have lived in the state one year by the time of the election April 5, Sholar moved here April 28, 1968, which is not one year before the election. I have explained this to him and he understands it," Waters said.

With regard to Tinney's qualifications as a candidate, Waters stated, "there is serious question as to whether any candidate can file by someone else using power of attorney. The law says the application shall be in writing and shall be signed by the candidate. Also, there is a provision which requires a loyalty oath or affidavit to be signed by the candidate."

"It is my opinion Mr. Tinney did not properly file Tuesday by his wife filing for him."

However, Waters stated he was of the opinion the filing deadline was not Tuesday but was Wednesday. Forms that came from the legal printing company in Austin which were received by Craig state March 4 is the filing deadline and that is why he so announced it.

Waters added, Tinney then made his formal and legal application as a candidate yesterday afternoon.

"Primarily what interested me most was the matter of more concern and people having a choice," Tinney said today.

"We have a good school system here, but the way to keep it is for people to be concerned and be informed about the problems now and in the future."

Basketball Tournament Set Tonight

The sixth annual Top O' Texas Tournament being held at the Pampa Youth and Community Center enters into the championship showdown tonight.

Two Pampa teams, Curtis Well Service and First National Bank, will pair off at 8:30 p.m. in the championship finals.

Curtis Well Service holds a record of 10-3 and First National Bank stands 11-2, with each team holding a victory over the other during regular league play.

First National is led by former West Texas great Frank Schaeffer 6'8" center. Curtis Well Service sports Carole Russell and Bob Branscum, former high school greats.

A game for third place will precede the finals at 7:15 p.m., matching Shamrock Jaycees and Celanese Corp.

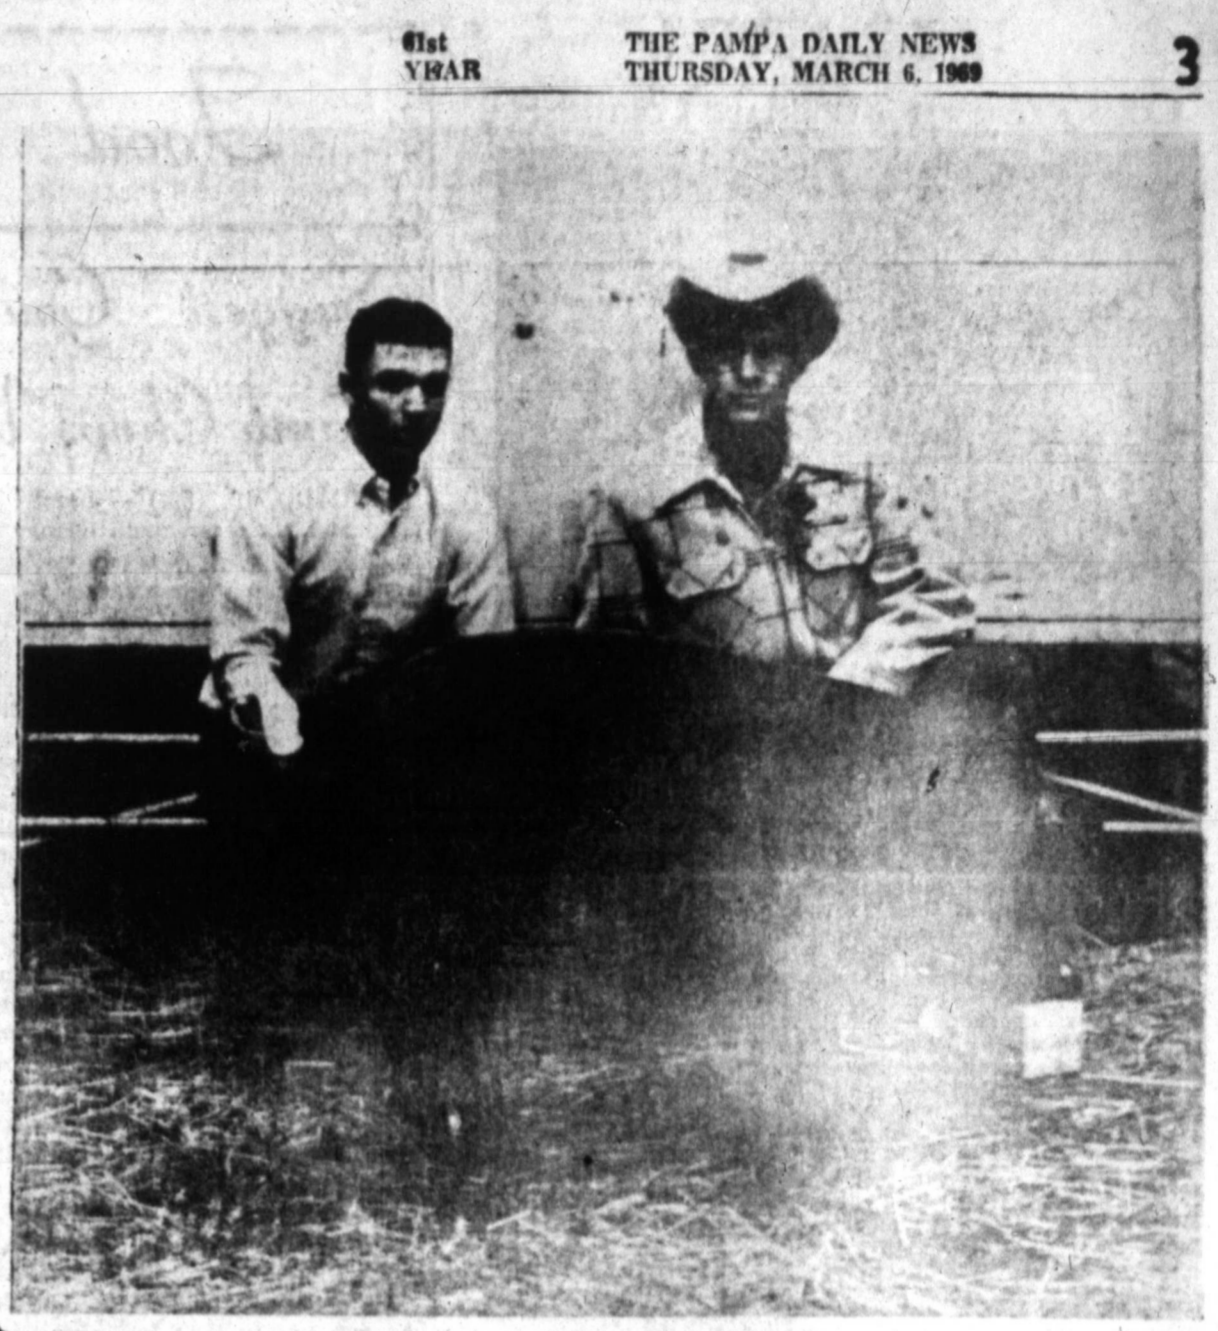

Consolation finals were held Wednesday night with Cock O Walk edging Spearman 52-51. Cock O Walk took an early 11 point lead early in the second half only to have Spearman come back and go ahead 51-50 with 20 seconds left to go.

Cock O Walk called time-out to set-up a play which shook Coyle Winborne loose under the bucket for two points. Tommy Mercer paced Cock O Walk with 22 points, while Allen Simpson carried Spearman with 18 points.

at first where he hid the pickup he reportedly stole, after his escape. He later told Carr it was in Amarillo.

Jordan said Huff told him that he would tell him where it was but that he (Huff) wanted to drive it back.

"I told him we just couldn't do that," Jordan said.

When Huff was searched at the Hereford jail, officers found three hack saw blades and a file.

One officer commented he thought Huff might have wanted a little rest and then would try to break out of the Hereford jail.

"I don't think he can make it out of our jail," the officer said.

Huff was wearing a plaid shirt, no coat or hat, and had slightly over a dollar on him when arrested.

Carr went to Hereford late Wednesday and brought him back to the county jail.

Vessels was taken from Huntsville prison to the Potter County jail in Amarillo last week after serving a two year term on a charge from that county.

Deputies D.L. Day and Buster Collins brought him from Amarillo to Pampa Wednesday afternoon.

Vessels had to be brought back to the Gray County jail after being granted a new trial on the rape charge by the Texas

Court of Criminal Appeals.

Hardin said he would contact Vessels' attorney, believed to be Warren Burnett of Odessa, Thursday afternoon.

"I'll try to get in touch with Vessels' lawyer today and see if we can agree on a town to hold the trial in and if not then the court will have to decide," Hardin said.

Cold Weather Breakfast Tempter

Variety in food and serving ideas is the key to keeping breakfast an appealing meal. Here is a basic breakfast of cereal, milk, fruit, toast and butter. It provides about one-quarter of the day's food requirements for most adults. It is the quickest and easiest to prepare and is nutritionally adequate.

How to vary this pattern? Try this: Maple syrup sweetened, buttered, then heated just until warm, you will find shredded wheat biscuits make a delicious as well as unexpected breakfast treat on cold mornings. Pour on warm milk, instead of cold. And select a fruit topping of your choice. Use of pretty dessert dishes instead of cereal bowls is an attractive serving idea.

Shredded Wheat 'N' Fruit Breakfast Treat

- 4 shredded wheat biscuits, oblong or round
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup heated maple or pancake syrup
- Applesauce, canned or defrosted peach slices, or banana slices
- Hot milk

Place shredded wheat biscuits in shallow well-buttered baking pan, topside down. Brush bottoms of biscuits using 1/2 of the butter or margarine. Warm in moderate oven (375°F) about 5 minutes. Turn biscuits right side up; brush tops with remaining butter or margarine. Return to oven to finish heating, about 5 minutes. Place biscuits in serving dishes. Spoon warm syrup over each oblong biscuit. If round shredded wheat biscuits are used, decrease syrup to 1/4 cup. Top with favorite fruit and serve with hot milk. Yield: 4 servings.

Taper Off... And Eat Well!

Unflavored gelatine is the basis for a wide variety of fine diet foods for every course on the menu. Taper Off Chicken Mold, for instance, is as fine a main dish as you could desire, diet or no diet. The recipe offers only 180 calories per serving, combines dried cooked chicken with chopped vegetables, cream of mushroom soup. And like other dishes made with unflavored gelatine, it's a snap to prepare. So eat well... while you taper off!

Taper-Off Chicken Salad

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups cooked chicken in chunks
- 1/2 cup celery pieces
- 1/2 green pepper, cut in pieces
- 1 slice onion
- 2 tablespoons diced pimiento

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in blender container. Add boiling water; cover and process at low speed until gelatine dissolves. Add undiluted mushroom soup, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Cover and process at high speed until smooth. Add chicken, celery, green pepper and onion. Cover and chop by turning to high speed and off several times. Stir in pimiento. Turn into 4-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve with salad greens and tomato wedges. YIELD: 4 servings, 180 calories each.

Charming enough to leave on a dresser, an eye-catching sewing chest is handcrafted to resemble beautiful carved wood. Actually, it is made of strong and lightweight thermoplastic. Shaped like an oval, it has a sewing organizer with compartments inside.

Suggest Gourmet Treat, Lamb Chops With Honey

CHICAGO, Ill. (Sp) — Lamb chop and honey are both terms of endearment. Anyone can well imagine what a combination of these two would taste like, served as an entree!

There are other ingredients, too. Current jelly gives a rosy hue while candied ginger and lemon juice add that desirable bit of tartness to a delicately flavored meat.

Lamb chops have top rating when it comes to superb eating. It's no accident that "they" are frequently listed in gourmet restaurant menus and are gaining in popularity at home meals for family or guests.

These chops come from the loin section and that means a tender cut. Tenderness is a characteristic of all lamb. Loin chops mean that you get some of the very choice portion called the tenderloin, in each of the chops.

Rib chops are tender, too, but are less meaty than loin chops since they do not have the tenderloin. Blade and arm or round bone chops, as they are sometimes called, come from the shoulder section. They, too, are tender and often more economical.

Lamb chops are favorite luncheon fare for ladies whom you might be entertaining right now as the season is in full swing. The menu planned features foods that are highly compatible with either the ladies or the lamb chops!

Have chilled pineapple juice or a combination of citrus juices, topped with a small scoop of lime sherbet. That's fruit shrub. Potato Nests are simply servings of hot, seasoned, mashed potatoes which have an indentation made with a large spoon so hot, cooked and seasoned green peas may be placed in the "nest".

Plan to make the molded cherry salad a day in advance so it will be chilled firmly enough for the luncheon. Rolls, too, may be baked and frozen in advance. Purchase a special ice cream to have in the freezer.

HONEYED LAMB CHOPS

- 8 lamb loin chops, cut 1-inch thick
- 1 cup honey
- 1/2 cup currant jelly
- 3 tablespoons lemon

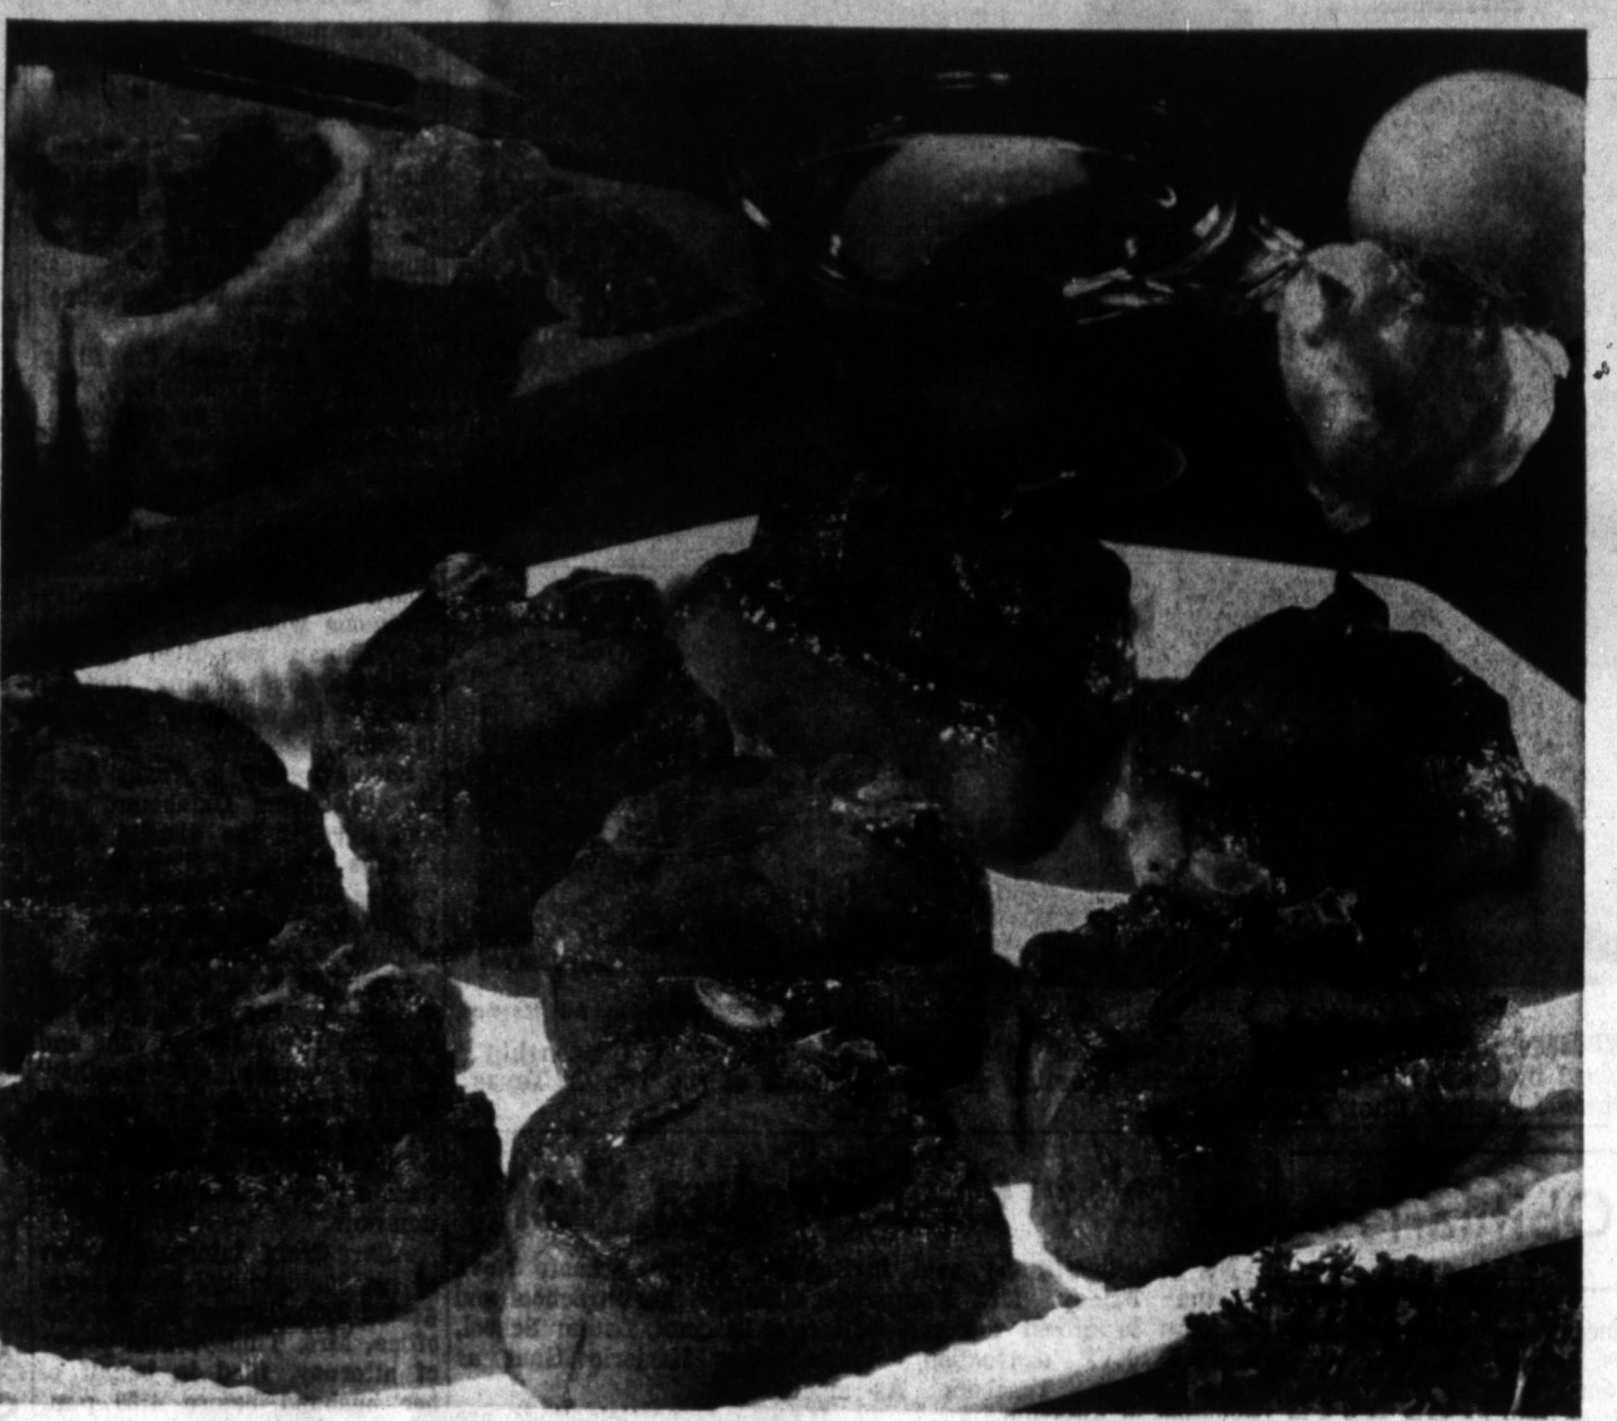

Cherry Sauce For Pork
Pork loin roast or fresh ham is more delightful than ever with a hot cherry sauce, easily made: Combine one can (16 ozs.) cherry pie filling with one-fourth cup of orange juice, one teaspoon grated lemon rind and one-fourth teaspoon allspice. Cook, stirring constantly, until heated through. Yield: two and one-third cups.

- juice
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped ginger
- 2 garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon hot sauce...

Combine honey, current jelly, lemon juice, ginger, garlic, salt and hot sauce in saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly, until jelly is melted. Cool. Place chops in honey mixture and let stay 3 to 4 hours in refrigerator.

Set oven regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack and insert broiler rack and pan so that tops of chops are 2 to 3 inches from heat. Broil 8 to 10 minutes. Turn. Brush with honey mixture and continue broiling 4 to 6 minutes or until done. (Eight servings).

Now it is possible to carry a petite vinyl sun pillow to the beach or even on a trip. A small drawing pouch with inner lining pulls apart and inflates easily — presto, a long and narrow pillow just the right size to rest a lazy head upon. It is styled in nautical color scheme of navy with red drawingstring and white lining.

Different Main Dishes Add Zest To Family Mealtimes

If it's become "always the same old thing" on the table at your house, it's more than time for a change. The best way to avoid a mealtime rut is to try new ways with old foods or new combinations which may prove popular.

Any homemaker's life will acquire a new dimension in sparkle if she tries out some new recipes once or twice a month. Just an unexpected savory aroma can bring the family out of their pursuits long enough for them to inquire, "What's cooking?" How nice when mother can say, "It's a surprise! Wait 'til dinner."

Here are two suggestions for punctuating family meals with that surprise element, says Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board. One uses bulk pork sausage meat turned into a tempting, upside-down pie, while the other provides a different kind of stew, a dish so ideal for cold weather.

An unusual combination of food is used in the lamb bean stew. Eoneless lamb cubes, however, harmonize well with tomatoes, green pepper and kidney beans.

- 1 pound fresh (bulk) pork sausage
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1 can (10 1/2 ozs.) tomato soup
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 1/2 to two-thirds cup milk...

Shape sausage into patties and place in frying-pan. Add water, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. Remove cover and allow water to evaporate and sausage to brown. Place sausage in casserole. Brown onion rings in sausage drippings. Arrange onions on meat. Cover with tomato soup. Add enough milk to biscuit mix to make a soft dough. Roll to fit casserole, and place on top of meat mixture. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes. Turn out on platter and serve. (Six servings).

- HOMEMADE BISCUIT MIX
- 8 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 cup baking powder
- 4 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup lard for soft wheat or... flour
- 1 1/2 cups lard for hard wheat flour...

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until the mixture has a fine even crumb. Cover mix and store in refrigerator. This mix will keep at least a month in the refrigerator. Yield: 10 cups mix.

Salami Mix-Up

Here's mix-up magic for menus; cut 12 ozs. of salami in wedges and combine with two packages (10 ozs. each) of frozen mixed vegetables, one can (4 ozs.) sliced water chestnuts. Add to this one can (10 1/2 ozs.) condensed celery soup mixed with one cup of milk. Mix lightly and turn into a two-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes. Top with one can (3 ozs.) Chinese noodles. This casserole gives four to six servings.

Triple Indemnity

Pork included in the diet provides triple indemnity. That means it has three times as much thiamin as any other food source. When it comes to liver, too, pork variety meat supplies three times as much iron in available form as any other food.

- LAMB and RED BEAN STEW
- 1 1/2 pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (16 ozs.) tomatoes
- 1 can (16 ozs.) kidney beans

1 green pepper, diced... Flour lamb and brown in melted lard or drippings. Season. Add tomatoes, beans and green pepper. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours, uncovering last 15 minutes. (Four to six servings).

- Q. What is the name of this meat?
A. Liver. The largest one at the top is beef, then reading clockwise, the smallest one next to it is lamb; veal is next, and then pork, the second largest.
- Q. How are they identified?
A. By size primarily, as indicated above.
- Q. How are they prepared?
A. Beef and pork liver may be sliced and fried, braised or roasted whole. Veal and lamb liver may be broiled, panbroiled or fried. Peel or trim membrane on liver before cooking. Liver is sometimes precooked, then ground and mixed for loaves, patties or croquettes. To precook, slowly sauté in two to three tablespoons of lard or drippings for about five minutes. For braising, dredge in flour, brown slowly in fat, then add about one-fourth cup of liquid, cover tightly and cook slowly 20 to 30 minutes. For broiling, have liver sliced three-fourths of an inch thick or less. Dip in melted fat. Broil three minutes.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—E.F. Hutton & Co. observes that the impact of the institutional investor upon the market becomes especially apparent on days of low trading volume. "The relatively small number of large block transactions recently is evidence of the current sideline sitting stance by institutional investors and the result is a relatively dull and indecisive stock market," Hutton notes.

The Dines Letter urges investors to "step in aggressively" now for a short-term rally but to observe more caution over the long term. The analyst says the market is "incredibly oversold" on a short-term basis, but observes that the longer term picture is "more serious."

Scheinman Timing Forecasts says the stock market is now in wandering off into a cloud.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch says he is not ready to take a "hard position" on cigarette advertising, but admits he does not care for the type he has seen on television. Of the television commercials Finch said, "I found them irritating. There is too much hard sell and says the stock market is now in wandering off into a cloud."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) Let us start today with the absolutely correct assumption that television networks live by the ratings and will probably continue to do so from here to eternity.

In recent months, however, many persons in the video industry have been seriously questioning one aspect of the Nielsen Nielsen Ratings—the most powerful statistics of all. In these particular ratings, CBS-TV generally emerges the final annual winner. The network is known for its bucolic, folksy series that have strong appeal in provincial areas. Despite CBS-TV's numerous urbane and civilized broadcasts in other areas, it is these folksy shows that pay the freight.

The point of contention for video dissenters is whether the Nielsen samplings in non-urban areas are correctly gauging contemporary audience tastes in a time when urban centers are growing more significant by attracting more and more residents. These centers would, of course, include persons living in nearby locations as well.

In addition to the National Nielsens, there is the 30-market statistical survey, which focuses on major city audiences. ABC-TV and NBC-TV usually do better in this survey if competition with CBS-TV.

It may well be that the Nielsen firm, which is intelligent and keenly aware of trends has been making adjustments in view of the population shift. Yet it is difficult to believe that the adjustments have gone far enough. For if they had, then some of the determinedly folksy shows that benefit from the National Nielsens would surely have been affected.

Thus the question: who is really the audience nowadays? And, even more important than that from a network's point of view, is: Who has the money to buy the goods? The big drive around the networks is for the so-called "young adult" audience. But at this point, at least, the National Nielsens, while still most definitely the key ratings, are also something of a paradox and perhaps a bit of an anachronism.

LIGHT UP
CELEVELAND (UPI)—Crime and traffic accidents cost U.S. taxpayers more than $33 billion in 1968, according to the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau. Of this total loss, the Bureau said, conservative estimates show at least half occurs at night when darkness obscures the criminal's actions and makes for poor driving visibility.

According to the Bureau, statistics show installation of proper street lighting is one immediate and constructive step communities can take to reduce this costly bill.

LUTHERAN ENROLLMENT
NEW YORK (UPI) — Students in Lutheran seminaries, colleges and high schools in the United States and Canada now total 106,418, an increase of 5,623 over the 100,795 reported for 1967-68, according to the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A.

Statistics released by Dr. Ronald L. Johnstone, director of the Office of Research, Statistics and Archives show 4,258 students in the denomination's 20 seminaries, 78,711 enrolled in its 37 colleges and universities, 5,726 in its 19 junior colleges and 17,723 in church related high schools.

Oklahoma City has weathered 28 tornadoes since 1892, says the National Geographic.

After Each Visit Indecision Sets In

(First of Two Parts)
By MARTY RALBOVSKY
BELLAIRE, Ohio (NEA)
— There was a time when the college recruiting of high school athletes was a simple process — offer the hotshot a free education, give him a train ticket and tell him where to report.

Not any more.
College recruiting has become an elaborate — and expensive — ordeal. Untold thousands are spent behind the scenes to impress, and hopefully hook, top high school prospects. Assistant coaches and recruiters have been known to park themselves for weeks on the doorsteps of players they covet.

Head coaches annually place hundreds of long-distance calls to chat informally with kids from towns they never knew existed.
Campus visits are arranged, summer jobs lined up and the social advantages of each college (coeds, of course) discreetly pointed out.

Last year, one mid-western university spent over $1,000 trying to land a basketball prospect (two round-trip plane tickets, meals, phone calls, coaches' visits to his home) and lost him to a rival school.
A few years ago, one high school All-American basketball player made a dozen trips to campuses all over the country.

Then, to the dismay of all concerned, announced he would attend a college 50 miles from his home. "The trips were great," he later said. "I got to see places I never thought I would see. All free, too."

This year one of the prime targets of college recruiters is 17-year-old Al Hornyak, a 6-foot-2, 175-pound guard who is an ambidextrous — and extremely accurate — jump shooter. He's averaging 44 points a game for St. John's Central High School in this southeastern Ohio community of 12,000 and has been offered basketball scholarships by 137 colleges, at last count.

He has been the weekend guest of four major colleges already — Michigan State, West Virginia, Alabama and Ohio State. He will visit North Carolina and UCLA in the near future and maybe jet down to the University of Miami before he makes up his mind. If there is time, he might visit Kentucky, Davidson, Tennessee and Houston; he's not sure yet.

To him, the recruiting race is fun, but there are times when the whole business leaves him perplexed. "Everybody is so nice to me," he says. "I don't know what to do. When I visited Michigan State, I left impressed and thought I might go there. Then I went to Alabama, saw its new fieldhouse and changed my mind. Same thing happened after I visited Ohio State. Every time I make a trip, I come home all mixed up. Then another weekend comes, and another trip, and I come home again mixed up even more."

Hornyak's weekends start at 5:15 a.m., when he leaves his Bellaire home and drives 62 miles to Pittsburgh to catch a plane to his destination. He's met upon arrival by an assistant coach and promptly taken on an auto tour of the campus, where points of interest are painstakingly brought to his attention.

"When I went to Michigan State and Ohio State," he says, "the first things they showed me were the football stadiums. But when I went to Alabama, the first thing I saw was the new fieldhouse. I met some of the varsity basketball players at each school and one of them is assigned as my chaperone. The first thing he does is take me on a tour of the dorms, where I meet the other athletes, and everybody winds up telling me what a great place their particular school is."

"After I see the dorms, the assistant coaches take me to a expensive restaurant and urge me to help myself to anything on the menu. I usually do. After we get through eating, it's about 10:30 in the afternoon, and I'm so tired I just want to sleep. But I'm usually taken on a tour of the business administration buildings, because I want to major in business. Sometimes I get to meet some professors, if they're around."

"Then I meet my chaperone again and he takes me on a tour of the campus social spots. Coffee shops and hangouts, you know. I get to meet some of the non-athletes. If I want a date that night, it is arranged for me. Nothing elaborate. I usually double with another player and his date."

Hornyak says he doesn't

... and fires

meet the head coach personally until just before he goes home on a Sunday night. "I meet the coach in his office and he talks to me about the future of basketball at his school. Where I would fit in, and all that. A couple coaches told me I could get summer employment anywhere in the country if I came to their schools. They said alumni would arrange it all. Then the coach gives me a talking-to about his school being the perfect place to play my college basketball."

"I don't get back to Bellaire until Sunday midnight or later. And it usually takes until Tuesday to get myself back to normal."

PAMPA NEWS SPORTS

Track, Golf Teams to Dumas, Lubbock

Pampa spring sport athletes have been chased indoors this week by snow but are still practicing for weekend activities.

Pampa golfers will open District 4-4A action in Lubbock where they play 18 holes Friday over Meadowbrook Municipal golf course. Varsity and Shocker golfers both will compete.

Pampa High School netters will still possibly be in its second match of the season Friday when they are scheduled to travel to Borger for a boys and girls matches.

The North Plains relays at Dumas, set Saturday, have been postponed thus giving the PHS Track Team a day of rest.

Pampa runners have been forced to do their chores inside this week getting in practice by running in the school halls.

Pampa baseballers had its season opener Tuesday cancelled but the game has been reset for this coming Tuesday.

One other change is being sought.

The Harvesters are scheduled to travel to Anadarko a week from Friday for a single game and a Saturday doubleheader.

But if things can be worked out the baseballers may play doubleheader Friday and then journey to Woodward Saturday for another double-header.

Pampa varsity golfers scheduled to make the trip Thursday are Harry Aureli, Sherwin Cox, Jackie Gindorf, Mike Waters and Chris Gamblian.

Shocker golfers going are Greg White, Dudley Warner, John Garren, Kenny Thompson and Joe Foster.

Pitching May Carry Mets to Lofty Finish

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — Gil Hodges, recovered from late-season heart attack, has one of baseball's most promising pitching staffs. But the same old Met problem remains — lack of hitting. Pitching carried the Mets out of the NL cellar last season despite the power puff attack. How far they go this season depends squarely on the pitchers.

PITCHING — Jerry Koosman (19-12), Tom Seaver (16-12) and Nolan Ryan (8-9) are three of baseball's brightest youngsters. Ryan had arm trouble last season, but looks as if he's shaken it. Vet Don Cardwell compliments youngsters nicely. Dan Frisella, Al Jackson, Cal Koonce, Tug McGraw, Les Rohr and Ron Taylor will alternate between spot starts and bullpen. Hodges has a lot to work with. Rating: B PLUS.

CATCHING — Jerry Grote was pleasant surprise last season. He hit .282 and made All-Star team. J. C. Martin backs him up. Rating: B.

INFIELD — Ed Kravitz had another disappointing year. He hit only .231 and Mets are still waiting for him to "arrive." Ed Charles had good season at short (.276). Bud Harrelson will be at second and Kevin Collins at third. Neither are big hitters, but are strong defensively. Ken Boswell and Al Weis provide depth. Rating: C.

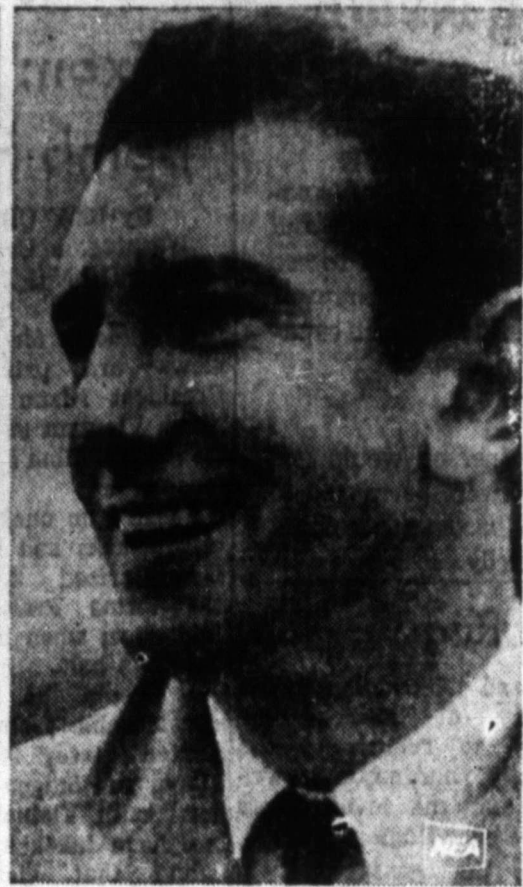

OUTFIELD — Tommie Agee hit only .217 last season, a major disappointment. If he can regain the batting eye he had with White Sox, he'll be big help. Ron Swoboda returns to left, Cleon Jones to right. Jones had fine '68 season (.297 with 14 homers). Rating: C.

ROOKIES TO WATCH — Mets are high on outfielder Amos Otis, who hit .296 with 15 homers at Jacksonville.

Predicted Finish: 5th in East.

TED WILLIAMS (left) and Billy Martin are eagerly awaiting their debuts as baseball managers. Williams is taking over the Washington Senators this season, Martin the Minnesota Twins.

Quiet Spoken Green Bay Boss Does It His Way

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—They got the perfect guy in Joe Lombardi. Maybe you've seen him do that TV commercial where he's coming out of the jet, or deplaning, as they say when they're laying it on a little, and he turns on this big smile at the stewardess and says, "When you got it—flaunt it."

Namath is right at home doing his pitch on the tube. Braniff Airlines, which picks up the tab for those commercials, has some others doing them, too. Others like Mickey Mantle, Gina Lollobrigida and Whitney Ford.

Not Phil Bengtson, though. He's Green Bay's brand-new overall boss, taking Vince Lombardi's place and portfolio as both general manager and coach of the Packers, but he isn't sitting there waiting for calls to do any of those commercials dealing with airlines, used cars or potato chips. He's not the type. Whereas Lombardi achieved his success at Green Bay by raising his voice and frequently stirring the players' emotions, the new head man of the Packers operates in completely different fashion. He's the low-key, soft-sell type.

SPORTS PARADE

The fact that Lombardi was directly the opposite and that he won titles that way will not change Bengtson one bit.

"There are other ways of doing it," he insists. "I realize my success will be measured against his and the fact that he was so successful will make it more difficult, but I have a great deal of confidence in our team. We have fine playing personnel plus a draft list with which we're quite pleased."

Bengtson was speaking from his Green Bay office an hour or so after the Packers had announced he would be the team's new general manager as well as its coach. He spoke in his customary tone, sincere but unemotional. The fact that the news conference had been held in what had been Lombardi's impressively appointed executive office didn't carry any special significance for Green Bay's tall, straight new No. 1 man.

Sikes Back To Defend Citrus Crown

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Dan Sikes, defending champion in the $115,000 Citrus Open golf tournament which began today, hopes no one is expecting him to play as well as he did here last year.

"The defending champion doesn't play that well—here or anywhere else," the 38-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., attorney and fried chicken drive-in chain operator, said of the 14-under-par 274 that enabled him to win the '68 Citrus Open by a stroke.

Sikes, who won more than $100,000 last year, is always a threat here in his native state. Just last week in the rich Dorado Open, he finished third, two strokes behind Tom Shaw, to win $10,650.

Sikes has some tough competition in the 144-man field. In addition to the happy-go-lucky Shaw, there's Tommy Aaron, who had another of his patented second-place finishes last week at Dorado; the always threatening Jack Nicklaus, still looking for his first Florida victory in an otherwise glittering career; and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, returning to action after taking a week off after winning the Tucson Open.

But "Arnie's Army" will have to pick someone else to follow this week. Palmer stunned Citrus officials Wednesday by withdrawing from the tournament because of bursitis in his right hip.

This year's leading money winner, Gene Littler, and last year's leading money winner, Billy Casper, are both skipping this tournament, just as they did last week's stop on the Rich ($650,000) Florida circuit.

Houston Tumbles Amarillo

By United Press International
The Kansas City Blues went from third place in the southern division of the Central Hockey League to second with a charge that would have made Teddy Roosevelt envious, stumbled into first place and today began to dig their heads out of the sand at the top of the hill.

The Blues chalked up a number of wins to take over Omaha's runner-up spot and then, while Tulsa lost a couple, the Blues tied all their opponents to trip to the top. But the No. 1 position appears to have been a jinx.

The Blues failed to win their second game since gaining the top spot Wednesday night this time falling to Oklahoma City, the front runners in the southern division, 6-5. They tied Fort Worth 2-2 Tuesday.

In other games Wednesday, Houston jumped back into a second place southern division tie with Dallas by beating Amarillo 6-3, and Memphis and Omaha fought to a 3-3 deadlock.

Both Kansas City and Oklahoma City scored three times in the final period but an earlier Blazer edged proved the difference. Steve Atkinson scored two of Oklahoma City's six goals to bring his total for the season to 37, a new Blazer record.

The win put the Blazers 15 points ahead of Houston and Dallas and kept Kansas City a mere one point ahead of Tulsa. Paul Curtis opened the Apollo scoring with just 31 seconds gone and Bob Pellet scored the final Houston goal with one second left in its win over Blazer edge proved the difference.

Assured Houston a spot in the playoffs putting the club 11 points ahead of fourth place Fort Worth.

Good News For Boston, Tony Okay

By United Press International
Manager Luman Harris will give the No. 2 Aaron a chance to solve the Atlanta Braves' No. 1 problem.

No fewer than six players were tried at first base by the Braves last season and Harris knows he will have a season-long headache in 1969 if he can't find a regular for the position. He turned hopefully Wednesday to Tommie Aaron, younger brother of the great Hank, with the comment, "If he proves he can hit big league pitching, Tommie will be my first baseman."

Tommie has a .229 batting average and only 10 homers in 319 games spread over four seasons but immediately accepted the challenge.

Others competing for the job are rookie Jim Breazeale, Tolo Francona and Bob Aspromonte and then there is the reluctant candidate, Joe Torre, who prefers catching and resents alternating between there and first base.

A home run by Ken Harrelson and the quiet confidence of Tony Conigliaro provided the big news at the Boston Red Sox camp and Roberto Clemente's hitting marked an intra-squad game played Wednesday by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Harrelson, who will be the Red Sox' first baseman if Conigliaro makes a comeback, hit a towering homer as Boston's regulars beat the subs 5-0 in a six-inning game. Conigliaro, who was sidelined for the 1968 season because of an eye injury, hit the ball solidly in three tries.

"I saw the ball well and am real happy," said Conigliaro, who now is considered the Red Sox' regular center fielder.

Clemente, who finished the 1968 season with a .291 average after a slow start, hit a 400-foot homer and Pittsburgh manager Larry Shepard commented, "I'm glad to see his shoulder's not bothering him this spring." Clemente's 1968 average was his lowest since 1959.

Other fronts: Tony Solafia, who hit 51 homers in the Carolina League last season, was assigned as the New York Yankees' first baseman and cleanup hitter in their exhibition opener against the Washington Senators... Jack Fisher, acquired by the Cincinnati Reds after an 8-13 season with the Chicago White Sox, rejected a new contract offer and said he is returning to his Bayside, N.Y. home.

To Choose Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—The major leagues' greatest player and All-Time All-Star team will be chosen by a poll of fans and sports writers this year in conjunction with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of professional baseball, it was announced today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

NAME CHANGED

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The Westchester Bulls, the New York Giant affiliate in the Atlantic Coast Conference, will become the Long Island Bulls in the 1969 season and play their home games at Hofstra University. The stadium there has a seating capacity of 7,500 and is covered with AstroTurf.

Story Accuses Olympians Of Taking Money Payoffs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two German track shoes companies — headed by fiercely competitive brothers — gave 200 athletes payoffs from $50 to $10,000 each during the 1968 Olympic Games at Mexico City, a sports magazine said Wednesday.

In a copyrighted story, Sports Illustrated said 20 of America's 25 track and field medalists were among those who accepted the money in return for a pledge to wear either Adidas or Puma track shoes in competition, depending on which

Label Removed

LEEDS, England (UPI)—The protests of professional golfers in England, who depend upon the sale of golf equipment for much of their earnings, have succeeded in getting the removal of the "Arnold Palmer" label from one brand of golf shoes.

The initial protests were against the sale of "Arnold Palmer" golf balls, at discount prices, at gasoline stations as part of a promotion.

In addition to the $100,000 in cash, the magazine said the two companies gave away some $350,000 in equipment during 1968. The U.S. Olympic Committee began an investigation into reports near the end of the games that payoffs had taken place, and a committee spokesman said Wednesday its board of directors had passed a resolution on the matter and asked it along to the AAU. He declined comment on the contents.

The magazine story gave no names of any individuals involved in the payoffs. If medals were stripped from athletes who accepted the payoffs "The U.S. would have been stripped almost clean," the story said. An athlete who told investigating officials at the Olympics he found $500 in his shoe, had accepted the money as a payoff, the story said, and then panicked.

Race Problem Under The Rug

It was a year ago that the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders issued its landmark warning that America was in danger of splitting into two societies — one black, one white, separate and unequal.

What progress has been made since then in solving the country's foremost domestic crisis? A major first-anniversary appraisal finds: Not much.

"One Year Later," a wide-ranging evaluation carried out by two organizations concerned with the problems of the nation's cities, echoes the words of the Koerner report:

"We are a year closer to being two societies," it concludes, "black and white, increasingly separate and scarcely less unequal."

The report was prepared by the staffs of Urban America, Inc., headed by former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, and The Urban Coalition, headed by former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner.

It finds that while some steps have been taken toward eliminating racial discrimination and poverty in the center city, progress has nowhere been in scale with the problems:

"Poverty remains a pervasive fact of life... and the continuing disparity between this poverty and the general affluence remains a source of alienation and discontent."

"Ghetto schools continue to fail, and the small amount of progress that has been made has been counterbalanced by a growing atmosphere of hostility and conflict in many cities."

"At present, there are no programs that seriously threaten the continued existence of the slums."

Through the whole range of anti-poverty programs, from job-creation and job-training to the opening of business opportunities to reform of the increasingly burdensome welfare system, the investigators found few encouraging results.

Despite the passage of a federal fair-housing law, the physical distance between the places where blacks live and where whites live did not diminish during the year. While concern with the problems of the cities was high early in 1968 because of the Koerner report and the assassination of Martin Luther King, but it hardened into outright resistance to slum-ghetto needs later in the year.

In sum, there has not been even a serious start toward the changes in national priorities, programs and institutions advocated by the commission.

There are at least two brighter notes: Blacks ready to pursue separatism or violence as a tactic remain a small minority of the Negro population, and black pride is increasing. Its translation into action in the arenas of community control and self-help contributed to the comparative quiet of last summer.

The report, like the one it follows up, perhaps overstates in one sense. We are not one society splitting into two; we have always been two separate societies. The upheavals and disorders we have been experiencing are not the signs of a nation coming apart but are the consequences of our never having joined together.

As both reports document, however, the mass of white Americans remain uncommitted, or even opposed, to making real for all their fellow citizens the promises contained in the founding documents they venerate.

How much longer can a house divided against itself continue to stand?

The Way To Freedom

Recently we were sent a poem from a Los Angeles publication, a typed sheet promoting Negro communication. The poem was titled, "From My Second Floor" and began: "Setting looking from my window high above the black ghetto, I seem to smell the pent up anger and frustration for freedom like ants closed in a bottle. How long would it be before the stopper was released from the bottle?"

It is man's nature to want to be free and to resent having his freedom trampled on. A thirst for freedom is right and just, and perhaps the only good sign in all the prostitution of liberty committed throughout our country today.

How can anyone feel free when he is state-forced to attend school whether he wants to or not, to take specified courses which he feels do not apply to his life, to read state-approved books, to be denied a job because there is no learner's pay, or because he is over age? He's bound and tied by one statute or another, which also forces him to turn over his earnings to support these things he does not want.

What is the way out? Some are choosing open rebellion, leaving a trail of damage, destruction, even murder in their wake. Mind you, these are persons who year for freedom, and they violate the one thing they say they want.

Freedom is not something that is dispensed by a so-called power structure, and as variable as the whims of those in power. Freedom is freedom exists, available to all, and is apparent to the degree that it is demonstrated by every individual. It's a matter of self-education, as to what freedom is.

Freedom is not malevolence, mayhem and vengeance. It is love, respect, justice. It is not a one-way proposition. A man departs from freedom the minute he tramples on another's freedom. Better than throwing stones would be learning about what freedom is and working to repeal the restrictive laws of slavery — the draft, compulsory attendance and other state controls of schools as well as government (school district) ownership of them; tariffs, the minimum wage, the income tax.

The people have been subjected to turned-around backward talk. Power is not freedom, as some believe, but freedom is power. When freedom is understood, there is no danger from anyone's desire for freedom.

This Is What's In A Name

We call it the "Hong Kong flu." Russians would call it "grippe," from their word for hoarseness; the Italians, "flu," an abbreviation of "influenza," meaning an influence, a power. The French know it as "le tac" — a blow on the head.

But as most descriptive of the kind of mass, crash infection we've experienced this year, Quimto Lingo magazine suggests the German name: "blitz-Katarrh."

Hawks Tell Nixon: Don't Bomb Hanoi

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Paradoxically, influential officials known for their hawkish views are privately urging President Nixon not to bomb North Vietnam in retaliation for Ho Chi Minh's recent offensive.

There's no question that Ho's city attacks and his use of the Demilitarized Zone violate the terms President Johnson laid down when he ordered the bombing halt.

It could be argued with considerable justice that if the United States is to convince Hanoi and Saigon we won't sell out South Vietnam, we should not have taken a strong public stand that violations would mean the resumption of bombing — and then back down when Ho applies the pressure.

But the hawks urging Nixon to go slow (with considerable experience in Communist guerrilla tactics) think retaliation is what Ho desires. These men believe Ho wants Nixon to bomb Hanoi.

They point out Ho's major problem today is to get moving again the antiwar agitation here that was applied to Johnson.

Of late, things have been relatively quiet on the stop-the-Vietnam war front. To get that agitation steamed up sufficiently to bring major U.S. concessions, Ho must: Swing U.S. battle deaths upward markedly.

Convince many Americans the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese forces are gaining strength. "Prove" to the war-weary here that Nixon is not doing all he can to get peace at Paris. These hawks believe the winter-spring "offensive," if it results in a Nixon decision to bomb the north, could achieve all three of these ends.

In particular, bombing of the North would be "convincing proof" to many that Communist forces in Vietnam are so strong that the administration believes the only way out is to begin again the air war over Ho's country.

This could well cause an uproar comparable to that Johnson faced.

Unlike other presidential winners, however, Mr. Nixon has not yet backed away from the all-volunteer idea, and keep the draft as stand-by, when the Vietnam war has ended and the manpower demands of the armed services are not so great.

Kennedy, the new Senate Democratic whip, is not directly challenging the President on the issue. The senator is saying that the all-volunteer concept deserves "serious consideration," and he proposes a six-month, public study of the idea.

In a speech proposing draft reforms, however, Kennedy has aired his own misgivings. He says his talks with high school and college students convince him that student advocates of a volunteer army would not, themselves, volunteer.

"This suggests," says Kennedy, "the strong possibility that an all-volunteer army might magnify the present economic inequality in the draft — that our soldiers would come from the lower economic classes, and might well form a largely black army."

"This would serve only to increase the separatism between the military and civilian sectors of our society."

NOTHING NEW FOR KENNEDY—These misgivings are nothing new for Ted Kennedy. He voiced them in 1967 when he headed a Senate Labor subcommittee studying the manpower implications of the military draft.

His concern is shared by some military experts. They know that young men from low economic groups have used the armed services as a way to advance themselves in recent years. They say this has been especially true for Negroes since President Truman desegregated the armed services in 1948.

In the 1967 hearings, which included testimony from a group of young Negroes, Kennedy noted that military enlistment rates and re-enlistment rates already are higher for Negroes than for young whites. He said, the armed services have already become a place where Negroes, and others from low economic backgrounds can "get a break."

Inside Washington

Would All-Volunteer Army Be Mostly Black? — Kennedy Warns

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Ever so gently, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is alerting President Nixon and his advisers to a politically explosive argument against an all-volunteer army: it could become a force of mostly black mercenaries.

Mr. Nixon and his aides could well be unaware of this complaint against the volunteer army idea. Like most of the presidential aspirants of the recent past, candidate Nixon embraced the politically attractive volunteer concept while he was campaigning for the White House.

Unlike other presidential winners, however, Mr. Nixon has not yet backed away from the all-volunteer idea, and keep the draft as stand-by, when the Vietnam war has ended and the manpower demands of the armed services are not so great.

Kennedy, the new Senate Democratic whip, is not directly challenging the President on the issue. The senator is saying that the all-volunteer concept deserves "serious consideration," and he proposes a six-month, public study of the idea.

In a speech proposing draft reforms, however, Kennedy has aired his own misgivings. He says his talks with high school and college students convince him that student advocates of a volunteer army would not, themselves, volunteer.

"This suggests," says Kennedy, "the strong possibility that an all-volunteer army might magnify the present economic inequality in the draft — that our soldiers would come from the lower economic classes, and might well form a largely black army."

"This would serve only to increase the separatism between the military and civilian sectors of our society."

NOTHING NEW FOR KENNEDY—These misgivings are nothing new for Ted Kennedy. He voiced them in 1967 when he headed a Senate Labor subcommittee studying the manpower implications of the military draft.

His concern is shared by some military experts. They know that young men from low economic groups have used the armed services as a way to advance themselves in recent years. They say this has been especially true for Negroes since President Truman desegregated the armed services in 1948.

In the 1967 hearings, which included testimony from a group of young Negroes, Kennedy noted that military enlistment rates and re-enlistment rates already are higher for Negroes than for young whites. He said, the armed services have already become a place where Negroes, and others from low economic backgrounds can "get a break."

would result in "a black army, made up of those who are in the low income scale of our society."

Some subcommittee witnesses did not agree. Milton Friedman, economics professor from the University of Chicago, called Kennedy's suggestion a "red herring." Friedman doubted that the percentage of Negroes in service would rise very much and said, "Even if it did, that would only mean that they were finding this more attractive opportunity than other pursuits."

Kennedy advanced another argument against the volunteer army too. He asked a couple of witnesses whether they would rather spend the additional cost of a volunteer army (estimated from $4 billion to $17 billion a year by the Pentagon) on education, rehabilitating slums, job retraining, health programs and the like.

TEDDY'S REFORMS — The draft reform bill, offered by Kennedy with eight other senators, would set up the kind of draft priorities advocated since 1967 by President Johnson, among others. Nineteen-year-olds would be called first, and under a new lottery-like random selection plan.

However, the Kennedy bill would also require uniform national standards for classification and deferment so that young men across the nation would face equal exposure to military service. The bill would also discontinue student deferments during periods when U.S. battle casualties had been 10 percent of inductions for three months.

Another feature of the bill would provide a study, by a group of distinguished Americans, of possible amnesty for the thousands of young men who have fled from the draft to seek asylum abroad. Kennedy notes that an amnesty was provided by President Washington for participants in the Whisky Rebellion and by President Andrew Johnson for Southerners in 1868.

Such an amnesty would, however, run counter to the stand being urged by a Senate subcommittee which has already conducted a study of the young men who have fled from U.S. military services to asylum in other nations. Far from amnesty, the subcommittee is recommending that service refugees who take up residence abroad be automatically punishable as deserters.

The formal report of that subcommittee, discussed previously here, is to be published soon, perhaps tomorrow. The group is headed by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, who lost an arm in service during World War II.

More Student Demands

(Alexandria, La., Town Talk)

Not to be outdone by the Jewish high school students in California who compiled their "demands" upon the administrators of their school, the Italian students at San Francisco State have come up with some demands of their own.

The Italian-American students want immediate hiring of two Italian professors of law, a Sicilian Defense Workshop which shall encourage legal aid to members of the Mafia and Cosa Nostra, background tarantella and opera music at luncheon, vending machines to offer pizza, both sausage and pepperoni, ravioli and garlic bread and 8-ounce cans of Dago Red, and school holidays on Columbus Day, the birthdays of Benito Mussolini and all other Italian war heroes...

But even they have been topped. At the University of Arizona, a group known as the Western Union demanded recognition of its demands. The spokesman, Boot Hill, states that he is following the example of the black students and the Mexican-American students, who individually filed their ultimatums in the past few weeks.

Mr. Hill states that his Western Union members demand the following: they want to be taught the "colorful language of the Old West"; they are tired of learning modern language from modern teachers; they want degree courses in cowboy history, including the curriculum cowboy philosophy; at least 5 spittoons in every classroom and chewing tobacco vending machines on the campus and in all residence halls; ROTC courses must include horse Cavalry with all instructors having acceptable rodeo experience; credit hours to be given for attending sessions at accredited rodeo schools and a course about cows, white, brown and black, to be taught straight from the cow's mouth.

The final Western Union demand is that the U. of Arizona president, Dr. Richard Harvill, appear in front of the Student Union annex post office at high noon, wearing a stetson hat, boots and levis, to hear the demands in person.

In light of some of the recent student demands, this list seems quite reasonable to us. And we hope that the Western Union has snorted the last we will hear of student demands.

Only about 200 of the brighter stars have been named. All coal is formed from the remains of ancient vegetation. During 1967, auto thieves stole one of every 125 cars registered in the United States...

Auto thieves stole a record total of 650,000 individual vehicles in the United States during 1967.

Under existing law, widows of U.S. presidents are entitled to a pension of $10,000 a year.

Branch Head Bill Says:

By BILL KENNEDY

Maybe A Tax Revolt Would Stop It! Didn't take Congress long to find a way to spend the 10 percent surtax tacked onto wage earners' already tax-burdened backs last spring. You know, the one started at the insistence of the Democrats and to be continued by the Republicans? After Nixon campaigning on a promise to stop it?

Congress raised their own pay by $12,500 per member, to $42,500 a year (41 percent), and doubled the President's pay (to $200,000 a year). Most everybody heard about that, and grumbled some. But that's not the whole story by any means. They provided raises all around; in fact, all the way to AROUND $4 to $5 billion dollars a year. This after a public agreement between the Executive and Legislative Branches to execute "reductions" in government spending. It was MORE than an agreement between the branches of government. It was a solemn promise to the taxpayers of the country.

The congressmen were cute about raising their own dole. When they raised their pay 33 percent (only) five years ago, some of them got in trouble back home by voting in favor of the raise. To get around this, they set up a "commission" to make recommendations about future raises. If any recommended raise is not voted down by the Congress within 30 days, it automatically goes into effect.

This time they didn't have to vote themselves a raise; all they had to do was sit on their lazy backsides for 30 days and the raise WAS. "We had nothing to do with it," they tell us suckers back home.

The whole shooting match should be recalled, or better yet, cut off the federal payroll and left to rot for themselves as there in Washington. But the question is: "Who cuts them off? Who puts the bell on the cat? We the people, elect them to office; but it is they who decide — after they get there — how much they are going to charge us for doing the job. Some contract they have written for themselves!

Government officials plead with labor unions and business executives all over the country to hold down wage demands and business expenditures to COMBAT INFLATION. I guess economy begins at home. It sure does not start in Washington.

A "Branch Head" friend of mine came by the other day with a solution. He was as incensed over the whole thing as other taxpayers and workers, but more practical. He wanted to do more than gripe.

"I want you to write those people in Washington that we are going to stop paying all federal taxes until they back up to a budget we can afford," he said. He is convinced we are going to have to do it sometime — and it might as well be right now."

I explained to my friend that this was not exactly a new idea, that the French people have resorted to it a time or two — with some success at cutting down government officials then in power. I told him that balking on the income tax alone would help, and that I am ready to join his movement if he can get enough people to make it work instead of just landing a few of us in jail.

"Yeah, that's the trouble," he said. "We haven't got as much sense as the Peaceniks and Yippies and Negroes and all the other minorities. When they want something, they stand up on their hind legs and yell and cut up and raise hell until the government listens to them. But the big majority, it just sits and takes whatever comes, no matter how nasty it gets. Sooner or later we will HAVE to do something." I wonder.

If Blacks Turned White

By PAUL HARVEY
If every black turned white tonight, tomorrow morning we would find most of our problems unresolved.

Statistically, we would have less crime — but we would still have much too much. The percentage of whites committing crimes is about five times greater than the white population increase.

We would still have unemployment in the midst of plentiful jobs, because 40 percent of the unemployed are white.

We would still have mothers bearing illegitimate children to make themselves eligible for increasing welfare handouts.

We would still have unwon wars overseas and resultant domestic restiveness.

Many Americans have been allowing themselves to adopt the ancient scapegoat concept, imagining that we can absolve ourselves of our own sins by blaming everything on the blacks. We can't.

Indeed, the black-white relationship in the United States, in perspective, amounts to a very commendable amalgamation.

Historically, many of the world's diverse cultures have not been able to pull as close together in 2,000 years as our black-white cultures have in 200 years.

We would still have young Americans burning our flag because they resent the maladministration of some of our foreign affairs and foolishly blame our ism...

We would still have rebellious youths growing long hair and wearing dirty clothes in rebellion against a generation of parents who drink and say "don't!" and smoke and say "don't!" and who denounce the misuse of sex while they misuse it themselves.

If every black should turn white tonight, we'd still have too many too hungry and unenlightened Mexicans, Indians and shanty town whites.

We'd still have public nudity, lurid movies and putrid magazines feeding carnal appetites of corruptible Caucasians.

We would still have large segments of our college and university populations going to "pot"...

So most of what ails us is not so simply dismissed as a matter of black and white.

If every black turned white, tomorrow morning we would still have most of our problems...

Britain, for all her centuries of involvement with Africans and Asiatics, is "less close" to them than we Americans are to one another.

That we have domestic black-white strife involving fractions of our black-white populations should not be nearly so surprising as the larger fact that we have come so far so fast in providing equality of opportunity and mutual social acceptance.

I do not intend to try to defend the so called "black militants."

It is too obvious that many of them have a chip on their shoulder, resenting their own blackness — and that they use blackness as a catalyst for mobilizing resentments restiveness and rebellion.

They are as wrong to blame all their troubles on their color as we are to blame all our troubles on them.

That's why I say every black could turn white tonight and tomorrow morning we would still have legions of lazy Americans demanding more for working less...

We would still have young Americans burning our flag because they resent the maladministration of some of our foreign affairs and foolishly blame our ism...

We would still have rebellious youths growing long hair and wearing dirty clothes in rebellion against a generation of parents who drink and say "don't!" and smoke and say "don't!" and who denounce the misuse of sex while they misuse it themselves.

If every black should turn white tonight, we'd still have too many too hungry and unenlightened Mexicans, Indians and shanty town whites.

We'd still have public nudity, lurid movies and putrid magazines feeding carnal appetites of corruptible Caucasians.

We would still have large segments of our college and university populations going to "pot"...

So most of what ails us is not so simply dismissed as a matter of black and white.

If every black turned white, tomorrow morning we would still have most of our problems...

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Cape Bojador, a mild bump on the coast of Africa's Spanish Sahara, just south of the Canary Islands was the southern limit of European travel until 1434 when Gil Eannes, a captain in the service of Prince Henry the Navigator of Portugal, became the first known to go beyond the cape and return. The World Almanac says. The trip led to the longer and more famous voyages of Diaz and da Gama.
