Spring came on the calendar March 21. Washington was watching with concern the grave illness of one of its grandest citizens-Dwight D. Eisenhower. And on Palm Sunday, the city paid its respects as he lay in state in the Capitol under a canopy of gray, burdened skies.

But this past weekend, Easter weekend, spring arrived in its fullness. And after their long winter. President and Mrs. Nixon and their family enjoyed it as much as anyone in town. For the egg roll on the south grounds of the White House, 17.984 children, big and small came, most of them carrying their own eggs. Appear Briefly

Mrs. Nixon, wearing a bright yellow dress, appeared briefly on the White House Truman Balcony with her daughter Tricia to smile and wave. A figure dressed in a white jump suit and a Peter Rabbit mask appeared and began shaking hands. Afterwards the Red Cross said it counted 75 lost children all accounted for, and 27 first aid cases, mostly scratches and splinters.

President Nixon and six Little Leaguers went to the ballpark to see the Senators open the 1969 baseball season under new Manager Ted Williams, who, at 50, probably is the best hitter the Nats have.

Senators got beat by the Yankees, 8 to 4; despite Frank Howard's bottom of the ninth homer.

Today the Cherry Blossom Festival gets under way with official ceremonies at the Japanese Stone Lantern on the Tidal Basin.

And unless the wind whips up, the cherry blossoms will be in full bloom in a day or two.

Casper, Golby Have Inside Track at Masters

By LEE MUELLER NEW YORK (NEA) Prediction:

Twenty minutes or so after he strides off the 18th green April 13, the 1969 Masters Tournament champion will walk smiling into the press barn near the Augusta National golf course.

reporter, probably seated on the front row, willraise his voice and ask, "Did you check your arithmetic?" And the golfer will laugh, not too hard, at a bad joke.

Another prediction: The man who laughs will be slightly overweight, have graying sideburns and will have signed his scoreboard, "Billy Casper." He is, according to Bess Ison, "Mr. Golf . . . if there is such a thing.'

Mrs. Ison is a graphoanalyst who wouldn't know a 4-wood from a home run, but is an absolute whiz at signatures. Handwriting, she says, tells everything. Never mind the ground rules. In Ashland, Ky., where Mrs. Ison writes a weekly graphoanalysis column, she was once asked to participate in a Kentucky Derby office pool "Who's playing?" she asked, then selected the Until last fall when she saw her first football game. Mrs. Ison says she thought a punt was the lowest form of humor. Guess who picked the New York Jets in the Super Bowl?

Now it's golf. Given autographs of the leading contenders for the Masters. she produced the following information on defending champion Bob Goalby:

"He thinks things through. Being ruled by the head may cause him to hesitate too long, in his swing. (Is this possible? It's just my idea.)"

Actually, Mrs. Ison's craft is more useful in examining personalities than pinpointing flaws in golf swings. Traits like courage, fear, anxieties and ambition come to surface in each person's handwriting and Bess. graduate of the International Graphoanalysis Society, is there to pick them off.

"The love for sports is more outstanding in Casper's writing than in any of the other men," she says.

"He has a longing for affection and needs to be the center of attention but his pride and dignity prevent him from making a spectacle of himself. He fears ricidule. pictured him as being fat. I thought if he's fat, he couldn't be a golfer but then I remembered Jackie Gleason plays golf."

Casper, of course, was fat before his buffalo steak diet three years ago.

Mrs. Ison's other top candidates, unstrangely enough, include Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard and Julius Poros. Her comments: NICKLAUS - "Ideal person - proud and loyal. Promptly moved by an emotional situation and goes into things whole-heartedly. Optimistic and not much influenced by what others

"Resltess by nature, but can be warm, friendly and affectionate. Forgets arguments soon. Thrifty. Wants to own and possess, shares only when touched deeply. Independent thinker, makes up mind readily."

BEARD- "A wellbalanced ego and investigative, analytical mind. Thoughtful empathy for situations and problems and has a definite feeling for people. Conforms to most things but is independent in his intentions and in things he does. Very expressive emotionally and has forward movement and drive."

BOROS - "Inner harmony prevails as he is at peace with everyone - especially himself. A talkative fellow (note the open O's) who can keep a secret and remain loyal to what he thinks is right. Has tendency to act before thinking, but this is overcome by cautious, creative thinking."

ARNOLD PALMER-"Uncanny ability to size up situation and decide on right circumstances. No one can call him gullible. When he reaches a conclusion, he acts with all the dirve and vigor the situation calls for.

"Sensitiveness to criticism and vanity encourage him to strive for excellence in order to secure approval. Does not communicate personal ideas or opinions readily. Some areas are kept confidential by talking around subject. Loves responsibility and has to be top man on totem pole.

"Energy is dominant in physical sphere, but the inner urge for continuous activity leads to depression of thought and energies. When down in dumps, everything seems impossible and ambitions slump. Physical activity helps resolve problems.'

ROBERTO de VICENZO -"Hides emotionalism under a cloak of poise. Very deep feelings. Finds it difficult to forgive and forget. Very precise. May need tranquilizer before a game."

de ides what he wants. Sets his goal very low. Must find out what he wants."

GARY PLAYER- "Drives himself to overcome obstacles. He is conservative (basic black, Bess) and responds to emotional situations.'

KEN VENTURI-"Seem: to be carrying a chip on his shoulders and anticipates others imposing. So talented and has balance and harmony, but could do more if he didn't underrate his good qualities. His one great fear is failure. He expects to fail.

GENE LITTLER -"Perfectionist. Nothing to hinder him except his own emotional melancholy. Very acquisitive."

GEORGE ARCHER-"Missed calling. Should have entered politics. A born detective. Deliverate thinker and vivid imagination."

GOALBY - "All qualifications for being a future leader (in the coming tours?)
