Astronauts Young, Duke Land On Moon At 2:41

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Two Apollo 16 astronauts transferred into their lunar ship Orion 40 minutes early today and prepared to descend from orbit to explore where man has never been—a mountain region of the moon.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr., eager for their surface adventure, donned their space suits early and climbed through a tunnel from the command ship to Orion shortly before 9 a.m. EST.

Mission Control advised them to take more potassium to avoid possible irregular heart beats.

The astronauts got a preview of what would be ahead when they passed over the landing site shortly after firing into lunar orbit Wednesday.

"The crater Descartes stands out much bigger than you'd expect," Duke reported. "The area has a much blockier, jumbled appearance than in the photographs.

"It's fantastic. Boy, is that rough," added Young.

Geologists at Mission Control were heartened that the astronauts would find the volcanic evidence when Duke commented: "It looks very much like a big clinkery (cinder field) but on a much larger scale. Big rounded surface clinkers."

On earth, cinder cones and clinkers are associated with volcanism.

Young and Duke planned to spend a record 73 hours on the mountain ringed Descartes plateau, driving an electric powered moon car on three excursions to probe mountains and craters. Their first trip starts at 7:18 p.m. EST.

Mattingly will be busy in lunar orbit, operating a $10-million array of cameras intended to map chemically and photographically the strip of moon over which he passes in the command ship Casper.

The stage was set for the ninth and 10th Americans to step on the moon when the astronauts triggered the big engine of the command ship at 3:23 p.m. Wednesday and swept into an initial orbit ranging from 67 to 196 miles above the surface.

The ignition occurred behind the moon, out of radio contact with earth. When the spaceship slipped around the front edge 21 minutes later, commander Young called out the good news.

"Hello, Houston. Sweet 16 has arrived," he said.

With that, Young, 41-year-old veteran of four space flights, became the first man to orbit the moon twice. His first trip was on Apollo 10, the moon-circling mission that preceded the first-landing Apollo 11.

Live TV Coverage Of Moon Tonight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The Apollo 16 television show from the moon opens tonight, providing space agency scientists and armchair space buffs a close-up view of the lunar highlands.

Although live network coverage will be spotty, astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. will beam back to earth a record 17 hours of their moon adventure.

In addition to scanning the moon with their camera, Young and Duke will also give earthlings a moon view of the Milky Way, Jupiter, Venus, Mars and other heavenly bodies.

The first of three space specials is scheduled to begin at 7:19 p.m. EST, some 3 1/2 hours after America's fifth lunar touchdown.

The camera also is to follow Young and Duke on other exploratory missions Friday and Saturday evenings.

The TV camera also is to record Sunday's lunar liftoff and the subsequent impacting of the moonship Orion after the astronauts return to the safety of the orbit command ship Casper.

Apollo 16 Timetable

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Apollo 16's timetable for today and Friday (all times EST):

TODAY

3:29 p.m.—While astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II continues in lunar orbit aboard the command module Casper, astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. ignite the rocket engine of the lunar lander Orion to descend to the lunar surface.

3:41 p.m.—Orion lands on the moon.

7:19 p.m.—Young and Duke open Orion's hatch to begin a seven-hour exploration of the lunar surface—with the first of three outside ventures to include setting up an automatic scientific station and a two-hour trip in their lunar rover.

7:19 p.m.—Start of a six-hour, 47 minute telecast through use of a camera mounted on the rover but turned off whenever the rover is moving.

FRIDAY

2:18 a.m.—Lunar module hatch is closed to end the first surface exploration.

2:24 a.m.—Sleep period begins in the command module.

9:04 a.m.—Sleep period begins in the lunar module.

10:54 a.m.—Sleep period ends in the command module.

2:04 p.m.—Sleep period ends in the lunar module.

5:44 p.m.—Young and Duke open the lunar module hatch to begin their second exploration of the lunar surface, also scheduled to last seven hours. The lunar rover will be used throughout this period.

8:04 p.m.—TV broadcast of six hours, 35 minutes begins.

Some prime-time segments will be confined to a minute or so and, unlike some earlier flights, no lunar excursion will be carried live from start to finish.

Young and Duke will roam the moon in a multimillion-dollar buggy introduced into the lunar exploration program during Apollo 15.

Viewers on earth will see the spacemen collecting rocks, drilling into the surface, digging trenches and performing a number of research assignments in the Descartes highlands.

As viewed from earth, the site is just southeast of the center of the moon.

Ed Fendell, who directs the lunar telecasts from earth, says the Apollo 16 camera is much improved from earlier missions and will provide increased clarity, better detail and truer color.

The camera, on command from the ground, can be turned on and off, panned around, tilted up and down and zoomed in and out on astronauts and terrain.

A new sunshade was designed to cut down glare, and heat-resistant clutches have replaced a more vulnerable system that did not fully respond on Apollo 15.

House Demos Condemns Renewed U. S. Air Raids

Rep. Dowdy May Lose Privileges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., would have to give up his voting rights in Congress under a recommendation put forth by the House Ethics Committee.

The committee recommended Wednesday that any House member convicted of a crime punishable by two or more years in prison give up his congressional voting rights.

Dowdy was convicted by a Baltimore, Md., federal grand jury of taking a bribe and was sentenced to 18 months in prison and assessed a $25,000 fine.

The Athens congressman could have been assessed a maximum of 40 years and a $40,000 fine.

Dowdy is appealing and told a reporter after the committee's report that he thought Congress should not shatter 200 years of precedents and punish a member before his appeal is final.

The resolution, which did not mention Dowdy by name, was approved 10-1. The committee has been working seven weeks on a request by two California congressmen to consider action against Dowdy.

The ethics committee was created in 1968 after the House refused to seat the late Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. The Dowdy case is the first referred to it.

The resolution said that voting rights of a member would be barred "unless or until judicial or executive proceedings result in reinstatement of the presumption of his innocence or until he is re-elected to the House after the date of such conviction."

However, the resolution carries no enforcing mechanism to make a member, in fact, "refrain" from voting.

The resolution has been referred automatically back to the ethics committee, which must vote it out formally. Then it must go to the Rules Committee for a schedule to be considered by the House itself.

Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., opposed it in committee.

Teague, who testified at Dowdy's trial as a character witness, had sought to block action for the past seven weeks on the grounds that Congress should not punish a member while he is still appealing his innocence.

"The resolution appears to be a satisfactory compromise of the urgent necessity of the House to confront the fact of a convicted felon possessing full rights of membership in the House and the necessity of not prejudging his legal appeal," said Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.

Barnes Stumping In Pampa, Telling Priority Of His Plan

By LARRY HOLLIS

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes has begun the last couple of weeks of campaigning for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with an appeal to workers and supporters to do "the person-to-person work that is necessary."

Barnes spoke to assembled workers and supporters this morning in an appearance at the Coronado Inn.

Accompanied by Dallas Cowboy Bob Lilly, Barnes is touring the West Texas area in an effort to bring his campaign to more people throughout the state.

Currently the leading gubernatorial candidate in most polls, Barnes told the assemblage this morning, "Every poll shows the highest number of undecided voters in the history of any governor's race."

He said part of this results from the confusion that exists among the people due to the recent stock scandals, nepotism charges and accusations by the candidates against each other.

"But I think that works to our advantage," said the lieutenant-governor. "It means the people are still looking for good leadership."

He then urged local workers to go out and attract the undecided voters by personal contact, adding that his campaign has a very broad base of support.

"A water plan for Texas is going to be my number one priority," the 33-year-old candidate said.

As governor Barnes said he would call a general conference to sell a water program to the entire state.

"We can't afford the luxury of continuing any longer without a plan," he said.

He added the program should be administered locally, but a constitutional amendment would be needed to get local bonding control.

Barnes said he would also seek a statewide marketing program to obtain more funding to help farmers and ranchers get better prices.

In another statement, he said, "Everybody's sick and tired of automobile insurance continually raising its prices."

He added he would do something about it if he were governor.

Lilly took out time from signing autographs and talking with fans to say, "Ben has always been the kind of a person that has taken a stand. He can tell the truth to you."

Mentioning that Barnes and he have been friends for a number of years, he added, "Ben is the kind of person I want to be governor."

Barnes has been serving the people of Texas in an elected position since he was 22, eleven years ago.

While serving in the state House of Representatives, he was elected Speaker of the House in 1965 at 26, the youngest man in the state's history to hold that position.

In 1968 he was nominated for lieutenant governor by the highest percentage, 78.6 per cent, ever to cast ballots for a candidate in a Texas primary.

Barnes has served as chairman of the Southern Conference of the Council of State Governments, president of the National Legislative Conference, a member of the Executive Committees of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors and the National Conference of State Legislative Leaders.

Born on April 17, 1938, in Gorman, Tex., Barnes attended Tarleton State University and Texas Christian University before entering the University of Texas. He studied business administration and later attended the UT School of Law.

He was honored by the Texas Jaycees in 1965 as one of the five outstanding young Texans. In January of 1970 he was named one of the 10 outstanding young men in America by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Barnes is married to the former Mrs. Nancy Sayers of Austin.

Pullout Deadline Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democrats today condemned both the renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and Hanoi's invasion of the South and ordered action within 30 days on some deadline for U.S. withdrawal from the war.

The Democratic Caucus first adopted 135-66 a resolution condemning the U.S. Hanoi-Hai-phong bombing as "a dangerous escalation of our role in the Indochina war" and ordering the deadline action by Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Then the caucus added the one-sentence condemnation of North Vietnam's invasion of South Vietnam by an overwhelming 186-16 vote.

The U.S. bombing condemnation was proposed by Democratic Whip Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts and the Hanoi invasion condemnation by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla.

The final vote on the stand to condemn both the U.S. bombing and Hanoi invasion and order what would be the first House-initiated legislation on a war deadline was 144-58.

Before the caucus was a resolution calling for "promptly setting a date to terminate all military involvement in or over Indochina"—and directing the House Foreign Affairs Committee to report out a bill within 30 days for accomplishing that objective.

"The recent bombings of North Vietnam," it said, "represent a dangerous escalation of our role in the Indochina war and a direct contradiction of the administration's stated policy of winding down the war."

"We have a tendency to be so self-critical," he said after briefing House members, "that we fail to notice the enemy is shelling the cities, killing civilians, violating all the agreements they made with us."

And the Senate conducted the year's first full-scale debate on the war, with Democrats condemning the renewed bombing of North Vietnam and Republicans backing it.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., tried to get an immediate vote on a resolution to support the President's bombing decision and condemn Hanoi's invasion but the Democratic leadership blocked it.

Reds Ask Resumption Of Talks

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam delivered formal notes to the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations today calling for a resumption of the Paris peace talks next Thursday.

A U.S. delegation spokesman said the American reply will be made known later.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Monday the United States is not prepared to resume peace negotiations while the Communist offensive continues in South Vietnam.

The Hanoi delegation demanded that the United States "cease immediately the bombardments of North Vietnam and participate again in the Paris conference as usual."

The note charged that the United States has been carrying out an escalated war against North Vietnam while the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations had made repeated demands for the peace talks to resume.

The United States broke off the talks March 23 and said it would return to them when the Communists indicated a willingness to negotiate seriously.

Governor Smith Promises Texans On TV He'll Veto Any New Taxes

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith played his trump card in his fight for re-election Wednesday night, promising Texans he would veto any new taxes passed in the coming special session of the Legislature.

With the May 6 Democratic primary only 17 days away, Smith went on statewide television to make this promise:

"There will be no new taxes signed into law by Preston Smith during the next special session."

An aide said Smith would not include taxation in his call for the special budget session which he is expected to schedule in June. But the state's "pay as you go" constitutional requirement might enable lawmakers to consider taxes anyway if they decide a responsible budget requires spending in excess of currently available revenue sources.

"I will present a budget that will require no new taxes, and I will use every available authority of the governor's office to insure that such a budget is enacted by the Legislature," Smith said in a 30-minute speech telecast over 19 stations serving most major Texas population centers.

He paid for the television time with campaign funds and made a fervent plea for votes.

"If you do not want higher taxes, and if you do not want to give the Legislature a blank check to spend more of your money, then you should vote for Preston Smith," the governor said.

However, if Smith is defeated in the primary, he still will be governor until January 1973. He will be able to submit a budget and veto taxes this summer regardless of the outcome of the primary.

Smith's veto could be overridden by a two-thirds majority of the House and Senate—the same vote legislative leaders usually are able to corral to put tax bills into immediate effect.

The Legislature passed a two-year state budget last year, but Smith vetoed the entire appropriation for fiscal 1973, forcing the special session on spending.

Smith tried to avoid new taxes in the 1971 session by recommending bond issues to pay for added costs of state operations. The proposal was ignored by the Legislature.

Latest estimates of new taxes that would be required if the Legislature chooses to re-enact the 1973 budget vetoed last year by Smith total $150 million.

Smith said in his speech that his opponents in the primary "have no stomach for a tough, belt-tightening approach to state spending."

"They intend to make no real effort to hold down spending or taxes. They unfortunately find it easier to say 'yes' than to say 'no' to the never-ending requests which obligate and overspend the taxpayers' money," he said.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, one of Smith's opponents, said he would "compare my record of acting responsibly with Gov. Smith in any area, particularly expenditures."

"I don't want new taxes any more than Gov. Smith does. I hope we can have no new taxes and act responsibly, but I want to see Gov. Smith's budget first," Barnes said in a telephone interview from Amarillo, where he was campaigning.

Smith told his viewing audience he saved them more than $140 million a year by forcing the legislature to drop plans to pass an increase in the gasoline tax in 1971.

"The gasoline tax increase was nearly as distasteful to me as was the extension of the sales tax to groceries and medicine which Ben Barnes pushed through the Texas Senate, a tax which might have been adopted if it had not been for my opposition and that of the majority of the people in Texas," Smith said.

But Smith told a House-Senate conference committee that proposed the food tax in 1969: "If you pass this bill, I will approve it."

Smith said that once a state budget is passed this summer, he will open the session to a number of other matters, including reducing insurance rates, a food stamp program and a code of ethics for public officials.

Antiwar Protesters Arrested

More than 125 demonstrators were arrested in Fairborn, Ohio, today as they attempted to block two of five gates at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base to protest the resumption of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

In Maryland, Gov. Marvin Mandel said nearly 500 National Guardsmen were called a day early for their regular weekend drill and assembled near the University of Maryland after a third consecutive night of student disorders there.

At a number of the nation's campuses, the renewed bombing has triggered an array of student protests, and some students have called for a strike Friday.

The protest in Ohio delayed many workers at the air base. Traffic was rerouted through the three open gates.

An estimated 500 demonstrators moved to Central Park in Fairborn for a brief rally then marched back to the base.

Gus Mutscher's Lawyer Files Notice Of Appeal

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—A lawyer for former House Speaker Gus Mutscher and two of his lieutenants have filed notices of appeal with the court in which the three were convicted in March. Lawyer Frank Maloney of Austin filed the notices in the court of District Judge J. Neil Daniel Wednesday, the same day Daniel overruled a defense motion for a new trial. Judge Daniel said the motion for a new trial was automatically overruled when defense lawyers failed to submit amended motions in the prescribed time. New trial motions have to be filed with the trial judge before a defendant can appeal to a higher court. Once the transcript to the three-week trial of Mutscher, his aide, Rush McGinty, and Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth is complete and the lawyers' briefs are prepared, the papers will be sent to the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin. If the conviction is upheld there, the defendants then could appeal to a federal circuit court and then to the U.S. Supreme Court. The procedure could take more than a year. Mutscher, McGinty and Shannon were assessed five-year probation sentences after being found guilty of conspiring to accept a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp. The probation periods do not start until the appeal process is finished and the convictions are final. Mutscher and Shannon may continue to hold public office until then.

Thunderstorms Rove Texas; No Serious Damage Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Violent thunderstorms assailed broad reaches of Texas for a second straight night and lingered into today, occasionally mixing in a tornado for good measure. Although there was property damage in some areas, none of the wild weather inflicted injuries and losses were comparatively light. Across the state line in Oklahoma, however, a tornado killed five persons at a farm house near the town of Davis and other twisters damaged several numerous areas. Most of the Texas storms ranged through the central part of the state from Laredo north to the Red River, finally starting to taper off this morning in an area north of Dallas and Fort Worth. A tornado swooped onto a farm near Divide, 20 miles south of Sweetwater, and wrecked a barn. A second twister was spotted on the ground 30 miles southeast of Big Spring but it apparently caused no damage. The vicious weather caused the National Weather Service to post a tornado watch for 36 counties in Northwest and North Central Texas and three counties east of the Pecos River in Southwest Texas, along with a good part of Oklahoma. A cold front which eased into the Texas Panhandle late Wednesday evening triggered the wild weather. It pushed as far south as Childress and Lubbock before daybreak. A twister also was reported south of Wichita Falls near Holiday, but it proved to be nothing more than an oil pit fire. At one point a line of storms boiled from around Wichita Falls southwestward to Del Rio.

GI Asks Appeals Court To Bar Army From Transferring Him To Blockade

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A young soldier has asked an appeals court to bar the Army from transferring him to a stockade pending his trial on charges of insubordination. Pvt. Donald Silverthorne Jr. of Jefferson, Pa., who is seeking a conscientious objector discharge, contends the charges against him were "trumped up" by the Army. Silverthorne, 21, the son of a minister, was among 10 Army privates arrested here at Ft. Sam Houston last Friday for alleged insubordination after officials said they were ordered to go on a work detail. Five of them were shipped more than 100 miles away Saturday to a stockade at Ft. Hood, Tex. The Army won court permission Monday to send three more to Ft. Hood, arguing it had inadequate confinement facilities here. The Army had to seek permission from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to send Silverthorne to Ft. Hood, because he was under the court's jurisdiction while appealing a ruling against his conscientious objector discharge request. In a statement attached to his request for an order allowing him to remain in San Antonio, Silverthorne declared that the charges against him and the other men "are completely fictitious, and our imprisonment is based on fear." "The military wants us to fear them," the statement said. "I personally believe that the military fears us more than we fear them."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is a lot of counting in today's hand. South counts 22 points and opens two no-trump. North counts 14 more and raises to six.

West opens the 10 of clubs. South looks at dummy and counts 11 top tricks. He can score a 12th if either clubs or hearts break 3-3. If neither of those suits behaves nicely South still has a two-way finesse for the queen of diamonds.

All in all it is the sort of glit-edge slam your banker would lend you money on.

A studious South would cash three top cards in every suit but diamonds while watching the fall of cards from the East and West hands. He would note that West showed out after two leads of each major suit and had discarded two diamonds while East would have chucked a spade on the third club lead.

This would tell him that West had been dealt exactly two spades, two hearts, four clubs and five diamonds. The count of the East hand would show that it had been dealt just two diamonds.

Therefore, the odds would be 5-2 that West would hold the diamond queen and a mere counter would finesse against West.

A person who knows how to count to fullest advantage would know that West's last four cards were three diamonds and one club. He would have planned his play to win the ninth trick in his own hand and would simply throw West in with that club. West would be forced to lead a diamond and it would not matter who held the queen.

What do you do now?

A—bid six spades. Your partner is clearly showing one ace and now you want to gamble on a slam. At worst, it should depend on a finesse.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding three no-trump, your partner has continued to four clubs over your three spades. What do you do now?

Report On State Meet Given To DAR Chapter

Las Pampas chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a luncheon meeting recently to hear a report on the state conference by Mrs. W.S. Dixon, regent, and Mrs. J.B. White, vice-regent.

The women reported there were over 500 persons attending the event, held in Houston, including several state regents and Mrs. Donald Spicer, president general of the national organization.

Mrs. Ford Hubbard, Texas regent, led the meeting and was appointed to continue as chairman of the management committee for the Texas Society DAR Museum at the Freeman Plantation, Jefferson, Tex.

"From the beginning, the founders of the National Society DAR epitomized vision—a vision which has been, is being and will be fulfilled," Mrs. Spicer told the delegates during the main address at the banquet that closed the three-day conference. "Vision shown in the objectives chosen—historical preservation, promotion of education and patriotic endeavor—objectives which remain constant."

Mrs. White, introduced M.L. Black, district conservationist, who talked about the services available from the Soil Conservation Service.

He told the women the SCS was established by Congress to plan and carry out a national program to conserve and develop soil and water resources. He explained the SCS works with cities and home owners, as well as the county.

Mrs. John Skelly gave a resume of resolutions adopted at the state conference. She pointed out the resolutions will be considered at the 81st Continental Congress, to be held April 17-21, in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Twila Daugherty, chaplain, used a poem taken from "Songs of Solomon" for the invocation. The pledge of allegiance and the American's creed was led by Mrs. Dixon.

Members present were Mmes. Lois Young, Elbert Walker, J.B. White, W.S. Dixon, John McKerney, Henry Merrick, Twila Daugherty, Siler Hopkins, John Skelly, A.D. Hills and Mellie Bird Richey.

Club Hears About Henry Ford

Twentieth Century Forum Club met recently in the home of Ms. Linda Holt, 2544 Christine, with Ms. Lora Barber, vice president, presiding.

Guest speaker for the afternoon meeting was Cameron Marsh. He was born and reared in Maryland, on the outskirts of Washington

HARKNESS ON TOUR
NEW YORK (AP) — The Harkness Ballet winter tour includes the following cities: Fredericksburg, Va.; Chapel Hill, N.C.; Huntsville, Ala.; Seawannee, Tenn.; Meridian, Miss.; Baton Rouge, La.; Tallahassee, Fla.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; West Palm Beach, Fla.; Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Sarasota, Fla.; Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; Columbus, Miss.; Birmingham, Ala. and Atlanta.

The company will appear at the Opera House in the Kennedy Center in Washington from May 24-28.

according to Ms. Louise Franklin, who introduced him. During World War II, Miss Lois Cambren, a native Pampa, went to the nation's capitol to work as a secretary. She met Mr. Marsh, married him and brought him back to Texas. Mr. Marsh taught American History in Pampa High School and for the past 25 years has been the principal of same.

He spoke on Henry Ford. Marsh told how Ford not only changed the living pattern of the United States, but that of the whole world. Ford started producing one car per day, finally brought that up to two, then three per day, but he could see that this method of production was too slow for the growing demand for his Model T.

One day he hit upon the idea of the assembly line, Marsh related. He installed pulleys and conveyor belts and improved upon this until, in 1927, his new Dearborn, Mich., Riverrough Plant was completing 8,400 Model T's every 24 hours.

Inside every Model T sold was the first owner's manual, he stated, unlike an owner's manual of today. Ford's manual was filled with cartoons, stories and jokes about his "Tin Lizzy," such as the following poem.

"There was an old man
Who had a wooden leg
Didn't have a ride
A ride he couldn't beg
He got 4 spools and an old tin can
He called it a Ford and the darn thing ran."

Ms. Alta Lane was elected delegate to the Texas State Federation convention to be held in Dallas in May.

Ms. Margaret Steele announced that Lovett Memorial Library now has reproductions of famous sculpture that can be checked out for home enjoyment and study.

Members present were Ms. M. McDaniel, Ms. Lora Barber, Ms. Mary Johnson, Ms. Louise Franklin, Ms. Linda Holt, Ms. Margaret Steele, Ms. Nancy Stolfa, Ms. Judy Warner, Ms. Edie Holmgren, Ms. Donna Young, Ms. Rita Weathersbee, Ms. Delores Cross and Ms. Pat Ward.

Lefors HD Club Elects Officers

The Lefors Sewing Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. John L. Lantz for an afternoon of handwork and visitation.

Attending were Mmes. Irene Auldridge, Walter Morris, R. C. Ogden, A. M. Dickerson, B. D. Vaughn and John Lantz.

Next meeting will be April 27, in the home of Mrs. Walter Morris.

Dear Abby

Father and son have some growing up to do

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of six. All healthy and normal, I think. Our eldest son is 16. (I'll call him Bill.) Last summer Bill started putting on an act in public which I have found utterly disgusting. He puts his glasses off askew, shakes, trembles, crosses his eyes, slurs and giggles and pretends that he is retarded. This isn't a once-in-a-while thing; he can't walk a half a block on the sidewalk without going into his act. His father thinks it is hilarious.

I think it is a cheap, sick way of getting attention. Last Saturday at the shopping center, Bill was so "retarded" he could hardly get out of the car, and when he finally got everyone looking at him, he straightened up and acted normal.

If we attempt as a family to watch TV, Bill lies prone on the chesterfield with his eyes crossed, slurping and giggling until it's just a nightmare. Meanwhile his father is holding his sides. I think they are both sicker than they know. Or is something wrong with my sense of humor? Perhaps I should tell you that we have no retardation in the family anywhere. What on earth is the matter with this boy?

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: He obviously doesn't realize that he is ridiculing the handicapped. But what's his father's excuse? I hope they both grow up soon.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly four months. He is a wonderful man, but we have a problem. Our sex life has been nil.

On our honeymoon, all we did was sleep, but I thought we were just exhausted from the wedding.

We have never had sex. I consulted our minister and he said he was "amazed"—but he offered no solution.

My husband is a very shy person. Could this have anything to do with it? I am told I am nice looking. Could it be MY fault? Is this unusual? Can you help me? I would sure appreciate it.

DON'T USE MY NAME

DEAR DON'T: I am amazed that all your minister could do was tell you that he was "amazed." You and your husband should see a doctor. Like IMMEDIATELY.

DEAR ABBY: For some months I have kept the letter in your column signed, "NO NAME, PLEASE" who has been [and probably still is] taking care of an aging parent. She wants to know why nobody offers to stay with the parent so she herself can have a little break in her routine.

Abby, nobody needs to be in such distress. I am a volunteer in a program which helps people in just such circumstances. This woman has only to tell her story to her pastor. He surely knows of organizations and agencies that provide such services.

There is FISH, also VOLUNTEER FRIENDLY VISITORS, and others, listed under "City of," or "County of," or "State of," followed by an appropriate title.

If I knew that that woman was in my neighborhood, I would go at once and offer to stay with her elderly parent so she could get some relief. If we don't hear about these people, their loneliness, and their related problems, we cannot offer to help.

Please tell her, and others that the world has many willing, generous people who will come when they are needed.

FLORENCE IN HADDONFIELD, N. J.

DEAR FLORENCE: Thank you for telling them.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Your Horoscope

By Joane Dixon

FRIDAY, APRIL 21
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: A realistic career effort goes forward in great style for most of the year. It does have rest-phases which give you a chance to regroup. Much of what you had thought hypothetical comes into reality and can be used. Snaring emotional expression becomes easier. Today's natives seek individual paths.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Sound advice is hard to find. It is time for you to assert yourself. Change pace for the evening; don't do anything serious.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Home affairs are of great interest, including financing of current plans. End discussions early, and relax for evening fun.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Express your gentler feelings, try new theories, experiments, but stop when you have a good sample of everything.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: All progress depends on your attitude and efforts; leave nothing to chance. Your clear head turns things well.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Daylight hours are for work and cooperation—you can sell anything today. Later hours are for fun and frivolity.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Privacy is needed for full development of your nature. There is some matter you must work out alone now. Romantic urges are strong and inconvenient.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Whatever you do might bring you into touch with strange people and ideas. Established relations need reassurance and protection.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Details and appearances pay off more than their share. Help comes from sources beyond your normal control. Be generous with loved one.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Look for new connections, fresh ventures, financial support. Information from consultants finds use beyond original plans.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Group enterprises thrive with even casual handling. Finish odds and ends, clear off neglected correspondence.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Live and let live is the word for today. Definite improvement exists where you've given people time and privacy in which to change directions.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Go ahead with yesterday's efforts but give them little more promotion, in full confidence. Romantic impulses may run strong.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Wall Street Not Affected By War, Economic Controls

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Confidence continues to build on Wall Street despite the Vietnam war, economic controls, the still unresolved problem of unconvertible dollars, the huge federal deficit, unemployment and rising interest rates. What ordinarily would be considered bad news for the stock market now tends to be ignored. In other times any one of these factors would be searched out and declared ominous. Not now. The Dow Jones industrial average is nearing 1,000 points, as it has from time to time during the past six years, and this always engenders a great deal of excitement that is quickly translated into commissions.

But more important than any other reason are those corporate profit reports. Many of them are simply dazzling, leading analysts to give forth with even more scintillating forecasts. But between those expectations and the fulfillment stands a brand new institution in the American economy, the F-ice Commission, personified by Chairman C. Jackson Grayson. Seldom is the commission's power over profits noted by stock analysts in assessing the future. Among the analyses may be found the usual: the prospects for more vigorous consumer sales, the technical position of the market which is said to be breaking out of a plateau, the gathering momentum of the economy. And yet none of these has greater potential to change the market than the statement by Grayson that 10 per cent of the nation's biggest companies might have excessive profit margins. Moreover, Grayson has pledged to reduce prices of those companies deemed to be in violation of Phase 2 standards and to assess penalties as well. Rightly or wrongly, the assumption is likely to be made by many people that the profits result solely from higher prices and not from smart management, rising productivity and a more vigorous economic climate. Nevertheless, this is one of those times in the market when news of any sort seems to be sufficient for optimism. There is always the magic of 1,000 points on the Dow industrial average. While this should by any measure be one of the less significant factors in the market, it is seldom treated as such. It is, in the words of The Street, a mythical barrier to be conquered.

Scientist To Study Effect Of Oil On Marine Organisms

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Effects of oil on marine organisms below the death level will be studied by Dr. Jack W. Anderson, Texas A&M University assistant biology professor, under a $91,850 American Petroleum Institute contract awarded through the university's Center for Marine Research. Major research emphasis will be on three problem areas: the effect, if any, on marine organisms of accidental oil spills; the degree of sensitivity of various organisms to the hydrocarbons; and length of time the oil is retained by organisms. Marine animals ranging from phytoplankton to fish that are representative of those found along the Texas coast will be studied to determine effects of types of oil most likely to result from tanker or drilling operation spills, including three crude oils and one fuel oil. "Effects of oil spills on birds and beaches can be seen," Dr. Anderson notes, "but relatively few data are compiled regarding the long-term effects of oil on marine organisms. Although we have some idea of the concentrations of oil required to kill some animals, we are not certain that these levels are present during spills, nor can we cite levels which produce abnormal responses indicative of chronic effects."

Addition of four new nations (Britain, Denmark, Ireland and Norway) to the original six-member Common Market creates a powerful new European economic community. In total production of goods and services, the Gross National Product, the United States still leads and also has a favorable trade balance, its exports to the European 10 exceeding imports from them. But in world trade, the 10 are ahead, accounting for about 40 per cent of the total.

Radio And Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel Merman dashed, slightly breathless, into the lobby of her apartment building, fresh from a rehearsal for the Tony Awards show. She was obviously pleased with everything—including the seven numbers she will perform.

"It's really a great honor," she said, punching the elevator button. "They are going to do a sort of history of my show business career."

Miss Merman, who has lighted the Broadway musical stage for 40 years, will share honors with another veteran, composer Richard Rodgers, in a musical salute Sunday night. The program—including the awards-giving, of course—will be broadcast by ABC starting at 9 p.m. EST. If past Tony awards shows are guides, it will be a star-studded, entertainment-packed two hours, far and away the most interesting awards show occupying network time.

From overnight stardom in the 1930s "Girl Crazy" to "Hello, Dolly!" Miss Merman has never been in a flop—"Well, 'Stars in Your Eyes' lasted only six months," she explains in a voice that suggests she thinks it was a minor disaster.

"Hello, Dolly," actually was written for the great Merman, but she was on the road belting out songs in another show at the time, and not about to be tied into another Broadway run. "Later, though, I went into it and after nine months, closed the show," she said. "It was good—Jerry Herman, who wrote it, had a couple of songs he wanted just for me, so we put them back in the show. But I think that 'Gypsy' was my favorite, all-time show—it had a strong story and a great book and was a great challenge."

Great shows and great stars by Merman standards don't come along often these days. "I was so lucky," she said. "I had the great ones, the composers like Gershwin, Porter and Berlin, in my corner. I just don't think the scores and the books are there today. I can go to a musical and leave the theatre without humming a single tune."

"As for young performers—well, there's Barbra Streisand and that's about it."

Audiences, she thinks have changed but superficially. "When we did a revival of 'Call Me Madam' in 1965 and later of 'Annie Get Your Gun,' I found I had a whole new audience of young people. They loved the shows as much as another generation had."

The Texas Highway Department supplies motorists with free road maps of the state.

Bryan Thurmond, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Paul Thurmond of the Skelly-Schafer Camp was honored April 4, with a birthday party in honor of his third birthday at the Skelly-Schafer Club House. The youngsters enjoyed playing games and after opening of his gifts refreshments of birthday cake and ice cream were served.

4-H Film To Be Shown On TV

"Watts Next," the last film of a 4-H educational television series, "The Magic World of Electricity," will be shown on television station Channel 4 at 12:30 noon Saturday. County Extension Agents say the film shows two 4-H members, "Sam and Betty," and some of their friends exploring some of the newest developments in electricity.

They also visit with Astronaut Walt Cunningham to find out about fuel cells. Developments in electronic cooking are also investigated and "Sam" drives a tractor powered by rechargeable batteries. The film is being made available by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with Southwestern Public Service.

The Coconut Monk Sits Out the War

By TOM TIEDE

CON PHUNG ISLAND, Vietnam — (NEA) — I have just visited a very wise man and he told me something of great importance.

Nothing.

I have been to see the Coconut Monk. The who? The Coconut Monk. He lives on the edge of this island, in the bow of a boat, where he does little else but meditate on war and pray for peace.

He has not spoken a word in two years.

I asked him why.

He wrote the answer on a piece of paper. "Because I have nothing to say." He smiled. Winked. Waved his hand. Point taken.

For years this frail, 60-year-old, Gandhi-like creature risked his freedom and his life arguing with his countrymen about the immorality of armed combat. For his efforts, he was placed in a mental institution once, arrested a half dozen times and jostled about during several demonstrations in Saigon.

Born Nguyen Thanh Nam and nicknamed for his near addiction to the monkey fruit, the Coconut Monk is a unicorn of his race. He can't exist. It does not seem possible that after the war with the Japanese, the war with the French and now the war with brothers and sisters, anyone is still around here who has stuck his finger into so many gun muzzles, over so many years, without being blasted to hell.

Yet here he is. Bent with arthritis, wasted down to about 50 pounds from dietary restrictions (he eats once every 48 hours), and still thumbing his nose at the martial laws of the land. Some people think he's a ding-dong, others choose to ignore him. But several governments here have feared his contact with the people, and the current administration has gone so far as to place the man under what amounts to house arrest. Associates say the Coconut Monk is continually watched by police. "He is never allowed to leave this island."

Actually, the police have little worry. Nobody in his right mind would want to leave this island. Con Phung has been set aside by all war factions as a kind of Angkor Wat of Vietnam. It is a rose on the dungpile. Quiet, friendly, naive. Many of the 1,000 natives live in an ingenious village built entirely on stilts. The men are honest, the women still modest. Loyal Vietnamese soldiers come here for rest and relaxation. (So, it's rumored, do loyal Viet Cong.) According to old timers, there have never been shots fired here in anger.

The Coconut Monk lives in the most delicious segment of the island. Surrounded by an open air monastery that has become a tourist attraction. Called the Vegetarian Hamlet by outsiders, the monastery is a striking creation of terrazo walkways, rock sculptures and potted vegetation. Aesthetically, it is a trifle gaudy, but, for Vietnam, nice. No dirt. No scum. Nary a peddler selling heroin. It is built above the water on concrete posts and may indeed be the only place in this land where kids don't foul the floors.

The Nile stretches 4,145 miles from its most distant source, the tip of the Lukarara River in Rwanda.

Leonardo Da Vinci so accurately observed and drew plants that his insights — the sun-seeking twists of flowers, the thrust of roots, the growth of bark — endure in botany today.

Connally May Speak For Brother

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
John B. Connally dropped a hint the other day that may be the key to his political future.

"I may well be back in Texas before the primary," the secretary of treasury told newsmen in San Angelo, at the same time smiling broadly with political coyness. "I may have something to say at that time...I think the atmosphere in Texas is bad...I don't know if I can do anything about it but if I can I will."

The only elaboration he added was that he definitely would speak out for his brother, Sen. Wayne Connally, who is in a hotly contested Democratic race for lieutenant governor.

And those at the press conference got the strong indication he planned to help Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, his political protege, in the governor's race.

"If he gets mixed up in the primary campaign, you can bet your boots he will be mixed up in the Democratic national convention maneuvering also," said one of Connally's former aides.

Connally's political future has been a favorite topic of conversation in Texas since he became President Nixon's secretary of treasury.

Texas Republicans and a lot of Connally's many political enemies like to argue that he has abandoned the Democrats, maybe even considered at least briefly for Nixon's running mate this year. Nixon's recent statement about keeping Vice President Spiro Agnew on the ticket did not stop all the speculation.

Most of Connally's long time associates think he is merely on loan to the Republican Administration. They think that, sooner or later, Connally will be back as a power in the state and national Democratic party. Connally people point out that Connally quit as secretary of navy under President John F. Kennedy because he thought he was needed back in Texas politics. They think he is just as likely to resign as secretary of treasury and return to Texas at the opportune time.

There is too little competent political leadership in both the nation and state and Texas needs "able, strong leaderships... particularly in this turbulent year," Connally said at San Angelo.

Red China Shows Signs Of Domestic Changes

TOKYO (AP) — Signs of Chinese relaxation at home and abroad continue to multiply a year after Ping Pong diplomacy dramatically improved relations between the United States and Mainland China.

The indicators of change are, in some cases, not much bigger than a table tennis bat. But taken together they add up to a mood the Chinese have not known for years.

Within China, officials have encouraged women to abandon their drab unisex look in favor of brighter and more cheerful clothes. They also have announced the start of a new effort to Romanize the Chinese written language. Once accomplished this would partly remove the barrier to China's communication with the rest of the world.

Recently, Chinese television viewers and moviegoers have been treated to livelier fare than the usual propaganda. There have been few American documentaries and movies so far, but the idea that they would be shown at all was unthinkable 13 months ago.

At the same time, Americans have had a chance to see the full-length color film of "The Red Regiment of Women," the Connally is expected to keep a close watch on the national Democratic convention at Miami Beach for another reason—any sign that Sen. Ted Kennedy might become a presidential possibility either this year or in 1976.

If President Nixon wins another term, as some polls indicate now, there will be a demand for new Democratic presidential possibilities in 1976. Connally and Sen. Kennedy undoubtedly will be on the list.

ballet witnessed by President and Mrs. Nixon during their February visit to Peking.

The new Chinese-American relationship which emerged from Nixon's week-long visit to China appears to be surviving the American air and naval escalation of the war in Vietnam. Although the Chinese predictably have condemned it, they have not halted the cultural and other exchanges begun in April 1971 with the arrival of the U.S. table tennis team and three American correspondents.

Now China's championship Ping Pong team is touring the United States. The Chinese players have been received by Americans with a warmth rivaling the reception given the American team in China.

The Chinese have entered energetically into operations of the United Nations. They are represented at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development and they have expressed approval of U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Nearer a trickle than a flood, Americans of many political hues journey to Peking. They range from Black Panthers to the majority and minority leaders of the U.S. Senate.

San Francisco Has 'Liberal' Sheriff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The city that brought you the flower children now brings you its new sheriff who: 1. Sports a peace symbol on his gold badge. 2. Offers to rent "rooms" at the county jail at $10 a night so the public can see what it's like to be behind bars. 3. Sponsors rock concerts to raise money for jail inmates, and dances on the stage himself. 4. Makes a surprise midnight visit to the jail, declares it "disgusting as hell," and launches reforms. "Support Your Local Sheriff" took a new twist when former San Francisco policeman Richard D. Hongisto, 35, took office four months ago after defeating a 60-year-old incumbent who had held the job for 15 years. Hongisto quit the police force in 1970 after 10 years to work as a television reporter. He says he decided while lying in bed one Sunday morning last July that he could be sheriff. With the support of young people, liberals, minorities and the city's politically organized homosexuals, Hongisto won over three contenders who split the law-and-order vote. He received 36 percent of the vote. Like his badge, his campaign posters featured the peace symbol, and he described his opponents as "hawks who were trying to solve social problems in the United States with more money, more weapons and more men. It hasn't worked in Vietnam and it won't work here." On March 26, the sheriff raised $14,000 for jail inmates by throwing a rock concert. Hongisto danced on the stage in a pinstriped business suit, two some performances with various women partners, until 2 a.m. Proceeds from these "jail-house rocks" as he calls them are earmarked to buy TV sets and other recreational equipment for the jails. Hongisto says he donates a third of his $36,337 annual salary to a youth group, as well as $150 a month to rent a storefront in the Haight-Ashbury district, once the heart of the hippie culture. Here he plans to sell art objects made by jail inmates who will get the money when they are released. "I'm a liberal, maybe even a radical," the sheriff said in an interview during a typical 14-hour work day. He was dressed in a grey flannel suit and vest that made him look more like a banker than a sheriff. "No doubt conservative people see things differently than I do. But the fact is we're getting many things accomplished, and that's the point," Hongisto said. All crime fighting in San Francisco is done by the city police department. The 330-man sheriff's office runs the jails, provides court bailiffs and serves legal papers. The new sheriff's major efforts to date have been for the 1,200 inmates in the country's two jails. Hongisto has begun a new drug counseling program, instituted employment and psychiatric counseling for all inmates and a venereal disease treatment program for the women. He has eliminated censorship of prisoners' mail and ordered deputies to ignore hair length when choosing trustees. His own dark hair is cut medium-length. Hongisto has doubled medical care, increased jail classroom hours from two to 60 a week, and says, "we're grinding away at a dental program." The sheriff surprised his deputies Jan. 17 with an unannounced midnight inspection of the women's jail. Because he took a reporter, San Franciscans found out that overcrowding was forcing women to sleep on the floors of cells without toilet facilities. The sheriff also invited reporters along when he ate Easter Sunday dinner in a cell with inmates. An anonymous donor's $3,500 provided steaks in place of the usual Sunday fare of fishsticks or hotdogs. Hongisto says his aim was to publicize his contention that prisoners cannot be fed on the present daily allowance of 60 cents per inmate. With public support, he hopes city officials will approve his request for a budget with $1.3 million more than last year and a daily food allowance of $1.00. But he says his aims are deadly serious: publicizing the need to reform jails and the criminal justice system. Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and other politicians have been cautious not to rain on the sheriff's parade. "The sheriff is dedicated to more efficient management of our jails," says Alioto. "We intend to give him every assistance...and the people must not be afraid to experiment." A candidate for a Ph.D. in criminology from the University of California, Hongisto proudly points out that all his newly appointed aides have degrees, including the city's first black undersheriff. Separated five months from his law student wife, Hongisto lives alone in a cluttered two-story walk-up.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, April 26, the 111th day of 1972. There are 255 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, American forces began the siege of Boston in the American Revolution. On this date: In 1657, Jews in New Amsterdam were granted equal rights and privileges of citizens. In 1662, Connecticut was granted a royal charter extending to the Pacific Ocean. In 1676, Bacon's Rebellion broke out in Virginia. In 1836, the U.S. Congress established the Territory of Wisconsin. In 1889, Adolf Hitler was born in Austria. In 1945, in World War II, the U.S. Seventh Army captured Nuernberg, Germany. Ten years ago: Segregationists in New Orleans offered to furnish free one-way tickets for blacks wanting to go to Northern cities.

People In The News

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took a two-hour solitary sunset cruise on the Potomac aboard the yacht Sequoia. The White House announced the President's outing Tuesday nearly half an hour after he had departed from an undisclosed dock. A spokesman said Nixon was alone except for the "normal support staff" such as Secret Service agents and, presumably, a physician. SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's heart condition has not been compounded by a brief burst of rapid heart beats, according to a specialist. Dr. J. Willis Hurst, Johnson's personal heart specialist, said Tuesday that the former president "feels quite good" and was "up and around." Recuperating from a major heart attack suffered nearly two weeks ago, Johnson had a brief heart rhythm problem Monday, but it quickly subsided. Johnson is confined to the Army's Brooke General Hospital. LONDON (AP) — Laurence Olivier will be replaced as director of Britain's National Theatre when the company moves to its new site in 1974. The board of directors said Tuesday that Peter Hall, former managing director of the Royal Shakespeare Company, will join National Theatre next year with the title of director-designate. The board recommended that Lord Olivier be named honorary life president of the National Theatre. The board said it expected Olivier to continue acting with the company after his retirement as director. First Suez Canal The first Suez Canal was dug almost 4,000 years ago from the Nile Delta to a point on the Red Sea near the present port of Suez. It was abandoned and restored periodically until the 8th century, when it fell into final disuse.

HERE COMES THE 'BIG TIME'—Mike Edgar is shown signing a pre-enrollment application to Wichita State University as his proud father, Jerry Edgar and his basketball mentor Robert McPherson look on. The pre-enrollment form will slate Edgar on the Wichita State basketball squad for next fall.

Mike Edgar Signs With Wichita State U.

Mike Edgar is the first Harvester eager to make definite plans to continue playing basketball during his college years.

Mike has chosen to play with Harvester basketball coach Robert McPherson calls "One of the toughest conferences in the nation" the Missouri Valley. He will be playing at Wichita State University.

Mike is flying into college next fall after signing a pre-enrollment application last evening with Wichita State coach Harry Miller looking on.

Mike enters college play, leaving an extraordinary high school record behind. Mike is a member of the National Honor Society and was instrumental in the Harvester's season record of 24-7. He was a three year starter and three year letterman for the Hustling Harvesters.

Mike was a first team all-district player as a junior. He was voted unanimous all-district as a senior as well as being named player of the year for 1972.

He earned the Player of the Year honor by being leading scorer for the Harvesters during his junior and senior years and leading rebounder in district 3-AAAA during the 1972 season.

As a senior, Mike scored 524 points for a 17.5 average for 30 games, missing one game due to illness.

He earned the Harvester Rebound Award after pulling down 371 rebounds.

In addition to his scoring and rebounding, Mike led his team in assists, averaging 3.8 per game.

Mike decided on Wichita State after answering 15-20 letters from various other schools.

At WSU, Mike will begin his career on the freshman team with a good chance of seeing some varsity play.

On the freshman team he is eligible to fill the entire freshman schedule plus what play he may see on the varsity court.

If the coaches feel he has talent enough, he can play on the varsity squad permanently. The team he will join finished their season with a record of 16 wins and 10 losses.

Edgar commented, "I have really enjoyed playing under coach McPherson and with the guys on the team."

When asked why he chose Wichita State, he stated, "After visiting the campus and watching the team play, I knew that WSU was the place I wanted to compete." He went on to add, "I haven't determined what my major will be—right now I really don't know."

When asked his role in Mike's receiving the invitation from WSU, Robert McPherson commented, "I really didn't play much of a role in helping him make his decision. I wanted it to be his choice. That way he would be happier at his chosen school." He went on to add, "I sent them films of Mike when I discovered they were interested, and invited them to watch some of his workouts. The rest was up to coach Harry Miller and Mike."

McPherson described Edgar as "A fundamentally complete ball player. His stats show that, but what they don't show is his attentiveness and timing along with a good attitude."

It should be an honor for someone from the Missouri Valley Conference to be interested in him (there were more inquiries from the same conference). According to WSU coach Harry Miller there are about five Texas boys playing in the conference at present.

"We are extremely pleased that Mike has chosen to further against us, for sure."

The Celtics had a 55-47 lead at halftime but the Knicks rallied behind Bill Bradley's 14 points in the third quarter.

Six Lefors girls qualified for the regional meet at Leveillard April 29. They were Vicky Cotham, Sharon Sissel, Connie Euday, Lou Ann Sims, Doris Carlton and Mary Jane Adams.

Vicky Cotham won two events: the discus throw with 110'-5" and the long jump with 16'-1 1/2".

The Lefors mile relay team won first with 4 min. 29.8 sec. It was composed of Sharon Sissel, Connie Euday, Lou Ann Sims and Doris Carlton.

Mary Jane Adams took second place in the 80-yard hurdles with a time of 13 seconds flat.

Connie Euday qualified in two other events. She tied for first in the high jump and placed in the 220.

Sharon Sissel won second place in the 100 yard dash. Sherry Haynes, McLean, won first in this event.

John Havlicek had 26 but it was Cowens who made the difference for the Celtics.

Cowens got 16 rebounds and scored 23 points, including some timely baskets down the stretch when the Knicks had pulled into the lead.

"Cowens stood out," said Red Holzman, Knicks' coach. "He played very well, his best game

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Billy Martin has stopped fighting with his players. He's now fighting with the fans.

The quick-fisted Detroit Tiger manager, who made headlines three seasons ago by knocking out pitcher Dave Boswell, mixed it up with a man on the street Wednesday night.

The fight, which ended in "no decision," came after the Tigers had been decked by the Baltimore Orioles, 5-2.

"I wasn't mad about losing or mad about anything," explained Martin, whose playing and managing days have been studied with battles.

"But this guy was blocking my way to the team bus. He was swearing and I told him to get away. I pushed him. He called me a name, dove at me and knocked me against the bus."

With several Detroit players and a group of newsmen watching, the antagonists thudded to the hard ground with Martin's fists swirling. The brawl lasted about a minute before members of the Detroit group pried the two apart.

The fan identified himself as Jack Sears, 25, and said he has been a red-hot Detroit rooter from Pontiac, Mich., who has been living in Baltimore for 15 years.

"All I said was, 'You guys better win tomorrow night,'" said Sears. "He hit me first and I grabbed his legs when we went down because I'm not a fighter."

Martin and the Tigers weren't the only ones in action Wednesday night. Six other American League games were played as the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 2-1; the New York Yankees trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2; the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1; the Minnesota Twins crushed the California Angels 12-3 and the Oakland A's took a pair from the Kansas City Royals, 4-0 and 3-1.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Revenge is sweet, but winning is the name of the game.

The source for that statement is left-hander Steve Carlton, who fired a three-hitter at his former St. Louis teammate Wednesday night, pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 1-0 squeaker over Bob Gibson, the Cardinals' ace.

"The incentive is to win," Carlton said after facing his former teammates for the first time. "That's my incentive, not beating any particular team. Sure, it's nice to come back and beat the team that traded you and beat a pitcher like Gibby. But it's just as nice beating any team."

Although Carlton played down the revenge angle, fellow pitcher Joe Hoerner let everyone in on Carlton's true feelings. "That," he said, flashing a sly grin, "is the last team in the world Steve would like to shut out." If you say so, Joe.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh rallied to beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2, San Diego edged San Francisco 4-3, Los Angeles trimmed Atlanta 4-0 and Houston downed Cincinnati 7-5. The New York Mets were rained out in Montreal.

Farm League Needs Players

The Pampa Optimist Babe Ruth League is organizing a farm league for boys who did not make the try-outs held earlier this month and are therefore ineligible to play in the regular league.

Boys who did attend the try-out sessions but were not assigned to a team are also eligible for play on the farm teams.

Twenty-four boys have already evidenced interest in playing in the league. The schedule for the program is not complete as yet but it appears that two 4:00 games will be played each week.

All boys aged 13-15 who are not eligible for the Babe Ruth League but who want to play baseball this season can call Stan Kretzmeir, president of the farm league, at 609-3789.

Three coaches who have had experience working with boys and who have a good knowledge of baseball are also needed. They can contact Kretzmeir at the above number.

Crosley Field Coming Down

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chummy little Crosley Field, where power hitters once chortled in glee and waiters hawked beers 12 for a dollar, fell victim today to the wheels of progress. It's being demolished for urban renewal.

A 7,000-pound wrecking ball, decked out as a giant baseball and swung by a crane, slammed into the historic park, for 58 years home of the National League's Cincinnati Reds baseball team.

In 120 days, the stadium, abandoned by the Reds in favor of plush Riverfront Stadium two summers ago, will be leveled.

"I hate to see it go," said Ed Baer, an official of King Wrecking Company, Inc., that is demolishing the park which seated about 30,000. "I spent a lot of time there."

Baer was a youngster the day he stood outside the park and watched as a cab pulled up. "This great big giant of a man got out," Baer recalled, "and it was Babe Ruth."

"I just stood there with my mouth open. I was 10 years old."

Ruth, then of the Boston Braves, was one of many ball players who left his mark on the stadium—known as a hitters park because of its left field wall, only 328 feet from home plate, and straight-away center wall, 383 feet away.

On May 28, 1935, Ruth fell on an embankment in left field as he chased a fly ball. He got up and walked off the field. Another time, in an exhibition game at Crosley Field, Ruth walloped home runs measuring 426 and 400 feet.

Legendary country boy Dizzy Dean of St. Louis won an 18-inning duel with Tony Freitas of Cincinnati 8-6 in 1934. Both pitchers went the distance.

In May, 1935, the major leagues' first night game was played at Crosley, with President Franklin D. Roosevelt pushing a button at the White House to turn on the lights.

Dave Cowens had that hungry look. He gobbled up rebounds. He gobbled up loose balls. He gobbled up points. Most important, he helped gobble up the New York Knicks.

The Boston Celtics' center did everything in his team's important 115-109 victory over the Knicks in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference finals Wednesday night. The Celtics, down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, needed the victory and Cowens provided the spark.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana defeated Utah 116-111 in the Western Division final playoff series. Utah leads the series, 2-1.

New York entertains Boston Friday night, and Milwaukee is home against Los Angeles Saturday afternoon in the NBA's Western Conference series, which the Lakers led 3-2.

Utah is at Indiana on Saturday night, while Virginia plays the New York Nets at Uniondale, N.Y., on Monday night in game three of their ABA Eastern Division series. The Squires lead 2-0.

Jo Jo White scored 29 points and John Havlicek had 26 but it was Cowens who made the difference for the Celtics.

Artis Gilmore ABA Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Artis Gilmore, Kentucky Colonels' center who led the American Basketball Association in rebounding, was named the league's rookie of the year Wednesday. He already earned the league's most valuable player award.

The 7-foot-2 Gilmore, who signed for a reported $2.4 million after earning All-American honors at Jacksonville, drew 38 votes as the league's top rookie from sports writers and sportscasters in the ABA's 11 cities. Julius Erving of the Virginia Squires finished second with 21 votes.

George McGinnis of the Indiana Pacers received the only other vote.

Gilmore, who previously was named all-ABA center, also was named center on the all-rookie team. He averaged 23 points a game. Making up the remainder of the rookie team announced Wednesday were Erving and McGinnis at forwards and guards John Roche of the New York Nets and Johnny Neumann of the Memphis Pros.

The University of Northern Colorado is located in Greeley.

Wicks Named NBA Rookie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What Sidney wants, Sidney gets—at most.

A goal of Sidney Wicks' first professional season was to be the No. 1 rookie in the National Basketball Association.

"I'm gratified," the 6-foot-9 forward for the Portland Trail Blazers said Wednesday, "to hear I've been named Rookie of the Year" in the NBA for the 1971-72 season.

It removed some of the frustration from a losing season with the Trail Blazers. Wicks, who had helped UCLA win three national collegiate championships, said "I like winning."

Wicks scored 2,009 points and made the Western Conference All-Star team. What next?

"Probably, to become All-Pro. I figure you might as well set your sights high. I just want to do better than last year. I'd like to improve in each of my statistical categories."

And he stressed probably the most difficult of his goals: "Winning twice as many games as this year."

SHAVING STROKES

12—Gaining Momentum

Deane Beman, a little fellow with a tremendous golf game, shot 65 twice during the Bob Hope Desert Classic. After one of those torrid rounds he said something I thought was very nearly profound.

"To score well," said Deane, "you don't play safe when you get it going. You don't try to protect a good score, you keep trying to improve on it."

Most of us, when we string together three or four above-average holes, tend to think too much and get overcautious. Invariably this attitude ruins a potentially fine round, whether you're a pro or a 24-handicapper.

If you're hot, remember that you didn't get that way playing super-cautiously. Keep swinging as freely and confidently as you have been.

Above all, don't look at the scorecard and start figuring what you have to do on the remaining holes to break 90, or whatever score within range would delight you. That always is fatal.

When you have it going, keep it going.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Tax Revolt Warning

Even the people who consider themselves liberals while promoting more and bigger government intervention are now talking about the possibility of a tax revolt.

News readers have been told about the pioneers in the field for years—such individuals as Austin Flett, of Chicago who has refused for many years to complete a tax return until all are treated equally, and many others. But now the libs in and out of Congress are talking about the inequities of the tax laws and are expressing fears that there will come a revolt of fed-up taxpayers.

Richard L. Strout of the the Christian Science Monitor recently discussed the problem in a Washington dailied story: "Officials here worry about how long Americans will carry through their unique voluntary self-assessment system of tax collection. Will suspicion of loopholes erode it, or produce a tax revolt?"

Mr. Strout says Johnnie M. Walters, commissioner of internal revenue, calls the system "the marvel of the world. We collect more money at lower rates than any other country." We presume that is why the Internal Revenue Service constantly is asking for more enforcement officers, to bring in more stragglers who do not consider taxation as anything like voluntary.

Another liberal publication, the Sacramento Calif. Bee just this past week carried an editorial to the effect that "loopholes are fueling a tax payers' rebellion." The Bee, which seems to believe it is a mark of distinction to get some of that "free" tax money from Washington, follows the line of the lib congressmen who want to "plug the loopholes" so they get some extra money from wealthy tax payers to provide more subsidies for the poor.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin is quoted as saying Treasury Department figures for 1970 show that 18,646 Americans who earned at least $100,000 paid an average of less than 7 per cent in federal taxes. "There were 394 with 1970 incomes over $100,000 who paid nothing at all," adds the Bee.

"This is because of the myriad of tax shelters and loopholes from capital gains, oil depletion allowances, stock options and the like," the Bee tells us.

In fact, the libs, like Reuss, Sens, Muskie, McGovern and Jackson are sounding more and more like Populist George Wallace who thinks the government should sock the rich and subsidize the poor. And they are echoed by the pseudo liberals in the press, from Austin to Washington, New York and Boston.

Not one of them is willing to face up to the fact that the tax laws were "drawn up by the liberals" in Congress, along with the multiple loopholes. Not one of them will recognize that the heavy tax on businesses and wealthy persons too frequently is passed on to the poor people in higher prices. Not one of them will admit that there is only one way to close the loopholes—that is to eliminate all exemptions, and then tax everybody at the same rate.

National Review a couple of years ago came up with the only sensible suggestion in recent years. It suggested that personal exemptions for every individual be doubled, and all other exemptions be ended entirely. It was estimated that a flat 20 per cent rate on all personal income over the personal exemptions would raise far more money than is now sought by government, enough to make substantial payments on the national debt. But such a sensible idea would eliminate many of the jobs of bureaucrats and tax specialists, and that apparently wouldn't do. It also would wipe out the false idea that the politicians are helping the poor by taxing the rich.

But the politicians need to be warned that they'd better do something different or they'll have a real tax revolt, and Mr. Walters' "marvel of the world" will be no more.

Question Box

Question: Businesses and wealthy people all seem to be able to find tax shelters and write-offs to avoid paying taxes or cut down the amount they pay; but the little guy and the middle income groups have no such recourse. How can these inequities be corrected so that we have a fair system of taxation?

Answer: It is true that some wealthy people have been able to reduce taxation on large portions of their income by forming foundations or arranging to derive their income from tax free sources such as municipal bonds or by investing in enterprises where there are expenses that increase their deductions. Individuals in the lower income brackets, however, could do some of these same things if they would bother to acquire the knowledge and make the slight extra effort to do so. A small, part-time business would allow the individual to offset many legitimate business deductions against his total tax.

There is no such thing as a fair tax, as we have repeatedly pointed out to our readers. All taxes amount to theft, and when you ask for a fair tax you are merely asking for a more equal distribution of the theft. Any means any individual can take to reduce the amount of theft he suffers is only proper. And where the tax laws allow a means of reducing one's taxes there is nothing to stop the taxpayer with a lower income from using those same means for the same purpose. He need only make the effort.

But what really hurts the "little guy" are the well hidden high taxes on all businesses and in particular on corporations.

If the individual would add up all the things he buys to satisfy his needs and desires which come to him from corporations, he'd begin to understand how taxes against corporations hurt him. When a corporation must pay a tax of nearly one-half its net income, that can only mean that the corporation must charge higher prices for everything it makes. Unlike the federal state, the corporation cannot print its own money to pay its bills. It must earn its money by producing something of value and selling to people who want what it produces.

And, of course, the federal tax is only one tax the corporation must pay. Generally it will also pay state taxes in each and every state in which it conducts business. It pays property tax everywhere it owns an office or plant or warehouse. In many states and counties it pay a business property tax on its inventory. It pays licenses and fees and social security and unemployment taxes. The money to pay these taxes must come from somewhere since the corporation has no money-tree or printing press. There is only one place the corporation gets money to pay these taxes and that is out of the selling price of its product.

This is a presidential election year and all the contenders are making great noises about tax reform. One of them, for instance, recently said: "We must demand an end to tax breaks for special privilege...we must demand tax cuts for consumers instead of corporation."

What typical thimble-brained politician talk! If he really understood the facts of life and if he were sincere about helping consumers, he'd be campaigning for lower taxes on corporations and other businesses so that the prices consumers must pay for the things they need could be lowered. We don't expect to hear any such common sense from any politician this election year or any year.

Those Primaries Do Make A Difference

By PAUL HARVEY
Political primaries do make a difference. In the most recent Gallup Poll, Humphrey moved ahead of Muskie nationwide.

If nothing else, primaries reveal whether a man is emotionally suited for the top job.

In the days when American politics was more dignified, more restrained, public political meetings were unlikely to embarrass anybody.

Four years ago, you and I were aghast at the systematic fleckling which British politicians tolerated, even encouraged. Such was unheard of here.

I traveled with Sir Winston Churchill during one of his last re-election campaigns and was properly awed by his semantical swordsmanship.

In recent elections American audiences have presented a clumsy imitation of that system, more rude, more ruthless.

Now we see some audiences of college-agers turn their backs on a speaker or shout him or throw things.

This unfortunate evolution in reverse has only one conceivable fringe benefit: It does demonstrate which suitor possesses the greatest degree of emotional stability and self-discipline.

It is by this measure that Sen Muskie appears wanting. He stumbled in New Hampshire and fell flat in Florida and each time has been tripped by his own emotions.

Four years ago Muskie looked and sounded so good as a vice-presidential candidate that many pundits deduced that the Humphrey-Muskie ticket, reversed, would have won.

Yet here we have the newest Gallup Poll indicating that nationwide Humphrey leads Muskie again.

In show business—in "other facets" of show business—they'd say Muskie is a good "second banana" but not sufficiently strong for a leading role.

A New Hampshire challenge had Muskie in tears; the Florida defeat had him angrily blaming the "demagoguery" of Wallace—though Muskie, in Florida, was also beaten by several other fellows.

Subjected to the vilification that tough George Wallace has endured, most candidates would collapse.

Humphrey is quick to anger but quick to cool. Primaries serve other purposes, also.

In the crucible of primary campaigning, the Vortys and the Lindsays and the Jacksons discover that they lack a national dimension.

But the new "audience involvement" in campaigning, while unbecoming and retrogressive, is beneficially revealing of a candidate's volatility.

Could a Muskie recover his composure? Richard Nixon did.

If there is a conspicuous difference between the old Nixon and the new one, it involves temperament.

It's a far different Nixon who bit his lip despite disappointment and fatigue in Peking from the Nixon who petulantly protested to the press, "You won't have Nixon to kick around any more."

Your Health

Kidney Problem Often Misled

Dear Dr. Lamb—Please give me as much information as possible about polycystic kidney disease. Is there a diet that might possibly arrest the progress of the disease? Since high blood pressure and slight anemia have accompanied, or even been occasioned by, polycystic disease, is it alarming to have the pressure high and then down to 190, perhaps within minutes?

At what point in the progress of the disease must a transplant be advised? Can the disease be fatal in the age years around 57 and 60? My physician assumes that I have all these answers, but I don't have, so please help me out.

Dear Reader—Polycystic kidney disease originates with birth. Sometimes it is first noted in children. In other cases, it is first noted in adult life, as late as 50 years of age. Sometimes it is not diagnosed until, after death or is found accidentally on X ray examinations.

The disease is a progressive dilation of the little tubules in the kidney that collect urine and drain to the outlet of the kidney to the urinary system. Because these tubules become partially blocked and the kidney keeps on forming urine, the blocked tubules become cysts. Thus, the kidneys enlarge and become large, cystic masses. Sometimes painless bleeding occurs.

Because of the kidney involvement, high blood pressure may also develop. Blood pressure can fluctuate a great deal, so many readings are necessary to determine if high blood pressure is present or not.

It is impossible to say how rapidly the problem will progress in any individual. Some people live with this problem for years without difficulties. Others have a more rapid deterioration of kidney function.

Medicines are used to help control the blood pressure and prevent complications, but, as kidney failure develops, the use of an artificial kidney, at least intermittently, is sometimes needed and eventually, if kidney function gets bad enough, a kidney transplant should be considered.

If the kidneys are able to clear the waste products from the body's metabolism and function reasonably well, then, of course, it is usually premature to use either the artificial kidney or transplant.

The availability of these forms of treatment is an example of some of the progress that has been made in medicine. It has only been a few short years ago that neither the artificial kidney nor kidney transplants could be considered and, when the kidneys of an individual with this problem deteriorated to the point where they could no longer function, there really wasn't anything that could be offered. Now, in many instances, there is

Branding the Youth Vote On the Democratic Range

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It is still some three months before the Democratic National Convention, but already a well-heeled operation is quietly underway to control and manipulate the several hundred "new voter" youth delegates to Miami Beach.

Masterminding this ambitious backstage scheme is a wealthy middle-aged New Left politico, and a not-so-young multi-millionaire who is largely bank rolling it. They are:

(1) Former Rep. Allard Lowenstein, N.Y., now head of the New Left-dominated Americans for Democratic Action, and a militant leader of the 1968 "Dump Johnson" movement and a would-be similar "Dump Nixon" hoopla which fell flat on its face. While making gestures of again trying for Congress, Lowenstein is busily organizing and maneuvering to be the youth boss at the Democratic convention—and thus presumably play a king-maker role in that likely "deeply fragmented and acrimonious affair."

(2) Stewart Rawlings Mott, 34-year-old bachelor heir of an $800 million General Motors fortune, with a strong yen for financing ultra-liberal movements—and politicians—among them ex-Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Mayor John Lindsay, latest unlamented casualty in the sprawling Democratic Presidential melee, and something called the "Peoples Politics Committee" which Mott proclaimed last winter and into which he reputedly put $100,000, but about which nothing has been heard since.

Now the inside word is that he is bank rolling to the handsome tune of $100,000 Lowenstein's grandiose plan to make himself the king bee of the Miami Beach youth delegates.

The organizational front concocted to spearhead this operation is sonorously titled "The National Youth Caucus." Its officers consist of a pair of "co-chairmen"—both hand-picked by Lowenstein and both long-time henchmen of his. They are Clinton Devaux, black recent graduate of New York City College, and Laurie Beers, from upstate New York.

Outwardly, neither Lowenstein nor Mott has any connection with the National Youth Caucus. But, actually, they are it—particularly Lowenstein.

Pulling the wires and calling the shots from behind the scenes, the bustling wheeler dealing New Leftist is the whole works of NYC. He gives the cues and signals to Devaux and Beers and they enact their parts and say their prescribed peices.

Mott provides money to pay bills—although he is not the sole contributor. Other wealthy leftists also are forking over. There is no dearth of funds.

How It Started
The National Youth Caucus is the product of what was in effect a rump session of a so-called "Emergency Conference of New Voters" conjured up by Lowenstein after 18-year-olds were given the vote.

Staged in Chicago in conjunction with the Association of Student Governments for the avowed purpose of stressing on youth leaders the importance of political action, the meeting was attended by several thousand of them from all parts of the country. But it soon became quite evident that instead of being wide open and above board, the conclave actually was tightly ruled and rigged by Lowenstein and a small clique of like-minded henchmen.

Graphically illustrative of their iron-handed control was the refusal to recognize anyone from the floor, a ban on amendments from the floor and other autocratic restrictions. When a "general debate of issues" was finally announced, it was set for 11 p.m. after a long program of five guest speakers and three entertainers.

Upshot of this high-handed domination was a rebellious walk-out by most of the black participants, and another walk-out by the Chicanos, followed by the adroit capture of the rostrum by non-student youths who scathingly denounced the proceedings as a sham and an outrage and moved it be junked by forthwith adjourning.

Lowenstein frantically sought to block that but was overwhelmingly voted down by the by-now thoroughly aroused delegates. Thus, despite all his rigging, maneuvering and conniving, the "Emergency Conference of New Voters" blew up in his face and ended in a sporadic fiasco.

Despite this crashing setback, Lowenstein, after a night of hectic buttonholing and wangling, announced the adjourned conference was being "reconvened." With most of the delegates departed, he and his adherents then proceeded unchallenged and unimpeded to approve a number of resolutions—many of which they had not dared to produce at the regular gathering.

One of these resolutions called for setting up a "National Youth Caucus" to attend the Democratic convention.

In "preparation for aggressively asserting a prominent role there, Lowenstein and his leftist clique already are formulating a long series of demands they will submit for inclusion as planks in the Democratic platform. Prominent among them is an unlimited amnesty for draft-dodgers, deserters and defectors, and the legalization of "pot."

Significantly, none of the leaders of Association of Student Governments who joined in calling the emergency conference are in Lowenstein's Youth Caucus.

Also, the chances are strong he will have a tough time trying to set himself up as boss of the convention's youth. The McGovern and Humphrey camps are very leery of him and what he is really up to.
