

Pampans Recall Normandy Beach Invasion Quarter Century Ago

By RUTH LEWIS
Long after "The Longest Day" of the Normandy invasion, of June 6, 1944, — 25 years ago today — General Dwight David Eisenhower disclosed to associates that he had carried in his pocket that day a note that read:
"Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and I have withdrawn the troops. If there is any blame or fault attached to the attempt, it is mine alone."

The event he referred to occurred just 25 years ago today.
Eisenhower had made this provision against failure yet, on the very morning of the first attack, he had told the Allied troops by radio to expect "nothing but victory."

They took the exhortation to heart.
Were there any Pampans in that historic landing?
Morris Powell, 2318 Charles, is the Pampa veteran who was closest to D-Day, that is of those who could be reached for interviews. A.L. Reynolds, 420 N. Dwight, is said by his friends to have gone in with the first wave, but Reynolds, now is on vacation. Reynolds and Powell are both Cabot Corp. employees, in the Production Department.

Powell, who had resided here three years before he was called into service, was with the 28th Infantry as a member of the 103rd Medical Bn. His outfit was ordered into action on D-Day plus Six. He says the 28th originally had been scheduled to go in on the first day, "but they changed orders and sent the 29th instead."

"When we got there it was pretty rough," Powell admits. "Too rough to think about. We had big losses in our own company."
It was such a nightmare that he tried to forget the details and now many of them have actually been lost to him, Powell added. Warren Hasse, 1704 Christine, actually "flew over" the scene of the invasion.

John Lee, 322 N. Christy, purchasing agent for General Supply Co., arrived 30 days after the invasion, July 6, 1944. In contrast to D-Day the weather was beautiful, the air soft and sunlit, the water of the Channel rippling in the sun. D-Day itself had been viciously windy, with huge crests washing the beach. Landing had been delayed 24 hours for this reason. But on the second day of the storm, Eisenhower had made his decision: "We go."

Lee said his outfit put up tents three or four miles inland, a beachhead of five miles already having been established.
The unfavorable conditions proved to be friendly after all, because Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had discontinued reinforcement of coastal defenses. He believed that the Allies would not consider trying a landing in rough weather. Rommel had therefore gone on leave to Paris.

W.A. (Jack) Dodd, 2123 Williston, was in England before the invasion and recalls the

Cabot Plant Listed As Summer Target for SDS

Local Officials Say They Are 'Fortified'

By TEX DEWEESE
If the Cabot Corp. plant in Pampa is marked for disruption by Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) this summer, the plan is not likely to get very far, local Cabot officials said today.

Rep. James Collins of Dallas said in Washington yesterday afternoon that Cabot was among 14 industrial plants in Texas set as targets by SDS.

Spots picked for general SDS infiltration and trouble this summer included more than 60 industrial plants and companies in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas, Collins stated.

The Machinery Division of Cabot Corp. in Pampa was listed as one of 24 prime targets out of the more than 60 listed.

The Pampa Machinery Division is one of the nation's main producers of gun tubes for the government.

The local plant will be busy this summer producing gun tubes for the Army under a current contract.

Henry Donohue, Machinery Division general manager, said today:

"We all have been forewarned, but we do not expect to run into trouble this summer."

"We have known for some time of the SDS plan to move from the college campuses into war-related industries this summer."

"It would be difficult for them to infiltrate our plant. Because of our policy to hire summer workers from among the sons of employees and then only local people if more are needed, we pretty well know everybody we are employing."

"Most of the people we hire are from the Panhandle area and we are able to screen and check them out pretty well."

Donohue also stated he did not believe, if anything should be started, there would be little or any support from other local employees or from the community.

"We have our gun tube contract commitments to the government this summer and we expect to keep them," Donohue added.

Hal Lilla, administrative supervisor at the Machinery Division, concurred with Donohue that summer employees have been screened so well there is little to worry about as far as there being radicals among them.

"Anyone planning to infiltrate for disruptive purposes," Lilla said, "certainly would have a rough time disguising himself to get by."

"Besides that," he added, "I think our own employees would take care of the situation, should trouble arise."

Calvin T. Whatley, employment manager for Cabot's Western Region, with offices in Pampa, said Cabot and the other industrial plants set as SDS "battle plan" targets this summer have had plenty of warning.

These warnings, Whatley stated, came a month or two ago from the Texas Manufacturers' Association and from the Louisiana Manufacturers Association.

The warnings included a memorandum on what appears to be an attempt to coach

Murder Charges Filed Against Perryton Man

PERRYTON — A 28-year-old Perryton man was charged with the murder of his brother today, according to Ochiltree County Sheriff Ray Phagan.

Phagan said Charles Edward Nalley of Perryton was wanted for the murder of his 39-year-old brother, Billy Joe Nalley, who was found dead about 6:15 a.m. today in a field west of Perryton.

The sheriff said Billy Joe Nalley' children told him that the younger Nalley brother came to their home late Thursday night and shot at his brother, missed, then made him leave the house with him.

Sheriff Phagan said that an oilfield worker found Nalley's body and that an autopsy would be performed in Borger today.

Nalley had been shot four or five times in the head, face and chest, according to Sheriff Phagan.

An all-points bulletin was put out on Nalley by the sheriff and Pampa police and Gr. County Sheriff's deputies were on the alert.

It was believed Nalley might be in the Pampa area.

Sheriff Phagan said the two brothers had quarreled several times over Billy Joe Nalley's wife and that the dead man had brought his wife to Pampa several days ago and let her out.

Nalley was an employee of the City of Perryton and had his four children with him when his brother came to the house. The children were not harmed.

Nalley was believed to be driving a light blue 1962 Chevrolet four-door. He was described as 5-11, 130 pounds, red hair and hazel eyes.

Midway Talks Go On Schedule

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon has decided to go ahead with his Midway conference on the Vietnam War with little consideration for the critical storms beginning to break in Washington and other parts of the world.

The Chief Executive goes about a relatively routine business schedule today with little outward evidence of concern over what he might discuss in the Midway Islands Sunday with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

The White House resident expert on Vietnam, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, arrived in southern California Thursday night, but the President did not confer with him. Nixon spent the evening with his family at their new home in San Clemente, 25 miles south of here.

Through news reports and private cables, the President was well aware of unsolicited advice and comment coming from Capitol Hill and other world capitals. His Sunday agenda for Midway, however, was well worked out before he left Washington for the West earlier this week. There was no solid evidence his approach to Thieu had undergone any last-minute shift of direction.

The feeling here on the colorful coast of Southern California, where surfboards and male hippies wearing nose-rings go almost unnoticed, was that Nixon had stated his case and would not depart from it substantially Sunday on Eastern Island in the Midway group.

Nixon wanted to get as many American troops out of Southeast Asia as quickly as possible, but on his terms and not the terms of the Viet Cong. In addition to inheriting a war, Nixon did not want the added responsibility or blame for a military vacuum into which forces from North Vietnam could pour.

The President's plans today included an early morning helicopter flight from San Clemente to his new office space at the Newport Inn here; a meeting with HEW Secretary Robert Finch; and a session with a group of young Americans selected as a pilot study group by the Selective Service System.

He planned to return to San Clemente in the early afternoon and leave Saturday for Honolulu, which will serve as a gathering point for his senior advisers before they fly off together to Midway for the meeting with Thieu.

Cow Callers Will Invade Miami Saturday

MIAMI — Miami is ready, spokesmen assert for the city's annual Cow-Calling contest and Old-timers Reunion, set for Saturday. Prospective visitors from as far as California, Arizona and Nevada have expressed intention of attending and interest in not only cow-calling but the beauty contest and the varied races and games for young children, according to the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce.

Things will start moving at 9 a.m. when the old-time residents begin registering at American Legion Hall.

A basket lunch period will be from 12 to 1 at County Park. Persons who prefer being served may have a catered barbecue luncheon at $1.50. In case the weather fails to cooperate the luncheon will be at the County Barn.

The Roberts County beauty contest will start at 2 p.m. when the area's prettiest girls will compete for the "Miss Miami" title.

But the high point of the day will be the Cow Calling in which men and women may compete for prizes of $50 for the winner in each division. Even the second-place scorers will receive $25 each. The Chamber of Commerce is financing this event.

The Miami Lions Club is sponsor of afternoon events for young children 12 and under.

Rescue Teams At Crash Site

MONTEREY, Mex. (UPI)—Six recovery teams finally made it up "Three-Peak Hill" today and started in a blinding fog the collection of 79 bodies from the scene of the Wednesday crash of a Mexicana Airlines 727 jet.

The victims included prominent Mexican and international figures. The bodies were reported hanging in pieces from trees and brush over an area a mile-and-a-half square. None seen was intact.

"It's terrible," Rodolfo Palmarres, in charge of recovery operations for the Red Cross radioed from the mountain.

"There's too much fog. We can't distinguish any large pieces of the plane, except for a wing."

Money, papers and clothing were reported scattered all over the face of the mountain. One recovery team member was arrested by his colleagues when they saw him thrust a peso note in his pocket.

Several reporters and relatives of victims were reported to have gotten lost when they tried to go up the mountain without guides.

Search parties went out looking for them.

Thursday Ruben Valdes swooped his helicopter down over the side of "three-peak hill."

Fighting Surges Between North Viet, U.S. Forces

SAIGON (UPI)—In a sudden surge of fighting just three days before the midway summit conference, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces shelled 102 major targets in South Vietnam during the night and followed up today with four infantry charges on U.S. bases protecting Saigon.

Allied war communiques listed 265 Communists killed, at least 105 of them in the assaults on the U.S. bases north and northeast of Saigon where four Americans were killed and 18 wounded. Sixteen other Americans died in other incidents.

There was no explanation for the quickened tempo of the war, but speculation rose in Saigon that the Communists were trying to show their ability to strike at will as President Nixon prepared to meet on Midway Sunday with President Nguyen Van Thieu to discuss peace prospects and plans for withdrawing some U.S. troops.

The new wave of rocket and mortar salvos, heaviest since the night of May 11, targeted Saigon, 10 province capitals, 16 district towns and three major U.S. air fields plus U.S. Army headquarters.

Headquarters listed overall U.S. and South Vietnamese losses as light. Three rockets fell into Saigon and its suburbs, one of them exploding an ammunition dump and killing two government soldiers.

Military spokesmen put American losses at throwing back those assaults at four killed and 18 wounded. Three of the attacks occurred near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

Three battles Thursday in the same general area cost the Communists another 112 dead, according to the command, but two U.S. helicopters were shot down, killing four Americans.

Among the targets Thursday night was the Long Binh-Bien Hoa complex north of Saigon which houses U.S. Army headquarters and a big American air base. At least 40 rockets hit Bien Hoa, spokesmen said.

U.S. troops in Saigon's defense ring clashed three times with Viet Cong or North Vietnamese troops Thursday and reported killing a total of 112. Eight GIs died and 35 were reported wounded.

Two rockets landed in Saigon's southern edge, causing no damage, and another round exploded a South Vietnamese ammunition dump on the northern fringe of the city in the latest salvo into Saigon.

The blast from the ammunition dump could be heard five miles away in the downtown sector, but officials said only a few cases of hand grenades exploded killing the two government soldiers.

Nalley was an employee of the City of Perryton and had his four children with him when his brother came to the house. The children were not harmed.

Nalley was believed to be driving a light blue 1962 Chevrolet four-door. He was described as 5-11, 130 pounds, red hair and hazel eyes.

For the first time, Pampa will host the annual Texas convention of Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters. About 300 are expected to attend the four-day meeting which starts Sunday and ends Wednesday with installation of officers.

Representing New Mexico will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Auge, Jr., of Belen, N.M. Auge is a past grand chancellor for that state, with his wife serving this year as the grand chief. Mrs. Jeanette Hensley, supreme protector, of Oklahoma City, will represent the Oklahoma jurisdiction and will be honored with a breakfast in the Coronado Inn during the convention.

The 96th annual state convention of Knights of Pythias and the 72nd convention of Pythian Sisters, will start at 10 a.m. Sunday with a coffee in Coronado Inn honoring all Grand Lodge and Grand Temple officers and visiting guests. Supreme Secretary, Julie G. Pritchard, Stockton, Calif., will attend to represent the Supreme Lodges Knights of Pythias.

ROTC: Military's Biggest Source of 'Brass'

By DARRELL GARWOOD WASHINGTON (UPI) — It likely is a little known fact outside the military that the Army draws more than two-thirds of its general-service commissioned officers from the nation's college campuses.

The source of supply: the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC), an institution of long standing now under severe attack by anti-military activists at some of the bigger and more influential schools.

As for the armed services as a whole, and counting in such special categories as doctors, legal officers and women, the Defense Department estimates that something like one-third are ROTC products.

Pentagon officials are disturbed by efforts to kill off the program, but consider chances of this actually happening to be remote.

Long List

They point out that if ROTC is dropped at some schools, there is a long list of others which have applied for units of one or the other services—90 for the Army, 116 for the Air Force and 129 for the Navy.

On the other hand, the colleges and universities where the protests have been the most vociferous traditionally have set the pattern for other schools. So officials do not completely discount the possibility that opponents eventually may prevail.

The schools include Stanford, Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth, Bowdoin, the University of Michigan, Boston College and the University of Pittsburgh.

Demonstrations of varying intensity, and including nine cases of arson against ROTC facilities, have hit 30 of the 350 schools offering ROTC courses.

151,000 Students

The Army currently has 151,000 students enrolled in ROTC. The Air Force and Navy have smaller programs totaling 51,200 and 10,100 students respectively.

Brig. Gen. Clifford P. Hannum, the Army's deputy director for ROTC, discussed the program in an interview with UPI.

For 1969 alone, Hannum said, ROTC is scheduled to turn out 16,800 new second lieutenants for the Army whereas 8,700 will come from service-operated officer candidate schools (OCS)—and a mere 760 from the U.S. Military academy at West Point.

Under ROTC contracts, universities provide armories and other facilities for standard military drill and instruction. The Defense Department provides equipment, materials and military instructors.

The college or university receives no benefit other than the prestige and drawing power of having ROTC on its campus.

The services make separate contracts with the advanced students which obligate them to two years of service in uniform after graduation, or four years if they receive one of the ROTC scholarships. The contracts can be terminated by either side on one year's notice.

Should ROTC be abandoned, Hannum believes officers still would have to be obtained through some arrangement with the colleges and universities, or with graduates themselves.

Grad Can Enlist

This might be through an expansion of the present program under which a college graduate can enlist with the assurance that he will be sent to OCS. About 80 per cent of the men currently entering OCS have degrees. They receive their commissions after 10 to 11 months of training, 23 weeks of it in OCS.

ROTC traces its history to 1819, when Capt. Alden Partridge, a former superintendent at West Point, established Norwich University as a military college at Northfield, Vt.

There now are five such military schools—Norwich, The Citadel, Virginia Military Institute (VMI), Penn Military College and North Georgia College. They are included in the ROTC program, and the late Gen. George C. Marshall of VMI was the most illustrious graduate from their ranks.

They differ from all other ROTC schools in that the accent is primarily military, the students wear uniforms and receive their education in a military atmosphere.

The next big date in ROTC history was 1862, when the Morrill Act provided for federal grants of land to colleges and universities agreeing to offer military courses.

Basic Training Compulsory

Until the mid-1950s, these land grant colleges interpreted the law to mean that the first two weeks of ROTC—the basic training—had to be compulsory for all male students. The interpretation now is that it merely has to be offered.

The result has been one of the major changes in ROTC in recent years. Basic courses are compulsory in only one-third of the schools, compared to two-thirds in 1961. The advanced courses—for the second two years of college—are and always have been voluntary.

ROTC was established in its present form by the National Defense Act of 1916, and experienced its biggest growth in the years preceding World War II. Enrollment in the advanced course invariably has increased in times of crises when students facing the likelihood of military service have had to decide whether to seek officer rank.

The program underwent another major change in 1964 when the "Vitalization Act" provided for 16,500 ROTC scholarships, 5,500 in each of the three services. Winners of these awards, screened from many thousands of applicants, receive $50 a month for four years and are reimbursed for their tuition and books.

Pay Increased

Also in 1964 the pay in the advanced courses invariably increased from $27 to $50 a month. The Army, with 37,500 enrolled in the advanced program, believes this often is the difference between a youth staying in school and dropping out for lack of finances. There is no pay however, for those in basic courses.

There already are five schools with ROTC which give no academic credit for the military instruction. Hannum said this can be accepted where high quality in training and instruction can be maintained, where the training is treated on a par with other disciplines and given strong institutional support, and where conditions are such that the student can carry the ROTC "overload."

No major geographical area has been immune to the campus outbreaks against ROTC. They have been most frequent in the Northeast and on the West Coast, but there were demonstrations at the Universities of Mississippi and Louisiana and others in Florida as well as several in the Midwest.

Despite the difficulties, the Army's expected production of 16,800 ROTC graduate officers this year will be an increase over the 14,176 turned out in 1968 and the 10,727 in 1967, including the Navy and Air Force. ROTC commissionings are expected to increase from 18,000 in 1968 to 25,000 this year.

Small Virginia Town Still Remembers D-Day

By JEFFREY C REYNOLDS BEDFORD, Va. (UPI)—Ray Nance stared reflectively at the little Blue Ridge Mountain town, 1,500 feet below. But his thoughts were 25 years in the past.

"It was worth it," he said. "We had to be there. Certainly it was worth it."

Nance, 54, operator of a lodge on the scenic Blue Ridge Parkway, was reliving a day in history that marked Bedford for mass tragedy—the Allied invasion of Normandy on June 6, 1944.

Nance was there when 2,000

American soldiers died on a four-mile stretch of sand commanded by German weapons. It's map designation was Omaha Beach.

National Guard Company

The withering Nazi fire wiped out 93 per cent of a former Virginia National Guard company. Thirty-seven men in the unit were from Bedford; 23 were killed. Most of the survivors were wounded.

This little town of 3,800 about 20 miles northeast of Roanoke had suffered perhaps the greatest loss of any American city on D-Day.

After the war, the town paid homage annually to its D-Day dead with parades and ceremonies. The survivors formed the Parker-Hoback Post of the 29th Division Association, named in honor of two sets of twins who died at Omaha Beach.

In 1954, a 2½-ton memorial in Normandy stone, sent over by French town, was dedicated with French and American dignitaries on hand.

That was the last such observance. The Parker-Hoback Post disbanded.

Today, on the 25th anniversary of the bloody landing, Bedford planned no ceremony.

"There isn't much interest any more," said Jack Mitchell, one of the few unrounded survivors.

Maybe as we grew older, we found other things to interest us, or maybe we just got tired of reliving it again," said Nance.

Tony Marisco, a staff sergeant in charge of a rifle section, ran up the beach safely, but "about 15 or 20 minutes later, I got a sniper bullet in the right arm and some mortar shrapnel in the leg."

'Longest Day'

Glenwood Overstreet, carrying a flame thrower, was shot in the stomach and legs and lay on the beach until early the next morning. "That was the longest day of my life," he said. "when I got through the Army, that was enough for me."

Al Huddleston, a machinegun sergeant, was lucky. He broke his ankle during a preinvasion drill in England and missed D-day. He rejoined his group later and was wounded in the shoulder by shrapnel in fighting near Rachen, Germany.

Huddleston, 50, a photographer, said he considered today a special day—for commercial reasons. It's graduation day at Bedford High School, a big picture taking occasion.

The only war on his mind now, he says, is the Vietnam conflict. He has two teen-age sons, one of whom registered for the draft last week. His position on war has changed in the past 25 years, he indicated.

"I feel a little bit like Sen. Edward Kennedy," he said. "Why take a hill and then give it up again?"

Teeth Put Back In State Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas anti-LSD laws, struck down by a court of criminal appeals decision in April, Wednesday were revived with more power than ever to punish offenders of drug violations.

Gov. Preston Smith signed the new LSD bill Wednesday, authored by Rep. Burke Musgrove, D-Breckenridge, and Sen. Grady Hazlewood, D-Amarillo, putting the proposal into immediate effect.

The bill provides that first-offense possession of a "dangerous drug"—which includes LSD and similar drugs—is a misdemeanor, and second offense possession is a felony.

Area 4-H Club Attends Program On Demonstrations

LEFORS (SPL) — Lefors 4-H Club members met in the home of Harry Youngblood, for a meeting on "Demonstration Highlights" recently.

Cindy Youngblood, president, called the meeting to order, with Susie Williams leading the pledge, Joy Hollenshead calling the roll and Pam Stevens reading the minutes.

Presenting a demonstration on "Mr. Carrott" with a prepared salad of pineapple and carrots, were Joy Hollenshead and Pam Stevens. Demonstrating "Let Them Eat Biscuits On Less Money" by giving the nutrition and cost at regular and sale prices, of plain home made, dough mix, master mix, and different canned biscuits, was Elaine Webb.

Cindy Youngblood demonstrated and cooked a "Sweet Potato Surprise." She demonstrated this at the District Favorite Food Show in April.

DEAR ABBY: A great deal has happened to our country lately, and the youth is blamed. We've been called everything from "flower children" to hippies. Everywhere you hear about "protesters" and draft dodgers, and adults are suspicious of any teen-ager with long hair.

I recently came across this quote from a worried adult: "What is this world coming to? What will the world be like when the younger generation takes over? Will it be destroyed by individualism and lack of leadership?" (Signed Socrates, 469 B. C.)

Sincerely yours,

DEAR ABBY: As the mother of a 22-year-old daughter, I would like to have some up-to-date information on present day dating customs.

My daughter has been dating a young man for several months. He's a college graduate and has a very good job. He invited her to go skiing and then informed her that she would have to pay for her own lift fee. She thought this was rather odd, but she paid her own fee.

Then on subsequent dates he told her she should pay her own way.

She told him she thought he was being "cheap." He said she was being "ignorant." And they quarreled.

Is the young man correct? Is it the custom now for girls to pay their own way when asked for a date?

SATURDAY, JUNE 7 YOUR BIRTHDAY SATURDAY The year ahead offers many opportunities to awaken your spiritual nature. Whatever latent psychic talents you possess spring to life. Creative enterprises thrive, while routine and commercial activities decline somewhat or become more difficult to cope with. Romantic interests languish for the first couple of months, then brighten. Saturday's natives seldom demand special attention.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take inventory, check the condition of your files, get rid of things which no longer have any purpose. Old records can turn out to be of startling interest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take your time Saturday, and do a thorough job of whatever you start to do. Remember that with new projects you may not have the whole story.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Saturday is full of surprises (some of them nice). Make sure your home is protected. Look through your accounts and bills. Pay up insurance premiums and other items with deadlines. The evening is promising for romantic interest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make Saturday a personal holiday to observe the happiness of just being alive. Use your resources freely and sensibly to do what you want to do, go where you want to go.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Earnings and your ability to get future earnings tend to suffer or enjoy extreme breaks Saturday. Give yourself a pause to think what you are doing — avoid any wild promise that spoils your position.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your wit is tested despite all efforts to keep a steady pace and a clear detailed plan of action. Surprises crop up in unlikely directions and places. A sense of humor helps!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Everybody knows you are tactful, so all expect more from you; some people take advantage to the point where you have to say something direct. Now is such a time and it may not sit well (with somebody important)

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Candor (and good humor) the main factor in getting through this surprising, disconcerting day. Your friends bring you an experience you've never believed, and it's hard at first to see if it is in truth or jest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Follow your intuition through the various excitements Saturday brings. You may have to move quickly to avoid being involved or carried along in a precarious series of incidents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Begin a journey, the earlier in the day the better. Business and pleasure for many will blend nicely. If you can make a weekend vacation, do so.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be alert for a chance to earn extra as other people's money changes hands in special circumstances. Group action can be sudden and drastic. Be wary of your own funds.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Partnership and group enterprises turn around suddenly. Seek some solution which gets at the cause of the difficulty, rather than temporize. A pause for meditation may bring an answer.

Increased in 1968
OSLO (UPI) — Liquor law violations brought fines to 1,656 Norwegians in 1968, an increase of 9 per cent over 1967. The offenses included sale of moonshine and smuggling of hard liquor from abroad.

Culture Members Sponsor Picnic
The Civic Culture Club met recently in the home of Mrs. John McKnerney for the club's last meeting of the club year. After family picnic supper, table games were played. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. George Neef and Mrs. A.D. Hills. The club will convene again Sept. 9 in the home of Mrs. Hills, president.

Attending the meeting were Messers and Mmes. J.B. Townsend, Neef, Floyd Pennington, McKnerney, C.V. Forsman, Chester Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith and grandson and Mmes. Irvin Cole, Katie Vincent, A.B. Cross, Hills, and Emmett Gee.

Stimulate Scalp
Here's an extra hint for hair-washing: Use a well-lathered, stiff hair brush to stimulate the scalp and remove particles of dead skin from its surface.

Lotta Pounds Off Recognizes Queen
Lotta Pounds Off TOPS Club met in Central Baptist Church recently for the fourth June program. The 14 members present reported a 18 lb. loss and 11 and three-fourth lb. gain for the week.

Mrs. Billie Flick, who received the fruit basket and penny contest award, was recognized as queen for May for her 17 and half pound loss. Mrs. Louis Belote received the angel of the month, Mrs. Augusta Brown was awarded the door prize.

Cup Is an Aid
If you use cake eye makeup that requires water, a tiny aluminum cup is indispensable. It can be used at home, or thrown in a bag to travel with you.

Cuticle care is provided by special creams and oils to soften the eponychium, or membrane at the base of the nail, so that it can be gently pushed back to prevent infection and hangnails.

For a Feathery Look
To keep your eyebrows looking the way they should, use a mini-brush to give them a feathery, light look.

Students to Dance Recital Program
A trip into the land of fairy tales will mark the third annual production of Madeline Graves School of Dance, to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in Pampa High School Auditorium.

Fairy tales to be portrayed will be "Sleeping Beauty," with Margo Gregory as featured soloist and "Aladdin and His Lamp" with Vance Bruce as soloist.

Another act of the production will be "Showtime Varieties," to be highlighted with a cavalcade of dances from vaudeville days to present times. Vocalist will be Martin McDonald.

Nearly 100 students from ballet, tap, jazz and acrobatic classes will participate in the event.

Texas Highway Patrol Seeks Applicants For July School

A call was issued today by the Texas Department of Public Safety for applicants to fill a recruit training school to begin in July.

Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 35, a height of at least 68 inches, a weight of not less than two pounds or more than three and one-half pounds per inch of height, and be in sound physical condition. They must have completed high school or submit a certificate approved by the Texas Education Agency showing an equivalent educational background. They must be a citizen of the United States, and be of good moral character.

Those selected will take basic training at the Texas DPS Law Enforcement Academy in Austin. This training period is approximately four months in length. Upon graduation, the patrolmen will be assigned to one of the four uniformed field services — Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Motor Vehicle Inspection and Drivers License.

Because of the short time remaining to test applicants, immediate inquiry is urged for young men to contact the nearest DPS office or patrolman.

Negro College Students Have Good Job Chance

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The law of supply and demand on today's job market is heavily in favor of the Negro college graduate in some parts of the nation, a survey of placement officials shows.

There just aren't enough Negroes graduating from college to fill the demand for them, and the blacks are getting equal and perhaps in some cases higher starting salaries than whites.

The spot check by United Press International of the job offer situation across the nation would seem to indicate great improvement for Negro graduates since a few years ago when blacks complained that with a college degree the job opportunities open to them were limited in scope and salary.

In Short Supply

The UPI survey showed that with the possible exception of teaching, Negro graduates are in short supply in every field, but especially in such areas as engineering and chemistry. It also showed that starting salaries for blacks as well as whites exceed $8,000 per year in a number of fields, with some indication that qualified Negroes can get premium pay.

Placement officials at 15 institutions, ranging from big state universities to small private colleges, said in interviews that if employers are seeking "showcase" Negroes in their search for black graduates, they haven't been able to detect it.

Alicia Ammons of the Tuskegee Institute Placement Office in Alabama said, "Some of our students have had as many as eight offers this year. The largest demand has been for engineering students." The school had contacts from 400 recruiters for its 500 graduates.

Eugene Nelson, acting director of the University of Colorado Placement Office, said, "We cannot meet the demand in any field. Sales, office work, you name it—we could place graduates."

Special Teams

Some corporations sent special recruiting teams to San Francisco State College seeking only negroes. Morgan State College, a mostly black school in Baltimore, had 200 recruiting visits.

Howard Lumsden, placement director for the University of Tennessee, conceded there may be "some token hiring" of Negroes, but "for the most part employers are sincere."

Some of the officials explained that black graduates can get more pay because of the law of supply and demand — there just aren't enough of them to fill all the job offers.

The "beer hall putsch" took place in Munich, Germany, in 1923.

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ine man's impression of celebrities as they register on the television screen:

Joe Namath — Discotheque host who has had considerable background in drugstores.

Sandy Koufax — Fellow who is distinctly uncomfortable in discoteques, or with discoteque hosts.

Cary Grant — Television actor.

Doris Day — Mannequin in department store window display.

President Nixon — Headmaster of a traditional prep school.

Truman Capote — Superman.

Don Rickles — The gentleman who releases the guillotine.

Former President Johnson — John Wayne's older brother.

John Wayne — John Lindsay's opponent for control of San Francisco in a turn-of-the-century adventure movie.

John Lindsay — William Buckley's opponent for the hand of a plantation belle in a movie about the Old South.

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago — Night city editor.

Steve McQueen — Any average newspaper reporter.

Dick Cavett — Scion of an immensely wealthy banking family, and the secret head of the Mafia.

Dean Martin — Head of a movie studio.

Ted Kennedy — A fellow who just wants to be president, and doesn't understand what all the fuss is about.

Norman Mailer — A fellow who knows what all the fuss is about.

Barbara Bain — Television critic's girlfriend.

Jackie Gleason — The real mayor of Chicago.

Robert Montgomery — The reincarnation of "the Great Gatsby."

Sander Vanocur — The thinking man's Beau Brummel.

Edwin Newman — A man whom nobody is going to fool anywhere, any time, any way.

Harry Reasoner — Ditto.

James Cagney — The movies' first real anti-hero.

Lawrence Welk — Supermarket manager.

Art Linkletter — Welk's partner.

Brigitte Bardot — A very good friend.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Steamboat a-comin'!" That shout got the whole town down at the levee. The multidecked white steamers, looking like "floating wedding cakes," but drawing very little water, were ideal for negotiating Mississippi River shallows. The World Almanac says, "By 1838, over 1,000 'palaces on paddle wheels' made the Louisville to New Orleans run in six days."

PLAY MAKERS — Members of the Altar Choir from St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Amarillo will present a play using creative movement to interpret scripture and music in the worship of God at 6:15 p.m. Sunday in the First Methodist Church in Pampa.

Altar Choir To Perform Sunday

The Altar Choir of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Amarillo, under the direction of Constance Fisher will conduct a service of worship in movement through the interpretation of scripture and sacred music at the First Methodist Church at 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Fisher says that the Altar Choir members seek to worship God with their whole being as they actively participate in the service, dramatizing God's movement in all of life.

Mrs. Fisher is the wife of Dr. Charles Fisher, professor of Sociology at West Texas State University and an ordained minister in the Methodist church. She has been active in the field of worship and the arts for many years, having become interested in sacred dance through her study with Margaret Pisk Taylor, recognized authority on dance in workshops, demonstrations and Mrs. Fisher has taught in workshops, demonstrations and summer camps both here and in California.

Elder Statesman Award Due Baptist Treasurer Springer

R. A. Springer, treasurer of the 1.8 million member Baptist General Convention of Texas and former mayor of a Texas community, has been named recipient of the 1969 Elder Statesman Award.

Springer, who has served Texas Baptists for more than 45 years, will receive the honor Sunday at Independence Baptist Church, Independence, as part of the 45th anniversary celebration of the Independence Baptist Association. The association presents the award annually in recognition of long and outstanding service.

Born August 2, 1905, he is the oldest in point of service on the BGCT level and the youngest of 10 previous recipients of the Elder Statesman Award.

Though busy with denominational activities, Springer has found time for a number of outside activities—ranging from collecting trophies in league bowling to serving as mayor of Fruitdale, a small community now incorporated into the city of Dallas, from 1961-66.

The Midlothian native has contributed significantly to Texas Baptist growth since joining the BGCT state offices in Dallas in the post depression year of 1938. That year the BGCT budget amounted to some $310,000. In 1969, the BGCT operated under a $13.5 million budget.

Before coming to his present job, Springer had served for 15 years on the staffs of four Texas Baptist churches. He began in 1923 as a young people's worker and financial secretary at Cliff Temple Church, Dallas. Then he was education director for three churches, Forrest Avenue Church (now Lake Highlands)

Rev. Downing To Deliver Sunday Sermon

The Rev. Carlton S. Downing will deliver the Message for the Morning Worship hour for the First Christian Church, Corner of 18th and Nelson Street, begin at 5:30 p.m. — Youth

The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor and accompanied by Mrs. John Gill will present the Anthem, Snack Supper will begin at 5:30 p.m. — Youth Groups at 6:00 p.m. and Christian Life Curriculum Sessions at 7:00 p.m.

The Worship Committee of the Church, Jerry King, Chairman, will meet on Wednesday, June 11, at 8:00 p.m. All members of this Committee are urged to be present.

The Business and Professional C.W.F. Group will meet Monday, June 9th at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Ray Dudley.

Christian Literature Week is being observed this week in the Church. There is a display of Books in the foyer of the Church, for members who might be interested in purchasing books either for their home or to be presented to the Church Library as a gift or memorial.

Son of Pampan Wounded in Vietnam Fighting

Lt. James R. Goff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Goff, 1109 Willow, is in Japan recovering from combat wounds he received in Vietnam on May 14.

Goff, who is with the 101st Airborne Division, was on combat operation near Laos when an enemy force was encountered.

He is supposed to be returned to a hospital in the states later this month.

Meeting Slated At Revival Center Church

Evangelist Lyndon Petty will begin a revival meeting at Revival Center Church, 1101 South Wells, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Petty is an excellent singer and musician and preacher. Services are nightly at 7:30. You are cordially invited to these services.

Brethren Church To Hear Former Pastor Sunday

Rev. Russell G. West will VE Church 1-18 brethren church Rev. Russell G. West will speak on the topic, "I Walked Where Jesus Walked" at the 11 a.m. worship service at Church of Brethren.

Rev. West was pastor of the church in Pampa for 16 years and while living here his wife taught in the Pampa school system.

Rev. West is now retired and living in California.

Rev. West made a tour of the Holy Land and his sermon will be based on the events of this tour.

Worship Hours Given by Church

The Kingsmill Community Full Gospel Church has extended a personal invitation to all persons to join them in worship services three times weekly.

The pastor is Rev. Mike Owens.

Sunday school begins at 10 a.m., the Sunday worship service at 11 a.m., Sunday evening services at 7 p.m. and Wednesday services at 7:30 p.m.

Cut Out Jargon in Church

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

People who share a common interest frequently fall into the habit of talking to each other in jargon—a sort of insiders' language which is meaningless to the uninitiated.

Sports fans do it; astronauts do it; theatrical people do it; soldiers do it—the list could go on and on.

Among the worst addicts of jargon, unfortunately, are ministers, theologians and laymen who attempt to speak to the world in the name of the church.

To Spread Good News
Since their avowed purpose is to spread the good news of the gospel to all mankind, one might reasonably expect Christian leaders to take great pains to phrase their message in a way that everybody can understand.

Instead, they persist in using recondite terminology which is very meaningful to them but virtually unintelligible to people without a religious background. Take, for example, the word "salvation." It is greatly cherished by evangelical Protestants. But as British Baptist leader George Beasley-Murray observed recently, "It raises a blank in the minds of most people outside the church."

The same is true, he said, of words such as "redemption" and "reconciliation," which Christians are wont to use in trying to describe the gift which God makes available to men through the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Dr. Beasley-Murray pointed out that Jesus himself almost never used such words.

More Appealing Word
"He had a far simpler and more appealing word for what He was offering to men. He called it life."

The contemporary church has an urgent need to emulate Jesus' example of plain speaking. The young people on whom the future depends are particularly repelled—turd off, as they would put it—by churchy jargon that says nothing to them.

The gospel has not lost its power to move the hearts of men—when it is communicated to them in the same kind of vivid, everyday language that Jesus used. This is demonstrated by the phenomenal success of the American Bible Society's translation of the New Testament into idiomatic modern English.

Since its appearance 2 1/2 years ago, the "Today's English Version" has become by far the best-selling book in the history of the world, with sales totaling about 16 million copies to date.

American Bible Society Goes Mod

United Press International

The staid old American Bible Society has shocked a few people and delighted many more by busting out in a mod, mod mode.

To demonstrate that the Bible is for everyone—including today's hip young swingers—the society has begun publishing passages of scripture on "love seals" and in psychedelic-colored pamphlets.

The love seals, which can be stuck on envelopes like stamps, are going like hot cakes. The society has already turned out 81 million and has requests for at least 40 million more.

In uninhibited combinations of pink, orange, green and blue, with lettering reminiscent of Sister Corita's drawings, the seals proclaim variously that "love is kind," "Love is Patient," "Love is Eternal," "Love Never Gives Up," and "God is Love."

Each of the five mottoes is quotation from the New Testament in the modern English translation which the Bible Society calls "Today's English Version" (TEV).

The same mottoes in the same joyous colors adorn the cover of a pamphlet whose text is the famous 13th chapter of St. Paul's first letter to the Christians of Corinth. In the TEV translation, it includes these words:

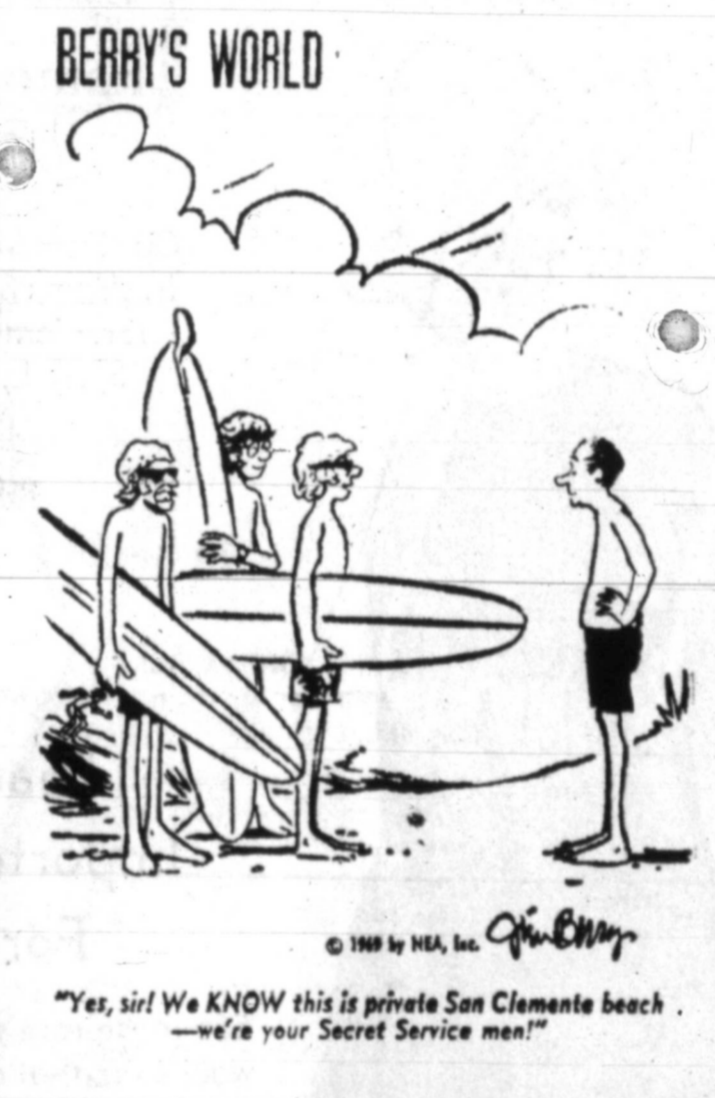

"Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous, or conceited, or proud; love is not ill-mannered, or selfish, or irritable; love does not keep a record of wrongs; love is not happy with evil, but is happy with the truth. Love never gives up; its faith, love and patience never fails. Love is eternal."

Young people who recognize this has good "hippie" doctrine may be surprised to learn from the society's seals and pamphlets that it came originally from the Bible. Some of them, the society hopes, will be sufficiently intrigued to see what else the Bible contains that may speak to their needs here and now.

About 750,000 of the pamphlets are in print. They and the seals can be purchased for nominal cost through local branches of the American Bible Society or through churches which order them in bulk from the 153-year-old, non-profit society.

For a limited time, sheets of love seals are being offered free by the Christian Herald magazine to anyone who writes to: "Love Seals, 27 East 30th St., New York 10016."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

Bishop ROBERT A. WOOD

HONOR THY FATHER AND THY MOTHER

By BISHOP ROBERT A. WOOD

Many children may think, "My parents are always telling me what to do, but who tells them what to do and how do they know what things they are supposed to teach us?" This is a good question and deserves an answer.

Children are an important part of every parent's life and daily activity because parents are responsible to provide food, clothing, shelter, and protection from harm for their children. In addition, parents are responsible for their children's behavior according to the laws of the land. Parents gain knowledge about what to teach their children through studying the instructions our Father in heaven has given to parents about their duties. God has given our parents standards for rearing their children.

The Lord has told parents that they are responsible to teach their children to pray and walk uprightly before him. It is parents whom the Lord holds responsible for the teaching, conduct, and training of children.

Parents determine their behavior toward their children through the feelings of love they have for them. Usually the things our parents desire for us are the things which will bring us the greatest joy and happiness. When we apply the standards our parents give us, we honor them and lengthen the days of happiness we will enjoy in our own lives.

True respect for parents will be shown not only in how we treat parents in their presence, but also how we treat others. Our performance away from our parents is also an indication of our respect for them.

These Business Firms and Professional People Are Making This Weekly Message possible. Join with the ministers of Pampa in hoping that each message will be an inspiration to Everyone.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

One thing about the New Left philosophy is that it affords the basis for rationalization of practically any situation no matter how absurd. Moral absolutes are not absolutes any more, but are adjusted to square with the occasion. It's like lying to yourself and pretending you believe it.

Like after the Democratic convention in Chicago last year the New Left New Thinkers blamed the riots on the cops. More recently, economic Keynesians in England and France, first cousins of the New Lefters in America, have advanced a more ridiculous premise for the drop in value of the pound and franc.

They point accusingly at Germany and the rising value of the mark as the cause of their money problems, principally inflation. But it won't work. The German mark got that way by reason of a sound economic and fiscal policy of the German government and is in no way responsible for what happens to the pound or the franc of socialist England and the franc of socialist France.

The Wall Street Journal published an interesting piece on the proposal to devalue the mark May 12. It said:

The pressure for upward revaluation of the West German mark — firmly resisted by Bonn — helps to explain why most people find international monetary matters so confusing.

A lot of the talk, for example has seemed to tag West Germany as the culprit in last week's exchange market frenzy. Yet all the Germans have done has been to display a decent respect for the worth of their currency, vigorously combatting inflation's pressures. In passing, it's worth noting that they've shown inflation is not essential to prosperity.

In the U.S. and many other countries, of course, there has long been the notion that inflationary policies are somehow essential to business health. And when inflation deflates the dollar, the British pound and other currencies in international markets, national leaders appear to imply that it's all the fault of West Germany for not raising the value of the mark. Some observers find such an attitude difficult to understand.

Some of the same observers last week may have wondered why any upward revaluation of the mark would have to come as an abrupt, arbitrary step. In other economic markets price is established by the interplay of supply and demand, but foreign exchange is more sophisticated than that: Several men sit in a room and from the interplay of conversation guess what the price ought to be.

On past occasions the guesses sometimes have been wrong. The currency involved, at its new official value, may be either too cheap or too dear, with the result that sooner or later the exchange market is disrupted again.

Then, too, there are the speculators. When doubts arise about a rigidly fixed rate, the speculators add to the pressure and help force a change. It's enough to make some people ask why there is not more consideration of at least some increased flexibility in exchange rates.

Of course foreign exchange is a difficult area, full of all sorts of esoteric problems. Somehow, though, we can't help thinking that the current problems wouldn't have been solved merely by marking up the mark.

Deserving Of Praise

Few industries have turned in a performance in behalf of U.S. consumers to equal that of the oil industry. In terms of price and quality of product, it has done an incomparable job. During the decade 1959 to 1968, the U.S. government's Consumer Price Index rose more than twice as much as the average pre-tax price of gasoline. While the average price of all items in the Index went up 19.4 per cent, gasoline rose 8.3 per cent. Milk was up 17 per cent; potatoes, 30.4 per cent; shoes, 28.17 per cent; housing costs, 17.6 per cent.

Another fact about the oil industry is that the gasoline of today is far different than the gasoline of 10, 15 or 20 years ago. The gasoline of an earlier day would not function in present-day autos. Octane ratings—one of several important measures of gasoline quality—are at an all-time high in the U.S. But petroleum experts point out that octane numbers alone are not a reliable guide to overall gasoline quality. One petroleum authority, in warning that many of the characteristics of a high performance motor fuel are totally unrelated to octane ratings, says that high quality gasolines are tailored for the altitudes and climates where they will be used. They must vaporize readily at low temperatures for quick starting, provide dependable power and good mileage, have good stability and be low in gum and sulfur content. None of these desirable properties is measured by octane number.

The simple facts about gasoline and gasoline prices are strong evidence that the petroleum industry generally deserves praise rather than criticism.

Khrushchev's Empty Boast

Remember more than 10 years ago when former Premier Khrushchev boasted that the Russians would bury the U.S. economically? Khrushchev predicted that the burying would take place within 7 years. Those who remember Khrushchev's boast may wonder how the Russians are doing. As columnist Roscoe Drummond puts it: "... The Soviet economy is not headed to burying us, is not surpassing us, and is not even beginning in any significant way to equal us. If anything the gap is growing wider..." In 1967, Russia's gross national product totaled $61 billion, which was only 46 per cent of the U.S. total of $789.7 billion. In electric power, the Russians produced 569 billion kilowatt-hours as compared with the 1,396 billion kilowatt-hours of the U.S. Russian passenger car production totaled 251 thousand as compared with 7,437 million in the U.S. Russia produced 10 million metric tons of meat, and the U.S. produced 15.5 million metric tons. Here is a good illustration of why people should take the words of a political braggart for what they are — hot air.

Entrepreneurs vs. Marx

It is no news by now that the longer the followers of Marx try to make his theories work in practice, the more they demonstrate that there are a few basic points about human nature the master did not take into account.

One of the most basic is the hope for personal gain as a motivator for individual economic activity, legal or otherwise, and the latest evidence that it springs eternal, even in the socialist breast, comes from Warsaw.

Your Dental Health

By DR. WILLIAM LAWRENCE

Accidents to Teeth Not Felt Until Later

Six years ago, Dick G., wrestling for his Harvard College team, finally pinned his opponent in a rough, tough match. For several days after he felt a numbness in the front teeth of his lower jaw.

Two winters ago, Virginia B. had a hard fall on a patch of ice. She struck the back of her head and her teeth came together with a sharp crack. For several days after she had "a peculiar feeling" in her upper front teeth.

Three years ago, when she was 9, Austinia S. fell off her bike and hit her chin on the curb, making a deep gash that required many stitches to close. Her chin and a few lower teeth were numb for several days.

After the initial complaints following these accidents, all three patients were without symptoms and the involved teeth seemed normal in every way.

However, in this past month, all three patients have become acutely aware of the following symptoms: pain, discoloration of teeth, loose teeth and swelling.

Clinical and X-ray exam disclosed abscesses at the root tips of one tooth in each of the first two patients and two teeth in the child who fell from her bike.

These developments are not uncommon after accidents in which teeth are traumatized. Initial discomfort is slight and is dissipated in a few days. But the nerves of the teeth are damaged, become edematous (swollen) and infected, and finally die, producing apical abscesses.

And, typically, this takes place over a period of time without causing patients any or at least only fleeting moments of discomfort, so that they are completely unaware of any abnormality.

Treatment of choice for these abscessed teeth is usually root canal therapy. The nerve chamber is opened to relieve pressure and pain and to promote drainage of the abscess; the nerve chambers are then cleaned, sterilized and filled; and a filling placed in the opening in the crown.

NOTE: In settling accident insurance claims, prognosis and possible future treatment of the involved teeth should be a consideration.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, June 6, the 157th day of 1969 with 208 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1816 ten inches of snow fell in New England, starting what was known as "the year in which there was no summer."

In 1933 a motion picture drive-in theater, first of its kind, was opened in Camden, N.J.

In 1944 the greatest invasion in history began as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sent tens of thousands of ships and planes and whole divisions of Allied Troops across the English Channel into France. It was D-Day.

In 1968 Senator Robert F. Kennedy died of an assassin's bullet in Los Angeles.

A thought for the day: Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who became the 34th President of the United States, said, "In the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains."

Wit and Whimsy

The mother of four children was giving some advice to a married friend who was about to have her first baby:

Mrs. Blank — You'll get used to it. When the first baby sneezes you'll phone the doctor right away. After awhile those things are commonplace. Just the other day my youngest swallowed a dime and I just looked at him and said "Young man that money comes out of your allowance."

People would be a lot happier — even ecstatic — if the federal agencies would stop spending taxpayers' money so ridiculously.

Spring House Cleaning

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and political issues which will aid in the better functioning of government and the proper functioning of the economy.)

QUESTION: — What is the fairest and most just way of measuring what each worker and entrepreneur (investor) should receive?

ANSWER: It doesn't seem possible to have any fairer and most just way — that will promote production, good will and prosperity and peace — than to let every man in the world help establish what each worker should receive and what every investor should receive.

By that way, all the people in the world would be establishing values. It would add to the incentive of each individual to do his best if he could know that he was getting all he was worth.

One cannot for long get more than he is worth or less than he is worth. If the employer attempts to pay less he loses men sooner or later. If he pays each worker more than he is worth he will go broke, and the workers will be out and the capital will be lost and everybody will suffer.

Frederic Bastiat said, "The gain of one is the gain of all, and the loss of one is the loss of all." So all people are interested, or should be, in having the greatest development of understanding, mentally and spiritually and materially.

Then there was this poor Mexican fellow who had a very difficult time in going to sleep. Finally, he got a picture of his girl friend, Estia. Now when he wants to sleep, he just looks at this picture of Estia. And everybody knows that when you see Estia, you sleep.

Modern music is okay, we guess, but why did it have to come in our time?

The latest Eppy-sowed in the "Bed-in-for-Peace" has taken place in Canada. The Beetle in the Bunk stunt was to have taken place in the Bahamas two weeks ago but was called on account of hot sheets.

The Beetle Bed-in started off fine, in a $180 a day suite. They were going to receive admirers and visitors in bed from 10 to 10 for a week and broadcast the goings on to the United States. But it was too much Hot Pajamas in the Bahamas.

Next we find the "lie-in-for-peace" couple wending their way to cool Canada. But they were stopped at the bed-post by an immigration administrator named George Dick. Dick said he stopped the Beetles because of the affiliation with "pot." But Beattie said he had given up the "pot" for bunk.

So they allowed him a 10-day stay in Canada. Seven days in bed makes one week, with three days left over to gather up the laundry. They have invited Prime Minister Trudeau to join

CONGRESSMAN AND THE PRESS

Concerned citizens often find themselves in the situation where they would like to write their Congressman, but fail to do so because they feel that he would not see their inquiry anyway.

Congressmen do receive much correspondence and much of this is seldom opened by the lawmakers themselves. It is obvious that these men would not have sufficient time in which to do this.

There is a way, however, that can be used effectively in reaching Members of Congress. Letters to the editor of local newspapers serve many purposes. Not only do they influence the thinking of the editors themselves, but Congressmen as well. A brief letter, written to your newspaper, that firmly describes your thinking about a particular subject and mentions your Congressman will be read by many, thus prompting similar viewpoints to be aired. A letter thus written and clipped from the newspaper could be sent to your Congressman or Senator with several of your friends' signatures attached stating "we concur."

When a Congressman receives a letter of this nature, he is no longer receiving a letter from only one constituent, but one that has been seen by many of his constituents and deserves his attention.

As of August, 1965, there was one daily newspaper for each 100,000 persons in the United States, thus reflecting the average readership that your letter would receive. A single voter writing to a Congressman will certainly receive attention, but many voters organized behind a specific goal, command his personal attention and not just a case worker or administrative assistant.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSIARDT

Mutual Feeling of Love Is Marriage Essential

All other things being equal, married persons have a greater chance for a long life than the single. Before considering the factors that make for a healthy marriage, we must know what marriage is and is not. Primarily it is a commitment to someone we trust will be near and dear to us for the rest of our lives.

Cynics say this is impossible or even undesirable. Don't believe them. It is both possible and desirable but marriage is not a ticket to automatic permanent bliss. Maintaining a happy marriage is both the most difficult and most rewarding of human endeavors.

Scientists have shown that unless one is able to share a mutual feeling of love with another human being he cannot have a very happy or a very useful life. Love here is defined as truly caring what becomes of the loved one.

The best marriages are those in which both partners try to bolster the other's self-reliance rather than assert his or her own mastery. You must make of your spouse a true partner, not an ornament to your ego and not just one more worldly possession.

A struggle for dominance not only undermines a marriage but also damages any children that are born into this hostile atmosphere. Anyone who expects the spouse to furnish moral and physical support on a one-sided basis will soon find himself or herself blaming that spouse for failure to live up to a romantic image based on false ideals.

A successful marriage is not the unfulfilling product of a few words spoken by an officiating dignitary. The pattern of a successful marriage can be varied as the pattern of any creative art. Each couple must find for themselves the formula that works best for them. Physical maturity is not a sufficient foundation for a lasting marriage. Emotional maturity, a reasonable period of engagement and careful preparation are important ingredients. The ability to communicate openly and honestly and to iron out major and minor differences is indispensable.

If you are ever tempted to break up, remember that this, too, is no guarantee of future happiness and remember that no matter how gently the separation is accomplished, the children will inevitably suffer. My sincerest wish for all June brides and grooms is a happy golden wedding anniversary in A. D. 2019.

The young farmer was proudly admiring the brand new tractor for which he had spent his year's profits. Noting the dust on it, he called his wife:

Campus Unrest Rips Holes In Fabric of Democracy

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Extremely disturbing evidence is being presented to the government that student riots, as now developing, could have serious long-run effects upon this country.

The logic runs along these lines:

Students are considered in our society as an advantaged class, whatever background they come from. If these "advantaged" can get away with breaking the law — if even when they are caught they are given special amnesty — there is grave danger this could lead to a general feeling that this one class is above the rules. This undermines everyone's respect for law.

Violence breeds violence. Every time a student group — or any other — successfully uses violence to get what it wants, all of us are encouraged to rely on violence to gain our objectives.

When leaders of our intellectual establishment are so unsure of their values they cave in under threats, trust in rational process is destroyed. How well can a democracy operate without a basic belief in the ultimate soundness of the methods of reason?

Student militants may so politicize our universities they become centers of social-political unrest, with research and training de-emphasized.

Countries where this has happened have fallen far behind in scientific, economic and social progress.

The reports suggest the answer does not lie in satisfying the militant leaders, many of whom are sick, filled with hate and destruction. They, the authors, suggest, have always been with us and have little power in themselves.

The problems arise because these sick leaders attract a body of nonsick fellow students. They do this by cynically invoking idealism to gain support for their destruction and terrorism.

By pointing to the plight of the poor and underprivileged,

That Midway Island Trip

By PAUL HARVEY

Why does a President of the greatest, richest and most powerful nation travel halfway around the world to meet with the insecure custodian of a fourth-rate nation?

What are we trying to show; what are we trying to prove? Previous to the Midway meeting, South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu let himself predict that the Communists would accept a "temporary peace" only long enough to get the Americans out and to rest and regroup their own forces.

In Paris he let his own chief negotiator state terms for peace in diametrical contradiction to those proposed by the U.S. president.

Frequently our allies have been more trouble than our enemies; in this way, very often they are.

Because of unprecedented prosperity in Saigon, there are some important South Vietnamese who don't want this war to end yet. They've never had it so good. They don't want the deluge of American dollars cut off.

Also, South Vietnam has a constitution prohibiting participation by Communists in

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Few have achieved so much meaning with so few words as La Rochefoucauld in his "636 Maxims," published in 1678, The World Almanac says. Known for their sardonic distrust of human motives and actions, as well as their economy of words, a representative maxim might be: "If we succeed in overcoming our passions, it is more because they are weak than because we are strong."

Formerly schooling ended for most in their middle teens. Then they became self-supporting. They got married and had children. There was no need for adolescent revolt.

The situation today is made worse by the tremendous push on everyone to go to college. This has brought to the university many who do not find their satisfactions in study.

Colleges have expanded too rapidly. Classes are far too large. Student-faculty contacts are impersonal. Students are lost in anonymity.

Youth needs some romantic ideas. They want to do things. They desire to serve where they think it counts.

One report suggests widespread youth service programs for high school graduates. Young people would work in "socially relevant" projects, earning pay and getting professional training as they go.

Afterward, only those would go to college who really wanted to go.

And as we can also see in Asia and Africa and Eastern Europe, the Communists have altogether as much trouble trying to put Humpty Dumpty together as we have had.

I believe a negotiated cease-fire is presently within reach, affording a reasonably face-saving way out for us—and we, after all, should be our President's first responsibility.

President Thieu wanted the meeting on Midway Island to demand that our country guarantee his personal political future. That is not our rightful concern.

He protests that if we don't stay, his people will soon be suffering a bloodbath. As ours are.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A recent news item reported that maintenance workers in Louisville, Ky., have been armed with paint and brushes so they can daub out obscenities scrawled in public parks.

This was all the inspiration I needed for another one of my unsold Western movie scenarios:

"Dule in the Scum"
For more than a year the town of Bad Words, S.D., had been terrorized by a band of smut scrawlers known as "The Graffiti Gang."

The gang was composed of Luke Graffiti, a dirty old man, and his three nasty sons, Roy, Ben and Punk, none of whom you would want your daughter to marry.

On Saturday afternoons, the Graffiti Gang would ride into town and scrawl four-letter words on the door of the bank, the hitching post in front of the stagecoach office and other inappropriate places.

What is worse, some of the words were misspelled.

"Any creep that can't spell a four-letter word is lower than a snake's belly," declared Miss Sally Shockeasay, the pretty young schoolmarm, who had a lot of spunk.

She berated the men of the town for not standing up to the Graffiti Gang.

"If you don't put a stop to this, this whole town is going to look like a Philip Roth novel," she pointed out. But none of the townsmen were hankering to tangle with the Graffiti.

Then one day a handsome stranger alighted from the moon stage. It was none other than Peter Herd, a cowboy artist known in those parts as "the fastest sprycan in the West."

"I'm just passing through on my way to the LBJ Ranch to do a portrait," Herd explained when asked the nature of his visit.

"Beg Him To Remain"
A delegation of townsmen begged him to remain Bad Words for a confrontation with the Graffiti Gang. Herd, who had taken a shine to the pretty schoolmarm, finally agreed.

The next Saturday afternoon, he and Luke Graffiti squared off in the dusty street for a showdown. Graffiti drew first. Whipping out his six-pack of crayons, he scrawled "—" on the water trough.

Herd reached for his sprycan, his thumb pressed the button and with one quick squirt of black enamel he daubed out Graffiti's obscenity.

"I know when I'm licked," Graffiti whined. "Come on, boys, let's get out of here."

Herd left on the next stage, a hero to the townspeople.

"At last, this town is a fit place for decent folks to live," signed Miss Shockeasay. "But that paint daub on the water trough is the ugliest thing I ever saw."

Reporters Dream: Covering President

By MERRIMAN SMITH
HONOLULU (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House:

This really is the life of which journalism students and small-town reporters dream—covering a president of the United States on the beach at Waikiki.

Great dream, bad reality. A trip of the type now being undertaken by President Nixon is something less than a fun excursion. And this makes since he is not in the Pacific to pick up a tan, but for the serious business of determining whether he and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam can come to any sort of agreement which might shorten or end the war in Southeast Asia.

The large White House press party is based at the colorful beachfront Ilikai Hotel. It is more than a motel, but a complex of buildings and shops with hip-swinging hula dancers and seemingly automated musicians dotted around pools and palm trees. The reason the musicians seem more or less automated is that they play the same music over and over again. It takes a purist of island music to determine quickly the difference between "Aloha" and "Hawaiian Wedding Song."

The awe-struck tourists who gather beside the pools and broad walkways of the Ilikai have no idea in the depths of the hotel—an enormous press room with teletypes chattering away to far points of the world; dozens of telephones over which correspondents of many different nationalities are talking to their distant offices via overseas cables; a long, green-felt-covered table from which American officials appear to give the latest word on what is happening.

And what is happening? Not a great deal. Mostly second-guessing.

The large contingent of reporters traveling with Nixon and assembled here from all over the world is engaging in a classic journalistic exercise—trying to figure out what Nixon and Thieu will talk about on a Midway island for a few hours on Sunday, June 8.

The unattractive fact is that no one—not even Nixon or Thieu—can tell for sure what will take place those few Sunday hours on Midway until the time actually passes and each other.

In any event, a hundred or so reporters will spend Sunday evening in a windowless room on beautiful Waikiki Beach, hammering out what to the best of their understanding is what took place on Midway.

With good luck, they will be able to make it to bed about midnight Hawaiian time, and rise again at daylight to accompany the President home aboard their chartered press planes. Interesting experience? Certainly. Informative? This remains to be seen and read.

Guest speaker at the Top O' Texas Life Underwriters luncheon meeting Tuesday will be Max R. Sherman, an Amarillo attorney. His topic will be "An Optimistic Look at the Youth of America."

The luncheon will be at the Lamplighter Restaurant.

Sherman is a graduate of Phillips High School and was granted the bachelor of arts degree at Baylor University in 1957. In 1960 he was graduated with honors at the University of Texas School of Law.

While at Baylor Sherman was president of the Student Body and of the Texas Intercollegiate Students Association.

The Amarillo lawyer has been active in church and civic affairs, serving as chairman of the United Fund budget committee, as a director of the Cerebral Palsy campaign, and currently as chairman of the Potter-Randall Hospital and Health Facilities. He is chairman of the legislative affairs committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

War Prisoner Son of U.S. Soldier Says Treatment Okay

SAIGON (UPI)—The war prisoner son of the U.S. commander in the Pacific says he bombed civilian targets in North Vietnam but has received "very good medical treatment" since being shot down and captured, according to Radio Hanoi.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. John Sidney McCain III, downed over North Vietnam 20 months ago, was quoted as saying in a taped broadcast aimed at American troops that North Vietnamese doctors performed an operation enabling him to walk again.

McCain, who was reported to have suffered a broken leg and arm when he ejected from his crippled jet, is the son of Adm. John McCain Jr., overall commander of U.S. troops in the Pacific theater.

The English-language broadcast monitored in Saigon was one of a recent series from American prisoners in North Vietnam beamed into South Vietnam from Radio Hanoi.

The series apparently was initiated in response to U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's May 19 statement that there were "serious questions" whether U.S. prisoners were receiving humane treatment in North Vietnam.

"I have bombed the cities, towns and villages and caused injuries and even death for the people of North Vietnam," said Communists as McCain's.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Caution, not fear" should be the key word for investors in today's market, Goodbody & Co. says. Uncommitted resources should be used to take advantage of a possible "fright-motivated selloff." Over the long term "the dollar and American equities are healthier than they have been for a long time and are gathering in the world's liquid capital for promising investment," the firm points out.

The investor is faced with a continuing difficulty in developing a meaningful investment policy, Bache & Co. says, and the problem currently is one of timing and dimension. The market may decline as it reacts from the excessive expectation of a breakthrough in Vietnam and to an increasing evidence of a slowing pace of economic growth, the firm adds. Investors would be wise to look around for issues with a basic long term appeal, the analyst suggests.

While clearly on the defensive, the market remains conspicuously free of heavy liquidation for marked selling pressure, E. F. Hutton & Co. says. "Special situations continue to be aggressively pursued," it adds. "From a technical standpoint the market is now more oversold than it has been at any time since early March."

Joe Morgan doesn't mind serving his two weeks obligation in the Army Reserve, but he can't help wondering why he must go to the firing line just when he's beginning to shell National League pitching. "Little Joe," a 1-foot-7 stack of dynamite who can sputter and then explode unexpectedly, leaves for Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas, Saturday.

He saluted his departure Thursday night with a 4-for-4 game that helped Houston rout the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-6, to extend the Astros' home victory string to 11 games. He had a perfect night Thursday with four hits—three singles and his eighth homer of the season. On each occasion Morgan started a multiple run rally. His single in the first inning began a two-run outburst. Jim Wynn walked and Norm Miller followed with a double that brought in the two tallies.

Pro Golf Getting Bigger

By ED FITE
DALLAS (UPI)—John Montrey, who has been pumping time and money into promoting tournament golf for a couple of decades or more, thinks the pro golf game has been built into a monster that may one day devour itself.

et al built up the idea of the "Big 3" of golf. Montrey, who has had a major role in guiding the Texas Open—the oldest tournament on the PGA winter tour—through many of its 40-odd years of success, speaks with authority on the "monster" angle. His golf tournament at San Antonio has become a victim of it.

has operated slightly in red ink after years of black ink that built up a sizeable bankroll that was doled back out into the promotion of amateur golf for young and old in San Antonio. "Really, we had a good field last month, although the public did not buy it that way because Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player and several others were not there," Montrey said. "We had most of the winners on this year's tour—and therein lies the key to the whole situation today," he said. "The bulk of the winners are kids who are just banging to the front."

"first timer" to hit the wire first this year and that's something the men who run professional golf had best not overlook. "The public is overlooking it and that's hurting the sponsors," he said, "but what hurts the sponsors eventually is going to hurt the PGA. "The 'Big 3' no longer dominates golf. These kids, or new comers, are hitting the tour in a free-swinging mental attitude and now they have found they do not have to be awed by the likes of Arnie or Jack, or Gary, or Billy Casper."

Morgan's Hot Bat Sends Cardinals Reeling Again

Joe Morgan doesn't mind serving his two weeks obligation in the Army Reserve, but he can't help wondering why he must go to the firing line just when he's beginning to shell National League pitching.

"Little Joe," a 7-foot-7 stack of dynamite who can spitter and then explode unexpectedly, leaves for Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas, Saturday.

Beard, Maxwell Lead Western

CHICAGO (UPI) — Frank Beard and Billy Maxwell were the front-runners heading into the second round of the $130,000 Western Open today, but only four strokes separated the top 29 players to indicate a neck and neck race for the midpoint lead.

All 29 challengers bettered par of 81 on the 6,854-yard Midlothian Country Club in the first round, and 15 others equalled par to stay in convention, and with dry weather Friday, there was a good chance the field might rip the links open in the second round.

The two leaders had only a one stroke margin over Rocky Thompson and Dick Rhyon, each with 67, and two over 68 shooters Jack Ewing, Bob Goaly, Bob Murphy, Gary Player and Mike Hill.

Deadlocked at 6 were Chi-Chi Rodriguez, Gay Brewer, Bob Stanton, Joel Goldstrand, Bobby Greenwood, Ray Floyd, Bert Greene, and amateur David Shuster, while there were 13 players at 70, one under par. The field will be cut to the low 70 shooters and ties after Friday's round and it was likely the cutoff point would be 145 or 146, since 76 players were grouped at 73 and under after the first 18 holes.

He saluted his departure Thursday night with a 4-for-4 game that helped Houston rout the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-6, to extend the Astros' home victory string to 11 games.

He had a perfect night Thursday with four hits—three singles and his eighth homer of the season. On each occasion Morgan started a multiple run rally. His single in the first inning began a two-run outburst. Jim Wynn walked and Norm Miller followed with a double that brought in the two tallies.

A total of 11 pitchers were used, five by St. Louis and six by Houston. Dooley Womack won his second game in three decisions, while Mike Torrez was pinned with his third loss against one victory.

Tim McCarver was the Cards' big gun with two RBIs on a double and a sacrifice fly. Mike Shannon hit his fourth homer of the year for St. Louis. "I was fouling off the good pitches because I was swinging too fast," Morgan reveals. "Now I wait on the ball, watch it glide in and pop, I hit it."

There was no other action in the majors. A full slate is scheduled for Friday.

National League

NEW YORK (UPI)—It appears the professional football problems before tackling the tabled until next month. I-tabled until next month.

The National and American Football League owners conclude their weeklong series of meetings today, and they plan to stick to solving some joint problems before tackling the realignment issue which thus far has proved more difficult to solve than first expected.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Thursday that the realignment matter would be taken up today "if we get some time" but that didn't appear likely due to the many things still unresolved in regard to player limits, pensions and waivers.

Rozelle did say, however, that the owners probably would meet again in July in an effort to get the realignment of the National Conference straightened out.

The primary issue facing the owners today will be to try and reach agreement on the player limit for the 1969 season. Most owners favor adopting a 40-player limit, but so far the idea hasn't been accepted by the necessary majority. It takes 13 of 16 NFL owners and eight of 10 AFL owners to pass a ruling.

At Thursday's session the owners adopted a plan for the scheduling of games for the 1970 season. In order to get the best games possible for the first year of the merger, the league office will make up the initial schedule. After that the scheduling will be made up on a rotating basis.

Clay's Lawyers May Be in For Trouble Today

HOUSTON (UPI)—Chauncey Eskridge, one of three lawyers defending Cassius Clay, said today he did not think the judge would grant a 30-day delay of Clay's hearing to study wire-tapped telephone conversations.

Eskridge said U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham probably would ask both sides to present their briefs when the hearing resumed today.

Ingraham had two choices at the opening of today's session. He could ask for the briefs or allow Clay's attorneys to present witnesses.

Clay was convicted two years ago of draft evasion. Clay contended he should receive a religious exemption because he was a Black Muslim minister.

The U.S. Supreme Court sent the case back to the lower courts when the government admitted wiretapping five telephone conversations involving Clay. The government contends none of the information gathered in the monitored conversations were used to convict the former heavyweight champion.

The current hearing came at the request of Clay's lawyers who asked for a 30-day delay of the re-trial, which will decide if the conversations were used to convict Clay. The delay was asked to give the defense time to study logs of the conversations.

In the second day of the hearing Thursday, two FBI agents contradicted each other in testimony as to whether a summary of one of the wiretapped telephone calls, between Clay and Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad ever left the FBI office in Phoenix, Ariz.

Realignment To Be Tabled By NFL Owners

Prince Shoots For Triple Crown Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Big Three and the Little Three were to be entered in the $100,000 added Belmont Stakes today, and on Saturday the biggest of the big three—Majestic Prince—will attempt to cover the mile and a half distance and become the winner of the Triple Crown.

Prime challengers to the unbeaten winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness were Arts and Letters and Dike. Spear carriers were expected to be Rooney's Shield, Distry and Prime Fool.

Both Johnny Longden, who trains the Prince, and Elliott Burch, who conditions Arts and Letters, were full of confidence in their respective charges.

"I am not after second or third money," declared Burch. "I think he can go three miles."

Longden insisted Majestic Prince "will be at his best. I think my horse will go on and I think Arts and Letters will too."

How lightly regarded are the Little Three is reflected in the morning line. Majestic Prince is 6-5, Arts and Letters, 8-5, Dike 2-1. Rooney's Shield and Distry are listed at 20-1 and Prime Fool 30-1.

With six starters, the gross value will be $147,000, with the winner collecting $105,000. Second money is $25,000, third $12,500 and fourth $6,250.

Pro Golf Getting Bigger

By ED FITE DALLAS (UPI)—John Monfrey, who has been pumping time and money into promoting tournament golf for a couple of decades or more, thinks the pro golf game has been built into a monster that may one day devour itself.

"Mike McCormick and the newspapers and television created a monster and everybody ate it up," Monfrey said. "I don't blame him, of course. I wish it had been me," he added in reference to the man who as business agent for Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, et al built up the idea of the "Big 3" of golf.

Monfrey, who has had a major role in guiding the Texas Open—the oldest tournament on the PGA winter tour—through many of its 40-odd years of success, speaks with authority on the "monster" angle. His golf tournament at San Antonio has become a victim of it.

The Texas Open has been hurt increasingly in recent years by the absence of the "Big 3" and other so-called "name" golfers from its field although it met the trend and kept boosting its purses to the present $100,000 level.

Its last two presentations, minus most of the big stars, has operated slightly in red ink after years of black ink that built up a sizeable bankroll that was doled back out into the promotion of amateur and young and old in San Antonio.

"Really, we had a good field last month, although the public did not buy it that way because Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player and several others were not there," Monfrey said. "We had most of the winners on this year's tour—and therein lies the key to the whole situation today," he said. "The bulk of the winners are kids who are just banging to the front."

"Deane Beman, who won his first title here, was the ninth

'first timer' to hit the wire first this year and that's something the men who run professional golf had best not overlook.

"The public is overlooking it and that's hurting the sponsors," he said, "but what hurts the sponsors eventually is going to hurt the PGA."

"The 'Big 3' no longer dominates golf. These kids, or new comers, are hitting the tour in a free-swinging mental attitude and now they have found they do not have to be awed by the likes of Arnie or Jack, or Gary, or Billy Casper."
