City Auditorium Committee Will Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of the M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Committee has been called for 2 p.m. Monday in the west Starlight Room of Coronado Inn. E. L. Green Jr., committee chairman, said purpose of the meeting will be to discuss recent developments in connection with the proposed city auditorium.

William Jarrel Smith, secretary of the M. K. Brown Foundation, Inc., announced Thursday that approximately $800,000 will be available from the Foundation "for assisting in the construction and furnishing of a municipal auditorium for Pampa."

Smith will attend tomorrow afternoon's meeting. In his announcement, the Foundation secretary stated trustees had agreed "additional funds must be made available, or arrangements made to have them available in the sum of $1,000,000 in order to receive the Foundation's assistance."

The announcement also stated "there must be a plan and a program under way satisfactory to the M. K. Brown Foundation, as well as to the Gray-Pampa Foundation which has agreed to furnish the building site, by Dec. 31 of the current year."

The announcement stated Foundation trustees had agreed that a satisfactory auditorium could not be built for less than $1,800,000.

Chairman Green said notices had been sent to all committee members and urged that they attend tomorrow's important session.

U.S. Expects North Viets, Viet Cong To Break Lull

WHEN IT RAINS, IMPROVISE—When you're out riding in your little sports car and it starts to rain what can you do if your car doesn't have a convertible top? Improvise! Even an umbrella provided a little protection for this motorist during showers which were common in the Pampa area Saturday.

Frank Borman Places Wreath At Lenin's Tomb

MOSCOW (UPI)—U.S. astronaut Frank Borman Saturday laid a wreath at Lenin's tomb and visited Star City, the home of Russian astronauts on the outskirts of Moscow.

Borman, commander of Apollo 8—the first manned space ship to fly around the moon—also visited the grave of Yuri Gagarin, the first man in space, and Vladimir Komarov who died when his Soyuz-T space capsule made a faulty reentry into the earth's atmosphere.

At Lenin's tomb in Red Square, Borman placed a wreath with the inscription: "To V.I. Lenin, the founder of the Soviet State, from U.S. astronaut Frank Borman." The placing of a wreath at the tomb is a formality carried out by nearly all visiting officials.

He placed bunches of carnations at the places in the Kremlin wall where Gagarin and Komarov were buried. Gagarin, who made the world's first space flight in 1961, died when his jet plane crashed in 1968.

Communists Ready To Open New Drive

SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. military intelligence sources said Saturday North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops plan to break the two-week lull in the war with a new wave of attacks designed to strengthen the communist hand at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

The sources said the plans are outlined in several "high-level" communist documents which have been captured within the past 19 days. No timetable for the attacks was reported.

One of the documents, it was reported, referred specifically to attacks in the Mekong Delta area being vacated by troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division under the plan to withdraw 25,000 Americans from the war zone by the end of next month.

A new wave of assaults would follow the pattern of previous lulls in the war. U.S. commanders say North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units frequently avoid contact for sustained periods to regroup and resupply.

The current absence of major fighting has produced hope in Saigon that Hanoi may have ordered a scaling down of combat, perhaps in response to the U.S. troop withdrawal plan.

North Vietnam's Chief Negotiator Returns To Paris

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam's chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks returned to the French capital Saturday after a six-week absence, "with good will and a serious attitude" but said any break in the deadlock negotiations must come from concessions by the Americans.

Xuan Thuy, speaking to newsmen at Le Bourget Airport where he arrived from Moscow, also repeated North Vietnam's demand that "America must withdraw all its forces and allow the Vietnamese people to solve their affairs themselves without outside interference."

Thuy, who is minister of state in the North Vietnamese government, had been in Hanoi for consultations and before returning to Paris had stopped over in Moscow and Peking where he briefed officials on the Vietnamese situation.

The Hanoi negotiator refused to comment on American reports that the slackening of communist activity in Vietnam was a possible sign of goodwill to ease the Paris talks.

But Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief Viet Cong negotiator, denied the reports. "This is a subterfuge by (President) Nixon who is intensifying the war on the one hand and pretending negotiating tactics were successfully achieving results, however small," she said.

Allied officials at the talks had expressed hope that the return of Thuy may herald a new position on the communist side.

The only indication Thuy gave that North Vietnam may take a more flexible position was when he said "I return here with goodwill and a serious attitude." Diplomatic observers said, however, that it appeared the Communists would stick to their 10-point plan for peace in Vietnam presented by the Viet Cong.

Devastating Storm Hits Ohio; 14 Dead, 200 Lost

CLEVELAND (UPI)—An armada of U.S. Coast Guard rescue craft scoured windswept Lake Erie Saturday in a massive search for 200 persons believed missing in the wake of a killer storm.

The search was concentrated in an area ranging from Cleveland west about 100 miles to Toledo where hundreds of pleasure boats were caught Friday night in a sudden storm accompanied by 100-mile per hour winds.

The storm, accompanied by tornadoes, killed at least 14 persons in Ohio; Seven of the dead were killed in the Cleveland area which bore the brunt of the storm that struck across northern Ohio during the height of Fourth of July celebrations.

A Coast Guard spokesman said at least 120 pleasure boats were unaccounted for. He said, however, "we feel most of these may be in port and have not bothered to contact us, or have not been able to contact us."

The Coast Guard was taking no chances. It pressed into service 30 small boats, four large Coast Guard cutters, two Canadian Coast Guard cutters and 14 aircraft, including helicopters and amphibious planes.

The lake, lashed by 15 to 21 knot winds, was declared a disaster area from Toledo to Buffalo, N.Y., to keep civilian aircraft out of the airspace over the lake, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard said it had rescued 50 persons Friday night before the search was called off and estimated that another 100 persons were brought to safety Saturday.

The storm dumped as much as eight inches of rain on some areas in less than 24 hours. Swollen rivers and streams caused dams to break in Ashland and Norwalk. A second reservoir north of Norwalk was reported by the sheriff's office to be in danger of breaking.

Seven persons were reported missing in the Wooster area, including a family of five and two policemen.

They were killed when a tree crashed on them as they raced for the shelter of a picnic pavilion at Edgewater Park on Cleveland's West Side.

Joanna Geneva, 23, was also killed in Edgewater Park and Greta Schwartz, 16, and Dagmar Dolejs, 14, both of Lakewood, were killed by fallen trees at a park there during a fireworks festival.

Samuel Butler, 44, and Elmer Wachhaus, 50, were killed during a lull in the storm when they attempted to remove fallen electrical wires from their car.

Ernest Paszczykowski, 20, Toledo, was killed when a tree fell on him at Cedar Point, an amusement park near Sandusky.

Floods struck the Ashland, Norwalk, Wooster and Sandusky area. In Ashland, a reservoir broke and sent hundreds of thousands of gallons of water cascading into the city.

One patrolman there said "it was not known how deep the water was but 'it's deep enough to float the oil tanker truck that just went by the window.'"

The Ohio highway patrol said at least three persons had drowned there.

Hundreds of persons ranged along the shores of Lake Erie, among them anxious relatives who were awaiting word on the fate of loved ones.

Gov. James A. Rhodes toured the Northern Ohio area on foot and in the air Saturday and called the disaster "devastating."

The governor's plane flew low over flooded areas between

Pampans Enjoy Safe Weekend; Fireworks Dominate Program

Despite the threat of rain, approximately 1,000 persons attended the annual Fourth of July patriotic program and fireworks display Friday night at Recreation Park.

Many enjoyed the program from the rodeo arena grandstand, while others viewed the fireworks from cars parked around the Festival Grounds. It was presented by the Pampa Roping Club.

The formal part of the program began at 9:15 with the Boy Scouts presenting the state and national colors, the Pledge of Allegiance, an invocation by the Rev. Jimmy Phillips of the First Assembly of God Church and the singing of the National Anthem.

Don Lane, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented a brief address on Independence Day and what it means to Americans at this time.

Then the fireworks display, entitled "The Bombing of Hong Kong" began.

According to Pampa police there were no major incidents or crimes during the day. The police investigated three minor traffic accidents.

A HELPING HAND

Shriners Ready To Aid Needy Children

The Masonic Crippled Children's Services organization of the Pampa Shrine Club, currently sponsoring 15 active cases, is ready to take on additional cases to help children under 15 whose parents are unable to pay for hospital care, doctor fees and surgical treatment.

Aubrey Jones and Roy Kay, local coordinators of the services for the Shrine, Blue Lodge, Knights Templar and Scottish Rite Masonic orders, said Saturday the services are available to children in the Top O' Texas area who need help. The services afford corrective treatment for crippled children, treatment to save eyesight and treatment for severe burns.

"We need contact with children whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment, hospital and doctor's care," Jones said.

"All that is needed," he added, "is for parents of an eligible child to make contact with the Shrine Club's Crippled Children's Services Committee.

The case will be immediately investigated.

The coordinators pointed out that pre-school age is the best time to start corrective treatment and the summertime is best for school age children.

"There is only one stipulation," Jones stated. "It must be established that there is a possibility of assisting the child to the extent it can take its rightful place in society."

Hospitals available for treatment of the children include the Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas, the Shriners' Burns Institute in Galveston, and the Knights Templar Eye Foundation.

Other members of the Pampa Shrine Association Children's Services group who may be contacted for assistance are Truman Atkaway, Don Conley, A. B. Moore, V. E. Wagner, H. V. Walls, all in Pampa, and Frank Slaten, Canadian. Dr. Julian Key is the association's consulting physician.

University Coed Shot, Her Condition Serious

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—A pretty University of Michigan doctoral candidate was in serious condition but doing unexpectedly well Saturday after being shot twice in the head at her apartment two blocks from the campus.

Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter Krasny said "There's a possibility" that the shooting of Margaret Phillips, 25, of Coopersville, Mich., may be connected with the brutal sex murders of six young women in the area within the past two years.

"But right now, we don't know," he said. "You can't overlook anything. We would like to think this has no connection," Krasny said.

The bodies of six shapely, long-haired brunettes ranging in age from 13 to 23 have been found within a 15 mile triangle near this university town and the neighboring town of Ypsilanti, home of Eastern Michigan University.

Miss Phillips, a pretty blonde who was studying for a Ph.D. in sociology, underwent surgery for four hours at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital and doctors said she was doing surprisingly well. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phillips, left their home for Ann Arbor as soon as they learned of the shooting to be at their daughter's bedside.

Krasny said he was hopeful detectives could talk with Miss Phillips soon to get a description of her assailant. He said she was shot shortly after midnight.

Miss Phillips' roommate, whose name Krasny did not reveal, said she was awakened by voices at the door of the apartment while she slept in an adjoining room, Krasny said. She said Miss Phillips let a male into the apartment and she heard them talking for about 10 minutes before she heard several shots.

The roommate did not hear any unusual noises before the shots were fired, Krasny said. He said it appeared that no attempt was made to sexually molest the girl.

"It would appear that she knew the guy who shot her," Krasny said.

"I think there was no question he intended to kill her and he left her for dead," Krasny said.

Convict Writes While Waiting On Death Row

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI)—Edgar H. Smith Jr., on death row here now for a dozen years, quietly sits in his cell writing in longhand, his second book.

Condemned to die for the slaying March 4, 1957 of a 15-year-old Bergen County girl, Smith, 35, awaits a hearing in U.S. District court on his charges that a confession used against him was coerced.

The U. S. Supreme Court last November ordered the hearing, ruling that Smith should not be prejudiced because his attorney did not demand a hearing on the issue in 1961 when his case was in the trial stage.

Two months after Victoria Zielinski's battered body was found in a deserted area of northern New Jersey, Smith began his wait on death row.

Last fall he published his first book, "Brief Against Death," in which he seeks to prove his innocence.

His second book is a novel, but neither prison officials nor his attorney will say what it is about.

The New York Times, in its review, said "Brief Against Death" was his version of what happened, a reconstruction of the police interrogation and his trial "... an autobiography, a crime thriller."

Boy Scouts' Tents Slashed
Pampa police received a report last night from unhappy Boy Scouts.

A Pampa scout troop had left their camp at Marcus-Sanders Park last night and attended the fireworks display at the rodeo grounds.

When the scouts returned they found their tents had been slashed with a knife and tent poles broken.

Damage was estimated at $75.

reflected the relative quiet on battlefronts.

Allied spokesmen said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners carried out 18 shelling attacks Friday night and Saturday morning, the highest number in 11 days, but far below the pre-lull intensity. On some nights, as many as 100 targets have been hit.

Only two of the Friday-Saturday shelling were listed as "significant." One was an attack on a U.S. 4th Infantry Division base near Pleiku and the other a shelling of a town 52 miles southwest of Saigon that wounded five Vietnamese civilians and one soldier.

In the Pleiku attack, U.S. casualties were described as "light."

The only U.S. battle deaths reported in communiques Saturday were three Americans killed when their light observation helicopter was shot down 52 miles south of the northern coastal city of Da Nang.

In a series of small skirmishes, troops of the U.S. 9th Division reported killing 56 men fighting under communist banners. South Korean troops operating along Highway 1 on the central coast reported killing 51 more in search and destroy and ambush operations.

Spokesmen said Viet Cong terrorists killed nine civilians and wounded 37 Friday and Saturday.

Borger Lawman Kills Fleeing Negro Youth

BORGER—An 18-year-old Borger youth was fatally shot Friday morning by a Borger policeman as he, according to Chief of Police, Arthur Waight, attempted to flee officers who had arrested him earlier on a felony check charge.

The Negro youth, Robert Lee King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel King of 112 Baird, was dead on arrival at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo about 1 p.m.

Death was attributed to a gunshot wound in his lower right side, according to a hospital spokesman.

The shooting occurred in the 300 block of 6th about 11:30 a.m. after patrolman Leslie Taylor, 24, a member of the Borger Police Department about four months, stopped King, who allegedly had fled from other officers at the police station about four blocks away.

According to Waight, after the youth was apprehended by Taylor, he lunged at the officer and then ran. He further said that King did not display a weapon to the officer, but a pocket knife was found in his pocket.

District Attorney Bob Galloway is going to ask for a Matchison County Grand Jury investigation, Waight said. He said an investigation by the grand jury is normal procedure in a situation such as this.

King had been arrested earlier in the morning after a Borger grocery store manager refused to cash a check he thought forged and took down the car license number of the person who had the check.

Shortly after the incident was reported King and another youth were stopped and King was placed under arrest and booked on a forgery charge.

He told officers that the check was his car, then broke and ran while being escorted by three officers to the car, police said.

A search was begun immediately east of the police station, and the youth was reaprehended by Taylor.

King, who was walking towards Taylor, lunged at him then ran. It was then that Taylor shot him, Waight said.

Hand-Controlled Car Jumps Curb In Booker, Kills Area Farmer

BOOKER — A hand-control equipped car driven by a 57-old paraplegic jumped a curb and fatally injured a Booker resident during the celebration of Booker's 50th anniversary Friday.

Richard Buxman, 45, a Booker farmer, was pronounced dead on arrival at Ochiltree County Hospital apparently as the result of a crushed chest.

State Highway Patrolman Ralph Pedigo quoted O. G. Mills, driver of the car, as saying the gas control handle was broken and the foot feed which he was using apparently stuck.

The car hit Buxman who was sitting on the curb and was unable to get out of the car's path in time.

Pampa police reported a pickup belonging to Vernon Davenport of Shamrock was stolen late last night or early this morning.

The pickup was found in the 800 block of S. Finley and later police received a report from F. E. Mathey, 806 Brunson, that his car had been stolen.

Fake Bombs Are Uncovered Along Charles' Route

SWANSEA, Wales (UPI)—Explosives experts today uncovered another fake bomb along the rail route Prince Charles was taking toward the most troublesome part of his principality on the third day of meeting the Welsh people. The 20-year-old Charles, invested as the 21st Prince of Wales Tuesday, left Swansea today to visit seven more towns in southeast Wales before returning to the royal yacht Britannia from Newport. Hours before the prince left, experts closely searching the rail line said they found a steel box strapped to a bridge at Aber Beeg. Authorities said the box contained no explosives. Disposal experts also were called out at Swansea during the night after authorities received an anonymous telephone tip that a bomb had been placed in the post office. A police spokesman said it was a hoax. As Prince Charles was being feted Thursday night at a reception in Swansea, the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) screened a special film on how to blow up a pipeline. The television program, titled "Free Wales Army Activity," drew outspoken complaints from police who have been busy chasing down bomb hoaxes and trying to protect the prince.

Panhandle Water

This columnist is away on vacation in South Texas and the South Arkansas where the rainfall far exceeds that of West Texas. Today's column was prepared before leaving on vacation. While looking back over some essays on conservation of water I was fascinated by one written by Jean Hughes, a 1966 high school senior. It shocked me and I think it will shock you just a little too.

"Dry, barren land lay as far as the eye could see. Only small areas remained where the land was not cracked and the top layer of the soil curled at the edges ready for a dusty boot to fall upon it and make a dreaded crunching sound. Shutters of the structure which was once a home banged endlessly while the wind whistled through what remained of the screen door. Cattle bawled and wandered aimlessly stirring up little puffs of dust as they searched for water that would give them relief. One could hear the groaning of a rusty windmill as it made routine circular motions in vain. There was little water left for this indispensable resource, a vital ingredient of all living matter, had been used foolishly and wasted until it was almost impossible to find. When it was found, it became a strain on everyone because it had to be issued like the last "can" of rations made available to the survivors of a sea disaster."

Golf Greens Feeding Topic Of Turfgrass

COLLEGE STATION.—A progress report on golf green nutrition will be one of the topics under discussion at the annual Texas Turfgrass Field Day, July 9, on the Texas A&M University campus.

Dr. George G. McBee, assistant professor, Department of Soil and Crop Sciences at Texas A&M, said registration would begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Assembly Room of the Memorial Student Center, and the program will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The field day will begin with an indoor session, which will include discussions on results from overseeded trials, and research on cold tolerance in August and Trifolium. Also, all the research currently being conducted will be summarized during the session, said McBee.

The second session will begin with a tour of the Turf Research Plots. Control of dandelions, fertilizer-fungicide experiments on Trifolium, and chemical edging trials will be included in part of the session.

The tour will also take in phytotoxicity of herbicides on St. Augustine. Some new varieties of bermuda grass will be discussed, along with the differences in the shades of green of the bermuda.

Several grasses plus certain chemicals are being tested under shaded conditions, said McBee. These will also be included in the tour.

Carson County 4-H Club Dress Reveal has been scheduled for July 10 at 8:30 p.m., according to Edith Hughes, county home demonstration agent. The reveal will be in First United Methodist Church's fellowship hall.

The annual meeting of the state's County Home Demonstration Agents Association will take place this year at Amarillo, it is disclosed. The dates are Aug. 6-9.

SHEEP & LAMB NUMBERS CONTINUE DOWNWARD—Sheep and lambs in the nation have declined in number by more than a third since 1960 and three-fifths since 1942. They totaled 21.1 million head on January 1, 1969, a drop of 5 per cent from a year earlier, reported John McHapey, Extension economist. A record 56.2 million head made up the January 1, 1942 inventory. McHapey says 1969 lamb prices likely will average above any year since 1951.

TURFGRASS FIELD DAY—The annual Texas Turfgrass Field Day will be held at Texas A&M University on July 9, reports Geo. McBee, Department of Soil and Crop Sciences. The morning session will be held in the Assembly Room, Memorial Student Center, beginning at 9:30. The afternoon program will feature a tour of the turf research plots.

CONTROL WEEDS AND GRASS IN COTTON WITH CHEMICALS—Proper timing of postemergence herbicides will keep cotton free of weeds. Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist, advises farmers not to wait too long to begin applications even if pre-emergence chemicals have been used. He adds that Texas cotton producers have available a long list of postemergence herbicides for doing the job and suggests that they visit the local county agent for detailed information.

Pig Litter Size To Be Talked By Purdue Expert

LUBBOCK.—The physiologic factors which help to increase the size of litters of pigs will be discussed by Purdue University swine specialist Richard Hollandbeck at the 17th annual Swine Short Course at Texas Tech July 10-11.

Dr. Hollandbeck, professor of animal science at the Indiana School, will team with J. K. Butler Jr., executive secretary, of North Carolina Pork Producers to headline the panel of speakers.

Butler will discuss methods of organizing and operating strong producer groups and promotion of the industry from production through consumption.

Tech Prof. Leland Tribble, said Dr. Hollandbeck will tell West Texas and Eastern New Mexico Pork producers how good breeding, feeding and disease control, tied together by good management, result in successful swine production operations.

Dr. Hollandbeck has been an extension swine specialist at Purdue almost 15 years. He received the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Illinois in 1955.

He was born on a central Indiana general livestock farm and after service in the Seabees during World War II began his college education at Purdue, moving to the University of Illinois for his master's and Ph.D.

Prevention Of Dust At Almost Record Low Scours Aided By Acid Oil

COLLEGE STATION.—Texas A&M University researchers have found that an inexpensive by-product of the cottonseed oil refining process contains a factor which prevents common scours in calves.

The by-product is acidulated soapstock (acid oil), which is an excellent source of fat in milk replacer formulas for calves and has a unique anti-diarrhetic quality.

Research dates back to 1956 when Dr. R. E. Leighton of the A&M Animal Science Department discovered an anti-scours substance in a methylated product made from cottonseed oil soapstock. Later attempts to isolate the factor revealed that it was in the non-distillable, hexane-insoluble, saponifiable fraction of the product.

Because this finding indicated similar results might be obtained from a less sophisticated soapstock product, Leighton and co-workers explored the use of a number of cottonseed oil by-products.

Leighton said excellent success has been reached in the past two years with dairy calves fed a milk-replacer formula containing 15 per cent acidulated soapstock. The material was supplied by Anderson, Clayton and Company.

The researcher noted that the cottonseed oil refining industry formerly regarded the product as of little value. Disposal was often a problem. Later, uses were found in the feed industry, but it is currently the least expensive fat ingredient in calf milk replacers.

Cost per pound is 5 cents or less in large quantities.

"The ever-increasing use of milk replacer formulas in feeding both dairy and beef calves, plus the surprising reduction in calf diarrhea which results when the acid oil is used in the diet, suggests that this finding will be of considerable importance to livestock feeders, feed manufacturers, veterinarians and the cottonseed oil industry," Leighton said.

TEMPLE, TEX.—Air benefits many more persons than might be suspected, said Graham.

"Dust harms people with asthma, emphysema, hay fever and other respiratory ailments. It wears out electric motors, cars, buses, trucks, tractors and anything with moving parts."

"And it settles in homes, grinding furniture, floors and carpets."

Less than 500,000 acres, or about half the 5-year average, were damaged in Texas this year, Graham says with satisfaction. His report was the result of an annual survey made by SCS offices in the 34 million acre area of West Texas subject to severe blowing during the Nov. 1 to May 31 blow season.

Of the land damaged this season 460,000 acres were cropland and 9600 acres were rangeland. Some 17,000 acres of non-farm land, such as roads and bare city land, also were damaged by plowing.

SCS conservationists help farmers, ranchmen, city officials and other users of land plan and apply measures to prevent wind and water erosion. The work is done through 187 locally operated soil and water conservation districts in Texas, Graham said.

TAKING THE BITE OUT—The best method for stopping the itching from chigger bites is not to get bitten. Before going into an area where the pests may be present, use a repellent. They are available in aerosol containers, as dusts or sprays. Dusting sulfur does a good job, says Weidon Newton, associate Extension entomologist, but may not be as effective as some of the repellents. Areas, including lawns, may be dusted or sprayed to eliminate the mites. The larvae stage of the insect is the troublemaker.

To prevent wood decay in a house, keep decay fungi from entering the lower part of the structure. Use dry wood, protect it against rain, use naturally decay-resistant wood, and use paints and preservatives on the wood, remind Extension housing specialists at Texas A&M University.

If you have trash-collection service, wrap small containers of surplus pesticides in several layers of newspapers and place them in the trash can. Do not dispose of the surplus where it may be a hazard to fish and wildlife, say Extension home management specialists. Do not discard it outdoors or where it can contaminate water.

Crop Damage Payment to 28 Counties Of Texas '69

COLLEGE STATION.—Wheat growers in 28 Texas counties and one county in New Mexico are sharing in Federal Crop Insurance payments totaling $423,500 for crop damage.

Ben A. Jordan, Jr., state director for the FCIC, said the loss is the second largest since 1956, although farmers made one of their better wheat crops this year. He said the loss total is based on pre-harvest estimates only, but actual field inspections were the prime factors considered in making it.

New Mexico's Curry County suffered the most severe damage with insured losses expected to top the $100,000 mark. Texas counties with losses of $20,000 or more include Carson, Castro, Dallam, Hale, Hansford, Moore, Ochiltree and Swisher.

Spot damage was reported in Baylor, Collin, Cooke, Deaf Smith, Denton, Fannin, Ployd, Gray, Grayson, Harley, Hutchinson, Jones, Knox, Lipscomb, Oldham, Parmer, Sherman, Foard, Randall and Wilbarger Counties.

About 263 farm units are involved in the insured loss payments this year, Jordan said. Jordan said FCIC has paid large wheat claims in 17 of the 28 years the insurance has been available in the two-state area. For insured farmers, this has meant nearly $11 million in additional income.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
My earlier prediction of 15 to 18 bushels of wheat per acre was more nearly correct than my late prediction of 18 to 22 bushels per acre. I have heard many yield reports that ran as low as 10 bushels per acre. I've never seen as wide a variation in yields as I have this year. Boyd Sheppard in the Grandview Community made over 54 bushels per acre on close to one-half section. This was irrigated wheat. Another irrigated farmer reported to me he made only 15 bushels per acre. Rains during the past winter seemed to be about as spotted as the wheat yields. Many of the 10-bushel reports were not affected by hail. I believe you will see more and more wheat being grazed out unless the price of wheat can get back to a much higher level. It is doubtful if a 15-bushel dry land crop will break even on today's price.

Recently I received a legislative report published by the Texas Farm Bureau that would be of interest to many people. One bill has to do with the shooting or discharging any gun, pistol or firearm in, on along, or across any public road. This bill was signed into law and imposed a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $200 on any convicted violator. You farmers, perhaps ought to warn your city cousins about hunting jack rabbits from the road. This is not only dangerous to livestock but to human life as well. I know of one incident in Armstrong County where a rancher was forced to shoot a rabbit hunter that had been drinking. The victim recovered but the bullet missed his spine by less than one inch.

Another law that most farmers will be hearing about, this has to do with slow-moving vehicles transported or trailed down any public street or highway. These vehicles must display the standard slow-moving vehicle emblem. This is a triangular sign of standard size that is built of a reflective material. I do not know when this law takes effect. Some of the farm organizations have these emblems for sale. I think they can be purchased through the local Gray County Farm Bureau office. You might want to contact Mrs. Jack Chisum, local Farm Bureau secretary. Her telephone number is MO 4-3811.

Chicken Cheap As Well As Tasty

One of the most practically priced of protein foods on the grocer's shelf today is chicken. A check of the markets discloses:

"Well, it's certainly cheaper than steak," a grocer said in response to inquiry. "Also delicious."

"Whole chicken sells at about 35 cents a pound," the grocer added. "Whereas the least you can pay for steak is about 98 cents."

In Dallas last week advertisements list a 6-pound package of chicken breasts at $1.39, breast quarters at 45 cents a pound, hens at 45 cents a pound, cut up, fresh or frozen fryers at 39 cents, and even a 24-ounce can of chicken in dumplings for 49 cents.

The Pampa grocer noted that here chicken breasts sell at 79 cents currently. And a package of necks and backs may retail at 19 cents.

"These cheaper parts are as edible as any but they also are purchased often as pet food," the dealer explained.

Mutton, Veal Growing More Scarce Yearly

COLLEGE STATION, — Sheep and lambs on the nation's farms and ranches have declined by more than a third since 1960 and three-fifths since 1942. On Jan. 1, 1969, John G. McHaney, Extension economist at Texas A&M University, said the number was down to 21.1 million head, 3 percent below a year ago.

Most of the decline, he noted, was in breeding ewes, 4 percent for the nation and about 7 percent for stock sheep in Texas. The number of replacements was also down in Texas and the nation by 5 percent.

Considering supply and price trends for red meat in general, the economist said the outlook for lamb prices seems favorable. Lamb prices will continue to be influenced by supplies and prices of other meats; however, the effect will be lessened as the relative supply of lamb is reduced, he said.

Lamb slaughter in the summer and fall of 1969 is expected to continue below last year due to the smaller lamb crop this year. McHaney noted that slaughter supplies in the second half of 1969 are likely to be lower than a year ago. The shift to earlier lambing in some Western States probably will lessen second half slaughter and there is also the possibility that some producers may begin herd rebuilding in 1969, he explained.

McHaney said lamb prices in the early summer are expected to continue seasonally weak but above a year earlier. And, he added, they may not decline as sharply as in other recent years. He looks for 1969 lamb prices to average above any year since 1951.

Here's a simple rule to keep in mind as you shop for table lamps: table height plus lamp base height (to the lower edge of surplus pesticides in several height of the person using the lamp. This advice is from Texas A&M University Extension housing specialists.

SUMMER CARE OF ROSES

Proper care of roses at this time of the year will insure attractive plants and abundant flowers this fall, says Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist. Regular applications of a complete fertilizer plus a continuation of the insect and disease control program are musts he adds. Fertilization is not recommended after early August.

More than 96 per cent of all U.S. farms are now electrified, as compared with 10 per cent in 1935, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Weed Control With Herbicide Should Start

COLLEGE STATION, — Proper timing of post-emergence herbicides will keep cotton free of weeds, but producers should not wait too long to begin post-emergence applications even if pre-emergence chemicals have been used, says Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist at Texas A&M University.

Herbicides are designed to help keep a weed or grass problem from developing. Things to consider are size of the cotton, weed or grass that is to be controlled and also the temperature. Texas cotton producers have available to them more post-emergence herbicides than ever before.

Herbicides such as naptal are still one of the most effective materials that can be applied, said Elliott. It may not be quite as effective, he noted, in the control of teaweed or cocklebur as DSMA or MSMA combined with Cotaran or Herban.

Cotaran plus DSM or MSA plus a surfactant may be used on cotton that is three inches or more in height. Mixtures are usually effective on weeds that are less than two inches in height. The combination is generally more effective than Cotaran alone, especially on cocklebur, Johnsongrass, and tielives.

Herban plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant is also recommended. This is another mixture that is generally effective on most weeds in the seedling stage.

After cotton is six inches or more in height, the list of herbicides increases. Cotaran, Cotaran DSMA or MSMA, Caparol, Caparol plus DSM or MSMA, Karmex, Karmex plus DSMA or MSMA, Lorox and Lorox plus DSMA or MSMA, should all be applied with a surfactant and as a directed spray.

Materials containing the arsenicals of DSM or MSMA are more effective than individual herbicides, but are limited to two applications and should not be applied after first bloom. It is not recommended that any post-emergence herbicide be applied over the top of cotton, noted Elliott, as it could result in reduced yields and delayed maturity.

ABILENE — "Pollution and the Quality of Our Environment" will be the theme of the July 24-26 annual meeting of the Texas Council of the Soil Conservation Society of America, according to Dr. F. M. Churchill.

Dr. Churchill is professor of agriculture at Abilene Christian College and president of the host Rolling Plains chapter of the Texas Council. Abilene and West Texas Chambers of Commerce are co-hosts.

Registration begins at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 24, at Abilene's Windsor Hotel. Opening session is 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Individuals on the program, according to Dr. Churchill will be: James Abbott, Temple, council president; Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, Abilene, president emeritus of Hardin-Simmons University; Robert Wagstaff, Abilene, director of Water, Inc.; Hugh Yantis, Austin; executive director of Texas Water Quality Board; C. A. Rechenstin, Temple, council president-elect; Dr. Frank Counselman, Abilene, former president of American Association of Petroleum Geologists; and Dr. B. L. Allen, Lubbock, Texas Tech professor of soils.

Dr. Churchill said the July council meeting will be a prelude to the Aug. 10-13 national meeting of the Soil Conservation Society at Colorado State University in Fort Collins.

President John F. Kennedy was named "father of the year" in 1963.

By CLEO TOM TERRY

Ernest R. Archambeau has supplied me with a lot of historical information. I have mentioned the 1880 census roll and now I'd like to quote from a letter written to me in 1967.

"There is a great deal of information in a census roll. I thought you might like to have this list of people living in Hutchinson County in 1880."

"Wm. E. Anderson used the Scissors brand. He had not only men who were herding cows but also men who were herding sheep. This seems to reflect the fact that cowmen and sheepmen were not necessarily enemies as the wild west writers would insist. There were sheep herders all over the Panhandle in 1880, indicating that there were many sheep here."

"The dwelling number on the census indicates one building. The family number indicates a group living as one household. In other counties there were instances of two families living in one dwelling."

"There is one instance of this on this roll. The W. E. Anderson family (he was a single man, you will note) consisted of himself and his hands. There were, however, two families living in dwelling no. 18. John E. Miller lived in the same dwelling with J. H. Wright. Note that Taylor, a native of England, had married a Mexican girl in New Mexico. They were living in Colorado when their oldest daughter was born. They were living there at least until 1875 when their third child, a girl, was born. They were, however, living in Texas when Maria Maria was born."

in 1878. This gives an idea where families were living before they came to Texas.

"Note the large number of foreign born people. In some instances their parents were foreign born even though they themselves were natives of the U.S. Note the fact that there were four Wright brothers. James H. Wright had two brothers living with him, both single. Melville B. Wright, (family No. 24) seems also to have been a brother. All four were born in Missouri. Their father born in Virginia and their mother in Kentucky. One would conclude that Melville B. was no doubt a brother, since the birthplaces of the parents of all were Virginia and Kentucky."

"You might be curious about Richard McNulty who ran the Turkey Track in those days. He was listed (as McNulty) in Roberts County as was Henry Creswell. The only others listed in Roberts County as 'raising cattle' were George Hill and Thos. Brannon, each of whom was listed in his separate 'dwelling'. Several others were listed actually as 'raising cattle' but since they lived with Hill and Brannon, it seems likely that they were employees, actually 'herding cows'."

"There were early negro settlers in several of the other counties, but none in Hutchinson. There were no residents listed in 1880 as living in Carson County."

It has been my desire since the early 1940s, to see what people who brought the early brands and earmarks to Hutchinson County—where they came from and where they went.

I have lost out on most of the stories of the people on the old census rolls, because, as I stated in a recent column, in 1900 and a little later not one person on the 1880 census actually lived in Hutchinson County. But I did enough work and received enough response that I do have a fair-sized book for which I have so far been unable to secure a publisher.

Many stories are lost simply because cowmen and cowboys simply do not want to be quoted. Though they are vociferous in their disapproval of authors who write inaccurately of the early cow-raising days, they don't want an author to say that "Mr. So and So said Thus and So!" That might be "bragging" and a Texan, contrary to public opinion, despises a person who could be even casually accused of "blowing!"

The Texas Brags and the accepted idea, elsewhere, that Texans are braggarts must've come from the Chamber of Commerce pamphlets, which actually only stated facts, and not personal adventures.

Our amazing woman, Anna Cooper Merchant of Clarendon was an exception to this unfortunate rule. She would tell you anything you wished to know, provided she was sure she would not be misquoted or her sayings slanted by the reporter, so long as the telling could not hurt another person.

One of the very few instances of trouble between cowboys and nesters was called the Turkey Track War, though it was far from a war. The trouble started when the nesters came in and settled on the waterholes. Few of the big ranchmen objected to this; the Turkey Tracks didn't.

But cows had to have water, too, and most of the nesters kept dog packs for hunting. Probably to protect their gardens, or from a false sense of fear for their children, many nesters "dogged" the cows when they came to the watering holes to drink. This caused fist fights between nesters and cowhands and threats became common.

"All I ask is for you all to let the cattle alone," Cal Merchant would tell the nesters. But of course others must have made threats and often Turkey Track cowboys would ride in the pastures and find three and four-year-old steers shot in their tracks.

Two cowboys, one of them Tom Coble, living in Headquarters and working with the other boys for his keep was one of them. Most of the cowboys carried six-shooters but Cal Merchant never carried a gun.

Californians Say Reagan's Thank You, A Tragedy

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—California state employees, who voluntarily worked for Gov. Ronald Reagan during the chaotic fiscal crisis, claimed today they were "slapped in the face" with his new $6.2 billion budget.

"The governor's thank you is a tragedy," declared the California State Employees Association, which represents 112,000 members.

Reagan officially put state government back in business Thursday evening when he signed a budget dramatically passed five hours earlier by the legislature.

Among his record $125 million "blue penciled" cuts was $4.6 million earmarked for employee pay hikes.

The 186,000 workers still got a 5 per cent salary boost. But the legislature had proposed that 48,000 of the lowest paid receive a 7.5 per cent raise, Reagan trimmed that to 6 per cent.

Man Married Nine Times To Seven Women Sentenced To 1-10 Years

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A man married nine times to seven women has been sentenced to one to 10 years in prison for conspiracy and grand theft.

Described as "the Wizard of Woo" by one of his wives, Mathew William Moots, 47, pleaded guilty June 4 to bilking four women of $85,000.

"The way I got the money was worse than stealing," he told Superior Court Judge Richard L. Wells Thursday, "lying, cheating and deluding them (his wives) with promises."

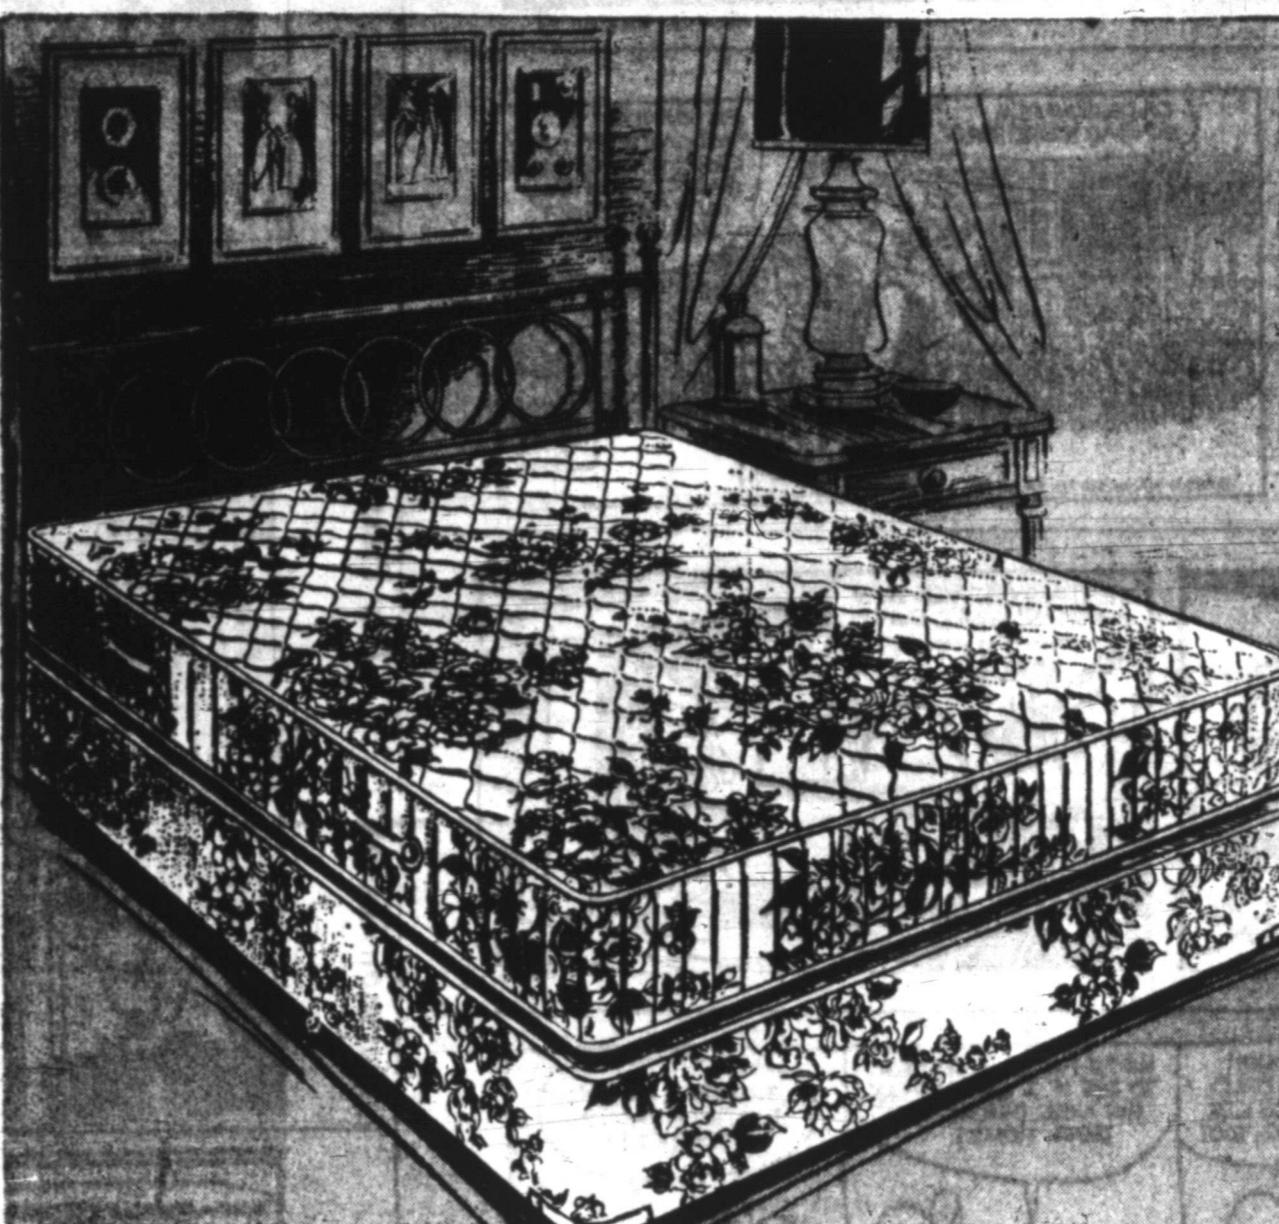

I had no intention of keeping," Moots allegedly met his victims, wealthy, middle-aged and lonely women, through dating organizations.

"In a most professional and accomplished manner," his probation report said, "he managed to separate a series of these gullible women from their money by making love to them and promising to marry them."

"The appellation of the Wizard of Woo, which has been applied to this charming scoundrel, appears indeed to be a proper one," it continued.

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law, Molly, started to lie about her age a few years ago, and consequently she has thrown everybody in her family off five years.

Molly and I are both 51, and my husband, who is Molly's brother, is two years OLDER than I am, but with Molly now saying she is '46,' my husband has now become three years YOUNGER than I am!

I tell the truth about my age but my husband keeps his mouth shut so as not to make a liar out of Molly. I don't care if Molly stays Sweet 16 all her life, but I don't like the idea of suddenly being three years "older" than my husband who is really two years older than I am. What do you suggest?

FRANKLY 51
DEAR FRANKLY: Tell Molly to BE and ACT her age because you intend to tell it like it is.

DEAR ABBY: My mother should have been a school teacher. She has ears in the back of her head. Last evening a neighbor I baby-sit for telephoned and asked if I could sit for her next Friday night and I said I would, but while I was saying this my mother was yelling something to me, which I didn't hear.

Well, after I hung up my mother said, "I need you next Friday night, so you can't sit for Mrs. Lund." (I have a baby brother two years old. I sometimes have to stay with.) Mom said she would pay me what Mrs. Lund pays me, but it's not the money. A promise is a promise, and I promised Mrs. Lund.

My dad heard all this and he butts in with, "You will baby-sit for your mother, and that is the end of it!" I think I am right and my parents are wrong, but I'll DO what you say. I am 15 years old.

KAREN
DEAR KAREN: I think you are right. A promise is a promise, but you and your parents should have an understanding. If they have "first rights" to your services, you must always ask your mother if she'll be needing you before accepting a job with another. Call Mrs. Lund, explain the circumstances, and ask to be excused.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the insurance business and my home telephone number is on my business card for the convenience of clients who may want to reach me in an emergency.

I have asked my wife to please answer the telephone and if it's for me to say that I am out at the moment, and take the name and number of the caller so that I may have a choice of returning the call immediately, or from my office. (Sometimes I prefer to return the call from my office in case I need the caller's file to answer questions.)

My wife insists on answering the phone in her usual manner, and if it's for me she'll say, "Yes, he is here." Then she calls me to the phone.

I've argued and pleaded, but to no avail. Don't you feel she should follow my instructions? She's agreed to abide by your decision.

INSURANCE MAN
DEAR MAN: Chalk one up for yourself. I think your wife should follow your instructions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79 years old and here is my problem: Every Mother's Day my son who lives several hundred miles away sends me cut flowers. Since they are quite expensive nowadays and are gone in a few days, I wrote and thanked him, but I ALSO WROTE, "I don't want to appear rude or ungrateful, but if you would send me just a card and a few dollars that could be used for stockings or hair-dos, it would be much easier for you, and better for me."

Abby, my husband retired 13 years ago when wages were not so high, and we are living on a small Social Security check. Now, was I wrong to write what I did?

Betty Canary For Comfort After Swimming, Chocolate Covered Summer Stitch Terry Towel Beach Top

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Terrycloth is everybody's summertime favorite. It's colorful and comfortable, easy-care and easy-sew, especially when big bath towels and coordinated wash cloths are used to make bright beach coverups.

From a company comes the idea of pairing towels for a simple shift, rounding them for a drawstring bag, and shaping them into a mini-length hooded pullover. Here are instant instructions for sew-fast fashions:

Beach Shift
Materials needed: Two sunflower bath towels, 24 inches by four inches, 2½ yards ¾-inch bias tape, seven large snaps.

Measure towels to desired length. Cut off excess at top. Shape neckline, shoulder and arm holes on back and front.

With right sides together, stitch right shoulder and side seams. Leave five-inch opening at bottom for slit. With bias tape, bind neck opening, right and left armholes, and front and back of left shoulder opening. Form side opening facings by turning under selvages one inch along left side; stitch in position. Finish by sewing two snaps on left shoulder opening, one at left underarm, remaining snaps along left side about four inches apart.

Drawstring Bag
Materials needed: One Sunflower hand towel, 16 inches by 28 inches, one Sunflower wash cloth, 12 inches by 12 inches, ¾-yard cotton cord, one yard wide (1½ inches) bias tape, heavy cardboard for base.

For bottom of bag, cut cardboard circle 8½ inches in diameter. Cut fabric circle from wash cloth, 9½ inches diameter.

For body of bag, remove fringe from ends of towel. Sew bias tape to long side of towel; turn under and stitch bottom edge to wrong side of towel to form casing. With right sides of towel together, join short ends of towel to form side seam of bag.

With right side of bottom section facing right side of body section, pin bottom into position. East to fit. Stitch in place. Turn to right side. Insert cardboard in bottom.

Thread cord through casing; Hooded Beach Jacket knot ends.

Women Sponsor Wedding Shower For Mrs. Douglas
A wedding shower for Mrs. Tom Douglas was held June 30 at the Wesley Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in Borger.

Miss Douglas was the former Miss Debra Pipes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pipes 200 W. Craven.

Hostesses for the shower were Mmes. Mavis Poole, Lefty Dickerson, Bob Werther, Jerome McCord, Albert Sprague, Waite Mc Nulty, Pat Chapman and Harry Whisenant. Soloist was Mrs. John Bayless, accompanied by her sons, Johnny Bayless on the piano, and Danny on the flute.

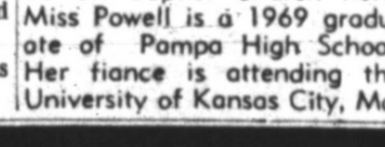

The serving table was decorated with a white linen table cloth and a centerpiece of white daisies. About 35 attended or sent gifts.

The former Miss Pipes and Tom Douglas were married June 20 at the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie J. Powell, 716 N. Dwight, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Janis Ann Powell, to David W. Oberdiek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Oberdiek, Parkville, Mo. Marriage vows will be pledged Aug. 23 in Barrett Baptist Church here.

Miss Powell is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School. Her fiancé is attending the University of Kansas City, Mo.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

FOR SUNDAY, JULY 6, 1968
Your birthday today: Your path through the year ahead is full of negotiations and adjustments, as you literally pick your way through toward the life situations you want. Bridges catch fire as you come to them rather than being there for you to burn behind you. Today's natives are good figuring, writing, or selling, but seldom for very long.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your self-discipline improves your chances of enjoying life with the people you care about. Stay clear of those who test your patience.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do what is expected of you this morning, then make a get-away-from-it-all vacation of the rest of the day. Put your memory to an exercise: review what you have done in the past six months.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This day you can probably do much as you please—except there's very little to do. Nobody is ready to cooperate.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are quite visible to your community today—so take your share of the community's expression of faith and customs gracefully. Then seek new acquaintances.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): This is an odd Sunday in which nothing develops as fully as you'd like. You are urged to meditate. Relationships thin out a bit. Short journeys are better postponed.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your personal homefront needs all your attention today, but not strict supervision. Relax through the day. Make tentative plans for the week.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This is a placid day. Cater to the whims of a longtime, very congenial associate. Mull over the coming week and its activity; get yourself into proper perspective.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Settle back and let everybody else speak out. Listen carefully and learn many subtle things that will come in handy later.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nothing goes according to plan. The tendency is to take action on half the story; put some time into your favorite pastimes. Relax.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This Sunday it may dawn on you that you do ask quite a bit of your family, friends, and associates. Let up a little today.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The morning is tense, but the later hours are easier. Abandon any set quota of things to do, go on an unhurried course. Reading and serious study can be very productive.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The less complex your course today the better. Take care of your obligations without fuss. Then spend some time alone. Romantic ideas are better put off!

MONDAY, JULY 7
YOUR BIRTHDAY MONDAY: A year of free opportunity opens out ahead. Long-dreamed ambitions, if diligently pressed, can flower into success on very short notice.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Assign your priorities to your various tasks; put important things first and get right after them. Stay in good humor, and everything else falls into place.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your money is restless Monday and you may be susceptible to a sad story. Romantic interest stirs more easily in the evening.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is a fun day if you don't talk yourself out of it. Family and group activity may be more expensive than anticipated. Romantic interests thrive.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make an active profitable day of it with an early start. There is much satisfaction in cooperation now. The evening can work out well for some sideline, too.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your success today depends more on how well you manage personal contacts. Signing papers is better done in the morning. You are likely to hear from distant places.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you will watch the precise details of whatever contracts you make today, everything goes well with only a little effort. Romantic and family interests flourish.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): With the holiday snow, however, came her arrest by the East German police, long hours of interrogation; a monkey trial, a prison term. The charge was "escape help" and the prison sentence—four years.

East Berliners Respond To American's Message

By JOYCE GABRIEL, NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(NEA)—It was snowing in East Berlin. The flakes, like little drops of paint, rounded the ragged edges of gutted buildings and frosted the infamous Wall. The snow brought with it a sense of quiet, of peace. It was a prelude to the holiday season.
But not for Hellen Battle, a young American then studying in West Berlin. She crossed the border into East Berlin to visit a friend, a young man who was planning an escape.

Boys' Fashions Deserve Recognition

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—When it comes to imaginative design fashion for the fellows deserves top billing today. And the new look in menswear has filtered right down to the small-fry set. So many exciting things are happening to boys' togs now that the next protest group may be jealous little girls—too young for unisex and too old not to notice that the boys are getting the best of it. For the warm weather months the youngest men in your life have that put-together look for play and for all their leisure moments. Whether the agenda calls for swimming, surfing, hiking, biking, camping, sunning, sporting or merely spectating, there's a fashion look for the occasion. And designers have left the comfort in and taken the sliphod and slapdash out. Shirts, jackets and pants are not static "sets," but they're subtly color-related in ways that make them look smashing.

Change, interchange, mix, match, blend set a trend. That's the idea behind the new knitted shirts and woven, unlined jackets that go with shorts, pants and knitted and woven swim trunks in endless combinations. And they're all in fabrics that launder superbly and require little or no ironing. Go-togethers for little boys on up to big little boys and teens can be found in better stores everywhere.

If you're dressing only daughters, have a look anyway. It's fun to see the style in which the other half is living these days. Prunes are excellent sources of iron, calcium, and vitamin A. Among methods of preparing prunes: lightly beaten eggs combined with chopped, cooked ham and chopped prunes; pitted prunes with the cubes of ham on skewer for barbecue; and chopped plump prunes added to cgrned beef hash mixture.

When painting, save time, money and the inconvenience of a paint failure. Follow the manufacturer's directions. Big in patterns are the tiny sprigs of flowers and wallpaper prints combined with stripes. Rustic Americana prints, primitive florals, bandana prints, American Indian zigzag and East Indian-inspired motifs are favorites as well. Summer '69 remains soft and feminine. The soft pastels are still coming on strong and neutrals are cool in grays, frosty chamois, beige and off-white.

Summer Look Is Young, Kicky For Little Girls' Play Time

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Even the kids can do their own thing in fashion this summer. Designers have given them the wherewithal and the youngsters are having a ball.

A little girl can be a romantic Juliet, a bell-bottom trousered sailor, a brave Pocahontas, a beruffled flirt or a dashing tomboy. There are togs galore to help them create any role they

The romantic look is still the main attraction in sheer voiles, dotted Swiss and cotton lawns. Textures are stronger than ever and puckers lead the parade with the crinkled ribbon look. Cotton in chambray covers or shirting weights confirm the haberdashery look this season. Linen in rayon blends, piques and jacquards look great. Even knits are textured and loopy. The super performer permanent press provides a work-saving bonus for mom.

Couple Says Vows In Baptist Church

Miss Marcia Lynn Dearing pledged wedding vows with Larry Stephens in a double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. June 20. Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor of Pampa First Baptist Church, read wedding vows at the First Baptist Church parlor.

The church parlor was decorated with two baskets of white gladioli and white lilies. Pianist, Ricky Land played traditional wedding selections. The bride's mother was dressed in an off-white two-piece suit with matching accessories, and an orchid of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a gold knit dress with beige accessories and a cymbidium orchid.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvie Dearing, Blackwell, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Stephens, Pampa.

For the honeymoon trip to Richmond, Va., the bride traveled in a navy dress with white accessories and an orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live in Richmond, where the bridegroom is employed until September. The bride is 1967 graduate of Blackwell, Okla., High School and is a junior at Northwestern State College, Alva, Okla. The bridegroom, a 1967 graduate of Pampa High School, is also junior at the Oklahoma college.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a white orlon knit street-length sleeveless gown which was designed with a jewel neckline and trimmed in front with covered buttons. The shoulder-length full veil was attached to a Dior bow.

ATTENDANTS

Getting Cat Out Of Tree
No Tax To Her Ingenuity
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY— I have a great way for getting cats out of trees. My cat went up a tree and we could not get him down. He was up so high our ladder would not reach the limb where he was. We tied a long rope to a box and threw the rope over the limb. We put some food in the box and pulled the rope so the box went up as high as the limb the cat was on. When he jumped into the box to eat the food, we let the box down and my cat was saved.

DEAR POLLY— The camping season is here and our year-old tent has an awful odor. Our sleeping bags have picked up the smell and I wonder if any of the readers have any suggestions for getting rid of this odor. Airing certainly has not helped.

Keep a pair of tweezers in the kitchen drawer. They are great for lifting and placing tiny decorations on a fancy cake without disturbing the frosting. —FRAN

Pizza Hamburgers

Since burger towers-pizza flavored are almost a meal in themselves, corn or potato snacks and cold beverages are all that need be added. This also makes good eating for a family cookout or teenage party.

PIZZA FLAVORED
1/2 cup butter, softened
2 tablespoons catsup
1 teaspoon (bottled brown sauce)
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1/2 teaspoon oregano, crushed
Ground beef
Salt and Pepper.
Slices of processed American cheese
Hamburger buns
Slices of onion
Slices of tomato

Whip butter with an electric mixer or wooden spoon until light and fluffy. Blend in catsup, sauce horseradish and oregano. Place in a tightly covered container or wrap in foil in a roll 1/4 inch thick. Chill. Makes about 1/2 cup or enough for 12 servings.

Color gets the fashion nod and convenience gets top billing in two new appliances — a meat grinder and a salad maker, both featuring a vacuum-lock base. The units are styled in the latest decorator colors — avocado, harvest and white. The base anchors solidly to any smooth, non-porous surface, the manufacturer says. The lock holds the appliance rigid for every grinding or salad making task.

President Nixon's 'Other Pat' Is Now His No.1 Government Girl

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—It may be written some day in political manuals that for women the march up the federal ladder begins in a den mother's uniform.

From there you graduate to the PTA until your son complains you're breathing down his neck. Then you hit the sidewalks and punch doorbells for a candidate. You also live in Whittier, Calif.

Proceed to barnstorming at the state level, then the national level and end up in a carpeted office in Washington with a big desk and lapful of urban riddles.

The formula worked for Mrs. Patricia Reilly Hitt, now the highest placed woman in government as assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

She said, "I was never much for sitting around home. I never could get excited about housework. And I never cared for bridge."

The only alternative was national politics and high position.

"I was always active in civic and community affairs, because I have always had lots of energy," she said. "While my boys were growing up (John and Patrick, now 27 and 22), I spent a lot of time close to home. I was a den mother and active in PTA until John came home one day and said, 'Why are you always around school so much?' That was my signal to start looking elsewhere."

"I never had any interest in politics until Mr. Nixon was a candidate. I didn't know him well when he first campaigned because he was five years ahead of me in school, and Whittier is a pretty big system. But I knew of him because of the recognition he had brought to the school as a debater.

"That first campaign was a real shoe-string operation—mostly just Pat and Dick Nixon and a station wagon. I rang doorbells and distributed handbills in the neighborhood. I worked on a broader scale in 1962, but didn't work directly with Mr. Nixon until 1966."

By 1960, she had climbed to national committee woman for California and headed the women's division of Sen. George Murphy's 1964 campaign. In 1966 she was co-chairman of Robert Finch's race for California's lieutenant governorship, in which he outpolled Gov. Ronald Reagan, and in 1968 she was co-chairman of Richard Nixon's presidential campaign, which also worked out quite well. Old friends Finch and Nixon did not forget her contributions.

"Senator—who?" says Mrs.

Hitt as the interoffice phone announces an outside call. "Oh, him. Yes, I'll take it." And she handles the call with warm efficiency.

"I think government is a great field for women to enter," she says later, "and I think the nation suffers when they don't." In the postelection days, Mrs. Hitt, sometimes called "Nixon's other Pat" for her long political service to the President, was mentioned as the most likely woman to fill a cabinet position. "It wasn't offered, and if it had been I would have said no," she says. No explanation. She is still sensitive about a recent news story quoting her as saying, "I couldn't give you a single, solitary woman who has the training, background and ability to fill one of these cabinet posts."

Still, she concedes, it is harder for most women to pursue a full-time career in politics than it is for men.

"I've been very lucky. My husband not only didn't mind my pursuing a career of my own; he actually encouraged it. He is successful enough in his own right (a management consultant) not to be jealous of my accomplishments."

From across her polished desktop in the HEW building, her grayish-blue eyes are direct, friendly and confident toward male or female visitors.

"For years I have turned down evening speaking engagements so I can have that time with my family, and I hope to continue that way."

"My working day is usually from 7:30 to 7:30, but I try to get home to spend some time with my husband after that. 'I take my mail home and go through it while he's watching television. We're both occupied with different things, but at least we're in the same room.'"

Pat Hitt may have run the den mother-PTA course like millions of other American moms, but she's not the typical housewife. She's traded the bridge table for a deskful of urban riddles.

Corporations Start Hiring Men; Offer Wives Bit Parts In Jobs

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEW YORK—(NEA)—The woman whose husband is in the market for a better executive position can sheath her nails and relax the company smile.

Most corporations "now hire the fellow and not the wife," according to a specialist in recruiting men for jobs that will pay $40,000 to $60,000 annually.

J. William Stack Jr., president of Haskell Stack, Inc., explains that the pressure to put the wife in her husband's corporate shoes "got distorted, out of proportion." Years ago companies insisted on intensely interviewing the wife to make sure she would be a strong part of "the team."

A classic example of how brutal and ludicrous such a hiring technique could be was pictured in the movie "Executive Suite." Although made in 1954, the film appears regularly on television and everyone is happy to see June Allyson overcome all as a saccharine, model-wife amid "the back-stabbing efforts to grab off the late president's job."

"We now check a man's wife to see there are no skeletons or that she isn't a lush," Stack adds.

Although the emphasis now is on the man and how he will fit the job, the wife's role continues important but in a different way.

"I can spot a guy if his wife is on board," says Stack. "He has confidence in her response to his possible move."

"Today's heroines in corporate life are solidly in the background. Companies no longer are won over by the wife who's a beauty or merely a social asset. We sound out references on whether she will provide a stable home life. If a wife has a valid interest in her husband and his success, she asks about the schools, churches and other community features the family faces if he switches companies." Stack speaks from experience since pictures of his five sons line the walls of his simply decorated Park Avenue office. Each son, he proudly notes, was born in a different city as he progressed as a sales executive before entering the personnel field.

With an estimated 1,800 firms involved in executive recruiting, Stack worries about criticism that recruiters take someone who is happy and make him unhappy.

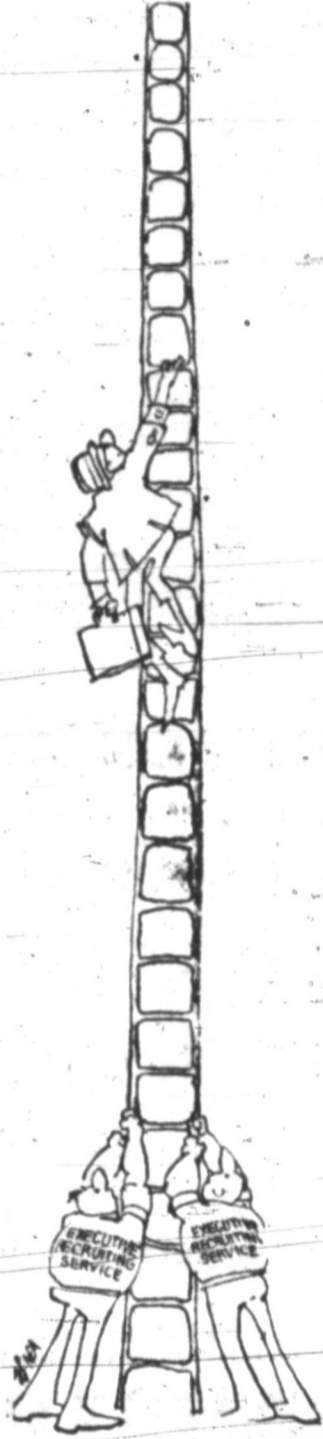

"We need to remove the stigma of 'headhunters' from the business," he admits.

One of the worst problems facing executive recruiters such as Haskell Stack is working with the Horatio Alger vice president or president. This is the man, he explains, who has gone up and up without setbacks. When the boom is lowered the first time—this happens when a conglomerate moves in—he has to look for a job for the first time and doesn't know how.

"Few good recruiters can be young," he feels. "It's being a marriage broker. There is a need to shape the individual to the background."

Reference checks include a peer, superior and subordinate at his current position; the neighborhood to see how the man and wife operate as a family; a social friend of 15 to 20 years standing; someone who has known the person since boyhood, and someone from his apprentice years or college.

Even with the large salaries up for grabs, Stack insists that money is not the sole motivating force for most. "Expect a normal increase of 15 to 20 per cent," he explains, "but the biggest motivator is what lies ahead in the job and not just the money. If money is the only reason for a shift, then a recruiter knows the next $5 will hire him away again."

Williamson Does It Right Or Not At All

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If there is anything Nicol Williamson can't stand, it's Nicol Williamson being bad.

He recently thought he was not giving a good performance in "Hamlet," so he walked off a Boston stage. "I don't care about doing something poorly," he told the audience as he returned to continue.

Whenever Williamson goes, there are incidents. When he first came to the United States to appear in "Admission Evidence," he got into a pre-Broadway Philadelphia fracas with producer David Merrick and either slapped his face, tossed him in a garbage can or punched him in the nose, depending on which version you believe.

His "Hamlet," which played an engagement in New York after a fantastic success in London, then went to Boston and Los Angeles, was described by one critic as "turning a page in the leaf of acting." Williamson's work inspires critics to flights of poetry in trying to capture his amazing talent. He has been called the greatest English-speaking actor of all.

"That doesn't mean anything to me," he says in his soft-but nasal voice. "I can't visualize the thing. Even if there is such a thing as THE greatest actor, I don't think it's important. It's important who you do not what they call you."

He's a Scot who is concerned about his privacy but finds it seldom invaded because people, even in England, don't recognize him.

"That's because I don't do TV," he says. "I hate it. That's how people recognize you, from TV. It's not that much from films."

His one TV appearance in recent years was in an American production of "Of Mice and Men." On Broadway, besides "Inadmissible Evidence," he replaced George C. Scott for a short period in "Plaza Suite," not something an actor of his stature usually does.

"I thought it would be fun to do a slick, marvelous, modern American comedy in New York with very little rehearsal," he explains. "It was fun and it worked."

Nicol (or Nick as his friends call him) is not married. "The theater tends to be mistress. It's an all-consuming job. You can't drink before a show. After you have done a thorough physical show, you want to get something to eat, but most places you might want to go to are closed. You wind up going home at 3 a.m. with a club sandwich you have picked up from an all-night 'dell'. Try to get some woman to go along with that."

He lives for himself, and to please himself. He's a tough critic of himself and everyone else.

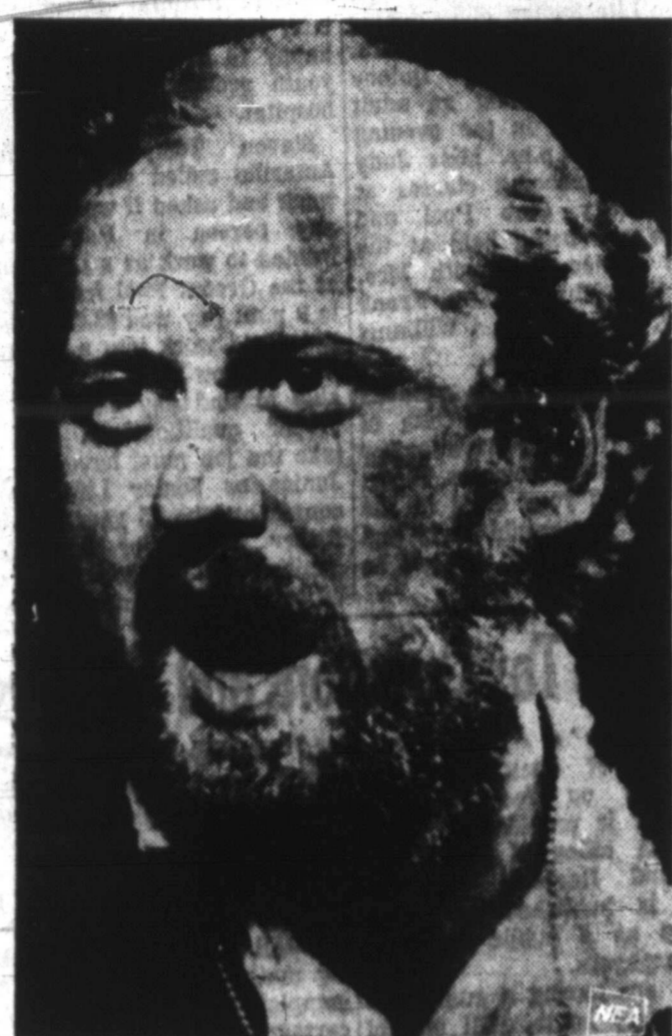

"I don't always know what to say but I do know what I'm doing. I like to see things done. I hate to see actors who just talk. They talk and talk and talk about how to play a scene and they are just running from the problem. The only way to do it is to do it until it's right."

"The public," he feels, "is very easily gulled. You hear them say, 'Oh, wasn't he great?' when an actor has buried a scene under an avalanche of technique with the most dreadful I have ever seen. The public always wants what it wants. I'm not able to give that kind of satisfaction. I would never pander to the public (once you do), you become a star and then you belong to the public and they have every right to you."

"However, I'm not going to be shoved around by tinseltown. Let them work out their neuroses with their shrinks. I have my own problems. But I don't go to a shrink. I'm not interested in finding out too much about myself. It's like taking the back off a watch. It never quite works the same way again."

"Critics are necessary for some things, but too much importance is placed on them. In fact, they sometimes lie about shows they have seen. As far as they go and as far as great?" when an actor has buried a scene under an avalanche of technique with the most dreadful I have ever

THERE ARE INCIDENTS wherever Nicol Williamson goes, like his fracas with producer David Merrick in Philadelphia. But incidents might be expected of a sensitive young actor who has but two interests in life—himself and the theater.

Rivers Offered Millions For His Music Interests

At 26, Johnny Rivers is considering the alternatives.

He has a few offers from big companies to buy him out — for several million dollars.

Or he can stay where he is and make the millions more slowly.

"I just kind of fell into all this," he says. "It all began about two years ago, when the sock singer started his own music publishing, producing and recording firms — Soul City Records. They clicked, mostly because he signed the Fifth Dimension as recording artists.

For several reasons, Rivers is seriously considering the offers to buy him out. As things are, he's pretty much chained to his desk — he's only doing a concert or two a month — and he would prefer performing more.

And he also wants to find out about life. Up until now, he has been too busy working for that.

"I want to travel," he says. "I want to experiment with living. Too many people only know how to earn money, but not how to enjoy it."

"I'm lucky. I've made it while I'm still young enough to learn how to enjoy it."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four one-hour nature specials of varied backgrounds will be on the NBC network during the new season under the over-all title "GE Monogram Series." They will be telecast in November, December, February and March. One deals with wolves and Alaska, another with Africa and the search for man's origins, a third with the Sahara Desert and a fourth with a mountain climbing expedition in the Himalayas.

The ABC lineup for the fall will include a departure in program length in two cases. The experiment consists of two 45 minute shows on Mondays — "The Music Scene" from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. and "The New People," an adventure drama, from 8:15 to 9.

CBS-TV will broadcast the finale of the Miss Universe 1969 beauty pageant in Miami Beach from 10 to 11:30 p.m. July 19.

Man Makes Waves

MAKING WAVES: Manmade waves for surfing are rolling in. Land-locked surfing is in the "pilot" stage with a multimillion dollar project at Big Surf near Phoenix, Arizona. Machinery pushes out three-to-five-foot waves the width of a huge man-made pond. A return system keeps the water flowing and going. Surfing compounds like Big Surf will include other recreational activities such as volleyball, paddle tennis, open air bowling and, of course, food concessions. Tacos and enchiladas are rumored to be riding the wave in the grazing and rinsing places.
