

Texans' Hunger Proves Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hunger in Texas "is a problem of substantial proportions" and the "great majority of families in need" are not getting food assistance in Texas counties where such programs exist, according to a report issued Wednesday.

The report, made by a Texas advisory group to the U. S. Commission of Civil Rights, said Texas ranks 43rd in the nation in the percentage of its poor getting federally assisted food programs.

It said the biggest problems existed in areas in which the population is predominantly Mexican-American.

The report also said evidence presented earlier by Burton G. Hackney, Texas commissioner of public welfare, was "incorrect," Hackney said hunger did not exist among welfare recipients.

The group listed a number of recommendations the state could adopt to improve its food assistance programs.

The report was released simultaneously in San Antonio, Tex., as Washington.

"Hunger in Texas is a problem of substantial proportions with nearly nine out of 10 families living in poverty receiving no assistance from federal food programs," the Texas Advisory Committee's report said.

"Even in counties which maintain a food assistance program, the great majority of families in need are not receiving its benefits," the report said.

The report based its findings on Office of Economic Opportunity figures for poverty population in Texas, compared with U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on food program participation. The OEO figures were for 1965 and the USDA figures for March, 1969.

These figures were the latest available and the 1965 poverty figure did not change enough to make it inaccurate for a comparison, according to the U. S. Commission's Washington staff.

Tom R. Vessels Given 20-Year Prison Term

HOUSTON — Tom R. Vessels has escaped the electric chair.

A Harris County 17th District Court jury of 10 men and two women assessed the twice convicted rapist to 20 years in prison.

His attorney Warren Burnett of Odessa said he planned to appeal the conviction.

Vessels was convicted by a 31st Judicial District Court jury in Pampa of the 1966 rape of a Pampa housewife and sentenced to death in the electric chair.

But Burnett won a new trial for his client when the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled the ex-convict did not receive a fair trial in Pampa.

Pampa District Attorney Guy Hardin had asked for the death penalty again but the Harris County jury turned him down.

Harden said Wednesday by telephone, however, he felt it would be a long time before the 30-year-old Vessels would be a free man.

There are two indictments outstanding against him in New Mexico and I'm considering filing another charge or two against him in Pampa," Hardin said.

Damaging testimony to the state's case against Vessels was given by a Department of Public Safety chemist whose testimony changed somewhat in the Houston trial.

But Hardin felt he might still get the death penalty when District Judge Dan Walton ruled on a motion in his favor allowing two Amarillo women to testify.

One of the women identified Vessels as the man who attacked her in her home at knife point and the other woman said Vessels had come to her home posing as a utility company employee trying to gain entrance. This was the same ruse he used to enter the home of his Pampa victim.

Vessels will be returned to Gray County for formal sentencing.

Kennedy Found At 'Serious Fault' In Wreck

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI) — Police concentrated today on tracing the movements of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy from the time his car plunged into a pond, killing a young woman passenger, until he reported the accident some nine hours later.

Authorities said they would subpoena a list of all phone calls made last Friday night to Saturday morning from Kennedy's hotel here and from a cottage on nearby Chappaquiddick Island—the scene of a party Friday night attended by the senator and the accident victim, Mary Jo Kopechne.

Arena and Dukes County Prosecutor, Walter E. Steele, emphasized, however, they believed no criminal charges would be brought against Kennedy for negligence in driving the black sedan when it somehow toppled off a 10-foot wide bridge into the shallow salt water pond.

An application for a motor vehicle complaint already has been filed against Kennedy; 37-year-old Senate whip and a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, charging him with "leaving the scene of an accident after having done bodily harm."

ABOARD USS HORNET (UPI) — Apollo 11's astronauts, their footprints stamped forever in history with 21 memorable hours on the moon, streaked home today to the south Pacific and 18 days of total isolation.

President Nixon headed the welcoming committee aboard this aircraft carrier 1,000 miles southwest of Honolulu.

BULLETIN
SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 11 splashed down into the Pacific Ocean at about 11:50 a.m. CDT today.

Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. cut a fiery path through earth's atmosphere after nearly a million miles in space, completing a goal President John F. Kennedy set for the nation eight years ago.

They brought with them a priceless cargo of moon rocks. The 60 pounds of rocks, in the boxes, were to be flown immediately by jet direct to the U.S. Space Center near Houston, Tex., where scientists were eagerly waiting to start detailed examinations.

Nixon was joined by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, for the welcome aboard the recovery carrier.

The world was watching. Americans prepared for a weekend of celebration from which the astronauts themselves would be sealed away in quarantine to make sure they had brought no diseases back from the moon.

During his flight from San Francisco to Johnston Island in the Pacific Wednesday, Nixon recalled that he had been to the island as a naval officer 25 years ago.

Since their launch from Cape Kennedy July 16, Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins had traveled 932,700 miles through space, and Armstrong and Aldrin landed on the moon in their Eagle lunar lander to take the step Armstrong called "a great leap for mankind."

Columbia, the name they bestowed on their command ship, plowed into the upper atmosphere at 24,000 m.p.h. 80 miles over Australia.

Opening Night Of Rodeo Draws Crowd Of 2500

By RON CROSS
Approximately 2500 persons attended the gala opening of the 25th Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo at Recreation Park Wednesday night.

The rodeo kicked off with about everything a rodeo fan would hope to see.

Jiggs Beutler's rodeo stock gave the cowboys a hard time for the most part but there were plenty of good rides that brought ringing applause from the crowd.

Entertainment acts performed between events were some of the best that has ever been presented at the professional rodeo here.

Many cowboys participated following the regular show (See Cheyenne results Page 11' flying here from Cheyenne Wyo.

Most of them had to ride their horses and bulls and rope some time after 1 a.m.

Barry Burke of Duncan Okla., who is 10th in the all-around money list came in late but finished fast to take the first go-round lead in the calf roping. Burke tied his calf in 10 seconds while two other late comers, Steve Massey and Dav Burnett, finished second and third, respectively, with time of 11.4 and 11.5 seconds.

Only two cowboys out of eight scored points in the bull riding. Ronnie Bowman of Galzer Okla., listed 13th in the standings, took the first round lead with 65 points and running close second was Marv Schulte of Narazeth, Tex. with 64 points.

Ben Hawkins of Hanna, Okla. who flew in from Cheyenne too the steer wrestling lead with time of seven seconds. (See RODEO, Page 2)

U.S. South Vietnam Appeal To Viet Cong

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and South Vietnam today appealed to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong to reconsider their hostility to international controlled elections with V Cong participation.

Chief U.S. negotiator Her Cabot Lodge and his Saigon colleague Pham Dang Le issued the call shortly after the start of the 27th session of Vietnam peace talks.

Lodge told newsmen before entering the Majestic Hotel conference hall he was determined to impress on Communist negotiators that they were wrong in considering President Nguyen Thieu's July 11 controlled election offer a maneuver.

Nixon Welcomes Moon Men Home

ABOARD THE USS ARLINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon flew to the mid-Pacific today to welcome America's moon men back home to earth.

Confident that astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., and Michael Collins "are going to make the splashdown all right," Nixon rested overnight aboard ship before flying to the recovery carrier USS Hornet to watch the return of Apollo 11 from the bridge.

Nixon reached the Arlington at 12:38 p.m. EDT and spoke briefly to the crew of the communication ship.

The public address system failed and the President raised his voice although few of the hundreds of white-clad sailors on deck could hear him.

Capt. Hugh D. Murphree of the Arlington escorted the President around the flight deck then to a suite aboard the vessel. Nixon had dinner with the command officers of the ship.

Nixon arrived by Marine helicopter at a point 900 miles southwest of Hawaii.

When the astronauts came aboard the Hornet in the early afternoon, the President congratulated the space heroes before continuing an 11-day tour that will take him to seven countries, including Communist Romania.

Fire Guts Coronado Conoco Gas Station

A fire, started by an overturned gas pump, caused an estimated $20,000 in damages Wednesday afternoon at Coronado Conoco Service Station in Coronado Center.

Four persons were inside the building when it caught fire and a woman customer was in her car near the gas pump that caused the blaze.

There were no injuries and three cars inside the building were driven off before they were damaged.

Egyptian Jets Raid Israelis

By United Press International
Egyptian jet bombers carried out an air raid today against Israeli positions in the Sinai Desert shortly after Israeli jet-fighters bombed targets inside Egypt. An Israeli military spokesman said in Tel Aviv Israeli planes shot down six Egyptian jets in a series of dogfights.

The stepped up fighting followed President Gamal Abdel Nasser's major policy speech Wednesday night in which he said the United Arab Republic had begun the fight to liberate "all" Arab territory now held by Israel.

The air battle was the second since Monday in the constantly escalating Middle East conflict. The action marked the third time this week Israeli planes have struck across the Suez Canal and the second time this week Egypt has bombed Israeli positions.

The Israeli Army spokesman said bombs from the Egyptian planes wounded five Israeli soldiers on the ground before Israeli jets could rise and intercept them. They did not disclose the precise location of the military position in the Sinai, a vast desert territory off 24,000 square miles between the Suez Canal and Israel's Negev Desert.

Egyptian warplanes last Sunday raided Israeli positions on the east bank of the Suez Canal, killing one soldier. Israel said it shot down five Egyptian aircraft in repulsing that raid and admitted the loss of two of its own planes.

Israeli army sources reckoned that, after today's air battle, Egypt had lost 38 warplanes since the end of the 1967 June War to Israeli ground fire or in dogfights. They did not estimate Israeli losses.

Broadcasting Industry Says It's 'A Whipping Boy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The broadcasting industry accused the government today of making it "a whipping boy" by cooperating with the cigarette industry's plan to stop advertising on television and radio.

The plan, which would eliminate cigarette commercials by September 1970, was announced Tuesday. Senate antimoking leaders called it a giant contribution to public health.

But broadcasting sources told UPI the radio-television industry felt it was left out in what they called a deal between senators and cigarette makers. These sources said the industry would bitterly oppose the plan.

U.S. Army Has New Student Enlistments

The U.S. Army recently announced a new enlistment program for college students. Sgt. Kenneth W. Baker, local Army recruiter, said that effective immediately, college students with at least 60 semester hours can enlist in the Army for Officer-Candidate School (OCS).

The new program allows young men with either 60 semester, 60 trimester or 90 quarter-master hours of unduplicated college level studies to enlist under the new program.

Graduates of accredited junior colleges and those having sufficient credit hours from an accredited degree granting institution are eligible to enlist for OCS. Prior to this only individuals with a baccalaureate or higher degree could apply for the OCS program from outside the active Army.

The total training period for OCS, from enlistment to commissioning, lasts about 10 and one-half months. The training is divided into three categories, basic, advanced and formal OCS. After receiving a commission the remaining active duty obligation is 24 months.

Additional information about the new OCS enlistment option can be obtained from S. Sgt. Baker at 115 N. Cuyler.

SULPHUR STRIKE

ORLA, Tex. (UPI)—A worker at the struck Deval Corporation's sulphur plant said the Teamsters International Union called Monday's strike because of the "illegal firing of an employee." Some 600 construction workers walked off their jobs and set up pickets at the plant, in the final stages of constructing a $65-million facility to pump liquid sulphur from the earth.

LEAMINGTON, England (UPI)—Employees at a factory complained to the parking lot guard that a vandal was breaking off their automobile windshield-wipers. Guard William Barber hid one night and saw two crows flying into the parking lot and tear the wipers from the cars, dropping them on the ground.

Two days later, Barber returned with a shotgun and killed the crows, company spokesmen said Monday.

Only Three Absentee Ballots Cast In Week

If absentee balloting is any indicator, Gray County voters are showing little interest in the Aug. 5 voting on nine amendments to the Texas Constitution.

Either that, or most voters are expecting to be at home on election day.

County Clerk Charlie Thut said today only 3 ballots had been cast here since absentee balloting began a week ago today.

The deadline for absentee voting is Aug. 1.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A lack of conviction in price movements in the stock market for a few more weeks is anticipated by W. E. Hutton & Co. Some of the more important uncertainties which have been plaguing the securities markets may not be clarified until early fall, the firm says. Emphasis should be concentrated, for the most part, on quality investments with an assurance of a consistent earnings trend, the firm adds, since "the environment is not breeding new speculative enthusiasm."

So far, the market has given no technical evidence that it is ready for a meaningful turn, Shearson, Hammill & Co. observes. Until technical or fundamental evidence does show up, the firm says, investors should pursue a cautious policy, neither joining in emotional selling nor overlooking solid bargains. The odds are that, several months from now, current low prices for many issues will be looked back on wistfully, the firm adds.

Conglomerates have been hardest hit in the "rubbage sale" currently in progress on Wall Street, according to the Dimes Letter. Electronic stocks, the firm believes, are now coming down to the point where they become good bargains. It can be reasonably assumed, the firm says, that the process of liquidation in the market as a whole is going to go a lot further.

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A strapping, big-voiced Welshman named Tom Jones has imported something new, or at least revived a forgotten element in European singers—virility.

In contrast to the shaggy-haired, pot-blowing, ashen-faced kids touring the country with electronic guitars to smother their quavering voices, Jones belts out songs with the zest of an early Elvis Presley.

Deep of chest and broad shouldered, Jones affects women of all ages the way Sinatra turned on teen-agers in the 40s.

During a stint in Las Vegas, Jones had the ladies standing in line most of the day for reservations. At his shows they screamed.

Jones, who wears his curly hair shorter than any British singer in recent memory, appeared for a week at the Los Angeles Greek Theater and packed the place to capacity every night.

Females from pre-teens to dowagers dashed to the foot of the stage between songs to offer their handkerchiefs to the singer.

"Thank you, dear lady," Jones told each one.

Then he'd mop his perspiring brow with the lacy fills and return them to the enraptured girl or woman.

Jones gyrates on stage, snapping his body around like a man beset by hornets. Each contortion sets up a howling from feminine spectators, including bejeweled matrons who haven't had an idol since Valentino departed this vale.

John Hurd May Have New Government Post

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI)—Oilman and financier John G. Hurd said he knows nothing about a Washington report he will be offered another government job—not an ambassadorship—since his nomination as ambassador to Venezuela has fallen through.

Hurd, 55, was in charge of the Nixon-Agnew campaign in Texas last year. He has been an active Republican worker and party official since 1946. President Nixon nominated him June 12 to be ambassador to Venezuela.

Venezuela objected, however, because of Hurd's oil connections. Hurd is a member of Killam & Hurd, Ltd. The organization's interests include an independent oil company, investments and cattle.

"I had heard that was the case," Hurd said of the Venezuelan objection. "I had heard that was the opinion of some people in Venezuela not necessarily including the government."

"I don't have any oil interests in Venezuela. I think the indication of the conflict might be with various oil and gas associations to which I belong and which had taken a position against large imports."

Hurd said he was not being coy in denying he had been offered a government job other than an ambassadorship. "I'd sure tell you if I had been offered such a job," he said. "Depending upon what it was, I'd tell you what I would do about the offer."

In Washington, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who supported Hurd's nomination to the Venezuelan ambassadorship, was reported to have let Nixon know that he would support the nomination of Hurd as ambassador to another country, if the Venezuelan appointment did not work out.

"I never asked for the Venezuelan nomination," Hurd said. "They asked me if I would go. I have not even discussed any particular country with them."

"I understood that I was nominated (ambassador to Venezuela) because of my Latin American knowledge, due primarily to my knowledge of the oil industry."

"If I were offered another ambassadorship, I would consider it carefully."

The Senate would have had to confirm Hurd's nomination as ambassador to Venezuela. The Senate Foreign Relations committee never did set a date for a hearing on the nomination, possibly because of the Venezuelan objection.

Switch Breakfasts To Inspire Eating

CHICAGO — When your youngster finishes his meal, do you compliment him by saying, "That's a good boy?" If you do, your sense of motivation could be aimed in the wrong direction, according to the authority on the eating behavior of pre-school children.

"Eating a certain food in a certain way has little to do with being good as that word is commonly understood," says Dr. Miriam E. Lowenberg, educator, nutritionist and senior editor of the textbook, "Food and Man." Writing in "Food and Nutrition News," Dr. Lowenberg advises that it is much better to say "That was a good job." It seems the young child is more likely to be motivated by adult recognition of having done something well than by a moralistic pat on the back for "being good."

"I often wonder how much we in nutrition have brought upon ourselves in making 'so-called good-for-you-foods' seem less desirable than 'foods-for-sinners,'" said Dr. Lowenberg. She suggests four positive steps toward establishing good eating patterns in small children: the proper setting, the most favorable meal times, inclusion in the family group at the table, and the correct amount of food served to him.

"A child who is seated comfortably at a table so he can handle his fork and spoon easily and without straining his arms eats more successfully," Dr. Lowenberg stated. "Whether he is eating at his own small table or at the 'big' family table, his entire body should fit into his chair so that he is secure physically; this means feet on the floor or on a solid support. It also means that arms and elbows can operate easily without undue fatigue," she continued.

The timing of meals to satisfy a child's hunger and his need for food is important. "I truly wish we could stop looking at the clock to decide when children are hungry," said Dr. Lowenberg. A child should be hungry, but not so hungry as to be fatigued.

If the young child joins other family members at the table, be sure the conversation includes him — not only by speaking directly to the child, but by choosing topics in which he will be interested. He shouldn't have to struggle to become a part of the group. Perhaps the most important of all is to serve the child less than you think he will eat and to give him some choice of what he wants to eat. "If an 'unfavorite' vegetable is being served at the meal, he can get very little or even none at all," suggests Dr. Lowenberg. "If he, himself, asks for a bite of it at some point, he is further along to learning to like it than if he is forced to eat even one bite. I can truthfully say that in many years of feeding children in groups and of advising mothers, this plan has worked!" Helping children to "feel successful" when they eat usually promotes happy eating of a nutritious diet, Dr. Lowenberg concluded.

BREAKFAST IS FOR THE FAMILY

Breakfast may be the most neglected meal in the United States. One can't prove that, but it's commonly known that many people simply do not eat breakfast or, if they do, they eat pitifully little.

Most of the complaints I hear concern teen-agers. But now and then I find mothers worrying about even younger children.

Well, let's look at the situation. Are parents setting the best example? Is Dad running off to work with too little time to eat a substantial breakfast? Is mother so concerned with weight control as to falsely assume she should skip or drastically minimize breakfast?

Most of all, does your family ever sit down — all of you at the same time — for breakfast together?

Provides Family Unity

Breakfast, in my opinion, can be one of the most important factors in building family unity. The only valid excuse I can think of for not sharing breakfast is the busy and conflicting schedules that various members of the family can be engaged in.

But you don't always have to settle, even for that.

Since it's now summer and the kids aren't rushing off to school, why not eat breakfast together? You probably would if you were at a summer cottage. Give it a try, now, at home.

There must be, of course, an atmosphere of courtesy and good humor. If necessary correct the going-to-bed-late habits of some of your family members so they can get up a little earlier to join the rest of you. One hardly expects, or desires, exuberant and effervescent brilliance at the breakfast table. But the morning grouch needn't be tolerated.

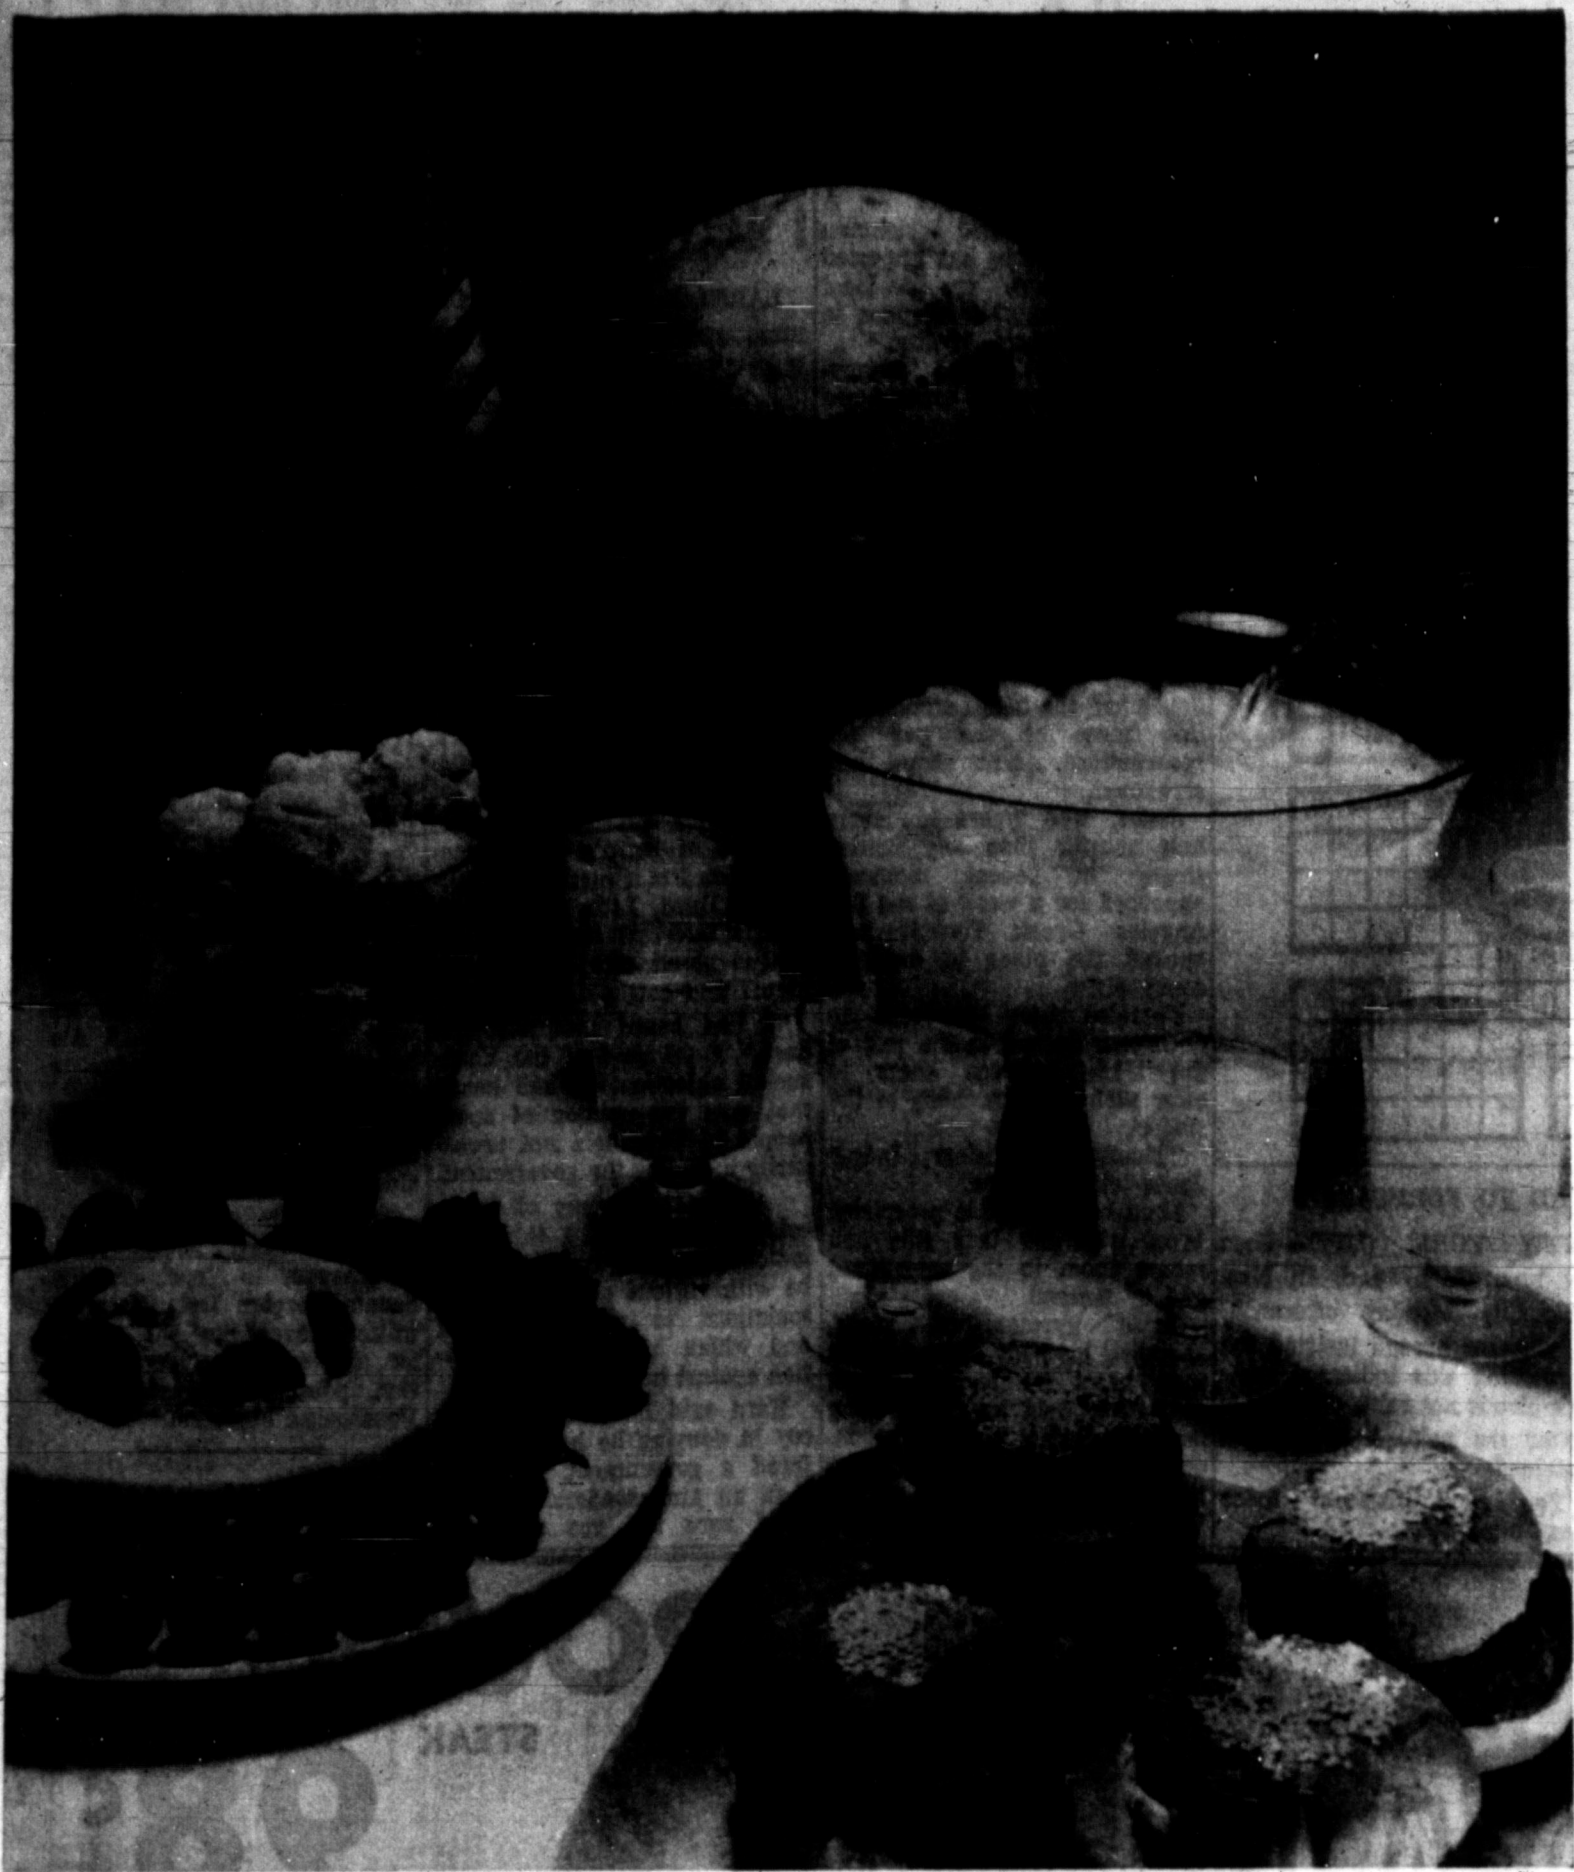

And Don't Worry

And don't worry if everyone doesn't eat everything. Just set an attractive table. The kids can be asked to help. It will lend special occasion to breakfast and be good training too. Have fruit or fruit juices, milk, and cereal one day, eggs another, bacon or sausage, an occasional omelet or chipped beef in cream sauce, or waffles. Pancakes, or french toast are other alternatives.

If your husband bucks at the idea, remind him that business men increasingly are holding breakfast conferences — especially at conventions. So why can't the family get together? Good breakfast habits have a civilizing effect on all of us. And nothing starts the day better. Accidents and work performance records, too, show real improvement both at work and at school when people switch to a good breakfast.

Next time you're making bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches, spread softened blue cheese on the bread instead of butter. You'll only need a small dab of mayonnaise.

Change Standard Version Of Macaroni And Cheese With Grilled Tomatoes

Macaroni and cheese is a standard American dish. But that fact does not rule out new versions of the old recipe for it.

Here's one which we think you will welcome.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

2 quarts water
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound elbow macaroni
4 large egg yolks, beaten
2 cups light cream or top milk
½ pound coarsely

shredded sharp American cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ cups soft bread crumbs

1 tomato, cut into ½-inch slices
Salt to taste. . . .

Bring water and 1 teaspoon salt to boiling point. Add macaroni and cook until not quite done, 5 to 8 minutes. (Macaroni should be underdone.) Combined egg yolks, cream or milk, cheese, ½-teaspoon salt and ground white pepper. Drain macaroni. Turn into an ungreased 1½-quart casserole. Pour liquid mixture over macaroni. Stir lightly with a fork to blend. Melt butter or margarine. Add bread crumbs and mix well. Sprinkle crumbs over macaroni (saving ¼-cup for later use). Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes. Arrange tomato slices over macaroni. Sprinkle with salt to taste and top with remaining crumbs. Bake 15 minutes longer. Serve hot. Five to 6 servings.

SWEET 'N' SOUR SLAW

It's all over but the shredding with this recipe for a tangy dressing. Combine one jar strained cottage cheese with pineapple with 2 tbsp. white wine vinegar, 1 tsp. sugar and ½ tsp. salt. Mix 3½ cups shredded cabbage with ½ cup chopped green pepper. Toss cabbage lightly with dressing.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Tele-viewers who watched President Nixon speak to America's two astronauts on the moon will no doubt find interest in some details about the Chief Executive and video.
 In the July 11 issue of Life magazine, Hugh "Sidey," who writes the column entitled "The Presidency," said of Nixon: "The President prepares painstakingly for his TV appearances. He diets to keep from looking jowly. He dashes off to Florida or California so that his face is always sun-tanned—best for color productions. He has his suits tailored to show a man of quiet good taste."
Has A Certain Appeal
 "He eschews notes or reading texts for most of his appearances, feeling that to show knowledge about the major issues of the day is to build confidence. Thus this man who enters more American living rooms than any other figure does it with a certain cool competence that may not leap with inspiration but creates an aura of responsible craftsmanship. In the aftermath of the tumultuous and uncontrolled personality of Lyndon Johnson, it has a certain appeal."
 NBC-TV is full of announcements these days. For example, the network says that on Sept. 29 it will introduce a daily afternoon comedy panel show entitled "Letters to Laugh-In," stemming from the hugely popular "Laugh-In" series that is No. 1 in prime time. Gary Owens, the announcer-funny-man of the night-time show, will be host of the daytime entry, which will work as follows.

Work Begins On City Dump
 A local contractor began work at the city dump this morning digging an additional landfill hole for trash disposal.
 City Manager Charles Hill was authorized by the city commission yesterday to negotiate for the work.
 Hill said today the contractor is expected to take five days to dig a hole large enough to handle waste disposal until bids opened yesterday for the purchase of city landfill equipment can be assessed and delivery of a crawler-tractor and tractor-scraper can be made.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If the Democrats in Congress want to set their own course under a Republican administration, they could use some agreement in the art of political navigation.
 The Democratic leadership of the House and Senate have set out in different directions on tax legislation. They also disagree on the administration's Safeguard ABM system.
 Congress listens to the administration, but the majority party at the Capitol still the Democrats, controls the legislative machinery and programming.
 Under the government's book-keeping system, it is three weeks into a new fiscal year, but Congress has not yet passed the first of 13 regular appropriation bills to finance federal departments and agencies. Temporary spending authority has been granted under a complicated formula in effect until Oct. 31.
 On tax legislation, House Democratic leaders went along with the administration drive for early extension of the income surtax in a bill containing two reform provisions. More far-reaching tax reforms would come later.

New First Lady Has A Flare All Her Own

NEW YORK (NEA)—Washington's No. 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue became the glamor capital of the world when Jacqueline Kennedy moved in.

The comfortable, motherly image of the First Lady typified by Bess Truman and Mamie Eisenhower was forgotten. In its place elegance became synonymous with the President's wife.

From Jackie's Somali leopard coat to her name-designer gowns, her wardrobe was talked about and envied. And Lady Bird Johnson seemed a pale replacement when she moved into the house that Jacqueline had made a stage setting for her own beauty.

Lady Bird's clothes were stylishly home-grown.

This year another woman stepped into the national spotlight. What is Pat Nixon's fashion image?

She's not a jetsetter and doesn't walk in the aura of glamour that surrounded Mrs. Kennedy. The folksy Texas warmth of Mrs. Johnson would not suit her cool, blond beauty. But the new First Lady is chic and, although in her 50s, has the figure and carriage of a young girl.

When the slogan "only your hairdresser knows" became a catch phrase we forgot that your dress designer knows, too — knows your preferences in style and colors, your buying habits and your attitude toward clothes.

"You have no idea how many women want to look like her," said Harvey Berin. He and Karen Stark, his designer, have made several of Mrs. Nixon's costumes — including the Inaugural Ball gown. Many of his other clients express a wish to copy the Pat Nixon look.

"Some can't quite make it," he said. "They haven't her excellent posture and they don't wear size 8. She does."

Aside from the inaugural gown, Berin has made three floor-length evening gowns, five jacket suits and a short chiffon cocktail dress for Mrs. Nixon. He admires her as a conservative, smart shopper.

"She knows what she wants," he said. "She even chose the inaugural gown to be worn at other functions and has already worn it three times."

Mrs. Pat Nixon models the Inaugural Ball gown done by Harvey Berin in mimosas yellow double-faced silk satin. The petit jacket and small-waisted gown are embroidered with Byzantine scrolls of gold and silver and embellished with hand-set Swarovsky jewels.

It was not by chance that Harvey Berin was chosen to design for the First Lady.

He won the Coty Award, the highest honor in the fashion design field, in 1953. And when he won the National Cotton Award the following year, it was Richard Nixon, then vice president, who presented it to him.

Berin has designed for Mrs. Johnson, Mamie Eisenhower, Margaret Truman and did part of Lynda Robb's trousseau.

"Mrs. Nixon isn't making a career of being the best-dressed woman in America," Berin said. "She's very chic but doesn't believe in fussing 10 hours a day in front of a mirror."

Pat's color preferences are pastels and bright sun colors — especially Nile green and yellow.

"She's in the public eye and on color TV often. She has to be aware of the areas of the country where she will be photographed and dress accordingly."

With her perfect size 8, she requires only a first fitting and no alterations are needed.

"But when we make a dress for her," Berin said, "we change the fabric or sleeve length before we put it into our regular line."

Being a thrifty female myself who indeed expects to get more than one wearing out of an extravagant gown, I wondered if the presidents' wives weren't a little unhappy about the tradition of turning over their inaugural gowns to the Smithsonian Institution. But it turns out they don't turn them over.

"Three identical gowns are made," Berin said. "One goes to the Smithsonian, one to the Costume Department of the Chicago Museum and the First Lady gets to keep one for herself."

It took over 600 hours to sew the jewels on Mrs. Nixon's ball gown and in addition to the two duplicates a four-foot replica of Pat in her inaugural finery was designed to go to Congressional Hall. And it took just as long to sew on the jewels in miniature.

The new First Lady isn't copying anyone's style. She has a trim flare all her own which may well be copied by her admirers.

Goodwill HD Club Studies Flowers

Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met recently in Mrs. Ray Frazier's home as members participated in a program on "Artificial Flowers" made from bright colored tissue paper.

Mrs. Grady Grant presented the program and displayed several types of artificial flowers to use in one's home.

Other members attending were Mmes. Don Duggan, Kenneth Felsheimer, Lee Jackson, Paul Johnson and Marvin Rowan. Guests attending were Mmes. Grady, Helen Hogan, Boots Barnett, Linda Gee, Frazier, and Miss Betty Ruth Duggan and Miss Carol Jackson.

MOON FASHION PARADE — Three winners in the Gray County 4-H Dress Revue held recently in Lovett Memorial Library were left to right, Cindy Youngblood, first in the over 14 years old group; Doris Carlton, best model, and Melinda Spearman, first place in 12-14 years old group. Tammy Robertson, (not pictured) was first place winner in the 9-12 year old group. Theme of the 1969 style show, narrated by Brenda Winters, Mary Margaret Spearman and Lisa Friend, was Moon Fashions. Mrs. Bob Price presented awards to first, second and third place winners. Mrs. Gail Nunez trained the 14 models.

The Job Corps reports 31,756 youths are enrolled in 82 conservation centers, six urban centers for men, 18 for women, and three special centers.

Colorful prints will brighten the beaches this summer, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Sample — a red and white floral cotton "jam" for boys. A "jam" is a nearly knee-length swimsuit.

Your Horoscope

JEANE
DIXON

FRIDAY, JULY 26
YOUR BIRTHDAY Friday: The coming year is normal. Upheavals. Your past actions bring their expected results. Take full advantage of the present opportunity; make it a year of complete enjoyment. Steady, constructive effort. Day's natives are usually smart and are good at intellectual puzzles.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your attention is directed toward exotic materials, faraway places, and strange people. You are crowded by many people trying to get touch with you.

TURUS (April 20-May 20): Relatives, particularly those who live together, have a way of disagreeing. This is one of those days when a tiff is imminent. Save yourself a bit of stress.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You owe it to yourself to remain clear of other people's angles Friday. In a pleasant way show your loved ones where your feelings are—but do not expect much response at the moment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may come as a shock to realize that getting what you want, if it means changing some habits, is a little hard to take.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your world cheers up. Take things as they come, and enjoy the luck of the day. Information about health may come without your seeking it; pay attention.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friday is full of lively action. Competitive activities go well if you will get out and work at rounding up support for your side. Make your assertions concise.

LIERA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Not a problem day, but it will take tactful skirting of the issues. Nothing suits anybody, and nobody can say precisely what is wrong.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Proceed vigorously, but make sure that the people you deal with know exactly what you want them to do. Separate the evening from the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Refreshing contacts are promised—listen to the young; they have much to say even though their way differs from yours. Romantic interest stirs (gently) in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): No point in exact planning as schedules are not going to work out tightly. The changes that do happen are mild and beneficial. Protect confidences, whatever else you do!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The atmosphere is quieter. Routine has piled up and must be attended. Social activities do not go very smoothly. Romantic interests languish for the moment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If you are ambitious and working hard to develop a career, Friday can be extremely productive. Your leisure time is put to poor use unfortunately.

Hang freshly washed or ironed clothes at your fingertips. Use a new clothes caddy. It also holds extra clothes or guests' clothes, thus avoiding closet clutter. The caddy rolls along the floor on five inch wheels and folds flat for easy storage. No stooping or bending to hang clothes. The caddy extends from 34 to 56 inches.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She is very fat, and I am ashamed of her. She's a good mother, but she weighs more than 200 pounds, and eats everything she wants and plenty of it. I don't see how my daddy can stand her. I don't think he could get his arms around her.

I don't like for my friends to meet her, and I don't want to go out and be seen with her. What chance do I have to get a boyfriend when he sees her? I know a girl is supposed to love her mother, but how can I when I don't even respect her?

I have a picture of her before she got fat and she was beautiful. She is only 30. Sign me.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Every fat woman is "ashamed" of herself, but losing weight is strictly a do-it-yourself project. I will print your letter in hopes that your mother sees it, takes the hint, goes to her doctor for a check-up and a diet, latches on to "Tops" or "Weight Watchers" and becomes her "beautiful" self once again. Meanwhile, little girl, even though your mother's appearance may not make you proud, there are other qualities of equal or greater importance. And troubled by weight, she needs your love now more than when she was slim and beautiful.

DEAR ABBY: Around noon on Saturday a lady called and asked to talk to Tony (my husband) and I said he wasn't home (which he wasn't) and when she asked if he was out of town, I asked her who wanted to know, and she says, "It's none of your business," so I hung up on her. She called back in about an hour and this time Tony was home, so I just stood there and let him answer her.

All he said was, "I told you not to bother me," then he hung up. I asked him who it was and he said, "Some dizzy dame who works at the plant," but he wouldn't tell me her name.

If you were I would you try to find out who she is? And do you think there is some funny business going on? He's always walked a straight line.

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: If he's always walked a straight line, let it go. A man isn't responsible for who calls him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just came back from a week's vacation at his parents'. It was in the high nineties all the time we were there and the nights were unbearable. I was in my eighth month with my third child.

Our bedroom had one small window and the heat was making me sick. I noticed a huge window fan stored in its original box, so since nobody else was using it I asked my father-in-law if we could use it, and he said, "You don't need it. We've had it two years and have used it only twice."

So I spent my nights sitting on the porch trying to breathe. Our eldest child stayed a week after we left, and when he came home he said, "Right after you left, Grandpa hooked up the fan. He told me not to tell you."

My husband is already talking about going back there in the spring after the baby is born, and I refuse to go. Do you blame me?

STUBBORN

DEAR STUBBORN: No! And if I were you I wouldn't go back in the winter either if they're as stingy with the heat as they are with the fan.

Home Demonstration Agent Advises Consumers To Save Money In Sales

Since $1.25 will do what $1 would do 10 years ago, squeezed consumers search for the payoff in today's markets by taking advantage of sales. Jimmie Lou Wainscott, home demonstration agent, reports shoppers also can save money by buying better performing or more durable products.

Miss Wainscott suggests these simple rules for determining where and when chances are greatest for consumer savings. "The consumer should realize that although a price is given, the dealer may be persuaded to alter it. In one case, she cited, a consumer saved $329 on a new car by legitimately making a firm counter-offer," she said.

Survey the situation before shopping. The consumer saves when the item he wants is large in the budget.

Now achieve a lovely pearlized leather finish by spraying any shoe with Pearl-essence to make it glow. Sparkling golden and silver glow shoe spray also are in a new line. The manufacturer says these work on any leather or synthetic to glamorize handbags or shoes. A patent finish spray also is available in many colors. Each two-ounce can is non-flammable and non-toxic and will finish two pairs of shoes, the manufacturer says.

Amarillo Golf To Open Today

AMARILLO—Two Pampa teams are considered strong favorites to make a run for the championship in the 18th annual Amarillo Partnership golf tournament that gets underway today at Ross Rogers golf course.

A new champion will be named and it could be the team of Jackie Coffey of Amarillo and Max Hickey of Pampa or Buster Carter and Richard Ellis of Pampa.

Coffey and Jim Haren won last year but Haren has turned professional.

'Weak' Nationals Clobber A.L.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Remember when Folks said the pitchers were running baseball the way they're dominating the game? That was only last year.

Some older folks thought the All-Star games should be terminated because the American League was obviously much better than the National? That was back in the 1930s.

Well, dearie, anybody still believing those things must have turned out a while ago—certainly before the National League's runaway 9-3 win over the American in Wednesday's "rain check" 40th All-Star Game here.

Five homers—including a record-tying two by the Giant giant, Willie McCovey—were final proof of something that has shown: That this, unlike 1968, will not be "the year of the pitcher."

Will somebody now suggest that the pitching mound, lowered after last year to help the "outclassed" batters should now be boosted to help the "outclassed" pitchers?

And the Nationals' victory, their incredible seventh straight in a series they now lead 22-17 with one tie, has sons of the 1930s complainers muttering that the American League is "mismatched."

Red Schoendienst, the Cardinals manager who now has piloted four winning NL teams, is quick to poo-poo any suggestion that the midsummer classic is permanently lopsided.

The teams were very even," said Schoendienst after the Wednesday win. "We happened to get the better pitching. If these two teams played each other a 162-game schedule, they'd come out very even."

Detroit Tigers Manager Mayo Smith, who skippered the losing American Leaguers, was more inclined to blame the rout on his own players' miscues than on any overwhelming strength of the Nationals.

"We fielded very badly in the beginning and we were far behind by the time we settled down," Smith said.

The canonading all was crammed into the first four innings. The Nationals got a gift run in the first inning with the help of Frank Howard's miff of Hank Aaron's fly ball, added two in the second on Johnny Bench's homer that Schoendienst called the "key hit" of the game, five more in a third-inning rally that McCovey touched off with his first homer, and their final tally in the fourth on McCovey's second blast.

Bill Freehan drove in two of the AL runs with a homer and a single and Howard, admittedly trying to "atone for that error," got the other one, a towering 430-foot homer.

Howard, who isn't any gazelle even on a perfect field, didn't try to blame the mushy footing for his key miff of Aaron's pop.

"I just butchered it," insisted the big guy. The error allowed Matty Alou to score from third and the Nationals never trailed.

Most discouraged of the losers was pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland McLain, the scheduled starter who had to go home for a dental visit, then didn't get back until the game was under way. His substitute, Yankee Mel Stottlemyre, thus was tagged with the loss.

McCovey was rather unimpressed by the fact he became only the fourth of all the great sluggers who've played in these games to hit a pair of homers—joining the late Arky Vaughan (1941), Ted Williams (1946), and Al Rosen (1954).

"They don't count in the pennant race," said practical Willie.

It was a reminder that both leagues go back to official work Thursday. The All-Star players missed getting one day off because the All-Star game was postponed from Tuesday night for the first time in history.

Most fouled up by the delay was Detroit pitcher Denny

Rossen Takes Bull Lead In Cheyenne Rodeo

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—Ronnie Rossen of Broadus, Mont., got a 68 point ride on a bucking, twisting brahma bull Wednesday to take the lead in that event in the annual Frontier Days Rodeo celebration here.

Rossen is one of more than 500 cowboys who have flocked into this normally quiet Wyoming town in hopes of earning a chunk of $100,000 in prize money.

Rossen's ride put him two points ahead of Melvin Fields of Coffeyville, Kan., who was the first day leader Tuesday with a 66 point ride.

Tim Prather of Post, Texas, took the lead in calf roping with a time of 14.3 seconds, a full second ahead of Frank McMullan Jr. of Big Lake, Texas, the opening day leader.

Clyde Longfellow of Lewiston, Idaho, John W. McBeth of Atlanta, Kan. and Larry Jordan of Roy, Mont., each took 62 point scores to share honors in the pro saddle bronc event.

A Colorado cowboy—Steve Crowder of Trinidad—took his lumps in the amateur bronc riding contest and had to be taken to an area hospital for leg and head injuries after a horse named Joker stepped on him.

The amateur event was led by Gary Gatlin of Broadus, Mont., and Jud Sims of Lubbock, Texas, each with 61 points.

John Koizan Jr. of Bartlette, Neb., continued to hold the lead in steer bulldogging with a 19.5 second time.

Tryout Dates Set For Pro Golf Hopefuls

NEW YORK (UPI)—The sites and dates for 10 special tryout tournaments, which could eventually qualify golfers for the pro tour, were announced by the Professional Golfers' Association.

Qualifiers will be eligible to attend the school at the PGA National Golf Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Nov. 2-8.

Joe C. Dey Jr., the commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division, said each of the tryouts will be at 54 holes, and each district will be allotted a number of qualifiers' places based on quantity and quality of entrants.

Entries for close at 5 p.m. Aug. 21. The entry fee is $50 the tryouts, which are scheduled for Desert Forest Golf Club, Carefree, Ariz., Sept. 28-29; Diable Country Club, Diable, Calif., Oct. 2-3; Hiwan Country Club, Evergreen, Colo., Sept. 23-25; Perdido Bay Country Club, Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 6-8; Sunset Ridge Country Club, Winnetka, Ill., Oct. 6-7; International Golf Club, Bolton, Mass., Sept. 30-Oct. 2; Atlantic City Country Club, Northfield, N.J., Oct. 6-8; Belmont Country Club, Perrysburgh, Ohio, Oct. 6-8; Lincoln Park Golf Club, West Course, Oklahoma City, Sept. 23-25; and Green Valley Country Club, Greensboro, N.C., Sept. 30-Oct. 2.

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI)—Mickey Wright, Kathy Whitworth and Carol Mann, the big three of women's professional golf, and 60 other outstanding women pros opened play today in the 15th annual Ladies Professional Golfers Association Championship.

A record winner's purse of $5,250 and the coveted LPGA crown were at stake in the 72-hole, $35,000 tournament over the Concord Hotel's championship course.

Grid Training Camps Hit Hard By Injuries

By United Press International

Somewhere in this land of ours, there may very well be a hospital that can put together the best football team in the country.

Injuries have claimed an inordinate number of victims this early in a training season, and old wounds were responsible Wednesday for the departure of three more big names.

Ernie Ladd, one of the great defensive tackles in American Football League history, will miss the entire 1968 season with Kansas City because of an injured left knee, and tackle Charlie Bradshaw of the Detroit Lions and cornerback Leroy Mitchell of the Houston Oilers have retired from football because of injuries.

Oiler Coach Wally Lemm said he planned to replace Mitchell with Zeke Moore, a three-year veteran from Lincoln University.

Guard Sonny Bishop also left the Oilers to enter business and rookie tight end Joe Pryor of Boston College walked out of camp without giving reason.

Veteran cornerback Eric Barnes reported three days' late to Cleveland's camp at Hiram, Ohio, and said he had used the time to move his business to a new location. Barnes is subject to a $300 fine.

The Browns dropped three rookies, running back Tommy Boutwe' of Southern Mississippi, kicker Bill McWilliams of Bowdoin and linebacker Jiggy Smaha of Georgia.

The St. Louis Cardinals acquired defensive cornerback Curtis Gentry from the Chicago Bears for receiver Bobby Lee and an undisclosed draft choice, flanker Clavis James, returned from Los Angeles to Green Bay after a trade, was scheduled to undergo surgery today for removal of a cartilage "veteran" guard.

Close Matches Expected In Clay Court

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The competition is expected to be much stiffer today at the National Clay Courts tennis championships after the elimination Wednesday of one of the top-seeded U.S. players.

However, the pairings should offer little trouble to top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., who takes on Tom Edietzen of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Ashe breezed past Perry Adison of Australia, 6-1, 6-0, in Wednesday's court action.

Yugoslavia's Zelko Franulovic, the top-seeded foreign player, duplicated Ashe's performance by whipping Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-1, 6-0. He is an odds-on favorite to beat Jim McManus, the eighth-seeded U.S. player from Berkeley, Calif.

But observers are expecting at least two close matches. One of them will feature Luis Ayala, a 36-year-old Chilean who is a teaching pro in Puerto Rico, who is on the upset trail after upending fifth-seeded Bob Lutz, 3-6 and 6-2.

Ayala allowed Lutz only two set points on his way to the upset victory. He is pitted against Allen Stone of Australia, the No. 4 foreign seed.

Another closely matched event is figured between second-seeded foreign player Bill Bowery of Australia and Puerto Rico's Charles Pasarell, who is the sixth-seeded U.S. player. Both scored impressive two-set victories Wednesday.

No. 4 seed Cliff Richey had his problems putting down John Alexander of Australia in three sets, 2-6, 6-4, and 7-5. Richey, winner of the Western title at Cincinnati, is pitted against Louis Royer of France who scored a three-set upset over Pancho Guzman, the sixth-seeded foreign player from Ecuador.

Defending champion Clark Graebner of New York, seeded second, is favored to win over Patrio Cornejo from Chile. Last year's runnerup, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who is seeded third, plays Jaime Pitolot of Chile.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

'Learn, Earn, Remimburse'

Slowly, but surely, state legislators around the country are coming to the realization that the one way for colleges and universities to get the money they need is to have the users pay at least a portion of the cost.

It is with some satisfaction that we read that the California Assembly has approved a bill by Assemblyman John L. E. (Bud) Collier of his "learn, earn and reimburse" plan and forwarded it to the state Senate. The vote was 41 to 22.

That does not mean that it is a foregone conclusion that the plan will be put into effect. Far from it. The bill still must pass the Senate. Also, the measure is tied to a constitutional amendment which would require approval of two-thirds of both houses, and then approval by a majority of voters in an election. The cheering part of the matter is that this is the first time the measure has gotten through the Assembly, having been turned down several times in the past.

The Collier measure would require every student to sign a note promising to repay the state tax payers for the cost of classroom instruction after he was graduated and was earning a taxable income of $10,000 a year. He estimates it would cost university graduates $3,000.

The entire debt would be wiped out if the student made a contribution to the operating expenses of a state college or university that equalled his obligation.

Not surprisingly, Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, San Jose Democrat, opposed the bill. He said, "it kind of imposes a system of bondage." Further he claimed that it is discriminatory against the poor, who would be left in debt while the wealthy youngsters would be free of debt.

Apparently Mr. Vasconcellos didn't read the report of economists at the University of California, Los Angeles, a couple of years ago, who pointed out that the present lack of tuition discriminates against the poor and in favor of the more wealthy young people who predominate among the state's college and university students. The present system discriminates against the poor and middle income families who scrimp and save in order to send their children to private and church-sponsored colleges, and who also are required to pay taxes to finance the state schools.

Now then, let's take a look at the situation from a dollars-and-cents point of view as far as the individual student is concerned. There were some figures released a few months back, which quoted the Federal Bureau of the Census.

The Census Bureau reported average lifetime earnings of groups with schooling of different lengths of time. For instance, average lifetime earnings of a high school graduate were $341,000. For one with four years of college, average earnings increased to $508,000. That's a total of $167,000 gain for college graduates over the high school graduate.

If the young man from the poor family is provided schooling which brings him an additional $167,000 in lifetime earnings, we can see nothing wrong with his paying back some $4,000 of the costs to those who furnished the schooling that made the added earnings possible.

We think most young people would be happy for the chance to pay directly the cost of their training. For one thing, it will give them a better chance to say what is going to be taught in the colleges and universities. "He who pays the piper can call the tune" is an old adage. Presently there is objection that the schools are being dictated to by the politicians. Since the politicians are levying the taxes on the people and are dispensing the funds to the schools, it is only natural that the politicians should attempt to dictate how they are run.

But when the young people and their parents are paying all of the cost directly, they will have the right to have a say in what is to be taught and how the colleges are to be operated.

Making War On Success

It has been suggested that President Nixon may not be as powerful as many people believe — that he may be a prisoner, to a very large extent, of his administration's own entrenched bureaucracy. Certainly, such a point of view gains credence when one considers some of the strange goings-on in present day Washington; and, particularly so, when one examines the twilight world in which the Department of Justice's so-called Anti-Trust Division operates.

Consider this, for example. Last May, according to an editorial in the June 30 issue of Barron's, the National Business and Financial Weekly, the Department released a Task Force Report on Anti-Trust Policy prepared at the behest of all people. Lyndon Johnson, while suppressing a report on the same subject made by Richard Nixon and George J. Stigler of the University of Chicago and a group of colleagues.

Entitled "Curse of Bigness — The Trust-Busters Have Declared War on Success," the Barron's editorial pointed out that the Nixon-Stigler report was not made public until some of its more provocative contents had already been leaked — and this, mind you, by a Justice Department which, supposedly, calls Richard Nixon "boss."

However, in view of Justice's warlike attitude toward the market place, it is little wonder that the department did not want the Nixon-Stigler report disclosed to public view. Among other things embarrassing to the Anti-Trust Division, the report, said Barron's, "cautions the trust-busters against moving on the basis of nebulous fears

STRAIGHT TALK:

What The 'Sexperts' Teach

By TOM ANDERSON
Some sage — I think it was Mark Twain — observed that everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it. Even a hotter subject than the weather these days is sex — and lots of people appear to be doing something about it.

Dr. William Campbell Douglass in the Sarasota County (Fla.) Medical Society Journal says:
"Dr. Max Levin, psychiatrist and neurologist, reviewed in Medical Digest a book that was edited by two of our nation's 'sex experts,' Dr. Isadore Rubin and Lester Kirkendall. The following excerpt from that review strikes at the heart of their twisted logic:

"Rubin says, 'The core of the ethical problem is not whether a boy or girl remains or does not remain a virgin, but whether sex is used exploitatively and self-centeredly, or in a meaningful way.'"

"Kirkendall says, 'When it comes to sex relationships, the girl has several pressing questions: If I have intercourse, will it make my relationship with the boy stronger? What will he think of me? Will I please him or will I lose his respect?'"

"All this sounds so reasonable that it has a seductive appeal. Pettekofer (in Family and Sexual Revolution, ed. E. M. Schur, Indiana U Press) tells us of the satisfaction it gave to a perplexed high school teacher. Like other high school (and college) teachers, she

Artificial Sweeteners Contain No Calories
Q—Is the laxative effect of cyclamate dangerous? Are cyclamates beneficial to diabetics and, if so, in what way?

A—The laxative effect is mild and can easily be controlled by gradually reducing your intake of vegetables and fruit. Artificial sweeteners in general have their greatest usefulness in the treatment of diabetics because their caloric intake is restricted and the 'sweeteners' contain no calories.

Q—I have just joined TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). One of the members said that the cyclamate in diet foods will eventually cause brain damage. Do you agree?

A—Cyclamate in moderation has been found to be perfectly safe. Try not to get more of it than 3.5 grams a day. It will not cause brain damage, however.

Q—Pure honey is said to be good for quick energy. How would it affect a person with borderline diabetes?

A—The sugar in honey does supply energy quickly. Since any kind of diabetic should be on a measured amount of carbohydrate, protein and fat, he should count the honey as pure carbohydrate and balance the amount eaten against the rest of his prescribed diet.

Q—Could a boy with a coloboma of the left eye be drafted?

A—A coloboma is a congenital defect of the iris. This boy would be acceptable in the armed forces if his vision, which is not dependent on the iris, meets the minimum standard.

Q—An eye doctor says my father, 72, has macular edema. What caused it and what is the best treatment for it?

A—This swelling of the retina at its central point may be caused by nephritis, brain tumor, inflammation of the optic nerve or lead poisoning. The treatment must be directed at the cause.

Q—What is meant by macular degeneration? What causes it? Does it lead to blindness?

A—Degeneration of the point of central vision may occur as a result of an injury to the eye or as a part of growing old. It occurs in some persons at a relatively early age (late 40s or early 50s). It causes a loss of central vision and there is no effective treatment.

Inside Washington

By ROBERT ALLEN and JOHN GOLDSMITH

Russian Navy Larger, Busier—and Closer
WASHINGTON — All but unnoticed, in the outpouring of news about Apollo 11, Russia has offered new evidence of its emergence as a global naval power.

This is to say that the maneuvers of a Russian naval squadron off the U. S. east coast have not escaped notice in the Pentagon while the Apollo astronauts were getting all the headlines.

The meandering visit to Cuba of the Soviet task force, ostensibly to mark the anniversary last Saturday of Fidel Castro's revolution there, has even revived speculation that Russia will get a Cuban base for its new Polaris-like missile firing submarines. With Castro seeking to improve relations with the United States, however, most of the experts are inclined to doubt that.

Some of them even suggest that Castro may be fanning that speculation himself, in the hope that the United States will take a more friendly line towards Cuba.

All speculation aside, however, the visit by Russian ships and their operation in U.S. coastal waters is viewed as another impressive indication of Russia's rapidly expanding naval potential.

In recent months, a sizable Soviet fleet has been demonstrating that the Mediterranean is no longer the private preserve of the Sixth U. S. Fleet. Russian units have also visited along the east coast of Africa and in the port cities of India and Ceylon.

As Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee, recently told the Senate Armed Services Committee: "They have just determined that they are going to have a good strong fleet, and have made considerable effort to develop that fleet."

ARAB BASE? — In his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chafee called it a matter of particular interest to the Sixth Fleet and to NATO commanders that Soviet fleet units have had "access to certain Arab naval and air bases."

One of the bases which have prompted that interest is Mers-el-Kebir, a former French installation in Algeria near Oran. It is well equipped to service submarines and other fleet units of a modern navy.

Russia has supplied some

Communism Turns On Self

By PAUL HARVEY

In a book published in 1952 I wrote that "Communism like an angry scorpion, will turn on itself and die of its own sting."

Excuse this immodest recollection but, as McKee said, "A hen that lays a good egg has a perfect right to cackle."

Communism has, indeed, turned on itself.

Last week Harrison Salisbury of the New York Times returned from Mongolia and the U.S.S.R. to predict "a major war between Russia and Red China which might last 100 years."

From our orbiting satellites we can spy on Soviet activities and from this source we know that they are presently concentrating on staring at and photographing specific sections of Red China.

State Department and CIA officials, heretofore confident there would be no war between the Red giants, are much less certain now; they are holding conferences and writing papers propounding this possibility.

In both Moscow and Peking there is now open talk of a major war, each side blaming the other for starting it.

The Chinese claim that since 1964 the Russians have provoked more than 4,600 border incidents, aiming to annex more Chinese territory.

The Kremlin claims that Red China has "launched a struggle against the world Communist movement, has opened a second front" on the Sino-Soviet border.

This past spring, Russia summoned the Head Reds of the world to Moscow to try to get them to close ranks. They didn't.

And by then that agreement had been so diluted that all Soviet condemnation of Red China had been removed from the document.

Moscow, which had hoped to dictate to the world, is unable to dictate even to the Communist world.

Indeed, Red China does
